Commissioner Kulls Funeral Home Measure By One Vote

The key player was Mayor Isadore Padula, who cast the deciding vote. Not a murmur came from the standing-room only crowd, as the Mayor read a lengthy statement, then stated, "I vote no."

But before the climax, the crowd heard the Mayor's last act in the making this week in a dramatic meeting, 3-2.

Padula's 'No' Is Final Blow - Fight at End

Mayor Isadore Padula, in a lengthy statement this week on the funeral home question, expressed his views.

Following is the crux of the statement:

"I wish to make it clear that I regard Mr. Kiernan as one of our most respectable business men and an asset to the community, and I am sure he realizes that no member wants to impede his business."

"Furthermore, Mr. Kiernan's faith in the integrity of this Board was demonstrated during the election when he made his campaign contributions. I, myself, received a contribution which I duly listed in the newspaper and for which I was grateful."

"However, as a member of an elected body, each Commissioner is firmly committed to providing adequate protection for collective community investments, as well as reasonable protection for the rights and privileges of the individual citizen."

"This issue parallels that of the Parental Home in its disquieting effects on the residents of Belleville. Park rebelled against the plan to use land as a site for a Home, believing it involved constant coming and going of strangers, usurping of street parking rights, and a general depressing atmosphere."

"Likewise, people on and around New and Holmes Streets have reacted with the same depressing attitude, and parking inconvenience as threatened by the Belleville Park plan."

"The Board and citizen upheld the Belleville Park residents. Therefore, we are no less obligated to respect the Holmes-New Street area citizens. We must be consistent in our decisions, and we must be just."

Hospital Eyes $50,000 In Drive on February 13

The kick-off date for the one day house-to-house drive of the Clara Mass Memorial Hospital will be Sunday, February 13, it was announced this week by Norman Lauterette, resident chairman at a meeting of co-chairmen and captains.

Evan H. Thomas and Frank J. McFadden, also addressed meeting, Thomas noting an apparent low point in the drive.

A local campaign headquarters is being established at 140 Washington Avenue.

At the same time, the corporate gifts committee, which raised several hundred thousand dollars in 1951, reorganized this week.

Other members of the committee include: American Life Insurance Company; Walter Kidde & Company, Inc.; Federal Leather Company; G. Hartman & Company; Wallace & Tiernan; Eastwood Nealley Company; and Western Lithograph Company.

Lauterette, in the town meeting called the co-chairmen's attention to what he said was an unusual situation existing with regard to the relationship of the forthcoming drive to the one that took place here four years ago.

"Subsequent events," he said, "caused some doubt whether the hospital could be built and some subscribers suspended payments of their pledges."

"Now, however, with the Million Raffle Foundation, the hospital is an assured fact and those pledged must be reactivated with an appeal for additional support."

"Naturally, all residents who did not previously participate will be appealed to for contributions."

"Education in the United States is in a crisis. We are all aware that Belleville to a great degree has been spared this crisis. We all know that we need more teachers, better paid teachers, more class-rooms, better equipment."

A bank president recently said, "We aim to maintain such a naturalness in our business relationship that our customers feel at home in our bank and we feel at home with them."

Sometimes a banking relationship is a lifetime affair, starting when a child opened his first savings account. On through life the local bank may play a large role in the ups and downs of its customers. But whether you "grew up with the bank" or are a newcomer in this vicinity, we hope you will feel at ease and at home with us, for that is always our aim — to maintain friendly relations in all our banking transactions.

Richie Veith Definite All-State Material

Richie Veith, veteran Belleville High School basketball star, enjoyed a field day at the expense of Nutley last Friday night, and almost single handedly whipped the Maroon Raiders, 51-39, as he scored 33 points, only six less than the entire Nutley team. That sparkling performance should just about guarantee Richie's selection for the All-Exeter team and put him near the top for All-State recognition.

For those Belleville fans who crossed the town line to see their favorites tackle Nutley, they were treated to a rare performance. I cannot think of enough adjectives to adequately describe Veith's brilliant shooting exhibition. As Nutley coach Dave Broffman bluntly put it, "He just murdered us."

Richie was uncanny as he hit on 14 of 23 shots from the floor. By halftime he had 18 points. A breakdown by quarters shows that Veith had 8, 10, 8 and 7 points. Besides 14 baskets he hit on five for five free throws. Veith was just about the entire scoring punch as he recorded 14 of the team's 17 baskets with no other player swishing the nets for more than one, two-pointer. His 14 baskets were four more than the entire Nutley team could muster.

Near the tail-end of the thriller the cheers switched from "Let's Go Belleville" to "Let's Go Richie". There was talk after the fray that Veith's 33-point total was a new school record, but from what I've been able to gather, none seems to know just what the B. H. S. one-game mark is. Coach "Jitty" Wische, who is the one most familiar with the Belleville court picture, told me in the dressing room that he knows of no recognized record holder nor what the highest total may be.

Did Richie Veith break the record? The only way to get to the bottom and find out the answer is by former hoop athletes stepping forward and letting me know if any Blue and Gold player ever scored more than 33 points in one game and when he did it.

As for Richie's basketball future, it is very bright. Already a number of major colleges have expressed more than a passing interest in him. He is near the top of the pile in the Essex county race with 294 points in 10 games for an average of 29.4 markers per contest. On Tuesday he hit the magic circle for the second time with 80 against Kearny. Veith has a wide assortment of shots. He is deadly from outside and possesses a neat driving layup. Broffman, in praising Veith so truly said, "If you give him an inch he sets, and if you play him close he goes around you like a bolt of lightning."

Richie looks like a ballplayer and acts like a ballplayer. He loves the game and what's more he's willing to learn. Right now he is six-feet, one-inch tall but is still growing. With better than average grades Veith will have college scouts beating a path to his door before the end of the season.

Wische Will Not Use Leyble

With Belleville enjoying another successful season, although coming as a complete surprise, I wonder what kind of powerhouse the Belboys would have been this year if "Jitty" Wische had the services of three other boys were expected to team up with Richie Veith. Wische plans on his varsity teams four years in advance. In 1951 he had hoped for 1955. Looking in his crystal ball he figured on Charley Vitale, Terry Gahr, Andy Leyble and Veith. But three years later the only one still around is Veith. Vitale moved to Nutley and played against Belleville on Friday, Gahr joined the Marines and Leyble is ineligible.

Now comes the case of Leyble. He paired up with Pat Grosso last season and was expected to be one of the best players in the county but scholastic deficiencies caused him to be declared ineligible. Now under the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association's ruling, Leyble becomes eligible on February 1 but Wische has already announced that he will definitely not use him for the tail-end of the season or for the Essex County Basketball Tournament which gets under way on February 12.

Wische, although realizing that with the addition of Leyble, Belleville's turnover stack would skyrocket, has by his guns. The veteran plot used sound logic in defense of his move.

"If I take Leyble back for the last part of the season I would only be defeating the purpose of the original ruling. What's the sense of allowing a boy to practice for two months while he is ineligible. If I did that he could just as well play in the regular season games. It's not fair to the boy that may be benched either. Ever since I've been coaching it's been a strict policy of mine never to take back a player at mid-season."

Bill Krug Fights Tonight

33 Years Ago, Uncle Met Mickey Walker, Who Will Appear To Size Up Current Crop Of Golden Glovers

Bill Krug, fighting in the 175 pound division, will fight in the quarter final round of the 1955 New Jersey Golden Gloves tournament in the Newark Athletic Club gym tonight.

The round will be highlighted by the appearance of Mickey Walker, former world welterweight and middleweight champ, who will look over the current crop of Golden Glovers and take a bow from the ring.

Walker and Krug have a lot in common. It was Paul Krug, Bill's uncle, who met Walker 33 years ago in a 12-round tangle in the Newark Armory. It was a no decision bout.

And 30 years ago this month, Mickey fought Mike McTigue in the Newark Armory in another 12-round, no decision fray.

Half a dozen classes are slated for action tonight. Al Thomas, NAC athletic director, announced yesterday that the tournament will last seven weeks, with the semi-final rounds scheduled on February 4 and 11 and the final on the 18th.

Seniorettes Victors
Seniorettes added another one to the win column as they gained an easy victory over a young, but promising, James team, 15-0. Rosie Schreiner was high scorer for the Seniorettes with 10 points. Steffensen and Kosinski each had 3 points for the Cadettes.

Meiblers beat the Crazy Mixed-Up Kids in a game which was conspicuous because of its score, less second half. The final score was the same as the half-time score, 6-2.

Chinas gained a forfeit over the Antra Nons, moving them into a fifth place tie with the Crazy Mixed-Up Kids.

FALSE ALARM RISE MAY BRING FATAL ACCIDENT-WHITE

Fire Chief Harry T. White today decried the increasing number of false alarms being rung here, and urged parents to talk to their children in an effort to prevent such alarms.

"We're afraid of accidents if ringing 'to-alarm,' the Chief said, pointing out that more firemen are killed in the United States in accidents en route to fires than in actually fighting the fires.

There was a total of 63 false alarms last year and there have already been seven this year, Chief White said. He added that a bill pending in legislature will make ringing a false alarm a misdemeanor, under which parents will be held responsible. Persons arrested for turning in false alarms now are charged with disorderly conduct.

Most of the alarms this year were turned in at night, first in the vicinity of Number 2 School, then at Chestnut and Franklin and now in the Valley section. Police have been urged by the fire department to watch for offenders.

Boycott By Blockade

The New Jersey Highway Authority, in building and opening the Garden State Parkway, has shown a callous disregard for the legal rights of every Essex town in its path. It took courageous action by Mayor Donald Scott, of Bloomfield, to force the Authority to stretch its red picket fence along the right of way and as a backdrop for the foolishly inadequate modernistic railings on its bridges. The same courageous action might, successfully, force the Highway Authority to open the wickets of its Bloomfield toll-gate to Nutley and Brookdale motorists travelling to other points within the county.

It has been proven that the Authority will do only what it is forced to do. Typical of its autocratic handling of public relations is the statement of an Authority engineer to Mayor Scott: "You run your town, we're running this Parkway and we'll open it when we please to."

As a sop, the Authority has put off the collection of tolls in this section of the Parkway until February 1, but at that date the wickets will go up at the Bloomfield toll-gate. It is wholly illegal in view of promises of free intra-county travel, given before the Parkway project was put to a referendum vote, to charge tolls on travel within the county. Once the toll-gate goes to work, it will be too late to change it.

There is still time for Mayor Chenoweth to consult with Mayor Scott, who must be as interested in the illicit tolls charge to be enforced against Brookdale motorists as we are in defending our rights. If Mayor Scott is willing, and if the support of other Mayors of towns which have suffered indignities at the hands of the Authority can be had, let's boycott the Parkway by blocking its entrances and exits in Essex County until the Bloomfield toll-gate is removed and the collection of tolls is shifted to the Route-3 interchange, where it belongs. R. E. H.

Don't Tamper With Our Representation

Both the Republican and Democratic Essex county committees should fight, either jointly or separately, the efforts of Governor Meyner and South Jersey to cut the Essex delegation in the State Assembly from 12 seats to 10. Pending legislation would take two seats away from Essex and Hudson and hand them out, one each, to Burlington, Union, Monmouth and Camden.

The alternative would be to modernize the entire structure of the state legislature which has never been changed since 110 years ago. Population trends have massed millions more in metropolitan Jersey and left the wide-open, green spaces in South Jersey in those 110 years, but the ratio of representation in the State Legislature is unchanged.

It is shocking to propose to penalize Essex County, which gained 68,600 population between the 1940 and 1950 census, by taking two of its 12 seats. One can see some merit in penalizing Hudson, which lost 5,000 population in the same period, but why should Burlington gain one seat for an increase of 38,000 while Essex loses two despite gaining more than 68,000?

Today's 60 member Assembly has been unchanged since the 1844 Constitution. Since then New Jersey's population has increased from 489,703 in the 1850 census to 4,355,329 in the 1950 census, or ten times as many inhabitants.

If it was reasonable to have an Assembly member for every 7,000 persons in 1850 when New Jersey was a sparsely settled agricultural colony, does it make sense to have the same number today representing ten times as many people in a highly industrialized state with a multiplicity of complex legislative problems?

Today's 60 Assembly members now represent an average of 80,588 yet we have six Assemblymen representing the six rural counties of Cape May, Ocean, Hunterdon, Salem, Sussex and Warren with a total population of 275,000, or an average of 46,000 per assembly member. The remaining 54 legislators in urban areas represent an average of 88,500 each.

There is no equity in retaining the 60 membership House and reducing the Essex representation by 17 per cent after Essex gained 68,000 population and this maneuver of low politics should be fought all the way down the line. R. E. H.

Hospital Drive Soon

The Clara Maass Memorial Hospital Campaign here is setting its sights on a one-day drive to raise the goal of $50,000, no small achievement.

Drive chairmen also have assured residents that the $100,000 in pledges received in the first drive four years ago, the largest amount ever raised here by popular subscription, has not been forgotten. People can be assured that the hospital, four years subject of discussion but not action, will be built and it will be built starting this Spring. This final drive, also being carried on in Nutley, Bloomfield and in North Newark, should push the hospital needs over the top. Some $375,000 already has been subscribed. The hospital needs $425,000, with the major portion of this already being raised through pledges by industry, insurance companies and labor.

On February 13, hospital drive workers will be knocking on doors and ringing on doorbells, asking residents to give. When it comes time to dig down into the pocket, people may remember that this is one drive riveted right here in Belleville. He who helps the hospital, helps himself.

Again we say, let's not have what happened here during the Community Chest campaign, a lowering of the goal by $20,000 because the campaign couldn't bring back the bacon.

That High School Evaluation

Apparently more than a few teachers, school officials and students feel that an editorial on the high school evaluation is an undesired kick in the teeth.

Let it be misunderstood, we have no bone to pick with faculty or students. The oral report, in appraising the school, points out flatly that the faculty is very competent. And the spirit of students and morale at the school is good.

Perhaps the "good" interpretation can be justified when regarded in the light of effort made in the last 10 years, when the school was last judged by the evaluating committee and found wanting.

But the facts and criticisms in the oral report, as hurriedly prepared and presented as it was stand. An interpretation of good is wishful thinking.

We fling down the glove to school authorities to publish the written report in full, or in serial form, if necessary . . . not in a spirit of feud or proof, but in an attitude of finding out just how good Belleville High is, and what can be done to make it better.

If school authorities think their interpretation can stand up, let them pick up the challenge. J. J. H.

Dead Ordinance

It looks like the attempt to get a funeral home at 272 Holmes Street is killed for good and will rest in peace in the dead file in town hall.

Although Robert C. Gruhin, attorney for George F. Kiernan, mortician, may press the matter . . . perhaps even corral enough signatures to force a referendum, there seems small chance of its passing.

If residents were voting on Kiernan's place alone, the well-known mortician might stand a chance. But very few people will go to the polls to pass a law permitting the possibility of someone putting up a funeral home next to their own home — there's enough grief in their own household without asking for more next door. Maybe they're wrong in feeling that way, but that's the way they feel.

Before writing off the funeral home issue, however, a comment on one new development growing out of the argument.

It looks like the honeymoon is over for the Town Commission, which had been a pretty solid group since it united to defeat the Charter proposal here. J. J. H.

Newark Gets Poorer Every Day

Showing a keen understanding of the urgency of the menace, the Nutley Town Commission moved swiftly, yesterday, to convoke a meeting on February 10 of the 22 suburban towns of Essex County to study possible legislative action to protect themselves against the dictatorial imposition by the Essex County Tax Board of its table of so-called "true" evaluations.

As a hint of the false character of the "true" evaluations table, one need only compare today's Newark ratables with those of twenty years ago. It is a matter of record that in 1932, Newark's assessed property was valued, for tax purposes, at $726,912-735. In 1954, the assessed valuation had fallen to $564,748,000.

Those two figures prove that there's something rotten in Denmark — and in Newark, too! Only by pooling their interests and presenting a common front can the taxpayers of the suburban towns protect themselves against the political wasters of Newark. R. E. H.

One Man's Opinion

Political Strategy Appears To Have Sidetracked Common Sense, Delaying The Building Of A Sorely Needed New German Army

By Ralph E. Heinzen

As a soldier and as a war correspondent, as a reporter and as a prisoner of war, I watched the German army in two world wars; I watched it strut in victory, after crushing Poland, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg and France, in 1940, and, as a prisoner of the Nazis, I watched it in defeat after the crushing Russian victory at Stalingrad and after the routing of Rommel and his Afrika Korps in Libya and Tunisia by the Anglo-American pincers.

The memory is still fresh of a victorious German army crossing France as on a May-walk, that May of 1940, the young German soldiers with their rifles slung, their helmets off, their blond hair in the sunshine as the sang the traditional marching songs of all German armies — Bismarck's, the Kaiser's or Hitler's.

The memory is fresh, too, when, as the Nazis' prisoner in a detention camp in the Black Forest, I watched the crushed remnants of Rommel's African army come back — arrogant still, but smart soldiers under the peculiar peaked cap of the units which fought in a bronzing sun.

The memory is fresh, too, of the long trains of wounded reaching the comparative haven of Baden and Bavaria from Stalingrad, bringing the human wrecks salvaged from the death bowl of Stalingrad where every building was battered to ground level, over the heads of Von Paulitz's Army, holding out in cellar strongholds, by Russian artillery which had been allowed to encircle the doomed city.

Mitigated Respect

As a soldier who fought against them, as a war correspondent who watched their battles, as a reporter in the double decade between the two world wars who went to Germany from Paris every year and watched the rebirth of German might, and as a prisoner of war who watched the black clouds of defeat engulf a Germany that crumbled around me under the ferocious onslaught of Allied air power — I respected the German soldier, but I feared his motives, his leadership and his principles.

Yet, in a world divided, with half of the white and yellow peoples of this earth pledged to try and crush us and to destroy our Christian faith, our economic power and our democratic institutions and government, I would rather have the German Army on my side than against me.

To me, the decision to re-arm West Germany was an inevitable consequence of the Berlin blockade and airlift, symbolic of Communism's aggressive intentions.

Best Soldier In Europe

I consider the German the best soldier, man for man, in Europe and in reaching that decision, shorn of all racial and political prejudice, I judge the German soldiers on what I saw of them in two wars.

I limit that judgment to Europe, however, because, from experience, I feel that the American soldier, as an individual within a unit, is superior to the German, as I feel that he is superior to the Russian, the Chinese or any other fighter in a war which would involve the entire national potential.

Since it is common sense to give as many German soldiers to our side as we can, we cannot afford to allow national prejudice to cloud the actual reasoning and to hold down German war potential and active military power.

Premier Mendes-France told the French Parliament that it would be four years or more before the new German army would be ready for action, and that in those intervening years "anything can happen". From my own observation of German recovery under Goering's administration, between 1936 and 1939, when I saw the Luftwaffe grow from zero to the world's biggest air force, I would predict that if we give priority to Germany's rearmament, a powerful German Army could be in the field in less than two years.

I say "could" because Bonn has not yet been given the green light to go ahead with mobilization. It is now expected that the first conscripts for the new West German armed forces will not be called up until the spring of 1957.

Political Delays

This is the earliest date foreseen even if Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has his way and the Bonn Bundestag quickly proceeds to the second and third readings of the bills for ratifying the Paris treaties.

Assuming that the Paris treaties are duly ratified, in the various countries concerned in the next few months, then the first military conscripts can be called up only 1½ years later — approximately the spring of 1957. The recruits will be 20-year-old boys, with annual drafts every year thereafter. That will leave a 10-year gap in Germany's trained reserves.

German calculations in this issue are somewhat as follows: If France has ratified the treaties by the coming summer, then West Germany will regain its sovereignty also in military matters.

Choosing New Leaders . . . Then Parliament will be asked to approve the bill for enlisting volunteers and afterwards for establishing a committee to choose generals and other high officers for the new Army. These officers will then don their uniforms and begin building the armed forces "from top to bottom."

Those new German troops commanders will need . . . at least nine months of intensive training in Atlantic-Pact states and at home. Afterwards the recruiting of lower officers should be no problem.

For training of noncommissioned officers some more months will be required. But only then will the first conscripts appear in the barracks—some 500 that must be built in the coming months.

Keep Prussians Out

One important problem of the high command still is unsettled—who is to be commander in chief of the armed forces in peace and war? France is anxious to prevent the old German General Staff hierarchy inheriting the new German military machine. Having suffered three invasions since 1870, France cannot be blamed for seeking to curb the Prussians who once dominated German military strategy.

In almost all republics, as here in the United States, the President fills this highest position since he already functions as political commander-in-chief of the nation in wartime as in peace. When the matter arises in this connection with West Germany's (Continued On Page 3 - 2nd Section)

...consist of adding opinions concerning a proposed new high school which obviously have no bearing on the evaluation. A word of advice to you for the future is to read your newspaper; do not base your opinions on the hearsay of others. It is too easy to say out for a lazy reporter who should engage in personal contact in order to secure the facts.

The damage has been done. What do you intend to do to rectify it in some measure? It seems to me that a gentleman's code of ethics would decree that you publicly admit your laxity in not pursuing your mission to report the true facts to its fullest.

James A. Chiara
Ho-Ho-Kus, N. J.

Editor's Note: We were invited to be present for the oral report—it was press day. We did the negative criticisms word for word. The generally reliable Newsweek News, after checking out the article with Principal J. M. Kiteil, who mentioned nothing about a "club" program mission. Neither did Superintendent Thomas with whom we had a hearing from the school, but could not honestly say it since we left out 40 negative criticisms and touched but lightly on an eighth. We also called on the superintendent, Kiteil, who said the county had no yard stick in evaluating high schools. We, for opinion on the proposed new high school, it is true, obviously had no bearing on evaluation... but the evaluation will have a bearing on the new high school, since many of the criticisms centered on the school plant, conditions we hope will be corrected in any new building. The chairman himself said the committee was glad to learn that Belleville was planning a new high school.

Editor, Belleville Times-News:
Thank Police, Firemen
We live at 354 Joralemon Street, which happens to be the apartment house that was seriously damaged by fire on January 15.

The purpose of this letter is to commend the police and firemen for the way they handled their jobs. It seems to us that the citizens of Belleville, including ourselves, take the firemen and police for granted until we find ourselves in such a predicament that we require the services of these men.

First of all, we would like to point out that due to the calm efficiency of these men, there were no hysterics or calamity among the tenants.

We would like to add that Commissioner Sullivan deserves a word of praise. He worked along with the men, not in the capacity of an official, but as part of the team fighting the fire and assisting the tenants in every way possible.

Remembers Old Fire
Mr. and Mrs. Felix Clark, of 53 Smith Street, stopped down to see me at my home here in Jacksonville, N. J., and left a copy of your paper, dated Friday, January 14, 1958.

The reminiscences of Chief White, 55 Years a Fireman, brought back memories of the time I was a volunteer of Valley Rose No. 1 and a former Captain of the Eastwood Hook and Ladder Company, No. 2. He recalled the "beasts" that occurred regularly on Saturday nights. Now I wonder if he means the fires in Silver Lake, Boxes 21 and 23. I think I remember Chief White. Did he belong to Valley Rose No. 1?

I was a member of that department first, then transferred to Eastwood Hook and Ladder No. 2. I will remember the fire on Mill Street, Shanahan's house, on a bitter cold Saturday night. It was 4 above zero.

Noel Finn and I were on the nozzle all night. We had no relief and after the fire was out, Chief Comsky acting on orders from Commissioner Carragher had all the firemen stop in Pete Steins for a drink.

The ice had to be chopped off the rubber coats on Finn and me. I recall the Chief and me going back to the house to make a final check. I heard a moan and had the Chief flash his light in that direction. I began to dig and felt hair, and found the Shanahan's dog buried in the ashes. The dog had wandered back into the house. We took him next door, where the Shanahans were staying for the night.

The next day—Chief Comsky and I went down to the scene of the fire and inquired about the dog. He had died. I think it was the dog who sounded off the alarm and awakened the children. I have pictures of that fire and the engines coated with ice.

I read your editorial on a false scale of true values. Although I agree with you on most of the article, I must disagree with you on certain points, and believe the present administration has the right to make the necessary changes.

tration has the guts to oppose the tax equalization program. In Ellenstein's heyday, when he forced 21 cities or towns in the county to raise their assessments what did the administration at that time do to stop him? Nothing. We had men in office that were afraid to fight to protect their city in the years of 1933 and 1935.

Public Service was assessed at 2 1/2 million dollars when Murphy was elected Mayor of Newark, and he cut it to one million dollars. The New Jersey Bell Telephone was assessed at 11 million; Murphy cut it to 100 thousand dollars. But I don't blame Ellenstein or Murphy if they can get away with it. I place the blame squarely on the shoulders of our administration.

Let's now take the case of Mr. Sullivan who promised so much while seeking office. But there were campaign promises. He forgot them the next day. Now we have a crime wave right here in Belleville, especially in the Silver Lake section where we have no protection. There have been many crimes committed here, from the up and murder. What does Mr. Sullivan do? Nothing, because he doesn't know the first thing about safety. It took one of my neighbors who is not afraid to speak up to show Mr. Sullivan the way. Any policeman on the force could do a better job than

Mr. Sullivan. I firmly believe that any police commissioner should come from the ranks. We need better protection here in Belleville.

possible membership in the earlier European Defense Community plan, some Germans argued that the highest German command should be given to the federal Chancellor. That would be 78-year-old Konrad Adenauer.

But now it seems assured that a majority in the Bundestag will support the Free Democrats' proposal that the Federal Constitution should be amended so as to make the President the commander-in-chief. That would be 74-year-old President Heuss.

Less militarily-minded men than President Heuss and Chancellor Adenauer would be hard to find anywhere, but Dr. France is looking ahead and at the same time looks over her shoulder and remembers that 90-year-old Field Marshal Hindenburg was President of Germany when Hitler came to power and that the Prussian military of the Kaiser's old clique maneuvered behind his back to gain control of the General Staff and plot the war.
