Marotti seeking unified better business plan

By PAUL STERN

Mayor Michael Marotti took the first official step toward creating a unified Belleville business district improvement program this week when he called for the cooperation of all citizens and governmental bodies in reaching that goal.

Concerned about the mounting deterioration of Washington Avenue business, Marotti said he will enlist the aid of the Planning Board, Board of Adjustment, Commercial and Industrial Development Committee and others to "come up with some kind of unified plan" for improving business center conditions. "Taxpayers, too," said the Mayor, "I want to get everybody involved."

High among the Mayor's priorities is the improvement of Washington Avenue's physical appearance, particularly along the avenue's southern portion. "I want to make it look presentable," he said, "and maybe we can get some people to start going down there again."

Tuesday night Marotti was scheduled to meet with Belleville C&ID Committee to discuss the alternatives involved in "dressing up" local businesses. The committee is already considering the possibility of arranging improvement loans for local firms, he said, and may investigate other avenues in providing financial relief to businessmen who improve their stores.

Marotti also said he would soon be contacting U.S. Postal authorities in an effort to coax an improvement of the Belleville Post Office's looks.

The Mayor is also turning some of his attention to the Belleville Planning Board— one town body, say some members, in need of its own repair.

Presently the Planning Board is without some of the authority it needs to properly supervise town growth, and is expected to request that authority within the coming weeks. Specifically, the Planning Board will ask the Commission for power to approve site plans and subdivisions — a power it has never had before. Some members of the Planning Board have also said they need more community input for the creation of a comprehensive master plan.

Marotti said he will meet formally with that group soon.

Talks resume

Public Safety Department contract negotiations stalled since early this year were scheduled to resume yesterday, the Times/News has learned.

According to various officials at Town Hall, representatives of both PBA Local 28 and FMBA Local 29 were to meet with four Belleville Commissioners in Town Hall to discuss terms of their 1975 contracts. Both police and firemen have been working without a contract since the beginning of this year.

The discussions, which will include talk on the first written contracts, follow several months of public PBA complaints that Belleville's Commissioners have refused, up to now, to bargain or even meet with PBA and FMBA bargainers. Despite an unfair labor practice charge lodged by the PBA against the Town, however, the Public Employee Relations Commission (PERC) has not acted and was not expected to intervene yesterday. PERC earlier this year had notified the PBA that its complaint was improperly filed.

Contacted Tuesday, new Public Safety Director Rocco Saletta said he was hopeful negotiations would proceed from now on "in good faith." Though unprepared to say how much, Saletta said he believed police and firemen were entitled to raises.

"They're the only group not to have received a raise this year," said the new Commissioner. "Certainly they should have something." As Public Safety Director, said Saletta, "I think it's my obligation to see that they're treated fairly." Belleville's policemen, say PBA spokesmen, are the lowest paid law enforcers in the county. They are seeking parity with the police forces of surrounding towns.

Mayor Michael Marotti, interviewed Tuesday, said he advocates establishing a written contract. "Whatever it is," he said, "it should be in black and white." The Commissioners have made "no

Roche gives land to Clara Maass

Clara Maass Hospital officials have announced that they will construct a professional building and additional parking areas on four acres of land donated to the hospital by Hoffmann-LaRoche.

The four acre tract is part of the property purchased by Roche from the Andrew-Jergens Company earlier this year. The land is valued at approximately $36,000.

Robert B. Clark, president and chief executive officer of Roche, presented William R. Harris, president of the Board of Trustees of the hospital, with the deed to the property at a ceremony held Friday on the donated site. The Nutley based pharmaceutical firm deeded the land to Clara Maass for $1.

Hospital officials say they will use the land for office facilities for approximately 90 physicians and a parking area for the new building. Hospital officials said that in constructing the building, "the hospital is following a tradition of keeping abreast of the medical needs of the community."

Roche president Clark said, during the ceremonies, that his company will use the remainder of the 23.4 acre property as a manufacturing facility for the company's Diagnostics Division. The plant will employ about 120 people and will Land grant — Robert B. Clark, left, president of Hoffmann-La Roche, hands over the deed for four acres of Roche land to William R. Harris, president of the Clara Maass Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees. The land will be used for a new professional building, shown in the shaded area of the site plan below. Congressman Joseph Minish was also present for the ceremony.

Jury duty: difficult but rewarding

(The following is the second and final installment of Times/News reporter Chuck Jackson's inside look at jury duty. — Ed.)

The time involved in the selection of a jury can vary greatly from case to case. When I was selected for my first case, a civil suit, the selection of the jury took about an hour. The next case I was called for was a criminal proceeding, and surprisingly, it took less than a half hour for the full jury and two alternates to be picked.

After the 14 names were drawn (mine was number two) the prosecuting attorney a list of those people he would be calling as witnesses. The defense attorney then stated that he would call only one witness, and stated the man's name.

The judge, Judge Julius Feinberg, then asked the jurors in the box if they knew either of the lawyers, the defendant, or any of the witnesses.

Part of my job at the Times/News is covering the police and court beat, and I have worked on stories that required me to call the Newark Police Department and the prosecutor's office.

One of the witnesses called was a Newark detective that I had spoken to several times on the telephone regarding another case. So, when the judge asked the jurors if we knew any of the witnesses, I raised my hand and told him that I was a reporter and that I had spoken to this particular detective several times. The judge then asked if the fact that I knew the witness would influence me in any way. I answered that I didn't believe it would, and the judge accepted my answer.

During Judge Feinberg's questioning of the jury, the defense attorney requested that the judge ask us if any of us had any preconceived ideas about psychiatrists or pleas of insanity in a criminal case. The judge did, and none of the jurors admitted any feelings either way.

After questioning, the judge asked us to state our names, occupations, marital status, and the occupations of our spouses. The attorneys were then allowed to excuse any jurors they chose.

I was really surprised when neither the defense nor the prosecuting attorney excused me. I remained seated on the case.

A number of jurors were excused, though, including one woman who said she knew one of the prosecution witnesses and wasn't sure whether or not she would be prejudiced. In this instance, she was excused by the judge.

We're changing our look again

The Belleville Times/News will continue its modernization program begun last October when the newspaper adopts a streamlined six-column format for editorial content, a nine-column per page format for display advertising. The change is scheduled to take place July 3.

Frank A. Orechio, publisher, says the Times/News is adopting the new style after considerable research in the field. The Chicago Tribune will be changing to the new format on July 1 and several other large newspapers including the Miami Herald and Los Angeles Times have already made the change.

Researchers have found that the wider six-column-per-page for editorial content results in a more attractive, easier-to-read newspaper. Advertisers benefit because research

Ex-Belleville educator will be honored soon

Paul W. Jones, a former teacher and elementary principal in Belleville, will be honored at a retirement dinner on Friday, June 13.

Jones spent 25 years in the Belleville school system before accepting the position of Superintendent of Schools of North Arlington in 1961.

The North Arlington Board of Education is sponsoring the affair and cordially invites any of his many Belleville friends who wish to join them in this gala affair.

It will be held at the Casino-in-the-Park restaurant in Jersey City, and tickets may be purchased by writing to the Board of Education, 222 Ridge Road, North Arlington, N.J. 07032, attention Philip Spanola.

Tickets are $17.50 and include a cocktail hour and dinner.

Summer music program is now taking students

The Belleville Board of Education has again approved of having a Summer Music Program. Tuition this year will be $15. Any Belleville student is eligible to attend. Classes and lessons will be geared to meet the needs of the students attending.

The music school will operate for five weeks, from Monday, June 23 through Friday, July 25. Classes will meet daily between 8:30 a.m. and 12 noon at School Seven, located on the corner of Jorammon Street and Passaic Avenue.

Instructions will be given in the fundamentals of music, beginning wind instruments and strings, intermediate band, advanced band, intermediate strings, advanced strings, orchestra, dance band, high school band and marching band.

There will be an assembly program scheduled every Friday from 11 a.m. to 12 noon in the all purpose room at School Seven. Parents and interested persons are invited to attend.

Memorial services held at School One

School One held its traditional Memorial Day services last Friday with several Belleville dignitaries in attendance.

The ceremony, which took place on Cortlandt Street, which was especially blocked off for the occasion, began with the flag salute, led by Todd Talmadge, a fifth grader at the school.

Following the salute were speeches by Town Commissioner Rocco Saletta; Assistant Superintendent of Schools, Seymour Grossman; District Scout Executive, Marcel Cinquina and Commander D'Orto of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Reverend Joseph J. Cestaro of St. Anthony's Church gave the invocation, which was followed by original poems and essays depicting the many ways to celebrate Memorial Day.

Students, who read their original works were all fifth graders, and included Karen Smith, Robert May, Nancy Stahl and Anthony Henle.

School Eight PTA installs new slate

School Eight held its last P.T.A. meeting Thursday, May 22, at which time officers for the 1975-76 school year were installed.

Mrs. Lillian Norton was elected president for the new year; Mrs. Dolores Dill, first vice president; Mrs. Lois Conklin, second vice president; Mr. Nicholas Petti, honorary vice president; Mrs. Addie Cetruolo, recording secretary; Mrs. Marie Kimble, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Pat Concato, treasurer.

The candlelight installation ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Jean Broo, school secretary, who also presented corsages to the new appointees.

Following the installation, students of the school, presented a talent show, under the direction of 6th grade teacher, Mrs. Arthur.

Future plans, before School Eight's summer closing, call for a Father's Day sale on Friday, June 13.

The sale, under the chairmanships of Mrs. Dolores Lyach and Marianne Cahill, will feature three items; a ball point pen, doubling as a letter opener, a bill fold-type memo pad, and handkerchiefs.

Ruthe bats
$285.50
on pick 140

A car, bearing license plate "140" was responsible for a Belleville man being $285.50 richer.

Donald Ruthe, like many others, took part in the new lottery pick-it numbers game, but unlike the many losers, Ruthe was a winner, and he attributed his winning to the fact that he kept seeing a car with the same license plate almost everywhere he went.

While driving to the Parkway Ruthe claims that he saw the "140" plate; he noticed it in front of his car a while later on the Parkway; he was one car behind the lucky number when he went to pay his toll, and the same "140" was again right ahead of him when he got off the Parkway.

He played a hunch and picked the "straight combination 1-4-0" when he placed his bet at Jack Haskell's Sweet Shoppe in Nutley.

When asked what he is going to do with his winnings, Ruthe, who has a wife, Doris, and three children, Karen, Scott, and Kelly, said that the money was going towards his eldest daughter's school tuition. He was quick to point out that his daughter, Karen, attends Catholic schools which don't benefit at all by the lottery monies.

Karen is due to start Queen of Peace High School in North Arlington beginning in September.

As for the Nutley Sweet Shoppe, at 399 Franklin Avenue, things haven't gone too well there since the inception of the new numbers game. Thursday, the first day of the new operation, something went wrong with the computerized machines, and a day later, Haskell still was not able to validate winning tickets automatically to make payoffs. Calling the Lottery Commission was also not successful, as all Haskell got was a series of busy signals.

Susan Narucki wins scholarship

A senior at Belleville High School has been awarded this year's Syracuse University Essex County scholarship by the University's Essex County Alumni Representative Committee.

The award winner, Susan M. Narucki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Narucki of 423 Jorammon Street., will use the scholarship to begin her studies this fall in SU's College of Arts and Sciences. She intends to enroll in a dual program between the College of Arts and Sciences and the University's S.I. Newhouse

School of Public Communications.

Every year each of Syracuse University's alumni representative committees, located in various areas of the United States, interview outstanding applicants to the University from their areas. The most promising applicants are recommended for committee scholarships but out of the hundreds who qualify only 30 candidates — like Miss Narucki — win the four-year awards.

Miss Narucki, 18, said she became interested in Syracuse University "because of the frequent mention of its communications program in Popular Photography magazine." She is interested in "communications by means of the film media in any and every aspect." Through a dual-enrollment program between SU's College of Arts and Sciences and the Newhouse School, she may work in both academic and professional curricula, including filmmaking.

At Belleville High School Miss Narucki has been a member of the band cabinet for two years.

PLAY REVIEW

'Miracle Worker' worth seeing but unseen

By CHUCK JACKSON

The Family Playhouse opened their production of "The Miracle Worker" last week, in another attempt to break away from musicals and comedies and present the people of Belleville and Nutley with drama. The actors were willing, but the people apparently were not.

"The Miracle Worker," as many of you probably know, is the story of Helen Keller, a blind, deaf, and speechless child, and the struggle to get her to communicate. Even though the plot line is known, the play is still moving, entertaining, and worth going to see.

Helen, played by Joan Scheckel, does not have one line of dialogue throughout the entire play. The fact that the role is non-verbal makes it truly challenging for the actor and probably one of the most difficult roles to perform. Miss Scheckel did an excellent job of portraying the afflicted child, displaying a wide range of emotions with only facial expressions and hand gestures.

Annie Sullivan, Helen's teacher, is the miracle worker. Annie, played by Betty Ann Majewski eventually draws Helen out of her shell, with a combination of strict discipline and deep love.

Annie Sullivan, though young, is a strong-willed woman, hardened by an early life in an asylum for the infirmed and mentally ill. Miss Majewski does a fairly good job in the part, though she is not always convincing as the tough woman of the world with a heart of gold. She has, at times, difficulty making one believe she is a strict disciplinarian, but perhaps the ambivalence of Annie's personality requires the thin veneer to crack at times.

Helen's parents, Colonel and Kate Keller, played by Alexander Oleksij and Susan Malizia, are on an emotional see-saw throughout the play. The Colonel is moved by his daughter's plight, but hides his emotions with a blustery exterior, while his wife frequently breaks down into tears.

Oleksij and Miss Malizia are excellent in their performances. Neither emotes or overplays the roles and both turn in well balanced and moving performances.

While not entirely convincing, John Itrocasa is adequate in the role of James, Helen's half-brother. His performance is unsteady, but on the whole, good.

Director Ray Napolitano deserves a lot of credit for the performances. He obviously maintained complete control over his cast, molding their portrayals into the smooth performance that was presented.

There were some soft spots in the overall solid production. Annie's physical battle with Helen while trying to get the child to sit down and eat seemed to be a little drawn out, and perhaps could have been shortened to heighten the dramatic effect. As it was, it was tiring and seemed largely a showcase for the pain thresholds of the actors. Because this is probably the most talked about scene in the play, there is a tendency to milk it for all it's worth. Unfortunately, director Napolitano apparently succumbed to this temptation.

Technically, the Family Playhouse is still having it's problems. Set changes seemed to take forever and were accompanied by a great deal of noise as props were shuffled around. The construction of the main set, the Keller dining room and an upstairs bedroom, also caused some problems. The set was raised on what appeared to be a plywood platform, and footsteps pounded like hoofbeats whenever anyone walked across the stage.

Lighting in the theater, actually an old church, was undramatic and the one or two lighting cues that were blown did little to add to the performance.

Acoustically, the theater is a horror. Certain parts involved in the Family Playhouse obviously put a lot of work into this show, and it has paid off in a wonderful production. The question remains, however, if it will pay off financially.

The audience on opening night was small, and it seemed to be made up largely of relatives and friends of the actors. While musical productions seem to draw consistently high turnouts, the reverse seems to be true of dramas. Why this is so is difficult to determine. Perhaps the people in this area feel they can get all the drama they want at home in front of their televisions and will go to the theater only for musicals. If this is the case, they are making a sad mistake in not going to see "The Miracle Worker." This is a live drama that is a pure joy to watch.

The Family Playhouse will present the play again tomorrow and Saturday at 8 p.m. at 28 Brookline Avenue, Nutley, their headquarters. Tickets are $3 and can be purchased at the door or reserved by calling Joan Ciarletta at 667-4471.

Juan Toscano is elected

Juan Toscano, 686 Belleville Avenue, an office manager for Diamond Shamrock Corp., has been elected President of the Essex County Chapter of the National Association of Accountants for 1975-76.

The chapter, which has over four hundred members in the accounting profession throughout this area, sponsors a series of technical programs. Toscano, who holds degrees from Rutgers University as well as the Professional School of Commerce in Spain, was at one time a vice-president of NAA, having held a number of directors' posts in that organization.

One hello, good-bye

Belleville's School One bid a welcome to one group and a farewell to another, both on the same day.

On May 15 new officers were elected to serve on the P.T.A. Board, and also the same day, sixth graders, paying their final tribute to the school, put on a special farewell program under the direction of Mrs. Judy Miller, a sixth grade teacher at the school.

Steven Minieri, 6A and Morris Thomas, 6B, delivered speeches recounting their years as students at School One, and a poem, written in part, by each member of the 6th grade class, was recited on the stage. The program was concluded by the singing of songs, under the direction of the school's music teacher, Wendell Parr.

The new P.T.A. officers are President, Richard Dreyer; Vice President, Mrs. Anna Mae Whitman; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Anne Henle; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Ann Sterlacci and Treasurer, Miss Marylou Mele.

Bike theft draws fine

Two Newark men were fined $200 each, given three month suspended jail sentences and placed on a year's probation in Belleville Municipal Court last week after pleading guilty to the theft of three bicycles.

Luis Andujar, 19, of 74 Summer Avenue and German Pitre, 20 of the same address were arrested May 10 and charged with stealing three bicycles belonging to Terry Conway of Belleville.

The pair, arrested by Belleville Detective William Escott, pleaded guilty to the charges, and Judge Edward J. Abramson imposed the fine and the suspended sentences last Wednesday.

Fraud case sent to jury

The case of a Belleville businessman charged with 36 counts of fraud was referred to the Essex County Grand Jury last Wednesday by Belleville Municipal Court.

Vito J. Barbetta, 48, of Cedar Grove, owner of the bankrupt Barbetta Real Estate Agency, 40 Washington Avenue, was arrested May 1 on charges that he forged an associates signature on $5,000 worth of checks from 1971 to 1974.

Charges were filed by Michael Galasso, now owner of the Metro Real Estate Agency, 224 Washington Avenue. Barbetta is charged with forging Galasso's name to checks made out to both men, and then depositing the money into his bank account. Galasso claims that half the $5,000 was his, but that he received nothing.

Barbetta's agency was declared bankrupt on March 12 of this year by Federal Court Judge Vincent J. Commisa.

Municipal Court Judge referred the case to the Essex County Grand Jury for action. The Municipal Court proceedings took place May 28.

A Roche tradition

Last week, Nutley's greatest benefactor, Hoffmann-La Roche Inc., gave four acres of valuable land to Clara Maass Memorial Hospital. The donation was made from a tract which Hoffmann-La Roche recently purchased from the Andrew Jergens Company.

Giving is in the Hoffmann-La Roche tradition. The Company officers have hearts as large as the company itself — and it is to be remembered that Hoffmann-La Roche is the world's foremost drug manufacturer.

The Clara Maass management plans to use the four acres of land for a professional building and off-street parking areas. The building is expected to attract a wide range of medical specialists and will house approximately ninety physicians. It will be a tax-paying facility — we are certain the Belleville tax assessor appreciates this point.

Mr. Robert B. Clark, Roche President and Chief Executive Officer, presented the deed to Mr. William R. Harris, Board of Trustees President of Clara Maass.

We congratulate Mr. Clark for having the thoughtfulness to present Clara Maass with this very useful and priceless gift. Most hospitals are operating on a shoestring — and Clara Maass is no exception. Its Board of Trustees expressed deep appreciation for the generosity displayed by Hoffmann-La Roche.

It isn't too often that four valuable acres of land are given away — and so it's necessary to take public notice of this unusual event. The only thing that is not unusual is that the donor was Hoffmann-La Roche.

Jobs and crime

Guest editorial from the Newark Star-Ledger

The latest crime statistics—a 14.6 per cent increase in New Jersey in the first nine months last year, slightly lower in more than the traditional social context.

There appears to be little doubt among those with expertise in the field that there is a direct link with the low state of the economy. It is evident in the sharp rises recorded in two categories—breaking and entering and larceny theft, the latter showing the largest increase at 27.1 per cent.

Since these crimes involve taking of property, it becomes immediately apparent that hard times have become a highly disturbing causative factor in the latest crime trends.

The link between crime and unemployment is graphically documented by statistics: Crime increases were sharpest in the last three months of 1974, when the recession was picking up momentum with and large-scale layoffs and business failures.

It is a pattern similar in some respects to larcenies and burglaries in the past decade that were related to the widespread incidence of hard drugs. In those cases, criminal actions were triggered by the need to support expensive addictive habits. The difference now is that the need has shifted to economic factors, which does not, of course, lessen the criminality of the act.

If there is any heartening aspect in the new statistics (and one must grasp for straws in these dismal compilations of crime trends), it could be in the sharp drop in homicides, a 22.8 per cent decrease in the number of murders in this state. Unfortunately, there was only a slight decrease in the commission of violent crimes, a fall off of three per cent. While urban areas are still afflicted with relatively high crime rates, there is a continuing mobility toward rural counties...a movement that appears to be extending considerably beyond the infiltration of criminal elements into suburban communities that took place in the last decade.

These findings strongly suggest that major crimes have become a matter of universal concern; the prevalence of these depredations has become widespread in a geographical sense that they no longer can be viewed in parochial dimension as exclusively an "urban problem." In fact, it has been a long time since this social myth was dissipated by bitter experience, as the latest crime statistics chillingly document.

Our Congress

The 535 elected members of Congress are setting the nation a poor example in fiscal affairs. Researchers have estimated members work only about 150 days a year. (Recesses and Christmas total 115 days; of the remaining 250 days Congress works only about 150!)

What is the public getting, and paying, for this prestigious and well-paying job occupancy? First of all, the 94th Congress is raising members' expense allowances, expanding staffs and staff salaries (by fifteen to nineteen per cent this year), increasing the budget for operating Congress by about $140,000,000 this year and both houses are planning new office buildings to house this new staff and provide more luxurious quarters for members-at a cost of over $100,000,000 each!

In addition, Congress is preparing to spend over thirty billions more than the nation collects this fiscal year, and perhaps fifty billions more in the 1976 fiscal year.

Economy obviously must begin in Congress and include the federal bureaucracy if it is to make any impact in government. But the people of America now see (and must pay for) record military salaries — voted by Congress, record civilian salaries and automatic raises and benefits enacted — by Congress, and record congressional spending, all steadily increasing. It's a poor fiscal record and somehow Congress must be forced to tighten the fiscal reins by the American taxpayer.

Golden Comments

By James R. Golden

The natural let-down from the exciting activity of the local municipal election which reached into our homes (since it involved candidates of our personal acquaintance) generated a sort of bathos that permits us to not only analytically examine the results of that stimulating campaign which now will be chronicled in the long turbulent history of Belleville politics but, since we may now return to the routine of normal everyday life and resign ourselves to the acceptance of the mandate of the voters as expressed at the polls in the customary democratic fashion, we are permitted to observe what clouds of impending political storms seem to be forming in the skies of national politics.

While the scene changes from the polluted Passaic to the perturbed Potomac, the basics remain the same. . . the struggle for power and glory in guiding the destinies of the masses. President Ford and the GOP may be confronted with a fight for the second spot on the 1976 presidential ticket. A battle looms between the forces backing Former California Governor Reagan and Vice-President Rockefeller.

The confrontation presently is viewed by White House advisers as a split between the Republican conservative right wing of the Party and Rockefeller's right to a spot on the Presidential ticket. They expect a pitched battle over the Vice-Presidential spot on the ticket, while indicating trouble for "Rocky", to have little, if any, affect upon or direct challenge to Ford's nomination.

The fact that a scrap for the Vice-Presidency is being mentioned is, indeed, a significant turn in that it leaves the President's top planners optimistic that Ford can get the White House nomination without a serious challenge by Reagan. . . something they would welcome.

Militant conservatives are unhappy over Ford's choice of Rockefeller for Vice-President and are determined to have a voice on the 1976 ticket. They feel they can use their assured convention strength against "Rocky" and in favor of Reagan if he would indicate his interest in the second spot.

Ford's authority, as presidential nominee, to pick his own running mate, would face a serious challenge should any Reagan-led move to strike Rockefeller from the ticket materialize since, as of now, the President has shown no inclination to drop "Rocky" or to throw the vice-presidential selection to an "open convention".

Even should he stand up for Rockefeller, however, the President must recognize the clout of Republican conservatives within the party and how important their support will be for his election chances in November next year. To secure it, he may be compelled to pay the price of tolerating a "Dump Rockefeller" drive when he reflects the political realities besetting his position.

Dean Burch, a long-time Goldwater ally and former GOP National Chairman, who agreed to head a special team of top Republicans to plan the outline of Ford's campaign for a full term in the big white house on Pennsylvania Avenue, will be the man to find the answer to the growing perplexities that the portentous dark clouds hovering over Washington seem to offer.

Reports indicate Gov. Byrne wants to name State Senator Stephen B. Wiley (D-Morris) to the State Supreme Court to fill a vacancy there. Last year the Senator voted "yes" to increase judges' pay. The State Constitution says a legislator can't be given a state civil job if the salary for that job was increased during the legislator's term.

Gov. Byrne now says Wiley's "yes" vote poses no legal obstacle to his appointment to the high bench. Byrne, without explaining where the "opinions" come from, said he received "opinions" that the appointment to the bench of someone in a position such as Wiley's would be legal, if the appointee refused the salary increase approved while a legislator.

Legislators 'let seniors down'

To the Editor:

Sixteen months have elapsed since the state's legislators have taken office. During that time, out of 81 Senior Citizens bills pending in the legislature, only one bill introduced by Assemblyman Gody, elevating the State Office on Aging to divisional status, has been enacted into law.

The legislators so far have bypassed a meaningful reduction in the property tax and relief to the renters, which is sorely needed to relieve the burden of both.

Now the legislators are contemplating enacting into law nuisance taxes which will bear most heavily upon the low income segment of our society and the fixed income of the senior citizens.

At a meeting held by the Essex County Council of Senior Citizens Clubs, May 19, our organization went on record as absolutely and unqualifiedly being opposed to the nuisance tax. The New Jersey Council of Senior Citizens, representing 250,000 senior citizens, has also gone on record as being opposed to the nuisance tax. Undoubtedly the balance of the 90,000 senior citizens of our state are also against the tax.

In view of the above stated facts, the Essex County council of Senior Citizens Clubs, being represented by delegates from 53 clubs, numbering 40,000 senior citizens, and no doubt the 900,000 senior citizens throughout the state, are very much disappointed with the record so far chalked up by the legislators.

Let us hope that the legislators will pass some meaningful legislation in our behalf, so that we can spend the balance of our lives with peace of mind and with dignity.

Slurs bring shame to 'the melting pot'

To the Editor:

Thank you for your editorial "Get out, nigger."

It's good to know that there is someone, from another ethnic group, who can remember that at some time or other all of us in that category have been targets of discrimination and ethnic slurs.

This is the sort of thing that brings shame to this beautiful country that is a melting pot of all races, colors and cultures.

Let's we forget.

The primary: a ho hum affair

By PAUL STERN

As might have been expected, by the time the beer was gone in Town Hall Tuesday night, the Democrats had elected Democrats and the Republicans had elected Republicans.

"What a waste of taxpayers' money," Town Democratic chairman Mary Senatore had commented earlier during the primary voting. "It's sooo quiet." Indeed, the 90 percent of Bellevilles registered voters who didn't vote didn't miss much action. After the recent Commission election, Belleville's Demo district fight between George Mitchell, 149 Academy Street, and Robert Conway, 85 Van Houten Place, resolved itself in Mitchell's favor, 60 to 53.

In the 30th District races on the Demo side, Michael Aduato (with 865 local votes) and John Cali (791), both Demo heavies, gave the steamroller treatment to challengers Ralph Villani (88) and Michael Giordano (93). Aduato and Cali will be defending their seats in the General Assembly.

Nicholas Caputo, County Clerk,

gathered more votes in Belleville than any other candidate— 915— skimming past challenger Constance Gilbert, who took 85 votes.

Philip Rotondo, unopposed Demo County Supervisor choice, gathered 856 of the 1,187 local Democratic votes cast.

In the five-way race for Demo Freeholder choice, party-backed incumbents Donald Payne (778), Harry McEnroe Jr. (784) and Samuel Angelo (870) put down Barry Swift (76) and Thomas Orr (79).

Considering there were no choices on the Republican slate, it is perhaps mildly incredible that the GOP mustered 451 votes. That's if you call them votes.

Frederick Dunne and Daniel Russo were automatically given the 30th District nod (339 and 358 respectively in Belleville) for the Assembly race, and Michael Giuliano (367 local votes) outstripped his competition —none— for the GOP County Clerk slot. John Donato repeated Giuliano's performance in the County Supervisor un-race with 348 votes.

Peter P. Repetti, Victor Palmer and Harry Romeo cleared the imaginary hurdle with 351, 344 and 36 votes, respectively.

The only real race, locally, was in Ward 11 district three between Patricia Cavallo, 55 Essex Street, and Josephine Jacobelli, 11 Division Avenue. Patricia won it, 30 to 15. Last time around, Josephine was declared a winner in that district when she cast one write-in vote for herself.

GOP district four in Ward 11 remained empty, and town GOP chairman Gerard Ferrara will have to appoint someone to the post— assuming he can find someone who'll take it.

Beneath the thin veneer of apparent Republican inactivity, however, lies an even greater wasteland of vague resentment and helplessness.

From what I understand, Belleville GOPs are not enthusiastic about continuing in the present vein in vain, and so there are rumblings of a county-wide shake up of the party organization.

Frederick Remington, county Republican chairman, may receive a challenge from Robert Sarcone, say several knowledgeable political observers.

Senator Case Reports

The end of the Vietnam drama

By Senator Clifford P. Case

The Senate recently passed legislation to enable the President to withdraw Americans and other foreign nations from South Vietnam. It was one of the last legislative acts in a long drama.

In the years after World War II our protective stance and later our presence was important in maintaining stability in that part of the world, for the stability provided by the old power structure in the area was gone. Had we not done this consequences, we can hardly foresee or even imagine now might have followed. Chinese and Russian expansionism in the area — in Indochina, the Philippines, Korea, Indonesia and elsewhere posed a threat. Failure to check those advances might well have made for a more hostile and threatening Soviet Union and Peoples Republic of China. It could have led to a new fascist and militarist Japan filling the vacuum.

VIETNAM was part of that pattern. In more recent years it became clearer that the struggle was more between the Vietnamese themselves than between the Great Powers. I do not believe we were engaged in a wrong kind of action although I do believe we should have terminated our action considerably sooner.

When we went into Vietnam we did not go in there to conquer people. We went there to help stabilize the area. The American people need not hang their heads in shame. No one who lost dear ones in that conflict should feel those lives were lost in vain. I think that if we come to that realization it may be easier for this country to continue in a sound direction after the very great disappointments we have suffered in Vietnam, without going through a bitter period of recrimination.

I think it is important to say this now because we will be told that if we had given billions of dollars South Vietnam might have survived. But in reality there was an inevitability about what has happened that no change in our policy or amount of money could have affected significantly.

Nor would a greater American military intervention in the years past have been decisive for South Vietnam. As we were warned at that time, a bigger war might well have invited direct intervention by China and the Soviet Union. Military victory was ruled out by the exigencies of the situation and location of the battlefield.

SO WE COME TO a period of termination. Our greatest hope is that it will not result in what some of us have feared — the kind of bloodshed and orgy of destruction that has been held out as inevitable as a result of the termination of American assistance.

But the Senate bill did provide for the evacuation of Vietnamese citizens through peaceful means and stressed that any large evacuation could only result by agreement between the parties to the conflict. That is the sum of the legislation.

We have seen what a never-ending process the effort to run another country by military force is. And I think we have learned that it is not possible without losses that are unacceptable from our standpoint and losses that are unacceptable from the standpoint of the people whom we are trying to help.

Rev. Long: pastor, historian

As the nation's bicentennial year draws nearer, work on plans for celebrations, events, and meaningful happenings around the country are approaching a fevered pitch. It seems as though every community in existence has something special in store for 1976.

Belleville is no different and the Belleville Bicentennial Committee is hard at work formulating plans to make the nation's 200th birthday something special to Bellevilleites. Heading up the committee as chairman and supplying some of the guidance is the Reverend Frederick Long, a man well grounded in history.

Rev. Long 52, is the pastor of Christ Episcopal Church of the bicentennial group about a year and a half ago and he and his committee members have been plugging away, working quietly, but ever so efficiently.

A resident of Belleville for 16 years, Long brings to the post a love of history necessary for such a chore, and an educational background that makes him more than qualified for the position. Born in Cedar Grove, Long attended Upsala College, graduating in 1947 with a degree in history. He went on to attend Drew Theological Seminary, graduating from that institution in 1950. He also did graduate work at the General Theological Seminary in New York at Columbia University in Communications. In addition to all that, he received an honorary doctorate from Westmar College in Iowa.

Along with his full ministerial duties, Long is thoroughly involved in mass communications, working on such radio shows as "In the Public Interest," and "Inner Dimension." His work on "In the Public Interest" has earned Long and the show high praise, including awards from the Council on Family Health and the Council of Christians and Jews. Long was also the recipient of a Freedoms Foundation Award for a sermon he wrote, "Ten Cents A Share" about the writing of the Pledge of Allegiance.

Despite all the work he already had, Long was happy to take on the extra duties as chairman of the Belleville Bicentennial Committee. Perhaps because he gets so much enjoyment out of history, he wants to share it with others, and to Long, this means on a personal level.

"The study of history has aided me in my ministry, and it has also given me a great feel for the people of this country. What we would like to do on the bicentennial committee is bring that kind of feeling to the people of Belleville. This town has a fascinating past, and we hope to make everybody aware and proud of it."

Long and his fellow bicentennial workers are striving to achieve their goal in various ways. They intend to present the official Bicentennial flag to each school in town and to obtain one for each official building.

Long seems to feel that it is especially important to bring the history home to the children of Belleville, and for that matter to children throughout the country.

"We would like to reach the children and make the celebration meaningful to them because they are the most important people. Though it is important to people of generation, we have to remember that if we don't communicate to the children all the good in this country, its basic strength and ability to overcome setbacks, there may be a tricentennial to celebrate.

Long lives at 393 Washington Avenue with his wife, Virginia. The Longs have seven children, Susan, 25; Laurie, 24; Linda, 22; Kim, 21; Christopher, 19; Paul, 13 and Leigh Anne, 10.

Hancox sewers give up the ghost

By JODI MASSONE

One year ago

Things were getting corroded in Belleville, and most of the things were pipes.

Just a little over a year after major repairs were made in the same area, costing both Nutley and Belleville $5-5,000, another sewer line in the area of Washington Avenue and Hancox Avenue was found to be corroded.

One thousand family units were affected as crews responded with 24 hour pumps to keep basements dry for a week while 150 feet of 12 inch pipe was replaced.

The sewer line on Hancox Avenue is owned by Nutley, but Belleville pays half of all its maintenance bills.

There were no motion pictures being shown in town, but there was still a theater. Soon there would be no more theater, and not even a reminder. Even the marquee was soon to go.

The fate of the abandoned and dilapidated Capitol Theater at 360 Washington Avenue was decided the previous Tuesday night when the Board of Commissioners voted 3-1 to grant Bloomfield developed Frank Leo a variance to tear down the old theater and erect a 23 unit, three-story apartment building in its place.

The senior citizen bus routes went into effect. The 24 passenger International vehicle was to start at Belmont Avenue and Lawrence Street in the Silver Lake section of town at 9:01 a.m. It would circle Silver Lake, run down Belleville Avenue, along William Street, across Washington to Cortlandt, through the Valley section, then to Washington Avenue. It was to be run back and forth through the route twice each day; it was to take one hour and fifteen minutes each time, and it was to touch all major business and service areas in town.

Cap and gown time was here. Belleville High School was to hold its 77th annual commencement, with 410 students to be graduated. The ceremony was held at the Belleville Municipal Stadium.

Five years ago

The town of Belleville and the Andrew Jergens Company were heading toward a courtroom confrontation which was to decide whether a large municipal complex could be constructed on land adjacent to the cosmetic plant on Franklin Avenue. Jergens wanted to keep the land empty as a "buffer zone," while the town was considering building a diversified municipal complex.

Vincent T. Strumolo was beginning to rally supporters in his quest for the Essex County Clerk's spot.

Primary elections resulted in Strumolo's out-distancing all other vote getters with the exception of incumbent Sheriff Ralph D'Ambola, who acquired 28 more votes.

The Town Commission said it would discontinue its appeal proceedings in Trenton in which it was contesting a $128,000 restoration to the Belleville School Board's budget last year by Carl Marburger, state education director.

Robert Palma, 24, a young Newark State College graduate, was named by the Belleville Board of Education, as new coach of the Belleville High School basketball team.

Ten years ago

Mrs. Norma McCool, member of the Board of Education, demanded a retraction from Board President Ernest S. Arvidson on a statement issued the previous week in which he charged that she had relieved Schools Superintendent Dr. Frank M. Durkee from holding special meetings following each meeting of the Board.

Mrs. McCool, who had opposed the majority for the past several years, also charged Arvidson with 18 misstatements of facts and challenged Arvidson and other members of the majority to a public debate on school issues.

Everyone in Belleville would be getting mail soon—EVERYONE! The tax bills for the full year were dropped in the mail the previous Tuesday by Town Treasurer Francis McCoy, right on time.

Bellevillites were representing their chapter at the annual State Jaycee Convention held the previous week in Asbury Park.

They were Bob Kittle, president; Hank Wozniak, Keith McEligot, Emit Brower, Harry Breckenridge, and Dave Haight.

I hope there weren't too many fires during the first week of June in 1965. Fire department drivers, practicing handling new equipment, suffered through a break-down of their new 85-foot aerial ladder, during a trial run.

Superintendent of Schools, Frank M. Durkee, who was relieved of his duties with full pay, a week before, made an appeal to State Commissioner of Education Frederick M. Raubinger for reinstatement.

Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors Corporation announced the appointment of Allen Pontiac, Inc., Washington Avenue, as factory authorized Pontiac-Tempest dealer. Norman Allen, president of Allen Pontiac, was an experienced automotive dealer, who was formerly the sales manager of Maple Buick, Inc., in South Orange.

Eleven years ago

Ralph Risoli sued the town for $2,980.50. The Director of the Town's Department of Health and Welfare, through his attorneys, filed suit in the above amount, claiming that the town did not pay him for services rendered as Town Registrar.

Twenty-Five years ago

A pilot plan for the erection of 85 one family homes by the Wilton Housing Corporation of New York City on the land purchased from the Volkennig estate south Riviera Roller Rink on Washington Avenue was approved by the Board of Commissioners.

Forty-one years ago

Belleville Mayor Williams was presented with a brand new automobile by his grateful constituents for his many years of dedication and hard work. The car was presented to him at a testimonial dinner at the Club Evergreen. Attending the affair were 800 people.

Smallpox was going around. Health officer Eugene Berry recommended that children be forced to undergo compulsory smallpox vaccinations to stem the tide of the near epidemic of the disease.

Forty-five years ago

Without even a vote, the Board of Education gave its approval on a resolution offered by Mrs. Judson K. Stickle recommending simplicity of dress to firl graduates of Belleville High School.

Nothing could be simpler than today's graduation dress — Blue jeans under a long robe!

Band parents can be proud

To the Editor:

This letter is to inform the parents of the students in the Belleville High School band that they can be proud of the performance their children gave in Disney World.

We were fortunate to make the trip with the band and we were very proud to see how well behaved they were on the train down, at the Hyatt Hotel, in Disney World and coming home.

The day they marched, the temperature was 90 degrees and they were pretty hot in their uniforms, but there weren't any complaints and we parents that were there felt very proud.

The town of Belleville can certainly be proud of all the band, twirlers, color guard and flag wavers.

Special thanks to Mr. Frank Scelba and Mr. Robert Wing for making all the arrangements, and to all the students who worked so hard to make the trip to Disney World possible.

Albert's right!

To the Editor:

I strongly agree with some of Mr. Albert Guglicelli's views and opinions.

All Town employees, including politicians, who have good incomes should donate some of their salaries to help where it is most needed. For example, in New York City good people work without pay for a week or so to help stricken hospitals, also the city budget, thus saving their own jobs.

Even firemen and policemen take a cut in salary, rather than lose their jobs.

It is the poor people on fixed incomes who are suffering the most.

Now this revaluation and assessing their homes is most frightening. The property taxes in Belleville are high as can be in these hard times!

The single unemployed citizen widow like myself is the hardest hit! So I say again, get it from the ones who have good jobs and salaries. Income tax??

The School Board didn't help very much. They could have cut the busing system of $14,000 and also the driver's education program.

Students' committee expresses gratitude

(The following letter was addressed to Board of Education president Richard Mahmarian. A copy was submitted by the writers for publication in the Times/News.—Ed.)

Dear Mr. Mahmarian:

The students of Belleville High School would like to thank you and the other members of the Board of Education for putting behind-the-wheel driving back in the high school program.

We feel that your decision was a wise one and we will do our utmost to justify your trust in us by trying to practice the safe driving habits which we will learn in our training. We are sure that the dividends will be many and will carry through as long as we are "behind the wheel."

Strumolo promises to keep his promise

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity through the media of the press, to thank the voters of Belleville for their vote of confidence on May 13, 1975.

The people of Belleville can be assured that I will keep my only campaign promise: "continued service to all the people in the four years ahead."

Saletta says thanks

To the Editor:

Words alone cannot express my feelings of gratitude for all the fine citizens that worked feverishly for my successful candidacy for commissioner.

Every effort made on my behalf, whether large or small, is sincerely appreciated. Your faith in me will not go unrewarded.

We must now all work together for a better Belleville. Contact me with your problems; I am always available through my office at the Town Hall.

Finding work

By BRIAN WOOD

The graduating classes of all colleges and high schools including Belleville High School, are all faced with one serious problem. That problem is finding a job for which they are qualified.

At the moment this country is in a recession, one which has been termed almost as severe as the memorable one of the 1930's. These graduating students must face this situation and all its disadvantages — disadvantages which can only hinder them in their goal of "making it on their own."

It is because of the national economy that these graduates will have difficulty in getting jobs, and if they do get one, most likely they will be the first to be laid off if layoffs were necessary at their place of occupation. It seems there could be no better time for a student to continue his or her education after graduation.

The high school graduate planning on going to college does not have to worry about getting a full time job for another four years. The college graduate planning on entering professional school or some other form of graduate course also gets a chance to wait a few more years before having to go out looking for a job.

Possibly the job outlook will be better four years from now, but then again, it could be worse. In a way, everyone will be taking his or her chances someday.

Over 42 per cent of the nation's unemployed are under 25 years of age. The unemployment rate for young people aged 20-24 is over 14 per cent and most of them are out of school trying to pursue the jobs they have been trained for and have background on. As a matter of fact, many of these people are going back to school, probably out of fear, fear that they are not educated enough for the jobs in demand, only to find out that after they receive that degree they are no better off than when they started.

That 14 per cent is double the unemployment rate of adults age 25-60. If one thinks this rate is high, think about the minority groups. Unemployment among black teenagers is between 30 and 40 per cent and some authorities say it will double by summer or early fall. It used to be that one needed a good education to get a good job. Now all one needs is a lot of luck.

Reports from the Department of Labor have shown that students from the graduating classes of college, 1972, are still meant an instant opportunity for a good job? Is it still worth investing money in an educational opportunity that has little if no influence in the job market? A college diploma is no longer a symbol of prestige. It is just a receipt for student who wishes to attain "delayed gratification," but there is no such thing if there are no jobs.

'Emanon' is hot off the press

By SUE COWAN

Belleville High School's creative writing magazine, the "Emanon," which was released twice this year, is presently "hot off the press."

The Spring '75 issue is 31 pages long, costs 25 cents, and is divided into poetry and prose sections. The cover is a picture of a distinguished old man, created by Robert Auil.

In the "Emanon," students from all classes, chosen by the creative writing class, display their creativity. For example, Roxanne Bellavia, a senior, created from the song "We've only just begun," her own intense thoughts on beginning. This poetical selection summed up a general senior class outlook on life.

Illustrations also add to the good quality of the Spring "Emanon." Along with her poem on "Wind," Fran Marotto (class of '75) draws bumble bees, which she compares to the whistling of the wind. Along with this, Joe Sutala (class of '76) adds a political cartoon. Another excellent picture out of the enumerable array in the "Emanon" is of a boat at sunrise, done by Greg Iacona (class of '76.)

In the prose section, especially impressive are

"Journey to a Distant Planet" satirizes the flight to the moon by creating a similar flight from Mars to Earth. "A Short Story" profoundly tells of a person drinking too much at a New Year's Eve party, then crashing his car to its destruction to wind up in Hell! The most impressive of all three, "A New Life," tells about the problems a grandparent has in rearing her grandchild after her parents' death.

In essence, this issue of "Emanon" promises entertainment, good reading, and a surplus of creativity.

Mighty wordy

By FRED LARDARO

Did you ever become bored reading a boring chapter of one of your own boring works in which the same word is repeatedly repeated over and over again on your paper? Have the dull repetitiously redundant phrases of life got your down? Are you clichéing your friends to death?

If so, you should pick up an edition of "Roget's Thesaurus."

It was Peter Mark Roget's

excellent idea to develop a writer's tool which would aid in the correct usage of the English language. Roget, of London, England, set out to complete his monumental task of gathering every existing word and phrase in the early 19th century. It was first published in 1852.

Someone once said that the pen is mightier than the sword. Pick up a good dictionary and a "Thesaurus" and fight off the world.

Pat wins $50 in typing test

By JUDY HALBERT

Recently senior Pat Bonkowski was awarded a $50 bond from the Tri-Town Business and Professional Women's Club of Belleville, Bloomfield and Nutley, Inc.

Pat was awarded this prize on the basis of a five minute timed typing test which was corrected according to the international contest rules. Pat's paper was chosen by Mrs. Barbara Mahler out of all typing II and III students, and students taking transcription. All the girls in these two areas were given an opportunity to participate in the event.

Of all the papers submitted to Mrs. Mahler, Pat's was typed in the least amount of time, with the fewest number of mistakes. Belleville High students have participated in this contest for a number of years and have won a number of similar awards.

Pat, considered an excellent student by her teachers, has previously won an award from the Berkeley Secretarial School for having the highest academic average in business courses.

After graduation, Pat plans to put her perfected skills to work as a secretary. Besides her interest in the business world, she is very interested in football and is especially fond of the New York Jets. In her spare time, Pat also enjoys doing needle point.

She was born in Belleville, and attended Belleville public schools. She is a member of the National Honor Society, to which she was elected in her junior year.

OPINION

By REGINA RITACCO

Abortion is still an issue, not to be taken lightly.

Although it is now legal throughout much of the United States, there are attempts being made by various committees to nullify that law.

Among these anti-abortion committees there is one known as the Right to Life Committee.

Their arguments say that no one has the right to take the life of a human being, or, in this case, what will be a human being. They base their arguments on the fact that by the third month of pregnancy, by which time all lawful abortions must take place, the fetus is eating, sleeping, swallowing and feeling pain.

The Right to Life Committee feels there is as much danger in childbirth as there is in abortion. There are over 1,200 hospitals and 160 clinics in the United States which offer abortions.

There were 55 million abortions last year out of 250 million pregnancies. From those 250 million pregnancies there were 125 million live births.

Whether it is inhuman or not, abortions, most likely, will always exist. The question is, should they be legal and sanitary or be as dangerous as they previously were? Somehow there is no completely "right" solution. People may only hope for a completely fool-proof contraceptive. Until then, the questions about the abortion of a fetus remain unsolved.

40's flicks stand time test

The movies of the 1940's were highly influenced by World War II. Not only were there films on actual fighting, but there were films about the people at home and the men returning from the war.

Greer Garson, dealt with a family at home who had a son/brother/husband at the front. People could identify with this movie because they too had relatives in the war. "Sergeant York," starring Gary Cooper, was the story of a man who didn't believe in war but went to fight for his country because it was the thing to do. It was meshed with bravery and heroism, as he captures a whole enemy troop singlehandedly.

Perhaps the best war film made was "The Best Years of Our Lives." It starred Fredric March and was made in 1946 just after the war ended. It told of men returning from the war and trying to pick up their lives where they left off.

The 40's were not all war films. In 1942, "Woman of the Year" teamed Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn for the first time. It was the beginning of one of the greatest movie teams. There would be eight other Tracy-Hepburn films.

Musicals were popular in the 40's. Betty Grable, the GI's favorite pin-up, starred in numerous musicals always with the same plot, backstage romancing. The public liked her, it was a chance to show off her legs and she was the belle of the 1940's.

The best film of the 40's was "The Philadelphia Story." It was made in 1940 and starred Katherine Hepburn, Cary Grant plays her ex-husband and Jimmy Stewart was a reporter who wants to write an expose on her but falls for her. It is the perfect comedy.

The 40's were a memorable era for films. Today some of the films seem to dream-like, others have creaky plots but the good pictures have stood the test of time.

Not many people know what Big Tree is. It's that section of town located at the north eastern end; Carner Avenue and King Street of Belleville, Hancox Avenue and Hunt Place of Nutley. St. Mary's Place and the railroad tracks of Belleville and Nutley form the borders on the east and west side, and of course the Public Service power lines which were Hillside and then Riviera Park are on the south side.

There was a time in the late 1800's and early 1900's when the people of this area boasted about the huge, majestic trees with limbs that extended outward from their trunks. One tree, the big tree that gave the neighborhood its name, was situated in between what is now 740-750 Washington Avenue.

The Big Tree may have been an elm whose branches loomed over the building at 750 Washington Avenue. Its trunk at the base was as wide as two luxury car lengths. Towering upward into the clouds, it gave the appearance of a long stemmed mushroom in green.

Death came to the Big Tree about 50 or 60 years ago and gradually as industry moved in the neighborhood, all the trees of this kind were cut down. Not one remains to show proof of the existence of the trees.

There are few people left in the area who can verify the existence of these trees. The people who settled here in the late 1800's were all Italian immigrants, many who worked in the stone quarries. The residents considered themselves not from Belleville or Nutley but from Big Tree.

Only now in the past eight years or so, with many new residents moving into the neighborhood, the name Big Tree has become legend.

Here's some good advice on proper bicycle care

By CHRISTINE MOLINARO

The warm weather is here bicycles are coming out of storage, and whether they were in the garage or basement, they need a check up. There is always a chance that some cyclists will need a new bike.

These days a bike is more than a fun machine, it is now being used as a form of transportation by young and old, due to energy conservation minded Americans.

In the market for a bike?

Think about what it's going to be used for.

If the bike is only going to be used for short rides to the corner store, a sturdy coaster a brake model will suffice.

Planning leisurely shopping jaunts, weekend bike trips, or commuting for short distances? Get a 3-speed. For a comfortable ride try one of the newly introduced small-wheeled bikes.

To cover long distances, if willing to accommodate to be specialized riding position for the sake of improvement in cycling speed, get a 10-speed.

There are bikes between these three categories. Before deciding on the type of bike, shop around and see as many different brands as possible. Remember that the frame is the most significant part. Before going out on the road, check, the bike using this list as a guide to safer bicycling.

Grease and oil: Any bearings on a bicycle which are packed with grease will stay lubricated, under normal conditions, for six months or more. Any bearings which are left out in the rain or covered with sand will stay lubricated about six days. If your bearings are greased, keep them out of the rain and don't oil them. Overhaul and grease them once or twice a year, then leave them alone.

Wheels: Check and see if they wiggle from side to side when the bike is sitting still; then check the big axle nuts or quick-release levers for tightness.

Tires: Keep the pressure at the number of pounds designated on the side of the tire. Check for wear.

Hand Brakes: Keep adjusted so that the end of the lever travels about two inches when you apply the brakes fully.

Changer: 3-speed: Adjust the indicator. Make sure the knurled locknut is locked. 10 speed: Check the control level adjustable bolts. Check the range of the changer and adjust with the adjustable screws.

Pedal: Check to see that the spindle is locked against the crank.

For additional bicycle information, pick up a copy of "Anybody's Bike Book," (Ten Speed Press, 1971) written by Tom Cuthbertson. The advice in this article was extracted from this book.

The beginning of the end...

By CHRIS MANNING

To a senior in Belleville High, school days will soon be merely a thing of the past. As lockers are being emptied and books returned, a feeling of remorse begins to engulf the senior hall, for those long days of reading and writing have come to an end. At 8 p.m. on June 17, seniors will be receiving their diplomas and attempting to take that one great step from childhood to adulthood.

Graduation day may symbolize a great many things to each individual senior, and the following seniors were asked exactly what graduation day means to them.

Bill DeNino: It's the last time we're all together as one class. It's also a time of remembrance, sorrow, and dreams of the future.

Mike Freda: Graduation is a christening into life and the second step into the future. Birth's the first.

Roger Luzzi: Graduation means the end of my school life and the beginning of a new career. However, I feel graduation ceremonies are a waste of time, they should give us our diplomas and let us leave.

Kathy Petrillo: I feel graduation day signifies the end of all that reading and writing. I have finally come to the end of that seemingly endless road.

Dawn Marchese: Graduation means leaving high school and meeting new people. I myself am going to college to further my education and establish a career. I also feel that school is like a brace which we all will use to stand with. But then when we graduate that brace is removed and we must learn to stand on our own.

Maria Angeline: Graduation is a time when we must leave that security of high school and go out into the world and make a life for ourselves. It's also remembering old times, memories that could never happen again.

Steve Constantino: Graduation is a turning point in my life. It's a changing a life style and ideologies.

Michelle Postiglione: Graduation day symbolizes the beginning of a new life with only memories of high school to look back on. I'm just happy that I made it through twelve years of school.

Although these senior's opinions varied slightly with each individual, all of them emphasized a feeling of insecurity about the future. High school is used as a crutch for many students, but when there's no school to go back to after senior year, they must stand by themselves. Then and only then can they make it in this world.

Be it's sentimental values, its opening of a new door, or merely the ending of the school year, graduations remain as a permanent picture in everyone's mind.

THE CRITIC'S CORNER

'America' — the mellow trio

By SUE STANZIONE

Once again the Capitol Theatre in Passaic offered to the public a night of entertainment. The Capitol is not one of New Jersey's more elaborate theatres in which to spend a night, although it certainly serves its purpose.

There's no need for fancy decorations, elegant lights or highly cushioned seating, but on the other hand a small scale of redecorating consisting of some "Mr. Clean" and a gallon of paint would make it seem like less of an eyesore. The blame cannot be put fully on the proprietor and his associates, but also on the public.

In the limelight, a few nights ago on Friday, May 2, the Capitol presented the "mellow trio" that goes by the name of "America." "America" is Dewey Bunnell, Gerry Beckley and Dan Peck.

The type of music they play would be categorized as being mellow. America started off by playing some of their less popular songs and then went into playing well-known hits like "Horse With No Name" and "Lonely People." The audience waited patiently all night for them to play everone's favorite, "I Need You" and when they finally did the theatre became so quiet that one could almost hear the audience breathing.

Soon the concert was over, but it seemed as though the audience wasn't going anywhere until "America" would come out for an encore. After a few moments of coaxing, the three of them came out with much gratitude. They played one more song and left for a second time. Still the audience couldn't accept that the concert was over so they clapped, stamped, yelled and lit matches hoping for America to reappear.

Once again they came out and played "Sandman" from their first album. For a third time they walked off the stage and to the disappointment of the public, the concert ended.

The first performance of the evening was by another group appearing with "America." They go by name of "Captain." Their music was similar to that of "America," but it was obvious that a lot more practice was needed to match the exact techniques of "America."

When they were done playing I wasn't sure whether the audience was clapping because they thought "Captain" did a good job or because they were happy to see them get off the stage.

All in all the night was quite enjoyable.

Westinghouse issues statements

Employees of Westinghouse Electric Corporation plants in Belleville and other New Jersey towns personalized statements that show how much each employee can expect from the company's various benefits programs.

"It was nearly 20 years ago when our employees first received a benefits statement," Thomas W. Landrum, Vice President said, "making Westinghouse one of the first companies to issue personalized statements that showed employees the extent of their benefits program."

Among those receiving the current statements were Westinghouse employees at plants in Bloomfield, Newark, Jersey City, Trenton, Belleville, Dover, Edison and Hillside.

The statement includes information on pensions, insurance, disability, personal accident insurance and any investment the employee may have in the Company's savings program.

Also, the statement shows each employee approximately how much it costs the company to provide all of his benefits.

Reformed Church sets smorgasboard

The Senior Choir of the Belleville Reformed Church, Main and Rutgers Streets, is holding a smorgasbord this Saturday evening from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at the church.

Look here, Linell, Isabel

by Helen Maguire

THOSE IMPISH daughters of ours are blessed, along with loud voices, pesky ways and loving hearts, with imagination. And Ogden Nash has a poem which describes them very well.

"Linell is clad in a gown of green, She walks in state like a fairy queen. Her train is tucked in a winsome bunch Directly under her royal lunch. With a dignified skip and a haughty hop Her golden slippers go clippety-clop.

I think I am Ozma, says Linell. I'm Ozma too, says Isabel.

LINELL HAS discovered a filmy veil; The very thing for a swishy tail. The waves wash over the nursery floor And break on the rug with a rumbling roar; The swishy tail gives a swishy swish; She's off and away like a frightened fish.

Now I'm a mermaid, says Linell. I'm mermaid too, says Isabel.

Her trousers are blue, her hair is kinky. Her jacket is red and her skin is inky. She is hiding behind a green umbrella; She couldn't be Alice, or Cinderella, Or Puss in Boots or the Fiddlers Three; Goodness gracious, who can she be?

I'M LITTLE Black Sambo, says Linell. I'm Sambo too, says Isabel.

Clack the shutters. The blinds are drawn. Click the switch and the lights are gone. Linell is under the blankets deep, murmuring down the hill to sleep.

Oh, deep in the soft and gentle dark She stirs and chirps like a drowsy lark. I love you, Mummy, says Linell. Love Mummy too, says Isabel.

"LINELL" and "Isabel" categorized me to their satisfaction the other day (but not to mine). Since I was inundated with dirty wash, I asked them to save their once worn pajamas for another night and when queried about this unusual request, told them the truth, namely, that two less things to wash would be appreciated. Nora was annoyed. "Well," she sniffed, "if that's the way you feel, you shouldn't be a mommy."

"But I'm not just a mommy," I retorted. "What else am I?" (in my innocence, I expected them to acknowledge my status as wife, woman, social editor, columnist, teacher). No go. "You're a parent," added Erin. "Is that all?" I asked. "You're a Godmother," said Nora. "And you're a child," contributed her sister. "You're Grandpa's child." And that was all I could get out of them. The only status they were willing to attribute to me was that connected with the mother-child relationship.

NOW, WHAT do I do? Do I get all upset and concerned and tight and feel I'm a failure because the young females we are raising see me in such a narrow light? Or do I say thank goodness that all my extra-curricular activities and the hours I have to shut them out while I work on the papers have not shaken their belief that I am first and foremost a mommy?

MARRIED — Miss Maria Cuccio of Toms River became the bride recently of Joseph A. Marrone Jr. of 54 Berkeley Avenue. The ceremony was performed in St. Justicon Church with a reception at the Fortay, Spring Lake. The couple will live in Belleville after a honeymoon in Florida.

Free vision, hearing test next Tuesday

The Belleville Lions Club and the Junior Woman's Club of Belleville urge parents of preschoolers to participate in a free vision and hearing screening test on June 10, 1975. The program will be held at the Montgomery Presbyterian Church, 638 Mill Street, Belleville from 9 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The purpose of this program is to discover amblyopia or "lazy eye" and other problems related to eyesight and impaired hearing that may go undetected in preschool years.

The screening program will be conducted by representatives from the New Jersey State Commission for the Blind and the Montclair State Communications Science Department. They will be assisted by members of the Lions Club and Junior Woman's Club.

If you have a preschool youngster between the ages of 3 1/2 to 5 years of age you are urged to participate in the free screening program on June 10th.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Paterno recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at a surprise party at San Carlo, Lyndhurst. Fifty five family members were present at the affair hosted by their daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Wolfarth of Rutherford and Mrs. Frances Carby of Overland Park, Kansas.

BROWSING..... BELLEVILLE

with Pat Diana

(write me at 104 Overlook Ave. or phone 751-6861 after 6)

Congratulations are in order for Miss Randi Paul, daughter of Gil and Myrna. she will be receiving the Menorah Award and the qualifications for this are many. First she must be a girl scout, continue Jewish studies, present reports on topics in Jewish history, prepare at least two book reports of Jewish interest, be aware of current events affecting Israel and world Jewry and do research on American/Jewish community and be an active participant in Jewish life in the Synagogue and at home. That's tall order and Rani and her parents must surely be proud as are Randi's sister Dana and brother Jeffrey.

The Belleville Reformed Church will hold a smorgasbord dinner June 7 from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Sponsored by the Senior Choir, there will be "everything" available. Only $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for kids...so...come on down. Future plans are being made for a Fall Festival in September complete with kiddie rides and a barn dance in October.

The Boy Scouts of America, Troop No. 364 held their Court of Honor Awards night at the Belleville Elks Lodge. The ceremony and presentations were conducted by Scout Master Lawrence Dempsey and Assistant Scout Master, John Martin. Mr. Breen, representative of the H.G. McCully Chapter, Pioneers of the Bell Telephone Company, presented the troop with five complete tents. Mr. Cooke, former scout master and Silver Beaver Award winner, was present and introduced. Raymond MacDonald, Exalted Ruler of Belleville Lodge No. 1123, B.P.O. Elks, welcome the troop members, friends and guests to the ceremonies and commended the work of the Scout Masters, Dempsey and Martin. Belleville Elks sponsor Troop 364.

The Junior Woman's Club of Belleville and the Lions Club will conduct a preschool vision and hearing screening on June 10th from 9 — 11:30 and 1 — 3:30 at the Montgomery Presbyterian Church on Mill Street. This is a very valuable community service and the testing is free.

I still seem to get involved in trying to find summer jobs for teens. Won't you hire a teen for the summer, part-time or full time? If you can use some help, whether office work, or work around the home, please call me. There is no charge for either the teenager or the person who hires them...this is "my" little contribution to our community.

Here comes news of another great event. The New Jersey Boxers Social Club will sponsor their 5th fight to benefit the Multiple Sclerosis and Belleville Senior Citizens. The date is June 13th, the time is 8:30, the place Belleville High Stadium. Tickets are $5 or $3. Also, there will be two BHS youngsters competing in the tournament...see this column next week for more details.

We would like to welcome Rev. Hazel Thomas who will be the new Minister at Wesley Methodist Church. Rev. Thomas will make her first appearance on Sunday June 8th. We welcome you to Belleville.

Sorry to say that Rev. Gerald Rounds and his family — wife, JoAnn and children Kimberly, Darren and Keith, will be leaving Belleville. Rev. Rounds will bring his ministry to Thiells, New York. Our sincere best wishes go with you.

Chairman urges Cancer Crusade callers to 'redouble' effort

Belleville Commissioner Vincent Strumolo, Belleville Community Cancer Crusade Chairman, this week urged all

Crusade volunteers to redouble their calls to insure that the community meet the 1975 Cancer Crusade quota.

support of the educational, care and scientific research programs of the American Cancer Society."

is available, who shall we ask?

The Essex County Unit of the American Cancer Society (336 South Harrison Street, East Orange, N.J. 07019) says the very best weapon for all is a yearly medical examination. The next best is the pamphlet entitled "The Seven Warning Signals of Cancer." Read it and if you observe any of the signals consult a physician. The third most effective are the continuing free Pap tests and breast examinations sponsored by the American Cancer Society in cooperation with the Essex County Medical Association, the Essex County Nurses Association and the major hospital of Essex County Medical Association, the Essex County Nurses Association and the major hospital of Essex County.

The Essex County Unit also offers consultation to the family of those stricken and care and help to the patient. All the latest on cancer research and care is available to the medical and nursing profession and the public. They also investigate all claims of cures, to protect the afflicted against frauds. Special bandages and wrappings are available as well as physician ordered treatments. "On call are speakers with films and literature for groups interested in prevention which is worth a pound a cure. All these weapons are available but two weapons with the most are a Check for research and a Check-up for life," the chairman concluded.

Next NLT plays brews controversy

Nutley Little Theatre is putting the finishing touches on its June 6 and 7 production of "The House of Blue Leaves," written by John Guare and directed by Bob Bielecki.

The 1971 Obie-award-winning play has generated controversy wherever it has been produced, and the NLT production will strive to create its own theatrical furor. Curtain time is 8 p.m., at Franklin Junior High School, 325 Franklin Avenue, Nutley. No one under the age of 18 will be admitted without a parent or guardian.

Playing the role of Ronnie Shaughnessy is David Cooper, of Paterson. Cooper holds a B.A. in theatre from Fairleigh Dickinson, and acted and directed extensively while a student there. He was performed in summer stock and on television commercials, and is currently an announcer with WFED.

Pat Ferlato, a Montclair resident, will portray the Head Nun, Mrs. Ferlato has recently appeared in the Whole Theatre Company Production of "The House of Bernarda Alba" the Studio Players' production of "Hansel and Gretel," and the Montclair Dramatic Club's "The Man Who Came to Dinner." She is currently studying voice and acting, and is business manager for the Whole Theatre Company and the Judith Suarez Dance Workshop.

Tickets are $3, and are available at Little's Pharmacy and the Nutley Sweet Shop, Franklin Avenue in Nutley, and at the door. For further information, call 751-1143.

Vets hospital will honor volunteers

Louis Martino, John Brady, and Lillian Metcalfe, all Belleville residents, will be honored this Sunday when the Veterans Administration Hospital, East Orange, presents awards to 215 volunteers at its 23rd Annual Award Ceremony.

Volunteers receiving recognition will be honored for service ranging from 100 to 28,000 hours of service to the hospital.

Martino has served 500 hours with the institution; Brady, 500 plus hours, and Metcalfe, 6000 hours.

Entertainment at the ceremony will be provided by both the staff and patients at the hospital, while principal speaker at the presentation will be Reuben Cohen, hospital director.

Fats are fuel foods which burn slowly in the body. We need much less fat in temperate zones than we realize. Fat is the slowest food to digest and to be assimilated. All excess beyond what we need is stored up as weight in the body. Fats include butter, margarine, whipped butter, light and heavy cream and soured cream, mayonnaise, French dressing and cooked salad dressings made with a high percentage of oil. And of course, all meats contain an appreciable amount of fat. And don't forget ice cream, mousses, Bavarian creams, pies, parfaits — feel hungry? You will be wise if you do not eat too much of these, for the sake of your health.

Wise people are those that bring their prescriptions to ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1968, 759-1956 for complete service. LARGEST BANQUET EVER

All-Sports dinner tomorrow

The Annual All Sports Banquet sponsored by the Belleville Varsity Club will be held tomorrow night at the Robin Hood Inn in Clifton and it will be the largest dinner yet.

The greatest number of seniors ever, 120, will be honored. Among those to be honored are lettermen from the Belleville high soccer team, and graduating members of the 1974-75 varsity wrestling squad. Women who lettered in softball and basketball will also be on hand to receive their awards. There will also be a number of special awards.

The Varsity Club's Annual All Sports Banquet has gone through an immense growing process since its beginnings back in the 1940's. It was originally a dinner for basketball and baseball teams held at the Neried Boat Club. It now honors senior lettermen in fifteen winter and spring athletic activities at Belleville High School.

Members of the club have spent many weeks in preparing for the event, insuring that everything will go smoothly and the estimated 500 guests will have an enjoyable evening.

Joe Casale, president of the club will welcome the guests, parents and friends, and Mike Casale will be handling the responsibilities of the master of ceremonies. Monsignor John P. Hourihan of the Mt. Carmel Guild will give the invocation.

Working behind the scenes, Wayne Worlen and Bill Ellis, co-chairmen of the event, have been hard at work contacting the many people invited and arranging the program.

In addition to tomorrow night's banquet, the Varsity Club sponsors a similar affair for BHS football players. The club members raise funds for their projects by selling ads for their official football program.

The club, formed in 1945, now has approximately 30 active members. The men get together the second Thursday of each month from September through June at the Little League Field House.

Making the play — Belleville diamondeer Steve Gerard handled first base duties for the Kearny-Belleville game and had a good day in the field and at the bat. In his two times at the plate, Gerard cracked out a base hit and drew a walk. Though the Bellboys lost to Kearny on Wednesday, they bounced back on Friday to shutout the Hillside Comets, 6-0.

times/news sports

Batsmen beaten

BHS pitcher Greg Petite and the rest of his teammates went down swinging before the Kearny Cardinals last week in a close 3-2 loss. It was a rough day for the Blue-Gold diamondeers as they bobbled the ball frequently, allowing Kearny the jargin needed for victory. Though they lost to Kards, the Bellboys ended the year on the winning side of the ledger.

The finish

Trackster Mike Fortino crosses the finish line in the mile relay against Kearny, with a comfortable lead over his opponent. The end of the mile relay also signaled the end of the BHS track season. The cindermen tallied an 8-6 record, their first winning season in many years. The year was marked by some outstanding individual performances and a new school record set in the mile relay event.

Batsmen can Orange, end on winning note

The Blue and Gold diamondeers took to the diamond for the last time this season on Tuesday, and came away the winner, shutting out the Orange Tornadoes, 3-0. The victory brought the team's season record up to 14-10, a respectable record.

Next week the Times/News will carry a season wrap up, going over the highs and the lows of the season with coach George Zanfani.

Tuesday's game was originally scheduled to be played last Friday, but foul weather forced a postponement. The delay didn't hurt the Bellboys, though, as they came out swinging in the first inning.

Belleville hit paydirt in the first inning when Joe Panlone and top slugger Chipper Biafore opened up the game with back to back singles. Steve Gerard drove in the only run of the inning with sacrifice fly, and the hometown batsmen were off and running.

The Bellboys scored two more runs in the fourth inning, and due to the solid pitching of Greg Petite, the Tornadoes never got on the scoreboard. Petite was hotter than a two dollar pistol, striking out six, walking only three, and allowing only one hit.

It was a good day for Petite, and a good way to end the season, especially when you consider the fact that this was the second shutout in a row for the team.

Monday, the Bellboys hosted Hillside high, and shut out the Comets, 6-0.

Ricky Loma handled the hurling duties for the Belleville nine, allowing only two hits, walking three, and sending five down swinging. The game gave Loma his third shutout of the year, and his second in a row after returning from the injured list.

The game got off to an exciting start, as Loma pitched out of a bases loaded jam in the first inning. Comet Ray Stukes got to first on an error by Loma, and he was followed to the plate by Lenny Bieg, who cracked a single to left. Loma must have been slightly rattled, because he walked the next batter, Mike Butler to load the bases.

Belleville catcher Greg Dunleavy tagged Stukes out at the plate on an unsuccessful suicide squeeze bunt. After

Tracksters trounce Kearny in final meet

The BHS cindermen wrapped up their season, last Thursday, by defeating the Kearny Cardinals, 76-46. The victory marked the first time in 10 years that Belleville triumphed over Kearny in track. The win also gave the Bellboys a season record of 8-6, making it the first time in 15 years that Belleville tracksters broke the .500 mark.

The win provided an emotional ending to a difficult season, with the team members mobbing coach Rich Ruffalo. The coach was equally pleased with the win, and especially the winning season.

"We really worked hard to win," said Ruffalo. "I feel really good about it, and so do the kids. They really wanted to beat Kearny and they really wanted to have this winning season."

The victory over Kearny didn't come easy, and for a while it looked like the meet could go either way. The Bellboys put up a strong front, but Kearny succeeded in nosing out the hometown trotters just enough times to make it really interesting.

The BHS men got a bit of a shock in the distance events where they usually run fairly strong. Ace miler Nelson

Bruins travel tonight to meet S.O. Soverels

The Belleville Bruins hosted Verona last Thursday, and mauled their guests 4-0, in a game called after six innings because of darkness.

With a record of 3-2, the hometown boys travel to South Orange tonight to meet the South Orange Soverels. The two teams were supposed to meet last Sunday also, but the game was called due to inclement weather.

Saturday, the Bruins will host Livingston. The game will be played at Memorial Stadium and will begin at 2 p.m. Next Sunday, the men travel to South Orange again, this time to meet the Dolphins.

Last Thursday's game got off to a slow start as both teams remained scoreless until the bottom of the third when the Bruins took to the plate. Belleville batter Bob DeJianne got to first on an error by Verona shortstop Murray. Billy Otskey followed him to the plate and cracked a single into center. DeJianne went for third on the play, and the centerfielder overthrew the third-baseman, allowing DeJianne to score the only run of the inning.

After putting away Verona in the top of the fourth, the Bruins took up their bats again, this time driving two men across the plate.

The action in the bottom of the fourth started when Kevin Goy got to first on a

LI'l League news: Milt's boys on top

The Little League season is in full swing now, and it looks like the frontrunner at this point is the tough Milt's Photo team.

These diamondeers are the only undefeated team in the league, sporting an impressive 6-0 record. Under the leadership of coach Domenick Rabalese and assistant coach and manager Frank Bruno, the team is looking for its second consecutive World Championship title in Belleville.

A reminder to all Little League coaches: The Little League Hotline is now open for business. If you want to submit any stats, line scores, individual records or team standings, just call the Times/News Monday night from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. We'll be more than happy to print the information and welcome your contributions.

Crew fared well this year

The Belleville High School Crew team has stowed away their gear, secured the shells, and stacked the oars as they mark the end of season of competition. All things considered, it was a pretty good year for the oarsmen as they sailed to a 5-3 record in their individual meets, and placed impressively in regatta competition.

Looking back over the year, coach Sam Giuffrida was pleased with his men, saying the team did at least as well as he had expected.

"At the beginning of the season," said Giuffrida, "I thought we would have a good year. We were always a smooth crew, but never overpowering. I knew we could never trounce any of our opponents, but I knew we would be in there. I think the season proved that."

The season for the stroke got off to a rocky start, though, as they went up against a powerful Atlantic City high team in their first meet. The team took a drubbing at the hands of their visitors, losing by a wide margin. Though the coach and his men had expected them to be tough, the margin of by which Atlantic City defeated the Bellboys set them back a little. Coach Giuffrida, in fact, points to the Atlantic City loss as one of the real low water marks in the season.

The team recovered from the loss quickly, however, and rolled over their next five opponents, defeating Kearny, Nutley, Harrington, Blessed Sacrament and Upper Merion in quick succession. According to Giuffrida, the team was just peaking around the time when they were to travel to New York to participate in the Poughkeepsie Regatta.

Unfortunately for the team, the regatta was postponed because of rough water, and the coach says that that lay off cut into the team's spirit and resulted in setbacks.

"We laid off for one week," recalled Giuffrida, "and that slack period hurt us. The kids were just about hitting their prime and we didn't race. When you're winning, you have to race, emotionally it's very important. If you're losing, it really doesn't matter."

The layoff, according to the coach came just when the Bellboys needed it the least. Giuffrida says, "That was the turning point for the eight man shells. We just couldn't get up the mental momentum for the Goodwill Regatta. When it came time for that race, we were just down."

Along with the opening dual meet against Atlantic City, the coach rates the team's disappointing showing in the Goodwill Regatta as one of the low

Seda placed second in the event, with Kearny men finishing ahead and just behind him. Mike Fortino found himself in the same situation when he placed second in the 880.

The team performed well in the field events, placing first in all but the high jump, and sweeping the pole vault and the long jump. First place finishers in the field were Paul Haverick in the shotput, Bob Feldman in the discus, Fran Morel in the pole vault, and Ken Drake in the long jump. Drake set a personal best record in the long jump, flying a total distance of 20 feet, 4 1/4 inches.

Next week, the Times/News will present a season wrap up, with coach Ruffalo's thoughts on the season.

1975 tracksters — Pictured above is the victorious 1975 Belleville High School track team. Under the leadership and guidance of new coach Rich Ruffalo, the Bellboys succeeded in completing their first victorious in almost 15 years. The team ended its season with an 8-6 record, which, while it pleased them, wasn't as good as most had hoped. The boys lost four close meets victories that would have really sweet to the eager cindermen.

points of the season. Though the Blue-Gold shellers had defeated both Kearny and Nutley earlier in the season, they just couldn't muster the strength to take them in the run for the trophy. They had a little bit of bad luck in the draw for the lanes, pulling number three, supposedly the slowest part of the river, but they also just rowed a bad race.

This year's varsity shell was, as crew teams go, fairly young. Four of the men handling the oars were underclassmen, and their lack of crew racing maturity may have hurt a little. The advantage in having such a young shell, however, is that the coach has a solid nucleus of four men to build on and work around next season. When the team went into four man shell competition at the end of the season, they were fairly new at the game. The Bellboys had to borrow neighboring Nutley's four man boat to work out in, and had only a week to prepare for the tough competition they would meet in the Statesbury Regatta in Philadelphia.

Once again, the coach staffed his boat with young team members and gambled on the fact that he would be racing his strongest, if not most experienced shell.

The gamble paid off, as the team placed second in the Statesbury, the definite highlight of the season.

"Placing that high among all the powers that competed was just fantastic," said coach Giuffrida. "Going from an eight man shell to the four was a completely new experience for the boys, and they just did a great job."

The boys followed their impressive showing at the Statesbury Regatta with another terrific performance at the National Championships in Princeton. The team placed sixth, racing against some of the best crew teams in the United States and Canada. It was the first time in the history of Belleville crew that a team made it into the finals.

bad throw by the third baseman. Joe Papisidero followed him to the plate, cracking a single to left and driving Goy to second. Nick Restaino, second man in the batting order tried for a sacrifice, but Goy got picked off at third by the Verona catcher.

Tony Leopoldi got in the box, and watched four bad ones go by him to earn the walk and load the bases. Clean-up man DeJanni belted a sacrifice fly to center to score Papisidero and Otskey followed him to the plate, singling to left to drive in Restaino, giving the Bruins two runs for their tour at the plate.

The final run of the game came in the fifth inning when, with one out, Ed Driscoll doubled to left. Goy followed him to the plate, hitting a grounder to the third baseman. The Verona player overthrew first, and Driscoll charged home on the error.

Mike Zayac handled mound duties for the Bruins, going the distance while allowing five hits, walking six, and striking out seven. The win gives Zayac a 2-1 record for the year.

According to Bruin manager Mike Welsh, Zayac, "pitched a helluva game. He had men on base, but he didn't get rattled and pitched himself out of trouble several times."

that, Loma settled down and got a pop to short and a small grounder back to the box. He then went on a hot streak, retiring 12 consecutive batters before the Comets' only other hit in the fifth inning.

The Blue-Gold diamonders came on strong themselves in the first, scoring three runs. With Chip Biazore and John Guarino on base, first baseman Lou Grasso stepped to the plate and pounded out a double, scoring his two teammates, then scored himself on an error.

The game went scoreless from the second until the bottom of the sixth, when the BHS team added three more runs to their tally. Vin DeNotaris started it with a single and then a successful try at stealing second. Pinch hitter Nick Cancelliere was next, shooting out a sacrifice fly and allowing DeNotaris to come home. Centerfielder Joe Panlone took to the plate, signalling the top of the batting order, and tapped out a single, then stole second. Hard-hitting shortstop Biazore strode into the batter's box, and got two more RBIs to his credit as he smashed the ball for a triple, scoring Panlone and Cancelliere. Those two runs signaled the end of the scoring for the game, Belleville winning it 6-0.

The game against Kearny last Wednesday started to go badly with the Cardinals winning it, 3-2.

The Cardinals jumped off to a quick lead in the first inning, scoring two runs and added another in the third. The Bellboys, on the other hand, could only manage two runs in the whole game, those coming in the third.

Greg Petite was the losing pitcher.

The Memorial Golf Tournament took place over the weekend at Branch Brook Golf Course with the membership turnout it's best in many years, despite weather conditions.

John Dacey, son of Branch Brook golf professional Dick Dacey, took the low gross trophy with a sparkling 138 over 36 holes. Charles Molinaro came in second with 148. Russ Bridge took third place also with 148 on a match of cards.

The low net trophy was won by Bill Yates with a 134 total.

Jayvees: 17 wins and no losses at all

By DONNA BERRIGAN

The BHS jayvee baseball team completed another outstanding week as coach Ralph LaConte's men brought their undefeated season up to 17 wins with seven shut-outs. Last Tuesday, they defeated Columbia, 18-8 and Wednesday they shut-out Kearny, 8-0.

At Columbia, Belleville started off with a single by Scott Ochse, but didn't score until the second inning. Anthony Gamarro hit a single along with Phil Linfante who drove in Joe Gelpi. With bZck to back singles in the third by Rocco Balsamo and Ochse, Anthony Speer scored. Frank Mozeka followed with a sacrifice bunt, advancing Balsamo to third. Again, bZck to back singles were hit, this time by Doug Stone and Gelpi, driving in Balsamo and Ochse.

It was in the third inning that Columbia first scored. They brought in two runs with a single and a homerun. Speer scored in the fourth on an overthrow, and Ochse hit a double which brought in Balsamo. Columbia also scored one run in the fourth.

The top of the fifth brought three runs and five hits for the jayvee diamonders. Scorers were Ron Krych with a double, Gelpi with a single and Gamarro with a double. Linfante hit a single with an RBI aTong with Speer, but never reached home.

Columbia ended the fifth innngg with five runs on five hits. Gamarro was the pitcher up to this time, with four strike-outs, giving up ten hits.

Krych led off the sixth inning with his second hit of the game, a single. Gelpi followed with a single and then Linfante hit a single bringing in Krych and Al Nufrio. Speer then hit a double, bringing in Gamarro and Linfante. Ochse ended the game with a single in the seventh inning. He has the highest slugging average on the team, batting an astounding .937.

Chris Cervasio finished the pitching for Belleville, having two strike-outs and giving up no runs.

With Kearny, Belleville finished the game with eight runs on seven hits. In the first inning, the jayvee nine compiled seven runs on five hits. Scorers were Speer, Tony Cortese, and Stone, all with base hits. Balsamo, Gamarro and Cervasio also scored. Linfante was hit by a pitch and pinch runner Mike Flynn brought in the seventh run. Speer and Gelpi ended the inning with back to back singles.

The fourth inning brought Belleville's last run. Sam Sbarra led off with a single. Gamarro hit a single, driving in Krych. Krych hit a single in the bottom of the sixth, but failed to score.

Cervasio pitched the entire game for Belleville, with six strike-outs, giving up six hits and no runs.

Coach LaConte's jayvee nine were scheduled for a game with Orange on Friday, but due to weather conditions, it was postponed.

$2 million asked for bikeway program

Transportation Commissioner Alan Sagner today announced that for the second consecutive year the Department has applied for $2 million in Federal funds for the development of bikeways in the State.

No doubt you have read occasionally or as some people do, read regularly one of those magazines that test and rate all kinds of products. Some years ago they emphasized price and advised to go around shopping for the lowest price and almost gave you a blow by blow description how to haggle.

Slowly over the years they changed their tune. Many people haggled to such an extent, that they haggled the most important part with the purchase of a color TV set away: SERVICE. They found out, what the magazines should have known, that color TV sets need quite a bit of service, which costs money. If you haggled the seller down so much that there was hardly a profit left, there certainly was no money to give service. This slowly dawned on customers who often found themselves with a TV set and nobody to service it. There were bitter complaints to the magazines, which in turn slowly changed their tune. Now they can not emphasize enough to stick to well known brands and buy from stores where they are sure to get service. We always have stressed that the only and proper way is to buy your TV set from a dealer who has his own service department. Most stores farm the service obligation they have to their customers, out to service organizations. The connection with the store, which should begin with the purchase, ends. We feel strongly that this is wrong. Customers should not be left to the whims of servicers who try to do as little as they can get away with for the small amount of money they get from the seller.

We service what we sell. Beck's Radio TV Hi Fi Appliances Nutley 667-4225

Senior notes

By GEORGE CHENOWETH

Sixteen months have elapsed since the State's legislators have taken office. During that time, out of the 81 senior citizen's bills pending in the legislature, only one bill (introduced by Assemblyman Codey, elevating the State Office on Aging to divisional status) has been enacted into law.

The legislators so far have by-passed a meaningful reduction in the property tax and relief to the renters, which is sorely needed to relieve the burden of both.

Now the legislators are contemplating enacting into law nuisance taxes which will bear most heavily upon the low income segment of our society and the fixed income of the senior citizens. Undoubtedly the 900,000 senior citizens of our state are against these nuisance taxes.

Let us hope that the legislators will pass some meaningful legislation in our behalf, so that we can spend the balance of our lives with peace of mind and with dignity.

Tom Adams of the Retired Men's Club announced that he has presided for the last time as leader of that club. The new slate of officers took over at the June 4 meeting yesterday. Bob Metcalf is the new president. He and Mrs. Metcalf have just returned from a month's vacation in Florida.

The Belleville Senior Citizens Club announces with deep sorrow the passing of their good friend and executive board member, Anthony Verniero.

An inside look at jury duty

lawyers, we were sworn in. The judge excused the rest of the prospective jurors, and they headed back to jury control to go back into the "juror pool."

The case we were assigned to deal with charges of robbery and attempted robbery lodged against the defendant. While the defense did not contest the fact that the man had committed the crimes, he was entering a plea of not guilty by reason of insanity. The judge explained that we would be instructed on the law pertaining to the case in the charge to the jury after all the testimony.

Because it was getting late in the day (it was around 3 p.m.) the judge excused us for the day and told us to report to the same courtroom at 9 a.m. the following morning.

While you are assigned to a case, you are under the direction of the judge presiding. You do not have to check in with jury control, but you report to wherever the judge specifies and at the time he sets. Once again, a word of caution, make sure you get there on time or it may cost you a fine.

Thursday morning, we were back in the jury box and started the day by hearing the attorneys' opening arguments. Their statements were brief, and we soon began listening to witnesses for the prosecution.

Though the man admitted he committed the crimes, the prosecution brought in a series of witnesses to testify to the events that had taken place. During this time, the defense attorney asked very few questions.

After the state's witnesses came the sole defense witness.

Hoofin' it. Belleville's Sabre Cadets march through Newark's Vailsburg section during a Bicentennial parade.

The defense attorney called a psychiatrist who testified as to the defendant's state of mind at the time he tested him and his probable state of mind when he committed the crimes. The doctor agreed that in his expert opinion, the man did not know the difference between right and wrong when he robbed one bank and attempted to rob another.

After cross-examination by the prosecuting attorney, Judge Feinberg excused us for the day, telling us to report back at 9 a.m. the next morning.

The only witness called on Friday was another psychiatrist, this one called by the prosecution to rebut the testimony of the previous doctor. In effect, he disagreed with the previous psychiatrist, saying that in his expert medical opinion, the defendant knew the difference between right and wrong at the time he committed the crimes.

The lawyer, for the defense cross-examined the witness, after which both attorneys made their closing arguments.

Judge Feinberg delivered his charge to the jury, explaining that we were to decide first, whether or not the man was guilty; second, if he was sane or insane at the time he supposedly committed the crime; and third if we determined that he was insane at the time he committed the acts, we had to decide whether he was sane or insane today.

The judge explained that, regarding the man's sanity, we would have to make our decision based on the M'Naghten Rule. The crux of this rule is that a person is legally sane if he knows the nature and quality of his actions and knows the difference between right and wrong.

Two names were drawn from the small drum on the court clerk's desk, and the two alternates left the jury box. The rest of us retired to the jury room to make our decision.

Jury deliberations can be a long and somewhat painful procedure. Though you may go into the jury room convinced of a person's guilt, based on the testimony that you heard, the arguments and viewpoints of your fellow jurors may have an effect on you. What frequently happens is that everyone in the room starts talking at once, all arguing a different point, and the resulting confusion and racket can drive you up the wall.

It can also be extremely frustrating. You may find, for example, that there is one juror who either opposes your viewpoint or is indecisive. You sit down, and talk to the person, using all the logic and persuasive power you have in your body, and still you can't sway the person. It can drive you mad, but it is still easy to see their side.

Despite all the arguments that go on in a jury room, there are rarely hard feelings. Each person seems to accept the fact that each is entitled to his or her own beliefs, based on the facts presented, no matter what the outcome of the trial is.

All twelve jurors must agree on a verdict in a criminal trial, but in the case of deciding on sanity or insanity, only 10 have to agree. In our case, we came in with a guilty verdict, and ten members of the jury decided that the man was sane at the time he committed the crimes.

The lawyer for the defendant asked that the jury be polled, and we each stated whether or not we had voted

Sabre Cadets on the parade circuit

Not newcomers in the parade field, Belleville's Sabre Cadets took part in a Bicentennial Celebration Festival and Parade recently which took place in Newark's Vailsburg section.

The parade began at Sacred Heart Church, Vailsburg, and ended at Mt. Vernon School, where a community bazaar took place on one side of the street while youth games were being played on the other side of the street, at Ivy Hill Park.

The competitive games included the 40 to 100 yard dashes, broad jumps, junior softball throws, intermediate and senior softball throws, and boys' 600 yard run, with medals awarded to first, second and third place winners in each category.

Although bicycle races had to be cancelled because of a lack of entries, Harvey Black, Newark Director of the races, was never-the-less presented with a plaque by Mrs. Marguerite Conlan, Chairman of VFW Firemen's Post No. 1851 annual "Lite-A-Bike" bicycle safety program, for his work with the bike program throughout the years.

How Rands

Solve-a-crime By A.C. GORDON

You are the detective

You have been summoned to the hotel room of the visiting actress, Diane Pettigrew. She is much distraught over the robbery of her jewels. After she has quieted down, she tells you her story.

"I was startled when this big, tall man with a nylon stocking mask over his face suddenly entered my room this afternoon and demanded the key to my jewel case, then ordered me into the bathroom. I was terrified, but I handed him the key. Then before I went into the bathroom another stockier and shorter man came into the room, also with a stocking mask over his face. They locked me in the bathroom, and I could hear them stirring around in the room here and muttering to each other. Then I heard them leave, and about a half-hour later when my maid came in and let me out of the bathroom, my jewels were gone. Please can't you do something about getting them back?"

Later, after having made a thorough study of the hotel registrations and questioning some of the employees, you finally narrow your list of suspects down to three men — Mark Addison, Richard Baylor, and Victor Cunningham. You determine that one of these three was the tall man who was first to enter the room and order Diane into the bathroom, also that one of the three has been the tall man's partner in crime for several years, and that the third man has been a hotel employee for the past five years.

Other information you manage to garner reveals that Mark Addison registered in the hotel from Mexico City, that Richard Baylor and the tall man, both of whom are college graduates, served time together in England for jewel theft, and that this has been the hotel employee's first venture into the field of crime.

After weighing all the foregoing information, can you identify each of the suspects? Solution below

New X-ray system improves Clara Maass's radiology lab

Medical care services for Belleville area residents received a "shot in the arm" today as Clara Maass Memorial Hospital, announced the acquisition of a sophisticated new medical x-ray system.

According to Albin H. Oberg, hospital executive director, the new Televix remote control diagnostic x-ray system is designed to permit radiologists to conduct such procedures as fluoroscopy, radiography, and tomography (a special technique for the study of a particular plane or layer of the body) without need for approaching the examination table. The physician controls all aspects of the examination table. The physician controls all aspects of the examination from a special remote-control console positioned about ten feet away.

Hospital officials report a number of important advantages made possible by remote-control examinations. "First," says Joseph Israel, M.D., Chief of Radiology, "remote control examinations are considerably more efficient in terms of speed and staff time required. For example, the radiologist can remain seated at the control console throughout the complete procedure rather than having to continually go back and forth to the examination table to make adjustments. We can see everything that occurs in the room and easily communicate with the patient at all times. Positioning the patient can be rapidly performed by simply manipulating the table top and x-ray tube stand via the remote-control feature. With conventional systems, we would have to walk over and physically move the patient by hand."

Dr. Israel says the Televix System should virtually eliminate the need to call patients back to the x-ray department for repeat examinations due to faulty patient positioning or incorrect exposures, common problems in conventional equipment. "The Televix System incorporates a fluoroscopic image system which permits us to literally preview exactly what information will appear on the final film," he explains. "If an exposure adjustment or slight positioning change is required, we can make it then, before the film is exposed. With older x-ray units, we might not find out something was wrong until the films were processed and the patient already back in his bed. This way we can insure that the films will contain the diagnostic information we need in advance."

In addition to increased efficiency, Dr. Israel says the new system will also provide increased safety for both the physician and patient. "Since the radiologist is located away from the table in a radiation-shielded remote console," he states, "he never receives any radiation. For the patient, radiation is reduced in two ways. The system utilizes a phototimer which calculates and controls the precise amount of radiation needed for a given exposure. The patient is only exposed to the amount absolutely required. A savings is also realized by eliminating the need for many repeat films."

The Televix system's examination table features a number of power-driven movements, all controlled from the remote console. The entire table can be angulated to 90 degrees, toward the foot and 15 degrees toward the head. The table top itself can be moved 50 inches longitudinally and about 12 inches laterally to provide exact centering of the area to be examined directly beneath the x-ray tube. The tube stand can also be moved up to 40 degrees to either side of vertical up to a maximum of 250 mm above the area of interest. During tomographic studies, the column supporting the x-ray tube is actually in motion during exposure. This movement causes all body structures lying above and below the plane of focus to be "blurred out." Only a thin cut of the body is seen on the resulting film. Thus, intervening structures within the body which would normally obscure the area under investigation can be eliminated.

According to Oberg, the $130,000 Televix System is one of the most modern x-ray machines available. "Certainly a medical diagnostic system of this sophistication requires a substantial investment," he says. "But we believe the equipment will more than pay for itself by enabling us to examine more patients, more thoroughly, with increased safety. It is yet another example of our commitment to provide our patients with the best possible medical care."

must be Mark Addison. and since Cunningham has not a criminal record and the tall man has, then the tall man employee is not the tall man. Hence, the hotel employee must be Victor Cunningham, Cunningham, inasmuch as Baylor served time in England with the tall man, we know the hotel employee cannot be Mark Addison. Therefore, he is either Baylor or Cunningham.

New gadget— And a pretty fancy one at that. Dr. Joseph Israel (left), chief of radiology at Clara Maass Memorial Hospital, inspects the institution's new Televix remote control diagnostic x-ray system along with Camille Christiana, x-ray technologist, and Donald Jones (right) chief x-ray technologist. The system was recently put to use at the hospital.

indicates the improved typographic designs greatly increase readership of inside pages. Greater readership increases the selling power of advertising.

Classified advertising pages will also be converted to a nine-column format. The conversion for classified ads will begin in two weeks and will be completed prior to the July 3 date.

The Times/News will not change the size of its page, as some of the large daily newspapers have done in converting to the modern format.

Research by typographical experts reveals that the conventional newspaper of today is more difficult to read than it need be. The standard column width (9 1/2 picas in the Times/News) is too narrow for fast reading and easy comprehension.

Research also indicates that a wider column (14 1/2 picas or a little less than 21/2 inch s) is ideal for easy readability because the reader's eye does not make as many back and fourth movements in reading a story. Wider columns also make for a more appealing to look at newspaper page.

The Nutley Sun affiliated with The Times/News will also convert to the six-column editorial format on July 3 so advertisers purchasing space can continue to take advantage of special discounts when ordering advertisements for both newspapers.

manufacture products such as a cancer detection test, screening procedures for drug abuse and pregnancy tests.

The Diagnostic Division is presently located in Somerville. Renovation of the old Jergens property is scheduled to begin soon and is slated for completion next spring. Officials say Roche employees working at the division in Somerville will be offered transfers to the Belleville facilities.

Clara Maass Hospital will now occupy 18 acres of land in Belleville with the Roche acquisition. The 570-bed facility also includes a school of nursing, doctors' and nurses' residences and a professional building for medical staff members.

Among those who attended the ceremony were Rep. Joseph G. Minish, State Senators Carmine Orechio and Joseph Hirkala, Jack W. Owen, president of the New Jersey Hospital Association, and members of Belleville's municipal government.

Secretaries: limber up for speed typing contest

All bosses are urged to seek out the "fastest" girls in their organizations! The reason is the Greater Essex and Union Counties' Speed Typing Contest, which, according to Allen O. Currier, Area Manager of Olsten Temporary Services, sponsor of the contest, is open to all employees of Greater Essex and Union Counties' firms.

The contest will be held Thursday, June 19, at the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark, with the first place winner receiving the title of "Speediest Typist" and six months use of a 1976 Olds Omega Landau Coupe with insurance coverage, courtesy of Dan Esposito Olds, Inc.

In addition to the car, the grand prize winner will also receive a three day, two night vacation, with bedroom accommodations for two, at Mickey Rooney's Downton Inn.

The second place winner will not receive a title, but will be amply awarded with a round-trip for two to Acapulco via AeroMexico with a seven day and six nights stay at the El Presidente Hotel.

Companies who wish to enter the Greater Essex and Union Counties' Speed Typing Contest or who wish to donate contest prizes, should contact May Ann Pope, Office Manager of Olsten Temporary Services, 24 Commerce Street, Newark. The phone number, if you wish to call, is 642-0233.

Town Hall lot scene for equivalency tests

A mobile testing van operated by the New Jersey Department of Education will offer area residents an opportunity to take the General Equivalency Degree (G.E.D.) examination in their own neighborhood from June 9 through June 19.

Through a cooperative program of the North Essex Education (NEED) Center of Essex County College and the Education Department's Division of Field Services, the testing van will be based at the Belleville Municipal Parking Lot, 152 Washington Avenue, Belleville. Testing will be conducted during the evening hours on Mondays, June 9 and 16 and Thursdays, June 12 and 19. Daytime tests will take place on Tuesdays and Wednesdays between June 10 and 18.

Adults 18 or over who have been out of school for at least one year are eligible to take the GED examination. Persons 16 or over may take the test provided they complete a waiver of age requirement certifying that they are off the school rolls. The waiver must bear parental and school administrator signatures.

The General Equivalency Degree test consists of five sections: English, Social Studies, Natural Science, Literature and Mathematics.

It is administered in five two-hour time blocks on two separate days, taking a total of ten hours to complete. A $5 fee, payable by certified check or money order to the Commissioner of Education, is required. After having successfully completed the examina-

Treasury secretary to address dinner

Deputy Secretary of the Treasury Stephen S. Gardner will be a featured speaker at the fifth annual awards luncheon of the Better Business Bureau of Great Newark, on June 11, at the Hotel Robert Treat.

Gardner, former chairman of the board of the Girard Trust Bank in Philadelphia, was sworn in as Deputy Secretary of the Treasury in August, 1974, and succeeded William Simon in that post. Also featured as a luncheon speaker will be N.J.'s Public Advocate Stanley C. Van Ness.
