Public Hearing On Resolution Extending Rent Controls Under State Act Set For July 28

Declaring Belleville an acute housing area, the Board of Commissioners on Tuesday night, acting on the suggestion of Commissioner Harry J. Sullivan adopted a resolution declaring its next meeting a hearing on the extension of rent control regulations. The meeting will be held in the Town Hall on July 28. Commissioner Sullivan was armed with copies of the resolutions adopted in Newark and Irvington and on the basis of these Town Attorney Lawrence Keenan drew up resolutions and legal notice so they could be passed in time for a hearing to be held before federal rent controls expire on July 31.

Under the state law each municipality must pass its own rent control regulations. After the agreement had been reached in caucus, a citizen asked Mayor James J. Tully if the town planned to do anything about rent controls and was assured that the proper resolution had been agreed upon and would come before the board.

Playground Wins
During the caucus the proposal made by Mayor Tully to sell a piece of property at Ralph Avenue and Bell Avenue to the Hoffman Trucking and Rigging Company as a site for an industrial building, was withdrawn by Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde displayed a plan to utilize the property for playground purposes and Commissioners Sullivan and King said they would go along with Commissioner Hyde in this matter. A petition bearing 300 signatures, presented by Mrs. Alan Lundy of 384 Stephens Street, opposed the sale of playground property.

Commissioner Patrick Waters announced that his department was prepared to install a concrete curb in Lawrence Street, at a cost of about $1,000, to replace the blue stone curb removed by the WPA 15 years ago and never replaced. A resolution designating the First Savings and Loan Association of Bloomfield, the Bank of N.Y., the Barton Savings & Loan Association of Newark and the Citizens Savings and Loan Association of Newark as additional depositories for funds deposited by the town, was adopted. It was explained that under the Federal Deposit Insurance regulations the town has surplus funds which it wishes to deposit over and above the amounts which insurance is granted. These additional funds are then deposited in another banking institution.

Golden's Comments
James R. Golden made two recommendations to the Commissioners. One was that the town express its opposition in person or writing at the hearing of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company on July 20 for an upward revision of rates, before the Public Utility Commission. He also recommended that some form of licensing or taxing be levied against local water in manufacturing processes, and dumping the water into the sewers, as the town's costs in the Passaic River Sewer Commission. He pointed out that the sewerage cost

Six Hour Fire At Ship May Solve Firemen's Headache

Oil In Bilge Since War Duty May Have Finally Burned Away; Safety Measures Sought By Two Chiefs

A fire of at least six hours duration about the Frederick Scott Ship Post, V.F.W. landing craft, berthed at the foot of Terry Street, off the Passaic River, and Maine Street, Tuesday afternoon and night, may solve one of the problems which confronts Belleville's public safety forces in connection with the ship docked there for six years. The fire was the most intense of about seven such blazes in the ship's bilge.

Everything in the bilge has had a heavy coating of fuel oil, left there since the days when the bilge was the storage tank for the ship's fuel. The Passaic River tide rises only the foot or so inside the bilge normally, but if it rises an extra inch or so washes off some of the oil, which when floating upon the water can be set afire by the children who make the ship a playground. In the past the fires have been confined to the oil floating on the water, but Tuesday afternoon the other oil inside the bilge became ignited.

Called At 4:30 P.M.

The Belleville fire department was called to the scene at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Arrived several of the deck plates were blown off by the pressure developed in the hold. The firemen were blackened by the smoke, but no one was injured. However, Deputy Chief William Gilchrist, in the interest of safety called his men off the ship and pumped water into the hold with ideas, one to put out the fire and the other to float as much oil as possible out the Traffic along Main Street was fettered through adjacent streets until the fire was extinguished at 10:30 o'clock. At midnight the firemen were called back by anxious neighbors who noticed steam rising from the vessel and plates of the boat for smoke. Chief Gilchrist said his men would have been content to let the fire burn itself out, but neighbors and people from both North Arlington and Lyndhurst, across the river, were alarmed and kept the firehouse switchboard jammed with calls most of the time the fire was in progress.

Showed Commissioners Plans
Two months ago representatives of the Frederick Scott Ship met with the Board of Commissioners and showed plans for improvement of the vessel through the erection of a Quonset structure on the top deck, the construction of the landing platform, the filling in around the ship and creation of a parking lot. The commissioners advised the delegation to file its plans with the Building Department.

More recently the port received a letter from the Building Director Harry P. Sullivan recommending precautions which the port and fire departments would take the post to put in effect at the ship, and last week the Veterans Post met with Police Chief George W. Spatz and Fire Chief William Dunleavy at firehouse quarters. The firemen were happy to comply with the recommendations of the chiefs. One of the recommendations was that additional holes be cut in the boat at the water line, so that the oil on the top of the water would flow out with the water, instead of accumulating when the water seeps out. The other was to erect a fence

WILL MEET WITH CHAIRMEN OF OLD PLANNING GROUP

Commissioners Accept Bid To Dinner To Discuss Planning Board After Three Years

Efforts to create a planning board for Belleville enlivened some years ago and featured by the Belleville Foundation, have been revived by six leaders in the original movement, who have invited members of the Board of Commissioners to have dinner with them at the Far Hills Restaurant on Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Harry G. Specht, president of the Foundation issued the invitation. Mr. Specht and others of his group met with Mayor James J. Tully and Commissioner Harry J. Sullivan Tuesday morning was reported as Belleville's first Polio fatality this year.

The boy was first taken ill on July 8, when he was treated for a minor ailment. His condition improved and he was allowed out of doors the following day with his playmates. On Friday the child was in good health and taken to Jones' beach for the day.

Sunday morning the boy complained of feeling ill again and was later taken to the Essex County Isolation Hospital where his case was diagnosed as a mixed type polio, bulbar and spinal. He showed no improvement and died Tuesday morning at the hospital.

Gamma Globulin Used
Isolation has been ordered for the children of the neighborhood who were in contact with the child. Gamma Globulin injections have been used for those in closest association with the child. Health has instructed that the injections be used in the future only for household contacts and then only for people under 30 and for pregnant women.

This is the third case of polio reported for Belleville in the past 10 days. The other cases are Robert Finnegan, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Finnegan of 172 Fairway Avenue, and Lois Mae Wood, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wood of Washington Avenue. Both children are reported as showing improvement by the hospital.

Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, this brings the total number of cases reported in Essex County to 12. For the corresponding date last year there were two cases. Last year there were 91 cases of polio in Essex County, three of which were from Belleville. This is Mr. Tully's first fatal case in two years.

"Routine" Board Meeting Upset By Citizen Kaaitzing

Appointment of Consultant For New High School Building Is Halted By Committee Questions

What was supposed to be a routine meeting of the Board of Education on Tuesday night blew up into one of the most lively sessions of the Board in a long time, and ended with the Board changing its mind about the appointment of an engineering consultant for the proposed new high school building. The meeting was called by President Eugene J. Kelly, "to discuss the appointment of the consultant."

Dr. Willard Elsbree of Columbia University's Field Study group told the Board of the scope of the work now being done by the four man organization under his direction and cited the University's fee of one half of one percent on the first million and one third of one percent on any amount above that amount with a $1,000 fee in the event the referendum does not pass.

Thomas J. Higgins of Chicago, cited some $34,000,000 school work in that area that he is not a consultant for and gave his price, two fifths of one percent of the total cost, with a guarantee of one third of the cost in the event the architect's estimate of the cost of the building.

Based on an estimate of $2,500,000 for the building the Columbia fee would be $8,750 and Higgins's fee would be $10,000. Higgins's retaining fee would be in excess of $2,000. After each had presented his proposition he retired and Mr. Kelly announced that the formal meeting would come to order.

Mrs. Rochau Balks
Mrs. Edward Rochau claimed the Board had overstepped the scope of the meeting said there would be a discussion of the appointment of the consultant, but instead she found before her a resolution and the contents of a contract to be entered into with Mr. Higgins. She said that the matter had not been discussed and she would not be a party to it.

She was not alone in her protest. Mrs. Higgins, an individual, should be named over the Columbia University group engaged as consultants.

This opened the discussion. John Boyd, president of the Lay Advisory Committee, declared that his group had discussed the matter at a meeting last week and had decided to support the Columbia University Field Study group being engaged as consultants.

Architect Leads Discussion
A delegation of the original plan committee, now called the Belleville Citizens Association, were in attendance at the meeting. William Allison Boyd, an architect, led the committee. He said that the members of the Board members. He declared that the board could not justify their obvious "know-nothing" attitude, and questioned the need for the expensive luxury of a consultant for the school administration. The Board has engaged a highly paid architect to design the school.

DEJONGES AGREE TO MOVE TRUCKS MENACING HOUSES

Magistrate Adjourns Hearing On Ten Complaints of Zone Violation; Alarmed Neighbors

A lengthy neighborhood dispute over the storing of three trailer trucks by the DeJonge Trucking Company in a residential area at 476 Jorammon Street, apparently has been settled by the company's decision to move its trucks elsewhere. This decision was announced by the DeJonge Trucking Company, which was adjourned without due hearing on complaints filed by Building Inspector Thomas Greco.

The trucks especially alarmed people living at the end of Princeton Terrace, at the base of a 35 foot high embankment, where the trucks were parked. The trucks were parked at the base of the embankment, and they feared for the safety of their children and their homes. In the event one was backed over the bank or fell as a result of a cave-in.

YOUNGSTER KILLED BY LIGHTNING AT MIAMI BEACH

Ronald Giordano, 8, Struck While Emerging From Ocean; Was Vacationing With Family

Ronald Giordano, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Giordano of 53 Napies Avenue, was struck and killed by lightning Monday while emerging from the ocean at Miami Beach where he and his family were vacationing. Also struck by the bolt but not injured were Ronald's brother, Richard, 12, and his cousin, Louis Giordano Jr., of Elizabeth.

The two families who left June 27 for a month's vacation at Miami, returned by plane Monday night. The boy's body arrived home Tuesday night and funeral arrangements have not been completed as yet.

Born in Belleville where his parents have resided for more than 20 years, Ronald attended School No. 4. He was a member of St. Anthony's Church and played on the church's Little League baseball team. His father is proprietor of a restaurant at Riverside Avenue, Newark.

Besides his parents and brother, Ronald leaves his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Corsi of the Belleville Address.

MOVE TO ACQUIRE PROPERTY BEHIND MUNICIPAL HALL

Ordinance To Buy Land Of Firm Of Plumbers For Future Use Gets First Approval

An ordinance to acquire the Delaporte and MacKinnon property in the rear of the Town Hall, was adopted on first reading by the Board of Commissioners, Tuesday night, to add to the town's holdings there for future expansion of the Town Hall. The property at 70 Belleville Avenue is 69 by 105 feet and contains a house and outbuildings used by Joseph Delaporte and Duncan MacKinnon in their plumbing business. It was originally part of a collection of properties which Mayor James J. Duly tried to assemble for a municipal parking lot, and when the parking proposal was voted down several members of the Commission favored acquiring the one piece. The price quoted by Arthur Mayer, realtor, representing the plumbing firm, is $16,000. Both Mayor Duly and Commissioner Joseph King, who are in the real estate business gave it as their opinion that the price was reasonable. Before agreeing to vote on the ordinance, Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde wanted to be assured that it was not the first step in the acquiring of the parking lot property on a piecemeal basis. The ordinance calls for the appropriation of $16,000 to cover the purchase of the property connected with the purchase of the property and the sale of the bonds.

Delay Lot Sale
Because two town employees both seek to buy the same town owned lot, the Commissioners delayed the confirmation of sale for two weeks. Francis McCoy of the Revenue and Finance office, three weeks ago offered to pay $200 more than the assessed valuation for a lot at 226 Fairview Avenue and at the public sale was the only bidder. Tuesday night Police Officer Hugh O'Toole asked that the bidding be reopened to start the bidding at $100 more than the price offered. Discussion arose as to the lot in question is designated on the tax map as a proposed continuation of the property of James J. Duly. Attorney Lawrence Keenan was asked to determine whether it would be necessary to vacate that designation by ordinance before the property can be sold. Both bidders got a bit personal in their remarks, so that when it was suggested that Officer O'Toole might be able to find another suitable lot on which to start an offer, he declared the discussion had gone too far, and was not interested in something else.

Wants Name Retained
Domenico Grunese of 109 Newark Avenue presented the Board of Commissioners with a petition signed by 15 property owners on Newark Avenue, objecting to a proposal made at the last meeting by Ralph Risoli to rename Newark Avenue, Zarro Avenue. Mr. Grunese said the 15 signatures represented every resident of the street. They have been a community leader in Bloomfield, but he was not a community leader in Belleville. The commissioners had tabled the original request until it came time to take action on other matters. The petition, which Clara Mass Hospital, and said the petition would be part of the consideration given the overall subject at that time.

Precautions
In a recent published list of things to remember about polio the National Foundation urges parents to let children continue to play and be with their usual companions for they have already been exposed to whatever polio virus may be in that group, and may have developed an immunity to it. They stress that children should scrub their hands before eating, never use anybody else's towels or wash cloths, drinking glasses, dishes or table ware. They urge parents to follow doctors' advice about nose and throat operations, inoculations or teeth extractions during the polio season.

The article points out that signs of polio should be observed. Headache, fever, sore throat, stiff stomach, tenderness and stiffness of the neck and back are the commonest symptoms of polio. Keeping children away from strangers and keeping them from becoming overtired or chilled are points also stressed by the National Foundation.

The Board was recently authorized to issue $10,000,000 in bonds, and that Belleville would be called upon to pay its share of the bonds in proportion to the average daily use of water.

Board of Commissioners in 1950. The report included a study of housing, traffic, industry, business, education and recreation, and concluded that the town needed town-wide planning if the town was to be saved from disunity and decay. Belleville is the only community in the county without a planning board, or a master plan.

The 1950 report acknowledged the town contained little vacant area, but stressed redevelopment of both residential and industrial areas. The report stressed the necessity for off-street parking and off street delivery and loading both in the business and residential areas. Acquisition of land for future school and recreation use, especially in the northwestern part of town, was emphasized. Since the report was submitted more than 400 living units have been erected in this area.

Chairmen from the original group who will meet with the Commissioners are Frank McFadden and Charles M. Nutt, section chairmen; Burton N. Colehamer, Jr., traffic; Malcolm E. Condon, schools; Frank Bridge, housing and Mr. Specht.

The Board of Commissioners is shocked and pained at the manner in which the relations between the President of the Board and the School Superintendent, Evan Thomas, as evidenced by the insulting manner in which Mr. Kelly interrupted the Superintendent in the course of a statement he attempted to make to the Board. Mr. Kelly's action was entirely unnecessary and unjustified. Mr. Thomas' report was a model of reasonably restrained indignation. It is deplorable that such feelings should develop at a time when so much depends on harmony of action to put the new school across to the parents of Belleville.

to make it just a little harder for children to get on the ship.

Fear Child May Lose Life
The chiefs are particularly fearful that some child will either fall off the boat and be killed or fall into the hold and drown.

While the fire was raging the Board of Commissioners held another of its numerous discussions of the status of the ship. It was agreed that the town has no legal power to force the Veterans Post to do a thing about the ship, even though it is berthed on town owned property. If the town should withdraw permission to use the land then the town would be responsible for the disposal of the hull.

Send It To Florida
One of the commissioners remarked that this is what the post apparently wants, because it has salvaged everything possible out of the hull, and the government won't give the post title to that. He suggested that the ship should be sent to Clearwater, Florida, to former Mayor William H. Williams, who engineered the deal which gave the post a place to berth the boat, six years ago.

respected and capable architect to prepare the plans. He declared that Superintendent of Schools Evan H. Thomas could call on many experts in various fields, from town, to review the initial plans, and if after the referendum is passed, it is still felt that a consultant would be of help, then he and the members of his committee felt that the Board of Education would offer the Board of Education the most in the way of combined experience.

Thomas And Kelly Disagree
When Superintendent of Schools Evan H. Thomas attempted to offer his advice in favor of the Columbia group, Mr. Kelly interrupted him and told him that it was not his duty to try to shape the policy of the Board of Education. Mr. Thomas denied this and said it definitely was his duty as superintendent of schools to give his advice.

on any matter in which he could help the board shape policy.

Mr. Thomas suggested that other boards which have had building programs recently should be consulted to determine their stand in connection with consultants and their experience with them. Mr. Thomas, now attending a seminar at Columbia, definitely was in favor of the Columbia group.

Several speakers took the Board to task for engaging Town Engineer Sheehan to make topographical survey of the Bog area, at a fee of $895. They argued that the Board should have at least asked the Board of Commissioners to get the Town Engineer to make the survey as part of his obligation to the town.

Mr. Sheehan's Status
No one present knew the exact status of Mr. Sheehan, but Mr. Sheehan himself will be asked by the Board's attorney to clarify the situation. Mr. Sheehan told the Times-News that his position with the Town of Belleville is that of Town Engineer, responsible to carry out the engineering on any projects inaugurated by the Board of Commissioners. His agreement with the Commissioners was that he can carry on a private practice of engineering and surveying on his own time from 4:30 p.m. each week day until 9 a.m. the following morning and all day Saturday.

He said once before a Board of Education had asked the Commissioners to assign him to make a survey of the present High School property and he refused. Then the Board of Education paid him $150.

Yeoman Unconvinced
Board Member Charles Yeoman said that after all the discussion of the matter he was not convinced that a consultant was necessary at this time and asked the board to give the matter further study. Board Member Walter Loesner, who said he had first met Mr. Higgins at a convention of school business officials—the county.

With Mr. Rochau and Mr. Yeoman taking the stand that they would not vote for the resolution, Mr. Kelly did not call for it to be presented. Board Member Raymond McCann was not present to take one side or the other, and without him a tie vote was indicated.

Bird In The Bush

This is his bush and he flits through its boughs as though several rooms, inspecting it with jealous pride. Already, his mate endows it with a nest somewhere and the requisite number of eggs. Forseeing tiny wings, she hustles about with twigs and straws and strings.

But there is time enough, another day, he feels for building nests. He must extol what he has found for her—a place to stay with such advantages! So, to cajole her from her some mild approval of these things he perches on the top most branch and sings!

Polio Gets A Head Start

Three cases of polio developed in Belleville this week. One of the victims, a boy, died with the terrible complications of both spinal and bulbar polio. Within the whole of Essex County there are thirteen cases, today, whereas last year at this same time there had been but two cases.

The terrible disease has not reached the proportions of an epidemic but it is earlier and it is worse this year than in recent years. In the light of such developments, it behooves every family to do its utmost to protect itself against contracting infantile paralysis.

There are simple rules to be observed: avoid crowds, avoid too much play or too much exercise which could cause muscles to become too tired, avoid water that is too cold when bathing, avoid any extremes of heat or cold.

We have the warning that polio is rampant, here as it exists in epidemic proportions in upstate New York and in Alabama. It is about a month early in Essex County, because seldom has it been reported before mid-August. It may run its course rapidly, or the early start may be the harbinger of an epidemic. There is no reason to become too frightened, but there is ample reason to take every precaution possible.

It would be wrong to believe that injections of gamma globulin from whole blood will solve our problem for us. Gamma globulin has been used in Alabama in an effort to ascertain its effects by inoculating the whole juvenile population. It is still too early to take any decision, but there is reason to believe that the number of cases has not increased since the inoculations were begun.

Here in Essex County we cannot hope for mass inoculations. There just is not enough gamma globulin available. It is in short supply and, alas, the demand is great. Each local health officer has a small supply but there is not enough to permit preventive inoculation en masse. Instead, the Essex County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, warns, gamma globulin can be given only to persons living under the same roof with a victim afflicted with polio, and only to those under 30 years of age. The main supply is small and it must be used for fighting epidemics.

Once again the lesson strikes home. If more of us had given our blood to the Essex County Blood Bank, there would be more gamma globulin. Its quantity available to fight polio is directly dependable upon the amount of blood that donors give to the Blood Bank. Ours is a dual purpose: to prevent polio by observing the simple rules of health, and to prepare for polio by increasing the donation of whole blood from which the life-saving gamma globulin comes. One Man's Opinion

For The West, Palace Revolution In Kremlin Which Tends Towards One-Man Rule Is Bad, Particularly Malenkov's Rule Of Ignorance

By RALPH E. HEINZEN

It took Stalin four years to knock off Trotsky; Malenkov did it in four months. He is not the same; the timing was better. Whether or not we like Malenkov, we must admit that he is the strong man of the triumvirate that took over when Stalin died. His success proved, too, once again, that in any dictatorship the party machine is more powerful than either the secret police or the army.

Malenkov charges Beria with "treacherous attempts" against the party and the government by making use of the power of the Ministry of Internal Affairs. Behind those charges is the story of intrigue between the three equally ambitious men, Malenkov, Beria and Molotov. Stalin's body was barely cold before all three began trying to grab his scepter. We have not yet reached the end of the intrigue. More heads will fall, not only in Moscow, but throughout Russia and the occupied countries, wherever Beria's long arm had been felt. As for Molotov, his time is coming and he cannot escape the fate of all those who ever stood in the path of an ambitious dictator.

Beria's fall is timed to the recent anti-Communist demonstrations in East Berlin, in Bohemia and in Poland. But those demonstrations were not the cause. They were a convenient excuse which Malenkov was swift to seize. In fact, more than ever, their origin is questionable. Were they real or were they phony, they never got too far out of hand?

As far as the Western world is concerned, any step towards the return of one-man rule in Russia is bad. Furthermore, among the three men of the triumvirate, Malenkov is the "most Russian," the least prepared to play a role in world affairs. He has never been outside of Russia or its occupied territories. His knowledge of America comes from reading Pravda and, to say the least, that is a very prejudiced source.

Prisoner In Kremlin

Obvious there can be no real purpose in holding a Big Four conference now. There is no chance whatsoever of Malenkov leaving Russia until the Beria purge is complete, and that may be a long and tedious process of trial and error. Surely, Malenkov and Churchill would agree to a meeting in Moscow, insisting upon neutral grounds. But it may be a long time before Malenkov could sleep soundly outside of the safety of the old Lenin Mausoleum, surrounded by the protective walls of the Kremlin.

In this "One Man's Opinion," Malenkov is positively no danger of Russia starting a war or allowing herself to become embroiled in a war right now. Malenkov is too insecure of himself. He needs many months of external peace during which to carry on his plans and to consolidate his position. The need, therefore, of a Big Four meeting of the master minds is not urgent.

Malenkov's Weakness Even when it does occur, Malenkov will be no match for the nimble mind of Sir Winston. The tremendous experience of an Eisenhower or even the peasant-like common sense of a Laniel, would be a babe in the woods in such fast company. Surely Malenkov would not seek such a meeting at least not with Molotov still at large.

Compared with Molotov, Vishinsky and other old Bolsheviks, Malenkov is a "John-come-lately." He joined Trotsky's Red Army in 1919 but did not join the Communist party until a year later. In the army, he soon saw that it was healthier and more workable to be a political commissar than an infantryman. He made that his career and rose up through the ranks from political commissar of a regiment to chief political commissar of all the Soviet Armies in Southeast Russia.

He saw that the Urals were far from the throne, so he won a transfer to Moscow, nominally to attend Moscow Higher Technical School.

Made One Mistake Malenkov was a student in Moscow when Lenin died and the youngster came near to making the one political mistake which I reached the conclusion that Beria's downfall can be traced to his efforts to undermine the Stalinist-Malenkov policy of "Great-Russian" nationalism. He may have felt himself strong enough to challenge Malenkov and the field of his intrigues that of national policy. Apparently, he over-estimated his own strength.

Imposed By Purges In 1950-1951 this new Russian nationalism culminated in a series of purges in the non-Russian republics and in the rewriting of their histories. Their national heroes henceforth were presented as figureheads of a "reactionary feudal-nationalist movement, aided by forces abroad, which were hostile to Russia."

This was also Malenkov's line. The first indication of a break with this policy came on April 6, when the "doctor's plot" was denounced by Beria's Ministry of the Interior as "a criminal attempt to arouse national hatred among the peoples of the U.S.S.R." This was followed on May 10 by a second shakeup in Georgia where a former Minister of State Security was accused of having fabricated "non-existent nationalism" in order "to further the aims of the U.S.S.R."

Through the State Department we have had access to the full story of Beria's failure. It all began about a month ago with the publication in "Kommunist," the Kremlin's most authoritative mouthpiece, of an article heralding a new policy towards the Soviet Union's various nationalities.

Our Able Ambassador To such an old Russian hand as Joseph Bohlen, this meant trouble. He saw in it symptoms of a power struggle between Beria and Malenkov and his despatches to the State Department, all during June, predicted an early showdown. Bohlen is by far our top diplomatic source. It comes to understanding the Russians. Yet his ratification, as ambassador, was held up for many weeks while the Senate played politics—chiefly because Bohlen had been with F. D. Roosevelt at Yalta.

The two main tenets of the "Kommunist" article, signed by P. N. Fedoseyev, were: 1. The equality of all national cultures, great and small. 2. Relations between Russians and other nations of the empire, especially the non-Slav nations on the periphery, were determined under the czars by "great power nationalism."

Both tenets contradicted Stalin's postwar policy. From his famous "victory" toast to the

to promote "Lithuanian national cadres."

It is generally assumed that those shakeups were due to Beria's policy. It was he who at Stalin's funeral stressed the multinational character of the Soviet Union. At the 19th party congress last October, Beria spoke of the national republics as "in fact independent states" and concluded that the differences between the advanced peoples of central Russia and the formerly backward peripheral territories had disappeared.

It is also significant that the Lithuanian, who was the author of the article against "great power nationalism" was Fedoseyev, a former editor of "Kommunist" who was formerly taken to task last December for not sufficiently regretting his mistake of having boosted former Politburo member Nikolai Voznesensky.

It so happens that Voznesensky, once a friend and associate of Malenkov, threw in his lot with Malenkov's rival, Andrei Zhdanov, a crime for which he was sentenced in 1949. He found that a programmatic article in "Kommunist" which clearly reflected Beria's line was written by Fedoseyev gives it a slant which the augurs in and around the Kremlin could interpret only as directed against Malenkov.

Playground Olympic Games Scheduled For Wednesday

Helsinki, Finland will have nothing on Belleville, Wednesday! This is the day when the future Olympic champs will be put through their paces at Clearman Field. This annual event is sponsored jointly by the Belleville Recreation Department and the State Recreation Association and it provides plenty of activity for all boys and girls, who are between the ages of 8 and 14. The program and events are set up by the State Association and most playgrounds throughout the State compete for the title of "State Champions."

All youngsters are divided into four divisions: junior boys, and junior girls. Sixteen is the age limit for competitors and the classes are determined by the height of the youngster.

The events include: running, softball, throw for accuracy and distance, basketball foul shooting, horse shoe pitching, volley ball, serving, road jump and many others.

Prizes will be awarded to each division winner and to each runner-up. The playground turning in the best score will be treated to a watermelon feast, courtesy of the Recreation Department. All youngsters who are interested in entering the contest report to Clearman Field at 10 o'clock on Wednesday.

Friendly House

Director: Eleanor Walsh

This week's big event was the Pet Parade in which about a dozen eager masters trotted their sourced-up pets before judges and playground regulars at Friendly House playground.

After much study judges Mrs. Joseph Barrett and Beverly Mars chose "Herman," a fluffy blonde poodle wearing a stylish purple bow for a first prize for Sal LoCoco. Second prize went to Frances, Cerrato's, brown and white "Poodle" who is a dead ringer for Dagwood's "Daisy" of movie fame. Patty Pusa's huge and beautiful grey rabbit "Jimmy" won third prize.

Two other honorable mention prizes went to Josephine Francis's tiny brown poodle named "Joyce" and to Carol Ann Klein's "Buttons," a lovable little long-eared puppy with the saddest expression.

Pet Parades included Vito Nardello with "Oscar," a huge German police dog; Zouana Salerno with her pet fish, Patricia Lemo with "Beauty," a pretty small goldfish, and Annette Sinopoli with "Prince," a shrew black puppy. All were worthy of a prize for all behaved like thoroughbred masters and yelp!

The running checkers tournament has seen a new champion for the week, Carl Dalina takes the place of Paul Zaccaro. Viola Palano, Frances Cerrato, Carol Ann Ciammi, and JoAnn Marino have been taking the honors on the female side.

Bracelets and lavender have been winning in the hands of almost all sizes and ages. Gadget-looking color combinations and workmanship have produced many attractive articles. Among those working diligently this week were Sal LoCoco and cousin Patty, Theresa Zaccaro, Carl DeVona (an expert), Role and Frances Gallo, Joe and Anthony Gallo (with mothers' joint), Christy and Ed Deane, Ed Clemente, Elizabeth Mando, Frankie Cancellieri, Dolores R. Frankie Cancellieri, Dolores at the Stadium was welcomed with real enthusiasm as the youngsters exhibited a wide variety of pets. First prize went to Dennis Kozminski who showed a "Flemish Giant Rabbit," Tommy Muller took second honors for his pet pig, and Art Koesch third prize with his tiny white mouse.

The big activity at the stadium is the course of football and each day we have our share of really lively contests.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES
CONVENES SUNDAY AT N. Y. STADIUM
Belleville Witnesses Aid In Constructing Triller City; Mass Baptism, Public Lecture

Fifteen members of the Belleville Bible Study Group, Unit of the Jehovah's Witnesses, will convene at the N. Y. Stadium on Sunday, July 19, for a public lecture, mass baptism, and a public lecture.

Many Belleville Witnesses have been assisting in the construction of a triller city at Piacatava, which will accommodate 20,000 delegates.

At the convention they will witness the dedication of the 21st class of the Watchtower Bible School "Gilead." On Monday, July 20, there will be a keynote speech by N. H. Knorr, president of the Watchtower Society.

Joseph Gould of New Street, leader of the Belleville Study Group, pointed out that the term "World Assembly" is very fitting for the more than 20,000 delegates who will be represented at Yankee Stadium than at UN Headquarters.

The outstanding event of Wednesday is a mass baptism in which some of Belleville's Witnesses will participate.

Many persons living in the area served by Belleville will be interested in the more than 20,000 delegates who will be represented at Yankee Stadium than at UN Headquarters.

Superintendent of Mails John J. Kant said plans now for starting the pickup an hour later than scheduled.

More Effective Faith Is
Theme Of Dr. Morse's Talk

Dr. James K. Morse of Pewnith, an official Presbyterian Church will preach this next Sunday on the subject, "The Technique of Getting a More Effective Faith." "We all have a faith," claims Dr. Morse, "but it is usually weak and does not help us live the sort of lives we should be living. We all need a faith that is intellectually responsible and emotionally satisfying. Our fast-changing world demands that we have a dynamic faith that will meet our urgent needs. The quest for such faith is the most important business of living." Services are being held each Sunday morning at eleven o'clock. Miss Hazel L. Ellsworth will play the organ and Ruth Larrie, soloist, will sing, "O
Save Us a Lord of Heaven" by Arendell.

Expected Attack

Bill Roeder of the World Telegram in an article on Little League Baseball last week pointed out that educators and some recreation people have raised some serious objections to the whole idea of Little Leagues. We are not going to delve into all the arguments, except to point out that those same educators and those same recreation people who now raise the objections, are possibly the very same educators and recreation people who missed the boat, long ago, and now want to get their finger in the pie.

The very fact that throughout the country the school people failed to set up a summer program for the youngsters which they turned out on the streets late in June and accepted no responsibility for at least 10 weeks, definitely led to the formation of recreation departments in the more progressive cities and towns. In many places the educators were able to assimilate the recreation department's functions.

The fact remains that Little Leagues would not be the same and would not be as much fun if the school people ran the program. There is one thing you cannot buy with dollars, and that is enthusiasm. Enthusiastic amateurs might make more mistakes than the professionals. The very fact that Little League enthusiasm seeps through entire families, for our money, far outweighs some of the disadvantages.

We are of the opinion that boys of the 8 to 12 year age group learn more about any sport than any corresponding age group, principally because at that age they have no inhibitions. It does not worry them when they make an error, fail to hit in a clutch or trip over a base. If the same boys should hamper in the next four years of their life it would detract them before their companions.

We are still for Little Leagues 100 per cent and will go along with the big brains when they finally come up with something better. So far Bill Roeder hasn't come up with a single argument which can't be answered with common sense.

It is conceivable that Little Leagues might be over expanded, in that argument holds for anything that might be done to excess.

Mr. Roeder intimated that the U. S. Rubber Company, which underwrites the Little League World Series may drop its support because of the criticism. It is too bad. The situation reminds us of a time when a major cigarette company contracted with many high schools to place advertising in their football programs, but backed out a week before the opening of the season, because an editor of a religious publication promised to blast the company in his publication unless they were withdrawn. But after the company did its part of the bargain with the editor, he still ran the article in his journal. And that was the end of it. The article did the company absolutely no harm, and it was not carried by anyone else.

Some Improvement!

In announcing the winners of its 90 day self-improvement program, the Belleville Bar Bell Club announced that the winner was Frank Cook of 55 Baldwin Place. Cook was the winner of both the contest for the body building and for the weight lifting.

You fat men, and Pierson can get in the front row, here is how you can put that measurement that is now around your waist up to your chest. If you want us to give you a "for instance," let's take a look at what this young man did in three months time. First of all he did not eat cold, but had already added to his build before the contest began. And these gains are muscles not blubber. First of all he gained an inch each arm during the 90 day period. In addition, he gained an inch and three quarters on his neck; an inch on his forearms, an inch on his thighs, one-fourth of an inch on each calf, and most remarkable of all seven and three-quarters of an inch on his chest.

As we said Frank's gains were really tremendous, especially in consideration of the fact that he had been lifting for some 20 months prior to the contest.

His increases in lifting were equally impressive. At the start of the contest Frank was doing deep knee bends while holding 150 pounds across his shoulders. At the finish he was doing the same lift with 250 pounds, easily. Lying flat on his back, Frank could press 210 pounds to arms length at the beginning of the contest. At the end he had no trouble lifting 280 pounds.

Two trophies, offered by the Recreation department, but Frank Cook got more than the trophies. He got a build that never can be taken away.

Personally it sounds like too much work. Has anyone time for a nice long drawdown game of checkers.

WILL TRY TO GET TITLE TO PATHWAY FOR SCHOOL GOERS

Commission Acts To Afford Relief To Section Cut Off By P.S. Power Line Right of Way

The Board of Commissioners, on Tuesday night, took steps to eliminate the necessity of children from the Carner Avenue and King Street neighborhood to walk a long distance out of their way to get to School No. 5. Then Town Attorney Lawrence Scoutman was asked to try to obtain a deed to a 12 foot strip of property about 135 feet long from the end of Linden Avenue to the Public Service right-of-way, and Commissioner Patrick A. Waters agreed that when the deed is obtained the department will erect a fence on both sides of the strip.

The matter was brought to the Commission's attention by Mayor James J. Tully, and several men from the neighborhood were present to back him up. One said half of it there was any cost to N. Y., visiting old friends who had been in Switzerland. They returned through the Alleghenies, Scranton and the Pocono Mountains. Mrs. Scheible's sister, Paula Branger, a nurse, accompanied them.

Home From Niagara Falls Mr. and Mrs. Herman Scheible of 45 Forest Street and their children, Betty and Bobby, arrived home this week following a trip to Niagara Falls via Port Jervis, Hancock, and Syracuse. Enroute they spent a day and a half at a farm in Canastota, N. Y., visiting old friends who had been in Switzerland. They returned through the Alleghenies, Scranton and the Pocono Mountains.

The matter was brought to the Commission's attention several months ago when people from Canastota, N. Y., claimed that a person next to the right of way had blocked the path.

Bicycle Club Staff Decides On Title Race, Club Banquet

Members Will Give Roller Exhibitions On Playgrounds; Girl Riders Show Promise

The adult staff of the Belleville Bicycle Club at a meeting at the Recreation House, Monday night decided to conclude its summer season with a banquet to be held in October. Before that date, the club plans to hold a Club Cycling Championship in September, postponed until that time to make sure that all members are home from vacation and able to participate.

Members of the club will put on a series of exhibitions at the town's playgrounds in the next few weeks, doing their riding on the famous Lane rollers. They will race at speeds of up to 60 miles per hour. The schedule will be announced on each playground in advance of the exhibitions.

On Tuesday 20 members of the club went on a 30 mile tour. Despite the youth of some of the riders, the group managed to give the course in five cycles. The boys exhibited good discipline while on the road, giving turn signals, keeping to the right, and generally observing all the recommended safety precautions.

The newly formed Girls Bicycle Club, which is strictly a recreation activity and not affiliated with the boys club in any way, will take their first ride on Wednesday, starting from the Stadium at 10 a.m. Because the girls are not conditioned to take a long ride, the Recreation Supervisor Robert Cook plans a ride which will be both enjoyable and safe for the young ladies. Several of the girls show promise as real riders and if they wish will practice can make a good showing in their first year's time.

Twin City Red Sox Split Pair Of Weekend Contests

The Twin City Red Sox, managed by Bill Murphy, split two games last weekend, trouncing the Newark Eagles, 18-0, in losing their first game of the season to the Cedar Knolls Pirates, 9-6.

Two City led in the game against the Pirates until the seventh inning when the roof suddenly fell in. Getting only one hit in the first six innings, Cedar Knolls went on to score four in the seventh and five in the eighth.

With Ralph Sturm and Jim Berry pitching against the Newark Eagles, the Red Sox had an easy time as their big guns blasted out an 18-0 victory scoring seven runs in the first three innings. The two pitchers gave up only four hits.

The Twin City nine will keep active this weekend playing at Madison Saturday and the New York Harlem Cubes on Sunday. Carmen "Lefty" Lemma will go against Madison for Murphy's team with Fred De Martino against the New York club.

HARRY SULLIVAN HEADS TRI-COUNTY HOSPITAL DRIVE

Public Safety Director Plans Campaign for North Newark Hospital Renovation Fund

Appointment of Harry Sullivan, Belleville public safety commissioner, as chairman of the Belleville phase of the $150,000 American Legion Tri-County Memorial Hospital building fund campaign was announced today.

Details of the Belleville effort have yet to be worked out, but Mr. Sullivan indicated that a campaign similar to that in Lyndhurst—where more than half of a $30,000 town quota has been raised to date—will be launched in the near future.

Belleville residents have much at stake in the hospital, Mr. Sullivan said. "Because of its location on Broadway in Newark only a very short distance from the Belleville line, American Legion Tri-County Memorial is an important factor in the safety and well-being of our community. Many Belleville lives have been saved and many of our residents have regained good health, thanks to the nearness of this hospital. I am sure that Belleville residents will gladly contribute to the support of this institution, which means so much to all of us."

American Legion Tri-County Memorial is conducting the $150,000 drive to finance improvements, alterations, and expansion ordered by the State Department of Institutions and Agencies. The project will include expansion to accommodate 10 additional beds, installation of an elevator and fireproof stairway, improvement of the maternity facilities, and construction of a fire alarm system.

The hospital has been serving the Belleville-North Newark-Lyndhurst area for 17 years. Originally started by a group of doctors in an abandoned police precinct house at Broadway and Grafton, it has been operated under American Legion auspices in more recent years. It cares for an average of 8,000 patients annually, including many victims of automobile and industrial mishaps in the area.

Mr. Sullivan, became a member of the hospital's board of trustees earlier this year. He is executive vice president of the New Jersey Advertising Association, a member of the Knights of Columbus, and president of the Belleville Police Athletic League.

A trustee of Robert Treat Council of the Boy Scouts, Mr. Sullivan has been active for many years in Red Cross, Community Chest, and General Palsy work. He lives at 5 Bell Street in Belleville.

Awarded Elizabeth Contract The Silvestri Construction Company, 446 Greylock Parkway, was awarded a contract by the Board of Works of the City of Elizabeth to build two storm sewers in that city, costing $5,912.

He is now in the Essex County prison where he is being held without bail awaiting the action of the Grand Jury.

McDonough, who performed all of his thefts in the daytime and by slipping the lock of either the front or back doors, admitted entering the home of Edward Martinson at 326 Franklin Avenue on May 29, where he stole money and jewelry. On January 10, he stole a television set from the home of Mrs. LaMotta at 428 Washington Avenue, where Mrs. LaMotta returned home and McDonough ran. In December 1952 and January 1953, he stole from 70 Cedar Hill Avenue, the home of Mrs. Samuel Petruzzelli. No complaint was signed by the fourth victim.

McDonough, who was arrested in Olympic Park after being recognized by a patrolman from pictures posted at the Park entrance, had been sought for three months in Newark where he committed 17 burglaries, in Trenton where 35 homes were entered, East Orange where 6 houses were victimized and in Belleville. He has stolen approximately $3,000 in cash and an unknown amount in jewelry.

Originally from Kearny, he served two years in a Georgia Prison and also had a juvenile record.
