

Belleville High Set To Graduate 330 At Commencement

Approximately 330 seniors will be graduated from Belleville High School at the 81st annual Commencement exercises next Thursday at 6 p.m. in Municipal Stadium.

Sandra La Sala
Valedictorian

Cathy Berezansky
Salutatorian

In addition to the processional and selections by the High School band, speeches will be given by Valedictorian Sandra La Sala, Salutatorian Cathy Berezansky, and Sharon Di Quattro, third in the class.

The band will play selections from "Pajama Game." Principal Raymond Smith will present the Class of 1969, with Superintendent Anthony J. Greco officially accepting them. Diplomas will be presented by Dr. Frank Di Ruggiero, Board of Education president, and Mrs. Thomas McCool, vice president. Announcer for the commencement will be student council president, Jo Ann Romao.

Miss La Sala will attend Montclair State College in the fall. Miss Berezansky is headed for Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School. Newark State is Miss Di Quattro's selection. All of the girls will be attending their first choice in schools.

A very active senior, Miss La Sala was vice president of the National Honor Society, a member of the French Club, co-editor of the yearbook, and a student tutor. She also took part in the senior class play, sang with the Baker's Dozen, and wrote for the school newspaper.

Miss Berezansky was the secretary of the French Club, a student tutor, and made the High Honor Roll and the National Honor Society. She also found time to be an officer worker for the school.

Squabble Erupts Over Ordinance

While a visiting Junior High School government class looked on, Commissioner Vincent Strumolo and Mayor Kenneth Smith exchanged heated words as the Commission passed an ordinance creating the position of administrative clerk in the Department of Parks and Public Property.

The exchange of words occurred when the ordinance was put to a vote. Commissioner Strumolo, who had voted against the introduction of the ordinance at the last meeting, prefaced what turned out to be a surprising yes vote with these words:

"The records will show that as a commissioner and director of Public Affairs, I have made it a policy not to interfere with any other department, and I don't intend to start now because I believe that every commissioner is responsible to the people for the activities of his department. However, when it comes to a situation involving the benefit and welfare of the community, then and only then will I express my views and opinions. For the above reasons I vote yes."

Mayor Smith, looking somewhat puzzled by Strumolo's remarks, said he didn't understand the statement, and proceeded to cast his yes vote. Commissioner Strumolo attempted to clarify his position but the Mayor refused to listen. In the exchange of words that followed, Commissioner

Dinner Set Tomorrow For Sports

Vincent Sorrentino, president of the Belleville Varsity Club, reports that arrangements for the Annual All-Sports Dinner have been completed.

John Shelesky, chairman, has arranged to hold the affair at the Fountain tomorrow. Committee members for the banquet are Tony Di Feo, John Cialella, Henry Vitello, Bob Cassin, Jerry Bonavita, Joe Groesch, Ralph Casale, Joe Cenero, James Brown and Ernie Steffanelli.

This year the club will be honoring 90 seniors of Belleville High School who have earned a letter in a major or minor sport other than football. Senior girls who have participated in associated activities such as cheerleading or twirling will also be honored guests. Each honored guest will receive an award. Some of the athletes will receive double and triple awards.

The All-Sports Banquet is purposely being held in Belleville this year so that many townspeople can attend. Representatives of the American Legion and the Colony Club will be on hand to make special awards to deserving individuals.

Homeless Kids Invited To See Drum Contest

The Zarro Civic and Welfare Association invited 30 orphans and homeless children from the Sisters of St. John the Baptist Home on Amity Place, Newark, to attend the fife and drum competition held at Belleville H.S. stadium Sunday, June 9.

The association transported a bus load of children and Sisters from the home, also purchasing ice cream, popples, etc. for the children.

Co-Chairmen of the trip were Anthony Agresta, and co-chairman Rita Zarro. President of the association is Anthony Caruso, Standard Bearer Joseph Zarro and Margaret Zarro. The children ranged in age from 2 to 14.

Look To Fall

Town Parties Name Leaders

The town Democratic and Republican parties met Monday night and re-elected last year's chairmen.

Meeting at the Council Chambers in Twon Hall, the Democrats unanimously voted Commissioner Mary Senatore into her sixth term of office. The Republicans gathered at the recreation house and gave Gerald J. Ferrara another term.

Happy at the election results, Commissioner Senatore said "Our job is now to get behind Robert Meyner and the complete Democratic ticket. I'm very happy that the committee members had so much confidence in me."

The vote was unanimous.

Voted in to his sixth terms Democratic vice chairman was Chester Prosperi. The other members of the party chosen as officers were Katherine Marino, secretary; Mildred Visco, treasurer; Katherine Burke, First Ward chairman; Frank De Bonis, Second Ward chairman and George Mitchell, Sergeant-at-arms.

Thirty-five people met at the recreation house to return Ferrara to the leadership of the town Republican party by a unanimous vote. Angles McCarthy was selected for her first term as vice chairlady.

Decision Awaited From Commission On Budget Appeal

The final round in the Board of Education budget controversy is over. What the outcome will be depends on State Commissioner of Education Carl Marburger, who will make his decision within three weeks after reviewing the appeal hearings of June 5 and 9.

The case was before the Commissioner on appeal of the Belleville Board of Education. The budget, after being twice rejected by the voters, was cut $205,777 by the Commission. The Board has called the cuts a detriment to better education in Belleville.

An informal hearing was held April 26 in Trenton, after which Town Attorney Nicholas R. Amato and Board attorney Max Schwartz were directed to prepare a stipulation of facts for the June 5 hearing. At the hearing, the town was to present a 14 point justification for its cuts, but not all of them were heard, and consequently the June 9 hearing was needed.

At the hearing June 9, the Board presented its witnesses before hearing examiner Edward Glaspey. Speaking before the examiner was Anthony Greco, Board superintendent; Harold Duffard, Board business administrator; Michael Rosamilia, assistant superintendent, and Board Secretary Mary Shader, among others.

The town was represented at the confrontation by Finance Commissioner Joseph McGreevy and Amato. The meeting began at 10 a.m., broke for lunch at one, and continued until 5 p.m.

Greco told the Times that the hearing amounted to "the hearing examiner compiling the facts elicited from the Commissioner for a decision. He honestly feel the Board made will then turn it over to the a good case for its cause."

CONFIDENT OF OUTCOME — Board of Education Superintendent Anthony Greco is optimistic that the State Commissioner of Education in Trenton will help restore some of the $205,777 cut from the Board budget by the Town Commission after hearings June 5 and 9.

Trip To Races Set For July 3

For the 11th consecutive year a large group of Belleville racing enthusiasts will make the two and a half hour bus trip to Monticello Raceway in New York State, July 3, for "Belleville, New Jersey Night."

The track will feature a special race for Belleville, after which the town will present a gold watch to the winning driver.

The cost for the affair is $11, which includes bus fare, food and drink during the trip, a seven course dinner and box seats for the races.

Last year 300 people, including town officials, attended the evening at the races. Ralph Risoli, coordinator for the trip, expects a turnout of 400 persons.

Risoli had an interesting anecdote about last year's trip. Somehow the Montreal Turf Magazine found out about the evening and wrote it up in their journal.

The Sullivan County newspaper at Monticello also includes a feature article about Belleville's night at the traces. The Monticello radio station broadcasts the race as a feature presentation. In addition, Belleville is recognized on the evening's program sheet.

Cook Sets Summer Activities

Another summer of activities has been planned for youngsters in Belleville playgrounds.

Robert Cook, director of recreation has worked hard to make what he feels will be "the most ambitious summer yet."

There will be a full program beginning June 30 for youngsters six through 12 at all nine playgrounds. Separate activities for junior and senior high school kids will be planned by the kids themselves, under the direction of Cook. Approximately 2,500 kids are registered.

The highlight of the summer, as in past years, will be the elaborate Fourth of July ceremonies, including a field day in the morning, a circus during the afternoon and fireworks at night.

There will be a staff of 25 young men and women guiding the youngsters in their activities. The minimum requirement for the staff was one year of college.

Among the daily activities planned are swimming, stickball, dodgeball, hot potato, checkers and Simon says.

Three special programs will be run throughout the season, each directed by a qualified instructor. Scheduled are instruction in reading, twirling and elementary handicraft.

A special series of programs for young people of junior and senior high school age will be created by the kids themselves. Cook says that half the fun for the teenagers is in the planning of the activities. Mostly, Cook says, the kids like to "cut loose," in such activities as bowling, archery and barbecues.

Boy Struck By Automobile

Salvatore Migliara, 9, of 90 Magnolia Street, was struck by an automobile on the corner of Heckel and Franklin Avenue and taken to Clara Maass Memorial Hospital for treatment.

The vehicle was driven by Paul H. McGian.

Seeks To Stop Commission Quarrels

Mayor Smith: A Man For Harmony

Kenneth Smith began fighting for what he believes in at a very early age. At 13½, when other youngsters were tossing baseballs and climbing trees, he was a Marine machine gunner, stationed in France.

Ken Smith's life has taken many courses since then. Today he is the Mayor of a town with a population of 40,000. He has switched battlefields from occupied France to a town whose reputation was somewhat tarnished when he took office with the new Commission in 1967. He is fighting now for two things: More harmony in Belleville, and more town control of its own affairs.

Perhaps it is only natural for a man with a long rich life to be seeking harmony in his later years. But his reasons go beyond any concerns with age. He is interested in the welfare of Belleville, his home since 1919, and he believes harmony to be essential.

"One of the reasons I ran for the Commission was that in traveling throughout the State as a public relations man, I realized the bad impact the fighting and feuding that used to go on in Belleville was having. As mayor I felt I should bring Harmony to the town."

The Mayor says he is not alone in his desire to have harmony on the Commission. "Fortunately the people in Belleville saw fit to elect people who agree with me about harmony. They have helped me create a new image for Belleville."

Financial concerns were cited by the Mayor as a reason for the necessity of harmony. He said that it is easier for the town to get bonds at a good rate when people have confidence in the town.

There has been a good deal of harmony on the Commission since 1967, but there have also been stormy moments. It was not too long ago that the usually quiet, white haired mayor pointed an angry finger at Commissioner Vincent Strumolo and accused him of acting like a baby and obstructing the Commission's affairs.

Some conflict is to be expected, however, between two men dedicated to the town but differing in their fundamental views. Mayor

Smith sees Belleville as an urban town with urban needs.

Commissioner Strumolo insists Belleville must remain suburban.

THE MAYOR OF BELLEVILLE — Mayor Kenneth Smith, shown here on the phone, spends up to three days a week at his office in Town Hall, taking time out from his job to administer Belleville's Department of Public Affairs. The Mayor, chosen in 1967 after he polled the most votes for the election, seeks harmony in government.

The Mayor admits there had been some conflict between himself and Strumolo, but is quick to add he personally likes the Commissioner of Public Affairs. "I have nothing but respect for Vinnie. He is doing a fine job for the town of Belleville."

The most consistent harmony on the Commission has been a coalition between Commissioners Joseph McGreevy, Mary Senatore and Mayor Smith. Neither of the three, who vote together on most issues, admits that he consciously votes "with" any of the others. They all insist that they are voting by issue with the town's interest at heart. Whatever the reasons, their voting has done much to promote the harmony the Mayor feels is so greatly needed in Belleville.

The core of Mayor Smith's political philosophy lies in his firm commitment to decentralization. In a computerized age where the great industrial-military complex has siphoned an alarming amount of power from the state and local governments, the Mayor insists that individual towns must have a greater control of their destinies.

The Mayor repeatedly cites taxes as a major example of the oppressive tendencies of the federal, state and county powers. Too much money, he says, is leaving the town, and too little is returning without the interfering hand of the bigger governing agencies.

"I feel today that people have reached the saturation point as far as taxes are concerned. Unless we in government do something about it, we are in trouble."

The Mayor wastes no words in criticizing the State and federal government for taking the financial power away from the town. "After the Governor took office, he instituted the sales tax which he said would lower real estate taxes within municipalities, which it hasn't done. Immediately upon receiving the sales tax they called for a $900 million bond issue, most of which went for roads and buildings in Trenton."

The Mayor's advocacy of town control of government affairs is perhaps a strange thing for a moderate politician to insist on, for interestingly enough, some of the more radical young New Left politicians have been calling for the same thing. The Mayor notes that in meeting with other mayors, there is the same feeling amongst them concerning decentralization.

"The towns should run their own government," he says firmly. The States interfere by too much taxation and then the money collects in the counties and in Trenton. By the time the money gets back to you you have paid double for it. The people should vote for a governor who will not saddle them with taxes.

"If the towns ran their own relief, their own schools, they could control things better. We only have control of one third of the money we appropriate. I am definitely against big government and am instead for home rule with the people controlling their government. I have always felt the people were foolish to give up their powers to the federal government."

The Mayor's background is interesting. Born in Pequannock, he left school at 13½ to enlist in the Marines, telling them he was 18. He started high school in Patterson and finished at Newark Prep. He has owned his own milk business, which he abandoned a long time ago. Entering the Belleville police department in 1928, he worked his way up to Deputy chief, before leaving the department in 1954. For the last 12 years he has been working for Jersey Testing Labs.

In 1954 he entered the political arena for the first time. "I always liked politics and people," he said. "It was a way of being close to both. I thought I would do a job for Belleville. After 28 years in the Police Department, I knew Belleville, all the ins and outs of it."

In 1958, when the council-manager form of government was instituted, he was not reelected to office. He stayed out of politics until 1967, when the commission returned to Belleville. He polled more votes than all other candidates and was selected by the other commissioners as Mayor.

Being a Mayor in addition to his duties as head of the Department of Public Safety, has meant a lot of time and work. He spends two or three full days in his Town Hall office.

Perhaps the stormiest period of his term in office was the controversial "Master Plan" which called for an urban approach to Belleville. The Mayor was staunchly in favor of the erection of middle income high rise apartment houses for the town. He was opposed often violently by Commissioner Strumolo and a good portion of the town's population.

One of the main reasons the Mayor favored the plan was that he did then, and still does view Belleville as an urban town.

"I feel Belleville is an urban town because it's a town where people pursue their work in or close to it. It's not suburban because we have many more problems than a suburban town."

The Mayor feels the plan was rejected because the people didn't understand it then. "They felt that the Master Plan would take away their homes and put factories in etc. I think at the time the people had no faith in government because of the way the previous government had handled Belleville's affairs. I think now they trust us. The planning board is about ready to deal with it again."

In backing the plan, the Mayor emphasized he did not favor interference by other governing bodies. "We manage to stay away from county, state and federal funds because they are for different types of urban problems than we have here in town. There are no real slums in Belleville. We don't have a major relief problem. That isn't the type of town Belleville is. Belleville is a home town where people come and put their roots in and remain a long time. These people aren't seeking help from other resources. I like to feel we are independently seeking betterment from our own resources. We have everything we need within our own town."

Another key problem that has arisen during his term in office has been Registrar Ralph Risoli's struggle to become administrative clerk of the Department of Public Affairs. Mayor Smith has consistently opposed this move.

"In Commissioner Strumolo's statements, he has said he wanted an administrative assistant because all other departments have them. Not only is this not true, but it is no reason. There has to be a need. I don't feel there is that need in that department."

Asked to be more specific, Mayor Smith said that he objected to the amount of money Commissioner Strumolo was asking for Risoli.

"All Strumolo has to do is come in with an ordinance to raise the man's salary. I will vote for any reasonable raise for Risoli, but not a three or four thousand dollar raise that Strumolo is asking."

When asked why he voted recently to create the title of administrative assistant in the Department of Parks and Public Property, the Mayor said, "Commissioner Cullen has a girl in his department who has been there many years. The amount of money she receives for her work is not reasonable."

Concerning the budget controversy, which has set the Board of Education at odds with the Commission, the Mayor said "I feel that if the budget was twice sent back by the people, then the amounts we took out are fair and reasonable."

Among the Mayor's accomplishments in the Department of Public Safety, has been the efficiency with which the detective bureau has been run. He has added three detectives to it and feels they are doing an "excellent job."

Kitchens are places where homemakers can get hurt very easily. They deal with sharp knives, jagged cans, hot utensils and liquids, whirling beaters, and other electric appliances. Water or grease gets spilled on floors and causes falls. Escaping gas may explode; hot grease may start fires. Broken glassware may cause serious cuts. The list is unending. But perhaps the most important factor is that many of us do not know what to do when such situations develop. Of course, it would be still better to keep them from happening at all! ...but when they do occur if you have a prescription that needs filling bring it to ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 388 Washington Ave., 759-1956. Man Attempts Suicide; Found Guilty In Court

Attempted suicide, abandoning his car, and fictitious plates were the charges against a Belleville man in Thursday's Belleville Court.

George Mess of 60 Preston Street, pleaded guilty to abandoning his vehicle and attempted suicide but denied the fictitious plates charge. Mess told the court some one stole his plates so he put on another set and reported it to police. The charge was dismissed.

Judge Edward Abromson heard the arresting officer testify that on April 17 he spotted Mess running through the backyards on Preston Street, bleeding from the wrists. After a short chase, Mess was apprehended. An investigation revealed Mess had a fight with his mother, ran upstairs to the bathroom of the house and cut his wrists.

Mess testified he had committed himself to Overbrook Sanatorium the day after the incident and he had just gotten out the day before the trial.

Newark Youth Is Fined $25 For Falsehood

A Newark youth made a report to police that his car was stolen but after an investigation he was accused of making a false report under the disorderly persons act. John DiGiovanni of 163 Parker Street pleaded guilty to charges of making the false report and a careless driving violation.

DiGiovanni explained in Thursday's Belleville Court that he lent his car to a friend on May 19 but when the car wasn't returned by 11:30 p.m., he reported the car missing. Police told DiGiovanni the car had been found and he should come to the station to pick it up.

Upon going to the police station, DiGiovanni was told four youths were picked up in his car, one with a bag of heroin, and they admitted to knowing DiGiovanni. DiGiovanni then admitted his guilt.

The Primary Elections

The gubernatorial favorites of Essex County political organizations last Tuesday finished as expected.

Republican Congressman Charles Sandman shepherded the daily paper favorite, Congressman Bill Cahill of Camden, by a 2-1 margin.

Former Governor Robert B. Meyner, the choice of Harry Lerner's Democrat Organization, won over five candidates by a wide margin.

In Nutley, the Bill Searle Organization trounced the Bedford forces who were supporting Cahill by almost a 4-1 margin.

In the county at large, the Bill Yeomans-Joe Intile-Bob Citrino leadership took everything the Cahill-Daily Paper crowd could throw at them, and they all came up smelling like roses.

Congressman Sandman never expected more than 12,000 majority in Essex County, and this is exactly what the Yeomans-Intile-Citrino organizations delivered. Some daily newspapers converted their Page 1 and editorial columns to fiction writing, and even this effort to create a strong Cahill candidacy was inadequate to overcome the strength of the Essex County Republican leadership and the belief of voters that Sandman was the superior candidate.

The Essex County result was a complete vindication of the leadership's endorsement of Sandman.

The anti-Organization forces were predicting a Sandman defeat in Essex County. They spent $50,000 Election Day in a vain attempt to obtain this result. Sandman, with little money but with an army of little people believing in him, actually pulled an upset by his strong Essex vote, although losing the state in a squeaker.

So now the decks are clear for the November election. In the ring we find Democrat Robert B. Meyner going into the campaign with an excellent eight-year record as Governor.

Democrat Governor Richard J. Hughes is completing eight years in office and, like Meyner, his administrations have been free of scandal and marked with major accomplishments.

Against a 16 year record of Democrat progress, G.O.P. Republican nominee, Bill Cahill, runs on a record little-known to North Jersey voters. In the Primary, the Newark News asked for Cahill's nomination on the basis of his "outstanding Congressional record". We are avid readers of daily newspapers, and for the last 10 years Bill Cahill has served in Congress, we have yet to read a single news item covering any Congressional legislation initiated by Cahill — "outstanding" or otherwise.

In order to win in November Bill Cahill requires more than editorial typewriter support and efficient mimeograph machines. In the first instance, he needs 100 per cent support from Republican workers — which he doesn't have today. Cahill won the Primary with 61 per cent of Republican voters against him. This result presents Cahill with a monumental problem. In order for him to stand a chance to win in November, not only must Cahill receive 100 per cent of the Republican vote, but he must reach out for Independents and Democrats.

The first order of business for Bill Cahill in this post-election period is to win the confidence of his own Republican troops. This is no easy task, for Cahill has a reputation for not being a team man. In his past Camden County victories bumper stickers and other advertising material bracketed Cahill with Democrat candidates in November elections. In order for Cahill to win the support of Republican pros, he must convince them that he is indeed a team player.

He starts off on the wrong foot when he defiantly selects a State Republican Chairman despite the vigorous opposition of U.S. Senator Clifford P. Case. In addition, Cahill dumps incumbent GOP State Chairman Webster Todd, a man many looked upon as the person who could be the unifying force among Republicans throughout the State.

In our judgment, Cahill begins his post-Primary election days with two strikes against him.

Those Graduation Talks

This is the time of year when graduation oratory fills the air on high school and college campuses across the nation. Never in recent years has the importance of what is being said to students been greater than it is today, in 1969, when so many youngsters are confused, misled, militant or dissatisfied.

(Graduation speakers are also heard by faculties as well as graduating classes, and on some campuses the faculties are almost as confused in their theories and philosophies as students.)

While some graduation oratory consists primarily of platitudes and academic theorizing, inevitable because speakers are often selected on the basis of friendships or ambition, etc., much of the graduation message this spring is directed to the campus crisis of the times — as it should be.

Admittedly, the graduate of 1969 enters a society far from perfect, one committed to a fearsome war in Asia, one torn by racial strife and serious crime. It is, for him, a difficult and confusing time. Yet there are opportunities in this country unequalled elsewhere in the world. There are great traditions, one of them being that of law and order and change through the due, legal, process.

The 1969 graduate need not agree with the customs, laws or traditions of his country. But most of them, and most graduates of all years, must agree with the principle that change is made through orderly means, if our society is to survive as a democratic one.

Violence, hatred, and law-breaking are the enemies of a free society. If allowed to overcome reason, restraint, and responsibility in maintaining order, they can destroy functioning democracy in this country as they have elsewhere, curtailing those unique opportunities open to American graduates for centuries.

FCC On News Rates

The Federal Communications Commission, which has been notoriously lax in policing the moral and violence content in television, and which has been severely criticized by ministers, socialologists and the press among others has repeated a 1968 assertion that newspapers and wire services should not enjoy preferential treatment in charges for private-line communication service.

For many years now wire services and newspapers have enjoyed special low rates for the transmission of news, just as newspapers have enjoyed lower postal rates in mailing newspapers to subscribers. The idea behind these considerations was that newspapers were semi public institutions, that dissemination of the news was in the public interest.

This was certainly true in earlier times. Whether it is still true, to such a degree at least, with the advent of television and radio is a question. But it can be said without much fear of contradiction that newspapers still provide the average citizen most of his news. Because television and radio news must be sponsored, and because this is expensive, stations have only limited time to devote to news, much of which arrives via the wire services, incidentally.

Editors might be prejudiced in their viewpoints but the fact that news dissemination is in the public interest, and that newspapers and wire services offer communications companies greater volume, seems to justify some special consideration. The fact that the largest news service in the country is a non-profit organization might also be taken into consideration.

10,000 Tires Recalled

For the first time in the history of the nation a major tire manufacturer has recalled 10,000 automobile tires — as possibly unsafe — and is issuing replacements to those who bought them.

The action follows criticism in recent years by many seeking to protect the public and also two months of negotiations between the manufacturer and the National Highway Safety Bureau. (Critics of the Highway Safety Bureau have charged it with being too lenient with manufacturers.)

It will be recalled that public sentiment and sensational criticism of automobile manufacturers only a few years ago resulted in a new policy by most makers — a policy of recalls when unsafe parts were discovered on new or relatively new cars.

It is good to see this policy begin to permeate the tire manufacturers who have long sold the public any and everything, with no government standards and no standard descriptive terms by which the average consumer could possibly know what he was getting for his money.

As a result, blowouts and defective tires have long littered the American scene (which is not the case in certain other countries) and no doubt a vast number of accidents have been caused by unsafe and defective tires over the years — until recently not discovered or tested by any government agency.

New Class Officers View Coming Term

By John Bunevich

QUESTION: In view of the current problems in student-administration relations, do you feel you and your student council can make a constructive contribution?

ASKED OF: Next year's student council officers at Belleville High School.

JOHN LONGO — 20 Roosevelt Avenue — next year's student council president.

Yes, I don't believe in student demonstrations but I do believe in students rights. Many students do have legitimate gripes if the administration is infringing on their rights, but at times the students are infringing on the administration's rights. Things should get done the democratic way. We have a good bunch of kids this year and with the new constitution we should be able to get things done next year. The new constitution that was drawn up this year gives the students more representation in school affairs. I'm not making any promises for next year but I shall put forth my best effort.

STEVE BANDA — 182 Adelaide Street — next years senior class president.

Steve Banda

I think we could make a constructive contribution. This year's students are more involved in student affairs than in the past. Me being on the football team is a great help because I can reach the students better. A large problem in the high school is that the bathrooms aren't open all the

A small minority of the kids in the past have abused the bathroom privilege but now I think the majority of the kids are good.

BRENDA CAMERON 11 Quinton Street next years vice president of student council.

This year I was president of the sophomore class and I did accomplish a lot. We discussed different things that were better for the students. We got a new constitution, we had a tri-class dance and a field day in which all the kids in school had a day to participate outside in different sports. It was a huge success and developed a good relationship between the different classes.

ALLAN GROSSMAN 15 Tremont Avenue Next year's junior class president.

I think the main hang-up with the students is the communication gap. Next year, with the new constitution, we can get together better with the administration. Demonstrations are fine as long as they don't infringe on the rights of the administration. Peaceful demonstrations, that is.

Speak Up

Rabbi Discusses Student Violence

To the Editor:

We are living through times when it seems that the very foundations of our society are crumbling. None of us can probably remember such contempt for "law and order", such rioting and such violence.

We find ourselves reaching depths of frustrations and bitterness as we read some of the things that are happening in our cities and on our college campuses. We can understand very well the implications of the title of a play which appeared not long ago on Broadway: "Stop the World: I Want To Get OFF."

Psychiatrists might make a good case for the idea that the reason we are trying to land on the moon is that we are unconsciously trying to escape from Earth.

The vast majority of students don't differ from the majority of adults in deploring violence, disruption and coercive tactics on campus. However, many of them genuinely believe in some of the causes espoused by campus activists: peace in Vietnam, inequities of the draft, racism on campus or in surrounding communities, secret weapon development in the university.

Even more, they see hypocrisy in the institutions of society — business, industry, churches, government, the university. Nothing turns off a student more than lack of sincerity.

Student protests don't occur in a vacuum. They reflect the deep ferment and growing social unrest affecting much of the world. But there is a huge difference in protests between those who demonstrate out of genuine social concern and those who demonstrate simply to disrupt. The problem is how to separate the two. Personally, I am very sympathetic to their causes, but I deplore their methods. In my book, the ends do not justify the means.

I am also concerned about the danger of creating a climate of backlash against universities. I fear the backlash more than I fear the demonstrations. To anyone who lived through and remembers the McCarthy Era, the present reaction to the campus protests is enough to make one shudder.

Emotions are being aroused by the violence that could set off another reaction, a backlash, ripe for another Joe McCarthy. I don't believe the campus problem is as serious as the hysteria of the McCarthy Era, but it could well develop into that unless the students as well as the administrators do something responsible about the gathering storm.

Let us commend idealistic students who are sincerely concerned with the inequities of our society. They are moved by conscience to use extraordinary means of protests because they believe ordinary means have failed. The evils of our social order must be redressed. Social institutions designed to serve the welfare of modern man must be reshaped to do their job.

Students are not wrong in being impatient with an older generation over 40, too intent on their personal struggles to take on the crusade for justice and peace. We have forgotten that violence and rioting have always accompanied change.

There was a time when the doctrine of the divine right of kings to rule was generally accepted. Only by violence was this changed. How long ago is it that men fought and died because some men believed that salvery could be justified. It was assumed that commercial and industrial companies had the right to organize themselves into associations for the purposes of lobbying and promoting other mutual interests. At the same time the right of employees to organize themselves was denied.

This was changed only with rioting and bloodshed. Even such an innocent thing as the right of women to vote did not come about without some violence as women paraded and demonstrated. It is inevitable that violence will be used if we sanctify what is, instead of what ought to be. This is not to suggest that the violence in the streets and on the campuses is a good thing.

However, there can be no doubt that there are some legitimate requests for change and improvement. We ought not to be so bound to the status quo that we worship it. Let us be prepared to make changes when they can be justified and stand firm when immutable principles are involved.

A word of caution is in order: let us not identify immutable principles with our own vested interests.

Commissioners Fight Over Ordinance In Town Meeting

Strumolo said "I'm just voting yes to show my courtesy even though the Commission interfered with my ordinance."

The ordinance Strumolo was referring to was introduced by him four weeks ago and would have made Registrar Ralph Risoli eligible for a raise. The Commission voted then to table the ordinance at the Mayor's recommendation.

After Strumolo accused the Commission of interference, Commissioner Mary Senatore, somewhat annoyed by the remark, said "I want to show for the record that I didn't interfere, I just voted no."

The ordinance will effect Commissioner William Cullen's principal clerk, Mrs. Dorothy Dunn, who will receive a $500 raise in addition to the new title. The highest salary she can make will be $8,199.

Belleville Club Enjoys Luncheon At Fountain

The social event of the spring season for the members of the Woman's Club of Belleville both afternoon and evening groups and their guests is the May Luncheon held this year at The Fountain. Mrs. Gerard J. Ferrara, president of the organization conducted the opening ceremonies with an assist from Mrs. Richard A. Shafter, federation secretary who led the pledge of allegiance. Mrs. Arthur L. Tirico, music department chairman accompanied the assemblage in the singing of the Star Spangled Banner and Mrs. R. Clifford Whitfield, past president and guest of honor at the buffet luncheon led the Collect, the credo which is an essential part of every club event.

After luncheon, Mrs. Dwight N. Streeter, past president of the Woman's Club paid tribute to Mrs. Whitfield who has been a member for more than 45 years. She served for three years as district vice president of the Federation, is very active in the Methodist church and served her community through the Red Cross and Girl Scouts. Now a resident of Red Bank, Mrs. Whitfield continues her membership and her support of the local organization. Mrs. James V. Thetford, who now resides in Mt. Dora, Florida was visiting her son in Eatontown and was also present at the festivities honoring Mrs. Whitfield.

A surprise visitor to the Fountain event was Mr. Ben Grimm, director of the Belleville Free Public Library. The Literature department of the club customarily gives a volume to the library in honor of the immediate past president. Mrs. Streeter presented a reference work entitled "American Books and Authors" to Mrs. Richard A. Shafter who gave it to Mr. Grimm for the library's reference room.

A copy of the new history of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, compiled in celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary was also given to Mr. Grimm for the library by Mrs. Streeter in the name of the Literature department. Mrs. Shafter was particularly happy to have been instrumental in getting the anthology for the library since it covers American books and authors from 1600 to the present time. Recently the Mayor reappointed Mrs. Shafter to the Library Board as a trustee for a five year term. She also agreed to serve as Literature Chairman of the Woman's Club of Belleville for the next two years.

Convention reports were heard from Mrs. Gerard J. Ferrara, Mrs. David Parry, Mrs. William R. Kropp, Mrs. Robert Davis and Mrs. Douglas Clark.

The music department "Choraliers", under the direction of Mrs. Arthur L. Tirico presented the following program: Neapolitan Nights, Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom White, The Sound of Music, Catch a Falling Star, I Believe, No Man Is an Island, I May Never Pass This Way Again and Let There Be Peace On Earth. These selections were sung by Mrs. Richard Drake, Mrs. William Kinloch, Mrs. Peter Spera and Mrs. William R. Kropp. Mrs. Tirico assisted vocally and with her accompaniment on the piano.

A duet, Belle Nuit (Barcarolle) from Tales of Hoffmann by Offenbach was sung by Mrs. Drake and Mrs. Kropp as an interlude for the group.

Green and yellow topiaries and yellow rose nutcups used for table decorations were the product of the American Home department under Mrs. Arthur Touw, chairman. Mrs. H. Irving Russell handpainted the place cards at the headtable. Also assisting were Mrs. Kropp and Mrs. C. F. Rupprecht.

An exhibit table was covered with displays that were shown at the district achievement day and included the prize-winning African violets of Mrs. Arthur Mooney, her houseplants, crewel embroidery of the American Home members, Mrs. Floyd M. To start off the season Courtesy Motorboat Examinations will be made on request by a qualified Auxiliary Courtesy Examiner who will check all legal equipment and such additional equipment considered essential by the Auxiliary.

When a boat meets the Auxiliary standards it is awarded a special seal of safety decal. There is no charge for this service and discrepancies will be reported only to the owner.

Since a boat carrying such a decal more than meets the minimum legal requirements, the Coast Guard and most states authorities normally refrain from making any official inspection or boarding unless there is an obvious violation of law.

To aid the boat owner a checklist may be obtained for a convenient pre-examination check by contacting name, and phone number. James Trotta at 743-4516 or Frank Makomaski at 991-7919.

Sports Corner

By John McCarthy

Football coach John Amabile is making no predictions about next years varsity football team, but he's sparing no praises for the boys who he hopes to have playing for him. The coach has 14 starters from last year coming back and feels that this is good for the chances of having a good team next year.

One of his most emphatic points was the fact that he expects a more explosive offense the last year. This he attributes to returning backs with speed, which he feels has been lacking in the past few years. He has high hopes for boys such as Steve Banda, Doug Brown, Ricky Caruso, and Mark Bradley. Doug, Ricky, and Mark have spent this spring on the track team and should be returning with more speed and endurance.

Amabile also made a point of a more balanced passing attack. Headed by Joe Papsidero and Doug Brown, who was used on the option play this year, the boys could do real well. Next years chief receivers will probably be the co-captains, Roy Newman and Vin Constantino.

Roy has also completed a season with the successful crew team, and Vin was the star scorer for the illfated basketball team. Other receivers will be returning Lonnie Brunch and Steve Banda.

Besides looking forward to a good offensive team, the coach looked back over last years record and pointed out the strong defense he had. He praised his front line for holding down the oppositions scores and pointed out his returning men.

His front line will include Richy Corbo, Bill Tomacki, Joe Ritacco and Ralph Salerno. Also adding strength to the line will be John Mango and Mike Albertine. Sal Bivona and Frank Fury are in line for starting linebackers, and Carmen Russamono and Rich DellaTerza are up and coming sophomores who will also be counted on.

After looking at his defense, the coach went back to his offense which he plans to work hardest on. He spotted Joe Valvano and Alan DeFeo as big assest to his line, and said that he expects to see Tom Jones, Rich Della Terza, and Bill Tomacki to also be in there.

The biggest thing in next years team will be a change in thinking. The Coach has confidence in his defense, and said that he'll be "out to improve his offensive thinking in the terms of plays and patterns", he also said that his "purpose is to score and do a better job offensively," and added that he is going to use his "good running and passing to supplement it."

American Legion played their first baseball game Monday and goes today at Maplewood and tomorrow at Livingston. Bob Giordano did a fine job as he pitched a 3-hit shutout, winning it on Joe Papsidero's double, the only hit that went for extra bases, which scored Joe Ritacco in the second inning.

Being that this is the last "Sports Corner" until September I'd like to thank everyone who has contributed info to me, especially Frank Marano for his crew results, and Marc Feldman for his baseball statistics. See you in September.

Pirates On Top In Peanut Loop

The Pirates, coached by Bob Jackson, have taken the lead in the American Division of the Recreational Peanut League with 6-0-1 standing.

Their last game which was against the Braves was a real hairraiser in which the Pirates had to come from behind in the fifth inning to tie the score and then, in the sixth, they went ahead to win. This win was a birthday present to their coach.

Next in line is the Yankees with a 5-1-1 standing. Under the coaching of Lou Schreiber the Yankees have lost only to the Braves and have a tie game with the Pirates. However, the Braves under the coaching of Joe Norton have compiled a 5-2 record with one loss to the Yankees and one to the Pirates.

With the three top teams in the American Division so closely grouped everything could break wide open and change the lead. The Braves still have to face the Pirates once more. The Yankees have to get by the Pirates twice more if the tie is played off. These are the key games for the big three.

In the National division the Aces with 5-2 are in the lead and making coaches Fred Burlazzi and Frank Zatorski very proud. Their two losses were to Bob Haug's Indians and to Frank Delli Santi's Cubs. The latter game is under protest.

Cubs Lead Baseball Standings

After five games the Cubs have taken a strong lead in the Recreation Senior Baseball League with their undefeated record.

In hot pursuit is a very strong Braves team with a 4-1 record. After these two leaders, in order, come the Giants, the Yankees and the Pirates. One of the reasons for the position of the Cubs has to be the pitching of Dennis Ricca who pitched his club to a 12-1 no hitter against the Pirates.

The forthcoming Cubs Braves meeting is of great interest. Their first-round meeting was rained out so they still have to face each other for the first time.

In the Recreation Intermediate League the Braves 4-2 enjoy a slim lead over the Pirates 3-2 and the Giants 3-1 are just out in front of the Braves. However the Giants have been beaten by both the Braves and the Pirates in the early stages of the league. Actually these three teams are so close that no forecasts can be made.

Optimism is that quality that permits us to hope that someone will do something for us.

Belleville Legion Downs Vailsburg

The Belleville American Legion baseball team opened its season with a 1-0 victory over Vailsburg. Bob Giordano picked up the win as he pitched a 3-hit shut out.

Belleville's lane tally came on a double by shortstop Joe Papisidero. Don Doyce had opened the inning with a long fly ball to center that was caught for the first out. Joe Ritacco was hit by a pitch and went to first. Joe then stole second position. Papisidero's deep shot to center scored Ritacco. Papisidero moved to third on Ray Campbell's single. Ray stole second but Giordano and John Goscinski struck out ending the inning. Belleville collected five hits

Cubs Lead Baseball Standings

After five games the Cubs have taken a strong lead in the Recreation Senior Baseball League with their undefeated record.

In hot pursuit is a very strong Braves team with a 4-1 record. After these two leaders, in order, come the Giants, the Yankees and the Pirates. One of the reasons for the position of the Cubs has to be the pitching of Dennis Ricca who pitched his club to a 12-1 no hitter against the Pirates.

The forthcoming Cubs Braves meeting is of great interest. Their first-round meeting was rained out so they still have to face each other for the first time.

In the Recreation Intermediate League the Braves 4-2 enjoy a slim lead over the Pirates 3-2 and the Giants 3-1 are just out in front of the Braves. However the Giants have been beaten by both the Braves and the Pirates in the early stages of the league. Actually these three teams are so close that no forecasts can be made.

Optimism is that quality that permits us to hope that someone will do something for us.

State Reports Highlights

Host Of Activities Planned In State For Summertime

This spring and summer in New Jersey means philharmonic concerts, summer theatres, beauty contests, sailing, boating, fishing, bathing, horse racing, camping, historic and scenic tours and many sporting events. According to Robert A. Roe, commissioner of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development, there is an abundance of activities, enough for both youngsters and adults; recreational opportunities, entertainment programs and sport attractions are listed in "What's Happening in New Jersey", published by the Department's Bureau of State Promotion.

Atlantic City will feature Canadian Week and Children's Week June 25 to July 2, with special programs and special discounts for both Canadians and children. 83 hotels and motels, 19 restaurants, 21 amusement places and 56 shop and business firms have combined efforts to provide economy honeymoons in June.

To qualify, the wedding must take place on or after May 31. On August 1, 2 and third there will be a three day youth, art and jazz festival at Atlantic City Race Course. Judging by the advance requests for tickets, over 100,000 people will attend this festival. Atlantic City will also host numerous fishing tournaments throughout the season.

The Garden State Arts Center, Holmdel, opens its second summer season tonight with the Philadelphia Orchestra and offers each week such performers as Glen Campbell; The New Jersey Symphony; The New York Philharmonic; Rowan and Martin; the American Ballet Theatre; and the musical, "Fiddler on the Roof."

Ocean City, "America's Family Resort", plans nightly concerts, Sunday musicals and surfing Tournaments every Tuesday during July and August.

Ends Season

Essex Club To Present Von Sternberg Classic

The Essex Film Club concludes its 1968-1969 season on Saturday and Sunday with one of the great screen classics, "The Docks Of New York", directed by Josef von Sternberg and released in 1928.

"The Docks Of New York" was taken from a story by John Monk Saunders and stars George Baneroff, famous for his many "he-man" roles in the silent films and later as a character actor in the talkies.

The supporting cast includes Betty Compson and the Russian actress who achieved great success in this country, Olga Baclanova. Von Sternberg, who perhaps may be best remembered as the "discoverer" of Marlene Dietrich was also known in the motion picture industry as an innovator of new techniques in set lighting.

These techniques are put to good use in this picture about a rough-and-ready stevedore along the New York waterfront. Stuart Oderman's piano score is heard accompanying this silent screen masterpiece.

On the same program,

Laurel and Hardy, those perennial favorites of the Essex Film Club, are seen in the silent comedy classic of two boys out on the town without the knowledge of their wives called "Their Purple Moment."

This film was produced by Hal Roach in 1928 and directed by Leo McCarey.

Garden State Arts Center Will Rock This Summer

Two special up an coming events at the Garden State Arts Center should be marked down on every teenagers calendar.

On Friday evening, June 20, the Arts Center, located at Telegraph Hill Park on the Garden State Parkway, will feature in concert the "Iron Butterfly," one of the hottest rock groups to come out of the New Generation in Los Angeles.

On September 20, the Arts Center will hold its 1969 Talent Expo, offering an amateur performing showcase to New Jersey teenagers. The Expo performers will compete in eight different categories, including classical, popular, instrumental group, vocal group, dance and specialty miscellaneous.

Applications to compete in the Expo can be obtained at any public, private or parochial junior high or high school. All applications must be completed and forwarded by June 15 to local chairmen. The chairman for this area is Raymond Greenlee, 7 Adams Court, Nutley.

Another coming event for teenagers will be the appearance of Frankie Valli and the Four Seasons at Montclair State College on June 21. The show is being sponsored by the Bloomfield

Police Benevolent Association.

In still another special date for the young or the young at heart, Gary Puckett and The Union Gap will headline the star-studded show at Steel Pier, Atlantic City, during this weekend. The group is one combo that doesn't turn off the older generation. Shunning anything psychedelic, the exciting quintet has had a list of golden hit records which they will be performing.

Adults will have their share of the entertainment to choose from this weekend, as Larry Dixon's Flagship Supper Club on Route 22, Union, will feature show business' favorite comedian, Gene Baylos, and songstress supreme, Miss Fran Warren.

For those interested in art collection, Mrs. Otto Spaeth, author and collector, and Roy Moyer, director of the American Federation of Arts, will discuss "Collecting Art" on June 2 at 11:15 p.m. in the auditorium of the New Jersey State Museum.

"Color Hues of Nature," an exhibit of photographs by Phil Brodatz, noted photographer and instructor in visual arts, is attracting much attention in the lobby of Fidelity Union & Trust Company, 765 Broad Street. The public is invited to view the exhibit during normal banking hours, 9 a.m. until 4 p.m., now through May 29.

The Montclair-North Essex YWCA will sponsor a trip to the City Center Theater to see the matinee performance of "Fiesta in Madrid," on June 15.

Now through June 29- New Jersey State Museum Planetarium, examinations of concepts of navigation by stars. Lecture-demonstrations for parents and their children over 7. Saturday-Sunday and holidays at 2, 3 and 4 p.m. Group demonstrations by request.

Now through June 7 Gallery 9 Upstairs-Two-man exhibit; acrylics by Italian artist, Julius Benevinto, and black-and-white drawings by Chell Frantzen of Summit.

A reception open to the public will be held in the Arts Workshop of the Newark Museum, 49 Washington Street, on Thursday, June 19, from 7 to 9 p.m. The feature of the evening will be review of the year's work, with a show of students' work in painting, sculpture, graphics, ceramics and weaving.

A slide show of workshops will be shown and refreshments will be served.

We're easy to get a loan with.

Some banks believe in the "red tape" treatment for loan customers. We believe in the "red carpet" treatment. You ask for a loan, personal or business, we look for ways to give it to you. We give you a fast answer, not a song-and-dance. We treat you like a neighbor, not a number. Getting a loan here is about the easiest thing in the world.

Students who plan to work this summer should get their social security cards before they go looking for a job. An employer will ask for the number on the card, and without it the student may not be hired.

William J. Arnold, district manager of the Newark social security office, pointed out that each summer thousands of students get their first jobs and have their first experience with social security. Since almost all work today is covered by social security, the student will need his number to get proper credit for his work. The employer must have the number to report the student's earnings for social security so that it will be credited to the right social security account.

Many companies will either not hire a worker who doesn't have a social security number or will hold up his pay until the number is furnished, Mr. Arnold pointed out. All work credited under social security builds valuable insurance protection for these young people.

Nutley Agency To Handle Business

Monmouth Airlines Sets Flights To Washington

Monmouth Airlines, flying the new flagship of the commuter airline fleet, announced that the Beech 99 jets, inaugurated on April 7, will be available for two Washington D.C. round trips daily departing Caldwell-Wright Airport and four roundtrips daily to Monmouth County Airport.

Nutley Travel Agency manager Carmen Dimente says that the local agency is now taking reservations for the flights.

Monmouth now puts residents and busy executives alike in Northern Jersey far above the crowds tied in highway traffic on their way to either location. Caldwell-Wright Airport is conveniently located on Passaic Avenue, Fairfield, between Route 46 and Bloomfield Avenue. Page Commuter Terminal, Gate 33 at Washington National Airport is just a little more than an hour aboard the Beech 99s and Monmouth County Airport, Route 34, Wall Township, in the heart of Central Jersey's industrial area.

Monmouth's president, Edward Brown IV, was a Navy pilot during World War II and began operations in Monmouth County with a surplus airplane. At first he offered chartered flights, photographic services and sight-seeing trips. The Monmouth Airport was also established by Brown who acquired the property in 1943 and built the first runway in 1945. Scheduled passenger service was begun 15 years ago to Newark and New York Airports and in 1966, flights were started to Washington National.

The airline now has 15 planes, including three new Beech 99 turbo-jets which carry 15 passengers, pilot and co-pilot and cruises at 250 miles per hour. They have 35 employees including 15 pilots.

Last December its stock became publicly owned and is sold over the counter. The Monmouth County Airport has five hangars, terminal facilities, coffee shop and restaurant, and a VA approved flight training school. An industrial park has also been developed by Brown adjacent to the airport.

Raised Speed Rate Is Cited

South Parkway Accidents Lower

The Garden State Parkway today reported that in the five years since an increased 65-miles-per-hour speed limit was set south of Toms River the accident rate there has decreased steadily.

Executive Director D. Louis Tonti of the New Jersey Highway Authority, which operates the Parkway, said the accident rate has dropped each year since the speed limit was raised from 60 to 65mph along the southernmost 80 miles for passenger vehicles only. The Parkway is 173 miles long.

Starting with an accident rate of 1.39 per million miles of vehicle travel in the year prior to the Feb. 1, 1964 effective date of the boosted limit, it has decreased successively in the five years along the 80 miles of Parkway to 1.16, 1.08, 0.99, 0.88 and during the past year 0.48.

Director Tonti noted that in total number of accidents for the 80-mile area between Toms River and Cape May, the 1968 figure of 161 also reflected an almost steady decline over the five-year period from 246 in 1963 despite the increased traffic and travel along this Parkway stretch.

Only in 1965--the second year of the higher speed limit--did the annual number of accidents within the 80-mile area exceed the previous year's total.

Tonti said the data "adds to the growing scientific evidence that, on a properly designed and operated highway, speed in and of itself does not create accidents."

The speed hike had been recommended by the Authority's Traffic Safety Committee and its General Engineering Consultants. The Parkway's southern stretch was designed for a 70mph speed.

In Parkway sections north of Toms River, the number and rate of accidents have generally increased each year since 1963 with the 60mph speed limit continuing. An exception was the Essex County section where the start of local tolls in 1966 cut down traffic and mishaps.

The number of accidents had also been increasing annually along the 80-mile stretch south of Toms River in the years before the higher speed limit became effective there in 1964. The 1968 total of 161 was the lowest in 10 years.

Accent Entertainment

Opera And Rock
Set For Summer

There are a number of metropolitan-area entertainment events which are of more than passing interest.

"La Traviata" will be performed on June 13 in the rolling green area known as Daffodil Hill at the New York Botanical Garden. The performance, which will start at 8:30 p.m., will feature the Metropolitan Opera Company.

"Rigoletto," with Carnell MacNeil in the title roll, Richard Tucker as the Duke, Roberta Peters as Gilda, and Raymond Michalski as Sparfucile, will be performed at the same time on June 28.

Dionne Warwick, Jersey songstress now flying high on the nation's music charts, heads her own revue into Convention Hall to open Moe Septee's "summer of the stars" festival on July 5.

The Septee lineup continues with two shows each by Steppenwolf on July 12, The Association on July 19, The Temptations on July 26, Four Seasons on August 9, Led Zeppelin on August 16, Janis Joplin on August 23, The Cowsills and Brooklyn Bridge on August 30 and the Vanilla Fudge and Rhinoceros on August 31.

Pablo Casals, Van Cliburn, Roberta Peters, Jan Peerce and maestro Julius Rudel, chief conductor and general director of New York City Opera Company, are among the noted artists who will highlight the second season of the Waterloo Village Music Festival at Stanhope, N.J. The festival will start on June 21.

Casals and his Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Alexander Schneider, will be the premiere attraction on June 21. Featured on the Casals program will be cellist Stephen Kates. It will also be Casals first and only concert engagement in the East this summer except for his annual pilgrimage to Marlboro, Vermont.

Pop and country folk music will be introduced at the Festival for the first time this summer to diversify the program. Thus far engaged is one of the nation's foremost singers, Eddy Arnold, the celebrated RCA recording star who will appear on August 9.

The Van Cliburn concert is scheduled for Saturday night, July 19. The orchestra for that evening will be Washington's National Symphony. Howard Mitchell will be on the podium to conduct.

Roberta Peters and Jan Peerce, Metropolitan Opera stars, will be heard on August 2.

OPENING TONIGHT — Eugene Ormandy, world-famous conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, will again hold the spotlight at the Garden State Arts Center with the opening of its second summer season tonight. The Philadelphia Orchestra under Mr. Ormandy's baton will appear on opening night (as it did last year) and this coming Saturday, with The Romeros-Spain's guitar virtuosos-as guest soloists. The Arts Center is at Telegraph Hill Park on the Garden State Parkway (Exit 116).

Violinist Senofsky Is Featured

Symphony Orchestra Plans
Performance At Arts Center

The Garden State Arts Center will present the Symphony of the New World on August 11, 12 and 15 in three classical subscription performances with violinist Berl Senofsky.

The New World will join the Philadelphia Orchestra, the New York Philharmonic and the Washington National Symphony among others on the second season program for New Jersey's Arts Center opening tonight.

The Symphony of the New World is an acclaimed organization of some 88 musicians, 36 of whom are Negro and Oriental and 30 are women. Its Musical Director is Benjamin Steinberg, a conductor as well as violinist who has performed all over the world.

The three August performances by the New World replace the originally scheduled New Jersey Symphony engagements on the Arts Center's 1969 season program. The New Jersey Symphony withdrew as a result of a dispute with its union.

While all three performances are included in the subscription series, single-event tickets for any of the night-time concerts can also be purchased at the Arts Center box office or by mail to Box 116, Holmdel, N.J. 07733. The Arts Center is at Telegraph Hill Park on the Garden State Parkway.

Sweden's Thomas Jefferson

Emanuel Swedenborg:

A Top Swedish Scientist, A Man Of Inventiveness

Every era of history gives birth to a man who rises so far above his fellows that he leaves an indelible mark upon his century. Such a man was the remarkable Emanuel Swedenborg. "In the presence of such giants small men seem to wither and blow away," said Elbert Hubbard.

But men did not wither in the wake of Swedenborg. Rather they lived to see their everyday lives and their spiritual heritage enriched. He used the enormous capacity of his intellect to contribute to areas of deep human concern. As a scientist, his contributions to metallurgy—increasing the yield of copper from Swedish ore—encouraging the manufacture of steel and iron—were legendary. He served the Swedish Board of Mines as Assessor, responsible for the supervision, efficient operation and exploitation of his country's mineral resources. On his trips abroad to observe other countries' progress in techniques that his own land could profit from he was welcomed by royalty and men of science alike. But he also explored their museums and libraries—and brought home from each nation a wealth of cultural and scientific enrichment.

Among the innovations—amazing for his time—that this 'man for all ages' produced were these: designs for an under-water craft, an ear trumpet, an air tight stove, a machine gun, and a flying machine—recognized as the first historical embodiment of aerodynamic features indispensable for successful flight—a scale model of which reposes in the Smithsonian Institution. It has been said of him that no single individual in the world's history ever encompassed in himself so great a variety of useful knowledge. Dr. Herbert Dingle, distinguished British scientist wrote: "The physical world of Einstein is even now beyond the grasp of many able minds, yet the essential ideas embodied in it were apprehended by Swedenborg in 1734."

Following ennoblement of his family by the Swedish, Sovereign Swedenborg took his seat in the House of Nobles, whose annals amply testify to his distinguished contributions in the fields of Government finance and political affairs.

And he lived from 1688 to 1772! His death occurred just as our own America was undergoing its original birth pangs.

A profound student of physiology, he is credited with outstanding 'firsts': the discovery of the function of the ductless glands, and that brain pulsations synchronize with the respiration of the lungs rather than with the heartbeat as previously believed. Mindful of his upbringing as a Lutheran bishop's son in an atmosphere of piety and scholarship it is not to be wondered at that his anatomical research was directed toward the discovery of its motor-principle, the soul.

This climactic dedication took place at the age of 56. Then, the most noted scientific genius of his time turned his whole, imposing talent and interest to the purely spiritual. He out-did modern iconoclasts in his philosophical approach to many traditional dogmas, and this caused—in circles both worldly and sainted—a stir to be reckoned with. He was hailed before a consistory for trial as a heretic, but emerged unscathed.

His monarch graciously appointed him Councilor of His Majesty's Board of Mines—an honor of great distinction. And he just as graciously declined: "Because I feel it incumbent upon me to finish the work on which I am now engaged." This mission being "to withdraw from corporeal things, so that I could live in the societies of Celestial spirits."

He now turned his whole brilliant and exploring mind to the spiritual plane—with the same total dedication and meticulous analysis that he once lavished on his scientific experiments. After an intensive study of Hebrew he began a series of works of biblical interpretation—notably Arcana Coelestia. He affirmed: "That I might know that man lives after death it has been granted to me to speak and converse with several persons with whom I have been acquainted during their life in the body. And this not merely for a day or week, but for months, and some instances for nearly a year...They were greatly surprised that they themselves, during their lifetime, had lived and that many others still live, in such a state of unbelief concerning a future life, when death is but a continuation of life."

Swedenborg Was A Genius

Scientist Made Trumpet

Needless to say Swedenborg's claims became a sensation in their time. He advanced the heterodox doctrine that no one is condemned to an eternal hell or admitted to heaven by grace, but that the soul is privileged to choose its own companions in the after-life; to seek, as it were, its own companionship. "Then, wonderful to relate, they live together a life of similar quality to that which had constituted their ruling delight when in the body." A new commencement of existence.

That man becomes his own judge and chooses his own associates beyond an eternal threshold of being—that the new world is so little different in outward appearance from that he has just left that many refuse to believe they have died at all—these heterodox affirmations set up a storm of controversy that thundered around the gentle person of the living man, Swedenborg, and echoes around his disciples today. At table with the learned and renowned personages of his time

Swedenborg might remark: On this point, I conversed not long ago with the apostle Paul, with Luther—to a rain of ridicule. When questioned whether or not it would be better to keep these experiences to himself—and not publish them to the world—he replied in his most open and unaffected way that those who might ridicule him did him an injustice—"For why should I, who am a man in years, render myself ridiculous for fantasies and falsehoods?"

And as it was given to him to reach fame and glory for his scientific discoveries, so it was shown in three of his well documented encounters that his claim to the Extra Sensory Perception he enjoyed was valid.

Witness these extraordinary happenings:

THE FIRST: The Queen of Sweden's brother was the Prince Royal of Prussia—the deceased Augustus William. In answer to a light, almost facetious inquiry about whether he had 'conversed' with her brother recently, Swedenborg appeared at a royal reception with an answer to one of the last letters she had written her brother on earth. He sent the reply he had not sent in life. The Queen, overcome, cried out, "No one, except God, knows this secret." The reason for secrecy was that during her country's war with Prussia she had carried on a correspondence with the enemy country; forbidden to royalty, even among the most intimate family members. This discovery aroused the court and the nobles—to the extent that carriages flew to the palace doors—flurries of royal ladies and gentlemen descended on the palace with questions. But the Queen stood firm. The message was true, authentic, unquestioned!

THE SECOND: In the year 1759, a Saturday in September—about 4:30 in the afternoon Swedenborg arrived in Gothenburg from England. In a party of fifteen persons, Swedenborg, pale and alarmed, announced a dangerous fire in Stockholm at the hour of six—which his extrasensory vision could see clearly from 300 miles away.

Scientist First To Make An Under-Water Craft

He named a friend's house in ashes—saw his own in danger—and at eight o'clock announced joyfully that the fire had been extinguished "the third door from my house." On Monday a messenger arrived from Stockholm (the distance took considerable travel time in those days) and described the events identically as Swedenborg had foretold. Not one detail differed...as the Governor and citizens fully confirmed.

THE THIRD: Madame Harteville, widow of the Dutch ambassador in Stockholm, was in considerable distress to learn that she was responsible for a sizeable debt upon her husband's death. A silver service, made to order, was charged to her by a goldsmith who insisted that her late husband had left her responsible for payment. She appealed to Swedenborg, believing that her husband's affairs were in such precise order that he would not have contracted such a huge debt without some record. Swedenborg returned to her with a message from her departed spouse. The receipt for payment was in a bureau that had been completely cleaned out. She searched--found the correspondence in a hidden compartment she had not known about--and just as her husband had confided from eternity, it recorded payment seven months before his death. A whole company of guests witnessed this event and recorded confirmation of Swedenborg's assertion of contact with the discarnate.

It seems almost divine

Knew Many Of Einstein's Ideas Swedenborg Was Like Einstein

design that Swedenborg's experiences in these matters should be publicly vindicated by many unimpeachable testimonies; because he had borne the scorn of skeptics without the least resentment or hostility.

In a present-day treatise, "The Presence of Spirits in Madness," the widely known Dr. Wilson Van Dusen, Chief Clinical Psychologist at the Mendocino State Hospital, Talmage, California, has delved deeply into Swedenborgian theories in his own studies of hallucination and abnormal behavior patterns. He marvels that, with two centuries of time between them, he and the great Swedish seer should reach such astonishingly identical conclusions; namely: that the lives of humans are a small margin of free space—a kind of mystical border-land—operating between a high and low order of spiritual hierarchy. The disturbed patient may enter over into these regions by an alienation from the source of his own thoughts, in Dr. Van Dusen's opinion.

Swedenborg deliberately penetrated these areas so that he might describe the sources of feeling and thought itself. And he did so with a great gift of intellect and a capacity to understand, describe and relate to others.

Is then the Swedenborgian theory of unconscious interaction of man with the spiritual kingdoms of heaven and hell akin to the modern psychologist's view of the unconscious? Dr. Van Dusen is firmly convinced that they are one and the same thing!

His intriguing conclusion, in our psychology-oriented times, affirms once again the amazing scope of the Swedish genius whose legend has outlasted two centuries—and continues to flourish:

"Man, thinking he chooses, may be the result of other forces. In Swedenborg's terms, the good man comes to see this and acknowledge his dependence. The evil one takes pride in what is more than his and thereby puts himself out of harmony with the hierarchy of creation."
