ART EXHIBIT TO BE HELD AGAIN

State Exhibition Will Be Held In February, Local Art Directors Active

Due largely to the efforts of P. Webster Dohi, Art Director of the Belleville Public Schools and his colleagues holding similar positions in the school systems of surrounding North Jersey counties, the students of New Jersey's high, parochial and private schools will again have an opportunity to display their work in Art Education's annual exhibition, The State Competition for Scholastic Awards in Art Education, which was discontinued during the war but will definitely be held again during the coming year, with the exhibition being scheduled to be held in Newark early in February.

Mr. Dohi was a member of the original State Committee on Scholastic Awards in Art Education for New Jersey. He is also a member of the present committee which will arrange, supervise, and select the judges for the coming exhibition. Because of the many honors won by Belleville students in previous State Competitions, Mr. Robinson, President of the Scholastic Awards Group at the Eastern Arts Convention at Pittsburgh last May, delegated the Belleville Art Director to help re-establish this activity in the state.

This exhibition will not only provide an opportunity for students of high school level to display their art work but will give them a chance to compare it with that of students in surrounding communities. It also provided an opportunity for parent and the public to become familiar with the many outstanding things being done by their boys and girls in our schools today. In the past it has proved to provide an incentive to both the student and to the schools to do more and better work. To the student, these competitions mean an opportunity to display their work to the general public for the first time. It also means awards, medals, and possible scholarships.

Vets Resume Parties The Younginger-Alten, Post No. 275, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will resume its series of parties at their headquarters, 17 Belleville Avenue on Saturday, October 3.

Donald Bowden, chairman of the affair, says there will be dancing, entertainment and refreshments, for the nominal admission charge.

On Thursday services will begin at 9:30 a.m. At 10:15 special Vektor Memorial services will be recited. Rabbi Raab will speak on "Our Immortal Ancestor".

Thursday evening at 7 a special Sinothath Torah service and party will be conducted for the children of our community. Flugs will be given and refreshments will be served to all present by the Sinothath of the Congregation.

Friday and Saturday morning services will begin at 9:30 o'clock.

Trout Club Meets The Belleville Trout for Gov. For Club will meet Tuesday evening and every Tuesday until election day at the Town Hall, according to Randolph P. Zwiley, chairman of the Belleville Republican County Committee.

The club is open to anyone interested in the election of Mr. Trout as the state's chief executive.

Local Boys At Muhlenberg Four local young men completed orientation week at Muhlenberg College today. They are John J. Basile, of 9 Mountain Avenue; Frederick L. Cox, of 180 Tappan Avenue; Frederick H. Stiller, Jr., of 179 Tappan Avenue; and Nathan Vaccaro, of 172 Holmes Street.

Troast favors the establishment of a state medical and dental college, pointing out that New Jersey, without such a school of

that he will lose Hudson County by only 30,000 or less and that a strong vote in Bergen and Essex Counties will clinch his election. Camden is a major source of GOP worry, as it has been in the past. The South Jersey strength is due in part to bitter retaliation for what happened to Wene in the previous election. Troast believes, and partly is a consequence of satisfaction with Trenton's record.

Troast reaffirmed his opposition to other a state sales tax or a state income tax, but he gave his support to the demand of public school interests that there be a substantial increase in state school aid.

"There are communities in New Jersey, which have grown too fast and in those places, local taxes are insufficient to expand the school plant as much as is needed," Troast explained.

"These communities need help to tide them over and it is obvious that they can turn only to the state. There have been no aggregated demands for increased school aid to such an amount as $60,000,000. Since the entire state budget is only little more than $250,000,000, it stands to reason that we cannot turn back the state income cannot be turned back in the form of school aid. Other state institutions must be kept going, roads must be built and state government must function, too.

"No one has come up with a perfect answer to the need for more school aid, but since the need is greatest where school buildings are inadequate it is obvious that greater aid must start in that direction. It remains to be seen how much such aid would amount to. The Governor has a group of experts studying the entire state tax structure now and when they present their report, we may be able to devise a plan for some increase in school aid which will not be too costly for our present tax sources."

"I am opposed to the creation of either a state sales tax or a state income tax. The state has benefitted industrially from our unusual situation, for we are one of the few great Eastern states to have escaped such taxes. Industry is moving into New Jersey and it brings with it more tax income, more pay-roll spending, greater work opportunities and greater security for our people. New taxes would only stop that progress."

Field Of Corn

Rustle of breeze among the brittle corn
Forebodes autumn. Crows are flying low
Over the field, alighting on the stalks
Which bend beneath their weight. The oblique slant
Of wind fingers the rows in gusty solitude.
The glare of sun in the midmorning sky
Is warm upon the rusty blades of corn.
The heavy ears, still tightly wrapped in husks,
Are hidden gold, as yet unmined, but soon
Will spill their nuggets in the moving bin
Of new corn-pickers, as the farmer gleams
The field's rich harvest. But on this bright day
Only the wind and crows are far afield.
Among the bounty of the season's yield.

A Warning Never To Forget

It is fit that we should know from an official source that the Federal Civil Defense Administration lists Belleville among seventy cities and metropolitan areas in the nation which it considers "critical target areas" and "the most probable targets for atomic attack," but no good purpose would be served by developing a defeatist complex. The government merely said that Belleville is a "probable target"; it did not say we would be the first target bombed in a swift strike by enemy bombers.

It is unfortunate that our geographical location is what it is. There are many advantages to be located, as we are, with New York City on our horizon. But there are disadvantages, too, and one of them is that the New York-North-eastern New Jersey metropolitan area, within which nearly 13 million people live, is a prime target for enemy attack. There are other such prime targets — Washington, D. C., Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Los Angeles among them.

It stands to reason that an enemy would attack by surprise. It is doubtful if he could attack by surprise in sufficient force to spread the death and destruction of atomic explosion and radiation beyond one or two target points. When we used the atomic weapon twice in our war with Japan, our town was our target each time.

Since, however, there is no certainty where or when an enemy might attack, it behooves America to be ever on guard. In publishing its list of seventy "probable targets," the Federal Civil Defense Administration sought merely to make us conscious of our danger and of our civic responsibilities.

Happily, here in Belleville we have been conscious of our responsibilities for long. We are as near ready for a surprise attack as a town can be. The battery of radar-controlled "Long Toms" in our park might help to drive off an attacker. It is one unit in a network that serves both for training and for the defense of the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area. Defense, however, is not our role in such a crisis. Our responsibility is to be prepared for taking care of our dead and our wounded and our survivors once there has been an attack. In that field, we are only partially ready.

Since the Federal and State authorities have told us that in the event of an air attack, by atomic or other weapons, there can be no escape for us by flight, we must be prepared to fend for ourselves the best we can. We have been told that S-3, the Turnpike and the Garden State Parkway now under construction would not be reserved for the military and would not be available for frightened civilians heading for the hills.

If an attack comes, we must be prepared for the worst. Since we now know from an official source that we lie in a "critical target area," it should be the responsibility of the head of every family in town to do his share in the common defense of our town. When a bomb falls and our homes collapse over our heads is no time to volunteer or to try and scrape together a first aid corps. Civil defense is a peacetime preparedness effort. Alas, only one in every 20 family heads in our town is a civil defense volunteer. The others, apparently, are willing to be aided, but unwilling to aid in the common defense. Otherwise, there would be a waiting list for air raid wardens, instead of a shortage.

It may have been merely a coincidence, but the newspapers which named our town as a "critical target" carried, in the next column, an official announcement from Moscow, by Tass, the official Soviet Russian news agency, that the Soviet Union has "new atom bombs" which it has demonstrated in test explosions. If the coincidence escaped you, be warned. The Russians have atom bombs. Our own government warns us we are a "most probable target for atomic attack."

You owe it to your wife and children, you owe it to yourself, you owe it to the town within which you live to do your part in the common preparedness. If you are not one of the 1,130 volunteers, then enlist! R.E.H.

Troast Makes Sense

State aid for public schools has become a political football, kicked around by mealy mouthed politicians with more political ambitions than economic good sense. It was refreshing, therefore, that in an exclusive interview with The Nutley Sun, Paul Troast made it clear that he never would consent to increasing the present state aid to public schools if it involved the creation of new punitive taxes — a state income tax or a state sales tax.

Refusing to promise any specific amount of increased aid, Troast said that communities which are expanding faster than they can afford to increase the capacities of their schools and utilities do need help and can get such temporary relief only from the state. His conception of increased school aid is to help provide the larger school plants which are required wherever an influx of industry or new homes reaches an intensity that it would be too great a burden on taxable real estate to pay for all the expanded facilities needed.

As Troast pointed out, there are some advocates of increased school aid who speak in terms of $60,000,000 a year over and above the present annual grant. Since the state's entire budget is only a quarter of a billion dollars, it stands to reason that one-fourth of the entire income of the State of New Jersey cannot be handed back to the towns under the guise of "increased school aid." The state has many other functions; it must build and repair roads, it must keep all of its other institutions in efficient status.

As a successful contractor, as the builder of the successful Turnpike, Troast knows that under existing statutes the state can aid the hard-pressed towns without prodigal waste. There is no need to scatter manna to the faithful electorate. Many towns are settled almost to capacity and need no greater state aid. From their own taxes, they can carry on the efficient operation of their schools. To spread more state money among such towns would be merely inefficient politics. It was of such stuff that Tammany was made.

Troast has proven himself a builder, not a party-line politician. By his interview with The Times-News he has proven that he has carried out his campaign for election the common sense which made him one of the most successful builders of our times, whose monument will, for long, be the successful New Jersey Turnpike. Such common sense and such abilities turned to state government could only be salutary. R.E.H.

One Man's Opinion

Question Of Eastern Europe's "Rubber-Band" Frontiers Comes Up Again As French Statesmen Move Into Washington

BY RALPH E. HEINZEN

"Fiftyfour, Forty or Eight" rang out all over the land as young America flexed its muscles and sought to expand.

"Fiftyfour, Eighteen or Eight" may well be the slogan of the West. Unless the Germans have been changed in defeat or unless there are a few diplomats in the chancelleries of Warsaw and Moscow who can look ahead and see things in their true light.

"Fiftyfour, Eighteen" is the old German eastern frontier, before the Communists remade the map of Europe to suit themselves in August, 1945. It was the German-Polish border by Bismarck, of the Kaiser and of Hitler. If Washington has its way, it will once again be the dividing line between the Teutons and the Slavs and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles hopes to accomplish that end by diplomacy, not guns.

In the August, 1945, grab, Russia and Poland agreed to establish their own frontier on the so-called Curzon line of 1920. That the Russians, a sizeable slice of Poland. To recompense the Poles, the Russians allowed them to shove their own frontiers westward to the Oder-Neisse river, thus grabbing the German provinces of Pomerania, Brandenburg and Silesia. The loss to Germany would be equivalent to the severance from the United States of all of New England and the coastal states through the Carolinas.

Dantzig Again Involved

Historically and ethnically, there was no foundation for the Communists' cutting up of a "semi-independent" Germany. The provinces lost by Germany have been Teuton since history began. That was not the case of East Prussia, the Polish province which had carried out for themselves along the Baltic east coast. It was no German history; it was Polish. Russia and ways was Bismarck, of the Kaiser and Dulles carved up East Prussia, leaving it entirely, the Poles took the Baltic coast and the Russians absorbing Königsberg and Tilsit. Washington would not turn a hand to help the German-born Dantzig and East Prussia.

My conviction that Germany will not forever consent to the severance of her Eastern provinces stems from several visits to the Polish Corridor, to the Baltic during the French military occupation in 1920, to the Saar during the plebiscite which the League of Nations held there in 1935 and to Upper Silesia, to report the plebiscite in March, 1921.

Ike Restores Provinces

At Versailles, Germany lost Alsace and Lorraine to France. Hitler took them back in the treaty which he signed in the treasury car deep in the forest of Compiègne. The same time he took back the townships of Eupen and Malmédy which the treaty had given to Belgium. It is a matter of history that Eisenhower took those provinces and townships away from Hitler again by the campaign in the West.

I remember the Saar plebiscite on a cold wintry day in January, 1935. The League of Nations sent a team of neutrals to see that there was a fair election. Hitler discovered that one clause in the Versailles treaty allowed former Saarlanders, who could prove their right, to have a voice in the plebiscite.

Hitler hammered the drums and rallied several hundred thousands of the faithful who swore they were former Saarlanders. On the Sunday of the plebiscite, special trains rolled into Saar towns all day long, dumping thousands of voters who roared approval to the polls. The vote: Hitler, 97,173; France, 48,637.

First Battle Of War

It was a coincidence that, four years later, the Forest of Warndt, on the hills above the Saar valley, was the setting for the first battle of World War II. It is now lost in the dim past, but it was an eye-witness to that "battle" and I can remember it out of all the wars I watched as a war correspondent because it was the first time that the night of the first deed provoked an unusual coincidence.

There were only four of us, American war correspondents, who had anticipated the war long enough in advance to have arranged the credentials in time to drive to the front that September.

advance was swift. By the end of that first day, we reached the hilltop overlooking the Saar river. Below us lay a factory town, Volklings, and a suburb and the factory yard; we could see women and children on the streets. The Germans seemed so afraid as they made ready for the night.

It seemed unusual, to us Americans, that the French would stop where they did on the hilltop instead of rushing downhill into the town. It seemed even more unusual the next morning at dawn when the French army failed to resume the attack. At noon it was still holding its positions; that night it camped in the place. The third day, towards noon, came the order to retreat, back through the Forest of Warndt, being careful to stay on the slender paths.

The French soldiers and staff officers were as much surprised as we were Americans. Someone back in Paris had heard that the French had been in the Forest of Warndt to inquire what had happened and we uncovered the strange French official about the French army, which had been in the Forest of Warndt, about five years ago; Henry Cassidy, now the excellent NBC correspondent, Paris; Percy Phillips, a splendid S.S. officer, who was in the Forest of Warndt, about five years ago; Henry Cassidy, now the excellent NBC correspondent, Paris; Percy Phillips, a splendid S.S. officer, who was in the Forest of Warndt, about five years ago.

The point I am trying to make is that Germany has known its situation before the war. The lifetime of most Germany. They did not accept it then, even though the German statesmen signed peace treaties which ordered the dismemberment, and it is his "Old Man" who says that they will not accept it now.

Battle Of Misses

We drove up in the morning darkness from French press GHQ at Nancy to see present when the French army was to go into action for the first time. From Nancy, the French GHQ, we drove to the Forest of Warndt. The French were going to smash through to the Rhine and on to Berlin to make good the Führer's famous breeches. We arrived in time to watch the start of operations. At that point, open fields lie on a side of a country road. That is France. On the other side, comparatively thick woods, called the Forest of Warndt; that is Germany.

The French soldiers had barely crossed the road and marched into the woods than all Hell broke loose. The Germans rained it with trip wires. Men were blown into the trees, or reduced and killed. He burst. Resolute, the French burst in swine and caught the drive behind the forest through the forest to trip the wires.

Advance Guard Of Dead

Several hours later, the first German dead were brought back to the GHQ of the French General. They were mere boys in their Nazi uniforms. One was a school boy, the other a young man. They were both dead, but they had the rigidity of death. They were enough to make a soldier's heart beat. They were excellent craftsmanship, smoothly polished, but each had fired barely a round or two before he died.

I remember the high interest of French staff officers in the fact that the two dead Germans had two sub-machineguns. They lost little time to jump to the conclusion that Hitler and his Freikorps of his German regiments by massing firepower. That may have had its effect on the strange things that happened a few hours later.

But as we four Americans stood there, silent, looking at the two dead Germans, each of us had his own thoughts.

Months later, when we returned to Paris and checked on the stories in the yellowed files we found that Knickerbocker and I, standing there staring at the dead, had had exactly the same idea. Our cables despatches started off with exactly the same words.

"I saw today the advanced guard of the army of the millions, the dead of World War II."

Truly prophetic those words written at the height of the first battle of a war that was to spread to every continent, every ocean.

France Lost The War

That whole battle, hour by hour, is very strangely, very fresh in my memory among the hundreds of battles that I was to watch in a quarter century of reporting wars. I remember following the belching cattle into the forest. On either side of the path which the French smartly marked immediately with white stakes, lay unexploded mines. We were soon to discover that the Germans had planted thousands of mines and had marked the safe passage for themselves between the mines with guide paths. Once we learned that,

Bike Club Members Take Lunch To Brookdale Park

The Belleville Bicycle Club, last Saturday, had a very successful tour. The boys and girls went up to Brookdale Park, where they had lunch and enjoyed impromptu races. Upon returning to the Stadium, Hook Cook set up the Little Rollers and everyone had a chance to try out the tricky type of bike riding. In a series of impromptu races on the rollers it became apparent that the club has several riders, who will be on top in this Fall's open competition if they desire to enter.

It is a policy of the Belleville Bicycle Club to help and encourage youngsters, who really want to race, but it is also a policy not to push the young riders into racing. The latter is doubly true where the girls are concerned.

Beck's Television Column

In a few weeks the season of the year where heavy storms are common will be upon us again. For those of our readers who have outside antennas, it is good advice to have the antenna installation checked up. If yours is over 2 years or even more old it should be looked over.

Only recently the restriction on the use of stainless steel has been lifted. Previously one had to use galvanized strapping material for chimney mounts. Now we use only non-corroding stainless steel straps.

The mount and the connections to the antenna terminals are the most frequent trouble spots. The antenna proper is aluminum. The fastening bolts are copper. This combination of metals forms a strong corrosion.

If you have the work done now, you may prevent damage which may be caused if your antenna falls down during a storm.

Incidentally, you should call your insurance agent or check your policy to find out whether you have "extended coverage," which is inexpensive and covers you in case of damage to your antenna.

Big Golf Match

Lew Worsham, Tam O'Shanter winner and leading PGA money winner will be facing pretty tough competition at the Forest Hill Field Club, today when he teams with Billy Dear, Jr., to oppose the championship pair of Chet Sanok, the state's leading amateur player and Emery Thomas, Forest Hill pro, who has held the most titles any professional golfer can compete for in this state. Sanok, who was raised in Belleville recently set a new course record at The Knoll, where he toured the 18 hole layout in 62 strokes. The record is unofficial because winter rules are in effect at the course because of the drought. Chet holds the official record of 68. The match will be for the benefit of the Clara Maass Memorial Hospital Building Fund, and will get under way at 1:30.

Before the match Lew Worsham will conduct an hour's instruction clinic, for the benefit of the gallery and will have as his pupils Ed Herlihy, NBC-TV announcer and Ernie Kovacs, WCBZ-TV comedian. The two celebrities will then play for the golf championship of the TV networks. Tickets can be obtained at the golf course.

Gridders Ready For East Orange After Four Scrimmages

Queen Of Peace, Harrison, In Doubleheader; Demarest And East Side All Use Single Wing

The preparation season is over, the gridders have had several workouts against single wing opposition, and now all that is needed is for the referee to blow the whistle to signal the kickoff, tomorrow, and the football season for Belleville High School will be underway at Marten's Field, East Orange. The Belboys have worked hard against four teams employing the same offense as East Orange. From here it looks like a very close game, with Belleville finishing on top, through superior passing.

The Belboys had two scrimmages on Thursday. While one group was running against Queen of Peace on the regular field at the stadium, another group was going it against Harrison on the base-out field. A mixup on the part of the Harrison coach resulted in the double bill. For Belleville it was excellent because the coaches could give that many more boys an opportunity to show their wares under near-game conditions. Belleville's varsity had some but not too much to do with Queen of Peace, but the Jayvans ran all over Harrison's varsity.

On Saturday Demarest from Hoboken came over with its variation of the single-wing. The Hudson County outfit had time to offer and Belleville sharpened its plays to some extent. The only bad part of the scrimmage was a tendency of most of the players to ease up every once in a while. For about two plays everyone would do everything right, but on the next one, you wouldn't believe it but the whole team seemed to collapse at once. Tuesday afternoon, Mike Windus came up with his East Side team of Newark. Mike was pretty proud of his boys before the scrimmage, saying that they had bowled over a string of opponents in practice drills. This one was played under game conditions with kickoffs, downs and the works. Belleville would have won by at least two touchdowns, bearing out the early season comment that Belleville could be a champ if it played all Newark schools.

Belleville operated without the services of its two star-liners, Terry Gahr and Joe Mignone. Terry was not feeling well and Joe is nursing a twisted ankle suffered in the Queen of Peace game, with high hopes that he will be fit for the East Orange battle. Jack McCade running in one of the half positions looked pretty good. Larry Donofrio ran at the other halfback position. Belleville went into the air for only one of its touchdowns and got the others by driving for yardage on ground plays. Belleville's starting team and its first few reserves look adequate for the type opposition to be met in the early season, but the question is on for more help for these front liners. The limited substitution rule of the colleges, does not apply to the high schools, and as soon as boys appear ready Coaches Eddie Berlinki, Jitty Wische and Ray Smith will see that they play.

Belleville's hand, twirlers and cheerleaders are ready to do their share in whipping up enthusiasm for the team and all will be out in full glory for Saturday's encounter.

As usual little is known about the East Orange team for the first game, other than it is loaded with veterans, is not very big and in practice has not shown an aptitude to stop the opposition's passes. The East Orange team ran from single wing and a star end can be expected to appear.

The big one comes up next week, when the Bloomfield Bengals, bigger than ever, come to the Municipal Stadium for the home opener. So far Belleville is concentrating on getting ready for East Orange, but on Tuesday the grind will begin on preparations to battle Joe Moore's variation of the "T." Incidentally, Joe Moore was a senior end when Eddie Berlinki was a freshman quarterback for Bloomfield back in 1930.

A similar charge against a 16-year-old Newark boy is still pending in Juvenile Court. The travel in which a pair of from 12 to 15 youths were reported to have attacked three other youths, was said by police to have started when the trio, accompanied by three teen-age girls, went to the Stephen Crane Village near the

Accident Insurance Again Available To All Students

Parents of children attending Belleville schools are advised by Superintendent of Schools Evan F. Thomas that arrangements have been made with the New Jersey Intercollegiate Athletic Association, for a resumption of the accident insurance which was made available to all students last year on a voluntary basis. This insurance which covers children for accidents on their way to and from school, for accidents which might occur while taking part in school activities but not for intercollegiate athletics, is available at $1 per person. Under the laws of the state the school system is not financially liable for accidents in the school buildings while taking part in school activities.

The policies which are issued by the American Casualty Company cost each student $1 per school year. Last year 2,224 policies were issued, covering about half the students in the public schools. During last year 41 claims were filed with the insurance company and satisfactory settlements were made in each case.

ST. MARY'S CADETS TO BE HOST AT DRILL COMPETITION

To Perform Exhibition At "Parade of Champions" Sunday At Park Oval

The second annual "Parade of Champions," drum and bugle corps invitation competition, sponsored by St. Mary's Cadets, will take place at Park Oval Sunday starting at 1:30 p.m. with St. Joseph's Cadets, of Newark, scheduled to defend their title won a year ago on the same grounds.

To take the starting line in the battle for drill team honors will be seven of the best junior corps in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Heading the list are the Holy Name Cadets of Garfield, American Legion National Champions for 1952. The Garfield squad, for 1952, captured the national title last month at St. Louis, Mo., while competing against 18 other junior corps. St. Mary's Cadets, taking part in the 1953 Nationals placed fifth.

In addition to winning the 1953 National championship, Holy Name Cadets were also champs in 1948, '49 and '50.

St. Joseph's Cadets, defending champs of the "Parade of Champions," has been recognized as the VFW State Open title holder for 1953. Last year the unit, sponsored by Public Service Post 160, took the Northeastern crown.

Three other New Jersey corps will also be on the starting line Sunday, with two of the units being all-girl combinations. The two corps are the Audubon All-Girl Cadets and the Johnson Memorial All-Girl Cadets of Bordentown. Bounding out the New Jersey contingents will be the Blessed Sacrament Cadets of Newark, sponsored by Service Men's Post No. 302.

Coming from Pennsylvania will be two top ranking corps of the Keystone State. The Liberty Bell Cadets have been VFW State Champions for the last four years in succession. Known as the "Liberty Bells," the drum and bugle squad will come from Philadelphia. Last squad to round out the list of competing corps will be the Bracken Cadets of Bristol, Pennsylvania.

Stationed At Illinois

James Watson, boileman second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Watson of 35 Montgomery Place, has reported aboard the battleship USS Wisconsin at the U.S. Naval Base, Great Lakes, Illinois.

Kenneth Kroth, B.S. '53, Is Accepted At Julliard

Kenneth Kroth, of 38 Mt. Pleasant Avenue, a graduate of Belleville High School, class of 1953, has been accepted to study at Julliard School of Music, New York City, where he will pursue his studies in music, majoring at the organ.

Kenneth has studied the piano for nine and one-half years with Mrs. Bacon-Peck of the Eleanor Bacon-Peck Studios. During his high school years he often played the organ for various school assemblies and concerts. Kenneth is a member of the Honor Society, becoming a member in his junior year. This past summer he was employed by McGlynn, Hays Industries, Incorporated.

Afternoon Classes For Young Boys At Barbell Club Gym

Interested in weightlifting in Belleville continues to grow with a special increase noticeable among the younger boys. Because it is undesirable for young boys to be out at night, Bob Cook will hold instruction periods each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon from 3:30 until 5:00 p.m. at the Barbell gymnasium in the Municipal Stadium.

The young boys will be taught correct lifting form and exercising technique. Mr. Cook believes that the younger lifters should not attempt heavy lifting until they have built a good foundation of form and strength, and even then that they should not lift limit poundages.

Rummage Sale Oct. 28

A rummage sale will be held on October 28 in the basement of the Wesley Methodist Church, on Washington Avenue. This ant-nual sale is being sponsored by Circle 10 of the W.S.C.S. Articles to be donated may be brought to the church on October 27, or call PL 9-2244 for further details.

Life at BHS As We See It

By Elaine Wische
and Lois Bloemke

School days, school days, dear old Belleville High days. Well, we're back for another year of fun at B.H.S. with a little bit of work mixed in for variety. What's that we hear? Music? Could be the band and twirlers led by popular Pat Smith. By the way, congratulations to "Snitty" on her elevation to drum majorette, and the best of luck to Pat Fitzsimmons on her wonderful offer at the Paper Mill Playhouse. Flanking our new majorette will be co-captains Elie Bergersen and Elaine Wische. Other seniors on the squad are Mary Ann Ferrigno, Agnes Dornen, Jackie Natale, Sandy Smith, Lois Bloemke, Grace Casale, and Camille Rousi.

We're sorry to hear about Betsy Dominick's operation and hope she's up and cheering the football team on soon. In case you're not up-to-date on who this year's cheerleaders are, just read on. The squad includes captain, Jean Dufford, Marion Sparks, Leona Salandra, Sarah Daniels, Betsy Dominick, Tanya Gruehich, Dottie Szubowski, and Sally Kelly. Welcome to the six new teachers at B.H.S. Did you get a good look at Mr. "wooo-woo Di Maggio"? He's the handbook which several students worked so hard on last year really is good, isn't it?

Nutley Youth Charged With Driving Without License

Frank Perry, 20, of 24 Franklin Avenue, Nutley was charged with driving without the owner's permission or a license, and ordered to appear at court September 30, as a result of an accident which occurred on the corner of Joramemo Street and Mertz Avenue, Monday.

Perry was riding together with Michael Granatino, 18, of 12 Woodland Avenue, Nutley, on Joramemo Street, when he collided with a car driven by Robert H. Schwir, 18, of 539 Joramemo Street. Schwir offered to take the youth to a hospital, but they asked to be let off at Nutley center. No one involved was seriously hurt.

Beginn Classes

Nicholas J. Christos, of 54 Overlook Avenue, began classes at Columbia University's liberal arts school yesterday.

Senior class elections were held last week. Here's a tip of the ol' straw hat to that politician from way back, Harry "keyman" Valente, this year's prez. His "crazy" cabinet includes Joyce Miller as veep and Pat Bollman, secretary-treasurer. Don't forget our first football game on the 28th. Let's see you all out on the fifty-yard line cheering the Bellhops on to victory. There's gonna be a good half-time show too. Hey Rita, please make up with Norma so we can have some peace!

RALPH A. CASALE HAS ANNIVERSARY

Belleville Man Celebrates
20 Years With Prudential
To Be Presented With Scroll

Ralph A. Casale, of 11 Emmett Street, a Belleville resident for 35 years, observes his 20th anniversary of service with The Prudential Insurance Company today.

A native of Newark, Mr. Casale moved to Belleville as a boy. He was graduated from Belleville High School and in 1938 he became a member of Prudential's Home Office staff. He now is associated with its underwriting department.

Active in various organizations, he is the president of the Variety Club of Belleville, a member-at-large of Prudential's athletic Association, coach of the New Jersey Amputee Baseball Team, and a member of Gibraltar Post No. 526 of the American Legion.

Mr. and Mrs. Casale have three children, Grace Marie, 17; Joseph, 15, and Ralph, Jr., 10. Mr. Casale's 20-year record places him in an advanced class of Prudential's "Old Guard" and, in recognition, he will be presented with an inscribed scroll signed by Carol M. Shanks, company president.

Wins Garden Show Prize

Mrs. Kathleen Cawthorne, 255 Adelaide Street, won the second grand prize in the sixth annual garden show of The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company of Newark, which was held September 14. Mrs. Cawthorne won 6 firsts, 4 seconds and 4 third prizes. One hundred twenty-eight specimens were entered in the show's 31 classes. Entries were judged by Mrs. Victor Hynes of Clarksburg and Andrew Saylor of Bernardsville.
