

Announce Merger Of DeWitt Savings And North Belleville Group

Two Local Savings And Loan Associations Reveal
Proposed Merger Approved By Directors; Special
Meetings Called For Full Membership Approval

The proposed merger of the North Belleville Savings and Loan Association into the DeWitt Savings and Loan Association has been jointly announced this week by heads of the two institutions. Joseph King, president of the DeWitt Savings, and H. Willard Sawyer, president of the North Belleville Savings, revealed that the merger has already been approved by the Board of Directors of both institutions.

The merger, approved by the Directors, would become effective October 1, and would be subject to the approval of the complete membership of both organizations and of the Commission of Banking and Insurance of the State of New Jersey. Letters have been sent by both presidents to their respective membership informing them of the proposal and calling a special meeting to consider the merger and take action.

As specified, the members meeting of the North Belleville Savings and Loan Association will be held on September 4 at 7 p.m. and the members meeting of the DeWitt Savings and Loan Association will be held on September 5 at 7 p.m. Final action is expected to be taken here by the 7,000 members of the DeWitt Savings and by the 1,000 members of the North Belleville Group.

The vote of two-thirds of the members of each organization in person or by proxy at the special meeting is necessary to consummate the merger. Members of each association include both savings members and borrowing members.

According to both King and Sawyer, under terms of the merger agreement, the North Belleville institution will be merged into DeWitt, which means that all assets of the former will be transferred to DeWitt. This would be subject to the liabilities of the North Belleville group.

Furthermore, they stated that all members of the North Belleville Savings would become members of DeWitt, with the exception of those who are not members of the DeWitt Savings. The book value of his account as of September 30.

Either check will be issued by the North Belleville institution or there will be credited to the book value of the account the regular dividend of three per cent for the six month period ending on September 30, and a portion of the reserves of the association equivalent to two and one-quarter per cent of the account as of August 13. The payment of the extra dividend will substantially equalize the percentage of reserves of each association.

The book value of accounts of members of the DeWitt Savings will remain unchanged.

King said the merger was be-

KIDDE SALES UP FIRST SIX MONTHS

Company Reports Increase
In Sales And Net Income

Walter Kidde & Company Inc., reported today an increase in both sales and net income for the first half of 1956. Sales for this period were $16,751,000 as compared with $15,118,000 last year. Net income for the first six months of 1956 was $533,000, or 3.19 a share, as against $421,000, or 2.88 cents a share for the corresponding period in 1955. Dividends totaling 50 cents per share were paid during the period.

John P. Kidde, president, said that bookings have increased materially and that the company now has a larger backlog of unfilled orders than it has had for some time. He noted that the new program of divisionalization of the parent company's operations has been successful and should further increase the company's progress and improvement.

Belleville Man Arrested On Driving Charges

George R. Venerio, 21, of 1 Wallace Street, who is already in trouble, was arrested for driving and driving without a registration card Sunday night in Bloomfield. He is to appear in Bloomfield Municipal Court on Tuesday.

Venerio is one of five Belleville men arrested in Nutley July 29 on charges of pursuing a couple up a dead-end street and trying to beat them after an argument about a traffic incident. The couple escaped, police said, by locking themselves in the car.

Weekend Weather

Temperatures will be several degrees below normal. The weatherman also looks for a sunny weekend.

Look Ma, No Hands!

Hands off and dig in! This was the signal for youngsters to go to work on slices of watermelon at the annual Watermelon Festival, held at Jackie's Market on Belleville Avenue on Monday afternoon. Jackie's customers took care of some 400 watermelons, while many of the town's parents probably took care of stomach aches as a result of their youngsters' over-indulgence. Everyone was a winner, however, when the speedier eaters took home prizes donated by local merchants, and the slower ones digested more watermelon than most people eat in a month.

Daniels Defends Board On Buying Cafeteria Supplies Under State Regulations

Secretary And Business Manager Sends Letter
To Members Upholding Their Action Regarding Purchase Of Milk, Food, And Other Supplies

Ruel E. Daniels, secretary and business manager of the Board of Education, has sent letters to all Board members defending the Board's action in regard to the purchase of cafeteria supplies. The action is in reply to a letter addressed to the Board by James R. Golden, in which he infers that the Board has not been complying with state regulations.

Golden told the Board in his letter that it was his understanding that existing State Board of Education regulations call for competitive bidding upon cafeteria supplies, such as milk, when in excess of $500. Golden asked, "Why has the local school district failed to comply in the past with this competitive bidding requirement on the books for 25 years?"

Golden said it would appear proper for the local school authorities to move immediately to advertise for milk bids in the prescribed manner. He pointed out that surrounding Boards have already done so.

In his letter to Board members, Daniels stated that the local Board has not failed to comply with the bidding requirements for the past 25 years in reference to cafeteria supplies. He said, "They have never been considered by the State Department as requiring public bidding in accordance with the statutes. Furthermore, our books and minutes have been audited and a copy of badlock on a side door, Pucillo told police. The money was taken from an unlocked closet, he explained.

The Face Is Familiar

Harold Brand Makes Mark
As Rec Right Hand Man

By Dave Thaler

The words "The Face Is Familiar" never held more meaning than this week when the picture of Harold Brand appears next to them. Brand, assistant Superintendent of Recreation, comes into contact with countless number of people during the course of his job, and it is said that he knows each and every one by his first name. That probably is a requirement to be a success in the capacity that he fills. But ten or twenty years ago no one would have guessed that he would be one of the best known men in town.

Although he was born in Arlington, Brand is recognized as a Belleville product. His family moved to Belleville when he was seven years old, and he has lived there ever since.

In 1919 when Federal was established, the firm originally finished real leather. These activities were completely discontinued in 1923 and the business subsequently pioneered in the field of coated fabrics. Today Federal produces 300,000 shares of Textron common.

In view of the very substantial pre-tax earnings and the underlying value of Federal's assets, they pointed out, this transaction assures no dilution of the common stock. Textron Inc. shares have a current market value in excess of $25, having closed, yesterday, at the Wall Street Exchange at 23 1/2.

Started in 1919 Federal was established, the firm originally finished real leather. These activities were completely discontinued in 1923 and the business subsequently pioneered in the field of coated fabrics. Today Federal produces 300,000 shares of Textron common.

The offices and manufacturing facilities occupy a total of more than 500,000 square feet, south of East Centre Street and west of River Road, in the two towns, with complete and modern machinery for all phases of production.

Sales in 1955 placed the local firm among the top three producers of this type product. Its operations are completely integrated from the untreated raw materials to the finished state.

Federal's major supply is the automotive industry for which they manufacture a variety of coated materials for door panels and upholstery on passenger cars as well as headlining and trunk lining materials for the interior of automobiles and trucks.

Additional facilities which the local firm serves are transportation, upholstery, handbags, shoes, luggage, wall coverings and a variety of industrial end uses. The backlog of orders at the present time, John Young, Federal's executive vice president, stated yesterday, is greater now than it was a year ago.

With the acquisition of Federal, Textron enters into an entirely new field that is completely uncharted territory for other companies that constitute the Textron family of business enterprises.

Industry In Belleville:

Labels Stick To Industrial, Home, Office Uses

Ever Ready Fills Need
For Colorful, Easier
Product Identification

By Rita Knoll

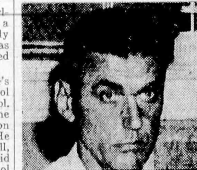

Suppose you went to a supermarket and found all kinds of packages and cans, all without identification. You'd be pretty confused. Suppose you received a gift of china or glass, all broken in pieces because someone had forgotten to put a "fragile" label on the package. You'd be pretty annoyed. These are small things most of us take for granted, but without them we'd be a little confused and lost. These and many other services are covered by labels. The extent of the service stretch out into all walks of life and affect the businessman, housewife, student and even the baby of the household.

Second In A Series

One of the largest of the country's label-making concerns is Ever Ready Label Company, located at 343 Cortlandt Street, where some 300 employees are primarily concerned with the making of labels, from shipping to premium tags.

On our tour through the Ever Ready plant, the first thing we noticed was the pile of food in-

Riders Beat Best, Lose To Worst

The Belleville Riders took on the most outstanding and poorest teams in the Essex County League last weekend, and like a sixth place club, performed according to Hoyle. Bill Murphy boys beat the cellar dwelling West Orange squad, 9-5 with four runs in the top of the ninth inning but when it came to duplicating the feat against the league leading East Orange Browns it was a different story.

The Browns, currently the hottest team in the eight-club semi-pro circuit, waltzed to an easy 14-0 victory to further increase its Essex County League lead. East Orange is now in front of the pack by two full games with the regular season slated to come to a close on Labor Day. There are only five games remaining on the slate for the Browns, who look like a shoo-in choice at this time.

While East Orange has shot to the front recently the Nutley Colonels, who are leading the league for a good part of the season, along with Montclair, have fallen off the pace.

Sprovierio Is Only Winner

It looks like the Belleville Riders are usually in for a rough day when Frank Sprovierio isn't on the mound for the local semi-pro club. Frank, who is a stocky left handed pitcher, was the winning hurler when the Riders took the measure of West Orange on Saturday in the 9-5 decision. He went the nine-inning distance and still managed to gain the victory although giving up 12 hits.

For Sprovierio it was his sixth victory since joining forces with Belleville, which is sponsored by DeBacco Sports Shop. He has lost only two games. Sprovierio's record is really outstanding when you consider that he is pitching for the sixth place team.

During the entire season the former Muhlenberg College star pitcher has been just about the entire hurling staff for Murphy and can usually be counted on to give the opposition fits. Since the semi-pro season got underway in early May the Riders have managed to win only nine games while dropping 15. Of those nine victories six were registered by the former Nutley Colonel hurler. If you subtract Sprovierio's outstanding record the won and lost mark for Belleville would be a poor 2 and 13.

Up-And-Coming Baseball Star

Young Jim Miscia, Belleville Rider infielder, is considered by many to be one of the most promising up-and-coming stars in the Essex County League. Although only 16 years of age, Miscia has gained a regular berth with the Belleville nine. He has hit in every game he has played in which is remarkable for the Verona High School player.

The Bombers continued to wheel their mastery over the American League Division. On Wednesday evening, they downed the second place Clippers 7-0 and, on Saturday afternoon, in the second game of a double header, they continued their winning ways against the Demons. The Aces downed the Demons on Monday night but bowed to the Clippers in a high scoring game on Saturday.

The National League contest continues to be a battle with the Cubs taking the Giants 2-1 on Friday evening, while on Thursday the Yanks defeated the Dodgers.

The old weather game has been most unkind to the Little League schedule and as of this date three games have been postponed as a result of bad weather. These games will be played at the end of the regular schedule by mutual agreement with the managers and teams concerned.

The Ladies Auxiliary initial meeting which was scheduled for September 10 has been postponed to September 17. It is hoped that all the women who have expressed an interest in an Auxiliary will be in attendance on that date. The League plans to extend a personal invitation to the mothers of everyone registered in the Little League.

Our score keepers have done an excellent job through the season and have received much favorable comment. This placed the Little League Life is supplied by the Recreation Department through the school conducted by them last winter. Mr. Cook plans to continue this activity for next year. The score keepers school will be started late in the fall. It is hoped that a sufficient amount of attendance will be realized so that trained score keepers can be supplied to the Farm League and the Little League. The thinking of the Recreation Department is that the young boys for the Little League this year will be graduated to keep score for the Junior Recreation League. Any young lady who is interested in this activity who is presently going into the sixth, seventh, or eighth grade should watch this column for the notice of the first registration for the score keepers class. Yours truly has been requested to conduct the class again this year.

Everyone connected with the Belleville Little League expresses a sincere hope that the report on George Sheridan, the Co-Manager of the Giants, is not as bad as it first seemed. If George has a weak heart and has to bow out of the Little League activities he is going to be sorely missed.

The standing through Sunday night follows:

| TEAM | W | L | T | PCT. |
|----------|----|----|---|------|
| Clippers | 6 | 8 | 0 | .429 |
| Bombers | 12 | 1 | 0 | .923 |
| Aces | 5 | 8 | 0 | .385 |
| Demons | 4 | 10 | 0 | .286 |
| Giants | 11 | 2 | 0 | .846 |
| Cubs | 8 | 4 | 1 | .650 |
| Yanks | 4 | 9 | 0 | .308 |

Belleville All Stars Register Second Win Over Nutley

Pitching And Debrowski's Bat Series, Paced By Jim Dattolli's Junior Leaguers Hold Edge In

By Dave Thaler

Defending with the stout left arm of Jim Dattolli, and attacking with the red hot bat of Den Debrowski, the Belleville All - Stars defeated the Nutley All - Stars twice during the past week, 5-1 and 14-4. Dattolli has but two earned runs against him in the entire series, with Debrowski, who runs against him in nine trips to the plate, with a double, two triples, and a homer to his credit. An unusual note is that Debrowski didn't use any of the regular bats, but his own, which is claimed to be a "Debrowski Special". It must be made from pure dynamite because he hasn't had one cheap hit to his credit, and has rapped the ball hard every time up.

In the first game Belleville drew first blood and never relinquished the lead. Eddie Szep combined with Debrowski to lead the hitting attack. They both had two hits and the only extra base hits of the game. But slugging was not what Belleville won the game on. Bunting was the art used to defeat the enemy. Fred Riccio, Belbov shortstop, laid down three of the critters, and the second one was a bunt. With Thaler on second and Debrowski on first, Riccio dumped the sacrifice. It was so good that the pitcher had to hurry his throw in order to get Riccio at first. The hurried throw went into the waiting arms of the rightfielder (that's not a typographical error, it's a throwing error) and Thaler scored. While Debrowski and Riccio advanced to second and third. Szep's sacrifice brought them home, and although they didn't do any more scoring, the game was in the bag. In the second game, Belleville jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. But Nutley bounced back to tie it up, and then went ahead 4-2. Dattolli was being hard but should have escaped with only two runs. Loose fielding cost him the lead. But both he and his mates settled down in the ensuing innings.

Belleville meanwhile was sweeping back into the lead game. They made the score 4-3 on a squeeze play. Then came what could have been the break of the game. Skip Crudele singled for Belleville. Then Marty Carluccio stepped in to one and blasted it over the left fielder's head. Crudele scored the tying run and Carluccio seemed a cinch to score the lead marker. As he rounded third, however he took a spill, and was tagged out before he could scramble back to the bag.

But Belleville again bunted the Nutleyites to death. Three men played squeeze play successfully, and all three reached second base on the play. The fourth to try it, Crudele was cut down at second, although the run scored. Then Debrowski belted one into no-man's land, and trotted around the bases to his first homer of the series. That clinched the game as the Belbovs skipped home without any trouble.

Riccio is playing shortstop although he's a thirdbaseman by trade. He made two great plays in the game, one behind the plate, and all three reached second base on the play. The fourth to try it, Crudele was cut down at second, although the run scored. Then Debrowski belted one into no-man's land, and trotted around the bases to his first homer of the series. That clinched the game as the Belbovs skipped home without any trouble.

ST. ANTHONY'S IS 3-2 LOSER SUNDAY

Lose Throws CYO Lead Into Three Way Deadlock

St. Anthony's, Belleville, lost a 3-2 decision to Sacred Heart, Vailsburg, and a chance to take the title in the second round of the Essex County CYO Intermediate Baseball League last Sunday. It was the second defeat suffered at the hands of the Vailsburgers.

Ralph Conte, although credited with the loss, showed fine form in striking out seven and allowing but a half dozen singles.

The loss threw the league into a three-way tie for the second round with Sacred Heart going against St. Lucy's, Newark, in the second of two games at Branch Brook Park extension this Sunday at 3:30 p.m. St. Anthony's drew a bye and will play the winner for the second half title at a later date.

The League standings follow:

| St. Anthony's, Belleville | 4 | 1 |
| Sacred Heart, Vailsburg | 4 | 1 |
| St. Lucy's, Newark | 4 | 1 |
| St. Casimir's, Newark | 2 | 3 |
| St. Patrick's, Newark | 0 | 5 |
| Mount Carmel, Montclair | 0 | 5 |

STADIUM NINE WINS PLAYGROUND SOFTBALL TITLE

The fast stepping Stadium Nine clinched the playground softball title as they whipped a strong Clearman Field aggregation by the score 2-0 this week. Pat Bivona, ace hurler for the stadium team, pitched two hit balls as he set down the boys from Clearman Field.

Joe Carmisa of the Clearman team pitched good ball also but he had the misfortune to have one miscue turn into two runs and this proved to be the ball game.

This was the sixth straight victory for the Stadium Nine. They previously downed No. 1 Playground 11-4; No. 9, 7-5; Recreation House, 13-12; No. 4, 7-2; and No. 10, 7-4.

Sparkling of the stadium team was captain Lenny Villaggio, who kept the team on its toes throughout the season and had a lot to do with the fine season record.

Outstanding batsmen were Rene San Filippo, who batted .356; Ralph Casale, .340; and Joe Colucci, .330. In the field, third out of the inning, McCow proved to be outstanding performers.

The boys will receive trophies for their softball efforts and good sportsmanship displayed. The awards will be presented by Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde and the Recreation Department.

Milkweed Pods

I hope I am not guilty of defrauding
 Some feathered personage of any seed
 Which, when supplies are scant for his marauding,
 Might minister appeasement to his need,
 Or of diminishing, by even as much
 As the weight of one of these soft silvery threads,
 The heritage of wonder that must touch
 Children who see them float above their heads.
 See, I am circumspect; I take but few
 Of the slim tapering pods, unopened still,
 That at my happy leisure I may view,
 Unfolding on my sunny window sill,
 Their airy shimmering secrets, as beguiled
 And satisfied as any bird or child.

The Lessons Of Two Political Conventions

If anyone can draw a lesson from all the hokum that has flowed from the convention halls of Chicago and San Francisco, is can only be that the Republican Party has something substantial to offer the nation's electors in November and that the Democratic Party has not. It is hard to campaign against peace and prosperity.

The Republican Party has the good fortune to have the peace and prosperity on its side. Nobody is mad at anybody in the G.O.P.

The Democrat Party had to overcome fission from within, obsolete New Dealers trying to stage a come-back, pseudo-liberals of the Lehman stamp tearing their hair out over the refusal of the platform-makers to cause party bloodshed over civil rights. It had to spank Harry Truman down to size, which, incidentally, it did magnificently at Chicago, and then it had to provoke a tearing-jerking reconciliation of all these varied elements of the party to keep the majority it holds on Capitol Hill.

On the basis of comparison of the two conventions, there should be little doubt of another victory of President Eisenhower in November. The victory would be so personal, however, that looking ahead four years when the General will not be running and the Republican Party will, once again, be on its own, the outlook is less pleasing. If two wins in a row produce fatty degeneration of its political acumen or provoke complacency, the G.O.P., without its five-star standard bearer, may prove to be just another political machine, after all.

It behooves Republican leaders, therefore, to make the most of the next four years and to consolidate, under Eisenhower, a program of national, state and county action which will hold, in harder days, the electoral support of those millions who have been won back from the New Deal giveaway.

Here in New Jersey, a start can be made on a county level in November. Next year the fight should be on the State level, to unseat Governor Meyner. Then, by 1960, General Eisenhower may enter his second retirement without fear of the collapse of the political system which he picked out of the dumps and re-erected on a pedestal.

Successful Pair Separate

Ill health has forced the retirement from active politics of Dr. Rush C. Bauman, and as a consequence he announced, this week, his withdrawal as campaign manager for Congressman Peter W. Rodino, Jr. Except for the first election of the 10th District Congressman, the Nutley physician was titular manager of all of Rodino's campaigns and led the very successful second, third and fourth campaigns for re-election.

Those who know Dr. Bauman know that in devoting himself to the career of Congressman Rodino there was more paternalism than politics and that, in a measure, he invested in the political development of Rodino much of the affection and devotion which would have gone to his own son who, as a young doctor at the start of a career, died suddenly. His guidance and counsel, fatherly and wholly unselfish, did much to make Rodino's Congressional career the success that it has been.

R.E.H.

Folly Of A Primary

In the New Jersey State presidential primary last Spring, Senator Estes Kefauver received 44 per cent of the Democratic vote. In Chicago, last week, at the Democratic National Convention, the New Jersey delegation led by Governor Robert Meyner cast all 36 votes for Robert Wagner, Tammany's Mayor of New York City, and not one vote for the Tennesseean on the first ballot. On the second vice presidential ballot, New Jersey split its vote. Only six of the 36 went to Kefauver, even though he had carried 44 per cent of the popular favor of New Jersey.

The question that arises, of course, is why New Jersey goes to the cost and the trouble of holding a Primary Election. Why not let the "old pros" do as they please? That's what they are going to do, anyhow. Why spend the money to ascertain what the voters want? Why not ask the politicians what they want and save all the fuss and feathers?

It is obvious that Nutley has no interest in seeing a Tammany Mayor of New York go to Washington as Vice President, any more than it liked the sorry spectacle of Tammany chief Carmine DeSapio engineering the Presidential campaign of the poorest qualified candidate of them all, Averell Harriman. Why then, was not a single vote cast by the New Jersey delegation for the candidate who carried 44 per cent of the popular favor in the Spring Primary?

Obviously Belleville has no interest in seeing Kefauver owe anything to New Jersey. Meyner, who must be a candidate to succeed himself next year, can count only upon the support of the New Jersey Democratic county leaders. It is obvious that by his political action at Chicago, Meyner was not picking a Presidential ticket. He was running for re-election, already. He was making sure for Meyner in 1957. He was trying to hold in line the Hudson county pro-Harriman leadership by plunging for the Tammany Mayor.

But, may we ask, what about the 44 per cent preferential vote for Senator Kefauver which our state's Democrats cast only four months ago? R.E.H.

A Bill To Pigeonhole

There is a bill before the State Senate, introduced quietly by the Mercer County Democrat, Senator Sido L. Ridolfi, which would empower the New Jersey State Highway Commissioner with the right to acquire any public lands which he may deem necessary for the relocation or construction of any public highway by the State.

There would be no limitation on such preemptive powers. The State Highway Commissioner would have the power to grab any county or municipal park lands which, hitherto, have been protected against forced sale or seizure. Hitherto, lands dedicated to public park purposes could be disposed of only with the approval of the State Legislature.

There have been times, in the past, when the State Highway Commission and various towns or counties have reached common agreement to transfer lands dedicated to park purposes for general road improvements. An instance was Oraton Parkway which the Essex County Park Commission sold to the State Highway Authority, for $3,000,000, to be incorporated into the Garden State Parkway. The Authority, however, had no power to confiscate; it had to get the county's consent to give up the land, and it then had to have the State Legislature's approval of the abandon of dedicated land.

Too many State roads, now being built, are not for local or even for state convenience. They are thoroughways or parkways, toll roads, destined, chiefly, to provide swift and easy passage across the State for out-of-Jersey motorists. Most of the toll roads of the future will come within that category.

Here in this metropolitan area open land is fast becoming a rarity. Homes are covering our acres as fast as builders can construct them. Each new home brings a new family, more children. The families and the children need play space and air. Our parks will be more greatly needed in the future than they are today. Now is the time to confirm their dedication to the needs of future generations.

This is no time to authorize some State official, inspired with some scheme of a vast network of toll roads, to grab our parks, criss-cross them with high-speed highways or chop down our trees and cover with concrete our breathing spaces so that some out-of-state motorists, in a hurry to get to or from some racetrack or some Florida resort, can race across our lands with ease and comfort. The Ridolfi bill should be pigeonholed.

One Man's Opinion

Having Cooled Down, Nasser Is Drafting Egypt's Own Proposal For Guaranteeing Suez Canal's Freedom Of Navigation

Having little taste for the extremist threats of Pan-Arab "die-hard" Nationalists to blow up the American, British, French and Dutch oil installations and pipelines, representing a multi-billion dollar investment, which his seizure of the Suez Canal has set off, Colonel Gamil Abdel Nasser, while refusing to attend the international conference in progress in London this week, is drafting a new agreement guaranteeing freedom of navigation on the Suez Canal, within the framework of the United Nations.

That the Egyptian President has no intention of breaking down his nationalization of the canal company should now be obvious to the West. That he intends to proceed, as fast as his finances will allow, to modernize Egypt in the Western manner should also be obvious. The question for Washington to decide is whether we should use our hand to aid him or to slap him down.

Nasser can, in this One-

Man's Opinion, be depended upon to do what he can to curb those Arab extremists who are talking about massacring the foreign workers who staff the machines and refineries in the oil-rich Arab lands east of Suez. Just as the Middle East oil is the lifeblood of western economy, its transport is the lifeblood of Suez Canal traffic and Nasser knows that.

Dependent On Oil

The loss of Middle Eastern oil, on which the British and European economies largely depend, even more than does ours, could threaten the very existence of Britain and the United States.

The United States and Britain have the largest investments in the Middle East. In Saudi Arabia alone, the Arabian American Oil Company (Aramco) has invested an estimated $750,000,000. Aramco, which in 1955 produced just under 47,000,000 tons of crude oil, is a figure which implies a investment similar to Aramco's. The Kuwait Oil Company is owned 50 by British and American interests.

The barren deserts of Kuwait, they shadden in northeastern Arabia, yielded 56,000,000 tons of oil in 1955, a figure which implies an investment similar to Aramco's. The Kuwait Oil Company is owned 50 by British and American interests.

Desert Gold

In Iraq, the British-American-French-Dutch-owned Iraq Petroleum Company produced nearly 4,800,000 tons of crude oil in 1955. Other Arab territories from which Western concessionaires extract oil include Bahrain, Qatar, and the so-called neutral zone between Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

Part of this oil is transported in pipeline from Saudi Arabia to Iraq to the Mediterranean coast, where it is pumped into tankers which carry the oil to the Western world. These pipelines run through Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Syria, Jordan, and Lebanon, and would be exposed to sabotage in the event of Arab-Western war.

A greater part of Arab oil is pumped directly into ships in the Persian Gulf and carried to Europe via the Suez Canal.

Great Oil Reserves

Even the enormous volume of Middle Eastern oil currently being pumped scarcely hints at the scope of reserves controlled by Western concessionaires. Aramco is known to have discovered a single pool in Saudi Arabia whose reserves are believed to exceed the total proved reserves of the United States.

Figures compiled by Wallace E. Pratt, a world-known petroleum geologist, show proved Middle Eastern reserves at 230,000,000 barrels, or three quarters of the entire proved reserves of the non-Communist world.

Europe is just moving out of the Coal Age into the Oil Age and coal, which once was the

the great refinery at Abadan in Iran closed as a result of the seizure of the property by the Government of Mohammed Mossadeq it was not Western Europe that suffered. It was the Middle East, Pakistan and India, which had to bring refined products all the way from Europe.

If the Suez Canal should be closed by the Egyptians—or just sit up—because nobody took proper care of it—this Middle East oil, could be brought to Europe all the same by returning to the old Cape route.

The Long Haul

After the first sharp reaction to President Nasser's action, oil and shipping experts seem to have come around to the view that within six months or so this could be made at comparatively little additional expense.

Within two or three years the construction of giant tankers of 80,000 to 100,000 tons might make the canal obsolete anyway so far as oil is concerned. Such big ships could not get through the Suez canal.

Shippers have figured that by using bigger and faster tankers, and sending them around the Cape to avoid canal tolls, that a 13 per cent increase in tonnage would suffice to haul the needed oil to Europe without going through the Suez canal.

There is also a project for building a huge pipeline north across Arabia to bring oil to some Turkish port, thus bypassing the canal completely.

It is not so much the possible loss of the Suez canal that perturbs the oil trade as the possible loss of the Middle Eastern oil itself.

If the Arab world goes sky high on its nationalistic and anti-

A state is as healthy as its arteries, too!

New Jersey is served by more railroad track per square mile than any other state in the union. Over this network of track moves the lifeblood of New Jersey's economic well-being; the products and materials that keep New Jersey enterprises humming. To maintain this vital traffic, the railroad industry employs 34,000 New Jersey men and women, and pays them 122 million dollars annually.

Few states benefit so richly from their railroads. Yet New Jersey taxes its railroads at the highest rate in the nation, $9.51 per mile. This is five times the national average.

The New Jersey railroad industry must pay an average of $167 in taxes for every $1.00 it earns in the state! Incredible, perhaps. But true. In New Jersey every possible piece of railroad property is taxed whether or not it produces income, including such unlikely items as signs, warning signals and station escalators installed for public safety and convenience. Furthermore, New Jersey taxes railroad property an average of twice as much as it taxes non-railroad property of the same value. There are actual cases on record where the railroads recently sold property and were unable to realize even the cost of a single year's taxes!

Taxation that wipes out earnings and actually creates losses is more than unrealistic and discriminatory. It is destructive taxation, harmful not only to the railroads but to the best interests of New Jersey citizens and communities.

You can help New Jersey progress by being a well-informed citizen and speaking your mind on what needs to be done to get tax fair play in New Jersey. You'll find the facts in "FACTS ON TRACKS". Just write: Railroad Information Bureau, 11 Commerce Street, Newark 2, N. J.

He said, "The officers and directors of DeWitt Savings have endeavored through the years to maintain a policy of progressive growth consistent with conservative consideration of the investments of its members. This merger will add assets equivalent to approximately $1,550,000 so that subsequent to the merger, the assets of the DeWitt Savings and Loan Association will be approximately $10,600,000."

Kier added that his officers and directors felt the merger would be of benefit to both members of the DeWitt institution and to the community. The present offices of both associations are located within a few hundred feet of each other and serve the same general area. The office of the merged association will be the present DeWitt site, which is equipped to handle the additional business.

The officers of the merged association until the next annual meeting of the members will be: Joseph King, president; Edward P. Cantwell, executive vice-president; Walter Gilkey, vice-president; Charles M. Nutt, vice-president; H. Willard Sawyer, vice-president; John P. Dailey, secretary; Robert M. Williams, assistant secretary; George F. Miller, treasurer; William A. Abramson, assistant treasurer; and Edwin E. McCurdy, assistant treasurer.

At the special meeting, members will be requested to amend the by-laws of DeWitt Savings to provide for a Board of Directors numbering 18 instead of ten, so that eight directors of North Belleville Savings may become directors of the merged institution.

Daniels went on to explain that it was only this year that the State Department informed school business officials that cafeteria supplies are to be considered for bidding purposes. He said that the matter has been discussed at several meetings of school business officials. He observed that as in all changes of procedure, there is usually some confusion.

Daniels then added that the initiation of this new bidding program will be presented to the Board of Education at its next regular meeting.

Prices Faux

He pointed out that even if bids are received for supplying milk, the prices would all have to be the same. This is in accordance with a special state order regulating the school milk program. The Office of Milk Industry of the State of New Jersey re-instituted resale prices effective July 1. This will make all quotations to schools uniform, while these resale prices are in Detective Thomas Dunn has been assigned to investigate the case.

Jerry's Sunoco Station, at 272½ Belleville Avenue, was the victim of the second robbery. Here thieves took $275 from a locked cabinet sometime Monday night. The theft was reported to police Tuesday morning. Entry was gained by breaking a window.

The owner, Jerry Pugliese, 36, who lives next door at 228 Belleville Avenue, discovered the theft when he opened the station for business 7 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The third theft was reported to police Wednesday morning and involved the luncheonette at 90 Franklin Avenue, at the corner of Watching Avenue. The owner of the eating place, Dominick DeLuca, is away on vacation and police have not been able to determine how much was stolen.

Carmen Fornaratta, who lives in the rear of the luncheonette, reported the break-in to police. He found the screens ripped from the windows and the door open on Tuesday afternoon. Police have contacted DeLuca to determine what was taken.

DOES SO MUCH...
COSTS SO LITTLE!

It's easy to forget how many jobs Reddy Kilowatt does in a home. His services are just taken for granted. That's fine! But it's nice to know that the cost of his services has been less and less over the years!

bels. Most of these were pictures of mouthwatering cuts of meat and slices of baloney and salami. These can be found in most supermarkets, arranged around the real thing. All were painted in glowing colors, and no effort had been spared to induce the housewife to add the merchandise to her weekly shopping list.

The next thing we saw was a group of men and women working behind bars. They weren't there for past misdemeanors, merely for avoiding any future checks. "They making money," we were told. The money was not counterfeit dollar bills. Instead, these people were buying the various types of premium stamps, which are now bringing a great deal of business to large markets and smaller stores. Green stamps, purple stamps, all could be found in this department, and anyone not directly concerned with their making was not allowed in the area. This product, unlike all others at Ever Ready, was made from start to finish in the same area. From the cutting of the rolls of special paper, to the printing presses, to the packaging of stamps, all within a few square feet of space.

Heat Process
Next we saw a special process called Red-E-Strick. On this there is no visible adhesive, but as soon as the label touched another surface, it automatically sticks. Working on the same principle was Ever Ready's best seal process, also without visible adhesive, but as it was touched, the label stuck to another surface. Both these types are more glibly than the ordinary adhesive labels, and involve less work for the user.

Then we visited the stockroom. There we saw enormous rolls of paper of all types of stock weight, color and size. We also saw many of the different labels, all waiting to be shipped all over the country, and also overseas. "That's our special copyrighted label," we were told. We saw a red and white "Fragile" label designed with a streak of lightning through the middle, which had been printed in many different sizes, to fit many different size fragile packages.

From there we were taken to the machine shop, where Ever Ready mechanics were repairing their new machines.

Printing Process
Then on to the press room, where we saw many of the labels in process of being printed. Looking very much like any other print shop, we discovered that Ever Ready is mechanically completely self-sufficient, and takes care of all its own setting of type, engraving of pictures and designs, and the composing and layout of the entire label-to-be.

When all this is ready, it is put on the machine, ink is added and the printing process begins. The next stop was a tour through the administrative offices, which included the sales, finance and customer credit departments. Then we arrived at the art department, where labels are designed, laid out and specified according to the directions of the customer. If the customer has no particular design in mind, the team of trained artists will come up with something which will usually satisfy him. Ever Ready's photography and engraving departments adjoin the art department.

Founded In 1914
The office of Ever Ready's president was our last stop. Founded by Sidney Hollander in 1914, the company is now headed by his son Herman. In a room furnished in a combination of the best in colonial and modern furniture, we learned that the company had been in Belleville only since 1947. Originally from New York, it still has its main sales office on 49th Street, with an additional subsidiary in Norfolk, Virginia.

Next time you're in a supermarket, a post office, or a department store, just look around and notice the amount of items identified for your convenience by labels. Then you might do well to remember that many of them were made right here in your home town, at Ever Ready Label Company.
