

Marathon Shopping Tonight

Washington Avenue merchants will begin Part One of a 15-hour "marathon sale" tonight when many stores on the Avenue will remain open from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.

After tonight's "Moonlight Madness," tomorrow will see "Daylight Madness" as shoppers are invited to reap bargain benefits from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Belleville Chamber of Commerce President Stanley Slavin said 13 stores have joined for the special annual sale, conducted this week for the third consecutive year. Among the participating stores are Belleville Shoes, Loujre's Men's Shop, Mead Ford, Jolly Interiors, Joseph's Men's Shop, Mae-Moon, Terry Shops, Sherman's Children's Wear, Cami Boutique, Canton Shoes, Claire's Children's Shop and County Discount store.

Washington Avenue stores normally close at 6 p.m. on Thursday night, and the extra hours of the sale will afford shoppers free parking on the street and municipal lot, along with the chance to find bargains in purchases.

Slavin described the theory behind the two-part sale, saying, "the sale has been so popular in the past because it gives working people a chance to shop at night, while Friday is an opportunity for family shopping."

ONEUPMANSHIP — Board of Education carpenter John Przhocki and helper Jeffrey Goodfriend install specially constructed windows at School Three. The windows, made of clear plastic, will hopefully thwart vandals.

Schools Opt for Plastic Panes To Ward Off Rock-Throwers

The Belleville School Board has enlisted the aid of modern technology in their ongoing battle against the attacks of vandals. The newest defensive measure is plastic windows.

"Plastic," actually, is not the precise term for the panels which are now being used to repair the damage done by vandals. The new material bears brand names like "Resolite," and "Lexan," and it isn't plastic, but it's not glass either. The material now being used in replacing any broken windows in Belleville schools is a virtually unbreakable, clear substance which allows as much light to come through, but much fewer rocks and baseballs.

The material is costly, (Lexan being priced about double the cost of glass), but the School Board, backed by studies of other school systems, figures they'll make up the difference by saving in labor and material costs for replacing broken windows.

In the first six months of this year, said Secretary-Business Manager Mary Shader, 370 man-hours were consumed in the replacement of 174 windows broken by vandals. The price tag for that work was $3,200.

From now on, all window damage will be repaired with Lexan in the upper sash, and double thick clear glass in the bottom sash. In place of translucent Florentine glass, Resolite, which is fire retardant besides being unbreakable, will be installed.

At the Senior High School, by far the favorite target of school vandals, porcelain glazed panels will be used in the bottom half of outside entrance doors to replace the costly full length wire safety glass now in use.

Mrs. Shader commented, "Not only did the necessity for this work delay normal maintenance repairs, but the material cost of $1,500 could have been used to much better advantage." She emphasized the cost of vandalism repair is footed by the taxpayers whose children (presumably) add to those costs by continued destruction of school property.

The Board of Education has periodically announced "crackdowns" on vandals, announcing that parents of apprehended perpetrators will be sued to recover repair costs. Unfortunately, vandals are rarely caught while vandalizing.

Came from Avellino

After 55 Years, a Family Is Reunited

Mrs. Angelina Cafone of 9 King Street, like many Belleville Italian-Americans, traces her ancestry back to the village of Avellino, a town she left behind in 1919. Like many other Italians who emigrated from the old country at that time, she could afford only one passage to America, and had to leave her brother and two sisters behind with her parents.

In 1954, her brother Mike Primavera arrived here, followed by sister Jennie Fabiano in 1968, and last June, another sister Maria Angela visited here from her home in Argentina, reuniting the family after 55 years apart.

A party was held at Mrs. Cafone's King Street home

Friday night for some 40 or more relatives of the family from in and around Belleville. Among Mrs. Cafone's children are Dolores Vitiello and Nancy Cancelliere of Belleville and former Belleville High grid coach Rocco Cafone. The Fabiano name is likewise well-known throughout town, as is the original family name of Primavera.

When Angela left Italy at age 21, Maria Angela was 18, Mike was 11 and Jennie was just 18 months old. Angelina sailed for America to join her uncle at his Passaic Avenue home. As she left Avellino, she made the sign of the cross over the family home, knowing she would never return to the increasingly hard life of rural Italy.

She settled in Belleville, working toward her goal of raising money to bring over the rest of the family, but World War II disrupted the plan, and then she lost contact with her family in the old country. Her parents died during the war and brother Mike, an Italian soldier, became a prisoner of war.

After the war, Mike wrote Angelina, but the letter was sidetracked to a Cafone family on Garden Avenue. By chance, they knew Angelina, and brought the long-sought correspondence to her. The family's goal was reset, and Mike came to Belleville in 1954, went to work here and successfully brought over the rest of his family.

In 1967, Jennie visited, reuniting with her sister whom she had never really known.

Jennie shares her sister's dislike for farm life, loves America and Belleville and swears "I'll never, never go back." She is now a naturalized American citizen.

Meanwhile, Maria Angela had married and moved to Argentina to join her husband's family. He has since passed away, and Maria Angela last year came to Belleville to visit her sisters and brother. Arrangements were made through State Senator Carmen Orechio's travel service in Nutley and Maria Angela flew into J.F.K. Airport on June 22. The family was there to meet her at 5 a.m., but a mixup in customs placed them in a separate room from Maria, and the non-English speaking sister spent a confused two hours before her relatives joined her for a tearful, but joyous reunion.

Three days before, however, Mike had to enter the hospital for a back operation, and sister Jennie also was briefly hospitalized during Maria's stay, so much of the family's time together was spent at Clara Maass.

Angelina's son-in-law, Joseph Vitiello, said, "They've found plenty to talk about — mostly reminiscing about the old farm, old names, baking bread, cultivating the land."

Maria Angela's stay was all too brief for her and her sisters, and there were more tears at the airport when she left. But her sisters say she'll be back, possibly as soon as next October, for another Primavera family reunion.

Shooting Suspect Caught Through Drug Raid Tip

A suspect in the shooting and robbery of a Valley grocer was arrested Friday after police found a lead in the case from a narcotics raid last Tuesday on Belleville Avenue. Deputy Police Chief Frank Haight announced this week.

A 28-year-old Newark man is being held without bail for atrocious assault and armed robbery in connection with the June 15 wounding of Ricardo Santiago, 41, at his Stephens Street grocery store. Santiago, struck in the chest, has since been released from Clara Maass Hospital. About $150 was taken in the holdup. Deputy Chief Haight said four others were held as material witnesses in connection with the case. Released on their own recognizance are a New York woman, 22; a Newark woman, 25; a Nutley man, 22; and a Keanesburg man, 25.

Detective Sergeant Ronald Thompson arrested the suspect at his home after participating in a drug raid with Nutley and Essex County detectives Tuesday on a Belleville Avenue apartment. Thompson said no weapon was recovered at the shooting suspect's residence, but Haight added investigation of the case is continuing.

Santiago was shot once with a small caliber automatic pistol on June 15 at his shop at 365 Stephens Street.

In Zoning Fight

Valley Area Objectors Target Van Dyk, Inc.

by Ken Moore

The Town Fathers will soon consider a zoning variance dispute that has pitted a 30-year-old Belleville industry against an ad hoc group of protestors intent on "preserving the residential character of the Valley section."

No date for a public hearing or vote has been set by the Board of Commissioners for a final decision on a variance request by Van Dyk & Co., Inc. of William Street to expand their existing warehouse at 123 Main Street to an adjoining vacant lot at 129-131 Main Street. The sheer bulk of the Board of Adjustment hearing testimony, taken over three long sessions, has delayed the transcript preparations. Once the Commissioners receive and analyze the transcripts, a public hearing will be held and the Board will then vote whether to approve the Zoning Board's 4-1 decision made in early July to grant the variance.

A group of 20 or more objectors, led by the Rev. Paul Ruter of the Belleville Reformed Church at Rutgers and Main Streets, has selected the Van Dyk variance as a "test case" to attempt to reverse what Rev. Ruter contends is a trend toward "urban blight" in the Valley.

Van Dyk's attorney, Frank Pomaco, successfully appealed to the Zoners to limit their considerations to the single piece of property in question, an 85 by 90 foot parcel of land fronting Route 21 on Main Street, located in a block that contains four commercial buildings and one residence. The land is a combination of two lots — one with a 60-foot frontage and the other 30 feet wide, which formally held a two-family home next to the only existing house on the block. On the other side of the property is the existing Van Dyk warehouse, which provides storage for materials used in the manufacturing process at the plant on the corner of William and Main Streets. Van Dyk, located in Belleville since 1943, produces chemicals used in the manufacture of cosmetics.

The rear of the property touches three other homes. The proposed building would be a one-story structure, one foot higher than the existing 18-foot warehouse, occupying 85 percent of the lot's 10,071 square feet.

The land is presently zoned for one and two-family use, requiring a variance for the L-shaped addition to Van Dyk's warehouse. The proper (and feasible) use of this land for industry or residence has become the central issue in the dispute between Van Dyk, represented by Pomaco, and a broad-based group of Valley residents, represented by lawyer Paul Alongi.

Although Pomaco was forced to withdraw an argument that a 1931 zoning ordinance gave Van Dyk the right to expand on the lot without a variance, he listed a number of special reasons for which he said Van Dyk was entitled to a variance.

Among the reasons were the following: the uniqueness of the site; its unsuitability for one-family residential use; its peculiar suitability for the proposed use as a warehouse site; the undue burden on Van Dyk of restricting use to one-family residential use; and the decrease in traffic congestion the warehouse addition would bring.

The Zoners awarded their decision to Van Dyk because of the uniqueness of the site and the benefit to traffic patterns. Pomaco had said the present warehouse fronts the narrowest section of Main Street, and trucks must now load and unload on that street. The addition would permit trucks to move off the street for loading in the warehouse.

Expert witnesses were produced at Zoning Board hearings to refute objectors' claims the addition would be unsafe due to fire hazards.

The witnesses called by Pomaco testified the chemicals stored at the warehouse would not be hazardous, and Belleville Fire Chief George Sharra, subpoenaed by Alongi for the objectors, said the department would find the storage of the chemicals safe under proper conditions.

Van Dyk had an explosion at their plant in the mid-fifties, but lawyer Pomaco

Backyard Accident Claims Baby's Life

A two-and-a-half year old boy died Monday night at Clara Maass Hospital, six days after he fell into his family's backyard swimming pool on King Street.

Doctor's labored for six days in the intensive care unit of Clara Maass Hospital before Richard Luzzi died of cardiac-respiratory failure at 8:35 p.m. Monday. He had been temporarily revived when he was taken to the hospital emergency room, but never regained consciousness afterward, though doctors were able to sustain his vital functions.

The child fell into the four-foot deep family swimming pool at 27 King Street shortly before 1:40 p.m. on Tuesday, July 16, after his mother had left him and his four-year-old sister in the yard when she went to answer a brief telephone call.

Deputy Police Chief Frank Haight said the pool was well-enclosed by a fence with a locked gate, but police surmise Richard was able to make his way under the fence and into the pool. Haight said the child was in the water "no more than five minutes" when his mother discovered him.

Laterza Calls for $138G In Fire Dept. Equipment

Public Safety Commissioner Robert Laterza at a Tuesday night Commission meeting introduced an ordinance calling for a $138,000 capital improvement outlay to revamp Fire Department equipment.

The ordinance was passed on first reading and will be submitted for a public hearing and a final vote at the next Commission meeting. Among the major investments under Laterza's proposal are a new 1,250-gallon pumping engine, a new fire engine motor and a new aerial lift truck.

Laterza also hopes to install a new communications network for the Fire Department, and a standby generator for fire headquarters.

The Department presently has two 1965 Seagraves pumps, one of them in poor condition, and a 1958 Mack engine. One of the Seagraves would be replaced and used only for training and emergencies. The Department presently operates without a standby generator, said the Commissioner.

He voiced his hope the bill would be passed at the next meeting, so the new engine could be brought in by the end of the year. If the measure is not passed next month, he said, the Town may have to wait until next year to implement the program.

The next Commission meeting is scheduled for August 13.

The cost of the engine, motor and aerial truck is estimated at $85,000. Communication equipment and console is estimated at $53,000.

"We're trying to do something positive for our senior citizens," said Roblenski, who said the discount day was planned with Belleville Commissioner of Public Affairs Vincent T. Strumolo. Roblenski said the 10 percent discount and dinner offer will be open to all senior citizens on the first Tuesday of every month. Identification required is a Medicaid card or a senior citizens Belleville bus permit.

The special discount begins on Tuesday, August 6.

Sun Safety Is Urged

Commissioner Vincent Strumolo, 1974 Belleville Community Cancer Crusade Chairman, urges all residents to apply "sense in the sun" during these vacation months as the American Cancer Society estimates that unless proper safeguards are taken more than 4,000 New Jerseyans will get skin cancer this year.

"Skin cancer is the most common of all cancers, and it is also the most curable," the chairman pointed out. "Furthermore, most cases are preventable if the following precautions are taken: Take the sun in small doses. Wear a broad brimmed hat. Use a beach umbrella. Apply recommended lotions or creams."

The American Cancer Society estimates that 95 percent of skin cancer cases can be cured if people heed its warning signals and report promptly to their physicians. Warning signals include any sore that does not heal or a change in the size, color or texture of a mole or wart. You are your own keeper, stay alert and stay alive.

The chairman also called on all crusade volunteers to make their call-backs and if possible, one or two extra calls to help bring the community up to its quota. All kits should be returned this month for a final accounting.

"Help fight cancer with a Check and a Check-Up and for help or information please call 678-1990 the Essex County Unit of the American Cancer Society, 336 South Harrison Street, East Orange, N.J." the Chairman concluded.

Zoning Variance Dispute Pits Residents, Industry

said the company has since discontinued the manufacturing process which led to the accident. There have been no recent problems, he said.

Pomaco called Belleville realtor George Pifer to give testimony on the real estate potential of the property. Pifer's account included history of the Valley section, particularly Main Street dating back to 1931, when a Town ordinance zoned a 200 foot strip of land along Main Street residential, in anticipation of creating a public park on the banks of the Passaic River.

With the sale of the land to the State of New Jersey in 1958, and the erection of Route 21 in 1964, a telling change was made in real estate trends on Main Street. In fact, he said, no residences have been built on Main Street south of Rutgers Street since 1940, and only two residences have been built south of Rutgers from Washington Avenue to the River since 1940.

Pomaco concluded that there is no potential for a saleable residence on the land in question. But lawyer Alongi and the objectors say there is, since a twofamily house had existed on the 30-foot parcel of the land until the lot was purchased by Van Dyk in 1973, and the house was demolished shortly afterward.

The house was placed under contract to Van Dyk in December of 1972, said Van Dyk Vice President John Foley, but the company could not take title of it until May of 1973. In the meantime, the owners, David and Ruth Michaels, evicted the tenants, and the house was allowed to deteriorate, with vandals setting fires there, breaking windows and stripping materials.

Foley, who closed the deal on the house, but did not make a personal inspection of the property, told the Times the company had intended to house employees in two apartments there. He said he was told by one of his employees sent to inspect the property, "It's no great shakes, but it can be fixed up, with some money."

Yet when the time came to take possession, said Foley, "we examined it and found it wasn't worth fixing up." In the meantime, because of complaints by neighbors to the Town Building Inspector, Van Dyk was ordered to board up the house or demolish it. The house had been vacant about two months before it was destroyed.

Foley said the company was sincere in its intentions to use the house as a residence, but admitted, "we knew sooner or later we would have to expand the warehouse."

Alongi argues the claim the property has "lost its residential character" is "a contrived plan." Van Dyk made that lot vacant when they destroyed the residence there.

Alongi said the awarding of a variance to Van Dyk "would in effect be assisting a change in the total zone by taking property piece by piece. A company could purchase another lot in the same area, destroy the residence, and expand. If the Commissioners approve this they will be spotting the whole area."

Alongi has been engaged by a group of Valley residents, 20 of whom registered as objectors to the variance. "Of these objectors," said Pomaco, "five were tenants. There are 40 landowners within the 200-foot radius of the site, and only about seven or eight registered as objectors."

Eunice Conover, a leader of the objectors and one who does not live in the 200-foot area, disregards the technicality. "What's being done to one section of the Valley is being done to another," she said. "I can't see tearing down homes for families and expanding industries here."

Mrs. Conover is a member of the Valley Association, a semi-active group that opposed a masterplan proposal in the 1960's to zone the Valley for industry. While the Valley Association has not taken a formal stand on Van Dyk, the groups' sentiments are voiced by the Van Dyk objectors, and Rev. Ruter, who went door to door speaking to residents about the proposed warehouse expansion.

"I spoke to the congregation a Sunday ago about this problem," said the Reverend, "and quoted the prophet Isaiah:

"Woe to those who add house to house
And join field to field
Until there is no more room

And they are the sole inhabitants of the land.
Many houses shall be brought to ruin

And great and beautiful houses will be left desolate and uninhabited."

Rev. Ruter calls the trend to industry in the Valley "urban blight," and identifies the deterioration of Newark and Paterson with the situation in the Valley.

The process of urban blight, he asserted, involves the exodus of homeowners from a community; the proliferation of high-rise apartments; the movement of shoppers from local stores to shopping centers; heavy taxation of storeowners with a resulting increase of prices; and industrial movement into residential areas.

In order to combat the trend, said the Reverend, Valley objectors intend to fight for preservation of all houses and residential uses in the neighborhood.

The proper name for these is "ocular solar filters" and they are necessary to your eye health. You may call them "dark" or "sun" glasses. In recent years they have become a part of everyday life, and if your eyes are exposed to continuous sun, they will benefit from the shade which sun glasses can afford. If you wear glasses habitually, have your dark glasses ground to your prescription. Today's attractive frames can also add to your appearance as well as insure your comfort.

Make it a habit to have all your prescriptions filled by the pharmacists at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1956, 759-1968. Free prescription delivery available and we are Blue Cross and Medicare approved. Baby needs, greeting cards, cameras and film are handled to supply all your needs. ## Our Divorce Laws

In the July "Reader's Digest," an article from "Woman's Day" puts the finger squarely on the growing problem (and scandal) of American divorce laws. They vary from state to state but only a few of the states have acted to reform antiquated, unfair and primitive laws for termination of marriage.

The fact is that today a third of all marriages are ended, one way or another, in a few short years. This is not necessarily bad. The experts feel a successful marriage is the best one can hope for, the desirable goal. But it's increasingly being recognized that human beings cannot all make the perfect choice in marriage, especially on the first try.

An overwhelming majority of the experts on marital relations now agree that when two are miserable, or grow to hate one another because they're badly mismatched, it's better they divorce — and both again have a chance to live happy lives.

This is true whether or not there are children in the family. It is not — as so many assume — better to bring up children in one home filled with hatred than in two happy homes.

No-fault divorce, so successful where tried, is almost certainly the divorce system of the future. The experts point out that even bad marriages, when ended under today's laws, leave both partners wounded and hurt. Because obsolete laws force divorce proceedings to be adversary — pitting one partner against another, lawyers reap a rich harvest and often have much to gain in keeping litigation, especially over children, going for years and years.

Likewise, they usually talk the wife into charging her husband with cruel behavior or conduct — and since that's the only way the husband can achieve divorce, he often agrees to play the role of the guilty party — which is totally unfair.

In the field of legal reform, then, divorce law ranks with estate probate law and automobile accident law, as a priority target.

Military Power

The influence of the military establishment in America is a cause of concern among many Americans. Prior to World War II the nation kept its permanent military establishment shall — purposely.

From the days of George Washington, senior American statesmen feared the growth and influence of a huge military bureaucracy — a powerful military-industrial complex, as the late President Eisenhower termed it.

That complex has existed since the days of the late Lyndon Johnson in the White House, and the Vietnam War. President Nixon cut back on expenditures and the bureaucracy initially, but faced with a rapidly arming Russia, he has reversed the trend.

What has sharply increased the cost of defense is the all-volunteer enlistment system now in effect, which is forcing taxpayers to pay the least qualified people the biggest military salaries in history to foul up discipline and the effectiveness of the services.

Meanwhile, the brass at the Pentagon, with a President hard hit by scandal, spends over half the U.S. budget and spends it foolishly in many cases. Competitive bids are sparingly employed. Hundreds of millions are wasted on pet projects for each of the services, often partly duplicating projects.

Often the projects or weapons are unsound and the military services backing such a project close ranks and hang together to avoid the embarrassment of Congress learning the truth. And to get promoted the colonels and brigadier generals tow the line or become has-beens.

The nation isn't getting its money's worth, and isn't getting the best weapons available, under this system. With a Russia rapidly acquiring an arms edge, and buying arms cheaper than we can, the danger is obvious.

Colder Years?

Ton Alexander, writing in "Fortune", says the world is probably heading into a colder era, that the change began in 1945. The change is not a big one, from 1945 to 1974, and is estimated at one degree Fahrenheit.

But even this one-degree change has already caused repercussions. Hay yields are reduced in Iceland, as an example. The growing season in England is estimated to be nine or ten days shorter than in 1950, for another.

The minor changes thus far might be only the forerunners of serious consequences, if the newest theory of the climatologists is correct. It's believed in the past 700,000 years it has been as warm as in recent decades only about five percent of the time.

If change is occurring, and Reid Bryson of the Institute for Environmental Studies at the University of Wisconsin is one who thinks a very important climatic change is going on right now, it will be a slow change, by human standards. A rapid change is one which takes place in a century or two.

Golden Comments

By James R. Golden

The languid dog-days of Summer, in conjunction with the many vacation plans which this year especially seem designed to get-away-from-it-all, reduces, on the surface, the appearance of the usual fare of political action in and about town, but have no fear, dear reader, the activity that best brings results to the office holders is going on apace. It don't make "screaming headlines" and hopefully "gets by" without too much fanfare.

Can you think up any better plan of how to win friends and influence people to work for the re-election and return to office of the politician whose term expires in about seven months and must seek as much voting support as possible to get back, than to place many vote-getters obligated to support the officeholder's continuance in office on the public pad?

It's an old time-worn practice of long duration and costs the politician nothing, since his domain over expenditures in his department comes from the monies raised by taxation...yours and mine.

While it was not unexpected the practice would be continued this summer however, when the temporary jobs were handed out it became evident from casual observation, both inside and outside of town hall, that the public pad of all town departments were more heavily laden than ever before with a host of relatives and close friends of the commissioners. The old walls at town hall are bursting at the seams with new employees.

Reports persist that a Public Safety Dept. employee who while putting in considerable overtime is also on the payroll of the Parks and Public Property Dept. and also, at times, drives the Senior Citizens bus at $5.76 per hour. When does the guy sleep? How come? Is there an IN crowd in town? Isn't there some old story about serving too many masters? Or doesn't that apply in politics? Sure seems strange.

Mayor McGreevy made all that fuss about Comm. Laterza's Safety Department budget and raised hell to have many essentially needed items taken out, yet, he had no fault to find about all the salaries being paid out to temporary summer help. These people won't be around when the cold winds blow, but, we still will be needing the equipment he held up.

Now because of the delay caused by his holding up these improvements it will cost the town about $25,000 more to acquire these items or 1-tax point more because of price increases. That don't seem to add up to cleverness to most people who will get saddled with the inflated costs in their tax bill.

Unfortunately for the people and taxpayers, equipment don't vote but the political hacks do. That's why the lobby's of public employees are catered to by our public officials, at our expense, because of their large voting bloc strength, while we, representing the vast majority, are unorganized and apathetic. The pressure groups get what they demand of the politicians who fear their voting "clout" while they "gamble" against public reaction to their disregard of our welfare because the unorganized weakness of the masses offer scant resistance to their ambitious desires to remain in office where they and their friends may feed well at the public trough.

Moon Landing Keeps Townspeople Glued to Their TV-Watching Seats

by Peter Clark

One Year Ago

Belleville Board of Education officials were slated to trek to Trenton to implore the State Board of Education to reinstate all or part of the $405,880 cut from the budget by the local town commission. The burden of proof would rest on the local board, which had to show how the cuts would endanger the efficient operation of the school system. Town fathers were expected to attend the meeting and to defend their cuts. Meanwhile, the fiscal year for the school system had already begun, and education officials were faithfully adhering to the cuts which had been made in their budget. Board President Lawrence Schwartz felt that the cuts were severely hurting the school system, and he cited curriculum and maintenance as two of the major problem areas. "With the amount they cut," he told the Times, "we can't present to the public the kind of efficient system we want."

The Town Commission was apparently moving toward some form of rent control legislation, but as to how soon it would act, and what form the ordinance would take, nobody knew, least of all the Commission. Steve Rogers, a 21-year-old Belleville resident, was trying to eliminate some of the guess work. "I'm prepared to organize the tenants, and if the Town Fathers don't act, those who are candidates like Mayor Joseph McGreevy will feel it in November."

Belleville Post No. 105 of the American Legion was to hold its annual installation of officers and auxiliary officers in the Post Home, 621 Washington Avenue. Commander elect Raymond Weller of 45 Cleveland Avenue, Nutley, is an Army veteran of WW II and the Korean conflict. Commander Weller's oldest son Francis had recently been elected Detachment vice-commander of the Sons of the American Legion.

Five Years Ago

On July 20, 1969, Neil Armstrong, an American astronaut, invaded the privacy of Earth's nearest neighbor, the Moon. One step on the lunar surface, and centuries of superstition and suspense were done with. A man had, at last, walked on the moon. The Times contacted several leading citizens in Belleville, and discovered their reactions to this crowning achievement.

●Acting Mayor Joseph McGreevy: "I feel wonderful. I hope everyone gets off safely. It's completed. It's the best thing that every happened."

●Art Jackson, owner of Jolly Time Cleaners: "I think that the one thing that I felt most was a surge of pride and restoration of faith in my country, a country which I was taught was the greatest in the world. It is something that will reinspire our country to unite..."

Perhaps the hopes and fears of the Americans can best be summed up in what Jimmy Greengrove, part owner of the Glass Company stated: "It was wonderful and breathtaking. It reminded me of a science fiction movie. When they disappeared from the screen on the moon, I began to worry. I felt a closeness to it because of television."

Irate Heckel Street residents, struggling to keep a garbage depot from being erected on their street, had to look forward to the outcome of a legal battle before they would know whether they would get relief from their problems. Fred Fierro, owner of the proposed site for the depot, brought suit against Building Inspector Vincent Mustaccio and the Town of Belleville, demanding that a permit be issued, so that he might build the depot. He had been denied a permit due to intervention by Commissioner Mary Senatore, on the grounds of "pending legislation." The legislation in question was an ordinance before the Commission that would rezone a portion of Silver Lake, including Heckel Street, from Business to residential C. The measure had been passed, 4-0, at the last meeting of the Commission, with the house backed with Heckel Street residents.

Two local attorneys, Leslie and Muriel Finch, of the firm of Keenan and Finch left for Jackson, Mississippi, to help furnish legal aid for the civil rights workers who were being prosecuted there.

Albin H. Oberg, Executive Director at Clara Maass Memorial Hospital announced that the Hospital was awarded accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

Sisters Maureen and Gwen Gaudio of Overhill Road were selected as finalists in the Miss American Teenager contest at Palisades Park.

John F. Cross accepted a position as Senior Engineering Psychologist in the Space and Missile Engineering Division of McDonnell Aircraft, in Missouri.

Fifteen Years Ago

After complaints that they never had to pay for their water, the Clara Maass Memorial Hospital was charged 69 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of water consumed. The move was based upon a decision at a meeting of the Belleville Board of Commissioners.

Mrs. Charles Weber of Malone Avenue was the 5,300th subscriber to the Belleville Times. The issues of the paper were just starting to be printed on a brand new rotary type press.

Charles Travers, Jr., was hired by the Belleville Board of Education as a physical education instructor for the high school.

Thirty Years Ago

Residents of Belmont Avenue were threatened with legal action and a $400 fine, if they neglected to dispose of their cows.

Miss Della L. Cordery, Public Service consultant, conducted lecture-demonstrations at the Belleville-Times Canning Fair, in School No. Eight. She was assisted by Mrs. Eleanor Wiese and Miss June Stone. Among the topics discussed at the fair were different methods and recipes for preserving different fruits and vegetables, and the storing of these items once they were preserved.

Recalls Soccer Was Begun Here In Early Fifties

I have just read an article in a local newspaper in reference to "Soccer a Reality in Belleville," about Mr. Wische (high school athletic director) trying for four years to initiate soccer into the high school.

Let it be known that Belleville High had a soccer team in 1952. The boys at that time were the product of the Belleville P.A.L. athletic program under the late Sgt. John McNish, who gave willingly and wholeheartedly of his time and one only has to check the Belleville Police force roster to see where most of those boys are today, while others are in business for themselves, a couple are professional men.

Two of these boys are on the Arlington Police force, a great credit for a job well done by Mr. McNish. The country needs more men like him.

The Belleville High team at that time were meeting Kearny, Harrison, St. Cecilia's. They were always state champion candidates and were never disgraced.

Frank Cramer made All-State first team, Joe Hughes, third team.

And when I meet these boys in uniform when I am in Belleville, it gives me a feeling that something worthwhile was accomplished. Having been a friend of Mr. McNish is something I will never forget.

I wish Mr. Cahill every success in this endeavor and may he get all the cooperation he needs, especially from Mr. Wische who in 1952 was not so keen about this sport that Mr. Ed Berlinski was so anxious to see kept alive. I hope this endeavor lasts for a long time, as this game can use boys regardless of size.

Thank You

Russian Sports

The Russian Government recently invited a number of U.S. sports writers to that country to view their massive sports programs. The Americans were impressed.

Of course, everything is government-operated. But there is no denying the fact that many more take advantage of sports, and get better sports training, than in free world countries. One British writer remarked, as he watched a huge gym full of wrestlers, that there were more competitors in that one hall than in all England.

Sports and education are two of the showpiece projects of the Russian communist system. The Russians offer all who can qualify for college-level study that chance, free. Their massive sports training programs have enabled them to surpass the United States in Olympic supremacy, and in various individual sports, even in hockey and basketball to some degree — former American strongholds.

"One doesn't favor the communist system by suggesting we can sometimes learn from Russian accomplishments. Our Olympic training program has long left much to be desired, as has sports programs in many of our schools. And one hopes the time will come when the boy or girl who has the ability and can utilize a college-level education will be guaranteed that chance in every state, not just a few.

These are but two of the things we can improve in the free enterprise America we love — and constant improvement in our way of life and system is the surest way to see that it survives and proves the choice of most of the world in the future.

Writer Offers His Remedy On Education

To the Editor:

Our state trying to make our educational system second to none, is short sighted in many ways.

Better opportunity is important for all our peoples, but higher education is not the entire answer. Neglect in the field of vocational training may find that leaves the state in the middle and employment wanting.

The state pursuing the course of higher education puts our private colleges in a bind and lacking in interested persons available. This course causing a financial crush and the possible loss of some of our foremost educational institutions of the past.

As in the case of Bloomfield College, even though in financial straits and the loss of curriculum and staff, the state has seen fit to give to this floundering institution a considerable grant of forty-five million dollars. This to enable them to build a new college and campus in Parsippany (Lake Hiawatha Area). Good money after bad, supporting an institution going bankrupt and the cause created by ill thinking on the part of our state officials.

Additional funding needed previously for education came from our state lottery. The lottery originally to provide funds for both education and institutions. As it is well known now very little has been diverted to institutions, with our state mental facilities wanting. It can only be called un-fair distribution, lacking in thought or compassion.

In the case of new revenues for our educational system, it is thought best that it should be excluded from the general state funds. Thus eliminating the possibility of educational funds being diverted to other spending.

To our Governor and State Legislators I say, get smart think in terms of the people. Keep the funds for the purpose intended and recouse our educational thinking in regards to our private colleges.

Sincerely,
Philip W. Bell

Local ECC Office Is Funded

The Essex County College Office of Metropolitan-County Affairs has recently been funded by a $15,000 grant from the New Jersey Department of Higher Education under Title I of the Higher Education Act.

Essex County College will match the federal grant to facilitate continued operation of the Metropolitan-County Affairs out-reach office located at 549, Washington Avenue, Belleville. The project was initially funded by the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs.

Using the College in innovative ways for the general public other than in its traditional academic approach for enrolled students alone, the Metropolitan-County Affairs program is assigned the task of assessing county-wide needs and strengthening the coordinating existing community service programs originating at Essex County College. Its Belleville out-reach office, the NEED Center, (North Essex Educational Center) offers vocational and career counseling as well as tutorial and remedial assistance.

Residents of the North Essex area may also receive help in preparing for high school equivalency examinations as well as college admissions assistance when dropping in at the NEED

Center.

Program Coordinator Robert Russo stated, "In receiving this grant, we will be able to expand the services now offered to the community."

She Completes County College Career Class

Sixty students enrolled in the Essex County College Social Services Career Program were recently awarded certificates of merit for successfully completing a year of classroom instruction combined with a year of supervised agency field internship.

The program, the first of its kind in Essex and the neighboring counties, prepares students for a variety of occupations in social welfare and social work, mental health and drug abuse. Among the certificate recipients was Mrs. Natalie Dickinson of Belleville.

The awards were presented by Mrs. Kara R. Smith, Social Service Field Officer, and Dr. Peter L. Myers, Coordinator of Psychological and Social Services Career Programs. Addressing the award recipients, Dr. Myers emphasized the "right to a skill", the commitment of the college to foster and maintain "career ladder" vocational education, and the improvement and increase of human services in the county by providing and training an increased number of staff. He also urged agencies to take advantage of the services that can be provided by the program in the areas of organizational and clinical consulting.

More Bellevilleites Named To College Dean's Lists

Lynn P. Hosley, Class of 1976, was recently named to the Dean's Honor List for outstanding academic achievement in the Spring Term at Gettysburg College. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Hosley of 179 Branch Brook Drive, Belleville, New Jersey.

The names of students who attain a quality point average of 3.5 or higher out of a perfect 4.0 for a semester's work are placed on the Dean's Honor List.

Gettysburg College, the oldest Lutheran-affiliated college in the United States, offers a liberal arts program to 1850 men and women students, and is located in historic Gettysburg, Pennsylvania.

Three Belleville students have made the honors' list at Upsala College for outstanding academic achievement during the spring semester.

To qualify for the honors' list, a student must achieve at least a slightly better than "B" average.

Named to the list were: Carole Patricia Nye, daughter of Georgeanna and Charles Nye, of 9 Kathryn Street, Miss Nye, a senior, is majoring in psychology.

August LaLuna, son of Rose and August LaLuna, of 160 White Oak Terrace, LaLuna is a junior.

Thomas Alan Jones, son of Betty Jane and Harlow C. Jones of 198 Smallwood Avenue, Jones is a senior majoring in English.

Giordano Graduates At Lincoln

Richard J. Giordano of 388 Union Avenue, Belleville, has graduated from Lincoln Technical Institute, Union.

A 1973 graduate of Belleville High School, he received his Lincoln diploma upon successful completion of the school's extensive day course in air conditioning, heating and refrigeration technology. He hopes to have his own business some day.

At the same time another Belleville resident, Frank M. Ritacco, Jr. of 207 Belleville Avenue, has been accepted for enrollment in Lincoln's evening course in heating systems servicing. Ritacco, a 1972 graduate of Belleville High, works while going to school. He is employed by Valley Plumbing and Heating Company.

Cite Local Student Volunteer Effort

Nine Trenton State College students were honored at an awards luncheon on May 16 for their volunteer work with community agencies and hospitals in the Trenton area during the past year. All nine, selected from a list of over 200 TSC students engaged in the volunteer program, received cash awards. Among them was Joan Haege of 40 Princeton Road, Belleville.

The students volunteered an average of four hours a week, serving as tutors and counselors, instructors in arts and crafts and recreational therapy and as psychiatric and clerical assistants.

MICHAEL JINKS, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jinks of 18 William Street, Belleville was the winner of a full scholarship at Lincoln Technical Institute, Union, New Jersey. Michael graduated from Belleville High School in June, 1974 and scored highest in the competition for scholarship. William A. Hart, Director of the Ryder Schools, is presenting Michael with the award in the picture.

Our Divorce Laws

In the July "Reader's Digest," an article from "Woman's Day" puts the finger squarely on the growing problem (and scandal) of American divorce laws. They vary from state to state but only a few of the states have acted to reform antiquated, unfair and primitive laws for termination of marriage.

The fact is that today a third of all marriages are ended, one way or another, in a few short years. This is not necessarily bad. The experts feel a successful marriage is the best one can hope for, the desirable goal. But it's increasingly being recognized that human beings cannot all make the perfect choice in marriage, especially on the first try.

An overwhelming majority of the experts on marital relations now agree that when two are miserable, or grow to hate one another because they're badly mismatched, it's better they divorce — and both again have a chance to live happy lives.

This is true whether or not there are children in the family. It is not — as so many assume — better to bring up children in one home filled with hatred than in two happy homes.

No-fault divorce, so successful where tried, is almost certainly the divorce system of the future. The experts point out that even bad marriages, when ended under today's laws, leave both partners wounded and hurt. Because obsolete laws force divorce proceedings to be adversary — pitting one partner against another, lawyers reap a rich harvest and often have much to gain in keeping litigation, especially over children, going for years and years.

Likewise, they usually talk the wife into charging her husband with cruel behavior or conduct — and since that's the only way the husband can achieve divorce, he often agrees to play the role of the guilty party — which is totally unfair.

In the field of legal reform, then, divorce law ranks with estate probate law and automobile accident law, as a priority target.

Military Power

The influence of the military establishment in America is a cause of concern among many Americans. Prior to World War II the nation kept its permanent military establishment small — purposely.

From the days of George Washington, senior American statesmen feared the growth and influence of a huge military bureaucracy — a powerful military-industrial complex, as the late President Eisenhower termed it.

That complex has existed since the days of the late Lyndon Johnson in the White House, and the Vietnam War. President Nixon cut back on expenditures and the bureaucracy initially, but faced with a rapidly arming Russia, he has reversed the trend.

What has sharply increased the cost of defense is the all-volunteer enlistment system now in effect, which is forcing taxpayers to pay the least qualified people the biggest military salaries in history to foul up discipline and the effectiveness of the services.

Meanwhile, the brass at the Pentagon, with a President hard hit by scandal, spends over half the U.S. budget and spends it foolishly in many cases. Competitive bids are sparingly employed. Hundreds of millions are wasted on pet projects for each of the services, often partly duplicating projects.

Often the projects or weapons are unsound and the military services backing such a project close ranks and hang together to avoid the embarrassment of Congress learning the truth. And to get promoted the colonels and brigadier generals tow the line or become has-beens.

The nation isn't getting its money's worth, and isn't getting the best weapons available, under this system. With a Russia rapidly acquiring an arms edge, and buying arms cheaper than we can, the danger is obvious.

Colder Years?

Ton Alexander, writing in "Fortune", says the world is probably heading into a colder era, that the change began in 1945. The change is not a big one, from 1945 to 1974, and is estimated at one degree Fahrenheit.

But even this one-degree change has already caused repercussions. Hay yields are reduced in Iceland, as an example. The growing season in England is estimated to be nine or ten days shorter than in 1950, for another.

The minor changes thus far might be

only the forerunners of serious consequences, if the newest theory of the climatologists is correct. It's believed in the past 700,000 years it has been as warm as in recent decades only about five percent of the time.

If change is occurring, and Reid Bryson of the Institute for Environmental Studies at the University of Wisconsin is one who thinks a very important climatic change is going on right now, it will be a slow change, by human standards. A rapid change is one which takes place in a century or two.

Golden Comments

By James R. Golden

The languid dog-days of Summer, in conjunction with the many vacation plans which this year especially seem designed to get-away-from-it-all, reduces, on the surface, the appearance of the usual fare of political action in and about town, but have no fear, dear reader, the activity that best brings results to the office holders is going on apace. It don't make "screaming headlines" and hopefully "gets by" without too much fanfare.

Can you think up any better plan of how to win friends and influence people to work for the re-election and return to office of the politician whose term expires in about seven months and must seek as much voting support as possible to get back, than to place many voters obligated to support the office-holder's continuance in office on the public pad?

It's an old time-worn practice of long duration and costs the politician nothing, since his domain over expenditures in his department comes from the monies raised by taxation...yours and mine.

While it was not unexpected the practice would be continued this summer however, when the temporary jobs were handed out it became evident from casual observation, both inside and outside of town hall, that the public pad of all town departments were more heavily laden than ever before with a host of relatives and close friends of the commissioners. The old walls at town hall are bursting at the seams with new employees.

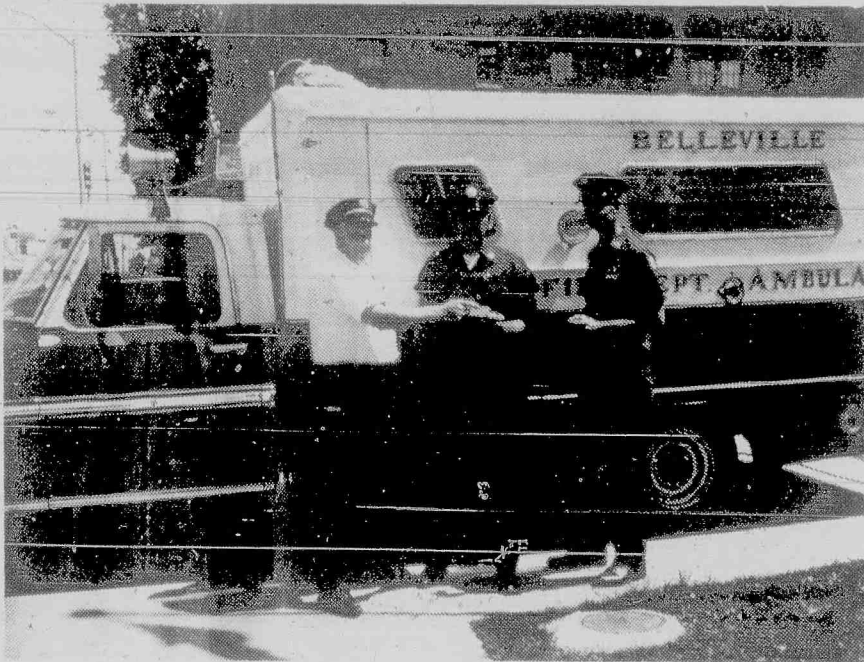

Reports persist that a Public Safety Dept. employee who while putting in considerable overtime is also on the payroll of the Parks and Public Property Dept. and also, at times, drives the Senior Citizens bus at $5.76 per hour. When does the guy sleep? How come? Is there an IN crowd in town? Isn't there some old story about serving too many masters? Or doesn't that apply in politics? Sure seems strange.

Mayor McGreevy made all that fuss about Comm. Laterza's Safety Department budget and raised hell to have many essentially needed items taken out, yet, he had no fault to find about all the salaries being paid out to temporary summer help. These people won't be around when the cold winds blow, but we still will be needing the equipment he held up.

Now because of the delay caused by his holding up these improvements it will cost the town about $25,000 more to acquire these items or 1 tax point more because of price increases. That don't seem to add up to cleverness to most people who will get saddled with the inflated costs in their tax bill.

Unfortunately for the people and taxpayers, equipment don't vote but the political hacks do. That's why the lobby's of public employees are catered to by our public officials, at our expense, because of their large voting bloc strength, while we, representing the vast majority, are unorganized and apathetic. The pressure groups get what they demand of the politicians who fear their voting "clout" while they "gamble" against public reaction to their disregard of our welfare because the unorganized weakness of the masses offer scant resistance to their ambitious desires to remain in office where they and their friends may feed well at the public trough.

Moon Landing Keeps Townspeople Glued to Their TV-Watching Seats

by Peter Clark

One Year Ago

Belleville Board of Education officials were slated to trek to Trenton to implore the State Board of Education to reinstate all or part of the $405,880 cut from the budget by the local town commission. The burden of proof would rest on the local board, which had to show how the cuts would endanger the efficient operation of the school system. Town fathers were expected to attend the meeting and to defend their cuts. Meanwhile, the fiscal year for the school system had already begun, and education officials were faithfully adhering to the cuts which had been made in their budget. Board President Lawrence Schwartz felt that the cuts were, severely hurting the school system, and he cited curriculum and maintenance as two of the major problem areas. "With the amount they cut," he told the Times, "we can't present to the public the kind of efficient system we want."

The Town Commission was apparently moving toward some form of rent control legislation, but as to how soon it would act, and what form the ordinance would take, nobody knew, least of all the Commission. Steve Rogers, a 21-year-old Belleville resident, was trying to eliminate some of the guess work. "I'm prepared to organize the tenants, and if the Town Fathers don't act, those who are candidates like Mayor Joseph McGreevy will feel it in November."

Belleville Post No. 105 of the American Legion was to hold its annual installation of officers and auxiliary officers in the Post Home, 621 Washington Avenue. Commander elect Raymond Wollen of 45 Cleveland Avenue, Nutley, is an Army veteran of WW II and the Korean conflict. Commander Wollen's oldest son Francis had recently been elected Detachment vice-commander of the Sons of the American Legion.

On July 20, 1969, Neil Armstrong, an American astronaut, invaded the privacy of Earth's nearest neighbor, the Moon. One step on the lunar surface, and centuries of superstition and suspense were done with. A man had, at last, walked on the moon. The Times contacted several leading citizens in Belleville, and discovered their reactions to this crowning achievement.

●Acting Mayor Joseph McGreevy: "I feel wonderful. I hope everyone gets off safely. It's completed. It's the best thing that every happened."

●Art Jackson, owner of Jolly Time Cleaners: I think that the one thing that I felt most was a surge of pride and restoration of faith in my country, a country which I was taught was the greatest in the world. It is something that will re-inspire our country to unite."

Perhaps the hopes and fears of Americans can best be summed up in what Jimmy Greengrove, part owner of the Glass Company stated: "It was wonderful and breathtaking. It reminded me of a science fiction movie. When

Irate Heckel Street residents, struggling to keep a garbage depot from being erected on their street, had to look forward to the outcome of a legal battle before they would know whether they would get relief from their problems. Fred Fierro, owner of the proposed site for the depot, brought suit against Building Inspector Vincent Mustaccio and the Town of Belleville, demanding that a permit be issued, so that he might build the depot. He had been denied a permit due to intervention by Commissioner Mary Senatore, on the grounds of "pending legislation." The legislation in question was an ordinance before the Commission that would rezone a portion of Silver Lake, including Heckel Street, from Business to residential C. The measure had been passed, 4-0, at the last meeting of the Commission, with the house backed with Heckel Street residents.

Recalls Soccer Was Begun Here In Early Fifties

I have just read an article in a local newspaper in reference to "Soccer a Reality in Belleville," about Mr. Wische (high school athletic director) trying for four years to initiate soccer into the high school.

Let it be known that Belleville High had a soccer team in 1952. The boys at that time were the product of the Belleville P.A.L. athletic program under the late Sgt. John McNish, who gave willingly and wholeheartedly of his time and one only has to check the Belleville Police force roster to see where most of those boys are today, while others are in business for themselves, a couple are professional men.

Two of these boys are on the Arlington Police force, a great credit for a job well done by Mr. McNish. The country needs more men like him.

The Belleville High team at that time were meeting Kearny, Harrison, St. Cecilia's. They were always state champion candidates and were never disgraced.

Frank Czazernade All-State first team Joe Hughes, third team.

And when I meet these boys in uniform when I am in Belleville, it gives me a feeling that something worthwhile was accomplished. Having been a friend of Mr. McNish is something I will never forget.

I wish Mr. Cahill every success in this endeavor and may he get all the cooperation he needs, especially from Mr. Wische who in 1952 was not so keen about this sport that Mr. Ed Berlinski was so anxious to see kept alive. I hope this endeavor lasts for a long time, as this game can use boys regardless of size.

Russian Sports

The Russian Government recently invited a number of U.S. sports writers to that country to view their massive sports programs. The Americans were impressed.

Of course, everything is government-operated. But there is no denying the fact that many more take advantage of sports, and get better sports training, than in free world countries. One British writer remarked, as he watched a huge gym full of wrestlers, that there were more competitors in that one hall than in all England.

Sports and education are two of the showpiece projects of the Russian communist system. The Russians offer all who can qualify for college-level study that chance, free. Their massive sports training programs have enabled them to surpass the United States in Olympic supremacy, and in various individual sports, even in hockey and basketball to some degree — former American strongholds.

One doesn't favor the communist system by suggesting we can sometimes learn from Russian accomplishments. Our Olympic training program has long left much to be desired, as has sports programs in many of our schools. And one hopes the time will come when the boy or girl who has the ability and can utilize a college-level education will be guaranteed that chance in every state, not just a few.

These are but two of the things we can improve in the free enterprise America we love — and constant improvement in our way of life and system is the surest way to see that it survives and proves the choice of most of the world in the future.

Writer Offers His Remedy On Education

To the Editor:

Our state trying to make our educational system second to none, is short sighted in many ways.

Better opportunity is important for all our peoples, but higher education is not the entire answer. Neglect in the field of vocational training may find that leaves the state in the middle and employment wanting.

The state pursuing the course of higher education puts our private colleges in a bind and lacking in interested persons available. This course causing a financial crash and the possible loss of some of our foremost educational institutions of the past.

As in the case of Bloomfield College, even though in financial straits and the loss of curriculum and staff, the state has seen fit to give to this floundering institution a considerable grant of forty-five million dollars. This to enable them to build a new college and campus in Parsippany (Lake Hiawatha Area). Good money after bad, supporting an institution going bankrupt and the cause created by ill thinking on the part of our state officials.

Additional funding needed previously for education came from our state lottery. The lottery originally to provide funds for both education and institutions. As it is well known now very little has been diverted to institutions, with our state mental facilities wanting. It can only be called an unfair distribution, lacking in thought or compassion.

In the case of new revenues for our educational system, it is thought best that it should be excluded from the general state funds. Thus eliminating the possibility of educational funds being diverted to other spending.

To our Governor and State Legislators I say, get smart think in terms of the people. Keep the funds for the purpose intended and recourse our educational thinking in regards to our private colleges.

Sincerely,
Philip W. Bell

Local ECC Office Is Funded

The Essex County College Office of Metropolitan-County Affairs has recently been funded by a $15,000 grant from the New Jersey Department of Higher Education under Title I of the Higher Education Act.

Essex County College will match the federal grant to facilitate continued operation of the Metropolitan-County Affairs out-reach office located at 549 Washington Avenue, Belleville. The project was initially funded by the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs.

Using the College in innovative ways for the general public other than in its traditional academic approach for enrolled students alone, the Metropolitan-County Affairs program is assigned the task of assessing county-wide needs and strengthening the coordinating existing community service programs originating at Essex County College. Its Belleville out-reach office, the NEED Center, (North Essex Educational Center) offers vocational and career counseling as well as tutorial and remedial assistance.

Residents of the North Essex area may also receive help in preparing for high school equivalency examinations as well as college admissions assistance when dropping in at the NEED

Center. Program Coordinator Robert Russo stated, "In receiving this grant, we will be able to expand the services now offered to the community."

She Completes County College Career Class

Sixty students enrolled in the Essex County College Social Services Career Program were recently awarded certificates of merit for successfully completing a year of classroom instruction combined with a year of supervised agency field internship.

The program, the first of its kind in Essex and the neighboring counties, prepares students for a variety of occupations in social welfare and social work, mental health and drug abuse. Among the certificate recipients was Mrs. Natalie Dickinson of Belleville.

The awards were presented by Mrs. Kara R. Smith, Social Service Field Officer, and Dr. Peter L. Myers, Coordinator of Psychological and Social Services Career Programs. Addressing the award recipients, Dr. Myers emphasized the "right to a skill", the commitment of the college to foster and maintain "career ladder" vocational education, and the improvement and increase of human services in the county by providing and training an increased number of staff. He also urged agencies to take advantage of the services that can be provided by the program in the areas of organizational and clinical consulting.

Volunteer Aid Is Mainstay of Hospitals

Hospitals are one business that could never survive without the support of women, according to Marie D'Alessandro, administrative coordinator at Clara Maass Memorial Hospital in Belleville.

Speaking at a combined meeting of the Belleville and Nutley Rotary Clubs on July 11, Miss D'Alessandro explained that women had provided the first beds and linens for the hospital when it opened in 1869. "And since then women have continued to be the backbone of our volunteer program," she said.

The program's purpose, arranged by Don Cooper of the Nutley Rotary, was to inform Rotarians of the accomplishments of the hospital's volunteer groups and of the new opportunities in health careers.

"Since Rotary is a scholarship service-oriented group, it is always interesting to learn of other organizations performing different services," program chairman Cooper said.

There are two formal volunteer organizations at Clara Maass — the Auxiliary and the Guild. Though co-ed now, both groups have traditionally been composed of women.

Mrs. William Kropp, vice-president of the Auxiliary and another speaker at the meeting, said the main function of both groups is to support hospital progress. "We do this through fund-raising, recruiting volunteers and initiating programs," Mrs. Kropp continued.

The Auxiliary provides a continuing scholarship and audio-visual equipment for the School of Nursing, and has raised funds for new lab equipment and for refinishing the hospital recreation room.

The Guild is also a fund-raising organization. Last year they gave the hospital a check for $8,000 to be used as needed, and earlier they had provided $5,700 for in-service education.

The two organizations join forces each year to sponsor the Health Careers Mobile Unit. This unit introduces students to the more than 300 opportunities available in the health-care profession.

"Many students don't realize there is more to this profession than just doctors and nurses. There are medical records clerks, ward clerks, transcribers, and a whole range of therapists, and none of these jobs require a college education," Mrs. Kropp explained.

The Guild and Auxiliary also sponsor a Health Careers Poster Contest each year. This year the contest was won by Melinda Conti, of 25 Daley St., Nutley. Melinda later went on to win both the State and National poster contests.

"The contributions of both groups to Clara Maass has been invaluable, and truly exemplifies the best type of community-hospital cooperation," Miss D'Alessandro concluded.

Scouts Are Off On Philmont Trip

On July 11, 12 Boy Scouts of Troop Four and Scoutmaster Curtis Buttel left for the Philmont Scout Ranch in the Rocky Mountains in New Mexico.

The scouts were to backpack through the rugged hiking trails for twelve days, covering more than 100 miles. Philmont known for its wildlife of bears, bobcats, snakes, buffalo and elk will add to their knowledge of survival in the wilderness. Mountain climbing, cooking dehydrated foods at high altitudes, an archeological dig at the Indian Writing Camp and panning gold will be experienced remembered for many years to come. One image that every camper at Philmont takes away is that of the Tooth Of Time. It's peak is 9,030 feet above sea level, and its rocky face rises 2,000 feet straight up from the valley floor.

Troop Four has been working for three years to ready themselves for the trip. With the collection of newspapers, light bulb and candy sales, the scouts earned most of their money. Monthly camping and hiking trips provided the boys for the physical fitness necessary for the trails.

After leaving the trails of Philmont the scouts will visit Royal Gorge Canyon on the Arkansas River in Colorado and then go on to Lajunta to the Koshare Indian Kiva, where they will observe Indian life and customs and bed down for the night.

The following day they will arrive at Fort Carson for sight-seeing and a visit to the Garden of the Gods. The scouts will dine at the Flying W Ranch for an old fashioned chuck wagon supper and an evening program of western life.

I'm looking for parents of twins...seems sometime back I was invited to a Twin Club shindig, but don't know if we have such a chapter in town, do we? As I understand it, the parents of twins form a club and exchange such useful items as carriages, high chairs, etc. Received a call from Mrs. Marie Misuriello the other day. Her daughter Janet (remember her as a BHS twirler and recreation director?) Horan is coming for a visit to town with her identical seven month old twin daughter, Jennifer Ann and Colleen Ellen. So, Mrs. Misuriello is looking for parents of twins so she might borrow some equipment and daughter Janet doesn't have to lug a lot of stuff from her home in South Bend, Indiana where she and her husband John are both teachers. Howabout it? If you can help, please phone Mrs. Misuriello after 4 p.m. at 759-6727...thanks.

BILL LAROCCHI, owner of the Pine Bar is sponsoring an outing to Sun Tan Lake on August 4th...everybody welcome, only $11 per and that is the complete cost for food and everything. Bill's not making any money on it, it's just for fun. Wanna join the party? Phone for reservations now, at 759-9605.

Miss Mary Ann Walsh, who works with retarded children at a day camp in North Bergen and is a sophomore at Jersey City State College, needs some help. The children need sewing material, used cooking utensils, spatulas and the like. Mary Ann is teaching those with reading difficulties, creative drama, music and special education, as a volunteer. A 1973 BHS grad, she is the daughter of Francis and Hortense Walsh. It's really a worthwhile endeavor, so clean out your cupboards and send some materials to Mary Ann. You may phone her at 759-2843.

Anne L. Hopkins, whose deceased husband Russ was known as "Mr. Kiwanis" feted one of her bridesmaids, Mrs. A.D. Thompson of Pompano Beach, Florida in a luncheon this week.

DON'T FORGET July 25 and 26, when our Chamber of Commerce sponsors a moonlight sale. Speaking of the COC, one member, Larry Colalillo of Belleville Shoes, has been elected a member of the Board of Trustees of the Craig Fund and another member, Everett Davey, Bell Telephone Company, has been moved to the Board of Directors of the COC and elected president of the Belleville Rotary Club. New Chamber members: Corner Market, 650 Union Ave., Robert Deane, owner; Westinghouse Electric Co., 720 Washington Ave., Harold Rourke, manager. Another new Board member of the COC is Andrew F. Colannino, Modern Millwork and Supply, 524 Washington Avenue.

At the groundbreaking ceremonies for the Senior Citizen Club were Kiwanis Club of Belleville members: Sy Grossman, Commissioner Mike Marotti, Cor Vanderzwan, Don Tucci, Pat Barbone and T.J. McLaughlin.

HIS HONOR, Mayor Joseph McGreevy, when he's not busy taking care of town duties performs other nice events, such as weddings. I was tickled pink to see Joe unite in marriage, my nephew, Don Durkin and Kathy Knight of Massachusetts last Saturday at the home of my sister, Eve and Frank Durkin. Everyone agrees it was a lovely ceremony and, thank you again, Joe.

WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS IN SOCIAL SPOTLIGHT

Miss Barbara Ann Trabucco Married To John C. Molnar

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Molnar - nee Barbara Trabucco

Model Garden At Rutgers Opens July 27

Home vegetable gardeners who attend this year's Rutgers Flower Vegetable Turf Open House on Saturday, July 27, will be able to get some good gardening tips from the model vegetable garden located at the Display Gardens. New varieties of home garden vegetables can also be seen at the vegetable research farm.

The model garden is designed to supply a family of five persons with all the vegetables they can eat, says William F. Munk, senior county agricultural agent of Essex County.

The importance of planning a garden is illustrated with all crops on one side, intermediate-size plants in the middle and low-growing plants on the opposite side. This arrangement eliminates the shading of small vegetables and reduces competition for moisture and nutrients.

Pole beans, staked tomatoes and cucumbers on a trellis show how garden space can be used most efficiently. Double cropping, such as snap beans followed by beets planted in the same space is also illustrated.

New varieties and standard types of tomatoes will be featured at the vegetable research farm. Visitors will see 40 different tomato varieties. Among the varieties will be the novelty tomatoes with yellow and orange fruits; cherry tomatoes, and the gourmet stuffing tomato, says Mr. Munk.

Other vegetables include 18 varieties of beans, 15 kinds of beets, and 21 different cucumbers. Among the unusual vegetables will be purple-podded snap beans, golden beets, and "burpless" cucumbers.

The vegetable-Flower-Lawn Open House Display Gardens will be open between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

St. Mary's Church, Nutley, was the setting April 27 for the marriage of Miss Barbara Ann Trabucco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Trabucco of 185 Floyd Street to John Charles Molnar of North Newark, son of Mrs. Antoinette Longo of Irvington and Bill Molnar of Belleville.

The Rev. Peter Galdon performed the ceremony and a reception followed at Branch Brook Manor, Belleville.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a white faille satin gown accented with Belgium and French lace and featuring a high neckline with ruffled yoke, fitted sleeves and chapel train.

A quaint headpiece held her elbow length veil and she carried her mother's bride's Bible with white roses, stephanotis and babies breath.

Mrs. Barbara Paglia of Newark was matron of honor. Bridesmaids included the bride's cousin, Miss Michele Trabucco of Belleville. Miss Patti Anselmo of Bloomfield and the groom's sister, Miss Vivian Molnar of Irvington.

They were in blue floral print gowns with ruffled skirts. The honor attendant wore a light blue rippled hat with flower embroidered streamers and carried a white wicker parasol with dark blue carnations, white daisy pom-poms and babies breath. The others had darker blue hats and their parasols were trimmed with light blue carnations.

Thomas Paglia of Newark was his brother's best man. Ushering were Gary Wooster of Belleville, Don Pizzella of Bricktown and Anthony Trabucco of Belleville, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Trabucco chose a sleeveless aqua silk gown trimmed with pearls and bugle beads and had a wristlet of aqua cymbidium orchids. The groom's mother was in a lilac silk organza gown and had a lilac orchid corsage.

Mrs. Molnar, a graduate of Belleville High School, is secretary to the district manager of Prudential Insurance Company.

Mr. Molnar, an alumnus of Essex County Vocational and Technical High School, is an automobile mechanic with Public Service Electric and Gas Company.

The couple honeymooned in the Poconos and are living in Newark.

● Dangerous blood-alcohol levels should be prevented by restricting drinking to small amounts of alcohol, in appropriate dilution, taken slowly, preferably in combination with food.

● Responsible drinking can be encouraged by development of healthy attitudes toward drinking within the family.

● Uncontrolled drinking, or alcoholism, is an illness which can be treated successfully. It is not a weakness or moral defect.

UNDERSTANDING ALCOHOLISM

a health column from the

Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration
U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

Responsible Drinking

Two out of 3 adult Americans drink alcoholic beverages, at least occasionally.

If younger drinkers are added, you arrive at about 100 million people in our country who drink.

The overwhelming majority of those who drink do so without apparent harm to themselves or others.

But statistics also show that there are 9 million alcoholic people in the United States — individuals whose drinking is out of control, who are unable to use the drug alcohol safely and who, therefore, harm themselves and others.

It is important to make sure that treatment is available for these alcoholic people. But our best long-term hope for combatting the problem lies in widespread adoption of more responsible attitudes and practices in the use of alcohol by those who choose to drink.

Here are some principles of responsible drinking:

● It is not essential to drink. The person who decides to abstain from alcohol should not be pressured to drink.

● Excessive drinking does not indicate adult status or achievement. One can do no more to establish status by the ability to consume large amounts of liquor than by being able to hold a huge quantity of dessert.

● Alcohol should not be

National Girls'
Cage League
Ready for Fall

Push over boys! Little League, Babe Ruth League, Boys' Baseball, Pop Warner football, American Legion baseball—to mention but a few, national programs operating "for boys only"—will soon be joined by an All-America Girls Basketball Conference.

The newly-organized basketball league, probably the first for girls on a national scale, will move onto the court this fall. And the organizers behind the scene anticipate girls flocking to "their program" in impressive numbers.

The primary aim of the Conference is to contribute to the total fitness of the individual girl—physical, mental and emotional—through a program of leisure time enjoyment.

The program is divided into two divisions—Senior play for girls 14 and 15 and the Junior Division for the 12 and 13 age group. Team rosters will be limited to 12 players. Either female or male coaches will be permitted to coach.

The AAGBC has adopted the Division for Girls and Women's Sports (DGWS) rules for its program.

The number of leagues organized in its initial year of play will determine whether or not tournaments will be conducted in 1974.

Conference plans list four playoff championships: State, Sectional, Regional and National in the month of December.

Unlike many of the boys programs, where all-star squads are chosen from the teams to represent their leagues in tournament play, the AAGBC qualifies each league champion team automatically into its state championship. This unique formula does away with favorites for all-star berths, bickering among coaches and frustrations among parents and fans.

Individual and team trophies to champions in tournament divisions will be awarded by Headquarters.

Local leagues will not be permitted to start their season until September 1 with practice sessions allowed for the month of August.

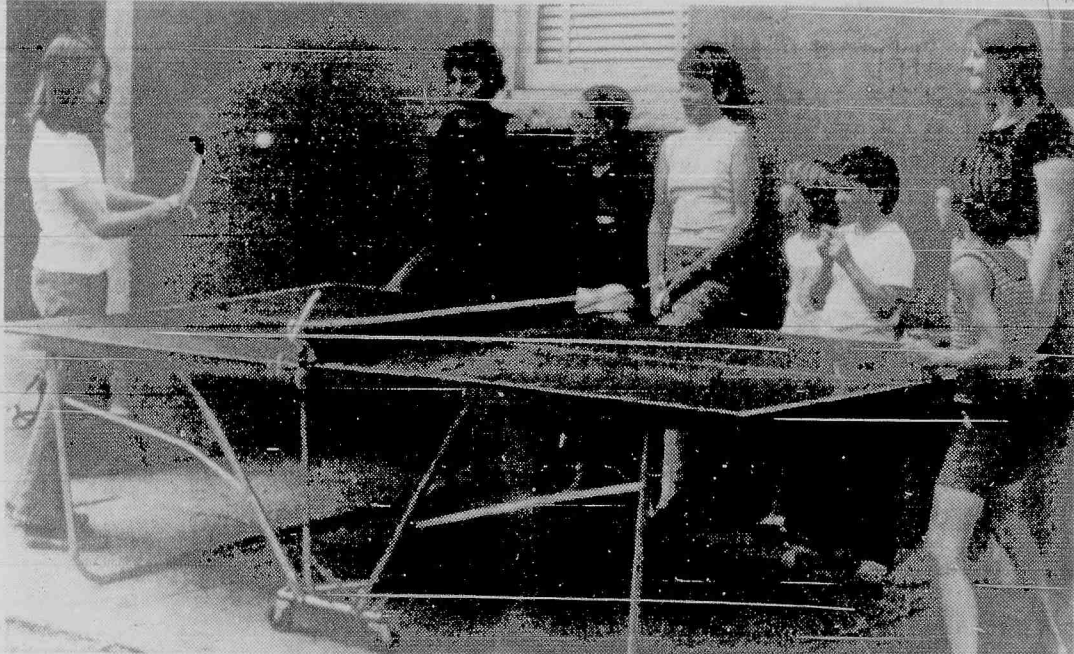

Competition is scheduled during Sept., Oct. and Nov.—the months when public basketball facilities are least liable to be tied up by existing leagues.

Leagues will be limited to four to six teams. A minimum and maximum of 10 and 16 games per team, during the regular season will be permitted. Senior division girls will play seven minute periods while the Junior leaguers will play six minute quarters.

Teams will be required to carry group protective insurance.

The AAGBC will start accepting franchise requests for the 1974 season immediately. The deadline for filing a certificate for franchise is Oct. 9.

For information on how to start a Girl's Basketball League in your community write to: Commissioner, All-America Girl's Basketball Conference, 22 London Street, East Greenwich, R. I. 02818.

KEEN COMPETITION—Ronnie Yaiser and Jerry Calabrese battle it out over the ping-pong table at the Rec House playground while friends look on. Ping-pong is only one of the many activities offered at local playgrounds.

2 Titles Settled

Men's Softball Battle
Coming Down to Wire

Two of the four Recreation Mens Softball Leagues are locked up as the Leagues go into the very last of the scheduled season. Branch Brook Manor, with 12 wins and one loss can no longer be dislodged from first place in the Thursday League. Murray's Pub with ten wins and four losses has clinched second place. In the Wednesday League the Park View House has again wrapped it up with their eleven wins, one loss and one tie.

There is still a battle for second place, however, Circle 11 holds the spot with eight wins, four losses and one tie while tight behind them is Landolli with eight wins and one loss. And still within reach of a tie for second is Chip Inn with seven and six and the distinction of being the only team to defeat the mighty Park View House.

Roselli's Amoco, in the Tuesday League have just regained first place after having shared it with the Circle Bar. Roselli's did it by first winning over the Circles and then taking Frankies. Meanwhile Corine Motel beat the Belmonts and Frankies to move into a share of second place when the Circles dropped their second game to the Who 1st It.

The Monday League is really up for grabs. At this writing there is a tie for first place between Cerami Construction and Viola Bros. each with ten-three standings and Garden Liquor remains a threat with an eight-four standing. Garden Liquors have their work cut out for them if they are to move up because their last two games are against the League leaders Cerami and Viola. These games also represent the greatest test remaining for the leaders.

The inter-league playoffs will begin as soon as the Monday and Tuesday Leagues are settled with the Monday Champs playing the Tuesday Champs and the Wednesday Champs vs. the Thursday Champs. All playoffs will be decided by a best two out of three.

Senior Summer Roundballers Clash

The Belleville Summer Basketball league opened up Tuesday, July 11, with three teams winning their openers.

The Nets squeaked by the Yes 33-32 when Ken Zoppa sunk a one and one with three seconds left in the game. Ken Zoppa and John Megna paced the winners with a nine point average each, as Vinnie Tortoriello had 12 points for the Yes.

The second game paired the Kelly Bros. with Charlie's 8th Corner and Kelly Bros. dubbed Charlie's 46-25, Mark Canyon paced the winners with 12 points.

The last tilt featured a very strong Silver Lakers against Cook and the Gang. The Lakers came out on top by a score of 56-28. Charles Driza led all scorers with 18 points with Mike Dondarski cashing in 14 points for the winners. George Mango led the Gang with his 12 points.

On July 16, the Kelly Brothers won their second straight game by defeating the Lakers 47-34 as Abdel Anderson paced the winners with 20 points. Charlie's 8th Corner beat Yes in a close match ending 37-34. In the third game, Cool and the Gang beat Krich's Knicks by a score of 40-32. Joe Troise paced the winners with 14 points.

Exciting basketball was the result of the games played as the summer basketball league entered its second week of play. These next three games were played on July 18th. As the games ended, the Nets upended Charlie's 54-47, Kelly Brothers ran past Cool and the Gang 68-34, and the Silver Lakers defeated Krich's Knicks 44-41.

Ken Zoppa responded with nine second quarter points to break open a game deadlocked at eleven. Zoppa and John Casale combined for 35 points to lead the victors, Frank Russomanno lead Charlie's with 14 points.

SO ENTHUSIASTIC are these girls about the current tennis craze, they're willing to play without a net. Show here (forecourt, l-r) are Karen Ferriero and Jeanne Amiano, Backcourt (l-r) are Donna DeVito and Patty Garthwaite.

Beck's Column

One manufacturer after the other discontinues making color TV sets which use tubes.
They change over to transistors exclusively. It is a known fact that transistor sets costs more than tube sets.

Once in a while a customer wants to know why there is this price difference. The amplification of a tube is considerably greater than that of a transistor. In some circuits one has to use several transistors to produce the same
amplification than a tube.
Each transistor also requires some parts: resistors, capacitors, transformer etc. so we do not need only more transistors than tubes but also more parts.

In the long run, the initial additional price will be recovered several times over.

In the first place a transistor
TV uses about 25 to 40% less electricity. Over the course of many years, this adds up to a sizeable amount of money.
Modern construction methods
make it possible to handle almost all repairs on transistor sets in the house, thus eliminating expensive shop jobs. At least in theory, transistors are supposed to last "forever". This, of course, has to be taken with a grain of salt. The fact is that transistors do stand up much longer than tubes. A tube will wear in time and has to be replaced. Most transistors won't have to be replaced during the life of a TV set. As far as picture quality is concerned, there is no difference.
The main advantage of a transistor set is that you may have less repairs, and that most repairs can be made in the home.

New Bike Safety Laws Ready

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission today announced mandatory Federal safety regulations for bicycles introduced into interstate commerce on or after January 1, 1975.

In a Federal Register notice to be published on July 16, the Commission also proposes a two-year labeling requirement for all bicycles that comply with the new regulations. Bicycles introduced into interstate commerce prior to the effective date may continue to be sold, and a label "Meets U.S. Consumer Product Safety Regulations for Bicycles" would assist consumers to distinguish bicycles that meet the standard.

The bicycle regulations, issued under authority of the Federal Hazardous Substances Act, are directed toward eliminating and reducing the severity of thousands of injuries attributed each year to mechanical and structural problems. The bicycle frame, steering system, wheels and brakes will have to meet requirements and tests for safe construction, effectiveness, strength and performance.

Other provisions require protected edges on metal fenders and coverings for protruding bolts, chain guards to secure wheel hubs to the bicycle frame, handlebar, seat and stem clamps, and adequate instructions for assembly and maintenance.

Wide angle reflectors on front and rear of the bicycle and on the front and rear surfaces of the pedals will improve night visibility. Manufacturers will have the alternative of reflectorized tires or wide angle reflectors mounted on the wheel spokes.

Bicycles rank number one on the Commission's product hazard index. Injury experts state that over one million children and adults are injured each year in bike-related accidents. The Commission estimates that in 1973, 419,000 persons sought hospital emergency room treatment for injuries associated with bicycles.

Analysis of injuries in Commission files indicate that about 17 percent are directly attributable to mechanical and structural failures, including brake defects, wheel disengagement, steering, shifting and chain problems. Sixty-three percent are related to loss of control and 10 percent to entanglement of body parts in bike components. Some of these accidents also may be reduced by the new safety regulations.

Many bike injuries are the result of the interaction between the rider, the bicycle and the environment, and the Commission has slated a nationwide bicycle education program to begin this fall to encourage rider education and the proper maintenance and use of bicycles.

For a copy of the bicycle regulations or for a safety fact sheet on bicycles, call the CPSC toll free hotline 800-638-2666. Maryland residents only, call 800-492-2937.

Comments on the proposed labeling requirement should be submitted by August 15 to: The Office of the Secretary, U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C., 20207.

New Adult Health Series On Public Broadcasting

"Alive and Well," a new adult health series produced by Children's Television Workshop, creators of "Sesame Street," premieres this fall on New Jersey Public Broadcasting's Channel 50.

The 26-hour-long programs are primarily aimed at young parents who play major roles in influencing the health of their families. Of particular concern to the series producers are health problems and attitudes of low-income families.

"Alive and Well" will utilize song, dance, documentaries and situation comedy to treat subjects ranging from nutrition to hypertension. Other topics to be emphasized during the series are alcohol abuse, cancer, child care, dental care, exercise, the health care delivery system.

Bell Asks Up Rates

New Jersey Bell Telephone Company last week filed a request with the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners for increased intrastate telephone rates to be implemented in steps over a period of almost a year.

Robert W. Kleinert, company president, said that the rate adjustments being sought are essential "to maintain high quality service and meet phone users' needs and expectations over the foreseeable future."

"We do not relish the idea of asking the public to pay more for our service at a time when everyone is feeling the pinch of inflation. But all of our costs — for employees and for the materials and services we use — are rapidly increasing and we simply cannot absorb the entire effects of this inflation."

"To continue to provide the kind of service our customers expect of us, we must increase our charges."

The company's request totals $155 million in three stages. As outlined in the company's petition, the first adjustment would go into effect on October 1, 1974; the second in January 1975, and the third in April 1975, with certain aspects of the changes to become effective later.

A five per cent increase in revenues would become effective October 1 through changes in basic monthly service rates for both business and residential customers and increases in other areas, such as toll charges.

The second phase increase, expected in January 1975, would result from the annual adjustment clause now in effect and would raise revenues by about 3½ per cent. Revenues would increase by 11 per cent in the third phase, beginning in April 1975.

"We are proud of our record in holding down expenses and rates," Kleinert said. "I know of no other business that has been so successful in this regard. While consumer prices on the whole have risen 65 percent over the past 15 years, intrastate phone rates have gone up by less than 15 per cent. But there is a limit to what even the best efforts can accomplish. So far this year our expenses are running more than 10 per cent ahead of last year."

"The new union contracts being negotiated will substantially increase the company's costs for the latter part of this year and beyond."

Kleinert noted that the company has invested more than $1.5 billion in construction programs over the past five years. The company's construction budget for 1974 is $400 million, and the company estimates it will invest close to $3 billion more in construction programs by the end of the decade.

The full effect of the company rate request — spread over the three phases — would be to increase individual line residence service by an average of $1.35 a month — 50 cents in October; 40 cents in January, and 45 cents beginning in April 1975.

The effect on individual line business service would average $3.29 a month — 84 cents beginning in October; 66 cents in January, and $1.79 beginning in April 1975.

Part of the April 1975 phase would include regrouping the seven rate groups currently in use into four rate groups for both residence and business customers.

Increased charges for intrastate long distance calls would amount to 15 per cent on the average. As in the case of basic rates, these charges would be adjusted in steps.

The company's petition also recommends some other price changes which, it said, are a substitute for further increases in basic monthly service charges.

The company proposed an initial period charge of 20 cents for local coin telephone calls. The present 10-cent rate for local coin calls has been in effect since 1954. Since that time, most of the costs of furnishing the service have more than doubled.

Company surveys show that only about 25 per cent of its customers make more than three calls to Directory Assistance in any given month, and that about 75 per cent of its customers would not be affected by the proposal. There would be no charge for Directory Assistance calls from coin telephones, hospitals, hotels, motels and those placed by certified handicapped persons.

'Outreach' Project For Food Stamps

"For a Discount Where It Counts, Check Out the New Food Stamp Program."

That is the slogan for Operation Outreach, a plan instituted by the New Jersey Department of Institutions and Agencies with the cooperation of the New Jersey Food Council, to encourage enrollment in the Food Stamp program by an estimated 150,000 eligible New Jersey families who have not applied.

New Jersey Governor Brendan T. Byrne, Institutions and Agencies Commissioner Ann Klein, and New Jersey Food Council President Thomas P. Infusino are among those who will launch the Food Stamp "Outreach" campaign at 10 a.m. Monday, July 22 by receiving phone calls on the special hotline which was set up to answer questions from those persons who wish to inquire about their eligibility. The toll free (in New Jersey) number is 800-792-8660, and it already is being manned from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily. This will continue for the next several weeks.

"Under the Food Stamp program, funds have been set aside to guarantee that every American family gets the food needed for proper health and nutrition," Commissioner Klein said. "Eligible person has a legal right to food stamps. There's no stigma attached to it. It's the best budget stretcher available."

The Commissioner said she hopes for a 25% increase in federally funded Food Stamp use in New Jersey as a result of this public informational program, adding: "While many food stamp users are public assistance recipients, we hope to attract thousands of senior citizens, members of working households and physically handicapped people who are eligible but perhaps are not aware of that fact."

She said that persons who are eligible do not have to be on welfare or unemployed, and that the average family can save between 25 and 50 percent of their grocery budget by taking advantage of their right to purchase and use food stamps.

The New Jersey Food Council, the trade association for the state's supermarket industry, helped to coordinate a major promotional effort designed to assure maximum visibility for the Food Stamp message. NJFC President Infusino said the members of his organization are committed to this program in an effort to make as many New Jersey families as possible aware of their possible eligibility. "We recognize the value of Food Stamps to our shoppers and to our stores," he said.

There is no better investment on the food dollar," The NJFC's Consumer Affairs Committee assisted in the preparation of flyers and posters which will be prominently featured in hundreds of New Jersey food stores. In addition, many stores are including food stamp messages, containing the hotline number and "Discount Where It Counts" slogan, in their regular food advertising.

Special radio and television spots, produced by the New Jersey Public Broadcasting Authority, also will be given a prominent play for the duration of the Food Stamp campaign, and numerous radio and TV interviews with Commissioner Klein also are scheduled.

Commissioner Klein noted that the federal Office of Economic Opportunity has approved an $85,000 program to permit the State to hire and train 34 new outreach certifiers to assist in qualifying Food Stamp applicants.

Trenton Is Targeted By 'March for Jobs'

A massive "March for Jobs" on the State House in Trenton and a shutdown of all construction jobs in New Jersey is being planned for Monday, July 29.

At least 10,000 construction workers from throughout New Jersey are expected to come to Trenton to urge government officials to remove obstacles to construction and industrial development and relieve severe unemployment in the construction industry.

Leaders of both labor and management are urging complete shutdown of all construction in the state that day.

"We are calling for an invisible picket line to be thrown around every construction job in the state on July 29," declares Robert Illario, an officer of Local 825 of the International Union of Operating Engineers and president of the Society for Environmental, Economic Development (SEED). "We want those workers to join their unemployed brothers in Trenton."

The Society for Environmental, Economic Development, known as "SEED" and composed of organizations representing labor, business, and industrial interests throughout the state, is helping to coordinate the "March for Jobs." SEED's objective is to promote responsible economic growth and development for the ultimate welfare of the people of New Jersey.

Key organizers of the "March for Jobs" include Charles H. Marciano, president of the New Jersey State AFL-CIO and a SEED trustee, and Michael Pedicini, a president of the New Jersey State Building and Construction Trades Council.

Representatives of such organizations as the Mechanical Contractors Association of New Jersey, New Jersey Builders Association, New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce, Associated General Contractors of New Jersey, the Building Contractors Association of New Jersey, and the New Jersey Petroleum Council also are cooperating in the effort. All are represented on the SEED Board of Trustees.

Marciano emphasizes that the shutdown of construction on July 29 is to be considered a voluntary sacrifice for all parties involved.

"Workers will sacrifice a day's pay, and contractors and their clients will sacrifice a day's progress on the job," Marciano points out.

The "March for Jobs" is planned to get underway by 10 A.M. July 29, with the workers massed on West State Street in front of the State House, and end by 3 p.m. Hundreds of buses will bring in workers from all over the state and take them home again.

SEED also is coordinating the development of position papers outlining and supporting requests for governmental action in five areas. Those areas are: Construction Projects, Energy Projects, General Development, Environmental Blocks, and Cost of Doing Business.

*** The person who always wants the "best buy" will go through life getting second choices. ***

Someone has suggested that the outer garments of patriotism often cover the underwear of self-interest.

Housing Threat?

Realtors Oppose High-Yield Loans

Threatened by a new crisis in New Jersey's housing market, the 13,000-member New Jersey Association of Realtors (NJAR) is urging immediate action to stem the outflow of funds for home mortgage loans from thrift institutions.

Sidney H. Koorse, NJAR president, said: "Immediate action must be taken to delay Citicorp and other bank holding companies in New York and New Jersey, from offering high-yield securities that will compete with depositor accounts in savings and loan associations and savings banks.

"If commercial banks are permitted to offer these securities to the public through their holding companies, it could result in luring huge sums out of the Garden State's housing market which is already caught in a tight mortgage money 'squeeze,' he said.

Koorse said NJAR and its 39 local Boards of Realtors throughout the state have sent telegrams to New Jersey's congressional delegation in Washington urging they take action to prevent a new crisis.

"The already weak housing economy in New Jersey could be dealt a death blow if commercial banks, through their bank holding corporations, are allowed to by-pass the savings rate ceiling by offering uninsured debt obligations," Koorse said.

According to the state association president, the New Jersey congressional delegation was urged to take two immediate steps in support of a request by the National Association of Realtors.

"1. Strongly exert your influence on the White House with the federal regulatory agencies and the commercial banking industry to delay Citicorp's and other bank holding companies' securities offerings until Congress has reviewed their relationship to savings rate interest regulations and their impact on housing.

"2. Actively encourage Congressional efforts to examine this problem in its full context and to enact legislation to protect the soundness of the housing market."

According to Koorse, a similar appeal was made to President Nixon by Joseph B. Doherty, president of the 500,000-member National Association of Realtors.

Koorse explained: "Savings deposits are the nation's primary source of housing funds. Interest rates on deposits in commercial banks, savings and loan associations and savings banks are limited by the federal government so that rates will not force interest costs of housing beyond the reach of the American homebuyer.

"While the limits apply to banks, they do not apply to bank holding companies. Thus commercial banks could circumvent savings rate ceilings by offering high-yield securities — which are not bank deposits but uninsured debt obligations — through their holding companies," he said.

FAMILY ACT — The Kaiser Brothers, a singing-dancing act formerly of Nutley, will be returning to N.J. August 2 for a reunion with the Singing Angels, a group they were a part of. The Garden State Arts Center is the site of the reunion.

Census Bureau Surveys Housing

Households in this area taking part in the Annual Housing Survey, conducted by the Bureau of the Census, can expect to be visited by Census representatives something during August, September, or October. John C. Cullinane, Director of the Bureau's Data Collection Center in New York, announced that the survey will begin on August 5.

This is the second year of the survey which was jointly planned by the Census Bureau and the Department of Housing and Urban Development in response to a need for frequent and up-to-date data on U.S. housing, one of the Nation's basic economic indicators.

Nationwide, a sample of 76,000 housing units will be enumerated in the 1974 survey. The sample of 60,000 units in last year's survey, which will be interviewed again, has been expanded to include an additional 16,000 units in rural areas to provide more detailed information for this segment of the housing inventory.

With the enumeration of the first year's survey completed, returns are now being prepared for publication. A series of four reports will be issued jointly by HUD and Census beginning early in 1975. The four reports will show (1) general housing characteristics; (2) indicators of deficiencies in housing and neighborhood quality; (3) financial characteristics; and (4) housing characteristics of recent movers. Data will be shown for the United States, the four geographic regions, Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (both inside and outside central cities), and for the nonmetropolitan area of the country.

The sample of housing units in the survey has been scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all housing units in the country. The sample was selected from 1970 census records and has been updated to include new construction.

Warm and Dry Month Expected

Pastures and field corn, particularly in southern New Jersey, will likely suffer from inadequate rainfall during the next 30 days, according to meteorologist James Carr's outlook for the period.

"Irrigation should be planned for farms in southern counties on an average of three to four days a week," said Carr.

"Although rainfall may be locally heavy in scattered thunderstorms associated with coldfronts moving across the state every six to eight days," he added, "total rainfall amounts should remain below normal."

Advisory agricultural meteorologist at the National Weather Service Office at Cook College, Rutgers University, Carr expects that irrigation will also be needed for two to three days each week in central counties and a day a week in northern areas when soil moisture is expected to average less than 50 per cent of field capacity.

Carr said temperatures are likely "to roller-coaster from cooler than normal to warmer and then back to cooler by mid-August."

He added that crops such as hay should make good progress during the period.

Olga Knows
This Week's Horoscope
(July 27 through August 2)
ARIES (March 21-April 19): You need to be needed, Ari, and in week ahead you have chance to satisfy this basic human desire. Offer strength, advice to loved one. Don't stand on ceremony waiting to be asked. This person may be tied in emotional knots. Help in the untying. Tension slacks as week slowly untwists to a quiet close.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Love, like charity, begins right in your own digs, Taurus. Concentrate on showing genuine affection for your family, your friends and daily associates. Your love is as rich and nourishing as country butter, dear heart, so come on, spread it around!
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Nature speaks in universally understood language. Without words, Gem, you understand message and logjam of communication ends. Hidden desires surface. Week floats away.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Did you hook up with new connection last week, Moonbaby? If so, week ahead can be real winner. Association can result in relationship on many and varied levels. One who is a bit daft makes suggestion of questionable nature before last day. Play dumb.
LEO (July 23-August 22): Don't sink in the shadows, Leo, no matter what the thermometer reads. Assume your rightful place — center stage — where the drama of life is really happening. Helpful friend waits in prompter's box in case you forget your script.
VIRGO (August 23-September 22): 'Tis indeed a teeter-totter week ahead, Virgo. Maintaining emotional balance will be a real challenge. Make sure playmate doesn't hop off the edge, for gravity plays no favorites.
LIBRA (September 23-October 22): You do have a way with words, Libra, but there is a fine line which separates the blithe from the blithering. In days ahead, be sure not to cross over this line. Double-check your checkbook. Week sleeps to uneventful close.
SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): Tighten up your personal plans, Scorp. You may not believe it, but out of present chaos CAN come order. Herculean effort on your part will do the trick. Mind Olga, and week ends on note of confidence.
SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): Casual relationship takes on new dimension. Try to take change in stride. Flailing your arms and gnashing your teeth will do only one thing, raise your blood pressure.
CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19): If you willingly put your head on the chopping block, Cap, associate will accommodate you by letting blade fall. Don't be a fool. Besides, martyrs are no longer fashionable.
AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): Minor crisis looms on horizon. You cannot hide from it, Aquari, and you cannot avoid it. Meet it head on. Strive to keep calm and with a little bit of pluck, you'll make it through the week. But just by the hair of your chinny-chin-chin.
PISCES (February 19-March 20): In middle of emotional desert, springs up a small oasis. Slake your thirst, Pisces, by drinking deeply. Your cup runneth over. Shifting sands settle. Week ends on note of wonder.
