"We have to put up the center where the land is available. If we had the land, we could do a lot of things. Renovating the Friendly House is easy—everything is there already.

Bus Route Will Debut With Run on June 17

The new senior citizens' bus will make its opening run through Belleville on June 17, Commissioner of Public Affairs Vincent T. Strumolo announced this week.

Test runs have nearly been completed, he said, and final touches are being put on the route which will wind through Belleville, touching all business centers and important service areas. Strumolo said the route will be complemented by a "dial service" 15-passenger wagon which the department will soon purchase. Like the bus, the ride in the new Plymouth would be free to senior

Over 1,700 applications for bus permits have been received by the Department of Public Affairs, and more are still being issued. Prior to the opening of the new route, permits will be mailed along with a copy of the route to all seniors who have applied.

The bus will make a circuit through Belleville four times each day. The route begins in Silver Lake and completes its run through town in about an hour and 15 minutes.

The blue and gold bus was delivered from Indiana, after many delays, in mid-May. Another may soon be purchased through the Essex County Office on Aging.

crumbling Capitol Theater will be learned Tuesday night when the Board of Commissioners is expected to vote on a request by Bloomfield builder Frank Leo for permission to demolish the theater and erect a three-story apartment building on the property at 360 Washington Avenue. While only a few objectors to Leo's plans had appeared at a public hearing before the Commission, asking that Leo alter plans to include a retaining wall and a "privacy fence," the impending vote on the theater has raised some suggestions that the building should yet be spared, and converted to a youth recreation

Local School System Ponders Uses of Statewide Test Results

by Ken Moore

Now that the long-awaited and long-disputed results of the November, 1972 statewide fourth and 12th grade tests have been made available, Belleville school officials are examining the statistics to see just what can be done with them. Those results show that Belleville students in the test groups fared as well or better than other students in reference groups throughout the county, region and state. School administrators said this week the best use of the test, on the local level, will be to fortify those few areas where Belleville students fell below the reference

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Seymour Grossman met with elementary school principals Monday to go over the results and discuss measures to shore up weak areas. "They seemed to be satisfied with the results," said Grossman, "and they felt that where we do fall below in particular areas, it would be an excellent subject for faculty meetings. They're going to go back and discuss the results with their faculties.' The tests questioned fourth and 12th grade students in areas of mathematics and reading in an identical test issued throughout New Jersey in November of 1972. The results were only recently released following the loss of the New Jersey Education Association of a court battle to block their release. The issue was fought up to the U.S.

Supreme Court, where the teachers lost. Broken down into "clusters" the questions were grouped to test students on specific areas of learning, such as phonetic abilities, vocabulary material and draw conclusions question by and measurement and geometry.

The results of the Belleville group were available for comparison with other "reference groups" Belleville was classed as an urban-suburban school district, Essex County, northeast region. The results of local students were matched against those in similar districts, in Essex County, the region and all through the

Seymour Grossman, who acted as district coordinator for the project, described the work here as a massive project requiring the attention of a staff of 50 administrators and teachers. The local district was supplied only with raw data and scores of reference groups on April 11 and the Belleville staff was required to wade through the question. Following is the basic conclusions shown by the results:

Fourth Grade Reading - Belleville students did well in phonetics, word structure and in word knowledge. The group fell below other reference groups in identifying main ideas and understanding supporting ideas. The students did well

Fourth Grade Mathematics - Greater achievement than all other reference groups was made in addition and subtraction. In multiplication and division, achievement was generally on a par with other groups, as was measurement and geometry. In problem solving, the students in the Belleville district did better than the reference groups on all but one problem. Achievement in number sentences was satisfactory, and in the numeration cluster, they were above the reference groups.

Twelfth Grade Mathematics — Not all students on the 12th grade level had equivalent education in math. Of the 414 seniors who took the tests, 11 had no math since eighth grade; 116, had taken only general math; 103 had college prepatory math courses for two years or less; and 175 had taken college prep math for over two years. Some weaknesses were found in the group in interpreting of graphs, computing percentages number concepts, and fraction and decimal equivalence scores. Strengths were found in problems dealing with money, factoring numbers into their prime factors, addition and Twelfth Grade Reading -Average or better results were scored in understanding context clues presented in simple sentences, understanding supporting details, and in forming opinions and drawing conclusions.

Some of the students had difficulty in reading cumbersome passages, grasping the main idea if it was not relevant to the student's range of interest, and understanding seldom used vocabulary words.

Last week Grossman, Director of Student Personnel Herman Knuppel and Superintendent of Schools Anthony Greco briefed the Board of Education on Belleville's results in the test. Last night, Greco went before the Consolidated P.T.A.'s of Belleville in the first of what he said would be a series of meetings with parent groups

Greco outlined for the Times what the response of the school system would be to the findings of the tests. "Emphasis will be placed on thoses areas where scores fall slightly above or below the reference groups. Intensive drill and individualized teaching will be used in those areas where we are deficient."

Drills would be more effective in the math areas, he said, and small reading groups would be-helpful for reading skills.

While Greco said he felt the testing could have been more efficiently conducted, he acknowledged this was the "first instance of statewide testing I've seen in my 29 years in the field. New Jersey. has always frowned on state curricula or state testing.

The program was devised during Governor William T. Cahill's administration under Commissioner of Education Carl Marburger. Tests were given to fourth and 12th graders in November of 1972, and to seventh and 10th graders in October of 1973. The scores of those 1973 tests were supposed to be released by the state June 1, but were not forthcoming. Belleville school officials are now girding for a short-staffed struggle this summer to interpret those scores once they arrive.
The scores of the first test were held up for nearly a year and a half when the New Jersey Education Association filed a court suit contending the scores could be used to discriminate against poorer school districts where the students were expected - and for the most part, did - score lower than those in more affluent areas.

undue advantage of free Town services, Commissioner of Public Works Mary V.

Senatore said this week. Mrs. Senatore said a truck lending program and the Shade Tree Commission are both being abused by residents who try to supplement contracted services with free Town services

'Our trucks are loaned out for use of homeowners," she said, "from" 4 p.m. until 7 a.m., when they should be returned. We allow this so people can clean up and maintain their homes. So far this has gone very well and the homes in Belleville look beautiful. But we will not lend trucks to individuals who have contractors to do rennovations. Those contractors must supply their own away.

"Some people are also contracting to have trees cut on their property and leaving the cuttings for our Department to pick up and haul away. If they're paying to have a con-tractor cut on their property, they must had that wood away. We don't have the men in the department to do other people's work when they have their own to do."

Finally, she reminded residents that lawn clippings piled loose at curbside often is washed into the sewer lines, causing stoppages, "Our underground lines aren't in the best condition right now," she said, "and this causes even more problems

She said lawn clippings can be left at curbside in a bag or box and Public Works employees will haul them

We believe this reform is long overdue.

Almost a decade ago we suggested a minimum lot frontage of 75 feet for a strip of land beginning with the ITT-Passaic River front property extending west to the Bloomfield line. The suggestion would have applied to the former vacant land of ITT, the vacant land-presently surrounding the ITT complex westward to include Nutley Avenue. Highfield Lane, Satterthwalte Avenue, Rutgers Place, continuing west to include The Enclosure, High Street south to Coeyman Avenue, thence west to the Bloomfield line.

With the Triple Crown of racing so much in the news and on TV these days I stumbled upon some information about horses that might be helpful in explaining some of the more frequently used terms in the bangtail circuit. So let's go. Here they are: A colt does not become a horse until he is five years old. A female equine is a filly until she is five. All colts, fillies, mares, geldings and rinlings are all a year older every Jan. I no matter when they were born. A gelding is a male colt or horse which has been surgically unsexed. A rinling is born half-sexed. The male horse, usually a Committee looking into the impeachment of President Nixon, cried out "I Told You So." Stating "Byrne has identified himself as a liar and anybody who believes him when he says an income tax will reduce property taxes is crazy.

Not unlike Sandman most legislators and interest groups are reacting cautiously to Byrne's approach, primarily because it is so vague and Republican leaders are quick to criticize the governor for not consulting them in coming up with his plan Minority Leader I om Kean of Essex said: "Byrne is giving us the state's first one-party tax program and he'll live to regret it." At the same time Senate Minority Leader Al Beadleston of Monmouth said that an income tax would mean the "death of the New Jersey middle-

Absolute individual liberty even in the anarchical society. In such society, the brute strength of the individual will become, once again, the authoritative force. The individual is being stripped of his liberties in order to preserve a society which is becoming defunct. Human initiative is being suprressed by taxation and regulation in the stim, hope that Absolute Equality can be allocated to everyone. The right of privacy is yielding to the authority of the Police State in the presumption that Big Brother knows what is best for everyone. And academic freedom is limited to a choice between Com-

The Japanese Navy was superbly trained in gunnery, possessed a better lighter than the United States then had, and a better torpedo. The Japanese also used flashless power; in night engagements this gave them a considerable advantage. But the United States had enjoyed a bit of luck at Pearl Harbor. American aircraft carriers were at sea when the sneak attack came in early on the morning of December 7th. Thus when the long Japanese sea pincer began to reach around the eastern Solomons toward New Cruinea and Australia, the U.S. Navy had earriers with which to resist.

Following is the tenth installment of Jack R. Nageley's "The Dissolution of Society This week, Nageley completes his analysis of Marxian philosophy and concludes that it falls short of reality. He then examines anarchy, claiming that it results when a society has no collective goal, According to Nageley, our society has achieved its goals and now serves only to oppress individuals. He foresees anarchy as the source of a new human goal, or absolute.

In the Marxian utopia, money will no longer be a factor in the battle-of-the-sexes because the wealth will have been equalized. There will be no reason for beauty to go to money. There will be no force to prohibit the sexual advances of the male except the brute strength of the individual. With no police, no courts, and no governing authority, there will be no force to prevent the physically superior male from ravaging his neighbor's wife and daughter. The natural law of sexselection will again take its devastating

Whereas the Marxian system has proved monumental as a prophecy, it is no longer in accord with realtiy. Man must have control if his civilizastion is to survive and, he must have a god-head toward which to struggle. Otherwise, he must forever live in a state of mature—a state where even Freud-conceded human perfectibility may not be possible.

the event. It will invite wholesale destruction of life and property. It may even precipitates the obliteration of civilization. Nevertheless, the tendency for dissolution is inevorable.

Every social event, including the event of dissolution, is the product of human-necessity. Where human enterprise has developed a given condition, a society has industrial and the technological society fluman enterprise has now brought man to a condition where the agency of society eignot fulfill its original function — the preservation of order. Thus human development has no alternative but to evolve o a state of anarchy.

Heretofore, the agency of society has been able to maintain order because mankind willingly acquiesced to authority. All men vere committed to the belief that humankind was destined to evolve to some form of Utopia. Accordingly, some persons believed that man struggled to find the reward Heaven as opposed to the pains of Hell. Others believed man struggled to achieve freedom from material want in a classless and stateless society. All of such persons adhered to the idea that the great strength of

Red Cross Gives Awards To Volunteerss

The Belleville District, American Red Cross, recently honored their volunteers at an Awards Ceremony held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Belleville. Over 58 awards were presented to the volunteers including one to Commissioner Vincent Strumolo.

Eugene Barnett, chairman of the Red Cross Advisory Board and Belleville's Town Clerk, was the Master of Ceremonies. Two films were shown on the history of Red Cross and a social hour followed the award ceremonies.

Mrs. Herbert Tucker, secretary of the Advisory Board with Barnett, awarded the pins. Peter Wendel received an honor for 40 years of volunteer service and also received the Clara Barton Award. A 35 year pin went to Walter Karatz, 30 year awards to Mrs. Herbert Tucker and Mrs. Frank England.

Twenty-five year pins were given to Leonard Bade, Eugene ("Cappy") Barnett, Mrs. John DeNike, Mrs. Robert Metcalfe, Mrs. Maurice McEligot and Norman Thompson. Thirteen 10 year pins and 11 five year pins were awarded also that evening.

Richard Marashlian

Richard Marashlian has been awarded the M.A.I. (Member Appraisal Institute) designation by the Governing Council of the American Institute of Real Estate

Appraisers.

Marashlian has been a licensed real estate broker with offices in Bloomfield since 1958. His experience includes sales, leasing, and appraising of residential, apartments, commercial, industrial properties and vacant land. He has qualified as an expert witness in County Boards of Taxation; New Jersey Division of Tax Appeals; Superior Court of New Jersey, District Court and Condemnation Boards.

He received his B.A. Degree from Upsala College, an M.B.A. degree from Rutgers University Graduate School and attended Rutgers University Law School.

Marashlian has instructed real estate courses at Upsala College, East Orange, Rutgers University and Bergen Community College. He is a member of the Faculty Advisory Committee of Rutgers University Extension Division and on the Advisory Committee of the Real Estate Institute at Upsala College. In addition to the M.A.I.

designation, Marashlian holds the Senior Residential, Senior Real Property, Cer-tified Real Estate Appraiser designations and is a Certified Tax Assessor of the State of New Jersey. He is a member of the Board of Realtors of Bloomfield, Belleville, Nutley and Glen Ridge and the National Institute of Real Estate Boards, local, State and National Association of Realizers.

He is married to the former Nevart Chorbajian. They have three children and reside in Verona.

To receive this coveted professional designation, Richard Marashlian had to be over 28 years of age and have at least five years of appraising experience which included three years of M.A.I. field variety experience. He also had to write demonstration appraisal reports to prove his thorough understanding of the appraisal process. He also had to pass a number of technical examinations and dations of other appraisers familiar with his work and professional integrity.

REMEMBER Ed Littig? He had a wood working shop in town, raised bees to make honey, was very active with the Civil Defense Police, but moved to south Jersey last year. Ed is still making newsy he writes: "I raced (well known bike-racer, too) till after age 55. When I gave it up I promised myself that I would win a race after I was 65". Well, at age 66, Ed's first attempt at a race copped him the first place trophy for which he received a gold and silver medal. He has entered six more races. You're not getting older, Ed, you're getting better! Ed was again featured in the local paper in Toms River: "as an added attraction, our cycling friend came and put on a demonstration about bike riding". Ed also appeared on "I've Got a Secret"...his secret was he pedaled a mile a minute. He also appeared on the Steve Allen Show

The game was stretched out into nine full innings and the Bellboys presented the home crowd with a victory.

It should be stressed that it was a total team effort in handing this, the first loss of the season, to Irvington which had won its first eighteen games. Coach Ralph La Conte feels that the players should be commended for a great performance.

Bobby Giordano excelled both offensively and defensively. "G" made some fantastic catches in the outfield, one of which he hauled in while crashing into the center-

In the first games, played on Monday, the Wizzards bowed to the Dazzlers in a 6-2 game. It was a case of the Dazzlers jumping out to a quick lead which the Wizzards could not overcome. Scoring one run in the first and two each in the second and third the Dazzlers continued their tight fielding and held off two threats by the Wizzards in the fourth and the sixth.

In the Sluggers - Belles game the Belles enjoyed an early lead but the Sluggers kept coming back to close the score. Going into the last inthe Dazzlers as they piled up ning it was the Belles leading Sluggers really got their bats booming and took a one run lead in their half of the inning and were only stopped by some sensational fielding. In the Belles turn at bat they managed one run against a really tough Slugger defense. The game ended in a tie at 12-12 when it had to be called so that the mothers could dash to their respective homes to put lunch on for their youngsters. The tie will be played off if it proves vital to the standing of either team. After playing to a tie in their first game the Belles and the Sluggers each posted a win in their second game. The booming bats of the Belles were just too much for

This Week's Horoscope (June 8 through June 14)

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Change is in the wind again, Ari. Be flexible. Consider the important angles and curves and don't make rash judgments. On the other hand, don't sit around vacillating forever, either. Once you are sure of your ground, dig in.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Yours is an Earth sign Taurus and that is why you are usually so practical. Not always, mind you, but by and large. In week ahead, be your old earthy self. Follow hunches, urges and anything that moves. You have change to establish interesting beauthood. Don't miss it lish interesting beachhead. Don't miss it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be cautious in week ahead, Gem. Don't be fooled by one who puts on ritzy facade. That which glitters is not necessarily a gold doubloon, you know. Gilt by association could result.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You find your-self caught up in new production — The Wide World of Aggravation. The general ratings may be low but you, Moonbaby, will be treated gently by local critic. Before week is over, you have chance to prove that one-and-one make more than two. They can make LEO (July 23-August 22): Your fragmented life is about to undergo some rather frantic changes, Leo. Batten down the hatches and prepare for the monsoon. Let's face it, dear friend, these winds of change are a long time coming, and are in fact way overdue.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22): You make personal discovery which just could have you doing carrwheels emotionally. Try not to allow yourself to become too dizzy by the impact of it all, Virg. Listen to your heart, sweet thing, for it may have hardened, but it has NOT atrophied.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): Because you have vision, you tend to think in the future tense, Libra. Maybe this is what makes you so tense at times. While you are thinking in terms of The Grand Design, the present can slip by unenjoyed. The thought of my lovely Libras not celebrating TODAY makes Olgawant to fall on a sword.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): Business affairs may have you all discombobulated, Scorp, but affair of the heart could more than compensate. Study words to Libra for secret message.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): You are most clever when it comes to words, Saj, but in week ahead you would be wise to rely more on gestures to get your point across with loved one. Talk is a pale substitute

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19): Get together with old friends sometime in week ahead, Cap, and share your secrets, your dreams and a pot of tea. If secret travel is on agenda, double check your plan, keys and check book. And please, Cap, try not to leave a trail of breadcrumbs.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): Old memories return to haunt and taunt. Don't sweat. By fifth day, events take a surprising turn that brings you right back to NOW. Before end of last day, Eros, god of love, smiles on you. If you're smart, you'll smile back.

PISCES (February 19-March 20): This is your week to have fun in the sun, Pisces. Don't permit petty annoyances to remain bottled up inside you. They will only cause pressure to build — and you're apt to flip your lid. Then where would you hang your hat?

Jersey Ballet Plans Annual Gala Festival

The New Jersey Ballet Company, under the direction of Carolyn Clark and Joseph Carow, has announced plans for its second annual "Ballet Gala" to be presented Monday, June 24 at 8:15 at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn.

Edward Villella, artistic advisor for the New Jersey Ballet Company, recently returned from a national tour and television committments and now appearing with the New York City Ballet at Lincoln Center, will appear in two major works including "Le Corsaire" pas de deux. There will be several other pieces representing a wide range of classical and modern themes performed at the

The evening is planned to be a social as well as an artistic event with a champagne reception for patrons after the ballet. Governor and Mrs. Brendan T. Byrne are honorary chairmen. Patron tickets are $50 tax-deductible; popular priced tickets at $5 and 10 are available through the New Jersey Ballet Company, 174 Main Street, Orange; 67/7-1045.

Savings Displays School Art

RADCLIFFE SCHOOL grades four, five and six had art displayed at the Suburban Savings and Loan, 351 Centre Street, from May 20 through 31. Art teacher Miss R. Burns supervised display, which included work done in paper mache, creamics, weaving, water paint and mobiles.

Familiar 'Fiddler on Roof' Is Success at Meadowbrook

ing Kurt Kasznar, which opened at the Meadowbrook Theatre Restaurant in Cedar Grove could well be included among the miracles of which Motel, the tailor, sings to his betrothed. The musical, based on Sholem Aleichem's stories, is a work of art that includes laughter and tenderness, popular song, vivid dances, comedy and emotion, blended into a moving tapestry of sentiment and originality.

The highly acclaimed Kurt Kasznar, as Tevye, portrays the dariyman as a warm and compassionate father caught up in the conflict of changing times, when tradition must bend to accommodate the new generation. The actor's polished and sensitive interpretation, not to mention his rich and resonant voice, leave the viewer with a feeling of deep identification and appreciation. In the role of Golde, Susan Willis displays her breadth of experience as a first class actress. Her characterization of the acidulous wife is sharp, yet with critical moments softly delineated by a carefully restrained tendernes and

D. Scott Allen, a young New Jersey-born actor, provides a strong and attractive characterization of Fyedka, who wins the heart of mon. Hermarriage outside of her faith nearly breaks the heart of Tevya, for this is one tradition he cannot bend, even for his beloved daughter. The two ostracized lovers give a moving performance.

Carole Schweid, as Tzeitel, succeeds in persuading her father to break his agreement for her marriage with Lazar Wolf and permit her to marry the tailor, who is poor as "synagogue mice." Both Miss Schweid and Alvin Kupperman are delightful in the development of their roles. Kupperman is especially good as he finds his The children, Jacqueline backbone and becomes a Hakim and Allison Mercher,
