... And Now A New Twist

The strange case of Mrs. Maria Pikor continues. The Belleville Rent Levelling Board was unable to reach a decision last week in the tenant's complicated case during a special meeting, and has appealed to Town Attorney John Scott for help, according to informed sources.

Meanwhile Mrs. Pikor, a Polish refugee with a harrowing, hard luck background faces eviction Sept. 8 from her apartment on 46 Joralemon Street.

The case, which has been complicated by a related Belleville Municipal Court ruling, could well end up in the courts itself, should the Rent Levelling Board decide to cite the building's owner, Thomas Fahmie of Bloomfield.

And the outcome could well rest on a semantical interpretation of the April 9 town ordinance which created the rent board and outlined its powers.

The ordinance empowers the rent board to cite any landlord increasing rent by more than 5 per cent for a single year. Mrs. Pikor's rent was raised by Fahmie 50 per cent on May 8, a seemingly clear cut violation.

But nothing in the case is simple. The board's power it seems applies only to residential structures with three or more dwelling units. And there is considerable question as to just how many living units there are at 46 Joralemon Street.

Apparently when Fahmie bought the structure, there were three living units being rented, and Fahmie continued to rent the three dwellings, according to Mrs. Pikor in her charges to the board.

Mrs. Pikor's claim was backed by an investigation by Town Building Inspector Vincent Mustacchio, which subsequently led to the fining of Fahmie $50 in municipal court by Judge Edward Abramson because the building is only zoned for two living units and a ground-level storefront.

Fahmie has subsequently applied for a variance to rent the third unit as a living space, and his case will be heard Sept. 12 by the Board of Adjustment.

But in the meantime, the Rent Board is puzzled as to what action to take in its first really controversial case.

One faction on the rent board claims that since Judge Abramson has ruled the structure a two-family dwelling, then the building does not fall under its jurisdiction.

On the other hand, the fact that three living units were being occupied at the time of Mrs. Pikor's complaint, leads some on the five-member board to back the violation position.

In any case, it appears the problems surrounding Mrs. Pikor are only beginning.

At stake for Fahmie is a fine of up to $500 or up to 90 days in jail, or both. And for Mrs. Pikor, who is a survivor of a Siberian prison camp, an ex-servicewoman in the Polish-British forces in the Middle East, and an unwilling divorcee who has supported her family by scrubbing floors at night, she faces eviction and some more hard, cold reality in an already difficult life.

Streets Receive Overlay

Thirteen streets have been added to the total of 121 which have received a thin overlay during the eight years Commissioner Mary Senatore has been in charge of the Public Works Department.

The newest streets were completed this week by the Dosh King Company, Inc. of Whippany, which received the contract with a $35,896.60 bid. The state paid $16,221 of

Jr. High Releases Classes

Mario DiMaggio, principal at Belleville Junior High School, announced that on Wednesday, Sept. 4, all ninth grade students will report to their homerooms at 8:15 a.m. Seventh and eighth grade students will report to their homerooms by 9 a.m.

On Aug. 27 there will be an orientation meeting for all incoming seventh graders. Seventh grade students from schools 1, 2, 3, 4, and 10 will report to the cafeteria at 9 a.m. Students from schools 5, 7, 8 and 9 will report at 10:30 a.m. Parents are invited to attend.

During the homeroom period of the first day of school, each student will receive a schedule and may purchase combination locks at $4 a pair or $2 per lock. Locker assignments will also be given. Homeroom assignments are as follows:

Vacations Cause A Delay

Town Commission Puts Off Vote On Van Dyk Variance

Summer vacations have caused another delay in the final resolution of a variance application by Van Dyk & Co. Inc. to expand its facilities in the Valley.

The Belleville Town Commission voted Tuesday night to postpone a hearing on the matter after an attorney representing objectors asked the board to table the measure until vacationing clients could be present.

Attorney for the applicant, Frank Pomaco, argued against the postponement claiming the objectors should have been present for the hearing, and that his client had waited long enough for a decision on the variance.

Pomaco also argued that since the vacationing objectors had hired counsel, their opinions could be expressed through him.

But Town Attorney John Scott said that, although the objectors' attorney Paul Alongi could speak for them, this did not preclude individual objectors expressing themselves on the subject, and recommended that the board table the measure until the objectors had their chance to speak.

The commissioners voted unanimously to table the measure until the Aug. 27 meeting.

As soon as the commissioners voted, a large portion of the good-size crowd in commission chambers left and congregated outside Town Hall to mull over the decision.

Primary concern of residents was that the granting of the variance would continue what they contend is the trend to industrialize residential portions of the Valley section below Washington Avenue.

The variance asks that Van Dyk & Co. Inc., which has been in Belleville since 1943, be allowed to expand its warehouse at 123 Main St. to an adjoining vacant lot at 129-131 Main Street. A group of over 20 objectors led by the Rev. Paul Ruter of the Belleville Reformed Church at Rutgers and Main Streets have selected the Van Dyk variance as a "test-case" to attempt to reverse what Rev. Ruter calls is a trend toward "urban blight" in the valley.

Pomaco had successfully appealed to the Zeners, who recommended the variance in a one and two family zone, to limit considerations on the issue to the single piece of property in question, an 85 by 90 foot parcel of land fronting Route 21 Main Street, located in a block that contains four commercial buildings and one residence. The land is a combination of two lots—one with a 60 foot frontage and the other 30 feet wide, which formally held a two-family home next to the only existing home on the block.

On the other side of the property is the existing Van Dyk warehouse, which provides storage for materials used in the manufacturing process at the plant on the corner of Main and William Streets. Van Dyk produces chemicals used in the manufacture of cosmetics.

The rear of the property touches three other homes. The proposed building would be a one story structure, one foot higher than the existing 18-foot warehouse, occupying 85 per cent of the lot's 10,071 square feet.

Although most of the residents present left after the postponement was announced, some, like Vincent Mueller of 225 Stephens St. remained to voice opposition to the expansion during a citizens hearing.

Mueller said valley residents have been fighting to keep the valley residential. "Factories are filthy. Trucks are illegally parked, sometimes on the sidewalks, forcing us to walk across the street to pass. We are not asking for flowers, but we expect our area to be clean," he said.

Mueller also claimed that speeding trucks endanger the lives of residents and damage tree limbs. "I feel it is a losing battle," he said. "The industries are not voters and we are, we should be taken care of."

There was also some discussion about the premises of Tastycake, which resident John Simeone voiced discontent against. Simeone said Tastycake had agreed in its original variance to plant shrubbery and has never done so. "People just say, put it in the valley and forget it," the resident told commissioners.

Mueller also complained that Cerami Construction leaves boards out, and has allowed weeds to grow rampant, calling it "a disgusting mess."

SUPERVISING — Commissioner Mary Senatore and crew foreman Al Douglas watch as workers put down a fresh overlay on one of 13 roads in Town this past week. The roads bring to a total of 121 the number having received a thin overlay under the Public Works guidance of Mrs. Senatore in the past eight years.

New Year, Old Hassles

Enrollment Problems Still Trouble Schools

Despite state and national predictions of a ten per cent decrease in school enrollment, Belleville continues to show an increase in its student body. And with that increase, comes the inevitable problems of finding classroom space and paying new staffs.

The near-crises enrollment problems which the local school system experienced in the late Sixties and first two years of this decade appear to have subsided, but trouble will remain for Belleville School officials.

Schools Three and One, for example, show an increase in kindergarden enrollment for the fall and have hired new staff. School Three has added a half time teacher, while School One, which was operating a kindergarden class last year with 26 pupils, one over the state limit, has hired another half time instructor. That school last year had special permission from the county supervisor of education to maintain the class with only one teacher. But the supervisor has notified the school system that the 25 limit must be complied with this year.

Anthony Greco, Superintendent of schools, reports School Five may need an additional half time teacher. Seventy five students are enrolled in kindergarden classes there, with more expected in September. The pupils would have to be split into three separate classes.

Money was not budgeted for the additional half-time instructors, Greco said, but savings generated by the hiring of low-salaried teachers to replace five teachers who retired last year at maximum income brackets will be used.

Last year Belleville graduated 404 out of 438 seniors, and had a freshmen class of 519.

There are other problems in the system, most of which have been met or are being met, according to Greco.

A larger than anticipated enrollment of high school students in the select business course has forced the Board of Education to hire an additional business teacher. The Board has approved transfer of funds budgeted to hire an additional math teacher to pay for the new business instructor. Enrollment in the math courses turned out less than expected this year, so additional teacher in that field won't be hired.

Overcrowding continues to be a problem at the senior and junior high schools. The

$138,000 Appropriation Okayed For Public Safety Equipment

Belleville Town Commissioners voted Monday to pass an ordinance to purchase $138,000 worth of Public Safety Equipment, and okayed another bill to appropriate $25,000 for repairs to public buildings.

In another matter, Public Safety Commissioner Robert Laterza introduced an ordinance to amend the town's fire prevention code, established in 1965.

The chief feature of the equipment bill will be a new pumper for the fire department, estimated to cost about $53,000. The new pumper would give the department three pumps, none more than nine years old, with a 1965 engine in reserve and another devoted to training.

Under the ordinance, passed unanimously without discussion, the Signals Department will receive a new aerial lift truck, costing $35,000 and general Public Safety communications would be improved with $24,000 of equipment slated for purchase and a $29,000 modern communications console to be installed at the main fire house on Washington Avenue.

The Public Safety ordinance contains $7,000 to cover an emergency repair made last June to a 1965

Seagraves fire engine at the Silver Lake firehouse. The department now has three Seagraves pumps, two 1965 models and one 1970, located at each of the three fire houses in Silver Lake on Washington Avenue and on William Street. The new engine will enable one of the 1965 pumps to be moved to a reserve capacity, and a 1958 Mack now in reserve to be used only for training.

MAPPING PLANS — Ralph LaConte and Mrs. Muriel Cerami go over some homework in preparation for Belleville High School's new work-study program being installed this fall. In it, select students will combine classroom study with outside jobs, hopefully leading to employment after graduation. Not pictured is other program coordinator Nicholas Grandi.

BHS Educators To Unveil New Work-Study Program

For years high schools have prided themselves on being stepping stones for the college bound student, placing heavy curriculum emphasis on college prep courses. And for years, the percentage of graduating seniors enrolling in high education has been steadily climbing.

In the scramble for college placement, the student not going on to college has found himself somewhat forgotten. For he or she, the post graduate year can be a frustrating, often bitter experience.

But the trend in recent years has been for a renewal of interest in this type student. And now Belleville has joined the trend with a progressive work-study program being readied for the fall term at the senior high.

The program has been a long time in the making. Over five years in fact. Meeting monthly, high school principal Raymond O. Smith and a committee of residents have been working on the program for years, and have lacked only funds to get the plan off the ground.

The program has been budgeted for the past few years, but with the habitual defeat of the school budget by voters, the innovative scheme has been an early casualty in the piling down process.

This past year however, after a defeat at the polls, town commissioners allowed the board to keep its budget intact in exchange for dropping claim to funds restored by the state education commissioner from a previous appeal on a budget cut.

The program is basically simple. Select students attend classes until noon, then leave for jobs in the community approved by program coordinators, for which the student receives the minimum state wage, $2 per hour.

The program gives the student up to three credits for the job and a related course of classroom study. The thrust of the scheme is to prepare students for the working world by giving them marketable skills before they finish their schooling.

There are three divisions to the program, each with a different trade emphasis. Coordinating the setup are high school teachers Mrs. Muriel Cerami, Nicholas Grandi and Ralph LaConte, each with broad working backgrounds and education in the work-study field.

This year about 60 students have been accepted for the program after a screening of about 100 in June. Qualifying was based on students having completed prerequisite courses, interest tests, absentee records and need.

The coordinators are responsible for monitoring the students progress on the job, in addition to classroom instruction.

All state labor laws must be complied with, according to

Board has decided against additional construction at either facility, largely because the board feels the public won't back funding for new building in light of state and national decreased enrollment predictions. The board has hired a Trenton architect to work on plans to refurbish the junior high and certain elementary schools, however. Plans to rewire the junior high school, which was built in the 1920s, have top priority.

Over the summer, a new roof was put in at JHS. Rain leaks were a problem at that facility for many years, and caused periodic interior painting.

Greco is confident staggered class schedules, instituted at the two high schools two years ago, will alleviate the overcrowding problems.

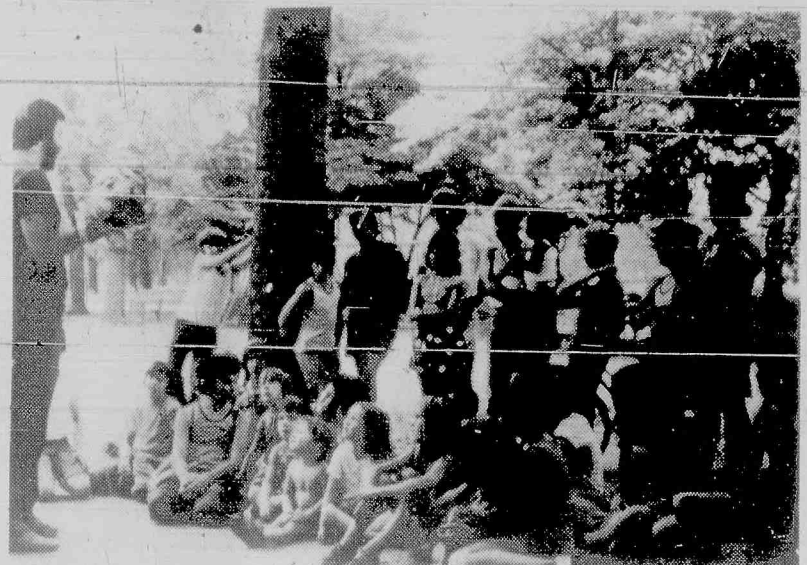

Another area requiring attention this year is the sewage system at the high school. Two years ago, the board had the sewage line fixed at that facility, but insufficient funds forced postponement of repairs on feeder lines, which now, according to Greco are causing problems.

On the brighter side, there are several new programs on tap for the fall, including a drug program just completed by Seymour Grossman, assistant superintendent of schools for curriculum grades 4-12. Grossman, a working with teachers and parents, has produced a booklet with drug education guidelines for teachers, and is designed for grades four through six. The state has only required drug education in grades seven through twelve, which Belleville has already done. The booklet engineered by Grossman is part of Belleville's effort to broaden its preventative attack on drug abuse, according to Greco.

Minish Urges Action For Health Insurance

Congressman Joseph G. Minish, 11th District — New Jersey, today called for passage during the 93rd Congress of national health insurance legislation.

Minish urged Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee, which has jurisdiction over this issue, "to work to report a comprehensive bill to the House floor prior to adjournment."

The Ways and Means Committee has completed a series of hearings on the subject of national health insurance, but has scheduled no further action on various proposals pending before it.

Minish told Mills that "priority attention should be devoted to the Kennedy-Griffiths National Health Insurance Bill." Minish, who is co-sponsor of that legislation, said that it is the "most far-reaching and promising proposal to improve the health care afforded to Americans."

The National Health Insurance Bill would cover all citizens with comprehensive health benefits, including physician services, optometry, inpatient and outpatient services, home health services, podiatry, medical devices and appliances, and children's dental work.

The plan would involve no deductibles or coinsurance. It would be financed half by a one percent payroll and half by general revenues. Five percent of the accumulated funds would be set aside for health resource development, and health manpower education and training.

"On the average," Minish said, "a hospital room that cost $53 per day in 1967 has doubled to $106 today. Americans spend three times more for health care than they did a decade ago ($44) versus $145 per year) and health care costs have risen by 25 percent in the last two years alone."

"Despite the tremendous price increases," Minish declared, "the plain fact is that Americans received poorer health care than citizens of many industrialized countries of the world."

Students Earn While They Learn

Belleville High Will Take Wraps Off Program Combining Outside Jobs With Classroom Study

LaConte, and students missing school day will not be allowed to attend jobs that day.

Mrs. Cerami will be in charge of Cooperative Office Education (COE), which is an expansion of the old work-study program at BHS, which Mrs. Cerami was collected with for years.

COE deals primarily in office skills, with two years of typing education a prerequisite. The students are placed in office jobs and receive one period of classroom instruction with Mrs. Cerami designed to coordinate with the job experience. Thus far Mrs. Cerami has gotten promises of employment from four firms, including Hoffmann-LaRoche of Nutley, DeWitt Savings and Loan Association of Belleville, Mutual Benefit Life of Newark, Wallace & Tiernan of Belleville, Victor Pomaco, a local lawyer, Van Dyke Co. of Belleville and The Belleville Telegram.

Cerami heads Cooperative

Distributive Education (CDE), which covers merchandising, marketing and management, in such jobs as bank tellers, cashiers at supermarkets and sales work.

In the classroom, LaConte will be working with a manual prepared by Delmar, a publishing company in New York, which helps the students on practical, not theoretical matters. The manual comes with a data folder for keeping a record of students work experience and progress.

LaConte will also have use of a lab, which will house cash registers, aisle type shelves for stocking training; display cases, three-way mirrors for teaching women and mens apparel, mannequins, a window display, and by mid year, LaConte hopes to get a student store off the ground which would sell stationary and novelty items, and could be expanded to include items like wind breakers, jackets and duffel bags.

Thus far, LaConte has signed up DeWitt, PathMark and the Belleville Public Library as employers. A couple of students are already working at Kresges in Bloomfield, and the Stop and Shop in Clifton.

Grandi will be in charge of Cooperative Industrial Education (CIE), which includes jobs related to carpentry, masonry and auto mechanics. CIE is the only phase of the program in which students will be placed in what the state has termed "hazardous jobs."

Most of the students, Grandi says, have had shops courses or similar related experience to the jobs they're taking. Thus far employers committed to the program include Nicoletti Auto Body of Belleville, Valley Fuel Company, Belleville, the East Nutley Garage, and F&T Automotive in Belleville. The jobs include auto body repair, machine and engine rebuilding, plumbing and heating, electrical work, and possibly air conditioning, refrigeration and tool and die making.

The CIE class study will deal in general matters related to the work experience, such as why income taxes are taken out, how to prepare tax forms, and how to take job interviews. Students with problems on the job can get counseling during the class, on a one-to-one basis.

All three instructors have broad backgrounds. LaConte is a graduate of Seton Hall University with a BA and a MA in secondary education. He has attended Rutgers University, Montclair State and Rider College to gain certification as a teacher of distributive education, and has also completed 12 credits beyond his masters.

LaConte has been teaching in Belleville eight years, and has been JV baseball coach. His work background includes a job with Sperry & Hutchinson, (S&H Green Stamps) as accountant.

"I'm very enthusiastic about the program," LaConte told the Times this week. "I feel the success or failure of the thing depends largely on the student and how well we prepare him in the class. The old question a student asked himself, 'why am I taking this course,' will no longer apply. He will know why he is taking the course. The work experience will help him when the graduates and give him money now."

Mrs. Cerami is a graduate of Boston University with a BS. She has 28 credits beyond her degree from NYU, Seton Hall and Montclair State. She has been teaching in Belleville for 20 years and has worked for various companies, including Wallace & Tiernan, Household Finance, and for the Boston University employment bureau. She ran the BHS business department for nine years.

Grandi has his BA and MA from Montclair State in industrial education, and technology, and is taking vocational education credits at Montclair to get certification in this area. He is a former graduate of Belleville High, and has been teaching six years at the school.

Grandi has worked as an electrician's apprentice and in an auto body shop, operated heavy duty construction equipment, and one general masonry and carpentry work.

the contract. Mrs. Senatore reports enough overlay material has been left over to do the upper portion of Little Street, where a new water main was put in three months ago.

The Commissioner says she has received complaints from some citizens that a project already contracted to reconstruct Cortlandt Street was not done before the overlay. Mrs. Senatore says the reason the Cortlandt Street project was not done first was because the contractor asked for a delay until heavy metal caps for manholes can be gotten. The Commissioner expects the work to begin by the end of the month and will take about a week to complete. Reconstruction of Essex Street is included in the plans.

The Rutan Estates work was supervised by three men from the Public Works Department and Mrs. Senatore. The streets receiving overlay included Plenge Drive, Audrey Court, Rutan Road, Louise Court, Gregory Terrace, Bernice Road, Crestwood Avenue, Morse Place, Hoover Avenue, Maple Street, Caroline Road, Suzanne Court, and Berkeley Avenue.

Jersey Realtors Urge State 'Tax Convention'

The 13,000-member New Jersey Association of Realtors (NJAR) has urged the state legislature to call a "tax convention" in hopes that a fair and equitable tax program could be devised for all residents of the Garden State.

Sidney H. Koorse, president of NJAR, following the demise of Governor Byrne's income tax plan, said:

"We urge that before any new forms of taxation or increases in the rates of existing revenue sources, the Legislature give serious consideration to the creation of a 'Tax Convention.'"

"A Tax Convention" if properly constituted to give all segments of the New Jersey citizenry a voice in a major overhaul of our taxation system, could produce a tax reform program the public could support.

"Unfortunately, past attempts at tax reform have not received support because the public felt the programs were conceived in the political arenas and that the general public had little or nothing to say about the outcome.

"Whenever the question of a Tax Convention has been raised, the skeptics claim that it would produce nothing of value because of the varied interests of those involved.

Italians Choose Leaders

Two New Jerseyans have been elected to the second and third highest national offices of the nation's largest Italian-American service organization, UNICO National, it was announced today.

The two men are Paul Alongi of Bloomfield and Joseph Coccia of Kearny, elected executive vice president and first vice president, respectively, at the organization's four-day 52nd annual convention in Miami Beach.

United Nations Ambassador John A. Scali delivered the major address at the Convention and received UNICO's Rizzuto Medal, highest honor of the service organization. Besides election of national officers, including Mario Albi of Oceanside, New York, who was elected president, the convention selected its first mental health research proposal for complete funding, awarded collegiate scholarships, and initiated the first nationwide Literary Awards grants program to be offered to Italian-American authors.

Alongi is a Bloomfield attorney and partner in the firm of Alongi, Bregg, and DeVito. Coccia is owner of The Joseph Coccia Insurance and Real Estate firm in Kearny.

Other New Jerseyans elected to UNICO's executive committee include A.A. Miele of West Orange, executive secretary, Ben Liberti of Paramus, general counsel, and Ralph Torracio of Allendale, auditor.

August Patriots

(The following guest editorial was written by Col. R.R. Tourtellott, Americanism chairman emeritus, Fort Monmouth Chapter, National Sojourners.)

About seventy years ago, Americans of all ages were singing a very popular patriotic song called, "My Dream of the U.S.A." It was written by Chick Roth and Snyder and told about great patriots and historic events. It went in part: "I saw Davie Crockett at the Alamo. I saw Stark 'mid Mountains Green. And they all fought for our Liberty. In My Dream of the U.S.A."

Since each was born in August, it seems appropriate at this time of year to refresh our memories about these outstanding American patriots. Although they served at different times, they were both frontiersmen, each had military service and each played an important role in the history and development of our young Nation.

David Crockett, frontiersman, soldier and politician, was born August 17, 1786 near Rogersville, Hawkins County, Tennessee. His father was an Irish immigrant and a Revolutionary soldier. The family was poor and had no education. Although Davie could neither read nor write, he was known as the best rifle shot in Tennessee. This accomplishment plus his good nature made him popular with his neighbors. At 12 he was a cattle driver, at 14 a wagoner and at 16 he hired himself out for 18 months to pay off his father's debt of $36. During the Creek Indian War, 1813-14, he served with distinction as a Scout under command of General Andrew Jackson. Later, in spite of his lack of education, Crockett served as a Justice of the Peace, a Town Commissioner, a Court Referee and was elected colonel of his Militia regiment. In 1821 he was elected to the Tennessee Legislature. His popularity brought him reelection to the Legislature. He also served two terms in the U.S. Congress. He was too independent to vote always with his party and in 1835 he was not re-elected. He then went to Texas to help that state in its struggle against Mexico. In his first conflict at the Alamo on March 6, 1836 he was killed along with some 180 other defenders of that fort. His death there established his fame as a National hero which has endured to this day.

John Stark, Revolutionary General, was born August 28, 1728 in Londonderry, New Hampshire. His father was a Scotsman. John grew up in a frontier community where fishing, hunting and Indian fighting were their chief occupations. At 27 he became a Lieutenant in Roger's Rangers and fought with the British in the French and Indian Wars. In 1775 he was appointed a Colonel in the Continental Army. He fought with distinction at Bunker Hill, Trenton and Princeton. On August 16, 1777, British General Burgoyne, planning to attack Albany, New York, sent a detachment of troops to Bennington, Vermont to capture military supplies and horses there. Col. Stark's troops attacked the British outside Bennington and routed them. In this engagement his men carried the now famous Bennington flag. Stark was soon promoted to Brigadier General, given command of the Northern Department and continued on actively until the end of the war. He was brevetted to Major General September, 1783. In retirement Stark refused public office and devoted himself to the care of his large farm and a family of 11 children. His statue is one of two representing New Hampshire in the National Statuary Hall in Washington, D.C.

Gray Ghosts

A new paperback offers much that is new about guerrillas and guerrilla fighting traces the origin of many tactics to the American Civil War.

"Gray Ghosts and Rebel Raiders" by Virgil Jones (Mockingbird Books) prompts the comment from Burce Catton that this book, and the research behind it, prove guerrilla campaigns — staged mostly by the Confederates since it was their land being occupied — were an important factor in the Civil War.

Until now the guerrilla fighting of the 1861-65 war was lightly dismissed as having little bearing on the outcome of that struggle. Even Confederate leaders like General Robert E. Lee were inclined to constrict the activities of the guerrillas, and the top command on both sides abhorred the bandit tactics of some so-called guerrilla leaders.

Jones documents well the four-year struggle from Ohio to Virginia between Confederate guerrilla units, and a few independents, and the invading, occupying authorities and army. This struggle centered around railroads such as the B and O, and the C and O, and much of it involved the lines running west of Washington, and Baltimore through the hills and mountains of Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland.

The guerrilla tactics being employed today by various forces in various countries, some of them, alas, communists, are not new. From a reading of Jones' first volume on this type of warfare, one can learn much American history, and also much about guerrilla tactics.

Stadium Expansion Ordinance Delayed

One Year Ago

Mayor Joseph McGreevy and Town Treasurer Francis McCoy were to give the Town's side of the story concerning the $450,000 budget cut for the Belleville school system, as they testified in front of examiner Joseph Zach at the Trenton office of the State Commissioner of Education. McGreevy stated that he expected the State to rule against the town, because of a built-in prejudice the Commissioner would have as a top education official considering an appeal by a local school board.

Although a representative of the Federal Department of Transportation lauded Belleville's program to provide busing for Senior citizens, a meeting with officials of the Public Affairs Department produced no commitment of funds for the project. The Department of Transportation stated that the implementation of a $23 billion dollar transportation bill was still not clearly defined, and that he could therefore give Belleville officials no clear promises at that time.

Five Years Ago

After a stormy hour and a half hearing, the Board of Commissioners voted to grant a variance for a proposed 32 family garden apartment complex on Rutgers Street and Belleville Avenue. The garden apartment set up would be the second of its type to be built on Rutgers Street that year. A 40 family garden complex to be known as Rutgers Court was under construction. The vote for the proposal was 4-1. Finance Commissioner Joseph McGreevy, who cast the lone negative vote, had preferred to table the matter because he felt that many of his questions about the variance had not been answered. The garden apartments were expected to act as a buffer between the commercial usage of Washington Avenue and the residential use of Lincoln Avenue. Traffic congestion, already reported to be bad by residents, was expected to worsen.

The Eastern Regional Little League tournament was set to kick off at the Michael V. Marotti Field. A banquet was given the four competing teams at Bloomfield College the day before. The tournament was being financed with the aid of a $2,500 grant by the Board of Commissioners. The Belleville Little League, which was hosting the series, was under the direction of Detective Michael Marotti.

Commissioner William Cullen's ordinance for a proposed $100,000 expansion of the Municipal Stadium facilities was delayed again when the Commission tabled the bill for the third straight time for "further discussion." Cullen, who was reluctant to withdraw the ordinance, said that time was running out for work to be done on the property. The Commissioner also said that if the Board and the townspeople think this bill is worthwhile, then it is time that we should pass it on the first reading.

Ten Years Ago

The Belleville Board of Education approved the appointment of Austin J. MacArthur as principal of school number 3. Also at that time, John Westlake was made vice-principal of the high school and Thomas A. Testa director of the adult school.

Mrs. Viola Spray was transferred from principalship of school number four to school number seven.

Albin H. Oberg, Executive Director of the Clara Maass Memorial Hospital, led a discussion on radio station WJRZ on the program "In the Public Interest."

Harry Beogold was elected president of the Electro-Rust-Proofing corporation by the Board of Directors of that company at its meeting.

Fifteen Years Ago

Christopher Eramo, security representative of the Aegis Agency, appeared before the Board of Education with proposals regarding precautions against the recurring vandalism problem, which cost the town thousands each year.

The Board of Education, by a unanimous vote, approved the appointment of George T. Lees as vice-principal of the high school.

A group of Rutan Estates property owners appeared at the town commission meeting to complain of high assessments on their homes.

Twenty Years Ago

Robert Kimble, an ex-GI turned dancing teacher, devised a new dance step which professional dance instructors predicted would sweep the country. The step was entitled "The Shindig."

The Belleville Post 275 of the VFW voted to support the 'slow down and live' campaign which sought to reduce the toll of traffic accidents.

Deputy Chief Harry White celebrated his 24th anniversary with the Belleville Fire Department, with a party held at the station house.

Public Safety Director Harry J. Sullivan won six golf balls in the Essex County Governors Day Golf tournament at Spring Lake.

Thirty Years Ago

A full day of recreational activity was planned to mark the official closing of the summer play ground season in Belleville.

A free X-ray clinic, sponsored by the Nutley-Belleville Tuberculosis Society, was held at the high school, to help spot this dreaded disease before it had the chance to spread.

An audience of 96 attended the final session of the canning fair conducted by the Public Service Corporation and the Belleville Times at the Union Avenue School.

Chairman Joseph Stein of the North Belleville honor roll committee announced plans to construct a memorial for servicemen in that area.

Golden Comments

By James R. Golden

Save for our local police and fire department personnel who are excluded by state statute, all town employees are, by town regulations, required to be local residents. Exclusions are made for some professional people, however, overall the rank and file town workers are expected to be residents of our town.

Now our mayor who is the titular head of our local government surely must be well aware of these residency requirements and should oversee that they are faithfully abided by in all departments of the town. But does he?

That now becomes the $64 question. Now we're going to suggest mayor McGreevy that you conduct an intensive search into the PRESENT residence of ALL the employees NOW working in your department and under your jurisdiction as Director.

Indeed mayor it would be most embarrassing should reports prevailing to the effect that just such a situation might exist be confirmed. You might best have a "look see" and take prompt remedial action should the reports be found factual.

With all the criticism being leveled at public officials these days we wouldn't want anyone to obtain the impression that our mayor might be suspected of overlooking or neglecting to enforce the town's regulations governing the residency requirements of its employees.

***

By the time this copy gets into print the ruinous, wilting effect of the midwest drought which destroyed six billion dollars worth of staple crops will be putting an even bigger dent in housewives' pocket-books throughout this area. Inflation and runaway prices have produced a situation whereby six cans of the kiddies soda now cost more than the old man's six pack of popular beer. A wacky, wacky world. Labor boss, George Meany blames Nixon, charging broken promises and favoritism to big business. He insists Labor must obtain pay increases and cost of living contracts to cope with the inflationary trend.

Just a list of a few things that seem abuses of political power that aren't justified and cost the taxpayer's US, needless taxes:

1- The Governor's wife having Morven redecorated at the cost of about $22,000, just four years after Mrs. Cahill went for twenty-five grand to have the mansion done over to suit her decorative tastes.

2- The indiscriminate use of credit card calls by politicians for personal non-government calls from all over the world that are charged to the public in the ultimate sense.

3- The purchase of luxurious, air-conditioned cars for the personal and exclusive use of political dignitaries with credit cards for gasoline purchases, all at the final expense of the taxpaying public.

NOTE: The above applies to almost all our Belleville town commissioners also. In the town administrations of the past, office holders used their own cars and bought their own gas. They didn't "sack" the taxpayers for these extravagances which our present town leaders seem to regard as perquisites of their office.

In a town of this restricted size of less than three square miles there is NO NEED for each commissioner to use a personalized town owned car. Their administrative duties don't require such waste.

A town CAR POOL is the proper way to handle this situation with exact records of mileage and gas consumption of all such cars being kept and a listing of who used them and for what purpose.

With a town election coming up next May, let's get a commitment from all the candidates, including the present incumbents, that the present policy will be abandoned.

School Discipline

It is well to take stock of our local schools every so often, and the beginning of the new school year is a good time to review local conditions.

In the first place, capable school administrators — from the superintendent and principals on down — are not as easy to find as some imagine. The really good officials in this field are the subject of much competition.

Parents of children — many of whom have been raised on progressive theories which are now largely discredited — have an obligation to cooperate with school authorities in every way possible and to make their task easier as they attempt to guide, train and educate the children of this community.

Children must be disciplined, as well as educated, for if they are not disciplined they cannot be educated. This is one point parents must keep in mind. Also, it should be remembered that proper disciplining never hurt anyone, and is a prerequisite in our social order.

As this school year gets underway, we urge all parents to cooperate with teachers and school officials, and encourage their children to approach school with the proper attitude.

THE STATE WE'RE IN

Everyone's Looking For Signals On The New Environmental Chief

By David F. Moore

N.J. Conservation Foundation

DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL Protection-watching is a common pre-occupation now among New Jersey's environmental types, what with the departmental command going from Richard J. Sullivan to David J. Bardin. Everybody's looking for signals about upcoming departmental stances on a lot of environmental subjects.

SO IT WAS with more than a little interest recently that I read where Commissioner Bardin had urged the New Jersey Public Utilities Commission to bring about a dramatic change in the formula under which our electric bills have always been assessed.

NOT TO TAKE any undue credit, but we at the New Jersey Conservation Foundation (formerly North Jersey) have been making the same suggestion for several years. To wit:

INSTEAD of charging small electrical users more per kilowatt hour, and big users less per kilowatt hour, turn it around and charge on a more equitable basis. The result would be a dramatic saving in energy consumption and easing of schedules for necessary new generating equipment.

AFTER ALL, it stands to reason that a bungalow with a few light bulbs, a television, a toaster, a furnace and similar gadgets can't take the same electricity-saving steps as, say, an auto assembly plant or a shopping center.

THE WAY ELECTRIC bills have gone up lately, we all are looking for ways to save electricity at home. But we just can't save enough to do much good, because the less electricity we use, the more we pay per kilowatt hour.

THE RECENT ENERGY flap proved something when many big industries were able to reduce electrical consumption by 10 or even 15% just by turning things off when they weren't needed. Giving industry and commercial establishments a little economic incentive to save electricity would probably make such improvements permanent.

COMMISSIONER BARDIN told the PUC that for decades, rates were designed to promote use of electricity and discourage users from generating their own. Although that policy once made sense under freewheeling land and resource use patterns, the situation is at least temporarily reversed, he continued.

THEREFORE, he maintained, on-site generation of electricity by industries and other big users may be beneficial as a complement to central-station generation by utility companies.

TO ALL THAT, I'd like to point out also that electric rates shouldn't be based on a utility company's capital investment. The way it is now, it pays a company to have a constant shortage of electricity for its subscribers because it always has to be building new power plants and thus adding to its rate base.

THE COMMISSIONER has called attention to the tip of a big iceberg.

Golden Agers Enjoy A Day At the Races

The Senior Citizen's clubs from the Belleville Park, and Vailsburg Park, senior centers, operating in conjunction with the Essex County Park Commission, and guests from the North Ward Education and Cultural Center, took an exciting all day bus trip to Monmouth Race Track, this week.

The all day trip was the third annual visit to the race track, since the club's inception, just three years ago. The Belleville Park, joint committee plans and coordinates many interesting trips especially for seniors, ranging from Asbury Park, to Cape Cod, to California.

After asking some of the seniors why they chose to come to the track, their response was: "I went just for the fun of it," said Mrs. Agnes Danenburgh, one of the members of the Belleville Wednesday Club, who had some luck after placing a few winning bets.

"Going to the race track is something different, something you don't see every day," remarked Mrs. Julia Wells, chairman of the trip committee.

Mrs. Unis Conover,

secretary of the Belleville Thursday Club, said she went for the enjoyment of it, "a chance to get out and have a good time." "I'm satisfied, as long as I come out ahead, it doesn't matter how much."

"Going to the track not only fills my day up," remarked Mrs. Louise Gonsalves, vice president of Belleville Park's Thursday Club, it's a great chance to get out and meet new people, and enjoy myself as well."

Whatever the reason, the trip to the races, seems to be a popular outing for the seniors, whether they've won or lost, the general consensus was, "the day was well spent."

John Leighton Sells Over A Million Dollars

John B. Leighton, of Belleville, a special agent with Prudential Insurance Co.'s Newark agency, has sold more than a million dollars of insurance during 1974.

Leighton joined Prudential in 1959 and this marks the seventh time he has hit the million mark in sales. He has received many President's Citations for sales excellence, as well as numerous National Quality and National Sales Achievement Awards. In 1971 he was designated a Chartered Life Underwriter, a high honor in the insurance industry.

A member of the National Life Underwriters Association, he has been active with the Boy Scouts of Clifton.

Leighton is married to the former Margaret Guckemus and they have three children: Mrs. Elsa Strachan, Mrs. Elizabeth McDonough, and J. Peter; and three grandchildren. The Leightons live at 99 Malone Ave., Belleville.

Orange, South Orange, Maplewood and Millburn.

The Health Department of West Orange has been awarded $10,000 to establish a Senior Health Center at the Fairmount House, the new Senior Citizen building.

Health counseling, education and screening will be available to the senior residents of that municipality.

The Health Department of Orange has also been awarded $12,000 in Older Americans Act monies to establish a Senior Health Center. Available to more than 6,000 seniors of Orange, the Health Center will provide any preventive health services (counseling, screening, education, etc.) necessary to promote independent and healthy living habits.

Painter's Touch At Clara Maass

Nurses Brighten Hospital

What does it mean when two nurses and one nursing assistant show up on duty armed with paint, brushes and crayons instead of stethoscopes and hypodermics?

For patients in the Clara Maass Memorial Hospital Pediatric unit, it means brighter and happier rooms. Joan Fornarotto, of Belleville, and Fran Hunter, of Stockholm, graduated in May from Clara Maass Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, and are now pediatric nurses at the hospital. Gail Voitle, of Oakland, is a student at Holy Name Hospital School of Nursing in Teaneck, and is a nursing assistant for the summer at Clara Maass.

Last week these young women combined their time and talents and transformed the Pediatrics unit into a carnival of cartoon and television characters. A favorite character has been painted in bright watercolors on windows of every room.

Charlie Brown and Lucy, Snoopy and Woodstock, pink elephants and Dennis the Menace as well as Bert from Sesame Street are all there to welcome the young patients.

"We had done this sort of thing while we were students," Miss Fornarotto said, "But we got bored with the few paintings left and so decided to do them all over."

"Children are less frightened when they see familiar characters on the windows," Miss Hunter added, "and besides, these paintings make everyone else in Pediatrics smile."

Senior Citizens Win Aid Grant

Bernard J. Gallagher, of Belleville, director of the Essex County Office on Aging, announced that $57,000 in Older Americans Act monies had been awarded to the Hospital Center at Orange and the municipalities of Orange and West Orange for the establishment this September 1974 of comprehensive medical services for senior citizens.

The Essex County Office on Aging, sponsored by the Essex County Board of Chosen Freeholders, has been designated as the Area Agency on Aging within Essex County.

As mandated, the Office on Aging is required to submit yearly an Area Plan designed to develop comprehensive and coordinated programs for senior citizens in the county, to the State Office on Aging for their review and funding approval. The Essex County Office on Aging was recently notified that approximately $300,000 in Title 111 monies from the Older Americans Act had been committed to Essex County for 1974.

The Hospital Center at Orange Senior Care Project, awarded $35,000 in Older Americans Act monies, will identify elderly persons who are not receiving on going medical care and/or periodic physical examinations and will arrange for the provision of these services and periodic follow up. Also available at its hospital facilities will be a social worker to provide information, referral and follow up on any social and/or economic problems identified. These services will initially be available to the senior residents of Orange, West

Congressional Candidate Supports President Ford

William B. Grant, Republican candidate for Congress from the 11th District, pledged his support to President Gerald R. Ford, and urged all Americans to unite behind the 38th President.

Grant, who met with then Vice President Ford in Washington in June, had at that time stated that he was "most impressed by his (Ford's) honesty, integrity, and obvious leadership abilities."

Grant echoed President Ford's Thursday statement which praised President Nixon for "one of the greatest personal sacrifices for the country and one of the finest personal decisions on behalf of all of us Americans."

President Nixon's resignation, in the words of the New York Times reporter R.W. Apple Jr., has "ended the Watergate agony." Grant continued. And a New York Times headline indicated that "Officials and Citizens Abroad

Call (the) Outcome of (the) U.S. Crisis (a) Tribute To Democracy."

Grant stated that the action by the President has freed the Congress to address the problems facing the country. What happens from this point forth is a matter between the appropriate prosecutor and Richard Nixon, a private citizen.

"If further action is called for under the laws of our land, I am sure that the prosecutor will do what it is his duty to do."

"I am just as sure that the judge who is called to pass judgement will take into account a sentiment which I believe is held by the overwhelming majority of Americans — a sentiment put into words by Gov. Reagan when he said that when a person has suffered as much as President Nixon, no one could expect him to have to suffer more."

MEETING THE PRESIDENT — William B. Grant, Republican candidate for Congress in the 11th District, is seen with President

Gerald R. Ford, during recent meeting in Washington, D.C. Grant pledged his support behind 38th President.

Bill's Defeat Is Applauded By Candidate

Tom D'Andrea, Campaign Manager of the Grant For Congress Committee, today congratulated Congress for defeating the Minish Mass Transportation Bill.

Bill Grant, Republican candidate for Congress from the 11th District, who opposed the measure, wrote to Minish just prior to the House vote asking him to withdraw sponsorship of the bill "which should more accurately be entitled 'The Subway Workers Bill.'" Grant told Minish that this bill would be "extremely harsh on the hard working men and women of the new Suburban 11th District."

D'Andrea declared that he was "delighted to see that the majority of the members of Congress were in agreement with Grant in opposing Minish's inflationary bill."

"The Mass Transportation Bill would have had the effect of an aspirin rather than a major operation (but at the same cost) on our mass transit problems," D'Andrea emphasized.

"Sponsorship of this bill also gives credence to the contention that Minish is city rather than suburban oriented. A quarter of the total dollars would have gone to just one city. A newspaper editorial said that New York City with this money could have kept the 35¢ fare for another 10 months."

D'Andrea concluded that Minish should be running in a district the other side of the Hudson River whose citizens he seems more interested in serving than those in his own district.

Turtle Back Welcomes Pair of Camel Friends

With the coming of fall and colder weather, two members of Turtle Back Zoo's Camel herd, just recently returned from their temporary quarters.

Abdul and Liberty Bell were both boarded at the Catskill Game Farm, Catskill, New York, for the past months, a move brought on by cramped quarters at Turtle Back.

"Actually, we were pretty lucky," said Richard Ryan, Zoo Director. "The Catskill Game Farm was looking for a breeding male. We met the need and, in exchange, they agreed to board Liberty Bell."

Other Camels that stayed at Turtle Back were housed in their usual shelters.

Camels, sometimes called the "ship of the desert", earned that title because they work well in the heat of the sandy wastes. But people sometimes forget that the desert can get bitter cold at night. Camels adapt to this cold readily and they like the snow.

Abdul and Liberty Bell will soon be in new year-round quarters at Turtle Back Zoo. A new building to house both the camels and zebras that has recently been completed will be in use before the next winter.

Ryan said the trade of Abdul to the Catskill Game Farm is testimony to the successful camel breeding program that has begun to build Turtle Back Zoo's camel herd.

Abdul and the zoo's first female camel, Mabel, were actually purchased from the Catskill Game Farm in 1966. Liberty Bell, born in April 1969 was their first offspring.

The five year old female camel presented the first of that family of animals' special problems to the zoo.

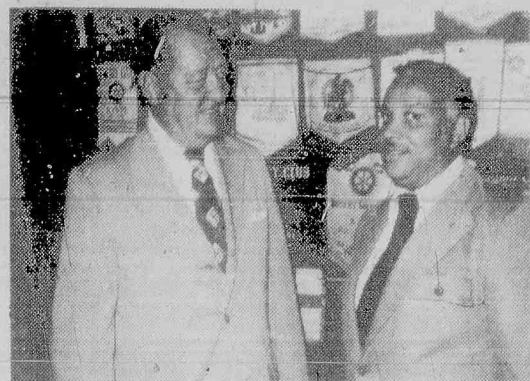

"Her baby bottle held more than a gallon," Lyzak said. "We had to feed her for a year and she became a bit of a spoiled brat."

With a 13-month gestation period, camels don't proliferate too rapidly, but Delilah, the fourth addition to Turtle Back Zoo's camel herd, was born in July 1970. Unlike Liberty Bell, Delilah was capable of standing up at birth and she was raised by her mother.

Camels are just one of the 285 species of animals that are on exhibit at Turtle Back Zoo, the largest facility of its type in the state.

The zoo, a facility of the Essex County Park Commission, is located on Northfield Avenue in West Orange, just a short drive from anywhere in the New Jersey Metropolitan Area.

St. Peter's Church was the setting June 22 for the marriage of Miss Jean Marie Skrutskie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Skrutskie of 31 Maier Street to Joseph Anthony DiMichele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DiMichele of 44 Columbus Avenue.

The Rev. James Heavey celebrated the nuptial mass and a reception followed at Thomm's Restaurant, Newark.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a white dotted swiss gown trimmed with Venise and chantilly lace and fashioned with a high neckline, long bishop sleeves and chapel train. Her headpiece was a matching hat with a long veil appliqued with lace. She carried pale blue daisies, white roses and babies breath.

Miss Marian DiMichele, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. Miss Nancy Skrutskie, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Best man was Noel Bell of Cedar Grove and Mark Nardone of Bloomfield, cousin of the groom, ushered.

The attendants were attired in sleeveless gowns of white voile with pink flowers over a lining of blue tulle. White Venise lace trimmed the collars of the gowns and the cuffs of the matching bolero jackets. Matching blue picture hats and bouquets of pink roses, blue carnations and yellow daisies completed their outfits.

Mrs. Skrutskie chose an empire gown of mint green while the groom's mother was in pale mauve. Corsages were cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. DiMichele was with New Jersey Bell Telephone, East Orange while Mr. DiMichele is parts manager with Key Oldsmobile, Linden.

The couple honeymooned in the New England States and are making their home in Bayville.

Holy Family Church Setting For Lemmo-Ippolito Wedding

Mrs. Michael Lemmo — nee Anne Ippolito

Miss Anne Ippolito, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Ippolito of 34 Harrison Street and Michael Lemmo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Lemmo of Iselin were married June 29, in Holy Family Church.

The Rev. Michael Saltarelli officiated at the Nuptial mass which was followed by a reception at the Wayne Manor, Wayne.

Escorted by her uncle, Don Corino of Belleville, the bride wore a gown of silk peau de soie with lace appliques at the bodice and hemline. Her illusion veil was held by a double tiara of crystals and seed pearls. She carried baby carnations and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Anis Hamdan, sister of the bride, was matron of honor in a peach gown covered with white organza with tiny flowers of matching color. She carried matching carnations.

The bridesmaids included Mrs. Dave Rucinski of Nutley, Miss Grace Flannery of Orange and Mrs. Dave Strathern of Trenton. They wore blue gowns covered with white organza with tiny matching flowers and carried blue carnations.

Joseph Odenheimer, of Jackson Township, was best man. The ushers included the bride's brother-in-law, Mr. Hamdan and George Strathern of Trenton.

Mrs. Ippolito chose a floral pink chiffon gown with matching accessories while the groom's mother was in a blue chiffon gown with matching accessories. Both wore white orchid corsages.

Mrs. Lemmo, a graduate of Montclair State College, was a teacher with the Verona system. She will now teach in Trenton.

Mr. Lemmo, a graduate of Newark College of Engineering, is a civil engineer with the N.J. Department of Transportation in Trenton.

The couple spent a week in the Poconos and then continued their honeymoon in Hawaii in August. They will make their home in Trenton.

can. the collar is not safe. Your puppy can put a paw through, and get himself entangled.

Put his new collar on for a short time each day. Just before mealtime or around playtime are especially good for this; a pup gets very excited when it eats or plays. And, in this excitement, it may accept the collar as something else he has to put up with. In time, he'll get used to it.

Once your pup has gotten used to the collar, the leash comes next. A good leash should be a sturdy leather or chain link.

Let him bite it, smell it, touch it — so he can see that it is harmless and won't hurt him. Allow him to run around the house with his leash dragging from his collar.

At first, he will be somewhat bewildered, particularly if he catches the leash onto a chair or table leg, and gets a yank. You should attempt to stand by to make sure the puppy does not get tangled up or injured.

It is important to know that no matter how you prepare your puppy, he won't like the leash at first. So don't drag him around. Begin coaxing him along, a few steps at a time.

Using the leash, first walk your pup around the house. Later, when you feel somewhat sure that he will cooperate, take him outside.

Let him guide you in the direction he wants to go — unless he heads toward a moving bus or train. If he fights your lead, a smooth pat on the head will help the situation.

You And Your Pet

Collar and Leash

A young pup is usually very excited about his first stroll with his owner. But this excitement can quickly die if this initial outdoor experience turns into a tugging match between collar and leash.

Proper selection of a puppy's first collar and leash, combined with careful training, can help eliminate possible problems.

Your puppy's collar should not be too snug or too loose. A tight one will give him a lifelong fear of collars, and one that is loose will let him slip out.

The collar should be lightweight, narrow and have no sharp points, pins or nails which can wear away the puppy's hair and scar his skin.

Try to find an inexpensive first collar, as you will have to get a new one as your pup grows. A check with your veterinarian may help if you are uncertain.

Like a pony with a bit, your puppy will have to get accustomed to his collar. Don't be surprised if he tries to hide or won't let you near him when he sees the collar in your hand. When you first put it on, he may begin to roll over and over or try to bite and even eat his collar.

To make sure of the fit, buckle the collar in the center hole. Try to slip one finger between the collar and the pup's neck. This spells comfort. Then with both hands see if you can pull the collar off without unfastening it. If you LEAVE HO — After a brief stay at temporary quarters, "Liberty Bell," one of Turtle Back Zoo's camels, returns to its home in the new camel zebra building at the zoo. The animal is sure to delight youngsters who'll crowd the West Orange zoo this fall, along with an assortment of other fascinating beasts.

Check Fidelity. And beat the two most common objections to Regular Checking

Compare these charges with what your present checking account is costing you.

You may be surprised to discover, if you write a lot of checks, that Regular Checking at Fidelity will save you a lot of money.

Objection #2: Does the thought of keeping a minimum balance in your checking account make you think you're losing money in your savings account?

Objection #1: Many people think of Regular Checking as the expensive kind of account.

But at Fidelity, as long as you maintain a minimum balance of $300, Regular Checking is free.

There's no monthly service charge. And there's no charge per check — write as many as you like.

Even if your balance should drop below $300 some month, the service charge will be small:

Minimum Balance
$300 or more	Free
$200 to $300	$1
$100 to $200	$2
Under $100	$3

Then try this:

Calculate the amount of interest you earn each month on $300 in savings.

It's probably between $1 and $1.50.

If your present checking account costs you as much or more, you'd actually be saving more money by upgrading to Regular Checking.

Check into it.

You'll like the way we build some savings into your Regular Checking account — at Fidelity.

Energy Warning Issued

A warning was issued this week to industry to find new ways to conserve energy supplies or face serious shortages by Joseph A. Hoffman, Commissioner of the N.J. Department of Labor and Industry.

Commissioner Hoffman, testifying before the Public Utilities Commission's interim rate hearings, also cautioned the Commission not to act precipitously in adopting energy conservation measures proposed by Environmental Commissioner David J. Bardin until more analysis is available on the employment impact of the proposals.

The PUC hearings are concerned with the petition of the Public Service Electric and Gas Company for an increase in electricity and gas rates and for changes in the tariffs for electricity and gas service.

On conservation, Commissioner Hoffman said New Jersey, along with the rest of the nation, is now entering a difficult and inescapable period of transition from decades of abundant low cost energy to a period of more scarce and considerably more expensive energy supplies.

New Jersey now faces an imminent and perhaps severe natural gas shortage as well as an uncertain long-term supply of electricity, the Commissioner added.

On proposals by Commissioner Bardin for the increase of electricity rates during peak hours, Commissioner Hoffman said, "I believe these proposals merit the most thoughtful examination by the Board of Public Utilities Commission. However, I do not believe it would be in the best interests of the Public Service Electric and Gas Company or the various classes of consumers to adopt the proposals during these interim proceedings."

He added, "Until such data analysis can be prepared and submitted for full public comment and review, I do not believe the Commission would be acting responsibly in adopting such far-reaching changes in the utility tariff structure. Even a small miscalculation by the Board concerning the impact of a revised tariff schedule could have grievous economic consequences for our state."

The proposals on electricity price increases during peak hours were filed with the Commission by David J. Bardin, Commissioner of the N.J. Department of Environmental Protection, G. Gordon Large, Administrator of the State Energy Office, and Professor William Baumol of the N.J. Economic Policy Council.

Commissioner Hoffman said, "To what extent are various categories of industrial consumers capable of shifting the consumption of electricity from one part of the day to the other? To what extent would the proposed tariff changes affect New Jersey's competitive position with respect to other states in its effort to attract new industrial development?"

Commissioner Hoffman pointed out that approximately one quarter of a million workers are unemployed in the state at the rate of 8.0. He said, "The principal problem affecting New Jersey's economy is the failure of private sector to promote employment opportunities. Since 1969 New Jersey has had a loss of 80,000 manufacturing jobs. While we have some expansion in non-manufacturing sectors, the erosion of industrial job opportunities has deprived tens of thousands of gainful employment."

Awarded At Commencement Ceremonies

Seventeen From Belleville Earn Fairleigh Dickinson U. Diplomas

Seventeen Belleville residents were among recent graduates from Fairleigh Dickinson University. Commencement ceremonies were held at the three New Jersey campuses of the University. At the Rutherford campus Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, former vice president of the United States, addressed the graduates.

Philip J. Candura of 128 Tappan Avenue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis T. Candura of Newark, received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Management Science at the Teaneck Campus.

An East Side High School Graduate, Candura is presently employed at a North Jersey manufacturing concern specializing in the manufacture of miniature components in precious metals. Candura has been employed by this company for the past six years in the capacity of industrial engineer, production manager, and is presently a personnel manager with complete purchasing responsibilities. He is married to the former Jayne Urban of Belleville and they have two children, Gina and Gerald.

Joseph A. Castellano was awarded a Bachelor of Science Degree in Biology. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Castellano. Castellano earned his degree at the Teaneck campus where he was a member of the Varsity Fencing Team. He also served as Captain of the team for two years.

Castellano is an Essex Catholic High School Alumnus where he was active in Football, the Student Council, the Italian Club and the Fencing Team. He plans to continue his studies in the field of Dentistry.

Thomas A. DePota, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic DePota of 236 Linden Avenue, completed his Bachelor of Arts degree in English at the Rutherford Campus.

DePota was a member of F.D.U.'s Fencing Team. The Essex Catholic High School Graduate will be studying for his Master of Arts degree at Wroxton College in England.

Donald Alfonso DiGiorgio earned a Master of Art degree at the Teaneck Campus. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic DiGiorgio and completed his degree in the field of School Psychology.

DiGiorgio is a member of Zeta Phi Sigma Fraternity where he held the offices of both Secretary and Treasurer. He is an alumnus of Irvington High School.

DiGiorgio plans to continue studies in School Psychology and also become certified as a Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant. He is presently a school psychologist in Franklin Lakes.

John S. Drabik, son of Mr. John Drabik of 281 Holmes Street, was the recipient of a Bachelor of Arts Degree in psychology. He was a Dean's List student at the Rutherford Campus for four semesters. Also an Honor Roll member for the final semester Certificate for Tutoring in 1972-73 and 1973-74. Drabik also received the Distinguished Service Award for participating in the College Companion Program in 1973 and 1974 at the Essex County Hospital Center, Cedar Grove.

Drabik is a Brother of Mu Theta Beta Fraternity where he was Social Chairman for the 72-73 school year and Secretary for the 73-74 school year. He served as Inter Fraternity-Sorority Council Representative for two years and was the 1974 Homecoming Chairman for the Alumni Association. John was a member of the Psychology Club for two years and served the club as Social Chairman and Treasurer for one year in each office.

Drabik plans to attend graduate school pursuing a career in counseling. Patricia Foselli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Foselli of 56 Walnut Street, was graduated Cum Laude receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology at the Rutherford Campus.

Foselli is a Belleville High School Alumnus.

Phillip B. Frese of 60 Belmont Street completed his Masters Degree in Accounting and Taxation at the Rutherford Campus. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony B. Frese of Newark.

Frese was an Honor Student and is presently employed by the Celanese Corporation as an International Tax Analyst. He is married to the former Estelle M. Schiavo and they have two children.

Lucie Atalla Hirmina of 54 Branch Brook Drive has completed the requirements for a Master of Arts Degree in Economics at the Rutherford Campus.

Mrs. Hirmina is the wife of Khalaf H. Hirmina. They have two daughters, Munar and Amal. Mrs. Hirmina is a Cum Laude graduate.

Edward M. Lewis of 20 Bernice Road graduated Cum Laude from the Rutherford Campus with a Masters of Business Administration Degree. He already held a Bachelor of Science Degree in Industrial Engineering.

Lewis is an alumnus of Kearny High School. He is presently employed as a Senior Management Consultant in the health field for the New Jersey Hospital Association, working at Saint Joseph's Hospital in Paterson.

Lewis is married to the former Carole Lewis. They have a son Brian, who is seven years old.

Robert Carl Lovett, son of Hubert Lovett of 38 Dorothea Terrace, received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Accounting at the Teaneck Campus.

Lovett was active in Intramural Football, Basketball and Baseball. He was a member of the Accounting Club, served on the Inter-Dormitory Council, and was a member of the Concert Committee.

Lovett is an alumnus of Essex Catholic High School where he was a Class Officer, a member of the Ski Club, served on the Dance Committee, and participated in the Intramural Sports Program.

Lovett plans to become a Certified Public Accountant. Theresa Nobile, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Nobile of 18 Continental Avenue, was awarded a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Psychology at the Rutherford Campus.

Joseph Castellano

Terry, a Psychology major, is a member of Phi Zeta Kappa, Phi Omega Epsilon, and Psi Chi Honor Societies. She graduated Magna Cum Laude.

In her freshman year, Nobile was a member of the Tennis Club. As a Senior, she was the Secretary for the Psychology Club and the Student Representative for WFDD-FM, the University Radio Station.

Nobile is a graduate of Queen of Peace High School where she was active in the Spanish Club and participated in Intramural Volleyball and Basketball.

Theresa will be attending the State University of New York in September to pursue a Masters Degree in Clinical Psychology.

Thomas J. Wilson of 13 Dow Street received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson.

Wilson, a graduate of Queen of Peace High School in North Arlington, plans to continue his education for a Masters of Business Administration and also further his studies in the field of Accounting.

At present, Mr. Wilson is employed in the Computer Systems and Services Department at Public Service Electric and Gas Company.

An excellent supplement to a washing machine is a dryer. If you do not have one, you should consider buying one.

Although after the last spin cycle the laundry comes out of the washing machine without much moisture content, it has to be hung to get completely dry or of course it has to go through a dryer. Trying to get laundry dry during a spell of wet and inclement weather has always been the bane of a housewife. However it is not just a matter to get the wash dry, it makes a lot of difference how it gets dry, particularly with the more different sensitive and sometimes delicate fabrics. Even a plain towel comes out fluffy and soft. Wash and dry fabrics do not show any wrinkles if you follow the directions for proper heat and take them out as soon as they are finished.

You should select a dryer that has various settings for the different fabrics and a variety of settings for the heat control. It does not make any difference whether you take an electric or a gas dryer, either one works good. For those of our readers who have a dryer, we would like to mention that it is of greatest importance to make sure that the lint filter is not filled to capacity. If it is, the air flow is inhibited. The wash will still dry, but it will take longer. If you look for a new dryer, make it a point to check that the lint filter is easily accessible.

Junior League Action Intense

Knicks, Lakers Score Exciting Wins

By RICHARD CARAVETTA

Three exciting, well-played games marked Junior League play last week at Belleville's School Eight.

On Monday, the Knicks defeated the Lakers 46-42 in overtime as Tom Smith scored 18 points. Don Tucci paced the losers with 19 points.

On Wednesday, the undefeated Knicks won again 36-32 over the Nets. Again, Tom Smith led the Knicks, as he tallied 16 points. Pete Liloia and Dean Campana combined for 18 points for the improving Nets.

In game two on Wednesday, the Lakers held off the Bucks 30-26. Dan Paccico, Don Tucci and Ed Rodriguez combined for 21 points for the victors. Ron Krych scored twelve and Ted Zangari ten for the losers.

"This week's games were the best we've seen this summer," said League Director Mark Corino. "The caliber of play has improved drastically."

Perhaps one reason for the improvement was the appearance of Frank Grasso, head basketball coach at St. Joseph's High School in West New York, brother of Belleville coach Dan Grasso. Frank Grasso's record at St. Joe's is an impressive 75 victories and only 15 defeats. Coach Grasso spoke to the boys and demonstrated various fundamental offensive moves which are essential for all basketball players.

Also, a roster of league All-Stars was announced. The Bucks, Knicks and Nets placed three players each on the All-Stars and the Lakers added two players.

The All-Stars are: Sal Baker, Ted Zangari and Ron Krych (Bucks); Dean Campana, Pete Liloia and Joe Cassese (Nets); Tom Smith, John Herko, Tom Bianchi and Joe Norton (Knicks); and Don Tucci and Dan Paccico (Lakers). Each of these players will be presented with a special All-Star jersey.

The All-Stars have been practicing all week with coaches Mark Corino and Rich Caravetta in preparation for the game this Monday night, August 19th against Nutley. The game will be played at Belleville's School Eight and will begin at 6:30 P.M. It is hoped that many Belleville residents will attend to lend their support to the players who have worked so hard.

Pratko Making A Bid On Purdue's Varsity

Former Nutley High School standout athlete Frank Pratko is among the 121 candidates for Purdue's 1974 football squad under the direction of second-year head coach Alex Agase.

Pratko, a strong 6-4, 239 pounder, bypassed last season with a fractured left arm, enabling him to receive a fifth season of eligibility under the Big Ten's Red Shirt Rule. A three-sport performer for Nutley, Pratko is scheduled as the starting strong offensive guard for the Boilermakers. He is a junior majoring in physical education.

The Riveter gridders, determined to top their 1973 fourth place Big Ten finish, report to Agase Aug. 18 for team meetings followed by Fan Photo Day Aug. 19. Two-day workouts begin Aug. 20 and continue until classes start Aug. 29.

Facing one of the toughest slates in the nation this year, Purdue will meet three undefeateds in national champion Notre Dame, Tangerine Bowl victor Miami (O.), and Big Ten co-champ Michigan.

"We have the nucleus to be a winner," Agase projects. "The challenge is there in the form of the schedule and we intend to conquer that challenge."

For the first time in history, the Boilers' home opener pits them against a Big Ten foe, with Wisconsin invading Ross-Ade Stadium Sept. 14. The six-game home schedule rounds out with Miami (O.) Sept. 21; Illinois (Homecoming) Oct. 12; Iowa (Dad's Day) Nov. 2; Minnesota Nov. 9; and Indiana Nov. 23.

Golf Tourney Planned For Day Care Center

The Metropolitan New Jersey Chapter of the International Management Council affiliated with the Newark YMCA announces the third annual "Tee Off for Toddlers" Golf Tournament and Tennis Outing will be held Friday, Aug. 23 at the Maplewood Country Club.

The tournament which was set up to raise $8,000 for a day care center in Newark will include golf and tennis clinics hosted by local pros. Newark Mayor Kenneth Gibson will act as honorary chairman for the tourney. Expected celebrities include Althea Gibson, Bill Scarlett, Al DeRogatis and Gus Hindenburg.

Luongo Seeks Harvard Berth

Sophomore Bob Luongo of Belleville will be among a group of 103 candidates for varsity berths when the Harvard football team opens its pre-season camp Sept. 1 in Cambridge.

Luongo was a starting guard on last year's 4-2 freshman team. Luongo will be challenging for a starting varsity slot at guard, where Harvard lost both of last year's starters through graduation.

Harvard surprised the pre-season forecasters last fall with a 7-2 record, good for second place in the Ivy League. Head coach Joe Restic feels his squad will be hard pressed to equal that mark this fall.

"We lost a large group of quality players through graduation, especially on defense," Restic notes. "However, if we can come up with the replacements and maintain the outstanding attitude displayed last season, we're going to be in every football game."

Luongo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Luongo of 175 Beech St.

Court Ruling Protects Untenured Teachers

A long legal struggle to win basic rights for untenured teachers has finally been won. For the first time in New Jersey history, a local school board cannot now dismiss a teacher without reason.

Mrs. Mary Donaldson established the precedent in a five-year legal fight over her unexplained dismissal as a sixth-grade teacher in North Wildwood, reports New Jersey Education Assn. She finally won her case in the N.J. Supreme Court.

Despite high job ratings, Mrs. Donaldson was terminated in 1969 after she criticized the North Wildwood school board for not accepting available federal funds to establish a school library, NJEA reports. One school board member described this as "rocking the boat," and another said she "lacked school spirit." However, the school board refused to give Mrs. Donaldson an official reason for the dismissal.

Lower-level decisions all supported the right of a local school board to dismiss a teacher without reason. The State Education Commissioner, the State Board of Education, and the Superior Court all held that a local school board can dismiss an untenured teacher "for any reason whatever or for no reason at all."

Testifying before the Assembly Education Committee in March, NJEA President Kathryn Stilwell had lambasted this language, which comes from a 1917 Illinois decision upholding the right of an old-time Chicago school board to break a union by firing all its members. This 57-year old decision even states that a school board can fire a teacher if it doesn't like the complexion of his skin.

Calling this "amazing," the NJEA President suggested that the 1917 precedent "has not stood the test of time" and "after two generations, should be laid to rest."

Three months later, ruling on the Donaldson case, the State Supreme Court reached a similar conclusion. Said the 5-2 majority decision: "The Illinois case clearly has no current viability." It adds: "We need hardly point out that the sweep of the quoted language is no longer law anywhere."

The decision guarantees what NJEA has long sought for untenured teachers: that, on request, the teacher can insist on receiving a confidential statement of reasons for the termination.

School-board spokesmen had argued that giving reasons would cause administrative work and weaken tenure, NJEA reports. To these objections, the Supreme Court decision replied:

"There would of course be some administrative burdens, but surely they would not be undue. And the tenure system would not be adversely affected, for the requirement that reasons be stated would in no wise curb the breadth of the board's discretionary authority to decide whether any particular teacher should or should not be re-engaged."

The decision adds: "It appears evident to us that on balance the arguments supporting the teacher's request for a statement of reasons overwhelm any arguments to the contrary."

"If he is not re-engaged and tenure is thus precluded," added the Court, "he is surely interested in knowing why, and every human consideration along with all thoughts of elemental fairness and justice suggest that, when he asks, he be told why."

The Donaldson decision culminates a decade of NJEA legal actions that, step by step, have whittled down the power of a school board to fire employees unfairly. These previous decisions established that:

1. The dismissal cannot be arbitrary or capricious.
2. The school board cannot exceed or abuse its legal powers.
3. The school board cannot violate a teacher's individual contract.
4. The school board's power to fire is limited by the N.J. Constitution and the U.S. Constitution.

These decisions continue a 20th Century trend of reducing the once absolute power of school boards over their employees, NJEA reports. The school board was once able to fire any teacher at will and often did — when, for example, the teacher introduced innovative methods or the mayor's niece needed a job. The spoils system did not

State Offering General Legal Guide

'Marriage, the Law & You' Pamphlet Available Free

In response to popular demand, another 10,000 copies have been printed of "Your Marriage, the Law & You — in New Jersey," a general guide issued by the New Jersey State Commission on Women of the Department of Community Affairs and the United Presbyterian Church.

The original supply of 15,000 was depleted in five months' time, the Commission on Women reported. Using a question and answer approach, the pamphlet covers such areas as the marriage license, residence, surname, property, death, and divorce, including grounds, alimony and child custody.

Legal citations are included as footnotes for a number of these topics in order to assist individuals seeking further, more detailed information.

Copies of the publication may be obtained from the Commission, P.O. Box 2768, Trenton, New Jersey 08625 at a charge of 25 cents a copy, $5.00 for 25 copies, and $8.00 for 50 copies.

The legal data was prepared by Donna Lieberman, of the Urban Legal Clinic of Rutgers University Law School, under the supervision of Annamay Sheppard, director; Doris Dabrowski and Celeste Wiselblood of the Women's Litigation Clinic of Rutgers Law School, under the supervision of Nadine Taub, director; and Anne Elwell,

Food Stamp Promotion Campaign Brings in Thousands of Requests

Largely because of the support rendered by New Jersey Food Council members, a program to encourage greater use of food stamps in the State became a success even before it was officially started.

By the time Governor Brendan T. Byrne signed a proclamation in late July officially declaring Food Stamp Week in New Jersey, the State Department of Institutions & Agencies already had received thousands of telephone calls from prospective food stamp eligibles. They had been responding to signs, flyers and ads prepared and distributed by New Jersey Food Council member food stores urging calls to the Food Stamp Hot Line.

The hot line is a toll free (in New Jersey) telephone number, 800-792-8660, which rings in the offices of the New Jersey Department of Institutions & Agencies. The degree of success of the program could be measured by the fact that at the outset the telephone company reported as many as 5,000 busy signals a day on the hot line number. This prompted the State to add still more lines to handle the flood of incoming calls. The hot line hookup will continue at least through August.

"Any eligible person has a legal right to food stamps," Governor Byrne said during proclamation-signing ceremonies at the Institutions & Agencies offices. "It's not a welfare program; it's a nutritional program." The Governor completed the formal program by accepting several telephone calls on the Food Stamp Hotline which was established to answer questions regarding eligibility.

Along with Governor Byrne and Institutions & Agencies Commissioner Ann Klein, NJFC President Thomas P. Infusino (Nutley Park Shop-Rite) was on hand to answer questions from the media. The Governor, who admitted to being a former grocery store delivery boy, commended the NJFC for its efforts toward making the program so successful.

Commissioner Klein said she hopes for a 25 percent increase in federally funded Food Stamp use in New Jersey as a result of this public information program. She said "while many food stamp users are public assistance recipients, we hope to attract thousands of people who are eligible, but perhaps are not aware of that fact." Commissioner Klein noted that the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity has approved an $85,000 grant to permit the state to hire and train 34 new certifiers to assist in qualifying Food Stamp applicants.

The NJFC's Consumer Affairs Committee had worked with the Department of Institutions & Agencies for the past two months in preparing much of the materials being used in this program. Members of that committee on hand for the kickoff were Chairman Dorothy Strauber (Foodarama); Ruth Covell (Pathmark); Carla Janoff (Food Fair/Pantry Pride); Kathy LaPier (Grand Union); Sylvia Nadel (Wakefun); and Nancy Sechrest (Kings).

Right to Sue Officials Asked for Prisoners

"Persons imprisoned in accordance with the law shall retain all the rights of an ordinary citizen to commence actions against a public entity or public employee for an award of damages."

This is the core of a resolution proposed by the Correctional Reform Committee of the New Jersey State Bar Association and approved by the Association's Board of Trustees, it was announced today in Trenton. The resolution urges repeal of the present statutes, which prohibit state prisoners from bringing legal actions against a public entity until the prisoner is released from jail.

Newark attorney E. Lawrence Miller, Chairman of the Correctional Reform Committee, noted some of the reasons why a change is being sought.

"Because the current state laws cannot prevent prisoners from bringing federal Civil Rights actions in the Federal Courts, their only practical effect is to channel all such litigation out of the N.J. State Courts and into the U.S. District Court for the District of N.J.," he explained.

Brubeck Family At Arts Center

The Garden State Arts Center has added "Two Generations of Brubeck," featuring jazz immortal Dave Brubeck and three of his sons, to its star-studded array of non-subscription events. The Brubecks will play a one-night engagement on Thursday, August 15.

Dave will be at the piano with sons Darius at the electric keyboard, Chris alternating between electric bass and bass trombone and Danny on drums. The Darius Brubeck Ensemble also will perform.

The elder Brubeck became established in the 1950's as one of the most sought concert attractions both in the United States and around the world. Combining classical forms with jazz, breaking the "time barrier" in music with various new time signatures and winning popularity polls year after year, he became one of the most significant figures in American music as well as jazz.

After a four-year hiatus, in which he wrote three major works for chorus, orchestra and soloists, Dave returned to the concert stage with his three sons. Their first performance was before a sellout crowd in March, 1972, at New York's Carnegie Hall. Since then the Brubecks have played many major cities, concert halls, symphony concerts and summer festivals.

Darius, 26, is the oldest of Dave's six children and leader of the Darius Brubeck Ensemble, which features Darius and Chris, 21, and Danny, 18. The ensemble features a combination of rock, classical, traditional and free jazz, as well as Eastern music, an influence derived from Darius' hearing in his childhood tapes of his father improvising with Indian musicians in Bombay.

"Two Generations of Brubeck" presents the more familiar sounds of Dave's own music and extends it into an exciting contemporary idiom. Fans and critics alike have commented that there is no generation gap as far as the Brubeck family is concerned. Their record album, "Two Generations of Brubeck," which has received rave notices, seems to bear this out.

The Brubecks will take over the Arts Center stage after a three-night engagement by the American Ballet Theatre, which will present "Giselle" on Monday, August 12; "Swan Lake" on Tuesday, August 13, and "Swan Lake" again on Wednesday, August 14. The Wednesday performance will be part of the classical subscription series. The Monday and Tuesday events are in the non-subscription group.

Other non-subscription events previously booked: Tony Orlando and Dawn on Tuesday, September 3, and Shirley MacLaine on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, September 5, 6 and 7.

Curtain time is 9 P.M. on Friday and Saturday and 8:30 P.M. on other days. For tickets or information, write to Ticket Office, Garden State Arts Center, Box 116, Holmdel, N.J. 07733 or telephone (201) 264-9200.

The Arts Center, operated by the New Jersey Highway Authority, is located at Exit 116 of the Garden State Parkway.

Olga Knows

This Week's Horoscope
(August 17 through August 23)

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Associate apt to put you in uncomfortable position, and you will be tempted to tell something besides the truth. Now Olga would never counsel you to lie, Ari, but you can certainly put a bridle on your tongue to keep it from running away. There is no reason to blab EVERYTHING and if you don't get flustered, all will work out well.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): If you are excessively possessive with loved one, you will rue the day. Release your little bird, Taurus, and it will surely return to the nest. Try to hold it too tightly and it will smother for sure.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Secret will be revealed to you. Don't snitch. One-Dimensional character appears on the scene and can cause trouble. Don't take any sass. Tell this dimwit to go soak his head in a bucket of swill.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Schlocky merchandise will be pawned off on you unless you are most alert. Newcomer sashays into your life and your little heart goes pitty-pat. End of week for doing what comes ever so naturally.

LEO (July 23-August 22): Your mind is like a net, Leo, and what it gathers in depends on the depth of the waters it explores. Throw out that net and prepare for a healthy haul.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22): Don't be too quick to part with what is old and worn. One in shadows waits for you to make reckless move. Don't forget, Virgo my pet, that your trash is very apt to be someone else's treasure.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): If you permit yourself to become hemetically sealed against your emotional environment, Lib, you may miss out on something rather wonderful. And as far as "what others may think," now honestly, do you really give a fig?

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): Promises made in past are placed on your front porch. Chicks come home to raise Cain as well as to roost. Barnyard will be confusing, but interesting. Meet responsibility in mature manner. Week rocks to noisy finale.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): Week ahead should be a real dilly, Sai. You get smashing new idea concerning personal puzzle. Solution hits you right in the chops. Get to the beach if possible. Fling your bones on the sand and let the world drift away on an offshore breeze.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19): Emotional/financial satisfaction close at hand, Cap. You can consider cashing in those chips you've been saving for ever so long. In the meantime, interest has zoomed. Bank on friend to stand by as you vault ahead.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): Feel is a linking verb, Aquari, and in week ahead you become aware of emotions you didn't even know existed. You feel keenly. And you link willingly.

PISCES (February 19-March 20): Nobody, no matter how cool they may appear on the surface is completely untouchable. Pisces. Remember that, for week ahead is ideal for new encounters. If you go to the ol' swimmin' hole, let sweetie string along.
