LETTERS To The Editor

Corrects Parking Figures

To the Editor, Times-News:
Sir: I wish to correct a statement made by me at the last commission meeting when I said $7,400 had been received in 1949 from 53 parking meters. This figure was given to me by our town treasurer in error. He had not taken into consideration the fact that new meters were installed early in September 1949 and that the figure of $7,400 included the 400 new meters for the last four months of that year. Arthur Ackerman, assistant treasurer, in rechecking the parking meter receipts brought this to my attention. Approximately $3,800 was received for 1949 for the 53 meters, and the 1948 receipts were $3,642. This letter is written to you for the purpose of making the correction in your paper, if you so desire.

Baseball Long Ago

M. C. Albee's article on old time Belleville players, brought to mind a series of articles we had written at the time of the centennial of baseball in 1939, and reprinted in a booklet. Considerable research was done on the subject of baseball and other sports before the series of articles began, and in running down the information the boy score reproduced below, of a game between the Passaic Baseball Club of Bloomfield, the Excelsior Town Club of Bloomfield, played on the Bloomfield town green, on July 4, 1860, some 93 years ago came to light.

Baseball at that time was played by eight players on a side, there being no shortstop. The pitcher used an under-hand delivery, no one wore gloves of any kind and the catcher played far enough back of the plate to catch balls on the bounce, for first bounce on a strike was out.

As the scorecard below indicates the game in 1860 was close one with the final score 20 to 19. In the scoring an 0 indicates an out, a 1 a man on base, and an x a man left on base.

Baseball was played on the Green in Bloomfield for about 25 years, then the town committee cut it out by the simple expedient of planting a tree at each of the positions normally occupied by the ball players. Many of the elms planted at that time disappeared when the Dutch Elm disease made serious inroads on the elm tree population in this vicinity.

But in 1860 when this game was played between the Belleville and Bloomfield teams, the game of baseball was not very old or well accepted. Invented at Cooperstown, N. Y. in 1839, its fame spread slowly, because the Americans of that particular age took their sports in a different manner. Horse racing, cock fighting, dog fighting and dog racing commanded more attention than sports in which man competed against man.

There were local strong boys, to be sure, and there were traveling gents who would take them on in individual contests of racing, wrestling or fighting, but the team games as played in England and the rest of Europe were engaged in only on the campuses of a few of our colleges.

Seven years after the game recorded above, the first curve ball was thrown by William Arthur Cummings, who used it only for exhibition purposes and never threw it as a batter. Cummings would go to home plate at the change of every inning and throw a wide roundhouse to second base, for the amusement of the spectators.

A Bloomfield man, then a student at Princeton, Joseph M. Mann, pitched the first curve ball in actual competition and also the first no-hit-no-run game of record. Mr. Mann never became a professional, but many professional players of the era travelled to Princeton to take lessons in curve ball pitching, once his reputation had been established. Joe Mann tossed his first curve-ball by accident. In the spring of 1874 Mann was playing third base in a game between the Republicans and Democrats at Princeton, when the Republican hurler decided he had enough. Mann, despite a sore index finger on his right hand, went to the box. Favoring the finger he let the ball slide off his thumb as he delivered it, underhand. He did not know what was taking place when the first three batters to face him, struck out. And he ran into what had fooled the Democrats, he was startled by his discovery.

All summer and winter he worked on his curve and control. By spring he had his hook doing tricks. As a result Princeton was unbeatable most of that season. But as the season was drawing to a close the Princetonians went to Boston to meet the Harvard team. The Harvard boys caught on to what was happening and late in the game all players used the longest bat and hit at only those balls which looked as if they were banners. Since Mann was throwing all curves, they really gave him a going over.

On May 29, 1875 Joe Mann was called upon to face the Yales. His reputation had preceded him and the Yale team armed with war clubs of unusual length were laying for him. But Joe Mann had learned his lesson. He discovered a secret which pitchers use today, he mixed them up. And he ran into good pitching on the part of the Yale hurler too, so when the game ended 3 to 0, the New York newspapers made much of the low score but hardly mentioned the fact that Mann's performance was a no-hitter.

In digging up these facts about baseball, we came across an amusing story which probably gained a few twists with years. A man who traveled the country as one of the "level brothers," vaudeville magicians and illusionists, played ball as Emory Ketchum in the 1870's. He was a great funny hitter and in 1930 when well over 70 years old, gave an exhibition of batting at the Newark Race Stadium, making drives with none other than the great Herman "Babe" Ruth.

BARBELLERS GIVE DEMONSTRATION AT HIGH ASSEMBLIES

Presence of Star Athletes Disfills Idea That Weightlifters Are All Muscledumb

A group of weightlifters from the Belleville Barbell Club were presented at two assemblies at the Belleville High School on Friday. The lifters who performed were George Watters, Don Clark, Don Miller, Joe Sorrentino, Bob Woodman, Bob Auten, Ken Worthington, Don Gartlan, Cy Amato and Bob Cook, Supt. of Recreation and Lifting Coach at the school.

Bob Cook gave a brief explanation about lifting as an exercise and as an Olympic Sport. After this short talk, George Watters demonstrated the demonstration by pressing a weight equal to his own body weight five successive times to arms length. Don Clark snatched 110 lbs. to arms length in 10 seconds. The 110 lb. weight, Sorrentino next did five with 155 lbs., two repetitions and Clark next did three. After a display of biceps power, Bob Woodman then did a body weight press slow press on one arm with this slow circuit, the 110 lb. weight, Sorrentino next did five with 155 lbs., two repetitions and Clark next did three. After a display of biceps power, Bob Woodman then did a body weight press slow press on one arm with this slow circuit, the 110 lb. weight, Sorrentino next did five with 155 lbs., two repetitions and Clark next did three.

Bob Auten demonstrated a rowing exercise with 150 lbs. then Ron Worthington slammed 195 lbs. to arm's length, three repetitions. Bob Cook demonstrated a speed lift with the 195 lb. weight from the floor to arm's length in three times, under the weight each time. Then Don Clark did a clean and jerk with 150 lbs., followed by Watters who lay flat on his back and slowly pressed this weight (over double his body weight) to arm's length. Cook next did three slow lifts, holding the 235 at his chest. Cy Amato was next up with a dead lift of 430 lbs. Then George Watters did a two hand chin up with 110 lbs. (equal to his body weight). After this, Bob Cook then demonstrated the deep knee bend while holding 500 lbs. across his chest. In the end, Cy Amato lifted six times his own body weight in a strap lift (870 lbs.).

The show was well received, the applause was most generous and the appearance of such prominent school athletes as Sorrentino, Worthington and Miller certainly went far to dispel ideas that weightlifters are "muscledumb".

The Barbell Club, which is an activity of Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde's Recreation Department has come a long way in a little over a year and now boasts a total membership of 98 men and boys ranging in age from 7 years to 46 years. The weight training team of the club is now open Monday through Friday from 3:00 P.M. until 9:30 P.M. and on Saturdays from 1:00 P.M. until 5:30 P.M.

PAL Will Play Prelim
Belleville's PAL Soccer team will play the Harkey Boys A.C. of Harrison in a preliminary game to the National Junior Cup Finals at Rogers Stadium, Harrison, at 1 p.m. Sunday. Two weeks ago the PAL and Harkey teams played a scoreless overtime game which was washed out by the Harkey team on the basis of one unsportsmanlike penalty kick.

Ketchum stepped to the plate on the Bloomfield Green and belted a ball well over the centerfielder's head. The ground was hard packed in the middle of the summer dry spell, and the ball bounced along at a lively gait with the centerfielder in hot pursuit. On the two steps and down the centerfielder in the Old First Church, rolled the ball. It came to rest under the casket of a recently departed townsman, in the midst of the funeral service. "Dead Ball!" shouted the outfielder, as he turned away from the church door, giving the ball up for lost.

Another interesting fact recalled in the series of articles was that Sam Brealton, who created the great St. Louis Cardinals farm system in baseball, played football in Bloomfield, not far from the Solo section, and undoubtedly competed against teams from town. Although he became rich in St. Louis, Mr. Brealton had a number of friends in Bloomfield, with whom he kept in contact until his death a few years ago.

In a more modern vein, friends of Bob Porterfield, who lived in town while a Yankee, but who sold his house and moved to West Virginia after last year's season with Washington, hit the jackpot on Tuesday. He hit the first home run of the Detroit Tigers. Not only was it a homer, but it was a grand slammer, coming with three aboard in the fourth inning. His record this year is two victories and three defeats.

Romano Returns to Nutley
A surprise announcement that appeared in the Newark and Dover newspapers this week concerning the fact that Joe Romano, former Nutley athletic star in Bloomfield, had just been named as head basketball coaching position at Morris Hill Regional High School to accept a social studies position in the Nutley system hit the town like a bombshell.

Romano is a very familiar sports figure in Nutley. He was an All-State shortstop in his high school days under "Chief" Stanford. Following his scholastic career, Joe spent 15 years playing professional and semi-professional baseball. Last year he coached the Nutley entry in the American Legion Junior Baseball League.

The move to Nutley was entirely unexpected. No word of coaching was mentioned in the release. It was known that Romano was trying to get into the school system for several years, but never had any success. Now living in Belleville, the former Nutley native has been a highly successful coach in basketball, baseball and football in addition to assuming the respected position of athletic director at Wharton High School for the last eight years.

With the start of the Fall semester Romano was to assume his new position at the Morris Hill Regional High School just outside Dover. The new regional school will replace Wharton and Mountain Lakes high schools.

42 BELLBOYS WILL TAKE PART IN CREW RACES IN PHILLY

Varsity 4 Best St. Andrews 4 In Regatta Here, Last Week; Look Forward To Kent Race

Forty-two Belleville crewmen will see action this afternoon in Philadelphia, when the Bellboys row six races against boats from Lower Merion High School of Ardmore, Pa. The boys leave at noon today by chartered bus and will return home about 10:30 a.m. All of the races will be contested in boats owned by the Pennsylvania and which eliminate the necessity of transporting the shells. Coach Bill Bennett and Assistant Coach Ray Smith will accompany the squad.

In races on the Passaic early this year the Lower Merion crews bested Nutley in all but the Junior Varsity Eight race. Coach Bennett is out to revenge this defeat as he sends a Sophomore Four, a Sophomore Eight, a Junior Varsity Four, a Junior Varsity Eight and a Varsity Eight into the competition. He feels that if his varsity can win by anywhere near the margin of two boat lengths in a borrowed boat, in its own shell, the Belleville crew can make a notable showing against the big guns of schoolboy racing, the Kent School, one week later.

On Saturday on the Passaic, Belleville's part in the regatta was quite small, because Nutley was in the feature race. But the Bellboys did take part on the water against St. Andrews School of Middletown, Del. The Varsity with Jimmy, Bill Hall, Nick Christie, Ronnie Worthington and Ed Gray, out of the varsity eight, the Junior Varsity with at least three boat lengths of open water. But St. Andrews Junior Varsity took the measure of the Bellboys Junior Varsity boat with George Hopper as coxswain and Richard Zipf, Harold Stuphen, Ken King and Bill Dunay in the oars.

In Nutley's portion of the program, the Freshman Varsity, stroked by Bill Pfeiffer, Nutley High's singles ace, beat the Nutley Varsity by two lengths in the feature race. Nutley sent a winning Junior Varsity crew against Roosevelt High School of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

206 Score Wasted
A 206 score wasted failed to help the Belleville team in its match with the league leading Vashala team in the New York Athletic Club League matches at the Branch Brook Lanes last week. The Vashala team swept the series and now enjoy a 16 game bulge with six more games to be bowled. Belleville is only 2 1/2 games ahead of the fourth place Delta team but has a five game lead on St. Albans.

BELLBOYS HOPE TO HIT WINNING STRIDE IN REMAINING TILTS

Pitching And Fielding Have Been Good But Team Has Not Hit When Men Were On Bases

Chief Bohrer's classic remark, "You're not hit" is apt description of the Belleville High School baseball team's success to date. Inasmuch as the weatherman and the schedule makers couldn't get together, the Bellboys were without a game in the last week, although they were scheduled against Nutley, yesterday afternoon and are billed to meet Paterson King and Bill Dunay in the oars.

The Up and Overs held their undefeated record to the end with the aid of Pat Bolman and Elaine Gorley, co-captains, and Norma Napoleone, Elsie Bergensen, Aggie Dodson, Mary Ann Ferrigno, Pat Smith, Shirley Brownlee, and Grace Casale.

"Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend us your ears . . ."

Better look out for those smooth talking politicians today in assembly; their speeches will probably astound you. However don't let any of them pull the wool over your eyes. When you hear a candidate's speech, and then make your choice. Remember this isn't a popularity contest. Belleville High School needs a strong student government with good leaders. Today is your chance to get acquainted with each of the nominees. When you are through listening and thinking it over, make your choice. As for the Student Council can continue to have only the finest officers.

Well, well Cupid must really have a sharp arrow judging from last Friday's Bee-Hive. You boys (single boys, that is) better watch out for the match-makers. They're on the loose! In case you want to get "fixed-up" just call PL 9-2928.

Speaking of Bee-Hives, we expect to see the whole student body at the dance tonight. Remember tonight is the last chance for some of you fellows and girls since it is the last Bee-Hive. The Student Council has employed a well-known gup to entertain. Don't miss it! We'll see you all there!

The music in action—that was last Friday's assembly. Mr. Robert Cooke, superintendent of Belleville's recreation department and leader of the Bar-Bell Club, was the master of ceremonies for the program besides being one of the Bee-Hive's strong men.

We hear Belleville's "high" and a new group of "pill chasers". Only this bunch is feminine. They play their first match today on the "Cardiac Course", known to most people as Broadacres. We don't like to mention names but a hot tip just came across the wires naming Miss Pettito and Miss Thomson as the two pres. Since we know the natives against whom you two will be playing, we hope you give them a break! They're old friends of ours.

In closing, we would just like to ask you to remember the ray that made your Saturday afternoon more enjoyable with his end runs. You all know what we're talking about. The address is William Rock, Solo Hospital, Belleville, New Jersey.

Church Officers To Meet

PARENTS VIEW CHILDREN'S ART WORK AT MEETING

Art Supervisor Gives Talk And Shows Slides Of Pupils' Progress In Paints, Crafts

Mrs. Everett Denning, chairman of the Parent Study Group of Passaic Avenue School Parent-Teacher Association, held the regular meeting in the school auditorium on Monday. Miss Helen P. Simpson, art supervisor in the elementary schools, discussed the school art program. Her lecture was beautifully illustrated with Kodachrome slides of the children's art work throughout the school system.

Cut paper work of the kindergarten and the first grades showed the early beginnings of the children's development and its close resemblance to modern art. By means of the slides it was possible to see at a glance the developing ability of the children to paint and draw. With each grade a definite change in the style of the work was noticeable with the culmination of the beauty of the work in the eighth grade.

Interesting craft work was displayed in stenciling on cloth, woven potholders, belts and pocketbooks, the soft quality of the tie-dyed scarfs, the creative paper mache work, all reproduced in an infinite variety of colors. The parents were much impressed and well pleased with the scope of the art program as it unfolded on the screen.

Family Service Stands Ready To Help

This is National Family Week, a special time to remember that the strength of our nation is in our families, and that when family problems are hard to solve, you can get friendly, skilled help at Family Service, 884 Washington Avenue, Belleville. More than 180 families in Belleville look forward with new confidence today, because Family Service helped them unravel troublesome knots in family living during 1952.

Few young couples approaching the altar expect their marriages to fail. Despite the high divorce rate, they confidently expect their wedded bliss to last a life time. Why, then, is love's dream so often shattered? One reason is that many are poorly prepared in terms of what they should reasonably expect to find in marriage. In the realities of today's living the Cinderella dream of marriage often ends in bleak disillusionment.

Because the implications for society in marriage conflict are coming to be publicly understood, better facilities for couples with marriage troubles are developing. Here in Belleville, the Family Service is a primary source of confidential, professional assistance for marriage problems. Family counselors on the staff are trained social caseworkers, and have helped many families avoid the divorce courts. Prepared to help with many different kinds of family problems, these family counselors generally have two years of intensive training at a graduate school of social work and long, practical experience in dealing with human problems. Their services are available to any individual or family as a Red Feather Service of Belleville Community Chest.

The family service agency does not offer snap formulas for marriage troubles. Rather than advice-giving, its service is to help people see their problems from a fresh vantage point and enable them to decide on the best course of action. As in all human affairs, marriage difficulties are more easily resolved when help is sought early.

Pin The Blame For A Blunder

Somewhere along the line, from Panmunjom to Phoenixville, there is some tarnished brass. Somewhere in the hierarchy of the army or the air force is someone who should be severely punished, the blunderer who classified a whole planeload of exchanged American prisoners of war as subjects for psychiatric reclamation, prisoners influenced by the Communists and hence due for a period of de-brainwashing.

The truth is out. These unhappy men are not neo-Communists; they need no brain-washing in reverse. Someone, somewhere just got the jitters.

I was a prisoner of war myself, having spent a year and a half in a Gestapo prison camp in the Black Forest in mid-war. I know that when I was exchanged, I did not need a psychiatrist; I needed a cook. The prison camp had slimmed me by 33 pounds.

The Gestapo, obviously, tried everything within its power to "sell" the German story to the inmates of that diplomatic concentration camp. They distributed German newspapers, they installed a radio which they kept dialed only to Radio-Berlin. It would have come as a surprise to them to know that we charted 27,000 death notices in their newspapers and drew an excellent, very useful graph of German army losses. They would also have been surprised to learn that after they went to bed, one of ours used their radio, night after night, to listen to BBC, out of London, and copy down the day's news which circulated by word of mouth throughout the camp.

No real American can ever be won over by enemy propaganda. No American prisoner of war is less an American because of barbed wire. He may be weakened in body, but never in spirit. He needs food, not psychiatry. It is good for America, good for our prisoners, good for our armed forces that the story of "neo-Communist prisoners of war who need de-brainwashing" is just another sorry story of tarnished brass, of a blunderer in high places. Sunday Is Mom's Day; Keep It Well

Mom may not know it, but the gifts and Mother's Day greeting cards that she'll receive on Sunday, are final links in a chain of tradition and sentiment which was forged under the shadows of legendary Mt. Olympus. For in their annual Springtime festival honoring Rhea, the "Mother of the Gods," the ancient Greeks were actually holding the first Mother's Day ceremony of any kind!

Centuries later the early Christians dedicated the fourth Sunday before Easter to the Mother of Jesus. Pilgrims visited Mary's shrine, and brought flowers in her name to the church altar where they'd been baptized. Living mothers were remembered with gifts, too, making that Midlent Sunday the first step toward Mother's Day.

Tributes to motherhood, of course, have taken many forms. Shah Jehan of India built the Taj Mahal, the world's most beautiful building, as a monument to his favorite wife for the sons she gave him. During the Renaissance, the Madonna inspired Raphael, Botticelli and other artists.

Here in the United States, there's a beautiful birch tree on the White House lawn dedicated to the mothers of our presidents.

You don't have to build a Taj Mahal, paint a Madonna or plant a birch to keep Mother's Day. Let Dad and the kids get her breakfast Sunday morning and carry it to her in bed. If Mom is as soft-hearted and as sleepy as we think she is, she'll understand that every day is Mother's Day in our hearts. We are, alas, only a little forgetful, somewhat neglectful, and we may lack the words to tell her how much we love her. R.E.H.

Behind Today's Talks In Washington

If General Eisenhower has no objections, the Republican campaign in New Jersey next November will be run in his name. That appears to be the likely outcome of today's meeting of the minds in Washington, a get-together, under the auspices of Senator H. Alexander Smith, of Paul Troast, New Jersey Republican in Congress, the new Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall and State Senator Samuel Bodine, the new GOP state chairman for New Jersey.

The Eisenhower administration has just completed its first hundred days, but already there are indications that the honeymoon is over and that some Democrats and some Republicans are deserting him. Comparisons are odious, but if Eisenhower's accomplishments of his first hundred days are compared to those of the first hundred days of the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt he would seem to have done nothing. Times are different now. There is no need for the swift action of a President in times of direct depression. These are days when the whole world would be shaken if the President was guilty of a major error of judgment.

Campaign promises offered much hope, but there is little of reality in campaign oratory. If voters were to believe, last November, that the election of General Eisenhower would bring a quick solution in Korea and a swift and drastic cut in federal taxes, then, obviously, they are disappointed. Yet we have made progress in Korea and we have made economies in our national administration which, in time, will be translated in terms of dollars and cents on our tax bills.

It was too late when the Republican administration took over in Washington for it to do anything about the budget in operation. It was too late to do much about the budget that was being written at that time, but there have been appreciable decreases in federal spending even this year and by the time we reach the next budget after the one Congress is working on now, it should come close to being a perfectly balanced budget.

If the November election of a governor in New Jersey can be conducted under the Eisenhower banner, as a test case for the General, the voters might be led to forget the sorry scandals that have been unearthed in the dying moments of the Driscoll administration. So, the purpose of today's meeting in Washington is to try and establish the New Jersey gubernatorial election as a sort of vote of confidence, after one year, in the Eisenhower administration.

And looking beyond next November, both parties in New Jersey must set the stage for the 1954 Congressional and Senatorial elections. The state's junior U.S. Senator Robert Hendrickson's mandate expires at that time. Since a number of Dixie states which went Republican in a swing to Eisenhower, personally, are almost certain to follow the pendulum back to the Democratic camp, Eisenhower will need all the ground that can be gained in New Jersey. He particularly wants Clean Government to win back the 10th and 11th District seats in Congress.

An administration which loses control of Congress at the mid-term election would face a serious handicap at the next Presidential election. That is why, at today's meeting in Washington, an effort will be made by Troast and his supporters to borrow the Eisenhower banner with the argument that the election of a Democratic Governor in November would be tantamount to losing a seat in the Senate and the continued loss of vital seats in Congress, here in Essex, in 1954. One Man's Opinion

Egyptians are Driving a Hard Bargain for Suez, Demanding British Evacuation Without Agreeing To Join Anti-Communist Front

BY RALPH E. HEINZEN

There are three places around the Mediterranean where Red Russia could lock the door for her own safety. One is the rock of Gibraltar, another is the narrow canal of the straits of the Dardanelles and the third is the Suez Canal. Each, in turn, has been coveted by the Communists; all three, for the time being, are in the hands of the Anti-Communist mutual security bloc.

This week, however, negotiations are in progress in Cairo which may further weaken our defenses in the Middle East, the weakest link in the chain we have forged to contain Communism. Egypt, more concerned with her national ambitions than with collective security, is trying to run the British out of the vital Suez Canal Zone and take over its rich profits as well as its defenses.

It is no secret that as long ago as 1936, when the Communist International intervened in the Spanish Civil War and mobilized the Periphan, France, the International Brigades, to fight Franco, the Kremlin had its eyes on a neutralized, demilitarized Gibraltar. In trying to defeat Franco and the military junta which was behind him, the Communists hoped for a left front victory which would restore a red republic in Madrid. A red Spain would be the prelude to a red Tangier and a red Gibraltar. Franco battered the International Brigades into retreat, and that ended the Kremlin's hopes.

The Dardanelles are wholly within Turkey and lead from the Aegean Sea to the Sea of Marmara. Beyond lies the Bosphorus, the gateway to the Black Sea and, hence, the Soviet Union and its satellites, Rumania and Bulgaria. As long as Turkey holds the Dardanelles, she holds the key to Russia's back door.

Immediately after World War II, Russia put pressure on Turkey to consent to international control of the Dardanelles. Turkey was weak, but the Turks never had any love for their Slavic neighbors. The United States agreed to arm Turkey if Ankara resisted the Kremlin's demands. The rest is history. Turkey today is one of the strongest nations, militarily, with a common border with Red Russia.

Now the Kremlin pins its hopes in an Egyptian success in the Cairo talks. At stake is not only the physical control of the canal company, with its rich profits, but also the future status of the Egyptian military and air bases in the canal zone. The canal has been in British hands for 70 years and it served as a lifeline for the Empire in two World Wars.

I passed through the canal from Port Said to Suez, aboard the French liner Champanelle, which later burned and capsized, when I was on my way to Djibouti to cover the war in Ethiopia for United Press, in October, 1936. I realized then that as long as Britain controlled the canal, she could, if she dared, control the peace of the East.

In carrying his way to Abyssinia, Mussolini was dependent upon the passage of his troops passing through the canal. John Bull was a businessman. Never once did the British halt a troopship and Mussolini was able to move an entire army and all its arms and ammunition through the canal to attack the Negus.

It took Mussolini nine months to move his armies. Had he been obliged to make the much longer haul via Capetown, it would have taken him several years. By stepping in and closing the canal, at any time, the British could have caught Mussolini out on an Ethiopian limb. But they didn't; they collected tolls and reaped a rich profit for the canal company stockholders of whom, incidentally, one of the greatest is the British royal family.

The French built the canal with their own money from plans by the great French engineer Ferdinand de Lesseps. Napoleon III gave it his blessing and the French peasants invested their savings. Then Pizaroli moved in and claimed a share for Britain—after the canal was built. In that transaction, Pizaroli convinced Queen Victoria to invest heavily in canal company stock. She became one of its largest stockholders. Upon her death, her stock passed into the hands of the royal family. Queen Elizabeth, as direct heir, it is one to inherit that canal stock.

Often, as I watched the Negus' armies, armed for the most part with spears or with muzzle-loading guns, being decimated by the Italian air force, I wondered why the League of Nations did not order Britain to close the canal. The League condemned Italy as an aggressor and ordered financial and economic sanctions against Mussolini. A League committee of 12 agreed on oil, steel

Beck's Television Column

In an effort to salvage whatever little there is to be salvaged of the service contract business, one large factory service organization has come up with a two year service contract, at what it thinks a "bargain rate." The price is $79.95 and you are limited to 5 calls. What a "bargain" that is!

As you know the writer has been against service contracts from the beginning. We know that it was not necessary to have a service contract. Those customers who bought their sets at Beck's saved a lot of money over the years following the writer's advice.

There's no bargain in service contracts. It's a matter of fact there is no bargain service. Many people who called somebody who offers to make a service home call for $12—found this out. It simply can't be done. The customer pays.

It stands to reason that whoever offers you a contract gives the odds in his, not in your favor. Probably you will pay for service which you never need.

If you pay somebody in advance he has no incentive to get your work done fast. He has his money and he does his care, you can wait. Things are entirely different if the bill for the repairs to be done is not due until the time of delivery of the completed repair.

There is no question about it, the most man is in a far better position to give you fast and efficient service. For this reason we accept service calls only up to 5 miles from the store.

MARY: "Surprise for us, today, Sue? You're such a marvelous cook I'm sorry we made the rule that only one thing could be served at our bridge club."

SUE: "I wasn't such a good cook until I started cooking with Gas. An automatically heat controlled oven made a big difference in the results I got. Food is so expensive nowadays that I can't afford to risk a failure."

BEA: "Isn't it so? I sometimes figure up how much a meal costs and up! is right. The figure's high yet the cost of the gas that cooks that meal is low."

SUE: "Prices have soared in the last ten or twelve years, but seems to me the price of Gas has remained about the same."

EDUCATION HEADS CONFER ON CEP FOR SCHOOLS HERE

Citizenship Education Project Proposed Here To Develop And Sharpen Patriotic Principles

Dr. Ronald Doll, representative of the Citizenship Education Project of Columbia University, met with Superintendent of Schools, Evan H. Thomas, Dr. Frank Durkin, General Supervisor, and Hugh D. Kittie, Principal of Belleville High School in the office of the Superintendent of Schools recently to discuss the acceptance of Belleville Public Schools as a member of the CEP.

The Board of Education has ordered the necessary materials for the project and there will be a meeting of Social Studies teachers of the junior and senior high school level to discuss the best method of using the citizenship material.

Those responsible for the project call it a cooperative effort to sharpen knowledge, understanding and appreciation of our country's tradition of Liberty and to develop techniques by which these values are understood through practice.

Three factors led to the starting of the project: the long-term interest of President William F. Russell of Teachers College in the general problem of citizenship education; the coming to Columbia of General Dwight D. Eisenhower who believed that citizenship education was a serious need in America today; and the interest of Carnegie Corporation, which has granted over $2,117,000.

The presentation, which was a surprise to Mrs. Peck, was made by Robert Hinke, President of the society, who stressed the fact that Mrs. Peck had been a member of the Nutley Symphony Society Board for 15 years (longest service of any Board member) as Auditions Chairman and had given many of the society's Supper Musicals of the Symphony until two years ago. He reminded the audience that

Mrs. Peck is the only former president of the Symphony Society who has continued on the Board after her term of office.

Fordomatic leaves 'em all behind

It's the newest word in smooth, versatile automatic drives... and it does its job so well that the whole car industry is scampering to catch up.

Automatic Gears Plus Torque Converter

Does more things automatically

Fordomatic goes beyond the range of ordinary automatic transmissions to give you extra safety and convenience. You have at your command extra passing power all the way up to 58 miles per hour and extra engine braking at any speed. Only Fordomatic, in Ford's field, gives you these pluses.

Quick on the draw

Step lightly on the accelerator—and response is terrific! With Fordomatic's versatile "getaway" gear, Fordomatic slips gently, automatically into high at just the right moment. If safety permits, you may go all the way up to 65 mph in "double-time" before the shift takes place.

It's one of 41 "Worth More" features that help make Ford worth more when you buy it... worth more when you sell it!
