

Once Member Of Slovakian Parliament, He Continues His Fight Against Communists

Once a member of the Czechoslovakian Parliament, Stefan Blasko, of 177 Garden Avenue, who is now employed as a counterman in a Newark restaurant owned by a relative, continues his never-ending fight against the Communists from whom he escaped with the help of the Slovakian underground after years of resistance to the Reds during which his life was constantly in danger.

Working with various organizations here and abroad, Blasko is not only fighting for Czechoslovakia's freedom from Russia, but is seeking the establishment of Czechia and Slovakia as two separate nations.

"It is in the interest of both nations that they should be masters of their own destinies," Blasko says. "I am a chairman of the Cultural Committee of the Slovak National Council Abroad, which is seeking that end. Other groups here and abroad oppose the division, but Blasko claims that 90 per cent of the Slovakian people, including those who have emigrated to America, favor the separation.

ORDEAL — Stefan Blasko of Belleville, former member of the Slovakian Parliament, shows his niece, Elaine Plosa, the Crucifix he carried with him when he escaped from the Communists in Czechoslovakia. Elaine is repeating the information into the microphone of a record borrowed from Blasko's friend, John Hvasta of Hillside, whose arrest and eventual release by the Communists in Czechoslovakia became an international incident. Elaine, a Belleville high school sophomore, and other students in the social study classes are planning a recording to be broadcast over the Free Europe radio to students behind the Iron Curtain.

The Russian charges that "some of the men who betrayed their people—former officials in Slovakia under the Communist regime—were responsible for the alleged speaking of the Slovak people, and have been permitted to broadcast the Voice of America and Free Europe. These same men, who now like to talk about democracy, have they are opposed to Communism, call us 'Fascists.' That is the final irony!"

His four sisters and brothers still live in Slovakia, but Blasko refuses to stop his campaign against the Communists.

"I am not a fish and blood, but they are four people, and it is a question of whether I shall consider them first, or my native nation," he says.

Messages which he has written for the Slovak people have been broadcast over Free Europe radio stations in Madrid and Rome, and he is intensely active in groups devoted to the liberation of his country.

The Belleville man is a close friend of John Hvasta, Hillside ex-GI who was arrested by the Communists in Czechoslovakia where he had gone to study at Prague University, finally being released through the efforts of Congressman Peter Rodino, D-N.J. Blasko recently spoke to the history classes at Belleville high school after Elaine Plosa, a sophomore at the school, had asked Blasko to make the arrangements. Blasko is Elaine's uncle. She and other members of the social study group under Raymond O. Smith plan to make recordings for broadcasts over Free Europe radio stations in the other side of the Iron Curtain.

Blasko, who is now 39 and still unmarried, was elected a member of the Czechoslovakian Parliament in 1946, running on LUCKY — Benjamin Ferraro, Belleville barber, stops clipping customer Ralph Risoli's hair long enough to show him the two Irish Sweepstakes tickets purchased by himself and a brother, Louis, one of which won $56,000 for them. The winning ticket (the one on the left, if you must know) was bought by Benjamin, but the brothers had agreed to share the prize, because neither of them had a horse in the race. The dollar bill pinned over the mirror was put there by Ferraro for good luck. Now he will get $56,000 more just like it.

Barber Wins $56,000 With $3 On Irish Sweepstakes

When Benjamin Ferraro, a Belleville barber, went to the Roosevelt race track in Long Island last week, three of his horses came in and he won $40.

When he returned to his home, at 22 Magnolia Street late the same day, he found that another of his horses had won $56,000.

The fourth horse was Arabian Night, entered in the Irish Sweepstakes. Derby held at Epsom Downs, England. Ferraro had purchased the three dollar ticket a month ago from a salesman who told him that the horse was a book of tickets for a Church of St. Anthony raffle, he wrote in his wife's name as the purchaser. One of the tickets won him a new automobile.

Joseph Tamburello, Ferraro's brother-in-law, was in the barbershop when the news arrived. Mrs. Ferraro asked him to read it, but when he told her that her husband had won $56,000, she refused to believe it.

Not until Ferraro arrived home hours later could the two men believe it.

Raebinger stipulated in his letter that while the check would be made, "some of the matters referred to in the letter were covered by the Essex County Grand Jury, and we are not in a position to review the findings of a grand jury. We are not in a position to review the findings of a grand jury. We are not in a position to review the findings of a grand jury."

The Association announced that O'Brien had been named to succeed to the position as president at the next election. Also re-elected were William A. Boyd, 1st vice-president; Anthony F. Moro, 2nd vice-president; Joseph R. DiStasio, treasurer. Mrs. John E. Warren was elected as secretary to replace Ralph J. Baker, appointed chairman of the new Charter Study committee to cooperate with the executive committee members.

Clamp Down On Motorists For Parking Violations

The jingle jangle of pennies and nickels dropped into the long rows of parking meters along Washington Avenue has tripled recently as word has spread among the citizenry that parking tickets for overtime violations are here stay.

Enforcement had fallen off in recent months, together with an attendant increase in willful violations and a decrease in ticketing.

The windshields of many automobiles parked along the thoroughfare have blossomed with parking tickets since two police officers were assigned to the street with orders to pay adequate attention to the meter. In addition to other duties, more than 100 tickets have been handed out including some to town employees. Under New Jersey state law, a ticket cannot be "fixed."

The officer had previously done school crossing duty on the west side of town as part of their working schedule. Now one of them has been assigned to the Mill Street to Jordan Road area, and the other from Jordan Road north to Greylock Avenue. Both are able to continue new school crossing duties on the beat.

The officer on the south end of the beat is Sgt. John J. Nulley. The second officer was assigned, but will return to his Washington Avenue beat within the next few days. A civilian school crossing guard meanwhile has been hired to fill out the rest of the school season.

There are now said to be approximately 325 meters in operation on Washington Avenue.

Padula

Detailing his views further, the mayor said:

"Belleville needs attention in many areas established operation. It must have new avenues of operation. As mayor, I am anxious as to how these things may be acted upon, my four colleagues have ideas, and you have ideas. All must attend. But we cannot serve the needs of Belleville by patch-work, segmented planning. We must have a unified planning through a qualified board in order that all parts of the town may be developed, and it will not be necessary for area residents to form special groups for self-protection. The growth of our town depends upon unity, and unity can only be achieved where the people believe in the strength of the government."

A strong, well intended planning board would know the area needs of Belleville, and aid in the solution of immediate problems, as well as evolve a master plan for future development. Such a board should include those in whom the people expressed confidence at the polls, together with others of professions not included in the candidate personnel, assuming as a strong planning board must be made up of individuals whose education, background, and background of contact with the population as a whole make them capable of seeing the needs of the whole community in all facets of action.

"Any planning board, however well organized is committed only to study and to recommend, and cannot act in an unauthorized manner, while the Advisory Committee members serve as consultants only, while the Planning Board is authorized to act."

"I hope you will all go along with me in this matter and in all matters where the objective is to give dignity and meaning to government here in Belleville."

IF YOU'RE YOUNG—OR JUST FEEL YOUNG

Nothing is more fun than the thrill of a flashing ride on our Jet, Moon Rocket, or Octopus, or relaxation on the world's largest merry-go-round (lots of others and the crowd, too) Or a cooling swim in our 4,000,000-gallon fresh water pool . . . And for the 1-6 crowd: Kiddieland, a park, all their own, with maddie rides (extra safe of course).

DELIVERED LOCALLY! 1954 SPECIAL 2-DOOR, 6-PASSENGER SEDAN, MODEL 48D (illustrated)

TAKE heart, good friend—you can buy a hit-of-the-year Buick if you can afford any new car.

And we proudly show our price here to prove it.

For this price is the delivered price—the local delivered price—of the new Buick SPECIAL 2-door, 6-passenger Sedan—and it's just a few dollars away from those of the so-called "low-price three"—lower, in fact, than even some models of those very same cars.

But look what this Buick price gets you!

It gets you the very look of tomorrow in styling modernity, even to the spectacular new panoramic windshield that seems to outdate everything before it.

It gets you Buick V8 power—highest in SPECIAL history—plus the economy of new Power-Head Pistons.

It gets you Buick room, Buick luxury, Buick size and structure and solidity—including of course, the famed Million Dollar Ride and a new precision in handling ease.

It gets you, too, solid and deep-down value.

For any way you look at it, you're money ahead with the car that's years-ahead now in looks and line and the lift of its power—and the car that's outlasting every other car in America except two of the "low-price three."

Drop in today or the first thing tomorrow—just to try and to drive and to compare a new Buick. We'll let the car prove its points.

No wonder Buick Sales are Soaring!

SPOTLIGHT on SPORTS

Fairleigh Dickinson Interested In Crew???

Rumor has it that Fairleigh Dickinson College, in Rutherford, may be seriously considering expanding its athletic program to taking in crew. Cost is one of the biggest factors, for a shell is a big investment. Interest is another factor. If interest becomes high enough, though, the college would probably override the cost.

Reason for the interest at the Rutherford campus, which isn't too far from the Passaic River, is the influx of students from Belleville and Nutley which field the only public high school crews in the entire state of New Jersey. The Belleville and Nutley students have been in good position of the college student body with rowing fever.

The crew movement made some headway this past year with the establishment of a Nautical Club, which is building its own runabout and which will have its own boat house right behind the Teaneck campus.

If this group shows enough interest and receives enough support, student opinion could be the force that will bring intercollegiate rowing to the Passaic River. Such an undertaking may even be the start of a movement for other high schools in the area of the Passaic and Hackensack Rivers to eventually get their "feet" wet in the rowing sport.

All kinds of boating have grown in popularity during the last decade. Nowadays people seem to be doing rather than watching. Participant sports are receiving more and more support each year and boating is one of the foremost channels. Just take a trip down the Passaic on a Sunday afternoon. The boat traffic that crowds the waterways is almost as bad as some of the auto traffic on the busy Jersey highways. If the boating fever continues to expand and reaches fever pitch in these parts, rowing might become a big sport in the area.

Red Cocetti Banging Ball For Colonels

With no fast stepping semi pro baseball club in Belleville, Red Cocetti, of Passaic Avenue, has joined forces with the Nutley Colonels, defending pennant winners of the Essex County League. From what manager Ernie Lantz has seen of Cocetti and what comes out of Belleville, he is wondering if there are any other hidden stars in town who are not showing their natural talents to any advantage.

Cocetti, 19-years-old, in less than one month has gained the reputation of being one of the most feared clutch batters in the powerful eight-team circuit. While patrolling left field for Nutley he has been banging the ball at a lofty 387 clip.

A Prudential Insurance Company employee by day, he has socked 12 hits in 31 times at bat. While perched near the charmed 400 mark, Cocetti has been poised to opposing batters. Of his 12 safeties, six have been clubbed for extra bases. Because of his steady hitting, Lantz has been taking advantage of his stick work and has been using him in the cleanup spot. He has driven in 12 runs. Besides hitting rival pitchers like he owns them, the Belleville slugger wearing a Nutley uniform, has a sharp batting eye. Only twice has he been retired on strikes.

Cocetti enjoyed his most productive weekend only this week when he pummeled opposing pitchers for five hits in seven times at bat. Against Maplewood, Saturday, which Nutley won, 13-6, Cocetti had a perfect day at the plate collecting a single and double. The following afternoon, playing Montclair at Park Oval, the Colonel left fielder got three hits in five at bats in a losing 8-5 cause. He accounted for a single, double and triple.

Belleville H. S. Sports Review For 1953-54

By Bob Gorlin

With the school year rapidly coming to a close its time we looked back at the happenings in the field of Belleville High School's athletic activities. This past year Belleville had its ups and downs, a share of thrills and its share of disappointments. Next year promises a bright future in the Blue and Gold's major sports with basketball and baseball heading for banner seasons.

At the very beginning of the school year Belleville's football team, coached by Ed Bennett, lost the opening game to East Orange. Once the season was in swing, however, the Blue and Gold went on a rampage and compiled a five-game winning streak.

During the victory skunk only two touchdowns were scored against Coach Berlinski's hustling eleven, but Kearny and Orange broke the spell late in November.

As a result of Belleville's 12-0 victory over Nutley, R. H. S. retained possession of the Victory Club-Nutley Third Half Club Trophy for the second successive year. Belleville has won five of the eight years that the coveted award has been in circulation.

Rocco Cafone, recognized as one of the top quarterbacks in Essex County, and tackle Ed Gray served as co-captains for the 1953 campaign.

New Grid Captain Named
At the ninth annual Varsity Club Football Banquet in December, 16 Belleville seniors received individual trophies. Once again, Joe Mignone and Bill Chapman were selected as co-winners of the Nelson J. Landon Memorial Trophy emblem of the most improved players on the squad. During the program Mignone and John McCabe were announced as co-captains for the 1954 grid campaign.

Playing their last football game in a Belleville uniform against Orange on Thanksgiving Day were Larry D'Onofrio, John Bucciarrelli, Nick Cocco, Keh Jacobson, Bob Auten, Al Zaleski, Carl Colucci, Frank Cook, Bob Doyle, Bill Chapman, Leslie Eyerkuss, Don Pomoni, Richard Zipt, Frank Scarpelli, Cafone and Gray.

No Lettermen On Hoop Stand
In basketball the 1953-54 court season was a highly successful one as Coach Herman "Jifty" Wische started out the campaign without a single letterman and went on to field one of the best quintets in Essex County.

The Blue and Gold after dropping its first two starts of the winter slate to Passaic and Garfield, both Passaic County rivals, made a complete about face. Belleville completed the regular schedule with seven consecutive victories for an overall mark of 11 wins against four defeats.

Pat Grosso and Andy Leyble led the team in the scoring department most of the season, but taking up the slack at the most important times was a junior, Richie Veith.

It was Veith who broke up the contest against South Side, finalist of the Essex County Basketball Tournament. He connected on six out of eight shots at the basket in the second half to ice the 69-55 regular season finale.

Holding the team together with his expert ball handling was Rocco Cafone, who proved that the switch from football to basketball can be successfully made.

The game of basketball took place in the first of a home and home series against Bloomfield in the Bellboys court. The Bellboys won, 55-57 as Leyble's free throw in the final two seconds of play decided the eventual outcome. Grosso led the scoring attack with 27 points as neither team enjoyed more than a three-point lead. The score was deadlocked 19 times and changed hands another 19 times.

Seeded third in the Essex County hoop jamboree, the Blue and Gold made a quick exit as they were upset by unseeded Orange, 54-52 in overtime. Winding up their court careers under Wieche were Gary Burman, Bob Taylor, Gosso and Cafone.

Bennett To Return

Last winter a ruling was passed by the State Board of Education legislation making it mandatory that high school coaches must be certified teachers. Expected to be affected by the decision was crew coach Bill Bennett.

The ruling though will not affect Bennett since any coach active in a system before last winter will be able to continue in the same capacity without any interference.

In crew Belleville suffered a mediocre season as the oarsmen traveled over 120 miles as they rowed against Dartmouth, Columbia, Kent, Lower Merion, Poughkeepsie High School and St. Andrews School.

The crew, rowing in the National Schoolboy Championships last month at Worcester, Mass.,

FROSH OARSMEN LOSE TO NUTLEY

For the first time in the history of the annual Nutley-Belleville freshmen one-mile race on the Passaic River, the Maroon ninth graders defeated their arch rivals. Nutley won the race by two lengths as the race brought down the curtain on the 1954 scholastic crew schedule for both schools.

In the absence of Coach Bill Bennett, who is serving as head figure for Columbia University in the National Intercollegiate Crew Championships at Syracuse, the Nutley squad was guided by assistant coach Jack Lewis. Ray Smith handled the Belleville youngsters.

For the ninth year, the frosh race was the combination of the entire season. Next spring several of the heavier members will move up to the junior varsity, with the remaining oarsmen competing in sophomore races.

Rowing under sunny skies, Nutley led all the way as the tide and river current aided the Maroon Raiders in completing the race in 4:55. Belleville was timed in 5:05.

Boatings
Nutley — Bow: Segal; 2. Long; 3. Loutley; 4. Kootas; 5. Deane; 6. Molin; 7. Kjelberg; stroke: Long; coxswain: Loutley.

Belleville — Bow: Kinsinger; 2. Blugin; 3. Lendell; 4. Costello; 5. Hill; 6. Rhine; 7. Worley; stroke: Jacobson; coxswain: Ellis.

finished fourth in a qualifying heat involving five teams.

In baseball Coach Berlinski inaugurated his new youth movement with sophomores and freshmen seeing increased action during the spring campaign. Lettermen back were pitcher John Bartel, second baseman Al Johnston and shortstop Joe Long.

Bartel bulkheaded the pitching department for the Blue and Gold as Belleville competed the season with a six and three record good for fourth place in the Big Ten Conference. Highlight of the season was an upset victory over highly favored Montclair.

Track was one of Belleville's weak sister sports. Standing out from the remainder of the mercury squad was Mignone, one of the state's fastest runners in the 100 and 220-yard sprints.

DAVIDSON STREET RESIDENTS FIGHT VARIANCE PLEA

Davidson Street residents, represented by Atty. Robert C. Orin, appeared at this week's Town Commission meeting to protest granting of a variance to the Hassel Bros. Air Conditioning Service for construction of an office and storage building in a residential zone at 429 Main Street.

The variance had already been anonymously recommended by the Board of Adjustment, but the commission withheld action.

Max N. Schwartz, attorney for the company, said the area to be a heavily industrial district. He later said cost of the proposed building would be about $10,000 and $15,000. The company is presently located at 143 Belleville Avenue.

A proposed ordinance to permit morticians and other classifications of business and professional men to conduct their business in their own dwellings in residential zones was held in abeyance. Victor Schleicher, attorney for a group of residents opposed to the ordinance, appeared with petitions containing 400 names protesting against passage of such measures.

Schleicher later announced the organization of the Belleville Citizens' Zoning Protective League. He said its purpose was to be "constantly on the alert for any act, governmental or otherwise, that might in any way disturb or molest the residential character of any neighborhood established as residential." He said the officers were Dr. William Post, president; Sherman Beatty, vice-president; Mrs. Evan Thomas, secretary; A. G. Salke, treasurer. Schleicher was named legal adviser.

The commission approved a request for permission to build an addition to the Kap Service Station at 301 Main Street. The cost of a sidewalk on Jerusalem Street between Franklin Avenue and Belle-View Gardens. Pedestrians must now walk on the road, which is one of the most heavily traveled in Belleville. The town's share of the cost would not be more than $1250, with the limit for payments by individual property owners set at $500.

will be approximately $25,000, said Edward Kaplan, the station owner.

Edwards Burns, a railroad engineer who has frequently expressed his views at Commission meetings, asked assurance from Public Safety Director Harry J. Sullivan that Commissioner Kenneth D. Smith will not be permitted to leave of absence from the police department beyond the October date that has already been granted to him.

"Mr. Smith shouldn't hold two jobs at once," he declared. Smith, who holds the rank of deputy police chief, here interpreted the comment that under Civil Service he was entitled to a second leave of absence after October if he so wished.

In answer to a question from James R. Golden, former commission candidate, Director Sullivan declared that the people had voted Smith into office, and that "in view of this mandate I would look favorably upon the request for a second leave of absence from the police department by Commissioner Smith," Sullivan had originally

$4845 NEEDED TO MEET CANCER GOAL

With a goal of $7500 set for Belleville's American Cancer Society campaign, and only $2655 collected thus far, chairman Elmer S. Hyde, commissioner of parks and public property, has issued an urgent plea for all to give. Contributions may be mailed to Howard McMaster, at the Belleville branch of the Fidelity Union Trust Company.

Hyde declared this is the first time the town has fallen short of its established quota since he has led the annual drive.

"Our primary interest is reaching the average citizen. Only a small donation is necessary if a good majority of the people contribute," he said.

He also mentioned the entry into the contest by the police department commission race on the grounds point should not engage in "political activity."

Clippers Top Aces In Close Shave 3-0 Game

The league-leading Clippers had to come from behind to prevent the Aces from moving up into first place in a tight American League baseball game at Clearman Field on Monday night. Vinnie Matraxia, Clipper catcher, was the hero for his side, driving in the winning run in the fifth, and then saving the game with a nice catch of a high fly for the final out with the bases full. Richie Boyce, Ace's pitcher, hurled a fine game for four innings, shutting out the league leaders, 3-0, until he ran into trouble in the fifth when the winners scored all their runs.

The Demons also had to come from behind in Tuesday's game with the Bombers, as they overcame a 6-1 deficit to win their tilt, 12-6.

In a third game of the week, the Dodgers nosed out the Yanks in the National League, 3-2 as a result of a passed ball.

Audrey Kathryn Maise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Maise of 18 Forest Street has recently been elected representative of her class to the Choir Committee at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Johnny Applauded

The leader stopped beside the apple trees
And shifted in the saddle, turned around.
"A likely spot," he said, "a stream and these Nubbins greening." There wasn't any sound
But Johnny stood there chuckling just the same
Because he knew in spirit when his own
Paused in their travels, blessing his well-known name.
And settled to add to what his hands had sown.

A hundred little villages found life
Because first one and then another stayed.
A hardy pioneer, his eager wife,
By orchards Johnny Applauded had made.
Johnny's been gone a hundred years or more
But every time new blossoms pink a touch
It makes me glad for Johnny to my core.
To see how his far dreams are thriving now!

Symington — A Cynical Smarty-Pants

When Senator Joseph McCarthy said of Secretary of the Army Stevens that he is "a fine, innocent fellow who was mousetrapped by smart politicians," he told only the half of it. From the transcript of Senator Symington's monitored telephone conversations with Secretary Stevens, which has been introduced into the record of the Army vs. McCarthy hearings, it becomes very evident that not only Secretary Stevens but President Eisenhower and the entire Republican party has been mousetrapped by Harry Truman's Missouri chrony, Senator Symington.

Chronologically, the monitored conversations began on February 20 right after Secretary Stevens had decided to make a stand on the Poress case, and had given orders that officers were not to appear to testify.

The conversations reflected Mr. Stevens' distraught state of mind. He did not wish to antagonize Senator McCarthy, but he was deeply angry, and he was worried over the press stories. On February 20, he called the Senator and told him of his order. Senator McCarthy replied:

"Just go ahead and try it, Robert. I am going to kick the brains out of anyone who protects Communists. If that is (your policy)  I will guarantee that you will live to regret it."

Senator McCarthy hung up. Secretary Stevens then called Senator Symington, and this exchange took place:

Stevens: I told him (Senator McCarthy) that I did not intend to produce Zwicker.  You can imagine what happened. He really beat my brains out.

Symington: Did you have anybody on the phone?

Stevens: Yes, I did.

Symington: That's good. Keep the record.

Stevens: He blew his lid (and)  finally said, "You are suspended for 30 o'clock Tuesday morning." ***

Symington: I just wouldn't go. Let me talk to (Clark) Clifford (former adviser to President Truman) about it.

Later the Senator called back with some advice:

Symington: I talked to our legal friend (Clifford). He thinks it was a mistake for you to call Mac.  I would suggest old fellow  is counterpunch this stuff and not lead.  This boy (McCarthy) gets awfully rough.

In a third call, the Senator gave more counsel:

Symington:  stay tough. I don't mean silly tough. I mean firm.

Stevens: Two got to do that, Stu.

Symington: One of them, fellow that is on your side.  is Bill Rogers (Assistant Attorney General). I mean you can't go wrong with Bill.

Stevens: We have been in touch with him of course.

Despite Senator Symington's exhortation to be "tough," Secretary Stevens went up to the "hill" for the famous "chicken luncheon" on February 23, which produced the "memorandum of understanding." When the press greeted the memorandum as a "surrender," Stevens put in calls to Republican Senators Mundt and Dirksen. He said to Senator Mundt, "I'm going to be in the ash can." To Senator Dirksen he complained that he was being represented as "a yellow belly," and he would have to do something — "and it may get drastic."

The drastic act did not come until March 10 when the Army's Ochs-Schirre report was issued. But two days before it came out, Senator Symington called Secretary Stevens and asked to have a look at the report of "have heard so much about."

Mr. Stevens stalled him off — "I don't know where it is, what shape it is or if it is available.  I don't have anything at all myself." The Senator persisted — "Natural curiosity is of great interest to us." Finally, this exchange took place:

Symington: I don't want to push you on it but ***

Stevens: I personally think that anything in that line would be much exaggerated.  as far as the treatment of me is concerned I have no personal complaint.  I think it has been a lot of talk and I don't think there is too much there.

Senator McCarthy leapt at the openings provided by the Symington-Stevens phone calls. He said:

"He (Senator Symington) can't possibly sit here as a fair judge after he has said to Mr. Stevens, 'I will get you a top Democrat lawyer, number one, and number two two.  You and I will work together'  And also we find that Mr. Rogers is on our side.  all that by a man who must pass upon questions of parity."

Senator McCarthy demanded that Senator Symington both take the stand and disqualify himself as judge in the dispute. Senator Symington did neither. In fact, in St. Paul, where he made a speech last week-end, Senator Symington said, "McCarthy has a right to his opinion, and I have a right to mine." He added that the "Republican Party has fallen apart at the seams because of McCarthy's scrap with the Army."

Symington is cynical, a typical political smartypants. He, by the evidence of this monitored telephone call, engineered the whole Army vs. McCarthy trial. He provided Secretary Stevens with legal counsel, Clark Clifford, a Democrat. He high-pressed a constant Secretary of the Army into an open fight with McCarthy, and then he has the cynical and sinister effort to accuse the Republican party of falling apart because of the McCarthy-Army dispute which he stirred up in the cauldron of partisan politics.

It should be simply evident to all of the Republican leaders that they should bring a halt to this travesty of justice. Here is Symington, the man who stirred up the whole mess, sitting on the jury and pretending to mete out justice in a question of perjury. The first act should be to disqualify Symington; the second should be to end the public and televised spectacle.

The Army and the Republican Party can only hope to escape in such a scrap, engineered by a top Democratic tactician, McCarthy has nothing to lose; those who were with him at the start are still with him; those who hated him still hate him; that hatred, however, cannot but be mitigated by such evidence as the monitored Symington telephone calls to Stevens and calls emanating from the Democratic end of the line.

One Man's Opinion

Only A Strong Atomic Defense Can Prevent Mass Invasions By Air Or By Sea — That's Lesson Of Normandy Landing

By RALPH E. HEINZ

Who would have believed, on June 6, 1944, as the American troops landed on the beaches of Normandy that ten years hence we would be deeply involved in a "cold war" with Communism, those same Red Russians for whose relief the second front was designed?

Who would have believed, ten years ago, that the excellent weapons which were in the hands of the American invaders would, so soon, be as antiquated in a military sense, as a sling shot? Who would have believed that Hitler's "buzz-bombs" which he hurled at England would open an entirely new era of jet flight?

Yet it is a fact that in ten short years, the science of military combat has changed. One A-bomb or one H-bomb dropped in the midst of the American invasion fleet that morning, ten years ago, could have scattered it and the realization of a bomb explosion in the sea would have scattered death as our first atomic bombs were, two years later, to lay Nagasaki and Hiroshima waste.

Having been behind the German sea and air defenses in France for four long years, in Vichy and in a Gestapo internment camp in the Black Forest, from the French collapse in June, 1940, until today, when the American landing in Normandy, I can judge the German failure to have prevented the invasion — even though the Germans had four years to build up what they called their "West Wall."

From having seen, myself, the German defenses in construction and the ease with which they were overcome, I come to the obvious conclusion that only the use of the A-bomb or H-bomb can ever prevent, in the future, mass invasions anywhere, on any shore, by air or by sea. Without atomic defenses, it could happen here!

On The Other Side
Much has been said and written about the Normandy invasion from the American and the British points of view. I know of Hitler's preparations, his defenses and his stunning defeat. Having been an eyewitness to much of that German effort to make an impregnable nation of conquered France, I want to tell that story. Hitler lost only a few weeks in converting France into what the Nazis called "The Europe." He guaranteed the "thousand years of German peace" which Hitler promised the world. France was in the hands of the Nazis in June, 1940; by October, the Todt Organization took over and the building of the West Wall began.

The Todt Organization was a paramilitary engineering force, consisting largely of civilian engineers drafted from German industry and manned by foreign labor. Where that labor could be recruited at a price or by all means, it was used. It was used in Belgium, in Holland or in the eastern nations. Todt used volunteer labor.

Slave Labor
Whenever it became necessary to build his labor supply, Hitler furnished slave labor, recruited by force in Poland, Czechoslovakia, the Baltic States or handed over by France and other conquered states under their "collaboration" policy. In his final effort, 80 per cent of the Todt Organization labor corps was slave labor.

In October, 1940, the Nazis forced the French civilians living within 40 kilometers (16 miles) of the coast to move back into the interior. That order became effective for all of the Normandy and Brittany coast, and later was extended southward from Brest across Vendee to Bordeaux.

Taking advantage of the French naval bases at Cherbourg, Brest, Lorient, St. Nazaire and Bordeaux, Hitler converted them for his fleet. He built submarine pens at St. Nazaire, for example, with a thick wall of concrete, and he built, just after the war, the French were unable to destroy the pens with dynamite.

Crossfire Around Coast
Between those naval bases and permanent French forts, Hitler ordered a continuous chain of concrete gun emplacements. They were elaborate affairs, with underground casemates into which the Nazi defenders could shut themselves. Deep under the sandy dunes those little forts had their own water mains, their kitchens and dormitories, hospitals and barracks. They were solidly built of concrete with steel reinforcement. When Todt built, he built well.

The Nazis took a lesson from the murderous crossfire of the French coastal forts. Their shore defense positions were placed so that there was not one dead end, with the guns coming under crossfire. These forts were there on June 6, 1944. They were, alas for the Nazis, held empty.

command posts took a telephone off its hook to report the mass landing, until after 10 o'clock that morning. By that time, we had thousands of men ashore.

That failure to alert the high command can be blamed by the Germans for their failure to mass their planes and guns to meet our invaders on the beaches. When, hours later, they did wake up to the fact that this was the real thing, it was too late, but they reacted with tremendous visibility and our forces ashore and at sea suffered terrible losses.

Subs Not Used
There were 50 Nazi U-boats known to be waiting in French Atlantic ports. They could have been moved closer to Cherbourg and St. Louis could have done great damage, but the storm reports fooled the Germans and the subs stayed in their pens.

Had the invasion been further delayed until after Hitler had been able to use his V-1 buzzbombs against the assembling armada, the inevitable defeat would have been even more difficult.

Had Hitler been able to get his jet planes into the air in larger numbers, he could have decimated the Allied bomber formations. The war of technological and superior — the "Wild War" as Churchill calls it, was won by the West, but there were anxious moments.

Of course our A-bomb of two years hence could finally have finished off Nazi resistance, had the war in Europe might well have ended on that much longer, or if our landing in Normandy had failed or been repelled.

Divided Commands
The enemy on Patton's left was commanded by the Marshal; that on his right was under Von Rundstedt. Patton hit in the middle and went right through. In that he repeated the strategy of Von Rundstedt, his attack was the latter sent Von Rundstedt's tanks against the weakest point in the French line in the Meuse valley, where the commands of the VIII and the IX Armies, of Generals Guderian and Huitinga, joined.

It is now no secret that the Nazis had plenty of advance notice of our invasion. They knew well in advance that it would be against the Normandy beaches east of Cherbourg, but, being Germans, they disbelieved any intelligence reports which were so obvious. They were convinced that the Normandy landing would be a diversion and that the main attack would come across the Channel from Dover, at the narrowest point, barely 20 miles.

Then, too, the German high command, undoubtedly, was misled into a sense of false security by the bad weather of June 4 and 5. We now know that German meteorological experts told the Nazi high command that an invasion on June 5 or 6 would be impossible, due to the heavy sea and bad weather.

Rommel On Holiday
Field Marshal Rommel was one of those lulled by the storm warnings. He decided to take advantage of the bad weather to fly back to Berlin and he was there when our troops landed.

There was also a stupid failure of the German high command to realize the high command that the landing was real and not another Commando raid. After D-Day, when the frightened coastal watchers sent warnings of a landing all the way to Hitler's bunker in Berlin, the order went out to land on each incident right at the spot and not bother people higher up who were busy preparing the 1,000 years of peace.

Even though it should have been evident to any Nazi coastal watcher from the number of ships clustering the Channel off the Cherbourg peninsula and from the heavy pounding by the guns of a vast armada of warships, that this was not a second edition of the Dieppe Commando raid, it was not until after the war, from German military documents that not a single German coastal command post alerted a higher command to the first six hours of the landing operation.

In Our Favor
During those five hours, the Nazis stood back with what they had at hand, which included German planes based within a hundred miles of the coast. But so serve in the German and that the coastal command was, remembering the warning about not frightening everybody as far as Berlin, as was done at Dieppe, kept silent. Not one of those

The purpose of the conference is to lay plans for the coming Congressional Campaign.

In his letter of invitation to McGlynn, James L. Murphy, chairman of the National Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional Committee said: "The joint attendance of yourself and these individuals meeting with the President and the Vice President will create a spirit of unity and provide an opportunity to develop a program of maximum benefit to you."

Citizens for Eisenhower is a group of political amateurs who worked for the nomination of Dwight D. Eisenhower and who rallied Democratic and Independent voters behind Eisenhower in the presidential election. They are organizing again to help President Eisenhower obtain a Republican Congress in order to put his legislative program into action.

The conference, which marks the kick-off of the 1954 Citizens for Eisenhower campaign activities, also includes on the agenda Walter Williams, Under Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, U. S. member of the U.N. Commission on Human Rights, respectively chairman and co-chairman of the former Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon-John Roosevelt, youngest son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, will speak on the subject "Why Democrats should Vote for a Republican Congress to Back the President's Program" and Sherman Adams.
