

N. Belmont 2-Way Ordinance Passes Its Final Reading

The Belleville Town Commissioners passed on final reading this week an ordinance to make North Belmont Avenue, between Franklin Avenue and Newark Street, a two-way street.

The ordinance had been introduced by Commissioner Harry Sullivan, director of public safety.

Making the street two-way was part of a plan to improve travel arrangements for persons using the Clara Maass Hospital. Previously those using North Belmont as a one-way street had to take a roundabout route more than a mile out of the way to get back to the heart of Belleville or Nutley.

Along with the two-way street, plans included a traffic count to be taken by the County with the aim of getting a traffic light at North Belmont and Franklin Avenues and extending a spur of North Belmont diagonally into Park Drive.

Along with the spur is the planned elimination of the short road across from the Jergens Plant property, which is a safety hazard because of a bend in the road and shrubbery which obstructs vision.

A stop street is planned at the intersection of North Belmont Avenue and Franklin, based on the outcome of the traffic count.

Got No Official Action From School Bd. on Curb, Commissioner Gruhin Says

Commissioner Robert Gruhin, director of the Department of Public Works, stated this week he had not received official action from the Board of Education on the matter of the lack of curbing at Jerusalem Street and Passaic Avenue, at School 7.

Gruhin said he had received a letter from Board of Education President Dr. Frank D. Ruggiero, but the letter had not been followed up by any action from the Board.

Gruhin also asserted that what the Board wanted was a "barriade, not a curb." He questioned whether or not a curb would prevent children from stepping out onto the road or prevent cars from careening onto the sidewalk. "We are not responsible for the actions of idiots behind wheels."

The commissioner pointed out that for 31 years there had been dirt sidewalks on Passaic Avenue and Jerusalem Street. When he assumed office in the 32nd year, he went ahead and paved the streets and put up curbs on the Passaic Avenue side.

"If it is so important to have curbing on the corner of Jerusalem Street and Passaic Avenue, why isn't it equally important to have curbing on the Jerusalem Street side, twenty feet or so away?" asked Gruhin.

Charge Lack Of Equipment At Plansoen

Nunzio Caracciola of 58 Roosevelt Avenue charged this week that the Louis Plansoen Playground, located at Bella Vista and Greylock Avenues was maintained in poor condition and that there was not sufficient nor adequate equipment for the children. He stated there were no shade trees or benches and that equipment there was broken or useless.

A check by the Belleville Times showed swings missing, no tennis net, benches or trees. There was equipment for two seesaws, but one was broken.

What once was a sliding pond was broken, with only the steps and the base remaining.

Robert E. Cook, director of recreation, stated that plansoen Playground had the highest record of any playground for vandalism. Cook further stated that there had been benches there, but they had been torn out.

He went on to point out that when the playground was first set up, 16 young trees were planted "strategically." Within a year, they were torn out, or hacked up. Cook agreed that a playground needed shade trees "or it isn't a playground at all."

He added that there was no reason to replace the trees if they would only be destroyed. Cook also said that the tennis net was missing because the court was never used.

Commissioner George F. Kiernan, director of Parks and Public Property, agreed with Cook's observations. "We have the same problem as the Board of Education in Passaic, I wish I had the answer. Sometimes it is heart-breaking to see the equipment destroyed or mutilated."

Kiernan did not comment on the lack of play equipment.

Range Billboard Lease Renegotiated For $250

Belleville will stand to gain $249 a year as a result of a new lease between United Advertising and the Town for five large billboards on the perimeter of the police pistol range.

Previously, and for the past ten years, United had been paying the town $1 a year for use of the land.

The lease was renegotiated by Mayor Isadore Padula and the price agreed upon this week by members of the Board of Commissioners.

Maass Water Problem Boils Over at Meeting

The Clara Maass water problem boiled over this week.

The flame which heated the water question was the price Clara Maass hospital was billed for water. That price — 69 cents per 1,000 cubic feet — has not been paid at all by the hospital since it opened in August, 1957.

At the Belleville Town Commission meeting Tuesday night, several residents were on hand to fan the flame. Among them were James Golden, a long-time critic of municipal doings; Chris Albanese and Albert Gugicelli. Also involved in the conversations, in a round-about way, was Thomas McGill.

But even with the remarks made on the water issue — the Board passed on first reading an amendment to the recently enacted water rate hike ordinance allowing for an upward adjustment on water rates to hospitals, so that they would pay the same rate the town paid for water.

Under the new five-year water contract with the city of Newark, Belleville now pays 90 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of water.

Mayor Padula also established a committee of three commissioners, Nuncio Pico, George F. Kiernan and Harry Sullivan, to study what the town could get by way of concessions from the hospital for the cost rate. A report is expected before the next meeting.

At the meeting Tuesday night, a ten-minute limit was placed on speakers. The suggestion was made by Commissioner Kiernan, who said the evening was hot and that the limitation would speed up business before the board.

Speaking at the time the restriction was placed was Thomas McGill, who had some things to say on back assessments and increased car insurance.

McGill insisted he had been

Work On Pipe-Line To Begin Here "Within 10 Days" On Right Of Way

Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation, with Eastern regional offices here at Newark, this week announced start of construction on a new 50-mile natural gas line from Branchburg in Somerset County to Lyndhurst in Bergen County, connecting with existing facilities at each end.

The line passes through Belleville at Franklin Avenue, near the Belleville-Nutley border, and travels easterly toward the Passaic River along the Public Service right-of-way. It will cross under the Passaic River at the Walter Kidde plant.

Work in Belleville is expected to begin within ten days, according to C. R. Melver, assistant general manager of the land division of Transcontinental.

Mr. Melver also said there was no danger in the connections.

This will be the final link in a complete dualizing of the company's 1,800-mile network of gas lines from the Gulf States to New York City. While Transcontinental serves local distributing gas companies in ten states, its principal market is the metropolitan area — from Philadelphia to New York.

The first phase of the construction, which just got under way, is clearing and grading the right of way and installation of street and highway crossings. Work crews are moving in daily with machinery and equipment, readying for early starts at several points in opening a trench for the heavy duty 36-inch steel pipe.

Construction to End in Fall

Construction will be completed by early fall and the line tested at a pressure of 150 per cent of maximum certified operating capacity before it is placed in service around November 1.

The line, designated by Transcontinental as the "Caldwell Loop," was authorized by the Federal Power Commission to keep pace in increasing demands for natural gas. All of New York City is now served by straight natural gas, with the ratio of natural gas to manufactured gas in New Jersey increasing yearly.

With permission of Public Service Electric & Gas Company, Transco's new line will be laid within or immediately adjacent to Public Service's right-of-way for its overhead electric transmission wires almost the entire length of the 50-mile route.

During the winter season, a large portion of the natural gas to pass through the Caldwell Loop will come from a storage field at Leidy, near Williamsport, Pa., supplementing existing supplies of gas transported direct by Transco from Louisiana and Texas.

Gas from the Southwest has been pouring into Leidy for

Belleville Times - News Correspondent Finds Gay Paree Tres Magnifique

BY GEORGE F. KORN

(This is the second in a series of articles written especially for the Times-News by George F. Korn, now traveling through Europe on a national educational travel tour and acting as the Times-News correspondent during his trip.)

AVIGNON, FRANCE—Another week has gone by and where it went, I'll never know. Since Amsterdam, I've spent 4½ days in Paris and I'm now in Avignon, France, the "City of Popes."

Paris was certainly the "Gay Paree" I dreamed it would be. Everything was so like the movies, I couldn't believe it. There were sidewalk cafes, beautiful gardens, the Seine and the book stalls, Montmartre and of course, the Eiffel Tower, Arche De Triumpe and Notre Dame.

I arrived at Paris, went to the hotel and ate a quick French meal (2 hours). Then I went to a performance of the "Gay Paree" show. It was certainly a spectacular stage show. The costumes and sets were out of this world and everything was changed so quickly, you wondered how they did it. The show did get very boring and since it lasted almost four hours, but it was one of the many experiences I shall never forget.

On Sunday morning, I went to a high mass at Notre Dame de Paris. Saint Patrick's in New York is big, while Notre Dame is huge. The church was built over 300 years ago when there were no high power tools and no motor driven lifts and it is almost inconceivable to comprehend how such a beautiful edifice was created.

Some of the pillars are six to seven feet in diameter and 100-150 feet high. They are as mysterious as the giant redwoods of California.

The color in the stained glass windows makes the church more beautiful. They are immense in size and there are an intricate number of pieces making up each scene. The windows are mosaics, but in living color as they are lighted by the sun's rays.

On Monday, I spent the day at Versailles, the palace of the French kings from Louis XIV

Juvenile Criminals Are Scored
By Newark Police Capt. Weber

"A very vexing problem," these words do not sum up, but they do give an indication of the feelings of Newark Police Captain Edward W. Weber, who spoke to the Belleville Kiwanis Club recently on juvenile crime.

Captain Weber said the problem was causing more and more concern "each and every day" and that young criminals were "children in name only" — and in many cases were "hard, vicious and tough criminals — muggers, burglars, arsonists, rapists, dope peddlers and killers."

Not Mischief Makers

In naming these types of offenders, Captain Weber delineated between the juvenile offender who performed mischief such as any young person might do, and others who were bent on more serious crimes.

"Their world is right in our back yard," he said. "The problem is the same no matter where we go."

Captain Weber said that nearly all of the adult criminals prosecuted today are cases where a juvenile offender was picked up too late.

"Children are not born bad," he said. "Lack of spiritual and moral guidance at home gives birth to 'teen-age terrors.' Parental neglect, said Captain Weber, is a major cause.

"True Justice"

It would be "true justice," he went on, to hold the parents responsible, both legally and financially, for the crimes of their children. Under the present laws of New Jersey, this is not possible, and while one can get a judgment against a juvenile, even this is so rare that in a case involving financial loss caused by criminal action of a juvenile, repayment is exceedingly difficult.

"The only fair and equitable thing to do is to hold the parents responsible for the crime," said Captain Weber.

The Newark law enforcement officer re-emphasized "that he was not overly concerned with the prankster and mischief maker, but that the amount and nature of juvenile crimes was a "tragic fact" demanding the "respiral of handling of juveniles."

There Are Ways

Citing recent cases in the news, he said it would take a "strong stretch of the imagination to call these thugs juvenile delinquents."

Quoting New York City Judge Samuel Liebowitz, he said that some of the crimes teenagers perpetrated would make the old "Murdur Incorporated" hang their heads in shame.

On the question of keeping the names of juvenile offenders secret, Captain Weber declared that children who commit crimes should be exposed, especially those over 16.

Captain Weber said that all juvenile crimes, no matter what their nature, are brought before the courts only on a charge of juvenile delinquency.

"We cannot pass off murder as juvenile delinquency," he said.

Against Lenient Attitude

Captain Weber was against the lenient attitude of courts in handing out probationary sentences to juvenile offenders. He was not against probation, he declared, but there were "too many juvenile sex offenders and muggers walking the streets ... It's a joke to them. They're not afraid of the courts or the law."

"There is a battle to be fought against juvenile violence — by adults, by mothers and fathers," he went on.

He quoted FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, who declared that the time for theories and test-tube experiments has passed.

"In some cities, crimes by juveniles have increased 300 per cent."

"The time is now for action against the parents of the juvenile offender," and the time has come to see the young offenders as they are, said Captain Weber.

They are juvenile criminals.

A Stigma on Adults

As for adults who contribute to juvenile delinquency, a stigma must be placed upon them.

A large segment of the adult population is equally guilty, said Mr. Weber.

A major cause of juvenile crime is society, he went on. He cited the following: indulgence rather than discipline, pleasure rather than duty, money rather than morals.

Adult delinquency affects juvenile delinquency, said Captain Weber, and the starting point is in the home. "Too much stress is placed on material things."

The traditional teaching of right and wrong has been replaced by the "holy dollar."

"There is an urgent need for the return of a sound sense of values."

"Parents who give time and attention to children deserve commendation. Those who do not, deserve scorn."

Work has to be done at the community level with an aroused citizenry ready to cope with the "smut" dealer who stresses sex, sadism and violence, said the Captain.

"We need strong bodies and clean minds," he continued.

School Supports Home

Our greatest support to the home is the school, he continued, stressing that adequate salaries for teachers were necessary for good schools.

Public awareness is the concern of every person interested in the future of youth in the United States, he declared.

"We must set a premium on good citizenship."

After the address and the question and answer period, Dr. Frank De Ruigero, president of the Board of Education, thanked Captain Weber for supporting teachers and schools.

Captain Weber is commander of the Newark Police school and is Democratic candidate for sheriff of Essex County.

He was introduced by Kiwanis President Frank Bolen.

The special event on the playgrounds last week was the Bicycle Decorating Contest. Some of the more colorful bikes decorated their bikes as horses, a devil, a rabbit, the state flag and produced all kinds of colorful and ruffled effects.

Winners at #4 Playground were Tony Zaccaro, Corbo, Josephine Cutarulo and Josephine Bivona; Stadium: Richard Pedicene, Joe Carracino, Carmella Carracino and Elaine Pede; Farragut: Linda Cubelli, Frank Fusaro, and Mary Ellen Vineri; Kelly: Jimmy Taylor, Ricky Ricciardi, Paula Cloutier and Denise Ricciardi; Pansone: Susan Lango, Billy Natale, Patty Natale and Florence Kanovsky; Recreation House: Sue Call, Karen Brevetti, Jean Cyprioli and Darl Call; and Fairway: Ellen Knapp, Carol Dietrich, Mary Ann Glevay and Janet Bucco.

Buy Meter Heads

News survey was the passage on first reading of an ordinance introduced by Commissioner Harry Sullivan, director of Public Safety, to appropriate a total of $4500 for the purchase of 212 parking meter heads to replace old units on Washington Avenue.

No Official Action

He said that "if the Board is so interested in protecting the children why don't they put a curb up instead of wasting so much money in other ways?"

Gruhn also stated that a few weeks ago, Dr. Di Ruggiero criticized a board member, Dominick Lally, for taking too much upon himself. "What is Dr. Di Ruggiero doing?"

Gruhn asserted that "if the Board in its wisdom deems it necessary to put a curb there, let them so inform me as body," officially.

The commissioner declared that "I will not be pressured into doing anything, either by the president of the Board of Education or by editors in the newspapers. I do what I think is right."

quired "complete specifications of what was going to be done with the drive, and this was not done, he said.

"They want to burden us with the complete expense of the property when we get it," said Gruhn.

Gruhn said that Benigno's attitude was that the town could await the results of a court suit.

Benigno disagreed with this interpretation and went on to say that there were dirt banks everywhere every stream in the country."

Gruhn said he had researched the ownership of the stream and there was a potential cost to Belleville of a "lot of money."

In the caucus session, Commissioner George Klerman said that if the Water Policy Commission established policy on the matter, the town was "riding for another fall in litigation."

Walter J. Hoppel, president of Joramelon Estates, asked: "Must we sue? We're trying to sell Belleville as a nice place to live and then we have to sue for everything we get."

At an executive meeting of the Commissioners held after the regular session, Board members agreed to go along with Gruhn's stand.

Mr. Golden arose to speak, stated he had "voluminous" material on the water question, to the Revolution. It was everything a palace should be and also four times the size I expected. It is like a city itself. Perhaps three cities. The main palace was absolutely beautiful, but so ornate that it was actually gaudy.

Visit To Paris

Everything was beautifully hand-carved from the picture frames to moldings on the woodwork. There are also two other palaces at Versailles, a middle size one with about 200 rooms and a small home with 18-20 rooms which we were not allowed to enter. There is a huge French garden with flowers, trees and walks in geometric patterns. The fountains scattered around the garden are well planned. A view of the palace, gardens and fountains is breath-taking.

Tuesday was Bastille Day and if you think Times Square is crowded on New Years Eve, then you should see Paris on Bastille Day. Everyone, and I mean everyone, is out celebrating and firecrackers are going off all around. There was a parade which was succeeded by a chorus of 600 persons singing revolutionary songs in the Place de la Concorde. After this, about 130 jets flew overhead. The last three had white exhausts to make a red, white and blue banner across the sky. The fireworks the night

Charges "Cover-Up"

Golden then charged that Padula was "hiding behind the skirts" of others in an attempt to "cover-up" for his actions. He made this charge with such volume that Mayor Padula, saying he gavel several times, said: "Keep your voice down. I can't hear you when you talk so loud."

Golden charged the amendment was a "cover-up" for class legislation for Clara Maass. He went on to mention that the board had the right to charge the then-prevailing rate to Clara Maass — $2.20 per 1,000 cubic feet.

He also declared that such institutions as parochial schools, which save the town thousands of dollars in taxes a year, are charged the prevailing rate for water.

Another point that Golden mentioned was that emergency patients in Belleville ambulances go right by the Clara Maass Hospital to the Columbus Hospital in Newark because of differences in what Clara Maass wanted to charge for rates for indigent patients and what the town wanted to pay.

Commissioner Sullivan, director of public safety, said that the ambulances stop at both hospitals, and Golden countered that they stopped at Clara Maass only when requested by the patient.

Hyde and Smith

Golden went on to say that he had checked with former Commissioners Elmer Hyde and Kenneth Smith, and they both had "categorically denied" they had participated in any discussion setting a rate for Clara Maass.

Mayor Padula asked Golden if he didn't think it was a "nice thing" to have Clara Maass Hospital in Belleville.

About this time, McGill rose to state that if he couldn't talk, he couldn't see why Golden was permitted to go on.

But Golden was allowed to continue, and he declared that Clara Maass Hospital was "not a good neighbor."

Padula again asked Mayor Padula who directed the billing at 69 cents. Padula replied he had told Town Tax Collector

Sewage Payment

Golden also raised the question of payment for sewage costs, and read from a contract he had obtained between Belleville and the County pertaining to payment for sewage fees.

Mayor Padula read from a list of municipalities which charge varying rates or do not charge hospitals at all for water.

Newark does not charge hospitals for water; East Orange gives a 50 per cent discount; Glen Ridge discounts 33 1/2 per cent and Passaic charges full rates to all her hospitals.

The question of a taxpayer's suit mentioned last week in the press by Golden was brought up, and in the course of Golden's talk, he indicated, but not definitely, that he might carry it through.

"Very Disturbing"

Commissioner Gruhn declared it was "very disturbing" when a citizen comes up and interferes the board of Commissioners is hiding facts from the public.

"Mr. Golden was here when the hospital officials were here a year ago and made their demands," said Gruhn. "Why was he silent then?" he asked.

Gruhn went on that further-

Newark Water Profits

Mr. Guglielmo declared that employees of the water department in Newark are paid through profits made on the water rates, and that Newark and Belleville could not be compared. He further thought that a rate of $1.80 per cubic foot would be a more equitable rate to charge the hospital.

No-one from the hospital was present at the session.

The 69 cent per 1,000 cubic feet water rate which the Essex County Hospital paid (and upon which Clara Maass' billing was subsequently based) was determined in a contract dated 1914 between the town of Belleville and the County, according to a hand-written copy of the contract in the possession of Golden at the meeting.

The contract allowed that the town would bill the Essex County Hospital at cost of the water, and that in the event of increase in cost to the town, an increase would be made in the rate charged the hospital.

Thus, under the 1914 contract, the Essex County Hospital would now be legally required to pay the 90 cent rate, without the new amendment to the ordinance.

Ku Klux Klan Terrorized Belleville
In 1868, According To Old Scrapbook

History records the year 1865 as a momentous one indeed, for it was the end of the Civil War. However, the war that followed, a cold war, saw the outbreak of an organization known as the Ku Klux Klan.

The Klan had its origin as a prank thought up by some young boys. It was later to become a horror, terrorizing many. Although Northerners tend to assign the Klan's place in the South, it was also active in the North.

An outbreak of the Klan was recorded in 1868 in the Town of Belleville. This fact was substantiated by an old newspaper clipping in Albert Henry Stephens' scrapbook. The scrapbook was brought into the Belleville Times office by Joseph Hatch of 200 Smallwood Avenue.

LOOKING IT OVER: Joseph Hatch of 200 Smallwood Avenue checks over an old book which has been in his family many years. Eleanor Novick of The Times looks on. Mr. Hatch came to the office after reading an article in last week's issue pertaining to the early history of this community.

Both Stephens, who died in 1911, and Hatch are direct descendants of Josiah Hornblower. Hornblower was a pioneer citizen in not only Belleville but in the United States and was responsible for bringing the first steam fire engine to America.

Stephens' scrapbook records that sling shots and pistols were used in the 1868 Ku Klux Klan outbreak. The citizens of Belleville had, for some time, been threatened by letters written in red ink. On the paper was a lithographic skull and crossbones.

The letters were laughed at in the beginning. Prior to the reception of the above-mentioned letters, the following dispatches were sent out.

New York, September 11, 1868
To Captain W. E. Blewett, Belleville, N. J., Horse Cars, Newark:

Hold your company under arms tonight. I have news of a probable riot at the Waterworks. Send for your lieutenants.

Jos. Plume, Colonel.
Another message issued the same day read:

To Lieut. G. F. Brynner, care of W. W. Ford, 147 Broad Street:

Report to Captain Blewett immediately. Ready for guard duty. Riot at Waterworks tonight.

Jos. Plume, Colonel.
In the absence of Captain Blewett, a lieutenant came to Newark for ammunition and further instructions. Blewett, returning, had the company out and it was on duty the same evening. Nothing occurred, nor was there any evidence of a riot at the Waterworks.

Col. Plume, it was later learned, never sent the message. The affair was supposed to be, according to the paper, the efforts of an anonymous person who had the money to send a telegram. Subsequent events proved that the fraud had a deeper meaning.

After this, a batch of Ku Klux Klan notes were received by Belleville citizens. They were addressed only on the envelope and mailed at Newark and New York.

Some of them read as follows:

Old David wants you! Prepare for eternal damnation thou son of the accursed Lincoln. Leave this state within 30 days or your fate is doomed. Death to tyrants.

This note was sent to Andrew Little from the K.K.K. Headquarters. Rev. W. W. Hallows.

Endorse 3 Postal Bills

Commander Albert C. Bonadies of 212 Hancox Avenue, Nutley, Commander of U. S. Post Office American Legion Post 300, has announced the Post consisting of 545 members all Postal employees, has endorsed three bills now pending in Washington.

The Bills, H.R. 769, H.R. 62 and S. 101 are important to Government employees who drive Government vehicles. They would give Government drivers protection against any legal suits arising out of accidents involving a department vehicle and a private citizen.

Commander Bonadies stated that the Post has secured 2,000 names on a petition protesting what he called the injustice of the problem and urging the Congressional Postal Committee to get the bills out of committee and on the floor of Congress for passage.

received a note stating that the Klan was "150 strong in Belleville, well armed and all true men."

To Lieutenant Brynner the note read: "Our gay and festive lieutenant. Are you ready for us... the devil sends for you, you must obey his summons. Leave the military or die. Your captain has been ordered to disband or die... we order you likewise. We will kill every man who stays in the company after the 15 October." After this note was received.

Belleville's Tuition Cost

Are Lowest In Essex County

Superintendent of Schools, Evan H. Thomas this week issued statistics from a State Department of Education report concerning high school costs for tuition purposes per pupil in average enrollment for the 1956-57 and 1957-58 school years.

According to these statistics, the Belleville cost per pupil is the lowest in Essex County. The costs are $379.07 for the 1956-57 school year and $367.71 for the 1957-58 school year.

Belleville's costs are lower than any in Bergen and Hudson counties as well. Many of the south and central Jersey counties have higher average costs than Belleville.

The costs are low, primarily, because Belleville has not undertaken a new building program for more than 30 years, Mr. Thomas stated.

The present high school plant, for the computing of average costs on this survey, is listed at something over $770,000. According to Thomas, few towns house so large a school in so low-priced a facility.

Sum Up Program Curbes
Mr. Thomas summed up the low cost to mean that because of crowded buildings, expansion and improvement of curriculum in vital areas is curbed.

He listed as examples the English, social studies and home economics departments. He said, "Expansion in these departments cannot take place because of lack of room." More room would necessitate hiring added staff.

"In the library, the facilities are inadequate," Thomas stated, due to the fact that there is only one librarian and no assistants.

Both Dr. Frank DiRuggiero, president of the Board of Education, and Mr. Thomas asserted in their statements to the press that they were "not proud of these figures." They indicated that such low costs pointed out that something was lacking in the present school system.

The statewide average costs for tuition purposes per pupil in average enrollment were $455.30 in 1956-57 and $496.20 for 1957-58. This is higher than Belleville's costs.

Parks Commissioner Prepares
Mass Mosquito Massacres

Commissioner George F. Kiernan this week explained a new service offered Belleville by the Department of Parks and Public Property — spraying of streets to prevent mosquitoes.

Mosquito spraying formerly was performed by the Essex County Mosquito Commission about once a week and did not cover all streets. Since the County Commission discontinued the service, the Department of Parks and Public Property of Belleville, directed by Commissioner Kiernan, has taken up the work and increased its frequency.

Belleville's streets are now all sprayed twice a week. When either rain or high winds prevent the spraying on scheduled nights, spraying is done the following night.

The work is accomplished between 4:30 and 10 p.m. Spraying equipment is loaned to the Town by the Essex County Mosquito Commission and is mounted on the Belleville Recreation Department pickup truck.

Commissioner Kiernan felt that the public would be interested in knowing the nature of the spray used. It is 6 per cent D.D.T. dispersed in fuel oil and sprayed under extreme pressure. According to the commissioner, it is not harmful to humans, pets or plants. The spray does not instantly kill the mosquitoes but works by clinging to the shrubs and trees where the mosquitoes breed. It is the regular and repeated attack that thins out the pests, Kiernan declared.

Drivers of the mosquito spray truck have asked parents to try to keep children from the vehicle while they are spraying. "Driving the vehicle is a difficult and painstaking chore without worrying about crowding children," said Kiernan, "and the drivers wish to prevent even the possibility of hitting a child."

Commissioner Kiernan says he hopes this service will add to the comfort of Belleville's citizens this summer.

North Belmont Ave., 2-Way

A Good Move By Commissioners

The Board of Commissioners, in passing on final reading the ordinance making North Belmont Avenue a two-way street from the intersection at Franklin Avenue to Newark Street, acted wisely.

The passage on final reading was expected, of course, since the ordinance passed the first reading without any protest, and the case for the two-way street was made abundantly clear by the reaction of patients, doctors and others using the entrance to the Clara Maass Hospital.

The overwhelming opinion of a survey taken by the Times-News showed that the one-way street caused a great deal of inconvenience and that a two-way street was desired.

With the street one way, motorists using North Belmont had to travel more than a mile out of their way in order to get back toward the heart of Belleville or Nutley.

When the street is made two-way (ten days after publication of the ordinance), motorists will get a charge to see the difference in distances to be travelled to get back to the heart of Belleville or Nutley.

It should be a major improvement.

Some People Ask For Blood

As this issue of the Belleville Times is going to press the Clara Maass Hospital is in the headlines again. This time it's over the question of water and cash.

Too often citizens of a community attempt to evaluate a hospital in terms of "cold cash." This is a very questionable procedure, for the real value of a hospital cannot be measured in terms of dollars and cents.

Residents of a community must pay regularly for the services of the fire department regardless of their individual use of this public facility. Similarly, they must pay for police protection for the entire community whether or not they, personally, ever have any use for it. By the same token, standby medical facilities for Belleville's 40,000 plus residents has a definite value.

Today, in this country, there are over 6,000 non-profit, community hospitals. Many of these institutions have been provided through private philanthropy at no cost to the municipality. In other instances, in some nearby municipalities, municipal funds have been used to build and operate the hospital facilities at staggering costs to the taxpayers.

Clara Maass Memorial, one of the former type, was built with the aid of privately donated funds and a $2,000,000 loan which has to be amortized at the rate of $181,000 per year. In essence, no tax funds have been contributed to provide this facility for Belleville.

It has been stated that the land purchased by the Clara Maass Memorial Hospital could have been better used as a site for a tax-paying apartment project or an industrial plant — that ratables were lost when the hospital moved to the Belleville area.

This same thinking can be applied to every church, every school, every playground and every recreational area in the municipality. Certainly in this day and age, a hospital is as much a part of a modern community as these other facilities.

However, the hospital does pay taxes on all the land it owns over 5 acres. Moreover, since the hospital opened, numerous homes have been erected or remodelled in the immediate area which have resulted in increased ratables. Also, as a result of the hospital being located in Belleville, many doctors have moved into one or the other of the communities served, buying homes and remodeling them for both business and residence. Also some of the hospital's older personnel moved into the area, buying or renting homes so as to be near the hospital.

More than 500 people are on the hospital payroll. Clara Maass is the fourth largest employer in Belleville. Most of the new employees have come from the Belleville-Nutley-Bloomfield area, thus providing a source of steady income for many residents of these communities and more revenue for the merchants.

Industry, when relocating or selecting a site for a new plant, looks for a modern community that provides all the necessary health and educational facilities for their employees and their families. Many large business concerns, like many families, will not locate in a community that does not have modern health and hospital facilities. Not only have real estate values in the vicinity of the hospital been enhanced since the new hospital was opened, but its presence here has made Belleville a better community in which to live.

Shortly after the hospital opened, a Belleville businessman suffered a severe heart attack at his place of employment and was immediately rushed to the hospital. Life-saving drugs and oxygen were administered and the patient, after a short period of hospitalization and convalescence, returned to his family and his business.

The doctors and the patient readily admit that a life was saved because of the proximity of a hospital. In two years, cases of this type have recurred time and again. Could one evaluate the saving of these lives in terms of dollars and cents?

Recently we published the story of a life that was saved at Clara Maass because of the availability of special life-saving equipment which was readily available for immediate use in heart emergencies. This story was syndicated throughout the entire state and favorable publicity was garnered for the hospital and the community as well.

Clara Maass Memorial is a service institution. It is also an educational facility. It trains doctors and nurses for all areas of service. This educational program, subsidized by the hospital, is provided at no cost to the taxpayer. Nursing refresher courses are held. Specialized courses for doctors, with some of the country's leading specialists as lecturers, are held regularly. Can the value of a doctor, a specialist, or a competent graduate nurse be measured in cold cash by a critically ill patient, or his family? When illness strikes, when it's a case of life or death, money loses all value.

Few people stop to think that Clara Maass Memorial provides both in-patient and emergency service 24 hours a day, 7 days a week including Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays. It can't shut down when the 5 o'clock whistle blows, or on weekends or holidays.

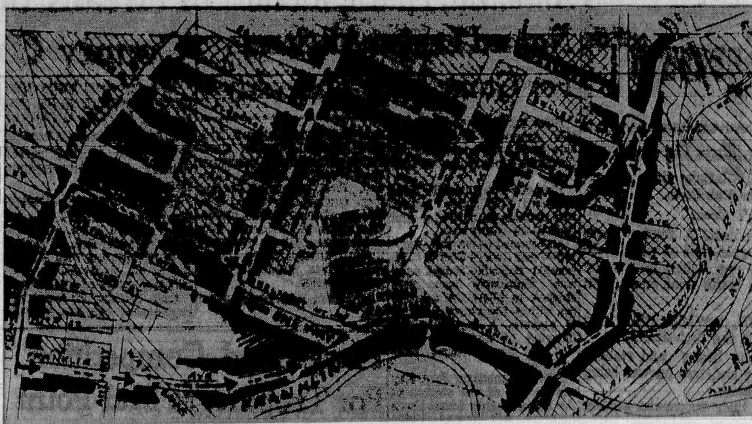

Speaking of the Emergency Department alone, so far this month 194 people from the area have entered Clara Maass for emergency treatment. Some admissions were due to the Poison Control Center opened recently. Poison is the greatest killer of children under 6 years of age.

The income received from emergency room cases does not begin to pay for such stand-by service. It stands to reason that it must be subsidized by someone. Doesn't it follow logically, therefore, that it be done in part at least by the communities which benefit from such services?

We do not agree that our Board of Commissioners indulged in a "giveaway" regarding the water supplied to the Clara Maass Hospital. The simple fact is that the hospital has been billed by the Revenue and Finance Department for water from the very first day a water meter was installed at the hospital.

During these painful times of high taxes and shrinking purchasing power it is a popular sport to rap public bodies for spending taxpayer money and for considering the question of financial concessions, regardless how worthy the cause. The Clara Maass water bill falls in the latter category.

North Belmont 2 Way-Finally

ONE-WAY — NOW TWO-WAY: The action of the Belleville Town Commission Tuesday night in passing on final reading the ordinance making North Belmont Avenue between Franklin Avenue and Newark Street a two-way street will eliminate the long round-about routes motorists must take to get back to the heart of Belleville or Nutley, with North Belmont one-way. North Belmont leads to the parking lots at Clara Maass Hospital. One of the lots is for employees and doctors and the other for visitors. As a one-way street, motorists seeking to return to the Franklin Avenue intersection, some 200 feet distant, had to travel more than a mile. In many cases, this was through heavy rush-hour traffic on streets crowded and narrow, with the ever-present danger of injury to youngsters. The map above gives a graphic illustration of the distance a visitor or a hospital employee had to travel from the lots in order to get back to the heart of Belleville or Nutley. There are two main routes, both delineated by areas in the above map, and both more than a mile in distance. Under the new set-up, which will go into effect ten days after publication of the ordinance (State approval also is expected as a formality), the two-way arrangement will save motorists valuable time and should eliminate frustration.

It is our contention that the Clara Maass Hospital should not be judged harshly by our Belleville residents. We believe it should not be placed in the same category as the Essex County Hospital because we subsidize the County Hospital by our annual contributions to the County Treasurer, whereas we make no such contributions to Clara Maass.

Instead of looking upon Clara Maass as the friend she has proven to be there are voices in our midst that cry for her blood. A tragedy indeed.

Hague's Gone, But Are His Tyrannical Methods?

With the demise of Hague several years ago, voters throughout New Jersey thought they saw the end of tyrannical rule within the Democrat party. Latest developments out of the New Jersey Attorney General's office suggest otherwise. Attorney General David D. Furman recently instructed newly confirmed Essex County Prosecutor Brendan T. Byrne to present anew to a new Essex County Grand Jury matters investigated and disposed of by a former Essex Grand Jury more than ten months ago.

We refer to the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission and the charge that it misused its authority and funds in the planning and construction of rehabilitation and expansion projects to provide the area with a modern sewerage disposal plant to cope with the increased needs of the communities served.

Last year a Grand Jury, consisting of outstanding citizens, sitting for five months, listening to more than 44 witnesses, rolling up more than 2,000 pages of testimony, conducted perhaps the most exhaustive and expensive investigation ever undertaken by an Essex Jury intent on searching out the truth.

In its findings the Jury pulled no punches. It handed down a presentment in which (a) it took to task the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission membership for loose and unbusinesslike practices; (b) recommended that Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission be abolished and a non-political administration be established under the control of member municipalities to afford affected taxpayers direct control; (c) recommended to the Attorney General that he study the question of joint ventures by industry, in order to determine if legislation is required to correct any possible weaknesses in the law.

As to the second recommendation of the Grand Jury directed to the attention of the Attorney General, no peep has been heard from Attorney General David Furman. Instead, Furman asks another Grand Jury to investigate ground covered by last year's Jury. Why did the Attorney General wait until this hour to request a second investigation?

The way we see it — The Democrat Party requires a Democrat victory in Essex County this November. At all costs the 12 Assembly seats and the Senate seat must be retained by the Democrats to continue Carey in power and maintain Meyer's remarkable and unprecedented string of state-wide election victories.

What better than to have another investigation of a formerly Republican-Essex dominated Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission? The timing of the investigation to coincide with the November election and the highly irregular but legally permissive procedure of an Attorney General requesting a second Grand Jury to review the ground covered by another Grand Jury looks mighty suspicious to us. Last year's prosecutor, Charles Webb was a Republican. The present prosecutor, Brendan Byrne, is a Democrat.

An outstanding former member of the Attorney General's office once told us that an indictment is one of the easiest things for law enforcement officials to obtain. Hague was accused of using the indictment device to destroy his enemies and keep in line would-be challengers.

Hague may be gone but his political philosophy may well live on. Time and events will tell. The only consolation for voters who want to see the ends of justice served is the fact that First Assistant Prosecutor John Crane is in charge of this investigation. Harvard-educated Crane has cut his political eye-teeth in Nutley politics. He is a Democrat law-enforcement official whose integrity and sense of fairness and justice are unimpeachable. Crane may hold his present office by reason of politics and politicians but in the discharge of the duties at hand this moral code places him above the call of politicians.

"Hey, Sport"

Bob Cook, Former Boxer, Slugs The Sport

If you want to get some very definite views on boxing, talk to Recreation Director Bob Cook.

"It's a lousy business," says Cook.

Bob is articulate on the subject. A former boxer himself, he fought "60 or 70" fights, nine of which were professional bouts. In all nine pro fights, he won by knock-outs. None of his pro bouts went more than four rounds.

Bob weighed in at about 179, was built solidly and had a good punch. He fought in the Rochester area.

He quit when he "got some brains" and realized the destructiveness of the sport and that he was being used, as well as all the young fighters.

Managers would hand-pick their opponents, making sure their proteges met fighters they could defeat without too much trouble, thus giving them "synthetic reputations".

Young fighters never really knew whether they were good or not. And all the time, they were heading for definite physical impairment.

The only kind words Bob has to say about boxing is that the road work and punching the bag in training are useful.

As for the sport itself, "there is no nobility" to it, Cook maintains.

A fighter, says Cook, has to be a combination of raw masochist and raw sadist. To punish and be punished. Fear also enters the picture. Bob tells of the feeling in the pit of his stomach, when he faced an opponent. "He looked bigger than the last time I saw him."

"The first time you go toward the opposing fighter," says Cook, "it is with the feeling of fear, throwing a few defensive punches and hoping the guy doesn't get you. After you get him going, another feeling enters—that of pure animal savagery."

There is also the fear of embarrassment—the humiliation of being beaten by another fighter—which outweighs the fear of being maimed or injured.

After the fights, you go home feeling dirty, says Cook.

Bob is not alone in this feeling. He has talked to other fighters and ex-fighters, and having made this "confession," finds that many he spoke to felt the same way.

It's not that Bob is strongly against all sports with bodily contact.

"Football has nobility," says Cook. "There are certain parallels for living. It teaches teamwork and allows a player to make decisions and take responsibility. There is a great deal of interdependence in football."

Another thing about football—where there is any possibility of injury—the body is protected. Not so in boxing.

"It's not a question of 'if' a boxer will get 'punch drunk,' but when."

In Bob's book, boxing destroys, and he goes strongly on record as doing anything he can to prevent its being taught.

Asked about young children—as young as five and six—putting on gloves—as is sometimes shown in photos and newsreels—Bob thinks this is disgraceful.

"I think it's terrible. It's a case of a big frustrated guy pushing kids around to do things they weren't themselves able to do when young."

Here again, says Bob, the strong power of humiliation enters. This is the humiliation of having to face the big man in the corner.

Bob figured his was a "synthetic reputation" when he sparred with Patsy Perrone, a sharp boxer. Perrone, later went on to fight Joe Louis (before Louis was champion). He went the full route with the Brown Bomber, but lost on points.

In his sparring match with Perrone, Bob found he couldn't land a punch where he meant to.

Bob's trainer was Jack Foran, who had been chief sparring mate for Jack Dempsey.

Bob recalls one of his last fights. In it he had swung hard at his opponent—and missed. On his way past the fighter, he was given added propulsion by a blow to the jaw. This was the second round. His next recollection was waking up in his corner. He asked his trainers if he had knocked out, but they told him no, he was doing fine. Then he found it was the end of the third round. To this day he can't recall his actions in the interval.

Bob, now 39, fought during the days of the depression. He also participated in professional wrestling, and had about half a dozen matches. Winner of the matches received $35, while the loser got $25.

Cook has done a lot more in sports, excellent, actually, although he claims he isn't a "natural" athlete and had to work at it. He's done weightlifting, played football, soccer and professional Larosse.

For relaxation now, he fences.

He's an interesting fellow to talk to, and unfortunately, space prevents further discussion here. He works well with kids and he's got sound ideas worth listening to.

Any of the local service organizations would do themselves a good turn if they got Bob before their group and asked him to talk about boxing and its destructive aspects.

Antonelli, Hatch, Riccio Named Legion All-Stars For Game Next Thursday

Three members of the Belleville American Legion team have been selected to play on the Essex County Legion All-Stars.

They are Pat Antonelli, third baseman; Eric Hatch, pitcher who doubles as outfielder and Fred Riccio, short stop.

Also named—but then dropped—was George Sheridan, 15-year-old Belleville second baseman. Sheridan's name was dropped to allow the team to get within the player limit of 17 players. A factor in the dropping of Sheridan's name was the young second baseman.

Belleville manager John Kay will be one of the coaches of the Essex County team. Essex All-Stars will meet Union County Legion All-Stars at 8 p.m. next Thursday, August 6th at Brophy Field, Elizabeth.

Managing the All-Stars will be Frank Dunham of West Orange. Coaching with Kay will be "Butch" Woods of Nutley.

The team roster for Essex County is as follows:

Catchers: Force, West Orange; Wolfarth, Nutley; Pitchers: Lipman, Caldwell; Hatch,

Belleville; Viola, Caldwell; Outfield: Testa, Montclair; Cheronick, Irvington; Middleton, West Orange; Eyster, Caldwell; First basemen: Brogan, West-Orange; Hossenlop, Nutley; Shortstops: Riccio, Belleville; Kuebler, Irvington. Second basemen: Oliver, Caldwell; Rioridan, Montclair. Third basemen: Cérace, Montclair; Antonelli, Belleville.

Admission will be by donation.

Playground Competition For Trophies at Mid-Point

The standings so far in each of the four categories are:

Federal Certain for 1st In Rec Industrial League

The Federal Industries squad in the Recreation Industrial Softball League has clearly established itself in first place with a 9-0 record and looks certain to finish the season in the lead spot.

Holding a good grip on second with a 7-3 record is the Wallace & Tiernan team.

The big battle now is for third and fourth positions, which will mean a part in the Shaughnessy playoffs at the end of the season.

Any of the remaining six teams could pull into a playoff position, but at present it is A. W. W. P. A. in third place

Petreans Still Lead County CYO Loop

In a ferocious battle with its town rival from St. Anthony's, St. Peter's CYO of Belleville retained its hold on first place in the Essex County CYO Intermediate Baseball League.

St. Anthony's St. Peter's three extra innings before losing a pitcher's battle, 4-0, in the 10th. Up to that time, Ed Szep of St. Peter's and Fred Muzzarella of St. Anthony's were in complete charge of the game.

Szep, notching his fourth victory against one loss, gave up just four hits, including a double to Dom Klein. Then he helped win his own game in the 10th when after two had scored he delivered a triple with a man on.

It was only the fifth hit for St. Peter's. Each team made one error.

St. Peter's now has a 6-1 record for the year and is a scant half game ahead of St. Joseph's Spanish, Newark. The loss dropped St. Anthony's into a tie for sixth with St. Rose of Lima, Newark.

St. Peter's will be idle this Sunday and St. Joseph's is expected to tie for the lead when it plays winless St. Patrick's, Newark. That should set the stage for the final game of the year in which the two leaders meet in head-to-head combat.

St. Anthony's will be in action this week, however, when it tangles with Our Lady of the Valley, Orange, which dropped a 2-1 decision to St. Joseph's in its last recent outings. Our Lady of the Valley, with a 3-2 record, will be a slight favorite.

The game is scheduled for 1 p.m. at Branch Brook Extension.

Belleville Park Leads In Rec. Jr. Baseball

Tom Palumbo, hard-hitting first baseman, starred for the Parkers with three hits.

Hitting honors were shared by second baseman Paul Shapiro, who hit a three-run home run for the league leaders.

Tony Raimo suffered his first league defeat. His slants were caught by John Valese. The team standings to date are:

The National Little League tournament has progressed through the second round and shows the American League All Stars entering the quarter finals of the District Championship.

On Saturday, July 25, the Belleville Americans bested the South Kearny aggregation by a score of 4-2. Sunday, July 26, Belleville Americans were victorious over a strong South Orange team who had entered the District Championship as favorites.

The Belleville Nationals beat Livingston on Saturday July 25 by a score of 1-0 but failed to get by in the East Kearny group, at Kearny Monday night, July 27.

Accolades are due Al De Kler for the work put into the American League group. Al sacrificed a great portion of his vacation so that he could devote the time to practice sessions that were necessary during the day with his boys. Good work Al, I'm sure we all appreciate it.

The Cubs in the National League picked up more wins on Monday and Wednesday evening, to solidify their hold on first place. The Cubs need but one win or one Giant loss to be assured the local championship in the National League Division and the right to play the Clippers for the Town title.

(The Bombers and the Aces are now tied for second place as a result of an Ace win on Tuesday, July 21.)

The standings through Friday, July 24 in the local league are as follows:

AMERICAN W L
Clippers 12 3
Bombers 7 8
Aces 5 12
Demons 5 12

NATIONAL W L
Cubs 12 3
Giants 10 6
Yankees 6 12
Dodgers 4 11

There has been some commotion concerning the continuance of the league schedule right up to All Star competition time. There are those who feel continuance of a regular schedule does not give adequate time for the All Stars to learn to play together. There are others who feel that the continuance of the regular schedule is more advantageous to the boys who play on the All Stars and also a definite advantage for the boys who fail to make an All Star team.

The write is inclined to agree with the latter, for Belleville Little League should and is the most important phase of the program. The program, on a local level, is designed to keep the boys active throughout the summer and it does not seem equitable to have 28 boys playing, practicing, etc., and 92 boys inactive just waiting for the others to fall.

This year's program has been the best yet and it is hoped by all that this plan will continue. If the continuance of this plan prevents the fielding of an adequate team for the tournament, it might be wiser to discontinue participation in a national tournament.
