ABC CONTROVERSY

Commissioners Plan Liquor Board's End

Town Commission introduced an ordinance this week which would abolish the local Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

The measure would be permitted in the Walsh Act, under which the incoming commission is governed.

The decision was made according to the commissioners as a result of the recent indictment by an Essex County grand jury of C. Robert Sarcone, a former state senator, and his two alleged henchmen on charges involving conspiracy to obtain money from a tavern owner to block the suspension of his liquor license.

The local bistro is the Varsity Bar, located at 35 Williams Street.

The commission said the Walsh Act provides that it can perform the duties of the ABC board, if it wants to. It feels the latest ABC scandal only points out the lack of control over such autonomous boards.

Halt More Embarrassment
"We are seeking to halt any further embarrassment to the town of Belleville," Mayor Kenneth Smith said.

This week Sarcone withdrew as a candidate for state senator on the Essex County Republican organization ticket. He was indicted for allegedly conspiring to extort money from Sam Stellatella, the Belleville bar owner.

Gene Barnett Re-Appointed Town Clerk

Eugene "Cappy" Barnett can breathe a sigh of relief. The new Town Commission has appointed him clerk of Belleville for a three year term at a salary of $9,995.

He can now feel more secure in the fact that he will be able to hold his office for five continuous years. This is the period necessary in order to qualify for tenure. All Barnett needed was a one year term. He got three.

Barnett has been seeking ten-

BELLEVILLE GOVERNMENT PLEDGES FISCAL ECONOMY

Initial Week Busy For Local Officials

It has been a busy week for Belleville's new commissioners. And despite a few tense moments, the new marriage shows indications of being solidly constructed.

Beginning with inauguration ceremonies, which were described as "impressive" by the hundreds of persons who attended, the new commissioners have had little time to stop for a breath.

The inauguration was held at the high school auditorium. Members of the town government and their aides were sworn into office by Magistrate Edward Abramson.

At the climax of the ceremonies, more than 400 persons went to the Elks Club Hall where the new commissioners met with friends, relatives and well wishers.

Sunday evening belonged to Commissioner Mary V. Senatore. A gala inaugural ball was held in her behalf. Friends from Belleville and political cronies from Essex County were on hand for the festivities.

Mrs. Senatore appeared thrilled. She told the few hundred guests at the affair that she greets them all with a tear of gladness. "This is a fantasy and a dream come true," she said.

Monday night the commission held its first meeting in the Municipal Building.

Former Councilman James Golden appeared at the meeting, his first since the May election, to offer criticism regarding the commission's plan to amend the zoning code to prohibit garden apartments in prime residential areas.

After several minutes of comments, Golden was asked by Mayor Smith to be seated. Golden then snapped that Smith was attempting to become "a dictator." Smith asked a policeman to seat Golden.

Zoning

Regarding the commission's move to amend its zoning ordinance, the governing body noted that the measure would seek to prevent the Pinna & Tamburro Development Co., East Orange, from building a 250-unit garden apartment on Fairway Avenue.

The developers had filed plans in May, despite pending court action presented by residents against the project in Superior Court.

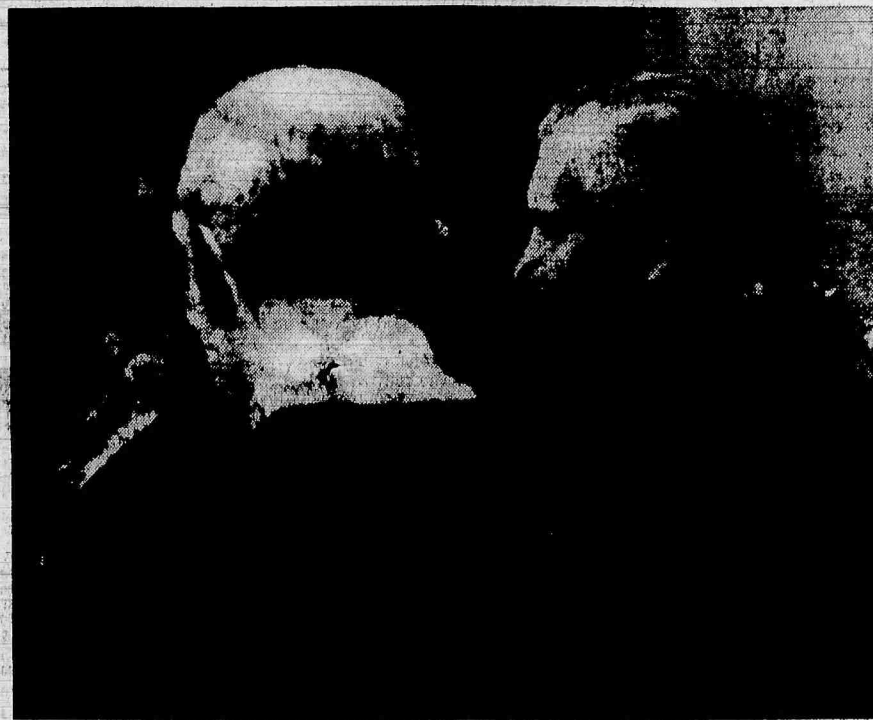

Town Attorney Charles B. Tedesco, who was appointed Saturday, was authorized to prepare an opinion within two weeks.

V. Strumolo Still Wants Harmony

Obstructionist?

Commissioner Vincent T. Strumolo was more than unhappy that a majority of the new Town Commission took the department of public works away from him only a few brief hours before his inauguration.

Strumolo, visibly stunned and downcast, had sharp words for Mayor Kenneth D. Smith and his cohorts on inauguration day.

But while the new commissioner is sorrowful regarding the last minute change (he now heads the department of public affairs), Strumolo said he does not intend to become an obstructionist and said that he has amply proven his desire for harmony by voting for Mayor Smith as well as the other resolutions presented.

"This is despite the fact that the mayor cast me aside claiming that I was planning to create jobs," Strumolo said. He said the commissioners had met for the past two months and worked out those final details prior to taking over the change in government in an attempt to make a smooth transfer this week.

Nevertheless, Strumolo said he is willing to accept last Saturday's decisions, however, unforeseen and upsetting as they may be, and continue to work together.

"I see a lot fine things that I can accomplish in the public affairs department," Strumolo said.

Politically Motivated

As far as the change to make Mary Senatore public works head is concerned, Strumolo insists that it is politically motivated and stressed that it could signal the beginning of a majority bloc. Mayor Smith said that a majority bloc would not exist unless it is through the workings of obstructionists.

And since Strumolo indicated he would not be a blatant obstructionist, it appears likely to residents that Belleville will not see a majority bloc.

Dale Carnegie Studies Will Begin Locally

William McDowell, president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, has announced that the chamber will serve as sponsor of a Dale Carnegie Course, soon to begin in Belleville.

"We are bringing the course to our community because we feel it is in the interest of public service," McDowell said.

The organization of this class will be under the direction of Samuel Keller, area manager for

Boathouse for Crew Organizations May See September Completion

KEEP ROWING GOING — The Woman's Club of Belleville turned over $100 to the Belleville - Nutley Rowing Association this week, which were receipts from a drive held recently at the Municipal Stadium. More than

The planned boathouse for the racing crews of Nutley, Belleville, and Kearny High Schools should be a reality by September, officials overseeing the plans and fund drive predicted this week.

Everett Zabriskie of the Nutley Board of Education met last week with the architect to work out the final details. He said bids for the boathouse will probably be out this month. The boathouse, to be built near Riverbank Park in Kearny, will be used by the High School racing crews of the three communities.

Kearny has agreed to contribute one-third, or about $20,000, of the estimated cost of the boathouse. A fund drive is still going on in Nutley and Belleville, but Dr. Sidney Rogoff said the goal is almost reached.

The Belleville Woman's Club made a collection at the Municipal Stadium during the July 4th ceremonies but the rain dampened the crowd and held the donations to a minimum. About $100 was turned over to the Belleville Rowing Association trustees.

The next aim of the fund drive will be local industries.

Ralph Borgess, secretary of the Kearny Board of Education, said his system has appointed two teachers to coach a Kearny racing crew next school year.

Mayor Smith Forecasts 'New Dawn' For Town

Kenneth Smith, during his first speech as mayor of Belleville over the week-end forecast a new dawn for the town and asked citizens for their support and co-operation.

He said: Belleville today stands at its most critical crossroads. Its destiny lies not only in the hands of its elected public officials but also, in great measure, in the hands of its citizens.

The very soul of Belleville has been tortured over these past few years. Many precedents have been established. Governments have been overthrown. Respectable citizens have been recalled from office. Good public servants were rejected by voters at the polls. All these actions have impaired Belleville's image.

Having spent a life time in this great community I have come to love Belleville because it is home to me. Every blemish upon the fine name of Belleville I feel personally as it affects my own proud family name.

Belleville voters once before have given me the privilege of serving them. Through your courtesy last May 8th you have again bestowed upon me the same privilege. Through the consideration of my commission colleagues I have been given the high honor of serving our town and you as mayor.

Belleville has great natural resources. We have almost 200 million dollars of real estate within the borders of our three square miles. Among the 40,000 people that reside in Belleville, yes—in this very audience are some of

Narcotics Seized

Police Make Dope Raid On Home

Three area men are scheduled to appear in Municipal Court July 20 before Magistrate Edward Abramson on charges of possessing narcotics.

The complaint was filed against Ronald Costa, 62 Maple Avenue, Belleville; Ralph Belverio, 10 Olive Street, East Orange; and Angelo Zecca of 478 Roosevelt Avenue, Lyndhurst.

Local detectives raided Costa's home earlier this week. Entering the house with a search warrant, the police seized a bag of heroin and a number of hypodermic needles. Involved in the raid were Detectives O'Reilly, Joe Portorella and Thomas Ricci. They were assisted by Lieutenant William Suckey from the Sheriff's office.

The raid climaxed an extended investigation by the police department's detective bureau.

The raid was completed by 3 p.m. Monday.

Of the three persons arrested, Costa was the only person held. He was unable to pay the $3,500 bail. Bail was somewhat less for the others accused.

Belverio was able to post $500 and Zecca placed $250 for bail.

Detective O'Reilly said that although a small amount of narcotics were confiscated from the home, the department considers the raid of major importance in limiting drug traffic within the community.

In a related matter, the local Jaycees announced that it plans to sponsor a discussion at its July 20 meeting concerning the narcotics problems in Belleville.

The guest speaker for the evening will be Essex County Sheriff Leroy D'Aloia. The sheriff will outline problems and possible solutions to the major problem.

The Jaycees, calling the matter a "social scar," maintains that Belleville has had its share of tragedies due to narcotics.

The Jaycees have invited interested residents to attend the

The commission passed a resolution to hire Jack J. Soriano, former town attorney under the council-manager government, to represent the community in the pending case before the Appellate Division of the Superior Court.

Mayor Smith would not reveal Soriano's salary. He said Soriano had not accepted the position yet.

Soriano was town attorney when the former council had voted to approve the project in March 1966. Commissioner William H. Cullen and former Councilman Golden had cast the negative votes.

Three ordinances were introduced. Public hearings will be held July 25.

The ordinances are: to rescind the administrative code adopted under the council-manager government; to allow the commission to act as an excise board in alcoholic beverage control matters, and to name Tedesco as an administrative clerk in the office of the mayor, thereby assuring his Civil Service rating.

Barnett

He began working for the town 17 years ago as a water meter reader.

He lost his chance to regain tenure when the council-manager government replaced the commission system in 1962 and the town manager, William Sommers, was made clerk.

After a recall movement in 1964, Barnett regained his job. Since then he has been appointed on a year-to-year basis.

Barnett is a past president of the Essex County Municipal Clerks and a member of the Municipal Clerks Association of New Jersey.

Wes Westrom & Associates, who presents the course in this area. "The Dale Carnegie Course for more than a half a century has helped men and women to live happier, richer and more successful lives through the discovery and development of their hidden talents and potential abilities," Keller said, "such as the development of greater self-confidence, a keen memory and more effective powers of communication."

He went on to say that many people take the course primarily because they want a broader understanding of human relations. They want to know how to get along even more graciously with people whether it's in a business or social situation or at home. Keller reported that the Dale Carnegie course, during its 55 years of operation, has graduated well over a million men and women and the course is now offered in all fifty states and in many other countries.

Anyone who is interested in more information about the Dale Carnegie Course may write or telephone the Chamber of Commerce.

Sarcone announced his decision to the same screening committee which selected him unanimously a month ago to lead the ticket.

The decision, which Sarcone said was not an easy one to make, followed extensive thought after Sarcone examined "the realities of politics and his own personal standards."

He said, "My every waking moment must be spent clearing my name and cleansing the stain that has been placed on my reputation in this county and this state," he said.

Mayor

America's leading citizens. We have neighborhoods in Belleville that compare with the best residential areas in the country. Some of the world's industrial giants are located right here in Belleville. Many of the leading small business men in New Jersey maintain businesses in Belleville. The religious institutions of our great town are unsurpassed. Our high quality school teachers are giving us an excellent school system.

Our police and fire departments are among the most loyal and competent in the state. Our other public employees are equally dedicated and decent citizens.

The ingredient lacking to bring out the best in them is official leadership which they can respect and of which they can be proud. In this hour of Belleville's greatest opportunity we dedicate ourselves to the fulfillment of that objective.

Belleville has a bright future. I have the assurance of my commission colleagues they will make every effort to get Belleville moving again. I pledge to you here and now, every minute of my living day will be spent in an unrelenting effort to upgrade the fine name of Belleville, to keep taxes down, to eliminate needless expenses and to make Belleville once again a name and a town of which we can all be proud.

High Goals

In order to accomplish these high goals, we need harmony in the Town Commission, we need God's help, and we need your help. Only with such a united effort, can we look back when our terms expire four years hence and feel confident that a job was well done — that the dreams and high hopes we share this very hour will become meaningful realities to be inherited by future town commissions and the next generation of citizens.

New Dawn

When today's ceremonies are concluded and you leave this auditorium, go out into the brilliant sunshine and with shoulders back, chest out, and head held high, tell the world you have witnessed the dawn of a new day for Belleville.

With renewed faith in our great city's future and a feeling that stems from the heart — tell them all — friends, relatives, and strangers — "I'm from Belleville and proud of it!"

For my part I give you my word, With God's help we will not let you down. We aim to obey our oath and honor your trust.

I wish to express my heartfelt thanks to our voters for permitting me to serve on a town commission of distinguished and capable colleagues.

While we pray that the old, unwanted municipal precedents are soon to be forgotten, in your great wisdom you voters have presented us with a praiseworthy precedent — a female member of one of Belleville's leading and pioneer families has been sworn in today as a town commissioner — the first lady to hold such an office in our history.

Proud Dawn

This is a proud day for Belleville, its citizens, and especially for the Vuono-Senatore family. Mary Vuono-Senatore has already brought fame and honor to our town. She possesses a determination and dedication enjoyed by few men. Mary Vuono-Senatore's heart is in her work. From this inspiring lady, Belleville and its citizens have much to gain. I shall cherish her aid and advice.

We have a number of officials with ideas for Belleville's future. No one among us has more ambitious plans for our citizens than Commissioner Vincent Strumolo. Hitching his plans to our taxpayers' ability to absorb a phased-out program of progress, Vinnie will continue to enjoy the support and respect of his colleagues, and an overwhelming number of voters. I deem it a privilege to join Vinnie on the governing body.

Four Years

I also look forward to the opportunity of serving on the town commission for the next four years with Bill Cullen. As with Strumolo, Bill's experience on the old Town Council will be invaluable to those of us who have not seen recent service in town hall.

Commissioner Joseph McGreevy has returned to public life after a long absence. He brings to town hall management a new face, a new voice, and new vision. I have confidence Joe will measure up to the voters' fond expectations. His wisdom and good judgment will serve us well in the difficult days ahead.

I feel especially fortunate and comfortable to be given the privilege and opportunity of serving you on a board with outstanding citizens like Mary Vuono-Senatore, Vinnie Strumolo, Bill Cullen, and Joe McGreevy.

Little Miss Belleville Does Superb In State Competition In Atlantic City

Little Miss Belleville has returned from Atlantic City recently with another title. She placed second in the Little Miss Garden State contest.

The town's own seven-year-old beauty is blonde and petite Cynthia Corris of 25 Lloyd Place. The local pageant was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Atlantic City chaired the state competition.

Cynthia and her entire family were guests of Atlantic City while the child made her impressive appearance before the state judges.

She attends St. Peter's Parochial School. Her hobbies are skating, reading and playing with her younger sister Sandra.

Selection of a state winner was judged by a point system with an equal distribution for beauty, personality, poise and posture.

Each participating community was responsible for supplying their entry with a suitable play suit and party dress for final judging. Appropriate credits to communities, stores and organizations were listed in the contest program.

Judging at Amphitheatre

Final judging for Little Miss Garden State took place at Garden Pier Civic Center (an outdoor amphitheatre over the ocean).

The winner and finalists participated in the children's parade later that day at 4 p.m. on the boardwalk.

Each sponsoring community had its own small float for their entry.

Little Miss Garden State received a color film print of the contest, a trophy and $100 U.S. Savings Bond. Runners-up will receive trophies and smaller denomination bonds.

When you come right down to it, few of your friends will meet you half way on entertainment expenses.

Fire Engines Get Minor Repair Work

Belleville has taken steps to repair two of its fire engines at no cost to the town.

Two of the fire engines purchased during the past year were recently found to be equipped with defective water pumps.

Engine one has had a complete new water pump installed at no cost to the town and by mechanics sent here by the Seagraves Corporation.

This installation has been put through a series of pumping tests and found to be in perfect working order. The water pump for Engine two is at the present time in the process of installation by company engineers at no cost to the town and will be fully tested.

The Doctor Shortage in America

Many Americans have been calling for the construction of more medical schools and the training and graduation of more doctors for years. For a long time the American Medical Association denied there was a shortage of doctors but in recent years the AMA has acknowledged the growing need.

The AMA's board of trustees recently came out strongly for a program to provide the nation additional doctors. The board reported the shortage reaching "alarming proportions" and called for more medical schools and the acceptance of more students for medical training. The United States has fewer than 300,000 doctors of medicine and osteopathy — an estimated 50,000 short of national needs.

Thus something like general agreement has now been reached on the national need for more physicians.

Obviously there is a need for a greater number of medical schools, and also for increased attendance at existing schools. There are at present only 88 medical schools in the nation, with a capability to train only about half the 20,000 annual applicants.

Today some 1,500 foreign doctors move to the U.S. each year, primarily because of the shortage, while perhaps 10,000 U.S. American applicants to medical schools are turned away. The influx of foreign doctors represent about twenty per cent of the annual supply of new doctors in the United States.

We should be able to do better for U.S. applicants and the people, who need more doctors.

Enemy Losses Always Greater?

In the almost daily battles occurring in Vietnam U. S. military authorities provide the American people a run-down on each side's fatalities. Almost always we outscore the enemy in the killed tabulation.

How accurate are these figures? There is reason to believe U. S. fatalities reported are reasonably accurate. That is likely because U. S. reporters are often on the scene. But neither U. S. reporters nor U. S. military personnel are on the scene when enemy fatalities occur, though they may be somewhat close.

The enemy's dead is often made on the basis of a head count of U.S. troops overrun captured Communist positions. Sometimes the figure is estimated. At times it is based on a partial count and an additional estimate.

In cases where U. S. units are ambushed, and this has been happening more frequently lately, it would seem logical that we suffer heavier fatalities than the enemy. But even on these occasions the figures released show we win a numerical victory.

One can't, in an editorial, determine which are accurate figures and which are not. It is true, however, that in all our wars thus far daily claims made during the campaigns have been optimistic.

Do we really win every battle, in numbers killed, in Vietnam? Does the enemy — admittedly brave and well-led — always suffer two or three to one losses, even when he ambushes our units?

Kosygin-LBJ's Talks Offer Hope

The great hope of the world is that its two most powerful nations can get together on a program for peace and cooperation. It is this hope that adds such tremendous potential and drama to the recent meetings between President Lyndon Johnson and Premier Alexei Kosygin.

State Department diplomats worry about people of the western countries getting hopes high when summit meetings occur. And it is certainly true that the Communists in the past have sought to use such encounters to gain favors and advantages while having no intention of giving anything away.

On the other hand, the question of the moment, in 1967, is whether circumstances all over the world, including the advent of hydrogen bomb missiles and missile defenses, changes in Moscow leadership, the turn of Red China, etc., have brought about a condition which might lead Russia to act somewhat differently from the the Russia of Stalin's day.

Russia is supplying the North Vietnamese with their major weapons of war, which kill Americans every day. Yet we are intrigued with the possibility that perhaps the Russian attitude is softening a bit.

Certainly there is—as yet — no sure indication of this. But there have been evidences of changes and hints of changes. Are the Russians merely fishing with President Johnson in the belief that he, like some Americans before him, can be "had," or are they prepared to move toward limited accord? The answer to that question will require some time in coming. Meanwhile, the world fervently hopes—but it is as yet only a hope—that the two greatest world powers can achieve some progress toward peace and understanding.

Babson's Point of View

The Futility of War

The Arab-Israeli War of 1967 lasted less than a week. Although Israeli casualties were amazingly low, Arab dead and wounded mounted to the tens of thousands. Israel's out-of-pocket costs are estimated at $800 million, while the cost to the Arab nations must surely be reckoned in billions. While this may still not convince us of the futility of war, it should at least drive home the fact that even little wars are far too expensive to tolerate.

Israel and the Arab nations are poles apart on many issues, but surely their estrangement is no greater than that between the victors and the vanquished in World War II who found a way to rise above their animosities and work together for the reconstruction of their homelands. What the Israeli and their Arab neighbors do have in common are problems of inflation, heavy defense burdens, irrigation costs, difficulties of reclaiming the desert and making it productive, and the need to lift the regional economy from the backwardness in which it is still immersed.

Both Israel and the Arab world must be appalled at the cost of the recent war, which has created more problems than it has solved and which has left both sides poorer by far than before it began. Hopefully, from the experience of this war, the great powers — the United States and the Soviet Union — have learned that even for them small wars are too costly.

Since the very dawn of human history, the Middle East has repeatedly been an area of conflict. What we have witnessed in recent weeks was the rekindling of some very ancient enmities, with the fire fanned by extremist groups on both sides as well as by forces from outside the region. At this moment, peace in the area is no more than a cease-fire, and the world community cannot yet rest secure in the knowledge that wider war in the Middle East — involving the great and middle powers — may not still break out.

Neither the Israeli, heady with victory, nor the Arabs, still proud and vituperative in their defeat, seem ready to come to grips with the issues that divide them. But when tempers have cooled, perhaps a wider recognition of the futility of war will lead to a meaningful agreement for coexistence — an agreement that will encompass Arab recognition of Israel's statehood and Israeli recognition of its obligations to help provide for resettlement of the Palestinian refugees.

There are lessons aplenty to be learned by the United States, the Soviet Union, and Red China from the Middle East War. In Vietnam, the United States is deeply involved in a military action that commands the presence of nearly half a million young American military personnel. Its dollar cost to us threatens to rival that of World War II on a month-to-month basis. In Korea, we still maintain a large police-keeping force to safeguard an unnatural partition.

Admittedly, there is slim prospect of an early end to the Vietnam War, much less of a more wholesome and constructive solution in Korea. But the Arab debacle could well lead to some different attitudes in coming weeks and months. At any rate, new U.S. diplomatic feelers ought to be put out if only to make sure that no chance for negotiation — and ultimate peace — is missed.

Each of us looks upon the world from the centrality of his own position, falsely assuming that he is located at the hub of the universe. And so it is with nations, too. The fact is . . . we live in a polycentric world in which — for all their armed might — their manpower, and their wealth — the two great powers are not paramount. Their new awareness of the limits of their power just could convince them of the futility of war and lead them into productive co-operation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Residents Say Belleville Park Is A Big Mess

To the Editor:

Have you taken a walk through, and really looked at our Belleville Park recently?

Cherry Blossom Land indeed! Are you the one who picnics there with your family and then is guilty of leaving your trash strewn all around instead of using the receptacles placed there for that very purpose?

Do you see children and adults breaking branches from trees and, say nothing? Worse still — do you break them?

Are you one of the young boys (teenagers included) who are constantly breaking bottles and leaving jagged pieces of glass that could injure people or animals, all over the park?

Are you the careless person who uses a Polaroid camera and drops the discards from the pictures wherever you happen to be?

You there! Don't you know that stripping the bark from birch trees (and other trees as well) can and will kill them?

Must you deliberately break park benches or toss them into bushes, roll them down hills, etc.?

Sure the park is for playing baseball but do you have to leave your broken bats, discarded balls, boxes, socks, shoes, etc. all over the field and surrounding area?

Who gave you permission to use the Second River as your personal dumping grounds?

What makes you think a park street or parking lot is the place for you to empty your car ashtrays and litter bags or to completely clear out your trunk and leave a trash can overflowing or a curb filled with discards?

We do quite a bit of walking and have found Belleville Park a very dirty place. Should you think we exaggerate just take a walk through Brookdale Park and compare. We think you'll be amazed at the difference.

Don't you take any pride in keeping a public place decent? Surely you must be aware you only add to your taxes for the constant repair, replacement and upkeep of your park.

With a little effort, the park could be a place of thorough enjoyment. Something we could be proud of come next Cherry Blossom time.

Maybe you're the one — the miserable one — who threw about thirty, that's right, 30 lbs. of meat on a hillside in the midst of our cherry trees to lay there and rot, become infested with maggots and to pollute the area with a most horrible odor!

Anyone who wants to see to believe can. It's still there as of today — just walk up the dead end road near the Union Avenue, Mill Street entrance. Take the left side. You can't miss it. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Modlens 48 Essex Street Belleville, N.J.

Nursery School Finishes Schedule For Coming Year

The Presbyterian Nursery School on the Green has completed scheduling for the opening of its fall semester under the leadership of Miss Helen Obenhaus, the new director.

Private orientation conferences will be held September 13, 14, and 15. Purpose of these conferences will be to give the parents of the children the opportunity to become acquainted with the program of the school and the staff, and to let the children begin to become familiar with the school surroundings.

On September 18 and 19, the school will hold "short sessions" of one hour duration with only half of a class meeting at the time. In this way, the children can be introduced more gradually to their group and the classroom experience.

Full session will begin on Wednesday, September 20 with a morning session for three-year-olds and an afternoon session for four-year-olds.

Under the guidance of Miss Obenhaus, the board of directors has taken steps to implement other changes in program and equipment for the 1967-1968 school year. The morning and afternoon sessions have made it possible to offer a nursery school experience to 40 students instead of the previous limit of 20.

BECK'S COLUMN

By MAX BECK

We have written often about the development and change over from tubes to transistors to micro — circuits for electronic equipment. The first computer, for instance, filled a large room. It used tubes. A unit that did the same work using transistors needed only the size of one wall. Now the micro — circuit version of the same thing sits on top of a desk. All this took place within a little more than 10 years.

In consumer products the change over from tubes to transistors has been almost completed for radio and phonographs. Gradually we are beginning to see more and more TV sets with transistors.

One manufacturer began last year to use micro-circuits in the audio section of some color TV models. Now a new development has been announced which is called a "hybrid" circuit. It is on the same principal as micro-circuits, only quite a bit larger. Micro — circuits require rather expensive production equipment, while it is claimed that "hybrids" do not have this drawback.

The purpose of all these developments is the elimination of hand labor, which is costly. Furthermore, it is claimed that these circuits are more reliable. The result is supposed to be a cheaper and better performing end product with little or no breakdowns. If this could be achieved, it would be ideal, of course. Unfortunately, most of the times it does not turn out quite this way. We can only hope that these claims are correct, because the dearth of technicians to keep all these new inventions going, becomes greater every day.

A DELICATE BALANCE — High wire entertainers braved heavy skies and wet wires to perform for a huge crowd at the municipal stadium July Fourth. Known as "The Coronas" the performers were cheered by a crowd of 9,000 spectators.

PERFORMERS — High wire enthusiasts were able to watch the "Coronas" perform a number of adept tricks during last week's July Fourth presentation. The event was well applauded by the 9,400 persons who attended.

WAY UP HIGH — Wet wires caused the Coronas high wire act to be far more dangerous than it normally is. Most of the show was accomplished with a net below. "But the net really doesn't help . . . it is too thin. We just put it up to keep the audience from getting too scared," one of the Coronas said.

9,400 Persons Attend Local July 4th Celebration at Stadium

NEW OFFICIALS — Mrs. Mary Senatore, Commissioner, and Mayor Kenneth D. Smith chat amiably at Belleville's Independence Day celebration at the Municipal Stadium.

CONGRATULATIONS — Veteran's Council official Joe Fororotto (left) congratulates Robert Cook who received the Colony Club's Citizen of the Year Award. The plaque was presented at the Municipal Stadium.

CIRCUS CLOWN — Belleville youngsters aid a circus clown at the Municipal Stadium celebration on July Fourth. The act included transforming balloons into animals. The audience was delighted.

LOCAL DIGNITARIES — Commissioner William Cullen and former Councilman Ralph Casale discuss the summer recreation program in Belleville at the Municipal Stadium. Town playgrounds are now open for local children.

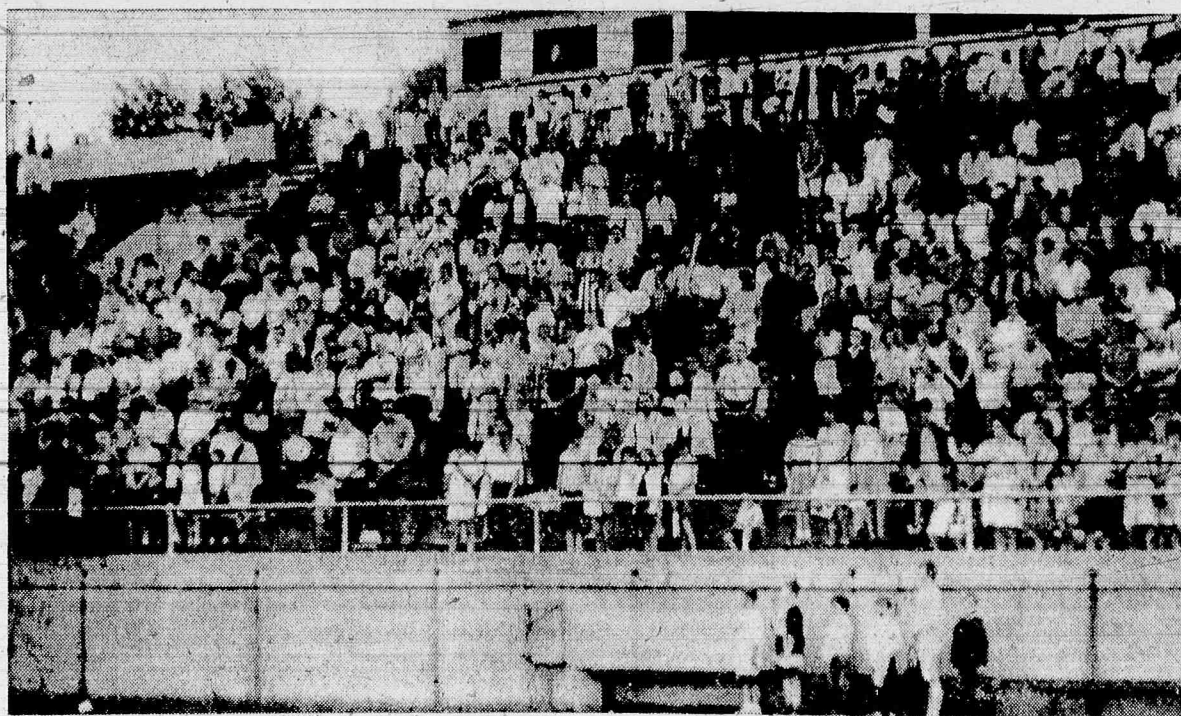

NATIONAL ANTHEM — Mrs. William Kropp, an official with the Woman's Club of Belleville sings the Star Spangled Banner at July Fourth celebration at the Municipal Stadium. The event was attended by over 9,000 persons.

MUSIC MAKERS — Members of the Louis Gin Orchestra play a series of appropriate musical selections at the Independence Day program at the Municipal Stadium. The program was sponsored by the local Veterans Council.

BLINDFOLDED — Residents held their breath with awe as two of the Coronas start walking toward each other, almost colliding high in the air on a thin wire.

9,400 IN ATTENDANCE — Belleville residents and their friends stand at the Municipal Stadium as the National Anthem is played. Residents came out to the Fourth of July event despite foul weather to attend full evening of variety entertainment.

TUMBLER — A tumbler dressed as a clown leaps high into the air as he performs his act before large crowds at the July Fourth celebration.

TESTING THE SPEECH — Belleville's Gerry Figurelli tries out his campaign speech on fellow Bellboy Larry Jinks. Gerry campaigned for a seat on the city council of VanBuren City.

DAILY RITUAL — An important part of Boys State life was the ceremony of taking down the flag, called retreat, performed each day. The entire population stands at attention.

STANDING OVATION — Boys State delegates accord a standing ovation to guest speaker Commander Thomas J. Keane, U.S.N. Ret., who makes an annual appearance at Rutgers.

Three Belleville High Delegates Active at Boy's State Program

Three Belleville High seniors to be have just completed a week of intensive government study at Rutgers University, New Brunswick. They weren't jumping the gun on college, they were delegates to the American Legion's 22nd annual Jersey Boys State conclave.

A week long practical lesson in citizenship, Jersey Boys State's program revolves around the formation of mock governments on the city, county and state levels. Its "citizens" are divided at random into two mock political parties, the Federalists and the Nationalists, as well as into 16 "cities" and eight "counties." In between party caucuses, campaigning and voting, the schedule included several lectures on government and a full recreation program.

Representing Belleville High School were Gerard A. Fig-urelli, 40 Malone Avenue; David Halpern, 68 Branch Brook Drive, and Lawrence Jinks, 18 William Street. Belleville Post 105 of the American Legion coordinated the town's role in the program.

Figurelli, a member of the Belleville High chapter of the National Honor Society, Belleville High Key Club and a distance runner for the Bellboy track team, was a citizen of Tyler City at Rutgers. (All Boys State cities are named after Presidents of the United States; counties are named after generals. He ran for the city council of Tyler.

Runs for Council

President of the Belleville High National Honor Society, Halpern was a member of VanBuren City of Boys State. He was also a candidate for the city council.

Jinks, a member of the National Honor Society, Belleville Key Club and varsity track team, was also a citizen of Tyler City.

To help the boys keep to their tight schedule, military discipline was borrowed for Boys State: each city marched from place to place as a unit; bugle calls, room inspections, uniform dress and a daily fla glowering ceremony added military flavor.

Squeezed into the full schedule were programs presented by representatives of all military services; a State Police presentation; a lecture on patriotism by retired Navy Commander Thomas J. Keane of New York, a nationally known speaker; mock court sessions in each city to try violators of Boys State rules of conduct, and a concert by the Boys State band — a group organized only at the beginning of the session.

A typical day, which began with reveille at 6:40 a.m., included a morning lecture on some facet of the state government; group meetings to discuss one of the state departments, such as education; county party meetings to nominate a slate of candidates for county offices, such as freeholders; a lecture on one of the service academies; a recreation period, in which inter-county competition in several sports was available; and an after dinner lecture on government.

In general, delegates cited new friendships as the best single facet of the week. The delegates represented the "cream of the crop" of New Jersey high school students, American Legion officials said, and this created a situation in which, according to one Boys Statesman, "Everyone you met, you had to be friendly with — they were such good kids. Others noted the strong competition that existed.

VOTE HALPERN — So says David Halpern, president of the Belleville High Chapter of the National Honor Society and one of three Belleville Boys Statesmen, in a campaign for the city council of his Boys State community, Tyler City.

COMPLETE DELEGATION — All the Boys Statesmen from the suburban portion of Essex County meet for a portrait. Representing Bel-

MEAL TIME — All of Jersey Boys State marches in together for dinner. All meals were taken in Rutgers' new University Commons.

Unemployment Rate Unchanged in May

The nation's unemployment rate, at 3.8 percent, was virtually unchanged in May as employment advanced less than usual and the civilian labor force did not rise as expected between April and May.

The rate remained within the range that has prevailed since the beginning of last year, the Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

Promotion Director Named For Fair

George A. Hamid Jr., vice-president and general manager of the New Jersey State Fair has announced the appointment of Fred Keil, 44, of East Brunswick as promotion director for the 1967 Fair. The Fair will open Saturday, September 16, and have a 9-day run.

"This is our 80th year," Hamid said, "and we are celebrating with a concerted effort to provide something of interest for everyone."

Hamid said the popular practice instituted last year of admitting patrons to the grandstand without charge will be continued.

"The only exceptions," Hamid said, will be the opening and closing Sundays when Sam Nunis presents national championship auto racing programs on the Trenton Speedway."

M. Lemongello, Local Teacher, Takes Course

Michael Lemongello of 47 North 17 Street, East Orange, a teacher at Belleville Junior High School, is among 57 participants in the Fifteenth Annual Mathematic Institute for Secondary School teachers, at Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey.

Supported by the National Science Foundation, the eight-week program, which began June 26, offers courses and auxiliary services which contribute to the teacher's mastery of mathematics. The program features a demonstration class drawn from local schools and includes lectures and conferences.

Unemployment Rate Unchanged in May

The nation's unemployment rate, at 3.8 percent, was virtually unchanged in May as employment advanced less than usual and the civilian labor force did not rise as expected between April and May.

The rate remained within the range that has prevailed since the beginning of last year, the Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

Belleville High School Junior Sharon McGuire Lucky Winner of DeWitt Savings & Loan Contest

Sharon McGuire of 29 Lincoln Terrace, Belleville, is the winner of the June "Win-A-Bond" contest conducted by the DeWitt Savings and Loan Association.

Edward Johnson, past president of the Belleville Rotary Club, drew Miss McGuire's name from the many entries that had been placed in the "Win-A-Bond" box in the DeWitt lobby during June. The drawing was July 1. The official announcement of the winner was made by John P. Dailey, president of DeWitt.

Miss McGuire, 16, is a Junior at Belleville High School taking a college preparatory course. She is a candy stripper at Clara Maass Hospital in Belleville and favors bowling and tennis.

The "Win-A-Bond" contest is being conducted to help celebrate the 25th Anniversary of DeWitt Savings and Loan Association.

Each month someone will receive a $25 bond. Everyone is eligible and there are no jingles to write, nothing to buy, and nothing to send. It's not necessary to be a depositor.

Just ask any DeWitt teller for a DeWitt "Win-A-Bond" entry blank certificate and fill in name, address, and phone number on the stub. Drop the stub in the DeWitt Bond Box and retain the certificate.

On the first business day of each month a drawing will be held and the lucky winner will be notified by mail. A new contest starts the first of each month.

Consumer Buying Will Be Surveyed

Households in this area will be asked early in July about major expenditures they have made recently for cars, TV's, other major appliances, and about their future buying plans for these items.

Something new is fur by the yard—furs that can be bought and sewed into garments on a regular sewing machine. A thin needle, nylon thread and zig-zag stitch is suggested—the price is about $150 a yard, sixty inches wide.

SAME OLD SONG:

The perennial scourge of Belleville American Legion baseball teams absences, abstentions and errors have once again evolved to bring the 1967 campaign down to the wreckage of defeat that is so familiar for followers of the Post 105 team fortunes.

Going into the season ironically it appeared that the team's infield and mound picture were pretty well set with only the outfield providing a shaky front. Just the opposite has developed, however, as the flybawks have more than held their own while the infield has averaged over three errors per game and the mound corps has been decimated by abstentions and sore arms.

MOUND: The biggest setback on the mound came with the quitting of last year's Most Valuable Player, Dan Gabriel. The big southpaw had not been meeting the success expected of the player many felt would be the loop's premier hurler — so when he became embroiled in a heated exchange with a league umpire the stage was set for an early exit by the University of Maryland southpaw.

This picture was further complicated a week later when Bill Ferrentini chose the job route to oblivion leaving Mike Welsh and Rich Del Guercio as the only Belleville hurlers and Jim Catalano, who had been counted upon for spot duty, no wa third starter.

The Pinstripers might have been able to get by with this slim staff had it not been for the inevitable schedule pileup that drew last week into a nightmare of four games in two days and destroyed the title hopes that Belleville had for the Essex League's Eastern Division.

When the smoke cleared from the week-end's chaos the weaker Eastern circuit showed the following standings:

Team	Won	Lost	Tie	Pts.
Nutley	8	5	0	16
Vailsburg	7	4	1	13
Maplewood	5	6	2	12
Belleville	5	7	2	12
Irvington	1	8	1	3
E. Orange	1	9	1	3

ALMOST RESOLVED: The mound situation was almost resolved somewhat by the addition of BHS hurler Bob Gamba to the squad after the sudden and unexpected umpire precipitated withdrawal of Gabriel, but when another League team asked for a similar addition the offer was dropped leaving Belleville stranded. Jim Serritella who had thrown several innings for BHS might have helped somewhat but he too went along the job trail to quitting the team.

And so it was that Tony Cervasio served some time on the mound for the sore armed Bellboys, Sam Calabria played second and short, Mike Welsh second and several other like alignment as Legion Coach Charley Craig struggled valiantly to make ends meet with just nine or ten ball players as each game.

SHORTSTOP: Perhaps the most crippling problem of all came at the shortstop post that was up in the air for most of the season and a problem through-out.

Belleville Legionnaires Drop Crucial Doubleheader Diamond Nine Falls Saturday to Nutley and Vailsburg

GLOVE HAT — Belleville's Dave Rothwell has often been called the man with the golden glove, but here is another facet of the Belleville third baseman's fielding. At a recent game he lost his hat. It fell off as he heaved a throw against Nutley.

BAD DAY — Vailsburg runner crosses first safely as one of four Belleville basemen during the long day reaches for the throw. Belleville dropped both ends of a three team doubleheader.

Saturday was the day tabbed by destiny as the day for the Eastern Division of the American Legion's Essex County League. The day arrived with the season drawing to a close and Belleville, Nutley, and Vailsburg less than a point apart as they battled for the honors.

Saturday also came with the schedulmakers blessing of a double header at Belleville, not of the usual variety like the one that had seen the pitching poor Bellboys down Irvington twice the night before, but instead a twin bill involving three different teams — those three of course being Belleville, Nutley and Vailsburg.

The stage was set for the resolution of the league race, at least as far as the local Legionnaires were concerned. A sweep would put the title within an undisputed grasp of the Pinstripers; a slip would boost one foe into a similar position, and a double defeat would knock Belleville completely out of contention and leave the dickering over the spoils to the two victors.

Saturday brought the latter alternative as a sore armed and undermanned Belleville squad managed to commit a half dozen errors and give five unearned runs to Nutley in the first game for a 5-3 defeat and then suffer a more legitimate 8-2 loss at the hands of a Vailsburg team that had rallied for six runs in the bottom of the seventh to tie the Pinstripers on opening day.

The bubble was completely burst with the day's two lightning strokes, the hopes and aspirations of a season were suddenly proved for naught as the second division beckoned the Post 105 representatives and the trail of sore arms, battered knees, and broken bats faded into the past.

Belleville was now officially an also ran the all out one day attempt to annex the top had failed as the fourth game in 24 hours saw the Pinstripers limp off into the sunset talking of what might have been and perhaps next year.

NUTLEY GAME
Taking on the Nutley squad that they had upended four days earlier to set the league scramble into a tizzy, the Pinstripers appeared in high spirits for their ten o'clock game. A week long high of eleven ball players were present to the delight of Coach Charley Craig who was used to struggling along with just nine bodies.

Unlike most of the Belleville moundsmen, the hurler who opened the outing was boasting a sore arm, instead Rich Del Guercio had a sore leg which sustained a muscle pull in that aforementioned Nutley game and then forced him out of action the night before after three innings of the second game.

Maplewood, Belleville Tie Contest at 3-3 Belleville's William 'Doc' Hood, 93 Takes In Old Timers Day at Shea

Continuing their wavering course throughout the American Legion League wars, Belleville's Post 105 representatives tied Maplewood's new entry, 3-3 in a game that might well have been the most costly of the season for the Pinstripers.

Not that the tie was so devastating, but instead the fact that hot-tempered Dan Gabriel, who had been touted as the League's most outstanding hurler in pre-season estimates, got into a shouting match with umpire Art Restano and then proceeded to quit the team and immediately go to sign an illegal contract with the Nutley Colonels of the Essex County League.

The big University of Maryland southpaw had been Belleville's only All-Star representative last year as he had completely dominated the local mound scene by pitching brilliantly in three-quarters of the innings the Pinstripers played of ten without any rest between assignments. He compiled a 1.00 ERA in the process.

A strong freshman collegiate season then further boasted the prospects of an outstanding year from the former St. Benedict's star, as he gained experience and maturity that it was hoped would lead Belleville to a long awaited Essex Legion League title.

The 1966 Most Valuable Player had stumbled somewhat in the early going registering a pair of ties in his only two starts as an opening day one hitter dissipated in a six run bottom of the There's more to Volkswagen economy than 27 mpg.

It's only the beginning.
Volkswagens take pints, not quarts, at oil changes. And average 40,000 miles to a set of tires.

You can skip the expense of anti-freeze and broken water hoses, too. VWs are air-cooled.

Then there's something you may not give much thought to right away. Depreciation. Give it some thought.

VW's don't change every year like domestic cars. So you can sell a 2-year-old Volkswagen for more money than some domestic cars that cost more now.

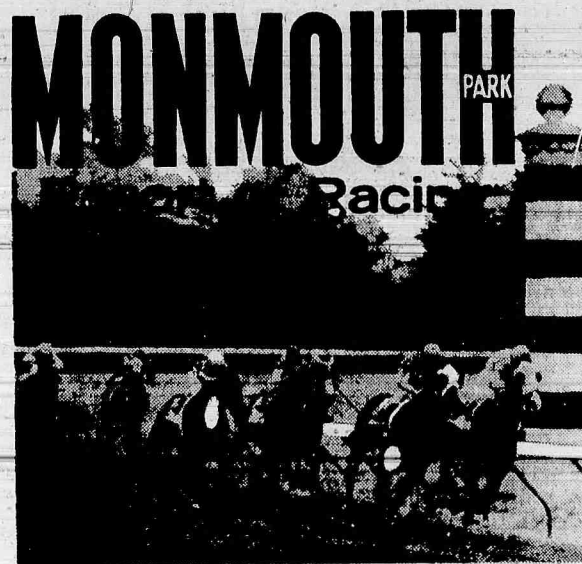

Even if you kept it as long as 5 years, you'd still sell it for more than you'd get for that domestic car.

So anybody who tells you how much money VWs save you on gas isn't telling you the whole truth.

resident. He was, however, extended an invitation by Richman to return another day to speak and be photographed with Westman.

Once again the Doc's presence was good enough for a Met win in the regular game although short Jimmy Travers' Yanks had won the token bet and game for the Old Timers.

The benefactor of the now annual expedition was Aaron Cohen, owner of Charles Jewelry Store on Washington Avenue. Having listened to Hood Travers talk and argue baseball for years, Cohen had figured last year that the old timers tilt would be a natural for the sports enthusiasts. It was at this point the idea to treat the pair to box seats behind the Mets dug-out for the annual game was born.

Between the three of them, these baseball buffs possess a formidable backlog of baseball knowledge as they picked out players names from their credentials, constantly before Lindsay Nelson could make the announcements during the pre-game ceremonies.

Position by position it would be another story as the youngsters who have played in the past twenty years would have to go some to meet the super stars of the distant past. According to Hood, Travers, and Cohen the all time Old-Timer dream team would have George Sisler at first base, Roger Hornsby at second, Honus Wagner at shortstop, Pie Trainer at third, Mickey Cochran catching, Babe Ruth in right field, Chris Speaker in center, and Ty Cobb in left.

Baseball 'Clash Of The Year' In Belleville Never Happened

The game that might have been the decisive battle for Big Ten Conference supremacy arrived rather unheralded as the 1967 baseball season began to draw to a close.

Instead of being the clash of the year the second meeting of neighboring rivals Belleville and Nutley arrived with the Maroon boasting a 13-3 Conference record and a newly clinched title, and the Bellboys at 10-6 and battling to hold off rampaging Montclair for possession of second place.

There was still something special about the contest as there always is when these two towns are involved whether the stakes be a title or merely local honor. This time it was the honor that was at stake for it surely would taint the Nutley pennant if the season were to include two losses to the second place club besides Belleville had won its two consecutive pennants with identical 15-3 marks, for Nutley to equal that record was not desired.

For most of the long and balmy afternoon it appeared as if the Bellboys would reek their anti-climatic revenge for as All-Stater Ken Inglis roamed in and out from rightfield whenever the locals threatened, a first inning score still stood as Rich Del Guercio nursed a shutout into the eighth.

Bubble Burst
It was here that the bubble burst with the most unlikely of circumstances. With one down Gary Klop beat out an infield hit, the eighth safety off of the Belleville junior. This brought Art Zinicola to the plate. The Nutley first sacker drilled a hard shot to left center off of Del Guercio's 2-2 offering.

Instead of putting runners on first and third however, the fast-moving ball eluded Bib Banda who had entered the game an inning earlier for defensive purposes. It then proceeded to bounce all the way to the cage at the distant Junior Varsity diamond as Klop and Zinicola rounded the bases for what was to be the decisive play.

This lead prompted Nutley mentor Carmine Lemma to return Inglis to the mound to protect the lead. The best the Bellboys could do against the big lefty who has lost three of his seven set-backs to them over the past two seasons was a two out walk and single in the eighth and another two out safety in the ninth as the game ended with that tainted 2-1 tally.

The early rounds had been dominated by the Bellboys first inning score and Del Guercio's subsequent protection of that lead with some typical gritty hit scattering.

out, Craig had counted upon Essex Catholic's Jim Sullivan for the post but the junior who Craig felt could have been among the league's best opened their injured played awhile, got a job, went to Canada with the CYO and generally disappeared from Legion play. This left Catalano, and Dave Rothwell along with J. V. guards Dennis Biondi and Jim Morella to struggle through out of position infield work. The result: errors.

Perhaps the result to this problem could have been the ball player who prevented short from being a varsity problem through three championship seasons at BHIS, Rich San Filippo. Still recovering from a hip injury that had cost him an All-State berth, San Filippo had been playing for the South Orange Orioles of the County League and batting around .475 despite his injury until a misunderstanding led to his quitting the team. San Filippo could have been the answer to the Legion problems, but that is all what might have been.

WEST: With the interdivisional playoffs approaching between the top teams in the County's Eastern and Western Divisions the time is ripe to take a look at the other circuit. In the West this year the schedule makers seemed to put most of the League's power as inter-league games have decisively shown. Leading the West is perennial champ Livingston, but any one of three other squads could be atop the circuit had they been in the weak East. The Western Division standings are:

Team	Won	Lost	T's	Pts.
Livingston	10	2	1	21
W. Orange	9	3	0	18
Montclair	8	3	1	17
Bloomfield	8	5	0	16
Cedar Grove	7	5	0	14
Caldwell	5	6	2	12

Quite a difference—
ALL-STAR: All that remains now from the Belleville point of view other than a few final games is the annual and usually disrupted All-Star team selections that are due to be made shortly. This year's selection will be made on a system of coaches recommendations and umpire decisions similar to last year's. Each team must have at least one representative for an East-West game with a maximum of three players from one team having been set.

State Provides Financial Road Construction Aid

Belleville now has the means to plunge into a major reconstruction program of Jorammon Street between Washington Avenue to New Street.

The Town Council recently received word from the state Department of Transportation advising the council that municipal aid in the amount of $16,551 has been allocated to Belleville for the road rehabilitation program. The municipality's share of the cost is $12,175.

In another communication from the state, the council learned that an investigation of the intersection at Belmont Avenue at Cross Street has been completed. Neighbors in that area of town complained that a light was needed for safety reasons at the intersection.

The state department of law and public safety, however, to feel that a light is unnecessary and suggested that a stop sign be installed.

Highway Authority Has Construction V.

The New Jersey Highway Authority has opened a "sidewalk superintendents shed" at the site of its Garden State Arts Center to give visiting motorists a better view of the recreational-cultural complex under construction.

Authority Chairman Sylvester C. Smith, Jr., said the perimeter post overlooks the construction site in the Garden State Parkway's Telegraph Hill Park here and is designed to provide the interested public with detailed information about the Arts Center work and plans.

after the Cougars had erased a 3-2 Binstripe lead that the real fireworks ensued. With dusk setting in the spirits that prevailed decided that tie would be best to end the evening's festivities after seven rounds, thus producing Belleville's third tie in five outings with the protested game that was to become a win still unresolved.

This prospect infuriated Gabriel and he verbally made this fact known to Restano who he had once clashed with briefly the season before on a ball-strike call. After calling the league bush and the umpires unfair, the Belleville southpaw retired to the bench where he proceeded to change his shoes.

Unfortunately Restano followed the player toward the bench to speak with Belleville general manager Jack Throckmorton, fact that the game was without overheard Gabriel's complaints, and counterattacked with some verbiage of his own.

A shouting match ensued as Gabriel closed with the remark that the umpire was a "fat pig" and the shocked Restano departed vowing to have the Belleville ace suspended from league play, at least for one game. Upon leaving the Stadium the two almost went at it again but were separated by standers.

Still burning from this exchange, the tie and his own failure to be setting the league on fire, Gabriel departed for Nutley with a former Legion coach who had himself quit disgruntled during a recent season, and happened to be a spectator at this ballgame.

What ensued can only be left to conjecture, but as it developed Gabriel apparently signed an illegal contract with the Cougars, breaking both Legion and County League rules in the process.

He then returned to Belleville without mentioning the signing, where he discussed the night's earlier events with present Legion Coach Charley Craig and Throckmorton. The three came to the conclusion that Gabriel would not pitch in the next game but would start the night thereafter to appease Restano — the fact that the game was without last place East Orange and probably wouldn't have been a starting assignment for the big southpaw entered into this consideration.

Still disgruntled Gabriel left explaining to this reporter how he felt out of place in this League, which is surprising since college players abound on almost all of the loop's top entries and annually dominate the All-Star ballot.

Returning to that conversation, he added that he felt that he could only pitch as well as the competition he faced and that the lack of challenge provided for by the majority of the Legion batters was the only explanation for his relatively undistinguished performance.

That was how it stood as the news of Gabriel's signing finally became apparent and he was suspended from both leagues. The key to the situation now stood with Throckmorton who could have the southpaw back with the Legion team as an unwilling and probably absent roster filler. If he so demanded, could give him a release to the County League as an unfair reward for the betrayal of the Legion's confidence, or could sit quietly in the matter keeping Gabriel shelved and unable to pitch anywhere.

After careful consideration of the alternatives, Throckmorton decided that it would be senseless to keep the unwilling warrior on the team's roster, and harmful to his pitching career to keep him shelved throughout the summer or at least until the end of July when the Legion season and control over Gabriel ended. So the big southpaw was permitted to enter the County league and the Pinstrippers were Bouton as he strode to the mound with determination written on his face and a prayer that he would not once again be betrayed by teammate errors in his heart. That prayer was not to be answered, however, as the Belleville infield soon proved to be the best weapon Nutley had and Del Guercio was scuttled by a barrage of unearned tally that prevented a strong 3-0 Belleville triumph from making its way into the record books.

Those potentially decisive rallies came in the opening round as the pin strippers had Bouton on the ropes with three runs in and the bases loaded but delivered an inning ending double play ball rather than the knock-out punch.

Mike Welsh had opened the Belleville festivities by taking a 3-2 pitch as ball four, Sam Calabria singled to center to continue the attack and Charley Cuomo popped up for out number one.

Jim Catalano then looked at four straight pitches and the bases were loaded for Dave Rothwell who has been swinging the hottest Belleville bat of late but leaving his long renowned golden glove at home.

Rothwell delivered a double down the rightfield line and Belleville was ahead 2-0. A walk to Bill Otskey refilled the sacks and Tony Cervasio continued his hitting streak with a single to right for the third tally as Rothwell scrambled back toward third as the throw came in rather than proceeding home.

This series of events brought Del Guercio to the mound with the bases still loaded and one down. The normally hard-hitting hurler drilled a hard grounder to deep short on Bouton's first offering. Neil Auricchio fielded the ball neatly and threw to Brian Viola for the force at second as what appeared to be the fourth run scored. Viola then noticed the pulled muscle Bellboy hobbling to first and fired to that bag to complete an uneasy inning ended double play.

Having been taken off the first inning hook by this twin killing Bouton then managed to settle down and close the door in the Pinstrippers' collective faces as only walks in the second and third rounds and a single in the sixth preempted Belleville's seventh inning come-back bid.

The rest of the Maroon meanwhile were gratefully accepting the gift runs that the Belleville infielders were lavishing upon them. After breezing through the second and third rounds retiring the side in order it was in the fourth that Del Guercio ran into the first give-away.

Singles by Bill Carrigan and John Lucas legitimately opened the round as Del Guercio reached back to induce slugger Art Zincola into delivering a double play ball to third instead of a win killing however it was Christinas in July for the struggling Maroon as Rothwell bobbled the chance and filled the bases with none down.

Next it was Jim Catalano's turn, having drawn the shortstop honors as Jim Sullivan once again was counted among the missing rather than as starting shortstop. Catalano too was offered a double play ball as Del Guercio borge down against RBI man Bob Merrilees. The offering was not accepted however as Catalano threw the ball to rightfielder Mike Welsh for inspection and two runs scored.

Somewhat shaken by the dual experience, Del Guercio walked Tom DiMarco on a 3-2 pitch to refill the bases before gaining his composure. Reaching back for a third time the infield roller was once again coaxed from an unwilling Nutley batter; this time Lou Graziano, who rolled to third. With the score at 3-2, the play this time was to the plate and Rothwell executed it to temporarily forestall the inevitable, not for long as Neil Auricchio successfully executed the squeeze but as Belleville prepared to defend just such an obvious play. The score was now tied at 3-3. Del Guercio struck out Bouton to end the nightmare temporarily.

The third brought more of the same chaos after Del Guercio had collected two outs and prepared ready to complete another easy round. It was then that Bill Otskey got into the act dropping a throw at first base to open the flood gates.

This brought Zincola up and once again Rothwell complied to the Nutley first baseman's base-running desires by bobbling the hopper. Bob Merrilees broke the monotony at this point by lining a single into left for what was to be the decisive score. Eager to join the infielders game of bobble, Bob Banda saw the ball skip off his glove as an insurance tally scored from first.

Not content with the damage that had been wrought Otskey was to drop another throw for the sixth Pinstripe error before Del Guercio was finally to record out number three on a fly to right.

What happened after that mattered little with the possible exception of the bottom of the seventh when the Bellboys tied briefly to refute the argument that they were firm believers of the tenet that it is more blessed to give than to receive by sending Bob Banda to first via a walk and Calabria an out later along the same path via a single before the final out.

This ended round one of the days festivities as Nutley departed for Irvington and the next step of what will probably be another title for the Maroon and Vailsburg players began filtering into the Stadium for their chance at the benevolent Belleville team.

This one o'clock game saw a sore-armed and complaining Jim Catalano take to the mound in front of an infield of Charley Cuomo at first base, Sam Calabria at second, Jim Morella at short and Rothwell at third—a pennant winning contingent? Before the day's festivities were gone Cuomo was to be banished to the outfield, Catalano was to serve time at first as a reluctant third first baseman-hanging arm division, Mike Welsh, a determined and willing lefty, was to man second base and—wonder of wonders—Calabria was to make his debut as a shortstop; Dennis Biondi was also to see some action at that post, while Rothwell manned third single-handedly making two more errors in the process for a day total of four-golden glove.

For awhile it seemed like a ball game surprisingly enough as the Bellboys battled for what would now most likely be second place if they could overcome Vailsburg and oblivion if they were to fail.

A first inning error proved harmless as did a Belleville walk and the game was on its way. Six straight outs marked the second round—oh yes then there was the third and the first sign of Belleville's impending doom.

Jeff Celi led off with the first safety off of Catalano was moved along by an abortive fielder's choice and a run scoring single by Carl Perrone before Vin Salerno walked to fill the bases and Mike Spagnola was retired. Belleville meanwhile could muster no more of an attack then a walk as Bill Melodick kept the locals completely shackled until the sixth.

By then however it was all over except for the shouting or should that be crying? For Vailsburg pushed across six runs in the top of the round and that was the old ball game.

True to form it was an error at short that opened the round. A walk and sacrifice followed before Pat Linda could single for one run and finish Catalano.

A team-thinking Del Guercio then took to the mound having volunteered for service despite his seven inning miseries of the first game, his three inning jaunt of the night before, and his pulled leg muscle. This perhaps was the brightest spot of the day—a bit of determination and team play.

Wanting to leave Catalano's bat in the line-up for the next inning when he was due to bat, Coach Craig wanted to put the tired hurler at second but he protested citing a sore arm and found himself at first with Welsh and Calabria as his unlikely but choiceless infield mates as the Pinstrippers continued with just eleven bodies to their credit.

Making an inauspicious start the exhausted Del Guercio proceeded to balk a run home before serving up a triple to Bruce Cohen on his first offering. A single by Melodick followed for another score before Rothwell threw one away and Perrone beat out an infield hit after a walk to force home a run. A strike-out final evolved against the dangerous Salerno before Spagnola walked to force home another tally. The twelfth batter of the round Eric Giavalone then benevolently swung at a third strike to end the torment.

This set the stage for a too little too late show by the Belleville batters that did little more than destroy Melodick's no-hitter and shout.

Tony Cervasio, who incidentally was destined to hurl the seventh, broke the spell with a clean single up the middle. Calabria then reached on a fielder's choice error before Rothwell could single to fill the sacks. Later, Catalano walked for one run and Welsh singled for another.

The final out was then recorded and Cervasio took to the mound only to be met with two infield safeties and a tainted tally producing error by Catalano at first. At this point the Bellboys were arguing among themselves. It was that kind of day.

meanwhile managed five hits and eight bases on balls, but left ten runners stranded in a prime exhibit of disappointment.

The visitors had drawn first blood after hurler Muller overcame lead of walk and single to Jim Serritella and Sam Calabria in the first.

After an infield out, an error opened the Cougar floodgates—as supposed golden-gloved Dave Rothwell made his fifth miscue of the season, the other error having come at short, but this one at familiar third base. Back to back doubles by Tom Criscuolo and Muller followed as the Cougars jumped ahead 2-0 before Del Guercio could settle down and put out the fire.

Belleville managed to get one of those runs back in the bottom of the round when Jim Catalano singled, was replaced at first on a fielder's choice by Jim Sullivan who had just recovered from a wrist injury and was making his first start at short, strike out and three walks then followed as Sullivan was forced around the bases before the final put-out.

That's the way it stood until the sixth as Del Guercio retired 12 men in order and the Pinstrippers managed but two singles.

Then in the sixth after an out the comeback began with a second Catalano single. Sullivan worked his way on with a 3-2 walk and Cervasio also drew a pass to fill the sacks.

It was at this point that Gabriel got his fateful call to action as a pinch hitter for Bob Banda. The first offering to him was low and away—and then the next was high and very inside, striking Gabriel in the back to force in a run and a tirade of complaints.

Del Guercio followed this with a 3-2 walk to force in a lead run.

A pair of fielder's choice put-out then ended the threat as Maplewood went to bat in the seventh trailing 3-2.

A walk to Bill Nichols opened

HS Boys Rate High In Fitness

Two squads of boys from Belleville and Nutley High Schools were among 450 boys from 75 northern New Jersey high schools competing in the New Jersey division of the Marine Corps Youth Physical Fitness Meet on the campus of Newark State College here May 11.

Competing from Nutley were Jay Fulcher, Frank Fariello, Mike Cafone, William Adamo, Bruce Parsons, and John Gantner. High men for Maroons were Fulcher with 420 points of a possible 500, and Parsons with 404.

Bellboys in the competition were Michael Eisenhard, Barry Peirce, Anthony D'Uva, Bill Smith, Robert Bonfante, and Michael Loungo. The team captain, Eisenhard, topped the Belleville list with an even 400 points.

In team competition, Belleville scored 1,707 points of a possible 2,500, and Nutley hit 1,989 points. Team winner was North Hunder-ton Regional High School with 2,329 points.

The youths must compete in five events: situps, pullups, squats, pushups, and the 300-yard shuttle run. To score a perfect 100 points in each event, the contestant was required to do 85 situps in 2 minutes, 18 pullups, 41 squat-thrusts in 1 minute, 60 pushups, and run the 300 yards in 44 seconds.

Although each school sent six men to the meet the team score is figured on the scores of the highest five boys.

State Hospitals Recruit Nurses

All New Jersey hospitals are cooperating in a state-wide nurse recruitment campaign for New Jersey's hospital schools of professional nursing to help ease the critical nursing shortage in the state.

The New Jersey nurse recruitment campaign was announced by Jack W. Owen, executive vice president and director of the New Jersey Hospital Association. Hospitals will distribute a special brochure entitled "Be a nurse — study at a hospital school" to guidance counselors, physicians, schools, community leaders and potential students.

Owen noted that the hospital schools of professional nursing are the traditional source of nurse recruitment and education. Nationwide, over 90 per cent of all hospital-employed nurses are graduates of hospital schools. In New Jersey, a recent study indicated that 95 per cent of the professional nurses working in our hospitals in March 1967 were graduates of hospital schools of nursing.

The survey also revealed that 93 per cent of the nurses added to hospital staffs last year were graduates of hospital schools. These schools also provide the vast majority of nurses serving in the Armed Forces, in industrial plants, schools and in physicians' offices.

Owen said, "Based on a population of 6,000,000 in 1964, we should have had 24,000 working nurses; statistics show we had 21,860 working nurses or a shortage of 2,140 active nurses. If, as is anticipated, the population of New Jersey increases to 10 million by 1970, 40,000 nurses will be needed. It is obvious we must increase enrollment in our hospital schools of professional nursing."

The recruitment brochure stresses that "Nursing is a career with an unlimited future that starts at a hospital school of nursing."

Owen said, "The New Jersey hospital schools of professional nursing prepare young men and women for a profession rich in tradition, unrivaled in satisfaction."

He stated the nursing profession offers: personal fulfillment from serving mankind, the respect of others, an interesting and challenging lifetime occupation, ever-increasing employment opportunities and good pay.

Camping Safety Tips Stressed By Red Cross; Vacationers Told Of Outdoor Water Hazards

As many residents of this area overhaul fishing tackle and prepare camping equipment for a vacation outdoors, the American Red Cross points out some ways to have safe fun on camping trips.

"The hazards are numerous and varied," declared Howard E. Camp, Jr., area director of Safety Services for the Red Cross Eastern Area. "But if proper precautions are taken, they can be avoided."

"Vacation safety precautions fall into three categories—on the road, in camp, and in, on, and around the water," added Camp in his Alexandria, Va., office.

Safeguard Car

Make sure your car is in good condition—that its brakes, lights, signal devices, windshield wipers, exhaust systems, and steering mechanism are working properly and that all tires, including the spare, are in good condition.

Keep a complete first aid kit in your car, and know how to use it. Carry flares so that in case of a flat or a car breakdown you can use them to warn oncoming drivers.

Pack the trunk so that the jack, its handle, and the spare tire are readily accessible. Pack the interior of the car so that the driver has a clear view from rear and sides, as well as the front.

Have seat belts for all passengers and keep them fastened while traveling. If you are the only driver, take a break from the road every two hours or so to keep alert. Do not stay behind the wheel for hours and become overtired.

Drive defensively. Make allowances for the unpredictable acts of drivers less careful than you.

CAMPING SAFETY

After traveling over bumpy and rocky roads, check all tires for damage before returning to turnpike speeds.

Camp offered these suggestions to campers:

Select a campsite away from steep embankments and cliffs that could prove a temptation and danger to small children.

Choose a place that offers some protection from high winds in the event of a severe storm. Do not pitch tents near old trees that might blow down in a storm.

Check the campsite for deep holes that might prove dangerous to children.

Show your children how to identify poisonous plants and point out their dangers.

Make sure the drinking water is safe. Tap water in state and national parks is safe and usually so marked. Lakes and streams in many areas are polluted.

Caution your children against eating unidentified berries and mushrooms or toadstools that look edible but may be poisonous.

WEAR SUITABLE CLOTHES

Wear clothing suitable for the locale, both land and water. Wear trousers or sturdy leg covering for hiking in the brush.

Adjust slowly to the sun and avoid overexposure.

Carry a good insect repellent. Learn from someone native to the area what dangers there are from animals and venomous snakes.

Keep garbage in a tight-lid container as a deterrent against animal prowlers and stinging insects.

Don't believe anything you hear at cocktail parties.

Mint Marks To Return
A bill has been signed by President Johnson which authorizes the Bureau of the Mint to restore mint marks on our coins. The decision as to when they will be used is now in the hands of the Treasury Department.

Even though authority has been granted to use mint marks we probably won't be seeing them until 1968. The reason for this is that the coinage production schedule is too far along in 1967 and also because of a possible disturbance of the coin market.

Most observers feel confident that the Denver Mint Mark will appear in 1968; however, it is unlikely that the San Francisco mint mark will be utilized in the near future. I believe that decision to restore mint marks on coins will result in an even greater interest in coin collecting.

Gold Bar Missing
Miss Eva Adams, Director of the mint, stated that an investigation of the thefts from the San Francisco Assay office (mint) revealed that a small gold bar was missing. A few days later the story broke in the newspapers that a 283-ounce (approximately $10,000 value) gold bar and a 30-ounce silver bar disappeared about February 14.

On March 13th, the Assay office was closed for an inventory which revealed that more than 8,000 quarters and 12,000 half dollars were also missing. Some of these coins that were stolen were "error" pieces, and were sold at high prices. Five mint employees were arrested.

Question: Can Proof Sets still be purchased from the mint?

Answer: No. The manufacturing of Proof Sets was discontinued in 1964. The only sets available from the mint at this time are the special mint sets which cost $4.00 each. The mint director is considering the making of Proof Sets in the near future, possibly 1968.

A new high in net operating earnings for any first six-month period in its history was reported by First National State of New Jersey.

For the six months ended June 30th, the bank's net operating earnings were $2,809,134 as compared with $2,554,739 for the same period in 1966 — an increase of 10 per cent. This equals $1.58 per share on 1,778,000 shares outstanding as compared to $1.44 for the first half of last year.

At the close of business on May 12, the Bank of Nutley was merged into First National State. The merger transaction was accounted for as a pooling of interest. Accordingly, the financial figures are shown on a combined basis.

Total resources of the bank on June 30th totaled $750,426,208 as against $675,196,123 on that date in 1966 — a gain of 11 per cent. Total deposits were also up, amounting to $624,465,558 as compared with $558,782,923 last year.

Loans and discounts were $399,123,488 this year as against $394,552,221. Capital funds reached a new high, totaling $70,048,332 as compared with $67,568,966 a year ago.

More Figures

The Bloomfield Savings Bank reports assets of $176,533,704.90 compared to $166,023,087.36 a year ago, a gain of $10,510,617.44. Deposits the first of July were $163,152,419.48 compared to $152,200,456.94 a year earlier, a gain of $10,901,962.54.

Compared to January 1st, deposits of $155,166,325.92, the gain for the first six months of 1967 is $7,966,002.56, at an annual rate of over ten per cent.

Another interesting fact is that deposits have more than doubled in the last ten years. On July 1,

Newark Driver Pays Big Fine

Driving without a license May 8 cost Julian Muldrow of 402 Hunterdon St., Newark, $75 fine, $5 costs and forfeiture of $50 bail.

Muldrow had been scheduled to appear before Magistrate Edward Abramson last month but failed to show. A warrant was issued for his arrest and he was jailed last Wednesday.

Zoning Board Suggestions Get Official Scrutinization

Several Board of Adjustment matters went before local officials recently for their approval. Among the items seeking endorsement were:

A request for a variance to permit as a parking lot business premises at 558 Franklin Ave. The lot belongs to John Sezyrek of 27 Homer St., Nutley.

The board also recommended granting a variance to John Dvorak of Clifton to permit construction of a 30-family apartment house on premises at 675 to 679 Jerusalem Street.

The board then suggested that the governing body endorse another proposal by Dvorak, trading as Eldorado Builders of Clifton for a permit to construct two additional apartments in the basement of an 18-family apartment at 511 Franklin Avenue.
