Relates Story Of Ship

Joseph DiClemente

A Belleville resident, Joseph DiClemente, was a crewman on the USS Franklin during World War II. As of April 6, DiClemente and his ship will be celebrities because it will be on that date that NBC will televise a one-hour special, "The Ship That Wouldn't Die" — or the story of the Franklin and her crew.

NBC has picked up the story of the carrier because the ship took the worst beating of any warship in U.S. naval history and survived.

On March 19, 1945 the Franklin was hit by a Japanese kamikaze plane and almost half the ship's company was killed or wounded (724 dead, 256 wounded).

DiClemente, who was a Seaman First Class gunner on the ship, was wounded and required nine months of hospitalization after the raid.

He recalls that the ship was patrolling about 90 miles off the coast of Japan on a saturation mission for the upcoming raid on Iwo Jima when the kamikaze hit.

From the moment contact was made, havoc reigned on the ship. The initial explosion set a number of fires which started a chain reaction. The ship was literally being blown up by her own planes which had caught fire and exploded.

The NBC show will feature the Franklin's two years of service in the Pacific with the frantic struggle to keep the ship afloat after it was disabled.

Today the ship is a rusting hulk floating on the tide in a Virginia junkyard. There, demolition crews are cutting

Controversial Hearings Scheduled For Meeting

Next Monday night's Commission meeting promises to be an exciting one. Two controversial measures are coming up for public hearings.

The first, is an ordinance which would provide for open air automobile retailers in industrial zones in Belleville.

It would abolish an ordinance passed last year whose purpose it was to stop any used car lots from being established in town.

Last year's ordinance prohibited any new lots from coming into existence and also clamped a lid on the transferring of any titles of existing lots. As a result, all used car lots would have been abolished in the town within a period of years.

The new ordinance is expected to draw much criticism from town residents and from Finance Commissioner Joseph McGreevy.

The other public hearing on the agenda for the meeting is the application of the Central Uniform Company for a variance to park employee cars in a lot on their property.

Two weeks ago the application came up before the commission, but a number of Ralph Street residents were at the meeting to demand a continuance so that they could obtain counsel on the matter.

Frank Simeon of 113 Ralph Street, claimed that the residents were't informed of the public hearing on the variance, and that a continuance should be granted.

In recent weeks, things have been happening rapidly on the controversial variance request. On February 10, the Commissioners sent the new proposal of the uniform company back to the Zoning Board of Adjustment for a hearing.

The Zoning Board had the hearing at its next scheduled meeting which turned out to be on March 4.

The Board ruled that whereas Central Uniform has been passed by the Zoning Board once and that the recommendation of the Zoning Board was reversed by the Board of Commissioners, and that the Commission's decision was appealed by Central to the Superior Court who in turn remanded it back to the Board of Commissioners who then turned it back to the Zoning Board because of the stipulation that Central would agree to park only employee automobiles on the premises, the Zoning Board again recommended that the variance be granted.

Vincent Molier of 225 Stephens Street, Belleville, a resident who has opposed the variance since its beginning, claimed that this latest attempt by Central has been "rammed through the Board of Adjustment where the

Budget Hearing Planned For Next Wednesday Night

Tax Rate Now Stands At $4.22

The public hearing on Belleville's proposed 1969 municipal budget will be held next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the town council chambers.

The proposed budget represents an increase of $645,217.34 which has to be raised by taxes this year and results in an estimated 1969 tax rate of $4.22 compared to the 1968 rate of $5.22. The difference in the two amounts comes as a result of the jump in assessed valuations this year. Last year the total assessed value was $169,728,000. This year it has grown to $225-331,300.

Although the total budget is up considerably more than the total which must be raised by taxes, the appropriations are offset by the application of sales tax revenues for the first time.

Estimates of salary increases could not be obtained from all department directors, but an examination of budgeted figures indicates that the Finance Department will get the lowest pay hikes this year.

Increases in salaries for Public Works employees are running about 7 per cent over last year. Public Safety, Parks and Public Affairs workers are getting anywhere from 10 to 15 per cent increases.

Overall, the town's salary account is up $270,128 over last year. This increased figure, however, includes not only pay raises for present employees, but in some instances, additional workers on the payroll.

Salary accounts in the Revenue and Finance Department, which draws up the budget under the directors of Commissioner Joseph McGreevy, are almost the same as last year.

Public Safety workers are getting 12 per cent salaries. The police and firemen, according to McGreevy, were granted a $1,000 across the board raise and using an average 5 per cent longevity, the total increase averaged around $1,050.

Public Affairs Director Vincent Strumolo is giving nursing personnel 15 per cent salary hikes while other jumps in his department run around 10 per cent. This year, however, some of the expenses are being reduced through the use of state funds.

Public Works Commissioner Mary Senatore is giving her department 7 per cent salary boosts. Other budgeted increases here include an additional $125,870.41 for the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission, an increase forced by new Federal Government regulations concerning river pollution.

In a turnaround from last year, the Public Works department is only spending $2,900 for new equipment. Last year the amount was over three times that.

With the school budget defeated by the voters, the town commission was able to slice a large chunk off of the amount needed to be raised. Now education amounts to only $1.69 of the total town tax points of $4.22.

The town government accounts for $.98 of the total. The county gets $.19, the Reserve Fund gets $.28 and the veterans and senior citizens are allotted $.08.

Based on 1968 collections the 1969 Bank Stock Tax should effect an approximate 3/4 point reduction in the total tax points which would probably bring the assessed valuation down to $4.21.

The exact tax rate has not been determined at this time and will not be final until certified by the County Board of Taxation in March or April.

Only the local municipal tax is developed from this budget. The school tax is the amount submitted for action by the voters on February 25 and the county tax is estimated on the basis of information available.

Controversy Rages

School Budget Is Topic Of Series Of Exchanges

It is evident that the controversy over the defeat of this year's school budget isn't over.

In last week's Times, Ernest Arvidson, a former member of the Board of Education, wrote a letter which struck at Commissioner Joseph McGreevy's "apparent lack of concern" for the taxpayers of the town of Belleville.

Previously, Arvidson had issued a statement asking the commissioners to use some of a million dollar surplus which he said Commissioner McGreevy was keeping from the public.

McGreevy, in a prepared statement, replied to his charges in the March 6 issue of the Times. "It is true that the Town has a million dollar surplus, but the $1,000,000 was not left by the previous administration...only part of it was. The 1968 budget, the first budget I was responsible for, we started off with a surplus account of $810,000 not $1,000,000, and we realized from a $400,000 use of surplus cash, a return of $664,000 so $264,000 added to the $810,000 makes a total of $1,074,000 for the year ending December 31, 1968. The previous administration was not responsible for the total of $1,074,000."

Arvidson in his letter came right back at McGreevy. He said, "The statement which I made that the town of Belleville has a surplus of more than one million dollars was received with skepticism by many residents. This million dollar surplus of taxpayer's money has now been verified by the town Finance Commissioner...who also acknowledged that a major portion of this tax surplus was left to the commission by the previous administration, and that $264,000 in excess of what was needed to operate the town facilities was collected from the Belleville taxpayers during 1968, resulting in a surplus of one million seventy four thousand dollars."

Arvidson went on to claim that the town has accumulated the surplus because the taxpayers have been assessed more taxes than is necessary to run the town of Belleville adequately.

Then Arvidson said, "We are asked to believe that Commissioner McGreevy would not (Finagle) (the word is his) the figures to paint a rosy picture in an election year two years hence. We taxpayers will ponder this I am sure."

"The unanswered questions are: When Commissioner McGreevy was so concerned about the taxpayer prior to the vote on the school budget, why did he project a town budget that was inflated by $376,415 just in order to show a larger tax increase? Why did Commissioner McGreevy not mention that a large surplus of taxes was in the town coffers? Since Commissioner McGreevy professes his deep concern for education why did he publicly urge the defeat of the school budget?"

McGreevy, in another prepared statement, replied to Arvidson this week.

He claims that according to town records, Arvidson was using the direct opposite approach on surplus cash at a March 14, 1966 town meeting. At that time, McGreevy says, "he (Arvidson) accused the Mayor and the Manager of using too much surplus and he called it an 'Election Year Budget,' and to quote him, 'the money is actually borrowed from next year to make it a 2 1/2% increase instead of 7 1/2%.' He also stated, 'that the surplus was almost depleted.'"

Not settling for a reply to Arvidson alone McGreevy also lashed out at Rocco Saletta, a Board member who

Essex Is Fourth In Traffic Deaths

Essex County has the fourth highest rate of traffic fatalities in New Jersey for the period of January 1, 1969 to March 9, 1969, according to a New Jersey State Safety Council bulletin. Middlesex County is ranked number one.

This year's total of 14 deaths is a 50 per cent reduction from last year's 27 at this time. Of the 14 fatalities, seven have been male and seven have been female.

Ten of the 14 fatalities were pedestrians the bulletin shows, and most of the deaths occurred at night. Breaking the total down into municipalities, Newark leads all others with a total of five, all of which were pedestrians.

The total number of fatalities due to traffic incidents in the entire state is 187, a decrease of 26 or a minus of 12.6 per cent from last year's total of 213. There were 170 accidents involved in these 187 deaths.

On the state level, pedestrian fatal accidents account for 35 per cent of the total, with 22 in the daytime and 37 at night.

Other motor vehicle collisions account for 39 per cent with 24 in the daytime and 42 at night.

Single motor vehicle crashes account for 26 per cent with 12 in the daytime and 33 at night.

Two Belleville Jaycees Recognized With Organization's Highest Honor

Two charter members of the Belleville Jaycees, David Haight and Henry Wozniak have been presented with the highest award that can be presented by the Jaycees - Junior Chamber International Senatorships.

The Senatorships, presented to the men by Tom Button, chairman of the board of Trustees of the New Jersey Jaycees and past state president, entitles them to life membership in the Jaycees and honors them for "outstanding service" to the Jaycees.

Both Haight and Wozniak were among the young men who started the Jaycee chapter in Belleville in 1961 and built it into one of the most active chapters in the state. Haight served as president for 1963-64 and Wozniak for 1965-66.

The two men also have participated in many of the local Jaycee projects, such as the Belleville Cherry Blossom Festival, punt pass and kick, Cerebral Palsy Rehabilitation

Union Avenue Apartments Find Stiff Local Opposition

Approximately 50 objecting residents came to the March 4 meeting of the Zoning Board of Adjustment to protest an application for a variance which would provide a 17-family garden apartment at 602 Union Avenue.

The application, made by Mrs. Helen Bellog of 510 Harrison Street, Nutley, would build the apartment in 'A' and 'B' residence zones.

L. Walter Finch appeared for the applicant at the meeting and asked that an adjournment be granted because the architect was not present so he could not present the case fairly to the 50 residents of the neighborhood who were at the meeting.

Finch said, "I ask for an adjournment and if the board does not grant the adjournment what would the alternate be? This matter would be dismissed without prejudice and as soon as I arranged with my architect, I could be back again. The only thing that would be gained would be cost to my client. I am explaining this more to the objectors, rather than the board because the board already knows it. I am sorry that I have inconvenienced these people, but it was not my doing and those of them who know me know when I make this statement it is true."

"If the board makes an adjournment and I do not have a case to present at the next meeting, I state to the board that I will withdraw from the case at the next meeting. If the board does not, then I will have to re-serve these people at a cost to my client."

Chairman Norman Lauterette then spoke to the people present. "If I grant the postponement this means this hearing will be held at our meeting next month. If I don't grant the postponement, it still will be heard next month because Mr. Finch will just refile the application tomorrow."

At that moment Finch interrupted and stated "May I add something? I would consent in advance to something that lawyers fear very much but which the courts do to us so often has been critical of McGreevy's policies during the budget proceedings. McGreevy said, "At the same meeting Mr. Saletta was advocating that the town should use a 3.2% increase for salaries rather than the higher increase they did use. It seems that both Mr. Saletta and Mr. Arvidson have changed their views. Mr. Arvidson wants more surplus used and Mr. Saletta believes in giving higher raises than 3.2% to the Board of Education personnel."

Continuing, McGreevy stated that "Mr. Arvidson's statement, 'that surplus is obtained in no other way than the assessment of taxes,' is an absolute falsehood. To keep the facts straight," McGreevy said, "the amount of $264,000 excess returned to surplus was not due to more taxes being levied than required, but was due mostly to other revenues collected that were not anticipated."

"As far as the Police and Firemen's raises are concerned, Mr. Arvidson states that their increase was $1,351, when in fact they were granted a $1,000 across-the-board raise and using an average 5% longevity, the total increase averaged $1,500 and not $1,351 as stated by Mr. Arvidson."

"I did not publicly urge the defeat of the School Budget as you (Arvidson) state, everything I said pertaining to the School Budget was done through Press Releases to all three newspapers, and none contained anything to urge the defeat of the school budget."

In his closing remarks, McGreevy said, "To follow Mr. Arvidson's fiscal logic...we would have to appropriate $804,000 out of the $1,074,000 surplus, so no taxpayer's cost would be increased. What does Mr. Arvidson plan we should do for the 1970 tax rate?"

away her steel plates for shipment to the scrap furnaces of Japan and Europe.

The program, as outlined by Robert Garthwaite, the producer-director, will be interspersed with interviews of survivors of the ship as they pay a last visit to it while the acetylene torch welders work on her battle-scarred hull. In the labyrinth of haunted passages and silent ready rooms, the men give first-hand accounts of life and death aboard the ship.

Archive film footage classified as confidential during the making of "Victory at Sea" by NBC's Project 20 was made available to NBC Special Projects for the new program, according to Garthwaite, and this footage is interwoven with on-and-off screen accounts by the crew.

Film shot by Navy photographers at the height of the holocaust is included in this footage. "It is amazing that this film was ever taken," Garthwaite said.

Admiral (then Captain) Leslie E. Gehres, who commanded the ship, tells in his own words of the gallant efforts of the crew and why he refused to abandon the ship when given permission. As he talks, the camera cuts to the crew's mess, where Donald Gary retraces the tortuous route over which he led 300 men to safety in four trips through the burning carrier. Commander Gary was one of two USS Franklin recipients of the Congressional Medal of Honor. The other was Father Joseph O'Callahan, whose story is also told.

DiClemente is among 12 other survivors, most of whom have long ago returned to civilian life, who recall the events of the day the ship was hit, show where the greatest hazards were encountered, and explain how the carrier was saved from sinking by faith, courage and sheer will power.

that this hearing would be pre-emptory and a dismissal would be automatic with prejudice if this case did not proceed at the next meeting.

Lauterette then asked Finch to explain his statement of the objectors so that they could know what was happening.

Finch explained that if he didn't have the case prepared at the next meeting the matter would be dismissed with prejudice which means that he could not be back before the board for six months. "If the matter does not go on at the next meeting, I shan't pursue it, if it does, I shall."

The floor was then opened to any objectors who wanted to be clarified on the issue.

Anthony Zinna of 592 Union Avenue was the first to speak. He said, "I object to the postponement. Mr. Finch pleads poverty and I understand Mrs. Bellog is applying for this application for someone else. She is evidently making money on this property so if she has to spend another $100 or so it is a shame."

Samuel Poperato then added that it may cost Finch's client money but "What about our time. We have children at home and our time and money is just as valuable as theirs and anybody else's. Let's continue with it tonight."

Lauterette then stated that the board is always willing to grant at least one postponement to either side of a case if there is a proper reason.

"Mr. Finch has apologized to the objectors and the board and asked for a postponement and the objectors object to the postponement so it is a matter for the board to decide if the postponement should be granted."

Finch was then asked where his architect was. He replied that he wasn't able to contact him and that he wasn't prepared to proceed with the case without him.

Vietnam-Where Is Rodino?

American boys continue to give their lives on the distant blood-stained battle fields of Vietnam.

Politicians continue to sit across the table from each other in Paris, no closer to peace than they were when the discussions commenced last fall.

What price peace you ask? We ask what price for the life of an American boy?

There are a few people of our acquaintance who believe we are in Vietnam to preserve "democracy."

It is time we put a stop to the useless killing of American youths in Vietnam and advance a reasonable plan for the withdrawal of American forces committed to battle in that distant land.

Peter W. Rodino

We are told most countries in the United Nations believe the United States has no right to be in Vietnam.

This sentiment can be tested by a simple resolution sponsored by the United States coupled with an agreement requiring all like-minded nations to guarantee the territorial integrity of Laos, Thailand, Cambodia and South Vietnam. Thus American troops can be phased out as United Nations troops are phased in.

We do not pretend to be experienced in warfare tactics or State Department diplomacy. However, rather than attempt to save face let us make the effort to save American lives. Many boys already have died in vain on the battle fields of Vietnam.

Our twenty year, $50,000 per year Congressman, Peter W. Rodino very well could introduce a resolution in Congress instructing our U.N. delegates to proceed with a plan - any plan to halt the American tragedy in Vietnam.

In the twenty years that Vietnam has been a world wide problem, precious little has been heard from Rodino on the subject. It is time that we did.

Are The Girl Scouts A Good Organization?

QUESTION: What do you think is Girl Scouting's greatest contribution to young girls in a community such as Belleville. WHERE ASKED: Girl Scout-A-Rama at Belleville Junior High School last Saturday.

Lynn Cxypoleski, 9 Spring Street, Belleville. She has been a Girl Scout for 10 years.

Lynn Cxypoleski

"Friendship is the greatest thing that girl scouting has to offer. It offers a common ground where people can get together, meet, and discuss topics of interest to everyone. It also serves to instill a sense of responsibility in a girl growing up. From that sense of responsibility come the ability to accept leadership when a situation warrants such acceptance. By working with girls from every section of town, a scout in Belleville is able to become better aware of other peoples' problems."

Mary Lynn Janic

Mary Lynn Janic of 368 Washington Avenue, Belleville. She has been a Girl Scout for eight years.

"Girl Scouting gives a girl many challenging fields of interest from which to choose. When a girl is maturing she can pick from the many things the scouts have to offer. By working with others, she is able to learn how to give of herself for projects which will help the community as a whole. She can develop a power of leadership over others which isn't over-demanding, but which is wrought through a sense of respect gained by working with others for a common goal."

Sharon McCarthy

Sharon McCarthy, 43 DeWitt Avenue, Belleville. She has been a Girl Scout for six years.

"Meeting other girls with the same interests is a big drawing point for the Girl Scouts. When a girl is growing up, she wants to belong to something and the Girl Scouts can serve as that something. Work is a word that most young people don't like to say too often, but when you are working together, as we do in the scouts, it doesn't even seem like working."

Laurie Fuchs, 60 Lloyd Place, Belleville. She has been a Girl Scout for five years.

"Scouting lets a girl feel like she is wanted. By joining a group like the Girl Scouts, any girl can find her place. No matter what her interests are, there is bound to be something that she wants to do in the scouts because their activities cover anything that anyone could want."

A Change Of Heart

By Rabbi Solomon Herbst

Skeptics who had doubted the possibility of miracles must be perplexed by the wonders of our age. Would anyone living even a generation ago have believed that the failing, weak heart of a human being could be removed and be replaced by that of another? But it has happened, not once but many times. And, while it is true that only one of the heart transplants has thus far been successful for a longer time, yet the effort to change hearts will continue, and, in time will achieve better results.

While in the field of cardiac surgery there is bound to be progress, yet in another area, e.g. "spiritual cardiology" so much remains to be done that we sometimes begin to despair.

From ancient times the heart has been regarded as the seat of human emotions and while our conception of psychology has changed this notion, yet the heart has remained the symbol of man's deepest feelings. Thus, we speak of a sad person as one with a heavy heart. To take one into one's confidence and share one's deepest secrets is to bare one's heart. We advise those who are despondent to take heart, and we use the expression "a broken heart" to describe frustration and disappointment.

When we win over another human being and direct his or her attention toward us, we make use of the words, "stealing one's heart". It was Ezekiel the prophet whose words spoken to the Jewish people might well be used as a motto for surgeons who transplant hearts: "A new heart also will I give you...and I will take away the stony heart and I will give you a heart of flesh."

But what is needed in today's world is not so much a transplant of heart as a change of heart. The destiny of a large part of the civilized world is in the hands of hard-hearted men. If there could be a change of heart in Kosygin, Mao, deGaulle, Nasser and other tyrants, how much more secure would we all feel. But, alas! too much of today's international activity is motivated not by sympathy for others, as by overcoming ambition. Talking in cardiac language we must turn to the leaders of nations and say to them, "Have a heart."

The success or failure of the heart transplant operation depends on whether the patient's body accepts or rejects the heart of the donor. Similarly, in our interpersonal relations, unless each human being is prepared to accept the heart of another, there cannot be any great hope for the malfunctioning of the society in which we live. The author of the Book of Proverbs says: "As in water face answers face, so the heart of man to man." Unless one heart answers to the other, unless in my own heart I see mirrored the heart (the woes, anxieties, defeats) of my fellow-man, then we remain competitors, aye, even enemies of one another.

We often use the expression, "Cordially yours", as the closing phrase of a letter. It is well to remember that "cordial" comes from the Latin word meaning "heart". Would that we could say to all human beings, no matter who he may be, "Cordially yours."

Banning Cigarette Ads

Congress-some say from southern state solons who represent areas where tobacco is a major crop. One would hope these legislators would put the nation's best interest, the health of young and old, ahead of regional or selfish interests and support the ban.

The FCC recommendation is overdue. Such a ban has been up to now barred by a law passed in 1965, a law influenced by tobacco interests. That law expires June 30th and an effort is currently underway on Capitol Hill to extend it. Civic, church, and all public-minded groups and citizens should make known their views to Senators and Congressmen-that the FCC recommendation be enacted into law, and the current effort to extend the 1965 law barring such action be defeated.

The Federal Communications Commission has recommended a ban on radio and television advertising by the cigarette companies. The FCC position is that cigarette smoking is now known to be a serious health and death hazard and that the nation can no longer permit commercial interests seeking monetary gain to exploit the nation's youth with attractive and misleading commercials designed to start them on the habit.

The FCC recommendation is not anything new or even novel in this field. England years ago banned cigarette commercials in the national interest and statistics show that a downturn in smoking resulted.

The major opposition to the FCC recommendation is expected to come from the backbone of our good health in the United States. Therefore, it is strange indeed to witness the continuing attempts of congressional investigators and regulators to discourage use by doctors of trademarked products of prescription drug firms in favor of generic drugs that bear only the name of the active ingredient and which may be manufactured in substandard facilities.

When it became apparent that a large quantity of a new type of flu vaccine might be needed, the lights in the vaccine laboratories of six prescription pharmaceutical manufacturers burned night and day, seven days a week as these companies tackled the mammoth task of producing millions of doses of vaccine. So, the answer to the simple question of where do new drugs come from is of itself the strongest kind of testimonial to the high performance of the prescription drug industry.

Source Of New Drugs

A representative of one of the nation's largest prescription drug firms poses a question that apparently few people pause to wonder about. He asks: "Where do new drugs come from?" The question is timely, since the vaccine to stem the threat of Hong Kong flu is in one sense a new drug. It had to be developed for the particular strain of flu bug that has been visiting the country this winter.

But to get back to distinctly new drugs, and where they come from, the drug spokesman replies, "Not from manufacturers who produce only generic drugs. Of new drug entities originating in this country and marketed between 1940 and 1966, 87 per cent came from research-based firms in the pharmaceutical industry; the rest from government agencies, institutions, and universities."

The research-oriented prescription drug industry and the medications it produces are

Speak Up

Agrees With Editorial Critical of Dr. Gross

To The Editor:

Your views on Rutgers president, Dr. Mason Gross, are to be commended. Surrendering to the unlawful elements is not surprising, considering that Dr. Gross' background is liberally sprinkled with that phenomenon term of today, "the liberal". At one time, Dr. Gross was a N.J. State mediator for labor disputes. Rest assured, free enterprise never benefitted by his decisions.

Its sad that Rutgers, one of the oldest and revered educational institutions in the nation, is saddled with a Gross philosophy, instead of a Father Hesburgh of Notre Dame.

In another Sun story, there seemed surprise-even shock and distress-that the public failed to respond on the open housing issue. Actually, the response is thundering, isn't it? What greater edict or mandate is there?

Legislation cannot eradicate an inherent characteristic of mankind-the right to select his own friends, neighbors and associates. That inherent right has nothing to do with discrimination, integration or segregation. If we are to believe God's pre-ordained pattern of life, it is rife with discrimination, sociological distinctions and even separatism. Does a lion live with a tiger; a cat with a mouse; a bird with a cat, etc. ad infinitum? At sea, there is a whole ecological ladder of life and death-discrimination in all circumstance. Thus it is with people and it may be decades before cultures and mores become so assimilated that color and race no longer form a barrier.

It has no relation to jobs, education or opportunity. Great progress is being made in those areas, stimulated by the gains wrought by the civil rights movement. Fair and decent-minded citizens wholly and unqualifiedly endorse civil rights principles...that should be obvious by now.

But social mixture and open housing are different breeds of cat. It is one thing to write new laws and change existing ones...it is something else, again, to legislate man into a climate where he can no longer make this choice himself, on whom he may have for neighbors and friends. One, we seem to be finding out, he seems most reluctant to surrender.

Support Easter Seals Urges Drive Chairman

To The Editor:

Crippling last year, prevented some 28 million Americans from leading what is termed a "normal" life. That is to say, it kept some of them from sitting at a desk in the neighborhood school and sharing the magic of learning with other children; it eliminated some of the challenging competition in business and industry; it barred others from the deep satisfaction of caring for their families and it denied countless others, the enjoyment of church, library, sports and entertainment.

In short, crippling of one kind or another - and there are many kinds - in a marked degree, limited the lives of millions of our girls and boys - men and women. Fifteen of every one hundred of our fellow Americans are among those deprived of important privileges and opportunity, through no fault of their own.

But crippling did something even worse - it robbed our nation of a vast resource of abilities, talents and possibly even genius, inhibited in these persons because of the physical fact of a disability - a disability that in most instances can be overcome, or least counter-balanced by appropriate treatment.

It is the mission of the Easter Seal Society to enable these crippled individuals to realize their fullest intellectual and physical potentiality, to release captive capabilities and thus help them to live lives of dignity and usefulness in their own community.

With this in mind, I appeal to you, my fellow citizens, to support the 1969 Easter Seal Committee of Essex County Parade.

From March 1 through April 6, over 5400 volunteers will parade in a door-to-door campaign throughout the county. Over 100,000 letters will go out to those homes not canvassed by volunteers.

PLEASE contribute generously when your turn comes. Remember, your donations will change the lives of crippled children and adults, who depend on you!

Easter Seal Committee for Crippled Children And Adults of Essex County

Two Year Course

X-Ray Technician School To Open At Clara Maass

A new two-year course, designed to qualify young men and women living in Northern New Jersey for careers as X-ray Technologist is being offered by CLARA MAASS MEMORIAL HOSPITAL School of Radiologic Technology at Belleville.

Dr. Joseph Israel, radiologist and Medical Director of the new school said, "This school is being organized to help fill the ever-increasing demand for trained X-ray technicians in hospitals, radiologist's offices, health services, government, industry and art museums."

Today, as hospitals expand and medical knowledge advances, the volume of X-ray work makes it necessary for radiologists to train persons to assist them. As the demand for qualified technologists continues to grow, training schools are being set up so students can receive practical training and an adequate scientific background in X-ray technology.

Dr. Israel and the faculty are fully qualified members of Clara Maass Hospital's medical, nursing and technical staff. They will operate the school on a sound educational philosophy, adhering to the recommendations of the American Registry of Radiology Technology and the American Society of Radiologic Technology.

Upon satisfactory completion of the course, a student is eligible to take the examination given by the American Registry of Radiologic Technologists, and the New Jersey X-ray Technicians Board of Examiners. Applicants from men and women, seventeen or older, with a high school diploma or its equivalent, will be accepted until July 31st. Classes are scheduled to start September 2, 1969. But you have to do it. Don't trust to someone else.

Social Security Beneficiary To Be Reimbursed Better

Millions of social security beneficiaries have had financial burdens lifted from their shoulders through the new method of reimbursement for doctor's bills which went into effect last year, said William J. Arnold, District Manager of the Newark social security office.

According to studies, social security benefits are virtually the sole income for about half the social security beneficiaries and the major source of financial income for most beneficiaries. It was found that many people were unable to pay physician's charges before billing Medicare for reimbursement. The change, said Mr. Arnold, corrected this problem, and follows the pattern of reimbursement used by most private health insurers.

Turkeys Are Plentiful In March; Look For Indications Of Quality

The United States Department of Agriculture includes turkeys on their list of plentiful foods for March. You may be seeing turkeys on special sale or featured in some way in local markets. Hopefully, because they are plentiful, the price will go down.

When selecting a turkey (unless it is one from a local turkey farmer) look for two indications of quality. First look for the United States Department of Agriculture inspection seal which is in a circle shape. This assures you that the bird is processed under sanitary conditions and has been truthfully labeled. Any meat which crosses a state line is inspected in this way.

The other sign to look for is the United States Department of Agriculture grade seal which looks like a shield. Official grades are U.S.D.A. Grade A, B, or C. All are wholesome and safe for eating. Grade A will be of a higher quality than B or C.

The following recipe for Turnabout Turkey leaves no doubt that leftover turkey is versatile enough to be turned about into a delightful dish for almost any occasion. The strips of turkey in this case—marinated in a dressing enhanced by the zesty flavors of curry powder and handy instant minced onion—may be served as party hors d'oeuvres, on relish trays, as a hearty salad-for-two on crisp greens, in tossed green salads or on fruit plates. Any way you offer this treat to family or friends, it's economical, easy to prepare and ever so edible.

TURNABOUT TURKEY
1 1/3 cup vinegar
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 cup julienne strips of cooked turkey

American Indian Will Be Theme Of Bonnie Brae's Annual Benefit

The American Indian will be the theme of Bonnie Brae Farm for Boys' 36th Annual Benefit Card Party and Fashion Show which will be held this year on May 20 and 21 at the farm in Millington, New Jersey. Mrs. Philip J. Bowers, II, Pottersville, is chairman and will be assisted by Mrs. George H. Hewett, Morristown, her co-chairman. The ladies of the Auxiliary, which sponsors this annual event, will wear authentic Indian dress. Bonnie Brae boys, as young warriors, will recall the days when the Lenape Indians roamed the Somerset Hills.

Teepees, totem poles and other symbols of Indian lore will be included among the decorations planned by Mrs. Donald C. Stone, Fair Haven; Mrs. Bradford Cochran, Bernardsville, who is president of the Bonnie Brae Auxiliary, and Miss Noralyn J. Schulte, Gladstone. Mrs. Frank J. Valgenti, Jr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Mason, of New Vernon, are respectively, chairman and co-chairman of the Costume Committee.

Indian tribes will be represented by various shops, such as Pueblo Pastries, Navajo Novelties, Blackfoot

Mix all ingredients except turkey. Pour marinade over turkey and refrigerate several hours. Serve as hors d'oeuvres, in green salads or on fruit plates. Makes about 1 cup.

Another idea for using turkey the day after the roast is:

TURKEY WAFFLES PARMESAN

Makes 5 to 6 servings

Waffles:
1 cup milk
1 egg
3 tablespoons liquid or melted shortening
1 cup pancake mix

Turkey Sauce:
2 cups, coarsely chopped, cooked turkey
One 4-oz. can sliced mushrooms
2 cups gravy (may use canned chicken gravy)
Salt and pepper to taste
Chopped parsley
Grated Parmesan cheese

For waffles, place milk, egg and shortening in shaker or bowl. (If melted shortening is used, add after pancake mix.) Then add unsifted pancake mix. Shake 10 times or beat with rotary beater until batter is fairly smooth. Bake on a hot waffle baker until steaming stops.

For turkey sauce, heat turkey and mushrooms in gravy. Season with salt and pepper. Spoon sauce over waffles. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and Parmesan cheese. Garnish with jellyed cranberry sauce, cut in the shape of turkeys.

You may order "Cooking the Turkey" from the Home Economics Extension Service. Please call or write Mrs. Janet Spang, County Home Economist, 25 Thirteenth Avenue, Newark, New Jersey 07103; 642-7800, Extension 424.

ORT Members View Film

The importance of ORT as a developer of the world's most precious resource — the human potential was stressed on Thursday, March 13, which was ORT Day 1969, at a meeting at Bloomfield Civic Center held by the local members of Women's American ORT.

The meeting coincided with similar ORT Day 1969 gatherings held across the nation by the 80,000 members of Women's American ORT in 600 chapters from coast to coast.

The meeting featured the film "Our Most Precious Resource." Mrs. Bernard Zweben, president, said at the meeting that "ORT's global vocational and educational training program makes it possible for the deprived and displaced to become productive members of the societies in which they live." She added that "the world's most important and possibly most underdeveloped resource is the potential that lies within each and every person."

"For the past 89 years," she continued, "the ORT program has dedicated itself to bringing this potential out in the hundreds of thousands of students who have been trained by its networks."

Mrs. Sheldon Altwar, membership vice-president, declared that, "Women's American ORT will give even greater support to the world wide ORT program by enrolling more members in 1969 than ever before in the organization's history." In this way, she said, "we will help better individual lives and better the entire world."

ORT, the vocational training agency of the Jewish people, began in 1880 and has trained more than a million of the impoverished, displaced and dispossessed since its inception. Its current annual enrollment is 50,000 and its schools and installations offer a range of more than 70 modern skills.

Women's American ORT is a nationwide membership organization affiliated with American ORT Federation, which currently receives funds, exclusive of membership dues, by special agreement with the Joint Distribution Committee.

Dedication Ceremonies Planned For Boathouse

The Rowing Association of Nutley and Belleville, having realized its goal of erecting a boathouse for the two town teams, met Monday in the Nutley Board of Education Building and agreed on dates to formally relinquish the building and to disband.

Association president Dr. Sidney Rogoff announced that on April 12 there will be a ceremony at the riverside site in Kearny to formally present the new boathouse to the Boards of Education of Nutley, Belleville and Kearny, the new owners. The facilities are already being used by the three high schools.

Rogoff declined at this time to elaborate on the ceremonial proceedings, but did say that the three boards of education would be present and that there would be an open house for all interested citizens.

Built at a cost of approximately $63,000, the boathouse is large enough to accommodate 300 oarsmen. There are two parts to the house, one being for the shells and the other a three room set-up with 100 lockers per room and ample modern shower facilities for the crews. The house also contains a private coaches room.

Originally Kearny had no crew team but because of the sport's activity in its town, interest rapidly grew until now the town is a joint owner with its own varsity team. The Association asked Kearny to join because of its valuable assistance in keeping crew a reality in Nutley - Belleville.

Rogoff reported that the three teams will maintain the facilities at their own cost. The city of Kearny owns the property as part of its park system but the schools have a 30 year lease with the option to renew.

It has been a long and painstaking struggle for the Rowing Association which was formed in response to the need for a new boathouse. Under the persevering coordination of Everett Zabriskie, the uphill climb has finally achieved fruition.

It was about four years ago that the state highway department put in route 21 which resulted in the demolition of the boathouse used for many years by Belleville and Nutley High School crews on the Passaic River.

The boards of education of both towns searched for sites in one of either town but were unsuccessful. Finally, a riverside plot was found in Kearny (opposite the Belleville Bridge). That plot, however, could not be developed by either the Nutley or Belleville boards because a state law forbids a local board from spending money for construction on property in another municipality.

What happened was that the Belleville-Nutley Rowing Association was formed. A group of private citizens interested in saving crews as a local sport put together a lot of time, energy and ingenuity to raise money to develop the site.

BECK'S COLUMN

By MAX BECK

Contacts in any manner, shape or form are the bane of electricity and electronics. In housewiring almost the only item that causes trouble is the light switch, or the contact where the light is screwed in a socket, and last but not least the button for the bell. This probably is the worst trouble spot in the whole electrical house system.

Things are much worse when it comes to electronics. At sometime or other just about everybody has had troubles with the volume or tone control of a radio set, which is a continuous sliding contact. Matters get worse when it comes to TV, which has at least 6 operating controls similar to the volume and tone controls on a radio.

Worse yet, a TV set has the station selector. Everytime you change from one station to the other, you are making and breaking a dozen contacts. There is a silver coated heavy spring in the tuner and silver contact points. Every housewife knows what happens to silver after a time. It becomes black through oxidation. This exactly what happens to the contacts in a station selector, you can't escape it.

So if your station selector becomes erratic and you have to wiggle and turn it to get the station, it needs cleaning. We service what we sell.

Poison-Proofing Test Given By Pharmaceutical Groups

Pointing out that children under 5 are the principal victims of accidental poisoning, the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association has subjected parents to a "poison-proofing" test in the form of an 8-point questionnaire.

"Every parent should answer yes or no to each of these questions, for the safety of his household," said Leo Dubrow, Association president, who added that in 1967, the last year for which figures are available, 72,661 children under 5 in the U.S. accidentally swallowed potentially harmful substances—medicines and commonly used household products.

Dubrow invited parents to talk to their pharmacist during National Poison Prevention Week March 16-22 for advice in poison-proofing if their answer to any of the eight questions is negative.

"The pharmacist is an authority on safe use and storage of drugs," he said. "He will emphasize what locked-up drugs and poisons prevent tragedy. A locked drawer, a linen closet, a suitcase—any storage area that can be locked.

"At no time should aspirin or tranquilizers be left on a sink or table, not even for an instant. Aspirin is implicated in a large percentage of child poisonings. Often it is left on the bedside table or the kitchen counter, within easy reach of childish hands. Often, too, parents unwisely call aspirin 'candy,' hoping to cojole the child into taking it for medicinal reasons.

"It is essential that internal medicines never be stored with household products, especially cleaning agents. Not only may there be similarities in the design and composition of the containers, but the colors, consistencies and even odor may be similar. It is inadvisable ever to reach for medicine in the dark.

Medicines prescribed for one individual under one set of circumstances should not be used for others. Also medicines stored over a long period of time may undergo changes in composition resulting in toxicity. When medicines are no longer to be used, don't throw them into a waste basket where children can get at them, flush the contents down the drain, then rinse the container before throwing it away.

These are a few of the safety measures that will help prevent tragedy."

The NJPhA questionnaire follows:

1. When using any medicine, do I return it promptly to its proper place when through with it, even if I will use it again shortly?
2. Are all medicines kept in a closed, preferable locked, cabinet out of reach and sight of children?
3. Do I remember not to try to induce children to take aspirin or other medicines by telling them it tastes like candy?
4. Are all medicines and household products fully and clearly labeled?
5. Am I careful never to take or give medicine in the dark?
6. Do I discard out-of-date medicine by flushing it down the drain and rinsing out the container before discarding it?
7. Are bleach, lye, kerosene stored only in their original containers and not in cups, glasses or pop bottles?
8. Are most deadly poisons—rat, insect and weed killers—stored in the most inaccessible place or in a locked cabinet in the house or garage?

"Your child's life may depend upon your answers to these questions," Dubrow said, adding: "See your pharmacist during Poison Prevention Week, ask him how to poison-proof your home."

Newark Bank Gives Dividend To Stockholders

The Board of Directors of National Newark & Essex Bank today declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share on its capital stock for the three month period ending March 31, 1969, it was announced by Robert G. Cowan, chairman of the board.

Payment will be made on April 10, 1969, to stockholders of record at the close of business on March 24, 1969. The dividend is the 426th paid by National Newark & Essex Bank since it was established in 1804.

Cowan also said stock certificates representing a 10 per cent stock dividend to stockholders of record at the close of business on January 28, 1969, would be mailed on or about March 7. The stock dividend was proposed by the bank's board of directors in December, 1968, and approved at the annual stockholders meeting on January 28, 1969.

It increased the number of shares of capital stock from 1,464,170 to 1,610,587.

Slip Cover City Opens Store In This Area

A family which has been in the slip cover and drapery business for two generations, has opened a new store in Nutley.

Slip Cover City and Drapery World at 357 Franklin Avenue is owned by the Paul family. New Jersey's largest custom made slipcover and drapery manufacturers. The store is the newest in a chain of four stores operated in Rutherford, Hackensack, Pompton Lakes, and Union City.

The Pauls pride themselves on expert craftsmanship at prices that will fit anyone's budget. They eliminate the middle man by making the slipcovers and draperies themselves, and then passing the savings on to the consumer.

In addition to carrying custom made drapes and slipcovers they also feature a complete line of ready made drapes, bedspreads, shower sets, and Kirsch traverse rods. They also feature a famous shop at home service.

Library Schedule

The Belleville Public Library will be closed Good Friday, April 4th through Sunday, April 6th. The holiday closing will be observed at both the Main Library, corner of Washington Avenue and Academy Street, and the Silver Lake Branch Library, 30 Magnolia Street.

A friendly tip: Beware of the man who says, "I will take up only a few minutes of your time."

Jaycees Are Finalizing Plans For Annual Parade

With the blooming of the Cherry Blossoms in Branchbrook Park only a few weeks off, the Belleville Jaycees are finalizing plans for their annual parade and pageant. The parade will be held on April 13 and the pageant April 26.

Lawrence Schwartz, contestant chairman for the Cherry Blossom Pageant, at which Miss Belleville 1969 will be named is looking for applications from young women between the ages of 18 and 25 to participate in the contest.

The girls, who would be competing in three categories, evening gown, swim suit and talent should possess a certain amount of beauty, a personality representative of a Miss Belleville, and a keen interest in becoming the new queen. Talent, which plays a large part in the actual pageant, can be worked out with the individual girl.

All girls who apply for participation in the pageant will be given a screening by the pageant committee at the end of March to determine which 10 girls will enter the competition.

The pageant is the first step on the road to the Miss America pageant. The winner will compete for Miss New Jersey at Cherry Hill in July. Should she win there she would then go on to the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City.

As in all other contests leading up to the Miss America crown, scholarships are provided for the winner and two runnersup. Miss Belleville gets a $500 scholarship, first runnerup a $250 scholarship and second runnerup a $125 scholarship. Trophies are also provided for the winners.

As chairman of the parade, Emil Brauer has lined up a number of good bands, floats and other entertainment to make this year's parade one of the best ever.

Local merchants and businesses are also being urged to help support the annual festivities by advertising in the pageant journal which is given to everyone who attends the pageant in Belleville High School auditorium in April. Overall Cherry Blossom Festival chairman, Caesar Romano, said that this year's festivities should provide a wonderful show for the whole family and show once again why Belleville is the "Cherry Blossom Capital of America."

Anyone wishing to be a contestant in the pageant should contact Lawrence Schwartz, 353 Washington Ave., Belleville. His telephone number is 751-1562. All applications should be in by March 27. The screening will take place on March 29.

BELLEVILLE MISS — Local Girls will soon be vying for the title of Miss Belleville, 1969. Pictured here is Miss Belleville 1968, Carol Cornish. This year's pageant is set for April 26 and is sponsored by the Belleville Jaycees.

Company Makes DeNoia Officer

Michael Magnor, president of Underwood Mortgage & Title Company, recently announced the elevation of

Tape Robber Gets Playback At Parking Lot

Clara Maass Hospital's parking lot was the scene of another tape recorder robbery this past week.

Joseph Setteducate of 129 N. 15th Street, Bloomfield, called the police and reported that a recorder and a number of tapes were taken from his car between 7 and 8 p.m. on February 27.

Senator Clifford Case Meets Japanese Officials

Earlier this month I flew to Tokyo for a series of meetings with Japanese political leaders, under the auspices of the U.S.-Japan Parliamentary Exchange Program. It was a most worthwhile experience.

This was the second such conference to be organized by the School of International Affairs at Columbia University and paid for with a grant from the Ford Foundation.

Accompanying me from Washington were a dozen of my colleagues from the Senate and the House. Senator Edmund Muskie, the Democratic nominee for Vice President last year, and Senator Hugh Scott, newly elected assistant leader of Senate Republicans, were among the members of our bipartisan delegation.

The legislators with whom we met reflected the substantially different political system and style that prevail in Japan, which is ruled by a parliamentary government based on the European model.

Through its majorities in the two chambers of the Diet—the 486-member House of Representatives and the 250-member House of Councillors—the Liberal Democratic Party, now headed by Prime Minister Sato, has held almost continual control of the government since 1947.

Currently, LDP majorities exceed the combined strength of the four opposition parties represented in the Diet: the Japan Socialist Party, the Democratic Socialist Party, the Komei Party, the Japan Communist Party.

During the course of our week in Tokyo, we met with representatives of all but the Communist Party, which usually draws about five percent of the popular vote in national elections and now holds five seats in the lower house and seven seats in the upper house of the Diet.

Since the political differences among these parties are noticeably sharper than Americans are accustomed to—and markedly so in matters of foreign policy—our schedule provided for meeting separately with the members of the LDP, JSP, DSP and Komeito.

The major topics of discussion concerned the status of Okinawa, the U.S.-Japan Security Treaty, Japanese and U.S. policy toward China, and the general question of Asian peace and security.

Japan's Ryukyu Islands, of which Okinawa is the largest, have remained under American military control since World War II, and reversion to Japan of administrative rights over Okinawa is currently the common objective of all political parties. Where they differ is over the conditions of reversion.

The crux of the argument is whether, after reversion, U.S. forces in the Ryukyus should remain free to act without reference to the provisions of the Security Treaty, which now require prior consultation on major deployments of American forces to or from mainland Japan. Underlying the argument is the related question of whether Japan, which has renounced nuclear weapons, should agree to some form of American nuclear presence in post-reversion Okinawa.

Local Youth Made Senior President

Donald Malcolm MacIntyre, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald W. MacIntyre, 181 Coeyman Avenue, Nutley, has been elected president of the senior class at Northrop Institute of Technology, according to the Dean of Engineering.

Studying Mechanical Engineering, he will receive the Bachelor of Science degree from the four-year college during commencement exercises on March 27. MacIntyre will graduate cum laude.

Northrop Institute conducts classes year 'round and graduates students four times annually, the dean stated. MacIntyre is a 1961 graduate of Nutley High School. He plans to attend graduate school at the University of Southern California.

Carteret Gets New Board Members

John J. Clancy, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Carteret Savings and Loan Association, has announced the election of two new Carteret advisory board members. They are Irving Spindell, who will serve on the association's advisory board for its commuter office in Pen Station, and Thomas J. O'Neill, who will sit on the Advisory Board for the association's 744 Broad St. office in Newark.

Spindell is owner of the Spindell and Maguire General Insurance Agency in Belmar. He is a graduate of Rutgers University and is a member of the Asbury Park Elks, the Triluminar Lodge, F. & A.M.,

Before joining his present firm, O'Neill served as a special agent with the FBI. He has served as president of the New Jersey Chapter of the Essex Unit of the Association for Retarded Children, the Hospital and Health Council of Newark, and is a former president of the Association of Former FBI Agents. Girl Scouts Annual Day Displays Many Activities

TABLE SETTINGS — One thing all Girl Scouts know is how to set a table. Here two youngsters sit behind both formal and informal settings.

HONORED GUEST — Mayor Ken Smith stopped in at the annual Scout-A-Rama held at the High School last Saturday. Here he is pictured with Mrs. Anthony Verhagen, Mrs. Howard Goeringer and Mrs. Nell Mayo.

AFGHAN KNITTING — Another art which the youngsters learn in the Brownies is the knitting of afghans. Here two Brownies show their skill.

CAMPING TECHNIQUES — Here one of the Senior Scouts directs two Brownies into a tent which was set up for visitors to the Saturday affair.

ON LOOKING — This youngster had a perfect vantage point from which to view the activities at Saturday's Scout-A-Rama at the Junior High School.

FLAG CEREMONY — Following the day of displays and booths was a ceremony which started with the pledging of allegiance to the flag.

WORKING TOGETHER — That is the name of the game in the Girl Scouts. Here a leader works right along with one of the youngsters at a booth at the Scout-A-Rama.

The Girl Scouts of Belleville held their annual Scout-A-Rama on Saturday, at the Junior High School. Although the program did not start until 12:30, the doors to the boys' gym were opened at 9 A.M. to permit the girls, from Brownie Scouts to Seniors, and their leaders to work through the morning to transform the gym with green and gold decorations into a Girl Scout world.

There were 24 troops present: No. 1, 57, 255, 315, 437, 486, 711, 901, 964, 969 and 971. Brownies; 326, 476, 938, 954, 961 and 966, Juniors; 48, 393, 948 and 50 Cadettes, and Senior Troop 981. These scouts represented nearly all of 900 girls and adults registered in the scout program in Belleville.

The visitors, upon arriving were greeted by girls in full uniform. The scouts were demonstrating skills in many girl scout activities; handcrafts, such as art, needlework and flower making. There were booths for first aid, outdoor and home and health safety, as well as nature craft and hiking and campcrafts. On display also, were many completed projects done by the troops during the year.

There were many visitors, one of whom was Mayor Smith, who was introduced by Mrs. Anthony Verhagen.

Community Chairman for Belleville Girl Scouts. Also present were Mrs. Howard Goeringer, the district advisor and Mrs. Nell Mayo, Director of Field Services, who accepted the gift from Belleville Girl Scouts to the Juliet Low World Friendship Fund. This gift was presented by one member of each troop at the flag ceremony at four o'clock which brought to a close the activities.

Caputo Asks Investigation Of Takeover At Rutgers

Assemblyman Ralph R. Caputo (R-Essex), member of the General Assembly Committee on Education, is sponsoring an Assembly Resolution demanding an immediate investigation of the Rutgers students takeover of Conklin Hall.

Caputo criticized the Rutgers administration's handling of the incident, and a meeting of the Education Committee, held at Rutgers President, Dr. Mason Gross' office last week. He characterized the actions of Gross, and Rutgers-Newark Administrator as "weak and vacillating" and "dangerous precedent for the handling of student unrest."

According to Caputo, the transcript of the initial meeting between Gross, Talbott, and leaders of the B.O.S. (Black Organization of Students), the student group which seized Rutgers' Conklin Hall, was "shocking." The transcript clearly indicates that Rutgers Vice-President Malcolm Talbott condoned and encouraged the takeover,"

Caputo maintained. Caputo also protested Talbott's role in the contacted agreement with BOS which resulted in the group's release of Conklin Hall. "When Talbott chose to advise a group of negotiators and sympathizers to visit President Gross' home at 5:00 AM, to compel Gross to acquiesce to BOS demands, some very serious questions arise regarding Talbott's role in the takeover, and his conduct of office as Rutgers-Newark administrator," Caputo stated. Gross later admitted that he was "ill-advised" to sign the transcript. The complete transcript, and other documents, as yet undisclosed by Rutgers officials, will be carefully examined. "I'm determined to find out who was responsible for the incident, and I promise appropriate recommendations," Caputo said.

Caputo also expressed "relief and gratitude" for the Rutgers' faculty decision to rescind the agreement with BOS terming it the "first responsible action of Rutgers officials on the attempted blackmail of the university, despite the threat of further violence."

The Caputo probe will include investigation of the Camden - New Brunswick campus incidents, as well as Newark, Caputo indicated.

Tax Exemptions Include All Full Time Students

A parent does not lose the dependency exemption for a child who is a full time student just because the student earned more than $600 in a tax year.

Roland H. Nash Jr., New Jersey District Director of Internal Revenue, explained that the criteria for establishing dependency is not the amount of money earned by the student. It is the amount of support provided by the parent.

If the parent provided more than half the cost of the student's support, the student may be claimed as a dependent regardless of his earnings.

This is true even though the student files his own tax return and claims his own exemption. Although he will not normally pay any tax unless he earned more than $900, he must file a return if he earned $600 or more. If he earned less, he must file to secure a refund of any income tax withheld from his earnings.

For tax purposes, a full time student is one engaged in a full time program at a recognized educational institution for at least five months of the tax year. A student who works full time and attends school or college at night does not meet this definition.

Students or parents with further questions on the tax status of students are advised to read Publication 532, Tax Information for Students and Parents. It is free at any IRS office.

Easter Ham

Use Spices To Improve Flavor

Your traditional Easter ham dinner can be one that family and friends will long remember, and the resounding success of your meal takes no more effort than you would normally exert for this occasion.

The secret is the use of spices to give the ham a bright new flavor. The three spices you'll need for the following recipe are cloves, cinnamon and allspice.

Prepare your ham by scoring the fat into diamond shapes. Insert one clove into the center of each diamond. Place the ham in a roasting pan.

In a saucepan, combine and cook together for five minutes the following ingredients: 1 cup fresh orange juice, a two inch stick of whole cinnamon, a half teaspoon each of whole allspice and whole cloves.

Bake the ham in a preheated slow (325 F.) oven for 15-18 minutes per pound. Baste with the spiced orange juice every 15 minutes until about 45 minutes before the end of the top surface of the ham. Spoon another 1/4 cup about 20 minutes before the end of the baking time. The ham should have a brown glazed surface.

Arrange the finished ham on a serving platter. Garnish with sprigs of watercress or escarole and pineapple rings.

An added treat for the kids are marshmallows fashioned the baking time.

Before the last 45 minutes spoon 1/4 cup of honey over into the shape of bunny heads, using the whole cloves to make the eyes and nose. Place pickled carrot curls around the platter as food for the bunnies and your family.

See It Everywhere

History Of Cross Is Varied

You see it in churches. It adorns monuments, flags, and heroes' medals. Six million listeners of an internationally known radio broadcast wear it as an emblem in their lapels.

There are many fascinating stories behind the symbol of the cross.

Centuries before Christ died, it was a symbol widely known throughout the ancient world. The Egyptians cal-tom of representing His people as sheep or lambs. By the end of the 6th Century, the first form of crucifix showed the Lamb represented on the cross itself. Crucifixes came to be widely distributed by the church as aids to devotion.

In the New World, the Spaniard conquered New Spain in the name of the cross. But they were astonished to find scheme in the Swiss flag. In 1864 organized a conference to help the sick and wounded soldiers of the world. Sixteen nations attended and established the International Red Cross.

A plain gold cross, worn in the lapel and given free to those who wish it, is the emblem adopted by the largest radio mission in the world, The Lutheran Hour. More than six million gold crosses have been issued since the sponsoring Lutheran Laymen's League presented the first broadcast of this internationally known program more than 30 years. first broadcast of this internationally known program more than 30 years ago. The emblems are now being requested by people in Communist controlled lands, according to noted theologian Dr. Oswald Hoffmann of The Lutheran Hour. The program is aired in English and more than 35 other languages over more than 1,200 outlets, including 600 Mutual, NBC and independent stations in the U.S. Its estimated weekly audience around the world is 30 million

Number One Killer Of Kids Is Simple Bottle Of Aspirin

Did you know that the number 1 killer of children each year is candy-coated aspirin? The American Medical Association states that this year an estimated 500,000 children will swallow potentially poisonous substances found in the home.

The Mountainside Hospital, in cooperation with The New Jersey Safety Council, The New Jersey Department of Health and The New Jersey Hospital Association, wishes to publicize this national tragedy during Poison Control Week, March 16-22, and to try to prevent accidental poisonings. An exhibit prepared by The New Jersey State Department of Health will be on display in the Hospital Lobby during the week.

THE HISTORY OF THE CROSS — Centuries before Christ immortalized the cross, it was a widely used symbol throughout the ancient world. But Christ's death was on a cross and it has been a treasured symbol ever since.

led it "canob," after a T-shaped instrument used to measure the annual rise of the Nile on whose bounty the life of the nation depended. For other nations of the East, it was an "urani," and took the shape of two pieces of wood with handles. By rubbing the two sticks together, the ancients kindled sacred fire.

As early as 1225 B.C., Greek worshipers of Bacchus offered cakes of flour with a figure of the cross imprinted on them. The swastika, or twisted cross, which became a symbol of terror in the 20th Century, appears on the oldest medallions of the Buddhists and was a mystical good omen in many Hindu sects.

The cross was used as an instrument of national punishment in the time of Abraham. As a gallows, it was familiar to the Egyptians, Africans, Macedonians, Greeks and Romans. To various people it has meant a symbol of eternal life, productive power, or the life-giving qualities of the sun.

The Christians around the world, the cross is a symbol of their faith. It was on a Roman cross at Golgotha where Christ died, only to rise again three days later, so that, according to the Bible, "who-soever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

The early Christians portrayed Christ as the Good Shepherd, sometimes carrying a cross instead of a crook. From this evolved the custom of representing their faith in the temples of the Aztecs. Colossal stone monuments throughout Mexico attest to an Indian civilization which adored crosses similar in design to the Greek, Latin, and Maltese forms.

The cross of Lorraine, which Joan of Arc wore into battle, became General Charles de Gaulle's symbol in leading the French resistance movement during World War II. A Swiss welfare agency which adopted as its emblem a red cross on a white field - reversing the color

KINDS OF CROSSES

Legend says that the crucifixion cross was made of four types of wood -- to represent the four corners of the earth. The simple Latin cross, with an upright and single shorter transom, is the commonest. With two transoms it is called a patriarchal cross; with three, a papal cross. A cross widely used by Slavs and others of Eastern rites has two transoms and a slanting crosspiece below. The Greek cross has equal arms. St. Andrew's cross is like an X; The Celtic, or Iona, cross bears a circle, the center of which is the crossing.

LEGENDS OF THE CROSS

The rich history of the cross is shrouded in legend and superstition. A crucifix was said to have shed blood in 1512, during an Easter Day battle between the French and Spanish. A statue of Christ on the cross reportedly performed healing wounds during the Plague of Malaga in 1649. Legend also has it that when St. Francis of Assisi was praying, a voice from the crucifix told him, "Repair my house." At first he took "house" to mean church; when he later learned that it meant his own spiritual life, he renounced his worldly goods and took up orders. And the old wives' tale still persists in some quarters that the Gypsies are accursed because one of them, a wayfaring metal-smith, made the nails that were used at the Crucifixion!

Egg Coloring Has Long History

Used In Ancient Egypt For Its Spring Festival

The Easter custom of coloring eggs with bright, cheerful designs goes back to the spring festivals of the ancient Egyptians, Persians, Assyrians and Greeks. Almost every country utilizes eggs in some way during this holiday period.

Eggs are regarded as the symbol of resurrection, for they hold the seeds of life and represent the revival of fertility upon the earth. Fashionable new clothes, the rabbit, lilies, baby chicks and other symbols of Easter all derive from the idea of renewal and life everlasting.

Egg rolling started in ancient England, based on the idea of rolling away the stone from Christ's tomb. Egg rolling on the White House lawn was begun by Dolly Madison.

So when you color eggs for your children, and hide them around the house, you are perpetuating a custom that goes back thousands of years to the very origins of civilization.

Before you begin to color your eggs, make certain that you have hard boiled them and let them cool. Then follow the following steps:

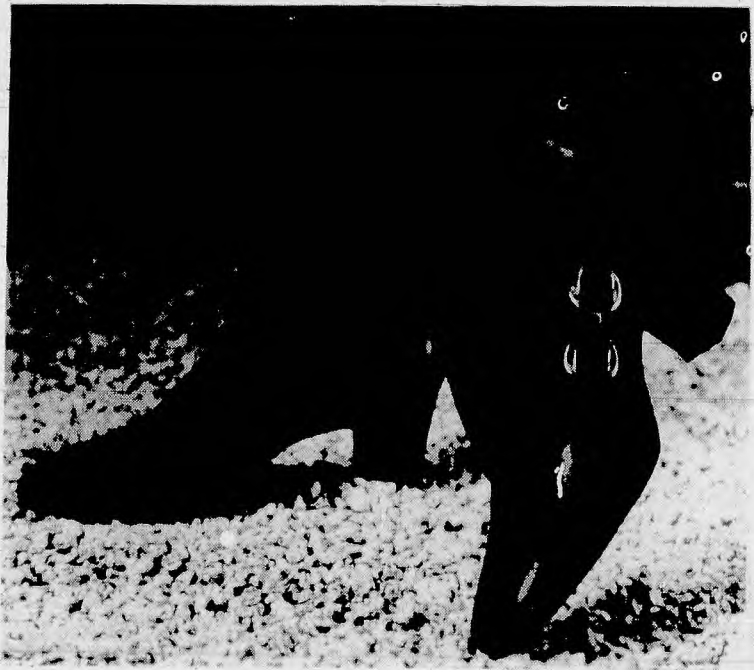

--Heat a pot of water until it is very hot, but not boiling.

--For each 1/2 cup of hot water add 1 teaspoon of cider vinegar to "set" the color. Use approximately 20 drops of Ehlers Pure Food Color in the desired shade for every 1/2 cup of hot water mixture.

--Immerse the hard cooked egg until the desired color is obtained for for about two minutes.

To write a person's name on an egg, write the name on the shell with crayon before coloring. Follow the above coloring procedure, then rub off the crayoned area after the color sets and dries.

Colorful designs and patterns may be put on the eggs by drawing the desired shapes with a crayon and following the above directions. If a variety of colors is desired, simply make the patterns with a crayon and re-dip the egg into each desired color, allowing it to set and dry before each dipping.

Easter Seals

Annual Appeal Is In Full Swing

The Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of New Jersey had "come of age" this year - and now is in the midst of its 21st annual appeal for funds.

Things have changed a lot for handicapped people in the last two decades. People with physical handicaps - indeed with all types of handicaps - have "come out of the closet" and begun to be recognized as a natural and significant part of every neighborhood and community.

begin to be recognized as a natural and significant part every neighborhood and community.

Facilities to identify handicapping conditions and to provide help to handicapped people in achieving independence in spite of them, have multiplied. The right of handicapped children to education has been recognized and spotlighted.

Almost imperceptively we become used to the once startling sight of child or adult in a wheelchair on the street, in the street, in the supermarket or restaurant, or almost anywhere else; to the person with an artificial limb, or braces or crutches coming and going to school, college or work; to sometimes severely handicapped person in prominent roles in government, business and community affairs.

These are momentous social changes, and many factors have been at work to bring them about. A constant force among them in New Jersey for the last two score years has been the Easter Seal Society, which has stimulated professional and public interest in the problems and potentials of handicapped people, has established and operated facilities of many sorts in many places to bring treatment, education, recreation, employment training, information and counsel to handicapped people of all ages and types of disabilities. Much remains to be done, of course.

Mrs. Richard J. Hughes is honorary state chairman for the Easter Seal Appeal now under way here as it is throughout the state and nation. We can but share the belief she has voiced:

"People with physical handicaps need a 'champion' organization - one which is concerned deeply about their problems; one which recognizes their dignity and their potentialities; one which works hard at helping them overcome their problems, achieve their potentialities and preserve their dignity. The Easter Seal Societies do this. I am happy and proud if I can in some measure help them to receive the support they deserve from all our New Jersey people so they can get on with their important job."

All Breed Cat Show Planned For Upsala

Cats or kittens of uncertain ancestry are ready to break into the highest strata of New Jersey feline royalty.

Registration opens today for proud cat owners who want to enter their household pets in an all-breed championship show to be held April 26 and 27 in Viking Hall at Upsala College in East Orange.

The show will be co-sponsored by the Ramapo Feline Breeders & Fanciers of New Jersey and the Titicus Cat Club of Connecticut, and sanctioned as a championship show by the American Cat Association.

A panel of judges known internationally in the cat fancy will crown a king and queen of household pets at the end of the two-day show. The household pet category includes felines of all sizes, shapes, and color. Frequently this breed is referred to by the uncharitable generic term, "alley cat."

Colorful satin rosettes and silver trophies will be awarded to the top cats in all classes. Among the purebred felines to be judged are Siamese, Burmese, Persians, Himalayans, Russian Blues, Abyssinians and Korats.

Judges will be Miss Rosemary Graham of Montreal, June Lechtanski of Hackensack, Jane Perkins of Providence, R.I., and Phillip Albert of Boston.

A portion of the proceeds of the show will be contributed to the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and other humane societies.

Registration will close March 26. Entries will be limited to 350 cats. Registration information is available from Gordon Ainsworth 290 Ackerson Ave., Wyckoff, a member of the Ramapo club.

Parkway Expansion Plan Ready To Receive All Bids

Thomas More Bookstore Is Open In Bloomfield

It was a unique store opening Archbishop Thomas A. Boland, Archbishop of the Catholic Archdiocese of Newark formally blessed and dedicated the new Center. Mayor Walter Davis of Bloomfield welcomed the new venture into his home town.

Sheriff Ralph D'Ambolo represented the County. This was the scene as the new Thomas More Book Center opened at 84 Washington Street. The original Thomas More Store opened three years ago at Essex Green Shopping Plaza in West Orange and had as its first part time manager Lieut. Arthur Magnusson of the Sheriff's Office of Essex County.

This new Center will house over three thousand titles of paperbacks, a specially equipped audio visual room, have available the latest in the best of hard cover books, facilities for meetings, book reviews and group discussions as well as a staff geared to sponsor film discussions and theater parties. As one speaker on the occasion of the opening remarked: "This place will touch all bases as far as the modern communications media are concerned."

Msgr. Hayes, one of the speakers at the opening declared: "This unique Center is meant to serve those of all Faiths by supplying good wholesome reading in a setting that even parents need not be concerned that their children browse around--and you can't say that in many places where over 3,000 titles are on display. It is meant to offer a service to groups by providing a setting for book reviews and discussion groups for those of all ages."

Elmer F. Collins, bringing an experience of several years in the book field, will manage the Center. Cathleen McCarthy will be the school and audio-visual consultant.

On the occasion Archbishop Boland was presented by Arthur Magnusson with a complete set of the written works of Msgr. Paul Hayes and Rev. Edward Hayes, both priests of the Archdiocese of Newark. The works include several pamphlets and five books, presented to the Archbishop for his personal library.

The Thomas More Center is sponsored by the Communications office of the Archdiocese of Newark as a means of raising the level of modern communications media in the secular market places. It will open Thursday through Saturday every week.

Culinary Arts Studied By Most American Men

When the man-about-town turns cook - his best friends are bottles, boxes and cans.

The proliferation of convenience foods - frozen or canned mushrooms, bottled lemon and garlic juice, to brown-and-serve bread and rolls - has lured more and more urbane males into the kitchen to test their culinary creativity, according to a recent survey by ReaLemon Foods.

Not content with mixing the perfect Martini or the best whiskey sour in town, 72 per cent of urban bachelors queried by ReaLemon consider it a mark of sophistication to prepare and serve gourmet meals.

Easter Bunny Cake

Excite The Children With Dessert

Anyone who enjoys children will enjoy making this gay Easter bunny. It is made by cutting up a loaf cake, then fitting the parts into a bunny shape held together with frosting and small picks. Coconut, of course, make the fur and jelly beans the eyes and nose.

Easter Bunny Cake

Prepare one-half package cake mix according to package directions or one-half your favorite layer cake recipe, or use the recipe below for Old-Fashioned Loaf Cake. Pour batter into a well greased and floured loaf pan (9 x 5 x 3 inches) and bake in 350 degrees F. (moderate) oven for 25 to 30 minutes, or according to recipe directions. Cool for 10 minutes; remove from pan and finish cooling on cake rack.

To cut, follow cut lines shown in picture. Trim ears to same size. Trim edges of cake so bunny will stand straight. Stand upright. Slide top piece of cake forward, as illustrated, to form head and body. Fasten two parts of body and ears securely with wooden picks or small skewers. Frost with No Cook Frosting rounding out shape of bunny and using a generous amount of form tail. Sprinkle with shredded coconut. Use jelly beans which have been cut in halves for eyes and ears and make rakish whiskers with licorice strips.

No Cook Marshmallow Frosting

1/4 teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
1/4 cup sugar
3/4 cup light corn syrup
1 1/4 teaspoons vanilla

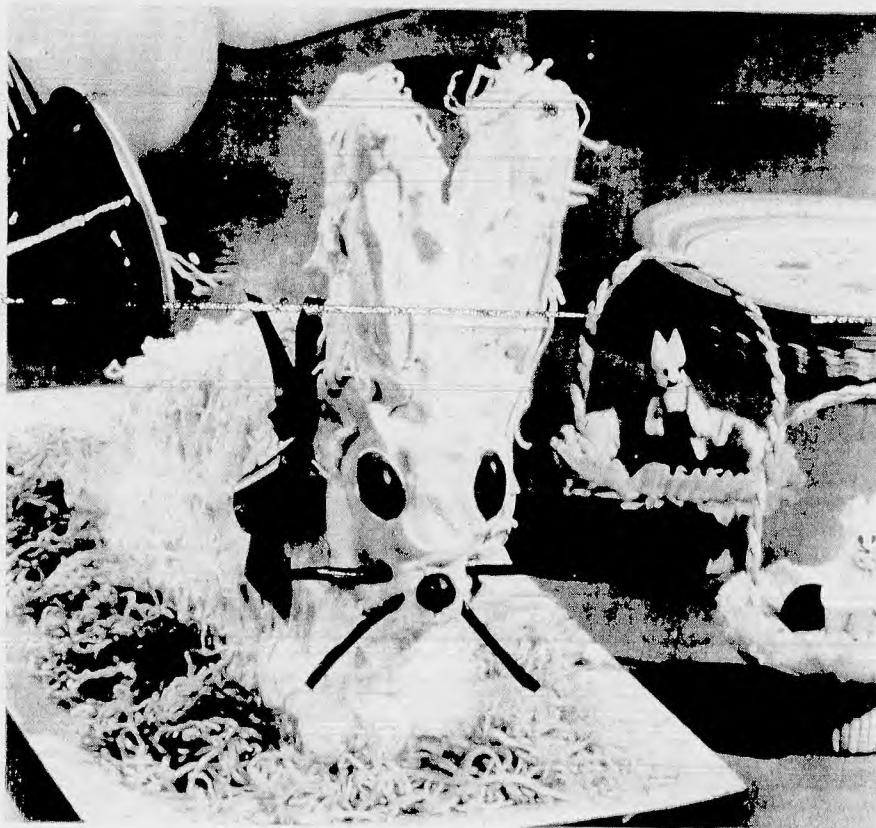

Add salt to egg whites and beat with electric or rotary beater until mixture forms soft peaks. Gradually add sugar, about 1 tablespoon at a time, beating until smooth and glossy. Continue beating and add corn syrup, a little at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition, until frosting peaks. Fold in vanilla extract. Makes enough to cover bunny or will frost tops and sides of two 9-inch layers.

Old Fashioned Loaf Cake

2 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup water
4 egg yolks
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1/2 teaspoon mace
4 egg whites
1/4 cup sugar

Mix and sift first four ingredients. Make a well and add in order corn oil, water, egg yolks, vanilla extract and mace, if used. Beat until smooth and well blended (about 1 minute). Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; gradually beat in sugar. Fold into first mixture (do not beat). Turn batter into well greased, waxed paper lined loaf pan (9 1/4 x 5 1/4 x 3 inches). Bake in 325 degrees F. (slow) oven about 1 1/2 hours or until cake springs back when touched lightly with finger. Cool 15 minutes in pan; loosen with spatula. Remove from pan and complete cooling on rack. Frost with No Cook Marshmallow Frosting.

EASTER BUNNY CAKE — Made with a cake baked in a loaf pan and then cut to the shape of a bunny, this Easter Bunny cake is delicious. In case you want to save your decoration, you had better make a supply of cupcakes so the children won't eat the precious bunny.

IN THE STARS — On any clear night the naked eye can pick out up to 5,000 stars. Experts at Sears report that even a home scope of modest power will nearly double that figure.

Star Gazing

You See More With A 'Scope'

Look up! Wa-ay up into the night sky. See that long, irregular belt of white, stretching roughly north and south across the heavens, we call the Milky Way? Ever wonder how many stars it contains? Some astronomers estimate that the number might reach 100 billion. But they do their counting with a 200-inch telescope.

Actually, the naked eye can pick out up to 5,000 stars on any clear night. And for the telescope equipped astronomy buff, the sky's the limit. Even a home 'scope of modest power will nearly double that figure.

But how do we find our way around up there? Let's say you want to find, Sirius, the Dog Star. All you know about Sirius is that it's the brightest star in the heavens and that it's best seen in early March. But where do you look?

First off, it's easier to find your favorite star if you know that the night sky changes with the season.

Winter brings the brightest constellation into the evening sky Orion, with it brilliant Betelgeuse and Rigel is the brightest of all. The line of the three stars of Orion's belt directs the eye to our old friend Sirius.

Leo, the Lion, with its sickle figure is the dominant constellation in the southern skies of spring. Below it sprawls Hydra, the Sea Serpent, inviting the stargazer to bring out his telescope.

Gazing at the constellations in the summer skies, you can view Cygnus, the Swan, better known as the Northern Cross.

The square of Pegasus appears in the autumn. Just imagine this is a bowl of a dipper and look to the northeast for its handle. The handle is formed by the bright stars of Andromeda and Perseus.

Today, there is a growing fraternity of amateur astronomers who scan the MASTER PIANIST Clifford Curzon of England returns tomorrow for an 8:30 p.m. concert at Montclair High School. Sponsored by the Unity Concert Course, Mr. Curzon's performance will prove the definite highlight of the current season's series.

On his last visit to the United States, Clifford Curzon was acclaimed for "greatness of a kind that is forgotten today." A Quiet Englishman, in complete communication with nature and the arts, Mr. Curzon's lovely Georgian home, built in 1810, at Hampstead Heath north of London, reflects his interest in the arts of other countries as well as his own.

A magnificent collection of French impressionist paintings fill his two-story high entrance hall and the two music studios which flank it on either side. His American-born wife Lucille Wallace, is a highly accomplished harpsichordist and also a gourmet cook. The shelves of her music studio are decorated with her collection of international cookbooks. British and Italian paintings add to the unique setting for her valuable lemonwood Pleyel harpsichord with its elaborate inlay.

Mr. Curzon's studio is dominated by two Steinways complemented by two masterpieces of art - a scene of Montmartre done in Utrillo's white period and a seascape at sunset by Boudin. The walls are filled with cabinets housing a huge record collection, including the early recordings of great masters, and a special case displays a most prized possession - an incredibly delicate cast of Chopin's right hand. Other musical memorabilia include an original manuscript of one of Mozart's string quartets and an autographed calling card of Liszt's.

Other events on the series include Carlos Montoya, guitarist, April 18; and Peter Serkin, pianist, April 25th.

Tickets and further information may be obtained by telephoning or writing Barbara Russell, director of the Unity Institute, 67 Church Street, Montclair. Telephone is 744-6770.

HURRY if you plan to watch any of the Garden State Art's Center performances this season from the best seats. The Garden State Arts Center released its 1969 program just in time to be included in the last issue of Accent. Already, nearly 4,000 subscriptions have been requested for the coming season at the Telegraph Hill Park amphitheater.

The "popular subscription series" includes seven events at the Arts Center beginning with Glen Campbell the week of June 30. Others in this series include "The Rowan & Martin Show," "Diana Ross and The Supremes," Fiddler on the Roof," "Steve Lawrence and Edie Gorme, The New 1969 Liberace Show, Henry Mancini and Johnny Mathis.

The Garden State Arts Center also has two classical subscription series highlighted by "appearances" by Highlights include Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra (June 12), Morton Gould and the Washington National Symphony (June 23), VanCliburn with the New York Philharmonic (June 26) and the American Ballet Theatre with "Swan Lake" (July 29).

BELLEVILLE'S CONNIE FRANCIS is the current hit at the Copacabana in New York. Connie will be singing at Jule Podell's night spot through next Wednesday night.

UP-COMING EVENTS: James Brown, "The King of Soul" appears in concert tomorrow at Seton Hall's Walsh Auditorium. The 8:30 p.m. concert is sponsored by the University's Black Student League to benefit a memorial scholarship fund in Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s name.

This Saturday night will find "Blood, Sweat and Tears" in concert as Chuck Berry, the Rhinoceros all combine for two shows at Drew University's Baldwin Gym in Madison. Show times: 7 and 10:20 p.m.

The Opera Theatre of New Jersey, directed by Alfredo Silipigni, offers Verdi's "Rigoletto" this Sunday at 6 p.m. in Symphony Hall, Newark. Featured will be Eugenio Fernandi, Vern Shinall and Arlene Randazzo.

Count Basie appears tomorrow and Saturday at the Flagship where Ray Anthony's Bookend Revue closes after tonight's performance. The Flagship will feature Enzo Stuarti next weekend, March 28-29. Lou Monte and London Lee on April 5, and Tony Martin on April 11-12. The supper club is on Route 22 in Union.

Betsy Palmer rounds out the Paper Mill Playhouse production of "Cactus Flower" this Sunday. Opening next Tuesday at the Paper Mill: "The King and I" with Dorothy Sandlin and Michael Kermoyan.

Museum Opening 'Touch and See' For The Blind

Touch and See, the Newark Museum's sixth exhibition for the blind, will open this Saturday, continuing through April 27. An unusual feature of the Touch and See exhibitions is the removal of normal museum restrictions against handling objects. Instead, the blind are invited to feel the exhibits they cannot see and descriptive labels are printed in Braille.

This year's exhibition is subtitled Feeling the Sound of Music to indicate the theme of exploration of musical instruments. Music provides profound enjoyment for many of the blind.

Therefore, the opportunity to handle and investigate a great variety of instruments from many cultures may be a new and rewarding experience.

Accent on Films

'Charly' Lacks Relationship To People In Real Life

MOST OUTSTANDING: "The Lion in Winter" at the Millburn Cinema, "2001: A Space Odyssey" at Montclair's Claridge, "Charly" at Cinema 46 "The Subject Was Roses" at Nutley's Franklin, "The Firmen's Ball" at Irvington's Art.

GOOD to EXCELLENT: "Finian's Rainbow" at Wayne's RKO Twin, "Shame" at East Orange's Ormont.

GOOD: "I Love You Alice B. Toklas" at Rutherford's Rivoli, "Shoes of The Fisherman" at Montclair's Bellevue.

THE SUBJECT WAS ROSES: It's not often that home-town folks are treated to one of the year's top films in the neighborhood movie house, but discriminating film viewers in the Nutley area have that unique opportunity this week as "The Subject Was Roses" opens at the Franklin Theater (667-0100).

Nominated for two Academy Awards, Patricia Neal as "best actress" and Jack Albertson as "best supporting actor," the film has received the highest accolades. Even more unique is the fact that "Roses" is one of the top films of 1968 that carries the industry's "G" rating for general audiences, including children.

Based on Frank D. Gilroy's play which coped a Pulitzer Prize, "The Subject Was Roses" tells of the experiences encountered by a young man returning to his Bronx home after a tour with the Army. Martin Sheen co-stars in the production with Judy Collins singing for the soundtrack.

CHARLY: This outstanding film gradually will be appearing at different theaters in the area; it's currently on view at the plush Cinema 46. We caught Cliff Robertson's outstanding performance in "Charly" earlier this month at Montclair's Welmont and highly recommend this emotional drama as a truly unusual film. ("Charly" has been replaced at the Welmont by "Candy" and unless you don't want to be terribly disappointed, you'll have to make the short trip to Cinema 46 instead.)

"Charly" is the story of a mentally-retarded adult who undergoes a brain operation only to become a genius.. But because of his lack of comprehension of worldly experiences, Charly has a particularly difficult time balancing his scientifically-acquired intelligence with his still retarded emotions.

The only reservation we have with "Charly" is the lack of a significant relationship between the film and reality. Perhaps this criticism is being picayune, for certainly we don't believe all cinema-art must relate to something "real," but "Charly" is after all a story about people and emotions, and when film's situations can't be related to life itself, a definite void results.

None the less, "Charly" is one of the most outstanding films produced in 1968. Cliff Robertson has been nominated for an Academy Award for his acting performance, and most of the reviews found less to criticize than did we. Put "Charly" on your "must see" list.

SUITABILITY RATINGS for films - those guides for parents being which have been established by the movie industry - are not available to Accent at the present time. We are attempting to receive these ratings from the industry itself and as soon as possible, will include this information in this column. It is interesting, however, that we have had difficulty obtaining these suitability ratings from publicity releases and even our own advertising columns.

Probably the most entertaining film for the youngsters is "Finian's Rainbow" now at the RKO Twin in Wayne's Willowbrook Shopping Center. Also carrying "G" ratings (suitable for children) are "2001: A Space Odyssey" at the Clairidge, and "The Shoes of The Fisherman" at the Bellevue and, as we mentioned earlier, "The Subject Was Roses" at the Franklin Theater in Nutley.

MORE COMPLETE information regarding films in this area is also being solicited. We've run into the difficulty of obtaining advance booking notices for area theaters but managers are cooperating to insure that schedules reach us sufficiently in advance to enable us to call attention to the more outstanding films as they open in theaters conveniently located for our readers.

Accent on Television

WXTV Is Introducing TV to North Jersey

Truly local television has not been available to North Jersey, but a step has been taken in this direction by WXTV, a channel which opened up recently with little local fanfare.

Based in nearby Paterson and operating on channel 41, WXTV's programs have been designed exclusively for the Spanish-speaking population.

Miss Christopher Norwood, who handles WXTV's public relations chores, is one of those "PR" folks who has a solid background in news reporting. WXTV now shows Miss Norwood Monday through Fridays with a local news report aired in English.

Called "Focus New Jersey," the weeknight news broadcast, presented in color, can be seen on channel 41 at 11:25 p.m., just about the time most folks have become sufficiently bored with the New York City news seen on other stations, and just before Johnny Carson and Joey Bishop open up their late-night stints.

Reception on channel 41 is excellent, at least in the Nutley-Bloomfield-Belleville area. If you catch "Focus New Jersey," you may find the program doesn't quite match the news shows produced by the video-tape and film teams of the N.Y. network stations, but that's what local TV is all about. It's a big step in the right direction and we trust that as time goes on, WXTV will find the time to produce more strictly local television, in English as well as Spanish.

The Paterson channel does feature on a regular basis a couple of other events which would interest sports and bull-fight fans, even if you can't catch all the Spanish commentary. Professional boxing matches from Mexico City are aired Saturday's at 9:30 p.m. Coming up Saturday, April 5, will be bouts pitting Manuel de la Rosa vs. Francisco Silva, Juan Pineda vs. Agustin Garcia, Ramon Corona vs. Beto Lora, Efrén Castillo vs. Mariano Moales, and Raul Rodriguez vs. Arturo Loniet. The boxing runs an hour.

Bullfights are seen at the appropriate time of 4 p.m. Sundays. If this is your speed, you might haul out a sun-lamp this weekend and catch Gonzales Iturbe, Angel Garcia, Pablo Cruz and Miguel A. Nunez. The card for March 30 includes Jose Luis Medina, El Chaval and La Pantera Negra.
