Dr. Paul C. Fagan Discusses Evils That Come From Habitual Drinking; Gives Questions For All To Answer

There are over 4,000,000 alcoholics in the United States. Speaking before the members of the Optimist Club of Nutley at their regular meeting recently, Dr. Paul C. Fagan, of 48 Edgewood Avenue, who is in charge of the Alcoholics Clinic at St. Michael's Hospital in Newark, gave a highly interesting talk and explained facts that kept members present listening to every figure and statistic.

Dr. Fagan said, "That a great deal has still to be learned of the problem of alcoholism; that it is associated with a great deal of tragedy and has been going on for thousands of years." He referred to the disease as "chronic convulsions of the elbow."

"When a person stops bragging of how may he had last night and stresses how few he had, he is on the verge of becoming an alcoholic," Stephen Foster, the famous composer, who was taken to Bellevue from a lodging on the Boverly at the age of 37 died a few days later. He died penniless, despite the tremendous success of the great number of folk songs he had composed.

Dr. Fagan stressed that almost all alcoholics are of above average intelligence and ability and he said that they comprise an important part of the population.

UNITED NATIONS FIELD TRIP

Eighty-Six Students Visit U.N. Headquarters; Guided Tour and Meetings Attended

A group of eighty-six students from Belleville High School visited the United Nations Headquarters in New York on Tuesday, November 10. Prior to their departure, they were briefed by their United States History teachers, Mr. Raymond C. Sorensen and Mr. William Rosenthal for the students to get a briefing session by a member of the American Association for the United Nations. One of the main conference rooms was used for this purpose in which the students were given a background of some of the United Nations agencies and their functions.

Some of the students elected to go on the guided tour while others took their chances on getting into the actual meetings. This provided ample opportunity for all since there was a morning meeting of the Security Council and afternoon meetings of the Economic and Social Committee of the General Assembly.

Some time was also provided for the students to see the Library of the United Nations, the Post Office, and the shops which sell materials which are produced all over the world.

The trip was planned as a culmination of the United Nations studies in the school. Students, Alice Encke, Joan Postlethwaite, Patricia Wittek, Sandra Brown and Harriet Ackerman acted as student assistants in planning the trip.

LETTERS To The Editor

Gives Publication Code Offense To The Editor, Times-News:
Mr. Iannarone, in his recent editorial, has covered the same ground as Mr. Bucco. What they both seem to overlook is that these books and magazines are on display and available not only to those who have matured sufficiently to make an informed choice as to what to read, but also to the young whose minds are not sufficiently developed to separate the good from the bad.

Perhaps these people do not realize the seriousness of the situation. J. Edgar Hoover has testified: "The publication and distribution of salacious material is a peculiarly vicious evil, the destruction of moral character caused by it among young people cannot be overestimated. The effect of periodicals containing such material plays an important part in the development of crime among the youth of our country." Surely a situation such as this requires action, not a passive sitting-by in the hope that the reading habits of the young improve, through what agency is not stated.

Mr. Iannarone states that "the reader who has read 'bad' books appreciates a 'good' one much more as a result." This is a strong challenge to the value of reasoning. Of the contrary, I believe experience will prove that the consumption of "bad" books, with their sensationalism and appeal to the baser passions, will make the reading and enjoyment of "good" books more difficult, if not impossible.

Mr. Iannarone is quite disturbed as to the definition of what is obscene and what is not obscene; what is good and what is bad. While it is true that, in some instances, these terms may be relative, this is no reason to destroy all distinction between the terms. Some things are bad, period. The things that are bad, period, are those things that should be eliminated. The fact that it may be difficult, in some cases, to draw the distinction, is no argument for eliminating the distinction itself.

In this connection I should like to repeat what was stated in our first letter on this subject. We seek to eliminate books which offend the code of the Moral Organization for Decent Literature. A publication offends this code if it:

1. Glorifies crime or the criminal;
2. Is predominantly sexy;
3. Features illicit love;
4. Carries illustrations indecent or suggestive; and
5. Carries disreputable advertising.

Surely there is little danger that, in eliminating these categories of publications, we shall be sacrificing the worthwhile to the worthless.

Sincerely yours,
Edward J. Fitzgerald,
Chairman, Decent Literature Committee.

SHAWGER SCHOOL
FORMULATES CREED

Creed Used As Part Of Daily Exercises And Before Each Assembly

The following creed, formulated by the Creed Committee of the Student Council, was formally adopted by the pupils of the James G. Shawger School:

"I believe in striving ever upward toward the finer things in life. I believe in reverence to God, loyalty to my country, and respect toward others as well as myself. I believe in honesty in work and play, obedience to authority, cooperation, and tolerance. I pledge allegiance to my school, and promise to obey her laws and uphold her standards. I will be loyal to the James G. Shawger School in all her undertakings, and will do all in my power to make her a finer school."

The upper grade pupils recite this creed daily as part of their opening exercises and also at each assembly program. In addition to building greater school spirit de corps, this creed serves as a constant reminder of the ideals and philosophy of the James G. Shawger School as expressed by the children themselves.

Local townspeople and other students interested in making ticket reservations for this concert should contact the manager of the Mosque concert, Harold A. Brown, Senior High School, Weehawken, New Jersey. A limited number of seats will be available at the door.

SERVICES HELD
THANKSGIVING EVE

All Invited To Participate; Rev. Deckenbach And Mayor Tolly Will Offer Greetings

A special Thanksgiving Eve Service will be conducted at Congregation Ahavath Achim, on Wednesday, November 25th, at 8:30 p.m. The entire community of Belleville is invited to participate in this service in honor of a great national holiday.

Mayor James J. Tolly will offer greetings in behalf of Belleville. Reverend Peter Deckenbach will greet in behalf of the Ministerial Union, Judge Edward J. Abramson, president, will greet in the name of the Jewish Community.

All of the civic and fraternal organizations in Belleville have been invited to participate in this service.

The Jacob Geffer Liberty Post, I.W.O. The American Legion, the V.F.W. and the Amvets have been invited to present the colors.

Dr. Albert L. Raab, rabbi of Congregation Ahavath Achim, will officiate and will speak on "The Art of Thanksgiving." The Synagogue choir, under the direction of Miss Doris Cohen, will participate. Special Thanksgiving hymns will be sung.

Refreshments will be served in the vestry room by the Sisterhood of which Mrs. Morris Glassman is president.

The Jewish background of the American holiday is to be found in the Festival of Succoth. It was established by the Puritans, and they based it largely on the Old Testament. According to the Bible, the Festival of Succoth was observed in ancient Palestine—as it is today wherever Jews live—as a holiday of thanksgiving to God for the season of ingathering. The early Americans looked back to this Biblical account, and so made Thanksgiving profoundly religious both in origin and manner of observance.

The entire community is cordially invited to join in this service of praise and thanksgiving by attending this special service.

Joint Card Party
There will be a joint card party given by the Belleville Post and Auxiliary at the Post home at 621 Washington Avenue tonight. A turkey and many other fine gifts will be awarded as door prizes.

On Tuesday evening, November 10th, P.T.A. of P. S. No. 3 held an "Open House" program in keeping with the observance of National Education Week. There were teachers in the corridors to direct the student body so far this semester. The teachers then took over and explained the work that had been done by the student body so far this semester. There were samples of work and materials in evidence and copies of text books were available for all perusal. There were also displays of art work, on each grade level, throughout the school corridors.

The evening was exceptionally well attended, with 485 parents registered. The P.T.A. of P. S. No. 3 now has an enrollment of 328 members, the largest in its history. There were no parent-teacher conferences at the "Open House". Paul W. Jones, principal, has arranged for special parent-teacher conferences this year. These will be held beginning at 2:30 P.M. on December 1st and December 8th.

To The Editor

Don't Sit Back

To TheEditor, Times-News:

Mr. Bucio has retired from the lists and his colors now are carried by a new challenger who throws down a caveat to the Decent Literature Committee.

Both the latest and original contributor agree that the bookshelves and newstands were crammed with trash. Both congratulate the Decent Literature Committee on their objective, but both object to their methods and procedure.

Agreed—The Decent Literature

Committee's methods are harsh. Boycott is an extreme remedy. So are the tactics of Senator McCarthy, but he's exposing the Communists for what they are and driving them out of government, including those who hide behind the Fifth Amendment. Where is the innocent man he has accused? Should we also permit the vendors of obscenity to hide behind the Constitution and scream — Freedom of the Press! Do we need a decision of the Supreme Court to recognize obscenity for what it is? The times and the clear and present danger to the morals of youth call for drastic action.

Should we adopt the suggestion of Mr. Bucio and Mr. Lannone which is in essence a doing nothing, laissez-faire attitude? These methods have been tried. They just don't work. You have to hit these illicit editors and distributors in the pocketbook where it hurts. They are the real culprits.

The opposition objects to the Members of the Committee setting themselves up as censors of indecent literature. Why they object to any group that poses only to ban literature which: (1) glorifies crime or the criminal (2) is predominantly sexy (3) features illicit love (4) carries illustrations indecent or suggestive or (5) carries disreputable advertising, is hard to comprehend. I'm sure their standards are as high. Is it not better for some group to do this great service to the community rather than no group at all? You can't solve a problem by turning your back on it.

Who does the opposition wait to decide what is decent and indecent? The State? The State had abdicated its responsibilities. There is no State Literature Committee pledged to eliminate obscenity as there is in Georgia where on February 26th of this year, the chairman of that state's Committee, the Reverend James Westberry of Atlanta's Morning-side Baptist Church took office with the pledge that he would purge from public view the vest pocket novels with leery covers, spick magazines and un-civil girl calendars. He has taken the position—"If it's nude, it's lewd."

In his own words "I don't discriminate. Between nude women... It's all lustful to me."

"Nor can we look to the Federal Government to be of assistance. Even in light of the findings of Representative Gathings, Chairman of a special House Committee on indecent literature, who complained this year that the Army is spending one million dollars on paper bound books many of which are obscene and undesirable. The Congress took no action."

Should the Decent Literature Committee move under the present inadequate New Jersey Statutes, which nags the sale of indecent literature a crime? This would mean the arrest and trial of every newsdealer in the town

CHRISTMAS SEAL DRIVE UNDER WAY

The annual sale of Christmas Seals sponsored by the National Tuberculosis Association got under way here this week when more than sixteen thousand appeal letters containing the seals were mailed to residents of Nutley and Belleville. The sale here is a local project conducted by the Belleville - Nutley Tuberculosis Association which is composed of 32 members from the two towns.

Of the money raised here and in Belleville by the local association, 82 1/2% is retained for use locally. These funds are used to maintain a full time public health nurse to finance community and school x-raying projects, chest clinics, and many other services, rated at $12,000 which will just pay for the present established The needs for 1954 are estimated.

Asters

Shredded tissue pompons sway
On slender stems as they display
Their colors that are prettier far
Than ordinary rainbows are —
Coral, ivory, lavender,
Plum, rose, pink, and purple stir
With every breeze. They pirouette,
They step in stately minuet,
Or, balancing, they form at will
The figures of a French quadrille.
While from my window I regard
A dancing rainbow in my yard.

"Red Herring" Harry Rides Again

Once again, Harry Truman is seething. He did and he didn't know that Harry Dexter White had a very poor loyalty rating with the F.B.I., depending upon which day of the week Harry speaks. He did and he didn't put White in charge of the International Monetary Fund by a secret understanding with the F.B.I., the better to entrap him. He did and he didn't "separate" White from Government service promptly when the F.B.I. turned in its final report. What Harry forgot to say was that when White was "separated" from his high job, in 1947, the then-President, in accepting White's resignation, wrote him a flattering letter.

Coming from Harry Truman, his latest attack on the G.O.P. and his bitter accusations of "shameful demagoguery" and "cheap political trickery" carry little convincing weight. Harry Truman, in the fresh memory of all of us, castigated the Senate committee's accusation of Alger Hiss as a Communist agent as a "red herring." Hiss was convicted and sent to jail, but Harry Truman still stands on his charge of "red herring."

Harry Truman cannot take criticism and that's the sorry truth. His vocabulary is limited by his own very limited experience in life before he joined the Pendergast political machine. He uses words that befit a Pendergast politician but seem very out of place in the mouth of an ex-President.

Harry Truman seems to want a special niche built for ex-Presidents, above and beyond the responsibilities of ordinary mortals. It is unfortunate, therefore, that he allows himself to get involved in a political free-for-all. When you toss insults, in politics, you must expect to catch a few in return and if you don't want your niche messed up by bricksbats you keep your mouth shut and let your record speak for itself. Unless, of course, you are afraid of what's in the record. R.E.H.

Open Season On Lame Ducks

When the State Legislature meets on November 30 in a special session, the temptation will be great to let loose a flock of lame ducks. Many Republican leaders would like to see the Assembly or the Governor fill as many jobs with Republicans as possible to restrict the patronage powers of Governor-elect Meyner. One of the lame ducks would be nestled right here at home in the office of Commissioner of Registration and Superintendent of Elections.

The present incumbent, Anthony P. Miele, is a Republican. His term expires on March 1. The suggestion has been made that he resign now and allow his successor, a good Republican, of course, to be named while there is still a chance.

The Times-News dislikes ripper legislation. It is "politics," perhaps, but poor politics. The people of this state were very thoroughly disgusted with the sins of omission and the sins of commission of the Republican party which held power for many years. They voted the Republicans out and named a Democratic governor. They anticipate that Meyner will clean house where Driscoll has failed. They did not intend the Republicans, by any questionable strategy, to hamstring Meyner by costing him his powers of appointment.

There is also gossip to the effect that other die-hard Republicans want to take the power of appointment of the Superintendent of Elections out of the Governor's hands and return it to the Legislature. That would be done in this short term of the Assembly.

Before the adoption of the 1947 constitution, election superintendents in the first class counties of Essex and Hudson were chosen in joint session of the Legislature. Since then they have been named by the Governor with approval of the Senate and a provision in the new constitution bans a return to the old system.

The section says that "neither the Legislature nor either house thereof shall elect or appoint any executive, administrative or judicial officer except the state auditor."

If we can read English here at the Times that would seem to us to preclude the possibility of a preventive maneuver such as some dream of. Better to kill off the lame ducks. Better to be good losers. Better to carry out the spirit and the letter of the law. R.E.H.

One Man's Opinion

'Churchill's War Memories Show He Meddled And Muddled His Way Through Closing Phase Of War While We Were Doing The Fighting

BY RALPH E. HEINZEN

The third World War, if and when it occurs, will be fought in Europe and over purely European problems. From the war memories of Winston Churchill—Sir Winston, to be correct, although the moniker fits him as little as would a monacle—it becomes increasingly evident that all the needed seeds of that war have already been sown and the hands of the sowers are those of Stalin and Churchill. You can leave Roosevelt, Truman, Eisenhower, General Marshall and all the other top-level American war leaders out of the blame.

As has been the case so often in the past, the center of the political turmoil which may breed World War III lies in the Balkans and the Minsk marshes. More specifically, the two major potential causes of the next war are the Curzon Line, "made in England," and the 90 per cent deal, also "made in England," which divided up preponderant control of the Balkans between London and Moscow, with nary a shred for the United States.

If the Red Army encircles us in Berlin today, blame Churchill. If Poland squats today on Germany's rich eastern provinces, blame Churchill. If we are harried from Rumania today, blame Churchill.

It was only by American perseverance and independence of action that we have re-established our positions in Greece and in Yugoslavia. In his "90 per cent" deal with Stalin, Churchill "gave" the Communist 90 per cent of the say in Rumania and took 90 per cent predominance in Greece, Yugoslavia was split fifty-fifty between Moscow and London.

Settle Affairs In Balkans

In his memoirs, Churchill wrote that he had said to Stalin: "Let us settle our affairs in the Balkans." So far as Britain and Russia are concerned, how would it do for you to have 90 per cent predominance in Rumania, for us to have 90 per cent of the say in Greece, and go on dividing about Yugoslavia?

Sir Winston then scribbled these proportions on a piece of paper which was approved by Stalin. It was all settled in no more time than it takes to set it down," Churchill recalled in his memoirs.

Fearing it might be deemed a slightly cynical document by others, Sir Winston suggested burning it but Stalin said: "No, you keep it."

This partition of Eastern Europe by two great power leaders has never before been so frankly recognized.

Red Land Grab

Bad as was Churchill's bargain in the Balkans, his deal with Stalin regarding Poland's frontiers is certain to haunt him to his grave. By that agreement, Russia moved her borders westward across the Minsk marshes to the Curzon line. To recompense the Poles for the loss of the eastern half of their country, Stalin gave them new western borders along the Oder and the Neisse rivers. Also, that land happened to be the western half of Poland's rights to it are squatter's rights only.

It is in this "One Man's Opinion" in that claim of Polish squatter's rights over the German provinces of Silesia, Brandenburg and Pomerania that the biggest germ of World War III lies. Germany can never be self sufficient without the farmlands in those eastern provinces and Silesia fits into her industrial whole with almost as much importance as do the Ruhr and the Saar.

Yalta Takes Blame

Here in the United States, our successive governments never have recognized either the Curzon Line or the Oder-Neisse water frontier as the borders of through the Sudetenland and across the Czech frontiers with Prague as his objective.

Patton was far more politically minded than was Eisenhower. He would, if his orders had not specifically forbid him doing it, have swung upwards into Poland and would have made contact with the Russians in Poland in his own book of memories, Patton tells how he was held back by delayed fuel deliveries for his motorized columns.

Churchill, in his memoirs, blames Eisenhower for the decision to meet the Russian army on the Elbe river, west of Berlin. Eisenhower is charged by Churchill with arranging that meeting in a telegram sent directly to Stalin without notifying either Churchill or President Roosevelt of his decision or of his communication with Stalin. Sir Winston says he wanted the meeting in Berlin.

According to Churchill, Stalin replied directly to Eisenhower that his Elbe plan met with his approval. The Soviet Supreme Command's approval because a meeting of the East and the West in Berlin itself would serve no useful purpose.

lines, any more than Hitler forgot Alsace and Lorraine after the Kaiser's defeat.

Churchill's recital of his differences with General Eisenhower over strategy of the Allies' fight from West to East in Germany, as related in his latest volume of memories, makes it very clear that although the political interests of the Allies would make it essential for the Soviet Union to claim Russia's coalition in his last exchange of bitter notes with Churchill, before the Russian dictator's death, that we did agree at Yalta, to the whole thing. You can read the Yalta record and you'll find no such agreement.

It is a matter of fact, however, that the Poles have proceeded with the Communization of these German provinces. The German inhabitants fled at the approach of the Red armies in 1944 and they never have been allowed to return. Poles from the eastern provinces, now Russian, were moved to the west and given new farms in the German territory. Russians took over the abandoned Polish farms in the East.

Poles Take Over

Everything German has been changed to Polish in the appropriated provinces. Breslau, the great German city, is now Wrocław; Stettin is Szczecin, Swinemünde has become Swinoujście. The Germans, however, have never forgotten their lost provinces to strike swiftly across Germany, south of Berlin, and reach a point as far East as possible. British interests called for the swift occupation of the German coast as far as Kiel. In that way, there would be no Russian bases pointed at Britain directly.

In that phase of the war, one Russian army was moving northwest through Hungary and Austria. Another was pushing Westward through Poland towards Berlin. General Patton, seizing his chance, raced Eastward since Berlin has lost its former strategic importance," Stalin told Eisenhower that only a secondary army to take Berlin and would make its major objective the Elbe river both north and south of Berlin.

If Churchill's recital of that episode is true, it is very apparent that Eisenhower was duped and that Stalin deliberately lied to him. Berlin never had lost its strategic value, and Berlin, not the Elbe continued to be the major objective of the main Red Army which moved into the German capital and forced Hitler's suicide.

Beck's Television Column

We got quite a chuckle out of the following episode, maybe you will too.

A man and wife came to the store interested in a mahogany floor model TV set. They did not want to spend more than $200 — and there was no such set by any of our well known manufacturers at this price or even close to it.

So they went downtown, to one of the chain stores. They were shown a set from a manufacturer of a very well known name, only that year's production was outright no good. Even the distributor for this state stopped selling these sets and disposed of his stock at very low prices to whoever was interested. These then, are the sets which are considered by certain people, "bargains".

The price tag was $429.95. The lady liked the looks, but not the price and told the salesman that she did not intend to get such a high priced set. Here is where the manager entered the picture. He dropped the price $50 just like that. Since this still was too much, the salesman offered to split his commission with the customer, getting it down another $20. After some more haggling they bought the set for $319.95, because some people found out that somebody else had bought the same set for $299.95, but imagine their surprise when the identical set was advertised that weekend for $199.95. You should have heard the unprintable names those downtown storekeepers were called. Well, some people ask for it, instead of buying in town from a merchant who knows his merchandise and has his reputation at stake.

Needless to say that the set which these people bought or gave satisfaction and is a constant source of aggravation.

Remember . . . When

5 Years Ago

Three white turkeys who were nervously awaiting the holiday axe of Frank Cataldo, new owner of the Belleville Poultry Market at 89 Joramemon Street, were missing from their shed when Mr. Cataldo went back to visit them in death row Sunday morning.

The culprit is unknown. The fate of the birds too, is unknown — but we think we can guess.

When asked by the roving reporter about the high prices in connection with Thanksgiving dinner, Mrs. John Harned, of 57 Cortlandt Street, replied: "Well, we're going to have a real Thanksgiving Day dinner. I've been keeping house for a year and I can see prices are higher than a year ago. I forgot to tell you, we're having our dinner this Thanksgiving with my brother and sister-in-law in Newark."

10 Years Ago

Back in 1943 Festive Boards were decorated with most anything—but very few with turkeys. Turkeys were practically unknown items in town butcher shops. The shortage was due to the many girls and boys far away from home. In the service, who were given first supplies. Certainly no one begrudged this small item which made a happier day for them.

Belleville High School's Thanksgiving Day assembly was made most effective due to Anna Santiglin, outstanding soprano soloist, who sang "The Lord's Prayer." The school orchestra was directed by Mrs. Alice Wagner.

20 Years Ago

Miss Gertrude McCann, daughter of Mrs. Patrick McCann, of Newark and Andrew W. O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. O'Brien of 197 De Witt Avenue, were married on Thanksgiving Day, 1933.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul McDonnell and children Paul Jr., Jean, Doris, and Marilyn, and Mrs. McDonnell's mother Mrs. Jane Truscott of 390 Cortlandt Street were guests on Thanksgiving Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Truscott of Irvington.
