

Dr. Palmer Burde Named to Board Of Education

Dental Surgeon Appointed By Mayor Tully To Fill Vacancy Left By Board Member McCann's Due Term

Dr. Palmer D. Burde, Belleville dental surgeon, yesterday was appointed by Mayor Tully as a member of the Board of Education for a five year term to succeed Raymond McCann, whose term expires at the end of this month.

Dr. Burde, who is 34, lives at 580 Washington Avenue, and has his offices at 570 Union Avenue. He was born in Belleville, attended school No. 5, and was graduated from Belleville High School in 1936. From 1936 to 1939 he attended the University of Alabama, then matriculated at Montclair State Teachers' College. In 1943 he was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh with a Doctor of Dental Surgery degree.

After serving as an intern, he entered the army in 1944 as a 1st Lieutenant, and was assigned to the Medical Service School at Carlisle, Pa. He served overseas with the 26th General Hospital. When he was discharged in December, 1946, as a Captain in the Dental Corps, he established his office in Belleville for the practice of general dentistry.

Dr. Burde was married in 1943 to the former Dorothy Unruh, of Pittsburgh. They have three children: Donald, 6, Kenneth, two, and six weeks old Barbara Ann.

The doctor is a member of American Legion Post No. 105 of Belleville, the American Dental Association, N. J. Dental Society, and the Essex County Dental Society, and is serving as chairman of the Dental Trade and Laboratory Relations Council.

McCann, whom Dr. Burde succeeds, is moving soon to Montclair. A feud developed between Mayor Tully and the retiring member when McCann announced he would be a candidate for the town commission shortly after Mayor Tully had appointed him to the Board of Education. The Mayor at that time wrote a letter to McCann asking him to resign from the Board because he declared that McCann's candidacy for the town commission indicated that he had accepted the Board appointment only as a political stepping stone. McCann declined to resign. He failed of election in the town commission race.

Ratables and Tax Collections Hit Record High

Figure Increase Of $1,489,874 Over '53; Collect 97.08% Of Total Tax Levy As Compared To 95.63% In '53

Belleville's net valuation of ratables for 1954 has reached a new record peak of $49,850,353, which is an increase of $1,489,874 over 1953, Mayor Tully announced.

The Mayor, who is Director of Revenue and Finance, also revealed that the town's tax collections for 1953 hit a record high of 97.08 per cent of the total levy, as against 95.63 per cent for 1952. The 1953 collection totalled $3,010,790.14.

Total gross increase in 1954 ratables was $1,568,474, but increases in veterans' exemptions and household goods exemptions of $7,000 and $7,500, respectively, decreased the net figure.

Ratable increases in the total gross figure were grouped as follows: Land, $146,100; Buildings, $1,266,350; Personal, $149,750; second class railroad property, $6,274.

Mayor Tully added: "In its last published municipal report, Dan and Burtineau commended the administration of Belleville for developing the town and strengthening its finances. The town received a favorable rating for its sound financial condition. Gains made in the past year again have greatly improved this position, provided we hold the line on our 1954 budget.

"These gains are in large part to the use of modern, efficient operating procedures and methods of accounting and collection by the staff of the department of revenue and finance.

"During the past year, anticipated revenue exceeded expectations in all cases with the exception of revenue from parking meters, which fell short $1,047.97 of the anticipated total of $10,500. I am still of the opinion that unproductive parking meters should be removed from certain sections of Washington Avenue and transferred for use in off-street parking areas."

Everett T. Denning, 290 Division Avenue, has been appointed Assistant U. S. Attorney in the Federal Court of Newark. He was sworn in by District Judge William Smith.

Denning is a graduate of Rutgers University Law School and was admitted to the New Jersey Bar in 1949. He served as clerk in the Essex County Probation Department.

Leaving Parish

PASTOR AT GRACE BAPTIST CHURCH LEAVES TUESDAY

Rev. Thomas E. Ellis Will Give Last Sermon Sunday; New Assignment In R. I.

Rev. Thomas E. Ellis of Grace Baptist Church, Overlook Avenue, will preach his final sermon for his congregation this Sunday. Rev. Ellis will leave Belleville Tuesday to accept the call of the First Baptist Church of Lonsdale, R. I. He resigned his pastorate last November.

Since he took up his duties with Grace Baptist in early December of 1948, Rev. Ellis has seen a steady advance in his church. A new parsonage has been purchased and the church was renovated two years ago.

When Rev. Ellis first assumed his pastorate at Grace Baptist, he filled an eight months' void in church leadership, the church having relied solely on guest speakers and church organizations for spiritual guidance and secular activity.

During World War II, the minister relinquished a pastorate at Towson, Md., to give guidance and aid to seafarers.

Following the war, Rev. Ellis assumed the ministerial duties of a parish in Bordentown and then took a leave of absence to attend the Baptist World Congress in Copenhagen, Denmark, as the only New Jersey minister to be present. Later, he and Mrs. Ellis made a pilgrimage to Palestine.

Born in Alabama and educated at Howard College, where he majored in History and English, Rev. Ellis later became a divinity student at Crozer Seminary in Philadelphia, where he graduated with a degree in theology with graduate work in sociology and personnel counseling.

As the pastor of Grace Baptist prepares to embark upon his new assignment, the Fulton Committee of the church is considering a successor to Rev. Ellis and interim pastor.

Who Said Winters Aren't What They Used To Be?

Life was a bowl of auto chairs for Belleville motorists who had to buck this week's snowstorms, but nature painted beautiful pictures in the park, as this photo illustrates.

Students found still another gleeful compensation. All schools were closed Monday. Only number of cars on city streets. Snow crews worked all night Saturday and Sunday to clear the roads, but with another storm threatened, it appeared that they might soon have to begin all over again.

BUILDING LOST TO FIRE OF AN UNKNOWN ORIGIN

Property At 32 Washington Avenue Once Site Of A Blacksmith Shop

Fire of undetermined origin gutted a vacant two story frame building at 32 Washington Avenue Thursday morning, and authorities today were conducting an investigation into the blaze. Assessed valuation of the building was set at $8,000.

Several firemen were engaged when the roof and second floor collapsed while they were inside fighting the blaze, but no one was hurt.

The property, which was once occupied by an old blacksmith shop for almost 60 years, is owned by the Norcor Corporation, listed in care of M. Duboff of Brooklyn. The last tenant, a cabinet maker, vacated the building about three years ago.

Walls of the structure remained standing, but were shored up by firemen to prevent collapse. Prompt action of the fire department prevented damage to the adjoining buildings.

The fire was discovered at 9:30 a. m. when seven year old Sandra Haley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Haley, 30 Washington Avenue, smelled smoke while she was playing with her doll in her home. She told Mrs. Haley who looked out of a window, saw smoke curling from the building, and sent in the alarm. One look and ladder, and five pump trucks from the Williams Street and headquarters stations answered the call.

SCHOOL BUDGET FILED THOUGH NOT IN ITS FINAL FORM

Disagreement On Some Items Holding Up Finished Draft; Citizens Vote Budget Feb. 9

With a tentative budget for the Belleville school system already filed with the county school department, disagreement on some items was said to be holding up final draft.

Members of the Board of Education declared that it was not yet ready to be made public.

Salary increases and other expenses were certain to bring the budget figures over those of last year, but the list will not be available until some time after the Board's next meeting Tuesday. Citizens may vote on the budget February 9 at a high school polling booth.

It was understood that Board members had agreed on an appropriation of $18,000 to adjust standing of teachers on the school guide in addition to granting an across-the-board salary on the school guide, with another appropriation in the same amount to be granted next year if salaries funds make it possible. ## Grand Jury to Hear Charges Town Bought Without Bids

Meanwhile, In Another Probe, Jury Weighs Stories Of Witnesses Concerning Education Board Members

As the Essex county grand jury this week heard charges of alleged misdeeds by members of Belleville's Board of Education, Prosecutor Charles Webb told the Belleville Times that a separate presentation based on allegations that municipal operating departments have authorized contracts without public bidding on purchases of $1,000 or more as required by law, will "almost certainly" be heard by the jury before its term expires February 15.

The prosecutor said there was only the "most remote possibility" that the purchasing charges would not be presented before that time, but declared he was not yet ready to set the exact date.

Meanwhile secret testimony in the Board of Education case was scheduled to be concluded today. First hearings began last Tuesday.

The case involved a round charges by Robert E. Mayers, school maintenance employee, that he and three other employees had done plumbing and heating work during school hours at the homes of Board President Eugene Kelly, and third member Charles Vocum. Mayers also has claimed he made salary "kick-backs" to Ruel E. Daniels, Board secretary and business manager.

All three have said the charges were false, and Mayor Austin, Sr., school carpenter, and Fredrick Austin, Jr., school mason, two of the three men who Mayers declared had worked with him at the Kelly and Vocum homes, have been quoted as denying Mayers' story. The third man, Theodore Hahula, assistant mason, is also reported to have made a denial.

Mayers has described the allegations against him as "utterly ridiculous," and has also declared that "in no knowledge of the Board members have ever worked on Board time in a Board member's home." Both Kelly and Vocum have maintained that Mayor had done work for them on his own time during weekends and holidays, and that on this basis they have paid him for his work just as they would have paid any private contractor. Vocum said he had cancelled checks to prove it.

Jury Hears Witness

All jurors expected to testify before the jury begins. Among other witnesses scheduled to appear were Walter Loesser, Raymond McCann, and Charles Vocum. Rochau, all members of the Board of Education. Assistant Prosecutor Sanford Freeman will make the jury presentation.

Mayers was suspended from his school job last November in an order by Dan and Burtineau, Building Inspector. The order stated that Mayers was a member of the Board's building and grounds committee. At a special hearing, Mayers was reinstated.

Charter Study Question Will Be On May Ballot

Ordinance Passed On 3rd Reading By Board; Committee For Young Men Will Select Candidates

Belleville will decide in its May municipal election whether it will elect a commission of five citizens to study the town's form of government and make any recommendations for changes in the charter.

The decisive step came at the town commission meeting Tuesday night when Mayor Tully, and Commissioners Elmer Hyde and Harry J. Sullivan voted in favor of the enabling ordinance on its final reading. Commissioner Joseph King and Commissioner Patrick Waters were absent. King had previously voted for the measure.

Representatives of the Belleville Committee for Young Men in Government, who were at the meeting, declared the committee would put up a slate of candidates for the charter commission.

Mayor Tully, who has made strong statements in support of a charter study, said he hoped the organization would select a "capable and impartial" group as its candidates.

He then questioned Peter A. Torre, Jr., organization. Torre said he had a statement attributed to Herman Lautz, until recently temporary chairman of the group, that it had obtained 2,500 signatures in support of the study. Torre declared he had no knowledge of any such figure.

After the jury presentation, the mayor pressed him for an estimate as to how many signatures had been gathered by the organization. Torre said he did not know because, he declared, the number had not been tabulated.

He then asked Ralston G. Sprague, who is secretary of the Association, whether it was not true that a considerable number of its members were all employed by a Newark insurance company. Kelett said it was, but declared that the group's membership included representatives from all sections of the city, and asked if any innumerate were there.

The mayor replied that he was merely interested in the question.

Delay Purchasing Ordinance

An ordinance proposed by Mayor Tully to establish a central purchasing agency for the town was held over by the Mayor because of Commissioner King's absence. Tully said he felt he needed King's vote by the action of the ordinance, and declared he did not want to risk a vote being cast by "pressure."

Another explosion in the epic Bremont Street-Carner Avenue footpath controversy developed when R. A. Shafter, member of the River Park Civic Association, appeared before the commission. Shafter charged that the Association had been "infringed" by the Association when he had met with them to discuss use of the footpath, which the River Park Association wishes to close up because of alleged destruction of adjacent property by students and others who use the path.

Carner Avenue residents generally favor the path because it permits children from that area to save a considerable distance in reaching No. 6 school on Greylock Avenue.

Shafter said Greco had declared the town intended to keep the pathway open whether the Association liked it or not, and had invited the complainants to "move out" of the area if they did not like the situation. He said that when the Association asked Greco for an apology, it received instead a letter from Greco's footpath committee in which the group's presentation of Greco's remarks were false and libelous.

FORMATION OF NEW CIVIC ASSOCIATION

"Watchdog" Organization Says It Seeks Fair Play in Town Issues

Organization of a new group to function as a "civic watchdog" was announced this week with the formation of the Belleville Civic Association.

Lower municipal taxes and provisions for off-street parking will be among the group's objectives.

The Association declared in its statement that it intended to "get the true facts about the issues in the coming municipal elections, to help acquaint the public with these facts, keep the record straight, and the election process."

Andrew Verhagen, Belleville liquor salesman, is president of the new group. Fred McQuilkin is Vice-President, John Campo is Secretary, and Merwin Daniels is Treasurer. Stanley Swartz, Joseph Blum, and Edward Peters are listed as members of the Executive Board.

"We intend to analyze the issues on which it is intended to present a personal or political prejudice or favor for anyone," Mr. Verhagen said. "Our organization will be representative from all sections of the town, and we intend to see that injustices are not inflicted upon any section, group, or individual. We are opposed to distortion and bias harmful to the good name of Belleville by any persons or group of persons who distort the record and the truth for their own political purposes."

One of the organization's objectives will be to lower municipal taxes, Verhagen said. It will also support a move to provide off-street parking facilities for the benefit of shoppers and businessmen.

The Association's present headquarters are at Secretary Campo's home at 2 Wallace Street.

The Civic Association also announced it had decided to ask each Belleville Town Commissioner for a complete copy of the departmental budget for the coming year, and to make the same request of the Belleville Board of Education in the near future.

"We desire to make our own study of each of the town budgets so that we will be thoroughly and impartially informed of the facts and figures involved," the statement declared. "We need also like to check into the need for each appropriation item, and to find out exactly what it is to be spent for. We would like to know if the budget requests are consistent with the town's needs."

"We intend to do this well in advance of the public budget hearings so that we will be prepared to state our position on the proposed expenditures accurately and fairly, without resorting to the usual 'it's the best interests of our entire community'."

A police check since his arrest has failed to link the ex-convict with any other crime, though Fischer claimed he had killed a man near Philadelphia.

Fischer walked into the Belleville police station and confessed the murder of the 16 year old high school student on the same day he beat the boy to death with a rock. Then he let officers to the body.

salary of $5,000 was not as opposed to the present $2,800.

Board members are reportedly not yet agreed on a proposed pay increase of 27 janitors who are asking for an additional $15.00 per week. Walter Loesner, chairman of the Board's Building and Grounds committee, who is supporting the move, declared he had "every reason to believe" that the majority of the Board members would finally support the increase.

The janitors, who have a 64 hour week for an additional $15.00 per time pay at $1.50 an hour on the basis that janitors in many other cities and towns in Essex county work an average of 40 to 48 hours a week.

Loesner said that though the Belleville janitors are presently being paid an average of $500 a year more than the school janitors in most other municipalities, the amount does not nearly compensate them for the working time difference. He declared the increase could be granted and still represent a considerable saving to the town.

Among the communities whose school janitors work 40 hours a week, he said are Milburn, Caldwell, Roseland, Orange, E. Orange and Montclair and many others. Loesner explained that the New Jersey Taxpayers' Association recommends the assignment of eight school rooms to the care of each janitor. In Belleville, he said, janitors tend from 10 to 12 rooms. They include care of minor repairs, stairways, corridors, and auditoriums the fring of boilers, and delivery of milk to pupils.

The question of providing adequate classroom facilities still continues on the agenda. To partially meet the increased enrollment of 850 students six temporary rooms have been set up in school basements. The Board is still seeking to develop more adequate measures.

Official Denies Statements

Greco again flatly denied that he had ever made the statements attributed to him, and insisted that Shafter read the letter by Greco's attorneys from the jail in order to have read into the record his story of what happened.

Greco, who lives in the Garner Avenue section, explained that at the unofficial suggestion of Commissioner Hyatt he had attended the meeting at which the controversy originally developed, but only as a private citizen, and not as a town representative. He said he had either been completely misunderstood, or completely misrepresented.

Shafter asked that the Mayor take some action looking toward an apology from Greco, but Town Attorney Lawrence Keenan said the commission would supersede its authority if it undertook such a move, and declared that the matter was under the jurisdiction of Commissioner King.

John R. Golden, frequent critic of the administration, and candidate for the town commission in the May election, wanted to know why the town was paying the costs of installing storm sewers for the Greylock Manor Estates development, if what he declared "should have legal review." He said his report listed "all cases of single payments for materials of services not exempted which exceed $1,000 and were not the subject of award on bid, and such instances as are noted where lesser payments aggregate over $1,000 per year to the same vendor for materials or services in the same general category."

The largest expenditures were attributed to the Public Works Department, headed for 36 years by Commissioner Patrick A. Waters, who declared that if anyone in his department had broken the law, he had not done so intentionally.

The audit included in its list 15 bills totalling $19,456.15 paid to the Lee Engineering Service for cast iron water pipe and related fittings. Included also six for more than $1,000 each, and two of more than $2,000 each. A. Sammarra and Sons, Inc., received $12,184.50 on 11 bills for labor equipment, rental, and water pipe fittings.

Tully Investigated Purchases

Included in the evidence held by Prosecutor Webb is a file of correspondence from Mayor Tully indicating that when reported evidence of irregularities had come to his attention, he then began an inquiry which had resulted in Harts' special audit report.

Grand Jury

after Max N. Schwartz, Board Attorney, advised the Board that an employee could not be suspended in such a case except by action of the Board as a whole. Loesner, who is chairman of the Board's Building and Grounds committee, favored continuance of Mayer's suspension, but McCann and Mrs. Rochau voted to reinstate Mayer to his job. Neither Kelly nor Daniels were present at this conference.

The case began last August when Mayer allegedly told Mayor or James J. Tully that he had made salary kick-backs to Daniel Tully. The Mayor then called Magistrate Edward Abramson to his home, where Mayer said to have repeated the story. The mayor then turned over the matter to having done work for prosecutor, and now a judge. Several months later, it is asserted, Mayer told McCann his story of having done work for Kelly and Youcan, and McCann made a public announcement of the accusations. When charges of Mayor Tully then demanded to know why he had not taken any action, the Mayor declared it should be obvious that "the matter was not to be publicized the matter at that time so that the prosecutor might first determine the facts through an investigation."

Investigate Purchasing Practice

Questions centering around purchasing practices in municipal departments were expected to be answered by the Grand Jury when it hears evidence presented in the second investigation, which centered around the Public Works Department.

All vouchers for municipal purchases made in 1952, together with a supplementary audit authorized by Mayor Tully and drawn up by A. M. Hart, auditor, after the Mayor ordered a complete audit of the Department of Public Works' hands. In the supplementary audit, Hart declared "should have legal review." He said his report listed "all cases of single payments for materials of services not exempted which exceed $1,000 and were not the subject of award on bid, and such instances as are noted where lesser payments aggregate over $1,000 per year to the same vendor for materials or services in the same general category."

Can Take One Of Three Steps

The Grand Jury, which is holding its sessions in the Hall of Records at the Essex County Courthouse in Newark, can make one of three decisions: it may disallow the charges; it may bring indictments; or it may return a verdict of acquittal. It may also return a criticism of the conduct of any of those concerned with building anyone fully responsible.

Freeholders Order Soho Hospital Open to Non-Contagious

County Supervisor W. S. Gray Reports Belleville Hospital Will Handle 75 County Patients At Start

Soho Isolation Hospital, on Franklin Avenue, in Belleville, has been made available by the Essex County Board of Freeholders to 75 non-contagious cases, drawn wholly from the acutely ill among the County Welfare Board's pensioners.

Supervisor Gray said that the Freeholders' action was taken in three steps. A first group of 25 welfare patients was admitted during October and November, as they became ill; a second group of 25 entered in December and January said that a third group of 25 is now being processed for admission.

None of those cases has been withdrawn from other hospitals, but Gray pointed out that by sending county welfare patients to Soho Hospital there has been a savior to the county budget and relief by the release of much needed bed capacity in other hospitals.

The county hospital, which was built originally in 1907 for the treatment of contagious diseases, has been used since 1937 for the treatment of non-contagious cases. At times, last year, it housed 100 patients and the remainder of the 360 beds were idle.

In his annual report, announcing the specific medical therapy of the Belleville hospital open, partially, to non-contagious cases, Supervisor Gray said that the hospital was used for the treatment of non-contagious cases.

"The history of the Essex County hospital in Belleville can be divided into three periods or eras. The first one began with its establishment in 1907 running to the middle 1920's. During that time it was the Essex County Hospital for Contagious Diseases.

The diseases that made up the larger portion of the census were diphtheria, scarlet fever, an occasional smallpox case and other severe attacks of infectious diseases, especially that of the streptococcus group of bacteria.

County Supervisor Blames Traffic Jams On Parking

Gray Urges Freeholders To Study Proposal To End All Parking On Heavily Used Arteries And Provide Off-Street Facilities To Ease Flow Of Traffic

Essex County has two major problems - juvenile delinquency and traffic congestion. County Supervisor Walter S. Gray, in his annual report to the Board of Freeholders, this week blamed the parents and not the police, the courts, the schools or the churches for a 33 per cent increase in the county's juvenile delinquency last year.

He blamed police laxity and non-enforcement of parking regulations on the county's main arteries for traffic bottlenecks and said that he sees a solution only in banning all parking on main thoroughfares and in providing off-street parking facilities.

"Despite the fact that Essex County spent $1,041,000 last year on highway improvements, the traffic bottlenecks are not only unbroken but seem likely to grow greater. The increase in automobile traffic is tremendous. To catch up with it in providing adequate number of parking spaces, a financial outlay by county and state.

"It must be repeated again and again, and it must be repeated, to date, has brought little action, that our main arteries are jammed with cars, and if not actual garages, they are far too expensive.

"Roads cost millions more than parking. Four walls and a roof for an automobile would cost. Roads are designed for traffic flow. If you don't have a parking lot, you can't have a mass, if main highways are to be used for parking.

Other officers installed were Anna G. Lieban, of Nutley, Robert J. Johnson, of Bloomfield, Kathryn Russell, of Glen Ridge, and Arthur E. Mayer, of Belleville, vice-presidents; Bernard Wagoner, of Bloomfield, secretary; Edwin W. Ackers, of Bloomfield, and Albert M. Robinson, of Bloomfield, delegates.

The proceedings were performed by Nancy N. Reynolds, of Westfield, vice-president of the 8th District of the New Jersey Association of Real Estate Boards. State officials present were Edward C. Holmes, president, and Wesley S. Gray, executive vice-president of the New Jersey Association of Real Estate Boards.

IN Western Essex a building boom is on. During 1953 new building in the county aggregated $17,800,000. This fact gives tremendous impetus to the county's program to build a master plan for county highways.

Three-D Storm Hit Nutley From Three Directions; Appears Ended

Nutley's "Three-D" snowstorm—3 directional—blew out to sea, leaving only traffic congestion and broken tire chains in its wake.

As far as records go, it was a 10-inch storm, but that was far from the records of either the 1947 Nor'easter or the always-famous Blizzard of '88. Famed in song and memory, the Blizzard of '88, nevertheless, was not our worst storm. Only 20 inches fell that time. In 1947, however, when Nutley was snowed out for a week, 26.7 inches of snow fell. The U. S. Weather Bureau predicts more snow for today or tomorrow.

This was a real "Three-D" storm, though, because it came from three different directions.

The Sunday storm, which started at 11 a. m. in New England, Monday's storm which brought the heaviest fall, came in from the North-west, all the way from Medi-cia Hat. Tuesday's squalls were the edge of a snow gale which blew up from the Carolinas and then headed out to sea.

It might interest you to know that old Abe Weatherman in The Farmer's Almanac, forecast it all for last weekend. "Predictions: 'Cold and Gold! Storms of snow; drive slow.' For today and through the weekend, Abe sees it milder but windy and colder. Starting Monday his prediction reads 'Blowy and snowy,' then for next weekend he forecasts: 'January thaw and rain.' Incidentally his warning for February reads: 'Bring out your mittens, even for the fifties. Everyone shovel out their hovels.'"

Town employees were forewarned by the police telephone of the approaching snowstorms and went into operation while

Ten-Inch Fall Since Sunday Fell Far Short Of 26.7 Inches In 1947's "Biggest Snowfall"

The snow was still falling. Snow-plows were attached to five town trucks and five other trucks were hired to clear the streets, continuously, from 4 a. m. Monday to Tuesday midnight. No salt was spread but about 200 tons of cinders were scattered to make driving easier.

Angry neighbors in Beach Street are uttering something about letting your right hand know what your left hand is doing. The Beach Street hill, between Ridge Road and Bloomfield Avenue, smooth with packed snow is tough on automobiles but fine for sledding. The police put a barricade with a sign, "Reserved for sledding." Then along came a truck from the Public Works department and scattered the ice hills with ashes, to the consternation of the neighborhood kids.

Project For No. 9 School Playground Will Give Wide Recreation Facilities

A $9,739.70 contract for improvement of the No. 9 School playground will be awarded next week to Curino and Sons of Belleville, low bidder on the project. The improvement ordinance had been submitted at an earlier meeting by Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde.

The area, bordering Bellavista, Stephens street and Bell Avenue will be graded, acidized and fenced to provide a recreation field for young as well as older children. Superintendent of Recreation, Robert Cook declared that the large area will "solve a classic playground problem; that of large children taking over from the small."

The fence, a safety precaution, will be installed to keep children in the field, rather than out, thus reducing exposure to traffic.

Cook said the next step will be to equip the playground with basketball backboard and baseball backstops for the older groups and to set up swings, small slides and low see-saws for the "kiddie set."

Younger-Alden Jr., Auxiliary Younger-Alden Jr., Auxiliary No. 275 Past Presidents' Club will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. John Gannon, of 1120 Edison Street. The Past Presidents will hold a Card Party Friday evening, February 5th, at the Veterans Hall. Mrs. Edward McEntree is Chairman.

At the Pre-school P.T.A. Meeting of Saturday, Jan. 16, Monday, the new Executive Secretary of Family Service, Mrs. Helen McCarty will lead a discussion on the film "Angry Boy." Members and friends are invited for an opportunity to learn about the Belleville Family Service.

Engines Of Increased Horsepower Feature '54 Ford Line

The 1954 Ford Crestline Skyliner with newly designed transparent roof section in front

Engines of advanced design and of increased horsepower and a new hardtop car with transparent roofing are among the improvements in the Ford Motor Company's 1954 line.

The cars went on display here yesterday, at George H. Mead, Inc., 190 Washington Avenue. Prices remain unchanged from the 1953 level.

The new engines, designated as Y block, overhead valve V-8 cylinder and I block six-cylinder, are the results of six years' experimentation, according to Johnson.

The eight-cylinder engine block has an extra deep skirt extending below the crankshaft, giving a Y shape cross-section appearance. This is said to assure greater rigidity, thereby adding to the life of the mechanism. The compression ratio is 7.2 to 1 and the horsepower 180, as compared with 110 in the 1953 powerplant.

The 115-horsepower, 7.2-to-1 compression ratio six-cylinder engine has a deep skirt block and is built so that it resembles the letter I from the end view. Last year, the six-cylinder engine was 101 horsepower.

There are fourteen body styles in three series—Mainline, Customline and Crestline. The total of twenty-eight models includes, in addition to the hardtop car with transparent roofing, a Ford sedan that features luxury interior and a two-door station wagon.

There are 156 exterior and interior color combinations, including thirteen single-tone colors, ten of which are available in thirteen two-tone combinations.

Power brakes, power steering and power lift windows and seat are optional equipment at extra cost.

January Exhibition

The leafless landscape too is beautiful. Each branch a stroke of masterly design. Here man may look upon simplicity. And read another season's chronicle. Within the harmony of tone and line. On field and hill, wherever eye can see. Now is the birch no longer alien. Matching its whiteness with the unmarked snow. And the dark regiments of oak and fir. In gray of crayon, black of brush and pen. At last are featured in a classic show—Winter both artist and exhibitor.

Half A Step Gets Nowhere

In his "State Of The Union" message to Congress last week, President Eisenhower recommended legislation which would forfeit the citizenship of native-born as well as naturalized Communists, or other subversives convicted of conspiring to overthrow the United States Government by force. To the old soldier, the punishment would be tantamount to shearing off the buttons and drumming out of the ranks a soldier given his dishonorable discharge for any treasonable act. In reality, however, the forfeiture of citizenship for a native-born American subversive would be less drastic. No native-born American ever can be deported. At most he would lose his power of vote but he would remain in America unless he chose to expatriate himself.

Half a step gets nowhere. Surely, the logical second half-step would be to outlaw the Communist Party. It is a party in name only and by no stretch of the imagination can a subversive movement which flies the red flag of anarchy be defined as a bonafide political party. It is a domestic plot within a grantiose scheme of world revolution with the sole motive of making of America a Russian captive.

Opposition to the outlawing of the Communist Party by legal action has consisted, in the past, chiefly of the argument that such a step would drive the Communists underground. In our humble opinion, that's fine. Six feet under ground is where any treasonable subversive belongs, as the Communists in Russia, in China and Poland, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria long ago demonstrated—as in the case of the late and unlamented Beria. R. E. H.

One Man's Opinion

The Times-News Names President Eisenhower Its "Man Of The Year, 1953", With Chancellor Konrad Adenauer As Outstanding European

BY RALPH E. HEINZEN

It's a symbol of the season and this is the week when pundits pick the "Man Of The Year". We are no exception. Our "Man Of The Year" for 1953, and we beg to differ with Time Magazine's selection of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, is Dwight D. Eisenhower. In fact, in this "One Man's Opinion", President Eisenhower, if he fulfills the great promise of his first year in office, may well become "The Man Of The Century".

Dwight Eisenhower performed on a world stage. He brought a truce to three years of war in Korea. He solidified the common front against Communist aggression across Europe and the Middle East, and in his final gesture of the year, immediately after the Bermuda Conference, he took the diplomatic initiative away from Communism by proposing the pooling of atomic resources and stockpiles.

Against the Eisenhower accomplishments on a global stage, Chancellor Adenauer, in earning a seat for Germany in the highest councils of the Western powers acted his part on a very limited European platform. Malenkov built up his record by the Beria murder, the consolidation of personal power without losing a step when Stalin died and the swift transfer of Communist aggressive action from Korea to Vietnam.

There can be no denial of Adenauer's considerable accomplishments on the limited European stage and he, without a doubt, has earned his selection as Europe's "Man Of The Year". Against the Eisenhower accomplishments, however, nothing that Adenauer or Malenkov has done can change the trend of history as has the President's atomic pool proposal which may be the beginning of an era of better understanding between the East and the West.

Malenkov knows now that we will fight with atomic weapons if there is another Communist aggression on a master scale. He knows that if the Kremlin will curb its ambitions and cease aggression, he can buy world peace by the simple process of adhering to the atomic pool plan. If Malenkov is as astute as we believe him to be, we have no doubt that Soviet Russia, honestly or not, will rally to the Eisenhower plan.

Mastery Of Congress

Even before he delivered his "State Of The Union" message to Congress last week, President Eisenhower had attained undisputed leadership over Congress. Such an accomplishment in a non-political President in his first year in office is almost unprecedented.

On a basis of his 1953 accomplishments, which made him our choice for the "Man Of The Year", President Eisenhower's popularity is as high today as when he first took office, according to a new test of public opinion. On the other hand a second poll, taken simultaneously by another organization, indicates that if an election were held tomorrow Republican membership would be reduced by a minimum of 40 seats in the House and Democrats would take control.

The first poll is part of the regular continuing appraisal of presidential popularity made by the American Institute of Public Opinion, the Gallup Poll.

The second poll which tests the voters' attitude toward the Republicans in Congress was the Cressley Poll.

Ahead Of Party

These contrasting estimates of the situation now confronting the administration are agreed to

Chief change is that the "no opinion" group of 25 per cent has diminished to 10 per cent, and apparently has generally gone into the "disapprove" column which has risen to 22 per cent.

Speech Helped Prestige

Even for a highly popular President the normal trend would have been downward in intervening months. It appears that the President's December 8 speech before the United Nations on atomic power lifted his popularity.

Also, Mr. Eisenhower did not plunge immediately into controversial issues on taking office, a course which might have caused sectional or group resistance to his leadership. He has waited a year before putting his back to the wheel of the big legislative drive which now seems to be starting.

All the arguments of self-preservation would point theoretically to Republican support of their popular President in Congress in the months immediately ahead. The curiosity of politics is, however, that it does not necessarily follow.

Looking To November

Mr. Eisenhower will not be up for election himself next November, and what the question gets is a series of local contests fought out on regional issues and with a substantially different and smaller electorate. It's every congressman for himself.

Many of the Republican committee chairmen are resigning precisely because they come from safe constituencies which give them the "seniority" which makes them chairmen. They have little awe and no fear of the President.

The Republican tradition in recent years also has been against strong White House control of Congress. Thus a series of debates within the Republican Party is already indicated over the proposals which Mr. Eisenhower made in his "State Of The Union" message. That Congress will express itself in favor of tax cuts which the President has refused is a foregone conclusion. Congress has other ideas, too, about while the supports.

In fact on nearly every controversial issue—farm program, social security extension, Taft-Hartley revision, housing legislation, and proposals for new health legislation—a measure of nonconformity will develop.

If President Eisenhower really fights for his proposals, he will encounter opposition not wholly confined to Democrats. He seemed to be appealing to Republican congressmen in his fiscal statement December 2, in which he said that a party that could not control the House and enact a progressive dynamic program did not deserve to hold office anyway. This had the earmarks of a polite ultimatum to some realists.

"In any event, unless the Republican Party can develop and enact such a program for the American people, it does not deserve to remain in power," he declared.

PROGRESS

Wherever you see this sign along a road in New Jersey, you can be sure that progress is being made in extending and improving your electric service.

Here the sign is located in front of a new electric substation under construction. Substations are built to keep ahead of demands for electric service, and they stand as definite evidence of the growth and progress of the towns where they are located as well as neighboring communities. Nine new substations were constructed in 1953 by Public Service, bringing the company's total to 138 of these important structures.

All the construction and maintenance work which goes on behind the electric service which you enjoy in your home costs money—great amounts of money. But Public Service will continue to extend and improve its facilities to meet future demands for electric service.

Electricity does so much . . . costs so little!

Man Of The Year

1. Dwight D. Eisenhower

2. Chancellor Adenauer

3. Georgi Malenkov

Also runs: Vice President Richard M. Nixon, South Korea's Syngman Rhee, dynamic new Philippine president Ramon Magasaysay, Senator Joseph McCarthy, Casey Stengel, for his fifth world's series victory, and Sir Winston Churchill.

by practically every independent Washington observer.

Together they comprise a paradoxical situation. They explain, better than anything else, the mood and atmosphere of Washington as the Republican Congress met for its second session and Mr. Eisenhower delivered the first of a whole series of speeches and statements directed to Congress for its approval in the months ahead.

Just as Mr. Eisenhower ran far ahead of his party in 1952 when he piled up a 62 million majority, so today he retains the approval of the average voter to a quite unusual extent. But this great popularity is not shared by his own party in Congress. The voters, it appears, still differentiate him from his party, and he continues to have the support, it is indicated, of substantial numbers of Democrats and Independents.

Control At Stake

Unless Republicans in Congress can pull the Eisenhower card over them in the months ahead, the prospect is that they can well lose control of the House next November.

Mr. Eisenhower is a remarkable exception so far to the normal political rule that a President loses popularity after staying in office for a year or so during which he must make decisions that alienate blocs of voters.

A sudden upsurge of enthusiasm for the victor generally follows a presidential election, but after a year this tends to subside. Yet last February the Gallup Poll reported 68 per cent of the voters approved Mr. Eisenhower, 25 per cent had no opinion, and only 7 per cent disapproved. Today 68 per cent still approve of Mr. Eisenhower's handling of affairs. This is two out of three, of those polled.

If you have any suggestions as to how we can serve you better, won't you pass them along to your A&P manager? Our project is to make your A&P the best... and thriftiest... place to shop in your community!
