

Tests Reject Council-Manager, 3-1

Warra Credits Town Democrats In Essex Slide

Belleville's Democrats were riding the crest of victory for the first time in many years this week, in the sweep of Democratic candidates throughout Essex County.

A few rock-ribbed Republican municipalities like Nutley held ground, but the political hurricane swamped Essex with Democratic margins.

"The overwhelming victory of the Democratic Party was in no small measure due to the confidence expressed in the party by the people of Belleville," said Ralph A. Warra, chairman of the Belleville Democratic County Committee.

"The electorate of Belleville may feel sure that the confidence placed in the Democratic party will not be misplaced."

What Victory Means: While Democrats were rejoicing, Republican party heads here were trying to determine just what caused the town to change support for the first time since 1943.

The results meant that for the first time in 22 years, Democrats will be sitting on the Board of Freeholders and that Essex will have a Democratic surrogate and county supervisor.

According to Rudolph Zoeller, Republican town chairman, "it was a good try." Zoeller thanked the Republican voters who went to the polls and cast their vote despite the wretched weather.

Ferdinand J. Binnio, high man for the Board of Freeholders, got 134,975 votes and was high man here with 5,463. Bernard Rabinowitz, Nutley industrialist, polled 5,096 votes and John J. Giblin, 4,457.

Republicans Charles W. Holton, Nicholas Joya and Edith Reinhardt got 4,532, 4,421 and 4,457, respectively.

Adrian M. Foley Jr. beat out Samuel E. Suber for mayor and Weldon R. Sheets was given the edge over Walter S. Gray in the county supervisor race.

Rep. Peter W. Rodino was given 7,079 votes, the largest edge given a Democratic candidate.

William McGlynn, polled only 3,870, despite a campaign based strongly on support for President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Vote Down Med School: Belleville voters gave a resounding "no" to the establishment of a state medical and dental school, 5,907 opposing and 2,445 approving.

But the biggest "no" vote was that rejecting establishment of council-manager form of government.

Smith Warns Chest Drive Falling Far Short Of Quota

The general chairman of the Community Chest Drive here said this week that Belleville's showing was piteous and warned that the drive would fall far short of its goal if residents didn't show further cooperation.

William C. Smith urged residents who work outside of Belleville to split their contributions between the drive and the drive here.

At Memorial Field, the contest judges were Mrs. G. Lococo, Mrs. Joan Utter, and Mrs. Dorothy Jukes. Winners of the various divisions were as follows: prettiest costume, Shirley Carlucci; funniest, Michael Della Torre; and cutest, Brenda Ann Coppola.

WORKERS STRIKE FEDERAL LEATHER

Production workers at Federal Leather Co. here were still on strike today after walking out this week in protest to the company's refusal to grant a 10-cent an hour increase. The plant manufactures artificial leather and plastic coating materials.

Richard Saletta, union delegate, said more than 400 workers at the plant are members of "Textile Workers of America, Local 1932. He said the union is seeking improved vacations and other benefits in addition to the pay raise.

Company officials said they have offered a five cent an hour increase. The work contract ended Sunday and strikers are picketing the plant.

According to a company spokesman, the strike is the first in the 30-year history of the plant.

The union said the present wage scale for production workers ranges from $1.54 to $1.82 an hour. The company said employees average $1.84 an hour with overtime.

In other labor-management relations here, employees of Thomas A. Edison Co. plant notified a court agreement between the company and United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, Local 407, provided for a five-cent-an-hour raise. The vote was taken in Union Hall, Orange. The contract affects the Edison plant in West Orange.

Belleville Poles Fight Commies With Stockings

Belleville residents of Polish descent are piercing the "Iron Curtain" with nylon "bombs," putting to ridicule the Communists' favorite anti-American propaganda by proving that this is, indeed, the land of plenty, despite the Kremlin's story of mile-long breadlines and widespread unemployment.

The nylon "bombs" are stockings, women's blouses and panties. Sent through the mail, they carry into Poland the message of American plenty and luxury.

The Russian claim an import tax of 60 Polish zlotys, or $15, on each pair of nylon stockings, so two pairs are sent at a time—one pair to be sold on the black market to pay the Russian tax for both pairs.

The nylon propagandists are members of the White Eagle Association, an organization of New Jersey Americans of Polish origin.

FEDERAL LEATHER ACQUIRES LAND FOR PARKING LOT

Federal Leather Co., of Main Street, has bought, for $81,000, the undeveloped Elkcamp property in East Centre Street and plans its development as a parking lot for workers in the plant in River Road.

Several hundred yards across the town line.

Federal Leather Company officials said the former Elkcamp farm will be graded and made into a parking lot. The company expects to start construction of Nutley a strip of town-owned land in East Centre Street to provide an entrance to the parking lot.

The neighbors are discussing the possibility of asking the police department to convert East Centre Street into a one-way street, to relieve the traffic congestion. Several years ago, police rejected a first request to create one-way traffic in the street which, in turn, was rejected by state aid funds as a "feeder" to the Garden State Parkway by way of Centre Street.

To Hold Barn Dance The Younginger-Alten Jr. VFW Post 275 will hold a barn dance tomorrow night at the Post Home 17 Park Avenue. A professional caller will be on hand. They will also be round dancing.

Opponents Sweep Every District In Big Turn-out

Belleville's commission form of government remains in effect. By nearly a 3 to 1 margin, voters this week rejected the recommendation of the Charter Study Commission to change municipal government here from commission form to council-manager form.

Backers of the commission swept every district in the town's 21 voting districts.

From the first ward through the fourth, tallies were always the same—approximately three to one against the change.

Crowd Town Hall Within a half hour after the polls were closed, the issue was decisive. Workers of both factions in the bitterly-fought struggle crowded the town hall to hear the announcement that two of the town's four wards had piled up a decisive edge.

And Mayor Isadore Padula issued this prepared victory statement: "I am a firm believer in government by the people. Only through this method can the individual citizen realize his share of responsibility in evaluation of issues and the effects of his judgment for better or worse to the total welfare of the community."

An hour later, it was all over but the shouting. The final vote was 6,254 against the change and 2,771 in favor.

Pile Up Edge The margin of victory was greatest in the first and second wards. Second Ward voters piled up 1,725 votes against the change, with 701 votes cast in favor.

First ward voters backed commission form of government, 714 to 189.

Supporters of the Charter Study Commission's recommendations were strongest in the third ward, where they piled up 1,181 votes against the recommendation and 2,600 opposed.

In the fourth ward, 876 voters backed the recommendation and 1,815 opposed.

Victory was sweet to Belleville's five commissioners, who had fought the change in a solid front. Admirers and friends packed the meeting hall to hear their praise.

To the losers, the explanation appeared to be this: not enough workers.

Edward A. Shafter, campaign manager of the council-manager committee, said "the campaign has given the electorate a new sense of civic awareness." He said the

WM. ARMSTRONG, ENGINEER, DIES

William Marshall Armstrong, 59, of 265 New Street, died Thursday of a heart ailment in East Orange.

He was a marine engineer and assistant to a vice president of Gulf Oil Company in New York.

Born in Glasgow, Scotland, Mr. Armstrong came to this country in 1923 and lived in Belleville for 27 years. Before joining Gulf, he had been for 23 years with the former Federal Engineering and Dry Dock Corporation, Kearny.

He was a life member of Govanada Lodge of Masons, in Glasgow, and for 12 years had been a trustee of the Presbyterian Church in Belleville. He was also a member of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers and the American Federation of Engineers.

He was married to Mrs. Catherine M. Robertson Armstrong; they have two daughters, Miss Elizabeth M. Armstrong, at home, and Mrs. Barton W. Allen, of Nutley.

His son, John H. Armstrong, a graduate of the University of Maryland, and a brother, Thomas Armstrong, of Glasgow.

Services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the William V. Lyne Funeral Home, 276 Washington Ave. Dr. James K. Morse, pastor of Pinesville, will officiate. Burial will be in East Ridgeland Cemetery.

N. J. Historical Society To Present Film Series

"Headlines of the Century" will be the first in a series of four film programs to be presented at the New Jersey Historical Society, 300 Broadway, Newark, on Saturday, at 11 a. m. It will be a pictorial history of the period from 1897 to 1933 taken from newsreels of the day.

The series is open to the public without charge, and children under 12 years will be admitted with an adult.

WORKER INJURED IN LABS BLAZE

One man was injured and severe damage resulted yesterday in a fire at the Coating Materials Laboratories, 691 Main Street, which brought out firemen from both Belleville and Nutley.

Joseph George, a workman at the laboratories, was burned on both hands and was hospitalized for treatment. Firemen said the blaze was ignited by static electricity when an employee was transferring inflammable solvents from one container to another.

Chief Harry White said more than 70 firemen from both towns were called to put out the fire.

Company officials reported that most of the damage to the plant resulted from water used to extinguish the blaze and that the plant would resume operations next week.

A. S. BLANK DIES; EX-TOWN ENGINEER

Albert S. Blank, 60, former municipal engineer here and in Rahway died Wednesday in his home at Drexel Hill, Pa. He was engineer here from 1924 to 1933 and lived at 66 Malone Avenue.

Born in Allentown, Pa., he lived there and in Pittsburgh before moving to Belleville. He was graduated in 1915 from Lehigh University.

During World War I, he was a ballistics engineer in charge of the proving ground in Charge, W. Va.

Since 1933 he had been with the mortgage loan department of the Prudential Insurance Co. in Belleville.

He was a member of the New Jersey Society of Engineers and the American Society of Civil Engineers. He was a trustee of the Eddie Memorial Baptist Church in Newark.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Gladys Blinn Blank.

Services will be held Sunday at 3 p. m. in the Drexel Baptist Church. Burial will be Monday in Cedar Lawn Cemetery, Paterson.

SPOTLIGHT on SPORTS

Not Even Jupiter Pluvius Could Stop Bellboys

The Saturday rains, which flooded out all but one game slated in Essex County, couldn't slow down the skyrocketing Bellboys. Not even old Jupiter Pluvius could stop Belleville run through Hillside to an encouraging, 33-12, victory in a contest that saw slightly better than 200 died-in-the-wool fans turn out for anything but a comfortable afternoon of football.

The Blue and Gold squad ran through Hillside as Coach Ed Berlinski emptied his bench and used everyone of the 39 players in uniform. With Belleville out in front, 33-0, Berlinski "benched" his entire first string at the start of the fourth quarter and gave a well earned chance for his third and fourth string players to get into the lineup and gain valuable game experience.

Belleville threatened several times in the first quarter but each time penalties stalled the drive. In the second and third periods Hillside couldn't stop the young Belleville team, sparked by the play of fullback Bob Paganelli. In all, five touchdowns were tallied in those two periods. The second quarter saw Paganelli, Frank Maffatto and Jim Apple give Belleville a 19-0 lead at halftime. Those 19 points in one quarter equalled the Blue and Gold's total point output in its first five games.

While games were being called off all around Essex County, Berlinski and his assistant, Jitty Wische, inspected well kept Municipal Stadium and found the gridiron "in surprisingly good shape" considering the all-morning rain than fell in town. Berlinski had the O. K. from principal Hugh Kittle and since Hillside was all for playing the contest in the rain it went off as originally planned much to the joy of the hardy grid fans in attendance. A key reason why the field was in playable condition was the fact that Belleville doesn't use Municipal Stadium for its practice field and as a result the grass is still in good condition and hasn't been ripped to shreds by daily workouts.

For the first time a rubber ball was used in a Belleville game and Berlinski was highly pleased with the results. Even with the rain and the water logged field the players went through the game except for a last minute fumble by a third string player without dropping the ball. That's the best record we've had in the fumble department, Berlinski told me.

Although the rubber ball worked out well in wet weather, Berlinski still plans to return to the old fashioned leather pigskin when Kearny visits Municipal Stadium on Saturday. For the Bellboys this will be their last home appearance of the season. After playing host to the Cardinals, Berlinski will take his young charges to games at West Orange and Orange.

Crystal Gazing

The rains almost resulted in a complete washout of the scholastic schedule. Only Belleville played on Saturday and a handful on Monday while the Election Day make-up games were "flooded" out with most to be run off on the Saturday before Thanksgiving Day. Of the 24's played in and around Essex County three out of five were called correctly as the star gazing average dropped another 17 points to bring the mark down to .739. Thirty-four out of 46 games have been picked. How do they shape up for this week? Lets look into that hazy crystal ball and see what is in store for this weekend:

Belleville to upset Kearny. The Bellboys have come a long way since their opening game against East Orange. Belleville was shutout in its first three games but Coach Ed Berlinski has now installed the winning spirit in his up and coming eleven. Coach Art Argater has a good backfield but a weak forward wall. This Fall the Cardinals have played erratic ball from one week to the next. The Blue and Gold to capture the upset of the weekend.

Nutley to blank Clifton. This Mustang squad is not like the Clifton teams of recent years. The defending Passaic Valley Conference champs being having an off year is also knee deep in injuries. With Bruce "The Toe" Ciccone coming in after the Maroon touchdowns, I look for Nutley to win by 21 points.

Bloomfield to wallop Irvington. Once the Bengals jump in front by a couple of touchdowns look for Coach Warren Lewans to keep his team under wraps. The reason: Nutley is next on the Bengal schedule. So the score may be respectable.

Thomas Jefferson to swamp Central. A thumping is in store for Central. The material just isn't there to cope with the well balanced team that Jefferson will field.

Montclair to lace West Orange. Why bother? Another romp at Montclair attempts to go all the way. The last team to defeat the Blue and White was East Orange and that was a year ago.

East Orange to trounce Orange. When Orange lost to Montclair, 7-0, the Panther-Tornado fracas shaped up as a good, tight ball game. Today it doesn't. Orange will be an outclassed team when the two squads clash on Saturday.

West Side to edge Weequahic. West Side to win this City League encounter by one touchdown as the Indians stay in the loop cellar.

Barringer to romp over East Side. These two Newark teams will get a jump on the scholastic schedule as they clash tomorrow afternoon. The game was pushed up because of damage to Memorial Stadium during hurricane "Hazel". Barringer is already assured of the City League championship. The Big Blue will just widen the gap a little more.

Clifford Scott to trim Verona. The Scotties will take this big one among small school circles if past game performances hold up.

Passaic to squeeze by Paterson Central. In its own back yard Passaic is one of the leaders. Paterson Central will succumb to the big Indian forward wall.

Gridders Turn Mudders To Trounce Hillside, 33-12

Entire Squad Sees Action - To Play Kearny Here Tomorrow

By Mal Condon

Despite a wet, damp Municipal Stadium, Belleville High made it two wins in a row as the Bellboys defeated Hillside 33-12 before 150 rainsoaked fans.

The Blue and Gold offense overpowered Hillside with spectacular running.

The game was one of the few played in the state and probably the only one of importance in Essex County. Weather cancelled the other contests, Belleville's record now stands at two wins, three losses, and one tie.

Tomorrow the Bellboys play Kearny High at the stadium with the Cardinals rated about even. Bloomfield defeated Kearny two weeks ago, 33-14. Bloomfield also downed Belleville 18-0. However, the Blue and Gold has improved and it appears that the home team has a slight edge.

Bellboys Solve Weather

In the opening quarter of last Saturday's game neither team threatened. Wet conditions appeared to hamper the offensive play.

The second period started with a bang as Bob Costello went 31 yards on an end-around to the 14. Chick Maffatto and Jim Apple carried to the 4-yard line on two plays. Paganelli then ripped off guard for the touchdown. Apple's attempted conversion was also good.

After Belleville had kicked off, Hillside fumbled on its 45 and Tommy Dolan recovered to set up another Bellboy touchdown. After Paganelli moved to the 9, Maffatto went off tackle for the score. Apple's placement was wide.

Belleville scored for the third time in the period when Hillside tried to pass. Apple intercepted a Comet aerial on his 40 and scampered neatly down the sideline for a 60 yard scoring run. This time his placement was perfect. The half ended with the home eleven in front, 19-0.

In the third period Belleville again scored. Apple returned the kick-off to midfield where Paganelli broke through for 49 yards to the Corner 1. Frank Fules then crossed pay-dirt on a quarterback sneak. Apple again converted.

Jayvees Look Good

On the following kick-off, Hillside again fumbled and Billy Bartel recovered for Belleville on the visitors' 26. Ronnie Benedetti's first plus galloped off tackle for a 26-yard touchdown run. Apple's conversion made it 33-0 for the home forces. Coach Berlinski at this point began to substitute freely and still the defense held.

The Cornets finally scored in the final stanza against the Blue and Gold Jayvees. Fumbles accounted for the scoring although the Jayvees were able to gain considerable yardage against the Hillside defense and were impressive in their play.

Every player on the Belleville squad saw action in the game. The coaches appeared satisfied with the much-improved Belleville team.

Taylor Regains Lead In Fewsmiter Bowling

Robert Taylor, Jr., regained the leadership of the Fewsmiter Bowling League this week, with an average of 183, followed by James Swartz, 183; and Fred Oehsner, Sr., and Emory Goody, 179.

In team play, the Old Timers retained its lead, despite the loss of a game to the Muffins. The Spoilers swept three games from the Cubs.

Top averages of the week were compiled by Joseph Zipf, with a 200; Emory Goody, 219; Roy Dahlquist and Fred Knitted, 201; Don Richards, 206; Al Sharkey and Cliff Dornier, 215 and Fred Oehsners, Sr., 222.

BOY SCOUTS TO PRESENT COLORS

F. Douglas Wadsworth, District Commissioner, has announced that the Leaders' Roundtable will be held at the Recreation House on Friday, November 12, instead of the usual second Thursday, because of the Armistice Day holiday. The Scouts and Explorers will participate in the parade Thursday.

"Not being a marching Organization, the Scouts will," said Wadsworth, "as in previous years have a token representation of two Color Bearers and two Color Guards per Troop or Post."

This results in a massing of colors. Those participating should report to Linden Avenue and Greylock Parkway at 7:30 p.m.

The Belleville Scouts will also assist the Parade Committee as messengers, if called upon to do so.

Leslie Jones, Chairman of Organization and Extension, has reported the organization of a new Cub Pack at St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church.

Carl Casper, of 7 South Magnolia Lane, is Cubmaster and Mrs. Casper, and Mrs. Louis Patis, of 59 Heckel Street, are Den Mothers. Den meetings have already begun and the first Pack meeting will be held November 16.

Jewish Anniversary To Be Marked At Rutgers

Congregation Ahavath Achim Anshe will be represented Sunday at the Rutgers University Convocation by its president, Henry W. Zadikoff and Rabbi Albert L. Rank. The ceremonies will mark the 30th anniversary of the introduction of Jewish culture in to North America.

Why Charter Lost Out One Man's View Of Vote

By Richard A. Shafter

There are nearly 3,000 men and women in this town who cannot be scared out of their wits by the Red Smear, nor swayed by insults to their intelligence from their determination to strive for good municipal government.

If any man's reckoning, 3,000 intransigent citizens are a mighty force. No-crowding-over-easy victory by the voters fighting over crumbs tossed to them from the tables of the mighty in the Town Hall can dim the fact that these 3,000 men and women are the solid core in the body politic here. They are the people who measure civic virtue not by fragile promises, but by performance. Collectively, these 3,000 are the civic conscience of our town. On that fact rests the hope for the future.

Not Disheartening

Even though these less than 3,000 hopefully courageous citizens were outvoted by more than two to one, the result of the Council-Manager referendum is not at all disheartening. It was the first time that the voters of a new government were ever posed for the present generation of Belleville's citizens.

Some of our people were openly dismayed at the thought of a change from the only form of municipal administration they had ever known. Some did not fully grasp that, in the long run, asking, so to speak, they could have had a much more democratic and at the same time more efficient administration than the Commission government can ever provide.

Our State adopted a new constitution a few short years ago, not merely grasping that the analogy in keeping with modern requirements was possible under the old Charter that was crumbling in every joint. The analogy between the new State constitution and what they themselves were to vote on was not clear to our fellow-townsmen.

There was not time enough to clear up all these questions. The Council-Manager Committee of the Belleville City Congress began its campaign from scratch a scant thirty days ago, without any prior organization, without a political machine to fall back on, without more financial support than the few voluntary contributions from organizations affiliated with the Congress, from the pockets of some individual citizens, and from the Essex West Hudson CIO Council.

Referendum Atmosphere

Nor was the referendum held in an atmosphere that would have made possible a calm and objective discussion of the merits and shortcomings of the Commission government in juxtaposition to the Council-Manager plan. Neither the Charter Commission, nor the Civic Congress Campaign Committee ever blamed the incumbent commissioners for the obvious drawbacks of Commission government.

Yet the Commissioners acted as if any criticism was meant as a personal insult, that had to be answered with the full force of their organized might. They pooled their five individual machines to form one giant super-machine, and that juggernaut swung into high gear a month ago and, in the desperate fight to perpetuate the five men in power, utilized all the high-pressure methods of local politicking, from deliberate falsehoods to the intimidation of town employees, from the doctoring of statistics to the open insult of the entire electorate.

In their own public pronouncements, the Commissioners stuck largely to one particular refrain: "It is not the form of government that counts, but the men that make it." If that were true, then the strenuous opposition of the Commissioners to the change becomes utterly meaningless. If the form means nothing, why object to a new form?

With unlike more logic the Commissioners could have said instead: "We shall not stand in the way of a change, but as the new form of government, we are willing to serve the new form of government to the best of our abilities." Not a single one of the five men came forth with such a manly declaration, which means of course nothing else but that the form of government is all-important to all five of them.

Unfortunately, under the provisions of the tightly drawn Faulkner Act, the Belleville electorate will have to wait five long years before they can apply the results of another Charter study should they discover in the next future that they made a mistake last Tuesday. It will seem almost apparent that the crying need of the town is a professional manager.

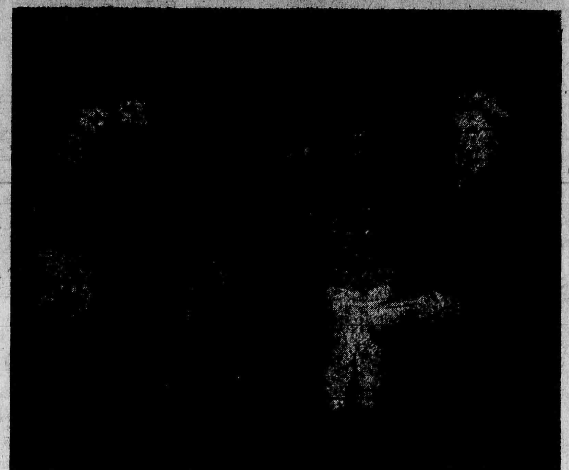

Tax Rate To Rise

The tax rate is bound to rise, perhaps as much as sixty points, not merely because the State Supreme Court recently ordered substantial tax refunds to industrial concerns that were reassessed about a year ago. There is also the problem of greatly increased outlays for the school repair program and the cost of the proposed new high school, not to mention the fact that the taxpayer's burden during the coming year.

It would be folly to claim that a Town Manager could have avoided these tax increases. But by its very nature, Commission government does not provide one administration, but five little governments, all of them turning on one emergency to the next.

There can, under Commission government, be no municipal planning worthy of the name; there is no singleness of purpose, no unified budget policy. At best the balance of power between the five commissioners is very precarious, with the only checks and balances provided by their mutual jealousies.

It is perfectly safe to predict that the harmony the five commissioners displayed during the campaign is bound to be short-lived. As soon as Commissioner Sullivan, for instance, should raise the touchy question of Commissioner Smith's extended leave from the Public Safety Department, the fireworks are bound to go off with a loud bang.

Family Service knows that things like this do happen to boys and girls. They know that even though Jimmy might really need the food, he doesn't need that as much as he needs to feel proud of his mom and pop and himself. Jimmy has self respect and he really wants to be a "giver" instead of a "receiver".

Even Jimmy's mother and father really feel the same way. Mother hates to be unappreciative of the good things that happen to her.

The devalued statue is a fitting symbol for the civic virtue that dwells within the outmoded and macabre stonework of our Town Hall. There are, however, some 3,000 men and women in town who would like to see Civic Virtue recast in a finer metal, her gesture of dejection and fear replaced with one of triumph and trust in her own integrity.

awareness is bound to result in a close watch on the part of the people on the future conduct of commission government.

Boyd A. Harjey, charter commission chairman said the referendum "was decided in the manner of tradition of Democratic voting," in acknowledging disappointment at the defeat.

Back in May, voters had decided in favor of setting up a Charter Study Commission by 5,158 to 3,181, at the same time electing the five commissioners into office.

In September, the Commission started town fathers by presenting a majority report favoring the abolishment of the town's 30-year commission form and substituting the manager-council form instead.

George H. Brown, fifth member of the Commission, concurred that the commission form should be abolished but favored the adoption of the mayor-council form rather than city manager-council.

All five commissioners announced their opposition to the recommendation. Citizens groups sprang up favoring or opposing the change. Rallies were held.

Apparently worried over the issue, the town commission predeular meeting Tuesday, and said he was unaware that Abramson's appointment would be part of the adjourned session.

The meeting was adjourned from Nov. 3, when only three of the five commissioners were present. Four are required to be present to adopt a financial measure, part of the business at the meeting.

"It's a bad time to take up such matters right after election," the Mayor said.

The hobby show was the highlight of a hobby project of the class, taught by Miss Eleanor Walsh. Each child brought an example of his hobby to school, and told how he became interested.

Young Dominick had been collecting match covers for only two weeks.

Other hobbies exhibited, and their exhibitors are as follows: Collecting planes, John Suckey; building planes and ships, John Heys and Harry Dixon; collecting marbles, John Horrolo and Wayne Young; collecting figures, Beth Ann Albers; collecting pictures, Georgene Mitchell; collecting charms, Rene Bocar; collecting match covers, Craig Jones; stamp collecting, Alice Nelson.

Collecting car cards, Bill Goldnick; collecting butterflies, Kenneth Miller and Richard Gray; collecting service articles, Anthony Iannini; reading and collecting books, Dorothy Dolan; modeling, John Heys; building logs, Dominick Calaruso; drawing, Aileen Lanzotti; cutout dolls, Lorraine Auriemma.

Pets, Virginia Weimann; handicraft, Paula Perry; handwork, Jane Kleiber, Jane Stivers; cardboard modeling, Charles Nagy; chemistry, Bill Billerman; guitar work, Virginia Weimann; petal craft, Grace Hucko, and collecting handkerchiefs, Margaret Santiglia.

Upsala Represented

Monday, Dr. Harold A. Ferguson, director of admissions of Upsala College, visited the high school.

Dr. Ferguson described the courses offered by Upsala and answered questions asked by the Juniors and Seniors.

Michael Rosamilia, senior counselor, and Samuel Siffkin, guidance director, attended the meeting.

Safety Patrol

An assembly program was observed at School 1 to stress the importance of safety.

James Lee, a member of the Belleville police force, spoke on the responsibilities of Patrol Boys and the qualities they must possess. He praised them for the wonderful work they are doing in protecting pupils going to and from school. He also explained the rules for bicycle safety, the rules for children's behavior as pedestrians, and the new Traffic Act.

Paul Brennan, principal, advised the children on observing various precautions for safety on the school playground, and in the building.

Nunzio Cerseno, captain of the school patrol, introduced patrol members and spoke briefly on the merits of the group.

The films, "Bicycle Safety" and "Safety Patrol" were shown. Safety pamphlets were issued.

Hensinger At Rutgers

Carl Hensinger, assistant to the principal and head of the English Department, and Mrs. Faith

Wills, English teacher at Belleville High School attended a dinner meeting at Rutgers University.

After dinner, a panel of the teachers on the high school and college levels discussed phases of English teaching problems and techniques.

Dr. S. D. Stephens, professor of English at Rutgers University, was chairman.

Complete Student Teaching Teachers from Jersey City

All Is Not Lost

For the Republicans, it was a defeat but not a disaster. For the Democrats, it was a frustration, nationally, but, on the county level, it was an opportunity to get a foot in the doorway. Both may hope to profit by the advantages which they shared in Tuesday's voting.

Belleville, for the first time in twenty years, jumped the traces and landed solidly in the Democratic camp, choosing Howell for the Senate and helping to re-elect Democratic Congressman Peter W. Rodino, Jr., to his fourth term in Congress. Rodino's voting record was not one of hostility to the Eisenhower administration. It was not a New Deal Democratic voting record. It was a middle-of-the-road record and Belleville went along with the very popular Newark Democrat because it could find no fault with his six years in Congress.

As our representative in Washington for the past six years, Rodino has proven, time after time, that he represents all of us, Republicans as well as Democrats. His contacts with his constituents have been closer than most Congressmen. He has been an able and an excellent Congressman and we can look for continued good representation in Washington for two more years.

Whatever success the G.O.P. had in pulling itself out of the mire of defeat, on Capitol Hill, by its own bootstraps must be attributed to the eleventh hour efforts of President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon. A month ago, the party's chances could have been bought for a dime.

If that has become evident to the White House, it should serve as a costly but useful lesson. Had the White House assumed its full responsibility of party leadership several months earlier, and had Republican legislative action been pointed towards Tuesday's election with pardonable partisan strategy, the G.O.P. might have kept control of Congress. There is no doubt that until the Eisenhower-Nixon team went on the air, or took off by air to stump the country, the Republican candidates had nothing to stand on but thin air. It was the personality of the two national leaders, and the good sense they both made as they discussed the problems of peace in the atomic age, that swung many hundreds of thousands of Republicans back into camp and sent many voters here out in the rain to their duty.

There are enough Southern Democrats in Congress and in the Senate to give the White House a working majority. Neither house votes along white lines of party distinction. President Eisenhower can count upon a goodly number of Dixiecrats to support his program, and, therefore, there is no reason to fear a hem-and-haw situation in Washington with a bi-partisan tandem of a mule and an elephant.

Closer home, the defeat of Clean Government in the election of county officers is not only harder to understand, but more likely to cause perturbations. Essex County has had excellent government. There has never been a breath of scandal under Clean Government. Our taxes are lower than most metropolitan counties, our administration has been far-seeing, yet cautious. It is hard to believe that Clean Government was voted out of the county offices on its record.

It should be obvious to the Republicans that there must be time out for soul searching. The call was close. Another time, the party might lose its Senatorial seat here. The only alternative is to find the formula which will pull the party together. There must be a fighting leadership. The day is gone when elections can be won by pulling strings or paying off ward heeler. The voters are intelligent, and the intelligent are voters.

R. E. H.

Too Few, Too Little, Too Late

The people of Belleville have spoken in favor of Commission government here.

By almost a three to one margin, voters have cast their ballots against the proposal by the Charter Study Commission to substitute Council-Manager government. Their decision must be respected.

But the mandate, while a vote of confidence in the Commission must in no way discredit those proponents of Council-Manager, who voted in good conscience for what they believed the best government for Belleville. They backed up the thinking of the five-member Charter Study Commission, itself created by a 5-1 margin in May.

Perhaps the issue might even have been decided differently, had the Charter Study backers had the time and workers to organize. They were too few, they could do too little, too late. Zeal alone can't win an election. It takes organization; it takes work. And it's always more difficult to unhorse the powers that be.

At the same time, the Commission can take a deserved bow for the vote of confidence. Election night indicated they themselves were a bit surprised at the margin of victory.

But rather than ride hard on the losers, the Commissioners should take a good look at what made 2,771 voters want Council-Manager here, and clean their skirts accordingly.

The result will be a more effective Commission government for the people of Belleville.

One Man's Opinion

Expect No East-West Conference Now, But As Soon As The German Treaties Are Ratified, We May Sit Down With The Communists

We hold all four aces in the biggest poker game of the "cold war", now that the Western European Union pact for the better various parliaments for ratification. For the time being, Russia is on the defensive. She will try to delay or to defeat ratification, particularly in Paris and in Rome, but unless the Kremlin is willing to risk everything and agree to free elections in all Germany, on the question of unification, there is really little that Moscow can do to prevent the rearmament of Germany and Bonn's entry into NATO.

President Eisenhower and Sir Winston Churchill have made it clear that there will be no Big Four conference, either at the top-man level or of foreign ministers, until after all of the western powers have completed ratification of the new treaties with Germany. But we can expect that as soon as the treaties are ratified, there will be serious East-West talks with A-bomb control and disarmament as the co-thesis of negotiation.

In the meantime, Marshal Tito, of all people, and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, back in Bonn after his flying trip to Washington, are the most active in urging that we sit down with the Russians. Tito pretends to see a change, not only in Kremlin policy but in Russian thinking. Like Adenauer, Tito believes that we can tie the Communists down with a nonaggression pact between the Free West and the Soviet bloc, with "co-existence" as the key-word.

No Alternative To Peace

President Eisenhower's thinking is not so steady in the direction of talks with Russia, eventually, quite as much as Sir Winston's or even Clement Attlee's. Backstage technical experts in Washington have been doing a very quiet study of life in an H-bomb age. The more they study it the more Mr. Eisenhower's own personal conclusion comes out that "there isn't any alternative to peace." That's what Vice President Nixon tried to say in his TV talk on the eve of the election.

The more the military experts think about an atomic war the more they are convinced that Eisenhower's conclusion that in such a war there couldn't be any victory, or victor. There might be a technical winner, but his win would not be worth much. Hence the practical question for diplomats is not how to set the stage for a real victory in the postwar struggle between East and West, but how to work out some arrangement which the world can live with, without an atomic war.

Pointing Towards Talks

So both White House and State Department are starting now to think and plan toward a serious meeting with the Soviets to take place after the German contracts have been ratified, presumably by March of next year.

Typing up the ends of the Paris talk is not going to be easy. The Senate must ratify three of the agreements; the protocol putting Germany into NATO; the protocol altering the contractual relationship with Germany; the agreement permitting foreign forces in Germany.

Also the Richards amendment cutting off aid to those European countries which did not approve EDC must be rewritten, to make it WEU. And the President must make some commitment about stationing troops in Europe for WEU as he did for EDC — and Congress may give that a look-see too.

Mendes-France Hopeful

But the greatest trouble in ratification is not going to be in

Remember?

10 Years Ago

Jumping the gun in the nation, Belleville High School students went to the polls five days early and chose Franklin Roosevelt. At the fourth term, however, when action rolled around, Belleville maintained its reputation as a Republican stronghold and DeWey finished in town. Gave 11 points since start of war.

15 Years Ago

Mayor had it that the Real Estate Board of Bloomfield and Glen Ridge might become the Board of Directors of Bloomfield, Glen Ridge, Nutley and Belleville. . . . Belleville was in the midst of two labor situations. Picketers were walking near the new $30,000 C. R. Bart plant and an at the proposed Jergen's plant site, there was a bit of disagreement when it came time for pickets to be sworn over the treaty leading to the plant. It was settled by having the workers, seeing the picketers and union iron workers put them in place.

20 Years Ago

The Democratic party showed unusual strength in Belleville, with A. Harry Moore leading the way. Senator-elect H. H. P. Keen, and William Dill about of Harold Hoffman in the gubernatorial race. . . . In 1934, weekend shoppers could count on these prices in the town's markets: coffee, 19 cents a pound; two sticks of round-bred cigarettes, 25 cents; leg of lamb, 19 cents a pound, and bacon, 35 cents a pound.

25 Years Ago

Armistice Day celebrations were completed. A wreath was to be laid on the monument at the Town Hall; a captured German field piece was to be unveiled at Greco-Lantern; and a military band was planned at the Elks Club. Fire destroyed the historic Belleville Hotel at Main and Mill Streets, built in 1892.

One year ago that the world had the choice of "co-existence or co-death."

The new study will provide the facts to illustrate this dictum.
