School Board Warned Not To Fire Mayers; Resignations Asked

A lighted firecracker flung through a window into a meeting of the Board of Education Tuesday symbolized the explosive tensions centering around the board as these issues were placed before it:

1. Robert Gruhin, attorney for Robert E. Mayers, a school employee, told the board Mayers held tenure rights, and that any effort to discontinue his service would result in court action. The board had indicated there was a question that Mayers would be rehired after the close of the present school year. Charges by Mayers against some members of the board had resulted in a grand jury presentment on April 6 criticizing their conduct of school business.

2. Edward J. Ackerman, an executive member of the Belleville Citizens' Association, which introduced the elective school board question in the recent election, again asked the school board to resign in view of the ten to one vote which resulted in the election of the elective board system.

3. Raymond J. O'Brien, president of the Association, questioned the propriety of any further pay increases now being contemplated for the public school teachers, janitors, and other employees, already paying higher wages than almost any other town in the county. During the discussion there was heated disagreement between O'Brien, representative of the school employees, and board members concerning both the wages and working hours quoted.

Other discussion concerned the need for the expansion of classroom space in the schools, and James R. Golden, commissioner of education, who had joined Gruhin in protesting against any separation of Mayers from the school payroll.

The firecracker came sailing in through the second story window in the middle of the meeting.

EXTRA CLASSROOM FOR SCHOOL NO. 7 GETS BOARD O.K.

The Board of Education this week assured parents of children attending School No. 7 that it would soon begin construction of a basement classroom in the school to partially relieve overcrowding there.

The board's move was described as a "stop gap" measure, designed only to tide over the situation until the school can be enlarged. Parents have indicated they will press for completion of such an addition within a year.

However, the board took no immediate action on a recommendation by Superintendent of Schools Evan Thomas that the school auditorium be converted into a combination gymnasium-auditorium so that it might provide the space for the children. Thomas suggested that similar steps might be taken in the case of all other public schools.

Addition of the basement classroom means elimination of the original basement classroom. Installation of dual classes as a solution for classroom overcrowding at the school.

Residents in the School No. 2 area also petitioned the board for the addition of three extra classrooms.

Mrs. Estelle Warren, vice-president of the School No. 10 P. T. A. members of the committee to urge members to cite the fact that more than a dozen persons have fallen on the stairs leading to the gymnasium at the school, and asked the board to do something about it. Secretary Daniels said a firm of safety engineers had been asked to report that it met all safety requirements.

Plan New Golf Clubhouse On Hendricks Field Course

Construction of a new clubhouse on the Hendricks Field public golf course in Belleville only awaits action by the state legislature which will clear certain formalities opening the way for spending the $30,000 received by Essex County for the sale of Orator Parkway to the New Jersey Highway Authority.

Cost of the clubhouse has not been set, but it will run into thousands of dollars. It would probably be located near the present site of the old buildings on the west end of the golf course, which runs along Franklin Avenue.

An architect will be engaged by the Essex County Park Commission to prepare plans and estimates for the new buildings, which are to replace the temporary locker and shower frame buildings, the first of which was constructed more than 20 years ago. Members of the commission said the foundations of the old structures had settled into the boggy ground, adding further damage to the buildings, which are

Veterans Launch Campaign For Fund To Aid Koreans

"Belleville veterans' organizations have launched their "Veterans March For Korea" as part of a national campaign to provide funds for food, medicine, care of war orphans, and other services to help the people of Korea. Members

The campaign is separate from two other drives already organized here in their behalf. In one, headed by Commissioner Kenneth D. Smith, only collections of old clothing will be made. This will be done on "K-Day," June 5. In the other drive, Belleville Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts are contributing money for the purchase of Boy Scout uniforms and camp equipment, which will be sent to Korean Scouts. The Scout campaign is not soliciting contributions from the public, though it will accept any donations that may be made.

The "Veterans March For Korea" fund drive follows the spontaneous action by American soldiers in Korea, both during and since the war, to aid the Koreans with contributions from their Army pay. The drive was organized as an appeal to civilians by the National American-Korean Foundation, and it has the support of President Eisenhower, who told the organization that "I

GRAND JURY CASE HEARING JUNE 3 - "DEFINITELY"

County Prosecutor Charles Webb told the Belleville Times Tuesday night that "there will be no further postponement" in the case of four town officials and three private contractors indicted April 16 for alleged conspiracy to defraud the public. Webb said that motions of their attorneys to quash the indictments will be heard before Superior Court Judge Speakman next Thursday.

If Judge Speakman does not dismiss the charges, the seven are scheduled to enter pleas before the judge on June 7, Prosecutor Webb said.

The last in a series of postponements in the case occurred yesterday because one of the attorneys explained that he could not be present for the hearing, the prosecutor said.

Named in the indictments were former Commissioner Patrick A. Waters, who headed the public works department; his brother, James, formerly water department superintendent; Water Department Superintendent Ralph Vasa; Hugh Welsh, administrative clerk of the public works department; and W. Howard Lee, and Carmen and Anna Carmen Silvestri, contractors.

The Bellwood Park Home Owners' Association will meet at the Franklin Casino next Wednesday night to push a move for construction of a clubhouse on the north ground of the County Isolation Hospital, Arthur Bloemke, president of the group, announced last night.

At the same time he revealed that the group is also making plans to widen the scope of its activities by studying other town issues, and taking a stand on them. The Association was originally organized to build a new shower home to build the County Parental Home on the hospital grounds. The group now proposes that a clubhouse be built on the same site because it contends that without it he area faces a serious fire hazard.

DeWitt Savings And Loan Build New $150,000 Office

The De Witt Savings and Loan Association plans to begin construction of a new $150,000 office building at Washington and Tappan Avenues within the next two weeks, and will break ground for the structure next Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., it was learned last night. A building permit was issued earlier in the day by Building Inspector Thomas Greco. Present offices are located at 280 Washington Avenue.

REV. HEWITT IS RE-APPOINTED TO WESLEY CHURCH

Re-appointment of the Rev. C. Albertus Hewitt to his second year as pastor of the Wesley Methodist Church was formally announced yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Everett F. Hallock, Eastern District superintendent. The news was first revealed by Bishop Frederick Buckley Newell at the final session of the Newark Annual Conference in Bloomfield.

Rev. Hewitt was born in Camden, and educated in the public schools of that city. He received his undergraduate training at the University of Pennsylvania where he was awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree. Drew University awarded him a graduate degree in theology.

Upon graduation from seminary, he received the John Heston Willey Prize for excellence in public oratory and manner. He also was awarded his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Drew.

Rev. Hewitt served as chaplain in the Army Air Force during World War II and his tour of duty took him to North Africa, India and China. He came here from the Springfield Methodist Church, and resides with Mr. Hewitt, and their two children at 134 Academy Street, the parsonage of the church.

TOWN COMMISSION ASKED TO CHANGE ZONING ORDINANCE

Action on a proposed amendment of the present zoning ordinance which would open up to four more classes of business and professional men the right to conduct their business or profession in any residential area in the same dwelling in which their homes are located, was being held up by the Town Commission this week pending further consideration. Blitter opposition to any change in the law was already indicated.

As amended, the ordinance would permit morticians, realtors, optometrists, and architects to establish their offices in their homes. At present the law confers such a right only upon physicians, surgeons, dentists, lawyers, dressmakers, artists, or musicians.

Meanwhile Victor Schleicher, attorney for a group of taxpayers opposed to such expansion of the ordinance as it affects residential areas told the Belleville Times-News the group would oppose it.

Fallen Heroes To Be Honored Next Monday

This town, like thousands of others throughout America, will re-dedicate itself next Monday to the memory of those who gave their lives so that this country might live in freedom.

Veterans' organizations, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and all the citizenry will gather at 113 1/2 N. Broad Street, at the foot of Tappan Avenue, and by their very presence there speak their tribute.

There will be no parade. The address of the day will be by the Rev. David L. Coddington, senior chaplain of the N. J. National Guard, who served as chaplain of the 12th Division during war. He is pastor of the Clinton Avenue Presbyterian Church in Newark and a past commander of the American Legion Post in Trenton.

Beneliction and invocation will be delivered by a representative of St. Peter's Church, to be named later, and by Dr. Albert L. Raab, rabbi of Abnashy Achin Synagogue. Public Safety Director Harry J. Sullivan will be the program chairman.

Arrangements for the day are in charge of James Lee, past commander of the Youngmen's Association, and P. W. O. on its committee are Mrs. Ruth Fredericks, Henry Vreeland, Woman's Relief Corps, and John Palmieri, Joseph Tappa, Post 6265, V. F. W.; Leo Hood, Commander, Youngmen's Association; Post; Henry Flagg, Commander, American Legion.

Mayor Isadore J. Padula issued the following Memorial Day proclamation:

NO WATER? IT'S BECAUSE OF CHECK BY WATER DEPT.

Residents who find their water shut off for brief periods in the next three months have no need to be alarmed.

Public Works Director Smith explained that, beginning next Monday, the department's employees would begin maintenance work on the water system. A firing squad from the Youngmen's Association will fire a volley. Then will come the final salute as Thomas Anderson, a scout from troop 301, blows taps.

The ceremonial will be repeated as the Henry Vreeland Corps moves to the Passaic River bridge at the foot of Rutgers Street, where a minister, still to be selected, will deliver an address. Then a wreath of flowers will be lowered on the water for those who died at sea, the rifle volley will ring out, and taps will sound the final triumph over death.

Special memorial services will be held at the Montgomery Presbyterian Church this Sunday at 11 a. m., and the Rev. Oliver Chapman has invited all veterans to attend.

DRIVE CAREFULLY DURING HOLIDAY AND SAVE LIVES

Public Safety Director Sullivan today urged all Belleville residents to safeguard their lives, and the lives of others, by driving carefully during the Memorial Day weekend.

He asked local motorists to leave their cars checked before setting out on trips, to drive at reasonable speeds, obey all traffic signs, and observe the courtesies of the road. "Those of us who stay at home," he said, "should be extremely careful in driving about town. Children will be serving the holiday by a long period of play, and their safety is everyone's concern."

Pointing out that hundreds of motorists were killed during the three-day holiday last year, he urged the courteous, but only the strictest kind of precautions would prevent a repetition of the deadly toll.

This is the second in a series of articles concerning the functions of the various agencies supported by the Belleville Community Chest, and the services they perform.

Now in the 26th year of its existence, the Family Service of Belleville, a social group devoted to helping people with problems of family living, is still going strong.

The Board of Directors, numbering 24, "is the legal, responsible authority of the agency and it formulates the policies under which it operates."

WINS 2ND BRONZE STAR FOR SERVICE IN KOREAN WAR

Belleville citizens today were asked by Commissioner Kenneth D. Smith to begin putting aside all wearable clothing they wish to donate for "K-Day," June 5, when volunteer workers will begin a door to door collection of clothing bundles for Korea. The one-day drive will begin at 9 a. m.

The clothing should be left on porches or doorsteps, the commissioner said. The volunteers, who will include Boy Scouts, will bring the bundles to the town garage. Later in the day they will be picked up by army trucks from Ft. Dix and Ft. Monmouth, taken to New York, and then shipped overseas.

To remind their parents of the drive, school children will bring home printed notices of the project. Further information may be obtained by phoning 124-0000, West, for assignment and further.

Items most urgently needed are trousers and overalls, caps and gloves, mittens and mufflers, coats, bathrobes, underwear, shirts and sweaters, dresses and skirts, socks and stockings, blankets and bedding, layette material, and shoes and rubbers.

The supply sergeant was cited for "meritorious service" in combat and reserve from April 1953, through April '54, during his Korean service. He served as a constant source of

Local Girl Broadway Dancer, Flier, Machinist

Dancing in the chorus of hit shows on Broadway may be glamorous, but blue-eyed, blonde Albertina Horstmann, who is continuing her career as a dancer in top productions, finds a machine shop a good deal more fascinating and wishes she had taken up engineering as a profession.

As the next best thing, she pilots airplanes because she finds their motors "utterly intriguing." She also spends a good deal of her time with the jetties and drill presses installed in the basement of her home by her father, Franklin G. Horstmann, an experimental engineer with the Wallace and Tiernan Company. They live at 17 Tiona Avenue.

"I really would have become an engineer, but the family didn't think that was quite the profession for a girl, so I took up dancing," she smiles.

At the Paper Mill Playhouse in Franklin, where she is presently appearing in a unique production of "Carmen," they think Albertina does well. She is the complete professional, with a wide range of talent. The show is an operetta version of Bizet's work, sung and spoken in English and condensed into two acts.

VERSATILE — Albertina Horstmann, who danced in the chorus of two Broadway musical productions while she was still a high school student, has other talents, too. She designs things in her father's machine shop, and she flies a plane, both of which she says she performs to dancing. At left she practices a ballet step, and in the photo at the right she is shown working in the machine shop in the basement of her home.

pose such a move with court action, if it became necessary.
 Passage of the measure was reportedly sought by a mortician, who it was declared had presented it in the Town Commission for action.

First news of the proposed amendment came when Scheicher appeared before Tuesday's commission meeting to inquire if any measure seeking a change in the zoning ordinance was to be introduced.

Commissioner King, presiding in the absence of Mayor Padula, said that such a proposal had been submitted to the commission, but that it definitely would not be considered that evening.

It was reported that the tax-payers' representative by Atty. Scheicher were drawn from the Union Avenue, Joramont Street, and Holmes Street area because the ordinance was reportedly aimed immediately at a specific location in that general district.
 Scheicher declared that should there be any indication that favorable action is planned on the proposed amendment, the group he represents would at once consider the organization of a town-wide association pledged to fight all such "encroachments."

led to inspect the stairs, and standards, but that as an added precaution slip-proof materials would be added to a slightly worn section of the steps.

Mrs. Warren indicated she was not so sure that this would solve the problem, and Atty. Grubin supported her, declaring that since individuals using the stairs had frequently fallen and injured themselves, it was obvious that a danger existed regardless of the report by the safety engineers.

ing, falling on a table near which sat Board President Eugene Kelly and School Superintendent Evan Thomas. Dr. Russel Aronds, an optometrist, who was seated close by, seized a pile of papers lying on the table and pondered them on top of the one inch explosive, putting out the fuse. A spectator ran from the room to pursue the unidentified prankster, but he escaped. No one else so much as stirred in a room long before suffused with excitement, and the meeting continued.

Salert A. Mayers, one of the school employee, and an ensign in the Navy, appeared before the board to protest against what he termed the board's "unaffordable" attitude toward his father. His voice trembling with emotion, Mayers, who is 24, declared that as a member of the Armed Services he was prepared to fight such invasion of justice as is represented by communism, and that he expected similarly that justice and right should prevail in such situations as his father was now involved in. Spectators applauded as he said down. The young ensign is having Belleville next week on a Navy world cruise.

Walter Loewer, chairman of the Board of Education's building and grounds committee, who spoke earlier, had declared then that he was going to recommend to the board that it terminate the older Mayers' services. The board, he said, had no choice.

Daniel board secretary, had advised him that there was no need to keep a standstill on the payroll, and that for the past year Mayers had been working as a janitor so that he might continue to receive his salary.

Golden questioned this explanation, indicating that he thought that a "reprisal" against Mayers was intended. When Atty. Grubin asked the board to advise him of any "charges" against Mayers, Board Vice-President Charles Yocum declared that there were no such charges. He said further that though Mayers' name was included in the list of employees to be rehired, he had not actually been discharged, and that whole matter of his employment was going to be considered by the board.

The nature of Mayers' work, Grubin said, was of such a nature that he was entitled to tenure. Max N. Schwartz, board attorney, declared that the legal question involved depended on the determination of the basis on which Mayers had been hired. In answer to a question by Golden, Hyde said he was not going to reappoint James Lampmann of 70 Tappan Avenue as deputy director of his department. Hyde said Lampmann had received a $17-a-week salary.

The commission referred to Town Attorney Lawrence Keenan a letter from the Charter Study Commission asking for an appropriation to cover the cost of the study. Employment of a professional writer may also be requested. The commissioners agreed to meet with the Study Commission on June 3.

Mayor Padula, still confined to his home with a virus infection, issued a public statement addressed to the citizens of Belleville in which he said:
 "I have thanked you many times for the honor of serving as your Mayor. I shall continue to show my appreciation by fulfilling my campaign pledges.
 "I am grateful for your indulgence for a while, until I have had sufficient time to recover completely from the virus infection I contracted several days before the election, as did a number of other people throughout Belleville."

on the job and actually promoting the other one to higher office." He said he was referring to Welsh and Vana.

Golden also declared he believed that a number of commissioners were opposed to the Charter Study, but Commissioner King, who presided in the absence of Mayor Padula, advised Golden to first wait and see what action the commission would take in relation to the study before "jumping to conclusions."

When Golden spoke of the campaign contributions made to some of the candidates, Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde demanded to know whether the contributions were made by the city or by individuals. He charged him with attempting to make any "insinuations," and in answer to a question by Golden, Hyde said he was not going to reappoint James Lampmann of 70 Tappan Avenue as deputy director of his department. Hyde said Lampmann had received a $17-a-week salary.

the other problems in which Family Service can be helpful.
 In years past, family agencies gave considerable financial assistance to families who, for many different reasons, such as illness and unemployment, were in financial difficulty. Although the family agency at that time provided other services, it was known largely in the community as the " Relief " agency, and the giving of relief did constitute a large part of its work. However, while Welfare has now assumed the responsibility for financial assistance, this change has made way for the private family agency to have time for use of its skills for direct services to people who have difficulties in various areas, other than relief.

Family

which the work of the agency is conducted. The work of helping people with their difficulties is delegated to a professionally trained staff of social workers.

Family Service of Belleville is the only private case work agency in the community. It is a member of the national family agency known as Family Service of America, located in New York City.

The local agency must meet certain standards for membership, and in turn, it may contact Family Service of America for consultation and assistance of many kinds to strengthen and improve the agency for better service to the people of the community.

The national group made a study of the Belleville agency last December, and suggestions for the improvement of its service, which the individuals were submitted. Some of these recommendations have already been put into effect, and others will be as soon as possible.

Family Service can give assistance with different kinds of problems which present themselves in the process of family living.

More than half of those who come to Family Service ask for help with their marital problems, with matters relating to parent-child relationships, or with problems having to do with individual personality adjustment.

Assistance with budgeting, help in making plans for the ages, for special care for children, psychiatric service, educational or vocational help, medical-clinical service, recreation, legal aid, and housekeeping service, are some of reduce his fears and anxieties and release his energy for more constructive uses.

For at least the last 15 years it is in these areas of "deeper problems" that the family agency has been working with people. With each passing year, more and more such requests for help are being made to the agency.

Husband and wife, parents and children, single individuals, are receiving case work help which improves their understanding of themselves and of each other, with resulting changes in behavior, improved relationships, and improved adjustments in their various life situations.

The Family Service Agency of today is, and must be, definitely different from the Family Agency of 15 or 20 years ago, if it is to serve today's community in terms of the needs of the people. The focus is still, and rightly so, on the family. While the family is and must be viewed as a unit, it is also necessary to consider it in terms of individuals, who compose the unit and their inter-relationships upon one another. The difficulties of one, especially those of a parent, affect in different degrees and ways the other members of the unit.

Last year 176 families received help from Belleville's Family Service, and more than 285 individuals were aided.

Sunset Pink
Come and see, pink is pinker in the month of May.
When apple blossoms sprinkle pink confetti in velvet carpets on the orchard way.
Pink in pinker when the stippled buds of peach trees' branch.
Are hanging rose quartz beads upon their brownish bark.
To join the season's blossomed avalanche.
Pink dogwood will not let the hills forget that this is true.
When medallions are eyletied in cutwork Beneath a soft May sky of regulation blue.
You would know that pink is pinker in the month of May.
When a flock of migrant gulls at sunset Is molten in pink coral along the ocean's bay.

Surprise For Tax-Happy Bobby
Somebody ought to get a failing mark in arithmetic down in Trenton where, it is to be feared, few of the students major in economics and business administration.
Only a fortnight ago, "High Tax" Bobby Meyner insisted that the State would need $82,000,000 in additional revenue next year and that the tax base would have to be broadened to provide it. He hinted darkly of a state income tax, a state sales tax and sundry other unpopular forms of fiscal gouges.
This week, Meyner suddenly discovers that there will be surplus. Revenues this year appear to be $12,000,000 in excess of what had been anticipated. It was there all the time, but somebody subtracted when they should have added.
If New Jersey's tax income is a million dollars a month more than our state administrators had anticipated in framing their budget, then there's nothing wrong, economically, with New Jersey. If there is $12,000,000 left over and it can be salvaged from the grasping hands of hungry state offices, then we will have a good start towards next year's budget and it will not be necessary, after all, to invent more new forms of tax punishment.

The news from Trenton is good, too, as concerns the foolish proposal to toss $28,500,000 more into the public school aid pot. Opposition has developed and there is now a possibility that the plan will be debated and may even bog down altogether in the Legislature.
Apparently "High Tax" Bobby has no monopoly on fiscal follies. Senator Malcolm S. Forbes, Republican, of Somerset County, who might have been governor if he could have had his own way, introduced a bill this week to raise $32,000,000 by a 4-mill tax on business receipts. "If enacted it would become the first new broad-based tax adopted in this state in fifteen years."
Fashioned after a similar tax now in effect in Michigan, the levy would be made on every dollar of business receipts over and above those required to cover the cost of doing business. The sponsor would prefer that the revenue be used for school aid.
R. E. H.

It's Time To Curb The Gamblers
Trenton suddenly seems to want to go "whole hog" to please the professional gamblers.
No less a Republican Senator than Wayne Dumont has set out to legalize 50-50 off-premise raffles despite a warning that it will wreck the recent raffles and bingo laws. No churches, volunteers organizations or service groups can benefit from his law. Only the "pros" would walk fat.
The Nutley Sun considers the "yes" vote of Essex Senator Mark Anton in favor of night trotting races a disgrace. Let Clean Government stand by its traditional position for decency and decorum. Mark Anton should be made to explain.

One Man's Opinion

Washington Weighs Direct Participation In Indochina By Throwing American Troops In With New French And Anzac Divisions

By RALPH E. HEINZEN

The diplomatic defeat in Geneva, coupled with the battlefront surrender at Dien Bien Phu, led Washington to debate with itself this week whether or not Indochina is to become a second Korea and whether the next step in our efforts to stem Communist expansion will involve the dispatch of United States ground and air forces to Indochina provided the French step up their own mobilization and that Anzac divisions share in the military effort.

Time is of the essence. The French hold only a very small segment of the rich Red River delta. Their defense perimeter is little larger than was the bulge at Dunkirk. Unlike Dien Bien Phu, the French cannot be surrounded in the delta. They have their backs to the sea but the delta allows no opportunity for maneuver. If France is to hold any of the northern half of Indochina, she must fight her way out of the delta, back to the Red River and, if possible, cut the Communists' lines of communication with the border of Red China.

Things look black for the French, even if they can hold Hanoi and the delta. The basic condition of American and Anzac aid, certainly, will be a French announcement of the complete independence of Indochina. A simple moral proclamation will not suffice. There must be a timetable or a positive date when the changeover from French empire to independent status occurs.

There is little time, alas, for France to debate the issue, or for us to make up our minds. If 20 new French, American and Anzac divisions are not landed in Indochina between now and mid-summer, the whole of the north will be lost to Communism. Red China will merely shove her own borders southward to the 20th parallel — a springboard for the next grab of Burma, Thailand or Cambodia.

Heavy Defections
Yesterday's heavily-censored despatches from Indochina could not hide the fact that the situation there is grave, not only in the Red River delta but throughout the land. In Washington, the impression is decisive that unless the French grant complete independence now there will be no chance of holding on much longer.
The despatches may clear that the French may shorten their perimeter in the delta in an effort to hold Hanoi and Haiphong, but the shorter the defense line becomes, the more massive can be the Communist onslaught. The Communists have made serious inroads into the native forces fighting under the French tricolor and defections to the Communists have been heavy.
Even the most optimistic French communiques cannot hide the fact that the entire north of Indochina has been written off. France will now try to preserve the south, particularly Saigon, which is the "Paris of the Far East."

Norodom Sihanouk, who has a very notable collection of recorded modern music, appears to be far more interested in listening to his records than he is in going to the front.

A serious defection has been that of Son Ngoc Thanh, who was very close to the young King but in recent days has taken to the jungle in pronounced opposition to the King and to the French. He figured in Cambodian affairs a decade ago when state law was overthrown by the Japanese. He sided with them and became Premier throughout the Japanese occupation.

French Take Position
The French have made it more clear to Washington that even if they lose Indochina, they have no intention of fighting alone. Unless she is assured of United States intervention, France will not reinforce her army in Indochina. Thus far, France has resisted Washington's efforts to convince her to mobilize at home. The French troops in action in Indochina are all from her standing army.

Foreign Legion.

The above map shows how the Vietminh Communists have squeezed the French into a pocket at the Red River delta. Within the pocket lie two of the richest prizes of the immediate campaign, Hanoi and Haiphong. It is at Langson, directly on the border of Red China, that Sgt. James Lucy of Nutley, was stationed with a detachment of U. S. Air Force maintenance troops when Dien Bien Phu fell. Congressman Peter W. Rodino has asked the Air Force for a report on the security and whereabouts of that detachment. As the smaller map shows, the Communist-held area completely cuts the peninsula and extends two-thirds of the length of the Indochina coast towards Saigon, France's economic stronghold in the Far East.

Colonial Army and a few metropolitan troops, plus her native levies. Washington wants France to call up two or more classes of conscripts and settle this thing once and for all. It is Washington's argument that if Indochina

Life at BHS As We See It

By Elaine Wiske and Lois Bloemke
Eight very happy girls were at last very lucky to get their picture taken when the long-awaited results of choosing try-outs were announced. Congratulations to the following girls: Juniors, Tanya Grunelch, Lona Salada, Sarah Dennis, Dolores Parnas, and Pauli Pober; sophomores, Sarah Salda, Kelly; and freshmen, Barbara Keldie and Pat Pacanelli, who will be next season's class ladies in blue and gold.

In case you haven't heard, there's been a recent addition to the twirlin' squad, and a cute addition at that. Grace Ferrigno is the lucky Miss to be added to the list of girls who will be strutting down the field come next September.

Graduation time is not far off, as witnessed by the recent selection of this year's graduation song. And speaking of graduation, it's a pity that the Senior Class members no longer have a say in the choosing. It's been recommended by Mr. Kittle that we dispense with the class gift to the school for several reasons.

Serious reasons in talking about vine-covered cottages and picket fences recently. "We hear that Sam Smith is planning to get engaged to a wonderful girl named Bill" next December.

SPOTLIGHT on SPORTS

By Bob Gorlin

Golf Becomes Second Love

Six-year-old George DeBrowski is still pitching that baseball like it's an aspirin, but the 50-pound youngster has found that golf is a pretty good sport, not letting that fact ball go. A natural athlete since he was the ripe old age of two, George took to the divot digging games as enthusiastically as he did to baseball.

Recently George's dad, Frank DeBrowski, a mason contractor and a top semi-pro baseball player in Belleville and Nutley for years, took him to the Forest Hill Field Club, in Bloomfield. Not satisfied with being a spectator, George pleaded with his dad for a chance to putt the ball. That was the beginning. Before pop could "say Jack Robinson", the pee-wee athlete sunk a 20-foot shot. After that golf became George's second love, the first still being baseball. The 43-inch youngster, with amazing coordination, sunk two more putts about 20-25 feet each and then with an iron blasted several drives as straight as an arrow about 150 feet.

It wasn't long after that, that the elder DeBrowski, bought a regular set of irons and woods and had them cut down. Now you should see the future all-round athlete control the ball. Which will it be George, a night, no-run game or the snapping of par on an 18-hole course?

What A Scout Looks For At H. S. Games

I spent a sunny afternoon at a Belleville baseball game recently with what he noted as the game progressed. "I'm not interested in what these boys chalk up in the scorebooks," he said. "My main interest is in seeing what natural ability each player has. If the boy is a natural athlete, we'll take a chance at developing his skill. Size is the first thing I look for. If a player isn't big, I don't bother to look any further." Actually, he continued, "I can learn more by watching pre-game practice than by watching the game itself. You can tell if a boy knows how to go after a grounder. You can see how well and fast a boy moves and best of all, you can get a good look at his arm."

Exam Given For Selecting Baseball Captain

Bill Murphy, manager of the Twin City Red Sox, composed of Belleville and Nutley baseball players last summer, has devised a unique system for selecting a team captain. This year Murphy is baseball coach of Our Lady of the Valley High School, of Orange.

"I want a team captain that knows baseball and can apply solutions to problems on the spur of the minute when they pop up in a game. I don't want a player who is elected via a popularity contest," he said. "Here in Essex County voters aren't allowed to give signals from the first and third base coaching boxes. As a result I have selected my team captain after giving a brief examination."

The way Murphy carried out his original plan was to give a test to all seniors and juniors. The test included 25 questions and problems that frequently occur in a game. Before giving the test, however, he had a master sheet set up with a number given to each participant so that he didn't know whose paper he was examining when going over the answers. With such a system the marking was completely impartial.

"Ordinarily the exam would be limited only to seniors, but this year there are only two on the entire squad," Murphy concluded.

Golf Or Golf

Today Belleville divot diggers know the sport of hitting a little white pellet with a club or an iron as golf, but it wasn't always known by that name. Earlier this week I came across a very interesting book on "Hoyle's Games", tanned by age that dates away back to 1845. The excellent kept three by four and one-half inch, 277-page edition describes just about every sport and card game popular in the early 1800's. It includes such games as casino, crib, baccarat, faro, lottery, whist, chess, backgammon, dominoes, cricket, billiards, tennis, horse racing, archery, and ten pins, but no baseball or football.

Also listed, but under different titles are poker and golf. American gamblers then knew the game of poker as "hoyle" while golf was always called "golf". Odd titles of card games played by our ancestors were: brag, catch the ten, commit, loo, matrimony, Pope Joan, blind hokey and snip, snap, snore 'em.

Getting back to golf or goff, "Hoyle's Games" has this to say about the sport: "... There are six clubs used by good players, viz, the common club, used when the ball lies on the ground; the scrapper and half-scrapper, when in long grass; the spoon, when in hollow; the heavy iron club, when it lies deep among stones or mud; and the light iron club, when on the surface of chingle or sandy ground."

In describing the ball, the 1845 edition on "Hoyle's Games" states, "The balls are much smaller than those used in cricket and much harder. They are made of horse leather and stuffed with feathers in a peculiar manner and then boiled. When playing with the wind, light balls are used and heavy ones against it."

"At the beginning each game the ball is allowed to be elevated to whatever height the player chooses, for the convenience of striking, but not afterward. This is done by means of sand or clay, called a sover. The ball which is played off at the beginning of the game cannot be changed until the next hole is won, even if they should happen to burst."

When describing the game of bowls, or ten pins, which we now call bowling, the author says, "... The chief art in playing at this somewhat athletic game seems to consist in hitting the apex or point-pin a half ball, (the larger the ball the greater the chance of success), but dexterity is only to be acquired by practice. The uninitiated had better not be too fierce in his first onslaught, especially if he plays with heavy balls, as the exercise is likely to try the muscles of his arm rather severely and may leave a reminiscence some days afterward."

"The balls are usually of four different kinds, varying in size from four to eight inches in diameter and from four or five to 10, or 11 pounds in weight."

CLIPPERS, GIANTS TAKE 3 TO LEAD THE LITTLE LEAGUE

The Little League Clippers and Giants went into last week's game in the American and National leagues, respectively, by winning three games each in the series. On Saturday, in a double-header at Clearman Field, the Clippers defeated the Aces 9-5 in the first game and home runs were batted in by George Meagher and Marty Higgins, with the bases loaded.

The Giants then continued the Yanks, with John Carlo and Ronnie Valente combining to pitch a no-hit game, 1-0, with the winning hit scored by George Stierlin.

On Tuesday evening the Giants again took to the diamond and beat the Cubs, 2-1. Mike Marano holding the foe to a single out of the bases.

Today's game, which would have pitted the Giants vs. Yanks, has been called off due to the holiday for the boys of St. Peter's school.

HOLIDAY REGATTA NEREID STAGES ON THE PASSAIC

The Nereid Boat Club and the New York Rowing Association will sponsor a regatta on the Passaic River, at Belleville, on Monday, this week. The largest club rowing regatta held in New Jersey since the 1948 Olympic Trials at Princeton, with a total of 18 events, 49 crews, and 140 individual oarsmen, competing.

The races will begin at noon, when National Champion Jack Kelly of Philadelphia's Vesper Boat Club, meets Lightweight National Champion Joe Anygal, of the New York A. C. and Homer R. Zink of the Nereid Boat Club, in the 4 mile Dash. Races will follow promptly at 15 minute intervals until 4:15 p. m., including single, double, four and eight man crews. All races will finish just north of the Belleville Pike bridge.

Another feature race will bring together Kelly and his new Vesper partner, Bill Knecht, in a match race with Gene Lovelless and Ed Lynch, of the NYCA, runnerup in both American and Canadian Championships last year. A third feature is expected to match Olympic champions Chuck Loeck and Tom Price of Rutgers B. C. with NYAC's crack Callahan Brothers crew, and Vesper's Irv Miller and Joe Toland.

Belleville and Nutley high school oarsmen will be seen in the Junior 4, and Junior and Senior 8 races, competing against crews from NYAC and Rutgers B. C. Vesper will pit its national champion quad of Kelly, Toland, Miller and Melville, which won by default last year, against a top NYAC crew of Anygal, Walsh, Lovelless and Lynch; a Nereid crew of Hall, King, Crane and Zink, and a New Rochelle crew.

PEDESTRIAN DIES WHEN HIT BY CAR AT STREET CORNER

Struck by a car as he was crossing Union Avenue at William Street last Saturday, Louis Cordi, 72, of 95 Cedar Hill Avenue, died of his injuries two hours later at Columbus Hospital in Newark.

Vernon Shepard, 37, of 53 Passaic Avenue, Nutley, the driver of the car was released by Magistrate Edward J. Abrams under $1,500 bond to await grand action on a charge of causing death by auto.

The accident occurred in early afternoon, but because Cordi carried no papers with him, he was not identified until Saturday night. His wife became worried because he did not return home, and learning that a pedestrian had been struck by a car only a short distance from her home, called a relative who checked with police.

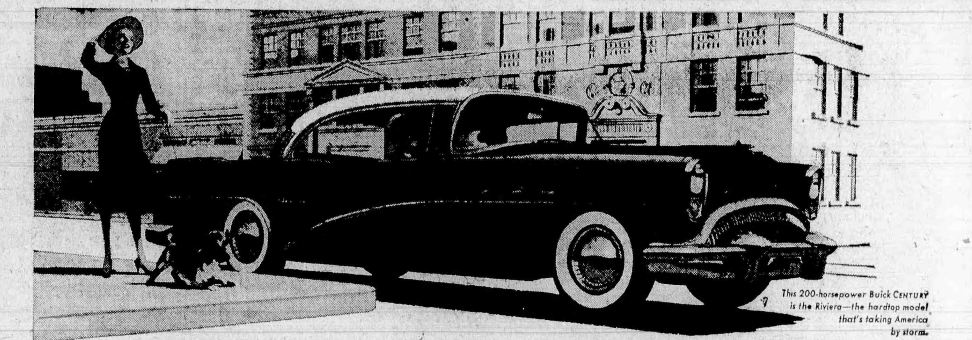

A solemn high requiem mass was offered for Mr. Cordi Wednesday in St. Peter's Church, and funeral services were held from the Kiernan Funeral Home. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, North Arlington.

Live wire that really looks it

(One reason why Buick is such a big success this year!)

Its sports-car lines tell you there's a lift and spirit here enough for any man. Even standing still this glamor car looks alive. And that look-of-tomorrow styling that's part and parcel of every new Buick—that sweeping panoramic windshield with the dream-car slant—all that says there's action here, and plenty of it.

But just note the name "CENTURY" emblazoned on its rear fender, and you can take it as gospel that this is a performance car of the very first water. It's the liveliest of the live wires—the highest-voltage Buick in the line.

It is instant on getaway, a joy in cruising, a breeze on hills—and a honey of a friend in the added safety of its plenty reserve power always on hand for sudden needs. It is, in fact, a 200-horsepower performance car, and priced far below it—the highest-powered car at its price in the land. With this great-powered good-looker setting the pace—and with equally impressive SPECIALS, SUPERS and ROADMASTERS adding to the excitement—is it any wonder Buick today is outselling every other car in America except two of the so-called "low-price three"? Come in and try one of these gorgeous new Buicks. With the prices we're quoting, you can make the buy of the year this very week.

Commends Police

To The Editor, The Times-News: On May 28th, Saturday night at approximately 12 o'clock, midnight, my husband and I, and three occupants were in our car which at that time was involved in an accident in downtown Belleville on Washington Avenue and Van Rensselaer Street.

In a matter of seconds three police officers appeared on the scene. Unfortunately I do not know their names but they were definitely a reflection of the rest of the police department as to the manner in which they took charge. They were prompt, courteous, efficient and very solicitous as to the welfare of the passengers.

A residents of this town, my husband and I are very proud of the fact that we were recipients of the wonderful efforts afforded us by the police officers, not only by their actions but by the fact that in an emergency the dependability was commendable.

Again, our thanks to the Police Department of Belleville.

"Demand Their Resignations"

To The Editor, The Times-News: Your editorial of last Friday was greatly appreciated, but too true, not all read up important article like this. I like to ask the citizenry of Belleville, now that the election is over: "Are we all going to sit back and be content with matters, as they stand, or are we really going to get behind this town of ours, and do something about a lot of important issues, that apparently are just not going to be settled unless we, the people, speak again." It has been recently proven that a majority, voicing their opinion, can overcome any bad situation.

Let's go, people. We have shown that we want a change on our school board. Now do we get the change that we voted for last Tuesday at the polls, for an elective Board of Education or do we permit men who have presented against them to continue to sit on the board? Or will we, the people of Belleville, demand their resignations? Remember, it was only due to the state of limitation that these same men were not indicted. Deney alone should bring forth their resignations but will they do it? No, certainly not, unless you and I demand that they do. Any individual, under indictment or suspicion, should bow out gracefully from any office, until the law has taken its course. We, the people, have recently elected a new Mayor and four commissioners. Now let us help them by being good citizens. Let us clean up a lot of dirt that seems to be lying around. Then they can get into the stride of things with a clean house. They all voiced their desire for clean government, before election, so let's help them clean out Town Hall and then maybe they'll keep it that way.

Write to your town commissioners and demand good, clean government. Start by asking for the resignation of the School Board. Town hall meetings should not be neglected by us, the people, either. It helps to keep us in full knowledge of town affairs when we go to town meetings and certainly the commissioner would be delighted to see any new-found interest that we the people might take in our town.

Cooperation Appreciated
To The Editor, The Times-News:

The Belleville Committee for Young Men in Government wishes to thank you for the support you and the Belleville Times-News gave to the Charter Study issue. Your cooperation in publishing Mr. Hartley's comments, your editorial opinions and the coverage by your representatives, Mr. Kolinsky, all served to give a better understanding of the Charter Study by the people of Belleville.

The 5 to 1 vote for the Charter Study has shown the feeling of the voters of the Town. The Charter Commissioners have given their assurance that an impartial and exhaustive study will be made, not only of the several forms of government available under the Optional Charter Law, but also of the Commission Form. In order for them to accomplish their purpose they will need everyone's support, cooperation and understanding. Civic and other groups, as well as individuals, must make their views about municipal government for Belleville known to the Charter Commissioners. The opportunity for this will be scheduled public hearings throughout the Town.

TEACHERS STUDY PROPOSED PLAN FOR PENSIONS

More than 200 teachers representing schools in all parts of Essex County gathered last week at Roosevelt School, Caldwell, to hear Dr. Stephen E. Schanes, of Nutley, supervisor of the State Bureau of Public Employees' Pensions, explain the new proposed plans to merge the retirement systems of New Jersey teachers and other state employee groups.

The last regular meeting of the Essex County Education Association was lively as teachers who have been contributing relatively to the present teachers' pension large percentages of their salaries and annuity fund questioned Dr. Schanes to learn the provisions of the new plan. Dr. Schanes, originator of the plan and a member of the Nutley Board of Education, answered questions and explained how the plan would fit in with social security.

Charles Gieske, of Grove Street School, Irvington, a member of the Delegate Assembly of the New Jersey Education Association explained to the group that before any changes are made the State Association will make a thorough study of the necessary legislation, prepare film strips and educational devices, and acquaint teachers with the proposals. The teachers were assured that they will have an opportunity to vote individually on a proposal before it becomes effective.

Mrs. Virginia Haycock, of Montclair, presented the following state of new officers for the coming year.

President, Harry Jellinek, of Newark; Vice-president, W. Edward Young, principal of Pilefield School, South Orange-Maplewood; Secretary, Sarah Goodman, Bloomfield Junior High School; Treasurer, Caldwell, and Treasurer, Madeline Sharpe, of East Orange.

Retiring President Smith was heartily commended for his fine summary and recommendations to the group. He emphasized the need for continued harmony and cooperation in trying extended and continuing service to members of the organization and to the teaching profession.

P.T.A. NO. 9 TOPS SEASON FUN WITH GAY FASHION SHOW

One of the big affairs of the season was the post-Easter fashion show presented at school No. 9 by the Parent-Teacher Association. The gala program was staged and directed by Vincent Wells, Jr., and Mrs. Julia Wells and Mrs. Angelina Meloi were committee chairmen.

The adults and children who modeled included: Cathy Molinaro, Rose Mangiavillano, Mary Gaiuso, Frances Gaiuso, Ann Germino, Geraldine Croce, Rosemarie Del Guercio, Louise Karlson, Gerry Macaluso, Barbara Clark, Lillian Winfield, Carol Taylor, Mildred Coleman, Mary De Guglielmo, Barbara Reeves, Dolly Marchione, Lynn Marchione, Lorene Ross and Josephine Del Guercio.

The latest fashions for tiny tots were sported by the following young ladies, aged two years and upwards: Lorraine Calabro, Margaret Cullari, Linda Caccavale, Josephine Wells, Betty Lynn Karlson, Angele Macaluso, Little Joseph Meloi, Dennis Lane, Howard Reese and Harry Winfield also got into the act and displayed what the well-dressed young man should wear.

The Bob Kimble Dancing School members gave an exhibition of some fancy footwork, accompanied on the piano by Doris Martin. Featured were: Barry Johnson, Sharon Cheney, Bobby Hazzack, Pat Robertson, Bernard Pecko, Greg Joseph, Betty Anne Laird, Cathy Farsene and Lorene Ross.

In addition to the zest of the evening were a beautiful supply of door prizes donated by Belleville merchants on an unprecedented scale. Contributors included: Gold Key Lamp Shade Co., Belleville Hardware, Shargel's Department Shoppe, Abbotts Drugs, and the Store, Cullari's, Pike's Specialty Belleville Florist.

WAR PRISONERS MAY FILE CLAIMS

Congressman Peter W. Rodino, Jr., announced yesterday that President Eisenhower signed on May 13, a bill to extend the deadline for filing prisoner of war claims under Public Law 303, 82nd Congress. The new law, Public Law 359, does not provide any new benefits for members of the armed service of the United States who were prisoners of war in World War II but merely extends the time for filing from April 9, 1953, to August 1, 1954.

Public Law 303 provides for compensation at the rate of $144 for each year a member of the Armed Services of the United States detained as a prisoner of war during World War II, was subjected by the enemy to inhuman treatment or forced labor in violation of the provisions of the Geneva Convention of 1929.

Generally, claims relate to excessive hours of work by prisoners of war under unsafe and dangerous conditions, without proper compensation, or that they were subjected to abuse by their captors and not furnished adequate housing and sanitary facilities as required by the Geneva Convention.

Congressman Rodino emphasized that persons who have already filed under Public Law 303, before April 9, need not file again and that the provisions of Public Law 303 are restricted to veterans of World War II. There is legislation pending before the Congress which, if enacted, will extend similar compensation to members of the Armed Forces of the United States detained as prisoners of war in the Korean conflict.
