Council-Manager Form Of Government Under Charter

By the terms of the Optional Municipal Charter Law of 1950, there are three forms of municipal government which can be adopted by the Town of Belleville. Last week we discussed the Mayor-Council Form. This article will discuss the Council-Manager Form. Again we suggest this article be clipped from the newspaper by the reader and kept for future reference and comparison.

The first municipal use of the title "manager" occurred in Staunton, Virginia in 1905 when the office of "general manager" was created and continued for several years as a novel adjunct to an old-fashioned government consisting of a two-man city council and a mayor. What is now known as the council-manager plan appeared in a Charter proposed for Lockport, N. Y., in 1917; the first actual adoption was in 1912 in Sumter, South Carolina. Well over a thousand cities, including some counties, have this form of government.

The Council-Manager Form of municipal government consists of an elected council of five to nine members serving four year terms and a competent city manager appointed by the council.

The council, as the elected representatives of the citizens, is responsible for the establishment of the legislative policy of the community. It adopts all resolutions and ordinances, determines organization, powers and duties of administrative departments and investigates the departmental appointments and removes the city manager and clerk and may provide for appointment of a city attorney, and planning, zoning and personnel boards. The council approves the annual budget of the city and approves any contracts negotiated by the city.

The council elects a mayor from within its membership who presides over the council when he has a voice and a vote in the council proceedings but he does not have the power to veto. His appointive power is limited to filling vacancies which may occur among the members of the public library and, in some municipalities, in the board of education. He executes the city's contracts, and written obligations on behalf of the city.

Isadore J. Padula
Files Officially For Commission

Isadore J. Padula, widely known attorney who lost the last election by 57 votes, yesterday afternoon filed as a candidate for the office of town commissioner. At the same time he announced that he would open his campaign headquarters at 133 Washington Avenue on March 25.

Long active in civic and political affairs, as well as in church and fraternal organizations, Padula is presently general chairman for the 1954 fund-raising campaign of the Belleville chapter of the Red Cross. He also has served as both local and Essex County chairman of the Sister Kenny Foundation Fund Drive.

In his campaign statement, Padula declared:

"I am a candidate in the 1950 Commission election here in Belleville because I felt it was my civic duty to comply with the requests of many fine citizens that I use my knowledge of the fundamentals of government, my concern for people in all walks of life, and my legal training to help improve the government."

"Perhaps the humble 57 votes which kept me from participating in the affairs of government at town hall served the good purpose of permitting the voters to balance my platform plans against the course followed by the victorious candidates of the past four years. Thousands approved the improvements I proposed in 1950 which are still necessary in 1954. As a matter of fact, I hardly need make any changes in my 1950 platform to make it current for 1954.

"I find it imperative that I again seek election to the Board of Commissioners on May 11th to vindicate the people's trust in free elections, and to fulfill a pledge to myself to continue to work to place Belleville in line with municipalities that pay as they go without sacrificing progressive needs, and still maintain the kind of reserve fund which will insure that we can maintain for sound solvency.

"On March 25th I shall open my campaign headquarters at 133 Washington Avenue."

Design For Tomorrow

Nurses of the Future Enrolled by School Club

A unique plan to provide more nurses for the community and nation has done so well at the Belleville High School that its originators hope to expand the program, set up as the "Future Nurses Club."

Enrolled in the club are 33 high school students who propose to make nursing their career, and all of the 13 previous members of the club, who are now in high school or nursing training.

The program was planned and originated several years ago by Miss Alice McKenzie, high school nurse, and the Belleville Woman's Club. Yesterday it was announced that the Belleville Foundation had donated $150 to pay the cost of making special pins to be worn by club members, in addition to other expenses. The Foundation has also established a scholarship fund program which will consider scholarship loans to girls who wish to enroll in nursing training schools.

The plan was inspired by the country shortage of nurses, which is paralleled only by the shortage of hospital beds.

Some members of the club serve as Junior Nurses Aids at Columbia Hospital, and those whose curriculum does not permit to do so, fulfill this service except to enroll in a summer course at the hospital, if present plans are realized.

Charter Study Is Favored In May Election

With a slate of five candidates for a Charter Study Commission unopposed on the ballot, and the Charter Study itself so far apparently facing little open opposition, the candidates and the plan appear to have a better than even chance of winning out in the May election in the opinion of usually dependable political prophets.

But with the caution characteristic of professional predictors, the politicians are careful to say that "something might turn up" that would change the entire picture, and that certain unforeseen opposition could develop "unexpected" strength. Most of them confide, however, that at this point the supporters of the Charter Study have reason to feel optimistic.

Prime supporter for the Charter Study plan is Belleville's Young Men in Government, which also nominated the committee slate and candidates who will be unopposed for posts on the five-man Charter Study Commission because no other candidates had filed for race when the time limit expired last Friday. Election of the Charter Commission is dependent on whether the Charter Study itself is voted in. Citizens will cast their ballots on both questions at the same time.

Members of the Young Men in Government, headed by Peter A. Torre, Jr., were to meet to blue-print plans for a campaign to carry the Charter study to every resident of Belleville, and to further acquaint the citizens of the town with the five candidates it is supporting for the Charter Commission. They are James V. Gato, John J. Gibbons, Boyd A. Harley, Raymond O. Smith, and Mrs. Lenora B. Wolfe.

It was also learned that the group would be addressed by representatives of the Belleville Citizens' Association, which is supporting the move to change the Board of Education from an appointive to an elective body.

500 Drivers Jam Office Each Day For Plates, Etc.

More than 500 motorists per day are receiving 1954 driver licenses, auto registrations, and other services at his offices at 87 Washington Avenue, Thomas Maglione, Belleville's recently appointed motor vehicle licensing agent, announced yesterday.

He said that although the rush had been heavy the severe clerks in the office, in addition to himself, had kept pace with the applicants.

"No one had to stand out in the street," he declared. "We expect that in the last nine days before the expiration date on March 31, we will process about 750 auto drivers daily, but we are prepared for it."

Maglione had originally closed his office at 4 p.m. on weekdays, but it is now open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Beginning with March 31.

Bellwood Crier Wins 2nd Place In Press Contest

The Bellwood Crier, a newspaper published by the students of No. 10 School, was awarded second place Friday in a nationwide contest sponsored by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

More than 1,500 publications from the United States and several foreign countries were entered in the competition, and the entries were judged on the basis of typography, layout, features, editorial, and illustrations.

The Bellwood Crier is only one year old and started entirely by the pupils. It is published semi-weekly, on Wednesdays and Fridays.

Harry Sullivan, 18, a senior at the school, is the editor-in-chief. He is assisted by a staff of writers and editors. The paper's circulation is about 100 copies.

High School Teachers Meet To Discuss Youth

Belleville's High School teachers met on Monday in the school library at 3 p.m. to discuss the evaluative criteria on the "Educational Needs of Youth."

Harry Miller, chairman of the "cc" committee for the group presented a complete progress report of the work done so far.

The teachers discussed the various factors that influence a student's education, including family, community, and school. They agreed to continue their work on this project throughout the year.

Drive For Elective School Board Is Launched By Local Group

An all-out campaign to change the Board of Education from an appointive to an elective body was being drawn up today by the Belleville Citizens' Association in preparation for the May election, when the issue will be submitted to the voters of the town for a decision.

The referendum vote was recently authorized by the Town Commission, and in a statement issued late yesterday the Citizens' Association, through Edward J. Ackerman, chairman of its public relations committee, declared that an elective board would be the "first major improvement" of the school system in at least 30 years of unfavorable school administration.

At the same time the Association made public for the first time a proposal that candidates for such an elective board be selected for endorsement by the joint action of every non-political civic and service organization in Belleville. The Board, according to the plan outlined in the statement, would be composed of nine members instead of five, the present number.

Though highly critical of the current Board of Education, Ackerman pointed out that his declaration was not basically intended to attack the Board but to bring the appointive system which placed its members in office.

The Association repeated that the sponsorship of an elective Board to take the place of appointive members.

Albertine To Run For Commission; Gets Petitions

Michael V. Albertine, an insurance broker, of 631 Joramoney Street, yesterday afternoon took out petitions for his candidacy as a town commissioner in the May election, and said he would definitely make the race.

"A comparatively unknown figure in politics, Albertine, a former school teacher, has appeared occasionally at Town Commission meetings to present his views. He says he headed a committee for an elective school board in 1949. Born and raised in Belleville, the broker, who is 35, was graduated from Belleville High School in 1936. Graduated from the University of Wisconsin at Stevens Point, he attended Marquette College, and is a graduate of the school.

He was an instructor in the Junior and senior high schools of Belleville, Pa., then in 1943 he went into the Air Corps as a flying cadet. "Washed out" he became a night traffic clerk for the Air Transport Command in the South Pacific.

Upon his discharge from the service, he returned to Belleville.

Robert Fischer Sentenced To 6 to 10 Years

Pleading guilty to three robberies, Robert Fischer, 23, of Belleville, was sentenced to serve from six to 10 years in Trenton State Prison when he was brought before County Judge Joseph E. Conlon in Newark yesterday.

Fischer is the brother of Joseph Fischer, 23, who has been indicted by the Grand Jury for the murder of Harry Powell, Jr., Belleville high school student, in Branch Brook Park Extension on December 27.

In his confession, Robert Fischer told police he and Joseph had taken a $55 watch and six dollars in cash from Harry Powell on a general larceny charge before Joseph allegedly committed the murder. On January 17, he said, he took $6.25 at the point of a knife from Harry Rittenberg, a cab driver, who had driven him to the scene of the Powell murder.

120 Students At Last Rites For Teacher

The flag at No. 7 school flew at half-mast on Wednesday as more than 120 seventh and eighth grade students attended the solemn high requiem mass at St. Peter's church for Miss Marie E. Trost, who had taught at the school for almost 30 years, and was its acting principal. With the school children were Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. Evan Thomas, and members of the St. Peter's church choir.

Miss Trost, of 62 DeWitt Avenue, died Sunday at St. Michael's hospital in Newark, after a brief illness. She was a life-long resident of Belleville, and is survived by her mother, Mrs. Mary A. Trost, a twin brother, Commander Frederick J. Trost, USNR, Levittown, Pa., and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Haas of Fairhaven.

The Catholic Women's club, of which Miss Trost was a member, conducted a service on Tuesday evening at the German Funeral Home, 101 Union Avenue.

As acting principal of No. 7 school, she had been in charge of the school since the death of Miss Trost.

Attack Hyde and Golden Records On 1954 Budget

Contending that Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde, and James R. Golden, candidate for the Town Commission, are working together "for the purpose of maintaining the political patronage system of the town of Belleville," the Belleville Civic Association issued a statement yesterday declaring that both men are "resorted to spurious claims and charges" during discussions of the 1954 municipal budget.

The statement, issued through John Cappel, secretary of the Association, supported the budget as finally recommended by the commission, and denied charges which it attributed to Golden that the budget "resorts to deficit financing."

As introduced by Mayor Tully, the budget is 4 to 10 in favor of the town commission, the budget is sound and should be approved on final hearing, the statement declared. "The budget provides for a cash surplus of $265,000, the same as in 1953. This is a larger cash surplus than that retained by other comparable municipalities in Essex County. A reserve of this size has been ample for many years and the town has been commended by Dun & Bradstreet for maintaining a strong financial position."

The budget provides for a 3.5 percent cushion as a contingency against unforecasted taxes. This is extremely conservative financing and is superior to the tax contingencies of many or most Essex County towns.

"The Citizens Budget Committee is to be commended for doing a good job of the recommendations that have not been followed, the 1954 tax rate would have been $6.62 instead of the $6.53, now projected. Thus Belleville is enabled to become one of the very few towns in Essex County to have a surplus."

more than $400 was collected by the mothers of No. 4 School. Only one other suburban community in Essex County raised a greater sum.

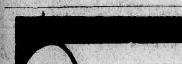

The combined efforts of St. Peter's and St. Anthony's CVO's brought in $1,140, of which St. Peter's, under the direction of the Rev. Francis A. Ignacinski, realized $1,012 through its basketball proceeds and church socials. St. Anthony's, under Rev. Thomas Gillick's supervision, brought in $138.

The Council of Church Women realized $196, with the highest single sum, $62, coming from the Montgomery Presbyterian Church, and the women of Congregation A.A.A. turning in $56.

Receipts collected through the efforts of the women of the W. E. W. auxiliary amounted to $32, the Women's Episcopalian Club $89, the Catholic Daughters of America $44, and the Woman's Club $26.

Labor, including $200 from employees of Eastwood Realty, $184 from Radio Radio, and an average monthly contribution of $17 from Wallace & Terman employees, contributed a total of $457. Organizations contributed $45.

She was in charge of the Junior Police Patrol, which, under her guidance, won 18 awards for outstanding service during the past 35 years. She planned and arranged annual Boy Scout programs, and participated in the Belleville Workshop activities. Miss Torie also gave generously of her time to Parent-Teacher functions, and served on the executive council of the Superintendent of Schools.

She was a member of the National Education Association, the New Jersey Educational Association, the Classroom Teachers' Association and the Belleville Teachers' Association.

For more than 20 years, she taught geography, science and art to the seventh and eighth grades of the school, and served on textbook committees.

Sullivan

Among the accomplishments which he cited during his term in office was the creation of an Emergency Relations Board, which he said had been established to "eliminate indiscriminate suspensions of members of the Department of Public Safety." Others, he said, included the organization of the Police Athletic League, purchase of a modern and fully equipped ambulance in addition to the use of an older vehicle, and the purchase of a new fire truck, which he said had sharpened the efficiency and morale of the department, to the benefit of the public.

Since he went into office four years ago, Commissioner Sullivan said, he had observed a large increase in the salaries of firemen and policemen from $3,300 to $4,600 per year. He declared it was his desire to keep wages in his department at a level comparable with surrounding communities, and he said he had managed to do this through keeping other expenses at the lowest possible figures while maintaining both existing and new services.

The commissioner also detailed his co-operation in joining with other commissioners to work with the Citizens' Budget Committee, realizing the original 1954 budget of $1,012 through its basketball proceeds and church socials.

Commissioner Sullivan, who was born and reared in Belleville and lives with his wife and four children at 5 Bell Street, is the son of retired Police Captain and Chief of Police William J. Sullivan, a long-time resident of Belleville.

He is an executive vice-president of the New Jersey Advertising Association of Newark.

"The commissioner was educated at St. Peter's School here and at St. Benedict's Preparatory School, Newark."

He was actively associated in the past two years with the campaign for Peter W. Rodino, Jr., who was "marked by a greatly increased number of votes in Belleville." Among the campaigns he managed were two for Public Works Director Patrick A. Waters, who saw Waters win first and second place in the two elections. He also served as campaign manager for Francis "Pat" Troy during the recent campaign for sheriff of Essex County.

Commissioner Sullivan served as co-ordinator of Civilian Defense for Belleville during World War I. For most of this position he was appointed deputy area administrator, supervising civil defense activities in Union, Essex, Hudson, Bergen and Passaic counties, and parts of Middlesex and Somerset counties. He was responsible for the training of more than 250,000 volunteers, the administration of rules and regulations, and the distribution of hundreds of thousands of dollars in equipment.

He also served as lecturer for the State Technical Writers School under Professor Hubert N. Alyea of Princeton University. At present he holds the office of co-ordinator of Civil Defense in Belleville. He is Advocate of the Belleville Council of the Knights of Columbus, treasurer of the T. J. Gulligan Association, a member of the Adult Council of the CVO and the Robert Frost Scout Council, and a trustee of the American Legion Hospital in Newark. The commissioner has served as chairman of the recreation panel of the Belleville Planning Committee, and as Times Athletic Editor. He has been actively engaged in Red Cross, Sister Kenny Polio Foundation, and Cerebral Palsy League campaigns.

Attack

to cutback this year.

"All reductions recommended by the Citizens' Budget Committee were incorporated in the executive budget for all departments we submitted by the mayor, and the budget was approved as to form by the municipal advisory A. A. Hart. The budget appropriations are sufficient to provide adequate municipal services in all departments, including the Department of Parks and Public Property and the recreation division of Commissioner Hyde, which has shown a larger average annual increase than any other department in the last four years."

The unfounded and limited opposition to the budget primarily stemmed from Golden and misleader Hyde. This opposition has been entirely unconstructive in that it has proposed nothing to aid in halting the tax rate increase, which has shown a larger average annual increase than any other department in the last four years.

"It is apparent that Golden and Hyde are playing their own political game for the purpose of maintaining political patronage at the expense of the taxpayers of Belleville."

"In trying to divert attention from this, Hyde and Golden have resorted to spurious claims and charges."

"Hyde says his recreation program will be wrecked, whereas the fact is that his continuously increasing budget is higher than ever."

"Golden charges that Michael Dacey, a temporary part-time employee in the water department, is holding three jobs at once. The record refutes this. Dacey was separated from the water department payroll December 15 of last year. His case is not, and has not been, a valid case in the present budget."

Our investigation shows that Dacey was employed temporarily to assist in cleaning up a backlog of water bills and readings, and that as a result of work in which he was engaged the water department collection was increased by approximately $41,000.

"We believe that Golden is using an instance such as Dacey's to draw a red herring across the trail in behalf of Mr. Hyde, particularly since Golden says nothing about Mr. Hyde's many temporary and part-time employees for whom payment is made in Mr. Hyde's budget for this year, and therefore directly affecting this year's tax rate. Among Mr. Hyde's part-time employees currently drawing money from the town treasury are such cases as that of Douglas Wadsworth, who has a funeral parlor, and James Lampman, Hyde's $1,200 a year deputy, who has a full time position as an executive with Heinz & Co."

"Since Mr. Golden unfairly seeks to confuse the issue rather than help in the fight for lower taxes, and background should be revealed, we believe his personal motives and we intend to investigate further."

"We call upon Golden to explain to what extent, and why, he is collaborating with Hyde. We also believe Golden and Hyde should answer the question currently being heard about the town as to whether Hyde is supplying Golden with campaign funds, and whether any of his newspaper ads, and whether any of the part-time employees on Hyde's payroll are helping to provide such funds."

Fischer

Belleville from Newark. A few hours later he "walked back to town" and tried to enter a Broadway candy store and robbed Lester Baron, the proprietor, of $28.

Fischer fled, but two police patrolmen, who were searching for him, saw Fischer enter another candy store and arrested him. Later he attempted to commit suicide in the police jail.

Joseph Fischer is still waiting trial on the murder charge. A plea of not guilty was automatically entered in his behalf, and he is appointed Newark attorneys as his counsel. They are R. J. Reiner and Robert Werten-dyke. The attorneys said they were making preparations for his trial, which may not take place before summer.

complete all of their contacts before making any return. He explained that "it is normal working psychology to hold back on the return until the very last copy has been checked."

The advanced gifts groups, under the leadership of Frank J. McFadden, have received $1976 from the "gift-giving" citizens of the Town, and McFadden feels sure that the figure will be doubled when all returns are in.

Isadore J. Padula, general chairman for the campaign, declared that there was a "need for every chairman, every captain, every fund worker, every volunteer, or he approach to determine whether or not they are using every means possible to reach the people for their contributions and moral support."

"If you are sincerely concerned about this problem, I would suggest that you attack it at the bottom, and order the dairy companies to leave more butter fat in fluid milk for babies and children."

J. Claude Powers, fund secretary, is maintaining evening office at Red Cross headquarters on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, to accept weekly returns and plan the largest volunteer drive to turn in their returns immediately instead of waiting to cover every position on their list of volunteers.

"Jim Powers spends many months every year getting all of the fund cash typed up, averaging 100,000 returns, and planning the hundreds of details necessary to the campaign," Chairman Padula said. "Let's help him with his job."

Padula

Washington Avenue. The public is invited to this opening, and a letter is invited from the Isadore J. Padula Veterans' Association, which will be presented from Seven P.M. until 10 P.M."

At the same time Padula announced that he sent a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson protesting price supports which would keep dairy products at their present cost level.

"You may call this a national issue of milk, but as far as I am concerned it is a very much local issue, too, in the sense that every resident of Belleville has to meet these same high prices," Mr. Padula said.

His letter to Secretary Benson follows:

"I had just read the newspaper account of the efforts of your department to move onto the retail market the vast amount of surplus butter and cheese which our government acquired through its dairy price support program."

"As an attorney, I come in contact with people in all economic brackets and I am shocked to learn that millions of pounds of butter and cheese are in government-controlled storage, on the verge of spoiling, while thousands of American families are subsisting on diets grossly lacking in these vital foods, and in many cases completely without them."

"Families that today cannot afford butter at the current price pay taxes to the Federal government. Price support programs are financed with tax money. Yet the release from your department stated that only persons who bought a pound of fresh cheese or butter at market prices could obtain a coupon entitling them to purchase a pound of old butter or cheese at a lower price."

In short, Mr. Benson, you are allowing the American taxpayer to pay a second time for surplus stocks, and you are attempting to move the high-priced stocks at the same time. In the meantime, the dairy companies will continue to produce milk into cheese and butter, to force it into surplus for a price. I think the American people are about as long suffering as any people, and this system of dealing with food supplies is due for a change."

"If you are sincerely concerned about this problem, I would suggest that you attack it at the bottom, and order the dairy companies to leave more butter fat in fluid milk for babies and children."

This will reduce the amount to be processed into butter and cheese, and allow the supply to conform to the demand in ratio to prices.

"It is true that by law certain standards are set that control the butter fat content for fluid milk. But every housewife knows that the present minimum standard is too low at three points. Even at six points it is hardly sufficient for proper nourishment for growing children, invalids and active adults."

"I urge you to stop pampering the food supply companies and give the American people the kind of food dairy supplies are entitled to."

the municipality after approval by the council.

The city manager, appointed by a majority vote of the council, is the administrative head of the municipality with authority over all departments. His duties include responsibility for the execution of all laws and ordinances of the municipality; preparation and submission of an annual budget to the council; negotiation of contracts for the city subject to council approval; advice to the council in the form of recommendations and reports and participation in the discussions of the council but without the powers of veto or vote; appointment and removal through the council of all civil servants and all subordinates. In effect, the council is the governing body of the municipality.

feet, the manager serves as the agent of the council. He holds office at the pleasure of the council during the first three years of his employment after which he may only be removed for cause by a majority vote of the council. The law requires a preliminary request by the council stating the reasons for removal, and the manager may reply in writing and request a public hearing before the dismissal becomes final.

The council is required to act as a body representing the voters of all matters. Under the law, members of the council are not to act as individuals to influence the city manager or other municipal officer. The intent is to provide a separation of legislative from executive responsibilities but avoiding a separation of powers.

Under the Optional Municipal Charter Law of 1950, there are five variations of the Council-Manager Form which may be adopted, one of which is applicable only to municipalities of less than 12,000 population. The variations are in method of election and number of councilmen. They are similar to the variations described in last week's article discussing the Mayor's article discussing the Mayor's re-Council Form of government. For purposes of identification, we will refer to the permanent variations as Plan A through D.

Plan A provides for five councilmen elected every four years on a non-partisan basis. Council members have overlapping terms to provide a continuous legislative body.

Plan C provides 5, 7, or 9 councilmen, elected from wards and at large on a non-partisan basis with the entire council elected at one time.

Plan D is the same as Plan B, except that councilmen are elected both from wards and at large.

Plan E is the same as Plan B, except that councilmen are elected both from wards and at large.

Plan F is the same as Plan B, except that councilmen are elected both from wards and at large.

Plan G is the same as Plan B, except that councilmen are elected both from wards and at large.

Plan H is the same as Plan B, except that councilmen are elected both from wards and at large.

Plan I is the same as Plan B, except that councilmen are elected both from wards and at large.

Golden Comments

Hi Neighbor! Well like I told you last week, I'm going to give you some editorial comments about this Town Commission election that I've gotten into in the hope of straightening out a pretty bad mess down at Town Hall. I'm presenting it here in my own column, because it's not always possible to get all the facts in the regular news reports. Seldom, if ever, do you find in these newspaper stories all the things that I've been complaining about. Seems the newspapers shy away from carrying stories which might offend the "Big Shot" or manufacturers who run paid ads in their publications.

I want you people to know how you are saddled with what I regard as needless expense in the operation of your town government. Things which I'm determined to wipe out and eliminate such as needless car allowances paid to town workers in addition to their regular salaries or unnecessary expense in the operation of your town government. Things which I'm determined to wipe out and eliminate such as needless car allowances paid to town workers in addition to their regular salaries or unnecessary expense in the operation of your town government.

I want you to know how town employees have at their disposal town-owned cars, which they garage at their homes and the town pays the monthly garage rent to the private owners of the property, in instances the same employee himself. I want you to know that the town pays $85 a month for the rental of a relief office, another cost heaped upon the taxpayer while the town acquired the property in the first place. The relief office was adapted to accommodate all these expensive services, and which would have permitted the placing of the child clinic on street level, rather than on the top floor of the Town Hall where mothers have to lug their infants up gruesome flights of stairs.

My request that the property referred to above be utilized by the town to accommodate garages and office facilities at a substantial annual savings in rentals was callously ignored in favor of a projected parking area for town employees. Seems, Neighbor, that the Town Hall crowd is so busy taking care of themselves that they don't have much time or regard for the little fellows. I don't go for that, Neighbor. I feel that if I am going to help pay the bills, I should have a voice in how our funds are spent and how we can save a buck.

I don't go for politicians who apparently feel that they can do no wrong. Public office should be a public trust, not a license to run roughshod over the individuals whose rights they are sworn to protect and whose interests they are pledged to serve.

I want you to know that hidden in the budget are appropriations making possible luxurious junkets to various conventions by political office-holders and employees on their staffs. We also pay their individual registration fees to the organizations holding the conventions. We pay for their meals and hotel bills where other similar sized towns send three officials. Belleville sends twelve to these conventions. The last State League of Municipalities convention at Atlantic City, set the local taxpayers back to the disgraceful tune of $1,941.19.

I want you to know that with Belleville's large volume of local industry our tax rate should be lower. I contend that Belleville industry does not pay its fair, equitable and proportionate share of taxation. I suggested a gross receipts tax. Trenton has one. What was the reaction of the local Commissioners? Absolutely None! I suggested an impartial industrial appraiser be engaged to assess the real and personal properties of our local industries. What was the reaction of our local Commissioners? Absolutely None! Why? I don't contribute to any politician's campaign, nor do I present them gifts. I don't think you do either, Neighbor, but could all our industrialists say the same?

I think not.

Say, Neighbor, look at the hour. I've taken a lot of your time today, and I fear I'll be wearing out my welcome. My wife expected me back by now so permit me to say back again next week. I've got plenty more to tell you. So long now.

Your neighbor,
James K. Golden.

Elks Ask Support Of Easter Seals Drive For Funds

Letters containing Easter Seals have gone out to thousands of Belleville homes, and every member of the Belleville Elks Lodge has been asked to assist in the campaign conducted by the New Jersey State Elks Association for the benefit of crippled children, Stephen Raleigh, Exalted Ruler of the local lodge, explained yesterday.

"The Elks shield campaign has no affiliation with any other appeal for aid for crippled children," he explained. "During the past week letters have gone to 1,400-000 homes in the state. They contain 50 seals that bear the slogan, 'I'm glad somebody cares' together with a return addressed envelope."

"The seals have no price. The envelope offers the public an opportunity to participate in the great charity work carried on by the Elks organization for handicapped youngsters."

"While this appeal is carried on at the state level, its purpose is to raise supplementary funds to the Elks organization. Each year at the conclusion of the campaign a 'baggage of giving' program is held when the state fund is allocated to the lodges according to contributions received from the communities within its jurisdiction."

"Last year Belleville Lodge received $1000 to be used locally."

"Clearly, the keystone of the Elks organization is certainly emphasized in this work for crippled children. Individual cases helped, and there are many of them, are rarely publicized, for obvious reasons."

"Elks support of cerebral palsy centers in Somerville, Cifton, Hoboken, Ridgewood and Camden, however, can hardly have escaped notice. Shore area lodges are even now working together for establishment of such a clinic in the vicinity of Asbury Park."

"Elks support also has gone to the New Jersey councils for retarded children and a substantial contribution was made last year to the cleft palate clinic at St. Barnabas Hospital, only one of its kind in the state."

The prayer, and offering prayer, will be led by Edward Gray and Roberta Frank, respectively.

Varsity Club To Present Dribblers With Oscars

Tickets for the basketball banquet are going fast, so you Belleville court supporters better get in line for the ducks right pronto. Reservations have been made limiting the turn out to 150. For those who haven't their tickets yet, the time is growing short. The 1953-54 Belleville varsity basketball team, 13 strong, will be the guests of honor at the Eighth Annual Basketball Banquet tomorrow night at O'Hara's Riverside Grill in North Arlington.

The highlight of the affair, sponsored by the Varsity Club, will be the presentation of individual trophies to four senior basketball players. Sharing the spotlight will be the presence of basketball official Jerry Mulloy, who will be the principal speaker.

Mulloy is recognized as one of the top basketball officials in the area. He is also a much sought after speaker in the sports world and can always be depended upon to be a favorite when in front of a microphone. When not in action on the court the native of Hudson County is connected with the Hoboken Department of Recreation.

Art Leadbeater, a Varsity Club member, will serve as toastmaster. The invocation will be given by Rev. Peter Deekenbach, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church. Art Bloemke, long an active member of the sports minded organization, is general chairman of the eighth annual affair. He has been assisted by Jim Apple, Marty O'Connell, Ralph Casale, Bill Chapman, Bob Harvey and Ernie Steffanello.

Coming in for individual honors will be seniors Pat Grosso, Rocco Cafone, Gary Burman and Bob Taylor. Each will receive a handsome statuette. Grosso was the leader of the squad and the spark that pushed the Blue and Gold forward. He was the team's top scoring threat. Cafone, an excellent foul shooter, was never one to think about how many points he scored in a game. He remained back court and guided the attack and always managed to stay calm in the clutch. Graduating in June will be Burman and Taylor, the two tall players of the squad. Burman was always a scoring threat from around the keyhole. Taylor in mid-season suffered an ankle injury and saw only limited action thereafter.

Pitchers And Catchers Work Out In Gym

With the start of the 1954 baseball campaign only a month away, diamond coach Ed Berlinski issued a call this week for all pitchers and catchers to start preliminary workouts. The battery combinations have been working since after school in the B. H. S. gym. The Blue and Gold open a 14-game schedule at Municipal Stadium on April 21 with Columbia being the opposition.

Berlinski was greeted by 72 candidates, the largest turnout in several years. Of that group, however, only three are returning lettermen. Back this season are pitcher John Bartell, second baseman Al Johnston, who is also team captain, and shortstop Joe Long.

Included in the initial turnout were 12 pitchers and four catchers. The battery candidates, together with Johnston and Long, have been participating in the daily indoor drills. Being stressed in the warm-up sessions for the early arrivals is conditioning with a good part of the time being put in on calisthenics. As soon as warmer weather permits Berlinski plans to move the pitchers and catchers outdoors where they will be joined by the remainder of the squad.

Little League Volunteers To Meet

An open meeting for all adults interested in taking part in the Little League baseball program will be conducted Wednesday night starting at 7:30 o'clock in the Recreation House. It is not necessary for volunteers to have a son eligible for the diamond program. A variety of jobs are open to the adult supporters. The volunteers will be placed either in the managerial field, scorekeeping or umpiring.

"Rec" To Hold Organizational Softball Meeting

Softball league director Hal Brand has issued a call for the holding of a meeting with all managers of teams who plan to take part in the Recreation Department's Town-Wide Softball League. The meeting will be conducted at the Recreation House on Wednesday starting at 8 p. m. Competition is scheduled to begin during the first week in May. Teams will face rival league opponents twice in regular play with team rosters limited to 20 players. Last year nine teams battled it out for top honors.

In the second round of last summer's Town-Wide League there was a four-way stalemate among the Bellemeads, Freddy Farmers, West Ends and Shamrocks. The Bellemeads were the ultimate winners going on to capture the Elmer S. Hyde Trophy, symbolic of town championship, by defeating the Industrial League champions, Federal Leather.

Earlier this month a meeting was held for organizing the Industrial League. Thirteen teams, one less than a year ago, have signed up for the circuit with Federal Leather determined to retain its division crown. Because of the large number of teams making up the league, each squad will meet the other only once.

Blair Academy Added To Baseball Schedule

Coach Berlinski announced that Blair Academy has been added to the Belleville High School baseball schedule thus bringing the diamond slate up to 14 games, one less than a year ago. The fray will be played on May 23 with the game slated for the spacious campus at Blairstown.

McConnell Receives Wrist Watch

Jim McConnell and the entire Niagara University basketball squad received their share of the celebration round in the National Invitation Tournament conducted last Saturday night before a standing room only crowd of more than 18,000 at Madison Square Garden. The Purple Eagles upset favored Western Kentucky, 71-65 to take third place in the Jamboree. McConnell scored five points in the game. The former Belleville High School star, except for the final minutes when "Taps" College emptied the bench, played the entire contest as the Niagara team stuck with their starting five until victory was assured.

Five Schools Represented On All-Conference

By Bob Gorlin

1954 Big Ten All-Conference Quintet

Player	Position	School
Lorenzo Wood	Forward	Orange
Herb Miller	Forward	Bloomfield
Dave Fulcomer	Center	Montclair
Armand Palmisano	Guard	Nutley
Pat Grosso	Guard	Belleville

Second Team

Andy Leyble, forward, Belleville; Dave Marcotte, forward, Bloomfield; Harry Zingg, center, Montclair; Aubrey Lewis, guard, Montclair; and Joe Ens, guard, Irvington

Although the Big Ten Basketball Conference will not go into official operation until next Fall, The Times-News is instituting a new first, the naming of the First Annual Big Ten All-Conference team.

The 1954 All-Conference team is a well represented "dream team" as five schools contributed one player each to the outstanding aggregation.

Named to the mythical all-star array are Lorenzo Wood, of Orange; Herb Miller, of Bloomfield; Dave Fulcomer, of Montclair; Armand Palmisano, of Nutley; and Pat Grosso, of Belleville.

The quintet is a high scoring group with each of the players selected marking their respective squads in the offensive department all season. All five are solid choices to continue their basketball success in college.

Most Publicized Player Probably the most publicized player among the Big Ten schools is Big Dave Fulcomer, the blond giant from Montclair. Standing six-foot, seven-inches tall, he is the biggest court performer in Essex County and with the aid of his height transformed an average Mount into a championship aggregation.

Fulcomer led Angelo "Butch" Fortunato's Montclair quintet to the Essex County Tournament crown as they completed the 1953-54 campaign undefeated in 19 starts.

With his height and 200-pound frame, Fulcomer controlled both backboards in all settings. Deadly under the basket, he meant the difference in quite a few decisions as games were broken wide open with the aid of his soft layup shots.

At the guard positions are Pat Grosso, of Belleville, and Armand Palmisano. Both played a similar style game and, while listed on the "dream team" as guards, they have also been used by Jitty Wieche and Dave Broffman at the forward slots.

Not A Veteran Present Grosso, teamed-up with Andy Leyble as a second team choice, to help work an inexperienced Belleville team to a highly successful season. Wieche started the season without a returning lettermen, but Grosso, with close to an 18-point average per game, held the Blue and Gold together. He could hit either from the inside or outside with amazing accuracy.

Palmisano was the "Fride of Nutley" as he helped the N.H.S. scoring record. He tallied 326 points in 19 games for an average of 17.7. The old record of 322 was held jointly by Don Wallace and John Brugler.

Nicknamed "The Cat", Palmisano, six-foot tall, was a constant thorn to the opposition as he dribbled in, and around the opposition and weaved his way towards the basket for two-point plays. His driving tactics resulted in numerous fouls with 112 free throws being converted.

Shortest Member At the forward slots are Lorenzo Wood, of Orange, and Herb Miller, of Bloomfield. Wood is an elusive player who caught the eye of Big Ten coaches. A junior, he is being prized by Lou Spinelli, pilot of the Tornados, to lead Orange to a banner season starting next Fall. Only five-foot, nine-inches tall, Wood is the shortest member of the "dream team". He manages to

PHILLIE PAL TOPS LOCAL PAL FIVE, SCORING 71-54

The Philadelphia PAL basketball team defeated the Belleville PAL five at Belleville High School last Saturday afternoon by a 71 to 54 score. At the close of the first quarter, Belleville was down by 8 points, 15 to 12. Philadelphia pulled far ahead in the second quarter, scoring 30 points while holding Belleville to 13. The second half was played on even terms, with the losers outscoring Philadelphia by 8 points.

McCann of Belleville was high scorer of the game with 23 points, while Payne and Hunter shared the honors for Philadelphia with 14. Following the game, both teams were guests of the Belleville PAL at the Veterans' Hall on Belleville Avenue for a buffet dinner.

held his own, however, against players several inches taller in this age of tall athletes.

Miller is noted for his outside shooting as he connects most shots via two-hand set shots. He was responsible for keeping Bloomfield in contention against Essex County powers as the Bengals played most of the campaign without Bob McCabe.

Selected for second team honors are Andy Leyble, Belleville Junior, who served as field general and who came on fast late in the season to give the Blue and Gold a feared one-two scoring punch; and Montclair's Aubrey Lewis, all-around competitor who set up the offensive pattern and chipped in with many a valuable basket.

Also picked for second team were Harry Zingg, of Irvington, a deadly point scorer and Dave Marcotte, of Bloomfield, a steady court player with a variety of shots from both inside and outside.

With only one game remaining on the schedule for the league-leading and undefeated Pistons, their victory over the second place Bulls clinched the league title. However, they were hard-pressed by the clinching game coming from behind on 5 occasions. With the Bulls leading by 1 point and 30 seconds to play, the Pistons, leading on taking the last shot, freed the ball until with 10 seconds to play - Salter broke loose and scored an easy layup.

All PAL minor soccer league games were rained out last Sunday afternoon at Belleville Park. The weather also caused postponement of the semi-final game of the N. J. State Tournament between the Belleville PAL Junior eleven and the Elizabeth S.C. Juniors. The game has been rescheduled for March 28th at Furcher's Grove Union. Minor league play will continue this Sunday afternoon at Belleville Park with the Rangers and Cardinals meeting in the first game at 1:30 p.m. and the Eagles take on the league-leading Blackhaws at 2:40 p.m.

Belleville PAL "T" shirts will be given out to all PAL members on April 3rd from 9:00 a.m. until noon. Members must have their 1954 membership cards to obtain the shirts. On Palm Sunday, April 11, PAL members will attend the opening day stock car races at Roosevelt Stadium, Jersey City, N.J. Members may register for the trip and also receive their 1954 membership cards this Saturday morning from 9:00 a.m. until noon at Police Headquarters so that the number of buses needed for transportation may be determined.

OLD TIMERS TIE SPOILERS FOR LEAD

Climbing a drive that started eight weeks ago and seven games behind the leaders, the Old Timers tied the Spoilers for the lead in the Fennville Bowling League last week. Hornor has been the driving force behind the steady advance of the team raising his league-leading average, 143.6 points to 179 during that period of time. His 595 series enabled the Old Timers to win the odd game from the Spoilers, thereby knotting the lead.

In other games the Hilltoppers swept their series with the Aces and the Muffins and Cubs won two from the Farmers and Busters, respectively.

Games over 200 were rolled by Bechtold, 201 Taylor, Jr., 211, and Hornum 226.

Four Belleville Boy Scout troops have signed up for reservations at Camp Neotoma, the Robert Treat council's summer camp at Blairstown, N.J. They include Troops No. 301, 305, 375 and 385.

Harry T. French, Belleville camp director, has announced that the main positions on the camp staff have already been filled, and the following men were appointed: Henry Beecher, waterfront director; Charles Crane, program director; Edward Neis, nature director; Harold Crane, campfire director and Dr. Gerhard DeMuth, camp physician. James Colson, chef, and Henry Hinson, assistant chef, will team up again in the kitchen.

Applications for the junior staff are now being accepted and two more row boats have been added to the fleet, making a total of 24.

You are there when a serviceman's letter goes home. 117,200 of our men were helped every month by your Red Cross—with everything from an extra toothbrush to an emergency flight home. And that doesn't count help for 105,000 service families a month, or visits and help to the 115,000 patients in veterans' hospitals each month!

You are there when lives are saved by folks trained by your Red Cross. Thanks to your generosity, the Red Cross trained 70,800 people in first aid, 675,000 in water safety. First aiders operating over 16,000 Red Cross highway stations and mobile units fought the traffic accident death toll.

You are there when heart-warming encouragement, food, shelter, medical aid reach these tormented victims. Your Red Cross last year devoted over $6,600,000 to help folks stricken by disaster—floods, fire, tornadoes. Your generosity made it possible to rebuild shattered lives and homes for 24,500 families.

Your Red Cross button says that you are in helping people. Never underestimate its power—it means that regardless of race, creed or color, whenever people are in trouble, you are there. Join generously!

George E. Krauter And Bloomfield Youth Are Principal Candidates Of Rep. Rodino

A Nutley High School senior, George E. Krauter, and a Bloomfield youth, David Bruce Gibson, have both been informed by Congressman Peter W. Rodino, Jr., that they have been his principal candidates for appointment to the United States Naval Academy for 1964. Since no Naval appointment was made last year from the 10th District, Congressman Rodino was able to make two instead of the usual one nomination.

An announcement was also made from Rodino's office that application ations are currently being received for an appointment to West Point for next year. The academy education is valued at an estimated $40,000. Any youth between the ages of 17 and 22 are eligible to make out an application.

Krauter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Krauter, of 373 Prospect Street, will take the final examination next month. He passed the preliminary tests last summer. He is slated to enter the midshipman class in July.

He is a member of the Nutley track team, cross country team and the Harriers A. C. Krauter also belongs to the German Club. He won second prize in the United Nations essay contest last year.

Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Gibson, of Bloomfield, will graduate as an honor student in May from the Admiral Farnagut Academy, St. Petersburg, Florida. His average four-year ranking places him third in his class. He won his varsity letters in baseball and basketball and is also an officer in the cadet battalion.

Scenes will include some from Jerusalem, Haifa, Tel Aviv, Hush, Beer Sheva, the Plains of Sharon, the Sea of Galilee, Nazareth, and Safad. Special visits to the Hadassah hospitals, children's villages, and refugee settlements were made by Sussman and will be described by him.

Hear The Song

The bird, dipping in morning lakewaters,
Rises, flashing waterjewels from its wings,
Darting like a shaft of sun over jeweled;
Invisible, leaning on light and air.
Beyond plum-colored shadows
Through spidery fern—hear the song burn!

The many-colored notes, like scarves,
Curve through the blaze of sun on silver
waters:
Light color, sound,
Falling in pulsing waves of joy
From sky to ground.

Plugging A Hole

The next time one of those huge trailer trucks roars past you on one of our major highways, remember that, if its license plates are out-of-state registry, the chances are that the truck's owner is not paying one cent towards the upkeep of our roads. There is a bill before our State Legislature this week to correct that inequity and there is a rich truckers' lobby loose in Trenton to defeat it.

New Jersey's highway system, outside of the toll turnpikes and parkways, is in sorry shape and badly in need of repairs. It would cost $2,500,000,000 and take ten years to make it adequate. You and I, and every motorist in New Jersey, pays for our roads.
Unless they stop in this state for gasoline, the out-of-state trucks which hammer our roads to pieces with their 10 to 80-ton loads contribute nothing towards building or keeping up the roads they use.

The bill now before the Legislature would impose a weight-distance tax on out-of-state trucks using New Jersey's roads. It would apply only to trucks of more than 18,000 pounds and would yield from $14,000,000 to $16,000,000 annually. A truck of more than 18,000 pounds weight does more damage to our roads, in a single trip, than do a hundred private automobiles, yet it is the owners of small cars who must pay for the roads. The Times-News contends that the law should pass.

Politics And A Tunnel

The 4-to-2 decision of the New Jersey
Supreme Court that the Port of New York Authority needs the express permission of the Legislatures of New Jersey and New York to build a third tube of the Lincoln Tunnel has halted work on the $100,000,000
project which was to have been completed in 1957. Without questioning the merits of the split decision, The Times-News is apprehensive that the tunnel issue might become a political issue and thus delay an improvement which is a vital necessity for suburban traffic in and out of New York City is not to be strangled.

There is one aspect of this problem which deserves mention and that is the Weehawken "hold up". The Port Authority needs a half acre of ground for the enlargement of the approach plaza. That half-acre now is covered only by a few tennis courts. It is assessed on the Weehawken tax rolls at $88,000. The municipality, nevertheless, is asking $1,302,900 for the half acre. The Authority has offered to settle the claim at $570,400.

Under a suspension of rules, both the Senate and the Assembly in Trenton and in Albany could, by a three-fourths vote, amend the existing legislation. Some Democrats in the two state capitals, however,
have been demanding a blanket investigation of the port agency with a view to curbing its powers. Such a political battle could prevent the rallying of the needed three-quarters of the votes.

The need for a "switch" tube, which could change direction morning and evening to accommodate the ebb and flow of the heaviest traffic, is greater than is the need for a legislative investigation of an agency which escapes its control. Work was scheduled to have begun, on May 1, on the underwater
section of the new tube beneath the Hudson River. There is still time to keep to that schedule, but it will require nonpolitical alacrity which we would like to hope will prevail in Trenton.

One Man's Opinion

Having Been Convinced By MacArthur 10 Years Ago That War Is Immoral, Japan Hesitates To Rearm As We Demand She Does

BY RALPH E. HEINZEN

Shortly over 12 years ago an exuberant Japanese militarism struck a sneak blow and rained sudden death and destruction on Pearl Harbor. Triumphant Nipponese aggression swept south and southeast across the Pacific and the Peninsula of Asia enslaving millions of peoples. Billions of dollars and hundreds of thousands of young American lives were spent to drive back the Japanese, smash their ability and their desire to wage a war of aggression. Near the end, we rained atomic death and destruction on the home islands. Ten years ago, Japan beaten on every front, surrendered and we imposed upon her a Constitutional abolition of war as an instrument of national policy.

This week, under our pressure, the Japanese Parliament is debating ratification of a mutual assistance and defense treaty which we and the Japanese government signed on March 8, under which Japan would forget about that clause in the Constitution which General Douglas MacArthur dictated word for word and would rearm — chiefly at our expense.

Things have changed completely since ten years and whereas a disarmed Japan,
deprived of war industries
and of any armed forces
other than her police, might have been desirable then in a war-weary world, such a helpless nation of 87,000,000 people would provide a dangerous vacuum today. China's defection of Communism created a new balance of power in Asia which made it imperative that Japan rearm, whether it means that we sacrifice one of the basic principles of our war in the Pacific or not. Only an armed Japan can neutralize an armed China.

Ironical Necessity

No wild outburst of cheering has greeted the signing of the long-awaited armistice between Japan and the United States.
A few faint hurrahs have gone up from both sides of the Pacific, but in general this latest accomplishment of cold-war strategy appears more as an ironic necessity than an augury of great things to come.

It is unfortunate that the pre-war militarists and the "zaibatsu", or big business monopolies, do not share the Japanese masses' hatred of war. In any rearming tonomous law-enforcement bodies

established under Allied command and return to a unified police system under national control as the most efficient means of con-bating subversive tendencies both of the Right and Left.

Japan Communists Busy

The far left is justified by Japanese authorities, the extreme Fascist associations do not constitute an actual and present danger. According to Hisato Yamaguchi, chief of the Security Department of the National Rural Police, the number of real extreme "Rightist" organizations,
some with only a handful of members, is between twenty and thirty and the enrollment about 20,000 to 30,000—less than half that of the Japanese Communist party, which has long maintained
its own bands of "activists."

As for the "zaibatsu", many of these monopolies, broken up by General MacArthur under dissolution orders which were given priority in the early days of our occupation, are now regrouping even though the "zaibatsu" were originally ordered dissolved by the Allied powers because it was considered to be the foundation on which Japanese militarism and dictatorship were built before and during the Pacific war.

United States economic experts who keep close tabs on the development now, however, are no sure so far that the current progressive industrial integration forecasts danger. They point out that, nevertheless, the place are resulting in horizontal structure rather than vertical corporate empire, as has blossomed during the prewar era.

The major impediment to the rebirth of zaibatsu is Japan's tremendously reduced possessions
since the 1945 surrender. Zaibatsu grew rich by owning and exploiting Japan's overseas possessions on the Asian mainland.

They drew huge privileged profits by combining domestic industries with those of Japan's colonies and semicolonies abroad.
Now the basis for such profits and control is lost. China's vast markets lie behind the bamboo curtain; trade with Korea is heavily restricted, and Formosa
is an inadequate outlet.

Look To Continent

So Japanese traders large and small are being forced to turn to southeast Asia as a prime market. There any bid for a dominating position is hotly contested by British and West German industries as well as native

capital.

Today's new zaibatsu combinations are being built gradually but it is clear that separate corporations once more are returning to the same industrial folks to which they formerly belonged.

Smaller independent firms that resulted from the postwar breakup of zaibatsu simply are going back to larger outfits now that Allied controls have been removed. It is as if they intended to all along.

Japan's Big Three

Some prosperous independents are known to be bucking the trend, however. In recent years they have learned to like independence and are not anxious to return to the control of the big three — Mitsui, Fuyo, and Sumitomo.

Mitsui and Fuyo are primarily massive trade corporations, while Sumitomo specializes in industry and banking. Present expansion is along horizontal lines taking more and more small firms in the same business under their wing as was the case formerly.

All three, however, appear to be avoiding the pitfall of vertical integration—controlling many different lines of endeavor such as producing, marketing, transporting, and exporting some major product, thereby forcing small competitors to the wall.

Japanese business leaders, however, learned much from their prewar and postwar experiences.
They have no desire to organize so tightly that they again will become "easy" to take over en-masse, as was the case in the 1930's. Then the militarists were able to control all Japan by terrorizing the politicians and grabbing economic control
through the convenient zaibatsu system.

Zaibatsu strength at present reportedly stems from financial institutions, privately owned banks in particular. This tendency is said to be especially strong in the houses of Mitsui, Fuyo, and Sumitomo.

The Yaezu zaibatsu combine, which before the war was the only big banking concern now is extending its control into industrial fields, climbing over the Amano and Mori combinations in the process.

But although Zaibatsu is reviving in a different manner than before the war, and although the leadership now is dominantly
financial, feudalistic partnerships and so-called blood relationships remain the major factors behind the scenes. This point is emphasized by Japanese observers.

Family corporate interlockings,
for example, enabled the Mitsui
family until Japan's surrender to control 151 companies of $700,000,000 capital by possessing 65 per cent of the stock of Mitsui Bussan trading company whose capital was only $100,- 000,000.

Aside from the drive for power, the chief objective of the present amalgamations is to make Japanese industry more efficient and enable it to compete once more on the world markets.
Pleasant production and outmoded techniques, plus greatly increased labor costs, recently have made it impossible for Japan to export enough goods cheaply to outside the country.

So far Japan's internal needs
have provided markets for almost everything it can produce.
But that day is waning rapidly, and if that country expects to obtain a viable economy and reduce the unfavorable trade balance, experts claim it must be able to make products that can be sold elsewhere in quantity.

Thus, possible political objections to the rebirth of the old-time zaibatsu — under what is basically the same leadership as before — is weakening rapidly
under economic pressure.

HOLY FAMILY PASSION PLAY

St. Lucy Flippini Sodality Plans
Pageant Of Crucifixion
For Holy Week

Rehearsals are in progress
at Holy Family Church for a passion pageant to be presented in the school auditorium during Holy Week, April 11, 12, and 13.

The production, sponsored by the St. Lucy Flippini Sodality, is the first of its kind ever to be presented in Holy Family Parish.

The pageant, entitled "Via Dolorosa", the way of the Cross,
will be a colorful presentation of the fourteen stations of the Cross. The scope of the production brings to life scenes from the passion and death of Christ,
in keeping with the spirit of Holy Week and the devotions of the congregation during this season.

The play opens with the condemning of Jesus by Pilate. It follows Him through the crowds of weeping women and brutal Roman soldiers to Mount Calvary, where the execution takes place. Events along the way include a meeting with his mourning mother, Mary, played by Marie Bugione, and a holy woman, Veronica, portrayed by Mary Crescenzi.

After the familiar tragedy of the Cross, the pageant shows the burial, and resurrection.
James Festa, of Weehawken, is director of the drama. Mr.
Festa, an alumnus of the graduate school of Columbia University, has recently returned from Rome, where he studied dramatics for two years. He has appeared in the casts of "Annie Get Your Gun" and "Connecticut Yankee."

Catherine Pakowski, chairwoman of the play, has announced that from 30 to 40 people will
