Situation Critical

Summer School Flounders Because of Tuition Hike

The Board of Education may have to underwrite part the expenses for the Belleville Summer School despite efforts to make that program self-sustaining. Hopes that tuition increases would make the tuition program pay its own way were dashed this week when Schools Superintendent Anthony Greco announced the facility was $3,000 shy of meeting teacher salaries.

Greco's announcement came with a plea from Summer School Director Ernest Mussmano that the Board chip in cash or else face the cancelling of the entire program this year.

As of Monday, only 204 pupils had enrolled for the summer courses, contrasted with 275 for the previous year. It is believed fuition discouraged many parents from enrolling their children. This year the fee for one course is $45 and for two Last year the cost was $20 for one course and $30 for two. The Board raised the fees this year in the wake of several budgetary problems. The enrollment decline for the Summer School and the resulting crisis is similar to problems being experienced by the Summer Music Program, where a $10 fee for that previoussy free course also caused a sharp enrollment drop and a cut-back in instruction.

Greco said the program needed $13,075 to meet its teacher salaries, and that it has fallen $3,000 short. The superintendent hoped cancellation coud be avoided especially for the sake of 15 BHS seniors who need the summer courses to get their diploma.

"We can't eliminate any teachers because if we did we'd have to eliminate courses," Greco said. "And

Laterza Seeks Remedy For Dangerous Light

Commissioner Robert Laterza is seeking a delayed left hand signal for the dangerous traffic intersection of Belleville and Franklin Avenues. The Public Safety Director says he has asked Essex County traffic officials to meet with him on the matter.

Laterza also announced work has begun on a new signal for the intersection of Rutgers and Cortlandt Streets, which was applied for by the previous administration and approved by the state. Work on that traffic light should be completed by the end summer, according to the Commissioner.

Laterza said a delayed left hand turn signal both ways on Belleville Avenue would cut down on the hazards of making turns onto Franklin Avenue. He said accidents at the site for the first five months of 1971 already equal the entire accident total there

The Public Safety Director also said he has asked Police Chief Joseph Smith to begin a study of all parking and traffic ordinances in Belleville. Laterza said such a study has already beaun under the direction of Lt. Robert L. Russomano.

"What we're trying to do with our parking ordinance study," Laterza said, "is find out if they are all legal and if they serve the town's best interest.'

"On some streets, for example, you have no parking on one side at all times and on the other no parking on Thursday," he said "What the result of this is is that on Thursday you can't park anywhere on the street while the cleaning is going on. This le the situation on such streets as Valley and

"The only statement I can make at this time," Mrs. Senatore said, "is that I'll have to look into it further. I didn't think they could vote for anything but State Senator or the President." Nicholas Amato and Peter

Torre Jr., local candidates on the Democratic ticket, also expressed surprise that 18 year olds could vote in November, but said they would make plans to solicit the young voters.

Contacted for comment immediately after ratification of the 27th Amendment, Assembly candidate Torre told the Times: "I didn't even know the Amend know the Amendment would affect local elections. I was under the impression it wouldn't affect the November balloting.

Torre, who is Belleville's Tax Assessor, did say he welcomed the new voters and would make plans to reach them. "I think it is a wonderful thing for the kids to have a voice in government. If we can ask them to fight for their country in war time, I don't know why they can't vote," he said.

Registration

Town Clerk Eugene Barnett says residents have until September 23 to register for the November General Election. This includes 18-year olds, who were granted right to vote in all elections by the 26th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, ratified last

The Town Clerk reminded eligible voters that they may segister Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4.30 p.m. in his office. He said his office will register voters from 6-9 p.m. on three special evenings in August, the 16th, 23rd and 30th. Nine evening dates for September will be announced at a later date.

Local Detectives Smash Million-Dollar Gambling Ring In Essex Area

led to the smashing of a multi-million dollar gambling ring here and in five other towns in Essex County Friday.

Belleville Police, working with men from the Essex County Organized Crime Strike Force, struck five locations in town including four one-family homes and an office building. The office building was termed the central "bank" by local police.

According to Belleville Deputy Police Chief Frank Haight, the local raids netted over $100,000 in gambling and lottery play. Haight said four men and a women were arrested on charges of bookmaking, possession of gambling slips, conspiracy to violate gambling laws and maintaining a premise. Each was released on $10,000 bail pending a July 29 preliminary hearing before Municipal Court Judge Edward Abromson.
While the local raids were being conducted, men from the Essex County strike force were hitting linked gambling establishments in East Orange, Bloomfield, Newark, Irvington and Kearny.

According to Deputy Chief Haight, the county-wide raids were initiated by the investigation of Belleville Detectives Thomas Ricci and Barton Rossi, whom Haight singled out for special praise.

"This was a well-planned, organized raid which came off beautifully," said Deputy Chief Haight, who heads the local detective bureau. "This culminated almost two months of investigation. I'm proud of the men and I think they did a great job." Haight particularly commended Rossi and Ricci, whom he said put in many hours "beyond the call of duty" in investigating the gambling ring.

Dr. Virginius Dante Mattia

Death this week claimed Dr. Virginius ante Mattia, President of Hoffmann-LaRoche

Dr. Mattia was more than just the president of one of the world's largest pharmaceutical concerns, he was friend literaly thousands people from all walks of life. His daily labors directly and indirectly helped thousands. perhaps millions. people throughout the world.

Dr. Mattia was known to his friends as Barney and it's Barney we shall world, Barney was recognized as an eminently successful business man but to those of us who were honored by his friendship, his life was one of great fulfillment. Although he held the title of President of Hoffmann-LaRoche, in that president's chair sat the family physician looking beyond the company's profit and loss statement to the greater, more noble goal in life and that was ways and means to cure the sick and feebled. Medical research was his thing. He was personally responsible for the great strides and the multimillion dollar program undertaken by his company to discover anticancer drugs. If in his lifetime he could not find a cure for cancer, he was determined that his company spare no effort and spend without limit to develop a cancer awesting drug.

Dr. Mattia

Another one of his great scientific achievements was the development of the Larodopa drug to combat the dreaded Parkinson's disease. Barney Mattia was the driving force that developed the tranquilizers Librium and Valium, two drugs that have brought untold happiness to millions of people throughout the world.

By any measure, Barney Mattia was a great man but great as he was in reaching plateaus in life attainable by very few men in the world he never lost the common touch.

We knew him as a neighbor living up the street. We knew him as a human being whose first and last thought of the day always involved the welfare of his family. Here was the successful business man who had established for himself an international reputation but always made time to give his three boys and one daughter the loving care that he thought they deserved. Winter after winter, he defied the devil himself as he wended his way to Pennsylvania on icy pavements to visit his boy at college. Later on when his son made the football team, it seems like he travelled around the country watching his boy at play, letting his child know that in the stands there was a father who cared.

Then returning home it was always his pleasure to give an eye witness account to the other members of his family who were unable to make the trip.

Barney's destiny was greatness. In the eyes of those who knew him Barney's destiny was achieved long ago.

At 48 he was too young to die. At 48 his devoted sons, his daughter and loving wife are entitled to spend more years with a father and husband who really cared. At 48 Barney Mattia had attained goals in one lifetime that few people even dream about. At 48 Barney Mattia proved that a person could be one of the most successful businessmen in America and remain a success as a husband and a

Sought after by governors and presidents, Barney Mattia preferred to spend an evening at the fireside with his

Some of us will live out our natural life ever wondering what purpose our stay on earth should serve. This was not the case with Barney Mattia. He had a singleness of purpose to make his contribution toward a better world for his fellow man. Possessed of great humility and an obsession for anonymity, Barney Mattia memorials will forever live in the hearts and minds of the thousands of people the aided as he made his way through life always looking ahead to a brighter tomorrow

Barney Mattia had the kind of chemistry that inspired anybody his presence touched. He set an example for others to follow. He had a strong conviction and set out to prove that America was really the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Barney Mattia died but the memory of him will go on forever - for though he was a mortal being his contributions to mankind have given him immortality.

His three sons and daughter inherit a privileged legacy which is available to very few children in life. His loving and dedicated wife can look forward to reliving the memories of a rich past.

Death is a sad occasion - in this instance its dimension becomes more than a personal family tragedy. The state and nation which Barney Mattia loved becomes the greater loser. All mankind has lost one of its greatest benefactors. If ever there was a person for whom the words humanitarian and gentleman were coined, Barney Mattia was that man.

In Barney Mattia's death the town of Nutley lost one of its principal boosters, Hoffman-LaRoche has lost its most successful president, a mother loses a gifted and devoted son, a wife becomes temporarily separated from a husband who through deed and action showed he cared, three sons and a daughter lose a father whose dedication and love knew bounds and a sister who had legitimate claims to hero worship loses a brother and we lose one of our best

We find it difficult to believe our world will be the same without Barney Mattia. Another man may step forward in the days ahead to become President of Hoffmann-LaRoche but nobody can fill the shoes left vacant by the death of Barney Mattia.

Nuncio Pico Named Mayor Despite Protest By Strumolo

By Elaine Averbach

One Year Ago

A special meeting of town commissioners which included a phone hook up to Florida, where Commissioner Vincent Strumulo was vacationing, resulted in the naming of Mayor Ken Smith as acting director of the Department of Parks and Public Property. assumed the duties of former Commissioner William Cullen, who had suddenly resigned in a terse letter and presumably had moved out of state. In accepting the post, Mayor Smith said he fully intended "on being an active director," and indicated that he would attempt major progress in several areas of recreation.

A team of State Highway Department workers raised and strengthened guard rails on the 300 foot curved portion of Route 21, flowing through Belleville, which had become known as the "death strip." Mayor Ken Smith had previously threatened to close the highway if safety standards were not forthcoming.

The Mayor said he was happy "to see some action from the state to improve this dangerous situation," but he indicated he would not be completely satisfied until additional improvements were were made.

The Zoning Board of Adjustment rejected an application by DeWitt Savings and Loan Association to extend its parking facilities. The Board voted 4-0 to DeWitt its plea, after hearing complaints by residents of the area near Malone and Tappan Avenues that the extension would increase "an already bad traffic situation." Robert Williams, De Witt president, told The Times that the bank had thought out the matter and had decided not to appeal to the Board.

Incumbent Mayor Nuncio Pico was named mayor for his second consecutive term during inauguration ceremonies for three newly elected council members. The proceedings were conducted over the protests of Councilman Vincent Strumulo, who had sought an amendment asking that Council man William Cullen be named Mayor instead. Strumulo explained to a full council chamber that Cullen had gained the most votes in the election and was therefore custom arily named mayor.

Anthony Fantacone, a 45-year-old Belleville patrolman, was named Citizen of Year during brief ceremonies at Stadium by the 25 members of the Colony Club. The veteran police officer was cited by the Club for his part in saving the lives of some six persons during fires in Belleville over a three year period. Vincent Vitty, club secretary, made the presentation of a plague bearing a scroll with the officer's name enscribed. "He's a Belleville product," said Vitty in making the award.

A combination of measles, the loss of three teeth and a winning smile brought fame to Belleville in the form of 8-year-old Debbie Lynn Current, when she was named Little Miss Garden State at Atlantic City. The pretty School 9 third grader had first attracted attention when she won the title of Miss Belleville.

An ordinance changing the tract of land in the vicinity of the reservoir on Joralemon Street and Belleville Avenue from a B residence to C residence was passed by a 4 to vote of the town commission. It was approved in spite of the howls of objections from the residents living in the area, who protested they were not against veterans' housing, but only disapproved of the zone being changed.

Defending his moves in which the police and fire department were given shake-ups, Public Safety Director Noll hit back at a letter criticizing the transfer of a police officer. The letter, from Howard Lowe, of 120 Rutgers Street, deplored Noll's action, especially one particular instance where he had transferred an officer from the detective bureau to the foot squad. Noll disagreed with the accusation made by Lowe that he wasn't acting responsibly or fairly. Noll reported better efficiency in his department as a result of the changes.

On a charge of manufacturing in a business zone, the Coil-O-Matic Inc. concern of 32-34 Heckel Street drew a $50 fine from Judge Smith. They were found guilty of violating a zoning ordinance, and Max Schwartz, attorney for the company, said the concern would close down and stop operating.

Having a Father, now living in Nutley, who once raced bicycles and motorcycles and myself a sports enthusiast, to ride one has always been natural with me. Having an Uncle who owned a bicycle-store in West Orange assured me of always having a bike, even in assured me of always having a bike, even in those depression days. I can remember biking for groceries, biking my Dad's lunch to him at his plant and also applying for a Steno job here in town by bicycle. Yes, I got the job. To most of my friends, a part of growing up was to discard their bicycle altogether but I never felt wholeheartily about that trend. I'll never forget the look on my Mother's face, when after several years of marriage, I asked if my 'old bike' was still around.

Back in '64 and a series of cars that stopped more than ran, I looked at my daughter's bike and thought, why not? I found I could race to the A&P in four minutes and soon my jaunts were up and down hill to Belleville and Nutley Center. Since then, I have found no boundary lines but to have a specific destination is one way to get further each day. Now that the words physical fitness and ecology have become more a part of our vacabulary, bicycling has become more popular again.

Now, I invite all who would like to join me in biking, come do so. While doing so you will enjoy the smiles of passerbys and even an exchange of pleasant greetings. You will be out-of-doors, see those inches disappear, have no parking problem and discover it's fun. I do suggest dark glasses and a good sense of humor. This week's column takes the form of a tribute to the late Dr. V.D. Mattia written by business columnist John Soloway which appeared in Tuesday's Star Ledger.

The second installment of the book review written by Dr. James L. Goddard on "Marijuana Reconsidered" which commenced in last week's column will be resumed next week.

"Grievous as is its loss, the business community - in New Jersey and at-large suffers not alone from the untimely death of Virginius Dante Mattia. Many more are poorer by his premature passing.

As chief executive of one of the nation's major business enterprises, "Barney" Mattia occupied a position of prominence and influence in the ethical international pharmaceutical field.

But Dr. Mattia was much more than a visionary, dedicated medical man and industrial leader; more than an inspirational, extremely able corporate administrator; more than a disciple truly devoted to research aimed at extending the life span, improving the health, and adding to the productive years of his fellow man.

FIRST, AND FORE-FOREMOST, Barney

Mattia was a humanitarian, and he long will be remembered as a human being in the broadest meaning of the term.

The worldwid B'nai B'rith Organization, itself a formidable force in the interest of humanity, bestowed upon him this signal recognition some years ago, subsequently numerous others had sought in proposed similar fashion - to focus public attention on his words and deeds, his dedication to the causes of the oppressed and the poor and the sick.

As graciously as he could, he declined such proffered encomia with an apologetic explanation that was simple and sincere and in keeping with a modesty that was truly a

"Just because I am privileged, by position or circumstance, to be enabled to do my bit," he recently told me, "ought not to call for testimonials."

And, as if he had a premonition of his own abbreviated lifetime - and the remaining days should be put to greater purpose - he had added with a heavy sigh:
"There is so much more that needs to be

LONG BEFORE it became fashionable corporate chieftains to be concerned about and committed to the welfare of the indigent, the under-privileged and the ill, Barney Mattis preached - and practiced - a

He was then 36, newly named as general manager of the ethical pharmaceutical division of Hoffman-LaRoche. He had gone through two wars and he was yet to endure an excruciating coronary a year before he was to become the youngest chief executive of one of the major drug manufacturing and

But even at that early age, he had set his sights, had forged his resolve. He envisioned a new longevity for man, a better health, a greater usefulness. "A life span years," Dr. Mattia had predicted then, "should be a quite common thing if we can make certain basic discoveries... Moreover, they'll be health-filled, productive years for most people," he had prophesied.

Thus, when he became president in 1966, he set about almost at once to establish the Institute of Molecular Biology at Nutley, the world's first privately-funded study of life's processes, a multi-million dollar facility the quest of which and the work of its 200 eminent scientists, must go on as a memorial to the purpose of Virginius Dante Mattia.

THE PURPOSE of Barney Mattia had been evidenced even earlier when as executive vice president, he staunchly stood before important stockholders and directors of the enterprise on two memorable occasions. In both, the issue was profita bility.

One had to do with the establishment of the company's program to aid the indigent ill, a costly proposal. Under it, any doctor can prescribe without charge to the patient Roche product for as long as the need

The other revolved around research into which the company, having poured millions into the particular effort, was reportedly to abandon its quest for the compound which is today perhaps the orld's most-prescribed drug - Librium Here again, Barney Mattia prevailed, and the world of medicine and man are the principal

NATIONAL PUBLICATION, recounting these and other contributions of Dr. Mattia a couple of years ago, characterized him as a "maverick of the pharmaceutical industry," an appelation also ascribed to him by some competitors less gifted and certainly less responsive to the needs of the times.

It may well be that Barney Mattia was a "maverick," Be that as it may, the fact is that his deeds were many and noteworthy even as his feeling for his fellow man were deep and abiding.

Care For Lawn When Water Is Low

You can keep your lawn green and growing in dry weather with the proper use of water. But if the water supply is limited or for some other reason you cannot apply sufficient water about once a week to wet the soil 6 inches deep when soil moisture is inadequate, it may be best to avoid watering

In the absence of a watering program, you can help your lawn through the difficult droughty periods by attention to other factors.
William F. Munk, senior county agricultural agent of Essex County offers these suggestions:

Mow only if necessary. Keep the mower cutting height set at 2 inches or higher and make sure the mower is sharp and properly adjusted.

Wait for the return of cooler or more moist weather in the late summer or early to apply fertilizer. Fertilizer in the absence of soil moisture will not turn grass green.

Avoid the use of chemicals for weed control until fall. Objectionable weeds can be taken out by hand.

Be on the alert for insect and disease activity.

Minimize traffic over your lawn as much as possible. Wear resistance of grass suffering from inadequate moisture is greatly lessened.

Wrestlers To Training Camps

Ten Belleville wrestlers will be heading to training camps in different parts of the Eastern Coast to learn the skill which could help them repeat the successful 12-1 season of this past

These camps each deal with a specific type or style of wrestling after making sure that each grappler has the basics of the sport mastered. For the veteran wrestler this is the place for him to polish his technique and not lose anything from one

For the novice wrestler this is the time to get a jump on all the other grapplers who haven't gone to camps or stayed in shape during the summer.

The ten wrestlers include two members of the varsity squad, who represent one half of the returning team. Much of the teams success this past season came from the eight senior grapplers in varsity spots, but this left only four spots to be filled by wrestlers who would return this winter. The other eight varsity spots will have to be filled by first year men of members of the 10-3 junior varsity squad.

The first froup of wrestlers is already at camp and has been training since Monday morning. These five wrestlers went to the week long clinic held on the campus of the U.S. Naval Academy in Anapolis, Maryland.

At this clinic the wrestlers are grouped into three classifications, beginner, intermediate, and advanced. As the week goes on each class goes to ten sessions of instructions.

Three of these sessions are used to teach and practice takedowns, the primary concern at the beginning of a match After takedowns come two sessions of pinning combinations, two of defensive wrestling, two of offensive wrestling and the final one for specific moves to be used by each class: The wrestlers are also scheduled to spend two nights this week learning the proper ways to lift weights, and exactly which lifts would be best to develop for a wrestler's specific "favorite" move.

Belleville's wrestlers at the Anapolis Clinic are Ramon "Chico" Lijo (JV 98, 8-2-1); Doninick DeNino (JV 115, 4-2); John Smith (JV Hwt, 3-2); Charles Bogert (JV 148, 3-2-1); and Rudy Petrole, who will be out for his first year.

Two More At Camp This Sunday

Two more wrestlers will attend the "Northeastern Takedown and Led Wrestling Camp" in Syracuse, N.Y. As the mile-long name implies, this is where the lankiest wrestlers can learn how to use their long legs for their advantage. Two of Belleville's wrestlers, Steve Andrews, 6-5 on the JV squad and Craig Davis, 2-1 on the frosh squad will leave this Sunday for the specialty camp.

Craig is a wrestler who has a bright future ahead of him.

He's 6'2" and weighs 164 right now. During his season he went at 157 and placed third in the Essex Catholic Frosh Tournament. For next season he hopes to gain more weight a go at 168 or 178 and use the leg moves such as the guiotine and figure four which he'll learn more about at camp.

During the first week of August, two of the seniors on this coming year's team will attend the King of Prussia Camp in Pennsylvania. Walt Bennett and Bill Natale will attend this camp to help perfect their own styles now that they've mastered the basics.

Walt was the varsity 136 this past season, going 6-3 in the dual season, while placing second in the Districts. Nate was the Junior Varsity Captain and had an undefeated season at 157

Later on in the month, Fred Arena will attend the camp which taught Bennett the rolls and cradles he used this past season. The varsity 98 pounder had a 6-7 record as a sophomore and will attend the Gramby School of Wrestling in Norfolk, Virginia.

Maplewood started with four good hits for three runs in the top of the first inning. After a long double to left field, three singles all to the right brought three runs

Belleville loaded the bases with two singles by Brian Waters and John Goscinski and an error that allowed Frank Petite get on. Their two runs were then donated by the Maplewood pitcher as he walked Frank Papasidero and Gary Falkman.

From that point on, Maplewood wasn't so generous, as Belleville was held to only two more hits and no more runs. After scoring their first three runs off Petite, Maplewood scored one off both Petite and Goscinski in the fourth inning, and then three more off Goscinski in the sixth.

Belleville had a real field day this past Monday at the annual Park Oval Independence Day Game with Nutley. The team collected 17 hits in 39 official at bats, which lifted almost everyone's batting average.

The only player who's average wasn't really helped by the romp was Gary Falkman. The Post 105 catcher was walked four times in five trips to the plate. Gary did score twice Nutley's two pitchers gave away a total of base-on-balls while chalking up only four strike-outs.

Among the 17 hits were four home runs, one triple and two doubles. The only player to collect two of these extra-base hits was Rich Giordano. Rich led off the seventh inning with a home run, and later on in the inning go on with a double to go game.

Winning pitcher Danny Dunn's only score came in the fifth inning when he homered. But the Essex Catholic All-Stater went 3-5 on the day, allowing Nutley only five hits and three walks, while striking out four.

Also going 3-5 in the romp was first baseman Frank Papasidero. One of Frank's hits was a second inning triple, while the other two were singles. He also reached on a fielder's choice.

After being responsible Nutley's one run in the top of the first on two errors and a misplaced single, John Goscinski did his best to redeem himself with a lead-off home-run in the second. His homer over the left field fence was followed by Paps' triple, but Paps was caught stealing on a bunt play where the pitch was high Falkman then received his first free pass to first and came around as Giordano reached on an error. In the third inning, Frankie

Belleville Post 105's American Legion Baseball team will play two re-scheduled games tonight and tomorrow night both at the Stadium against West Orange and Vailsburg, before closing out the season this Monday night in Bloomfield.

This means that Belleville will have four games in five nights for their last full week of the season after trouncing Nutley 18-3 in the Park Oval this past Monday and hosting Caldwell on Tuesday night.

Vailsburg still remains the Eastern Division leaders with a 7-2 record. They also have a tightly packed schedule in their last week. Tuesday night they faced the hapless (1-8) Bloomfield squad, tonight they face Maplewood, tomorrow Belleville and londay West Orange.

The only way for Belleville to catch Vailsburg for the Division title is to win all four of their remaining games and hope for Vailsburg to drop three of theirs. Both teams should top Bloomfield West Orange (4-3-1) and Maplewood (5-3-1) are both tough opponents.

We wrote recently about a customer who wasted us to explain how to works. We found ourselves in the ambarressing position not to be able to explain this phanomenon to be a rismber of sendal better thinking about it for a while we came to the conclusion that probably many more people would like to know how it works. In section to explain it, hoping that we will succeed we should like to mention that comparisons which we may use should not be taken literally.

should not be taken literally.

On the bottom of it as in it is the basic moving power. We won't by to explain this, let's take it for granted. There is a.c. (alternating current) and d.c. (direct current). We are mostly concerned with mostly concerned with some container of the control of itap, water (respectively d.c. current) flows out of it.

If we throw a rock in the container, we will create waves. Each wave will have a crest and a trough, it will "alternate". One such ternate". One such the water level at the rest position up to a certain height and back again below the water level at the rest position. The wave travels from the center where the rock was thrown in, to the outside of the container. This is the basis of just about evalvating electrical. As a matter of fact sound and light moves in waves, as we will see later. End of lesson No.

"He's as good as any rider on the ground," Lepman, Monmouth Park's leading trainer, said. "I think he's improving all the time. He knows the shortest way home.

State Schools Still Doing Something Right that public school education in New Jersey is big business a glance at the latest "Public Schools Fact Sheet" (1970-71 edition) compiled by the New Association, should quickly dispel those doubts.

The school boards association data show that in 1968-69 local school districts spent $1,400,533,485. to ducate New Jersey's children, an increase of 10.9 per cent over the previous year. Administrative and instructional expen-ditures grew by 14.8 per cent and

If anyone has any doubts | 13.9 per cent respectively. Teachers' salaries were up 9.9 per cent, with the state median for teacher salaries reaching $9,634; administrators' salaries rose by 10.1 per cent.

Attendance and health costs grew by 14.3 per cent; fixed charges spurted 25.2 per cent transportation costs, which had soared by over 50 per cent in the previous year due to mandated transportation of non-public school pupils, rose another

OBITUARIES Utility Declares Some Optimism

Public Service Electric and Gas Company has expressed cautious optimism about meeting the demand for electricity this summer. Edward R. Eberle, president of Public Service, said the utility, which serves nearly 6,000,000 people in New Jersey, will have an electric generating capacity of nearly 7.5 million kilowatts. It expects a peak demand of 6.1 million kilowatts, giving it nearly 23 per cent more generating capacity than the anticipated peak demand, substantially more than the 14 per cent reserve the company was predicting for its system at this fime last

The power pool to which Public Service belongs - the Pennsylvania-New lersey-Maryland (PJM) Interconnection — will be in better snape also, Eberle indicated.

The interconnection comprises 12 electric companies, including Public Service, Jersey Central Power & Light Company, New Jersey Power & Light Company and Atlantic City Electric Company. It serves more than 20 million people in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

PJM expects to have 31.5 million kilowatts of generating capacity available this summer, Eberle said. The summer peak demand forecast is for 27.3 million kilowatts. This would leave a reserve of 4.2 million kilowatts, more than 15 per cent of the total peak load.

Eberle pointed out, however, that regulatory and other delays of critically needed extra high voltage power lines may seriously limit the exchange of power within the PJM system and with neighboring power grids.

A 500,000-volt transmission line from Public Service's Branchburg Switching Station, near Somerville, N.J., to Philadelphia Electric Company's Whitpain Substation near Norristown, Pa., is a case in point, Eberle said. This line is vitally needed to carry power to New Jersey from Keystone and Conemaugh Generating Stations, jointly owned mine-mouth power plants in western Pennsylvania. Each these stations has two 820,000 kilowatt generating units ready for service this summer. Originally, the line was due to begin operating last spring. But a section in Honey Hollow area of Bucks County, Pa., was held up by conservationists until very recently. Completion of the line is being rushed, and it is hoped that the line can be finished this fall.

$1,426,831,389. The State contributed $244,033,703 or 17.1 per centof this amount; the federal government came up with $54,655,436 or 3.8 per cent; practically all the remainder came from local property taxes.

Day school enrollment grew to 1,454,378, an increase of 2.6 per cent. Special education classes, most of them created to carry out mandate, increased by 13.1 per cent. The number of teachers rose by 4.7 per cent to 67,104, with the largest increase in those teaching the handicapped.

The number of public schools in New Jersey increased by 2.5 per cent to 1,917. Given the increase in enrollments and in special classes, and the large number of old and sub-standard school buildings, this data would seem to indicate that the State is slipping in terms of school plant. The number of school districts in the State increased by 0.2 per cent to a total of - contrary to the nationwide trend toward consolidation and to the recommendations of a special state commission which urged merger of school districts. The nine-member school board is the most prevalent type, with 405 boards so constituted. Five-member boards number 150; 31 boards have seven members. The remaining boards vary from three to eleven

Despite the cries of the naysayers, New Jersey schools must be doing something right. Of last year's high school graduates, 66.3 per cent went on to advanced schooling. Only 3.3 per cent of the teaching force left their jobs in New Jersey

Another 500,000-volt line from Branchburg to Ramapo, N.Y., is also incomplete. Its original service date was spring, 1968. Today, despite the fact that the Public Utility Commission, after more than two years of hearings, approved the line, and despite the fact that various courts have affirmed the PUC decision, the line was still being stalled by objections to its alignment until recently and it now cannot be completed until December of this year. Completion of this line would forge an essential and vital lifeline between the PJM companies with Consolidated Edison and other utilities in the Northeast. Together these two groups have between 20 .25 per cent of and generating capacity of the United States - capacity that one group could frequently use to help the other, Eberle said.

A third 500,000-volt line from Keeney, Dela., to Salem County, originally scheduled for operation this May, now has an indefinite service data due to delays in approval related to the Delaware River

At the beginning of last summer, PJM had a forecast reserve of 12.4 per cent. The power pool went through the entire summer of 1970 without incident. Service did have to be curtailed, however, during an unseasonable heat wave in the first week of autumn, after planned maintenance had begun.

Service curtailment could be necessary again this summer, Eberle said, if the excessive loss of large generating or transmission equipment occurs during a prolonged hot spell.

This is a condition which will persist, he said, as long as there are interminably lengthy disputes over the location and design of power plants and transmission lines as well as delays in delivery of equipment and construction because of

If a power shortage threatens this summer, the PJM companies will take one or more of the following steps until the needed relief is obtained: one, curtail all non-essential usage in all plants and offices of PJM companies; two, reduce voltages a maximum of 5 per cent which has a negligible effect on service; three, ask large commercial and industrial customers voluntarily curtail their
