

McCann Says Board's Gag Rule Made Ad Necessary

Says Only His Yes or No, Not Reasons Are Included In Board's Meetings; Instead on Gratuity Clause To Protect Board's Employees From Criticism

Board Member Raymond McCann at the meeting of the Board of Education on Monday night, once more accused the majority group of the Board of Education with action motivated by politics, in a lengthy statement which he prefaced with a remark that he wanted to review the reasons why he issued a statement in a paid advertisement in the Belleville Times-News. Mr. McCann declared that he has insisted upon the gratuity clause in the contract with the architect, and wanted the public acquainted with his stand, because he did not want any employee of the Board of Education to be subject to criticism for accepting gratuities from the architect, even though the employees would not have the authority to make any contract concessions to the architect.

"However before closing my remarks, I would like to touch on the over all political situation. First of all the appointment of Mr. Schwartz as attorney for the Belleville Police Commission. His $2,500 salary is out of line with the salaries paid to board attorneys in neighboring communities. Before his appointment, Mr. Schwartz made only one appearance before this group and then as a spokesman for Mayor James J. Tully, in arguing that the board request to renew the contract of William Tully, Jr. before his scheduled retirement.

"Blames Gag Rule
"I am forced to make my statements public in any way I see fit, because as a minority member I am not allowed to include in the minutes any statements as to why I vote one way or another. I am completely gagged as far as the records go.

"Mr. Schwartz in the statement he issued for the board pointed out that I did not attend the conference to review the applications for the architect. It was useless for me to attend, because the architect had already been chosen by the board. I am not allowed to include in the minutes any statements as to why I vote one way or another. I am completely gagged as far as the records go.

"Mr. Vocum and I were never notified of a disorganized organizational chain at the organization meeting last year. It was strictly political, because Mr. Rochau, who had nothing about board functions voted for the most important basic change in our rules and regulations, when he helped add Mr. Daniels' normal duties to those of the Superintendent of Schools. At that time Mr. Daniels' (Continued On Page Two)

American Heritage Foundation Pays Tribute To Ever Ready Label Corp.

Get Out The Vote Labels Put To Many Uses During Register-Vote Campaign

The Ever Ready Label Corporation of Belleville has been awarded a first prize in the 1952 National Register and Vote Competition sponsored by the American Heritage Foundation for "the most effective register and vote labels" in support of the National Non-Partisan Register and Vote Campaign.

Thomas D'Arcy Brophy, president of the American Heritage Foundation, congratulated the Ever Ready Label Company on its award and "for its outstanding effort in the register and vote campaign which achieved the record 62 million turn-out last fall."

Third River Spreads Out Over Lowlands As It Enters From Bloomfield

The Third River seems to have no defined banks as it enters Belleville from Bloomfield, and as the above picture shows, spreads out with each heavy rain. The fence down the middle of the picture divides the fairway on one of the Forest Hill Field Club holes from the adjacent swamp. The fairway at this point is only about a foot higher than the dry bed of the flood basin. In the foreground is the filled in area at the end of Overhill Road.

FORBES COMES HERE TUESDAY TO ASK FOR VOTES

Youthful Senator Will Open gubernatorial Campaign In Town With Visit To Town Hall

State Senator-Malcolm S. Forbes, of Far Hills, will ride into town at the head of a motorcade Tuesday, shortly before noon, and in a brief but busy visit he will inaugurate Belleville's 1953 gubernatorial campaign. His plans call for a first call at the Town Hall at 11:45 a.m., to be followed by a visit to the Times-News office before he skips off to Newark for a press luncheon.

The Times-News learned at an early hour this morning that Forbes' major rival in the race for the Republican nomination, Congressman Clifford P. Case, of Rahway, may announce today his withdrawal from the April primary election. It is understood that there has been difficulty finding funds to finance the campaign.

Forbes has asked that anyone interested in putting questions to him attend either call, at the Times-News office or at the Town Hall. He has made it clear that if ringing doorbells can win him election, to the highest office in the state, he will ring doorbells as he did two years ago when, at the age of 33, he won a seat in the Senate by ringing 18,000 doorbells in Somerset County.

Strong support has crystallized in Belleville, including Mrs. Evan Thomas, who has helped to prepare the Tuesday visit and will escort the young Senator in his visits here.

Woman's Screams Save Her Two Men From Suffocation at Fire

Michael Andreottola and his son Charles, asleep in different rooms of the second floor of their home at 93 Magnolia Street, were saved from suffocation Tuesday morning when Mrs. Andreottola, who had been working in the cellar, saw smoke and found the house on fire. Her screams awakened both men, who escaped out of a rear door, without suffering ill effects. Engines from Silver Lake, William Street and the hook and ladder and chief's car from Head Street responded to the alarm. The second floor was badly damaged by the flames before the fire was doused.

Petition Found Invalid, By Town Clerk Mosey

When the incumbent Democratic County Committee members from the First district of the First ward challenged the nomination petitions of an opposition slate for the April primary election, on Monday, Town Clerk Florence Mosey examined the names of the 15 signers and found that because of irregularities the petitions lacked one valid signature to become official. One of the 15 signatures was that of a registered Republican; three had not voted in the last general election, one had not voted since 1950 and one was not registered. The incumbents are Mrs. Mae C. Neud-Mazz, town chairman, and Joseph Natale. The petition which was declared invalid was for Mrs. Dorothy Estelle and Joseph Travers, who had taken as a label, "Valley Democrats for Valley People."

RED CROSS FUND CHAIRMAN URGES WORKER RETURNS

Says People Have Money And Avail Canvassers To Call, Cites Other Fund Campaigns

Eugene Barnett, chairman of the Red Cross Fund Campaign, today expressed disappointment with the manner in which returns are being made to headquarters. While the fund campaign progress report indicates $7,822.26 collected, and compares favorably with the report of the corresponding period of last year's drive, Mr. Barnett feels that workers in the house-to-house division should clean up the job and bring in more money.

"Belleville people have the money waiting for the canvassers to collect, but it is not being collected and is not being reported. In some of our neighboring communities the canvassers do the entire job in one day's time. Even in the recent March of Dimes drive, the Women's Division collected more money in one hour's time than has been reported by our Red Cross solicitors."

"I do not mean this to criticize the volunteers, for every bit of effort they give is appreciated. But I know that the only way to do the job is to get out and do it and not procrastinate. The longer they wait, the more things will interfere with them—time available for this most important work."

ARCHITECT SAYS STADIUM SITE IS BEST FOR SCHOOL

Declares Cost of Piling Will Be No More Than Purchase And Preparing of Private Lots

Emil A. Schmidlin, architect for the proposed new Belleville High School, in a letter to the Board of Education, Monday night, declared that after a thorough study by his staff of both sites and of the report of the Walter Kidde Constructors, he is convinced that the town owned property adjacent to the stadium is the best site for the proposed building. The site had been recommended as the most suitable by the now disbanded Lay Advisory Committee.

Costs About Equal
Mr. Schmidlin, assured the Board that the land could be prepared for construction by the stringing of pilings. He said the cost of piling would be no more than $175,000, the cost of acquiring and preparing the privately owned site across Division Avenue. In addition to making it adjacent to the Municipal Stadium, where outside activities can be held, the recommended location would eliminate the necessity of a bridge or tunnel, over or under Division Avenue.

Board members for some time have favored the town owned site in preference to acquiring the private property because it would save the town thousands of dollars in taxes on the property involved.

The Board laid over a resolution to ask the town to deed the property to the town, pending the drawing of a map and the further identification of the property by map and block number, so that there will be no confusion as to just what the Board seeks, when it appeals to the Board of Commissioners. The resolution may be passed at a special meeting so that it can be presented to the Board of Commissioners Tuesday night.

FORMER LAY GROUP ELECT OFFICERS PREPARES BY-LAWS

Group Decides To Devote Its Activities To School Problems; For Stadium Site For School

The members of the original Lay Advisory Committee of the Belleville Public Schools which was summarily dismissed by the Board of Education recently, met on Thursday at the Recreation House to complete reorganization of the group into a new autonomous committee. By unanimous vote, the officers of the original committee will remain in office until the adoption of a new constitution. By this arrangement F. Douglas Wadsworth will continue as president, Dr. Joseph C. P. Angelo, vice-president, and Raymond J. O'Brien, secretary. Since the committee previously had no treasurer, Anthony F. Moro was elected to this office.

Nicholas J. Colaninno and Edward J. Ackerman were appointed a committee to prepare and submit a revised constitution to be consistent with the new autonomous set-up.

Stick By Stadium Site

While no formal resolutions were adopted, it was the consensus that the new organization would, for the time being at least, devote its activities primarily to the Belleville school system, the purpose for which it was originally levied to organize by the Board of Education. It proposes to continue to advocate the use of the town-owned property in the nearby veterans hospital.

SEVEN CITIZENS NAMED TO JUVENILE CONFERENCE GROUP

Everett Denning Designated Chairman And Referee By Judge Harry W. Lindeman

Seven Belleville men and women have been named by Juvenile Court Judge Harry W. Lindeman, to comprise a Juvenile Conference Committee, to act as a friend of the court, and to relieve the court of the necessity of hearing minor cases of juvenile crimes. Everett Denning of 290 Division Avenue, an attorney, has been named chairman of the committee and referee for the court. John Coyle, representative of the Probation Department, has been designated as liaison to the court. Detective James Mallack, of 37 Fairway Avenue, who handles all juvenile cases in town, will in addition to his police duties, be a member of the committee.

Others named to the committee include Mrs. Lewis A. Frick of 774 Division Avenue; Mrs. Victor L. Hart of 1168 Crest Drive; Gilbert E. Howley of 89 Dow Street; Stephen J. Kalligh of 268 Greylock Parkway; and Alfred Del Grosso of 413 Cortland Street.

The Board named the firm of Runyan and Carey to prepare plans and specifications for the installation of a new heating plant in School No. 6.

Members Walter Lossner, Frank Spotts as secretary of the Athletic Council until June 30 at a salary of $800 per year. This was done to make the job run concurrently with the school year. Before the first of July another resolution will be offered to extend his term for the 1953-54 school year.

Forget-Me-Not Sale

Filling of Ancient Flood Basin Brings Storm Complaints

Three Holes of Forest Hill Golf Course and Plenge Farm Are Flooded by River Overflow

Man made changes in the natural flood basin along the Third River in the vicinity of Jorammon Street, have brought about complaints from at least two sources, directed to Mayor James J. Tully, especially after last Friday's heavy rain. Building operations on the east side of the Third River, both south and north of Jorammon Street have cut into the flood basin and stream channels to such an extent that after every storm the Forest Hill Field Club is put to a great deal of expense repairing damage done to at least one hole of the 18 hole layout. After Friday's storm three holes were put out of commission Friday and Saturday, and when there was more on Sunday, Emory Thomas feared that permanent damage might have been done to greens and fairways.

Further along the stream August Plenge, Jr., spokesman for the Plenge family which operates the Forest Hill Field Club, told Tully that in all his years in Belleville, never until this year has his property damaged by flood water.

Quick Response
Mayor Tully called the matter to the attention of the Public Works Department and Deputy Commissioner Hugh Welch and Town Engineer Matthew Sheehan not only started an investigation of his own, but called in the engineers from Bloomfield and Nutley to go over the entire problem. The Public Works Department, Bloomfield and passed into Nutley after his brief trip through town.

Part of the trouble is due to the development erected by Stephen Judak in the Cella Terrace, Jorammon Street area. There the houses were built on high ground, but back yards were created by cutting back a hillside and filling in part of the swamp. On the North Side of Jorammon Street the Public Works Department has been dumping its street refuse in several lots off Grove Street, until they have accumulated the property which once had very little more than street front and a sharp drop to the river bank. The water thus displaced by filling flood basin and channel has to go somewhere, so is now flooding the Field Club and Plenge farm.

Moquito Group Balked
Several years ago the Essex County Moquito Extension Commission sought permission of the State Water Policy Commission to eliminate the swamp area. Through the dredging of the river bed about four feet deep, from Bloomfield line to a point about opposite the Forest Hill Field Club, the dredging operation would require the elimination of a dam, south of Camp Carlebach. At that time the Water Policy Commission refused to permit any alteration of the conditions existing there. Apparently both filling operations were done without consulting the Water Policy Commission.

The Belleville PAL Senior basketball team was eliminated in the first round of play in the Greater Newark basketball tournament at Newark Boys Club, Saturday afternoon, by the Tamburra A.C. of Newark, 47 to 40. It was a thrilling game all the way with the Newkirkers leading at half-time 23 to 22. The PALs took the lead after the start of the last quarter by five points, but in the last two minutes of play the Tamburra scored 7 successive points to eke out the victory. The other is a storm drainage project in Franklin Avenue from Jaramon Street, Belleville to Albany Avenue, Nutley. Economic aid there may be several additions to the program if manpower and plans are ready as the construction advances. Mayor James J. PTA DEVOTES AN EVENING TO DADS

Fathers Entertained At School 7 With Sports Program of Bike Roller Riding, Weightlifting

Many fathers were introduced to PTA when School 7 held Fathers Night on Monday. After the business meeting, Robert E. Cook, Program Chairman, presented Dr. Frank Burke, Assistant Superintendent of Belleville Schools, who spoke on "Dad and PTA."

The Belleville Recreation Department provided a sport program for the event. Members of the Belleville-Barbell Club presented a weightlifting exhibition which included a demonstration of the press lift with 40 pounds by seven-year-old John Eyrz, a total of 40 pounds by Steve Fox, and a two-hand snatch with 50 pounds by Joe Little.

Ed Little performed a comedy routine on the rollers, followed by a match race between Ed and Charlie Lyons, judging by the applause following each of the acts, the audience enjoyed the entertainment to the full.

CANCER CAMPAIGN UNDERWAY APRIL 1
Elmer S. Hyde Is Chairman Of 1953 Drive For $7,500 In Contributions Here

Elmer S. Hyde

Cancer causes the loss of more than 1,000,000 working hours among persons of employable age every year, Elmer S. Hyde, chairman of the fund raising campaign of the Belleville division of the Essex County Chapter of the American Cancer Society declared today. The fund raising appeal will get underway April 1. The goal in Belleville is $7,500.

"The expense of cancer is measurable not only in lost employee hours and years, but in lost employee lives," he declared. "Cancer is a killer, not merely a disabling or crippling disease. Its major cost to any company is the untimely loss of experienced men and women—of supervisors, craftsmen and executives."

The community chairman said that part of the funds raised in the current Cancer crusade would be used to expand the Essex County Chapter's education program for business and industrial organizations. The program is part of a broad effort to alert people to Cancer's warning symptoms and get them to see their doctors promptly.

A recent survey of Cancer deaths of male heads of families showed that their dependents lost potential financial support estimated at more than $435,000,000, he declared. "No adequate investigation has been made of the cost of care of the 600,000 Cancer patients under treatment today or of the expense of maintaining hospitals, clinics and research laboratories," the chairman stated. "However, it is clear that Cancer is a staggeringly expensive disease for individuals, their employers, and the country."

Sparrow Sense

Perched close, to lean against the beating heart
Of our denuded tamarack, four notes
Of feathered music clung, a branch apart—
Four sparrows, huddled in their winter coats.
Despite the wind that bent the little tree
And set it shivering, the sparrows sat.
And clutched each branch—lest it should shake them free—
And tipped bright eyes at skies grown gray and flat.

Then suddenly they spoke in startled song,
A conversation twittered back and forth;
And they decided Spring would not be long
Returning on their journey to the North....
Since they were here, much better they should stay
Than venture South.... and likely lose their way!

We Learn The Truth About Atom Bombs

With each successive nuclear blast test we learn more than any other people in the world about the limitations and the possibilities of the atom bomb. After thirty-five such test explosions, we have an extremely valuable backlog of practical knowledge. The Russians and the British may have the secret of atomic fission, but until they actually explode the A-bomb they cannot hope to equal our knowledge of the tactical value and the use of atomic weapons.

We have been obliged to modify radically the valuations we set for the atom bomb before Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Tuesday's test on Yucca Flat whittled down even more the pretensions of many scientists that the A-bomb was invincible and would revolutionize warfare. Troops taking part in this week's test were within two miles of the blast center and suffered no ill-effects. No one would belittle the tragic effects of the atomic bombing of the two Japanese cities, but with the wearing off of the novelty, after thirty-five practice explosions, much of the black fear that surrounded nuclear fission has also been dissipated.

More than ever, now that we can truly evaluate the dangers of atomic warfare within the limits we know an enemy can attain, we must be prepared. Nutley and Belleville have decided to coordinate their civil defense tests on the morning of Saturday, March 28. On their limited scale, these tests have an importance to the two towns equal to the Yucca Flat test on a national level. If our fire wardens, our police reserves, communication troops, first aid squads and radiological defense forces are not ready, our town is vulnerable. The coming test should prove valuable in establishing the exact extent of that readiness.

Since civil defense is a family matter, too, it behooves every family in town to cooperate in the March 28 test. It would be the height of folly to wait until an enemy strikes and an atom bomb falls before you do anything about making sure that there is a safe place in your home in which your own wife and children can take shelter. Find that place now and when the sirens sound in the air-raid drill, teach your own family to take cover. You may be saving their lives by this simple precaution.

No Hope For Peace

If one of the byproducts of Stalin's passing was to be peace in Korea, it is very apparent now that Stalin's successor is in no hurry to change things. The General Assembly of the United Nations is getting ready to wind up this unhappy, inconclusive session before Easter. Andrei Vishinsky, shorn of his dignity as Foreign Minister, has asked for his passports to return to New York as Soviet Delegate to the UN. It is too much to hope that he will return carrying an olive branch.

Out at the UN, where diplomats are accustomed to waste time, the ineffectiveness of this session of the General Assembly is no surprise. They expected no fast action, and had Stalin not died they were convinced that the coming to power of General Eisenhower would, in itself, have prevented any full-dress debate on Korea in the UN right now. Stalin's death only made it certain that Korea must wait for a more propitious time.

To the vast corps of diplomats at the UN, there is still considerable mystery over the Eisenhower Korean policy and intentions. There is now an equally great vacuum as far as Malenkov's intentions are concerned. There is not the slightest indication in anything that Malenkov said during the Stalin funeral services which would indicate any change in the Soviet policy towards the Korean war.

The prevalent fear at the UN is that the general public, here and around the world, will interpret the failure of the Assembly even to debate the Korean war as one more sign of the UN's impotence—which is exactly the way we interpret it. R.E.H.

One Man's Opinion

With Communism Blocked in the West, Mao, not Malenkov, Becomes, for the Moment at Least, The Ideological Leader of International Communism

By RALPH E. HEINZEN

Taking a calm, second look at the situation in Moscow growing out of Stalin's death, we must come to the conclusion that the Kremlin has more to be worried about in the dictator's passing than we have. In fact, we have a Heaven-sent opportunity to exploit, for the advantage, the confusion within the Communist world that, grovels behind the iron curtain.

One unmistakable fact stands out: with Stalin's passing, Mao Tse-tung has emerged as the top Communist in the eyes of Asia's millions. Malenkov, humorless, heavy, untraveled and wholly without experience in the outside world, may have inherited Stalin's mantle within the Kremlin walls but outside of Red Russia he cannot lay claim to the prestige that Stalin undeniably had.

As the Stalin era of Communism ends, the Mao dynasty may well begin. If Communism spreads further throughout Asia, Mao will spread it, not Malenkov. Mao can reach the Asiatics, because he is one of them himself. Since Communism is an article of export within the Kremlin walls, its future expansion must be to the East and the Southeast and there Mao is the recognized spokesman for international Communism.

More than ever, our war in Korea becomes a war with Red China, rather than a war with Red Russia.

For that reason, Mao appeals to all Asiatics as the defender of Asia against the white world. And that goes for Indochina, as it goes, too, for Malaya, Indonesia and may go with the masses, the poor millions of India.

Since the war is in the East and since the field of Communist action is in Asia, Peking may replace Moscow as the natural center of authority for world Communism. It opens to the West a wonderful opportunity to exploit the natural rivalry of Peking and Moscow and to encourage independence of action by the Mao regime. We may now be able to negotiate the end of the war action by the Mao regime. We may now be able to negotiate the end of the war in Korea on far more acceptable terms.

Sign Of Complex
It certainly will take time before the relations between Malenkov and Mao become evident to the outside world. In the meantime, the Kremlin is seeking as much harmony as possible behind the iron curtain while displaying the heavy hand outside the curtain—particularly in Germany where the whole world is watching.

The shooting down of an American plane by Czech Communists and the murder of six British seamen in an unmarked bomber by Soviet MIGs are but carefully timed incidents to prove to the world how the Malenkov can be a brain trust which reads the Russian minds from 4,000 miles away, the shootings were no surprise. In fact, they were predicted.

Strangely enough, this bravado is interpreted in Washington as a working of the Soviet's inferiority complex. Our State Department is convinced that the shooting means that the Kremlin is uncertain of Malenkov's succession. If Moscow feared nothing, there would be no trepidation, our brain trust believes.

Indications of Sensitiveness
There has been a noticeable every vestige of political freedom within the Soviet Union. Five million people died in a famine deliberately produced by Stalin in order to assure his control over the peasants.

"The Workers of the Soviet Union," whom communism had promised to liberate, were reduced to blackest serfdom by a system which chained them to their jobs and deprived them of all rights. The concentration camp system, later adopted by the Nazis, was one of Stalin's legacies to the Russian people. Millions of inmates died in utter misery, millions still suffer in the chains of a slave system.

"But one difference is much more significant than any parallel: Hitler's death marked the end of the cruel regime which he had brought into being. Stalin's death leaves the Russian and Eastern European people still bound in the chains of a slave system, the tyrant passes—the tyranny remains.

"What will happen today, tomorrow, and in the weeks to come in the Soviet Union? Who will grasp Stalin's bloody mantle?

Will Malenkov purge Beria? Will Beria purge Malenkov? Will Molotov purge them both? Or will the Russian people purge them all?

"The Communist leaders in the satellites must pick the victor in the coming struggle for power in the Soviet Union now! There is not one leader in the captive countries who can afford to be on the losing side. This they cannot avoid with any certainty. And their necks hang, in the balance, and well they know it.

"Bright now is the time when each and every Communist leader in each and every satellite country faces with the idea of a book with the Kremlin. This is the time when they look upon Tito with envy, for such a decision as they must make now will not have to be made by Tito.

"If in the final analysis, the only ones who can win in such a situation as this are the people. Stalin dies, and they win. Malenkov throws out Rakosi, and they win. Molotov refuses to support Gaidar, and they win. In each and every case, they win. For when in the heart of the Kremlin the great struggle for power begins, the jacks must lose—and the people must win.

"And now, this is the Voice of America, saying to you, remember you are not alone; remember that, together we hold the winning hand—and see you again. . . .

Ask yourself what your reaction would be to such a broadcast, if you were a Russian. . . .

If, on the greatest day in Russian history since Lenin's death, you had heard the self-assured "Voice of America" utter such nonsense, would you trust the Western powers to loosen the chains of the people behind the iron curtain? Or would you, as we have done, call this a failure, a lost opportunity.

There is a need for a "Voice of America," but it must be a voice which would speak with the authority of America: it must be the voice of Eisenhower, relayed through one of his assistants to the hundreds of millions of Russians, Czechs, Poles, Germans, Rumanians and Bulgarians who know him and respect him.

It cannot be the noisy mouthpieces of a fellow traveler, Bob Taft argues; better no "Voice" than a failed one.

The writer has been in electronics for over 30 years and the television since its experimental stage.

Until now we confined our activities almost exclusively to Nutley and just one or two adjoining blocks in Belleville. During the last few months we received an increasingly larger number of service calls from Belleville. As a result we increased our service facilities. There are 7 technicians to serve you, equipped with 3 trucks and 2 service cars. In our service department you find the most modern test equipment for fast and efficient repairs. Your inspection of our store and shop is invited.

If your call reaches us until 1 P.M. you will get service the same day. Sometimes we will be able to make calls even if they come in after 1 P.M. Please make sure that your call reaches us early in order to avoid disappointment.

As a rule it takes between 1 and 3 days to complete a shop repair. If special parts are needed, which have to be ordered, there will be a delay of course. For such cases we have a loan set which you may rent a TV set for the duration of the repair for $3.50.

If our store was stocked a complete assortment of different makes of TV sets which we selected for best performance and least trouble.

Spring Program At Passaic School To Include Operetta

Pupils Arrange Three-Act Musical Story Of Mark Twain Entitled "Tom Sawyer." All Faculty Members and More Than 100 Students Take Part

Passaic Avenue School will usher in spring this year by presenting its 18th annual Music Program Monday evening in the school auditorium. Due to the increased enrollment, it was decided to use only pupils from the middle grades this year, instead of the entire school, as has been the practice in the past. The operetta, "Tom Sawyer," in three acts, based on the famous story by Mark Twain, was the choice of the youngsters for this year's presentation. Months of serious thought, time and study have gone into its preparation. Miss Elizabeth Forcino, teacher of music in grades five and six, director of the unit, has been assisted by her sister, Miss Marie Forcino, and Miss Indra Bryant, supervisor of music in the elementary schools. All other faculty members as well as over 100 children have contributed their coordinated efforts to make this program the outstanding musical event of this school year.

Parents have assisted by sending in lumber for the scenery for the three acts. Miss Isabel

Life at BHS
As We See It

Peggy Kelly and Evelyn Hannon

Take a deep breath, kids, about only fifty more days of school left for seniors. It's either sink or swim, now. I guess we'll have to start studying. Hah, Peh?

Speaking of studying how did you poor unfortunates like those college "boarders"? We agree! We guess we should have done a little more studying, although it's doubtful that it would have helped very much. Take our advice you juniors, sophomores, and freshmen—don't take the things!

Something new was added to our assembly—the Belleville High School Band finally came out of hiding and played in an assembly. How did you like it? It was about time! We were beginning to wonder if we still had one!

We hear there was another musician, besides our own professional led by Mr. Mattick. His name was Joe Pica or something like that, we think. All kidding aside, the assembly last Friday was swell. We especially enjoyed our own male chorus on "Oh Happy Day." Pretty cool fellows!

If any of you happen to be walking past the teachers' dining room between 9:05 and 10:40 last Friday morning you may have wondered just what the group of "dead heads" were doing in there. No, they aren't flunking anything! They were listening to a most interesting speaker from Rutgers University by the name of Professor Frank Gryna. Professor Gryna spoke to the group on the subject of industrial engineering and quality control, while he played with his pinball machine and beads (the students used to get his point across to the students). The whole talk proved to be very enjoyable, and there is nothing as good for the morale as taking off from a few classes.

Come on, get that peg to second! Let's go, fellows, dig, dig, dig, you've got to limber up those muscles. We patiently await the try-outs to see just who will be bounding the drives to right and left fields this year. Lots of luck to all of you! Judging from the material trying out the competition will be stiff but the team should be tremendous.

Well, only one more week to go before the senior play has its opening night. We certainly hope all you have tickets for the play. It's going to be a killer! How could it be anything else with Ken King, Connie Manno, Jo-Ann Mohler, Johnny Greulich, Don Clark, Estelle Denner, Sheila Orlinky, Keith McEligot, Cookie Kimble, Paula Thaler, Maye DeFalco, Jeanne Lewis, Bill Lane, and Bob Fralley all cast in the parts.

They will be a matinee for the grammar school on Tuesday, March 24 and the big nights will be Thursday, March 25 and Friday, March 27. Not only do we expect to see the auditorium packed on student night but also on Friday the night reserved for you adults. You can get a ticket from any senior for the matinee price of seventy-five cents. Don't miss "Reserve Two for Murder." It will "slay" you!

They, Jean Dufford, you finally, got your picture in the paper. Hope you bought it last week! We guess you were due!

Dashball isn't the only thing which will be holding tryouts shortly. The group of girls who do the marching on Saturday afternoons during football season will be having their competition sometime after Easter. We'd hate to be picking them out after seeing some of those girls spin their silver slivers.

Speaking of things made of silver leave you with one request. Please back the senior play. All of you mothers and fathers show the kids you're interested in the things at the high school. All of you students come on out and back your friends. Tickets can be all at the door. Let's go! We need the money!
