Parking Committee Awaits Final Nominee

Four Already Named To Group Authorized To Study Parking Problem In Business Zones; Appointment Of Mayor Padula Is Looked For

No word has been received yet from Mayor Isadore J. Padula appointing the first member of a five-man special committee to investigate the parking situation in business areas of Belleville.

A resolution recommending the establishment of an official parking commission was unanimously adopted by Town Commissioners at their March 27 meeting. The resolution, introduced by Commissioner Kenneth D. Smith, stipulated that each of the five commissioners would appoint one interested person to the committee.

Four Already Named
Smith and Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde made their appointments shortly after the resolution was adopted, while Commissioners Harry Smith and Joseph King made their appointments last month. Padula indicated he has named one in mind for the appointment, but has not received final confirmation of acceptance from the individual.

Appointed to the commission already are William L. Roemerle, of 95 Beech Street, by Smith; Saul Smoller, of the Mary Oliver Dress Shop, by Hyde; Walter P. Weiss, of 242 Ralph Street, by Smith; and James Earl Campbell, of 65 Van Houten Place, by King.

By terms of the resolution, the new committee would be empowered to study the off-street parking situation in Belleville's business district. They would determine if there was a need for parking, and if so they could investigate possible sites and make recommendations to the Board of Commissioners.

Passage of the resolution authorizing the committee was prompted by requests from merchants and private citizens alike, Smith said. He added that the committee would be "continually" leaving town and that if some action wasn't taken to correct the situation, it would soon be too late.

Dedicate New Organ At Little Zion

One of the highlights of Sunday night's organ dedication service at Little Zion U.A.M.E. Church was the presentation of a floral tribute to Rev. Mary Farrar, pastor at the church for the past several years. Shown grouped around the flowers, left to right, Mrs. Morris Sloan who presented the organ on behalf of the congregation, Miss Josephine the Roberts, who presented the ecclesiastical investments, Rev. Farrar, and T. M. Wells, one of the trustees of the church. A large crowd attended the service. The Little Zion church dignitaries praise the work of the Little Zion congregation. Rt. Rev. David M. Harmon, presiding bishop of the second district of the U.A.M.E. Church, officiated.

CITIZEN OF YEAR COMPETITION NOW ACCEPTING VOTES

Townpeople To Decide
Winner In First Contest
Started By Times-News

The Times-News "Citizen of the Year" contest officially opened this week and nominations are now being received to name the first citizen award. The award was originated in an effort to promote greater recognition for the men and women who have contributed to community life in Belleville during the past year.

Eligible to receive the award is any resident of Belleville, or any non-resident whose work or activities center around the community. At the close of voting, the man or woman receiving the greatest number of votes will be declared "Citizen of the Year" and will be appropriately recognized.

Winner of the distinction will be determined solely by the number of votes submitted by townspeople for their choice. Anyone in the office of 24 Little Zion Avenue, Belleville, N. J. is not necessary to write anything in the past year for the welfare of the community.

In order to nominate your choice for this award, it is only necessary to write the person's name on a postcard or letter and send it to "Citizen of the Year," Belleville Times-News, Washington Avenue, Belleville, N. J. It is not necessary to write anything in the past year for the welfare of the community.

Votes will be accepted at the Times-News office until Friday, December 21, and the winner will be announced in the issue of December 28. That leaves slightly less than a month for residents to decide upon their choice for this first outstanding citizen award. If the presentation proves successful, it is hoped to make the award an annual event.

POSTMASTER URGES MAIL EARLY FOR PROMPT DELIVERY

Asks That Christmas Cards
And Gifts Be Sent Early
To Insure Delivery In Time

Postmaster L. A. Reilly, who lunches his 1956 "Mail Early For Christmas" Campaign today, believes a word or two to the wise will help make your Christmas and those of your friends and loved ones as merry as it should be.

With Christmas only a little more than a month away, the Post Office is geared up right now to insure the delivery of all gift packages and Christmas Cards by December 25, but your cooperation is essential to the goal.

Speaking about his plans, the Postmaster said, "There's about 167 million people in this country today. More than ever before. More people means more Christmas mail. That's why it's so important to get your Christmas mail in early. The Postmaster especially directed his appeal to 'the lady of the house,' because she usually selects the Christmas cards, buys most of the gifts, and sees to it that the Christmas mailing list is up-to-date."

Predicts Record High

Predicting that this year's Christmas mail will set a new all-time record, the Postmaster urged the following steps to insure prompt delivery: Check your Christmas card lists very carefully—make sure every name is correct, the full name, street and number, city, zone and state. Then, if possible, mail your cards by Parcel Post, or by Registered Mail, or by Air Mail. Use the Postage Rates and Fees. Stock up on stamps at the same time.

Also ask for free labels reading "All For Local Delivery" and "All For Out of Town Delivery" so that you can speed arrival of your Christmas Cards by sorting and tying them in two separate bundles with the addresses all facing one way.

A modest investment in heavy wrapping paper, sturdy empty boxes and adhesive tape will pay big dividends in safe deliveries of your cherished Christmas gifts.

CRASH INJURES
LOCAL RESIDENTS

A Belleville couple suffered fractured left wrists and two broken ribs when their car was involved in a collision Saturday afternoon with a truck on the Newark-Belleville boundary.

Lloyd E. Gill Sr., 58, of 22 Montgomery Place, was driving north on the Newark-Belleville boundary when his car was involved in the collision with the truck.

The building will contain 160 patients' rooms, 100 corridors, 1,200 doors, several lounges and solariums, a coffee lounge and many other facilities. The center of their operation will be the hospital's 100-foot long kitchen which will be equipped with an assembly line system to facilitate dispensing of food to patients.

The business office staff of administrative, accounting, billing, clerical and other work will probably total 50. In addition, seven persons will be needed to assist in the Medical Records section.

School Board Faces Four Major Tasks At Monday Session

Resolution Proposing Adoption
Of Unit Control System, Budget
And Expansion Talk Expected

When Belleville's Board of Education meets this Monday night for their regular monthly meeting, four major problems will be faced with four major problems. While it appears likely that some discussions will be heard on all four points, there is little probability of a final decision being reached in more than one of the situations.

The four problems confronting Board members are:

1. Determining whether or not the local school system should be operated under a unit or dual system of administrative control.

2. Finding a replacement for the late Rud E. Daniels, either as business manager if dual control is retained, or as an assistant superintendent in charge of business if unit control is chosen.

3. Laying the groundwork for next year's school budget.

4. Discussing possible plans for school expansion.

In the matter of adopting a system of unit control to replace the present dual control system, Board president William Allison Boyd has already stated that he will introduce a resolution at the meeting proposing that the change be accepted. The move would consolidate all administrative functions under the Board of Education, with the Superintendent of Schools, Evan H. Thomas, as business manager.

Under the system of dual control presently in force, Thomas has responsibility for educational matters only, while the Board's Business Manager has the responsibility for maintenance, purchasing and business transactions.

Proponents of the plan point to the greater efficiency and economy possible under this system of operation. They contend that a unit control system, such as running the town's schools, there should be only one person directly responsible to the Board of Education.

Feeling among the Board members to be divided at present with at least one or two trustees indicating they might be opposed to the measure.

The Board's unit control system, they are still faced with the question of whether or not to retain the dual system caused by the death of Board Secretary and Business Manager Rud E. Daniels. Once again, if dual control is retained, it is probable that a new business manager would be hired to assume the duties previously held by Daniels.

negotiating with Public Service to allow buses to come as far as Belleville Avenue on the New ark fare. "It would have worked, if people hadn't lost interest in the organization," he said.

He pointed out that the need for publications about the town, and its merchants, for the convenience of townspeople and visitors, Little told us of a recent visit to California, where he had become well acquainted with the town before he ever visited there, just by reading literature put out by its chamber of commerce. When he arrived there, he felt that he had been there before.

He felt that he had been there before, because of his prior knowledge, and the help which they gave him with all his questions. "We have no service like that for the visitor to Belleville," he said, "and it's pretty discouraging."

Ed Little sees the need for a local chamber of commerce. In his own words, "if these people would realize the need for such an organization in town, I'd be willing to devote time to it. You know, with just a little effort from each of these people, they would all reap the benefits in the long run, but nobody gets something for nothing," he concluded.

tempt to find someone who meets the requirements. Boyd said the person would not necessarily have to hold a degree in the specific field, but that the Board was seeking someone with specialized training to handle the position.

Concerning the budget for the next school year, Board members are anxious to have preliminary figures made available so that concrete planning can begin.

Boyd indicated that a preliminary draft should be in pretty good shape by mid-December. He pointed out that the budget must be presented to the county superintendent by January 10. The public vote is held in February.

Expand Talks

Suggestions were heard from both Dr. Palmer Burde and Mrs. Edward Roehner that Lay Advisory Committee members and private citizens be asked to sit in on some of the discussions leading up to formulation of a final budget. More meetings for this purpose are planned.

The matter of school expansion was on the agenda for this week's special meeting, but due to a lack of time, this was not discussed. However, Board members are still studying a report submitted to them last month by Thomas in which the superintendent recommended the construction of a new junior high school. There has been no comment from Board members concerning their reaction to this proposal.

Miss Dorothy Dunn

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer George Cohen, of East Orange, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Margaret, to Robert M. Cohen, son of Mrs. Reynold Cohen, of 37 Charles Street, formerly of Belle Harbor, Long Island, and the late Reynold M. Cohen. A Spring wedding is planned.

Miss Dunn is a graduate of East Orange High School and Berkeley Secretarial School and is employed by the Radio Corporation of America, Harrison. Mr. Cohen is a graduate of Newark College of Engineering, Stevens Institute of Technology, and is a senior member of the Institute of Radio Engineers. He is an engineering executive with the Semiconductor Division of the Radio Corporation of America, Souvenville.

SAVE TO SPEND PART OF IT

Your Christmas Club check arrives just in time to make Christmas shopping a pleasure, with no spectre of extra January bills. But why not deposit some portion in a savings account? It's good to save part of all you get - even your Christmas Club check.

Opening a checking account with all, or part of it, will make easier and simpler the payment of Christmas bills.

And because you appreciated that extra money, don't forget to start a Christmas Club account for next year... perhaps a larger one, so there'll be even more to spend and to save.

Be Thankful To God

As you kneel in the church of your faith or as you sit down to your family dinner, this Thanksgiving, be thankful to God that you are Americans.

Think of the sufferings of the patriots of Hungary whose sons are being deported by the atheistic Russian Communists to the prison pens and the salt mines of Russia. Think of the Poles who, since ten years, have been crushed under the heel of the Kremlin's army boots. Think of the Catholics of Czechoslovakia and of Rumania whose priests die slowly in prisons. Think of the drunken boasts of a vodka-laden Khrushchev, voiced these past few days. Then, truly, pray to God that He may give His protection to America and to our freedoms.

Republicanism, a la Eisenhower

A Newark evening newspaper sat down to a feast of crow and ate it gustily, pin feathers and all, to retract its accusation that Commissioner Elmer Hyde and Kenneth Smith "actively opposed" G. George Addonizio, the Republican candidate for Congress here in the 10th District, and "deserted" the Republican party to support Congressman Peter W. Rodino with their "thousand-man machines".

The retraction should serve to point up the true Republicanism of Hyde and Smith. In the style of President Eisenhower's "modern Republicanism", they have the capacity and the right to pick and choose. Neither being a machine-ridden Republican, they have been capable, in the past, of differing with the "Old Pros" who, alas, dictated affairs under the banner of Clean Government.

But neither Elmer Hyde nor Kenneth Smith ever has "deserted" the Republican party. The GOP is stronger by the action and clear-thinking of such Republicans as they. Eisenhower, himself, is no lackey of any Republican political machine. He prides himself upon his Republicanism in contrast to that of the Old Guard and the Old Pros. That is exactly the type of Republicanism of Elmer Hyde and Kenneth Smith.

R.E.H.

Streamlining An Elephant

The promptitude with which New Jersey's Senators H. Alexander Smith and Clifford Case aligned themselves behind President Eisenhower in his crusade for the streamlining of the G.O.P., elephant under the banner of "modern Republicanism", argues well. It is only to be hoped that the New Jersey State G.O.P. organization will only do as much—and stick to it.

President Eisenhower is merely looking ahead four years to the 1960 presidential election when, under the Constitutional amendment, he will not be eligible to run again. If the Republican Party hopes to stay in power, in 1960's the streamlining job must have been completed and the American voters must be convinced that the "Old Guard" and the "Old Pros" have been deprived of their control of the levers of command.

It was immediately apparent to President Eisenhower that his was a personal victory and not a victory of the Republican Party, its platform and its personalities. That he carried a lot of Republicans into office on his coat-tails was also apparent. In 1960, when Eisenhower is no longer running, there will be no handy coat-tails.

Losing no time, President Eisenhower called the party leaders to Washington and told them, as he told the Republicans in Congress and in the Senate, that unless the Republicans can carry out during the next four years the program for national good which they promised in 1952 and in 1956, they will be "dead ducks".

That program includes highway construction, new schools, better conditions for farmers and public health. Under those general headings come such problems as relief for the aged and greater security through crop insurance or crop controls for those millions of American families which produce our food.

On a state level, the Republican party must show a burst of speed and announce early its intentions and its candidates for the gubernatorial election. It too, must streamline itself and it must go modern. The same is true of the county organization where, alas, nothing has been done to enact the compromise agreement of a year ago. Under that agreement, the machine of Clean Government was to have been scrapped and control of the party was to have been put in the hands of 35 real Republicans, men of all walks of life who have the good of the party and the country at heart and do not try to make a fat living out of politics. The county machine agreed to all that but has done nothing to enact its promises.

That reform is even more important on a town level. It is obvious that a politician is in politics for what it brings and a $13,500 sinecure on the county payroll is too good to take a chance on losing. Rather than risk the loss of such a fat salary, the "Old Pros" will hang on as long as a gullible Republican electorate allows them to. When they are dropped from one office on a town level, they are nominated for another because there are always those who play along for petty favors.

It is, alas, such stubborn refusals of the "Old Pros", the politics-for-pay politicians, to get out that may cost the Republican party dearly in 1960. As long as the "Old Pros" are allowed to keep their hands on the levers, the party cannot be streamlined and President Eisenhower's efforts to give it the modern look it needs so desperately will be defeated.

Dual Control System Proves Unsatisfactory

Belleville's Board of Education will be faced with one of their most critical problems when they meet next Monday night. At that time they will have to decide whether to continue operating local schools under a dual control system or to change to a system of unit control.

Under the present system of dual control, the duties and responsibilities of the business and educational administrations are entirely separate. There is no relationship between each. The superintendent of schools is responsible to the Board of Education on all matters pertaining to education, the business manager is responsible for all other matters.

The one major flaw is that all school matters, either directly or indirectly, affect education. A better educational system must be the end result of the work of all connected with the schools, whether teachers, administrators, maintenance men, chefs in the cafeteria, or clerks. There can be no separation of duties or responsibility, or else the children suffer as well as the taxpayers.

The National Education Association reported on the problem of dual or unit control:

"There are two basic principals underlying condemnation of dual control. The first is that all matters relating to the school, whether they concern building construction, arrangement and number of rooms, lighting, roofing, sanitation, maintenance, personnel, instruction, etc., all have educational implication, and thus should be under the supervision of the superintendent. Secondly, when the Business Manager is responsible to the Board of Education and not to the superintendent, the Board of Education may be forced to choose between recommendations made by the business manager and the superintendent.

It continues: "Moreover, a business manager who is not responsible to the superintendent can, to the detriment of education, gain an ascendancy over the clerical staff, instructional staff, and the superintendent. He can build up a political machine within the school system that may cause factionalism and a multitude of attendant evils. By the threat of withholding funds for school improvements, he can block the appointment of personnel or force the appointment and promotion of personnel of his choice."

The Essex County Grand Jury present against Belleville's Board of Education in April, 1954, also left no doubt that it considered the dual system of operation a loose and ineffective way of operating the schools.

It stated: "Another feature detrimental to good and harmonious relations between Board of Education members and those in charge of the school administration in Belleville is what is commonly known as the 'dual system' of control. Under this system, the superintendent and the business manager operate independently and each is responsible directly to the Board, as contrasted to the single system of control where the superintendent is the chief administrative officer."

"Testimony before the Grand Jury indicated that the 'dual system' as it operates in Belleville has resulted in the division of the Board of Education into two factions, those who favored the superintendent's recommendations and those who sided with the business manager."

Obviously the best interests of education cannot be served by this system.

One Man's Opinion

As War Correspondent In Spanish Civil War, 20 Years Ago, I Saw Russian "Volunteers" Take A Terrible Beating From Franco

By Ralph Eric Heinzen

I, for one, refuse to be scared by Moscow's threat to send 50,000 Communist "volunteers" to Egypt, a threat, which it now becomes clear, frightened the British and the French and brought an end to their invasion of the Suez Canal zone.

I know the Communist "volunteers" from having seen them in action in the Spanish Civil War, twenty years ago. As a war correspondent for the United Press in Madrid and Barcelona, I saw the infamous "International Brigades", all extremists, chiefly Communists and Anarchists, take a terrible beating.

The 20,000 "volunteers" recruited by the Kremlin, from this country as well as Communist lands, in 1936, were put under the command of the Spanish Republican leaders to fight the Spanish Nationalists under General Franco. Not only did Franco whip the Communist "volunteers" but he ran the International Brigades all the way across Catalonia and over the French border to Perpignan where they were interned by the French government behind barbed wire in open air pens along the Mediterranean shore.

On a basis of Moscow's intervention in a purely Spanish civil war, I have a very low opinion of Communist fighters. I saw them in action in more than a dozen engagements. I never saw them win a battle. I only saw them out front, leading the retreat when the Spanish Republicans made the final step across the frontier of Spain into France, at Figueras.

The Communist intervention in Korea was Chinese, not Russian. The Chinese, whether Communists or Nationalists, are real soldiers. The Russians, on a basis of what I saw of them in Spain, off of the soil of their own land, are poor soldiers. In Egypt they would be no better than they were in Spain because they would be fighting off of their own soil under conditions which the British and the French, with many a desert war behind them, know much better.

I find that too little is known in this country of the Spanish Civil War. When I returned after 27 years abroad as a war and foreign correspondent, I was shocked to find that America's sympathies had been with the Spanish Communists and Anarchists—and their Russian "volunteers"—and opposed to the Spanish Nationalists led by General Franco, which rallied the Spanish clergy and church, Spanish aristocracy, its regular army and navy and the masses of devout Spaniards, farmers and miners as well as city-dwellers.

of any more foreign "volunteers" was made illegal.

Russia, of course, refused to agree to the embargo. But once Franco regrouped the Spanish navy he blockaded the Communist-held coasts and Russia's efforts to supply her "volunteers" were futile. She could not fly war materials into Spain because her planes would have had to cross Germany or Italy, and Hitler and Mussolini would have shot them down.

The ruthlessness of the International Brigades around Europe which never had seen such murderous warfare. In my time as United Press war correspondent I have seen nine wars, close up. Never have I seen such ruthlessness as in Spain. I saw it at Madrid, when the Communists retreated, as I saw it with the Nationalists, I saw every church gutted, stripped and burned.

Winning Over Adversity
Yet the Communists "volunteers" were no match even for an army as archaic as the Spanish Nationalist army. By the end of the first year of war, Franco had three-fourths of Spain, 35 of Spain's 50 provincial capitals.

He had, however, to win out over adversity. Never had a civil war seen such heavy casualties at the top echelons. Within the first few days, General Sanjurjo, the leader of the revolt, had been killed in a plane crash as he flew into Spain from Portugal. Franco was brought up from North Africa and promoted from Colonel to General to succeed him.

General Goded was shot in Barcelona by Communists and Anarchists as he led the initial rising of Nationalists. General Mola, one of the great field commanders on Franco's side, was killed in another air crash.

It took 2 years and 254 days of fighting for the Spanish Nationalists to whip the Communists, active and imported, including Russia's "volunteers" and the International Brigades. After the Communists armies had fled across the French border into internment on the sandy beaches, a Republican "defense council" left behind surrendered.

The role of the Russian "volunteers" had been unglorious, indeed.

THE PILGRIMS' PROGRESS
There was not much the Pilgrims could boast of in material wealth as they sat down to their first Thanksgiving dinner in 1621. By the standards of the rich English civilization they had left behind, they had little indeed.
But what they had, they had provided themselves. To know that by their own industry and foresight they were comfortably provided against the winter ahead—this must have been one of their deepest satisfactions.
To us, this is one of the great lessons of Thanksgiving. It is not how much we have, but what we have achieved for ourselves, from which the true spirit of the holiday emanates. For such riches, he who has provided for himself and his family truly gives thanks.

SPOTLIGHT on SPORTS

Varsity Club To Honor Seniors

A turnout of about 250 Belleville High School football followers is expected to be on hand next Thursday night when the Varsity Club honors the 1956 Belleville grid team at the Robin Hood Inn, in Clifton. The highlight of the affair, sponsored by the sports minded organization, will be the presentation of individual trophies to nine senior football players and the team manager. Principal speaker for the evening will be Ray Whispell, head coach of Muhlenburg College, and Ben Agassian, former captain at the University of New Mexico and point after touchdown expert for the New York Giants.

Joe Grosch is really taking an active part in this annual affair. In addition to serving as general chairman, he will also handle the job of toastmaster. The invocation will be delivered by Rev. J. K. Morse, minister of Fewsmith Presbyterian Church.

Also on hand for the annual affair will be several members of the Nutley Third Half Club and Nutley High Coach Sam Phillips as they again receive possession of the annual game trophy which goes to the winner of the Nutley-Belleville game.

One of the highlights of the program will be the naming of the most improved player on the squad for the 1956 season. The selection will not be made known until the night of the banquet. Fred McQuilkin, president of the Varsity Club, will make the presentation.

Players who wore the blue and gold togs for the last time in the Thanksgiving Day game against Orange and will receive trophies from the Varsity Club are: Pete Duca, Al Hilla, Norm Jacobsen, Ray Kimble, Bill Kintzing, Nick Landolphi, Bro McQuilkin, Wayne Worley, Frank Malfatto and team manager Bill Ellis.

Don't forget the time to purchase your tickets for the annual Varsity Club football banquet is rapidly growing short. Support the Belleville High grid team. Tickets may be purchased at The Belleville Rosary Florist and Andersen and Fobert's Service Station.

Basketball Rules of NJSIAA Will Be Enforced

No exceptions to the New Jersey State Athletic Association's rules about taking part in basketball tournaments will be allowed this season, according to Walter E. Short, retiring secretary. Yes, this has been said in other seasons, and one or more schools have violated rules without incurring the threatened penalties. However, starting this season the penalties will be imposed.

It might be explained that in the past violators have not been penalized because the only penalty provided was suspension from the association. The association hesitated to impose such a penalty, feeling that this club was too heavy, the penalty too strict for the violation, particularly where school officials pleaded ignorance of the rule.

In early October the schools themselves changed the by-laws to provide for probation, with suspension to be imposed only in the case of continued and willful violations.

A school breaking any rule will be placed on probation for a year. Violations include breaking of contracts, out-of-season practice, use of an ineligible player, or violation of games or tournament rules. During the year of suspension they will not be eligible for state awards, and may not compete in any state championship contests.

The word was passed along to Catholic schools, who have been in the majority of those violating the rules. But there still may be a problem in enforcing the new ruling with Catholic schools. Only 11 of the 43 Catholic schools which are members of the association had representatives at the recent meeting in Newark. It was pointed out that only four of these were represented at the general meeting at which the change in by-laws was adopted. However, because of the opportunities afforded to all schools to acquaint themselves with the rules, it is almost certain that in the future any pleas of ignorance will get little in the way of sympathy.

LITTLE LEAGUE GRID ALL-STAR CLASH SATURDAY

Two All-Star Games
Feature Both Heavy
And Lightweight Teams

This Saturday will see the wrap-up of the Recreation Football Little League's 1956 season with two All-Star games being played at the Municipal Stadium. The first game kick-off will be at 1:30 p.m.

Because of the close quality of the teams, the All-Star game in each the Lightweight and the Heavyweight Leagues will be between composites of the regular teams. The Lightweight All-Star teams will be a Kiwanis Lions combine versus a Varsity-Elks combine. In the Heavyweights it will be a Federal Industries-Jolly Cleaners versus a Tiger-Bears team. All coaches will take part.

The Lightweight Kiwanis-Lions team will be composed of the following players: Tommy Grancagnola, Ralph Lika, Bob Forendino, Anthony Carabona, Ed Skwirut, Anthony Landolf, Angelo Rosa, Ray Morrison, Pat Marino, Pat Travers, Joe Marso, Mike Chieffo, Jimmy Finday, Joe Lature, Larry Lature, Joseph Valvano, William Goldrick, Raymond Harmon, Paul Schialine, Olie Pasquale, while the Varsity-Elks team will list Kevin Connel, Jimmy Oese, Chuck Oese, George Budd, Tom Schialine, Nick Henderickson, Tony Arcola, John Vaso, Jim Jios, Bob Howley, Joe DeLuccio, George Worthington, Frank Cicale, Frank Gallionella, Charles Johnson, J. M. Klinefelter, Frank Rose, Walter Wells, Jimmy Fitzgerald, Robert Patterson.

In the Heavyweights All-Star game the Federal Industries-Jolly Cleaner team roster will carry Tom Maguire, Michael Rega, Vincent Kieran, Bob Landolf, Kenneth Vitty, Richard Materazzo, Bill Hollar, Anthony Vecere, George Frank, Frank Tedeschi, Allen Turken, Frank Amichio, Paul Giordano, Walter Smith, Bob Tarano, Paul Russo, Dennis Cardinale, Donald Cavanaugh, Donald Grancagnola and Vince Soro.

renting, Jack Betchick, Joe Battoli, Roger Williams, Philip Genza, Douglas Hagen, James Grancagnola of the Jolly Cleaners. And the Tiger-Bears combine will play Robert Carrish, Martin McNish, Norman Rose, Andy Colaninno, John VanDyke, Thomas Perry, Richard Puleo, Carmine Mino, Jeff Badoliti, Harold Lister, Mike Sluscard and Anthony Musco of the Bears plus George Bauer, George Sheridan, Joe Cenero, Robert Parillo, Nick Christiano, Joe Kovacs, John Stefank, Richard Christiano, Ralph Palumbo, Nick Perelli, Joseph McDermott and Fred Fatus of the Tigers.

League Directors Robert E. Cook and Harold F. Brand report that the Football Little League with its eight teams has enjoyed a most successful season and that the boys display a remarkable store of football knowledge which is to the credit of their coaches. Good sportsmanship and clean play have prevailed.

Rec Superintendent Cook Gets Ideas From Meeting

Belleville's Recreation Department was represented at the League of Municipalities Conference last week by Recreation Superintendent Robert E. Cook.

Arriving at the Conference at noon Wednesday, Cook served on a panel of Recreation Professionals discussing "Successful Teen-Age Activities". Cook reported on Belleville's Teen-Age Program. Other communities reporting were Fair Lawn, Livingston, Linden, Summit, Caldwell and Maplewood. The panel presentation was followed by a lively discussion of recreation problems pertaining to the teenagers.

On Thursday morning, Belleville's Recreation Superintendent was chairman of a panel discussion on playground apparatus. Internationally known designer of play structures, Professor Joseph Brown, of Princeton University was guest speaker. Graham Sikes, Superintendent of Recreation of East Orange, and Robert Carter, Assistant Superintendent of Recreation of Summit, also spoke on new concepts of play. Cook put on a visual demonstration of designing a play community.

At noon on Thursday the Public Recreation Association of New Jersey had its luncheon meeting where Dr. Goodner Gill, vice president of Rider College, spoke on Babe Ruth Baseball.

After the luncheon, Cook attended an afternoon session which featured Robert C. Hoover, Director of Planning for the City of Newark, who spoke on "Recreation Planning for the Growing Community". Hoover's talk dealt with general planning plus the special problems now arising as the new thruways sweep aside parks and other Recreation areas in many communities. Among the many important thoughts expressed was that the loss of recreation in areas set aside for recreation is not a loss to the community in that the services necessary when the same areas are developed more than offsets the loss. Hoover stated that proper planning of parks can control the average temperature of a community by as much as ten degrees. Hoover cautioned that developers should be required to donate to the community for recreation an area equal to at least ten percent of the area to be developed or make a cash adjustment of equal value.

Recreation Superintendent Cook, who was authorized to attend this conference by Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde, Director of the Department of Parks and Public Property, stated that much good information was derived from the trip and that several ideas will be applied here.
