

Civil Service Turns Down Greco Appeal

Says Former Building Inspector Did Not Prove There Was Bad Faith Involved In His Dismissal

Unless he appeals further, Thomas P. Greco is definitely out as building inspector in Belleville.

Greco's outburst March 1 was upheld in an announcement from the Civil Service Commission this week.

An addendum to the announcement said that the former building inspector's appeal was decided July 19, by a three member Commission.

The Commission in brief stated that economy was achieved in the lay-off, and that Greco had not proven there was bad faith in the action.

The Commission stated that its job was to decide whether or not the lay-off was effected in good faith and for reasons of economy.

"Although there is a factual dispute concerning the claim of bad faith on the part of Director King, in his lay-off of the appellant, the fact that the lay-off resulted in economy cannot be questioned for reasons of economy," it said.

"Not Convinced"

"We are not convinced by the proofs offered by him to support his contention that the engineer, (then Matthew J. Sheehan) could not perform such additional duties."

It is not within the authority or power of this department to police the functioning of the governments of the several municipalities of the state.

The Commission stated also that it was guided by past decisions in the state that where a public employee is removed from a civil service position or the position abolished for reasons of economy, the fact that considerations other than economy are shown to have motivated the action of removal does not necessarily mean the action is invalid.

TWO YOUTHS HELD FOR THEFTS OF AUTO PARTS

Boys Stole From Here, Surrounding Towns, Say Police, Who Are Trying To Return Equipment

Two Belleville youths, one, 15, the other, 17, have been arrested by police for 14 cases of auto parts thefts here and in surrounding municipalities.

Town detectives said this week that complaints have been filed against the two and that they will be held for Juvenile Court action.

The thefts included car, battery and car radios, here and in Lyndhurst, Bloomfield and Irvington, according to Detective James Mallack, detective in charge of juvenile offenses, in the town police department.

Mallack said that the two operated by selling the equipment to other youngsters and proprietors of auto yards, including one on Route 5-3.

He said police were making efforts to reclaim some of the stolen equipment and to return it to the owners.

A wheel and a tire already have been returned to Raymond Spatz.

Spatz Urges Drivers Not To Splash Pedestrians

Chief George Spatz urged motorists this week to be on guard in driving through Belleville's streets on rainy days in hours children were going to and from school.

Spatz said drivers on some streets splattered water and mud on pedestrians, as they drove by.

Risks Life To Stick At Friend's Side

"Thank God I Have Such A Friend," Says Mrs. Price After Daring Rescue By Sonya Modlens

By Regina Snaridge

Tragedy stalked a group of young mothers from School Three PTA, picnicking on the beach at Point Pleasant last week, when a cry for help was heard from one of their party, Mrs. Sonya Modlens, of 48 Essex Street, who was attempting to save the life of another woman.

Mrs. Arthur Price, of 189 Adelaide Street, had become caught in a violent undertow and was losing consciousness when Mrs. Modlens, swimming ashore, became aware of her trouble.

"I noticed that Ethel had become very pale and was slowing up on stroke," Mrs. Modlens recalled. "I swam to her and when I reached her side realized we were both being swept out to sea in a fast under-current."

Screamed For Help

"I have no idea how long we were out there. It seemed like an eternity. I screamed for help until my voice was hoarse and my breath almost gone. But for that I could glimpse of the group on shore, they seemed unaware of our trouble," Mrs. Modlens said.

With the angry Atlantic waters buffeting the two women about like matchsticks, Mrs. Modlens decided to try a resort rescue, the cross chest carry.

It would have been a chance, "I consider myself a very strong swimmer," she said.

Greco Says Decision Defeats C. S. Principles

Thomas P. Greco, whose appeal from Civil Service over his ouster as building inspector was announced this week, said yesterday that he had every reason to believe an appeal for reversal will be made to the courts.

The decision seems to defeat the very principle of Civil Service, he said—that of security to government employees who conscientiously pursue their duties without the necessity of becoming subjected to the political whims of elected officials.

"In my case," he said, "I am proud to state I have performed my duties honestly and to the best of my ability despite the constant pressure exerted upon me by such officials."

PTA Two Will Meet

A business meeting of School Two Parent-Teacher Association will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. at George B. Howland, counselor of the Bloomfield Technical High School will present a film, "Youth Prepares."

THIS WAS BELLEVILLE . . . around 1909, when there was a Y.M.C.A. here with headquarters in the old Methodist church building on Main Street, just below John Street (now Belleville Avenue). The Y football team was coached by Howard Stoddard, now of Nutley. Here are the names of the players with Coach Stoddard, as near as they can be identified a half a century later. Top row, Almar Marshall. Second row, Coach Howard Stoddard; unknown; Al (Gosse) Vincelleto. Stewart, Frank, Bennett, (older brother of rowing coach Billy Bennett); Cliff De Puy; Charles Peters. Lower row, J. Irwin, (Doctor Irwin); "Ding" Burnside, Johnny (Bip) Van Horn, Joe Ward, front, with football, Everett (Mose) Ryno. Maybe some Belleville old timers can spot the unidentified? Incidentally in game after picture was taken, according to M. C. Albey, Vincelleto suffered a neck injury, was carried off the field in unconscious condition, but came around again and in two weeks was back at his specialty, high jumping.

The house to house campaign was planned in full after a meeting Friday night in the home of Mrs. Michael Rubino, residential chairman of all drive captains.

Mrs. Rubino stressed yesterday that the Community Chest drive was reflected in service right here in town, with $25,000 of a $24,000 quota distributed to strictly local agencies . . . the Girl and Boy Scouts, and the Family Service.

Mrs. Rubino requested also the people who give in locations where they work out of town, give what they can here, to aid Belleville's own activities.

Residents of the drive, and their areas, are as follows:

Ralph Risoli, Silver Lake; Nicholas Raimo, Solon; Henry Minasian, Belmont.

The girl was hospitalized only 24 hours with the disease. Another case of polio was reported in Nutley.

Will Deed Proposed School Site If Voters Approve In Referendum They Answer, To Questioning

The Better Schools Committee, formed here last week, is showing that it means business and is not merely a paper organization.

Louis Sussman, of 66 Van Rye Place, a Committee member, questioned town commissioners at the town meeting individually on their feeling about the referendum November 8.

A new high school is long overdue, he said, and that the vote would be an endorsement unless the Commission considered itself bound by a yes vote.

Questions Asked

Sussman asked each commissioner individually whether they would consider a vote a mandate. Here's the way the answers went:

Mayor — "Yes".

King — "Yes".

Sullivan — "I most certainly will."

Hyde — "If it's the will of the people, of course."

Most of the town's residents, that it revert back to the Commission if the people vote against it.

Most of the rest of the town's meeting was devoted to the referendum.

Ellmer S. R. questioned Sussman on his remarks appearing, Sussman replied that he was not a politician.

James H. Golden urged commissioners to conduct a survey of the school population of their town. He said the town was becoming a scapegoat in controversy.

Charges Distortion

Golden said the board was torturing facts to costs in the put forth only costs of construction, not operation.

You'd be aspraying to post of recidivism for a bank commission, not for recidivism," he said.

"What assurance on educational value do you have, despite all new buildings?"

Golden asked Hyde his opinion on school facilities, the commissioner answering that there were many school vacancies.

ZONE UNIT DENIES PLENCE VARIANCE

Proposed Luncheonette Is Voted Down 4-1; Chairman Forfees Land's Future Development

The zoning board at a meeting this week turned down an application for a variance on the Plenge farm property, the last and largest privately owned tract in Belleville.

Frank Fucelle had asked to construct a luncheonette off Joramelon Avenue at 836-850.

The vote was 4-1. Vincent R. DeLoe, chairman, said construction of a luncheonette would interfere with expected future development of the land. Alvin Ross voted for it, reportedly stating he felt it was all right, since construction was to be near the cemetery.

In other actions the board recommended a variance to Carl F. Cufone, of 36 Harrison Street, to put up a one-story addition, and a variance to a resident at 68 Clinton Street to convert a garage into a beauty parlor.

BARBONE-MOSCO GETS ACME LAND

Commission Rescinds Newark Avenue Measure; New Site Not Exactly What Post Wanted

Despite a try by the Barbone-Mosco Post for two other lots on Acme Street than the two that the town was offering for a "veteran's" post construction, the Commission this week granted the two lots it deemed the post should get.

The Acme Street location was offered as a site for the construction after the Town Commission had adopted an ordinance authorizing a site in Newark Avenue be granted.

Resident there protested construction, and the post agreed to construct with the Acme Street location.

When Nicholas Raimo, commander of the Newark Veterans Post, was offering in Acme Street, the Commission adopted a resolution rescinding the resolution on the Newark Avenue property, and adopted another resolution granting the Acme Street lots.

Many of the post members attended the meeting. At one point in the argument, commissioners called a recess to discuss the Acme site in question.

Commissioners pointed out that the property was assessed at $1,700 and that the post was getting it for $1, and that the Morris Canal or the rear would afford parking facilities.

Three Belleville juveniles have been arrested and a complaint lodged in Juvenile Court this week, concerning a house being broken into here September 27. The house was owned by Harry Cook, of 1 Adelaide Street.

For the past two years, Vandarsall has been cellist at Westminster Choir College, Princeton. He will appear in the Library of Congress in January.

Continuing the custom of presenting one student artist at each concert, Miss Rossilli was selected by audition for this project. She is a recent high school studies in Nutley, with Katharine Eastmont.

School 8 PTA Plans Programs

George Rowe, president, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Gliglietti, Mrs. Lavery and Mrs. Gandy were appointed members in charge of arrangements.

At the October 20 Get-Acquainted session, mothers of morning attendance school children will meet 1:30-3:30, and mothers of afternoon attendance children, at 2:30 p.m.

Looks Like Murphy Diner Ready For Axe

It appears that the Murphy Diner, a landmark here, will be torn down, with the price to be paid by the town and the Belleville Board of Education.

This was the solution suggested this week by commissioners at a meeting. The diner, owned by Robert Grubin, representative of the town, was the subject of a purchase offer by the Board of Education. Grubin had closed it up and was negotiating, adding "Why should I (the buyer) accept the loss of land with a nuisance?"

Commissioners Kenneth St. estimated the tearing down would cost $250. Grubin suggested a fire department burn it, only to be told that all that was left standing was not burnable.

FBI Nabs Deserter

Louis Taglianni, 25, of Smith Street, was arrested by agents and charged with desertion from the U.S. Army at Monmouth.

Taglianni, who was spotted while walking along Belleville Avenue, was arrested and taken to the Army's headquarters, where he was taken over to Army authorities.

Wha Hoppen" People Asking,

Maroon Was Up For Game, Belleville Down, Seems Answer; Meets West Orange High Here Tomorrow

By Tom Cullen

Stunned by its first loss of the season, a 21-6 defeat to neighboring Nutley, Belleville High takes on Westside High tomorrow in a game at Municipal Stadium.

It should be an interesting one as the Bellboys will be out to avenge the Nutley defeat. I won't make any prediction, game time is 2 p. m.

Everybody wants to know what happened to Belleville. I think the Nutley loss was based on the fact that Belleville met a great and inspired Nutley eleven which would not be denied.

Nitti also was having a field day, running hard and fast. The Maroon seemed to be inspired, slugging again and again into and over the left side of the Belleville line.

Sad Story

Here's the way it went. Belleville kicked off to Nutley in a steady drizzle. Nutley was moving in a single wing and set up its first touchdown on a jump pass, after Puleo's own pass was intercepted by Lewis of Nutley on the Belleville 10.

Joe Casia leaped and threw to Nitti on the 13, and Nitti made it all the way to the one before being stopped. Casia plunged over right guard for a touchdown, and All-State Sam Stelletella added the extra point with a placement.

After the kickoff, the Nutley defense held. Coach Phillips' boys seemed to smother the Belleville attack.

In the second, Bob Paganelli kicked to middle, where Nutley's Scardati returned the Belleville Gold 35. Then Ken Eulo ran around right end three times to move the ball to the 24, and Nutley drove to the four, off right tackle for the second touchdown, and Stelletella added the extra point again.

Belleville Catches Fire. Belleville came to life with two minutes left in the first half. Jim Apple, on a Puleo lateral, threw to the one and Paganelli rammed into the end zone. Apple's kick was wide and Nutley led, 14-6.

The third period was pretty evenly matched, Belleville and Nutley exchanging the ball frequently.

Eulo Again

In the last quarter, Nutley got its third touchdown, starting when Tim Lewis intercepted another pass, and was tackled on the 49.

Eulo sparked the attack moving very fast and driving hard for a playster's size.

Nutley moved 34 yards, largely on the ground to the one, and Eulo ripped into the end zone for the score. Steady Sam Stelletella again booted the point.

Proposed School About Two and Half Million

A panel of school officials went over the entire picture of the proposed new high school story at a meeting this week sponsored by the High School Parent-Teacher Association.

Speakers included board members, town and county superintendents, and the general supervisor. About 125 people attended.

Alan G. Love, president, conducted the meeting. Mrs. Howard Shay, program chairman, presented the speakers.

The developments and highlights were these:

Board President Mrs. Edward A. Rochas said that the site and the whole stadium belonged to the people, and by using it, the town could have a new high school at about two and a half million dollars.

Urges Spread Of Facts

Superintendent Evan Thomas said the school board was facing terrific opposition but that all residents have the right to expect and demand facts to be presented "unadulterated with demagoguery."

The statement put forth that the expansion program will mean a $10 tax rate is "tripe and scare," he said. He urged the audience to get the facts and demand that they be presented.

Thomas said the total annual cost to support the school program defeated last April, a $3,648,000 proposal, would have been only a 50 point tax boost. Now the board is aiming for a 2 1/2 million dollar project, he said.

Thomas also advised that the board may be compelled to seek another site in a residential area, and condemn private property at great expense to taxpayers, besides losing the taxes from the property forever, should people vote against the site in the general election in November.

In the review of the school story, Eugene J. Kelly, board member, stated the Board had engaged an Institute of Field Studies of Columbia University to survey the Belleville schools, and read from the report a statement that there was need for a junior high school, a present high school building and a new senior high school on the stadium site.

General Supervisor Dr. Frank M. Durkee said Belleville is a growing town, not a dying town, and its school facilities must grow too, pointing out that the birth rate and increased 208 children a year, to 674 in 1954, in 24 years.

The consensus of all speakers was that the board need not fear the outcome of the general election referendum next month, if people face the facts.

Banks of 165 Malone Avenue.

The arrest of the two is expected to help check the increasing wave of auto parts thefts in this area.

The two youths were arrested Friday, police said.

Detective Mallack said the youths themselves were "taken" on the sale of the parts to auto wire proprietors, explaining that batteries, for instance, were sold for $1.50 to $1.75, and hub caps, for fifty cents to a dollar.

Information

As a case in point, the Committee said, was a phone call by member Allan G. Love to Superintendent Evan Thomas late Tuesday night, after the Town Commission meeting.

Commissioner Kenneth Smith had raised the question of the number of out-of-town pupils in the high school, while trying "to budget" the Committee said, one of the Committee's speakers at the meeting; and "to leave the impression that there must be quite a number of such pupils."

The Committee quoted Mr. Thomas as saying that the enrollment figures for the state early in September listed only 3, all of whom pay to cover the cost of their education. Thomas said further, according to the Committee, the such cases are very rare and would not be likely to exceed half a dozen in an entire year.

Friends Honor

Speaking firmly, Mr. Hood advised the youth of Belleville to seek their recreation in the athletic field and, in church, social activities.

"Both," he said, "will provide pleasant memories and great consolation in the sunset of your life."

like that," Mrs. Socha said.
"By the grace of God, a young Marine came striding by. When he heard Sonya, he cut up a length of rope attached to an anchor, and entered the pounding surf," he said.
The Marine, 18-year-old Bernard Lawless, was halfway out to the two women when the rope became slack in his hand, having loosened itself from the anchor.
"I tore off my skirt, thinking to secure it again," Mrs. Socha said, "but as soon as I waded in to catch the rope, I was knocked down by the breakers."
Another youth, Roger Haven, whose father owns a beach pavilion, appeared with a float. He swam out, and with the help of Lawless, draped the almost inert Mrs. Price onto it. Lawless then assisted Mrs. Modlens ashore.

Credits Mrs. Modlens
"I never would have been here, had it not been for Sonya," Mrs. Mrs. Price said. "When I was about to panic, it was her hand-clasp and quiet voice which kept me going."
The mother of two, Mrs. Modlens minimizes her deed, says the idea of leaving Mrs. Price never entered her mind.
"You don't leave someone when they are in trouble," she said, in keeping with what she terms the "buddy system."

Better
the veterans barracks were demolished next year.
Golden also asked an explanation of a differential between the proposed Holy Family two story school for $25,000 and the schools being proposed here.
"As long as you fellows are trying to make a campaign here," said Commissioner Kenneth Smith, "where did you get those figures? How about the other schools being built around here?" he asked.
Finger Again
Commissioner Hyde then referred back to the finger-waving story in which he accuses Mrs. Rochau of threatening three years ago to take the stadium away from him, "because we're going to build a school."

Citas Figures
Ernest Arvidson of 178 Floyd Street said the Better Schools Committee was formed of citizens discouraged by the animosity between the two boards and referred to Golden's arguments as childish.
He said there are 1,500 students in the high school now, compared to 1,200 in 1950, and that enrollments in the next few years will jump.

In his figuring he said there would be 1,714 pupils by 1961.
Arvidson stated there was no reason to hold a grudge. Commissioner Hyde replied he held no grudge against anyone.
Arvidson continued with statistics, stating there were 100 students in 1950 in rooms suitable for classrooms.
"How many students are attending the high school from Newark?" Smith interjected.
Ernest Arvidson and Smith exchanged sharp words. Arvidson ac-cusng the commissioner of "ostrich thinking."

"It's like the bomb shelter incident," Arvidson stated, pointing out that a member of a civic association criticized the board for not having a bomb shelter in its last proposed new high school had admitted publicly it was a diversionary measure.
"We're going to give the facts to the people as we see them. We have no connection whatever with the board of education," Commissioner Hyde then asked why the board didn't accept the property 20 years ago, and why not eight years ago.
Arvidson replied in turn "Why didn't you deed it five years ago? It's a matter of record. Such a letter was sent by the board asking the Commission to put aside a section of land at the stadium area."

SERVICE STATION MEN WILL MEET

Petroleum Businessmen's Group Will Discuss Action Here On Benefits To Dealers, Public

Plans for a mass meeting of all gasoline service station owners in Essex, Hudson, Bergen and Passaic Counties, to be held Wednesday night were announced this week by Louis D. Bruno, 628 Joralemon Street, president of the Petroleum Business Men's Association's regular membership meeting to be held in the Franklin Casino, 338 Franklin Avenue.

Thirty-five hundred gasoline station owners, comprising all the licensed dealers in the four counties, are being invited to attend, Mr. Bruno said. He added that the association also expects dealers from Middlesex, Somerset and Union Counties.

Mr. Bruno said the purpose of the meeting is to discuss problems of gasoline dealers, and to outline a course of action which will have long-range benefits to the motoring public and to the dealers themselves.

He said the groundwork for membership campaigns in the four counties will be laid at the meeting, and plans will be discussed for setting up separate county organizations within the framework of the Petroleum Business Men's Association.

Mr. Bruno emphasized that the association, which he said bears no relation to any other dealer organization either active or defunct, is against price wars but also opposes price fixing.

"We are all independent business men," he said, "and we believe in the system of free enterprise on which the American way of life is founded."

Talks will be given by Bruno and by Frank V. Gattuso, of 179 Floyd Street, chairman of the association's Board of Governors.

Plans Dinner Dance

Plans for a dinner-dance were discussed at the first fall meeting of the Belleville Political and Social Club held Monday. Camillo Buccicelli, president, will be in charge.

ADDONIZIO TELLS DECISION TO SEEK TO OPPOSE RODINO

Confers With Republican County Chairman Eber Who Delays Pick Until After November

G. George Addonizio, appeal agent for Draft Board 15, confirmed to The Times-News yesterday that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress to oppose the re-election of the Democratic incumbent, Congressman Peter W. Rodino, Jr., to a fourth term. At the time Addonizio announced that he has transferred his voting registration from Nutley to Belleville.

The Addonizio family, which came here in 1945, has sold its home at 133 Alexander Avenue and has bought a new home at 21 Cottage Street, in Belleville. Addonizio, a lawyer with offices in Newark, announced his candidate after a conference, this week, with Herbert Eber, Republican Essex County Chairman. Eber said that the Congressional nomination will be filled as soon as possible after the November county and state elections are over.

Addonizio, a graduate of Barringer High School, took his AB degree at Cornell University and his law degree at Harvard. Before entering private practice he had been with the Immigration Service of the Federal Department of Justice, stationed in Cleveland.

Long active politically in Essex County, he shared as co-manager in the leadership of the successful campaign of William McGinn, Kearny lawyer who failed to unseat Rep. Rodino two years ago.

Two Observe Years With Prudential

Miss Marguerite Crippen, of 105 Tappan Avenue, and Donald E. Jones, of 51 Hornblower Avenue, observed anniversaries of long service with the Prudential Insurance Company last week.

Both are long-time local residents. Miss Crippen for 25 years and Mr. Jones for 37 years.

Miss Crippen came into Prudential's Newark headquarters in 1930 and has been with the ordinary agencies department since 1950.

Mr. Jones, a graduate of Belleville High School, is associated with the ordinary policy department. During World War II he served four years in the army. He is married and has three children—Bruce, eight; Douglas, six, and Wendy Sue, 21 months.

October's Misty Morning

What is October made of? Everybody knows, happy, happy goldfinches and noisy crows, raucous, raucous bluejays, scraps of leafy red falling from the maples overhead. In the misty morning what do you hear? An owl on the mountain being chattering, raising his voice above the hemlock towers while down in the valley the great sunflowers are like brass buttons on October's boots, and the sun responds to the owl hoots, and comes up by the dozen instead of one, in the misty morning a row of rising suns.

A Mark Of Courage

Senator Mark Anton accepted an invitation, often repeated here, and came his week to clarify his vote on the night-waterfront strike. At the same time, he defined his policies on water. It took courage and it was a generous gesture towards the Republicans in town who did not see eye to eye with their Senator over his meddling in the waterfront dispute or his vote in favor of night horse-racing.

Senator Anton explained away his vote in the night-crawling nags by explaining that, like Absalom, his name led all the rest. Obviously the first man to vote on the Senate roll call has nothing in the way of precedent to steer him. Anton explains frankly that he guessed wrong, but he insists that no lobbyist had tried to tell him how to vote, nor had he traded his vote.

In the unhappy waterfront affair, Senator Anton said with disarming frankness that he accepted a seat on the citizens committee to hear grievances out of friendship and confidence in Senator James Murray, of Hudson County, who asked him to do it. Again Anton explains that he guessed wrong, but there were no motives, he insists, other than to accommodate another Senator in whom he had, and still has, the most confidence.

It is a mark of courage to admit your errors. To err is human. No one can deny that Mark Anton is courageous and human.

Rodino Will Run Again

Congressman Peter W. Rodino's announcement here, at the Democratic Club's Governorless Governor's Day Dinner, Monday night, that he will be a candidate for re-election to a fifth term next year, draws his lines clearly. An unusually able and experienced Congressman, Rodino will be hard to beat. In four terms he has made no mistakes; by a genuine and generous interest in his constituents, regardless of party lines, he has tremendously improved his strength. It was a smart move to declare early. That will keep the Democratic dark-horses in their stables. It is tantamount, for Rodino, to re-nomination. No Democrat in New Jersey has done more for his party. In every election in town, since 1948, Rodino has run well ahead of his party. When Adlai Stevenson ran against Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952, Rodino polled half again as many votes here as did Stevenson. He was the bewether who increased the party's strength here these past eight years by his own many accomplishments.

As matters stand now, with the Republican town and county leadership refusing any of the reforms demanded by the party's majority in the Primary here and with the "old pros" still trying to hold all the reins in their own hands, the party does not stand a ghost of a chance of unseating Rodino.

A great many electors of the 10th District, regardless of party, prefer Rodino to an unknown quantity. They realize that by sending him to Congress for four terms they have earned for him, and for the District, a seniority which brings important committee assignments. No 10th District constituent has ever knocked in vain on Rodino's door and the longer he remains in Congress the greater becomes his prestige and with added seniority the more efficiently will he be able to represent all of us in Congress.

The Greco Appeal Dismissal

The Civil Service Commission has announced its dismissal of the appeal of Thomas P. Greco from his lay-off as building inspector.

Unless Greco carries the case further, it will mean that he is out, in Belleville. The Commission stated that the burden was upon the former building inspector to prove there was a lack of good faith connected with his dismissal, and that he had failed to prove it; and added further that where considerations other than economy are shown to have motivated action, it does not necessarily mean the action is invalid.

Aside from the arguments on either side, we submit that the due to the Civil Service Commission's action is as so stated. . . . "Moreover, it is not within the authority or power of this department to police the functioning of the governments of the several municipalities of the state."

In other words, the Commission wants to adopt a "hands-off" policy, not wanting to become involved in the political machinations and maneuvers in different municipalities. And understandably so. It would take more than one hearing to ferret out all the details and nuances involved in the political doings of municipalities. The Commission is harried, as is.

Yet, how does the Civil Service Commission decision affect the individual municipal employee?

It's meaning is quite clear: Keep your nose clean; stay out of trouble; follow the policies and parrot them openly of the powers that be, and you'll get along fine. Disagree; speak openly when you feel there is evasion afoot or out and out violation, and the skids are greased for your departure, and there's nothing you can do about it. Appeal, sure . . . but it'll be on you to prove it all, and even if you put up a good case, there will quite likely be the "logical" motive put forth, like "economy" which you can't overcome anyway.

How does the Commission decision affect the average voter?

It infers plainly that it is up to the people in each municipality who vote for the officials, for better or worse, and it's up to them to vote the officials who bring good government. "Take care of your own backyard", it says.

Here in Belleville, the sorry part of the Greco story, aside from the ouster itself, was the turned-shoulder attitude of the entire commission.

Every member voted for the transfer of Greco from King's to Smith's department. Not one spoke out publicly in his behalf.

One Man's Opinion

Despite Khrushchev's Warning Russia Will Not Deal With A Germany Tied To NATO, That's What We Will Seek At Geneva

By Ralph Eric Heinzen

Winter strikes early in the Alps and when the four Foreign Ministers sit down, in Geneva, on October 27 there will be none of the warming sunshine in which the Big Four met "at the summit" last July. There has been a change in the political weather and the meeting of the lesser lights "in the valley", so to say comparatively, will get off to a chilly start.

The Big Three of the Big Four, America's Dulles, France's Antoine Pinay and Britain's Harold Macmillan, meeting in the corridors of the General Assembly at the United Nations, this week, made sure of chill winds by coming to a unanimous agreement that they will not recognize Moscow's satellite Communist "People's Republic" in East Germany nor will they cut the apron strings binding Bonn to NATO.

Instead, the Western Big Three will make an attempt, at Geneva, to pave the way for German unification by offering to give Moscow guarantees that a united Germany will not be a threat to the Soviet bloc or to the peace of Europe, in return for a guarantee that the Soviet bloc will not be a threat to Germany or the West.

The Western powers will go to Geneva with German unity enjoying top priority on their agenda. And they will go to Geneva with a very solid front. In the meetings "at the summit" there was agreement in principle, but there were nuances in the emphasis of certain political phases and problems over others. This time, at Geneva, there will be no nuances, no loopholes. The West will subject Moscow to the acid test of Soviet intentions.

"Free Elections" To Decide

In giving the German problem top priority, the Western powers will insist on the reunification of Germany "within the framework of a plan for European security."

That is in keeping with one of the major directives of the Geneva "summit" conference to the participants in the "valley" conference.

That reunification of the two halves of Germany was decided, in principle, at the Geneva meeting last July. Russia acknowledged, in President Eisenhower's presence, that German reunification must be achieved by "free elections." We intend to hold Russia to that concession.

It is our contention that the West German Government is the only freely and legitimately constituted German Government and is entitled to speak for all Germans and for all Germany. Russia's recent agreement to exchange diplomats with Bonn can only confirm Bonn's dominance over Berlin in the unification crisis.

German Frontiers Involved

In taking a pre-Geneva decision specifically to refuse to recognize the East German satellite regime, the Western powers are aiming at something much bigger than Germany's future frontiers.

Russia provoked the issue by giving the East German regime the right to run affairs in Berlin — a hinting that if the East German Communists were not given our diplomatic recognition they might reestablish the Berlin blockade, which we defeated, once before, by the Berlin Airlift.

Taking heed of the East German regime's threats of a new Berlin blockade to force Western recognition, the Western powers have served notice on the Soviet Government that they will hold Moscow responsible for any such step. Thus they refuse again to recognize any rights of the East German regime.

In refusing to recognize the East German Communist "shadow" regime, the West, by the same token, refuses to recognize the unilateral annexations by the Soviet bloc of East German territories and declares again what has already been affirmed by the Potsdam Agreement—namely, that the final determination of the German frontiers must await a peace settlement for the whole of Germany.

Need of Security

The Western powers recognize that, even though the Soviets scoff at any security "guarantees," they and their satellites, may have reasons to fear the resurgence of a united Germany, especially one cut adrift to fend for itself.

For that reason, and as an inducement to the Soviets to consent to German reunification, we will, at Geneva, propose a European security system, based on a balance of power between East and West, which would guarantee both East and West against a possible German attack. This security system could comprise both the North Atlantic, or NATO, alliance, including a united Germany, and a Western European security system, based on the limitation and control of armaments already provided in the Paris Peace Treaty.

The Western position was put in a nutshell by M. Pinay in his speech before the United Nations Assembly last weekend when he said that there can be no security for Europe without a reunification of Germany, and that there can be no reunification of Germany without a European security system which puts Germany under military limitations.

Such, also, is the position of Chancellor Adenauer, who was among the first to propose such a system. It remains to be seen whether the Soviets will accept it or whether they will continue to press for their own system, based on "two Germanys" and designed to wreck NATO and the Western alliances and to expel the United States from Europe as a prelude to further conquest.

Under the security plan which the Western powers will submit to the Russians at Geneva, the United States, France and Britain will join in a guarantee that a united Germany would not commit an aggression against any Western European country.

European countries that are not members of the Atlantic alliance or the Soviet bloc, such as Yugoslavia or Sweden, also may be asked to take part in the guarantee.

The new formula, which was sponsored by Britain, differs from an earlier proposal in Geneva under which a guarantee would have been given by the four great powers, Britain, the United States, France and the Soviet Union and a united Germany.

This was rejected by the Soviet Union in Geneva. Later the United States produced a variation under which a guarantee would be given by Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, the United States and Canada, plus a united Germany on the one hand, and the Soviet Union and its satellites on the other.

The Soviet Union proposed in Geneva an all-European system of guarantees that would have comprised twenty-six nations, including the United States. It is safe to assume the Soviet Union will reject the Western proposal when the three Foreign Ministers submit it at the new Geneva conference, but such a rejection would merely open the door to a compromise rather than scuttle the whole idea.

Letters To The Editor

Reader Says Commissioners Practice All Economy On School System

Editor, Belleville Times-News: I wonder about many things that go on in this town. I wonder why people, in statements and letters, complain about what schools may cost, in the future, while they are silent on the 70 rise in our tax rate. Do they not know the rise would have been .88 had not the school rule dropped .18 due to state aid?

The 1954 and 1955 tax bills show this breakdown:

Town	School	1954	205	3.11	1.16
1955	2.72	2.93	1.37

I wonder how much money is being spent for modern street cleaning equipment while our commissioners and some people in the town are satisfied to keep our school housing in old and crowded buildings.

I wonder how many people have moved from Belleville to obtain better schooling for their children. I wonder whether I'll have to move from Belleville for my boys to have manual training or shop in school. No seventh or eighth grade pupils have shop and cooking and sewing in Belleville as in other towns around here, and in a high school because the roomers are too small to accommodate all the pupils who wish to take them.

I wonder why our commissioner vote to put houses closer together and crowd more people into the town while they are doing all in their power to hamper the expansion of our schools.

I wonder who owns the town the "free-owned" land in Belleville. It is supposed to be lent to the people. Why shouldn't it be put to a use that will benefit the most people?

I wonder what sparks the thinking of the commissioners. Certainly "economy" is only a catchword. Note the .67 rise in the town tax rate. Or is it that they want all the economy to be practiced on the school system.

Lastly, I wonder how many people let the commissioners do their thinking for them? How many people check the facts? It would pay.

LETTERS To The Editor

On Site
Editor, Belleville Times-News:
Commissioner Hyde's statement last week that the Stadium Site for the proposed new school is practically in Valley opened up some interesting lines of thought. If it will be so difficult and expensive for the High School students to get to the Stadium Site, then obviously it would be even more so for the smaller children to get to its proposed site's play area.

No doubt Commissioner Hyde expects to overcome this disadvantage by moving the stadium site, to a more convenient place before he asks the public to finance his scheme. He will do this by simply telling the truth, that the stadium site is very near to the center of population of the town and is therefore in the best possible position to serve the needs of all.

I detect a faint fishy odor of herring about last week's statement, and trust that few will be influenced by it.

Alan G. Love

Editor, Belleville Times-News:
The arguments advanced by Mrs. Rochau, school board President, and School Supt. Thomas apropos to their insistence that an alternative to their "graniose" high school proposal would be more costly must be written off as a "posterior sophistry" resorted to in desperation.

The egregious absurdity of contending, fallaciously, that the land on Washington Avenue, is not level and would represent a site problem is convincing evidence of the flimsy quibbling argumentation the school people must resort to in the absence of any real justification of their unwelcome proposal. The terrain is identical with that of the present high school and if it offered no site problem at the time of construction of that edifice it appears ridiculous to assume with modern engineering methods any "problem" would exist, despite Mrs. Rochau's "opinion" on the matter.

Much of the school system's so-called overwisdom may be attributed to reducing classes from 25 pupils to an average of 20. Such action artificially creates the need for more teachers and additional classroom rooms. Provident school administration would realistically cope with a situation of this nature, giving thought to their responsibility to the taxpayer as well as the student and the anxious recommendations of school supervisors and visionary educators.

Mrs. Rochau's arguments against Comm. Hyde's contention that the proposed school is too near Nutley doesn't "hold water." She speaks of elementary schools proximity to town lines. Such schools often of necessity must be sited to meet sectional needs, whereas, a high school is designed to accommodate all the sections. I dispute her claim that a school near the stadium would not cause any "appreciable" changes in the transportation problems of students. Much disorder would result.

The opponents of the board's proposed stadium site high school may lay large claim to having already "spared" the tax-payers of Belleville at least $1,000,000.00 which represents the difference between the original planned cost of the defeated school referendum, last spring, and the projected expense of the new proposal of the school board. Those concerned with a practical and completely satisfactory solution to the school needs of the community feel good, adequate and highly satisfactory school facilities may be provided for considerably less than the newly proposed costs and at a member of a large group sharing more desirable location. I am a such view.

I challenge the contention that public refusal to sanction the "dream school in the moon" will occasion a large scale elementary school expansion which would be more costly than the proposed new high school. Such expressions represent mere dogmatized utterances intended to deceive uneducated public opinion. The entire campaigning of the school expansionists seems predicated upon an emotional play upon parents' natural interest of their children's educational development, rather than a true reference to facts. Threats and intimidation coupled with apparent distortion of all the facts seemingly characterizes the motif of the school partisans drive to "put over" their school plan.

Mr. Thomas predicts double-reasons by 1960. He cites present high school enrollment is 1,287. High School principal Kittle at a dedication ceremony of the present high school addition stated accommodations for 1,400 students were provided. This did not take into consideration the provision which made possible the addition of at least 8 more classrooms atop of the gymnasium.

I ask, is the present school board interested in giving the children of Belleville good and adequate education or are they more interested in spending money extravagantly?

A new board election in February may well change the obstinate policy toward the solution of this school building program. The public at that time will have an opportunity to select aspirants. The candidates will be obliged to state their policy on this controversial matter and many other concerns which have plagued Belleville's Board. Does the present board really, realizing this, feel it must now, in a "do or die" effort, jam this school project of theirs down the throats of the taxpayer who can't stand that kind of additional tax burden? Who are the masters of these people who seem so calloused and indifferent to the will of the people, I ask.

24 SHIRTS DAMAGED IN LAUNDRY FIRE
Locks Placed On Fire House
Deers For Fire Prevention Week
Broken In Short Order

It didn't take long for the Belleville fire department to break the locks it had installed on the Washington Avenue door in observance of Fire Prevention Week this week.

Twenty-four hours after the plywood locks were installed, the engine was out on a call . . . to the Empire Home Laundry, Inc., 508 Washington Avenue.

Seems a short circuit in a refrigerator in a back room caused the blaze, first reported by Patrolman George List at 11:44 P.M. when he noticed flames through the window of the one story brick building.

Five hundred shirts were damaged by smoke and fire, Chief Harry White said. Acting Deputy Chief Carl Hundertfand was in command at the fire.

The laundry is owned by Isaac C. Acke of 431 Greylock and Victor A. Roekner of Springfield.

To Talk On Safe Driving
Charles H. McGinnis, deputy police chief, will answer questions concerning traffic safety at a meeting Monday at 8 P.M. of the Traffic Safety Committee, at Grace Baptist Church.
