Ask Belleville Foundation To Study Agencies Building

New Red Cross President Suggests Purchase Of 12 Room House In Rossmore Place; Would Also House Community Chest And Agencies

Martin P. Cosgrove, new president of the Belleville Red Cross, has made an informal request of the Belleville Foundation to study the possibility of building or buying a social services building in Belleville to house such agencies as the Red Cross, Community Chest, Family Service, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

Harry C. L. Specht, foundation president, says that an offer to build such a building to also include headquarters for the various agencies was made years ago but was withdrawn when the various groups involved could not agree on the building's structure. Mr. Specht says that at the meeting of the Foundation in the future, the directors may ask the various agencies for a more concrete proposal than the preliminary idea suggested by the foundation, before taking a definite stand.

Mr. Cosgrove suggested that the Foundation purchase for $30,000 a house on Van Houten Place, to serve as the social service building of Belleville. The two men plan to use the building for general assemblies and for fund raising for the various agencies. The rooms in the building could be used for the various agencies for general assemblies and for fund raising for the various agencies.

Mark Anton Has Gone Far Since Days Here

Candidate For State Senator Established Manufacturing Plant Here And Used Local Address For Infant Suburban Gas Company

Mark Anton, of West Orange, president of the Suburban Propane Gas Company of Whippany, and Clear Government nominee for State Senator from Essex County, was a Belleville industrialist for many years, but on a much smaller scale, as a proprietor of a $400,000 corporation.

After his return from World War I as a Lieutenant, with five other men he organized the Circle Stamping and Manufacturing Company in a small building in Cortland Street. Later he purchased the interest of his partners and changed the firm's name to the Mark Anton Manufacturing Company. He was a member of the Belleville Rotary Club.

The firm organized in 1920, manufacturing and selling automobile parts. Mr. Anton patented roller bearings. Still later it made automobile accessories. Mr. Anton gave up his business in 1922 to devote his full time to the Suburban Gas Company, in an office and showroom which he opened in Verona.

While in business here he built a house in West Orange, beyond the Glen Wild Lake, and organized the Suburban Gas Company, to supply his own house and that of his neighbors.

In November 1945 the Suburban Propane Gas Company was formed to purchase the assets of the Suburban Gas Company.

One person was injured Monday night when a car owned and operated by Emil Marassa, 18, of 200 Forest Street, was struck by a car owned and operated by Philip Moraski, Jr., 20, of 507 Franklin Avenue.

Marassa was traveling east on the Passaic River, when he made a left turn into Washington Avenue, when he saw some friends and stopped. The car was back into King Street. At the same time Moraski, who was traveling south on Washington Avenue, applied his brakes and hit Marassa while in the process of making the U turn.

Joseph Cerami, 14, a passenger in the Marassa car, suffered a laceration of the nose, right knee and severe pains in the head. All three were taken to St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, where they were examined and later released. The car owned by Marassa was towed away.

Man's Best Friends Have A Field Day

Ed Hahn, of 136 Bell Street, and James Corbett, 8 of 47 Adelaide Street, are comparing dog bites. Each boy was bitten on Sunday afternoon by a dog owned by a friend. The boys were satisfied being bitten again on Monday by two different dogs. The boys were among the six rescued for Belleville this week.

Belleville canines also went to work on Jo Ann Place, 6, of 150 Stephen Street and on a dog owned by Mrs. Walter Newton, of 51 Forest Street. The friend also figured in the news this week when the police department received three complaints of barking dogs. It seems that the mosquitoes are not the only thing on people's minds of late.

The public address system at Ro-Li keeps everybody informed of the days activities. The campers start at 7:30 a.m. with roll call, but there is no bugler, a record played over the P.A. system. The campers and the counselors. Preceding breakfast there is a flag raising ceremony.

Activities fill the remainder of the morning. Some campers are down at the waterfront for swim period, others are at the craft camp hammering metal into dishes or ashtray or casting pieces of paris into molding while others are braiding lanyards of brightly colored plastic. Still other groups

PADULA DECLARES FOR IMPROVEMENT OF PLAYGROUNDS

Cities Need For Providing Outlets For Adults As Well As For Town's Children

"Many people who otherwise are quite abreast of the times, make the mistake of associating the need for public recreational facilities only with the development of children and youth," Isadore J. Padula of 1934 Fairway Avenue declared in a statement yesterday. "Even then, many look upon the expenditures made as providing a service for the youth against evils attendant with delinquency, rather than common-sense preparations to aid our children in normal development that they may fit into the everyday situations in a changing world."

"Those who are charged with the responsibility of town planning and development have the duty to see that the need for public recreational facilities is met for young people, but for adult citizens as well. Men and women who are not only parents but also have responsibilities keep them under the greater portion of their waking hours need outlets for recreation as a means of physical and mental relaxation. Places should be provided to meet this need in every community, and wherever possible, in every neighborhood."

For several years, residents of the Glen Wild Lake area have been agitating for a park. The area is a stretch of land formerly Edison's and now owned by the Glen Wild Lake Association. The town has been unable to purchase the land for a playground project.

It is my intention to campaign vigorously with my running mate on the assembly and county ticket and our candidate for Governor, Paul L. Troast, and Mr. Anton.

Gives Public Thanks
To The Editor, Times-News:
Dear Sir:
The command of the English language is not sufficient enough for me to use the right phraseology in an effort to thank everyone who supported the Edith Heimrich Fund. Therefore may I, just as honestly and sincerely as I know how, say "Thanks a Million for your kindness and generosity." I will try with all my might to show in years to come how very much I appreciate it.

Where Was Belmont Farm?
To The Editor, Times-News:
Dear Sir:
Does anybody know the location of an old house called Belmont Farm? This was the Tuscan style dwelling designed by the noted architect A. J. Davis and built in Belleville in 1851 for Llewellyn Haskell, the founder of Llewellyn Park in West Orange a few years later. The original elevation for the house is reproduced by Mr. Newton in his book Towne and Davis, N. Y., 1938, plate 24, and A. J. Davis' letters and office memoranda concerning this house and others are preserved in the collection of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. One of these sources give its actual location in Belleville, and it is that fact I wish to trace. I would also like to find a photograph of the house since a second sketch by Davis in the Metropolitan Museum's collection shows several alterations from the original conception. A portion of the house was substituted for the opposite side. The changes are not unusual for Davis.

To The Editor, Times-News:
Dear Sir:
Intending this correspondence as an open letter to the members of the Board of Commissioners who are interested in the people of Belleville, I should like to inquire to what extent they, as the local governing body, are prepared to implement and guarantee the assurances personally and publicly given by officials of the commercial airlines at a Town Meeting at which I questioned these gentlemen some months ago in an effort to obtain assurances that Belleville might not become the tragic victim of an appalling tragedy striking unexpectedly from the air as befell Elizabeth, N. J., in three separate occasions.
Casual observation attests to the obvious insincerity and false

Aerial view of the modernized Newark Airport showing the new $8,500,000 terminal building, center, to be dedicated by the Port of New York Authority on July 29. The new terminal, most modern in the nation, with its two arcades, contains five times the floor area of old terminal, at the left with white facade, which will be used for air mail and express. In the background is the 7,000-foot-long instrument runway 4-22, built by the Port Authority at a cost of $9,000,000. Opened last November, it is equipped with latest runway approach lights, instrument landing system equipment, and precision approach radar flight sight aids. Busy Route 1 is seen in the foreground and the New Jersey Turnpike is shown in the background, paralleling the new runway.

Display Of "Span Of Flight"
From Pushers To Jets
Will Feature Opening

The new $8,500,000 Terminal Building at Newark Airport will be dedicated at 11:30 o'clock next Wednesday morning, Governor Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey and Lieutenant General James H. Doolittle, famed aviation pioneer, will be the principal speakers at the ceremonies at which Commissioner Donald V. Lowe, or the Port of New York Authority, will preside.

The ceremony, to which the public is invited, will also mark the 25th Anniversary of Newark Airport and the 50th Anniversary of Powered Flight. The terminal will be placed in operation at midnight, Wednesday night.

A feature of dedication day will be a display of aircraft, one of the largest such displays ever assembled. It will include an example of most of the important aircraft used by United States airlines. Also on display will be a group of historic aircraft symbolizing the span of flight. Parking facilities and the observation deck will be available free from 9 o'clock Wednesday morning through Sunday night.

The terminal, 576 feet long and 166 feet wide, provides a floor area five times that of the old building which will be converted to air mail and express uses. Located on the northern edge of the airport adjacent to the New Jersey Turnpike and U. S. Route No. 1 and New Jersey Route 25, the new terminal provides the most convenient accommodations for Northern New Jersey air travel. It is about twenty-five minutes from midtown New York and can be reached in a half hour from Nutley.

The exterior of the new terminal is of light and dark faced gray brick; the interior is of red brick and blue trim. A cantilevered roof permits an almost unbroken expanse of glass on the two-story field side wall. This provides a 500-foot glass-enclosed mezzanine observation deck, the largest in the country, running the length of the concourse. A blue metal acoustic ceiling will be lighted at night to simulate a star-filled sky, while the floor is of coral terrazzo.

The main floor passenger concourse is two stories high and five hundred feet long. Enclosed arcades, 575 feet long, one with an open observation deck, lead from the east and west ends of the terminal to sixteen aircraft loading gates. One of the arcades features an underpass for passengers permitting baggage to move overhead unimpeded.

Airline ticket counters and offices line one side of the main lobby, while the other side is occupied by consumer services. These include a cocktail lounge and bar, a bank, a bookshop, a barber shop, a drug and cosmetic shop, a book shop, a Western Union office, a coffee shop, a snack bar and a newsstand.

Other consumer services will include a combined men's, women's and children's apparel shop, a hobby shop and a gift and novelty shop. The second floor of the terminal contains a restaurant with a seating capacity of 245. An announcer's booth will centralize all public address announcements. The parking lot can accommodate 650 cars.

Almost four and a half million passengers, airport visitors and spectators will use the new terminal building in 1954, and the total is expected to reach five and a half million persons in 1958.

Newark Airport, opened in 1928, and a pioneer United States airport, was the first important airport in the metropolitan area. It was leased for fifty years by the Port Authority from the City of New York. In this area, the Authority also owns and operates Teterboro Airport.

Covering an area of 2,300 acres, or 3.6 square miles, Newark Airport features a new 7,000-foot-long runway 4-22, built by the Port Authority at a cost of $9,000,000 and put into operation last November. Running northeast-southwest and pointed directly at Nutley, the runway, parallel to the Turnpike, is equipped with the most modern approach lights and other landing aids.

The City of Newark and the Federal Government had invested a total of more than $25,000,000 in Newark Airport before the Port Authority leased it. Since 1948, the Port Authority has invested an additional $27,000,000, representing a total public investment of about $50,000,000.

Pet Show Featured First Week On All Playgrounds

Branch Brook Playground
Director: Eleanor Candura
Happenings at the Branch Brook, N. 2, 10 and 3 Playgrounds and Williams Street Recreation House, and Clearman Field for the week of July 13 are reported.

This week our activities centered around the special events program. In the Williams Street Recreation House, the first prize, Jack Arnold, second prize, Dianna Wiener, third prize, Harvey Taylor, a class ten year old, on top and in the girls division "Pat" McGarry, was the best, and to carry it a bit further, Pat is "the class" of both divisions. Looks like the girls are taking over everything! Our weekly horseshoe contest saw Bill Roche and Bob Suckey come out on top.

We saw our own Betty and Ruth Becker on the Junior Frolic stage, and they were last week. They sure looked mighty good! We didn't know we had a crowd of TV stars in our midst.

Happy birthday to Lynda Pot, age 4, and Dennis Roche, age 5.

On yes, our "champion rememberer" in our favorite game "Remember" was our 10 year old, Nick DeWitt.

The event of the week at No. 10 was our Pet Show. Here the youngsters really went "all out" as they exhibited their pets. The best dressed girl in the show was Nick Doris' collie "Duchess." She was adorned in yellow dress and had a collar decoration.

The cutest was a rather elongated cat named "Needle Experts." Elaine Galis, Jarvella Espinoza, Angela Ferraro, Joanne Coleman, Linda Menkel, Sheila Connolly, and Joan Behan are all working hard on their sewing projects.

Our 4th of July poster contest was won by Diane Layton, Jimmy Nisovic, Elaine Galis, and Linda Menkel. The winners were awarded.

Our monitors for the week were Richard and Robert Howard, Lucille Gaet, Marion Gaet, Angela Ferraro, Ann Bush, Michael Costello, Guy McGowan, and Harold Avalone.

No. 2 Playground
The big attraction at our playground this week was the pet show. In very gay and colorful shirt and shorts won the prize for the best dressed. It is owned by Peter Lukowicki. The most unusual was our Malenky's kitten which had a blue eye and a brown eye. Bill Cook's collie was awarded the prize. Lorraine Ryan was in charge of judging.

In our ping pong tournament Pat Ryan came out on top and Pete Lukowicki runner up.

Cost $1,500 Per Year

He outlined Nutley's cost and estimated that at least for the first two years a planning board could be set up at a budget of less than $1,500. If and when the need arises for professional criticism of the master plan, then a few minutes of the time of the board would be needed for that service. He said the expenses of the planning board he outlined would include stenographic help, mailing costs, supplies and membership-in-very-need-of-organization, whose overall experience became invaluable to a local committee.

Mexico, at 10 a.m. We proceeded to an Indian village in Santa Fe. There we returned to Santa Fe for lunch. After lunch we were free to roam around the town until 6 p.m. At this time we returned to the train at Lamy and left at 6:35.

"We arrived at Grand Canyon, Arizona, at 7:30 a.m. We broke up into small groups and toured the Grand Canyon. We took the trains and left at 1 p.m."

July 16
We arrived in Santa Ana, California, at 7 a.m. We were greeted by a Marine Band. Then we climbed aboard buses and in a few minutes we were at the Irvine Ranch. We unloaded our tents and other equipment from the trucks and commenced our camp. We stopped for a bite of lunch and continued into the afternoon until 5:30 p.m., when we started supper. After supper we got cleaned up and went to a sectional campfire. Then, wonderful, delicious, delicious, SLEEP.

July 17
It was a day of swapping, mostly. We set up a swap night in the main area. It was most beautiful and inspiring. We also put up our gateway during the day.

July 18
A rodeo was held this afternoon. It featured stunt riding, day of swapping patches and souvenirs began. In the evening beautiful show was staged in the main arena. Vice President. Richard Nixon opened the show with a talk and at the end every scout lit a candle and the combined flames lit up the entire arena.

July 20
The day was featured by an Air Show in which the Blue Angels were starred. It was thoroughly enjoyed by all. In the evening Miss California visited the camp and gave the boys got autographs. We also had another dip in the Pacific Ocean.

Geometry: Summer Shadows

These are the hours when sun
And moon and glowing star
Make prints of parallel
Or perpendicular
Under a petal, blade,
Or leaf. Circumference
Of shade upon the lawn
Or leant against the fence
Contains the lacy arcs
And patterned radii
That quiver, merge, and flow
Beneath a summer sky.
Now high grows wonder-wide
From the acute, obtuse
Whenever sudden wing
Spreads its hypotenuse.

After Panmunjom, What?

With scores of Nutley boys fighting in Korea and scores more in training camps and, apparently, destined for service amid the rugged hills of that peninsula, our interest in the "blow hot" and "blow cold" negotiations at Panmunjom is direct and personal. To us the grave danger of a failure of the peace negotiations lies in the uncertainty of the next step.

No firm decision, apparently, has been made yet as to what our military course will be if a Korean truce is not obtained. Of only one thing we are certain; with General Eisenhower as commander in chief, there will be no withdrawal from Korea.

A stalemate is an unacceptable solution. We have seen from the stalemate of the past 15 months that it can be as heavy in casualties as all-out war, and it gets us nowhere. It would be a constant drain, a nerve-wracking strain, a demand for men and materials which would keep us heavily armed.

There remains the alternative of stepping up the war.

There could be a massing of men and might to shove the Chinese and North Koreans back to the Yalu river. There could be a lifting of the ban which has protected Manchuria from our air attack, to allow the Reds to mass their men there for offensives such as the one in progress this week, or there could be an all-out attack on China. There is no telling how costly that final solution could be, but wars have a way of being more costly, in men and in money, than their planners ever can conceive.

One thing is certain. We cannot win the war with the men and materials we now have in Korea. There are now a million Chinese and 300,000 North Koreans in the enemy lines. It would take two million men to whip up an offensive that would allow the break-through and the push-back to the Yalu. We and our ROK allies number less than a half million.

There remains the question of the A-bomb. We have a stockpile big enough to plant one on every Chinese city of any strategic value. We recently tested out in the Nevada flats an atomic cannon. We have none in Korea but one could be tested against the enemy with catastrophic results for the Communists.

Use of the atomic weapons, under present provisions of the Atomic Energy Act, depends solely upon the decision of the President who must give his specific approval. The use of the A-bomb would be regrettable because of its frightening destructive qualities, but, after all, there has been a tragic drain of American lives and money in a stalemate which cannot be tolerated longer and which drags on only because of Chinese intrigue.

The Chinese at Panmunjom should be told what failure of the peace negotiations might bring. China with its teeming population in open cities is in no position to survive modern air attack, with A-bombs or with ordinary high explosives. So long as China is secure behind the Korean wall, there is no incentive to consent to a peace. Once her safety is in peril, China will prove realist.

One Man's Opinion

The Stage Is Being Set For Beria's Shooting But In The Meantime What Is Happening To His "Atomic Empire"?

By RALPH E. HEINZEN

Events in Moscow this week remind you of sitting through a film in a movie. Eventually you say to yourself: "This is where I came in".

The backdrop of the Kremlin is the same. The epithets being bandied about are the same for Beria as they were for his predecessors and Vyacheslav Molotov, who were not Russians but Poles, Genrikh Yagoda and Nikolai Yezhov, the madman on whose head is the blood of a million men "enemy of the people", "foreign hireling", "imperialist spy and lackey" and "foul traitor". Only the tempo has changed because Malenkov strikes with even more swiftness than did Stalin in ridding himself of Trotsky, Zinoviev, Kamenev and Bukharin.

From here on the melodrama will also be the same. Beria will be shot by one of his own firing squads. There can be no revolution and horror for the shooting of this purger of purgers is going to take place according to a scenario he wrote himself when he was the high executioner of Russia.

Unlike his million victims, Beria will not be shot without drama. Unless the formula has been changed, he is languishing in one of his own cells in Lubyanka prison waiting for the stage to be properly set. In the meantime, mass meetings are in progress the length and breadth of Russia. Beria will not be taken out and shot until Malenkov is absolutely certain that everyone in Russia has heard the story of Beria's treason and his condemnation him, too, in the meantime, Malenkov feels the need of a greater purge, he can not be "cleared" in 1936, the mass trials and purge which brought Vishinsky his fame as public prosecutor — a role which he reverts to, too often, out at the UN.

Boss Of Rosenbergs

Beria probably will go down in history as the killer who tracked Trotsky to Mexico, or Stalin, through his own agents and killed him there. The man, however, should interest us for another reason. He was the boss of the political boss of Russia's Atomic development. He was, consequently, the boss of the Rosenbergs, Julius and Ethel, the Mays and the other Communist spies who stole the secrets of atomic fission here and in England. He was the master spy who advanced by five years Russia's possession of the A-bomb secret.

He should be remembered, also, for two other accomplishments, neither of them very sound morally but of tremendous importance in Russia's military strategy. He built up the network of labor camps and recruited the legions of slaves who filled them, and, he developed Russia's uranium mining program in the western occupied countries, Czechoslovakia and East Germany, and he drafted the native labor, on the spot, to mine the precious mineral.

Secrecy Surrounds A-bomb

Beria's wartime role is, also, too often overlooked. He tore a page out of Hitler's book and organized his own NKVD assault troops, 15 divisions of them, close to Hitler's SS divisions. These divisions were the best fighting units in the German Army, except, perhaps, for Rommel's Afrika Korps.

We know that Russia has A-bombs. President Truman took pains to announce that during his last year in office. But we do not know how many she has stockpiled, nor do we know exactly where she makes them. With slave labor and the best fighting units at his hand, perhaps with his shooting, the secret will come out.

Thus far, the Kremlin has kept the closest secrecy about its atomic intentions. Beria's successor, Colonel General Sergei Malenkov, has taken over only the rank of Minister of Internal Affairs. These changes do not mention him taking charge of atomic development. With a title like "Colonel General" one would imagine that Kruglov was a career soldier. It was not; he was civilian until the war and his promotions were political rather than military.

Hunting For Beria Men Malenkov's was the decision to "purge" Beria, but Kruglov's is the actual purging job. His operations are right now combining executive agencies and regional party organizations, republic after republic and province after province, for Beria accomplices. Since virtually the entire staff of his ministry, without General Kruglov, who as Beria's first deputy, commanded the security forces which guarded the Kremlin and controlled the Moscow garrison, Malenkov could not have rid himself of his rival. Beria apparently trusted Kruglov, who became his first deputy as early as 1930 and worked under him all these years. At first sight, Beria's arrest and the help of his own assistant, and the latter's subsequent appointment as his successor, appear as uncommon acts of generosity.

Actually it now seems that Kruglov already in the first months after Beria's arrival from Tiflis in December, 1938, was planted by Stalin in order to keep Beria under control. He was not "gifted" by Beria but it is said to have been a member of the "special section" of the people's commissariat of the interior which was directly under Stalin and policed every branch of the Soviet administration including the secret police.

This personal relationship to Stalin explains General Kruglov's mission to Yalta, Moscow and San Francisco, where I knew him only as an underling who checked my American UN press secretary when I called at his house on the hill for the few Molotov press conferences. It was probably not in his own right that he joined Malenkov and Molotov to join Beria.

General Kruglov is a power, but probably not in his own right. He is essentially an executive with experience in almost every branch of the Soviet administration. He has directed slave labor armies building roads and waterways. His third Order of Lenin was given him last September shortly after completion of the Volga-Dnieper Canal built by slave labor.

As a commander of assault troops he took part in the war and was awarded Russia's highest military medals, the orders of Suvorov and Kutuzov. He has been the boss's chief bodyguard. Last month, for the first time, he shifted his loyalty and played a decisive political role.

Now he controls is such that henceforth the stability of the regime may depend upon his continued loyalty to Malenkov. Looking back over the years, I recall the fear which I saw in Trotsky's eyes when I interviewed him at the little blue cottage at Barbizon, along the southern edge of the Forest of Fontainebleau, south of Paris, in 1930. Trotsky was a revolutionary who had been arrested and exiled to Siberia by the Czar's police as long ago as 1898 when he was still in his teens. He was not averse to murder.

der if it served the cause of the revolution, but he was not a mass killer as was Beria, the man who tracked him down for Stalin. But, knowing the Bolsheviks, he felt himself being tracked for the kill, the good graces of the Soviet family.

Beria, the fifth consecutive incumbent of the post with the high occupational hazard to die — was a killer, a methodic killer. Yagoda was a criminal killer. Yezhov was a criminally insane. There is grim justice in the historical fact that these three chief liquidators who, between them, have sent millions to death or to slow death in the uranium mines or in the slave labor camps, share, in the end, the fate of their victims.

Beck's Television Column

Continuing our report on the new 1954 model TV sets, the ones are going to report about ADMIRAL sets today. They were the second factory to show new models.

Through the years Admiral has given the best dollar for dollar value for the money a customer wanted to spend. They have been progressive in design and for this reason there has been hardly any change in the construction compared with last year. A few minor improvements have been made. The layout for servicing has been improved to make it easier yet to repair Admiral sets. The performance is good, the parts used are of good quality. There are a few paper condensers in the set which we would like to see replaced with molded condensers. Admiral sets are the serviceman's delight. The chassis layout is such that all parts are readily accessible, the picture tube is fastened to the chassis, which is very desirable. The station selector can be replaced, which is not the case with a number of other manufacturers. Although it is not of much importance for this vicinity, the station selector can be easily changed to receive ultra high frequency stations. We would like to see the sets equipped with a phone jack, which would be a desirable improvement. All in all you get good value if you buy an Admiral set.

GOP Candidate For Sheriff Sees "Safe" Bingo Possible

Assemblyman Neil Duffy Says That If Electors
 Approve in November Referendum, Bingo Can Be Given Protection That Pari Mutual Now Gets

A proponent of the Bingo bill in the State Legislature, Assemblyman Neil Duffy, Clean Government candidate for Sheriff of Essex County, declared in an exclusive interview with Times-News during a visit to Belleville yesterday, that while he is opposed to any form of gambling which can be exploited by racketeers, he is favorable to controlled Bingo which could be used by churches, service groups or volunteer firemen to raise funds for local charity or church purposes.

"Bingo had to be controlled for the good of the charitable organizations themselves because the racketeers were moving in, taking advantage of credulous persons or groups. But once the voters approve controlled Bingo in the referendum next November, a law can be drawn up which will fence out the professional gamblers and much good can come from its play," Duffy told The Sun.

Assemblyman Neil Duffy
 Sees Use For "Safe" Bingo

"The churches and some service groups have done too much good with the profits of bingo to deprive them entirely of that source of income, just because a few racketeers muscled in here and there. They muscled in, but that did not prevent the state from enacting a legalized pari-mutual law. What was done for the tracks, can be done for bingo."

Duffy, a South Orange lawyer, is Clean Government's answer to the demand of Young Republicans for youth on the party ticket. The son of a popular Newark police official, the late Police Lieut. Neil G. Duffy, Sr., the candidate for Sheriff is a war veteran, having served in G-2, Army Intelligence, until he was given a medical discharge. His activities in veterans affairs led to his election as Commander of Post 10, American Legion, in Newark, and he has also been County Commander and County Judge Advocate of the Legion. His political rise has been short but swift. He learned practical politics as legislative secretary for State Senator Clapp and was elected to the State Assembly two years ago. He is now finishing his first term, but decided to leave the Assembly at the end of this term to seek election to the Sheriff's office. In the Assembly he voted for the Bingo bill twice, once last year when it came up for the first time and again this year, when he voted to put it on the referendum.

"I stand for the strict enforcement of the law to the letter, and that is why in the specific case of Bingo it is best to consult the voters and take a poll of popular opinion," Duffy said. "If controlled Bingo is approved by the electorate, a law must be drawn up with careful regard for loopholes through which the professional criminal might get in. But if the electorate rejects Bingo, and if I am elected Sheriff, I would enforce the law to the letter."

RETAIL PRICE OF MILK RISES CENT AUGUST 1

State Orders Full Increase To Go
 To Producers To Overcome
 Effects Of Drought

Nutley milk retailers were informed yesterday that prices will be advanced on the basis of one cent a quart starting August 1. The increase, authorized by the Office of Milk Industry in Trenton, is blamed on the drought which has increased milk production costs at the dairy farms, particularly in Long Valley. For that reason, the retailers have been instructed that the entire increase will go to the producer.

Retail prices, which dropped 2 cents a quart last April, are expected to rise another cent in September unless rain offsets the effects of the drought.

Joseph A. Reilly, of Walsh Farms Dairy, said last night that under the state's revised price schedule homogenized milk will rise one cent to 25 1/2 cents and pasteurized milk to 24 1/2 cents a quart. Cream will cost one-half cent per pint more while half-pint containers of school milk will increase one-fourth cent.

He said that if the state legislature rejects Bingo, and if I am elected Sheriff, I would enforce the law to the letter."
