The College Bond Issue

The ever-rising school population has given rise to one of the most significant pieces of proposed legislation to come before the people of New Jersey in a long time. This is the college bond issue which is being advertised through a well-organized publicity campaign conducted by the Citizens Committee for College Opportunities in New Jersey.

It is an undeniable fact that time is getting short in the battle to stave off a crucial overcrowding problem among New Jersey colleges. Estimates reveal that about 60,000 of today's college-age youth are seeking higher education, and this total is expected to rise to 90,000 by 1965.

In other words, nobody can deny that immediate action must be taken, but the controversy has centered around what particular avenue to take toward a solution to the problem. The college bond issue is one of several.

It goes without saying that the entire problem of college facilities affects everyone without exception. Up until now, the apathy of the public in general in regard to the situation has been one of the major drawbacks in the search for a solution. Therefore, at this point, with the bond issue having assumed the position of prominence that it now enjoys, it becomes an obligation on the part of every New Jersey adult to acquaint himself with all sides of the issue, in order to be guided by logic rather than pressure groups.

Serving on the Essex County delegation were Barney O'Connor of 203 Franklin Avenue, James E. Swadney of 363 Branchbrook Drive, and Joseph F. Gleisner of 274 DeWitt Avenue. All three held offices respectively, of president, vice president, and treasurer. Accompanying the delegates as convention guests were two other

The Belleville Young Dems took an active part in the convention proceedings and were instrumental in bringing to the convention floor a resolution to have the Young Democrats of New Jersey support legalized off-track betting as a means of solving New Jersey's tax problems. # let's enjoy OUTDOOR living

Dining Deck Fills the Bill

With every passing year, more and more Americans discover the delights of outdoor cooking and eating. There are many, in fact, who claim that the best seasoning for any dish is good, fresh air. Architects suggest that families with a bent toward picnicking in their own back yards should have an alfresco dining room, one which can literally replace its outdoor sister three meals a day during summer months.

After putting down a good dining room floor of Douglas fir 2x4s which should be spaced a quarter inch apart for water drainage and supported on framework to keep it free of the ground—architects say the next most-important thing needed is weather control.

In particular, some type of sunshade is necessary, for really hot, direct sunlight is never a welcome guest at the feast. A simple, but effective, canopy can be made with easy post and beam construction. Posts should be 4x4 inch Douglas fir, and beams can be 2x6s.

It isn't necessary to have solid roofing over this area; 1½ inch louvers or an egerate pattern crowned with wisteria make attractive, shade-giving parasols.

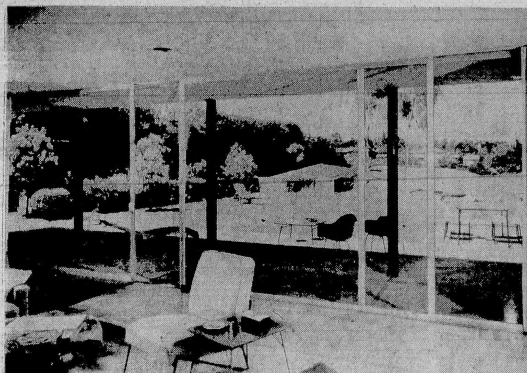

If there's a problem with wily breezes snatching napkins off laps, windbreaks are in order to weather-proof the dining deck completely. Interesting windbreaks can be built with gayly colored plastic panels set in a stout framework of Douglas fir.

The decking and sunshade can be left unstained to weather to a pleasing silvery shade.

Eye-Catcher

To make home entrance more interesting, lead eye to front door with handsome canopy over entry walk. Canopy is decked underneath with rough-sawn Douglas fir boards and supported by 4x4 inch fir posts and beams. Horizontal lines of cedar fencing alongside the walk help call attention to entrance in charming manner.

BALANCING THE LANDSCAPE to make it attractive from indoors as well as the street, is stressed by architects as a means of doubling the viewing enjoyment in today's open plan houses. As picture windows and window walls make the landscape part of the integrated living area, flower beds, shrubs and trees should create a setting which equally favors viewing for both residents and passers-by.

Picture Windows Sans View Losing Favor With Women

According to reports from various building congresses held around the country, women are out campaigning against the picture window. This is quite understandable, considering the fact that not many homes come complete with a view to frame with a picture window.

For those homeowners who have acquired neighborhood togetherness instead of a restful view with their picture window, Chandler D. Fairbank, O.S.A., offers a solution.

The problem won't be solved, according to the prominent landscape architect, by masking the window with blinds or draperies. But with a little clever landscaping, the family's privacy can be regained and a "view" created for the window.

The trick lies in devising a courtyard, much like a Roman atrium, outside the offending window.

In one case Fairbank handled recently, the window faced the driveway to the side of the house and looked directly into a neighboring home. Obviously, the solution was to erect a high fence, one side running parallel to the driveway and one side connecting to the house. This formed a three-sided enclosure, with the fourth side left open towards the back yard.

Because of the height of the fence, a light touch was needed in its design, and Architect Fairbank chose a board-on-board pattern which gave the desired privacy, while permitting free circulation of air. Vines have been trained through the spaces between the offset boards to contribute delicacy to the structure.

In designing a structure like this, the accent should fall on naturalness, according to Fairbank. The atrium should be as much as part of the house and site as possible. In this case, the fence was constructed of rough-sawn western red cedar boards which have been allowed to weather to a lovely silver, both to match the cedar house siding which was stained driftwood grey and to form a handsome backdrop for the plantings within the atrium.

Sunshade for Patio

Simple patio or porch deck of Douglas fir 2x4s gains distinction with addition of eye-catching sunshade. Canopy, supported by 4x4 posts and double 2x2 fir beams, is designed with sections of spaced 1x2s alternating with open sections. Roof cuts sun glare, make patio more livable, and bench adds inviting touch.

Architect Fairbank then pointed out that, depending upon the location of the front door, an atrium can be developed into either an entrance to the home or an outdoor living area. In either case, appropriate shrubbery, ground cover, decks, and possibly even a reflecting pool or impium will make it a lovely sight from the picture window.

If the color shows traces of bleeding, all buttons should be removed from the garment before sending it to the laundry. Institute laboratory technicians also recommend that all plastic buttons be checked before laundering or drycleaning. Some plastic buttons soften or disintegrate in cleaning. Others melt on contact with heat. When this occurs, the fabric is often damaged, also. To check buttons for melting, remove one and test it with an iron.

SPOTLIGHT ON SPORTS

By FRANK JONES

The Belleville Oldtimers held a benefit affair Monday with the theme of "Help keep senior baseball alive in Belleville." The Association is attempting to raise money to help the Belleville Orioles, Essex County League champions last season.

Helping the Yale University varsity crew finish fourth in the United States and Canada schoolboy regatta was Jim Elting, of 10 Bellevue Court. Elting rowed varsity for three years in the Blue and Gold Belleville High team. He is currently a sophomore pre-med major at Yale.

A swimming club for boys seven to 14 years old will be conducted this summer by the Essex County C.Y.O. The swimming pool at Seton Hall University will be available to the boys, according to Rev. Vincent Affanoso, County C.Y.O. director. Plans call for the pool to be used Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to noon. Registration will be held June 29 at 9:30 a.m.

Dattoli Shuts Out Columbia 10-0 On 4 Hits

Coach Berlinski's Boys Pound Three Columbia Pitchers for Fourteen Hits and Ten Runs As They End Season With A 7-9 Record

By Tom Senior

Coach Edward Berlinski's Belleville nine ended the season on a good note as they whipped Orange 10-0 on the fourth pitch of Jim Dattoli, who struck out 15 Tornado batters.

The win gave Belleville a 3-6 mark in Big Ten Conference play and a final record of 7-9 for the season. The game was decided very early as the Bellboys got four runs in the first and two in the second inning to take an early 6-0 lead. In the first, leadoff man George Sheridan singled and went to third on Ben Valente's first of three doubles. Skip Grudele was then safe on an error and Sheridan scored. Dattoli then helped his own cause as he hit a two-run double and scored when Fred Rieco was safe on another Orange error.

In the second, Pat Bivona, the smallest man on the team, walked and was sent to third on another Valente double. Grudele brought home both runners with a solid single to center. Held scoreless in the fourth and fifth while Dattoli continued to move down the Orange lineup. In the fourth Sheridan tripled and scored on a single by Valente. The five-run fourth inning was the fifth and last in which Belleville scored from second when Eric Hatch hit a solid double. Coz Cassell did not record on a base hit and an error.

The sixth was another inning that the Bellboys failed to score but they made up for it by scoring twice in the seventh. Kiki Del Guercio walked and went to third on Valente's third two-base hit. Both boys came home on Grudele's second two-run single.

Orange's only threat was in the first inning when they loaded the bases with no outs, but Dattoli settled down to get one man to pop up and struck out the other two.

Orange also had a moment of glory in the eighth when they pulled off a triple play. With Fred Rieco on second and George Vitale on first, Hatch grounded to third baseman Tony Belliston who threw to second for one and then second baseman Pat Lynch threw to first to get Hatch.

Meanwhile Rieco started to go for home and stopped and tried to get back to third, but he was tagged out by Belliston.

The 1959 Belleville Little League season attempted to get a start on May 1 but our good old weatherman had a finger in the pie. We finally did get started and, while ten games have been postponed, we have been successful in getting thirteen played.

The ten games that were postponed will be rescheduled at the conclusion of the regular schedule in their original sequence. The standings as of Friday night, May 22, are as follows:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

	W	L
Giants	3	0
Cubs	1	1
Yanks	1	2
Dodgers	1	3

St. Peter's is among the nine teams which have entered the Essex County C.Y.O.'s intermediate baseball league.

St. Peter's will be trying to unseat St. Lucy's, Newark, which has won the crown the past three years, the only team to put together such a championship streak in the league's 17-year history.

An open roster will be allowed for the first three games with opening contests scheduled for mid-time. Games will be played every Sunday afternoon thereafter with the county winners moving into the archdiocesan playoffs.

High school players will be eligible for C.Y.O. teams, it has been announced. Age limit for the league is 19. Director is Frank Ferraro of Newark.

After their fourth week of play, the Aces and the Desires are still in first and second place in the Recreation Department's Girls Softball League.

The Techniques batted their way into third place by defeating the Solans. The Techniques team is composed of Joan Fellman, Carolyn Lewis, Marilyn Vitale, Carol Brownbridge, Arlene Silsbee, Nancy Sturgeson, Sharon Levitt, Lynn Levitt and Diane Yudin. Marjorie O'Neil coaches the team.
