Town Budget Readjusted

Commission to Air Budget At Public Hearing Tuesday

The public will have its chance to voice opinion on the 1973 town budget at a hearing Tuesday, Mar. 20, 8 p.m. at Belleville High School.

Mayor Joseph McGreevy announced Wednesday morning the Board of Commission had dipped into the town's reserve funds and transferred $1.4 million to reduce the town's share of the 1973 tax rate to $1.30 per $100 of assessed valuation — an increase of one tax point over last year.

Regarding the 1973-74 school budget, McGreevy said the Commissioners have "only discussed areas which might be cut," and said the Commissioners "hope" to have the school budget adjusted by Tuesday's public hearing.

McGreevy further said the goal of the commission is to keep the new tax rate "below $6.00." With the new adjustment made in the town budget, the projected tax rate stands at about $6.13. If school budget's projected increase of 42 tax points was out to fall in line with the $6.00 tax rate goal, a cut of over $300,000 from the schooler's requested $995,000 would be necessary.

However, it is expected the Board of Commissioners will trim down the school budget before the Tuesday hearing. The package was placed in the hands of the Commissioners by law after voters rejected the $7.4-million budget, 1533 to 1011, in February's Board of Education election.

The Board of Education met with the Commissioners March 1 and presented their case to leave the budget sub-

1973 Town Budget at a Glance

Table with 4 columns: 1973 Total Anticipated Expenditures, 1972 Actual Expenditures, Increase or Decrease, and various budget categories like Public Affairs, Revenue and Finance, Public Safety, etc.

The anticipated expenditures authorized by the Municipal Budget for 1973 are compared above with the actual expenditures for 1972.

Belleville taxpayers can expect some relief this year in the form of the Federal "Revenue-Sharing Program," which will pump $245,929 into the town, thus preventing another 10-point tax increase. The revenue-sharing funds have been figured into the above table.

The total budget for 1973, including apropriations for Essex County taxes and Belleville School expenditures, will require a total tax levy of $14,869,948, an increase of $1,730,530 over the 1972 levy of $13,139,418. This will bring Belleville's estimated tax rate to $6.13 per $100 of assessed value, an increase of 49 tax points over the 1972 rate of $5.64.

Of the increase, one point will go to municipal expenses, six to the County and 42 to the schools.

Ex-POW Frank Visited by Family

Former POW Sergeant Martin Frank, 31, was reunited with his family last Thursday at Fort Monmouth after five and a half years captivity under the Viet Cong.

Frank was still in the Army hospital at Fort Monmouth on Tuesday for routine observation, and his mother, Mrs. Stella Frank, who is now staying with a sister in Newark, told the Times, "he's thin and a bit nervous, but he's in even better shape than we've anticipated."

Mrs. Frank said her son has no immediate plans to visit Belleville, but has asked several questions about relatives and old friends from his hometown. "He's got

Brighton Owner Wins Split Vote

The Belleville Board of Commissioners Tuesday night voted 3-2 to grant a variance to allow 11 new apartments built into the basement of an apartment house at 136-146 Brighton Avenue.

The variance, passed over the persistent opposition over the past few months of a small group of objectors, will allow apartment owner Luciano Calandra of 49 Dorchester Terrace to expand from 33 units to 44 by excavating two to three feet in the basement storage area.

Yoting for the measure were Commissioners Mary Senatore, Vincent Strumolo and Robert Laterza, while Mayor Joseph McGreevy and Commissioner Michael Marotti dissented.

In voting against the apartments, McGreevy and Marotti cited poor parking plans and said the addition would violate a density ordinance recently passed by the Commissioners which limits multiple-family housing to 22 families per acre. One of the objectors to the Brighton Avenue apartments, Al Schmitt, of 61 Hill Street, said he figured the addition of the 11 apartments would allow for "46 or 47" families per acre on the site.

During the meeting, Laterza said he also supports the density ordinance, which had been "passed unanimously, but added "Belleville needs more, estates wherever we can get them."

Golden Comments

By James R. Golden

In response to my request that I be given copies of the budget breakdowns and work-sheets of all town departments and the water utility budget, I was advised I might peruse same in the town clerk's office during regular working hours.

That's hardly the way I interpret the intent of the Local Finance Board directive that such copies be made "available" to citizens desiring same. It is almost impossible to absorb and digest all the vital information contained in the voluminous pages of figures under such circumstances plus the inconvenience of making an appointed trip to town hall.

I am seeking a clarification of the Director of the Division of Local Finance as to just what municipalities must follow to comply with his agency's directive concerning this matter.

The inconvenience inflicted upon one seeking such information detracts many from bothering to become involved and that's just the way they like it down at the Hall.

Never having been discouraged by any of the troublesome inconveniences thrown into the path of this columnist during his hectic days of being the town critic and later as a Councilman who fought with his Council colleagues because of their generosity in spending the taxpayers' money, I hastily beat a path to the sanctuary of the local political gods to delve into their favorite ways of itemizing in the manner they would spend our tax dollars during 1973.

The revelations are disturbing. We notice a $37,796.08 deficit in the water utility budget, especially is this disconcerting because this utility in previous years brought in most of the profits that produced surplus for the town. Principal cause of the loss is the fact that two town departments, Public Works and Revenue and Finance, charge off portions of their expenses against the revenues produced from this utility. Each succeeding year the amounts drawn off have steadily increased in salaries and wages and other expenses. This enables these two departments to present a "deceptive" departmental budget since not all of their charges show therein, but are

Cop Assaulted

Belleville police arrested Saturday the second of two men charged with atrocious assault and battery on an off-duty policeman. The suspect had eluded police on the evening of the beating.

Deputy Chief Frank Haight said Officer Ronald Edwards was off-duty on March 3 at 12:50 a.m. and was entering a local tavern at Belleville Avenue and Smith Street after parking his car when he was accosted by two men who apparently had observed a previous argument between Edwards and another motorist over the right of way. Smith said, the two men began to pummel Edwards, opening a cut above his left eye.

Smith said Edwards identified himself as a police officer, drew his gun, and held the two men until Officers Joseph Muiwihli and Joseph Simonetti arrived in a patrol car. One of the two suspects, a Belford resident, aged 46, broke away and escaped from police during the arrest. His nephew was arrested at the same time for interfering with a police officer, but not for the assault. The other suspect, a Belleville resident, aged 41, was booked for atrocious assault and held on $500 bail.

The escaped suspect was again arrested by Officers Simonetti and Thurman Davis March 10 when he was stopped for a motor vehicle violation. He is charged with eluding a police officer and atrocious assault on a police officer, and is held on $10,000 bail. Edwards was treated and released from Clara Maass Hospital the night of the incident.

agogue will participate. On Sunday night May 6, a dinner-dance banquet will be held in Sisterhood Hall. This will be preceded by a service dedicated to past presidents of the Congregation, Sisterhood and Men's Club. A Golden Anniversary Yearbook is being published in conjunction with the weekend. Francis Walsh, 28, 277 Mount Prospect Avenue, was sentenced March 1 to a three month jail term for shoplifting $19.25 worth of meat from the Pathmark Supermarket. Judge Aaron Narol, in Belleville Municipal Court, sentenced Walsh after he had pleaded guilty to the charge.

The production will be the hit musical comedy "Promises, Promises" by playwright Neil Simon with music by Burt Bacharach.

Tickets are available to the public at $5.00 each and proceeds from the sale will be for the benefit of the Lions Charity Fund which is devoted to the support of local charities, scholarships and youth activities.

According to Dennis Sullivan, an employee of the store, Walsh was seen leaving the supermarket when some of the meat fell from under his coat. He was detained until Belleville police arrived.

Posters announcing ticket sales will be placed in local business establishments.

Our Educational System

One of the great American concepts, like equal treatment of all religions, has been the free public school. Of course, taxpayers footed the bill, but to enter and attend school, no one paid anything — and all were entitled to enter equally.

True enough, it has not always been equal, and may never be completely so. Nevertheless, great progress in this direction has been made, and several million dedicated teachers and administrators are still working toward that end.

A challenge to this system's effectiveness and public acceptance in recent years has been massive integration. In some areas this meant comparatively little; in others, where the percentage of non-white students was high, and where schools had been separate, the problems were greater.

In some of these areas the result has been that the schools have again segregated themselves, by an influx of whites to private schools and non-whites in. Parents were often not willing to have their children pay the price today of theoretical or future improvement.

Major issues have arisen in the wake of today's massive changes, through the fault of no one. One is whether students should still be graded. Some schools have resorted to a two-grade system, satisfactory and unsatisfactory. No more A's, B's, C's, etc. The theory behind this retreat to an easy way is that children from disadvantaged homes and environments cannot possibly compete equally, which is no doubt true.

Another change being effected in many schools is the elimination of teacher grades. There are to be no more A, B, and C certificates under this system. The idea here again is that teachers from poor backgrounds are discriminated against in such a grading system.

The trouble with both "reforms" is that they are not in the child's interest. The child needs the best teacher he can get, and grades help put both teachers and students in classrooms where they're best suited. The trouble, then, with the two-grade system is that it doesn't help those very children it's designed to protect — those from disadvantaged homes.

Grading systems which show honestly at what level these students' attainments are might disappoint them but they also enable them to properly set their goals and realize their tasks. Hiding them from reality, while in school, hardly helps them in life after school.

Russian Progress

The United Nations recently reported

diet of people in various countries shows the Russians have made sensational progress since emphasis was shifted from heavy industry to agriculture in the 1950's.

As of 1960, food standards in the Soviet Union were still low (immediately after World War II they were even lower). As of thirteen years ago the average Russian consumed 63.8 pounds of meats and fats a year, about the same amount as poverty-stricken Bolivians.

As of 1970, however, the average Russian consumed 121 pounds of meat and fats and 39 pounds of fish — second only to the fishing people of Scandinavia and the Iberian Peninsula in the Western world. The total of 160 pounds of meat, fat and fish is still lower than the British average. However, it is now much as a basic or necessary minimum. And the Russian diet is considered satisfactory.

The Russian consumer is now finding more and more appliances and home products available (Russia has surpassed the U.S. in steel production). There is a growing Soviet lead over the U.S. in many areas of weapons and missiles, the trend, then, represents unquestionable progress from the materialistic standpoint. And while the Russian people do not enjoy democracy, they never have. Therefore, all most of them can understand today is that things are much better now for the average citizen than ever before in their country's history.

Spring, 1973

On the 20th the hours of daylight will approximately equal those of night for the first time since September and spring will begin in the northern hemisphere. It's a season awaited eagerly through the winter, by many, perhaps the loveliest exhibition of nature during the year.

Spring means new life, which is evident all around us; it brings Easter (April 22nd), a symbol of new life, warmer weather, baseball, the approach of holidays and spring fever and taxes. As we witness the resurgence of nature's vital forces around us, many seek to grasp the moral, the hope represented therein.

These inexorable laws of nature continue year after year their inevitable procession, inviting men and women to enjoy the delightful experience, to think about spring's meaning and the fundamental purpose and cycle of life, death, and time.

From the 20th until September, six months hence, our days will be longer than nights. They will also be the warmest of the year, at the end of which we will once again welcome cooler air and brisk days — and be ready again for what nature has in store — in its life cycle.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

ONE YEAR AGO
Two Belleville patrolmen foiled an attempted armed robbery at 68 Belmont Ave. Two men had broken into the apartment of Samuel James, and had put a knife to his throat and then demanded that he give them all of his money. A neighbor, hearing the commotion, phoned the police, who apprehended one suspect at the scene of the crime and the other the next day.

The Belleville Board of Education sought bids from local transportation firms to try and help the 500 Belleville students affected by the transportation strike. The buses would be used for the duration of the strike.

The Belleville High Girl's Basketball finished up a 9-1 season by defeating Irvington High 68-10. The 9-1 record was the best in the history of the school.

FIVE YEARS AGO

The Belleville School Board decided not to appeal the $206,000 cut in the school budget. The educators, however, were not happy with the mandate of the people, which had cut $3,000 from administration area and $77,766 from the instructional budget.

A Bloomfield man received a $100 fine and $10 in court costs for the placing of obscene phone calls to a Belleville woman. The man was apprehended with the aid of devices used by Bell Telephone Co., which traced the caller to a phone booth in Montclair.

The Andrew Jergens Co. gave three acres of land adjoining their Belleville plant to the town. The land was to be used for a new public safety building.

TEN YEARS AGO

James R. Golden, councilman-at-large, succeeded in killing the six month old Belleville Planning Board. Golden claimed that he was "fearful" of the power vested in the board, although board president G. Fred Buriazzi pointed out that final control rested in the hands of the Town Council.

The Belleville-Nutley crew teams finally found a home in the planned boat house, to be built adjacent to the Passaic River in Kearny. The two towns agreed to pay Kearny the assessment value of the land, and also to help the town in the event that it ever wanted to get into the sport.

An armed robber forced the manager of the Automatic Vending Co. to give him $2,700 in cash, before he bound him with tape and left him on the floor of his office. The man had carefully tried to hide his identity, but the manager was able to give a description anyway.

The Town Commissioners slashed $40,000 more off of the Belleville school budget. This brought the total amount deducted from the amount asked by the Board of Education to $85,000, because the Board had cut $45,000 more than its budget after the first vote on the budget.

Patrolman John Dean, of the Policemen's Benevolent Association, denied the charge of James Golden that he had intimidated Golden's Union by telling them to "take it easy" in opposing raises of $400 for police and firemen. Patrolman Dean stated that he could not understand how Golden could accept a raise for his own Union, and then try to prevent the police from doing the same.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Belleville-Nutley Chapter of the Hadassah marked its 36th anniversary with a candlelight ceremony. An original monologue, entitled "Are You Compliant?" was presented by Miss Marilyn Ackerman.

A Belleville man was jailed for 90 days in the Hudson County jail for drunken driving. The man was pronounced drunk by Dr. John Danielson, the North Bergen police surgeon, after a test on the "drunk-o-meter." This was the first time that this device had been used in that town.

The Bellboys lost the State Championship in the final quarter, losing 40-37 to the Rough Riders of the West Side. They had been winning by ten points going into the last period, but exhaustion took its toll and the Rough Riders rallied to victory.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Jack Deeny was elected "grand exalted leader" of the Belleville Chapter of the Elks. Austin Mathews was made leading knight; James B. Mulley lecturing knight and Harry Lander tiler.

The Women's Club voted to reduce the dues from $8 to $3 annually. The reduction was to be effective for one year and was made because of the loss of many members due to financial difficulties.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

As a result of the thirty-three per cent increase in Belleville's valuations, the highest in the county, the town's tax rate for 1923 was to cut from $5.50 per $100 value to $4.30.

Officers for the ensuing year were installed by the Belleville Lodge, Order of Moose Home: dictator, Pierson Stines; vice-dictator, William Eaton; prelate, P. O'Brien; and trustees, M. DeCarlo and Andrew Brady.

TAXING Problems

By David Spal
Certified Public Accountant

CHILD CARE & DISABLED DEPENDENT CARE

UNTIL THIS YEAR, one of the most neglected taxpayers was the divorced or widowed mother who went to business and left her child with a babysitter. In some cases it was more profitable for the mother to stay home and collect welfare since her child care expenses exceeded the amount she could earn.

Congress finally acted to correct this gross inequity by increasing, to a reasonable amount, the sums that may be deducted for child care.

Certain taxpayers may deduct up to $400 a month for employment related household services, child care, disabled dependent care or incapacitated husband or wife care for this deduction are:

- 1) You must have been gainfully employed during the period the expenses were incurred.
- 2) You must have maintained a household.
- 3) Your household must have included one or more qualifying individuals.

Your expenditures must have been necessary to enable you to be gainfully employed.

5) Your payments for the service must have been to other than relatives or dependent members of your household.

To claim the deduction, you must file your return on Form 1040 and itemize your deductions. The expenses on which you base your deductions must have been paid during the tax year you are now reporting. No expenses incurred before 1972 can be claimed under these rules regardless of when paid.

EXPENSES must have been incurred for the primary purpose of assuring the well-being and protection of a qualifying individual and are considered to be employment related if they incurred to enable husband and/or wife to be gainfully employed. They must have been paid for household services or for the care of one or more qualifying persons. Payments made to relatives or dependent household members may not be included in the computation of your deductions.

QUALIFYING individuals: Your household must be your principal abode and must include one or more qualifying individuals such as:

- 1) Your dependent under the age of 15 for whom you are entitled to a personal exemption.
- 2) Your dependent age 15 or over who is physically or mentally incapable.
- 3) Husband or wife who is physically or mentally incapable of self-care.

ALTHOUGH the maximum deduction for any calendar month is $400, expenses for the care of dependent children under the age of 15, if performed outside your household are limited for each month to: $200 a month for one child, $300 a month for two children, $400 a month for three or more children. There is also an income limitation. Taxpayers earning up to $18,000 a year qualify for the deduction up to the $400 limit - whatever is spent. The sum allowed as a deduction is reduced by .50 for every dollar of income in excess of $18,000. This is figured against the yearly potential deduction not the monthly.

In other words if your annual expenses are $27,000 or more you cannot qualify for the deduction.

partially accounted for in the water utility budget.

Then we "spot" under statutory expenditures, 303 item, consolidated police and firemen's pension fund $107,000.00 and item 304, police and firemen's retirement system of N.J. $214,000.00. This comes to $321,000.00 the taxpayers have to pay this year toward police and fire pensions. With 150 men in both departments, if we divide 150 into $321,000.00 we learn that under the new pension law the town is required to pay on an average of $2,140.00 this year and each succeeding year for each policeman and fireman as the town's portion of their pension. If additional raises are given, the town is obliged to contribute additional toward these pension funds. These new benefits are only available to police and fire personnel. They must retire, after 25 years of service, at the age of 51 on a pension of half pay. This would allow them to then take a job in private industry, as a bank guard, etc., getting Social Security credits, which would enable them to collect both social security plus their police or fire pension at the prescribed social security pension eligibility age.

Under Commissioner Laterza's budget we find appropriated for the police dept. $1,284,204 and for the fire dept. $1,068,921 giving us a total of $2,353,125 for both departments out of which $2,206,529.00 is earmarked for salaries and wages. Hereby lies the tale of Belleville's ever increasing tax rate.

When we observe that the town's health insurance paid for each employee comes to around $500.00 a year leaving an appropriation of $164,500.00, we can see that it costs a lot to keep the town's help healthy and happy. They shouldn't forget it either. How many of you paying for all this work sheets?

Noticed also on my work sheets is the indication that provision is made to grant an additional police and fire request for an additional 13% pay increase over the already 5.5% granted all town employees this year, placing them in a special class.

STATE WE'RE IN

Our Residents Should Be Proud Of Pioneering Environment Laws

By David F. Moore

NEW JERSEY PEOPLE are justly proud of their state's many pioneering environmental laws, as well as the State Department of Environmental Protection. A bill was introduced into the Legislature last February 13 which, if enacted, would make it a lot harder for various state agencies not to adhere to numerous environmental safeguards the state now requires of the private sector.

One of the main features of the bill, A-2191, introduced by Assemblywoman Josephine S. Margerita, R-Morris, has 19 co-sponsors, is a requirement for submission to the Department of Environmental Protection of an environmental impact statement for any project planned by any other arm of state government.

The same would be required for a project receiving any state funding, which injects the impact statement procedure into many municipal undertakings such as sewerage facilities or roads.

ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT statements are a familiar necessity for federal projects, or those supported by federal money, thanks to the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. That was the pioneering element insofar as impact statements go.

As it happens, New Jersey lost out on any possibility for blazing new trails in that category at the state level. A survey by the Center for California Public Affairs, Claremont, Cal., shows that 11 other states and Puerto Rico are already ahead of this state we're in, with general requirements for impact statements. Seven other states require the statements for specific jobs, such as wastewater treatment facilities or highways, and at least 18 states are considering the idea. The impact statement is not complicated — just a matter of predicting the long range consequences of a project before starting on it.

An impact statement would have to outline the impact a project would have on the environment. Also adverse effects which could not be avoided, plus measures which could be used to ease those blows. Then it would have to delineate alternatives to the project, "the relationship between local short-term uses of the environment and the maintenance and enhancement of long-term productivity," and finally any irreversible environmental changes which would be involved.

THE STATEMENTS would be submitted to the Department of Environmental Protection, and its commissioner would decide whether the project would be good or bad for the environment. If he gives it the green light, or fails to take a stand on it within 45 days, the digging or whatever can begin.

But if he determines that the project would be bad for the environment, any work must be delayed until the sponsoring agency holds a public hearing. After all the hearing statements are assessed, the head of the agency sponsoring the project could determine whether or not to go ahead with the job.

At first reading, that seems like something of a toothless idea, offering little more than a delay as protection against some project which could be bad for the environment. But in reality the system contained in the proposed bill would subject a project to unprecedented scrutiny by the Department of Environmental Protection and the Public.

AND I'VE SAVED until last what may be the most important environmental feature of the bill. This is its language which would make it state policy for environmental quality to be the "first priority in the planning of any project implemented with state funds or approved by any state agency."

The idea is that the state would have to practice what it's been preaching, and would have to set a good example, environmentally for all the people of New Jersey.

Seniors' Musical To Revive Fifties

What was a typical weekend like in the 1950's? What escapades were sought by teens to make their weekends exciting ones? What fashions, hair styles, make-up, slang, dances and music were considered "in"?

Regardless of whether you are a teeny-bopper from the fabulous 1950's, or a present reflection of a teen from 1973, "The Nifty Fifties" will hilariously answer these questions and more!

A very comical, entertaining, and quite informative play, this production is sure to portray the 1950's in its every life style when presented by the senior class on March 23, 24, Friday and Saturday night, respectively.

Music by Michael Ritacco's band, "Fascination" will most definitely set the mood for the 1950 era; a most exciting one. The play, a refreshing change, will not only contradict 1973, but so will the portrayal of "greasers" and "collegiate" as well.

With Mr. Rafferty and Mr. Grasso as producers and directors, along with the many stars of the play, this evening performance will no doubt prove a rewarding event for both performers and viewers of the play.

See this fabulous production of "The Nifty Fifties." Get to know what the good times were really all about, and learn why the youth of the 1950's were considered so unique — when we were just beginning and our parents had already begun.

Teacher Interviewed

Marciano's Classroom Manner Calls For 'Open Atmosphere'

Liz Primamore

Mr. Leonard Marciano, English Department Head at Belleville High School, comes to us from Scranton, Pennsylvania. He attended the University of Scranton where he earned his B.A. in English, social studies, and Latin. His graduate work was continued at Seton Hall and Rutgers, where he studied secondary education, philosophy, and received a Master's Degree. He also furthered his education by receiving 32 points beyond in supervision and administration.

Mr. Marciano has been teaching for 18 years at Belleville High. In conjunction with his regular teaching,

Mr. Marciano has taught and is continuing to teach summer school and adult school in our school system. He also coached baseball for seven years. Before Belleville High, taught seven years at other schools and in the army.

Mr. Marciano enjoys being challenged by the students in his classroom, "I like the atmosphere of a give and take discussion when a class is being conducted," he states, "a classroom discussion must have rhythm and keep up a smooth pace."

Leonard Marciano
18-Year Veteran

He believes in motivating and guiding the students. By marking his papers with his students sitting next to him, Mr. Marciano considers teaching a constant interview. "A student will react the way a teacher approaches him," he exclaims, "we must help students have good judgements, love other people, and learn to enjoy the important things in life."

Mr. Marciano carries this point across to the teachers who work under him. "Know your students," he stresses, "then the subject matter shall follow easily." A teacher must prepare himself well so that he need not rely completely on prepared notes. Thus, he could concentrate on his students' behavior.

Mr. Marciano supports the present reading program at Belleville High. This program aids slow readers, foreign born students, and those who wish to improve their reading. He hopes to see well-equipped labs and a well-trained reading staff in our school. Mr. Marciano believes that our school system must become more progressive. Semester courses such as mass media, current periodicals, and the history of drama would give the students a chance to study in depth and explore. "Team teaching" would benefit students because it would utilize the strong points of each teacher.

Mr. Marciano declares that his teaching methods have automatically changed with the times. A basic change that has transpired over the last several years is behavioral objectives. These objectives tend to change the classroom situation from teacher-orientated to student-orientated. This would aid the student to participate much more independently and with others.

"He enjoys teaching and guiding his students. Also, he believes in listening to what they have to say and encourage them to help plan various units and programs."

Implores Commission: Leave Budget Intact

by Barbara Michell

The Youth of America have always been very important because they will shape tomorrow's world and schools play an essential part in teaching and guiding youth. Unfortunately, Belleville High School isn't nearly as efficient and beneficial as it should be.

In a school built for 1000 students, there are 1400 this year and the number will increase to over 1500 next year. Three more teachers will be needed to take care of the surplus of students. New books are also necessary, not only for the replacement of old books that are outdated and falling apart.

New supplies are also a necessity. The business department are using typewriters and business machines which, with the use of their repair men, should have been replaced long ago; most of them being seven to fifteen years old. There is a shortage of projectors; only seven in a school of this size, and most of them do not work correctly. Sewing machines are also badly needed; there are not enough for a classroom of girls, and the ones that are there are dilapidated. Two-thirds of the desks in the new high school are left-overs from the old high school, some of them being over 20 years old. Besides supplies, the public address system, which hasn't worked for over two years, needs to be repaired.

Many students have requested courses that are different from the conventional English and U.S. History and a variety of new courses are being considered for next year but there are no books for these new classes. Belleville also needs a better work-study program where a student could spend half a day in school and the other half getting on-the-job-training.

The people attending Belleville football games have noticed that the band and the cheerleading uniforms are almost twenty years old. This year the twirlers have beautiful new uniforms but each girl had to pay for it herself. New sports have been suggested for next year such as varsity soccer and girl's varsity softball but this means more supplies, new uniforms and bus transportation for many games, which is getting too much more expensive.

And what is really pathetic is that the youth of Belleville could have had all these advantages if the taxpayers of Belleville had voted for the budget. If only one parent of each child in this school system had voted for the budget, it would have passed but apparently, these parents are either apathetic or ignorant of the fact that our schools are in bad condition and will get worse if something is not done about it.

Now the budget is before the Board of Commissioners who will decide how much to cut from it. If the budget is cut, it will not hurt the teachers or the administrators who will get paid no matter what, it is us, the youth of Belleville who will be deprived.

I humbly ask of the Belleville Board of Commissioners to consider the facts that I have brought out here and to make only minor cuts in the Budget. We have been hurt for the last twelve years by inadequate budgets, please don't hurt us again!

Masters of Deadpan Survive in Silent Film

by John Driscoll

"Sad Clowns" is another in a series of great films of the silent era presented to the English classes by Mr. John Klotz.

This film, has to do with three comedians with "dead-pan's." "Dead-pan", literally meaning, frozen expression like a comedian. Harry Langdon, Buster Keaton, and Charlie Chaplin, which contributed to their achievements as film masters.

Perhaps the best of the three comedians is Charlie Chaplin. Born in Capetown, South Africa, Chaplin soon moved with the rest of his family to England. He was educated there and made his early living as a music hall singer, dancer, and comedian. He then came to America and began working with the great comedy director, Max Sennet.

Max Sennet's great filming and ideas, such as pushing an actor up and down on a rocker to show he was riding a horse, and a still sleigh with a moving background was so great, that an audience of today can't help laughing at it.

Brake Clutch Shop 'Can Make It Stop'

Last August brought improvements to the corner of Washington and Greylock Avenues, when Belleville Brake & Clutch set up business at 590 Washington Avenue. The building was rebuilt, a macadam driveway installed and an eyecore to passersby was no more. Joe Truglio is the owner, and has been in business in town for the past fifteen years. Belleville Brake & Clutch wholesale brakes, clutches, Bendix brake linings and Borg Warner clutches and accessories to most garages in this area. Their motto is "If you can make it go, we can make it stop" and speedy service with efficiency and a smile is their trademark.

Ray Naglewicz is the manager of the shop and his son, Bob, works with him, as does Joe Truglio's son, Don. Another employee is Dan Griffith. This reporter was taken on a tour of the machine shop and noted the progressive changes made from an old manual-press-type that removes rivets from brake shoes to the more modern-press-a-button-operation. The firm also has a radio dispatched truck to facilitate pick-up and delivery for repair of the Belleville Brake and Clutch machine shop service department. You may phone Joe Truglio at 751-0730, store hours are Monday through Friday 8:45 and Saturday 8:12.

Joe and his wife Ruth live in Pine-Brook and have three children, Joe, Jr., Peggy Amato and Don. They also have a granddaughter, Kim. When not busy supervising operations at the shop, you might find Joe lying his Piper Comanche. He is a former USAF flight engineer and now belongs to the Skfarkers Club. His wife Ruth, has a student's license.

Manager of the shop, Ray Naglewicz and his wife Georgetown live in Belleville and have two children, Susan and Raymond Jr., and two grandsons, Ray, 3rd and Paul.

JOE TRUGLIO, Belleville Brake and Clutch owner answers a busy phone as (l-r) Bob Naglewicz, Don Truglio and manager Ray Naglewicz keep the machines humming.

As a member of AAFP, Dr. Primamore will be required to complete 150 hours of continuing medical study every three years. The program, unique among national medical associations, is designed to help member physicians keep abreast of the latest scientific developments in medicine. Founded in 1947, the AAFP is the country's second largest national medical association. It was instrumental in the establishment of a new primary specialty in family practice in 1969. The Academy's continuing education program is the foundation of eligibility for family doctors now in practice who apply for certification in the new specialty.

Mountainside Holding Clinic On Alcoholism

If you know someone who drinks more than he intends to, hides a bottle, or gives a drink in the morning, need him a gentle but firm touch. The Mountainside Hospital and he may be restored to health.

The second annual free "Alcoholism Detection Clinic" will be held in the hospital's Outpatient Department on March 26, 27 and 28.

If you can answer "yes" to any of the three questions contained in the first paragraph above, you may be alcoholic.

The clinic will be held between 9:30 and 9 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday evenings, March 26 and 27 and from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. on Wednesday, March 28.

The diagnostic test to be offered—a series of 15 brief questions—identifies the potential or actual alcoholic. The professional staff of the hospital and staff members from the National Council on Alcoholism will provide nursing care of those seeking help or advice.

The clinic is sponsored by the Joint Committee on Alcoholism, comprised of Mountainside's Alcoholism Treatment Center and the North Jersey Chapter of the National Council on Alcoholism.

Members of Alcoholics Anonymous and members of the Al-Anon Family Groups will also be on hand to discuss their programs of recovery.

There are an estimated 10 million active, hard-drinking alcoholics in the U.S. and 350,000 of them live and work in New Jersey, most of them in the heavily populated northern New Jersey area.

Alcoholism, third on the list of killer diseases, is responsible for $15 billion a year in business losses in the U.S. New Jersey business losses an estimated $400 million annually due to employee alcoholism.

Mrs. Mary Ryan, Executive Director of the North Jersey Chapter of the N.C.A., said, "Men like Dr. Paul Fagan, the Medical Director of Mountainside's Alcoholism Treatment Center, and Donald Klopfer, Case Manager of the Center, have blazed a trail of hope and success in treating the sick alcoholic."

Club Woman Day Coming

The Women's Club of Belleville will be represented when the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs holds its 39th annual Club Woman Day at Hahn's in Newark on March 22.

Club members are urged to participate and bring their friends to this state-wide event. Registration will be on the third floor at Hahn's from 9:30 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. This year the two general meetings, one at 11:00 a.m. and another at 1:30 p.m., will be held in the ballroom at the Robert Treat Hotel. At this time Mrs. Donald T. Bixby, President of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, will greet members and guests. Tickets for the fashion shows, which will be presented at each meeting, will be issued at the time of registration.

This year marks the 79th anniversary of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs and, for its 39th Club Woman Day, Hahn's has arranged a special series of displays and demonstrations that will be in progress throughout the day. These will include many things of interest in the fields of fashion and homemaking.

You And Your Pet Injured Pets

By Raymond Minor, D.V.M.

No matter how carefully you protect your pet from street traffic, there may come a time when your cat or dog is hit by a car or truck.

If such an incident does occur, your first reaction would be to take your pet to a veterinarian for treatment.

Without a doubt, this is the proper step to take so that you may get an accurate diagnosis of the severity of the injury and receive the appropriate treatment.

However, in some cases there are several things you should do for your pet immediately following an accident, before moving him to the veterinarian.

It is extremely important that you approach an injured dog or cat very cautiously, speaking constantly in a reassuring voice. Remember, if a pet is in pain and afraid, he may even bite his owner.

A bandage muzzle made from a strip of cloth, or perhaps a necktie, if nothing else is available, can make handling of your pet easier.

Slide your pet in and out to a plank or board, a blanket or your coat and carry him gently to a quiet spot—perhaps your car—where you can examine him without onlookers. This should keep him from becoming too excited or causing further injury to himself.

If your pet's leg appears to be broken, try to keep it as straight as possible. If you see that the bone has broken, attach a stick as a splint. Tie the splint above and below the break. This will prevent the joint on either side of the break from cutting a blood vessel if the pet moves or attempts to struggle.

Bandage the splint to the leg firmly but not tightly. The bandage must be loose enough to allow permanent blood circulation to continue.

Check your pet to see if there is a cut or a gash. If there is, place a wad of cloth over the wound and hold it in place with a bandage.

In a leg injury, you should start bandaging at the foot and work upward. Remember to apply the bandage firmly but still loose enough to allow blood flow.

If your pet's head has to be bandaged, you should carefully wrap two turis around the neck, again loosely, then carry it between the ears over the head and down by the side of the face.

Bring the bandage under the jaw up over the other side of the face, across the head between the ears to the neck. Repeat this until several layers are applied. Be certain to tuck the bandage to keep it in place.

You can be fairly sure an artery has been cut if there is blood spurting from a wound. In this case, haste is essential. Apply a tourniquet (a twisted cloth or anything that is available to cut off circulation) as near as possible to the wound.

This is not as difficult as it sounds.

For example, if there is a leg injury, place the tourniquet above the wound on the leg. The tourniquet should be loosened every ten or fifteen minutes or the blood will be stopped altogether, causing gangrene.

After experiencing an automobile accident, your pet will suffer from shock. His lips and gums will turn pale and grayish in color.

You should be aware that these signs may also indicate that there is internal bleeding.

First-aid treatment for shock is to wrap your pet in a blanket or coat. Above all, keep him warm and allow him to rest quietly.

Whether your pet appears unharmed or not, he should always be examined by a veterinarian as quickly as possible following an accident as there may be internal injuries that you may not be aware of.

DR. MINOR REGRETS THAT HE IS UNABLE TO PERSONALLY ANSWER LETTERS FROM PET OWNERS. HE SUGGESTS THAT READERS CONSULT THEIR OWN VETERINARIANS WHEN THEIR PETS HAVE PROBLEMS.

Mozart Orchestra Will Be Heard At Concert Course

The Mozart Orchestra of Salzburg with Leopold Hager, conductor, and Rita Streich, soprano soloist, will appear for the Unity Concert Course audience on Wednesday evening, March 21, at 8:30 at Montclair High School auditorium.

The Mozartette is an ensemble of 45 musicians and is the only authentic Mozart Orchestra which programs all Mozart works. In almost unbroken continuity from the time of Mozart himself, it has nurtured the 18th Century traditions from which it sprang. In the beginning it was a private ensemble in the service of the Prince-Archbishops of Salzburg and both Leopold Mozart and his son Wolfgang Amadeus as well as Michael Haydn were associated with it at one time or another. It rose to new importance under the aegis of the Cathedral Music Society which was founded in 1841 to revive musical life in Salzburg, and was revived after World War I under the dedicated guidance of Dr. Bernhard Paumgartner. Then again after World War II it experienced further regrowth and continues to bring to the world the real realization of Mozart's music. Its authoritative interpretation of the works of Mozart is attested to by the many awards and honors and numerous highly successful European, African, and American tours.

Rita Streich is one of the greatest Lieder singers of our time. Because of her unique combination of talents, she attained world-wide stardom at age 18. As a permanent member of the Vienna Staatsoper, Miss Streich's interpretation of the soprano parts in Mozart and Strauss operas have become definitive guides of performance.

For further information about tickets call Barbara Russell, Unity Institute, 67 Church Street, Montclair, 744-6770.

'Norse Adventure' Will Be Shown At Travel Course

At Travel Course

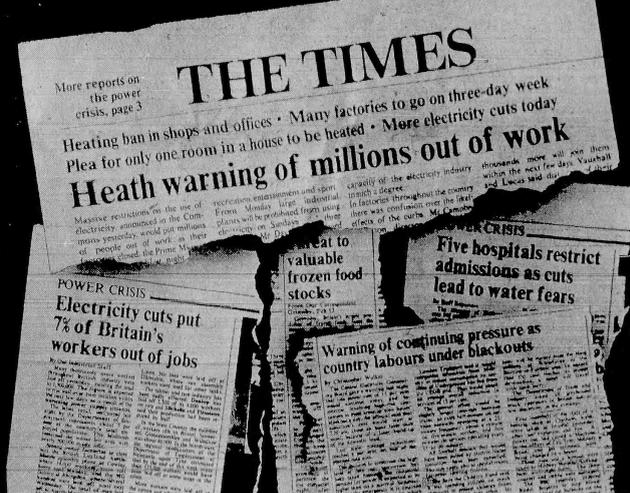

"Norse Adventure" with Hjordis Kittel Parker will be shown on the Unity Institute Travel Course on Thursday evening, March 22, at 8:15 p.m. at Montclair High School Auditorium.

The adventurous history of Norway from the Ice Age through the Viking Period to the present time is the basic theme of the film. It is also a particularly exciting film since it includes scenes of Norway's principal sports, swimming, sailing, tobogganing and skiing. Some of the best ski jumpers in the world are shown in international competition at Holmenkollen in Oslo.

Mrs. Parker, "humanizes" the Ice Age by a fascinating excursion into the nomadic life of the Laplanders, as depicted by a family descended from Norway's first inhabitants.

According to Mrs. Parker, "Their tent is the original mobile home." The Viking period (800-1100 A.D.) is still visible in the preserved long ships and churches seen in the film as well as in the race, for the Vikings always captured and brought home the most beautiful women. The route that King Haakon 7th and the royal family took, as they escaped from the Nazis in April of 1940, is followed in the film and the trip ends in the magnificent fjord area.

The next film to be shown on the Travel series will be "Canadian West," with Don Cooper on March 29, followed by "Australia," William Moore and Curtis Nares, April 26. To Austria with Love," Kenneth Richter, May 17. Tickets are $3.50, 3.00 and 2.50.

Suppose we lose the Energy Race?

What happened in England could happen here.

The newspaper clippings above are from the London Times during the power crisis in February, 1972. The nation was on the brink of disaster because of the miners' strike. Power restrictions became so vital to survival that those who did not follow them were subject to imprisonment and a fine.

Our energy crisis in the United States is of a different making. But if it is not solved — if we do not build our nuclear energy plants in time — the results of a serious power shortage would be the same.

Industries would have to cut back production. Some would collapse completely. Millions would lose their jobs. Lives might be endangered in hospitals. Food and water supplies would be threatened. Our whole way of life would cease to exist.

For an idea of what life would be like should we lose the energy race, try not flicking on a light switch just one day. Don't use anything electrical. That means no air conditioning. No radio or television. No clothes washer or dryer. No dishwasher. No toaster or oven. No vacuum cleaner. No cooking range or iron. No refrigerator. And when you lie down to sleep that night, imagine putting up with periodic power cuts and restrictions the rest of your life.

In New Jersey, we were fortunate in having had enough energy reserve to get us through last summer. Perhaps we may have enough energy reserve this year, too. So why are we talking about an energy crisis now?

Where electricity is concerned, tomorrow is now! It takes 8 to 10 years to build a nuclear generating station. Delays have already put us far behind schedule. If there are further setbacks, we are in grave danger of losing the energy race.

So you won't be sorry later, speak out for nuclear energy today. With your support we will conquer the challenge of our expanding economy and population, and safeguard our way of life.

Woman's Club EMD Need Your Soil Tested? Hears Gardening Talk Do It Now, Avoid Rush

At the February 21st meeting of the Evening Membership Department of the Woman's Club of Belleville, John Kupcho of the Essex County Agricultural Extension Service, an educational branch of Rutgers was the guest speaker. He narrated a film on the care of plants, lawns and insect control. Kupcho stated his office has two agricultural agents who are on the faculty of Rutgers and their services provide assistance through their office, phone calls, bulletins, demonstrations and meetings. They also provide free publications concerning gardening particulars to any Essex County resident. Information may be obtained at the Essex County Public Works Building, 900 Bloomfield Avenue, Verona, or by phoning 226-8391, extensions 30 and 31. A question and answer period followed.

Also at the meeting, Mrs. Verdi's Requiem To Be Presented By Opera Theatre. On Wednesday evening, March 21, Opera Theatre of New Jersey will present Verdi's immortal Requiem at the Performing Arts Center of Glassboro State College in Glassboro. The Requiem, presented last March in Newark, has won the company rave reviews. The soloists, all with national and international reputations, are as follows: Louise Natale, soprano; Susanne Marsee, mezzo; Giuseppe Campora, tenor; Ezio Flagello, bass. The Glassboro College Chorus will be featured. Artistic director Alfredo Silipigni will conduct.

If you intend to have your soil tested, do it now and avoid the rush if you want a prompt reply, says William F. Munk, senior county agricultural agent of Essex County. Mr. Munk suggests you mail $2.00 to the Agricultural Extension Service, 900 Bloomfield Avenue, Verona, New Jersey 07044, for a soil testing mailing bag. The envelope includes instructions on how to take the soil sample properly, questions about the use of the soil, the proper container for the sample and a self-addressed mailing envelope. Refreshments were served, with hostesses Mrs. Joseph Kearney, Mrs. S. LaRusso, Mrs. Robert Davis and Mrs. Herbert Tucker as hostesses.

Technicians at Rutgers University will test your soil sample for lime and fertilizer needs and return the results to your county agent who will make the recommendations to you. It will take approximately four weeks from the day you send the soil to Rutgers until you receive the soil test results. A friend is someone who doesn't expect favors. The scope of a man's mind is accurately indicated by the type of honor that he cherishes.

Browsing: Baby-Sitting Courses Coming

BROWNING BELLEVILLE
with Pat Diana (write me at 104 Overlook Ave. or call 751-6861)

Speedy get-well wishes to Bridgette Faranese who is recuperating from an operation, her husband, Nat, you all know, is quite active with the Belleville Red Cross.

Babysitting courses are forthcoming, sponsored jointly by Tri-Town Business and Professional Women's Club and Clara Maass Memorial Hospital. There will be five sessions, March 24, 31, April 7, 14 and 28, at CMMH from 10-11:30 on Saturday mornings. Boys and girls, age 13 and up may attend — certificates are awarded for successful completion of the course. Applications may be obtained at the Jr. and Sr. High School Guidance Departments or the Belleville Red Cross.

In Room 207 at BHS there hangs a sign, which we could all apply to our daily living, though Frank Soelba hung it for his music classes. "Good, better, best — never let it rest, until the good is better, and the better best."

Either I meet the most interesting people, or I am longwinded, or, the Times doesn't have the space to print all my news. Anyway, the following information did not appear in the "Sparkling Personality" column on Sandy May last week. "Sandy also finds time to be a waitress at Legion affairs, Post 70, and you might find her helping out as a waitress at Marianna's Luncheonette, corner of Washington and Joralemon, once in a while. She has a love of demitasse cups and saucers and has quite a collection. Where she finds the time to keep them so gleaming, I just don't know.

"As to the work she has done as Children and Youth Chairman, she says — "Your chairmanship can be what YOU make it — big or little." This statement could be certainly attributed to a person's life, and this reporter would say Sandy May has certainly made a big contribution, recognized not only in Belleville or Nutley, but in Wilkes Barre, Pa. and on a national level — within the American Legion Auxiliary. Busy hands are happy hands, and Sandy May is certainly one busy and happy pleasant person to know."

Another little something left out last week was the fact that the Sabre Cadets have been asked to participate in the St. Pat's Parade... but you weren't told where... in New York, which will be televised by WPIX.

Three social parties were held last week at the Ray Kinsley Sr. celebrated their 39th wedding anniversary, in family and, en masse with dozens of friends, Betty and George Doeffinger heralded 26 years of married life, and a bachelor party was held for 2nd Lt. Pat Wynn. All took place the same night, at the same place — American Legion Post 105... hope Pat, Jr., received some pointers on the longevity of marital bliss. His friends helping him celebrate his last bachelor days (daze) included 2nd Lt. Casey Love of Lafayette, La.; 2nd Lt. Bill Pospisil of Manassang; 2nd Lt. Mike Mansour, Houston Tex.; 2nd Lt. Douglas L. Wood, Billings, Montana and 2nd Lt. Mark Williamson of Cape Girardeau, Mo. The military wedding was held at Ft. Monmouth and Cynthia Shirley became Mrs. Pat Wynn, Jr. last Saturday.

More people in the spotlight at Olympic Bowling Alley — Carmen Argese, post coordinator. She has a project, the annual tournament run by the Essex County Unit for Retarded Children. Last season Carmen set a goal of $1,000 and topped it by $500! Nice going.

Met some more Times/Sun employees — Mary Lou Massaro staffs the Belleville office — a real friendly gal, Judy Wilhelm and Betty Locker are switchboard operators — the voices, with a smile.

BECK'S COLUMN

A customer asked us
recently when Tape recorders were used first. Since we did not know, we did some research on this most interesting subject.
When a U.S. Signal Corps officer, during the war, mentioned a German propaganda broadcast in London, he was surprised that a symphony orchestra would play at 2 o'clock at night. The quality of the broadcast was life-like.
At that time the record industry had not nearly achieved the tone quality of today. This was due to the use of a phonograph record for the broadcasts.

It was not until the end of the war that the officer was able to discover the answer to the preceding broadcasts. He lead a signal corps team into Germany in search of new electronic developments, when he came across a
so-called "Magnetophon".
This was the source of the broadcasts, a magnetic tape recorder. Being an expert on sound reproduction in civilian life, he went to work to improve the machines which he took back to the U.S. with intention to make them adaptable for general use and better sound reproduction than was possible with phone records. Despite of the missing quality of the improved apparatus, many industrialists did not think much of it in the beginning, as is often the case with new developments.
However, it finally caught on and the Ampex Corporation, probably the best known tape recorder manufacturer, was founded.
Soon broadcast companies used tape recorders to pre-record programs. It still took a long time until the public bought tape recorders. Now one can buy one for $19.95
sometimes less.

We service what we sell.

receiving a good deal of pressure from about 15 to 20 junior and senior ballplayers who either played junior varsity baseball last year or two years ago. Travers admits a pressing need for pitchers to back Centanni if he is to make a run for a title, and he will have about 8 to 10 solid young fellows from which to choose.

There are also infielders and outfielders plus catching candidates in this group who have seen fine days in past years on the Belleville baseball diamond. With such an influx of young men, this past Monday afternoon Coach Travers took only these young men to the club's first scrimmage of the year at Verona, seeing what they can do for himself, as he has a good idea of the type of talent his returning lettermen possess.

fidence, illustrates the measured by maturity instead of years.

THE SHOCKING TRUTH About Water

There seems to be a miraculous transformation occurring in people when they start drinking only distilled water. We really don't know why this happens. There seems to be no scientific proof for this than there is scientific proof that there is a God, yet I know there is a God.
Multitudes suffer from all kinds of diseases, and they un-knowingly contribute to their causes by the type of water and food they take into their bodies. Whether it is the inorganic minerals, the fluoride or chlorine, we are not qualified to say.
However, we know these different chemicals affect different people in different ways, particularly in the middle age bracket.
The body is made up of 70% water and it only makes good common sense that the type water we drink has a lot to do with the way we feel. We have hundreds of people who have written us stating that drinking only distilled water has made a radical change in their lives.
Some people say we need the minerals in water. Even if these minerals were organic, and the body could use them, water is certainly not our only source of minerals. Fresh fruits and vegetables are loaded with them. So why not clean up the water of all fish, chemicals and poisons, eat a good balanced diet and take organic minerals orally.
We have been reading this for three and a half years and we sincerely feel that we know something which will help some people. However, we want to make our position clear. We do not claim to have a panacea (cure-all) for anything. To understand why this transformation occurs, you would have to read our booklet, "The Choice is Clear" written by a famous doctor.
This will be followed by other literature, but no salesman will call.
We think you owe it to yourself to write for this booklet. Send $2 to Aqua Natelson, Dept. A Box 81726, Lincoln, Nebraska 68501. If this book does not impress you, return it and we will refund your money without question. Send now while the

AND DOING BUSINESS
Turning so-so into great, that's the difference advertising can make! Successful businessmen tell their sales story again and again . . . and tell where it does the most good, in the pages of this newspaper. Ask us for details on how display advertising can work for you.

"It is the Board of Education's responsibility," Schwartz continued, "to make sure that we have a quality, efficient educational system."

"Therefore, if they cut more than what we think it would take to run the system properly, then it's our responsibility to appeal to the Commissioner of Education."

Board of Education vice president Caesar Romano agreed with Schwartz and added, "our system needs every item in that budget."

The last appeal made by the school board in Belleville was in 1969, when the Board of Education won a dispute with the commissioners over the right to use surplus funds in the school budget.

Says Would Lower Milk Prices

Assemblyman Orechio Would Abolish The State Division Of Dairy Industry

Legislation that would revoke the State's authority to set minimum prices for the sale of milk, and thereby reduce the price of milk to the consumer, is the latest in a series of bills introduced by Assemblyman Carl A. Orechio (R-Isses) to give the consumer a break for a change.

"It's high time some prices went down at the supermarket," Orechio declared. "My bill would abolish the State Division of Dairy Industry, established in 1913 to set and enforce minimum price regulations on milk."

Orechio said an argument often used "to rationalize" price controls, that their removal would lead to disastrous price wars driving smaller milk companies out of business, was "ridiculous."

"I'd like to see a few price wars, if that's what it takes to give consumers some relief. Disastrous price wars haven't taken place in the 42 states which do not fix minimum prices and I don't see why it should happen here."

"And it's interesting to note that the three major dairy states - Wisconsin, Ohio and Minnesota - get along satisfactorily without state-imposed, artificial floors."

The current minimum prices for whole white milk in New Jersey set by the State agency are $1.08 a gallon, 57 cents a half-gallon and 31 cents a quart. Violation of the regulation means a monetary penalty and/or suspension of one's license to sell.

When challenged by major milk suppliers in the past, the validity of the State's authority to set minimum milk prices has always been sustained by the courts, most recently by the State Supreme Court last September. The only alternative is to make the change by legislation.

Other bills introduced in the Assembly by Orechio aimed at helping consumers get their money's worth for their hard-earned dollars, include:

*A-1333, to require all packaged baked goods to bear a label and indicating the date on which they were baked.

*A-1478, to require providers of laboratory services to bill directly the recipients of the services "to eliminate the possibility of private financial arrangements between physicians and laboratories which might result in excessive charges to patients."

*A-1485, to remove price controls from the sale of alcoholic beverages "to make possible lower prices to consumers, while also producing additional revenues to State Treasury.

*A-2113, to prohibit producers and manufacturers from controlling the retail price of their products "to enable consumers to buy at competitive rather than artificially established prices."

Orechio represents the six northeastern Essex County municipalities of Belleville, Bloomfield, Glen Ridge, Montclair, Nutley and Verona.

House Banking and Currency Committee which will soon begin hearings on the Administration's proposals for the Phase III economic program.

In a letter to John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, the New Jersey lawmaker said controls on farm products, which have always been exempt from price restrictions, should be imposed immediately and continued until both the Congress and the Executive Branch can conduct an intensive investigation designed to find a more permanent and workable means to stem rising food prices."

Minish Asking Price Controls To Stem Rising Cost Of Food

Congressman Joseph G. Minis, 11th District - New Jersey, today called for price controls on raw agricultural products.

Minish is a member of the House Banking and Currency Committee which will soon begin hearings on the Administration's proposals for the Phase III economic program.

In a letter to John T.

Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, the New Jersey lawmaker said controls on farm products, which have always been exempt from price restrictions, should be imposed immediately and continued until both the Congress and the Executive Branch can conduct an intensive investigation designed to find a more permanent and workable means to stem rising food prices."

Employment: Labor Head Reports Rise

"A marked improvement in New Jersey's employment in January brought the seasonal adjusted total to a record high," Ronald M. Heymann, Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, has announced.

Commissioner Heymann cited a gain of 10,200 in the seasonally adjusted estimate of nonfarm wage and salary employment over December, 1972 totals that resulted in the all-time high of 2,665,900.

An increase of 44,800 in unadjusted employment in January, 1973 over January, 1972 resulted from expansion in nonmanufacturing industries. While manufacturing was down by a scant 600 units, a year ago, non-manufacturing employment went up by 45,400. The largest increases from a year ago were 16,000 in trade, 14,800 in government, and 8,400 in services. Most of the over-the-year changes in manufacturing employment were small although the food industry was down by 4,000.

Easy Winter Set Records In This Area

Whether it's the calm before the storm, no one knows, but the metropolitan area is experiencing one of its mildest winters in recent years.

That's the indication in February's monthly weather report filed with the National Weather Service by Patrick J. White for Union College's Meteorological Station at the Cooper Station - a cooperative station of the U.S. Weather Bureau.

While temperatures hit a low of 5 degrees on February 17, the mean temperature for the entire month registered 42 degrees, which is 2.3 degrees higher than normal. The mercury soared to the month's high of 60 degrees on February 3. That same day also had the highest daily average temperature for the month - 49.9 degrees.

February 24, 1961, holds the record for the warmest February temperatures at the Union College station. On that day it was 66 degrees.

Precipitation-wise, February 1973 was also unusual. A total of 4.51 inches of rain fell on seven days, a departure 1.35 inches above normal. On the other side of the coin, the total accumulation of snow during February was 8 inches.

The greatest February rainfall on record at Union College was in 1972 when 5.99 inches fell. The lowest rainfall was February 1968 with 1.09 inches.

The total rainfall this year measures 8.8 inches, an increase of 7 inches over this same time last year.

During February 1973 there was thunder on the 1, 7 and 15. The total degree days for the month was 808, higher than the 1972. Traffic on the heating season began on September 1 to 3,806.

Boiler And Machinery Plan Protects Against Disaster

Everyone can stand a little blast now and then. Except when it comes from the plant boiler. That's a boom that can be an instant bust for the plant owner as well as his employees.

And the result can be the same when plant machinery mucks up of with more parts than a Swiss watch blows up or winds down.

That's why prudent plant owners protect their investments with boiler and machinery insurance, says the Insurance Information Institute.

Condition of equipment; to pinpoint hazards; and to determine the relationship between insured equipment and properties surrounding it. This data is correlated by supervising inspectors in branch offices who develop the underwriting and rating data.

Once a policy is written, engineers make regular inspections, offering corrective advice when needed. They also advise the company as to efficient use of boilers and machinery, thereby promoting longer equipment life. If accidents occur, the engineering service assists in restoring plant production through advice on repairs, location of substitute equipment and proper reimbursement of claims. Such service is an indispensable part of boiler and machinery insurance.

Reduced premiums are available if the coverage is on a seasonal object, one not used the year round, or a reserve object; one kept on a standby basis. Lower rates also apply, of course, when the coverage is limited to one or two risks instead of a lengthy list of risks. When a policyholder "renews his insurance, he may be eligible for a premium saving if his record of loss experience is lower than average.

There are also several special forms available to plant owners. One such form indemnifies him against loss when a public utility stops or curtails service as the result of an accident. An example would be an electricity supplier shutting off service, thus halting production in an insured plant.

Boiler and machinery insurance also is available to homes, hotels, commercial buildings, apartment houses, hospitals and schools and other structures where insurable objects such as boilers, hot water heaters, refrigerating systems, etc., are used, and where an explosive situation might develop and envelop damage or loss.

One final note. The Institute cautions businessmen against a popular misconception: that only high-pressure boilers can blow their stacks. Any mix of heat and steam is a potential source of trouble, says the Institute.

Personal injury liability can also be included but only if written liability over and above workmen's compensation claims and the coverage of any other liability policies held by the insured.

It's wise, too, says the Institute, to include business interruption coverage in the boiler and machinery policy. It will provide the plant owner with his "operating income" and any anticipated profit as well during a partial or complete shutdown.

One of the most valuable features of boiler and machinery insurance is the inspection and accident-prevention services performed by the insurer. Prior to writing a policy, inspectors will go through a plant to collect information regarding

Three Named To Judge Westfield Art Show

Three distinguished artists and teachers have been selected to judge the Westfield Art Association's 12th annual State Show to be held at Union College, Cranford, from March 24 through April 1. It was announced today by Mrs. John Isbrecht of 1034 Seward avenue, Westfield, chairman.

The judges, who will select works for the exhibit as well as award the more than $1,300 in prizes are: Morris Blackburn of Philadelphia; John C. Pellew of Norwalk, Conn., and Arne Lindmark of Foughkeessie, New York.

Washington Face Search Is Subject Of Discussion

"What Did George Washington Look Like?" will be the topic of a multi-media presentation at the North Jersey Regional Conference of the Jerseymen, student history clubs of the New Jersey Historical Society, today at River-Dell Regional High School.

Jack Block, an instructor at Fairlawn High School and Bergen County Community College, will offer an illustrated talk designed to illuminate the visage of the first president.

The conference, the last of three held at locations around the state, will also feature a "Sight and Sound Festival" centering on the subject.

The play, which opens today, re-tells a famous anecdote about the intellectual Bernard Shaw and Isadora Duncan, the dancer. She is supposed to have proposed that the playwright become the father of a child of hers, because anyone inheriting his brains and her physique

The conference, the last of three held at locations around the state, will also feature a "Sight and Sound Festival" centering on the subject.
