The birds cage should be cleaned at least three times a week—and if possible should be cleaned every day. The cage should be covered every evening with a cage cover.

As to housing, there are two methods used by breeders. The aviary which is a large cage built outside, or the flights which are built indoors.

The parakeet's diet is made up of seed, greens, fresh water and grit. A fresh supply of green seed should be given the bird every day. Every morning fresh, cool water should be placed inside the cage. Greens such as escarole, spinach, dandelion or celery should be given at least twice a week. the Parakeet family, with three variations to each, making a total of twelve shades.

The basic colors are: green, blue, yellow and white. The three variations of each group are classified as dark, medium and light shades.

In the basic colors, fanciers revel in the development of so-called "races," such as Cinnamon Wings, which are birds with brown wings, Lutescent, yellow with pink eyes, Albino, snow white with pink eyes, Opaline, Violet, Crested, Pied, and so on, down a long line of exotic varieties.

Parakeets are wonderful pets, and prove to be fine company. They can be readily trained to talk, and are entertaining in that if properly cared for they can last for years.

The Budgerigar Breeders of New Jersey, one of the many societies found throughout the world, will hold its 2nd Annual Show at the Elks Hall located at 251 Washington Avenue. The Show will be held on December 5 and 6.

joined to afford him time to acquire a lawyer who could outline his group's points as Colonia did for the Riviera residents.

The hearing was continued, however, and ultimately the town members were asked if they wanted a voted action without the presence of two of the board members, Patrick Waters and Harry Sullivan. They affirmed and the votes were spoken by Mayor Tully and Commissioners Hyde and King, King, after commenting on the "silly display" enacted by the group, stated his feelings for the path's adoption. Mayor Tully voted on King's side. Commissioner Hyde was lone defender of the Riviera residents and declared "the people have a just complaint. Hyde said that he had been in accord with the board's contemplated action for adoption of the path until he heard of an existing opinion. He visited the site and declared last night that he "wouldn't want to live alongside such a condition." He stated he had come to the site with a "fair and impartial viewpoint."

Tully, in voting for the path, said he would give the home owners any protection and improvement they asked for.

Thanksgiving Day was fittingly celebrated by the pupils of Passaic Avenue School by a program presented by upper grade pupils in the school auditorium on Wednesday at nine o'clock. Featured on the agenda were selections by the school orchestra, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Forgone.

The SA girls under the direction of Miss Marie Trost presented "Thankful Hearts," a Thanksgiving play in two acts. A Thanksgiving unit entitled "We Are Thankful" was presented by the fifth grade pupils. Instrumental numbers included a flute solo by Diane Rosenberk and a violin selection by Joan Bailey. The senior glee club under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Bruce rendered "All Thy People Praise Thee" and "Friendship." The program was concluded by parents, teachers, and children singing a group of Thanksgiving songs.

One Man's Opinion

France Is In The Parliamentary Process Of Making Up Her Mind Whether She Shall Isolate Herself Or Be A Contributing Member Of The European Community Of Nations

France, apparently, is doomed to find herself, eternally, at a crossroads.

The crossroads, this time, offers little choice: France can go down the road she has been following reluctantly, since the war ended, a road towards European cooperation with our blessing, or she can strike off in the other direction towards isolation. If she chooses the road of cooperation, she must satisfy the European Defense Community pact which involves France recognizing the rearmament of West Germany as an equal in Europe's anti-communist army. If she chooses the closed road to isolation, she will give free rein to the inferiority complex which has dominated the thinking of a great many Frenchmen in the three-quarters of a century since Germany came to power.

That is why the United States is a party to the debate which has been going on in the French Parliament since ten days. Our heavy investment in France has been conditional to her cooperation in creating the European army as an antidote to Communist aggression. If France chooses isolation, she loses our continued financial support and without America's millions, France stands to lose Indochina, most of the rest of her Empire and, on the home front, any serious fluctuation of the franc which brings unemployment and higher prices can upset the delicate balance of French politics and re-ignite the danger of Communism at home.

No Time To Talk

The timing for this foreign policy debate, the first that has been held in the French Parliament in 21 months, is very bad. In a few days, on December 17, France elects a President for a seven-year term. Even before that election takes place, Premier Joseph Laniel and Foreign Minister Georges Bidault must come to Bernadotte for the meeting of the Big Three. Laniel talks with Eisenhower and Churchill and he must be purely perfunctory, he must come to Bernadotte to speak in the name of France.

Laniel favors the European Defense Community trend, although he had no hand in its shaping. Laniel is unlikely to survive this debate by long. It is tradition in France that a Premier hands the collective resignation of his cabinet to the new President when the latter moves into the Elysee Palace following his election by the National Assembly. Both houses of Parliament sitting together form the National Assembly at Versailles.

Laniel Must Withdraw

Since there are signs, this week, of the present parliamentary majority cracking up in the Elysee Palace, it is unlikely that Laniel will be asked to form the next cabinet by the incoming President. By tradition, must consult all the party leaders to take the political pulse of the country. Laniel will be his first choice.

France has the misfortune to possess a house divided. General Charles de Gaulle, the justly-misunderstood by his political inexperience and his unfortunate physical resemblance to Ferdinand, one of the most popular of French movie and stage comedians, is violently opposed to the EDC treaty.

At the other extreme, the MRP (Popular Republican Movement), the French Socialists and many Radical-Socialists are fervently behind the Pan-European trend of French foreign policy. Robert Schuman and Georges Bidault, both former De Gaulleists but now of the MRP, were the two men most responsible for giving French policy its European trend.

Can Promise Nothing

Under such circumstances, with the French presidential election and the Elysee talks in the immediate offing, it is very unlikely that this week's debate will be decisive. France, instead, is almost certain to set a fluid course. At Bernadotte, obviously, Laniel can only listen; he cannot counter de Gaulle's arguments. Laniel is not verbose. I knew him well in Vichy where we both spent two and a half years as observers of the external going on under Marshal Petain. Admiral Darlan and Pierre Laval. I learned to appreciate the significance of common sense, his innate honesty, his sense,

Named "Manager Of The Year"

For the second time in three years, James H. Schleifer of Belleville, has been named "manager of the year" by Extension Magazine, a leading Catholic monthly, for whom he serves as branch manager of the New York and New Jersey offices. Presentation of the trophy symbolizing the award is again made as it was in 1950 in the home office in Chicago by Extension circulation manager Monsignor Kenneth G. Stack.

College . . . Chatter

James F. Cavanaugh, of 92 Tappan Avenue, a junior at the University of Pennsylvania, Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, has been named on the Dean's list in his first semester of the Belleville High School.

Two Belleville young women, upperclassmen at Keuka College, have been assigned to field period positions for a six week work training experience which began November 16. Keuka College requires all students to have actual work experience in business, industry and welfare organizations in line with their major course of study. Belleville Keuka students and their field period assignments are Pamela Niles, 9 Clearman Place, and Catherine Stefanski, 673 Belleville Avenue. Both student nurses, assigned to Clifton Springs Hospital, Clifton Springs, N. Y.

Gail D. Howe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Howe, 26 Essex Street, a sophomore at Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., served on the recruiting committee for the Allegheny blood donation day Thursday, November 19th. The drive, conducted under the auspices of the Meadville Chapter of the American Red Cross, succeeded in collecting 130 units of blood. The collection station was in the Cochran Hall Student Union. Gail is a member of the Allegheny Singers and Kappa Kappa Gamma, social sorority.

Christine Caruso and Gerald Canter, both of Belleville, are among thirty students, members of the junior and senior classes at Montclair State Teachers College, Montclair, N. J.

Nazis during four years of occupation. It was not open looting, but the Nazis printed occupation marks and "bought" not only the French surplus but also French herds, reserves, labor and even crops in the fields. I remember Vichy, I used to check on freight trains at the Vichy station at night. Night after night I saw long trains of lowing cattle, sheep, horses, and other livestock, through from the excellent pastures of the Auvergne on their way to feed Germany's millions. The result was that when peace came, France was ruined. Half of Normandy had been smashed in the invasion. Every six weeks the French people had put away had disappeared. The country had been pillaged by the Nazis and taken advantage of unrest and distrust, the Communists seized power. They drove the French from the land, a level where a Frenchman becomes a millionaire when he draws his money's pay.

Why France Hesitates

France's troubles are real; we could make an effort to understand them. If France does not rush up and sign the EDC treaty on the dotted line, it is because the French people are afraid they would be holding the bag, once again, for the Nazis. They would sign it for themselves. They would sign it for the British and the Scandinavian states would join the European Defense Community and if we Americans would give a gift-edged note to come into the war, the EDC treaty provokes such an eventuality.

Watch this week's debate in Paris with this background. Parliament may refuse a decision vote today. Remember that France is in the forefront of anything that happens anywhere in Europe. Remember three great wars with Germany. Ask yourself if you would sign a new military alliance under such conditions when the people who tell you they are your friends are allowing you to fight a major war, half way around the world, all by yourself — giving you nothing but advice, cheap words of encouragement, and an invitation to spend a week in Bermuda.

SPOTLIGHT on SPORTS

By Bob Gordin

They Deserve A Bow

Week after week during the Fall, the lion's share of the publicity always goes to the boys who score the points, but mention is seldom made of the players who bang heads on the forward wall. It takes many men to make a team, but only a few break into the headlines. The ball carriers whose names are well known, will be the first to acknowledge the importance of the lesser known participants.

There are a good percentage of players on a grid team who are ineligible to receive passes or carry the pigskin into the end zone. They are the linemen who make it possible for the ball carriers to make their way toward the goals. The front wall holds off the impending tide, consequently, the importance of the linemen cannot be minimized.

To mention some names, Bob Castelli, Carl Colucci, Ed Buechler, Ed Gray, Dick Macaluso, Bill Chapman, Dick Ziff and Frank Scarpelli are just a few who have thrown key blocks or made crucial tackles, pushing the Belboys on.

Standing slightly in the background of all Belleville grid encounters is the second team, the bench, the reserves; call them what you may, but regardless of their tab, Coach Ed Berlinski couldn't find a team if it were not for them.

Hoopsters to Play 16-Game Slate

Less than two weeks remain before the Belleville basketball team inaugurates its 1953-54 season. Once again coached by Herman "Jitty" Wische, the Belboys will play a 16-game schedule. Wische this year will have to put into operation an all new variety. Not one letterman of last season's team is back as graduation cleaned out the entire squad.

Several changes appear on the new schedule. Montclair has been added to the slate, and from early reports I understand, "Butch" Fortunato's Mountie squad is loaded. The game will be played at Montclair. Nutley, Belleville's top rival, appears only once on the schedule this winter. The two schools had always played on a home and home basis. In place of the one Nutley game, Bloomfield, another power this year, will be met twice instead of the once a year meeting.

The regular season for Belleville will begin December 8 against Passaic and end on February 9 at home with South Side providing the opposition. Of the 15 games listed, 10 will be played at the home court, in Belleville High School with only five to be conducted on foreign gyms.

The 1953-54 Belleville varsity basketball schedule follows:

Dec. 8 Passaic	Home	Jan. 15 Montclair	Home
Dec. 15 Garfield	Away	Jan. 19 Bloomfield	Away
Dec. 18 Orange	Home	Jan. 22 Nutley	Home
Dec. 29 West Orange	Home	Jan. 26 Kearny	Home
Jan. 5 Bloomfield	Home	Jan. 29 Hillside	Away
Jan. 8 Hillside	Home	Feb. 2 Irvington	Home
Jan. 10 Oper	Home	Feb. 5 Columbia	Away
Jan. 14 Clifton	Home	Feb. 9 South Side	Home

Crystal Gazing

Tomorrow is the day all true football fans look forward to. The annual Thanksgiving Day rivalries that bring down the curtain on the contact sport for another season. The Turkey Day games are almost an impossibility to predict as teams going no place suddenly catch fire against the biggest rivals. Past records can be tossed to the winds when the teams take the field.

I'll soon find out how my lucky guessing holds out. Fifty-four out of 74 have been tabbed so far to give me an average of .730. Now with tongue in cheek and wish bone in hand, I'll be off and running . . .

Kearny to nip Nutley. I'm sorry, but that's how I see it although I would, like to be wrong. The Cardinals looked good against Belleville in a 21-7 decision earlier this month. If Nutley can handcuff Jimmy Webster, the Turkey Day classic on the Oval could very well upset my prediction of a Kearny victory.

Orange should squeeze by Belleville. This is one game where previous scores have meant little in the young holiday rivalry started six years ago. Since the two schools have met on the gridiron before feasting on turkey, the outcomes have always been close, usually not more than a touchdown difference. Orange on paper has a more powerful squad. The game promises to be a mixing of wits between quarterback Rocco Cafone and Nick Spagnoli.

East Orange to shell Barringer. This is the granddaddy of 'em all when it comes to talking about ancient rivalries. Barringer, after going along smoothly for three-quarters of the season, suddenly cooled off. The Panthers are much better than the City League competition on which Barringer thrives.

East Side to defeat Central. A win over the Highsteet-ers will give East Side an unblemished record in the City League pennant race. I look for Joe Gomes and East Side to go all the way.

Hillside to edge Weequahic. This is one of the most one-sided rivalries still going. The Comets can't always be counted on to beat Weequahic regardless of comparable records.

Montclair to deflate Bloomfield. The Mounties ever since that loss to East Orange has been going like a house afire. Bloomfield has been coming along slowly, but not enough to make that much of a difference.

Seton Hall to blank South Side. From this corner it looks like no contest. The Pony Pirates in a breeze as South Side remains winless.

Verona to trip Caldwell. Although neither school is in the publicized Group 4 bracket, this outing shapes up as one of the best of the day. Both squads are seeking the Suburban Conference title. Tomorrow's fray will decide the forlorn race. Verona gets my vote.

West Orange to turn back Columbia. The Cowboys to come through with a late game surge and sink in and out Columbia aggregation.

West Side to repel Irvington. The Camptowners may finish the season without a victory. That will happen unless they get a sudden touch of victory fever.

Bellboys Face Powerful Orange In Grid Finale

Panthers Vying For State Crown In Thanksgiving Day Meeting; Defense Strategy Being Developed

By Eugene Serpentelli

A tough task will confront the Blue and Gold of Belleville Thursday, when they take the field against the power laden Orange High team in their football season finale at Belleville's Municipal Stadium.

The Belboys have been idle since their loss to Kearny two weeks ago. Orange on the other hand has put itself into state championship contention with its convincing win over East Orange. Therefore, the Panthers will be out to win this one, and at the same time will be hoping that Barringer upsets East Orange in their annual "Turkey Day" battle.

If Orange wins and East Orange loses, in all probability the Panthers will get the mythical state crown. Montclair could finish with a record as good as either Orange or East Orange but the Mounties have not had such a brilliant season as Orange and East Orange.

Coach Eddie Berlinski, after watching the East Orange and Orange meeting, said that "Orange had one of the best lines he has seen in a long time." It is made up of Solomon and Foster at the ends, Pasolatti and Slater at the tackles, Ciccone and Romano at the guards and Grasso at center. The backfield, which is one of the most powerful in the state, is comprised of Spagnoli at the quarterback slot, the two halfbacks, Ballard and Woods and the fullback, Cronwell.

The game at first glance might seem very one-sided, but it is all but that. The Belboys have not been sitting idle. Belleville fans will notice a change in the Belleville defense pattern and also some new plays that have not been seen before. All these elements should help to make a very exciting game and build up an appetite for your big turkey dinner.

TEACHERS MAKE FINAL PLANS FOR CONFERENCES

First In State To Provide Such A Conference In The Elementary Schools

Having made elaborate preparations in each school for the parent conferences on the afternoons of December 1 and 8 at 2:30 p.m. and the evening of December 10, 7 p.m., the entire staff of the elementary schools met on Tuesday afternoon in the auditorium of School Eight to make final preparations.

Superintendent Evan H. Thomas expressed appreciation of the efforts of the principals and teachers have been making to provide a successful parent conference program. He stressed the need for parent conferences in the use of the new report cards and the values that teachers can get from these conferences for adjusting the instructional program to the needs of each child.

Dr. Marcelle Lawler of the Curriculum Service Staff of Teachers College, Columbia University, an expert consultant provided by the Board of Education, gave the elementary staff an overview of the importance of parent-teacher conferences and cited the success with them of such schools as New Rochelle, New York, and Arlington, Virginia. She stressed the importance of right attitudes by both teachers and parents in conferences and the necessity for teamwork in followups on conferences.

Following Dr. Lawler's talk, two professional educators, now doctoral students at Columbia, led role playing for teacher and parent to demonstrate conference situations.

Some general discussion followed and then the school faculties went to separate rooms with a teacher discussion leader to develop ideas that can be used in the best conference techniques. Consultants to these groups were Superintendent Thomas, Dr. Frank M. Durkee, general supervisor, Miss Pohl, special teacher in elementary education, and the Columbia people.

Panel Discussion

"Beyond This Place" by A. J. Cronin will be the subject of a panel discussion to be held by Mrs. Dwight Streeter, Chairman of the Literature Department of the Belleville Woman's Club at their meeting on December 21-25. Panel members will include Mrs. John DeNico, Mrs. John R. Rieker, Mrs. Marvin Wallace. Hostesses will be Mesdames Frank H. Bridge, Elmer S. Hyde, William Hyatt, Herbert V. Ryan and Mrs. Dwight Streeter.

FAST PACE SET IN SENIOR LEAGUE TOWN BASKETBALL

Tortorellas Work For Win Over Diminutive Wildcats; Jesters, Strats, B-M Win

The Recreation Department Senior League produced some red hot basketball Monday evening at the High School.

Th favored Tortorellas were really pressed to win from the fast, smaller Wildcats, 52-47 with Duca and McClosky setting the pace. The Wildcats were out in front 21-8 at halftime. In the third quarter Westlake, McConnell and Griffin produced 17 points to take the lead at 35-29. A ding-dong fourth quarter at 18-17 for the Wildcats had the partisan Wildcat roots on the edge of their seats. McConnell's 19 points in this period for the Tortorellas however, was the winning edge.

In another fast game the Jesters edged Roy's Sport Show 66-49. Enrie of the Jesters had a big night, connecting for 29 points. Mack and Caruso with 13 and 10 points were high scorers for the Jesters who started to connect in the second half went out on personal fouls and wound up with nine points.

Strats with an insurance first quarter lead of 18-7 had a rough time beating a Fighting Brain Team 38-34. Litter with 16 and O'Hare with 10 led the Strats while Terrier's 10 and Prieto's 8 were high for the Bruins.

Bart-Messing with Litter's 19 and Brown's 17 had an easy time defeating A-Battery 98, 51-17. A-Battery deserves an award for effort and sportsmanlike conduct for both players and fans from their history. Manager PEO James C. Austin informs the Recreation Department that lack of practice and uncertain duty prevents them from fielding the team they would like to.

THRONG WITNESSES PAL SOCCER GAME

PAL Juniors Edge British Team 2-1; Dehmer Breaks Tie On 15 Yard Drive

Before the largest crowd to witness a soccer game at Belleville, Park and under ideal weather conditions the Belleville PAL Juniors defeated the British team of the "Queen of Bermuda" by a score of 2 to 1. Belleville faced the wind in the first half and made many unsuccessful raids on the Bermudian's goal. Five minutes before halftime, Flood took a pass from the right wing and raced between the Belleville fullbacks and placed a ball out of reach of goalie Joe Cetti. Halftime ended with the score 1 to 0 in favor of the English boys. Belleville took command at the restart and at the 15 minute mark Joe Hughes took a pass from Ted Lorig to tie the score from the 7 yard marker. The continued pressure of the local Juniors produced the winning goal when Charles Dehmer broke the deadlock on a fifteen yard drive to clinch the game for the PAL. A great game was put up by both teams and a rematch is in the making.

GIRLS BASKETBALL CONTINUES TO BE BIG SUCCESS

Large Turnout Makes The Use Of Two Gyms Necessary; Other Activities Soon

Girls' Basketball continues to be a big success. Last Thursday about eighty girls turned out for this new recreation activity and played with their usual vigor. Part of the season, last week, was devoted to physical examination necessitated providing for use of both gyms. Next week, Miss Lillian Ramirez, the group instructor announces, the girls will begin the playing of a round among the teams as presently organized. Miss Ramirez along with her co-worker Miss Patricia Zaccaro do double duty, refereeing and teaching the game.
