

Battling School Trustee Ends a Long Journey

When Mrs. Norma McCool announced she would not seek reelection to a fifth term on the Board of Education next month, she closed the door on a 12-year term that has left her with many memories, some painful, some uplifting.

Her story, as told to the Times last week, is a saga of struggle in a small town, with the idealism of a young woman brought into the practical political arena of the Board of Education. That combination proved to be one which often brought her into the center of controversy, and also saw her returned to office three times by Belleville voters.

It is also a story of a personal devotion to a daughter who died young, leaving behind a lasting ideal for her parents to follow.

The past 12 years in public office have given Mrs. McCool a kind of education not available to the average Belleville citizen, who may often desert a crusading official in time of need, but seldom ignores a fellow resident in trouble.

While she was not always fully supported in her political battles, Mrs. McCool, her husband Thomas and her teenage daughter Debbie were aided by a spontaneous fund-raising drive in 1970, during which Belleville residents raised $9,000 toward medical expenses for Debbie, who suffered for three years from a rare blood disease. Passionately concerned with her mother's work in public affairs, the young girl's last requests included a plea for the continuation of Mrs. McCool's many projects. Following through on her pledge, Norma McCool ran for her fourth and final term on the Board in 1971.

Mrs. McCool's first campaign for the Board of Education in 1962 set the tenor of her entire career, as she campaigned vigorously on a platform to rid the school system of numerous safety hazards. In her first entrance to the political scene, she worked steadily and quietly. "I began by talking to officials and people about the hazards in many of the schools, especially Schools Two and One," she said. In both those schools, the structures in the gym areas were such that "a fire or even a false alarm could have lost a good part of the student body." After her election to the Board, she was able to bring about a safe reconstruction of both gym areas.

She next began to concentrate on School Four, and other schools in Belleville that had in the past been neglected, principally Schools One, Nine, Two and Four. "While these schools were clean," she said, "there were many improvements that hadn't taken place there."

As Mrs. McCool continued her campaign to renovate those schools, another issue arose during her first term that was to plunge her into her first serious political fight — the construction of the Senior High School on Passaic Avenue.

Many allegations were made about the Board of Education's handling of the planning and building of the school, and Mrs. McCool was one of many concerned residents who provided information to then Essex County Prosecutor Brendan Byrne. When the case was blown open and several local politicians indicted, Mrs. McCool was subjected to a backlash that pegged her a "trouble-maker."

But Still No Settlement

Teacher Talks Nearly Slip; Monday Job Action Avoided

by Ken Moore

Belleville teachers threatened a job action set for last Monday to step up contract negotiations with the Board of Education and the breakdown was narrowly avoided as a Sunday meeting brought the two bodies back together.

Members of the Belleville Education Association voted unanimously last Thursday to stage the action, which would have seen instructors completing only their teaching assignments, entering and leaving with the bell schedule and performing no non-contractual duties.

But after the BEA's executive committee and the Board of Education met for an hour and a half Sunday at the Board offices, an agreement was reached to call off the action and go to the bargaining table yesterday or today. Board President Lawrence Schwartz requested the meeting.

The last negotiating session between the BEA and Board teams took place January 4. Members of the BEA team were dismayed because the talks were not as frequent as they wished and had not been "progressing" as rapidly as they wanted. The Board of Education agreed Sunday only to "move" in negotiations, but no promises were made to the teachers.

Neither Schwartz or BEA spokesman Jerry Kennelly were willing to specify areas of disagreement between the opposing bodies, but it appears that major rifts are over salary and grievance procedures.

No indication was given as to how far apart the negotiators are on the salary issue, but indications are that the grievance question — which includes a demand by the BEA for binding arbitration on non-salary matters — is nowhere close to settlement. The arbitration question, which would see a paid arbitrator from the American Arbitration Association brought in when grievance questions reach an impasse, is seemingly high on the BEA priority list. The Belleville system presently uses voluntary arbitration to resolve such disputes, and the Board of Education likely views compulsory arbitration as an inroad on their local control of school matters.

Schwartz, pointing out that the teachers have an existing contract until June 30, said enough funds have been pencilled into the tentative 1973-74 school budget to cover any anticipated salary increase for the 340 BEA members.

Besides salary and grievance procedure, rights, the workday, the school calendar and protection of student and teacher property.

Schwartz, who at first denied any knowledge of a disruption in contract negotiations, later admitted the Sunday session had been held and stressed that positive talks will commence this week. "We'll continue to negotiate and bargain in good faith as we have in the past and we hope the teachers' group will do the same," he said.

During the planned job action, teachers would have declined to perform any unpaid services, such as conferences, workshops, study groups and faculty meetings.

Last year's salary negotiations were ended amicably in early January with the teachers winning a 4.8 percent increase.

Town Budget Planning Grinds to a Standstill

No calculations have been made for the 1974 municipal budget yet by the Department of Revenue and Finance, Town Treasurer Francis McCoy said this week.

Work is at a standstill, he explained, because a wage settlement has not been reached with 150 non-uniformed Town employees and because the department is in a state of "disruption" from computers considered by McCoy to be faulty.

"By this time we usually have all department budgets checked against the previous year and have the unexpended appropriations figured. We would have a pretty good idea of the amount that would be required for the 1974 budget."

But, he said, "because of the seven months of aggravation we've gone through for the last seven months with these computers we haven't done any calculations on the 1974 budget. We haven't done one thing."

A computer purchased last summer from National Cash Register was supposed to be used in preparations for the new budget, but McCoy said the machine is unable to even run a proper weekly payroll.

(The Commissioners last week agreed to give NCR two weeks to iron out the bugs in the computer. NCR says the machine is capable of running a payroll, but McCoy maintains such a payroll would not be state-approved and refuses to use the NCR until its program will meet state standards.)

Because salaries for non-uniformed Town employees have not yet been settled, McCoy says, the five departmental budgets can't be completed. "They're held up because they don't know where they're going. You can't blame the department, but the treasurer's office has been completely disrupted."

Deadline for introduction of the Town budget is February 11.

Salary increases for police and firemen were settled during negotiation of a two-year salary increase last year. This year the uniformed workers will receive a 6.47 percent increase with 10 percent parity between ranks. Last year, all Town employees got a 5.5 percent increase at the beginning of the year, but the police and firemen were able to reopen negotiations and gain another 1.3 percent increase, along with the agreement for the 1974 raise.

The police and firemen are reportedly still negotiating for a non-wage settlement for 1974.

Mayor Joseph McGreevy said this week the situation is not critical and said the budget will be introduced by the February 11 deadline.

Old Doctor Ward: 'Charge It to Me'

by Town Historian Allan Crisp

In these days of high prices and financial greediness, let us look back to an earlier day in Belleville through the eyes of Hugh Holmes, Belleville's first mayor, who wrote a charming little account of Belleville telling of the town during quieter days from the 1820s until the 1890s.

"It would be a shame and a disgrace to anyone writing what purports to be a history, be it even as short as this one, that did not make some mention of Doctor Samuel L. Ward. As the writer has often said, he made more sacrifices and did more for this town, without compensation, than any other gentleman who ever lived in it. He was always ready, by night and day, in the coldest of winter and in the hottest of summer, in storm as in sunshine, to the poor as well as the rich, to the colored as well as to the white, to attend to any and every call, would go as quick to relieve the sick where he knew he would not get one cent as he would where he thought a good fee awaited him. And when he cajoled, you did not risk dying before a prescription was obtained from some drug store perhaps one mile away, that cost one dollar. No, no, it was always with him in his little chest, and if

For Sixth Year

Town's Christians Join Sunday To Inaugurate Week of Prayer

For the sixth year in a row, Belleville's Christian congregations will join in a Sunday service to start a "Week of Prayer for Christian Unity." The service will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. at Belleville Reformed Church at the foot of Rutgers Street.

The "Week of Prayer" is part of a nationwide celebration sponsored by the Chamber Set To Swear In New Officers

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce will hold a luncheon meeting Monday at The Fountain Restaurant to install new officers and Board of Directors for 1974.

Reports will be made by various committees on 1973 activities and plans for the new year.

Along with Executive Director Harry T. French, the following officers will be installed: Chairman of the Board Everett Davey of New Jersey Bell Telephone; President Stanley Slavin of Terry Shops; Vice Presidents Aaron Cohen of Charles Jewelers and James V. Hardman of Hardman, Inc.; Treasurer Fred E. Kirsch Jr. of Fidelity Union Trust Co.

Kirsch replaces Michael Pariso, who retired last October as Chamber treasurer after 13 years.

National Council of Churches. In Belleville, the ecumenical service on Sunday has been arranged by the Belleville Ministerium, which includes clergymen from most Christian churches here.

Ministers from the participating congregations will conduct the service and the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Howard Hageman, president of the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, Reformed Church of America. The anthem will be sung by combined choirs of the congregations under the direction of Will Beaumont, minister of music in the Belleville Reformed Church.

Mrs. Ann Lewis of Montgomery Presbyterian Church will be the organist, while special music will be provided by the Madrigal Singers of Belleville High School under the direction of Thomas Finetti.

A "fellowship hour" is planned immediately following the service.

Churches participating in the service will be Second Baptist Church, Silver Lake Baptist Church, Christ Episcopal Church, Bethany Evangelical Lutheran Church, Wesley Methodist Church, Little Zion United American Episcopal Church, Fewsmith Memorial Presbyterian Church, Belleville Assembly of God, St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church, St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, Belleville Reformed Church, Unity Church and Grace Baptist Church.

Dr. Hageman will speak on the theme: "Let every tongue confess Jesus Christ is Lord." Dr. Hageman is a graduate of Harvard University and the New Brunswick Theological Seminary. For 27 years he was pastor of the North Reformed Church of Newark. He taught a course on liturgy at the New Brunswick Seminary and was a member of the Board of Education of Newark before assuming his new responsibilities as president of the seminary.

Music to be sung at the service will include "Prelude in C" by Bach; "Jesus Christ Is Lord," "Let the Song Go Round the Earth," "Ave Verum," by Mozart, "Gloria In Excelsis Deo," "Let There Be Peace," "God of Grace and God of Glory," and "Toccata in C" by Bach.

Former School Pager Publishes Book

When Marlise James was editing the Belleville Times School Page, she was just beginning to drift into the journalism trade. Ten years later, she has reached a milestone of that profession with the publication of her first book.

The former resident, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard James of 77 Bernice Road broke into the book market with the printing last August of "The People's Lawyers," a non-fiction book by Holt, Rinehart and Winston. However, the occasion marked only one high point in a 10-year climb up the ranks of the nation's free-lance writers. Since she left Belleville 10 years ago to attend George Washington University, she has worked for congressmen on Capitol Hill, picked up a master's degree from the prestigious Columbia School of Journalism, free-lanced articles to major national magazines, and gone on to write her book. Now Marlise James LaDuke, she has lived in Reno, Nevada for the past two years with her husband.

"The People's Lawyers," is a comprehensive study of American lawyers not found in the mainstream of that profession—consumer advocate Ralph Nader, radical lawyer William Kunstler, the NAACP legal team, the ACLU. Originally to be profiles of six major individuals among the "new breed" of left and populist lawyers, the book finally took shape as a history of the development of the kind of barristers described by Marlise as "more interested in human rights than property rights and still able to make a living for themselves."

She interviewed over 100 lawyers and researched the subject for a year and a half after obtaining a contract from the publishing house. As she approached the writing of the manuscript, she altered the scope of the work. In looking at the idea of profiling a few leaders of the new legal movement, she decided, "a lot of what's wrong with a system of legal superstars would only be highlighted by a book such as that, and those people really only show the tip of the iceberg. There's a lot more underneath."

Since publications, she said, the book "has gotten good reviews wherever it has been reviewed." She did some radio and television interviews and is currently prompting the publishers to mount a larger promotion campaign for "The People's Lawyers."

The choice of a subject came naturally enough to Marlise, who, at age three, had already been "typecast" as a lawyer by a family friend who was impressed by her precocious speech patterns. At Belleville High School, she edited the yearbook, the Times School Page and was an associate editor of the school newspaper "Spotlight," as well as a student council representative.

After her high school graduation in 1963, she attended George Washington University in the nation's capital, where she worked during summers for New Jersey Congressman Peter Rodino and James Corman, a California Democrat. While at George Washington she was a vice president of the school's Young Democrats club, and a vice president for the Young Democrats of Washington D.C.

After a summer in Europe, during which said the Commissioners have met twice with Essex One lawyers, and they were informed the Commission would meet separately and decide on the requests.

McGreevy stressed the Commission was "not ruling anything out" in regard to the requests, but added no move will be made by the Town Fathers until an answer to the salary offer is received from Essex Council One.

Padula said the main intent of the Belleville employees is to open negotiations for a contract. "The employees have a right to collective bargaining," he said. "We've been after this for a year and a half. We feel that we haven't sat down to bargain on this yet." According to Padula, the meetings between the Commission and the Council lawyers and President John Caffrey were only preliminaries to contract talks. Negotiations were to be opened within 30 days of the December meeting between the Commission and Council lawyers.

Padula is expected to take the matter to other Belleville municipal workers soon.

The Town employees voted Essex Council Number One as their bargaining agent last year, but it wasn't until they took their case to the state Public Employment Relations Commission that the Commission agreed to the first meeting.

Arbitration is one of the alternatives named by Padula if the Commissioners refuse to sit down with the employees in negotiations. Such arbitration, he said, would come from the state at the Town's expense.

Until salary increases for all employees are settled, the Town is unable to go ahead with formulation of the 1974 budget. McGreevy said this week, however, there should be "no problem" in reaching a settlement and bringing the budget in by the 11 deadline.

Trustee Norma McCool Reviews 12-Year Career

...minds what they thought had happened," she recalled last week, "and I never could bring out my side of the story because I was bound by the grand jury not to discuss my testimony. But I also felt bound by my conscience and by the law to give the people the truth."

She observed wryly that throughout the remainder of her first term, "I was like the bubonic plague," and support for her reelection was not abundant. But she entered the race because, "I'm a fighter I guess, and that wasn't an easy election. I had to find the average citizen who was willing to speak up on the important issues. I went to the people and told them what I thought was necessary for the school system. I campaigned for additions to School One and School Two, because I believed these to be the most important needs of the system at the time. All the politicians felt that telling the people to vote for this would be my downfall. As it happened, I came out highest in that election."

Throughout her second term, Mrs. McCool, along with her husband Thomas, became increasingly active in charitable and civic drives in Belleville. With the aid of Mrs. Joseph Biancardi, Mrs. McCool made the Belleville March of Dimes one of the top fund-raisers in the state. But it was in her third campaign, in 1968, shortly before her only child Debbie fell ill, that Norma McCool discovered the most gratifying aspect of school board work. It was then she began to work closely with Belleville's youth.

"It was my idea to get young people involved in the community because at that time, they were becoming somewhat downtrodden. The public was beginning to feel something was radically wrong with youth. I wanted to put them in a positive light."

"At about this same time, riots had been occurring across the country, women were afraid to go out on the streets at night, and it was almost impossible to recruit workers for any kind of drive. But the youth became workers like you wouldn't believe."

"I attribute much of my success to the young people. You can't beat their energy and dedication in a campaign, and there's no better agent to bring out the older people."

"Debbie and her friends followed the example of the Kennedy girls and came out with the straw hats and banners. It was a new and exciting campaign for the town, and I don't think anything like it has been done since, but we were able to draw out more voters than ever before."

Mrs. McCool soon afterward received a "Citizen of the Year" award, but recalled, "I couldn't accept it on my own, because so much had been done by my husband and daughter. We were fortunate to have such a close-knit family."

"In those days, the house was always filled with young people, and it seemed like the majority of youngsters who had problems were unable to communicate with their parents. I really believe communication gap is the biggest

Advisory Committee Is Named For Retired Senior Volunteers

Mrs. Helen Booth Calhoun, a lifetime resident of Orange, has been elected chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program of Essex County. John L. Gallop of Bloomfield, was named vice chairman. Representing Belleville on the council is Bernard Gallagher, director of the Essex County Office on Aging.

Mrs. Calhoun, who is a consultant for the Drug Chemical and Allied Trades Association in New York City, spent her entire business career with this trade association. Her name appeared in the first edition of Who's Who of American Women, and she is a life member and former President of the New York Society of Association Executives, as well as a life member and former director of the American Society of Association Executives. Mrs. Calhoun, the former Helen L. Booth (which name she used professionally) is married to William L. Calhoun, also of Orange.

Mr. John L. Gallop is a retired ceramic engineer and glass technologist. A licensed professional engineer in the state of New Jersey, Gallop has been active in the Retired Senior Volunteer Program since its inception. As an RSVP volunteer, he has tutored at Upsala College, Bloomfield College, the Street Academy of the YMCA, and is an active participant in the program of help through the Montclair school system. He has been spokesman for RSVP on radio, telling in length the benefits to the volunteer as well as to the recipient of the services.

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program puts the talents of volunteers 60 years of age and over to use in their communities. There are almost 600 agencies in the country, and each is made up of part-time volunteers who serve — some on a regular basis, some at occasional intervals. RSVP is federally funded by ACTOPM (Peace Corps, Vista, etc.) and sponsored locally by the Essex Section National Council of Jewish Women in cooperation with the YWCA of West Essex and Hudson. Among the 15 RSVP agencies in New Jersey, this is the largest and the oldest.

The Advisory Committee, an integral part of the RSVP agency, is made up of members from business and industry, agencies and institutions, experts in the fields of aging and volunteering, and active members of the program.

on the first of January you had generosity enough to call for your year's bill, for he would not ask you. "Oh, my friend", he would say, "I do not know, I have no charge. And if you were mean enough to offer $20, $10 or even $5, he would say "Thank you" and give a receipt in full. If he had a bookkeeper at $100 per annum, and had given an account of his medicines left and calls made, he would have been a much richer man when he left us. The writer knew him over three score years and up to his death, and thinks of him with sweet remembrance. There are few living today whom he visited then, but there are some who remember his kindly visits of later years, and if their eyes light on this little book, I know they will say with the writer, "God bless the name of Doctor Ward". He did not get his reward here, but has gone up higher to get it from his Master, who will say, "Inasmuch as you did it unto one of the least of these you did it unto me. Receive your reward." And so it is with his son, Doctor Arthur Ward, who was with his father for years, and now in Newark he follows in, this respect the footsteps of his beloved father. Many here have missed his genial face, his warm and sympathizing heart and his words to many prescriptions for poor families, "Charge it to me."

she worked at the World Peace Through Law Center in Geneva, Switzerland, she returned to attend Columbia University. While she still had plans to attend law school, she "heard a lot of my friends beefing about how uninteresting it was," and was moved to enter the journalism school at Columbia.

At this time, the famous campus riots broke out at the school and Marjorie tried to cover the turmoil with a conventional journalistic attitude. "I was listening to things I had read before, but it's different when you learn something through personal contact. Also my attitude was changed by things like seeing people hit in the crotch and the head or having contact lenses crushed into their eyes, seeing perfectly innocent people hurt because they happened to be standing in the wrong place."

The whole experience, she surmised, "changed me from a Johnson Democrat to a McCarthy Democrat." She went on to write her master's thesis on the history of the peace movement from 1900 to 1968.

Upon her Columbia graduation, she worked for eight months as press relations manager for the American Society of Travel Agents. With "pre-women's lib" pay scales running low, she turned to free-lancing for extra income, and was published in several youth-oriented.

Among the articles she wrote were pieces on the numerous conspiracy trials going on in the late 60's and early 70's, and she went back to this subject when looking for an idea for a book after "it became obvious to me the magazine industry was not thriving."

The "new breed" of lawyers, she believes, "represent an idea that is at last growing. There's no more of the flamboyant radicalism of the 60's. A lot of these lawyers are really dedicated to gaining rights for people who previously didn't have the money to hire lawyers to insure they'll get their rights."

"Also, I think by the end of this school year there'll be twice as many lawyers as there are jobs for lawyers, so a lot more will go into public service."

"I owe very much to my husband. I could have never gone all these years without him. When I wasn't able to go out, he handled all the public relations. He's always going out and helping others, like playing the town Santa Claus for so many years, going to orphanages and places where the joy is a little devoid."

By no means ready to retire from public life, Mrs. McCool said she and her husband will be taking some time to plan another project.

Assessing her 12-year career with the school board, she said, "I went in trying to do something for the student population. I made some accomplishments, but only half as much as I would have liked to."

"I know it sounds trite," she added, "but I honestly believe that the future lies with our youth."

Adult School Slates Several New Courses

Belleville Adult School Director Leonard Marciano this week announced the addition of several new courses to be offered this year on with regular curriculum.

Registration for the school will be conducted at the Senior High School on January 28, 29 and 30 from 7-9 p.m. Classes begin on February 5 and 7.

New courses this year will be programming and computers shop math and metric math, taught by Martin Lang, head of the math department; reading improvement, taught by Jean Di Salve; candle making, taught by Susan Kapras; Latin I, taught by James Donovan; fireman, black seal, in charge of high and low pressure, taught by Fred Stewart.

"With emphasis now on the metric system throughout our country," said Marciano, "the new course, metric math, is tailor-made to help people understand and easily convert to the news system that is virtually certain to replace our present system of measurement."

faith, in receiving Communion, or simply in learning more about his or her faith.

Registration for the course will close on Sunday, February 3. If interested, you are asked to give your name, address, and telephone number to any of the priests before that date. You are also asked to indicate whether Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. or Saturday at 1 p.m. is the preferable time.

DeWitt Savings Has Major Gains

Assets of DeWitt Savings & Loan Association at the year end 1973 stood at $57,911,471, a 10 percent increase over a year ago, it was reported today by Robert M. Williams, president.

During the past year, DeWitt Savings & Loan paid $2,786,241 in interest to its savings depositors and added $341,347 to its reserves, making total reserves $3,944,363.

"We are happy to report that 1973 was a year of progress for DeWitt Savings & Loan," Robert M. Williams said, "despite a continuation of serious inflation and the emergency of the energy crisis."

Williams said that the most important development of 1972 was a new policy of monetary stringency adopted in early July. He said that this produced an immediate and general rise in interest rates, a decline in savings deposits and another "tight money" period for the mortgage market.

"The prospects for 1974 are somewhat cloudy at this moment," Williams said. Much depends on the type of progress the nation is able to make in its fight against inflation, the energy crises and the other problems facing us."

Williams said that during 1973 DeWitt Savings & Loan financed 305 homes and apartments in and around Belleville. In total the Association invested $9,170,950 in mortgage loans.

"In response to the increased competition in the money market," Williams concluded, "the Association increased rates on savings accounts and certificates of deposit. These rates we are paying are now the highest on record."

DeWitt is located at 463 Washington Avenue in Belleville.

School Board Election

One of the largest field of candidates for a school board election is running in February. Two incumbents and six other candidates are vying for three non-salaried jobs.

Mrs. Norma McCool has decided to call it a day and refused citizen requests to run again for office. Mrs. McCool has served Belleville as a school board member in the highest tradition of the solemn body. She sacrificed a great deal of her personal and family life to make the Belleville school system one of the best around. Often she fought the good fight alone with only the courage of her convictions to support her. Sometimes under the most adverse conditions Mrs. McCool stood her ground admirably and "stubbornly." Norma McCool is a great public servant and we only hope her successor will be able to fill half the shoes her departure leaves vacant.

Web Todd — New GOP Leader

The premature death of the late Republican State Chairman John Spoltore created a vacancy in the New Jersey Republican leadership which was filled this week by the GOP State Committee.

Monmouth County GOP leader, Ben Danskin, who also doubles as chairman of the state association of Republican County Chairmen, campaigned for his party's state chairmanship.

Essex County Republican Chairman Fred Remington of North Caldwell also made a run for the roses.

At the finish line former GOP state chairman Webster Todd, who did no campaigning, received 23 votes. Danskin received 12 and Remington garnered five. Two state committee people did not show.

We believe Web Todd's election is good for the Republican Party. His experience, his knowledge of party financing, his pledge to include Congressman Sandman's gubernatorial campaign expenses as part of the state Republican financial burden, are all in his favor.

Both Danskin and Remington refused to make a commitment to include Sandman's gubernatorial debts as GOP party debts. That was a bad rap.

Almost since the beginning of time Republican gubernatorial party candidates always conducted a deficit financed campaign. After the election the party picked up the tab. Why Sandman should be singled out for shabby treatment is beyond us.

We wish Webster Todd well in his new role and trust the various party factions will unite behind Web Todd to give him the kind of support necessary to bring back the party to its winning ways. The Republican Party, faced with the Watergate burden, needs all the expertise it can get at the top levels of its leadership to stave extinction as a major party.

Web Todd appears to be the right man, in the right place at the right time. We wish him well.

Charlie Carella Makes Good

Charles C. Carella, former law partner of Nutley's Robert Citrino and prominegt Dewey-type gangbuster who served as assistant prosecutor when Brendan Byrne was Essex County Prosecutor, has been named by his former boss as New Jersey's new lottery and gambling chief.

Carella brings to the job an impeccable reputation for integrity and fearless enforcement of criminal laws. Like his boss, Brendan Byrne, Charlie Carella is a man the mob could not buy, reach, nor touch.

Carella is uniquely qualified for the extremely sensitive job of gambling chief in an ever-broadening legalized gambling activity in New Jersey.

We believe voters will approve such an activity this November. It will be Charlie Carella's job to police casino gambling in

New Jersey. In this respect Carella finds himself in the same league as the nationally prominent Herb Stern, who sent a number of public officials to jail, and Federal Judge Fred Lacey who was Stern's predecessor in the Department of Justice — the guy who started it all.

We congratulate Governor Byrne for having the perception to select a young man of Charlie Carella's unusual ability and integrity for the tough job of administering gambling laws in New Jersey. It was a superb choice.

Game Officials Were Unfair, Says Reader

To the editor:

On December 29, 1973, in the school gym of St. Mary's Parish in Nutley, there took place what I consider a typical travesty of justice.

St. Mary's Annual Christmas Tournament condescended to allow the Belleville Junior High School to participate in their parochial tournament. After winning their first two games, Belleville faced St. Paul's of Jersey City in the semi-final round. Belleville lost, 58-56.

It is indeed unfortunate that such a tournament should be reduced from a game between twelve and thirteen-year-olds to a personal arena for the benefit of the officials. To characterize the officiating as atrocious would be charitable in the least. The Belleville boys played their hearts out only to have the officials snap defeat from the jaws of victory. The Belleville team went off the court at half-time winning by one point only to discover when they returned they were trailing by one point. It seemed that a basket scored during the first half was disallowed during half-time. Nothing like calling an infraction when it occurs.

I would also like to know what kind of credentials the official scorer and timekeeper possess to warrant their positions. Along with the referee, these people hold extremely responsible positions. Failure to start or stop the time clock or failure to credit a score or foul could greatly influence the outcome of a game.

Not to detract from St. Paul's, they played an excellent, aggressive ball game, but without the help of the officials, the outcome would have definitely been reversed. Belleville had a number of baskets disallowed during the game for various so-called infractions. The officials also called three technical fouls against Belleville during the final minutes of the game but neglected to call a foul on St. Paul's when a Belleville man was thrown to the floor when he tried to shoot.

The ludicrous point of this whole situation is that these so-called officials receive monetary compensation for their actions. I would imagine they would be embarrassed to accept their pieces of silver.

I firmly believe that henceforth any future parochial tournament participation by non-parochial schools should be guaranteed impartial and qualified officiating.

Thanks Officers For Prompt Aid

To The editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Belleville Police and Fire Departments for their fine help on Christmas morning when I had to be taken to the hospital.

I was quite ill and don't remember who the individuals were, but I do know they were prompt, efficient and most courteous. The Police Department also took my mother and my wife to the hospital and, later that day, saw that they were transported home.

Being a life-long resident, I've always been proud of my town, but never until you're in need, do you really find out how great and humane, the police and firemen are.

My most sincere thanks,
Fred ("Fritz") J. Bohlen

Shelter Super Thanks Locals

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Board of Trustees of the Children's Shelter of Essex County, I wish to thank the many individuals and organizations who gave service and love to our children in 1973.

May we wish you a happy New Year and extend an invitation to visit our institution to take a tour and to review our program.

Sincerely yours,
(Mrs.) Arleen Kenney

THE STATE WE'RE IN

Tocks Island Dam Controversy May Find Way Back Into News

By David F. Moore

N.J. Conservation Foundation

THE ARGUMENT has dropped from the news of late, but with the advent of the Brendan Byrne administration it may well erupt at any time. I refer to construction of Tocks Island Dam and Reservoir and the accompanying pumped storage generating system proposed on neighboring Kittatinny Mountain in Warren County by Public Service Electric and Gas Company and Jersey Central Power and Light Company.

Maybe it will be upon us by the time this reaches print. Governor William T. Cahill confounded a lot of special interests in and out of government when he withheld his Tocks approval. It has appeared that the project's backers, notably the Delaware River Basin Commission, have been hanging back awaiting a change in New Jersey's administration. Governor Byrne will be under enormous pressure to speed Tock along, especially from the labor organizations which helped him at the polls, and not a few people in state government.

WHETHER TOCKS ISLAND DAM

ever gets built won't necessarily affect the fate of the pumped storage plant, however. The Tocks enabling legislation has been doctored so that the dam will include plumbing for pumped storage. But without Tocks the pumped storage system can still be constructed by installing a small Delaware River reservoir near the site of the bigger Tocks project.

Arguments have raged over pumped storage for a decade at Storm King, along the Hudson River, and for quite a while along the Delaware. Utilities maintain that pumped storage is pollution-free, provides extra power during peak demand hours and equalized electric system loads. Environmentalists say it's not pollution-free, because it works on electricity generated elsewhere by old-fashioned fossil fuel plants.

PUMPED STORAGE requires two reservoirs at different elevations. Water pumped to the upper level is released downhill through generators to make electricity when needed. Since an electric company has power to spare at night when user demands are lowest, that's when it pumps the water up the mountain for the next day's peak demand. It takes three kilowatts of power to be able to generate two kilowatts the next day.

Up to now a major argument of the utility companies has been that since the three nighttime kilowatts are worth less than the two, in the daytime, pumped storage is economically advantageous. That was true under the old dollars and cents doctrine which has always seemed to shape our culture.

But now that we are getting energy conscious, I think more mature thought will be exercised henceforth on the matter of fossil fuels consumption. Nuclear power is running up such a bad reliability record that fossil fuels will make the lion's share of electricity for a long time to come.

SO WHEN WE EXAMINE pumped storage in fossil fuel terms instead of dollars and cents, we find that it is indeed very wasteful of those resources which are getting demonstrably scarce, for whatever reason. Two kilowatts for three suddenly looks less inviting. The utilities may argue that generators have to run at night anyway, so the power would be wasted without going into pumped storage.

But as new conventional steam generators get built, more and more of a company's total generating capacity has the flexibility to slow down at night and save fuel, should that look like a good idea.

ENVIRONMENTALISTS TOO, have long been pushing for rate adjustments so that bulk users did not pay so much less than the little people - perhaps such a move combined with lower night rates for large users would do a much better balancing job - and save the pumped storage power.

THIS ASPECT of the pumped storage argument has not, to my knowledge, been broached before. Governor Byrne will have to add it to his list of long-term considerations before he takes a firm position on the pumped storage and Tocks Island projects.

Browsing Belleville

with Pat Diana (write me at 104 Overlook Ave. or call 751-6861)

For the past three years, at Christmas, Alexander's Bakery (in the Grant Shopping Plaza) has baked a huge, beautiful gingerbread castle-cake and, on Christmas Eve, "Santa" takes the 200 lb. delight trimmed with candy to the children at the Children's Shelter. I took a picture of Mark Chessner with his "castle", but for space reasons it hasn't appeared yet...maybe next year.

NUMBERS NONSENSE

You know, we were given names at birth...it's sad that we are now relegated to numbers, only...for example, most billing by major companies is done by computers...when you receive a letter, a name is at the bottom - the name belongs to the COMPUTER! - YOU are a number...I was called for jury duty recently and, again, they called me by number - then mentioned the name...I phoned to make an appointment at a local laboratory, requesting an early a.m. slot as I had to be to work by 9. I arrived at 8:15 and was told "you're #10, you'll have to wait" (they opened at 8:30)...I'm for the good old days when you were you #10! Not a number!

LEGIONNAIRES

Fritz Bohlen, 2nd vice president of American Legion Post 105, was in charge of the Post's Children's Christmas party. He became ill and, at the very last minute, another Legionnaire - Pete Gentile - stepped in, took over and the children had a happy time. I guess that's rather the meaning of "Legionnaires" or other such groups - helping each other out...Post 105 would also like to express their appreciation to the Belleville Fire Department, for the loan of a projector and screen, and Mr. Gerald Hickey of the Belleville Public Library, for lending some very fine films - all of which contributed to a great children's Christmas party. I'm sure you all recognize the name of Pete Gentile - he advertises each week in this paper under "Pete's Painting"... "Big Fritz" says many thanks to Pete and all other Legionnaires at Post 105 for their cards and greetings while he was in Clara Maass Memorial Hospital. Cheery get well-wishes to another Post 105 member - Jim Norris - who is Fritz's room-mate.

Miss Sandy Berry had a birthday on December 12th...she attends School Five and is the daughter of Jim and Shirley (who celebrated their wedding anniversary on December 21)...Sandy has an adorable younger brother - "John-John".

DON'T FORGET - I'm in the process of compiling a Belleville Directory - which will list all business, schools, churches, service/social/civic/veteran and entertainment groups in our town...send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, and I will forward a Questionnaire to you...charge to be included.

Speaking of the Directory - I received a completed Questionnaire from School Eight, and was pleased to note they have the largest Brownie Troop in town, with 43 girls. The moms who are credited with helping in this program are Mrs. Marlene Gonnello, Mrs. Barbara Vocaturo, Mrs. Doris Nisiovocia, Mrs. Rose Appenzeller, Mrs. Ann Marie DeBenedetto, Mrs. Agnes Perrotta and Mrs. Julia Paglia. Mrs. Carmela Meglio, president of the Home and School Association at School Eight notes that every family with the exception of two, are members of the HSA. (there are 345 families at the school) - that's quite a feat!

School Eight also had an outstanding

Christmas program. An original play, "Jill in the Box", written by second grade teacher, Mrs. Adrienne Drewes, and also presented by Miss Paula Cajohn, second grade teacher, was performed and a first-time event in Belleville, was the Faculty Chorus, consisting of the entire faculty of School Eight, directed by Mrs. Eleanor Arthur, accompanied by Mrs. Anita Schulz, Mrs. Arthur - 6th grade teacher and Mrs. Schultz - kindergarten teacher, went to college together. There, Mrs. Arthur sang in the glee club, while Mrs. Schultz accompanied on the piano...they are still a dynamic duo. Miss Carole Cobiainchi and Miss A.M. Simini also led the youngsters in song, and the audience really appreciated the Christmas sing-along, led by Mrs. Arthur, with Miss Cobiainchi and accordionist Albert Sargentelli - a 6th grade student. (his mom teaches accordion and piano). Understand that principal Nicholas Petti gave a solo rendition of "White Christmas" - Belleville's New Bing Crosby? He did a great job.

The Kiwanis Club of Belleville will soon have a father/son combination when Robert Laterza, Jr. is inducted...Al DeLuccio chairman of the Cloth for Cancer drive and his co-chairman, Jim Dasaro, had another successful year.

INTERESTED in learning the creative art of knitting Macrame? Classes are being held at the Nutley Art Center, conducted by Clara Karlan...there are Monday evening and Friday afternoon sessions - phone 661-2280.

How can she be 17 when I'm only 21? HAPPY BIRTHDAY to my daughter, Linda Ann Diana, January 12th. Linda, a junior at BHS, is on the intramural basketball team...and, now, I've got to watch my car-keys.

Maria Cuozzo gave her husband Don a 1 1/2 lb. Beagle for Christmas...he was surprised on Christmas Eve...that's a different gift.

Members of Wesley Methodist Church with a birthday or anniversary this month include: 1st - Mrs. Patricia Fisher; 2nd - Mrs. Emma Pole, Miss Ethel Akerton; 7th - Mrs. Gertrude McKinley; 12th - Gail Stone; 15th - The Edward M. Johnsons and 17th - Donna Stone.

News from The Kiwanis Club of Branch Brook Belleville...welcome to two new members - Richard Caprio and Rev. William G. Mink...Neil Fitzpatrick has been appointed acting secretary...Bill Pirk has been named District Secretary and Editor of The Jersey Kiwanian....

HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Pat Wynn - TNI bus driver, and member of American Legion Post 105, where he heads the Chateau Committee.

The Belleville Adult School has come out with their spring schedule - for information, 759-4701.

VFW Post 275, 17 Belleville Avenue is holding a rummage sale every Monday evening from 7 - 9 at the Post Home...sale ends February 4th.

Another year younger was Mrs. Frieda Bohlen (Big Fritz's mom) on January 9th - happy birthday, mama!

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce welcomes new member - Michaels Ready Made-Custom Made, 118 Washington Avenue...they also congratulated George Mead, Jr., who was elected president of the Essex County Automotive Association, a post once held by his dad. George also served as President and Chairman of the COC Board.

Public Hearing Slated On '74 Essex Budget

Public hearings on Essex County budget requests will be held in the Essex County Hall of Records, Newark, Room 501, starting 9:30 a.m., Monday, Jan. 21, Essex County Finance Chairman

Samuel J. Angelo announced. "The public hearings to which mayors and the general public are invited will continue for the balance of the week as long as is necessary to complete the preliminary budget review," Angelo said. Freeholder Angelo said that budget requests above the 1973 approved budget amount to $17 million but predicted that such requests would be dramatically cut back as the freeholders separated the "desirable from the necessary."

"It's my fundamental prediction that Essex County taxpayers will once again for the third successful year find that the Essex County tax rate will be cut," Freeholder Angelo stated.

The budget request increase of $17 million is comparable to a proposed $16 million jump submitted by departments in January, 1973 and during 1973 we achieved a record seven point cut in the tax rate and I am expecting that as result of cutting costs to the bare bones as well, as the prospect of increased revenues and increased rates that the eventual picture will be a bright one for Essex taxpayers in the year 1974," Freeholder Angelo said.

Mr. Angelo also said that the 1973 tax rate was $1.316. Also, total requests by the 67 departments, agencies and commissions of Essex County government for 1974 amount to $148,540,222.

Library to Show Film About Circus

"Circustown", a color film about the circus folk of Peru, Indiana, is coming to the library soon... Monday, Jan. 21, at 7 p.m., is when it will be shown.

This film an excellent look behind the scenes at the circus, is one of the 300 films available each year at the library.

Since 1969 when the library joined the Garden State Library Film Circuit a constant flow of films on a wide variety of subjects suitable for schools, flow of films on a wide variety subjects suitable for schools, home club use have been borrowed by Belleville patrons. The Garden State Library Film Circuit, an association of nineteen libraries extending from Sussex County in the north to Willingboro in the south, was formed in 1967. Since then, on the first Tuesday of each month, representatives of the member libraries meet at the State Library in Trenton to preview and select films. For a catalog of the films now at the library and those expected throughout the year stop at the library, 221 Washington Avenue, and ask for a film catalog.

Look how regular savings multiply at the Howard.

Save $10 a week for 10 years and have over $6800 because you chalk up more than $1600 in Howard interest!

The Howard's 5 1/4 percent interest rate (highest permitted on regular savings) compounds continuously to a big 5.47 percent annual yield, when you leave dividends in. Interest, credited monthly, runs from day of deposit to day of withdrawal if you leave at least $10 in till the end of the month. You can bank by mail...deposit or withdraw at any of the Howard's 15 bank offices. And even get a little friendliness with your big earnings. So get Howard powered today.

Here's how the Howard habit pays off high current rates:

Belleville Minister Attends Presbyterian Synod Meeting

Rev. Howard B. Day, 12 Elm Place, Belleville was a commissioner to a major meeting of the Presbyterian church last weekend.

Presbyterians from seven northeastern states gathered in Newark, January 12 and 13, for the initial meeting of a powerful new church assembly. The new Synod of the Northeast, United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., will represent over one million communicant members in 1,600 churches.

The meeting brought to Newark the two highest elected officers of the United Presbyterian Church. Dr. Clinton Marsh, moderator of the General Assembly, and William P. Thompson, stated clerk, addressed the 210 elected commissioners and an estimated 150 guests and observers, Saturday morning, at Second Presbyterian Church in downtown Newark.

Dr. Ernest T. Campbell of The Riverside Church, New York City, was the principal speaker at Sunday morning's worship service. Commissioners, guests, members of Second Presbyterian Church, and worshippers from other local churches will join in the service of Holy Communion. Serving communion were elders from Newark and suburban churches with Black, Spanish speaking, Hungarian, Chinese, and Portuguese memberships.

First item of business Saturday was the election of officers. Rev. C. Mike Jousan, jr., Leonia, New Jersey, was expected to be the sole nominee for moderator of the new regional synod. The moderator serves as presiding officer at synod meeting and is the highest elected post in the synod.

The Synod of the Northeast replaces the Synods of New Jersey, New York, and New England. This new regional organization is expected to provide more effective mission to the greater New York - New Jersey metropolitan area, by pooling resources across state boundaries.

NJEA Is Pushing For A Change In Teaching Profession Standards

One method of improving education is to increase the quality of practicing teachers. The New Jersey Education Assn. thinks the best way to bring this about is by expecting real responsibility for their profession by teachers themselves.

To achieve self-governance, NJEA is recommending that a new Teacher Standards and Certification Council be created by State law. The Council would:

1. Set standards for teacher licenses.
2. Approve the teacher-training programs that New Jersey colleges devise to bring trainees up to meet these standards.
3. Plan "in-service" programs to continue the professional education of teachers after they become certified.
4. Prepare and enforce a code of ethics for the teaching profession.

"Some of these functions are now filled by the existing N.J. State Board of Examiners in the State Education Department. However, this board has scant authority to enforce standards, and it's dominated by administrators such as school superintendents and college officials.

"What the education profession seeks," says the NJEA, "is greater representation of the actual practitioners who teach every day in a classroom." Under the NJEA plan, eight of the proposed council's 15 members would be classroom teachers.

All members of the council would be appointed by the State Education Commissioner, and final policy authority would remain with the N.J. State Board of Education.

However, the new council would have more authority to set and enforce standards than does the existing Board of Examiners. The council would have more freedom to study problems and adjust regulations as circumstances in education change. Using due process, it would be empowered to suspend or revoke a teacher's certificate.

"Creating such a council will go a long way toward improving the preparation and performance of those who serve our children in the schools of the state," the NJEA comments. "Success in learning can be assured if self governance is made a reality for the teaching profession."

Minish, Williams Are Disappointed In President Nixon's Pocket Veto

Representative Joseph G. Minish and Senator Harrison A. Williams, Jr., today said that they were "deeply disappointed" by President Nixon's pocket veto of legislation designed to remove a major obstacle to bus lines seeking federal assistance.

"This action demonstrates to us that the President fails to understand just how serious the energy crisis really is or how imperative the need for improved mass transit facilities are," the legislators said.

The legislation which was killed by the President would amend the Federal Highway

Act of 1973 which now contains a provision which apparently prohibits federal assistance to bus companies unless the applicant agrees not to engage in certain types of charter bus service.

On the Campaign Trail

Rocco L. Constantino

Constantino Focuses On Cable TV Benefits

Rocco L. Constantino, candidate for the Board of Education, focused on cable TV facilities in talks at several meetings during the past week.

Calling the franchising of cable TV one of the "most crucial decisions facing the Town Commission this year," Constantino again expressed "chagrin, puzzlement and shock that no representatives from the educational system were on hand for the public hearings".

Citing the value of utilizing cable TV for educational purposes in the school, he suggested that more in-depth treatment of various topics in the classroom could be accomplished at small cost.

In calling for more "visionary members on the Board of Education, Constantino, said that the "benefits which non-college students will derive from this program in the area of programming, filming, camera work, producing and directing will be a tremendous aid in training them for employment after high school graduation". Constantino pointed out that by law, each municipality would be given three free access channels, one of which is for the educational system. He indicated that some cable TV firms would provide equipment for use by school systems, thus making the cost "minimal to the taxpayer". He also pointed out that future election campaigns could be conducted through the use of cable TV, thus reducing the "frantic search for workers, and the hectic rigors of strenuous campaigning, bringing more information to the electorate and more informed voters to the polls".

R. Risoli
Blasts
Appeal

School Board candidate Ralph Risoli this week delivered a blast at the present Board's exceptions to the Trenton hearing examiner's recommendations on a partial restoration of funds cut from last year's budget defeated at the polls.

Saying that he felt the $450,880 cut by the Board of Commissioners was justified, the hearing examiner recommends a restoration of $221,036.

"It was understood by members of the Board of Education that the Board could live with restorations that were suggested by the hearing officer.

"Now on January 4, 1974, in a letter to Acting Commissioner of Education Dr. Edward Kilpatrick, the president of the Belleville Board of Education requested an additional sum of $109,145, plus $221,036 already restored."

Risoli concluded that "simple mathematics" indicates the Board is seeking restoration of $330,000 of the slashed funds.

Rep. Minish
To Responsor
Medicare Bill

Congressman Joseph G. Minish, 11th District, today announced that he will reintroduce legislation when Congress reconvenes to provide for medicare coverage of the cost of prescription drugs.

Minish is a long time sponsor of the proposal to have medicare pay for prescriptions for the nation's elderly.

The congressman explained that the measure had been included in a Senate passed version of the recently passed social security increase. However, it was dropped from the final bill which the President signed last week.

"The escalating cost of medical service, including drugs," Minish said, "have eaten away many of the medical and social security benefits the Congress has provided."

Supporters Greeted
By Mrs. De Luccio

Mrs. Rose De Luccio last week visited various groups of supporters in Belleville as she spoke at teas and Candidates' Nights.

Her campaign coordinator, Mrs. Mary Estelle, said invitations to teas have been received from throughout the town and reported Mrs. De Luccio will also speak at Candidates' Nights to be held at School Two on January 22; the Senior High on January 29 and the Junior High on February 6.

Mrs. De Luccio, in her talks, promised "dedication and full commitment to children by pledging to work toward each child reaching their full potential through our school system."

"Curriculum should be based on fitting our children into the ever-changing needs of society," she said. "Preparation and guidance must be geared to conditions prevalent in our world which our children will be confronted with upon graduation."

High School Sets
Winter Concert

The annual Winter Concert will be presented on January 31 at 8 p.m. in the Belleville High School auditorium.

The concert will feature the Belleville High School Orchestra directed by Louis Kosma.

The orchestra had its origin four years ago, when Mr. Kosma first came to the Belleville school system. It began as a volunteer group consisting of 11 string players (5 of these borrowed from the Junior High). It has since grown into an organization of over 60 musicians.

The orchestra became a scheduled class in 1971-72. It now has over 40 strings scheduled, the largest string section ever.

Within the orchestra, there is a string ensemble, started three years ago in response to a request for an ensemble to play light dinner music for the Teachers and Administrators thanksgiving luncheon. Since then, the string ensemble has played for other functions,

The orchestra is planning a "first" for Belleville by having an exchange program with Cranston East High School, of Cranston, Rhode Island. The plan is to have Cranston Chorus come to Belleville on April 26, 27, and 28. Each group will do a portion of a concert separately. The concert will end with combined orchestra and chorus selections. The Belleville High Orchestra will go to Cranston the following week, where the same program will be presented.

The orchestra portion of the concert here on January 31 will consist of a wide variety of selections, ranging from the famous "March of the Toreadors" from Bizet's opera "Carmen", to Roberta Flack and selections from "West Side Story".

WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS IN SOCIAL SPOTLIGHT

Honeymoon In Niagara Falls For Mr. and Mrs. Tedesco

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Tedesco — nee Rita Cavallo

Holy Family Church, Nutley, was the setting September 30 for the marriage of Miss Rita Cavallo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cavallo of Nutley to Anthony Tedesco, son of Anthony Tedesco of Nutley and Mrs. Edward Jones of Union.

The Rev. Francis Blake performed the ceremony and a reception was held at Friar Tuck Inn, Cedar Grove.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore an A-line gown of white crepe fashioned with long tight-fitting sleeves and a V-neckline accented with a small white rose.

Her headpiece was a large wide brimmed crepe and satin hat trimmed with a large white rose with silver leaves.

Miss Mary Scyzrek of Mantoloking, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Michele Moghab of South Orange, sister of the groom, Miss Judy Gingerelli of Nutley, cousin of the bride and Miss Denise Rosa of Nutley. Flower girl was Paula Jean Gregorsky of Nutlee Guy Anthony Tedesco of Brooklyn, New York was ringbearer.

John Melisi of Brooklyn was best man for his cousin. Ushers were Joseph and Anthony Cavallo of Nutley, brothers of the bride, and Joseph Ngai of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Cavallo chose an A-line gown and jacket of mint green while the groom's mother wore a black velvet gown with a square neckline.

Mrs. Tedesco, an alumna of Nutley High School and Wilfred Academy of Beauty Culture, is with Rogue's Den, Styling For Men while Mr. Tedesco is with Hoffmann-La Roche.

Following a honeymoon in Niagara Falls, Canada, the couple have made their home in Nutley.

For further information, call Carolyn De Beer, 746-5400.

Miss Viola, Clyde Mollon Are Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Viola of Upper Montclair, announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Olga to Clyde Gordon Mollon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil G. Mollon of Tonawanda, New York.

Miss Viola, graduate of Lacordaire High School in Upper Montclair, is a senior at Rosary Hill College in Buffalo, New York. Mr. Mollon is a graduate of Kenmore East High School in Kenmore, New York and Bryant-Stratton Business Institute in Buffalo. He is employed by Chem-Trol Pollution Services Incorporated in Lewiston, New York.

Miss Viola is the granddaughter of Mrs. Anthony Desiderio of West Orange and the late Anthony Desiderio, president of the Whippany Paper Board Company, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Louis Viola of Nutley and the late Louis Viola, president of Louis Viola Company in Lyndhurst.

A formal engagement party will be held January 20 at White Beeches Golf and Country Club, Haworth.

A May 1975 wedding is planned.

Theatre Guild Is Rehearsing For Production

An enthusiastic cast has swung into high gear with rehearsals for "Sights and Sounds", the spring production of St. Mary's Theatre Guild to be presented February 22, 23 and 24 at St. Mary's Hall under the direction of a veteran of stage shows, Mr. Joe Hayes.

"Sights and Sounds" is a fascinating, fast moving series of tableaux, vignettes and film clips depicting the history of the American Theatre and outstanding American headlines from 1900 to the present day, complimented by the best musical scores of the era.

Tickets have been mailed to members of the parish and friends of the Theatre Guild but the show is also open to the public which is urged not to miss this unusual and exciting presentation. Persons may obtain tickets or information by calling 661-3496.

Profits from this show will be given to St. Mary's School.

Picking Pets

When you buy a car you can kick the tires, slam the doors and check the odometer.

But what do you do when you buy a puppy or kitten? How do you know you haven't gotten a lemon?

The first thing you can do is check that the kitten or puppy has a pleasant disposition. Will it come to you readily? Can you stroke it without being bitten?

Make sure you pick a social animal, one that wants to play with its cage mates or the handler. Any animal that sulks in the rear of its cage may be sick. Don't buy a kitten or puppy because you feel sorry for it. You may be sorry for a long time afterward.

Your future pet should also look healthy. Eyes should be clear, and the coat clean and bright.

Although it may sound ridiculous, make sure your pet can see. It should follow the movements of a toy or your hand from one end of the cage to the other.

Run your hand over the animal's coat. The coat should feel clean and soft. Examine coarse or rough spots. Parasites like ticks can be removed easily. However, if the skin is inflamed or hair is missing, it may be a sign of a skin infection. Stay away

Mrs. Maria Distasio was honored for her 90th birthday, December 2, 1973 at a party given by her seven children at the Friar Tuck Inn, Cedar Grove. Mrs. Distasio and her late husband, Constantino, were the parents of 14 children.

Born in Balvano Province of Potenza, Italy, she has resided in Belleville for over 50 years and has lived with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew F. Colaninno, Sr. for 15 years.

The birthday party was a gala event with 71 relatives and friends attending. There to honor their mother were Marie and Pat Distasio, Ann and Andrew Colaninno, Dorothy and Vincent Vitti, Rose and John DiFazio, all Belleville; Camille and Jack Daubert of Bloomfield. Mr. Ruth Bradley of Long Island, and Martha and Joe Distasio of Miami Lakes, Florida.

Also attending the celebration were 19 grandchildren and their families including 20 great grandchildren.

from an infected animal, especially if you have other pets at home.

The pet should have little or no odor. If there is one, check ears and mouth. The odor may be caused by mites gathered in the ear or it may be from a decayed tooth.

Occasionally puppies will turn up for sale that have not been properly weaned. They will cause problems because they do not yet know how to eat from a dish. To avoid this problem, ask about the puppy's diet and if possible, watch him eat some of his regular food.

Try to pick a pet between 8 and 12 weeks old. At this age, your pet can easily be housebroken and usually has not had time to pick up any bad habits.

College students from Montclair and Newark State Colleges, including Peggy Alden and Tim O'Brien of Nutley, participate weekly in the Extended Care Program at the North Essex Child Guidance Clinic which is located at the Essex County Geriatrics Center, Franklin Avenue, Belleville. Mrs. Lynne Witkin, Psychiatric Social Worker at the Clinic, supervises the program with the aid of Richard M. Grumbach, Mental Health Aid. Essentially a Big Brother program, the Extended Care sessions provide a means for the college students to help their young patients, who are predominately male, in developing sound male identification. This is especially needed where the boys are from fatherless homes or ones in which the relationship with a father is unsatisfactory. Though they comprise a smaller portion of the Clinic population, girls are also a part of the Extended Care program and require a Big Sister counterpart.

The college students develop a special kind of relationship therapy with their young friends through ball games, talk sessions, snack time and other means. The students meet weekly as a group with Mrs. Witkin for supervision and discussion.

Developed more than two years ago, the Extended Care program has touched the lives of numerous boys and girls of Belleville, Bloomfield and Nutley. Its story is told in a film made by Seton hall students in 1971 and shown to many clubs and other organizations of this area. A useful outgrowth of the program is the Therapeutic Summer Camp held for the past two years at the Clinic.

Energy Crisis Means Problems At Mountainside

The energy crisis is affecting everyone, but for Mountainside Hospital — and most other health care institutions the difficulties are especially taxing, necessitating careful planning, tight budgeting, and requiring the cooperation of the community.

The hospital's shortages are fourfold — oil, electricity, cotton and paper.

Mountainside has instituted an energy-saving program to conserve heat and electricity: thermostats in non-patient areas have been turned down to 68 degrees, and hallway lighting has been reduced by 25 percent. In the evening, lights in unoccupied areas are turned off. Use of equipment has been optimized and employees are making a conscientious effort to turn off lights, electric typewriters and other machines when not in use.

"The measures are paying off," said Joseph Hénay, director of the physical plant. "There has been a significant drop in our fuel consumption." The hospital uses approximately 30,000 barrels of oil a year. Mountainside is assured of a continuous supply of fuel since it is a member of the group purchasing plan of the New Jersey Hospital Association. Nevertheless, the cost of the fuel has increased by $3.50 a barrel, with prospects of further significant increases.

"The money situation will be very tight, since we hadn't budgeted for these increases. The oil crisis goes beyond heating and lighting for hospitals, however. Looming in the future is the threat of shortages in oil by-product derivatives, such as the petroleum-derived chemicals used for making drugs and other medical-surgical supplies, and plastics. Many of the instruments and pieces of equipment used in the hospital are made of plastic and designed to be disposed of after one use.

Because some of these items are considered to have low profit, many manufacturers have either cut back or discontinued production of them, thereby creating sporadic shortages and causing prices to rise," said James Hagan, director of supplies and services. "As of now, Mountainside has been able to maintain supplies, although we are having to pay much higher prices."

A more immediate problem is posed by the cotton shortage, which is affecting supplies of linens—sheets, pillowcases, towels and washcloths. The reduced supply of cotton is the result of severe flooding last spring in the Mississippi River Valley, which ruined the crop, according to Mr. Hagan. Intensifying the problem was a sale of much of the surplus to Japan, and manpower shortages in American cotton mills because of low wage scales.

Still at 2-0, Forced Layoff Bores Matmen

The big problem for wrestlers at Belleville High isn't winning or losing, but a lack of either, coach Jim Silvestri reported this week. With the postponement of Friday's scheduled match against Montclair, the grapplers haven't had real competition since January 3 when they lost to West Essex. The next contest is scheduled for tomorrow at Montclair at 4 p.m.

"The boys are bored," Silvestri flatly explained. "They're tired of wrestling each other."

While Montclair had a weak season last year, Silvestri feels the rebuilding program in that school may have helped them, and the Bellboy coach isn't making any predictions about tomorrow.

St. Cassian's Captures CYO Track Meet

St. Cassian School of Upper Montclair walked away with the team trophy in the first annual Essex Catholic High School-Essex County CYO Polar Bear Track Meet, held recently at Essex Catholic.

St. Cassian's, which also captured the second annual Cross Country Championship in November, finished with 50 points. Newark's Queen of Angels was runner-up with 39 points, and Our Lady of Sorrows, South Orange, was third with 38 points. St. Cassian's tied Queen of Angels for first place in the 13 and over division while Our Lady of Sorrows was a clean-cut winner in the 12-and-under competition.

Individual winners included John Keenan of St. Catherine of Siena, Cedar Grove, 60-yard dash; Leroy Hayes, Queen of Angels, 220-yard dash; Michael Gallo, Our Lady of Sorrows, 440-yard run; Charlie Schnering, Sacred Heart, Vailsburg, 884-yard run, and Ed McCormack, St. Aloysius, Caldwell, mile run. The 440-yard relay team from Sacred Heart copped the 12 under title.

In the older division, Oscar Padgett of Queen of Angels snapped the tape in the 60-yard dash, Ed Hailey of Queen of Angelo won the 220; Pete Burns of St. Philomena, Livingston, won the 440; St. Philomena's Keith Keohane won the 880, and Mike Miller of St. Cassian's won the mile. Queen of Angels took the relay.

Roundball Slate Reset by Snow

The scheduled game with the Columbia Cougars which was to be held at Maplewood last Friday was postponed due to the inclemency of the weather. This game will be rescheduled at a later date.

The delay of the Cougar game gave the Bellboys an extra day to prepare for their clash with the Bloomfield Bengals last Tuesday.

This week sees the Bellboys playing the Irvington Campers tomorrow night at Belleville beginning at 8 p.m.

Then the agers will return to the Belleville hardwoods to seek a rematch with Nutley. The time and date of this classic confrontation will be 3:45 p.m. at Belleville High School on Tuesday, Jan. 22.

Bengals Beat Freeze

The Bloomfield Bengal cagers cracked a six-minute Belleville freeze here Tuesday night to steal a game dominated halfway through by the Bellboys. The final score was 55-51 as Belleville took their seventh loss in nine starts.

While big Bellboy Abdel Anderson poured in well over half the Blue-Gold points—racking up 32—the home team saw a half-time lead of nine points chipped away in the second half as they desperately froze the ball and one-upped each Bengal basket. With the game tied 51-51 in the final eight seconds, Bloomfield's Joe Donahue connected with a jumper and two Bengal free throws iced the game.

Belleville kept control through the first half, gaining their lead in the initial period as Anderson hit for nine points, while Tony Cotugno and Gary Tufo had four apiece.

Most of the second period went Belleville's way, too, with Anderson scoring another eight, but Bloomfield surged until scoring in the stanza was evened at 14 for each team.

Bloomfield made their move in the final period when a tap by Tripucka brought them within one point of the homers, then a Bob Morton layup put them a point ahead, 46-45.

Anderson and Cotugno answered with two quick baskets to grab back a three-point edge, Morton dropped a free throw for one point.

Donahue missed a one-on-one foul situation, but Bloomfield's Austin layed it up to tie the score, 49-49. Anderson and Donahue traded jumpers to jack the score to 51-51, then Donahue poured in the winning shot for the Bengals.

E.O. Wins 91-37

Thumping by Panthers Puts Cagers at 2-6

Careless ballhandling was the mark of the cagers in their game against the East Orange Panthers and the host team took the advantages presented to them by the Bellboys. The result was a one sided 91-37 blasting by East Orange in a game that was played in East Orange.

The loss put the Bellboys with the record 2-6. East Orange meanwhile added the win to put their record at 5-2 for the year.

Belleville had amassed a large number of turnovers in the first quarter which made it very difficult to get any drive going. The catlike quick Panthers had grabbed a quick 6-0 lead before Joe Dunn broke the ice for Belleville. Before him Ken Young and Mike Booker had scored for East Orange as these two had provided the early points on close jump shots.

Most of the East Orange points in the first period were off steals that triggered off fast break layups. This also happened for the rest of the game when the lead began to build for the home team. Protected by the big lead, they were able to play their fast break, very reckless type of game that only proved to run up the score after the game was safely tucked away. To the credit of Coach Bob Lester, East Orange starters were pulled early in every quarter but the full court trap-press was never abandoned.

Belleville could only deposit four points in the first period as the other points were put in by Abdel Anderson with the score 14-2. East Orange scored the final six points of the quarter as they raced off to a 20-4 first period lead.

Belleville was able to curb the Panther scoring somewhat in the second period as the score was a fairly even 12-6 East Orange advantage. Playing a more deliberate type of ball, the cagers went to Anderson for five points most of them from inside, while Gary Tufo had four points, all from outside. The East Orange scoring was evenly distributed as six players contributed to the 12 points scored in the period.

Unfortunately for the Bellboys, they were not always successful with this type of play. In the second half, the flying Panthers had outscored Belleville 59-24. Most of the points were off the errant Belleville passes that resulted in East Orange fast breaks. The cagers manage on eight points in the eight minutes of the third period. Bob Sanders had four of them, both on baskets from underneath. Dunn and Anderson had provided the other four points. East Orange was lead by Reggie Baker who poured in 10 points. Mike Booker had five.

The fourth quarter was the period that both teams had grabbed their most points. Abdel Anderson had seven points to lead Belleville yet he was overshadowed by 10 points by Dave Roberts and nine by Derrick Morton. Bob DiQuattro, Lauman Goon, and Bob Sanders each had contributed two points apiece. Brian Kelly, in his first game with the varsity, made good on the front of a one and one situation, but the rebound was put in by Tom Della Torre who also scored his first two points for the Bellboys.

Belleville was without the services of Harry Baumgartner who had missed his second game with a blood clot in his foot.

Undefeated Lyndhurst Gets Jolt by Bellgirls

by Elaine Drake

Undefeated Lyndhurst visited the local girl cagers with an impressive 6-0 record. The Bellgirls proved poor hosts as they upset for the second year in a row, their neighbors from across the river to better their own record to 3-1.

As has been their pattern, the Bellgirls were again inconsistent at times; however, an excellent third quarter enabled the girls to emerge as 45-33 victors over Lyndhurst. Joyce Buckland controlled the opening jump and assisted Gloria Barbone for the first goal of the game. Then Lyndhurst hit the boards for their only points in the first quarter. Carol Jackson went to the foul line to make one of her two free throws; and buckland was fouled and sank one of two shots. Donna Foley, who played well defensively, intercepted a Lyndhurst pass and assisted Joyce Buckland in another Bellgirl score. At the end of the first quarter, Belleville was ahead 12-2.

Lyndhurst came roaring back to dominate the second quarter by outscoring the Bellgirls sixteen points to nine points, Junior Donna Stone, playing forward for the first time, scored two shots with assists by Donna Foley. This was followed by a field goal and foul shot by Linda Diana, while Diane Amosuro sank two shots in a one and one situation. By the end of the first half, Belleville barely held on to a three point lead, 21-18.

A new spirit seemed to surge through the Belleville team as the third quarter began. The Bellgirls out-scored Lyndhurst twelve points to four points. Joyce Buckland scored the first field goal in the second half. Before Lyndhurst could penetrate the Belleville defense, Donna Stone intercepted the ball and assisted Donna Foley for a 15-foot field goal from the corner. Then Lyndhurst added two consecutive field goals for their only points in the third quarter. Joyce "Bucky" Buckland then intercepted a Lyndhurst pass and assisted Susan Paul in a goal from under the boards. With only one second left on the clock, Donna Foley banked a 30 footer from the outside to make the score at the end of the third quarter, 33-22.

Lyndhurst fought hard to gain the lead, but they were unable to over power the Belleville defense or to stop the Bellgirl offense. Carol Jackson found a hole in the Lyndhurst defense to sink two field goals from under the boards, while Donna Foley sank another 15-footer from the corner and made her two shots in a one and one situation. The final score was 45-33.

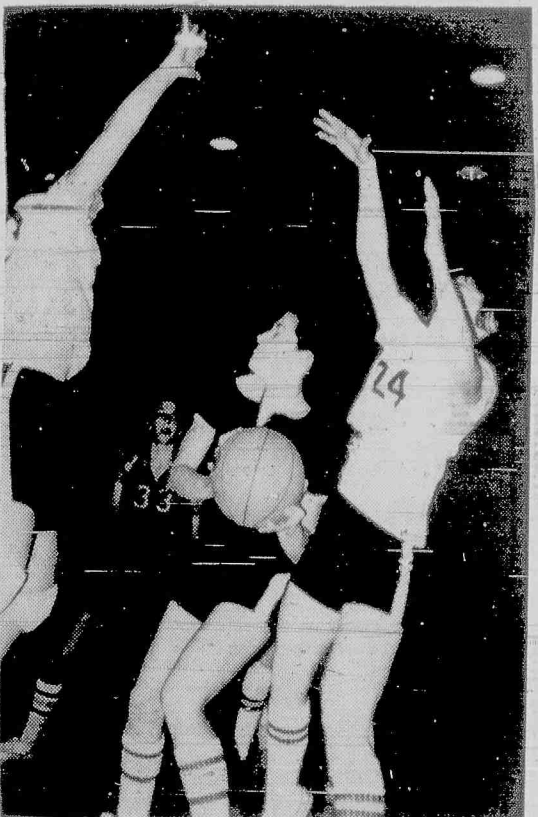

Offensively, all Bellgirl starters contributed, and the substitutes in reserve also added to the score. Individually, Senior Susan Paul was outstanding as she pulled down a game high of 22 rebounds.

The Junior Varsity team chalked up their second straight win in as many starts as they posted a 28-18 win over the Lyndhurst J.V. The potential of the J.V. began to show in this game as the Bellgirls started slowly, but methodically employing a ball control game, a good shot.

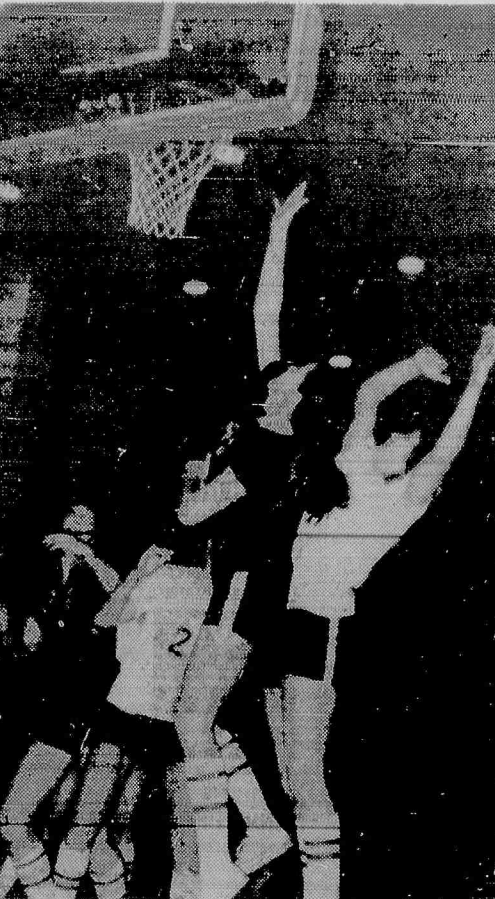

Tomorrow, January 18, the Bellgirls will lost a game with West Orange for the first meeting of the two schools.

COVERING a Lyndhurst player is Linda Diana, junior forward. The Blue-Gold defense allowed only 33 points.

BOXED IN is senior forward Susan Paul, who encounters opposition from two Lyndhurst.

BOARD BATTLE — Bellegirls compete under the backboards as they make their way to their third victory of the season.

Soccer Tourney Set For Paterson Armory

Indoor soccer is on the move. Northern New Jersey soccer fans don't have to go very far if they want to witness exciting action and see some of the international sport's greatest players on display.

Each Friday evening here at the Paterson National Guard Armory a slate of five 30-minute matches, featuring 10 top clubs, is loaded with many standout performers from the North American Soccer League and American Soccer League, as well.

Familiar outdoor performers from the New York Cosmos, Philadelphia Atoms, Newark Ukrainians, Jersey's Schaefer Brewers, New York Apollos and the Rochester Lancers grace the rosters of many of this year's competing clubs here who are battling it out for top honors.

This season, it's quite possible that more than $12,500 in prize money will be paid out to the 10-team field. And, too, an the six-team playoff title encounter slated for Friday, Mar. 8, a check for $1,000.00 is awarded to the 1974 kingpin.

"Never before have we had so many outstanding performers here playing at the armory with the various teams," remarked tournament director, Walt Perry, who is a former player, coach, current general manager of the Brewers in the ASL and who is also a member of the National Soccer Hall of Fame.

"I guess it's because that this tournament sponsored by Schaefer over the many years of toflight indoor seven-a-side competition's grown on the players," said Perry. Each year my phone rings later and later at night. Everybody wants to play and this is good. It is not only good for the teams, but also for the fans. For they get to see some of the finest stars in the game today perform right here."

In the past 10 indoor campaigns, an estimated 125,000 soccer fans have witnessed exciting, thrilling action at the armory. It all started when the talented Hoboken FC booters won back-to-back regular season and playoff title honors in 1964 and 1965.

"Soccer's growing. It now is getting bigger and bigger in all corners starting right from the midjet, juniors, high school, college and right up into the pro ranks," said president Pat Felano. "Sooner or later they'll be a bigtime indoor soccer loop. Already, Toronto's holding tournaments. Shortly, NASL teams are planning a few indoor events," said Perry.

Jerry Sularz, popular goalie of the New York Cosmos, is in the nets for Passaic Vista. The outstanding netkeeper has already turned in a blanking in his club's season lifter, a 2-0 decision over a good Paterson Roma SC team.

Len Renery and Randy Horton, two other standout Cosmos players last season, also were in the headlines as they paced their respective indoor squads to opening victories.

Renery, a graduate of Columbia University who hails from Neptune, registered both goals as he led Paterson Fraine to a thrilling victory over Elizabeth's Sport Club, 2-1.

Horton, hailed as one of the premier stars in the NASL, managed to play a great all-around game as he also managed to score a goal in helping New York's American-Dalmatinac defeat the New York Hungarians, 2-1.

Manny Schellscheidt, a player-coach with the NASL champion Philadelphia Atoms, is performing for the Elizabeth entry. Bob, another Atoms ace performer, is with Paterson Fraine.

Edner Breton, who collected three goals in sparking the New York Inter-Giuliana team to an easy four-goal decision, 5-1, over the Italian-American League All-Stars of New Jersey, starred during the outdoor season for the ASL champion New York Apollos who had to go overtime to edge Cincinnati's Comets for the honors.

Freehold Selected as Site For Trot District Meeting

Historic Freehold, New Jersey, home of the nation's oldest parimutuel harness track, will be the scene of the inaugural meeting of the United States Trotting Association's newly structured District 12, on February 9 and 10.

The new district, representing New Jersey in the nationwide U.S.T.A., is evidence of the tremendous growth of harness racing in the state. At present, 200 days of harness racing are conducted at Freehold and Atlantic City Raceways. Harness racing will also play a major role in the planned Meadowlands sports complex in Hackensack.

Previously, New Jersey and Pennsylvania had been grouped into the same U.S.T.A. District.

The meeting will commence on Saturday, February 9th at the American Hotel in downtown Freehold. The most important item on the agenda will be the election of two new District 12 Directors. A gala dinner in the main dining room of the Hotel will conclude the gathering on Sunday evening.

United States Trotting Association officials, representatives of the New Jersey Racing Commission, horsemen and management of the two New Jersey harness tracks will be in attendance.

The meeting will be hosted by Joseph V. McLoone, U.S.T.A. Director and General Manager of Freehold Raceway.

TENNIS FOR CHILDREN — A check for $4,000.00 part of the receipts from the 1973 Eastern Tennis Open held in August at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club in Orange, New Jersey, has been presented to the New Jersey Chapter of United Cerebral Palsy. The contribution was made by the Lehn & Fink Products Division of Sterling Drug Inc., makers of Medi-Quik First Aid Spray, which sponsored the tournament. Shown presenting the check to Joe Steliga (left), executive director of the New Jersey Chapter, and young Mark Lynott of Maplewood, New Jersey, a cerebral palsy child, is Mr. Roger M. Kirk, president of Lehn & Fink.

BECK'S COLUMN

BECK'S COLUMN

By MAX BECK

The Magnavox Company is just about the only manufacturer of TV, radio and Hi Fi sets that does not have fictitious so-called "list prices". If you see a price tag on a Magnavox set, that is the price. With most other TV sets, the tag price is just the starting point for haggling. Often one does not even find a price tag. Instead there is a coded number and one has to ask a salesperson about the price. It occurred to the writer once that three different salesmen quoted 3 different prices, all of this within an hour, in the same store. Sounds impossible? Try it once on the highways and in so-called "discount" stores. Of course, there is a minimum below which they won't sell, and whatever the salesman can get out of you above the minimum, is split between him and the store.

No such thing can happen if you buy a Magnavox set. However, once a year, in the month of February, there is a nationwide sale of Magnavox merchandise. Some models that did not move as expected and where there is an overstock, will be reduced in price. Other sets which will undergo a style change may have a lower price. Once in a while the storekeepers make mistakes and buy too much of a certain model, etc. For this reason, Magnavox dealers are given the opportunity to lower prices during this sale. Many customers wait for this chance to save some money at this time. They know that if the price is lowered on a Magnavox set, that this is the real thing and not one of those fake "reductions" from a fictitious list price. The sale started in Feb. If you are in the market for a new TV or Hi Fi, here is your, once a year, opportunity to save money on a Magnavox.

We service what we sell. Beck's Radio, TV, Hi Fi, Nutley 667-4225

Montclair State Matmen Look Toward Season's Critical Part

Coach Larry Sciacchitano's Montclair State College wrestling team faces the meat of its toughest schedule ever in the next two weeks. The Indian grapplers begin the first of three crucial matches tonight when they host Oregon State University at 7:30.

Montclair State (6-6-1) will entertain North Dakota State next Friday (Jan. 25) and Trenton State the following Thursday (Jan. 31).

Sciacchitano is prepared to compete against the Beavers. Oregon State (5-2) boasts last year's 190-pound National Collegiate Athletic Association Champion Greg Strobel, who has won 54 consecutive matches. The Beavers have been the Pacific-8 Conference champions nine of the last 10 years, under coach Dale Thomas, and have been one of the NCAA top six teams the past five seasons.

Strobel was voted last year's Most Valuable Wrestler en route to his NCAA championship as Oregon State finished second as a team to Iowa State University. Capping a 39-0 season, Strobel was further honored when he was selected as the cover athlete of this season's Official Collegiate-Scholastic Wrestling Guide.

Sciacchitano is optimistic in facing the Beavers. "We're finally back to full strength. We're healthy and we've got some people who have returned to eligibility," he says.

Montclair State will have six former Metropolitan Intercollegiate champions in the lineup tonight. Ed Alber, last year's 118-pound champion, will face Phillips to form one of the top-billed matches of the evening.

Nabil Guketlov of Paterson is Montclair State's unbeaten

126-pounder. He is 21-0 this season. Craig Spencer of Wayne will be wrestling at 134-pounds where he has gone 23-2 thus far this season. In addition to reaping the championship in the University of Delaware Tournament, Spencer was voted the Most Valuable Wrestler.

U.S. Bowling Tourney Scheduled for Garden

When the BPAA $85,000 U.S. Open Bowling Championship is held in the Madison Square Garden Bowling Center from Feb. 10 through 16, it will mark the seventh straight year that the Center is the scene of a major bowling event.

In fact, the first competition ever held in Madison Square Garden Center was a major bowling tournament, the National PBA Championship Dec. 3-9, 1967, which was won by Dave Davis. That tournament occurred before the Garden itself was ready for the public.

Davis' victory was historic and record-setting. He was the first bowler to win the PBA title two straight years. He also set a record by making it his sixth victory of the year, and collected $10,000 for winning. Dick Weber, in 1961, set the previous mark of five wins.

The defending U.S. Open champion is Mike McGrath, another southpaw who recently moved to St. Louis from California. Mike beat Earl Anthony, still another lefty, 234-222 for the $7,500 first prize in last year's championship.

Wayne Zahn was the second winner of a Garden bowling tournament in 1968, by the wide margin of 14,182 pins to 13,741 for runnerup Nelson Burton, Jr.

Montclair Hires Sports Info Man

Gregory M. Schmalz has been appointed to the position of Sports Information Director at Montclair State College, Director of Athletics William P. Djoguardi announced today.

Schmalz, a 1971 graduate of Saddle Brook High School and a 1972 graduate of Career Academy's School of Broadcasting in New York City, succeeds Richard L. Stahlberger, who served in this capacity for 10 years.

Only 20 years old, Schmalz has been a sports writer with The Paterson (N.J.) News for four and one-half years and has just completed his first year with The Herald-News in Passaic.

Schmalz also served as statistician for the Clifton VTM Phillies, a semi-professional baseball team, in 1972 and was the publicity director of the Metropolitan Baseball League this past summer.

Holy Family Scheduling 10-Week Education Series

Holy Family Church will host a ten-week course titled "Faith and Catechesis" to be held in St. Joseph Hall on Brookline Ave. beginning Wednesday, Jan. 30 at 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the Religious Education Office of the Archdiocese of Newark, the course will be taught by Sister Mary Zucca, MPF and a team of priests.

Course content centers on the Catholic faith and methods for teaching. However, any interested adult is welcome to register. The fee is $10 and is payable at the first session.

Sister Mary Zucca is presently serving as Catechetical Consultant for Essex County. She has taught in parochial schools in Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and has served as Parish Coordinator in St. Anthony's parish in Union City. Sister has a B.S. in elementary education from St. Elizabeth's College, Convent Station, and a Masters Degree in Religious Education from Providence College in Rhode Island.

Rev. Kevin Hanbury, associate pastor at Holy Family, will be teaching with Sister Mary, as will Rev. Michael Saltarelli. Father

Hanbury has a Masters Degree in Religious Education from Eordham and serves as parish coordinator. Father Saltarelli, also associate pastor, is regional director for the Archdiocesan CCD office.

CD Directors To Check Fuel At Local Level

At a meeting of all county Civil Defense-disaster Control Coordinators at the State Department of Defense headquarters in Trenton, Acting State Director of CD-DC, J/ J. Morgan Van Hise, alerted all local CD-DC directors to monitor fuel problems at the grass roots level.

Van Hise, who was appointed as director of the State Emergency Fuel and Energy Agency announced the action in conjunction with a recent Executive Order promulgated by Governor Cahill designating the Division of CD-DC, Department of Defense, as the responsible agency for coordinating the state policies with those of federal and local governments.

Although payment or credit requirements will remain strictly a customer-dealer relationship, Van Hise emphasized the need of exercising common sense and cooperation in the use and supply of all heating fuels if we are to assure that no one goes cold this winter.

Householders and small business owners confronted with immediate shortages, less than a week's supply, in supply of heating fuels should contact James V. LaMotta, Civil Defense Director for the Town of Belleville at 759-5100.

La Motta also stresses the need for cooperation and encourages everyone to practice fuel and energy conservation wherever and whenever possible.

Call for New Methods Against Drunk Driving

Scare tactics and punishment do not keep the drunks off the roads.

That's what Roger Surprenant, coordinator of the New Jersey Motor Vehicles Division's Alcohol Countermeasures Project, told participants in the Local Highway Safety Management Conference today at Rutgers University.

"Striking fear in the hearts of everyone is not the only way to mount a highway safety program and more often than not, only adds more half truths to dangerous misconceptions that people have about the effects of alcohol on their behavior," Surprenant noted.

Roche Licensed To Sell Aid In Cancer Detection

Nutley's Hoffmann-LaRoche, Inc., this week became the first firm licensed by the Food and Drug Administration to market a cancer detection test.

The new detection test reportedly involves the use of radioactive materials in low dosages to measure the level of carcinoembryonic antigen (CEA) in the blood. Results of processing the test will show that a CEA level below 2.5 per cent is considered normal. A level of five to 10 per cent would be viewed upon as "suspicious" and a reading of above 10 per cent "very suspicious."

One major use of the test would be monitoring the progress of patients who have undergone surgery or radiation treatments for removal of malignant tumors. Reports from Roche indicate that the test is not alone diagnostic, but it is rather an aid in diagnosis.

Roche also reported that the test should not be relied upon for routine screening because it may yield false positive findings among heavy smokers and persons suffering from certain liver and intestinal inflammations.

Another valuable use of the test is an aid in cancer detection in patients who have undergone cancer treatment because indications of a relapse may be detected months before clinical signs are noticed.

According to Roche, the test may be processed within a number of hours by a good laboratory at a cost of about $25 to $35 each.

Already, the test has proved useful in the detection of cancer of the colon, the full intestinal tract and in some cases the lung and breast, reports Roche.

MS Magazine Editor Will Speak Sunday

Letty Cottin Pogrebin, an editor and writer for MS Magazine, will be the Collegiate Pulpit speaker at the Unitarian Church, 67 Church Street, Montclair, at 11 a.m. on Sunday, Jan. 20, as announced by Judge John F. Crane, Chairman of the Collegiate Pulpit Committee. Her subject will be "LIVING WITH THE FEMINIST REVOLUTION".

A cum laude graduate from Brandeis University, Ms. Pogrebin lectures extensively on "The Women's Movement", "Women and Business", and "Non-Sexist Child-Rearing". She has appeared on many educational conferences, college campuses and on numerous radio and television programs.

Ms. Pogrebin's major concerns as a writer and lecturer have been two important areas of women's lives, work and child-rearing, and how each are being re-evaluated and changed by the women's movement. A member of the Board of Directors of the Ms. Foundation for Women and Children, Ms. Pogrebin is a consultant for projects dealing with "Free to Be..." which is appearing as a record album, an ABC-TV special and a book to be published in 1974.

As an involved feminist, Ms. Pogrebin is also a member of the Board of Directors of Action for Children's Television and a consultant for the Women's Action Alliance on a Non-Sexist Child Care Project. Her listing of recommended non-sexist toys (Ms. Magazine, December 1973) is currently being used by many educators, child care experts and women's groups. She is a frequent reviewer of children's books for The New York Times.

Ms. Pogrebin contributes the monthly column, "The Working Woman", to "Ladies Home Journal." Her article, "Down With Sexist Upbringing", which appeared in the preview issue of MS Magazine, won the 1973 Family Service Association Journalism award and is included in "The First MS Reader". Her first book, "How to Make It In A Man's World," was published in 1970.

The Collegiate Pulpit, organized in the early 1920's by Dr. Edgar Wiers, then minister of the Unitarian Church, has brought national and international persons to the local pulpit as a contribution to the local area. Members of the public, interested in hearing Ms. Pogrebin speak, are invited to attend the Church Service.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. C. Bond, 53; Hospital Secretary

Funeral services were held January 12 at Holy Family Church for Mrs. Elizabeth Bond, 109 Forest Street, Belleville, who died January 9 at St. Barnabas Hospital. A former Nutley resident and Belleville resident for 15 years, she was 53.

Born in Burnbank, Scotland Mrs. Bond was a secretary at Clara Mass Memorial Hospital.

She is survived by her husband Charles Bond; a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Liolia; three sons, Charles, Edward, and David; three brothers, Pat, Edward, and George; four sisters, Isabell Blair, Ann McLafferty, Mary Cosimano, and Cristy Duffy, and four grandchildren.

Services were arranged by the Landolfi Home for Funerals, and interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery, North Arlington.

Charles Hoover; Ex-Accountant

Funeral services were held January 10 for Charles H. Hoover, Mt. Prospect Avenue, Newark, who died January 8 at Clara Maass Memorial Hospital after an extended illness. A retired accountant for the U.S. Treasury Department and Atomic Energy Commission, he was 82.

Born in Bridgeton, Mr. Hoover retired in 1952 from government work and moved from Washington, D.C. to Florida. He moved to Newark seven years ago.

He is survived by his wife Mrs. Nellie Ewan Hoover; two daughters, Mrs. Thelma Colhamer of Belleville, and Mrs. Frances Ebert of Sayreville; two sons, Herbert C. Hoover of Nutley, and Edgar S. Hoover of Virginia; two brothers, Clarence of Woodstown, and Thomas of Bridgeton; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The Rev. C. David Follansbee of Vincent Methodist Church, Nutley, officiated the services held at the Wadsworth Funeral Home. Interment was in Restland Memorial Park, East Hanover.

F. Groeling; 5 Years Old

Funeral services were held January 4 in St. Peter's Church for five-year-old Frank W. Groeling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Groeling, 38 Oak Street. The youngster died December 31 at the New York University Hospital, New York City, after a long illness.

Beside his parents, young Groeling is survived by a sister, Danielle, at home.

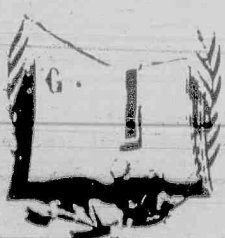

The Rev. Minks officiated the services which were directed by the Wadsworth Funeral Home.

Mary Maselli; Lived in Town For 20 Years

Funeral services were held January 10 in New Orleans, La., for Mrs. Mary Maselli, 4430 Eaton Street, New Orleans, who died in that city January 9 after a long illness. A former Belleville resident, she was 74.

Born in Italy, Mrs. Maselli came to Belleville in 1952, and lived here about 20 years.

She is survived by three sons, Joseph and Dominic, both of New Orleans, and Anthony of South Orange; two brothers, Joseph Janetti of Newark, and Sam Janetti of Nutley, and seven grandchildren.

Jersey Bell Telephone Cuts Energy Consumption

The New Jersey Bell Telephone Company has implemented a series of emergency conservation measures designed to immediately reduce company-wide consumption of electric energy and fuel by 15 percent.

Robert W. Kleinert, president, said, "The cutback is our positive response to national efforts to alleviate the energy crisis. We feel confident, however, that with prudent management we can assure enough gasoline to keep our vehicles operating, enough diesel fuel to run the emergency generating equipment in central offices, and enough fuel oil to heat buildings."

With 7,700 trucks, cars and vans, New Jersey Bell operates the largest privately-owned commercial motor vehicle fleet in the state. Company vehicles logged 61,626,380 miles last year and used 6.2 million gallons of gasoline.

Gasoline consumption has increased 13 percent this year, and because of the fuel shortage, the company has projected a deficit of 400,000 gallons required to run the fleet through May, 1974, when the supply contract terminates.

Without stringent conservation, the deficit would equate to the loss of approximately 700 splicing trucks for the same time period," Kleinert said.

The company has instituted emergency methods which will reduce gasoline consumption an estimated 10 to 15 percent, saving some 750,000 gallons over the next 12 months.

A policy limiting maximum speeds to 50 miles per hour where permitted, and five miles per hour under posted speed limits on all company vehicles, has been implemented. Drivers have been instructed to reduce vehicle idling time and to eliminate unnecessary travel.

An employee information campaign to remind company drivers of the gasoline scarcity and to instruct them in proper driving techniques to improve mileage was instituted last spring.

The company has urged its 32,000 employees to conserve energy by forming car pools or by using public transportation to commute to work.

To conserve diesel oil, New Jersey Bell has reduced the time for test runs of its 400 emergency generators, resulting in a 75 percent fuel reduction. The generators are used as a backup power source in the event of commercial power failure.

Additional procedures have been adopted to further conserve fuel oil and electricity used to heat and light the company's 614 buildings in the state.

To achieve a 15 to 20 percent reduction in fuel oil use per month, temperatures in general office space and stalled equipment rooms have been reduced from 72 degrees to 68 degrees during working hours. Temperatures are lower during unoccupied hours.

Water heat levels in all company buildings, except those with cafeterias, have been dropped 40 degrees to a constant 100 degrees.

To reduce electrical consumption, lighting levels in office buildings and other work locations have been reduced to minimum appropriate requirements during working hours. Non-essential lighting has been eliminated and only security lighting is to be used after hours.

Savings are expected to reduce total electrical consumption by 15 to 20 percent.

"We will continue to reduce our energy consumption as much as necessary in the national interest and as much as humanly possible to meet the crisis," Kleinert said.

At Rutgers U.

Scientist Believes Ecology Is Mankind's Top Challenge

A thoroughly modern man, scientist and educator at Rutgers takes the increasingly accepted view that the "sudden" ecological crisis is one for man, not nature.

Dr. Michael Piburn, a slim, wiry and elegantly bearded young associate professor of science and humanities in the Rutgers Graduate School of Education, says that more people are swinging around to this still somewhat controversial way of looking at the ecological crisis. And he is doing his best to see to it that more people look in this light upon what could be the most serious problem facing modern man.

He states this point of view in the title of a new book, "The Environment, A Human Crisis," and then deals with it more fully between covers of this slender volume in the Hayden Press American Values series.

"Briefly put, we think it is an important way of recognizing what the problem is," said Dr. Piburn. "For the volumes in this American Values series represent an attempt to address some contemporary social issues not strictly from a technical view but through the value problems these issues raise with respect to the environment."

"This is not a crisis for nature. Nature has endured several more profound crises in the past, such as continental glaciation, volcanic eruptions, and even the extermination of major groups of animals who faltered."

"The crisis is strictly from, whereas it is usually couched in ecological (abstract) terms, which I don't believe is the way to look at it."

The book, intended for use in senior high school and junior college courses on social issues, includes a series of case studies.

There is, for example, the blackout in New York of several years ago as an example of the energy crisis and the failure of voters in Pennsylvania to accept the Brandywine plan for regional development.

Each case study is presented in terms of the kinds of choices we have ahead of us.

"Usually," Prof. Piburn said, "these are quite complicated but they are generally centered around the quality and kind of life we want to live."

Above all others and most pressing is the question of the automobile.

Most of these questions involve unpleasant choices. After all, he points out, our lives are centered around the automobile and giving it up would be decidedly unpleasant.

Even though our lives are indeed and beyond controversy centered around the automobile, Dr. Piburn remarked gloomily that he doesn't see how we can live with the automobile "as now used."

The Alaskan pipeline controversy and apparent solution are too late for inclusion in Prof. Piburn's book but the work does include material on the wilderness problem.

"Everybody who speaks on the wilderness speaks from some personal point of view, and this is not in itself necessarily bad," the young professor said. "Take the case of the Appalachian Trail. Our use of it has been quite damaging. And yet if you follow the wishes of the Sierra Club people in some of these conservation areas no one will be able to use them. Point this out to the Sierra Club and they get quite unhappy."

Kohoutek Fizzles; Cancel Viewings

Like a defective firecracker, Comet Kohoutek seems to be more fizzle than sparkle. The comet's failure to light the heavens has led the Sperry Observatory at Union College to cancel the nightly viewing sessions that had been scheduled through January 19 after Friday, January 11.

Prof. Patrick J. White, director of the observatory, said efforts to bring in the comet on the observatory's telescope have met with poor to fair results.

"It's very dim," he said. The nightly Open House program was instituted Monday, January 7, when 500 people came to see Kohoutek, but had to settle for Saturn instead.

"The fact is," said Prof. White, "Saturn put in a pretty good performance with its rings clearly visible through the telescope."

Kohoutek did put in an appearance on Tuesday, January 8, but for the 450 people who came to see the "Comet of the Century," it was a big disappointment. The comet was barely visible and not in the least spectacular, according to Prof. White.

Poor weather conditions led to cancelling the Open House scheduled for Wednesday, January 9, and the decision was made to cancel all programs after January 11.

It had been predicted by many astronomers that Kohoutek, named for the Czech-born astronomer who discovered it on March 7 of last year, would outshine the legendary Halley's comet. Special watches had been set up across the country to see this "once-in-a-lifetime" event.

Prof. White, however, warned in September that the comet might not live up to its advance billing.

"Fantastic things have been envisioned for several comets during the last few years, only to fizzle out," he said in an interview on September 7.

Amateur Astronomers, Inc., which jointly operates the Sperry Observatory with Union College, had planned the 13 Open House programs to give as wide an audience as possible the opportunity to see the comet. AAI members have been present at the observatory nightly to explain the phenomena, to assist people in using the telescopes and to answer questions.

The Sperry Observatory will continue to be open to the public for viewing every Friday night.

Odds Called 'Foolish' In Gasoline Gambling

The recent rash of explosions and fires in homes as a result of storing gasoline on the premises shows that some people panic into being mileage-wise and safety foolish.

Robinson P. Rigg, vice president, Combined Insurance Company of America, Chicago, came out strongly against the unsafe practice.

"How silly it is to hoard about $3 worth of gasoline in your house and risk blowing it up! Three dollars bet against an average of $30 thousand; ridiculous odds!"

"Worse still, people gamble on the safety of their loved ones who can be killed or horribly maimed."

Rigg went on to count up the costs that hoarders probably overlook. He said:

- Many home insurance policies have a clause which could suspend or restrict the coverage if the insured increases the hazard! That would include storage of flammables on the premises.

Is it worth risking losing your home insurance to be able to drive maybe 100 miles more?

- Is your accident or hospital insurance so extensive it would cover long-term hospital confinement, possibly intensive care, or treatment in a burn center?

- Worse still, if you're the breadwinner, is your life worth only a few gallons of gas? If you think so, ask your family!

- Even if your family goes unscathed by explosion or fire, are you ready to face a possible lawsuit from neighbors whose property may be extensively damaged because of your negligent act?

Rigg said, "I'd rather walk to work, if I had to, or shop in neighborhood stores and be alive than to know I have a lethal time bomb in my basement or garage."

"For the sake of others," he concluded, "don't save gas - save lives!"

Combined is the parent corporation of a group of four insurance companies.

Combined's insurance subsidiaries are Combined American Insurance Company, Dallas; Combined Life Insurance Company of New York, Albany; and Combined Insurance Company of Wisconsin, Fond du Lac.

All of the companies sell both life insurance and accident and health insurance except for Combined Life Insurance Company of New York, which specializes in life insurance.

State Checks Roads For Use by Bicycles

A Department of Transportation study has found that less than 400 miles of the State's highways can be used safely for bikeways, and 346 of these miles extend throughout the southern half of the State.

The recently completed study, "Bikeways for State Highways, A Study of Dual Use," was carried out to investigate the feasibility of establishing a statewide bikeway network on and off the 1,877 miles of State highways.

A report on the study indicates that because of safety problems resulting from present and projected traffic volumes, the use of shoulders along most of State highways was considered not feasible for bicycle routes.

Only 54 miles of State Highways in the northern half of the State are suitable for compatible operation of both bicycles and cars, the report notes.

Three types of bikeways are discussed in the report: a bicycle path, or exclusive right-of-way for bicycles; a bicycle lane, or restricted right-of-way for bicycles within a highway right-of-way; and a bicycle route, or any right-of-way shared with motorized vehicles.

The report recommended that the Department "encourage the Legislature to consider a one-time appropriation to commission a comprehensive study of bikeway needs in the State." Another recommendation is to "limit designation of State highways as bikeways for the present to those routes capable of safely accommodating bicycle traffic, and to those which can serve as links between networks developed by others — State agencies, counties, park commissions, municipalities."

The report was prepared in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Transportation's Federal Highway Administration. Copies are being distributed to private organizations, and Federal, State, county, and regional public agencies interested in bikeway planning.

Written comments and requests for copies should be sent to: Division of Transportation Planning and Research, Department of Transportation, 1035 Parkway Avenue, Trenton, 08625.

Symphony Orchestra Opens Its 1974 Season

The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, under the musical direction of Henry Lewis, began the second-half of its 1973-74 concert season last week with an imaginative, new repertoire of symphonic, chamber and contemporary works, and a roster of outstanding guest artists.

Opening the season was an afternoon concert on Sunday at the Montclair High School, Montclair. Assistant conductor Jesse Levine led the symphony in a program including: Jean Joseph Mouret's "Sinfonies de Chasse (Hunt Symphony)"; Charles Ives/William Schuman's "Variations on America"; two songs by Ives, "General William Booth Enters Into Heaven" and "The Circus Band" with baritone Julius Eastman; Stravinsky's "Le Baiser de la Fée Divertimento"; Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet Overture"; and "Piano Concerto No. 27" by Mozart with pianist Charles Rosen.

The last of the Montclair Sunday afternoon series will be February 17, when Lorin Hollander, piano soloist, joins the symphony in its presentation of Saint-Saens' "Piano Concerto No. 5," Liszt's "Mephisto Waltz" and Moussorgsky's "Pictures."

The Montclair Friday evening series concludes with a March 22 concert at 8:30 p.m., also in the Montclair

High School, when the symphony presents Mahler's "Symphony No. 4," Bartok's "Piano Concerto No. 3," with guest pianist Gyorgy Sandor, and Wagner's "Prelude to Meistersinger."

The symphony returns to Red Bank and the Carlton Theatre on January 17 at 8:30 p.m., for the third concert in the Red Bank series with a program including Mozart's "Symphony No. 38," Brahms' "Violin Concerto" with Yung Uck Kim as violin soloist, and Sibelius' "Symphony No. 7." Concluding the Red Bank series will be a February 14th concert featuring Saint-Saens' "Piano Concerto No. 5" with piano soloist Lorin Hollander, Liszt's "Mephisto Waltz" and Moussorgsky's "Pictures."

The symphony's program of Mozart, Sibelius and Brahms, with violin soloist Yung Uck Kim, will be repeated for Millburn area residents on Saturday evening, January 19, 8:30 p.m., at the Millburn High School, and again on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 20, 3 p.m. On February 23, 8:30 p.m., Lynn Harrell, cello soloist, will join the symphony for the last of its Millburn Saturday evening series. The concert will include Handel's "Royal Fireworks Music," Schumann's "Cello Concerto" with Lynn Harrell, Martin's "Concerto for 7 Wind Instruments" and Liszt's "Mephisto Waltz."

The Cherry Hill East High School, Cherry Hill, will be the setting for a Saturday evening concert on January 26, 8:30 p.m., when the symphony, led by assistant conductor Jesse Levine, will present a variety of musical styles and periods. The program will include: Jean Joseph Mouret's "Sinfonies de Chasse (Hunt Symphony)"; Charles Ives/William Schuman's "Variations on America"; two songs by Ives, "General William Booth Enters Into Heaven" and "The Circus Band" with baritone Julius Eastman; Stravinsky's "Le Baiser de la Fée Divertimento"; Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet Overture," and "Piano Concerto No. 27" by Mozart with pianist Charles Rosen.

The symphony will return to Cherry Hill on Friday evening, March 1, 8:30 p.m., with Lynn Harrell, cello soloist, for a program of Handel's "Royal Fireworks Music," Schumann's "Cello Concerto," Martin's "Concerto for 7 Wind Instruments" and Liszt's "Mephisto Waltz." The program will be repeated on Saturday evening, March 2, 8:30 p.m., at Glassboro State College, Glassboro.

The Opera's Greatest Hits, Vol. III, will be presented by the symphony in an informal setting on Sunday afternoon, February 3, 1:30 p.m., at the Summit High School. The Family Concert, which is the second in the Summit series, will include selections from operas by Wagner, Rossini, Verdi and Mozart.

'Serpico' Co-Star In 'Sam'

Cinderella had her fairy godmother, but Allan Felix has his "Bogey" man. Tony Roberts and Marcia Rodd star in Woody Allen's comedy hit, "Play It Again, Sam," opening January 23 at Millburn's Paper Mill Playhouse.

Tony Roberts has the lead as the nebbish-next-door whose inferiority complexes get in the way of his seduction techniques. He's helped along by his best friend's wife - Marcia Rodd - first by advice, then by action.

Roberts comes to Paper Mill Playhouse from the original Broadway and movie productions of "Sam," in which he created the role of the husband. He can be seen in the film "Serpico," playing opposite Al Pacino. He co-starred in "Sugar" last year with Robert Morse and Elaine Joyce.

Marcia Rodd is a Broadway veteran. She starred in and was nominated for a Tony award in "Shelter," and was featured in "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" and "Your Own Thing." She has made two films, "Little Murders" with Elliott Gould, and "T. R. Baskin."

"Play It Again, Sam" was a critically acclaimed comedy hit on Broadway from 1969-1970. The plot revolves around the efforts of a would-be Lothario who depends for advice upon an imaginary mentor - called "Bogey" - patterned after Humphrey Bogart in "Casablanca." He's successful only when he stops confusing fantasy and reality.

The show will run through February 17. Performances are on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 8:30; Saturday at 3 and 7:30; Sunday at 3 and 7:30; Thursday matinee at 2. Tickets range from $8.00 to $20.00 and are available from the box office at 376-4343.

Recycling of Newspapers Saves Energy and Trees

Newspaper recycling has beneficial impacts far away from New Jersey, according to David F. Moore, executive director of the North Jersey conservation Foundation here and a spokesman for the Committee for Resource Recovery.

"Not only does recycling old newspapers into fresh news paper spell a saving in energy, it also brings a dramatic reprieve from air and water pollution," Moore explained.

The pollution aspect enters the picture because of the chemical makeup of trees, which contrasts with that of the paper into which they are converted. Moore said that when a tree is reduced to pulp chemically or mechanically to make paper, a number of chemicals are added and then left over. Despite a growing trend toward anti-pollution devices at wood pulp mills, "a lot of that waste material becomes an environmental insult to the air and water near the pulp mills," he said.

"On the other hand, once wood is converted to paper, that same paper can be refabricated and used again. But the noxious ingredients were removed during the original manufacturing process, so that problem does

Masterwork Auditions Set For Sunday

Auditions for new members in The Masterwork Chorus will be held Monday evening, Jan. 21, at 7:30 at The Masterwork Music and Art Foundation, Morris County Park Commission Cultural Center, 300 Mendham Road, Morristown, New Jersey.

Requirements for membership are a blending voice, the ability to sing on pitch, some ability to read music, and regular attendance at the rehearsals which are held every Wednesday evening at the Student Center, County College of Morris, Route 10, Dover, New Jersey.

The Masterwork Chorus is accepting new members in all voice sections in preparation for its spring concerts. The works being rehearsed under David Randolph's direction are Brahms' "Requiem" and Orff's "Carmina Burana". For further information, contact the Masterwork office weekdays between 9 and 1 at (201) 538-1860.

Women and teenage girls are often found to be deficient in iron, undoubtedly due to inadequate diets. To make sure you get enough iron, you must include iron-rich foods in your meals. Such foods include liver, other meats, eggs, dried beans and peas, green leafy vegetables, prunes, raisins, dried apricots, enriched or whole grain breads and cereals.

not arise with recycling," Moore elaborated, while noting that recycling by-products undergo sewage treatment.

A New Jersey native who majored in forestry at the University of Maine and then worked several years as a timber expert for paper companies, Moore said the public is generally unaware of the complex energy advantages in recycling paper.

"If you start with a tree, it first must be cut and trimmed. Then it must be hauled to the paper mill, usually for many miles. Once at the mill, it is de-barked and then chipped. All mean great amounts of energy expended by heavy machinery. Compare this with the simple task of collecting newspapers anywhere in New Jersey and delivering them for recycling," Moore continued.

Although the manufacture of news paper is essentially the same, whether from wood pulp or used newspapers, there is a distinct energy saving in the latter case because it is easier to liquify and de-ink newspapers than to prepare the wood pulp, which must be cooked.

Finally, Moore continued, most of the publications buying recycled news paper are much closer to its source than to Canadian and Upper New England mills which make paper from trees, so that shorter delivery distances also contribute to the overall energy saving.

"On top of all that, New Jersey benefits from newspaper recycling because of the reduction in sanitary land filling needed to dispose of solid waste. With space at a premium in America's most densely populated state, it's a contribution to be able to reduce solid waste up to 20 per cent through removal of

Agencies' Rules To Help Public

Administrative rules designed primarily to assist and protect the public are being adopted by New Jersey State agencies at a rapidly growing rate, according to the year-end report by John K. Rafferty, Director of the Division of Administrative Procedure in the Department of State.

Total number of such new rules, which have the same effect as law, jumped to 366 last year, up a big 37 per cent over the 267 administrative rules going into effect in 1972, he reported.

"The average monthly rate of rules adoptions in 1973 was at about 30, compared to 22 per month the previous year," Rafferty said.

Greatest number of new rules last year were promulgated in January, and the same number again in July, the high to date.

The increase in rules from 1971 to 1972 came to 11 per cent, compared to last year's jump of 36 per cent, the administrative director pointed out. Rules adoptions over the past four years have come in number from 160 to 241, to 367 and to the 366 of last year.

He noted that this shows a constant increase in new rules since 1970, the first full year following adoption of a law which requires State Departments and some other rules before adoption, and to allow sufficient time for public comment and, in some cases, hearings.

Olga Knows

This Week's Horoscope
(January 19 through January 25)

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You, Ari, are blessed with an unusual amount of drive and enthusiasm for adventure. Be wary this week lest passion lead you into dangerous cul-de-sac. Because you are first in the Zodiac, you desire to be first in other areas, also. Just don't shove associates to accomplish your goals.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Earthy Taurus is in for a surprise from Momma Nature. Your patience is about to pay off on a personal matter. One at a distance may try to communicate. Remove earplugs and tune in for good vibrations. Week ends on key of C for Change.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Week ahead may resemble Biblical Tower of Babel, with everyone seeming to speak a different tongue. Confusion reigns. Actually, out of this chaos will come order. Just permit each person to ride his/her own broom. Week ends on note of E for Exhaustion. Total; that is.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): As you know, Moonbaby, your sign is that of The Crab. Inside you are soft, sensitive and very vulnerable. Thank your stars that you are protected by a hard outer shell. In week ahead, if dear one is difficult to deal with, save your energy and withdraw into that shell until moods improve.

LEO (July 23-August 22): It is no mere accident that lions in a group are referred to as "a pride." You who are born under the sign of Leo the Lion have a great awareness of your own personal dignity. You have pride, in the best sense. Member of opposite sex admires you for this trait. Interesting message arrives. Act on it.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22): Struggle to become person you really want to be, Virg. To accomplish this you must use everything that Heaven has blessed you with, your intellect, your intuition AND your willpower. Time ideal to just bust loose from that old cocoon and fly, baby, fly!

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): You are naturally charming, Lib, but there is one who may misinterpret your words/actions. At times you appear to be flirtatious when in fact you are only being friendly. Turmoil tends to dominate most of week. Study words to Gemini for important message.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): You are the sexiest sign in the Zodiac, Scorp, and because of this you simply cannot tolerate life without love. You may have a small problem in this department in days ahead. Because you (sometimes unwittingly) send out signals, you may have to fend off unwanted admirer. All in all, a typical Scorp week.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): You, Sag, are direct, democratic and damnably delightful. In week ahead, associate seeks you out to cry on your friendly shoulder. Be cautious with advice. What this person really needs is just someone to listen. Study words to Gemini for secret message.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19): Don't waste your time on a relationship that is going nowhere, Cap. Of course, if you ENJOY something that's a different matter. However, if you want to be really liberated you have to ACT. This will not be easy. You will have to give up the known for the unknown, always a scary move.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): Relatively routine week ahead, Aquari my love. No major peaks, but no depressing valleys, either. Original idea flashes. Put notion in motion pronto. On last day, take time to relax with hot coffee, hot chocolate, or hot toddy. Then, hot diggity!

PISCES (February 19-March 20): Unexpected message from interesting individual. This person could have exactly what you have so long been looking for. Career gains can be made. Tender winter romance due to ripen. Keep your dancing slippers handy.

CHAMBER OFFICERS — The Belleville Chamber of Commerce held a luncheon meeting at the Fountain Restaurant Monday, and new officers were installed. Shown here with Belleville Mayor Joseph McGreevy are (l-r) Treasurer Fred E. Belleville Adult School Offers Potpourri of Useful Course

The Belleville Adult School will hold registration for its spring semester January 28, 29 and 30 at Belleville High School from 7 to 9 p.m. Prospective students may also register on these days from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Registration can also be accomplished through the mail by using blanks found in the adult school brochure, which has been mailed throughout town and can be found in the Belleville Library, banks and other business establishments.

Adult School Director Leonard Marciano recommends mail registration wherever possible as courses fill up rapidly and

"it's sometimes necessary to disappoint students when classes are filled."

Classes are scheduled to begin on February 5 and 7.

The school offers a variety of courses in different areas, including arts, crafts, business, homemaking, hobbies, sports, culture, continuing education and general interest.

Marciano said "Tuition is always consistent with operating costs and the financial goal of the school is to meet its financial obligations—not to make a profit. The teachers and students have available to them the complete facilities of a modern high school, in addition to the special equipment and materials that have been acquired by the adult school itself."

Two of the courses offered by the adult school in the field of art are Pottery for Beginners, and The Drawing and Painting Studio. Each of these courses have been Drawing and Painting Studio. Each of these courses have been popular in the past and provisions have been made to run additional classes this year if the demand exists. "Students are I-Aip3C A sed with the facilities available to them when they take these courses," said Marciano.

For the homemaker, there are courses in interior decorating, knitting and sewing for beginners.

Numerous classes are offered in the business field, including typing for beginners, and bookkeeping and shorthand for beginners as well as advanced courses. Office machine practice, business machines and wiring will also be offered.

For the recent arrival to this country, the school has two courses designed to teach English in beginners and advanced classes. "These courses are invaluable to those seeking citizenship and it is to be hoped that friends and relatives of non-English speaking Americans will advise them of the existence of these offerings."

For the sports and figure-minded, the adult school has beginner's and advanced classes in tennis as well as an activity night for women. For those desiring real action, jujitsu is available.

Final Budget Report Drawn; Stage Set for Town Appeal

Acting Commissioner of Education Edward Kilpatrick sent an official message last week to opposing parties of the restoration of $214,036 of the funds slashed by the Town Commission from the 1973-74 school budget.

Left untouched by the Commission was $236,844 of the Town Father's total cut of $450,880 from the $7.4 million budget.

A preliminary report from the hearing examiner submitted to Kilpatrick had given a figure for restored funds that was $7,000 higher than the final sum. Board of Education President Lawrence Schwartz said this week an arithmetical error had been made in Trenton on the initial report and the Commissioner had not cut the school budget further as it had appeared.

While Mayor Joseph McGreevy has threatened to appeal the case to Superior Court if any of the slashed funds were restored by the Commissioner, he said this week he would take the matter one rung higher on the ladder of administrative appeals open to the Town.

Schwartz said the case would have to next go to a three-judge panel in the Superior Court, and there were no other administrative avenues in the Department of Education. "He added that while the Board of Education 'is not totally satisfied' with the decision of the Commissioner, 'we are not going

by Ken Moore

Commissioner Mary V. Senatore announced this week she will not appeal the ruling of Superior Court Judge James T. Owens saying the Board of Commissioners has the power to appoint members to the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

Mrs. Senatore apparently has ended her battle to have Zoning Board member Anthony Agresta reappointed to the board over the objections of three other Commissioners who opposed him.

Mrs. Senatore further stated she will not submit another name for consideration for the duration of her present term as Commissioner. "I feel that if my fellow commissioners are against my appointments, what's the sense of my submitting another name? I'll go a year without an appointment. Mayor McGreevy has three appointments on that board. If he wants to control the Zoning Board, let him control it."

She stated she will have no part in any zoning matters for the rest of her term. Asked if she will vote on any cases which come before the Commission, she said she'll "decide that later."

Last September, the Commission voted 3-2, with Commissioner Robert Laterza siding with Mrs. Senatore, to deny Anthony Agresta's reappointment to the Zoning Board. At the same meeting two nominations backed by McGreevy, that of Chairman Arthur DeFuria and member Kenneth Nash, were not given a second. Thus, DeFuria and Nash were not formally reappointed, but each remains on the board until someone is named in their places.

Agresta, on the other hand, has refused to sit as a "holdover," like DeFuria and Nash, and Mrs. Senatore now says she will not submit another appointment.

"Mr. Agresta was a very qualified member," she said this week. "He did his homework, he was a good secretary to the board, he viewed every piece of property he ever voted on, no one ever pushed anything down his throat and he voted on everything exactly as he saw it."

"I'm not going to walk away from this man," she added. "He's done too good of a job for this town."

Commissioners Michael

Marotti and Vincent Strumolo both voted against Agresta's reappointment, and both publicly stated at the time they would likewise vote against reappointment of McGreevy's nominees.

"They'll have to stand up and be counted now," Mrs. Senatore said. "It's not me anymore."

Much of the bitter controversy sprung from the 3-2 approval of a Goodyear Tire outlet on Washington Avenue and William Street by the Zoning Board, and the subsequent 3-2 granting of a variance by the Town Commission, with Agresta and Mrs. Senatore leading the fight against the variance in their separate governing bodies.

The case was appealed to Superior Court by a group of service station owners here and was sent back by the court to the station owners here and was sent back by the court to the Belleville Zoning Board again. Scheduled for a rehearing tonight before the zoners, there may be a different set of officials hearing the case.

While Agresta has refused to sit on any more cases, Chairman Arthur DeFuria has pledged to disqualify himself if there are any objections to his hearing a case argued by his cousin attorney Robert Gaccione.

Trustees, Commission Trade Budget Views

The Board of Education and the Town Commission were scheduled to meet Tuesday night to discuss the proposed $7.7 million school budget.

The meeting was in marked contrast to last year's communication, which saw the two bodies get together for a single unproductive meeting after the school budget was defeated at the polls. Following that meeting, during which the school board offered only a $50,000 cut in the $7.4 million budget, the Commissioners slashed $450,880 and the Board of Ed appealed to Trenton for relief.

It is not yet known how Tuesday night's meeting went, or what exactly was discussed. Mayor Joseph McGreevy indicated beforehand he expected the session to be one in which the trustees would offer background to account for the increase in the package over last year's budget.

Board of Ed President Lawrence Schwartz had requested the meeting, and said Tuesday afternoon he hoped it would "open the lines of communication and provide a united front on the school budget."

Since none of the school system's five bargaining units have yet reached an agreement with the school board, the salary figures in the tentative budget which the two bodies reviewed Tuesday night lacked a certain amount of reliability, but the trustees have "pencilled in" an increase in teachers' salaries of $260,232 over the 1973-74 budget after a $49,300 restoration by the Acting Commissioner of Education.

The Board's 1974-75 proposal represents an increase of $344,734 (4.6 percent) over their proposed budget for 1973-74. Looking at it another way, it is an increase of about a quarter-million over the current interim budget after the defeated budget was chopped by the Commission and the school board propped it up with about $70,000 in surplus funds. Viewed still another way, the tentative 74-75 package represents a jump of about $584,578 over the budget as amended by the Commissioner of Education.

Since the Commissioner's decision may be appealed by the Town, it becomes more difficult to judge the impact of the restored funds on the proposed package. School board members have stated if the funds were allowed to be immediately restored, some of the $214,036 would be put into the current 1973-74 budget, while another amount would go into surplus to reduce the proposed budget.

Town Wins Increase In Revenue Sharing

An appeal filed by the Town of Belleville last February to increase the municipality's allotment under the Federal Revenue Sharing Program was decided in Belleville's favor recently.

As a result, Belleville has received two checks for $20,000, one of them retroactive to 1972. The town's total cut of the revenue sharing program for 1972 had been $245,929 before the appeal, which was filed by Town Treasurer Francis McCoy after he had checked adjusted taxes and state aid and sent the figures to Washington.

McCoy said he had done so "on the advice and consent of no one," but Mayor Joseph McGreevy, Director of the Department of Revenue and Finance later stated he told McCoy to make the appeal.

Under the original revenue sharing bill, Belleville was to receive about $400,000, but that was cut after villages and small communities were added to the program.

Three Board of Ed Candidates Are Profiled

Ralph Risoli

Ralph Risoli

Candidate Ralph Risoli has never held elective office in Belleville, but nevertheless has become one of the most vocal of all Town officials.

The message Risoli is putting out during his current campaign is one of dissatisfaction. He's unhappy with Board of Education policy formulated over the past decade and in particular in the past year. And he believes he speaks for many Town residents when he voices his complaints.

"People I don't even know have come off the streets to join this campaign. The response is tremendous and they're telling me they don't want any new building in the Belleville school system."

His reference was to a major plank in his campaign, which stresses that he would oppose any new addition to the senior high school if elected.

Just before the Board of Ed campaign opened last December, the Board of Education was moving toward a plan to seek a bond referendum for a 20-classroom addition to the high

Mrs. Rose De Luccio

Rose De Luccio

Mrs. Rose De Luccio takes the stand that success in the Belleville school system means accentuating the positive elements found there.

Among those positive aspects is a School Two project pushed through by the Home and School Association there which now provides free heart screening to every student in Belleville elementary schools. "Project Heartbeat," conceived by School Two Principal Arthur Pico and effected by the parent group stands as one of the most successful operations undertaken by a citizen's group in Belleville. Mrs. De Luccio is chairman of the project.

"Project Heartbeat" is not the first of Mrs. De Luccio's campaigns, however. Though she has never before run for public office, she was active in numerous School Two affairs, including a movement to prevent the dissolution of the school and its consolidation with School Nine; a movement to insure the retaining of a full-time principal there; and a drive to convince voters to approve a $250,000

Matthew Pica

Matthew Pica

"I've never been one to take the easy way out. I go the way the information says I should go."

Incumbent Board member Matthew Pica, seeking reelection after his freshman term regards open communication between the Board of Education and the public as the prime ingredient to a progressive school system. Often on the losing side of a vote, he has championed several causes alone, some of which have become policy after long months of effort.

Among the concerns of Pica, a corporate officer with Samuel Brien's Sons, has been an attempt to open closed Board caucuses to public scrutiny and another drive for early adoption of the school budget, with publication of all line items.

The first of those two ideas became a reality when Pica convinced his fellow Board members to try the plan on a limited basis. One caucus each month, along with the regular public meeting, is open to observation by the citizenry. Un-

Environmental Series Concerns the Passaic

The four session workshop in Environmental Economics being presented this January and February at the Center for Environmental Studies in Roseland, represents a departure from the Center's usual approach to public education.

Dr. Ella Filippone and Betty Little, economists and co-directors of the Passaic River Coalition will be discussing issues of current environmental importance including natural resources (supply and demand), control of land-development and urban growth, the Passaic River vs. the Army Corps of Engineers and NEPA.

They will also examine methods of implementing change through existing governmental channels in hopes of encouraging active participation in decision making processes.

For further information concerning this or any other of the winter workshops, please contact the Center, 621 Eagle Rock Avenue, Roseland, New Jersey 07068 at (201) 228-2210 or (201) 482-6400 ext. 208.

school. After it became apparent the Board was not unanimously behind such a building program, the plan was supposedly deferred. But Risoli says the Board still wants to go through with it.

The 10-year Town Registrar started as a clerk in the Department of Public Affairs 17 years ago and went to court three times against the Town of Belleville in order to win advancements. That sort of feistiness is evident in his stated intention to win a seat on the Board and "find out what's going on behind those closed doors. Like our new governor says he's going to put a glass around government, I'm going to put a glass around the School Board so the people who pay the taxes will know what's going on."

Whether School Board affairs are as deviously planned as Risoli claims is a subject for debate. (He calls the Board the "country club" "because they keep everything concealed.")

Also open to debate are Risoli's solutions to existing problems in the school system. Although he says Board contentions of overcrowding in schools are false, he has recommended a plan to alter Belleville grades to a K-8 and 9-12 system. Asked about the implementation of this plan or the reasons it should be effected, he remains vague and says that "11-year-olds shouldn't be exposed to 14-year-olds" in the junior high school atmosphere.

He offers some unique solutions to the problem of supplying sorely-needed renovations to Belleville schools. First of all, says Risoli, "the money is there and it's positively adequate if it's used right." He said, for instance, last year's proposed budget included an allocation of $1,000 for an auditorium curtain which was never replaced. Besides questioning why the funds were not used as allocated, Risoli believes an appropriation of $1,000 for a curtain is excessive in the first place. "If the curtain was getting baggy and ragged from the floor, why didn't they just cut six inches off the bottom and keep the curtain?"

Fielding a staff of workers seems to be no problem for the 50-year resident. "I have over 75 relatives in Belleville, including eight brothers and three sisters, and they all have at least one friend who will help out." Married to the former Marie Zecca, Risoli is the father of two and has eight grandchildren.

After attending the Belleville school system, Risoli went on to the Essex County Vocational School, then graduated from business school and took special courses in social welfare. He was a prime organizer and first president of the PTA at School Four. Risoli has served as secretary to the Commissioner of Health and Welfare for four years and was Director of Health and Welfare, for two years.

Risoli was active in the 1950 drive to change the Belleville Board of Education from an appointive body to an elected one, but shortly afterward he was defeated in a race for an open seat on the Board. In 1967, he ran unsuccessfully for the Board of Commissioners.

Home and School Leader Steps into Political Arena

bond for an addition to the school.

The mother of three children, Lillian, 17, Linda, 9 and Lois, 8, Mrs. De Luccio had served as treasurer, vice president and president of the School Two PTA, and was president of the Consolidated PTA's of Belleville for one term. After a brief lull, she re-entered school affairs when the Home and School system was inaugurated at Two.

When Principal Pico broached the idea of purchasing a Phono Cardio Scan machine to analyze heartbeats, the HSA decided in 1970 to move into the project. Mrs. De Luccio chaired the operation from the beginning. The first step was a fund-raising drive. "We worked night and day," she said. "There were crews going out on raffles and placing canisters, and a dance put on by Commissioner Marotti raised $1,500. The machine cost $3,800 and we raised $5,000 in six months."

Before "Heartbeat," the school system had brought in the Morris County Heart Association to check students at 50 cent per pupil. "Project Heartbeat," begun first at School Two, last year was able to check every child in the system at no charge and will be able to follow up on each child through the years. All work by technicians is on a volunteer basis. Also, the program is able to include all children in Belleville parochial schools.

Mrs. De Luccio says the kind of enthusiasm generated by "Heartbeat" has also been found in her campaign. "We're picking up support all over town. When people hear about it, they jump on the bandwagon." She estimated she'll have made over 50 campaign appearances by February 13. "We're starting to double up on dates now."

Mrs. De Luccio doesn't strike an "anti-Board" posture in her appearances. In fact, she says, "I take a positive view of the system. The changes of the past are just now taking effect and I see them in all the schools. Every town has its problems and Belleville's are not unique. It's just that the positive things here are overlooked. I can see many good things coming from recent administrative changes."

She is a firm believer in a comprehensive renovation program in Belleville schools. "I've gone into schools where the lights have gone out. I know the wiring needs work in those buildings, and so does the partitioning. I wouldn't say all the conditions are dangerous, but I think the best term is 'hazardous.' First we have to be concerned with safety, and then we can get on with education."

Both Mrs. De Luccio and her husband Alfred, a local businessman and a member of the Belleville Education Advisory Council, believe students here need a work-study program. Pointing out that half the salaries for the instructors involved would be refunded by the State, she expressed disappointment that it had been cut out of the proposed 1973-74 budget. "The cost was so little," she emphasized, "and it could have been very beneficial."

A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., where she was educated, she was employed as an assistant supervisor of the statistical department of the Hartford Insurance Company in New York.

Though she believes that parent groups in local schools are often more socially-oriented than activist, she thinks "there will always be parents interested enough to get involved. Many don't want to join school groups because they don't think it's just a social structure, but the best groups are at the schools where they're working on projects that will benefit the children."

Though she approves of the general direction taken by the Board of Education, she withholds blanket endorsement. "I think some decisions have not been solely based on the good of the children. More could be done."

Pica Counts Communication As Vital to School System

fortunately, the response by residents has been less than overwhelming.

That doesn't deter Pica, who feels that voter's habitual rejections of school budgets might be halted by a November publication and early adoption of a budget.

"We're not going to get a budget passed as long as we keep doing it behind closed doors. There's nothing wrong with presenting it to the public and letting them know exactly what's in there except salaries, which are under negotiation."

Pica is willing to let his colleagues know where he stands also. He refused to take part in the tentative adoption of the proposed 1974-75 budget because, he said, he hadn't received it in time for proper study.

Another of Pica's efforts which also saw some success was the unwritten adoption of a policy to give preference to Belleville applicants for teaching jobs, "as long as qualifications between competing applicants are equal."

While he runs as an incumbent, (having topped a field of 10), Pica's campaign stands sound much like those of a newcomer fighting to gain a seat instead of retain one. He stresses all the issues for which the Board of Ed has been blasted by critics, and doesn't hesitate to voice his own objections to Board practices and policies.

"Too many members have been trying to run the system for the superintendents," he says, "and this disrupts the system. I'm strongly in favor of accountability by administrators. Before an applicant comes before the Board for a teaching job, I want to see a recommendation filed by an administrator."

Pica, who first generated support for the creation of the highly successful Belleville Music Parents, a group that was later brought together by Music Director Frank Scelba, has been a strong advocate of another issue, not as unpopular as some he's brought out. His resolution calling for stronger penalties for drug pushers in New Jersey made its way to a School Boards Association meeting recently, where it was overwhelmingly passed and referred to state agencies for action.

Married to the former, Margarita Ruiz, he is the father of two children Matthew, in seventh grade and Lisa in ninth.

Educated in Schools Two and Four here, he graduated Belleville Senior High and Fairleigh Dickinson University where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in business management. He served in the U.S. Army Signal Corps in 1955-57.

Toddlers are wonderful, but houses must be child-proofed before a toddler could live in them safely. There is nothing more frightening than to watch a baby choke on some object that he should not have been able to reach in the first place. Sometimes this is unavoidable however, and when choking does occur, immediate action is the best remedy. Place the child with shoulders hanging down, and slap vigorously between the shoulders. If you can see the object grasp it with the fingers. Place your prescriptions to be filled in our cars. The pharmacy at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1936m 759-1968 will handle them promptly and efficiently, and we provide free delivery. India Cultural Affair Is Set

The India Cultural Club of Belleville will celebrate the 27th Republic Day of India with a special program at the Franklin School auditorium in Nutley, Saturday, 6:30 p.m.

The public is invited to the program, which includes Indian music, classical dances, Hungarian folk dances, kawali, garba, raass and tippani. After the program, a movie will be shown at 8:30, "Yeh Gulistan Hamara," a color presentation, will carry English subtitles. Admission for members of the club is $2.50, for non-members, $3, for children aged seven to 12, $1 and children under six will be admitted free. In Belleville, tickets are available at India Bazaar at 96 William Street.

Judge to Speak To Men's Club

Judge Edward Abromson, Belleville Magistrate for 23 years, is the featured speaker at the Sunday breakfast meeting of The Men's Club of Congregation Ahavath Achim. Judge Abromson's topic will be, "No Fault, the Traffic Act and The Courts In General."

Judge Abromson, who graduated from Rutgers Law School, was president of the Mens Club for eight years, at the time that it was called The Progress Club. He was also Temple President for nine years, and Chairman of the Board for eight years.

The breakfast meeting, which is a monthly feature of The Mens Club, will be held Sunday, Jan. 27, at 10 a.m., at the Temple Building, 125 Academy St.

President Joseph Shliasek will preside at the meeting. Samuel Panansky is program vice president. All men and women are invited to attend.

For Next Thursday

High School Musicians Ready Annual Winter Concert

The Belleville High School Music Department will present its annual Winter Concert on Thursday, Jan. 31, at 8 in the B.H.S. auditorium. The program will feature the Orchestra, Band and Mixed Chorus.

The Mixed Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Thomas Finetti, will present a set of six songs by the American composer Jean Berger, a spiritual, "Hail Mary", and the popular, "We've Only Just Begun", by the Carpenters, among others.

This year the Mixed Chorus performed along with the Orchestra during the High School's Christmas Concert, as well as performances at the Newark International Airport and for the Belleville Senior Citizens. On January 20, a section of the Chorus performed at the annual Christian Unity Service held at the Dutch Reform Church in Belleville.

The Chorus will be preparing for the Belleville Music and Arts Festival to be held in March. Their enthusiasm is also rising for their guest performance at the Washington National Cathedral and the District of Columbia Library in Washington, D.C. The students will stay over night at the Marymount College in Arlington, Virginia during their Washington visit.

Red Cross Seeks Volunteer Drivers

The Belleville Service Center, American Red Cross urgently needs drivers to operate their vehicle to transport patients, free of charge, who have no other means of reaching medical appointments.

All that is needed to qualify is a valid driver's license, a good driving record, to be in good health, between the ages of 18 and 68 and to be able to devote half a day a week or whatever time would be available.

Volunteer drivers operate an insured Red Cross vehicle, are briefed on Red Cross procedures, are scheduled for assignments based on volunteer time available, and are not required to wear a uniform.

High School Parent Group Slates Auction

The Belleville Music Parents will sponsor a Chinese Auction on Saturday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 a.m.

Mrs. Clo Westpy, Ways & Means Chairlady of the affair promises it will be a "Family Fun Night" with Moms, Dads, teens, and little ones all welcome. There will be entertainment, a measure chest, door prizes, sweepstakes prizes.

The price of admission is $1.50 including dessert and coffee, door prize tickets and 5 bonus Chinese Auction tickets. Plan on a Family Fun Night together with your friends and neighbors at Belleville Senior High School.

Windmill News

Last summer the news came oEuwat scientists in several European nations had pooled their talents and built a windmill which might prove one of the answers to the energy crisis.

The windmill constructed was estimated to cost about $50,000 and to be capable of developing enough electric power to accommodate five families. There were some problems yet to be solved — such as an efficient storage system, so that on days when the wind didn't blow, consumers would still have power.

Now comes word that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is to build the world's biggest windmill near Sandusky, Ohio. A NASA team is expected to spend $200,000 constructing the windmill. The idea is to develop large windmills which can be utilized by power companies.

A NASA spokesman says if the project is successful, it may soon be possible for power companies to construct groups of big windmills as the producing segment of ultra modern power stations.

One major complicatin at present is the necessity of building windmill propellers which automatically adjust pitch to maintain a constaint speed — required by the U.S. electrical system of alternating current flowing in 60 cycles a second waves.

Engineers at Oklahoma State University, however, are at work on a new type of generat?X in which the rotor doesn't have to turn at a constant speed. If this problem, and storage problems, can be solved, and a way found to build windmills at reasonable costs (normally the blades must be 60 feet in the air to avoid surface wind gusts), windmills could become one of the nation's power sources.

That would be highly desirable, for no pollution is connected with this harnessing of the wind; windmill power would, of course, ease the fuel crunch and add significantly to the nation's economic and defense potential.

January Dates

The last half of January contains, perhaps, as many important birthday anniversaries as any other like period of the year for Americans.

"Stonewall" Jackson, the most daring tactical military leader in the Confederate armies and perhaps in U.S. history, was born on the 21st, in 1824, at what is now Clarksburg, West Virginia. Fred Vinson, 13th Chief Justice, was born on the 22nd in 1890, at Louisa, Kentucky.

Douglas MacArthur, one of the ablest strategists of World War II, was born on the 26th at Little Rock, Arkansas. (The 26th is also Michigan Day, the 29th Kansas Day.) William McKinley, 25th President was born on the 29th at Niles, Ohio, in 1843.

Thomas Paine, who gained fame and popularity writing in the cause ofeAmerican revolution, was born in England on the 29th in 1737. (He lost much of his popularity when he attacked prevailing religious beliefs, somewhat as Samuel Clemens was to do in later years.)

Franklin Roosevelt was born on the 30th, at Hyde Park, New York in 1882 — the only President ever elected to four terms (the nation's 32nd).

Congress And Spending

The second session of the 93rd Congress will be judged on its spending record as much as on any other one standard. With this in mind, it should be noted that in its first session the 93rd Congress spent four or five billions more than President Nixon asked it to spend.

The President checked congressional spending in other cases with vetoes or first session spending would have been more. In this election year, with the President still at bay over Watergate scandals, Congress will probably be tempted to spend liberally, even if it means new taxes for the average citizen next year.

The official budget forecast as outlined this month by Budget Director Roy Ash is a $3 to $5 billion deficit in the current fiscal year and a $6 to $8 billion deficit for the 1975 fiscal year. (The current year's deficit would have been higher except for unexpectedly higher revenue collection in recent months.)

With the nation facing an economic slowdown, if not a recession, by the fuel crunch (and Ash doesn't foresee a recession), Congress squarely has a moral responsibility to hold spending within reason. The dollar's stability was only recently saved by two devaluations, which have forced the American consumer to pay more for thousands of imported products. Reckless spending, producing huge budget deficits, will rapidly produce another dollar crisis — and higher taxes. Only responsible action (limited spending) by the second session of this 93rd Congress will avoid that fate.

Social Security Disability Funds Slow in Coming

To the Editor:

I have been disabled since May of 1973. I have collected all of my disability allowed by the company with which I am employed. It was a total of six months. As of now I have no income except for my wife's paycheck which is not nearly enough to support my family of four children.

In September of '73 I applied to the social security disabilit benefits. Since I have not heard anything from them. When I do call the Newark office and speak to Mrs. Rosa M. Rolan, a disability examiner, all I am told is that the papers have been sent to Baltimore and that they can not tell me any more than that.

I have been waiting patiently for over three months and would like to know what I can do, I have in the meantime run out of funds to pay bills. My wife's pay only covers food and the things needed for the children.

I have been to the welfare agency and am told that they can not assist me because they do not interfere in a social security case. What I do not understand is why when a degenerate goes to jail his family is immediately taken care of and he is given all kinds of help after coming out of jail. I have always worked and taken care of my family and now that I am unable to there is no place that I can turn to for any kind of assistance. Personally I think that the way the laws are written it is only to assist the people that do not want to live in a society in which people work and take care of themselves, and get financial help only when it is absolutely necessary.

Thank you
Gordon Meeker,

Death of Pets Ruined Holiday

To the editor:

Have you had a happy holiday season? I know of two families whose holiday spirits were shattered when one day to each side of Christmas Day two dogs were killed by speeding motorists on Carpenter Street.

Only today, one elderly woman was nearly killed because a motorist was speeding down the snow covered street. He missed her by inches, literally inches.

First they kill dogs, now they are aiming for people.

Does a child have to be splattered on our street before the police will wipe the dust off of their radar equipment?

How long will this speeding go on. HOW LONG? HOW LONG?!!

America's Future

The gloom and doom writers are widely prophesying various other shortages (such as the oil crunch) and economic crises for America. Food, paper, etc., head the lists.

This need-not be the case. This nation is affected far less by the fuel crises than Europe or Japan, producing almost ninety per cent of its energy needs domestically. The present oil shortage, moreover, could have been largely avoided by preventative action, more foresight — on the part of the government and oil companies.

In recent months the dollar has strengthened considerably. In 1973 the nation's trade balance ended in the black, a very hopeful, and even unexpected, turn. Confidence in the U.S. dollar and U.S. economy, as a result has therefore soared abroad.

What the nation and the current economic situation require is effective leadership, in the White House, in Congress and on the corporate front. If Americans are given that, there need be no economic crisis and only rare shortages. Food particularly, need not become scarce. With acreage now open to farmers to grow whatever amounts they wish, food production should move steadily higher.

Leadership, and the avoidance of an inflationary, crisis atmosphere, which some take advantage of to reap whirlwind profits, can insure a bright economic future in the immediate years ahead for America.

Drive Defensively

Recent studies indicate there is more reason to cultivate the art of driving defensively than has been realized. These studies show many alcoholics are bent on self destruction, and some are inclined to destroy others in the process.

There are other indications some seek sympathy and attention in automobile accidents. Another large percentage of accidents is caused, of course, by stupid or careless driving. Whatever the cause of motivation of the driver at fault, it is becoming clear that drivers who wish to avoid accidents must practice the art of defensive driving — seeking to avoid situations in which another driver can involve them in an accident.

It's not possible to avoid all such situations. But an alert defensive attitude, foresight and precaution can avoid a surprising percentage of these situations — and perhaps save your life.

THE STATE WE'RE IN

Energy Crisis Revives Talk About Auto Pollution Testing Standards

By David F. Moore

N.J. Conservation Foundation

JUST AS SOMEBODY said a few years ago, "The population bomb is everybody's baby," so it would seem today that the so-called energy crisis is everybody's boon. Everybody's except that mass of confused souls which make up the general public.

Take your honest neighborhood car dealer (new and used), for example. Or your benign fabricator of the Detroit iron which he sells. These poor fellows were really getting upset at the prospect of having to build anti-pollution devices into new cars, as well as face up to the realities of pollution inspections for the cars on the roads.

But the "energy crisis" and a timely shortage of gasoline came along just in time to let them chorus gleefully that New Jersey's imminent automotive pollution inspection program would be wasteful of gasoline, let alone the abhorrent idea of building pollution controls into new cars. Some even are pushing for disconnecting the meagre pollution controls already in recent-vintage cars.

AN INTELLIGENT RESPONSE to all this came recently from John C. Elston, supervisor of the auto testing program for the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection. Few listened, but Mr. Elston pointed out that going ahead with the planned automotive testing program would result in impressively big savings in gasoline. Why? Because engines tuned to peak efficiency (and hence minimum pollution) use less gasoline, that's why.

New Jersey's program, slated to take effect on February 1, just calls for tuneups, not any kind of accessories. Mr. Elston estimates that 15 million gallons of gasoline would be saved during the first year of mandatory inspections, and by 1975, 50 million gallons.

FOR THOSE WHO WOULD RIP out pollution controls built into their 1971-73 model cars, Mr. Elston noted that, while those devices do bring slight reductions in gas mileage, the engines are designed for them so their removal would add no fuel savings, just more pollution. With small cars, a disconnection might even mean poorer gas economy. Anti pollution devices make little or no difference in fuel economy in the little engines.

A lot of pressure from various sources is being generated to emasculate, postpone or otherwise mulify the New Jersey mandatory inspection program. It's the same kind of pressure the oil companies have used to successfully crumble hard-won restrictions on sulfur content in fuel oils, to get the Alaskan pipeline (which, let us remember, is not pointed in the right direction to get oil to the eastern two-thirds of this country) and to gain offshore drilling rights.

AT LEAST ONE BILL was prefled in the New Jersey Senate, calling for a delay in adoption of the New Jersey mandatory inspection program. It's author, Senator James Wallwork, R-Essex, argues that too much will have to be spent by too many on tune-ups which he says will only last from six to eight weeks anyway. He also doubts if meaningful gasoline savings would result. Both my personal experience and common sense tell me that the Senator is dead wrong. In addition, I watched Senator Dodd's Caddillac pass the test with flying colors in the state house parking lot last year — with Senator Wallwork looking on as well. The test convinced me — but apparently not Senator Wallwork!

Whether Republican Wallwork's bill has a chance in the heavily Democratic Legislature is problematical. But similar legislation can be looked for from members of the latter party, I suspect.

HERE IS JUST ONE MORE example of the kind of hysterical problems which will be confronting Governor Brendan T. Byrne as he embarks on his new term. Pressures from special interest groups won't help him any. They won't help the average citizen of this state we're in, either.

KNIGHTS DONATE — Belleville Council 835, Knights of Columbus, recently donated $1,500.00 toward the purchase of audio visual equipment to St. Peter's and St. Anthony's grammar schools. Shown presenting a check for $1,000 to Most Rev. Joseph A. Costello (right) pastor of St. Peter's and Sister Beatrice (center) the school principal is the Grand Knight of Belleville Council, Robert E. Nebelung. Both Sister Grace of St. Anthony's and Sister Beatrice acknowledged the donations by stating, equipment can now be purchased to replace material reclaimed by the state.

4 Residents Join Science Seminar

Four Belleville residents among juniors and seniors from public, private, and parochial high schools in five New Jersey counties who were awarded certificates for their active participation in Union College's 1973 Science Seminar.

The Science Seminar is an annual lecture series open to academically talented high school students. The five-lecture series features topics of current interest not generally encountered in high school curriculums.

Participants in the Science Seminar are recommended by their high school principals and come from Union, Essex, Middlesex, Morris, and Somerset Counties. This is the 12th year Union College has conducted the Science Seminar.

"Union College is proud to award these certificates to tomorrow's scientific leaders," explained Prof. Patrick White, director of the Sperry Observatory at Union College and director of the Science Seminar. "They are an indication of the students' curiosity and motivation toward new discoveries and solutions in our world. They and their parents and teachers are to be congratulated."

The 1973 Seminar topics included recent chemical research on man-made fw, digitocommunications, relativity and cosmology, the New Jersey salt marsh, and modern mathematics. Lecturers included Lewis Thomas of North Plainfield, a Bell Laboratories engineer and lecturer at the Hayden Planetarium; Arthur Caccia of East Brunswick, director of research at Ameliotex Corporation, Princeton; and Farris S. Swackhamer, ornithologist of chemistry professor at Union College research director of Shell Chemical Company.

'63 Class Donates 2 Books

The Belleville High School Class of 1963 recently donated two books to the Belleville Public Library.

"The Chemicals We Eat" by Melvin A. Bernardi was presented, along with "Oil Barons: Men of Greed and Grandeur," by Richard O'Connor, which was donated in the memory of Richard Blanch, a former classmate.

CYOers Ready Contests

Two extremely popular events, the annual elementary school cheerleading contest and the yearly spelling bee for seventh and eighth grade boys and girls, will be offered again this year by the Essex County CYO.

The 25th annual spelling bee will be held Sunday afternoon, Feb. 24, at 2 P.M. in St. Aloysius Community Hall, Bloomfield Avenue, Caldwell. All entries to the CYO Office, 425 Bloomfield Ave., Montclair must be postmarked on or before Monday, Feb. 11.

Each elementary school in the county is limited to two contestants — preferably one boy and a girl. The winner, along with the other nine finalists, will represent the county in the Archdiocesan finals that will be March 3 at Star of the Sea School in Bayonne.

St. Anthony's of East Newark will undoubtedly be on hand Friday evening, Feb. 8 at Immaculate Conception High School gym in Montclair for the cheerleading contest. Other top favorites will be the host school, which won the competition two years ago, and always-representative Holy Cross of Harrison.

The deadline for entering the competition is Thursday, Jan. 31. Entry fees of $15 per squad will be charged, and team trophies will be awarded to the top three teams. In addition, an individual trophy will be presented to "Miss Yell," the girl selected as the top cheerleader in the competition, and each member of the first place team will receive a trophy.

Teams of up to 12 girls will be judged on precision, enthusiasm, poise, originality and appearance.

Rubbermaid Party Plan seeks top managers.

The Rubbermaid Party Plan is the fastest growing party plan in the country and actually doubled in size last year, Richard D. Haggart, general manager, has announced.

If he has his way, 1974 will again double the size of his party plan operation. "Some of the other party plans complain about the economy and say that qualified people can't be found," Haggart remarked. "We must be doing something—or rather a lot of things—right," he added.

"For four years now we have been able to attract—and keep—some remarkable women. The success of our party plan has been due to the professionalism and personal creativity of these women. Now we need more of them."

"A woman today no longer needs to feel self-conscious because she makes more money than her husband," Haggart said. During the week of January 28-31 Haggart's staff will be interviewing for key management people in this area. To qualify for a regional or field manager position, a woman needs either party plan or direct sales management experience.

The "right woman" in the newly opening Newark and New York areas can claim an annual income of 50-thousand plus a variety of other benefits including an automobile of her own choosing, frequent travel and cash bonus awards for her energy and judgment. In appointing managers Haggart looks for the person who can create enthusiasm and co-operation. A newly appointed manager immediately is given qualified dealers in her area. She is then provided adequate sales aids and her own advertising budget for further recruiting of dealers. Qualified and interested women may refer to the classified ad in this issue for further details. They are invited to call the Rubbermaid Party Plan executive offices in Chillicothe, Ohio toll free 800/848-2021 to set a definite appointment with the Haggart staff which will be in this city later this month.

The Rubbermaid Party Plan now has three distribution centers to serve different parts of the country. "To get products to our dealers as soon as possible is the idea," Haggart explained. The centers are located in Los Angeles, Chicago, Chillicothe.

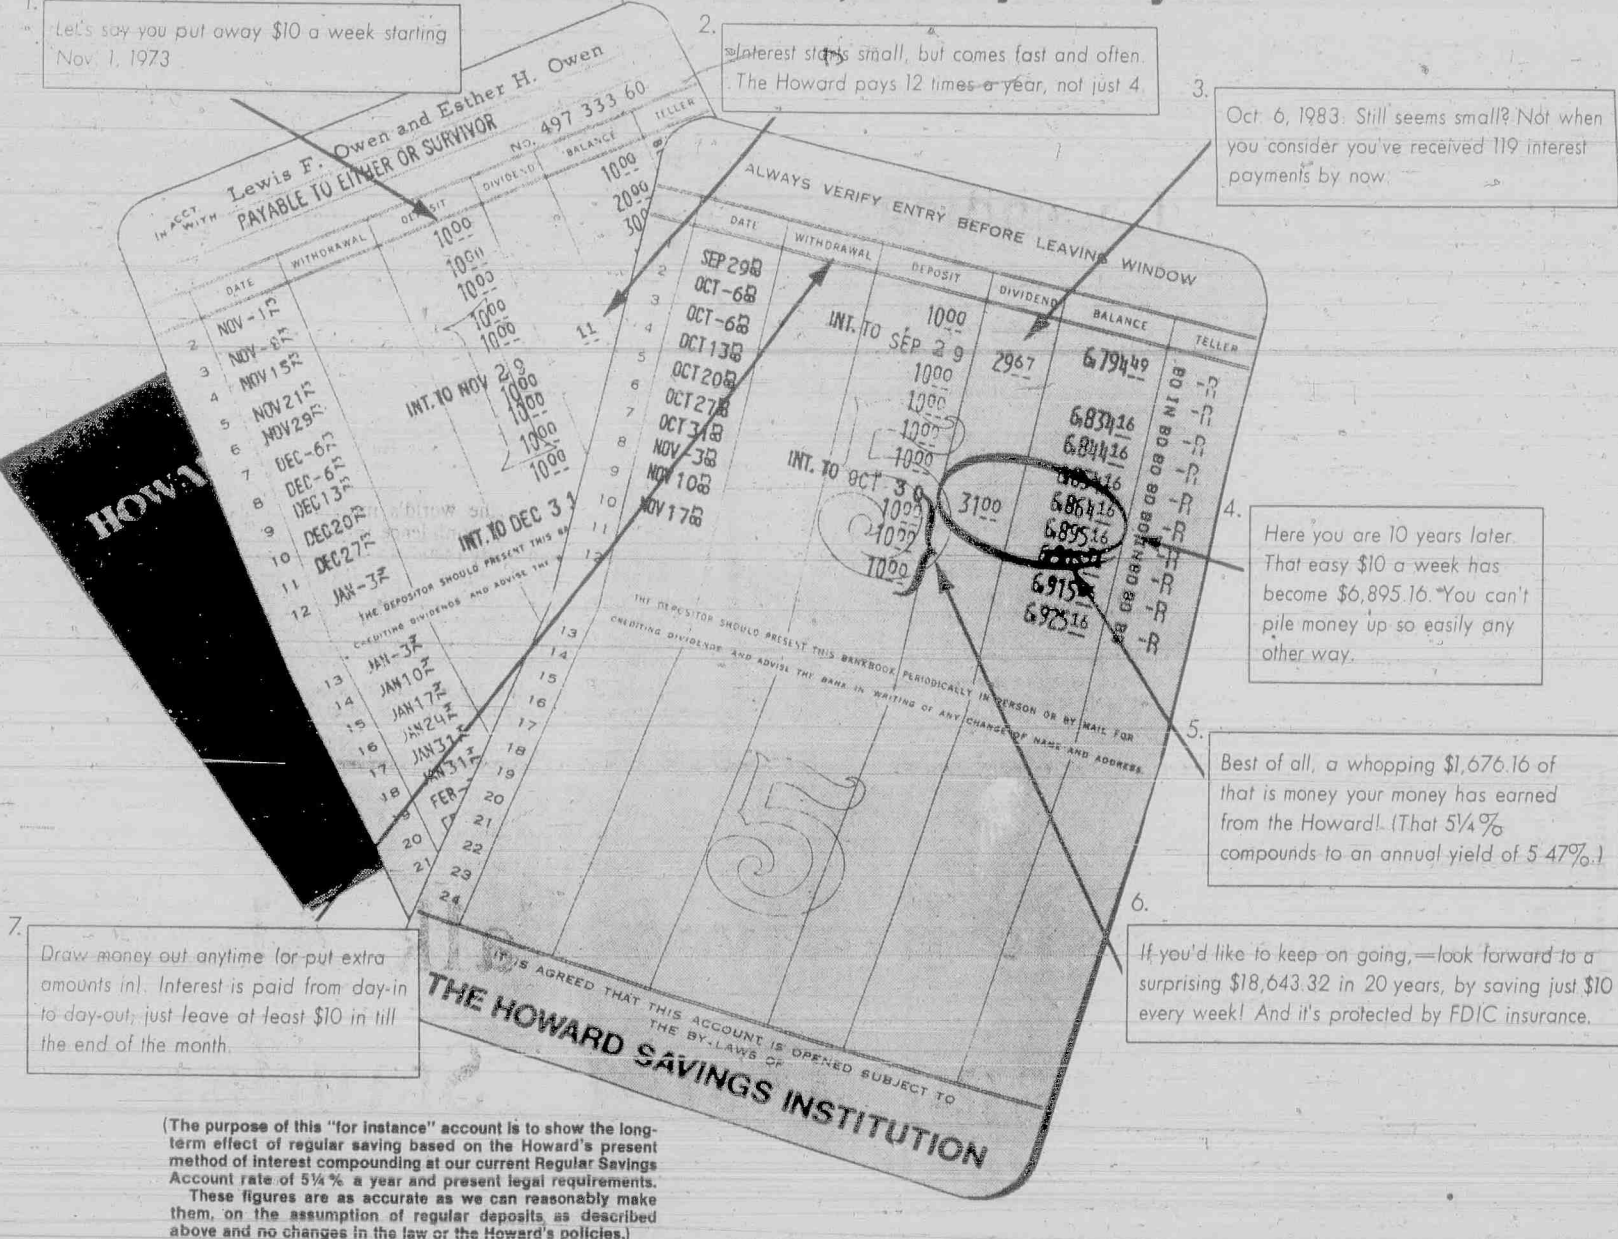

"Our center concept," Haggart said, "aids enormously our growth in recruiting and sales. It takes Rubbermaid obviously closer to our representatives and customers."

"For a party plan to work, you have to have good people," he said. "We have managed to attract and keep really great people for Rubbermaid. The great marketing creativity of the Rubbermaid women constantly delights me."

Haggart invites readers to submit resumes of direct selling or former party plan experience. Readers interested in becoming a dealer/demonstrator or manager for this organization should write: Mr. Richard D. Haggart, Rubbermaid Party Plan, 485 Southern Avenue, Box 7000, Chillicothe, Ohio 45601.

Name Area Cancer Crusade Chairman

Arthur C. Fried of Westfield will serve as chairman of Area II, comprising Essex, Somerset and Union Counties, in the 1974 Cancer Crusade, it was announced today by the New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society.

Statewide goal of the Cancer Crusade is $2,500,000. County quotas are Essex, $252,000, Somerset, $98,000, and Union, $210,000.

Sixty per cent of the funds collected remains within the State and local counties for use in patient care and rehabilitation as well as professional and public education. Most of the remaining 40 per cent is assigned by the national organization to cancer research.

Fried is director of public relations for Blue-Cross of New Jersey. He is a former Union County Freeholder and has been active in many community affairs. He is secretary of the Board of the New Jersey Welfare Council and a former member of the Mayor's Citizens Advisory Committee of Westfield, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children, Union County Mental Health Association and the Westfield Community Center. He was co-chairman of the Westfield Hospital building drive. Fried has been an active volunteer with the American Cancer Society for the last 10 years. He is a vice president of the New Jersey Division and a member of its Public Information Committee. At the county level, he has been chairman of the Union County Cancer Crusade and is a member of the Unit's Executive Committee and Board of Managers. Fried and his wife, Vera, have a son and daughter.

Post Office Selling Tax Guide Booklet

Joseph J. Benucci reports that a Tax Guide - "Your Federal Income Tax" can be purchased for $1.00 at more than 100 post offices located throughout the greater Newark and Summit Sectional Centers, including the branches in Nutley and Belleville. The Guide, published by the Internal Revenue Service, is to aid taxpayers in correctly preparing their Income Returns. Benucci said that the U.S. Postal Service is selling the publication in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service as a needed community service to the public.

Minish Wants Energy Crisis Investigation

Congressman Joseph G. Minish, 11th District, New Jersey, today asked for an investigation of the gasoline price and shortage situation in Northern New Jersey.

In a letter to William E. Simon, Minish questioned whether his area of New Jersey is being discriminated against in allocation of oil. "In the Essex County North Jersey area," he said, "people cannot even get the 10 gallon per fillup suggested limit. They are forced to queue for long periods of time. Yet other areas do not suffer from similar problems."

Minish also asked whether Simon is not encouraging the major oil companies to "reap windfall profits at the expense of the greater public interest during the current energy crisis."

"Recent statistics," Minish pointed out, "indicate that supplies on hand of petroleum products for the first seven months of 1973 were almost equal to the entire 1972 aggregate figure - 5.8 versus 5.6 billion barrels." Minish said the public feels that "there is widespread hoarding of gasoline by large refiners and wholesalers who are awaiting higher prices in the near future."

As an example of questionable practices by oil companies, Minish pointed to American oil, which he said, "was allowed a tank wagon increase in price of 5.8 cents a gallon resulting in a posted price increase of up to 10 cents a gallon at a time when American enjoyed record profits of $390 million for the first nine months of 1973."

File Now For Faster IRS Refunds

Want a faster refund this year? The Internal Revenue Service said today that all taxpayers who file their tax returns in January should get their refunds in four to five weeks. After January it may take six to eight weeks.

Elmer H. Klinsman, IRS District Director for New Jersey, said that January filers gain about a two-week advantage over those who file later because IRS service centers can process returns and approve refunds much faster early in the filing season when workloads are not heavy.

"Taxpayers who file early avoid making the thoughtless errors that often occur in their rush to meet the April 15 deadline," said Klinsman. "Those who wait until the last few weeks to file often fail to read the instructions carefully, neglect to sign the return, or forget to attach all schedules and W-2 forms. These mistakes can delay a refund for as long as four additional weeks."

As in previous years, an employee filing his return for 1973 must attach a W-2 form from each employer. Each form should show earnings, income tax withheld, and social security information.

The IRS expects to issue some 60 million refunds this year - totaling about $20-billion. This year's average refund will probably approximate last year's $345 average, Klinsman said.

Cub Pack 301 Includes Tomorrow's Leaders

"I promise to do my best to do my duty to God and my country, to help other people and to obey the law of the pack," is the Cub Scout promise, honored by thousands of boys who are at least age eight and have completed the second grade. The boys of today are our citizens of tomorrow and, the scouts of today, are our leaders of tomorrow.

It was Family Night a Cub Pack 301A BSA and the hall at Wesley United Methodist Church was filled with happy youngsters, beaming parents, and dedicated adults volunteering their time to work with the boys.

Cub Pack 301 has seven dens, and 53 boys. Joseph Meglio, Sr. has been the Cub Master for the past two years, and has been with the pack for 4 years. Each month the cubs meet on the third Friday at 8 p.m. presenting a theme for that particular month. In January, it was the Pinewood Derby.

When Santa visited the cubs in December, each scout received a gift in the form of a kit, which he and his dad were to put together, and race the car in a competition. The first, second and third place winners then go on to compete in a town-wide meet with other cub packs. The program for February will be to celebrate Scout Month, and a Blue and Gold Dinner will be held at the Darwood on February 17.

The backbone of the cub scouts are the Den Mothers who meet with their particular group ever week. Mrs. Aileen Walker is secretary and treasurer for the group, other mothers are Mrs. Lavonne Lutton, Mrs. Jude Gerhausen, Mrs. Agnes Sisto, Mrs. Vivian Sposobiec, Mrs. Laurie Vaccaro and Mrs. Antoine Condit. In addition to the Cub Master, committee chairman John DiStasi and Matt Pica attend all the meetings and during the year take the cub scouts to all games, camping at Scout Acres and roller skating. On the list for an outing this year is a visit to West Point.

A senior cub scout is a "Webelo" and this group meets at Wesley Methodist Church on Wednesday evenings, also directed by John DiStasi. Finding the double duty difficult, DiStasi is seeking any adult male, to help direct the Webelos. Phone him at 751-0372.

Each monthly meeting of cub pack 301 starts with the Scout Promise, Salute to our Flag, Law of the Pack and then awards are given for various accomplishments. There is a metal tin man, "Cubbie" which each den on a rotating basis has the privilege of decorating for the monthly meeting. In January, it was Mrs. Lavonne Lutton's den who made "Cubbie" a snowman, with carrot nose, and black, high hat.

Be a scout today, be a better man tomorrow.

Two Locals Compete For Academy Spots

Two young Belleville residents were among Rep. Joseph Minish's selections to compete for openings at the U.S. Air Force Academy, it was announced this week.

Wayne Henry Kellenbence of 5 Marion Court and Barry Dunleavy of 29 Fairway Avenue are among the nominees for consideration to enter the academy in 1974.

St. Mary's Church Is Setting For Wyrsh-Irwin Wedding

Mrs. Edward Wyrsh - nee Carol Irwin

St. Mary's Church was the setting December 29 for the marriage of Miss Carolyn Mary Irwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Irwin Sr. of 125 Lakeside Drive to Edward James Wyrsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wyrsh of Bloomfield.

The Rev. James McCloskey, a friend of the bride's family and the Rev. Gerald Ruane concelebrated the nuptial mass and bestowed the papal blessing. A reception followed at Thomm's, Newark.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin styled with an empire waist, crown illusion neckline, beaded Alencon lace bodice and skirt, lantern sleeves and detachable chapel train. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Gilbert R. Irwin Jr. of Silver Spring, Maryland was her sister-in-law's matron of honor and Miss Alice Costello of Bloomfield was maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Mrs. Charles Balas of Nanuet, New York and Mrs. Raymond Wyrsh of Gaithersburg, Maryland, sister-in-law of the groom. Flower girl was Joan Irwin of Silver Spring, niece of the bride.

All wore ruby red velvet gowns and carried white carnations except the flower girl who had a basket of white pom poms.

Raumont Wyrsh served as his brother's best man while Dr. Gilbert R. Irwin Jr., brother of the bride, Richard Wyrsh, brother of the groom and James Fischer ushered.

Mrs. Irwin chose a shell pink chiffon gown while the groom's mother was in mint green satin. Corsages were of pink roses.

Mrs. Wyrsh, a graduate of Caldwell College and Rutgers University, is assistant director of admissions at Caldwell College.

Mr. Wyrsh, an alumnus of Seton Hall University and Fairleigh Dickinson University, is an Internal Revenue Service agent.

Pica Wants Schoolers To Bring In Public

Incumbent Board of Education trustee and candidate for reelection Matthew Pica this week released a general statement this week recommending the Board set aside two nights each month to meet with residents with suggestions or complaints.

"I see communication as a two-way process where it is just as important, or more important, to listen as it is to speak. It is easier to determine the needs and desires of the people by listening. For that reason, I was gratified that the Board adopted my idea for open caucus meeting where the public could get a better picture of what is going on," said Pica.

In advancing his suggestion to further open Board meetings to citizens, he said, "The more aware people are concerning the educational system of Belleville, the better they can serve and act upon the suggestions the Board of Education puts forward."

As an example of community action, Pica pointed to work by the local drug abuse council, of which he is a trustee, and pointed out the council has been able to arrange a series of well-attended seminars on the problem.

The candidate mentioned that a resolution he sponsored calling for increased penalties for the sale of drugs had been passed overwhelmingly by the New Jersey School Boards Association and will be referred to state agencies and legislative committees for further action.

Golden Charges Town Hall Push

School Board candidate James Golden charged this week the upcoming school board election has become "a politically-inspired battle, whereby disagreeing factions in Town Hall are surreptitiously marshaling their forces behind the candidacy of various aspirants closely aligned with their camps and sympathetic to their persuasions."

Golden said his opinion was based upon "rumors and often made remarks by votaries and followers of candidates," and speculated that "among the stronger candidates, (Lawrence) Schwartz will be aided by Commissioner (Mary) Senatore's army of followers, while (Matthew) Pica and (Viola) Spray can expect support from Mayor McGreevy's friends."

Golden attacked this alleged support as "destroying the intent of divorcing school matters from the ugly involvement of politics."

Citing what he called his "present and consistent independence of all such entangling alliances" as his qualification to serve on "a School Board barren of the unwanted specter of politics," he urged voters to go to the polls February 13 with "a determination to 'root out' politics from school matters."

On the Campaign Trail Mrs. Viola Spray Stresses Her Educational Experience

Mr. Viola Spray, recently retired principal of School Seven and now a candidate for the Board of Education said this week she is looking forward to the coming campaign and is ready to take a seat on the Board.

"Time is on my side," Mrs. Spray said, "I've spent more time in the Belleville school system than any of the other candidates. I've taught all grades in the elementary school, been a principal in three schools and served on many committees concerned with the salient facets of education locally, county and state levels."

"The spiraling costs of education must be controlled until one other way of financing education is determined by the legislators. Running a household and a school are compatible. Both involve the budgeting of funds to be used to the best advantage. Educational funds however are more important since we must make sure that teachers have the supplies and tools of learning so that the children aren't the losers in the desire for economy. This, I am able to do since I requisitioned all types of supplies for schools."

Mr. Harold Spray, her husband, is "perfectly satisfied" with the manner in which she has handled her responsibilities as a wife, mother and educator.

"It's a shame to let someone like my wife retire without taking advantage of her qualities and experience" he said. "Her ability and stamina to continue her education beyond a doctorate equivalency, her community activities with the Red Cross, United Fund, Mother's March of Dimes and presently the Craig Fund are in which she has shown a wholesome community spirit. Her organizational ability has been displayed in the formation of two parent-teacher organizations—one at St. Peter's School in Belleville and the other at St. Vincent's Academy in Newark."

Schwartz Pledges Fight For Local School Control

Incumbent School Board President Lawrence Schwartz this week pledged to resist State efforts for control of local school districts. Schwartz is a candidate for re-election.

He added he opposes any form of interdistrict bussing of school children, and went on to state his opposition to any new additions to the Belleville High School.

"The major problem facing the Belleville Board of Education, and all Boards of Education in this State, is the question of funding," said Schwartz. "There is no question that under the guidelines set down in Robinson vs Cahill (also known as the Botter Decision), the financing of education will be removed from the property tax to another source of revenue, as I predicted it would occur when I ran for election in 1971."

"However," he went on, "in addition to the problem of where its revenue is going to come from, there is a distinct problem of local versus state control. I believe very strongly in local control, since only a local board of education, who represents the people of the town, can decide what is the best for the town. The state, on the other hand, who is going to dole out the funds, is going to attempt to place control and edicts on a local board."

"This must be fought to insure that local control will remain a reality. The New Jersey School Boards Association, which is made up of all boards of education in the State of New Jersey, and of which I am a member of the Board of Directors, is strongly opposed to state control, and I therefore pledge myself to keep this local control and authority."

"Needless to say, I have been opposed and will remain totally opposed to any form of interdistrict bussing, as this is not a benefit to the students in the town of Belleville or the students in any other area."

"The paramount internal problem which faces the educational system is one of repairs and renovations in the system and our over crowded situations in the junior and senior high schools," stated the candidate. "I am totally committed to the updating of the educational system, both in curriculum and in the physical plants. We must make our schools totally safe for our children as well as being functional."

The Board of Education is studying many plans to alleviate the overcrowding. I am opposed to any new additions being built on the high school or any other school because of our present financial (tax) situation. However, by means of study and investigation and involvement with the community as a whole, the Board of Education will be able to satisfy the needs of the system and desires of the people."

Constantino Recommends Updated Budget Planning

School Board candidate Rocco Constantino predicted this week future school budgets would be more complex to compile but easier to understand for the layman.

Calling the present system "archaic," he termed the proposed 1974-75 school budget "a futile exercise in comprehension," noting that one Board member took no part in the tentative adoption of the budget because he "needed more time to study it."

During a speech to local businessmen, Constantino outlined the Planned Program Budget System (PPBS) now in a pilot program in four New Jersey school districts.

Constantino projected that 40 districts would join in the system. Furthermore, he added, the state government will move along the same lines "if they become more involved in financing school districts."

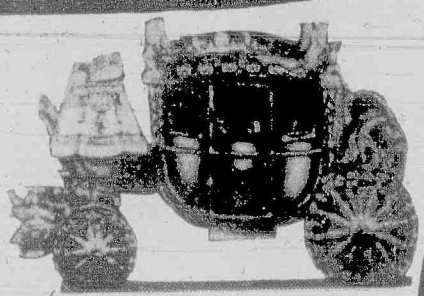

Under PPBS, he said, all expense items would be listed individually, with vague categories such as "contracted services," and "all other expenses," being eliminated as all expense would be itemized.

Such a system, said Constantino, would lend itself to "a careful analysis of every dollar spent by the school board," and said the electorate would be quick to "pounce upon any unexplained increase for any item in the budget."

At the same time, he said, "with an understandable budget, the electorate would be more inclined to give their approval at the polls, thus avoiding the shameful fighting between the Board, the Town Commissioners and the State Education Department in the courts and the newspapers."

In closing, he called upon the Board to "prepare clear, logical and justifiable explanations of the proposed school budget for the coming year."

Candidate Stresses Advances

Mrs. Rose De Luccio, candidate for the Board of Education spoke to audiences this week stressing the positive points in the school system.

Having toured every school in Belleville while screening children for the Project Heartbeat program she stated "recent changes that have been instituted by the educational system are having a definite effect in the schools. Progressive attitudes and outlook brought about by administrative changes are enhancing the Belleville school system."

Mrs. De Luccio is "pleased and encouraged by the interest the public is taking to the Work-Study program and safety issues" she has discussed at her teas.

Local College to Offer Travel Tour Program

Bloomfield College's Office of Institutional Advancement and Wholesale Tours International Inc. of New York City are offering a travel program to the public that this year will send tours to England, Europe and the Middle East.

The program, "Tours For All Seasons", includes a nine-day tour of England departing April 22, a 16-day spring Scandinavian Adventure tour departing May 20, a 16-day summer Grand Tour of Europe departing July 22 and a nine-day fall Middle East Seminar Jet Cruise departing Oct. 14.

Legion Honors BHS Speakers

by Bob Cohn

Bob Cohen, Donna Gasiewicz, Joanne Manzo, and Rachelle Romero were this year's contestants of the Oratorical Contest, held at Belleville High School on Wednesday, Jan. 15.

This year's topic as "The Constitution". The contestants were responsible for an 8-10 minute speech on any amendment of the Constitution. However, they could not go over or under the 8-10 minute time limit.

Bob Cohen, this year's first prize winner of $100, talked on the Checks and Balance system, which he related to the present Watergate Scandal.

Donna Gasiewicz, second prize-winner of $50, discussed Peaceful Dissent and used Martin Luther King as an example of a person who believed in and used peaceful protests to gain civil rights for black minority groups. Joanne Manzo, third prize winner of $25, discussed integrity in our government. She made it clear that we must work together to help our country solve its many problems.

Rachelle Romero, who came in last place, discussed the first amendment, but she seemed to be quite nervous and truthfully explained to the audience, "It's been quite a night."

We must realize the tensions the contestants are put through in a contest of this sort. However, the judges and the students that were present said that all the contestants had done an excellent job.

Daylight Time Is Still Night To Students

by Lynda O'Connell

Ever since January 6, a whole new atmosphere is present in the early morning rush hour. The night-time appearance of the morning has brought some surprising statements from all involved, especially the students.

"On the first morning, stated one student "I looked outside, saw how dark it was and jumped back into bed. I thought it was still early."

Going back to bed was only one of the many reactions expressed by the students. Some are afraid of walking to school or waiting for the bus in the darkness. "One morning, I walked to school in total darkness with a full moon in the sky," said an amazed student.

Sitting in a classroom at eight in the morning and watching the sun come up can be quite an experience. However, it can interfere with watching the teacher.

Most students, however, seem to think the change in time is really a waste. Outside flood lights and the use of lighting in the classroom are now necessary in the first few periods of the day.

For the most part, students really seem to be enjoying this new change in light. As one student expressed her feelings "I don't mind the darkness; it's a change that kind of gets us out of our everyday routine."

Senior Class Elects Pair of Top Artists

by Mike McTeigue

Lynn Giordano and Joe Fornarotto have been voted Senior Class Artists by this year's graduating class at B.H.S.

Both students are presently members of Mr. Morton Birkin's Advanced Art class and are making a series of linoleum block prints.

Lynn's art experience at Belleville includes Art 1, 2, and 3, Arts and Crafts, and Advanced Art 1. She hopes to continue her art education at Newark State College after graduation.

Joe Fornarotto, who has taken Art 1, 2, and Advanced Art 1 and 11 at Belleville is an excellent cartoonist and would like to make the art of cartooning his profession.

Joe would like to study art in New York City or California.

His preferred media while not working on cartoons are water colors and oil paints.

Both artists agree that they have benefited from their experience at Belleville in the sense that their work relaxes them and has developed their ability to communicate their feelings through art.

'Energy Crisis' Labeled a 'Hoax'

by Liz Primamore

This year, we students at Belleville High discover a new experience this snow January. Each morning, we awake in darkness to prepare for the coming school day. The sun rises when classes are mid-way into first period. Energy won't be considerably saved since the day is only reversed. Instead, more lighting is needed in the morning. This decision provides only hazardous driving and walking conditions for students and teachers alike.

If one considers "school at night" ridiculous, take a gander at the current gas situation. Notice that a gas station is gasless until the prices are higher? When the price rises plenty of gas is available. This so called crisis is a mere price hoax and "Watergate distraction".

HANDY TIP — Jerry Dillon recommends a pair of gloves to fight chilly temperatures in the school cafeteria, where the thermostat has been lowered to conserve fuel.

One More Barrier Tumbles As Girl Studies Woodshop

by Linda O'Connell

During the 11th period of the day at BHS, some girls may find themselves in home economics class, cooking and sewing, or in a business class typing and taking shorthand. Sue Spillane, on the other hand, can be found surrounded by several other boys in a woodshop class.

Sue is the first girl ever to be enrolled in an usually all male course. Mr. Grande, the teacher, treats Sue like the others by letting her do her share of the work. During the first marking period, she received an "A" as her final grade. Sue also made a shelf and is currently working on a wall plaque.

Sue Spillane's plans for the future have much to do with the woodshop class she is now taking. Working with tools and learning about agriculture will definitely improve her knowledge and be a help as a forest ranger.

Sue Spillane hopes to see other girls take the class next year. She feels that all girls will need the basic training of woodshop whether it be for a job or just to be able to accomplish things around the house by themselves.

Garden Show Offers Prizes For Posters

High school students throughout the state are once more creating posters to help promote the New Jersey Flower and Garden Show and to win cash prizes as well.

The annual poster contest is again being run in conjunction with the show, largest of its kind in the entire Metropolitan area, which will have an extended run at the Morristown National Guard Armory from March 9-17, 1974. It is open to all New Jersey students in public as well as private schools in grades 9 through 12.

More than 300 entries from every part of the state are expected for the artistic competition, according to Joseph Cerbo of Parsippany, the contest chairman, representing the sponsoring New Jersey Association of Nurserymen.

"With the interest by high school students in ecological and environmental projects, and with the tremendous wealth of talent these students possess, we feel sure that this year's poster contest will be even bigger and better than ever," Cerbo said.

"The Flower & Garden Show Poster Competition has become an official class project for many schools throughout New Jersey. As a result, we are running local contests as well as the statewide competition, with additional prizes being awarded on the local level."

Charity Group Schedules Wine and Cheese Party

The Greater New Jersey Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation will sponsor a Wine and Cheese p.m. at Neils New Yorker in Mountain Lakes, New Jersey. Tickets are $6.50 per person and are available at the Cystic Fibrosis Office, 344 Union Boulevard, Totowa or contact the Morris County Unit c/o Mrs. Edith Marcellis 17 Lake Drive, Boonton 263-1770. Tickets will also be available at the door.
