TEEN PROBLEMS TO BE DISCUSSED BY PARENTS

High School PTA Will Provide
Program Tuesday To Answer
Troublesome Questions

Mrs. Mary A. Fawcett, executive secretary of the Belleville Family Service and director of the Parent-Education program of Rutgers University Extension Service, will speak Tuesday night in a program sponsored by the high school Parent-Teacher Association.

The program is under the chairmanship of John De Mark and will start at 8 P. M. It is designed to answer many of the questions that arise in parents' minds about their teenage children, the PTA said.

A film, "Farewell to Childhood," revealing problems attached to adolescence, will be shown.

The purpose of the meeting is to give an opportunity to all the parents of high school students to ask questions concerning their children from the seventh through the twelfth grades, the PTA said.

The last meeting of the year for the group will be held in the auditorium on April 26, when there will be an election of officers and an evaluation of the high school program.

Frank M. Darke, general supervisor.

Mrs. Thomas Salandra will be in charge of the hospitality and home rooms committee, serving refreshments.

QUESTIONS BOYD'S RIGHT TO SEAT ON SCHOOL BOARD

"What Do You Expect Board
To Do, Tell Him He Can't Sit?" Replies Attorney

A resident who protested the seating of newly-elected member of the Board of Education William A. Boyd, said he was a member of the Board of Education.

Max Schwartz took his argument to Washington.

"What do you expect the board to do," Schwartz told the board, "is to tell him he can't sit? He's a member of the board."

Boyd's status of a member of the board "has occurred, submit it to the federal government."

Schwartz said the act specified that a member of the Board of Education and cited one instance of a member of the board, who is a member of the board.

Chalk Up 50 Years on the Blackboard

Miss Lena Dunlop Has Taught Here Through
Two Generations

By Regina Smardig

Teddy Roosevelt was in the White House and there were only four homes on Jonathan Street in 1908 when the young new English teacher, Lena MacDonald Dunlap, arrived at School 3.

She been there ever since, and has taught all grades but the fourth. She is now the language arts teacher of the seventh and eighth grades.

This tiny jovial woman will retire June 30 after 50 years of teaching, 47 of them spent here. Miss Dunlap's first assignment was a one room country school in Shippenburg, Pa. There were 50 pupils, 17 of them older than she, and she taught all subjects.

Today's Youngsters

Questioned about today's youngsters, her blue eyes twinkled.

"I love them all, I think perhaps children are brighter, more alert these days."

"I've always tried to instill in my pupils a love of reading. We have a library in my class of over 500 books which appeal to the youngsters. They can be taught an interest in reading before they are even able to read."

"Not really. For a while there was a great deal heard about 'progressive' education, but lately there's been a swing back to the old ways. But I do think a child should be permitted to express himself as freely as possible."

Not By Rate

"It was never in favor of learning by rote. Even so fundamental a subject as English grammar can be broken down so a child may learn it as easily as possible."

New High, Additions Will Be Voted Upon

Board Sets April 26 For Special Election On Four Million Dollar-Plus Expansion Program; March 18
Is Deadline For Registering; Two Ballot Questions

A four-million-dollar-plus school building program will be up to the voters April 26, the Board of Education decided this week, setting that date for a referendum.

One question on the ballot will be a new high school, estimated at $2,000,000.

Another question will have to do with additions to Schools 8 and 7, estimated at a cost of $743,631,860.

March 18 Deadline

Besides announcing the date of the referendum, Mrs. Edward Rochau, board president, said that March 18 was the last date for voters to register.

She said polls would be open at School 1, the high school, school 5 and schools 10 and 4, both in the fourth ward.

School 3 would have four more classrooms and a multi-purpose room and School 7 would have 10 more classrooms.

42 Classroom High

The high school would contain 42 classrooms and would replace the present building, which would be used as a junior high school.

The high school would be built next to the stadium. Emil Schmidt of East Orange is the architect.

Before the regular meeting this week, the board met with Ray F. Bloomfield, architect, concerning the school additions.

At the suggestion of William A. Boyd, newly-elected board member, and last was to revise some of its structural plans for purposes of economy.

One outcome of the discussion was that the board may leave out designed "bay windows" in one structure.

Asks Lower School Fee

The Board of Education this week took under advisement a request by William A. Boyd, director of "Music to Enjoy," a musical series of programs, to lower the fee for school concerts.

The group presents in Belleville schools.

Boyd said the fee for school concerts is $1.00 per pupil. He said he had inspected the escape and found it wanting.

"If it must be repaired, it is most important that all of us see the schools in operation as much as possible, except in dire emergency."

On his suggestion of visits to schools, he said, "It is most important that all of us see the schools in operation as much as possible, except in dire emergency."

He also requested the Superintendent to make a clean bill of health.

RED CROSS PLANS PERMANENT FILE ON CONTRIBUTIONS

Mrs. Pauline MacDaniel, Fund
Secretary Lists Workers
In Different Divisions

Mrs. Pauline MacDaniel, fund secretary of Red Cross, announced this week the completion of preparation of a solicitor's card for every person in Belleville and a permanent record file of contributions.

The fund secretary stressed the help she had received from the community in the campaign for the fund campaign from many staff aides, some of whom have even worked two months.

These are: Mrs. Arthur Denzler, Mrs. Morton Barsky, Mrs. Frank Lida Baker, Mrs. Hubert Conklin, Mrs. Maurice McEligott, Mrs. Ethel Price, Mrs. Lida Baker, Mrs. Florence Blount, Mrs. Meyer, Mrs. Lillian Luper, Mrs. Edna Steinmuller, Mrs. Ruth Rudge, and Mrs. Kenneth Jones.

This week, Stanley G. Freck, chairman of the industrial committee of the Red Cross Fund campaign, announced the members representing industry and employees.

Harry P. Fox, manager, Westinghouse; Harry Berger, manager, The East End.

Padula Asking Meeting; Says Job Necessary

Mayor Isadore J. Padula said yesterday he is having a difficult time trying to arrange a special meeting of the Board of Building Inspectors on the firing of Building Inspector Thomas P. Greco, but that he will continue to try.

The Mayor, in direct answer to a question, said that it is not his job to fire a building inspector, but that he will continue to try.

"No Malice" Involved Says Commissioner

"Full-Time Building Inspector
No Longer Required" Both
Say In Joint Statement

Public criticism over the recent dismissal of Building Inspector Thomas P. Greco brought a reply this week from Commissioner Kenneth D. Smith and Joseph King who restated their position that the move was purely for economic reasons.

Smith said that he has asked Mayor Isadore J. Padula to strike Greco's salary as well as other expenses from the 1955 budget.

RIVIERA PARK QUESTIONS POOL $80,000 PRICE

"Too Important Issue To Be Sold
In Manner of Bucketshop Operation," Group Criticizes

A warning voice that the proposed municipal swimming pool "cannot be built for anything near the $80,000," has been raised this week by the Riviera Park Civic Association.

The association, which has been active in opposing the pool, said that the pool is "too important an issue to be sold in the manner of a bucketshop operation."

The Congregation Ahavas To Purim Festival

The Festival of Purim, or Feast of Lots, one of the most joyous Jewish holidays, will be observed with special services beginning Monday night at 7 at Congregation Ahavas Achim.

Dr. Albert L. Raab, rabbi, will officiate and deliver a sermon entitled, "True Joy." The biblical book of Esther, known as the "Megillah," will be chanted at this service.

Tuesday morning services will begin at 7 o'clock and the Feast ends at sundown.

Purim is celebrated in commemoration of the deliverance of the Jews of ancient Persia from the massacre planned by their arch-enemy Haman, prime minister of King Ahasuerus. They were saved by the loyalty of Mordecai and the bravery of his cousin, the Jewish queen Esther.

Purim is known primarily for the merriment which is permitted even in the temple during the service, when graggers, or noisemakers, are used to drown out the evil decree of Haman.

The children of the Hebrew school, the first grade pupils will present a radio broadcast depicting the story of Purim.

A special Purim assembly will be held Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in the children of the Hebrew school. The first grade pupils will present a radio broadcast depicting the story of Purim.

Limber Up The Muscles For PTA Sports Night

SPOTLIGHT on SPORTS

Hoop Fans Still Can't Believe It

The basketball season may be over for Belleville High School but you would never know it by the way Blue and Gold fans are still talking about the heartbreaking defeat of the Belboys to West Side in a "sudden death" triple overtime thriller in the semi-final round of the ninth annual Essex County Tournament conducted at Seton Hall University's gym in South Orange.

Belleville lost but the staunch supporters still can't get over the way the game came right down to the wire. It was the first time in the history of the post season tournament that a game ever went into three overtime periods. For almost all of the standing room only crowd of better than 3,000 (including myself) it was the first triple overtime fray ever witnessed.

What some fans couldn't understand was the "sudden death" decision. Several asked it was a fair way to decide the outcome of such an important tournament game by allowing the team that scores the first basket to be the victor, but rules are rules. It was a tough way to lose, however, it didn't come about until Belleville fought tooth and nail against the undefeated Newark quintet. Coach "Jitty" Wische was playing over the game for the rest of his days. In fact he didn't sleep a wink the night of the game. "I didn't even try. I kept playing the game over and over and if I had to do it again I wouldn't make any changes" Wische said.

What A Spot To Be In

You always hear coaches talk about pressure that pops up in the spot they're playing. Most football coaches usually think their activity is toughest on the players but several were won over to basketball after watching several Essex County games. For sheer pressure it would be hard to beat predicaments that occur on the hardwoods.

"Take the spot Frank Caszar was in after the final buzzer sounded in the Belleville-Seton Hall fracas. Ask Frank how he felt as he stepped to the free throw line? And how did he feel after missing the first foul as 3,000 fans had their eyes glued to his every move. That to me can match any play that may crop up in football.

If you think Caszar was in a tight spot, how about Richie Veith as he took two fouls in the third overtime period against West Side. Veith is one of the coolest players in the area but this old pressure bug really started pounding away. He made the first but missed the second. Ask Wische or West Side coach Walt Bakum how they felt as they shouted strategy from the bench. Wische was red as a beet while Bakum was white as a sheet as the two displayed a contrast in colors. Even coaches, watching from the stands, were nervous they weren't involved in the "Frank Merrille" finish. One coach was overheard saying, "A couple of games like that in one season and they would have to put me in a wooden box."

Basketball Seniors In Finale

Wearing Blue and Gold basketball togs for the last time in the semi-final round of the Essex County Tournament against West Side were four seniors. Winding up their Belleville court careers under Coach "Jitty" Wische were guards Richie and Ronnie Kabot and forwards Frank Caszar and Ed Nicholls.

Leading the senior quartet by a country mile is Veith. He is a sure bet for All-Essex and is the Times-News's choice to explain the success of the tanky court star who has a brilliant college future ahead of him. Without Veith, Belleville would have been just another also-ran, but with the sharp shooter in the lineup the Blue and Gold was always a definite threat as the opponents found out through the course of the season. Veith handles himself well and looks like a ballplayer under any conditions. He undoubtedly was the best in the Essex County.

The "Pride of Belleville" drew opposing coaches and players daffy with his accurate scoring tactics from almost any point on the floor. Veith ranks among the top scorers in Essex County and possesses an average of slightly better than 22 points a game. Wische will have a strong nucleus returning next season but it will be a mighty difficult task to discover someone to fill Veith's sneakers.

Caszar, a scrappy performer, gained fame for his foul shot in the tourney against Seton Hall. That one-point play will be remembered by most fans for years to come. Although only five-feet, nine-inches tall, Caszar made himself felt when in the lineup. He liked to shoot from outside and came through with many a timely basket. Also missing next season will be Nicholls and Kabot. Both fit into Wische's two-rotation system which time after time ran the opposition into the ground.

Grosso Scores 50 Points For College Record

Pat Grosso, who gained fame in Essex County while playing for Belleville High School, is making a name for himself while performing for little Bloomfield College. The former All-County star broke the Bloomfield College one-game scoring record last Saturday at Bloomfield High School's gym when he tallied the amazing total of 50 points in the 103-92 victory over Paterson State. All Grosso did was to swish the nets for 20 field goals and 10 free throws for his 50 points. That output was the most points registered by a New Jersey collegian all season. He collected 28 points in the first half and 22 in the second.

Grosso isn't the only Belleville boy performing for Bloomfield College. Teaming up with Pat are Tom Mack and Pat Caruso. In fact it was the record set by Caruso earlier this season that Grosso snapped. Caruso scored 42 points against the same Paterson State in a previous defeat. In Saturday's game while Grosso was hitting for 50 points, Caruso tallied 18. Both Caruso and Mack played for Belleville High School under "Jitty" Wische in the 1952-53 season. The Belleville trio are playing a major role in the Bloomfield College cup picture. The victory against Paterson State was the fourth in succession and marked the longest winning streak in the history of the college. Earlier the small suburban college dropped its first 14 games.

PONTIACS STOP DOLPHINS ELEVEN GAME STREAK

Arrowhead-Pontiac clipped the League leading Dolphins 63-59 in the Recreation Department Intermediate League Wednesday night at the High School. This stopped the Dolphins victory skein at 11. It also paved the way for a place in the Championship Play-offs for the winners.

The Dolphins were out in front 32-24 at half-time, when the Pontiac's Landolfi, Effenberger and Gruelich connected for three quick baskets. The score then reversed to a 46-46 third quarter mark.

Pontiac Lead by Four Points

At the start of the fourth quarter, the winners Ed Nicholls, who had 14 for the night, drove in twice to make it 50-46. The Dolphins fought right down to the final whistle but couldn't drive anything from this four-point spread.

Joe Effenberger had 16 and Harry Gough 14 for the winners. Tom Tamburello, Jim McCann and Tom Smille had 17, 14 and 13 respectively for the Dolphins.

Sweet Shop Makes 5 in Row

The W & W Sweet Shop Five made it five in a row by scalping the Seniors, 49-40. This win gave the Sweet Shop a play-off berth also. Joe Long topped the winners with 20; Steve Cohen and Frank Caszar had 13 apiece for the losers.

The Bishops walked into the Play-offs via a forfeit victory over the Hilltops.

The Conklins noised out the Dalmacs 37-35 in the night-cap.

Play for Trophy to Start

With one game remaining the Dolphins have undisputed possession of the Recreation Department first place trophy for regular league play.

The play for the Championship Trophy will begin Wednesday night when Team 1 meets Team 4 and Teams 2 and 3 meet.

The following week the winners will battle it out for the Championship.

HAIL TO THE KEGGLERS . . . of the Belleville high bowling squad, who bowled over most of the opposition this season. That's Coach George Lees, with members on the team, Ronnie Bergamini, Mike Higgins, John Fortunato, Al Brizzi, John Coppola and Mike Bennechi.

SCHOOL 5 WINS NINTH IN ROW IN GRADES PLAY

School 5 made it nine in a row, walloping School 4, 32-12 in the Elementary Basketball League, under the Recreation Department.

Jim Hunt garnered 11 points and Angelo Longo had 10 to pace the league leaders. Second place School 8 managed to squeeze by an improved School 1 team, 19-16.

School 1 surprised School 8 with an early 8-2 command. The losers then played defensive ball, but Eddie Newsome racked up 9 and Richie Lowack had 6 in the second half for the winners and School 1 couldn't recover. Noel Taubin and Ronnie Edwards had 6 apiece for the losers.

School 1 used their entire bench and coasted to a 22-6 win over the small School 9 boys. Joe Ferraro topped the winners with 7.

Aminie Serafino and Tony Caputo with 11 and 8 respectively paced School 3 to an easy 27-13 victory over the School 10 team.

POLICE BEAT SHERIFF'S TEAM, PINDAR HIGH MAN

The Belleville Police Revolver Team kept atop the county team this week by eking out an 1171 to 1170 victory over the Sheriff's team.

Pindar, with a 296, including a 100 in rapid fire, led the Belleville squad. Smith of the Sheriff's police was high man for the match with a 297, including 99's in slow, timed and rapid fire.

Belleville is still undefeated in the league.

The scores were as follows:

VARSIITY CLUB TO HONOR B.H.S. BASKETBALL TEAM

The Belleville Varsity Club will sponsor its ninth annual Basketball Banquet with the dinner honoring the 1954-55 Belleville High School team slated to be held at O'Hara's Riverside Grill, in Arlington, on Saturday night, March 19.

Chairman of the banquet is Patrick Pastor. He has already announced that Harry Metz, a long time member of the Varsity Club, will serve as master of ceremonies.

At the annual banquet the entire Blue and Gold varsity basketball squad will be the guests of the sports minded organization which is headed by president Arthur Leathester. One of the highlights of the evening affair will be the presentation of individual trophies to each of the graduating seniors.

Aiding Pastore on the dinner committee are: Joseph Shanahan, Dickery, Jerry Bonville, award, and Ralph Casale, publicity.

LESCAPROYS MOVE INTO FINALS IN GALS' LEAGUE

Girl's Basketball League moved into its closing stages last week as the Lescafroys dripped the Res Ames, 31-21, moving into the final round of the tournament. They'll meet last year's champs, the Senioettes.

Both teams had trouble with their shots. The draught ended when Kathy Ventura hit for a 2-pointer for the Res Ames. Sis Sayre scored with a one-handed layup for the victors, and teammate Grace Abbott dished out long after. Bobbi Fobert scored with a one-handed push shot as the quarter ended in a 4-4 tie.

Lescafroys Lead 15-1 in 2nd

Lescafroys guards couldn't relax and continual fouling on their part might have cost them the game. But the second quarter started with cool-headed Pat Witke pouring in five and sparking the Lescafroys forwards. Sis Sayre layed in two more goals and one by Abbott broke the game wide open. The allstarred 11 points was matched by only three put in by Bobbi Fobert. The Lescafroys took a 15-1 lead at half time.

Abbott began using her tremendous height advantage in the second quarter and began playing her best ball game of the season.

More constant foul shooting, especially in the second period, would have made the game a different ball game. Res Ames made only one out of seven tries from the free throw line in the second quarter.

Deficit for Res Ames in 4th

Leonard Salandra opened the third period with a 2-pointer. Abbott poured in eight points, pacing her team to victory. Fobert answered the Lescafroys' spurt with two and Vitale netted four, but the team missed four more foul shots. Res Ames had a 25-13 deficit when the fourth period got under way.

Res Ames made a final try to get back into the ball game and never let up. Carol Fredericks, a fine shooter, made one foul shot made her 1-for-6 on the free throw line. Fobert hit for two free throws and Ventura for one. Witke stopped the Res Ames, with two cinchers from the field and Sayre grabbed a 2-pointer as the final buzzer sounded.

Grace Abbott, Lescafroys high scorer, paced her team with 12. Witke had 9. Sayre had 8, and Salandra, 2.

For the Res Ames, Fobert had 9. Fredericks had 7. Witke had 6, and Ventura, 2.

JUNIORS VIE FOR REC TROPHIES TOMORROW

Play for the Recreation Department Championship Trophies will begin at 9:00 a. m. tomorrow morning in the New Gym at the High School.

The Kings will meet the Panzers in the first game. Gene Barra, Lou Long, Tom Joyce, Lou Klien, Mike Swetel, and Gene Donatella will be on deck for the League Leaders. The Panzers will have Danny Riordan, Nick Cervino, Dick Eyrle, Ralph Estelle, Mike Iannelli and Bill Diminick ready to go.

The "5 D's" and the Cavaliers will meet in the 10 o'clock game. Jim Mullen, Chick Mafafato, Pete Rossi, Bill McCabe, Mike Tortorelli, and Jim Cervino will take the floor for the 5 D's. Wayne Worley, Ray Kimble, Ed Bergen, Bob DiPiano, Bruce LaMura and Lou Vitale will be ready for the Cavaliers.

The winners of these two games will meet the following week for the Championship Trophies.

The King A.C. trounced the Rockers 33-17, at the High School. The victory gave the Kings an 8 and 0 season record and the first place trophies for regular league play in the Recreation Department Junior Basketball League.

No wonder Pontiac sales are breaking all records!

1. You can buy a big, powerful Pontiac for less than many models of the lowest-priced cars or stripped economy models of higher-priced makes!

2. Only Pontiac gives you luxury-car size plus the sensational Strato-Streak V-8!

Biggest car at its price (122" and 124" wheelbases) - Most powerful car at its price (180 horsepower) - Most on any price with distinctive Vogue Two-Tone Styling and the riding and driving ease of the Shock-Proof Chassis.

In the considered opinion of more people than ever before in history, Pontiac is America's best buy today.

At the right are major reasons—but there's another fact even more compelling. The strong surge to Pontiac is coming from both directions!

People who watch expenses naturally choose Pontiac. The car, the price, and Pontiac's record for thrift, reliability and trade-in value win them every time.

But, people who buy high-priced cars are buying Pontiacs, too. It's the dashing distinction . . . the terrific drive of Strato-Streak V-8 power . . . and the comfort-promoting size and weight of the shock-proof chassis that does it. Pontiac, they say, would be a great buy at any price!

Come in for final proof—the top trade-in allowance made possible by record sales!

Miss Wharton Congo-Bound On Two-Month African Tour

"Bongo, bongo, bongo, I'm heading for the Congo" was Miss Agnes Wharton's theme song Wednesday as she boarded the "African Enterprise" for a two-month South African safari.

The former principal of the South Tenth and Waverly Streets schools, Newark, who lives at 334 Stephens Street, between trips, has out-distanced Mrs. Roosevelt as a traveling woman. Her past ports of call include Great Britain, Japan, Europe and Australia.

She'll be aboard ship 17 days and as soon as she docks will send out letters for publication.

Mrs. Edward C. Lauber, of 38 Overlook Avenue, the former Patricia Donovan, will sail Wednesday aboard the M.S. Berlin for Germany where she will join her husband. The couple will remain in Europe until June when Cpl. Lauber will return to the States for discharge. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lauber, of 311 Grant Avenue, Nutley.

Miss Joan McPadden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McPadden, of 16 Bellevue Court, has returned home after five years in New York as a vocalist.

Taking part in the lavish Forest Hills Country Club "Forest Hills Facts and Fancies" show April 13 and 14 will be Mrs. Fred DeMura, of 24 New Street and Mrs. Warren Knight, of 35 Van Rensselaer Place. Mrs. DeMura will sing and Mrs. Knight will participate in a pantomime sketch of "Our Miss Brooks."

Things were buzzing at 62 Fairway Avenue Saturday, when Sgt. and Lieutenant Edward Costenbader, Jr., arrived home unexpectedly from Reese Air Force Base, Lubbock, Tex., where he's stationed as a flight instructor. Mrs. Costenbader was on the phone all day lining up the family for a dinner party that evening. Attending were Mrs. Ann Costenbader, of Jersey City and Mrs. Frank Gibbons of Nutley.

Here's wishing John Kondreck, our photographer, a speedy recovery. He entered St. James Hospital Tuesday. John's studio is at 185 Stephens Street and friends might like to drop him a card. The hospital address is 142 Jefferson Street, Newark.

Swimming Pool

The project as "not in keeping with good fiscal practices," and questioned the legality of the whole procedure followed so far by expressing doubts whether "a single commissioner is permitted by law to start unilaterally such an enterprise that involves the whole town."

The statement stresses that the RPA membership "discussed the swimming pool and its attendant problems in great detail in two successive meetings," and is not fundamentally opposed to a swimming pool, but would like to have an unequivocal answer to such questions as: "What are we going to do and what is it going to cost us?"

"The pool is too important an issue to be sold to the people of Belleville in a manner in which a Wall Street bucketshop operator specializes in 'futures,' the statement said.

The statement, forwarded to Recreation Director Robert Cook, also took Cook and the "Operation Splash" committee to task for "curtailing public opinion."

At a previous "Operation Splash" meeting, the statement explained, "a spokesman for the Riviera Park group was gavelled down on two occasions and declared out of order when he wanted to express the misgivings of his organization on the first place with which the project was being pushed."

The group, also expressed the fear that "the project will be started with insufficient funds, will bog down half-ways, and then, if it is to be salvaged, will be thrown upon the town anyhow."

The statement's other salient points were:

"Civil engineers and other qualified members have made surveys and the cost will most probably exceed $100,000.

"There has so far not been a solitary commitment of any sort or financial support from the groups expected to be the main contributors.

"The pool property is owned by the town. Are the other four Commissioners ready to cede the property to a single department or a legal corporate entity to be set up to hold title?"

"Is Mr. Hyde simply operating on his own, or has he received some form of guaranty from his colleagues?"

"Is a single Commissioner permitted by law to start unilaterally on such an enterprise that involves the whole town?"

"When is the sanction of the other four commissioners going to be obtained and in what form?"

Reflective Puddles
Without reflection, without effort
Shallow puddles have turned the usual upside down.
Tall trees reflected in them
Descend from trunk down to crown;
Far below the treetops the clouds swim
In a fathom deep sky;
Deep sea creatures and filmy-finned fish,
Instead of birds, might fly by.
Commendable puddles, so placidly humble
For all their astoundingly world-inverting
power;
So completely uncritical of the topsyturviness
They uncover after every shower;
So calmly untouched by an urge to make
An inverted world come right;
Serenely still, they look up and reflect, until The upside-downness evaporates under the wind and sunlight.

Outside Jobs

A statement this week by the attorney for Hugh Welsh, public works department official now being tried on a conspiracy charge in the county courthouse, that Welsh worked for a contractor, "a common practice in municipalities in this area with town employees," gives rise to the question of outside jobs.

Particularly in the engineering departments of municipalities, it's a sad but true fact that many employees not only collect salary from the municipality they're working in, but get paid for work by contractors, often for the very work being done in the town.

Right here in Belleville, for instance, it is noteworthy that Town Engineer Matthew Sheehan offered no argument at a recent Commission meeting when an angry citizen, Elmer Kenworthy, challenged him point blank for working for a private organization on a street project.

The practice isn't limited to these departments either. On the governing level, many's the lawyer who sat on municipal bodies in North Jersey who has done such work as title search for builders at the same time they come before the governing body for permission to open another new development.

As to Belleville, each Commissioner should lay down the law unto himself and unto the personnel in his own department.

If any outside job coincides with, has a direct bearing with or the potential of having a direct bearing on town interests, he should give it up or get out.

Two Approaches; One Political, One Sensible

Congressman Peter W. Rodino, Jr., introduced in Congress this week a proposal to increase by $200, from $600 to $800, the personal income-tax exemption. It would have the effect of removing from the tax rolls 18,200,000 Americans of the low-income bracket, families whose earnings never exceed $4,000 a year and, to too often, come to $3,000, $2,000 or even $1,000 a year.

In his proposal the 10th District Congressman shows a great deal more intelligence than did the Democratic majority in Congress which voted, last Friday, to cut the taxes of every American by $20. It was a sorry demonstration of irresponsible and shoddy partisan politics, unadulterated vote buying. We had hoped our Congressman would have seen through the maneuver and would have voted against it.

There is real need of income tax relief for those American families for whom diminu-tions at the source of income mean the difference between living standards bordering on poverty and a tolerable minimum standard. We believe Congressman Rodino's proposal to raise the tax exemption to $800 is worthy of consideration. We think the $20 tax cut bill was unreasonable and an unrealistic approach to a problem which needs serious study.
R. E. H.

Give To The Red-Cross

The American Red Cross is everybody's big brother.

As befits a democracy, charity and relief are private enterprise. The Red Cross is our ace in the hole for disaster or other national emergency, the only nationally organized agency prepared to meet the problems of relief in the event of a natural disaster. There is no government department qualified or assigned to such relief. There is no wholly local service capable of such costly preparation or effort. No other agency duplicates the role of the Red Cross.

We were fortunate that the succession of hurricanes from Alice to Hazel skirted us last season. Had disaster befallen us, only the Red-Cross could have helped us. None ever knows when or where disaster will strike next.

For our welfare, for the good of the nation at large, for all the American peoples who may be the next disaster victims, see that the Red-Cross lacks no funds for its wholesome effort. Give to the Red Cross.
You may be the first one to receive. It is a national disaster insurance policy which we must all underwrite.

One Man's Opinion

With 14 Premiers And 21 Cabinets In 10 Years
While We Had But Two Presidents, France
Has Lost Status Of World Power

By Ralph E. Heinzen

Edgar Faure presented his right-of-center French Cabinet to Parliament, this week, ending a 19-day government crisis, and the question naturally arises: for how long will France have a government. The answer must be: not for long. The law of averages, as it affected the twenty French cabinets since the war which preceded this Faure government, would give the new Premier less than six months in office.

In the ten years since the liberation of Paris in 1945,
France has now had 21 cabinets and 14 different Premiers.
In those same ten years, the United States has had but two Presidents, Truman and Eisenhower, and Great Britain has had but two Prime Ministers, Attlee and Churchill.

If and when Premier Faure fails to get a vote of confidence in Parliament on one of his policies and resigns, in-keeping with French political tradition, the chances are that it will not be his personal fault, for M. Faure is an exceeding able speaker, witty, sharp, brilliant and dynamic.

The fault, as in every case of the 20 post-war governments which have preceded his, will be that of the multiple party French political system—six major parties or groups, none of them possessing a majority, plus a handful of splinter parties or dissident groups.

Weakness of Coalition

Since no party has a majority, coalition is possible only by the government's ability to obtain more than half of the Chamber of Deputies' 427 seats.

Thus, also, as ten years of experience have shown, are subject to the stress and strain of debate Cabinet desertion and self-out are current French political maneuvers.

You can imagine what it would be like in our own Congress if instead of two parties, Republicans and Democrats, we had six major political factions or parties.
Two of them, the Socialists and Communists would be the largest single parties in Congress. Out of 427 seats in the French Chamber, the Socialists hold 105 and the Communists 98.

Imagine It Here

Then imagine that General Mark
Arthur or General Mark Clark would found a political party, as General DeGaulle did, and challenge the "pro's." Imagine, too, that Senator Joseph McCarthy angry at his Republican colleagues would form a party of his own and that the CIO and A. P. of I. would create a Labor Party.

With six major parties in the American Congress, it stands to reason that none would win a majority in the national elections. So we, too, would know the dangers and the difficulties of government by coalition, not bi-partisan government, but multi-partisan rule. That is the true cause of France's vote.

When Premier Faure faces
the Chamber, say on the occasion of his demand that Parliament ratify the Paris accords remaining Germany, he will see at his extreme left—extreme right as the Deputies face the tribune—the Communist bloc, 98 strong and polling almost 5,000,000 votes, second only to Italy in Communist electoral strength. With 98 out of 427 Chamber votes, it looms menacingly in the opposition.

Always In Opposition

Next to the Communists all the Socialists, 105 of them, the largest single party in the Chamber which shuns the Communists but sits ever in the opposition and criticizes military expenditures, financial policy and all labor reform legislation. It refused to join the Faure cabinet as it declined to join Mendes-France's government.

Left of center but definitely not "internationalist," no kin to the Communists and Socialists is the MRP, the Popular Republican Movement, which has cost the country her status as a major
world power and is slowly causing
the disintegration of her empire.

The Political Structure

At the root of the political structure of France is the Constitution of the Fourth Republic.
Ninety-five articles in length, as against seven in the U. S. Constitution, and freighted with details on a broad range of subjects, it expresses the prevailing popular hostility to strong centralized government. This attitude is expressed in these three main institutions:

bly and the Senate.

The Executive is vested in the President, who is elected for nationalist and republican, free-conservative. This is the group which counts the present

President of France Rene Coty and his two very good friends
ex-Premiers Joseph Laniel and Paul Reynaud with whom I maintained the closest friendship in the trying days of Vichy.

The Gaullists, numbering 72, are a war-born nationalist movement which moved over from London to Paris at year's end. Faithful to General De Gaulle's doctrines, it is a right-wing group which Socialists voting with the Communists and Socialists on problems of economic policy. It is openly anti-American and opposes the Paris accords re-arming West Germany.

The "others," at the extreme right, include monarchists, disciple Gaullists and simple patriots, 30 in number, who are more conservative in economic policy
than are the Gaullists.

Two-Party System Best

That division of French political action into so many small groups, with little or no cooperation, between the Communists at one extreme, the Radical Socialists in the center and the right-wing independents, is the basic cause of France's trouble, but not the only cause.

It has been said that the French borrowed the parliamentary system from Britain, but forgot to ask how to use it. For the system works best when there are two main parties. It worked badly in Britain in the interwar period before the Liberal party fell away when there were three parties. Moreover, the system cannot work at all unless there is the spirit of compromise and "coalition" can mean only "coalition"
in French politics.

A simple Primer of French politics may show some of the many underlying causes of France's political unrest which has cost the country her status as a major
world power and is slowly causing
the disintegration of her empire.

The Electorate

The French electorate comprises 25,000,000 men and women, about 80 per cent of whom vote in national elections. Geographically and occupationally, the electorate falls into two camps.

About half the voters work in industry and live in large cities in the Seine and Rhone valleys, and in the industrialized sections adjacent to the Belgian and West German borders. The other half work in shops and on farms, and live in small towns, situated in the center, southeastern and southwestern corners of France, and along the Breton coast.

The basic temper of Frenchmen everywhere is individualistic, hence hostile to government. "Inciv-ilisme"—lack of civic consciousness—lack of civic consciousness that encourages widespread tax evasion is a political byword.

"Wake Up"

Editor, Belleville Times-News:
Your editorial on Tom Greco was excellent. Rumors hit the field a few weeks ago that this involving, underhanded deal was in the making to get rid of an honest, conscientious public servant. It happened.

We wonder who is next?
When will the citizens of Belleville wake up?

"Ruthless Tactics"

Editor, Belleville Times-News:

The appalling, ruthless, devious and despotic tactics utilized in removing Building Inspector Greco, not only are reprehensible and of questionable legality, but if permitted to establish a policy pattern, could strike a reign of political terror among conscientious civil servants and public employees. Preponderant authority be permitted to go unchallenged in the rarified air of decency in governmental administration we of Essex County demand.
I shall strenuously oppose this unwarranted maneuver, reeking with politics, and will lend my full support to a broad movement designed to correct the grave injustices resulting from what appears to have been a hastily conceived and hastily devised vindictive scheme.

The contention that the move is for reasons of "economy" is fallacious and will impress few,
other than the loyal supporters of the parties responsible for this regrettable and unmerited indent.

Respectfully submitted,
James R. Golden

The President Writes

Editor, Belleville Times-News:

This Administration is committed to a program of progressive moderation, liberal in its human concerns, conservative in its economic proposals, constructively dynamic and optimistic in its appraisal of the future. This program, I firmly believe, merits the endorsement and support of thinking, confident, forward-looking Americans.

For our country and the world,
we seek establishment of international relationships characterized by order and justice, in which resolved efforts are respected, under which men can live as neighbors at peace. Within the United Nations and in our pact for

the majority of the Assembly gives him a vote of confidence. If at any time on any issue, the Assembly refuses to grant him confidence, he and his Cabinet must resign.

Against the power of the Assembly, the Premier commands only feeble weapons. He can take the stamp, as defeated Premier Mendes-France often did, to rally support for his policies. He has the right to ask for a vote of confidence on any issue at any time thus forcing on the Assembly if it votes against him, the onus of having turned over the Government. Finally, under Article 51 of the Constitution, the Premier with the consent of the Cabinet and the President can dissolve the Assembly and force a new election.

But there can be no dissolution during the first eighteen months of an Assembly. After that "closed season," dissolution can occur only "if during a period of eighteen months" two Governments holding office for more than a fortnight apiece are forced out of office by defeat or formal votes of confidence. That has never happened.

Even when it might, the dissolution stipulation can be got round by arranging for the Government to resign without defeat on a vote of confidence, as the Government of Premier Robert Schuman did in September, 1948.
In practice, accordingly, the right of dissolution is virtually non-existent. By thus defeating the true intent of the Constitution Parliament has made itself the most powerful force, for good or for evil, in France.

local on the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees union.

The board, by state statute, could not bargain with a union as such,
Schwartz said, and could speak with Hammond only on a personal basis.

Union And Men

"It is difficult for me to dis-associate the union from the men," Hammond replied, suggesting that Schwartz meet with the AFL counsel for an opinion from the state attorney general.

Board President Mrs. Edward
Koehne attempted to dissuade Hammond at the outset of the meeting, saying the fact his proposals should be voiced in a special meeting, Hammond replied that the men had met two and one half months ago and requested a special meeting, but that nothing had been done.

Before Schwartz intervened, Hammond succeeded in getting across his proposals for a salary grade and a 40-hour week.
He distributed to board members a brochure stamped with the AFL of insignia, outlining steps for increments in his salary scale, the work week and a new vacation schedule.

The custodians are seeking a salary guide with a $3,200 minimum, $100 more than the present starting pay and a maximum $4,800 to be reached in eight one-year steps. Also requested is a new pay for head of elementary school custodians and the head high school custodians.

Established Practice

Hammond referred to private industry in requesting the 40 hour week stating it was "established" practice. He said the men work a 45 hour week, and that the overtime rate of $4.50 an hour is less than the regular hourly rate of some of the employees.

James R. Golden of Tappan Avenue later in the meeting said that the police have an organization, which is a strong parallel as to the purpose intended. He drew from Schwartz an admission that there had yet been no precedent set in New Jersey.

Handing and maintenance men came last week in a Washington Day meeting in the Recreation room.

Commissioner Kenneth Smith introduced it and Commissioner Eimer Hyde cast an assenting vote at the same time explaining he wanted to bring it to a conclusion and that his vote should not be taken to indicate his vote in the public hearing.

The ordinance was killed in first reading by Mayor Louis Padula, who cast the deciding vote.

Meantime, new petitions to permit funeral homes in residence zones have been gotten up by Kiernan, who apparently intends to bring it to a referendum, if possible.

mutual security, our treaties of alliance, our proposals for peace, that purpose inspires our foreign policy.

For our national economy, we seek a steady and stable in our present assets, a vigorous expansion in our future growth. These can be best achieved, we believe, by giving the private citizen the greatest possible opportunity—consistent with the rights of others—to contribute to the development of the economy and to share in its abundance.

For individual Americans, we seek increase in their opportunity to enjoy good health, good schools, good homes; we seek a lessening in their fear of personal disaster and in the impact of hardships upon their control. In this endeavor, we reject Federal domination over state and community, for we seek to strengthen—to weaken—the historic self-reliance of our people.

The principles and purposes, sketchedly outlined here, must be in my judgment the standard of the Republican Party through the coming months. Committed to them, we can and must work together to advance the legislative program now before the 84th Congress, for this program is their legislative expression.

Thereby we shall serve our Party and the Republic. We shall draw to our ranks men and women of action and wisdom who, in generous thought and dedicated effort, strive for an America worthy of their forebears' dream and for their children's living. Together—all of us—shall achieve it.

grown it easily.

The level profession lost out when Miss Dunlap decided to become a teacher.

"My grandfather, Jacob MacDonald, was judge of Fulton County and I adored him. It was he who made me want to study law."

"My registration fee to law school was paid, in fact, when I accepted a job teaching. It was supposed to be temporary," she grinned, "but I loved it so much I'm still at it."

It was obvious that her enthusiasm was undimmed even after half a century of dealing with running noses, bruised knees and the sometimes iron-bound reluctance of children to accept the fine points of English grammar.

As to discipline problems, Miss Dunlap laughed.

"The only problems I ever had were back in 1905, during my first year in that country school house. One day I came into the class to discover all the boys missing. I soon learned they were up in the tree which grew in the schoolyard. My red hair was piled on my head in a pompadour, my skirts were down to my ankles and almost all the boys towered over me, but I soon had every one of those boys back at their desks."

She wouldn't detail her method, but she probably shock them out of that tree like so many apples.

"Seriously," she continued, "if children like you, they will respect noses, bruised knees and the sometimes iron-bound reluctance of children to accept the fine points of English grammar."

"I said today's children are more alert. Perhaps more sophisticated would be the word," she remarked, leaning back in her chair. "That brings us to the question of television. It can do much for a child, but it should be regulated. A steady diet of this passive entertainment is not good."

"Juvenile delinquency," Elst let me say that Belleville has done a remarkable job to provide wholesome idleness.

"Many of my boys are on the basketball team and almost all the pupils enjoy the playgrounds in the summer."

"The school bell rang and Miss Dunlap informed us her class was about to give a play."

Dramatics
"I've always been interested in dramatics. From 1918 to 1921 I taught one evening a week and Saturday mornings at the New York School of Expression."

She has also worked with children who suffer speech handicaps, with brilliant results. Under her guidance they have gained a sense of confidence and security.

He former pupils?

"Well, they seem to remember me," she said, smiling. "I recall one day during the war when a delegation of 17 servicemen, all former pupils, arrived at the school to say hello. I had already had quite a few visitors that day and I suspect the powers that be were not too pleased with another disruption in the class, but in they came."

Miss Dunlap attended Rutgers University and studied in England and Paris but any statistics pale beside her career of 50 years, watching the town, and many in it, grow up.

Two isolated incidents testify to the regard in which she is held by her pupils, past and present.

Christmas Mail
At Christmas, the mailman, staggering up with a load of cards to her home in Newark, where she lives with her sister and brother-in-law, asked who this Miss Dunlap was, to receive so many cards.

On the day before Lincoln's birthday, when she happened to remark to the class, with her customary humor, "Well, I'm a day older than Lincoln. Today's my birthday."

That afternoon there was a huge cake and ice cream and a party given by her students.

Miss Dunlap stood up and paused a moment.

"I've had a lovely life," she said simply. "I've enjoyed the children. I'd love to see them all again."

Hazard

For the residential campaign, in addition to the names given last week, zone leaders announce more workers. In Zone C, Frank Banziger, leader, has as captains of staff meetings, so a member can be present.

Superintendent Evan Thomas said the board has been invited to all the staff meetings. Under a new system of procedure, explained by board president Mrs. Edward Louch at the start of the meeting, each member reads resolutions prepared by and acted upon by the board as a committee as a whole.

Held Over

Arthur Desider, leader of zone 1-1 has as captains Mrs. Paul Van Ness, Mrs. Ruth Hack, Mrs. E. Luchan, Mrs. William Kelly, and Mrs. Everett Smith. Zone 0 still needs a leader to replace Herbert Orth, but two captains in the zone are Mrs. Anthony P. Barrett and Zorace Goodenough. Mr. and Mrs. Tomasio, leaders of Zone 5 have as captains Mrs. Ray Boose, Mrs. Morris Cohen, Mrs. Mildred Carr, and Mrs. J. Faust.

The Red Cross display posters in stores were placed Saturday morning through the efforts of Mrs. Howard Lyon, Harry French and six Boy Scouts: Robert Crisp, Fred Marinaccio, Peter Dattoglia, Harvey Skout, Howard Fisher, and William Fisher.

before 12 are agreed upon. No Belleville resident remains on the jury, although some are called up.

Belleville Jurors Out
These are John C. Billerman, 138 Academy Street; Peter N. Caruso, of 43 Little Street; Ralph Eckel, of 130 Cedar Hill Avenue; and Chester S. Chojnacki, of 362 Cortlandt Street. For one reason and another, these men are disqualified.

So is an out of town resident who replies to Stawinske that he has read something about the case.

"Did you come to any opinion?" asks the diminutive lawyer. "I thought they conspired," answered the ready answerer.

He is removed from the panel. Finally the jury is agreed upon, ten men and two women; a carpenter, a mechanical engineer, a retired man, a draftsman; a display man, a housewife, an insurance salesman, a salesman, an equipment maintenance man and a secretary. Abe Beckerman, Newark carpenter, is Foreman. Dunn presents his opening statement:

"Not a Politician"
"Hughie Welsh is not a politician," he says. "If he were, he wouldn't be here today."

Freeborn, in his opening statement, charges that Silvestri's payments to Welsh were carried as advertising expenses.

"The state will prove," he says, "that Welsh did no advertising work for the company."

Under question are three contracts, one July 7, 1951, the second August 10, 1950, and the third, July 27, 1953 on water main construction, and the issuance of vouchers for the work.

Welsh knew what each contract called for," Freeborn says. He knew every detail of each job, both as to materials and labor.

"In some cases he even sat down with the Silvestris and prepared these vouchers."

Dunn asserts that Welsh is not guilty and that there was no fraud on the town. He describes Welsh as the type of person morally incapable of committing a wrong.

Stawinske concedes Welsh has performed services for the Silvestris but describes them as "estimate work" on large jobs in other towns.

Later the jury will hear testimony from County Investigator Anthony Sherman and Lee.

The lines are drawn. The battle is joined.
