SPRING IS NEAR, BUT LOCAL MARINE CELEBRATES XMAS

Though Spring is just around the corner, Cpl. George F. Kiernan, Jr., 20, found a decorated Christmas tree waiting for him when he returned home here yesterday from Korea on a 30-day furlough. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Kiernan, of 272 Holmes Street, had kept the tree waiting for him for months because in his letters he had repeatedly written how he missed seeing it.

Around the tree, which was loaded with Christmas presents, were Mr. and Mrs. Kiernan, Miss Elaine Viespoli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Viespoli, of 32 Elena Place, who is George's "steady" girl, and the Marine's five brothers and sisters—Janice, 7; James, 9; Richard, 11; Raymond, 16; and Patrick, 18. George just started. He was too happy to be excited.

Bingo Referendum To Be Held Here In April Primary

Belleville will vote in the April 20 primary on a referendum to determine whether it will exercise its local option and make bingo and raffles legal here, under the bills signed by Governor Meyner which makes such a vote mandatory.

The town's electors favored the minor gambling bills by a vote of three to one in last November's state-wide referendum, casting 5,351 ballots in their support, with 1,819 opposed.

But despite the outcome, Dr. James K. Morse, president of the Belleville Council of Christian Churches, which has ten members, late yesterday reaffirmed to the Belleville Times-News that the Council will continue to oppose legalized casino games.

Dr. Morse, who is pastor of Fowmth Presbyterian Memorial Church, said that no definite plans have been drawn for the primary vote here, and that he did not know what course of action the Council would follow.

MEMBERS OF THE LION CLUB — are pictured here as they greeted David Rubinoff, famous violinist, as he arrived here Wednesday for a series of appearances before eight different school assemblies. His performances before the school children aroused such enthusiasm that a record attendance is expected at the two concerts he will present under the Club's sponsorship in the Belleville High School auditorium next Thursday. Left to right, Herman Holleander, Seymour Fersko, Mayor Tully (who is vice-president of the Club), Rubinoff and his violin, President Wilfred Yudin, W. C. Rubinoff To Give Concert In Belleville On March 11

Thousands of school children heard David Rubinoff, famed violinist, in a whirlwind series of appearances before eight free assemblies Wednesday, and the stories they brought home to their parents of his musical ability, was expected to establish an attendance record when he returns to Belleville next Thursday to present two concerts. The school appearances were arranged by the Lions Club, which is sponsoring the program.

The concerts are to be held in the auditorium of the Belleville High School at 3 p.m., and again at 8:15 p.m.

Prices for the afternoon performance will be 75 cents for school children, and $1.20 for adults. Tickets for the evening show will be $1.80.

Rubinoff arrived here bright and early Wednesday morning for his series of free performances. The first was at Belleville High school, where the students roared their approval of his showmanship. The same story was repeated at the other schools which he visited in quick succession. They were St. Peter's Parochial School; Schools No. 4, 5, 7, and 10; School No. 1, which was also attended by students from School No. 3, and School No. 8, where students from School No. 3 were also guests.

He played, danced, and bubbled with a flashing smile and a bubbling energy that keeps him continually in motion. Rubinoff is just as enthusiastic over the idea of playing for school children as he is for adults.

He said, "I can't know all of the classics, but they have an instinctive feeling for music, and any thing good registers with them, he said. Though he spent years on the "long-hair" concert stage, he prefers a combination of both popular and classical music, and mixes in a measure of comedy besides.

His $100,000 salary was under his arm. Rubinoff left for Trenton to fill another engagement. He was enthusiastic about his reception here, and said he was looking forward to his return here next Thursday for his concert.

N. J. MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT IS ANALYZED HERE

This is the second in a series of articles which will discuss in detail the various options available, the advantages of the Optional Law of 1950 over the special charter law of 1945, and other pertinent facts which will enable the voters of Belleville to decide the Charter question in the May election.

By the terms of the Optional Municipal Charter Law of 1950, popularly called the Faulkner Act, municipalities are afforded a choice of several forms of government. This and subsequent articles will discuss various existing forms of municipal government. When discussing the PRIZE-WINNING ART — students of Belleville High School analyze a sketch done by one of them as P. Webster Diehl, art director for the public schools, makes suggestions. All five students won top honors at the State Regional Scholastic Art Exhibit in Newark, where more than 1,400 entries are on display at the Kresge Department Store. In the back row are, left to right, James Lewis, Eileen Pendergast (who is painting artistically at one of her sketches), and Pat McDonough. Mrs. Crisp is a member of the Belleville Woman's club and is the recommended speaker's list of the Federal Women's club. She is just resuming her activities after a four-month recuperation from the effects of an automobile accident last November.

Awards Won by Art Students

Five Belleville High School students have won top honors at the State Regional Scholastic Art Exhibit in Newark, with the exhibit itself revived after a lapse of five years through the efforts of P. Webster Diehl, art director of the local school system, and an interested group of art specialists from surrounding communities.

Competing in a contest, in which more than 3,000 entries from 140 school districts were submitted by the leading schools of the state, the Belleville students were awarded first place in several categories. Their work, together with 1,400 other entries, are on exhibit on the eighth floor of Krueger's Newark store. The show will continue through March 12.

The students are Eileen Pendergast, who submitted an outstanding scholarship portfolio of 14 paintings; James Lewis, who won the gold key for oil painting; Susan Walsh, a gold medal for her water color work; and Jean Demark and Pat McDonough, who

CHARGE LOCAL MAN WITH BEING BOOKIE

Charged with operating a book-making business in a North Arlington restaurant, Edward Hannigan, 54, whose address was given as 242 Washington Avenue, is to be arraigned in the First Criminal Court in Hackensack at a later date. Meanwhile he was remanded to Bergen County Jail.

Hannigan was arrested earlier in the week together with Richard Doolittle, 27, a counterman employed at the restaurant, "The Little Place," at 25 Ridge Road in North Arlington.

The investigation began last week when Doolittle was arrested by North Arlington police on a routing check. They said, they found $150 in race track betting receipts, and two bookmaking slips, in the counterman's possession.

Mulloy To Speak At Hoop Banquet

With the date for the holding of the eighth annual Basketball Banquet honoring the Belleville quintet set for Saturday, March 20, chairman of the dinner, Art Hoemeke told yesterday that the guest speaker for the evening will be the well-known basketball official, Jerry Mulloy.

Sponsored by the Varsity Club, the banquet will be held at O'Hara's Riverside Grill in North Arlington. Recognized as one of the top basketball officials in the area, Mulloy has tooted the whistle for some of the biggest attractions in Madison Square Garden. Equally quick as an after-dinner speaker, Mulloy has been a much sought after speech-maker in the knits and floor circuit. When not in action on the court, the native of Hudson County is connected with the Hoboken Department of Recreation.

Always one of the top favorites of the paying fans, Mulloy is noted for his antics on the sidelines. If a team is hopelessly outdistanced by its rival, Jerry keeps the fans in stitches. His most popular trademark is to race from one end of the court to the other at top speed and do a full split while calling a foul infraction. The crowd loves his actions and always howl for more.

Tickets for this Varsity Club banquet that will have Mulloy as the principal guest are still available and may be purchased at Andersen and Fobert's Texaco Service Station at Graylock Parkway and Washington Avenue or at the Belleville Rosery Florist at 302 Washington Avenue. The tickets also may be purchased from ticket chairman Norm Leach or any Varsity Club member.

Diamond Team To Play 13-Game Slate

Belleville High School's baseball team, coached by veteran mentor Ed Berinski, will play a 13-game varsity schedule commencing April 21 and continuing for six weeks. The Bellboys will get off to a late start this season because of the unusually late Easter vacation break. Released this week, the slate lists seven games for the home confines of Municipal Stadium with the remaining six tilts carded for foreign travel.

Several changes appear on the new schedule. The 13-game season shows a decrease of two games in a comparison with last year's slate when the Blue and Gold won eight and lost seven. Missing this Spring are the two Newark schools, East Side and West Side. The Newark coaches in the midst of a salary squabble, have not scheduled any suburban schools this year. If the pilots remain on the job, competition will be increased, but within City League circles.

Lyndhurst, Belleville's rival from across the river, appears only once on the new schedule. The two schools had previously played on a home-and-home basis. In place of the one Lyndhurst game, Columbia, always a baseball power, will be met twice instead of the once-a-year meeting.

For Belleville and Berinski, 1954 will mark the second year of participation in the Big Ten Conference, a loop comprised of the major Group 4 schools in the area. The Bellboys won five and dropped four in loop play during the initial season.

The regular campaign for Belleville will begin on April 21 at Municipal Stadium against Columbia and end on June 3 at home with West Orange providing the opposition. Of the 13 games listed, all but three are against Big Ten foes. Each of the loop rivals will be met once with the exception of Columbia. Just which game will count in the league standings when the Cougars and Bellboys meet hasn't been decided at this time. In independent clashes, Passaic will be met on a home-and-home basis in addition to the one meeting with Lyndhurst.

The Belleville varsity baseball schedule follows:
April 21 Columbia Home May 17 East Orange Home
April 23 Bloomfield Home May 19 Irvington Away
April 29 Passaic Home May 21 Kearny Away
May 6 Nutley Home May 27 Passaic Away
May 7 Lyndhurst Away May 31 Kearny Away
May 11 Columbia Home June 3 West Orange Home
May 13 Montclair Home

Attend Little League Clinic

Six members of the Belleville Little League baseball program, preparing for the summer season, attended a Little League clinic, sponsored by the national association at Englewood High School on Sunday afternoon. The clinic was the first of its type conducted in North Jersey and was highlighted by the presence of Commissioner Stotz, who founded the youth program in 1939 in Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

The clinic was broken up into five different phases. Following a general meeting at which Stotz addressed the entire group, differentiation discussions were conducted. Warren Knight, head of the Belleville program, attended a session for presidents and officers. George Sheridan and Fred McQuillen listened to a discussion concerning players' agents and at a panel meeting for managers and coaches. Belleville was represented by Art Hoemeke, Ed O'Neill and Al De Klare.

A Fixture In Essex Tourney

Belleville lost out to Orange in overtime in the opening round of play in the eighth annual Essex County Tournament, but as the spectators were cheering wildly with every basket, one of the Blue and Gold's most ardent supporters, Dr. Hugh Kittie, Jr., son of Belleville High's principal, had to do his rooting on the QT. You see, Hugh was serving as official tourney scorekeeper.

A dentist with an open practice in Bloomfield Center, "Doc" completed his sixth year as official scorer as top seeded Montclair defeated South Side for the title. Kittie was at the desk when the jamrover was started in 1947 and has been on the job every February except for a two-year absence in 1951 and '52 when he served in the Navy as a lieutenant.

It is Further Resolved, that said budget be published in the Belleville Times-News in the issue of the 5th of March, 1954. EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

Summary of General Budget Section of Budget	Year 1954	Year 1953
1. Total General Appropriations for Municipal Purpose (Item 8(h), Sheet 10)	$1,586,803.28	$1,488,382.45
2. Total Municipal Budget Appropriations for Local District School Purposes (Item 8(k), Sheet 11)	69,418.23	69,418.23
3. Appropriation-Reserve for Uncollected Taxes	205,102.28	276,449.61
4. Total General Appropriations (Item 9, Sheet 11)	$1,861,323.79	$1,834,250.29
5. Less: Anticipated Revenues (Item 5, Sheet 4)	768,725.00	672,334.00
6. Sub-Total	1,092,598.79	1,161,916.29
7. Amount to Be Raised by Taxation:
(a) To Be Added to Local District-School Tax (Item 6(a), Sheet 4)	69,418.23	69,418.23
(b) Local Purpose (Municipal Tax) (Item 6, Less Item 7(a)) (Item 6(b), Sheet 4)	$1,023,180.56	$1,092,498.06

The above summary develops the Local Purpose Tax amount in accordance with the prescribed budget form. This includes the entire Reserve for Uncollected Taxes or Cash Basis "Overlay" as a Town item, even though it supports School and County requirements as well and is not an appropriation for spending purposes, but merely a guarantee of sufficient current tax collections. The budget, by law, must include the school item above of $69,418.23, but this is separated in the tax levy later and in the figures used below is included in the school amount.

The projected tax levy and rate for 1954, in comparison with the actual levy of 1953, follows:

	Estimated 1954	Actual 1953	Decrease Increase (D)	Per 1954	$100.00 1953	Decrease Increase (D)	1954	1953	Decrease Increase (D)
Local Municipal	$1,023,180.56	$1,002,493.06	$ 20,687.50 (D)	$2.05	$2.06	$0.21 (D)	$0.32	$0.36	$0.04 (D)
Local School	1,582,045.18	1,442,164.13	139,881.05	1.32	2.28	.74	.40	.47	.02
County	279,944.00	535,553.80	43,640.20	1.16	1.11	.05	.19	.17	.02
	$3,114,419.74	$3,070,216.99	$ 44,202.65	$6.38	$6.35	$.02 (D)	$1.00	$1.00	$.00
Assessed Valuations	$49,859,332.00	$48,369,478.00	$1,489,854.00

Had assessed valuations and the local purpose tax remained unchanged, an increase of thirty-two cents per $100.00 would have occurred. The increase in rates, however, is equivalent to twenty-cents, or points, of potential reduction in rate, but is fully absorbed by the school and county increases, leaving twelve points of increase. The Town reduction is equivalent to fourteen points on 1953 rates, resulting in the projected net reduction of two points.

Revenues anticipated are all within the limits prescribed by the Local Budget Law and appear fully realizable. Surplus uses leaves the Town's finances in the same liquid position as at the beginning of 1953, while returning to the taxpayers the gains retained during that year.

Mandatory taxes for school and county purposes account for 68% of the estimated 1954 tax levy, but are not subject to any control by the Board of Commissioners. The Reserve for Uncollected Taxes accounts for 6 1/2%, leaving 25 1/2% of the tax levy going to support municipal requirements.

The Town budget includes large sums which are either mandatory by law or by contract obligation and major elements such as salaries, which are not subject to reduction either in rate or through arbitrary reductions in personnel. The last is precluded by the obvious need to maintain public services at proper levels in a municipality which has grown markedly and is still growing.

Some examples of mandatory and uncontrollable items are: bond and interest payment, pension requirements, insurance protection, street lighting, garbage removal, outlet sewer contract, assessments, election expenses and county rent control. Rates and prices for public utility services and heating and motor fuels are not controllable and essentials such as the public library and health service may not be cut arbitrarily.

The within budget is believed adequate to meet all obligations of the Town and to provide all proper services of local government at safe and acceptable levels, but without extravagance or unnecessary expense.

The Board of Commissioners gratefully acknowledges the valuable assistance rendered by the Citizens' Budget Committee in the studies preceding the compilation of this budget.

James J. Tully, Mayor Director of Revenue and Finance month. The Presbyterian General Assembly he said, is already on record as opposed to the legislation.

"We don't believe that this sort of activity is wise for the community," Rev. Morse said. "It should be obvious to the people that in spite of the November election, it must be remembered that in New Jersey only 34 percent of the registered voters actually cast their ballots in favor of the bills."

So far this year, only one reference has been made to bingo in the commission chambers, and that was several weeks ago when

James R. Golden, a candidate for the town commission, posed a question as to what the commissioners planned to do about it. At that time he was told that the matter would be decided after Governor Meyner had signed the bills.

The gambling legislation provides regulatory provisions and sets up a board of five members set up by the governor, and confirmed by the Senate, known as the Legalized Games of Chance Control Commission to insure that the regulations are abided by. It will have investigative powers, and operators of bingo and raffles would be required to submit financial reports periodically.

The bingo limits prizes to $250 for a single game, and $1,000 for an entire season. Players must be more than 18 years old, and all persons conducting the games will be required to be members of the organization involved.

Prizes are limited to merchandise aid, with few exceptions, an organization could not offer more than $5,000 worth of prizes in a single year.

Operation of the game will be limited to charitable, religious, fraternal, and veterans' organizations, as well as volunteer fire companies.

In signing the bills, Governor Meyner expressed the opinion that they would shut out professional gamblers.

The gifts from family and friends of the young Marine found waiting for him were, he said, "just exactly what I wanted." They included, among other things, bedroom slippers, pajamas, and two separate sets of traveling bags.

More gifts will be waiting for him when Miss Viespoli gives another Christmas party for him at her home. This party, too, will be complete with Christmas tree and all.

George is a graduate of Belleville High School. His father heads the funeral home bearing his name.

For you have to see and drive the 200-horsepower CENTURY - and check its local delivered price - to know how it puts other automobiles in this Buick's dollar class - on the spot.

Look for yourself - and you'll see what we mean.

And it is horsepower that gives you brilliant performance, greater economy, new safety - for here you get the highest power-to-weight ratio in all Buick history.

Why not come in and see the whole story come alive when you take the wheel of a Buick CENTURY?

We know of no better way to prove to you that this gorgeous, glamorous sweep of automobile is the power buy of the year - by far.

Now you can buy the famed Buick Estate Wagon at new low prices - for this all-new, all-steel beauty is now available in Buick's lowest-priced Special Series, and in the sensationally powered CENTURY Series.

Localities On Weekend Whirl At Yale's Gay Junior Prom

Three Bellevilleites tripped the light fantastic at Yale's starting junior prom last weekend. Roger Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hanson of 104 Overlook avenue, dance chairman, led the promenade in the Payne gymnasium with his date, Wellesley student Sally Howell, of Larchmont, N. Y. Hansen was a Yale grid star last year.

Miss Mary Ann Donnelly, daughter of Mr. Joseph Donnelly of 279 William Street, arrived at New Haven Friday night, along with more than 1,000 merry madonnas. She had a few quick changes for her escort, Anthony Steffanelli, of New Haven. She was off to the home of Dean Mrs. Buck. A few hours after the appearance for the ball, she was in an enchanting white ankle length gown, and spent the rest of the evening dancing with her black and white print partners.

Her date, Anthony Steffanelli, of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Steffanelli, of 673 Belleville avenue, studying medicine at Yale. After the prom, the rest of the weekend took the merry young folk on a whirl of dinners, teas, fraternity dances, jam sessions, and wound up with the traditional Yale-Harvard hockey game.

Golden Comments

Hello neighbor! May I come to see you? I'm Jim Golden. I live down the road a bit. 62 Tappan avenue. I've been trying to get a message across to you and the others of our town. Maybe you've read about some of my activities in the newspapers, about my one-man effort to bring better government to the town. I've been trying to get a message across to you and the others of our town. Maybe you've read about some of my activities in the newspapers, about my one-man effort to bring better government to the town.

MISS NIEBERGALL TO WED VETERAN

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Shirley Niebergall, daughter of Mrs. William Niebergall, of 144 Academy Street, and the late Mr. Niebergall, to a veteran, Mr. Montanari, son of Mr. Montanari, of 413 South Street, Newark, and the late Mr. Montanari.

Miss Niebergall, who was graduated from East Side high school in Newark, is a secretary with Hoyer Products Co., 471 Cortlandt Street. Mr. Montanari, a graduate of Essex County high school, served three years with the Army in World War II, and is now employed by Ward Motors, Newark.

What Do You Want?

Oh! I haven't been liked for what I've done, by those who have been running things behind me about the way I've been trying to get a message across to you and the others of our town. I've been trying to get a message across to you and the others of our town. I've been trying to get a message across to you and the others of our town.

We Americans are jealous of our heritage as free men, neighbors. We revolt at such treatment. Mr. Charles Becker, Counsel for the V. P. W., rallied to my defense by volunteering his services to insure my right of free speech. He personally appeared before Mayor Kelly and the town officials to testify in my behalf. They didn't like having me at the town hall, so they were bringing to the people's attention what I had done.

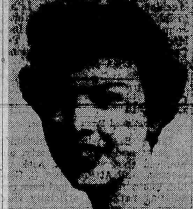

It hasn't been any bed of roses. The path I've tried in this town to bring decency and morality to the management of our town's affairs. I've been bringing to the people's attention what I had done. I've been bringing to the people's attention what I had done.

Each succeeding week until the election, with my permission, I'd like to stop by your door and have a chat with you through this column so that we can better understand our mutual problems and at the same time give me the opportunity to let you folks get to know me better and to learn the things that I stand for and represent.

I am convinced that there is a job to be done in Belleville and that it is going to take the combined efforts of all of us to get it across. But it's getting late in the next week's edition of the Yellow Pages.

So, be ringing your doorbell until you're long now, MRS. GIBBS. Your neighbor, KATHARINE GIBBS.

Awards

With both animals leaping affectionately at him, Sandy made his way to the prize-winning position in the corner of the living room. He tentatively lifted one of the bars, then put it down quickly.

"I guess I'm kind of tired," he said. He drank a glass of milk, and then he was following him, he went to bed.

It was the end of the biggest day in Sandy's life. He had won three years ago when he auditioned for a role in the musical.

The boy's first success, he told the boy, the late Gertrude Lawrence, who was then in the cast, urged him to audition for a role in the Theatre Guild production. He continued to telephone the boy at intervals during the intervening months and last month he suggested that Sandy see him again.

"You're too big," he said this time at his first sight of the boy. Then he had him sing two operatic and two popular numbers, and then he had him sing a song from the musical.

A week later, he telephoned again, and once more Sandy made his way to the corner of the living room. He tentatively lifted one of the bars, then put it down quickly.

Colored Women's Welfare Council Extends Condolences

Mrs. E. G. Golden, Mrs. G. A. Peterson and Mrs. M. J. Plunkett attended the Northern Baptist Church, Council on Human Relations and the State Commission on Civil Rights, held recently at the Newark State Teacher's college.

The officers and members of the Colored Women's Welfare Council of Belleville grieve with the family of their chaplain, Mrs. Edith Salters, on the death of her husband, William, on March 4 at the Columbia hospital, Newark.

Services were held at Little Zion Church, with Rev. Mary Perrara, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Glendale Cemetery, Bloomfield.

William N. Salters won the gold awards for costume design. The entries of all five will be sent to the National Costume Exhibit at the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh this May for consideration in the national awards.

Ellen's portfolio includes oil, water colors, charcoal sketches, pen and ink drawings, and a model in clay. James, painting in oil, "Night in the City," and shows a view looking out from a sordid alleyway to a brightly lit city with a theatre marquee ablaze and pedestrians walking by, contrasting two sides of life in a metropolis.

Susan's water color is of a girl sitting on the floor and My listening to a record player. Jean's costume design was of a school dress, and Pat's design was of a party dress.

Twenty-five Belleville art students entered 70 pieces of their work, and 64 were accepted for exhibition by a committee of 20 New York, Pennsylvania, and Newark artists selected to judge their work. This high percentage of acceptance contrasts sharply with the average for the rest of the state.

In addition to the top five winners, students whose work is on exhibition include William Darroch, Pat Pissinimos, Harry Gass, Richard De Vona, Joan von der Heydt, Jean Corbett, Linda Bihel, Marilyn Chaffee, Robert Estelle, Helen Tagliani, Angela Piasano, Mary Terrell, Elaine Wiske, Audrey Draghi, Joan Murray, Marilyn Woods, Helen Boyer, Marjorie Walker, Robert Drake, Jane Encke, Loren Ross.

This year's exhibition, which occupies the entire eighth floor of the Kresge store, is the largest and most complete high school art show ever held in New Jersey, and parents of students are particularly invited to attend.

Art Director Diehl, who is credited with providing the momentum to re-establish what was formerly that year's exhibition, is a member of the committee for the art exhibit, and is also on the convention committee of the Eastern Art Association.

Sandy has appeared on a number of television shows, and has sung operatic recitals at Carnegie Hall in New York, and the Mosque in Newark, as well as elsewhere. Signments was his role in Fred O'ne of his most important assignments was in Frank Coe's production of "Flight to Freedom," which showed the effort of fugitives from Red tyranny to escape from behind the Iron Curtain. The story was first filmed for exhibition in theatres, and then televised over NBC. The picture is still being distributed by exhibition in theatres, and is being shown in many countries of the world.

Due to an error of omission, a recent account concerning Brotherhood Week failed to state that the Rev. John H. Hourihan, curate of St. Peter's Church, represented the Rt. Rev. Magr. Joseph M. Kelly, pastor of the church, in introducing the signing of a Brotherhood Week proclamation by Mayor Tully.

A Living Page Of History:

A Dream Sent Hess Flying Off As An Angel Of Peace

That Was One Day Gaby Goebbels Found Himself With Nothing To Say

By Ralph Heinzen

A great silence lay over all of Germany and that unhappy half of France which lay behind the German lines and the "Atlantic wall" on that warm early summer day of 1941, May 10, a Saturday, to be historically exact.

Rudolf Hess, Hitler's first deputy and the closest and oldest friend of the Führer among all his high Nazi associates, had just parachuted into Scotland near the estate of the Duke of Hamilton.

Nothing But Silence

The silence was ominous, doubly so because it was the first time in my memory that the garrulous Joseph Goebbels found himself unable to say a word. Hess' flight stunned Hitler, as shocked Goebbels, Himmler, Ribbentrop and all the others in the entourage of the Führer. No one knew what to say, so no one said anything.

Churchill was spending that weekend at Ditchley and a private showing of a film of his Holy Wood favorite, the Marx brothers, was interrupted twice. Once a phonecall from Downing Street informed him that the German Embassy in London was suffering an extremely heavy air raid. The other phonecall was from the Duke of Hamilton who gave Churchill the fantastic news: "Hess has arrived in Scotland!"

Paris Got News

I was in Paris that weekend, armed with a visa given by Dr. Achenbach, then counselor of the German Embassy and now a high functionary of the Adenauer administration in Bonn, for an interview with Pierre Laval who since his overthrow by Petain, had returned to the occupied capital.

Occupied Paris was unhappy but unquenched. The true Parisians tolerated the German occupying troops but never patterned. Parisians had a perfect underground radio network. It was from that source that I learned of Hess' defection, although I must admit that I did not believe it.

I had known Hess since my first trip to Nuremberg for the annual Nazi party congress and military manifestations for United Front. He was a good-looking, young man to whom Hitler took a fancy and who became his closest friend and his understudy. I always thought that I detected a twinkle in Hess' eye which convinced me that he saw through the sham of the uniforms and the parades.

Smartest Of Lot

In my book, Hess was smart, just as I had Ribbentrop down as a typical Prussian, a pompous and stupid ass, Himmler as a fanatic, and Goebbels as a journalistic crook and Goering as a lamb in wolf's clothing but an extremely able administrator who, in a more honest field, could have been a great success as an industrialist.

I knew from generally current stories that Hess worshipped the Führer, at whose table he dined almost every evening before the war. I knew from the same generally accepted stories that Goebbels, Ribbentrop, who had been an unsuccessful German Ambassador in London, hated England, Hess had admiration for it was no secret that since the start of the war, Hess had been eclipsed by the swiftly developing events. He no longer shared Hitler's faith. Indeed, generals and admirals were Hitler's dinner guests. He no longer shared Hitler's intimate life; he was shut into the anti-room. His role as organizer of the party's Nuremberg congresses was a thing of the past. It was one thing to parade with shovels in peacetime demonstrations, and another to fight a war.

Man With A Mission

Hess, consequently, was out of sight, out of mind, by May 1941. It was an easy matter for him, therefore, to put on a German lieutenant's uniform, take out his own plane from his hangar at Augsburg, and fly off alone. No one missed him because Hess, by that time, was no longer important even though he was still No. 1 on the list of German personalities.

It is a matter of historical record that Hess flew directly to Scotland. He circled over the Hamilton estate and baled out, leaving his plane set to fly into the ocean and leave no trace. His landing was clumsy, however, and he injured a leg and both ankles.

Tenants who ran up found him in German uniform and advised him to make a run for it. He was injured, they arranged to take him to the master's great house and thence to a Glasgow military hospital. To all Hess gave his name as "Horn" and it was only when a Tommy recognized him from photographs that he was identified as Hess, the next to the top man on the Nazi totem pole.

Tried At Nuremberg

His injuries treated, Hess was moved in several stages to the Tower of London and then to a prison in the other place of captivity in England. The war was over, Churchill had him transferred, in October, 1945, to Nuremberg where he stood trial with the other Nazi leaders.

Hess was tried because he was one of the early Nazis, having joined the party in 1920. In those days he became Hitler's private secretary, and in that capacity he was a member of the Communist party. Malenkov had been Stalin's private secretary.

Always Hitler's shadow, Hess took part in the unsuccessful Ludendorff "putsch" in Munich, the famous beer hall rebellion, was jailed in the same cell with Hitler and Landberg, Bavaria. It was there, as a prisoner, that Hitler wrote "Mein Kampf".

Half an hour later his assistant, Hans Fritzsche, who had had occasion to work with as head of the press section of the Propaganda Ministry, had been unsuccessfully in his office and at his home. Goebbels, he was told, had fled to his country place near Landau.

Fritzsche finally caught up with Goebbels there and asked him to return to the Propaganda Ministry to see what would the newspapers be. What was the radio to announce? How was the flight to be explained?

"I'm not coming to the office today," Goebbels answered suddenly.

"But we have to say something," Fritzsche replied, pressing his case for guidance.

"Say anything you please," Goebbels told him. "There are no instructions, which even the best propagandist cannot cope. I'm going to bed and I'm not to be bothered!"

Sequence Of Lies

It is now a matter of record that in view of Goebbels' refusal to give orders, it was up to his assistant, Dr. Otto Dietrich, to DNB the Nazi news agency, and over the radio that Hess had been an accident and had been comatose for some time.

That news had hardly been put on the wires and one said than someone in the Propaganda Ministry realized that it would be too late to do such a story in Germany knew Hess had never been mobilized.

Dietrich next put out a version that Hess had temporarily gone out of his mind and motivated by his overwhelming passion for peace, had come to England. Above all, Dietrich added, he was not a traitor because he had military secrets to betray.

Nothing But Confusion

When Goebbels, in his rural hideout heard this on the radio, he had a fit. How could anyone say that Hess, who was still Hitler's deputy, had gone insane? What a ghastly impression such

Pointing To Flawless Flying, Churchill Remains Convinced Hess Was Not Crazy

Shortly after I learned of the rumor from a French underground radio source, I repeated it to Dr. Brinon, then the Vichy government's "ambassador" to the German occupation regime in Paris. His answer, BBC be, I just talked to Berlin an hour ago and they said nothing about it. De Brinon told me.

He was wrong on two counts. BBC smugly kept its mouth shut, and let Berlin lead with his chin. Goebbels was just as surprised by the lie as I was. He was at home when the news was telephoned to him and, for once, he was speechless. No wonder they had told De Brinon nothing in Berlin.

Goebbels in Hiding

Half an hour later his assistant, Hans Fritzsche, who had had occasion to work with as head of the press section of the Propaganda Ministry, had been unsuccessfully in his office and at his home. Goebbels, he was told, had fled to his country place near Landau.

Fritzsche finally caught up with Goebbels there and asked him to return to the Propaganda Ministry to see what would the newspapers be. What was the radio to announce? How was the flight to be explained?

"I'm not coming to the office today," Goebbels answered suddenly.

"But we have to say something," Fritzsche replied, pressing his case for guidance.

"Say anything you please," Goebbels told him. "There are no instructions, which even the best propagandist cannot cope. I'm going to bed and I'm not to be bothered!"

Sequence Of Lies

It is now a matter of record that in view of Goebbels' refusal to give orders, it was up to his assistant, Dr. Otto Dietrich, to DNB the Nazi news agency, and over the radio that Hess had been an accident and had been comatose for some time.

That news had hardly been put on the wires and one said than someone in the Propaganda Ministry realized that it would be too late to do such a story in Germany knew Hess had never been mobilized.

Dietrich next put out a version that Hess had temporarily gone out of his mind and motivated by his overwhelming passion for peace, had come to England. Above all, Dietrich added, he was not a traitor because he had military secrets to betray.

Nothing But Confusion

When Goebbels, in his rural hideout heard this on the radio, he had a fit. How could anyone say that Hess, who was still Hitler's deputy, had gone insane? What a ghastly impression such a story would make on the average German, he shouted at his underlings. People might begin to ask whether Hitler was not crazy too, and Goering, and Ribbentrop, and Himmler and even Goebbels!

So, at the peak of the confusion, the whole story was killed before it could reach public ears. It had been told over the air, however, and I heard it in the many remembrance talks that day. The Parisians could not hide their satisfaction. They repeated the word "Hess" loudly every time they passed a German officer or soldier.

Goebbels later wrote in his diary that Hess, by his flight, inflicted a devastating loss of prestige on the Third Reich. To another he said that the Hess affair was more serious than the desertion of an Army Corps. Much later, Goebbels entered in his diary mention of a talk he had with Hitler about Hess.

Talk With Hitler

According to Hitler's own story, as relayed in Goebbels' published memoirs, Hess came to him and asked if he was willing to change his fundamental policy of enmity towards Britain. The Führer said he had changed it, so Hess made up his mind to try personal intervention and, in his opinion, decided there and then to go to Britain. He actually took off four days after that talk.

It all happened 13 years ago and times have caught up with Hess. Since that episode, Churchill and Goebbels, among others, have been published and it becomes apparent that the sole motive behind Hess' flight was to stop the war between the English and the Germans, to give Russia a free hand against the Russians.

At the time that Hess flew away, Germany was, technically, at war with Moscow. A few weeks later, the German armies, at Hitler's command, invaded the Soviet Union. Goebbels, until his death, was convinced that the coming invasion of Russia, Churchill, in his twisted mind, had changed the question of Russia was put to Hess he denied it.

It was Churchill's conclusion that Hess was not insane, but was a neurotic with a split personality, divided between his desire for peace and his German and English and his doglike devotion to his leader. As proof of Hess' sanity, Churchill points out that Hitler's deputy had no confederates, that he had long distance flying, that he worked out his route on the map himself, that he flew over water with accuracy and he landed by parachute only ten miles from his destination, Dungeness.

Prompted By Premonitions

On the other hand, there is the story of the dream of Hess' personal astrologer. His private fortune-teller, named Haushofer, had stuffed him with a story that on three occasions he dreamed, Haushofer had seen Hess in aeroplanes flying to an unknown destination as an angel.

of peace. Haushofer in one of those conversations mentioned the Duke of Hamilton.

Hess took these dreams as an omen. Remembering the pre-war "Cliveden" set, he long had been toying with the idea of going over the head of Churchill, "war mongers," or, better still, to the King, to appeal for peace and a free hand in the East for Hitler, to destroy Communism.

He was willing to swap a free hand for Britain in Europe for a free hand for Hitler in Slavic Europe and Asia.

Searching for a means of reaching the King, directly, Hess remembered having met the athletic Duke of Hamilton in Berlin during the Olympic Games. In his tortured mind, the Duke would certainly conduct him to the King to carry his peace offer. Looking up the Duke's address, he flew to him. Instead, the Duke telephoned to Churchill the surprising news.

Thus it came about that Hess finished his days as a free man at Nuremberg, the same beautiful old Bavarian city where, as organizer of the Nazi party congresses, he had, only a few short years before, been, next to Hitler alone, the most powerful Nazi of them all. The Hess cycle, from Nuremberg back to Nuremberg, reads like a dream and, even more strangely, it turned on a dream.

Birds Nests In Winter

Now leafless limbs are forced to let
A shocked mid-winter see
How June's musicians, off on tour,
Kept home in every tree.
Now prying winds who do, no doubt,
Their duty and no more,
Expose shortcomings covered up
By kindly green before.
Deploping shrilly flagrant faults
Which we have not the heart
To hold against small singers who

Ballots, Not Bullets

Nutley, regardless of political affiliations, is grateful that Congressman Peter W. Rodino was spared in the criminal demonstration by gunfire of Puerto Rican "patriots," in the House of Representatives, on Monday. Five others, alas, were the victims of both a shocking carelessness by guards and an insane "patriotism" which may have been inspired by Communism for purposes other than statehood.

The fusillade will have served a useful purpose if it brings serious Congressional study of the unusual privileged situation of Puerto Rico and of its natives who share all of the advantages of American citizenship without paying for any of them. Puerto Rico pays no American taxes, yet has all the advantages of any state. Its exports escape our tariffs and its administration is bolstered by aid of Federal funds. A Puerto Rican delegate sits in our Congress, with a voice and all the privileges except a vote.

Under the special privilege which it has enjoyed, Puerto Rico has escaped all immigration control laws. More than a million Puerto Ricans have migrated freely to this country — this week's gunmen and the

Rodino Escapes Shooting, Flays Attack On Congress

Two Bullets Shot By Puerto Rican Demonstrators Land Within 15 Feet Of Chair Vacated By 10th District Representative

Congressman Peter M. Rodino missed the gunplay in the House of Representatives, Tuesday afternoon, by a scant minute. He had just left the assembly room and was traveling by subway to his office in the House Office Building, across the square, when the shooting occurred. He learned of the attack by Puerto Rican nationalists over the House communications system speakers and hastened back to Congress.

Of the more than 40 shots which were fired from the balcony by three or more Puerto Rican demonstrators, two struck within fifteen feet of the desk and chair which the 10th District Congressman had just vacated.

John M. Wallace, of 95 Cedar Street, president of the Nutley chapter of the Americans For Democratic Action, was a spectator at the second phase of the shooting, on the para outside the Capitol House. Wallace led the Capote talkers to the balcony with Senator Wayne Morse in the Senate just before the shooting.

When Senator Morse was obliged to return to his seat, Wallace went up to the Senate gallery to watch the debate. He learned of the shooting when police cleared the Senate gallery. As he went outside, he saw the wounded Congressmen being led into ambulances.

"I never saw such swift police action," Wallace said upon his return to Nutley Tuesday night. "Within a matter of seconds, 300 police surrounded the Capitol as soon as the demonstrators reached the railway and bus stations and airports."

"It is shocking that men and women who profess to be patriots should resort to the tools of anarchy to force consideration of their pretensions," Congressman Rodino told The Nutley Sun in a telephone interview.

"No one has denied their independence to the Puerto Ricans. President Truman made an unconditional offer of independence and, recently, President Eisenhower reiterated the offer, to become effective when the island's elected government asks for it."

"Under those conditions, the Puerto Rican Nationalists should center their activity there. They should attempt by Democratic methods to convince their own government to ask for freedom and, for one, a willing to vote for its grant. Since the right of decision is with the island government, there is no valid excuse for the barbaric methods of assassins."

"The United States has been more than generous with Puerto Rico. We ended the conditions of bondage, the island knewy St. John. We sent in teachers, doctors, administrators, priests and we helped the people raise, by their own efforts, their standards. Total freedom is their the day they ask for it. It is obvious that the Puerto gunwoman among them. These million emigrants have settled, for the most part in two centers, in and around New York City and Miami. In New York's Harlem they have created a housing and social problem far greater than that which existed when the district was predominantly negro in population.

If Congress has been aroused sufficiently by this incident to make a serious study of the status of Puerto Rico, then the injuries suffered by five legislators will not have been in vain. It is abnormal that Puerto Rico should enjoy such privileged license any longer!

There was no valid moral or political reason for Monday's demonstration. Presidents Truman and Eisenhower have told the island people that they can have full independence any time the Puerto Rican government asks for it. Obviously, so long as the island enjoys a tax-free existence, pays no tariffs to sell its sugar and rum on the American market and has the privilege of dumping its population surplus on the United States without any restrictions — who would want independence?

If these "patriots" who indulged in the gunplay and those who armed them are, seriously, nationalists, they would abandon bullets for ballots. They would stage their action in San Juan and not in Washington. They screamed incoherently for freedom as they shot down men who were prepared to give it any day. Surely they must have known that if Puerto Rico is not independent, the responsibility lies with the government in San Juan, not with Washington.

There is but one way for Puerto Rico to win independence and that is in the Democratic manner, by ballots, not bullets. Any other method is that of Communism. If, as has been reported, Rafael Miranda, one of the gunmen, is a member of a Brooklyn cell of the Communist Party, then there can be but one conclusion — the criminal attack is of an origin other than patriotic. If Communist collusion can be proven then, in the opinion of The Nutley Sun, the Communist Party should be outlawed. The excuse that outlawing would drive the Communists underground should be the reason for the action — six feet underground would be ample.

One Man's Opinion

Following Failure Of Big Four Berlin Talks, Eden Now Proposes West European Nations Meet In Paris And Speed Up European Army

BY RALPH E. HEINZEN

Such is the paradoxical nature of international diplomacy that Britain, which never has consented to join the European Army, has taken the initiative in calling a new conference for Paris of the nations of Western Europe to press for enactment of the European Defense Community treaty provision for the creation of that powerful military coalition and for the rearming of West Germany.

Admitting that there is a danger in rearming Germany, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, in calling the Paris meeting, has pointed out that it no longer is a question of whether Germany will rearm but of how she will rearm and what controls can be enforced on her rearming. To the British, the best control is the EDC European army plan and in that way Germany can be brought in as a partner and not allowed to rearm in secret — as Hitler did — as an outsider.

The only alternative to the Paris meeting was an invitation by the three western Allied high commissioners in Berlin to their Soviet opposite number to negotiate a "little German solution" wherein, for life or the Germans of both zones would be rendered easier by relaxing the barriers that have existed since eight years between East Germany and West Germany.

Could Ease Life

This solution, even if achieved, would of course be no substitute for German reunification through free elections, which the United States, Britain, and France support but which was rejected by the Soviet Union. This lesser proposal, however, could considerably alleviate present hardships and remove obstacles to free movement between West Germany and West Berlin on one side and East Germany and East Berlin on the other.

Soviet High Commissioner Vladimir Semjonov was officially requested this week by his American, British, and French opposite numbers to cooperate in reaching an agreement on measures to permit free travel for West Germans in the Soviet zone without the necessity of having recourse permits, on re-opening of interzonal crossing points closed by East German authorities before the middle of 1952, on improving interzonal road and rail transport services between all sectors of Berlin on one side and East and West Germany on the other, and on removing controls and barriers now existing to free circulation of printed matter between East and West Germany.

A City Divided

As far as Berlin is concerned, all formalities now existing in connection with the movement of persons between Berlin and East Germany should be removed. So should barriers between West Berlin and West Germany, and customs-free transit of goods between these areas should be permitted. The 1953 meeting was a two day program. Present plans indicate two section meetings will be held in the morning and a general session in the afternoon. Details of the program remain to be announced.

products essential to the whole Soviet bloc. But it requires a great stretch of the imagination to see the Communists surrendering their control over road and rail traffic to West Berlin, allowing West German and West Berlin "spies and agitators" to move freely in East Germany. Even if the Kremlin accepted this last-mentioned condition, East German security police would fight it vigorously.

In fact, it appears an extremely facile optimism which assumes that in these coming discussions Moscow or its East German satellite government will concede anything unless such concessions are seen as a possible means of infiltration into the West German Federal Republic. But Molotov having made the proposal for such a "little German solution," the Soviet high commissioner cannot retract it.

He can in typical Soviet fashion, however, allow the negotiations to drag on interminably. An example of this method is the four-power discussion on western air flights between West Germany and West Berlin, which started months ago and still is going on.

Semjonov has not yet replied on this proposal to the three Allied high commissioners, but there may be a forecast of an eventual Communist rejection in the near future.

But police controls and street barriers remain at sector borders and direct streetcar services throughout the whole city have not been reestablished. There must be reliable and efficient postal services between all parts of the city, Berliners declare.

Everyone A "Fascist"

For the duration of the recent Big Four foreign secretaries' conference, some direct telephone connections between the east and west sectors of Berlin were opened up. Immediately after the conference ended, these few lines were disconnected again.

There also is the question of free circulation of literature, films, newspapers, and so on, which the western powers demand. At present any person found in East Berlin or in East Germany with a newspaper from West Germany or West Berlin is given rough treatment by the authorities. He is fortunate to be merely branded a saboteur or "Fascist spy."

Molotov proposed at the conference the exploring of possibilities for closer cooperation between the western and eastern parts of Germany. He extended it to "culture" and sport. But without attempting to be unduly pessimistic before discussions between both sides are ever begun, it must be remembered that hitherto the Soviet Union has failed to prove by actions its occasionally expressed desire to establish a free interchange of opinion and information.

Molotov's Idea First

The Kremlin wants to increase trade with West Germany because this country has industrial

MAAS HOSPITAL OFFERS SITE FOR PALSY CENTER

Proposes Building On Franklin Avenue Tract After Glen Ridge Refuses Variance

Following the refusal of the Glen Ridge Board of Adjustment to grant a variance in a residential zone, the United Cerebral Palsy of Essex County received an offer this week from Clara Maas Memorial Hospital to use a section of its 15-acre property in Franklin Avenue, Belleville, as a site for the proposed new Cerebral Palsy Center.

Charles E. Garabrant, president of the CP organization, announced that the CP board of directors immediately decided to set up a special committee to meet with hospital representatives to discuss the offer. Acceptance of the offer by the CP organization, he emphasized, would in no way change the independent status of either organization. Each would remain completely autonomous and would continue to be responsible for its own finances and fund-raising.

The offer was made by Clara Maas Hospital in a move to further its plan for establishment of a complete medical center on its own property. Under the plan, announced last month, the hospital sought the cooperation of specialty hospitals, such as cerebral palsy, heart and cancer clinics, and other similar groups, in locating on the hospital property to help create a medical center.

A committee was set up by the hospital board at that time to negotiate with groups interested in the plan, and it was this committee which made the offer to the CP organization. The CP unit is the first group to consider locating on the Clara Maas property.

The CP organization had previously been considering a site at the intersection of Hillside Avenue and Washington Street, in Glen Ridge, as a site for its new center. This location being in a residential area, a zoning variance had to be sought from the Board of Adjustment which turned down the request.

The new CP center will replace present inadequate facilities in the basement of Summer Avenue School, Newark. The CP campaign for $400,000 to pay for the new building, which has raised $207,974 to date, will continue through 1954.

Essex Home Eco. Workshop Reas Of Foam Rubber Uses

The varied uses of foam rubber was the topic of the Essex County Home Economics Extension Service Workshop, on Tuesday, at its meeting at 25 Thirteenth Avenue, Newark.

Miss Joan B. Weiss, assistant home agent, discussed the types of foam rubber and demonstrated how to use it to its best advantage. These meetings of the Extension Service are open to the public without charge of ticket.

Cana Conference III Held For St. Mary's Couples

Fifty couples from Nutley and Belleville are expected to attend a Cana Conference III conducted by Rev. John M. Goiding, Jr., St. Mary's School Hall, on Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. Father Goiding's topic will be "Parent and Child Relationship." Rita and Dick Scheinert, of 76 Lakeside Drive, are in charge of arrangements. Reservations may be made by calling Nutley 2-5325.

Named for the town in Galilee where Christ made marriage a sacrament, Cana Conferences began less than ten years ago. They consist of informal pairings of married couples who meet under the guidance of a priest.

During last year and the early part of this year, between 1,200 and 1,600 couples, in the Archdiocese of Newark, attended Cana Conferences. Next year the figure is expected to double.

The next conference scheduled for St. Mary's will be a Cana I, during the month of April, the exact date to be announced later. The regular monthly meeting of St. Mary's Cana Club will be held.
