Riders To Close Season At Stadium

The Belleville Riders, sponsored by DeBacco Sports Shop, will ring down the curtain on their first season in the strong Essex County League on Labor Day when the semi-pro aggregation returns to the home confines of Municipal Stadium, managed by Bill Murphy, Belleville has experienced rough sledding, the powerful eight club subban circuit but has still managed to play an exciting brand of baseball.

Belleville has three more home games remaining on the schedule over the long holiday weekend and the Riders would like nothing better than to close out the season on a winning note. In the Labor Day attraction at the Stadium the Riders will take on the arch rival Nutley Colonels in the finale. Belleville is in sixth place and is seeking to break into double figures in the win column. They have won nine games and need only one more triumph to reach that goal.

Right now the Colonels are in the middle of their worst slump of the season and it appears that Belleville will have an ideal opportunity of recording a major upset come Monday afternoon. Belleville was leading the Essex County League for a good part of the season but in the last couple of weeks has dropped five of its last seven starts. They are now in third place, three games off the pace.

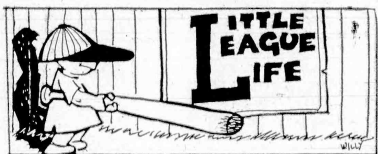

Before the home game against Nutley, Belleville will play a pair of road frays on Saturday and Sunday with South Orange and Maplewood being the respective opponents.

In two games played last weekend the Riders dropped both contests as Maplewood inched closer to sixth place. Belleville dropped a 5-2 decision to the East Orange Sovereals and a 6-1 game to Montclair. Bob "Windy" Mallick went all the way for the Riders in the 5-2 loss to the Sovereals. Belleville players were turning in a beautiful game and were at 2-2 until Frank Valente socked a three-run homer just off the glove of Connie Egan.

The Riders tallied both runs in the fifth when Mike Shepard was safe on an error, moved to second on a sacrifice by Johnny Misica and both crossed the plate on a single by Jim O'Brien. Belleville managed to collect only four hits off the slants of Tony Sandler and O'Brien collected three of them. The other safety was a triple by Bill Pollack.

Four Montclair runs in the second inning was more than enough to beat Belleville in the Saturday attraction at Nishuane Field. Again Belleville drew first blood with a single run being pushed across the plate.

Injuries hurt the Riders in the Montclair fracas. Jim Meehan pulled a leg muscle and Shepard was hit in the cheek bone by a throw ball from left field. The agate hit a pebble and took a crazy hop. During batting practice first baseman Richie Veith was hit by a stray ball.

It has been brought to my attention that we neglected to express our appreciation to the American Legion Post of Belleville for the use of their hall for our All Star party. For this oversight I apologize. Now we should express the kindness extended by the American Legion, especially to our young people. It is they who had the original idea to sponsor organized baseball for young people. The Belleville American Legion Post is planning to sponsor a baseball league next year, and it is looking around for capable adult management. Good luck fellows; and speaking for myself and every other Little League Manager, if there is anything that we can do to assist in our small way please call on us so that we may show our appreciation for the many nice things that the legion has done for us.

The Belleville Little League leaders, in both the American and the National, seem to have first place cinched. The only serious contest still to be decided is for second place in the American League division. Eddie O'Neill's Aces and the writers Clippers finished last week in a dead heat, having won seven and lost eight with a balance of three to play. The schedule favors the Clippers for they have one game with all but the other three teams, while the Aces have to face the league leading Bombers twice, and the Clippers once. Both managers are going to have been developing discussion concerning the schedule in that a double header was planned for September 1 which is the Saturday before Labor Day. Following is the balance of the schedule of games to be played.

Bombers vs. Bombers—August 31	Aces vs. Bombers—September 1, 2 p.m.
Aces vs. Bombers—September 4	Giants vs. Yankees—September 5, 3 p.m.
Clippers vs. Bombers—September 5	Dodgers vs. Giants—September 10
Yanks vs. Giants—September 4	Cubs vs. Giants—September 11
Dodgers vs. Cubs—September 7

Standings in both leagues, through August 26 follows:
AMERICAN LEAGUE
	W	L	Aver.
Bombers	12	2	.857
Clippers	8	4	.667
Aces	7	8	.467
Demota	4	12	.250

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Giants	12	2	.857
Yanks	9	5	.643
Dodgers	4	10	.286
Bombers	3	11	.215

Recreation League Team Wins Five Game Series With Nutley By Taking First Three Tilts

By Dave Thaler

The Belleville Junior Rec League All-Stars made a story-book comeback Saturday to defeat the Nutley All-Stars, 15-10. It was the third win of the series for the Belleville, which was all they needed to clinch the best-of-five series. Nutley salvaged the final game, 4-0, Tuesday.

Loose fielding and shoddy pitching cost Belleville in the first few innings of Saturday's game. Nutley jumped to a 6-0 lead, and lengthened it to 10-1 over the next two innings. On Crudele, making his first start for Belleville, had been knocked out of the box and Jim Dattali had been called to the mound for the third time during the series.

Settles Down After the third inning, Belleville's defense tightened and Dattali settled down. But it looked as though the damage had been done. Nutley had a nine run lead, and when Crudele, Birtwhistle was hurling no-hit ball.

Then in the fourth, Crudele, who had retired in the game, was called back to the box. He took the first base, beat out a hit to short. It was the Belleville's first safety of the game. Dattali's follow-up with a triple to drive in Belleville's first run. But Birtwhistle then picked Dattali off third, and when Kiefer followed with a double and tried to stretch it, he was out. That meant that Belleville had a single, triple and double, in that order, and had managed to score but one run.

Belleville managed to continue their scoring while they held the enemy at bay. By the seventh inning the score was 10-4. Then Birtwhistle walked the first two men to face him in the seventh. They pulled a double steal and Dattali then beat out a Baltimore chop. Two squeeze plays worked to perfection, bringing in two runs while the batter went unmolested to first. Then, with the score 10-8, and the bases loaded, Crudele stroked one down the right field line. It was good for three bases and an 11-10 lead.

Once Belleville got the lead, they never relinquished it. Dattali went through the game without any difficulty, and Belleville had the series clinched in six games.

Tuesday night's game was a different story. Nutley jumped off to the lead again, but dark clouds threatened a possible rain. The Belleville had managed but two hits during the first five innings, and were down 1-0.

Dattali went three for four in Saturday's game, but failed to pinch hit in the seventh. The series finale, thus dropping his average to .714. Pat Antonelli managed three of the game in Saturday's fray, diving across second to snare a low line drive. Dattali proved to be the luckiest boy of the series. He was robbed four times of base hits, twice the second baseman was trying to catch a runner close and was able to catch his liners. Dattali wound up with all three Belleville victories. Two complete jobs, and one long relief job.

Many people ask us how we BLEACHED when it is so easy WHITE. The answer is: Heckers' is NATURALLY white because it is never rushed out to stores immediately after milling.

Unlike bleached flour Heckers' is allowed to take its own sweet time to mellow and take on natural whiteness in its own good way. Of course, this requires more storage at the mills and costs more. But you pay no more. And the difference in taste (and eating) qualities is well known to every Heckers' user.

Easy way to remove food particles from rendered fat. Just pour small quantity of cold water on it. Food particles sink to bottom, fat rises to top. Cook.

And now about a cake recipe that really invites you to get out in the kitchen and make something good. Here it is—tested, proved, and every bit as good as it sounds.

GOLDEN GATE CAKE

Ingredients: 2 cups sifted unbleached Heckers' flour, 1 1/2 cups baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup shortening, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons orange juice, 2 cups sifted confectioner's sugar, 1/4 cup orange juice, 1/2 cup coconut.

Directions: Cream shortening and sugar with ruler and fluffy with egg and cream well. Add second sugar and cream until light and smooth. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Add vanilla to milk and blend in. Add ingredients and blend until batter is smooth. Add 1/2 cup of liquid and blend in. Bake in greased 10 inch round pan at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

When cool, frost with Orange Coconut Frosting. Cream confectioner's sugar with butter and fluffy with egg and cream well. Add sugar gradually, beating with wire. Beat until smooth. Blend coconut into frosting.

The difference between August and July, if you are after differences, will be that, where July was lush, August is dry. A kind of desert in the summer country. ## A Hungry Donkey, A Fat Elephant

The conventions are behind us and in little more than three months America will go to the polls to elect a President, a braying donkey battling a self-satisfied elephant which keeps telling itself that smugness can only breed defeat.

The contrast with 1952 could hardly be more total. Four years ago, the GOP elephant was hungry, jumpy, ridden by an amateur after having thrown its mahout, "Mr. Republican", himself. The donkey, after two decades at the trough, was fat and smug, contented to "stand pat". As history records, that election was a Doneybrook and the elephant walked all over the donkey.

This time, as so often happens in adversity, the Democrat Party is torn by dissension; the Republican party is so united that even Joe Smith could not break into the lineup. With the same amateur mahout, with absolutely no internal troubles, with no extremes to worry about, the elephant moves confidently. The great temptation of the day is just to point with pride.

It is true that under our archaic system, Presidents are elected by an electoral college, not by popular votes. But popular votes elect members of the electoral college and if the GOP studies the 1952 popular vote it will realize that a slight shift in favor of the Democrats, in four southern states, Florida, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia, combined with the anticipated adverse vote in the Midwest farm belt which continued drought and a somewhat deteriorated farm economy have affected, might cost the Republicans the victory.

The South never has been comfortable under the banner of Abe Lincoln's Republican party, even under an amateur like General Eisenhower. The South wants desperately to find a reason to stay in the Democrat Party. It learned a lesson in 1948 when it tried to elect its own States' Rights ticket and, in 1952, it felt uncomfortable voting for a Republican just because it had disputed with Northern Democrats over the party loyalty issue.

There are many symptoms of Southern impatience with the GOP farm policy which is aimed at the wheat and cotton-growing mid-west and not at the cotton-growing south. It has been noticeable in the Southern press that Administration public power, flood control and soil conservation policies are not pleasing to the South. It has been easy to read in the editorial pages of many influential Southern newspapers which supported Eisenhower in 1952 that the South is swinging back to traditional support of the Democrat Party and its national ticket.

The defeat of Tammany's Averill Harman, the lambasting of Harry Truman, the graduate school, at Chicago and the total silencing in his own belkirk of Chicago's Colonel Jake Arvey prove that the big political machines have lost control of the Democrat Party. It no longer will be necessary for Stevenson to "clear it with Harry", or with Jake. That should make it possible for many voters to return to the Democrat Party in November. It would seem to be particularly true in New England where youthful Senator John F. Kennedy should make a far more attractive bid - whether than James M. Curley ever made.

Having been a minority party over the years, until the New Deal era, the Democrats attracted minority groups - the South, the negro vote, labor and the liberals. The Democrat Party was a big city party in the main; the Republican Party had the support of the Midwest and Northwest. Also America became an industrial, city-dwelling nation. It was only by splitting the South, which represents one-third of the strength of the Democrat Party, that the Republicans were able, in 1952, to return to the White House.

It must be obvious, therefore, that this election will swing on the personality of Dwight Eisenhower. If he can run ahead of his party, he will remain in the White House. But unless his party can keep up with him, in its election campaign, hopes of Republican majorities in the Senate and in Congress will be extremely lean. A Republican victory in November can be bred only in a vigorous campaign, on a town and county level,

One Man's Opinion

Like Hitler's "Mein Kampf", Nasser, Too,
Has Written A Book Which Sets His Political Goals And Purposes

Adolph Hitler wrote a book, "Mein Kampf", which was a blueprint for the Nazi revolution. He followed it, verse by verse, chapter by chapter, right up to the bitter end when he took his own life in the bunker of the Berlin Chancellery where he had loled up.

Egypt's Premier President, Gamal Abdel Nasser, has written a book, too, called "Philosophy of the Revolution", and the Chancelleries of London, Paris and Washington should burn plenty of midnight oil reading his opinion on oil before they decide whether or not to impose by force, on Nasser's Egypt, the London plan for international control or management of the Suez Canal which emerged, last week, from the conference of 22 nations.

Colonel Nasser has already condemned the idea of international control of the Suez Canal as "collective colonialism". If the Chancelleries turn to the chapter on "colonialism", they will see that Nasser is determined, at all costs, to allow no new fetters.

Egypt At Crossroads

They will read, too, that just as Hitler dreamed of a "Thousand Year Reich", Nasser dreams of an Egypt at the world's crossroads, a leader of all the peoples of Islam, with a hand on the spigot which turns on or off the industrialized West at its mercy.

To the experienced reader, there is much in Nasser's "Philosophy of the Revolution" which paraphrases many of the dreams and ambitions for Germany in Hitler's "Mein Kampf".

Nasser's literary effort, which has little to recommend it as literature, and clearly was dashed off in a hurry and at odd intervals in his climb to power, is frank to the point of bluntness when it comes to spelling out Egypt's ambitions, intentions, and goals.

And, it is because those ambitions, intentions, and goals include elimination of Britain and France, not only in the Middle East, but African powers that Nasser's literary efforts could well alarm London and Paris.

—i.e., the Arab peoples, the followers of Islam; second, Egypt's land and its position on the map — i.e., its strategic importance embracing the crossroads of the world, and the thoroughfare of traders, and passageway of armies third, oil — a shew of material civilization without which all its machine would cease to function.

The Egyptian strong man and author quotes at some length from a University of Chicago study of the world oil situation — all of which emphasizes the world dependence on Mideast oil.

Taking Over Africa

Nasser claims that Egypt is going to be the champion of all Africa, of African liberation from Western colonialism. Says Nasser:

"We cannot under any circumstances remain aloof from the terrible and sanguinary conflict going on there today between 5,000,000 whites and 200,000,000 Africans.

"We will never in any circumstance be able to relinquish our responsibility to support, with all our might, the spread of enlightenment and civilization to the remotest depth of the jungle."

"The white man, representing various European nations, is again trying to redraw the map of Africa. We shall not, in any circumstance, be able to stand by in the face of what is going on."

Dream Of Holy War

Reading this, a Briton or Frenchman may readily be made uneasy over the possibility of Colonel Nasser's organizing a holy war to throw Western European interests and individuals out of Africa. That is why the Suez Canal is only a part of Western Europe's worries. President Nasser by his own words is dreaming big dreams for Egypt.

tue of our place, can perform this role"—and then he concluded in a grand soliloquy: "And now I go back to that wandering mission in search of a hero to play this role."

Does Nasser by any chance see himself as this "hero," armed with the Koran, financed by oil, leading Arab forces to military glory and the liberation of all Africa?

This book needs reading and digesting—if the West is to appreciate what is going on in the mind and heart of Egypt's strong man. The British and French should read it—and carefully—even if they don't like what they see there any more than they liked Hitler's frankness in "Mein Kampf".
