The Town Commission, meeting with all five members of the recently elected Charter Commission at an emergency session Tuesday night in Town Hall, appropriated $3,500 to finance the charter study. This latest resolution ended possible legal action to be taken by the charter group had they not received the appropriation.

The money is needed by the charter group to pay for purchased books, reports and stationery for the study, with the funds necessary in order to proceed with the project. First request for funds was considered by the Town Commission on May 26 at which time Town Attorney Lawrence E. Keenan was ordered to draw up a resolution, but no action was taken until this week.

AUTO OVERTURNS, 3 ARE INJURED

Minor injuries were received by a girl and two soldiers when the auto in which they were riding overturned in a three-car collision last Thursday. The mishap occurred at the intersection of Main and Rutgers Streets.

Injured were Miss Jo Ann Kelley, 17, of 229 Williams Street, and two GIs stationed with the 98th AAA Bn., Battery A, in Rutgers. Treated along with Miss Kelley at Columbus Hospital, Newark, were Pvt. Dick Lewis, 22, of Mountain City, Tenn., and Pfc. Michael Rose, 23, of Tabor City, N. C.

According to police, the car driven by Jordan passed through a red light at Main Street. He was issued a traffic summons.

Police said that Jordan, driving a 1948 Buick Wildcat, collided with a car going east in Rutgers Street, operated by Howard F. Haas, 29, of Montclair.

CITIZENS' GROUP OPPOSED BD. OF ED. IN LETTER

In a letter to Mayor Padula on Monday, signed by Raymond O'Brien, president and Edward Ackerman, the Belleville Citizens' Association strongly opposed the request made by the Board of Education to exceed its bond limitation for school construction. The request was made last night at a meeting with the Town Commission.

A copy of the letter follows: "The Belleville Board of Education has announced its intention of conferring with the Board of Commissioners at a closed hearing at which time they will request authorization to exceed their normal borrowing capacity by several million dollars.

"The Executive Committee and the members of the Belleville Citizens' Association, Inc. respectfully take this means of going on record with the Board of Commissioners as being opposed to the granting of such authorization.

"The Belleville Citizens' Association, and the many other Civic Organizations who support us in our effort to rid Belleville of a Board of Education that has become obnoxious to its Citizens, were immeasurably encouraged by the forthright manner in which the members of this Board of Commissioners who sat on the previous Board, enabled our Citizens to vote for an elective Board of Education. Of no less significance, in our opinion, were the pre-election statements of the two new Commissioners in favor of an elective Board.

"We believe, therefore, that the stigma attached to the present Board of Education, is something which the Citizens of Belleville, fully and regretfully, aware, this Association therefore respectfully petitions the Board of Commissioners to reject any proposed action that might be interpreted by the citizens of Belleville as an act of confidence in the Board of Education as it is presently constituted for the following fully established reasons:

"1. The President of the Board of Education stated under oath, according to the Grand Jury present at the election, that he was a policy maker, only a processor. If the head of the Board does not guide its policy, it is a mere rubber stamp. A small-town rubber stamp program would be a tragedy in its hands, and in the hands of the Board of Education.

"2. The President of the Board of Education, following an invocation by Dr. Albert L. Raab, of Congregation Ahavath Achim, Bernice Cohen, an honor student, delivered the welcome address and the nuptial ceremony was led by Harry Valante, senior, and Tanya Gruelich, junior.

"A patriotic melody was then presented by the chorus, composed of Ellen Anderson, Genovieve D'Angelo, Marilyn English,

The program opened at 6:30 with a selection by the high school band, followed by an invocation by Dr. Albert L. Raab, of Congregation Ahavath Achim. Bernice Cohen, an honor student, delivered the welcome address and the nuptial ceremony was led by Harry Valante, senior, and Tanya Gruelich, junior.

A patriotic melody was then presented by the chorus, composed of Ellen Anderson, Genovieve D'Angelo, Marilyn English,

Based on present figures, the financing required would cause the town to exceed the combined legal debt limit of both boards. That figure is now about $5,000,000.

At present, the school board has a borrowing limit of $3,200,000 and the Town Commission, $2,800,000. Against the school board's limit of $3,200,000, and the Town Commission, $1,500,000, as a result the school board went into the meeting to obtain approval from the Town Commission to use some of the buying power for financing the ambitious project.

Any borrowing that would exceed the legal debt limits must also have the approval of the State Division of Local Government and the State Department of Education. The state recently has approved a number of similar requests from other towns in this area.

Preliminary plans for the new High School indicate an estimated $3,250,000. A revision of the plans reduced the figure from $3,900,000. The other school projects are still in the discussion stage. All proposals must be voted on at a public referendum.

TELEPHONE CO.'S PL. 1 EXCHANGE EFFECTIVE TODAY

A new dial telephone unit, Plymouth 1, was cut into service here today at 7 a. m. It will provide 1000 more lines, making it possible to add to the exchange as growth demands and will range from Plymouth 1-0001 to Plymouth 1-1000.

Equipment for the new unit, the second serving Belleville, is located at New Jersey Bell Telephone Company's dial center, 282 Washington Avenue. Dial apparatus for the Plymouth 9 exchange which is filled to capacity, is also located there.

C. Robert Horsfield, local New Jersey Bell manager, reports that the new exchange will allow for future growth in the Belleville central office area. The present Plymouth 9 exchange now serves 15,000 telephones and handles over 60,000 calls a day, as contrasted with 7000 telephones in 1945, when only 24,500 calls were handled.

In that year four out of every ten families in Belleville had telephones, while today eight out of every ten families are serviced. The increase becomes more significant when viewed on a state-wide basis, since the Telephone Company installed its two millionth phone last Thursday. In 1945 New Jersey had one million telephones, and the 8 years which double that figure makes necessary the expansion program now being conducted by New Jersey Bell.

TOWN AIR RAID DRILL A SUCCESS

Belleville's role in the nationwide air raid test held Monday was pronounced a success. Chief of Police George Snatz announced that 15 auxiliary police were on duty and no traffic violations occurred during the 10-minute test.

Belleville had its radio net functioning at once, with five out of the 15 stations "ready for operation" when the alarm sounded. Helen Sherman, at the acting control station K2FA, Dorothy Yost at W2UW and Helen Clegg at W2HNA. Bob Molloy at K2ZEFO and William Fischer at W2CCK completed the first roll call.

Vern Sherman, communications chairman in the Belleville Disaster Control committee, said "The radio women handled their initial assignment exceptionally well. Our goal is a trained auxiliary operator for each home located transmitter, in addition to that we must add drills to provide that the radio net is always ready for quick transfer from its normal 110 Volt operation to 6 Volt battery operation upon short notice in order to anticipate the very possible loss of regular 110 Volt power in the event of disaster."

Citizens Congress Seeks Tooust Bd. Of Ed. Members

Uniform demands that Town Commission should "take the lead" in a concerted public drive to secure the resignation of members of the Board of Education were presented yesterday by three civic associations affiliated with the newly formed Belleville Citizens Congress.

Identical letters formulating these demands and criticizing the Town Commission for a closed meeting with the School Board were served on Mayor Isadore J. Padula and other four commissioners shortly before a scheduled meeting with the Board concerning the problem of an increase of the bonded indebtedness by more than $4,000,000 to finance the proposed new High School and other expansion projects of the Belleville school system.

Signed by the executive officers of the Bellwood Park Home Owners Association, the Riverside Park Civic Association and the Belleville Committee for Young Men in Government, the letters maintained that "any meeting for the discussion of such important problems should be conducted openly and publicly and in full view and under direct observation of all interested citizens."

The letters recalled that the Belleville Board of Education was recently the subject of a Grand Jury presentation because of its handling of funds for the poor administrative policies, that in the recent election Belleville citizens cast a ten to one vote for an elected school board, and that the board is presently under investigation by the State Board of Education.

The statement went on to say, "In spite of such a dismal record, the communication of the Town Commission set forth, the local Board of Education has so far failed to accept the verdict of the voters and resign in a body to make room for the elective school Board demanded by the people."

We feel that a Board thusly credited has lost all moral rights to function further.

For these reasons, the three civic groups declare, the Town Commission, "as the elected representative of the people, should support the mandate of the voters by taking the lead in an active public drive to secure the resignation of the disgraced Board members at the earliest possible moment."

"Such action is imperative so that the cause of public education cannot be hurt any further by the action of a Board that urgently needs improvements in our school system be carried out by the Board of Education."

JOHN ARMSTRONG AMHERST GRAD. MAGNA CUM LAUDE

TWO INJURED WHEN TRAFFIC BOX EXPLODES

A Belleville patrolman, Robert Russomano and Albert Saffer, 34, of Maplewood, received minor injuries Monday when a traffic light control box suddenly exploded as the car was stopping at the box at the corner of Franklin Avenue and Jerusalem Street.

Russomano suffered an injured right shoulder when he was hit by a car from Maplewood. The control box, Saffer, who was talking with the Belleville patrolman at the time, was splintered and lacerations of the face when he was struck by flying glass from the box.

Both men were taken to Columbus Hospital, Newark, where they were treated.

It was learned that Russomano detected an odor of gas just before the explosion. He was instructed the traffic control box manually at the time because the automatic signaling device was jammed.

B. H. S. Diamond Players Honored

Four members of Belleville High School's young varsity baseball squad were honored last week when they were named to berths on the All-Exeter team. Receiving the highest rating was first baseman Richie Veith. A basketball player during the winter months, Veith was selected for the second team. Making the third squad were shortstop Joe Long, center fielder Joe Orlando and pitcher John Bartlett.

What Coach Ed Berlinski likes most about the quartet is that all four will be back in action come next spring.

Veith was a bulwark around first base and was one of the leading hitters on the team as the Bellos completed the scholastic campaign with eight wins and six defeats. In Big Ten Conference competition the Blue and Gold won six and dropped only three to place fourth in the powerful loop.

Long, an octopus around the shortstop area, batted in the neighborhood of .375. Orlando, a junior also was over the .300 mark. In the pitching department Bartlett gained recognition from quite a few rival coaches as he won five and lost three.

Sofball Leagues In Full Swing

For the softball fans, the Belleville Recreation Department offers the Industrial and Town-Wide Leagues.

The Industrial League is a fourteen-team loop playing on both diamonds at Passaic River Bank Park, Monday through Thursday evenings. Nearing the halfway mark, Federal Leather, last year's champs, and Resistless are out in front with a 5 and 0 record. Wilbur Driver is second with four victories in five starts. Walter Kilde and Kentek are tied for third at 3 and 1, each having a postponed game to play. Following the leaders in order are: Bart-Messin, Pittsburg, American Tag, Fafa, Viking, Maas & Waldstein, Wallace & Tiernan and McGlynn & Hayes.

The eight-team Town-Wide League plays Monday and Tuesday evenings at Municipal Stadium and Memorial Field. Last year's champs, the Belle-Mads did not enter a team this year and as a result the rivalry for the vacant spot is intense. The Bales and the West Ends lead the race with the Silver Lakers, Freddie Farmers and the Wildcats one game behind them. Following are the Hambones, Lucky Nine and Luzz's Tydol in that order.

Gray Accepts Crew Scholarship

Ed Gray, one of Belleville's outstanding graduating athletes, has accepted a $1,400 scholarship to Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida. A tackle and captain of the football team, Gray, however, has decided to give up the contact sport in favor of crew.

Five members of the Rollins crew are products of Coach Bill Bennett's squads. Graduating from the crew minded institution this month has been Don Weber. Gray, though, will still have plenty of company while rowing in Florida. Returning next September will be Norman Gross, Bud Blenski and Frank Thompson, all of Belleville, and Joe Dallan, egra, a product of rival Nutley High School.

Marksmen Receive Ratings

Matt Callahan, Recreation Junior Rifle Club instructor has just awarded fourteen more certified ratings to club members. This makes a total of 41 individual awards certified since the club's formation on January 15th.

The following boys who have qualified for National Rifle Championships at Shafter, Calif. were: Bob Bortone and Joe Callahan. Qualified as Marksmen, 1st. Class were Ken Dawson, Bob Kantwein and Richie Abbott. Marksmen awards were earned by Richard Sepe and Ken Bortone. The winners of their first official rating or Pro-Marksmen award were Mike Lane, Willie DeMoss, Charles Bush, Charles Swartz, Lou Donato, Bob Byrne and Joe Taylor.

The Recreation Rifle Club now boasts thirty active members. Callahan has been highly pleased with their progress. Matt intends to arrange several local matches on home-and-home basis in the Fall and to shoot against clubs throughout the country by mail. Any Belleville boy between the ages of 12 and 18 is welcome to join.

Joe Prieto Touring Spain

Joe Prieto, Coach Ed Berlinski's most improved player on the 1954 baseball team, left Friday by ocean liner for Spain. The sophomore third baseman will spend the summer with his parents in Europe. During the recently completed diamond season young Prieto guarded the hot corner and batted a neat .385. With two years still to go, Berlinski is looking ahead to a bright future for the Belleville High School second year man.

Prieto, along with Bartlett, Long, Orlando and Veith will give the veteran Belloy pilot a strong nucleus to work with.

Worthington Transfers To Columbia

Ron Worthington, former Belleville High School athletic star of two years ago, on a scholarship to Dartmouth, has transferred to Columbia. He will start his studies in the Fall, but will not be eligible to compete in athletics for one year in accordance with the National Collegiate Athletic Association ruling.

School No. 7 Wins Baseball Title

School No. 7 won the Recreation Department's Elementary School baseball championship with a perfect record of seven wins, but edged School No. 8's 6 and 1 mark. Coached by Joseph Groesch, who was assisted by Catherine Chieffo, School No. 7 had to play heads up ball to win the Recreation Department's championship trophy. Team members were: Bob Elliot, Anthony Gaeta, Carl Columbo, Bill Bartlett, Phil Garra, Gene Pinadella, Richie Abbott, Steve Bojszak, Gene Barro, Lou Long, Vince Frunzi, Jim Datto, Bob Blomke, Joe Garamella, Richie Shaw and Jim Domalski.

Giants Win Two, Stay Undeleted In Little League

The Giants retained its status as the only undefeated Little League baseball team, as it chalked up its fourth and fifth consecutive wins in the National circuit during the week of Cleburne Field.

Mike Marano and John Carlo each accounted for one-hit shut-out triumphs over the Cub and Yanks, respectively. Marano helped his own cause with a homer with one out on base in the third inning of the 4-0 win over the Cubs.

Kommie Valente's two hits also added to the Giant margin. The Giants had their batting tops on in scoring a 4-0 victory over the Yanks, with Carlo uncatchable on the mound. Marano's batting again showed the way as he garnered four hits and three runs in the last of the six, being the hero in the victory.

The Demons, who handed the Clippers their only defeat of the American League season, almost did it again, as the two teams battled right in the last of the six, being the hero in the victory.

This tilt was a ding-dong affair with first one team and then the other taking the lead. Four straight bases on balls in the last of the sixth had given the Demons the tying run.

Besides filling the bases with one out, reliever pitcher Jim Cleffi for the Clippers finally got his bearings and retired the next four batters, two on strikes and two on balls, before he struck out the fourth of the last six batters to face him.

John Curtis, Demon pitching ace, hurried the entire game for the Demons, holding the Clippers to four hits and striking out five. Curtis was also the batting star, getting three of the five hits batted by him.

In another American League tilt and tuck battle the Aces came from behind to nose out the Bombers, 4-3. After pitcher Burke tripped to put the Bombers ahead 6-5 in the top of the sixth, Bob Kiefer, reliever, struck out the last three batters to win the game.

School No. 7 Loses To Bloomfield Junior High

School No. 7's baseball team went "on the road" to play Bloomfield Junior High School but lost, 3-1 last week.

Although playing out of its league, the Belleville boys played a close game with the Bloomfield team. They held their lead up to the fourth inning. In the second inning Bob Elliott singled and was followed by Richie Bortone's choice by Lou Long. After two outs, Bill Bartlett singled in Elliott for the first run.

Steve Bojszak held the opposition scoreless until the fifth inning. In the fifth Bloomfield scored twice, and in the sixth scored three runs. Jim Datto relieved Bojszak in the sixth inning to put out the fire.

"Rec" To Sponsor 1st Of Bicycle Tours

The first of the Recreation Department's summer bike trips will take place Friday when a bicycle tour will leave from Municipal Stadium at 10:00 a.m. The program is designed for boys and girls of 13 years and older. Tuesday's tour will consist of a bicycle trip to Mountain View, a three-mile swim and return.

Those who are going on the tour are to bring 30 cents for admission to the swimming pool. Whatever they care to spend for refreshments. Also to be included are a swim suit and a bicycle with good tires and brakes.

The entire tour will be under adult supervision. Swimming will be at MacDonalda's Beach on Route 23.

MRS. HARING IN HOMEMAKING POST

Like to whip up some summer cocktails, lighten the laundry load or refresh the dining-room table? "How-to" courses on these and many other homemaking practices are scheduled for the fall Extension Service Council of Essex County. Voluntary leaders from neighborhood groups may enroll for training sessions by contacting Mrs. F. M. Haring, of 22 Central Avenue, newly appointed representative in this area.

These courses planned to make housekeeping a breeze include good grooming for girls, gift wrapping, herb cookery, accessories from hat to shoe, dress making and freezer management. With so many items to choose from, why not get up a "better" home club in your neighborhood or those fall days when the children go back to school and there's a little spare time?

BEST FOURTH OF JULY EVER LINED UP FOR BEVELVILLE

A rousing Independence Day celebration will take over the town on Monday, July 5, beginning with a flag raising ceremony at 9:30 a. m. and winding up with a spectacular fireworks display in Municipal Stadium at 9 p. m. Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde, director of Parks and Public Property, announced the plan this week.

Playground supervisor Raymond O. Smith and Edward Berlinski will direct the daytime events and races, obstacle and slow bike races, girls' softball and Little League baseball will be part of the fun. And for a hot Fourth of July what better prize than watermelons for the winners.

The celebration will be set up all day in the stadium, will be manned by the Crippled Children's committee of Belleville. The club and its proceeds will be turned over to the Crippled Children's fund. A Reception ceremony will conclude the day's festivities.

The evening's merry-making will get under way at 7 o'clock in Municipal Stadium with a musical circus, featuring many of the performers who appear on the L.V. show. The circus and fireworks and slow bike races will keep the kids and adults on the edge of their seats, and the fireworks will coincide with a traditional fireworks display at dusk.

The whole day's fun is free, including the circus and fireworks as part of the town's expanded Recreation program, and a crowd of more than 15,000 people is expected.

The Independence Day committee includes Commissioner Hyde, Robert E. Cook, superintendent of recreation and general chairman; Ralph Baker, co-chairman; Raymond O. Smith and Edward Berlinski, co-chairmen of Field Day; Harold Brand, chairman of prizes and Andrew Lukowiak, chairman of grounds.

Old House For Nesting

Half-fallen into ruin it crouches here
 In the tangled grass. An elderbush crowds near.
 Burdock spreads out its leaves by the silvered shed.
 No one has come for long to cut the red stalks that persist from the dwindling rhubarb plants.
 No one has come. Here rooms are turned to haunts.
 For fieldmouse and squirrel. On an attic rafters a bird
 Has made its nest, and so even now is stirred
 With love and the currents of life this lonely shell.
 That becomes once more a shelter where young things dwell.

"One Nation, Under God"

The efforts of Congressman Peter W. Rodino to have the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag revised to give equal recognition to God and to Country have been rewarded. To every American, nothing can be more inspiring than to dedicate our faith in our flag and in the freedom for which it stands, to God. President Eisenhower this week approved a joint Congressional resolution inserting the words "under God" so that the pledge now says:

"I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands, one nation, under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Our 10th District Congressman took the initiative in seeking legislation to revise the pledge, but such are the needs of partisan politics that the resolution adopted by Congress bears not his name but of Rep. Louis C. Rabaut. With his customary courtesy, Congressman Rodino withdrew his bill in favor of that of the Michigan Democrat in an effort to hasten the legislation in time for Monday's observance of Flag Day.

The Pledge of Allegiance was written in 1892 by Rev. Francis Bellamy, of Rome, New York, when he was editor of a magazine which many Nutley sexagenarians well remember, The Youth's Companion. It was made official by Congressional action in 1945, but it was not until Rep. Rodino introduced his bill that recognition of Divine guidance was made.

Contract Signed To Locate Palsy Center On Hospital Site

Final agreement was reached this week for the location of the new Cerebral Palsy Center on a section of the Clara Maass Memorial Hospital property in Franklin Avenue, Belleville, according to Charles E. Garrahan, of Short Hills, president of the United Cerebral Palsy of Essex and West Hudson, who signed the agreement. Garrahan announced that the UCP organization will hold a one-day canvass on Tuesday, as a follow-up to the "Postmen's Pickup", for the Building Fund drive.

He emphasized that the UCP organization's location on the hospital land will in no way change the independent status of either organization. Each will remain completely autonomous and will continue to be responsible for its own financial and fund-raising.

"We plan to start grading of the new center plot immediately and hope to have our building completed by January, 1955," the UCP president said. "All donations which we receive will help us to realize that goal."

Use of the hospital property for the new Cerebral Palsy Center was first offered in February and negotiations have been underway since that time. The contract provides that the UCP will rent approximately two acres of the hospital's 15-acre site for 65 years at a fee of $1 a year.

The new Cerebral Palsy Center will replace present inadequate facilities in the basement of Sumner Avenue School in Newark. These facilities, donated by the Newark Board of Education, have been used by the UCP since 1949 and, with the growth of the organization since that time, are now inadequate for its work.

Only 100 cerebral palsied children can be treated at the present center, and only on a part-time basis. The new center will provide complete day care five days a week for more than 200 children.

One Man's Opinion

France Is A House Divided, and Laniel, Finally Overthrown, Has Steered A Middle Course Far Longer Than Many Had Predicted

By RALPH E. HEINZEN

France is deeply involved in the worst cabinet crisis of her post-war history. It could not be timed worse. Without a French government in Paris, George Bidault, Foreign Minister, can, at best, be only an interim delegate. In any debate on Indochina, he cannot speak with authority in the name of France.

Why, the average American unfamiliar with French parliamentary strategy might ask, would the Chamber vote down a Premier in the middle of an international conference in which the fate of the French empire is at stake? The answer can only lie in the capricious uncertainty of a political system in which no one party has ever enjoyed a majority of Parliament since the Third Republic was born in 1871.

In the present French Parliament there are 31 political parties and their segments represented on the benches. Obviously, since no one party can claim a majority, rule by coalition becomes a necessity and the Laniel cabinet which was just defeated in a confidence vote was such a coalition of centrist and moderate left parties. Its opponents were the DeGaullists of the extreme right and the Socialists and Communists of the extreme left.

In the specific case of the Laniel Government, the left voted to overthrow the cabinet because of the Indochina debacle but the right wing DeGaullists took the opportunity to pool their votes with those of the Socialists and Communists to overthrow a Premier they hated because he favored the European Defense Community treaty. The DeGaullists were not voting on the issue of Indochina; they were voting against the rearming of Germany as an enemy in the European Army of tomorrow.

Lack Of Continuity

The weakness of the French multiple party system is shown by the record. Since September, 1944, when Paris was liberated and General Charles DeGaulle established himself as head of the government without bothering to hold an election, France has had thirteen cabinets headed by thirteen different Premiers. In those same years, we have had two President-elects and Eisenhower. There can be no continuity of government in the Gallic system.

The average lifespan of a French post-war cabinet has been five months and 25 days. Laniel, therefore, enjoyed a double lifespan because he remained in office a fortnight less than one year. The shortest life of any postwar cabinet was three days, for the second cabinet of Henri Queille.

Fell In 11 Minutes

As bad as that record may be, however, it is tame compared to the pre-war political confusion that existed in the Chamber. I saw one cabinet fall in 11 minutes, that of Fernand Bouisson. I saw one man return 13 times as Premier, Aristide Briand. I saw 17 cabinets within 12 months during the period which preceded the 1956 Popular Front victory.

Just as his second cabinet was the quickest to die, Queille's first post-war cabinet holds the longevity record, 1 year and 26 days. DeGaulle's lasted 1 year and 26 days. For the record, the upheavals of French parliamentary government is shown in this list of the 19 post-war cabinets: party affairs in France closely now estimate its membership at one-third of a million. If, at its heyday at the end of the war, when it backed national elections, the French Underground's "Resistance" movement, it numbered a million.

Regardless of the drop in party dues-paying membership, however, there is no evidence of any such drop in its voting strength. In all the recent national elections, the Communists have polled 6,000,000 votes, or about one-fourth of the total electorate. They have lost recent elections but only because in the second ballots, all the other parties have gained them and withdrew all but one candidate to oppose the Communist. By massing their votes, in the second round voting, they were able to defeat the Communists.

Permanent Opposition

During the debate which preceded his defeat, Laniel told the Chamber of Deputies of the fact that while "the opposition could assemble a majority to demolish, the same majority would never be able to construct." He said that more than 100 Communist would always be in the opposition.

Opposing the Government in this crisis besides these Communists were 104 Socialists out of 165, thirty-three Radical Socialists out of seventy-six, forty-four Gaullists out of seventy-five. Independents out of fifty-three in M. Laniel's own party, and twelve out of the twenty-four in Defense Minister Rene Pleven's Social Union. Three of these parties—the Radicals, the Gaullists and the Social Union—have ministers in the Cabinet, and only the Socialists and Communists were in the permanent opposition.

M. Laniel had almost the full support of his own Independents and the Peasants party and of the entire representation of M. Bidault's Popular Republican group.

Outlook, Botherome

Under these conditions, the situation appears critical for France. The Socialists are not strong enough to take power without forming a coalition and if the yank the Communists to join them, no other parties will have any part of it. Together they could poll only 205 votes, which is far from enough. The Chamber majority is 318.

The Laniel coalition was formed out of the centrist, moderate left and moderate right. Its weakness was that it left out the outside the 108, Communists, 105 Socialists and 75 Gaullists. But any new cabinet must find its votes in exactly the same coalition as M. Laniel did. There is no other choice. It will not be easy and, since the Geneva talks cannot go on until France has a cabinet, the Paris crisis can only have its effects in Indochina, Geneva and in all the capitals of the EDC coalition.

OUR CLASSIFIED SECTION BRINGS QUICK RESULTS

Cut To One-Third

The first National Congress of the French Communist party in four years was held in Paris last weekend and was an opportunity for the party and for France to take stock of its strength. Malvel Servin, the party's Secretary for Organization, admitted to the Congress that party membership in France has dropped "abnormally," that it is not attracting young people and that it has no longer the power to stir up mass action among the labor unions.

SAFETY PATROLS ARE GUESTS AT YANKEE STADIUM

More than 200 members of the Belleville elementary school's Safety Patrols recently traveled to the Yankee Stadium in four buses to see the New York Yankees play the Cleveland Indians. The trip, which is an annual event, was sponsored by the Belleville Board of Education, and was under the direction of Police Officer James Anderson, supervisor of the Safety Patrol organization. He was assisted by other members of the police department, and school teachers.

Baseballs autographed by the Yankees club and presented to Safety Patrol members were donated by the Belleville Police Benevolent Association. The children sat in the lower grandstand, and enjoyed themselves enormously.

A Living Page Of History:

Dieppe, Costly Dress Rehearsal For D-Day Invasion

Germany Were Taken By Surprise, Rommel Was On Leave Of Absence In Berlin

By Ralph Heinzen

Two summers before the successful landing in Normandy, there was a very costly dress rehearsal at Dieppe. Without Dieppe, we might have failed at Utah and Omaha beaches. Dieppe taught us that if we were to cross the channel and land in the face of the German defenses, we would have to use a very strong force. Mere Commando raids would get us nowhere.

Watching From Behind

Dieppe was a Commando raid, not a serious attempt at invasion, but for bad luck and for high casualties, Dieppe set an all-time record. It was my fortune as a war correspondent to be on the scene at the end of the Dieppe raid, deep behind the German West Wall, at Vichy.

Centuries Of Trouble

Dieppe was not the easiest target, nor the most important. It lay only sixty miles across the English Channel from Newhaven with which, in happier days, it was linked by a daily cross-channel steamer service much used by travellers between London and Paris.

In the 1930's, brought it into favor as a watering resort, it was known as a calm at all.

The British General Staff chose Dieppe as the Commando target because the Germans had installed there not only two batteries of heavy guns but also because the Nazis had erected a novel electronic tower which was to guide their armies through fog and night in Goebbels' endless bombardment of England.

We know the device today as radar. The Germans called it "Knickbein." They had only snatches of knowledge of the electronic device from the reports of spies, none of whom had the scientific knowledge sufficient to fathom its mysteries.

So German pilots, shot down in England, were subjected to very severe questioning to try and clear up the secret.

For a while, the English had believed that the Germans had planted spies equipped with contrivances for sending our radio beams in London and the great industrial cities, to from the bombers to their targets. They never were able to find any such spies or their contrivances, so they gave up that theory.

What's A "Knickbein"?

Intercepted German monitored radio messages began to make much mention of "Knickbein" and that intrigued the British intelligence officers. They knew that in German the word meant "curtains" but, try as they did, they couldn't make any meaning out of curtains in an air raid. They kept hunting for "Knickbein."

The English, once again, had muddled through they had broken the Nazis' secret. They had fathomed the mystery of the radar bombardment. No longer did the Luftwaffe pilots need to navigate by star.

It was easy for the English to make use of their new knowledge. They installed a number of stations which they called "meacons" which picked up the German radar signals, amplified them, and sent them out again from somewhere in England. The German pilots followed "Knickbein" as the German people followed the Fuhrer, blindly.

Leading Nazis Astray

There were many fantastic results. By using the false radar beam to guide the German pilots away from the industrial centers and cities, the English actually succeeded in setting them on their beams when the false beam told them to far out in the country where only the foxes and squirrels were the casualties.

Then, often, German pilots trying to fly home by radar were led astray. Some were led into ambush where British anti-aircraft guns got them. Others were led out to sea where they dropped when their fuel tanks were empty.

One German bomber was captured intact when its pilot followed his beam and made an excellent landing in Devonshire, thinking it was his field in France.

The Germans soon discovered what the English were doing, so they set up a series of new "Knickbein" stations, some real and some phantoms, all along the coast. It was by training the "Knickbein" beams on Birmingham, from both Dieppe and Cherbourg, that disastrous large-scale night bombings of that industrial arsenal began. That, more than anything else, inspired the Dieppe raid to destroy "Knickbein" and to bring home the equipment.

Nothing Went Right

The Dieppe raid seemed to be dogged with misfortune from the very start. The Imperial Chiefs of Staff laid plans for "Operation Rutter" early in May, 1942. It was to be a raid on the St. Nazaire inlet, against Dieppe and about 10,000 men from the three service arms were to be employed. It was of course, to be the most carefully supervised of their kind ever attempted against "Fortress Germany."

'The' Called Dieppe Raid A Fiasco But Churchill Insists It Made Normandy Possible

Dieppe had recently been drawn for despatch to the East Front where Hitler was fighting his first great defeat of the war.

The assault on Dieppe was originally fixed for July 4, 1942, and the troops actually embarked at ports on the Isle of Wight off Southampton. Storms broke however, and the weather was very unfavorable for the operation so it was put off until July 8.

The weather continued bad and that, coupled with the fact that the German airmen had discovered the preparations led to the silencing of the two coastal batteries. The troops were disembarked.

Montgomery A Pessimist

General Montgomery, who as Commander-in-Chief, Southeastern Command, had hitherto overpersuaded the plans, now was strongly of the opinion that it should be started all over again. He pointed out that the troops who had been on the transports had been briefed and knew every minute detail of the attack plans. They had been put ashore and scattered, and Montgomery feared that through loose talk, spies might learn of the plans and tell the Germans.

Churchill, however, was insistent that a large-scale operation should take place during the summer, arguing with Montgomery that until such a test landing had taken place, the responsible personnel could take the responsibility of planning for the eventual main invasion of the continent.

When Montgomery continued opposed, Churchill found a willing listener in the King's cousin, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten. The latter pointed out that time was of the essence and since it already was too late in the year to start planning a wholly new operation, the Dieppe attack could be remounted within a month on a wholly new scale, to take the German plans if spies had informed them of "Operation Rutter." Even the code name was changed to "Operation Jubilee."

Winning Bad Hand

Churchill, Mountbatten and Captain J. Hughes-Hallett, the naval force commander, prepared the revised plans. They decided to use Canadian British and American Commandos to silence the coastal batteries in place of shore troops. Infantry landing ships were just beginning to come off the ways and two of them were assigned to "Jubilee" to haul the Commandos.

Our post-war knowledge of German records shows that they did not have any special warning about the Dieppe attack through leaks. In fact they were taken by surprise and stunned, so much so that the Dieppe high command started screaming for help and alerted German high command posts as far away as Berlin. You would have thought that a million men had landed at Dieppe when you read the record of those calls for help.

Then, too, they must have realized that it was dangerous to hold their coastal forts with second-class troops, as had been the case when "Operation Rutter" was to have occurred in July. Without Churchill finding out about it, the Nazi high command pulled out the substitutes and put in reinforcements, an excellent first line division at full strength.

Dogged By Bad Luck

It was also bad luck that at the very hour when we struck at Dieppe, on August 19, 1942, the Germans were holding a "mock invasion" defense maneuver. They were pretending to throw off an invading force at the very hour when we arrived. That explains why one of the two landing-craft ran aground off Dieppe and the other was taken off by a bad beating. The Commandos at that vessel were taken off the operation by that unexpected stroke of bad luck and became German prisoners of war, to know the life of the prison camps for three long years.

Those prisoners suffered needlessly at the Nazis' hands because of the stupidity of a Canadian major who issued a written order to the Commandos: "In taking German prisoners, tie their hands." The Germans found a copy of the order on one of the prisoners and immediately ordered retaliatory action.

Every Canadian soldier taken prisoner at Dieppe was tied with cords, for days at a time, while the Nazi radio blared a challenge to the Canadians. Finally Hitler gave the order to cut the cords only after the British, who, at first, had denied the authenticity of the order, agreed that under the Geneva convention no prisoners of war were to be hog-tied.

Disappointing Results

The rest is known. The Commandos who did land succeeded in silencing one of the two coastal batteries. The other battery was unscathed. The Commandos who were to have silenced the prisoners of the Nazi gunboat. Although there were many fantastic deeds of daring, under the circumstances, the results were disappointing and our casualties were heavy.

In the Canadian 2nd Division, 18 per cent of the 5,000 men embarked, lost their lives and nearly 2,000 of them were taken prisoner. In all, the Canadians lost 67 per cent of their men engaged. There were 50 Americans engaged and 13 were killed or taken prisoner, all Rangers.

It is known that the Commandos did succeed in landing their tanks, fought their way some miles inland, did much damage to German coastal installations, including the electronics and radar towers, stayed for about 20 hours

Howard Savings Opens New Downtown Office

The new downtown office of the Howard Savings Institution opened on June 1st in temporary quarters in the bank-owned building at the corner of Raymond Boulevard and Plane Street, Newark. Permanent quarters are being constructed in the same building and will be available for use toward the end of November.

The Howard, opened in 1897, has grown to rank among the nation's largest savings banks and recently passed the quarter-billion dollar mark in deposits. The office opened June 1st increased the total Toward offices to five, all located in Newark.

and then made their way back to their boats on the beach. The extended heavy casualties began a military controversy which lasted two years until the landing in Normandy silenced it.

Ike Called It A Fiasco

General Eisenhower was one of those who held that the Dieppe raid was a failure. He told General Butcher of his staff that it was a fiasco. U.S. General Devers, however, led a faction which pointed out that until World War II, no amphibious invasion of modern war had ever been successful. Devers pointed out that it was not a failure but a success because it proved that a relatively weak task-force had made a landing which was what it set out to do, and that the losses were high because the one assault was not followed up as a real invasion would be.

In his war memories, Churchill wrote: "Looking back, the casualties may seem out of proportion to the results. It would be wrong to judge the episode solely

LOCAL INTEREST IS STIRRED IN
CURIOUS DISEASE

The North Jersey Multiple Sclerosis Club is working in the national drive for funds to combat the mysterious disease which cripples young adults. The goal of $1,500,000 must be collected to provide facilities for research, service and clinics to aid the thousands of patients who need long term medical care and rehabilitation.

The North Jersey Club was formed in 1950 by Rev. John M. Geene, of Alexandria, formerly of Prospect Street, and Grace Episcopal Church, at a meeting with about 100 victims in East Orange. Since that time, with better diagnosis of the cripples, the club has grown to a membership of over 400. Rev. Geene, himself a victim, organized the group with the hope that those who were disabled might find common activities and interests with others similarly afflicted.

Today the club has opened a clinic at 115 Fourth Avenue, East Orange, under the direction of Frank Giannattasio, physiotherapist, which is equipped for exercise with parallel bars, infra red lamps, exercise, rowing machine and resistive exercise equipment, as well as three treatment booths.

While little can actually be done for patients in the way of a cure for the blurred vision, weakened muscles and tremor, because of permanent damage done to the nerves, some treatments have shown results and used with braces, crutches and wheelchairs, patients are leading reasonably normal lives.

The widespread occurrence of the disease is surprising to most people. Heinrich Heine, German poet, Elizabeth Barratt Browning, and Henry Kaiser J.C. are only three who suffered with M.S., as it is called. It has only been in recent years that publicity has made the disease known and yet it is now known to be one of the commonest diseases of the central nervous system with about a quarter of a million victims in the United States alone.

STUDENT COUNCIL
OFFICERS '54-55

Joseph Dente, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dente, of 76 Preston Street, will serve as president of the Belleville high school student council for the coming year. Norman Forst, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Forst, of 284 Holmes Street, will act as vice-president.

The secretary will be Carol Vuono, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Vuono, of 68 Barkers Avenue, and Ariene Generozio, daughter of Mrs. Anita Generozio will serve as treasurer.

DOUBLE CLOTHING
QUOTA FOR KOREA

Doubling their quota, Belleville residents donated almost nine tons of clothing for destitute Koreans in the recent "16 Days" drive. Commissioner Kenneth D. Smith, chairman for the local campaign, announced.

"In behalf of the committee in charge, I want to thank every one who volunteered his services in making the collection last Saturday, particularly the Boy Scouts of Belleville under Scout executive Harry French, and the employees of the town's public works department who gave up their entire day for this most worthy cause," the commissioner said.

Belleville's Dr. Duffy
To Address Open Meeting

Dr. Edward J. Duffy, Belleville pediatrician, discussed the "care of handicapped children in general and the cleft palate child in particular" last Monday evening at 8:30, when the National Association for Rehabilitation and Reconstruction Plastic Surgery met in the recreation center of St. Barnabas' hospital in Newark.
