Cooperation is this team's theme. Belleville High School cooperative education coordinators (l-r) Ralph LaConte, Muriel B. Cerami and Nicholas Grande cut a special cake celebrating the completion of the "learn-while-you-work" program's first year. Several hundred cooperative education students, employers and parents were treated to a buffet dinner last week.

More salary talks are two weeks off

The Belleville Board of Commissioners has promised to make its initial salary proposal to Public Safety Department employees within two weeks, Mayor Michael Marotti revealed this week.

After a meeting last week between three Commissioners and negotiators for both police and firemen, the Town is now assembling data for its first counter-proposal. Times/News sources say the PBA and FMBA bargainers have opened with a request for 15 percent increases and other proposals. There has been no word yet on what proposal the Commissioners will return.

In a 2-2 vote, the Board of Commissioners Tuesday nixed the purchase of three police cars from the State motor pool. Commissioner Rocco Saletta says the action may cost Belleville taxpayers more money. See page 11.

The talks, which lasted over an hour last Wednesday, were the first serious negotiations to take place between Public Safety employees and Town officials since the expiration last January of the 1974 contracts.

Among other items, said Public Safety Director Rocco Saletta, discussion at the last meeting centered around establishing the first written police and fire contracts. Part of the meeting was also spent bringing Saletta, recently elected to his post, up to date on the long list of PBA and FMBA requests. At this point, said Saletta, the police and firemen "feel they need somebody who will continue to negotiate." Earlier this year

PBA Local 28 had charged the Town with failure to negotiate, but the Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) had refused to intervene. PERC is not expected to enter the talks at this time. According to Saletta, Town Treasurer Francis McCoy was to have provided figures for discussion by yesterday or today.

"As soon as I get a package together," said Saletta, "I'll present it to the other Commissioners and we'll call another meeting." So far, neither PBA or FMBA officials have met with the full compliment of five Commissioners.

No bid, no bucks

Town Treasurer Francis McCoy said this week he has refused to pay over $6,000 in Public Works Department supply purchases made in apparent violation of State bidding laws earlier this year.

The purchases, in amounts of $3,300 and $2,900, were made without required bids; and, said acting purchasing agent Isadore Padula, Jr., without his knowledge.

"They're violations of the bid act," said McCoy about the bills. "There's no way I'll deal with them."

According to two unsigned vouchers in Town Hall, $3,368 in hydrant supplies were purchased in April of this year from the Lee Company in Denville. Half of those materials, along with $2,953 in similar materials ordered from the U.S. Pipe & Foundry Company in Burlington last January, have already been installed, reported McCoy.

Since there is no way to return the merchandise, "the only way it can be corrected is if the governing body will confirm their (the Public Works Departments) action," he said. The necessary legislation would require three affirmative Commission votes, and might still be subject to legal complications. Municipalities, under State law, may not exceed purchases of $2,500 from any

Graduation caps off BHS life Tuesday

Belleville High School will hold commencement exercises next Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at Municipal Stadium, sending off its 78th senior class.

According to Raymond O. Smith, principal of the high school, officials expect 3-4,000 people to attend the graduation ceremonies, honoring the 440 seniors leaving Belleville high.

The theme for the graduation, chosen by the three students speaking, will be "Homo Cultus," "The Educated Man." Class valedictorian Sandra Cronauer, salutatorian Constance Meyer, and Honor Group representative Dominick Mobilio will address the assembled parents and friends on behalf of their classmates. Each of the students will deal with one of the three branches of education—the humanities, the arts and the sciences. Smith, Superintendent of Schools Anthony J. Greco, and School Board president Richard Mahmarian will

History day this Saturday

Belleville will be catapulted back into a time warp Saturday, when seventh graders from the junior high school take the town over on what has officially been proclaimed "Belleville Junior High School Living History Day."

Under the direction of the Social Studies Department, Belleville seventh graders will re-enact events out of the past history of Belleville in different locations around the community throughout the day. The program, entitled "A Glimpse Into The Past" will begin at 9 a.m. and continue through 2:45 p.m. The students will perform their parts dressed in costumes similar to clothing worn at the time.

The program planned is actually part one of the junior high's two part Bi-Centennial project. Teachers have been preparing and doing research for Saturday's festivities for over a year. Part two of the project is the planned publication of a book on the history of Belleville written by eighth grade students at the school.

According to school officials, "The purpose of this project is to make our students and community aware of the many contributions of the founders of Belleville and to inspire in them a sense of pride and loyalty to our country and our community."

The schedule for Saturday's events is as follows: 9 a.m. opening exercises at the

Imperiale seeks ouster of assistant prosecutor

Belleville State Senator Anthony Imperiale this week vowed he would seek the dismissal of an Essex County assistant prosecutor who alleged Imperiale's possible involvement in a 1969 art theft.

In a sidewalk news conference Monday, Imperiale said he would file a civil court suit against assistant prosecutor Glenn Goldberg who made the statement concerning Imperiale.

Goldberg was reported to have said "the state has a feeling and even a strong suspicion that he himself (Imperiale) was somehow involved" in the 1969 theft of a painting from a Newark doctor's home. Essex County Prosecutor Joseph Lordi has said there is "no direct evidence" implicating Imperiale, and Goldberg admitted at the time of his statement that it was based on hearsay testimony.

Imperiale admitted he was in the home of Dr. Earl Wood after an attempted burglary July 7, 1969 and has called for an investigation by the State Bar Association and State Senate Judiciary Committee into the trial from which the testimony originated.

The allegation emerged last week during the burglary trial of Gerald Donnerstag, 42, of Belleville, convicted earlier this year for murder. State's witness Gerard (Chicken Delight) Festa, whose testimony led to Donnerstag's burglary conviction, testified that he, Donnerstag and another man stole the $7,500 painting using information supplied to Donnerstag by Imperiale. Donnerstag, who faces a life sentence in Pennsylvania, would supply no information regarding Festa's allegation.

"I am going to fight this to the very end," Imperiale said Monday in front of the North Ward First Aid Squad headquarters. "My reputation has been damaged, my family and friends have suffered ridicule, and I intend to take Goldberg to court."

Though Imperiale admitted he was in the home of Dr. Earl Woods after an attempted burglary July 7, 1969 and the day after the July 25 theft, the legislator said it was merely to offer his assistance as a city councilman to the victims. Imperiale also admitted knowing Austin Castiglione, the third burglar, but denied any familiarity with Donnerstag.

Castiglione pleaded guilty to the burglary charge. Donnerstag was also convicted last week of masterminding a $650 armed robbery in East Orange during March of 1971. The victims, Mr. and Mrs. Americo Matullo, were handcuffed and robbed of cash and some jewelry by two men hired by Donnerstag to perform the theft.

Bikers raise charity money

On May 4, despite rain, the third annual Hike-Bike for retarded children took place in Essex County.

Three students, all juniors at Belleville High School, not letting the weather dampen their spirits, took off on their bikes at 10:30 a.m. Sunday morning on the first lap of their 50 mile ride.

Although Keith Allum, Frank Frederick and Doug Wamsley did not return home until 7 p.m. that evening, soaking wet, they did return with pledges from sponsors

Patrol kids have picnic

School Eight played host to seventy patrol boys and girls June 4 when the students were guests at a picnic in Lyndhurst Riverside Park.

Nicholas Petti, principal of School Eight went along as an escort as well as sixth grade teacher, Mrs. Arthur, and fifth grade teacher, Mr. Tortorello.

Mothers who helped out with preparing and serving the picnic fare included Mrs. Dot Dalla Riva, Mrs. Lillian Norton, Mrs. Virginia Racanelli and Mrs. Addie Cetrulo.

who agreed to pay up a certain amount of money for each mile that the boys rode.

Keith Allum, extremely interested in the drive because he has a five year old sister who is possibly retarded, was lucky enough to have acquired pledge money in the amount of $905, which he has already sent out to the New Jersey Association for Retarded Children.

The student, who lives at 23 Wallace Street, took part in the event for the second consecutive year, and raised $317 more than he did one year ago.

By reading this sentence over six times, you will eventually come to realize you are wasting your time.

Pico urges parents to attend meeting

Arthur M. Pico, Belleville director of the E.S.E.A. Title I program, this week urged parents of first through third grade students at School Eight to attend a special application meeting next Tuesday, June 17, 2 p.m. at School Two.

The meeting, said Pico, is for discussion of the Title I program — which may be on its way to School Eight.

According to Pico, he is in the process of completing next year's application for the Title I remedial reading program in town. "At the present time," he said, "it appears that Schools One, Four and Nine will be designated participants for the 1975-76 school year. There is a possibility of School Eight replacing School Two." Participating schools are determined by federal government guidelines.

The first application meeting this year was held May 20 at School Two. Any interested citizens are invited to the coming meeting.

Alan Grossman graduates U. of P. with high honors

Alan Revan Grossman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Grossman, 15 Tremont Avenue, Belleville, was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania on May 18. He received a bachelor of arts degree in biology, summa cum laude.

Grossman is a member of Alpha Epsilon Delta, the national pre-medical honor society, and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa during his junior year. Having completed his undergraduate studies last December, Grossman is now associated with the Mr. Fit Heart Attack Prevention Program. He will enter the University of Pennsylvania Medical School in September.

Grossman was valedictorian of the Belleville High School graduating class of 1971.

ESEA Title I spotlight hits Children's Shelter

This month of June the E.S.E.A. Title I Program will highlight the Children's Shelter of Essex County. This remedial reading program is funded by the Federal Government.

The Shelter of Essex County was set up in 1958 by the Essex County Board of Chosen Freeholders. The intake policies adopted were temporary care to children in Essex County up to 16 years of age who are abandoned, abused, neglected, evicted or homeless, for whom no adequate community plan can be made. The Essex School at the Shelter opened in 1967 and is not attached to any board of education. Since 1969, when the initial E.S.E.A. grant was made available to the Shelter School, the Title I teachers supplement the existing staff.

Mrs. Arleen Kenny is the superintendent of the Children's Shelter and the Title I staff includes Miss Debra Castro, Miss Celia Bernaducci and Mrs. Joan Wasserman. Miss Beatrice Harvey is the Shelter Title I secretary.

The function of the Title I reading specialists at the Children's Shelter is for each specialist to work individually within four designated classes. The teacher and reading specialist work together to structure a remedial reading program for each individual student.

The Title I reading specialists incorporate a wide range of teaching techniques in their program due to the diversified and fluctuating student population.

Mrs. Wasserman instructs the beginner's class of six and seven year olds. The children are grouped according to their academic capabilities, either in small groups or individually. Alphabet recognition, phonics, reading and comprehension skills are some of the areas presently being facilitated.

Miss Bernaducci works with the intermediate class, eight to nine-year-olds. The grouping is again in relation to each child's academic abilities. Each day of the week a different area of reading skills is applied. Sentence structure, phonetics, oral and individual reading are a few of the areas taught.

The junior class reading specialist is Miss Castro. The age group is ten to 12 years olds. Unlike the other two reading specialists, Miss Castro divides the day into four segments. A more mature instructional procedure is needed for this age group, and an independent attitude is encouraged. Educational games and puzzles as well as phonetic skills, sentence structure, oral and independent reading are the areas covered.

All three reading specialists work with the students in the senior class which is composed of children 13 to 16 years old.

Each of the reading specialists makes use of the diverse materials available to them. Audio visual aids, SRA Series, Bank Street Readers, Merrill Linguistic Series are used along with many other up-to-date teaching aids especially designed to help educate the urban child.

The Parent Council meeting for the month of June will be held at School Two, 670 Mill Street, tomorrow at 2 p.m. Title I also services Belleville Public Schools one, two, four and nine and St. Anthony's, St. Mary's, St. Peter's and Holy Family Schools.

The second application meeting for the 1975/76 school year will be held at School Two on Tuesday June 17 at 2 p.m.

Memo to Congress

(The following is a memorandum sent to several U.S. Congressmen by its author, Mrs. Judith Kraemer, a Belleville resident stationed with her husband in Worms, Germany.)

"There may not be too many military families in the Belleville area," writes Mrs. Kraemer, "but I feel this memo deals with much more than the military."

If the best you can do is pick on the freight and overhead charges of the U.S. military commissary system as one of the most urgent cuts to be made in the defense budget, all I can say is, keep up the good work. You're all battling a thousand. That Congress has consistently picked on the ones who can least afford it is becoming the blackest mark on our system of government.

You "consider" the "American Taxpayer" when it serves your purposes. Any junior in high school knows there are two ways to come to a conclusion: (1) consider all the information, pro and con, and then make your decision on the basis of all the information, or (2) make your conclusions before starting and then find theories to suit your conclusions. The "American Taxpayer theory" always fills the bill. The best part of it is (from your standpoint) that he hasn't yet realized that he's being used.

How can you justify a submarine—one submarine—that costs two billion dollars (that's two and nine zeros, folks) and decide that the government is going to turn out two of these wonders a year, and throw the U.S. military freight bill as some kind of mitigating crumb to the "American Taxpayer?"

You've read the "American Taxpayer" chapter and verse about the balance of payments deficit. And you've led him to believe that a good part of it is caused by all those troops and dependents in Europe. It's in the best interest of the "American Taxpayer" that we shouldn't complicate his life with details; so we won't tell him that our NATO allies picked up that bill (to the tune of the price of one of those submarines we mentioned).

Through the benevolence of the "American Taxpayer" many G.I.'s and their families have been taken off the welfare rolls. They were set on the road to prosperity (along with a hell of a lot of other civil employees). Shall we tell him that you, Mr. Representative/Senator, make $42,500, get $150,550 (if you're a Representative) and $250,000 (if you're a Senator) for staff budget; you get a free trip back to visit the "American Taxpayer" in your district or state once a month; $3,600 for stationery; free mailing (most G.I.'s had to put their tails on the line to get that in Vietnam); free telephone, medical; transportation on military planes (do you fly standby?); reimbursement on the rental of two offices in your home district; free trips abroad on official junkets, and a generous retirement after five years of service? Nah, we'll tell him that the damn military-industrial complex allows that prosperous G.I. to retire in 20 years.

And so, once again our smoke-screen angel has come to the rescue of the "American Taxpayer." The Republic is safe. The Northrop and General Dynamics families can sleep secure tonight knowing that the American G.I. is going to pay the freight bill on his groceries.

On your way.

Guglicelli liked the write-up

To the Editor:

Thanks a million for the write up. You really charged by batteries. I can't believe my plan to help the school children was such a bad idea.

It applies only to the people earning over ten thousand dollars a year, and can be claimed by them as a tax deduction on their federal tax return.

I would also be happy to donate my share ($120) to help out. My income is less than $5,000.

I will never support a school budget. There are many people like me who feel it has too much fat in it. Too many mistakes have been made in the front office by some members on the Board. The new high school built in a mud hole that they sneaked in through the back door is one of them.

Schools are for education. All school personnel are entitled to their step up—nothing more. They can also receive unemployment benefits if they receive no income during their vacation months.

When school budgets are defeated there must be something wrong. When appeals are made by the Board to restore the cuts made by the Commission at the request of the people, that's politics. Not once to my knowledge did any Board member ever go to Trenton and beg for funds. They have there a special fund for any city that can prove it is in bad shape. Belleville is one of them.

Many politicians are good story tellers. When it comes time to produce they look the other way. All those new programs including the extra taxes to help the schools are a joke. So is the income tax. Very little will go to the schools.

My plan would be a blessing for the children. The money is to be used to restore any programs cut by the Board.

Local shops ugly; she goes elsewhere

To the Editor:

I am a fairly new resident of Belleville. It is very discouraging to discover that our town has a very unattractive shopping center and is lacking a supermarket on Washington Avenue relatively accessible to most of the townspeople.

Most of my neighbors and myself do our shopping in Nutley because of it's attractive surroundings and looked-after appearance.

I hope the Planning Board and townspeople will move swiftly in making Belleville a community we can all be proud of.

Something's happening out there

By PAUL STERN

There are days, sometimes, when being a local newsmen scares me. It's not the work, or the people, or anything I do. It's what I don't do.

There is such a thing, I'm learning, as too much Belleville consciousness. Too often I content myself with dealing with the events that fill or problems that pester this community. Too easily I retreat into the circumscribed little life of chronicling graduations, petty political squabbles, dinner parties, baseball games and engagements.

Out there, somewhere, is something bigger, more important, more pressing—maybe even more catastrophic or worthwhile—than what's going on in Belleville. There are other events pressing themselves upon us all—if we care to look.

This week I had to look, if briefly and incompletely, at something going on in Congress that indeed affects us all. I didn't want to look. I didn't think to. A screaming letter made me.

I'm referring now to "A memo to

As I gather, Judith and her husband (and many military families like them) are having a tough time of it serving our nation. Every average American, she points out, has been the victim of the system in which we place our faith. It is a common feeling these days. "The average citizen today," said a radio broadcaster recently, "believes the government is run off, by and for big business." Do we want to think that over? Only when we're forced to.

Consider, then, what Mrs. Kraemer writes in the cover letter accompanying her memo:

"We think the American Taxpayer has been sold another bill of goods on the prosperous new Volunteer Army. A few details you might be interested in about a G.I. stationed in Germany: it costs on the average of $500 for yearly car insurance, less for a VW, of course, and as high as $1200 if it's a big Buick that still has a payment in the glove compartment. ## Golden Comments

By James R. Golden

It would appear that Commission candidate Joe Domanti a lawyer, explained it best at the public meeting of candidates at the local high school, prior to the election, when discussing the subject of revaluation which had been shelved by the Commissioners after a violent outburst of public opposition to such a move.

The eloquent, colorful attorney rightly commented, in words to this effect: often when we put things in the closet they have a devastating way of falling out again when we open the closet door. He was absolutely correct.

It is a scant few weeks since election and we are again being plagued with the threat of costly revaluation to the tune of $120,000 to a firm WITHOUT a bid. This is disgraceful.

Let us see what Nutley's Revenue and Finance Director has to say about the pros and cons of advertising for bids from firms dealing in revaluation work. Commissioner William J. Jernick is outstandingly respected as one of the most competently qualified and informed finance directors in the state. He says, "It has always been our policy to go out for bids and I intend to continue this policy now."

Commenting further, Commissioner Jernick pointing out that although the law permits Nutley to hire a professional firm such as a revaluation company without the benefit of the closed bidding process, he wouldn't even consider such an idea — "not only because I don't believe our taxpayers would stand for it, but because of all the indictments we've had around this state with contracts and charges of rigging bids, I just don't want Nutley to chance being even a tiny bit close to that kind of criticism or controversy." BRAVO!

Our Belleville Commissioners had better take heed to Jernick's words. The taxpayers of this town have had enough. Why must Belleville and other suburban towns obey orders that the City of Newark has flouted and defiantly refused to comply with for over two years? Isn't that discrimination whereby the property owners of the suburbs must not only carry the costs of running their own towns and schools, but are compelled to "shell out" more tax money to carry the wasteful, mismanaged administrative affairs of Newark's government which adamantly refused to comply with the same orders we are contemplating to observe?

The political office holders of our suburban communities should be less obsequious to the orders of the County Board of Taxation, The State Division of Taxation and the orders of the Courts until there is justice and equality that demonstrates that all municipalities comply with the regulations with the same treatment.

If the officials of Newark can get away with "thumbing their noses" at the orders of all these agencies and august bodies, why the hell should we taxpayers be "saddled" with the burden of making up for Newark's refusal to go along as ordered? We shouldn't and our town leaders should "put their foot down" and flatly stand upon a strong policy of insisting that they will only comply when Newark obeys the orders which were issued more than two years ago.

Should our Belleville officials not offer stout resistance to any move to force revaluation here, until Newark obeys its requirement to do so, there will be strong opposition. Many political repercussions loom in the offing.

Some of our Commissioners expressed opposition to revaluation both as incumbents and candidates in the past town election. Their stand on this highly controversial issue will be under close surveillance and could do much to affect their standing in the popularity poll. Likewise, standing eagerly in the wings are some of the vanquished candidates anxiously watching developments as they stalk the commissioner's moves in the hope of winning fame and recognition for their help and assistance in aiding our harassed taxpayers in their battle to thwart the expected drive to move for revaluation.

It will be interesting to see how well campaign promises will be kept.

FLIGHT 897

Flight to a new land

By FRANK A. ORECHIO

FATHER'S DAY—To each of us the occasion has a different meaning. My memory recalls a story told to me of the life and times of an immigrant child.

He was fourteen when he sailed aboard a freighter from the shores of his native land to find a new home three thousand miles across the sea. He could neither read nor write, but within his powerfully built body was a good, 2nd ample heart pulsating to the rhythm of sounds from the distant shores of a strange land filled with the promise of a new life. Facing the dark uncertainty of a sea voyage—the unknown of a new land—possessing no skills but that of a shepherd—he was unafraid—and with remarkable courage this fourteen-year old boy left behind his mother, father, and family members in a daring pursuit of a better life.

For him, this would be the first time ever he would be away overnight from his birthplace.

He arrived in the foreign, mythical land as the old century was giving way to the twentieth, unable to speak the language nor understand its customs.

But in this experience he was not alone—for thousands of his countrymen preceded him and hundreds of thousands more, were to follow him—males, females, babies, teenagers, and adults.

Ellis Island was their first stop—an experience better to be forgotten, for the cruel dog pounds of yesteryear were like country estates compared to the squalid quarters of Ellis Island.

He survived the pushing around, the insults hurled at "greenhorns," the epithets reserved for ethnic immigrants from southern Europe. Like dumb cattle they were herded about from one staging area to another—not knowing what to expect next.

With dauntless courage and determined grit he managed to survive the unpleasant experience of Ellis Island—an experience that scared his teenage memory. He wasn't bitter—just shocked, surprised and numbed—he had dreamed dreams of a friendly, hospitable people in America so he couldn't help but compare the reception at Ellis Island with a tenderness and loving care he and his comrades showered upon dumb animals back in his native country.

He finally made it into the warm embrace of an older brother.

By foot (plenty of it, too), rail, and horse-drawn carriage, the immigrant finally made it to New Jersey—a place where an older brother found shelter a year earlier.

Before he had time to firmly plant his feet on American soil, a job opportunity arose—the wages—50 cents for a twelve-hour day. He accepted—and though it seemed like an eternity—a year or so later, a job offer was available from a company, (later to become Public Service Transportation), at one dollar per day. He couldn't resist the new job challenge and higher wages—so he switched—a move that led him into marrying a native of his home land whom he met through family circle piques.

And so it came to pass that this immigrant established a home on a dollar-a-day income, a borrowed kitchen set, with a loving, dedicated wife, and a mind and heart determined to be a winner.

Working day and night, Saturdays and Sundays, moonlighting at any job available, skilled or unskilled, this immigrant boy grew into manhood proudly boasting of home ownership, and a loving, devoted wife who quit her job pitting cherries to concentrate all her time and energies on being a mother and a housewife. She succeeded at both.

For his part, he lived just long enough to pay off his home mortgage, see his children complete their schooling, and his boys establish their own businesses.

He lived a life that made him one of the millions of unsung, unheralded, nameless heroes of America. He insisted that his sons and daughter meet the most stringent behavior standards, developing integrity, character, family honor, community pride and respect for the laws of his adopted country.

Early on, he mastered the English language to a point where he could speak it well and be understood thoroughly—and still determined to learn to write English—at age 58, he sat evenings at the kitchen table with his middle son teaching him the English language.

He had a fierce belief people should pay their just debts. As for lending money, on one occasion his middle son asked for a thousand-dollar loan for a business venture. "Ok, Son, here it is. You pay it back, and it will be there the next time you need it."

He was a good and decent man. He was the finest husband, and he was a most inspiring father.

His code of living was there for his children to emulate.

He died young—at a point in life when he had everything to live for—a lifetime of hard work behind him—but he was destined to die too soon—he died before he had the opportunity to see his sons blossom into manhood, achieving undreamed honors and glory at the hands of his adopted community's voters. He was my father—Pasquale Orechio.

Album review

John Prine's riddles rhyme

By ANTHONY BUCCINO

John Prine is a folk-rock singer-songwriter. His voice has that dumptruck on travel appeal. His lyrics are glimpses of the world around us; the very familiar short stories that seem only to flash once in a great while through our minds.

His latest release is "Common Sense."

A catchy melody sparks "That Close To You," a lover's lament that grabs the emotion of "a drowning man that will never go under." "He Was In Heaven Before He Died" is about trying to tell your best friend you love him when it is too late for words.

Cheerful Calypso music and a sparkling piano, played by Alan Hand, highlight "Forbidden Jimmy." However the verse is riddles and the rhymes are abstract.

"Saddle In The Rain" effects the feeling only a "Rough Rider" could feel "afterneath" he's "lain his saddle in the rain." "Middle Man" is a foolish song that fades into a "Spanish Pipe Dream." It survives merely on its be-bop music.

"Wedding Day In Funeralville" is a foot stomping picture-song rambling into an incoherent dead end. Broken fantasies and washed out wishes leaves the listener to "Way Down" "Peeking thru Venetian blinds" not knowing "all that fear begins and ends the same place here."

"Come Back To Us Barbara Lewis Hare Krishna Beauregard" is a slow, bluesy, Bonnie Raitt on harmony number about the many minds lost to the hippie culture.

A lively version of an old '64 Chuck Berry song, "You Never Can Tell" is recorded with the horns and big band sound of other popular records today. It is not John Prine's regular style but it works well on this new album.

JV baseball coach compliments team

To the Editor:

I would like to extend my personal congratulations to the players of the Belleville J.V. baseball team for having been the first team in the history of Belleville High School to achieve an undefeated season.

I would also like to thank the team's managers (James DiModica and Willy Lippolis) and statisticians (Donna Berrigan and Deni Lijo) whose efforts and assistance made such a season possible.

Last but not least, a word of thanks to all the loyal students, parents, and fans who followed and supported our team this season.

I am very grateful and honored to have been a part of this wonderful experience. Again, congratulations and thanks to you all.

We still get crumbs

To the Editor:

I do not believe the home owners would object to paying a few extra tax dollars to help out the cities where they live.

What I do object to is those extra tax dollars we are forced to pay to the federal, State and County governments. Those are the ones that really hurt the people.

All new programs approved by the legislature without the consent of the people to raise more funds—such as the sales tax, personal property tax, higher gasoline tax, the lottery and now the numbers racket—is for the benefit of the state under the control of the state. We still receive the crumbs.

That is the one point I strongly protest, that charges up my batteries, since our taxes continue to go higher and higher every year.

If the politicians really want to help in these hard times instead of creating new problems, now is the time to do so. There is a solution.

Put all the programs in the control of all local governments in each city. They have the manpower and would not create any new jobs. That would be a tremendous help to the taxpayers. The people would spend their money where they live, and not out of town.

It would also bring property taxes down, and put an end to wholesale firing of police, firemen and school teachers.

I hope our new Commissioners will join together with other cities in this matter, and work in harmony for the people they represent.

These three are the cream

Next Tuesday, seniors at Belleville high will don their caps and gowns, bid farewell to their friends and teachers, and brace themselves for the plunge into the worlds of business and higher education. Most of the students will say their good-byes privately, but three will take to the podium and speak to the assembled parents and guests for their classmates.

Belleville's top three students, valedictorian Sandra Cronauer, salutatorian Constance Meyer, and Dominick Mobilio, speaking for the Honor Group, will all deliver addresses. The trio, each writing his or her own speech, has chosen the theme, "Homo Cultus" Latin meaning "The Educated Man."

With their high school days behind them, Sandy, Connie and Dominick look back on their time at BHS with mixed emotions. Their time in high school had its highs and its lows, but, as Sandy puts it, "High school is just something we all have to go through."

In the case of these three students, they are coming through the experience as the highest ranked students in their class. Though some people may think of them as "super brains" because of their class position, they don't see themselves as such. Connie voiced the opinion of the three, saying, "Some people think you spend all your time with your nose in a book studying, and others think that you were just born with all this knowledge. All it actually is is that when you have homework to do, you do it. If you know you have to study for a test, you study. That's all it is."

While they are all headed for college, Sandra, Connie and Dominick aren't all that certain that they have been as well educated and prepared for future studies as they might have been. They are at times critical of their alma mater. Dominick, for example, isn't convinced that his language training at Belleville high was up to par, and bluntly summed up his feelings about his language training, saying, "Our language department stinks." He elaborated by saying, "I don't think they really motivate anyone here when they teach a language. They don't make you work at it. I'm going to have to continue taking a language in college, and it's the one area that I am really worried about."

There were, of course, bright spots in their Belleville high careers, most of them in extra-curricular activities they have joined. Connie was a member of the chorus, the madrigal group and, of course, the Honor Society. She was also student choreographer for the senior class production of "Mame" Sandy was a member of the chorus, the madrigal group, the Honor Society and sang in the chorus in "Mame" Dominick mixed music with athletics and service to the school as a member of the band the orchestra, a runner in track and cross country, captain of the stage crew, a member of the Key Club, and a member of the Honor Society. He also attended Boys' State last summer.

After their moments in the sun at commencement exercises, the three can look forward to starting college in the fall. Connie, the daughter of George and Frances Meyer, 152 Fairway Avenue, will attend Douglass College, majoring in dance.

Dominick, son of Carmen and Louise Mobilio, 19 Rossmore Place, will attend Rutgers in New Brunswick to pursue a degree in chemistry.

Sandy, whose parents Joseph and Arlene Cronauer reside at 153 Fairway Avenue, plans to attend Cornell University in Ithaca, New York, and work towards a degree in horticulture.

Speakers—BHS's top three students, Connie Meyer, Dominick Mobilio and Sandy Cronauer will all speak at commencement exercises on the theme "Homo Cultus."

Ground broken for senior center

By JODI MASSONE

One year ago

A ground breaking ceremony was due the following month to initiate construction of the proposed senior citizen center at Franklin Avenue and Mill Street.

The announcement was made by Commissioner of Parks and Public Property, Michael Marotti.

The Belleville seniors had been meeting at the Amvets Hall, on Newark Avenue, where they still meet until the completion of the new quarters.

Original plans called for a building location at the old Camp Carragher grounds in the northwest section of town. Neighbors being what they often are, objected, and because of their objections plus difficulties in construction and transportation, Marotti switched the new center's location to the Franklin and Mill Street spot.

The new senior citizen bus, which was recently put into operation, was passing the "spot" for the new center eight times daily.

Seniors' and junior, both, hitch-hikers, walkers, old and young, alike, were asked to get out their bikes. The Belleville Jaycees were sponsoring a "Bike Rally" for Belleville residents of all ages the coming Saturday. The event was to include the official registration of each bicycle by the Belleville Police Department; inspection, maintenance and safety tips, and an obstacle/skill course. Prizes were to include bike accessories.

Ten years ago

Mary Senatore was re-elected Chairman of the Town Democratic Party, but it was really her first term. The reason was that in her earlier terms she ended in ties with her opponents, and had to finally be named to her position by Essex County Democratic Chairman Dennis F. Carey. This time, Mrs. Senatore won her first victory on the ballots of Town District leaders.

School Superintendent Dr. Frank M. Durkee, after much bickering an procrastination, was ordered by the School Board to hand over his "briefcase." In short, he was asked to relinquish all school documents, letters, contracts and materials relating to the school system by 11 a.m. the following morning. The order was passed by a 4-3 bloc vote.

Durkee, in the meantime, was not just busy packing—he was spending time writing a letter, which he sent to the county superintendent, in which he criticized the adequacy of School Business Administrator Harold A. Duffer.

Remember "Peyton Place" on T.V.—There never was a climax to the many happenings that occurred, but still ardent Peyton Place viewers could not get enough of the "soap opera" type series. Well, were those people in for a back-slapping good time! Playing at Nutley's Franklin Theater was "Peyton Place," and "Return to Peyton Place." It was the town and people that everyone was talking about. Wow! Was that a double feature, if I've ever seen one!

There was a really BIG ad in the TIMES. It said, "Have you heard the news? A new neighbor is coming to Newark—The new North Newark Record." I wonder what happened to that newspaper? I was the "Lois Lane" of that prestigious publication, and if I don't know what happened, there's only one person who does—my boss. I miss my old press-roommate, the Newark Record, and I hope some people way out there in North Newark miss it almost as much as they miss "Peyton Place."

For some reason, I'm reminded of rhubarb, and rhubarb season is on it's way. In 1965 a strawberry rhubarb pie was 49 cents. I wonder what the price of this delicacy is this fine June?

It was ten years ago that our Mayor Marotti was re-elected for the seventh time as president of the Town Patrolmen's Benevolent Association.

Head of the juvenile division, Marotti, was an active worker for the town's Little League.

Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Parsells of Washington Avenue had two friends in Washington. They were more than just "common people", they were President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower. They were long-time friends and proved that fame did not change them. The president and his wife, Mamie, mailed personal congratulations to the Parsells on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

Forty-five years ago

The Saints would come marching in to Silver Lake, but without the fanfare and fireworks that they had previously been accustomed to. Town Inspector of Combustibles, Frank Fuselli, declared fireworks taboo. He especially wanted to convey the message to two Silver Lake religious societies that were soon to celebrate the birthdays of their patron saints.

Fuselli quoted a law prohibiting the shooting of dangerous fireworks. Since 4th of July is just "around the corner" an elaboration is in order. "Dangerous" applies to all pyrotechnics used in Independence Day Celebrations.

I don't know what's happened to the law in recent years, but if you're around town and have nothing special to do, visit Silver Lake on a "feast day" and you'll see that the "Saints Come Marching In" with as much noise as a Cape Kennedy blast-off!

Graduation day

By Chris Manning

The graduating classes throughout the past ten years have had ceremonies quite similar to one another. This year, however, the class of '75 will be the first to change this ritual into a colorful and formal ceremony.

Although a large portion of the ceremony will remain unaltered, certain segments will most certainly add to its appearance, thus making it a little more appealing to the parents, relatives and friends of those graduating.

The actual ceremony will be divided into two sections, the first of which will begin with the processional. The Invocation will be read by Rabbi Herbert Horowitz, who has attended previous Belleville High School graduations in the past.

One of the more recent changes in the ceremony is the flag salute, which the Vice President, Mike Freda, will lead. The flag salute will be followed by the National Anthem played by the high school band. Senior John Codomo will sing this patriotic song along with the band.

Then to rap up the first section, high school teacher Ralph Correll will play Belleville's Alma Mater while a select group of seniors sing along. Previously the Alma Mater was played at the end of the ceremony; however, almost the entire audience and student body had already gone. Therefore, this year Principal Raymond O. Smith felt it appropriate to have the Alma Mater played more towards the middle of the ceremony.

The second section involves the commencement. Speakers, Valedictorians Sandra Cronauer and Constance Meyer, and Salutatorian Domenick Mobilio will make their customary speeches. Their speeches will be followed by the band's interpretation of "It's A Small World."

After a number of speeches by Mr. Smith, the diplomas will be awarded to the Class of '75. Mr. Richard Mahmarian, President of the Board of Education will hand out the diplomas while Chris Manning, President of the senior class, reads off the names of those who will receive them.

The graduation ceremony will then be concluded by the newest addition introduced into this festivity. Instead of the seniors throwing up their hats after the class Presidents name is said, the seniors will file out of the seats and form a huge circle in the front of the announcement platform. Then at a designated time the seniors will then proceed to throw their hats into that hopeful blue sky. With this final burst of excitement, the graduation ceremony is concluded.

By constant planning and rearranging on the part of Mr. Smith and a group of seniors, this year's graduation ceremony may prove to be one of the finest in a long time. With the Cooperation of the senior class this hour and a half ceremony will go smoothly and quickly.

With only one practice the class of '75 may have to play it by ear and manage the best they possibly can. For on Tuesday, June 17 at 6:30 each senior will take that one great step in his or her life and hopefully not e will trip on the platform steps when doing so.

BOTH LOOKING TOWARD THE FUTURE.

Top three students make the speeches

By ROBERT SCHRIEK

Seniors Sandy Cronauer, Connie Meyer and Domenick Mobilio have been named Belleville High School's best graduating students this year.

Named at the recent Scholastic Awards Dinner in the high school cafeteria, Sandy and Connie were given honorary titles as Valedictorian and Salutatorian, respectively. Domenick received the third highest graduating honors.

These top students had the highest numerical averages out of an honors group of 25 whose members had the highest academic averages of the senior class. According to Mr. Rocco Cafone, senior class guidance counselor, and Mr. Zerman Knuppel, head of the guidance department, Sandy, Connie and Domenick were selected strictly on the basis of the numerical averages.

A system of "quality points" was used in making the determination, accounting for the students' past four years' grades. The point scale ran four points for an "A," three for a "B," two for a "C," and one for a "D." For those students who had enriched courses, an extra point was added onto the scale, shifting it to five points for an "A," four for a "B," and so on. Additional points were also given to students who took more courses than necessary for graduation.

When the tallying was over, Sandy, Connie and Domenick came out on top.

Sandy, the valedictorian, and Connie, the salutatorian, were both surprised when they learned at the dinner they had been chosen. Both girls have been close friends, going to the same grammar school and engaging in many of the same activities. After graduation, Sandy will attend Cornell University and will major in horticulture. Presently Sandy enjoys gardening, but is not sure what line of employment she would like after college. In high school, Sandy performed in the chorus, madrigals, and was a member of the National Honor Society.

Connie, after graduation, will attend Douglass College in New Brunswick and plans to major in modern dance. Connie enjoys dancing and is currently doing so in a studio workshop jazz company. In addition to dancing, Connie is a member of the National Honor Society, chorus, madrigals and was the student choreographer for the senior class production of "Mame."

This fall, Domenick will attend Rutgers College in New Brunswick and will major in chemistry. He enjoys chess, baseball, listening to records and his favorite subject in high school was mathematics, especially calculus.

Domenick has been very active at Belleville High, participating in the band, track and cross country teams, chess club, Key Club and the National Honor Society. He was also manager of the baseball team in ninth grade, and was captain of the Belleville stage crew.

These three students will deliver their speeches at the graduation ceremonies this coming Tuesday.

Last fling

By JUDY HALBERT

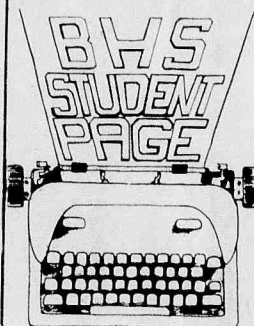

June 17 will be a day for seniors to rejoice and regret, to leave one life and continue on to another, to leave a familiar world and enter an unfamiliar one.

But before this happens, all seniors and faculty members are invited to a farewell graduation party, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Amvets Hall on Newark Avenue.

This will be the last senior activity sponsored by the senior class.

Planned by the Senior Senate, the party will feature entertainment provided by "Resin," and enough food for 300 people. All dress will be informal. The senior class will be held responsible for keeping the hall in good condition and cleaning up after the party.

Senior class president

Chris Manning gave several reasons for having the party. First, said Manning, he feels it is a good way to unite the class for one last time and at the same time give them a place to go. Chris also hopes the party will set a tradition for future graduating classes to follow.

The Class of 1975 and its officers also thanked Mayor Michael Marotti and Board of Education member Michael Chieffo for obtaining the Amvets hall for the party free of charge.

Class of '75 had busy year

The graduating class of '75 at Belleville High School can be proud of the many activities and achievements it has made throughout the school year. These activities were designed to keep the senior class busy all year long and that's just what they did. On the whole this has been one of the most active graduating classes in recent years at B.H.S.

As of this writing, Belleville can be said to be one of the few schools in the state to turn out winning records in all varsity sports. Of course this was not achieved by the seniors alone. If it were not for the many talented underclassmen also on these sports programs, this may have not been the case. But, with the leadership of the seniors and the backing of the underclassmen, BHS teams have had winning seasons in football, cross country, basketball, wrestling, track, baseball and crew. The girl's varsity basketball and baseball teams also turned in very respectable records.

Programs sponsored by the seniors during the year included: the senior class play "Mame" which went off in April and was a huge success; the recent senior class trip in May which proved to be another big success; the senior class picnic in Riverside Park, Lyndhurst; the decorating of the senior hall at Christmas time, and all the dances sponsored during the year by the class. The class also plans to have a graduation party at the Amvets Hall after they all receive those treasured diplomas.

All in all, it has been a busy and prosperous year for the graduating class of '75. All will be relieved to graduate on June 17, but they will not forget the great three years they have just completed at B.H.S. Three years of memories of those "good 'ole high school days."

Commencement

By LINDA BRIDGE

To accomplish a goal in life like striving to reach the top of a mountain, but slipping and falling down when so close to a dream.

Never giving up, because there is faith, convincing you that nothing can get in your way, still never reaching that destiny.

Prayers can not help, becoming weak, disappointed, failure once more, never to master a dream, only to hope that one day... that the top can be achieved.

Face to face with the economy

By BRIAN WOOD

Back in the late sixties, the job market for graduates was better, but there were problems other than unemployment which worried the student looking for a job. This was the anti-establishment tag placed on most of them by the older generation. This was the "hippie" generation who viewed old ideas as only old ideas and wanted to change them drastically so they would fit their own needs.

During this period students rioted and protested, frequently taking over schools. The situation became a bomb which exploded on society. Much controversy developed between the younger generation and the establishment.

Recently, however, things have changed.

The protests are diminishing, if they haven't completely disappeared already. Student takeovers of schools are a rarity. Mutual feelings have developed between the two "different" generations. The students have gone back to schoolwork and the adults back to their jobs.

But what has happened to the economy these adults are supposed to be running? Could it be just a natural breakdown? Were these adults as students left an ailing economy by their parents? Possibly. But then why is the economy in worse shape than it has been since the 1930's? Have economics changed that much in the last 35 years? Again, possibly, and probably.

What one has now are students who are paying large sums of money and sacrificing a few more years of their life in hopes that the extra education will help them tremendously on the job market. But they just aren't getting those jobs. They are not the only ones who are hurt. In most cases it is the students' parents who are scraping and saving to get that money and send them to college. They want their son or daughter to make something of themselves, in many cases, something of which they never had the opportunity to become. They are their second chance of achievement in life. The college graduate used to be a symbol of achievement for many parents. But, can one say that now when the graduate cannot even find a job after college?

Hopefully, within the next few years our economic system will have recovered fully and along with it will come more jobs for graduates and the unemployed. How about the student who had planned to go to college in the future but rejects it out of fear that it is only a waste of time and that if he wants a job he had better start looking right away? If hordes of students think in this manner one finds another problem. The lack of students to support the colleges and universities. Should they suffer from a problem they did not create? Then again should the American economy suffer from a problem created by foreigners? Or have some problems been brought on by the American economy itself? In the long run, one finds the prestige that used to come along with the college degree must be restored. It is not right for qualified students in various fields of work to be left with jobs from the bottom of the barrel.

America needs a sure way of preparing its younger generation for the future. But, is there a sure way?

This year's Monad a little bit different

By JENNIFER CISERO

Along with graduation and the senior party, the yearbook is another aspect of the senior year's closing pages. Three years of the seniors' lives are captured in pictures and words. One black and white picture can bring back memories.

As in previous years, the anticipation of what the yearbook is leaves many seniors over-anxious "to get their hands on it." After long and careful consideration, the yearbook staff selected Monad's theme for 1975: "That's Entertainment."

Readers sometimes overlook all the work and time involved in the creation of the Monad. The staff consisted of 13 creative girls: Maria Spagnoletti, Jayne Taskalos, Julia Whelan, Felicia Donna Berrigan and Julia Whelan, Felicia DeFalco, Susan Narucki, Anita Corriveau, Karen Guancione, Bonnie Low, Mary Jane Izzo, Natalie Aiello, Lori Giordana Morra.

This year, as in previous years, the seniors will see a few changes in the Monad. To reveal these modifications might destroy the excitement of receiving the book; but the cover is a blue-gray denim. Seniors may have their names printed on the cover if desired, and plastic covers for the book's protection are also available.

The 1975 Monad features a senior directory, which lists each senior's name, nickname, activities, likes and dislikes. All information on the seniors was obtained through forms distributed to the seniors in the fall. In the process of creating this year's book, the staff tried to aim toward a magazine style with a professional flare and modern layouts. In the past, posed pictures dominated the scene, but this year candid shots are highlighted. For the first time in recent years, eight pages of color photographs appear. Most of the photos were taken by Monad's own photographer, Susan Narucki.

Making a good yearbook requires not only talent, but also financing. The Monad staff started an advertising campaign to finance the book late last year. In November, Monad production began.

After developing the overall theme, the Monad staff began work on the senior and underclassmen sections, moving later to school activities and faculty. Various committees handler section was supervised by Maria Spagnoletti, Karen Guancione and Mary Jane Izzo; the underclassmen section by Natalie Aiello, Donna Berrigan, Lori Giordano and Debbie Morra, Jayne Taskalos, Julia Whelan and Felicia DeFalco prepared the faculty section; while Susan Narucki, Anita Corriveau and Bonnie Low handled activities.

This year's Monad, which was $12 per copy, was published by the Taylor Publishing Company in Texas.

Thanks, guys

By PEGGY BENNETT

As the graduating class of 1975 leaves Belleville High School, it would like to extend its thanks to senior class advisors Mr. Dan Grasso and Mr. Robert McDonough.

Their patience and cooperation were major factors in making this year a success.

While reminiscing about the past year, Mr. Grasso said "the class was very enthusiastic and unified. The students always followed through with their plans, and never had any major problems."

I have never seen such school spirit in BHS," said Mr. McDonough, adding he believes that spirit grew from the successful class play "Mame," dances, the senior Christmas party, an overnight trip to Fernwood, Pa., and many other events.

Besides being a success scholastically, this year has been one of entertainment! giving much pleasure to the underclassmen as well as seniors.

Lead by Chris Manning, president; Mike Freda, vice president; Barbara Lopusak, treasurer, and Maria Angelina, secretary; the class held a few extra-curricular activities, such as the student-organized picnic.

"The seniors did a lot of work on their own," Mr. Grasso said. "They were never any trouble. They were good organizers and worked very hard to make this year a success."

Frett Sulker, a shifty halfback
Ghastly Milk, a wealthy cafeteria monitor
Honeydew, Ghastly's wife
Hammy, Farfetched's mammy
six committeemen
five servants

The scene opens on Terra, the plantation home of Farfetched O'Darrow. The camera pans the grounds, starting from the rear of Terra. Following the contours of the open green fields, high granite mountain, down to the shallow duck-pond and patio.

The camera then zooms up to the servants' entrance and follows the concrete walk up to the flagpole where ole Stars and Bars proudly waves. Following scene is a wide angle shot of the plantation's main entrance, its majestic cement columns glistening in the morning sun. A thick, damp fog settles around the plantation as the scene dissolves to:

A small, chair-filled second floor anteroom. Farfetched O'Darrow, a small, flighty woman wearing a blue woolen cape monogrammed with a gold letter "T", sits at a desk. Frett Sulker, a shifty halfback just returning from defending Terra against the Raiders on the Plains of Rocky, enters from downstage left.)

FARFETCHED: Oh, Frett, you've returned—and so soon, why your cookies are still raw.

FRETT: Yes, Farfetched, my dear, I've been released from active duty. When General Tomboy T. Atsett cut the deck, my dear, he dealt me out of the hand.

FARFETCHED: You know, Frett, you always had trouble hurdling those obstacles. But, Frett, darlin', forget those defeats now. I need your help to save our beloved Terra. The #!! is coming to condemn Terra unless we effect major renovations. Oh, Frett, you must help me. (Farfetched begins to weep a little.)

FRETT: There now, my dear, we'll fix this here place up like new so no mean ole little #!! will repossess our Terra. Come, Farfetched, let's take a tour of Terra to see what repairs need be made. (Frett takes Farfetched by the arm and leads her out into the hall as the scene dissolves to: A long, marble floored corridor lined with heavy padlocked vaults. Frett and Farfetched are seen coming down the passageway from downstage right.)

FARFETCHED: This is where Terra's fortune is kept, Frett. Behind these locked doors is stored all the wealth of the world. Unfortunately, the combinations have long since been lost, and the treasures are inaccessible to us forever. (Suddenly, the camera zooms in on the distraught faces of five servants who are screaming incoherently. The scene then opens into a wide angle shot of the servants running, followed closely by an immense tidal wave.)

FRETT: Farfetched, look out! (instinctively, Frett slams on his helmet, thrusts Farfetched under his arm, and stiff arms the wall of water as they both leap to safety.) Phew! That was close.

FARFETCHED: Frett, you were magnificent! Pity you couldn't do that on the Plains of Rocky.

FRETT: I do much better in mud than on dry land. (Frett and Farfetched continue their evaluation of Terra as the scene cuts to:

Interior of a vestibule, where Farfetched is surrounded by the six committeemen, one of which hands her a summons.)

FARFETCHED: What! What's this for, sugar? #!! It's a quarantine, Miss Farfetched. This plantation is infected with the dreaded disease, Scarlet Fever. Your servants are dropping like flies, ma'am, and the flies ain't feeling too well, either. (enter from upstage right Ghastly Milk and his bride, Honeydew.)

GHASTLY: What is the meaning of this, sir? Imagine these Crankies coming into my restaurant, a fine establishment that serves good food at reasonable prices, and closing it up. Yes, sirs, you heard me, closing it up!

FARFETCHED: Horrors!

FRETT: That's ghastly, Ghastly.

Quietly, another of the committeemen, hands Farfetched another summons.)

FARFETCHED: What's this? Another quarantine?

QUIETLY: Not exactly, ma'am. It's an eviction notice.

FARFETCHED: (bewildered) Why, I haven't done anything this year?

QUIETLY: That's precisely why, Miss Farfetched.

FARFETCHED: (indignantly) I won't stand for it! I'll have Frett here expel you from my house.

QUIETLY: That's odd, I was thinking the exact same thing about you. (Camera focuses on upstage left where Hammy enters excitedly.)

HAMMY: Miss Farfetched! Miss Farfetched!

FARFETCHED: What is it, Hammy?

HAMMY: All the servants have done packed they bags and took up and left!

FARFETCHED: Without giving me any excuses or even a note?

HAMMY: That's plumb right, Miss Farfetched. Said they's gone out loose from you.

#!! I'm afraid, Miss O'Darrow, that we're going to have to take Terra away from you. You can't afford the upkeep.

FARFETCHED: I will never let Terra go. Never, Never! All my friends will help me keep her. We will work and sweat and strive to make Terra the glorious productive plantation she once was. All of my friends will help me, Ghastly—

GHASTLY: Count me out, Farfetched. I have my own failing business to worry about.

FARFETCHED: But surely your wife, Honeydew, will HONEYDEW: Sorry, sugar, I'm too petite for that kind of work.

FARFETCHED: I have my mammy, Hammy, to see me HAMMY: Don't look at me, Missy. I have seen the light. I'm gonna join my people.

FARFETCHED: But I still have Frett, dear, faithful, loving—

FRETT: No, Farfetched, I've had it with your crazy notions and foolhardy ideas.

FARFETCHED: But, Frett, we've grown here together. We've had a lot of good times here, didn't we, Frett? And what about the children? Surely, we can't leave them to fend for themselves. We have to make life better for them so they won't go through the hardships we have. And most important, Frett, surely, surely you'd do it for me, for Terra, for your sacred honor—

FRETT: Frankly, Farfetched, I don't give a damn.

(Frett turns quickly and leaves the vestibule through the main portal. The camera follows him until he is out of sight, and the scene dissolves to:

The End.)

Senioritis epidemic strikes Belleville High School

By MICHAEL PERRONE

With increasing frequency, outbreaks of acute senioritis are being reported throughout Belleville High School. During the past three weeks the disease has been reaching epidemic proportions.

The first indication of any trouble came on the Monday after the senior class trip. Most teachers had anticipated a day of daydreaming, idleness and student rowdiness.

They were wrong. A sudden outbreak of the disease caused huge numbers to stay home.

According to authorities, senioritis is highly contagious, its symptoms often unnoticeable until the disease is in the malignant stages. The "seniorious outaschoolus" germ which causes the ailment usually begins to increase its activity as the warm weather sets in.

The infection usually first strikes the brain, causing it to slow down all activities. Eventually, with the exception of involuntary reactions such as breathing and heartbeat, all body functions come to a complete standstill.

Most teachers recognize the symptoms of senioritis immediately. Around late April, seniors begin to stare out windows with increased frequency. Teachers rave and plead to no avail. The germ has already infected the student's hearing, and the teacher's cries fall upon deaf ears.

Later the germ infects the optical nerves. In this stage, students frequently drop their pens and books. Some students' vision is impaired so badly they cannot tell which locker is their own. In such cases it is not uncommon for a student to attempt opening 30 or 40 lockers while searching for his own. If and when the right locker is found, the class for which the student went to get his books is usually over. Even if the period is not over, the student's vision is so impaired that finding the classroom is next to impossible.

Often a student will mistake an exit for a classroom door. In these cases the students usually end up home. Other students roam the halls aimlessly, walking through any door, changing their course only when they find they have walked into a wall or the gymnasium shower. These are the students who most often mistake Bell-Maids Donut Shop for their physics lab.

Next the student's memory begins to falter. Many students forget their lock combinations, so even if their vision has not been affected and they can find their locker, they still can't get their books. In this stage, many students forget to go to class, and others even forget to come to school. Still others forget in which class they belong, and have been known to report in gym suits to geometry class.

The classes, by now, have all the advanced symptoms of senioritis. The students sit motionless, limbs hanging limp, mouths hanging open, a few dribbling. This is followed by a deep, rhythmic snore...

In later stages, confusion sets in. Students begin mistaking late bells for the dismissal bell. This gives the teacher three minutes to give a 45-minute lecture.

By mid-May the germ has usually infected the vocal cords. Teachers asking seniors questions always get the same response—a glassy-eyed stare and an open but mute mouth, possibly accompanied by a few inaudible syllables.

Toward the end of May, most teachers are roaming the halls trying to put together a class. The classes, once herded in, have all the advanced symptoms of senioritis. Students sit motionless, limbs hanging limp, mouths usually hanging open, a few dribbling. This is followed by total incoherence and a deep rhythmic snore. Students by this time are either staring at the ceiling or the floor—depending on whether they sleep on their stomachs or their backs.

Once in this condition, there is no reviving the student. Attempts have been made (lecturing with a bullhorn, etc.) but all have been fruitless.

One phenomenon still remains a mystery. Even though the students are in a deep somnambulist state, completely shut off from the outside world, the sound of the dismissal bell manages to penetrate the abyss of the mind and awaken the student. Some authorities attribute this reaction to the germ's sensitivity. Supposedly, the bell is of such a high decibel that it irritates the germ, causing the student to awaken and leave the area from where the sound comes—the school.

By June all seniors are stricken with the illness, making it impossible for them to come to school. In most cases students oversleep as a result of not being able to hear the alarm clock on account of their ear infection.

Other students have reported that they have awakened only to find their knees locked stiff, making it impossible for them to get up out of bed.

In one rare case a student reported that the ignition system in his car had also been infected by the germ, leaving him stranded home. In most cases, however, the student simply goes into a state of suspended animation, remaining so until graduation day.

One official theorized that the frequency and pitch of phrases such as "you better get up if you want that new motorcycle," or "if you're not up in five minutes I'm cancelling your plane reservation to Miami," irritates the germ and causes the student to wake.

Another one of the unfortunate things about the epidemic is that it is also contagious to underclassmen. Many seniors who have been suffering from the malady have been in daily contact with juniors. This explains why some students show symptoms of senioritis as early as the first day of their senior year.

Some reports claim that it is not uncommon for students to contract senioritis during their junior high school years. Other officials believe that because some students exhibit the symptoms of senioritis throughout their school years it may be that the little-known congenital senioritis is a reality—that is, that some people are born with the disease. "In any event, like death and taxes, it is one of those things which is inescapable," says one authority.

In most cases, by the fall preceding the graduation, the senioritis germ is attacked and overcome by either the collegeos or the employmentus germ. Students who contract neither of those diseases, usually begin to exhibit symptoms of acute troubleitis.

Sincere best wishes to all the 1975 graduates in town, and especially, my daughter, Linda.

Remember the big debate on whether or not? That is, should the Jaycees admit women members...and, at the national convention they decided not to. Read an article the other day where the Princeton Jaycees admitted two women "associate members"...congratulations Princeton, you men are rare!

The Belleville Chapter of AARP (American Association of Retired Persons) held their installation of officers on June 5th at Fewsmith Presbyterian Church. Rev. Board of Directors - Herbert Orth and Roberta Wertz. Nominating chairman was Mae Cassin. The group meets the first Thursday of the month at Fewsmith, but will not meet during July and August. Watch this column for news of their "doings". Also that day, the AARP members had a flower demonstration by Flowerama, which they very much enjoyed.

Speaking of summer coming up, could I ask you all to do me a favor? If your group meetings have been listed in the Bulletin Board, and if you will NOT meet during July and August, please call me to delete your meeting nights from the Bulletin Board.

Happy anniversary to Ann and Nick Catorelli...this perennially young couple has three children. Have a great year.

What's new with the Metropolitan Organ Club? Well, we have some birthday members: Camille DeJulio, Carmella Farano, Ingeborg Haus, Joseph Siena, Connie Simone and Bessie Tirone...have a happy. If you're interested in joining the M.O.C. Chorus, phone: Luella Hill, 239-4885, Ruth Rieckhof 352-9719 or Fred Trunk 743-4826...the group will sponsor a Special Father's Day Concert this Sunday at 7pm. church office, 759-6869....Brownies visited the Police Station recently and on June 9th had a "closing" party for the year. On June 12th the following girls will fly up to Mrs. Hill's Junior Troop: Laurie Jean Scott, Lesley Snyder, Nancy Ritschel, Barbara DePrizio, Joyce Morrison, Cheryl McCarthy, Theresa Weber and Laurie Schimmenti....Mrs. Bea Sheppard, Brownie Leader Troop 971, thanked her assistants Mrs. Nadine Janik and Mrs. Pat Russo and the Cadettes who gave their spare time to work with the Brownies...the Annual Church Picnic will be held Saturday June 21 at Terrace Lake...best wishes to Gerald Kendig who left for Lackland AFB in Texas for basic training...don't forget June 16th Girl Scout Dinner in the Social Hall....Daily Vacation School begins 9:30 - noon June 23.

MY TURN...I'm a wee bit de-gusted with the TV commercials we're subject to; in most cases, think the PR agencies have gone loco or, they think we have no brains. Travel along with me, if you will, and see how many of these commercials you recognize...how many more make YOU mad?

This one ad agency has EVERY account come on like Gene Kelly - no matter what they're selling, everybody jumps up and sings and dances - it turns me off....

What about the deodorant ad? They insist you try their product on your left side and your own on your right side....what if I wanna' vice-versa?

Boy oh boy, all those people that go to all those exercise spas...not an ounce of flab on them, natch.

And, how about the paper towel that picks up cups of coffee even when wet? Believe me, it doesn't work.

And, anyone who would stand still and squeeze bathroom tissue can't be all bad...can't be all "there" either.

And...it takes a very brave soul to walk up to a stranger and tell him there's a circle of dirt on his collar....why can't the guy wash his neck? And, why does he look at his wife when he's told of his "dirty ring"...if he can't wash his neck, let him wash his own shirt.

I don't care how much an ad agency would pay me...I would NOT let them show my floor if it was that dirty that the floor cleaning fluid made such a difference it went on working while I got my kid out of the tree....

That lucky girl - if she hadn't used that soap, "he" would never have taken her fishing this week end...next week out to dinner.

Another soap has great potential - the man is so clean he walks five feet off the ground!

Jury duty, raiment and Rod

Helen's thing

by Helen Maguire

There's an old saying, "Many are called, few are chosen or something very similar. Rod Maguire, through the years, has received Prospective Juror Questionnaires on a fairly regular basis but that's as far as he ever got. Until this spring. The latest query resulted in a summons to present himself for jury service the beginning of May.

He broke the news to his employer, sent a couple of suits to the cleaners and looked forward to sleeping an hour later each morning and getting home three hours earlier each evening. I have never seen any one more eager to perform his civic duty.

Day one. Attired in his dark suit, white shirt and conservative tie, the Irishman departed for Newark. After proper instructions and explanations from one of the judges, his panel was called, his name was picked and barely seated in the jury box, he was excused by either prosecution or defense (he couldn't quite remember which).

Day two. Attired in his gray suit, white shirt and slightly less conservative tie, the Irishman departed for Newark. He was called, picked, seated and excused in record time.

Day three. In black slacks, black and white sports jacket, white shirt and striped tie, the Irishman departed for Newark. Called, picked, seated and excused.

Day four. In loden green suit, yellow shirt and yellow and green striped tie, the you know who went you know where and the same series of events occurred. By this time, the other jurors on his panel were beginning to kid him about his rapid courtroom exits. "Out again, Mac?"

quipped one wit. And Rod, thoroughly bored with spending most of his day reading or playing cards, began to analyse why he was being prohibited from deciding someone's fate. Finally, he reached a conclusion.

"I think it's my image," he decided. "With the conservative clothes and the white hair, I look too 'establishment'. Tomorrow, I'm dressing differently." And the next day, off he went in one of those casual suits (a green, maroon and white check) and a dark green turtleneck. Guess what? Called, picked, seated, excused.

"That does it," he growled and departed on Day six togged out in flairs, turtleneck sweater, boots and his hair blown dry. "What happened?" I queried as he entered his domain that afternoon. "Would you believe I'm on a jury?" he beamed. "I was called, picked, seated and stayed seated. But I'll tell you," he continued. "If I hadn't gotten picked today, I was borrowing Ryan's wig and a sweatband for tomorrow!" I smiled. I would have given a lot to see that.

Although he wasn't allowed to discuss the case, he was able to reveal that it involved a murder. "Good grief," I gasped. "You really hit the jackpot!" And when the whole thing was over and the verdict rendered, I discovered that the Irishman (much to his delight, I'm sure) had been the lone man among the 12 jurors, forced to spend a considerable amount of time with 11 women. How's that for luck?

There was one piece of mail Tuesday morning. It was addressed to Helen M. Maguire and was entitled, "Prospective Juror Questionnaire."

Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Peckenham Are Honored for Service to DAR

On Tuesday afternoon May 27th, members of Yantacaw Chapter DAR enjoyed a tour of Washington's Headquarters in Morristown and a brief visit to the Force House, an historic landmark in Livingston. Prior to touring the historic sites, the women met for lunch at the Afton in Florham Park.

During the luncheon,

Campbell Stewart was honored for her long service as Registrar, Membership Chairman and Recording Secretary. Mrs. Stewart did the research authenticating the Revolutionary War backgrounds of the ten area men listed on the Revolutionary War Memorial on the High School grounds. This plaque was presented to the Town of Nutley by Yantacaw Chapter in February 1965 as a tribute to New Jersey's Tercentenary. On behalf of the chapter, the Regent, Mrs. Mortimer C. Keeney, presented a DAR Bicentennial pin to Mrs. Stewart.

Mrs. Thomas Peckenham was also honored for her service to DAR. Mrs. Peckenham will move to Maine next month. Her gift was a silver candlestick of colonial design, bearing the DAR Bicentennial logo. The Regent announced her appointment of Mrs. Anthony J. Capriglione to complete Mrs. Peckenham's term of office.

Arrangements for the luncheon and tour were made by Mrs. Britton R. Hallowell, Chapter Program Chairman.

Mother, daughter earn nursing pins in tandem

"Like mother, like daughter" is an apt phrase for describing Newark residents Mrs. Algarene Williams and Mrs. Gwendolyn Williamson. Both women received their nurse's pins in an historic "first" at the Essex County College Allied Health Pinning Ceremony. The pins are a recognition of having completed nursing course requirements. Mrs. Williams, the mother, and her daughter, Mrs. Williamson, each received Associate in Applied Science degrees in nursing as well as the Essex County College May 18th Commencement ceremony.

before I came to Essex County College, but I certainly learned a lot more that I needed to know; especially nursing theory."

Daughter Gwendolyn Williamson was encouraged by her mother to begin the nursing program. The mother-daughter team shared books, study hours and practicums and finally shared the glory of ECC's sixth graduation exercises along with the pride of their respective families and the entire College community.

A Licensed Practical Nurse, Mrs. Williams has worked at the Essex County Geriatrics Center in Belleville for the past 17 years. Influence from professional co-workers who were ECC graduates encouraged her to enroll in the Allied Health degree program. "I wanted to upgrade myself and become a Registered Nurse," Mrs. William said, "and I liked what my friends at the Center were saying about the ECC program." "I really thought that because of my years of experience, I knew a lot

Senior notes

By GEORGE CHENOWETH

June 14 is Flag Day. What are you doing about it?

It seems more and more every year that the display of the American flag gets less and less. What is the matter. Are people too sophisticated to admit they have a good country to live in and a flag that represents the nearest thing to a free way of life — freer than any country in the world?

Admittedly there have been drawbacks, scandals in government, riots and a Watergate to live with, but we in America have lived through worse times and have come up smelling like roses.

Show "Old Glory." Let people know that you are proud to be an American by displaying our colors on Flag Day and every day!

Bob Metcalfe of the Retired Men's Club reports that Tom Adams, outgoing president, received a plaque honoring him for his years of service. It was made by William Patton and presented by Andy Dougal.

The Belleville Senior Citizens Club is saddened by the sudden death of Ann Santiago, our fellow member and good friend.

Note: the reason for almost the identical article appearing in the two local newspapers last issue was because it was composed by two writers, one not knowing that it had been accepted for publication. A matter of the right hand not knowing what the left hand is doing. Sorry about that!

Graduation

sheepskins. It is also a tradition, though an informal one developed by the students, that after receiving their diplomas, seniors throw their mortarboards into the air. Principal Smith said he expects no change in this aspect of the exercises.

Though the end of high school, graduation is, of course, the beginning of many more things. Many of the students will go on to continue their educations, either in colleges or vocational schools, while others will hopefully find employment on the job market.

According to a survey taken by the high school guidance department, 203 of the graduates, or about 50 per cent of the class plan to go on to institutions of higher learning. According to Smith, this does not necessarily mean that all 203 are planning on attending college, but that they intend to enroll in either a college or a specialized school.

The survey also reveals that 169 graduating seniors plan to seek full time employment after leaving BHS and that of that number, 146 already have jobs awaiting them. That 146 breaks down into 84 women with promised employment and 62 men.

Eleven of the graduating seniors, said Smith intend to enter the armed forces. Smith commented that this was a high number compared to recent years, and he added that three of those entering the military are females.

Fifty members of the class of 1975 answered undecided on the survey, or plan to marry after graduation.

Smith noted that the number of students planning to go on to college is up slightly over past years, and theorized that a possible reason for this could be the state of the economy and the present unemployment rate in New Jersey.

Graduation ceremonies will begin promptly at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday and will last until 8 p.m. In the event of rain, the commencement exercises will take place the following day. Smith said that should it begin to rain during the proceedings, all speeches will be dropped and the program will skip right to presentation of the diplomas.

Smith said that despite the number of people expected to attend, officials do not anticipate any parking difficulties. No tickets are necessary to gain admission to the stadium.

Bid act violation cuts off money

single supplier without bids. The Lee Company, said McCoy, had bid upon and been awarded a contract to supply the Public Works Department with materials in 1974, but that contract expired at the end of last year.

Contacted a week ago concerning the foul up, Public Works Commissioner Mary V. Senatore said she had no knowledge whatsoever of the purchases. "I don't handle any of that," she said, "(James) Soldo does."

Though Soldo, superintendent of Public Works, did not return several Times/News phone calls placed to him this week, he is reported to have issued a departmental memorandum notifying all employees of new purchasing procedures. Frank Wendling, Jr., a Belleville water foreman, reportedly placed the $3,300 Lee Company order.

Remember this? The "spontaneous hat throw" at Belleville High School graduations may become a thing of the past. Next Tuesday, at this year's graduation, the regular ceremony will be supplemented with what might be termed a "controlled hat throw." Though the jubilant feelings will probably remain, some of the hazard of hat throwing may be reduced. Last year one graduate was slightly injured when she was spiked on the head by a falling mortar board.

2-2 vote downs police car purchase

A resolution allowing the purchase of three new police cars from the State motor pool was defeated Tuesday by the Belleville Board of Commissioners in a 2-2 vote.

Despite a claim by Public Safety Director Rocco Saletta that the resolution would have saved local taxpayers money, Commissioners Vincent Strumolo and Joseph McGreevy blocked its passage by casting negative votes.

Though McGreevy was unavailable for comment immediately following the Tuesday Commission meeting, Strumolo said he opposed the purchases because "the resolution isn't specific enough." Strumolo noted the resolution's failure to describe exactly the kind of vehicles and specific service contract information. "He (Saletta) tells me they're V-8's," said Strumolo.

As drawn, the proposal called for the purchase of three cars from Capital Motors, in Trenton, for $4,557 each. Belleville has been paying over $5,000 per car, said Saletta.

Though conceding that the vehicles might be cheaper, Strumolo said he was concerned over servicing. "What if Chrysler-Plymouth won't service them?" he asked, "and we have to take them across the river or something?" The Public Affairs Commissioner said he might vote for the purchase if the specifics are more clearly defined.

According to Saletta, however, both Strumolo and McGreevy opposed the resolution for reasons other than those stated by Strumolo. "They'd rather see me continue to purchase cars locally and pay top dollar," charged the newly elected Commissioner. "I'm all in favor of buying locally," he added, "but not if its going to cost taxpayers more money." Saletta vowed he would reintroduce the resolution, presumably at a time when all five Commissioners would be present.

Mayor Michael Marotti voted in favor of the purchase along with Saletta. Commissioner Mary Senatore was absent from the meeting.

Saletta said he was particularly annoyed at Strumolo and McGreevy because their votes may have jeopardized a savings for taxpayers. While Capital Motors now has six cars ready to be sold and delivered, the dealer may not have them long. "May 22 their contract ran out (with the motor pool)," said Saletta, "and I know other towns are waiting to buy them. I don't understand those guys. I don't understand their thinking."

Presently, said Saletta, some of Belleville's police cars are not worth repairing. In two instances, he said, patrol cars with over 100,000 miles have cost the Public Safety Department $3,200 in maintenance.

"There are three cars," said the Public Safety Director, "using three to four quarts of oil a day. It's unbelievable."

"I'm not going to spend another penny on motor work," he continued, "Why sink $850 into cars with that kind of mileage?"

Earlier this month, in an effort to cut costs, Saletta turned over his town car to the Belleville detective bureau, he said. "I don't see any reason for commissioners in a town this small to have cars," he said, adding that "I was hoping the other commissioners would follow suit." Saletta said he knows of no other municipalities of Belleville's size which provide their town officials with cars.

Saletta is also in the process of cataloging all repairs to police cars, he said.

The new commissioner is setting up a car-by-car file, he said, "to see just how much money we're spending on each one."

Detectives nab juvenile for drug sale

A 15-year old Belleville girl was arrested last week and charged the possession and sale of marijuana, Belleville Police said this week.

According to Deputy Police Chief Frank Haight, Belleville detectives Patrick McCabe and William Escott arrested the girl last Friday at approximately 9 p.m. and found eight packets of marijuana in her possession. Police say the girl was standing on the corner of New and Joralemon Streets and was selling the packets for $5 each.

The girl has been turned over to Belleville juvenile officers.

Police say they are continuing their investigation and more arrests are expected in the case.

Juvenile pair is arrested for break-ins

Two Belleville youths were arrested last week while they were attempting to break into a home at 182 Little Street, Belleville police reported.

Police say the two boys are also the same pair that broke into a house at 80 High Street the day before.

According to Deputy Police Chief Frank Haight, police received a report of a breaking and entering at the High Street address on June 2. While investigating the incident, Haight reported, detective Barton Rossi and Sergeant Nick Berrigan obtained descriptions of two youths seen in the area. Haight said Berrigan and Rossi saw two individuals fitting the description June 6 at 182 Little Street and arrested them as they attempted to break into the building.

Bellevillites get stiff jail terms

Two Belleville men received stiff prison terms June 3 after their conviction last month on charges of burglary of a Newark home. A Nutley man and a Newark man were also convicted in the case.

Nicholas "Nicky Skins" Stefanelli, 33, of 106 Brighton Avenue was sentenced to 10 to 12 years in prison and fined $5,000.

Robert "Cabert" Bisaccia, 42, of 23 Honiss Street was sent to prison for eight to 10 years and fined $5,000.

Convicted along with Stefanelli and Bisaccia were Sam "Little Sammy" Corsaro, 32, formerly of Nutley, now serving a life sentence for murder, and Gerald Sperduto, 34, of Newark. Corsaro was sentenced to eight to 10 years and fined $5,000 for his part in the crime. Sperduto received a suspended sentence, five years probation, and a $5,000 fine.

All four men were also ordered by Superior Court Judge Ralph L. Fusco to pay a total of $8,000 restitution to the burglarized family.

The four men were convicted of the August 1972 robbery of the Dominio Bruno home on Ridge Street in Newark.

Stefanelli, Bisaccia, Corsaro and Sperduto were all indicted last year by a special Essex County Grand Jury investigating organized crime in the county.

Senatore reelected Democrat chairman

In a meeting held in her own backyard Monday night, Mrs. Mary V. Senatore was reelected Democratic town chairman.

Mrs. Senatore, also Commissioner of Public Works, now enters her 17th year in that position.

Reelected vice chairman was Chester Prosperi, county committeeman from Ward One, district nine. Rosemary Ciccone was elected town party secretary; Edith DeFeo, treasurer, and Anthony Naturale, sergeant at arms.

Frank DeBonis, from district eight of Ward Two, was elected chairman of that ward; while Catherine Barkauskas will lead the first ward as chairman.

Mrs. Senatore was among 48 committee people elected in last week's Democratic primary.

Clara Maass earns new accreditation

Clara Maass Memorial Hospital has been accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) according to Albin H. Oberg, hospital executive director.

This full two-year accreditation is the result of an on-site survey made by field representatives of the Joint Commission's Hospital Accreditation Program (HAP). Accreditation indicates that Clara Maass has chosen to operate according to standards set by JCAH and that the hospital has met these standards.

The standards, published as the "Accreditation Manual for Hospitals," set forth optimal achievable goals of excellence against which a facility can measure itself and be measured by the Joint Commission's survey.

Clara Maass Memorial Hospital is one of approximately 5,300 general hospitals throughout the United States that have earned this recognition. There are approximately 7,400 hospitals in the U.S.

The Joint Commission's accreditation surveys are voluntary. It is not legally necessary for a hospital to be accredited, but health care facilities have sought it because accreditation represents a benchmark of quality higher than governmental licensure alone. The chief aim of the Hospital Accreditation Program, one of four such programs under the JCAH umbrella, is to help hospitals in their pursuit of excellence and thereby provide a higher quality of care to patients. The program also seeks to recognize, and to identify for the public, those facilities which meet its standards.

The Joint Commission began in 1918 under the auspices of the American College of Surgeons. It was incorporated in 1951 with the support of its present member organizations: The American College of Surgeons, the American College of Physicians, the American Hospital Association, and the American Medical Association. JCAH is a Chicago-based, non-governmental, non-profit organization. In addition to hospitals, it has programs for the accreditation of long-term care facilities, psychiatric facilities, and facilities for the mentally retarded.

Vertical wrinkles from the nose to the mouth are caused by poor posture of the mouth, by other negative emotions. These may cause the corners of the mouth to droop, which causes defining of the lines. Such wrinkles can also be caused by missing teeth, or by a denture that is not built up sufficiently to fill in shrunken gums resulting from the loss of teeth. These wrinkles can be somewhat alleviated by lightly massaging in plenty of a good rich salve or cream once a day. Always work out over the cheeks.

Bellboys' nemesis: the Camper squad

Though they finished the year with a 14-10 winning record, the Blue-Gold varsity baseball team had a disappointing season.

The boys got started on the wrong foot through no fault of their own. When the season started, the finishing touches were still being added to their home field at Memorial stadium, and as a result they were forced to switch their opening schedule and play their early games all on the road. At the time, coach George Zanfini confided that he worried that, "playing the first four games away can only hurt us."

The team opened their season against Irvington, the number one ranked team in the state at the time. Suffering a close 2-0 loss, things looked grim for the team right off the bat. The boys bounced back, however, taking their next two opponents with ease.

Coach Zanfini was still a little worried about his men, though, and his fears were justified when the team bobbled their way to an 8-7 loss to Bloomfield, committing eight errors to snatch defeat from the jaws of victory.

After that loss, coach Zanfini seemed to get his men to settle down, and the Blue-Gold batsmen ran up a string of seven wins without sustaining one loss.

Things looked great for the Bellboys as they prepared to meet Irvington for the second time in the season, and they were prepared to give the Campers their comeuppance.

The Bellevilleites and the Campers battled it out through 14 innings before the visitors from Irvington could wrest the win. It was probably one of the most exciting games the Bellboys have played in a long time, but it also turned out to be one of the most costly.

Coming off the Irvington game, the team had to play seven games in as many days, and they had worn themselves out on the Campers. Pitcher Greg Petite had gone 11 innings against Irvington and so was burned out for the long game stretch. Ace hurler Ricky Loma was also out with an injury.

The rest of the team was also psychologically worn out, and looking back, coach Zanfini pegs the Irvington game as the one that broke the team's spirit, saying, "We really gave them a battle. We fought them all the way, and that loss probably hurt us the most. When you want a team so badly and then just barely lose it, it does something to you. We just weren't the same team after that."

The team's rapid downward slide followed as they were knocked out of the State Tournament, the Greater Newark Tournament, and the Big Ten race all in rapid succession. Recovery from the slump was slow, and came with too few games left to really help.

Despite the team's rough ride this season, coach Zanfini said he feels the team did fairly well. Looking back, he said, "We were a pretty good ball club, but we just got some bad breaks. We were hurt by some injuries, especially by Loma's absence during that one week. If you throw out that one week and look at our record, I think we had a pretty good season."

Zanfini will have another chance next year, and with all of his pitching staff returning and an injection of strong new blood from jayvee team moving up, Bellevilleites can look to an exciting season on the diamond next season.

JVs undefeated

By DONNA BERRIGAN

Belleville high's jayvee diamonders finished their season last week, defeating Hillside 13-3 and then romping over Orange 17-1. The twin wins gave the jayvee nine a 19-0 record, making them the first junior varsity squad in town to go undefeated, and the first team in any sport to run a perfect season in many, many years.

Under the leadership and fine coaching of Ralph LaConte, the team has given the people around them a sense of pride and has fulfilled what must have been one of the coach's greatest dreams.

LaConte said the season was one of the most gratifying experiences that could happen to any team, and is quick to give most of the credit to the players themselves. He says the jayvee diamonders have displayed the ability and desire to win, reflecting an outstanding team spirit. LaConte says he feels he has given the boys a sense of pride and taught them that if one works hard and strives for a certain goal, he will be rewarded.

"The game of baseball can be closely compared to the game of life," stated the coach. They both have their ups and downs and their simple as well as difficult moments.

Papasidero named to All-Jersey team

Frank Papasidero was recently selected for the All-New Jersey College Division baseball team by the New Jersey Baseball Writers Association, topping off a successful season at New Jersey Institute of Technology.

A sophomore co-captain for coach Gene Schmid's NJIT team, Papasidero hit .339 in 17 games and had a team high of 20 hits. He picked up after a slow start to drive in 11 runs.

Papasidero also fielded well, compiling a fielding average of .956 while playing first, second and the outfield. The BHS graduate, who lives at 43 Heckel Street, is also a dean's list student, majoring in industrial engineering.

LaConte says he feels his team has accepted his philosophy, one that covers baseball and life in general. He calls his philosophical outlook "T.E.A.M." The letters stand for Total Effort Among Men. LaConte gives the boys' acceptance of that outlook a lot of credit for this year's spectacular season.

The achievements of the jayvees didn't really surprise the coach, though. He says he sensed the boys' determination and hunger to win when fielding was going bad for the team, their hitting brought them above the others, and visa versa.

Most of all, the coach says he feels he has molded the boys into a cohesive unit with all players working closely as a team. Their ball playing for the 1975 season has proved the jayvee team will be a welcome addition to the varsity diamond squad next year.

LaConte said he would like to personally thank his players, his managers James DiMonica and Willy Lipolis and his statisticians Donna Berrigan and Deni Lijo whose efforts helped make the season possible.

He said he also wanted to thank the loyal fans who followed the boys throughout the season. Thanks to the efforts of all these people, he said, the 1975 jayvee baseball season was one of the most gratifying and rewarding seasons he has ever experienced.

LaConte wished his players, "continued success in the future."

Legmen break .500

It was a long time coming, but the Belleville high cindersmen were finally successful in posting a winning season. The team's 8-6 record marked the first time in 15 years that the tracksters succeeded in breaking the .500 mark.

The team was working under the directorship of a new coach, Rich Ruffalo. Ruffalo seemed pleased with his team's overall performance, saying, "Most of the boys did better pointwise than I had expected at the beginning of the season. We had a small team, and the guys ended up competing in a lot more events and having to do more to insure victory. With such a small team, there's just so much talent to choose from and you have to have people doubling up."

The thin clad crowd gave each one of their opponents strong competition in almost every meet this year. As coach Ruffalo puts it, "We were in every contest this year, with the exception of two—Irvington and Columbia."

Not only were the coach's men in every other meet this year, they sustained four of their losses by a combined point total of only 28. One of the most heartbreaking defeats of the season came against the Bloomfield Bengals. When all the contests were over, the Bengals took the victory by the minuscule margin of two points, a 62-60 win. The loss was particularly disappointing for Ruffalo, since he had been looking forward to taking on his old high school coach's team and doing them in.

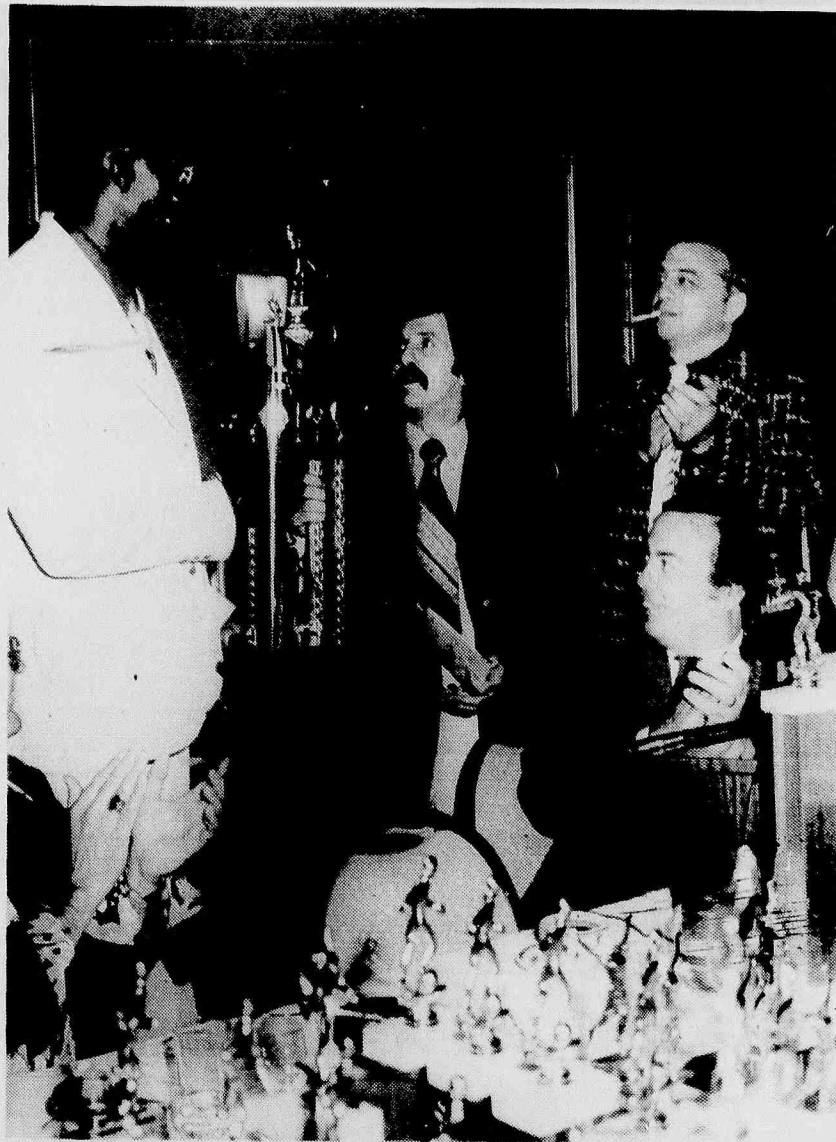

While the tracksters performed well as a team, there were a number of real individual standouts. Ken Drake, the team's ace hurdler pulled down the most points for the team during the season, 132 1/4, and that was with missing one meet.

The team did its best in the distance events, and the mile relay team of Greg Bunch, Jerry Hykey, Mike Fortino and Brian Wood set a new school record of 3:35.5.

Coach Ruffalo complimented all the boys for their efforts and thanked assistant coach John Senser for his work in the weight events and frosh coach Michael Pollard for his untiring efforts.

Looking back on the season, Ruffalo said of his men, "The most noticeable thing about the whole season was the high amount of emotion on the team. The boys were really psyched and pulled for each other. That is what you need to build a winning team."

The coach also expressed his hope that the track squad's successful finish this year would encourage more boys to come out next season, saying, "Now that we have a winning team, we need a lot of participants. I'd like to encourage next year's sophomores to come out. We have a lot of talent in this town, and I'd like to see a lot of it come out on the track."

Grateful thanks

Golden Glovers will clash tomorrow on charity card

Final preparations are underway for the Veteran Boxers Social Club's benefit amateur fight program, set for tomorrow night at Belleville Municipal Stadium at 8:30 p.m.

The card will consist of ten bouts featuring Golden Glove champs from New York and New Jersey, as well as two new ring hopefuls from Belleville High School, Ross Sherman and John Coppola. Both boys are being trained under the expert supervision of Pal Donahue, a former ring star himself.

Proceeds from the slug-fest will be donated to the Multiple Sclerosis Society and the Belleville Senior Citizens Club.

The Veteran Boxers Social Club is expecting a big turnout with many celebrities from the fight game expected to attend. According to Frank Bove, a member of the club, Floyd Paterson is expected to accompany one of his fighters to the event, as well as pugilists Mickey Walker, Fred "Red" Cochran, and Tony Galento. Bove said the club also hopes that Joe Frazier may be able to put in a guest appearance.

Celebrities or no, the evening promises to be action packed from beginning to end with future pro contenders battling for the limelight and that one break that may catapult them onward to fame.

Former heavyweight contender Paul Cavaliere is arranging the card, and Sam Sangis, national A.A.U. referee will be on hand to see things run smoothly.

Tickets for the program are $5 for ringside seats and $3 for general admission. They can be purchased from Ernie Ratner at 177 Malone Avenue, Frank Bove, 60 Watsessing Avenue, or may be purchased at the stadium on the night of the fights.

In addition to the Veteran Boxers Social Club, the Belleville Telegram is also sponsoring the benefit event.

First of all, if you intend to buy a piece of merchandise from us, we try our best to be of help to you, advising you which piece of equipment would be best suited to your purpose. Our salespeople know the merchandise thoroughly. We will never push for the sale, this decision we leave to our customers. If it turns out that your choice was not the best, after you have the merchandise in your home, we suggest an exchange. Within a few days after purchase of a major item, you will be visited by our representative who is going to see to it that everything works as it should work, and if he finds that you would be better served with a different model, he will plainly tell you so and suggest an exchange. Our men are going to explain the proper adjustments, etc., and everything you should know for the best functioning of your purchase.

If there is something wrong, we will fix it, as long as you have the item. We do not give you a number to call for service and send you to services who have nothing to do with our store. You will see only our own employees who adhere strictly to our store policy and have to report to our respective sales or service managers. If there is any unresolved problem, they contact you and see to it that it is taken care of.

As far as payment is concerned, we offer our own budget plan, if you want time payments. We do not use banks or finance companies, you deal with us directly. Our customers like it that they can come in on the nights when we are open until 9 p.m. and all day Saturdays to pay. ## Rec teams gather steam

In the Recreation Men's Monday Softball League the American Legion moved into the first place last week with a win over the Paramounts while Viola Bros. dropped one to the Circle II team. Watco, with a win over De Bacco's joined Violas and the Circles in a three way tie for second place.

Fashion Habitat moved into the lead in the Tuesday League with wins over the Corrine Motel and Roselli's. Both Corrines and Roselli's split in their double-headers. Corrines defeated the Senatore's and Roselli's topped Yogi's Gym. These splits left the Corrines and Roselli's in a tie for second. Senatore's with a win over the Circles held their .500 standing fourth place in the League. Yogi's Gym showed some power when they won a close 6-5 game from the Corrines.

Landolfi's picked up two more wins to remain undefeated in the Wednesday League. The wins were at the expense of the Shamrocks and Edisons. Joe's Alignment, with wins over the Garden State Deaf and the Edisons, moved into a tie for second place with Rossmore Pharmacy. Rossmores, after losing to Landolfi's, won over the Garden States.

Spaghetti Unlimited picked up a win from Ron's Pub and moved to within a half a game of the League-leading Branch Brook Manor. The Manor was tied with Marsons Plumbing when their game was called because of rain.

Clifton Outlet continued in third place as the team won over the Bell-Laps. Three additional games in this League were called because of rain.

Audrey Rolls leads Pigtail League play

After the first three games of the Recreation Pigtail Softball League only Audrey Rolls Cubs remain undefeated with wins over the Dodgers, the Yankees and the Tigers.

There is a very interesting three-way tie for second place among the Giants, the Sox and the Dodgers each of whom have two wins and one loss. Right in there with only one loss each are the Yankees and the Braves but, because of a rainout, they have only one win.

Although winless to this point the Mets and the Tigers show potential and still have time to get into the picture. Marlene DeRoxtra's Giants picked up their victories over the Braves and the Sox. The Sox, coached by Susan Schwartz, have posted wins over the Tigers and the Mets. Ruth Kemppainen and Marianne Stez have coached their Dodgers to wins over the Tigers and the Giants. Lucille Burlazzi's Yankees got their win from Rose Wallace's Mets and Donna Stone's Braves also defeated the Mets. Joyce Buckland's Tigers like the Mets, still seek that first win.

In the meantime, win or lose, the 10-12 year old girls in this League are having a lot of fun and playing good softball. Thanks to excellent coaching the League is low-pressure, so everybody plays and everybody is learning the game. Spectators have refrained from participating except to applaud good play, which is as it should be.

Lady diamonddeers locked in tight race

With three games played by the teams in the Recreation Ladies Softball League there is a three-way tie among the Dazzlers, the Sluggers, and the Belles. Each of the leaders has a win over the Wizzards, the Belles won over the Sluggers, the Dazzlers beat the Belles and the Sluggers came back to beat the Dazzlers. Obviously anything can happen among the three leaders and, with six games yet to play, the Wizzards cannot be counted out.

Recreation Ladies Softball is now in its third season. It was designed to liberate the Belleville housewife and games are played Tuesday and Thursday morning at Belleville Park. The Belles won the Championships the first two years but find their dominance is really being challenged this year. Audrey Roll is Captain of the Belles, the Dazzlers are led by Dolly Wagner, the Sluggers, by Gerry Paoletta and the Wizzards by Peggy Feder.

Delaware shad run still going strong

The excellent run of shad in the Delaware River is still providing New Jersey anglers with lively sport, points out the Division of Fish, Game, and Shellfisheries.

Jr. basketball ready to roll

Any Bellevilleite between the ages of 11 and 14 who wants to while away his summer hours improving his basketball skills is eligible and welcome to join the Recreation Department's Junior Summer League.

The league will be under the direction of Mark Corino, a former hardwood star at Belleville High School. Under Corino's guidance, the Junior League is designed to serve as a building block for potential hoop stars and there will be heavy emphasis on clinic type workouts.

All those interested in joining in the action should pick up their applications at the Recreation House, 407

Joralemon Street between 8:30 a.m. and 9 p.m. The application deadline is next Tuesday, June 17.

If you have any questions, you may contact Mr. Ceres at 759-3142.

Bruins claim two more wins

The Belleville Bruins picked up two more wins this week, knocking off the South Orange Dolphins 8-2 on Sunday and then packing away the Caldwell Colts Monday, 4-0. The hometown semi-pro team now sits on top of a 5-2 record.

Sunday, the team travels to Union to challenge the Union Rockets. In their last meeting, the Rockets picked off the Bruins, 9-5. Monday, the Bellevilleites will host the Dolphins.

The Bruins swept aside the Caldwell Colts Monday with relative ease behind the pitching of Paul Mirabella, a star hurler for Montclair drafted by the Minnesota Twins. Mirabella blew past the Colts, allowing only two hits while striking out 10 and walking only three.

The Bruins picked up their first run in the first inning when with two out, Kevin Goy made it to first on an error. After stealing second, he was driven in when Joe Papisidero knocked a single to left.

The Belleville batsmen tallied their other three runs in the fifth inning. Papisidero led off with a walk, stole second, and scored on a single by Petite, who took second on the throw to home. Bob DeJianne slapped a single to left driving in Petite, stole second, and went to third on a wild throw. He scored when the Colts' third baseman made a bad throw to first.

The Bruins put the South Orange Dolphins away with little trouble on Sunday, scoring two runs in the second and third and then exploding for four in the eighth.

Mike Zayac pitched the game, striking out six, walking three and allowing eight hits.

Ki-Ro fund gives Giordano a big lift

Weightlifter Bob Giordano will be receiving financial assistance from the Ki-Ro Athletes' Aid Fund of the Kiwanis and Rotary for his trip next week to the National Championships in Culver City, California.

Last month, Giordano placed third in the U.S. Junior National Championships with lifts of a 303 pound snatch and a 363 clean and jerk.

The purpose of the Ki-Ro Athletes' Aid Fund, whose chairman is Mayor Michael Marotti of the Kiwanis, is to help promising amateur athletes get to major competitions which are necessary for their athletic development. The fund was founded by Mike Rosamilia and Bob Cook and is aimed towards those sports which are in the Olympic Games. Cook, secretary-treasurer of the fund and vice-president of the Rotary explains, "If every service club in the nation sponsored one amateur athlete per year, this would answer the so-called 'amateurs' of the Eastern European nations who are really state supported professionals. With this sort of program, the United States would be unbeatable in the Olympics."

Previously, the Ki-Ro Fund has helped send many other amateur athletes to out of state competitions, most notable weightlifter Phil Grip-paldi, who went on to represent the U.S. in the 1968 and 1972 Olympics and hopes to do the same in 1976.

Cubs and Braves are Rec leaders

Belleville Recreation Department's intermediate and senior league baseball teams are barreling through their season with close races in both leagues.

In the intermediate bracket, boys 13 years old, the Cubs have held on to first place, stopping all opponents to pile up a comfortable 4-0 record. They can't rest easy, however, because the Giants are right on their heels in second with a 3-1 record and just waiting to knock down the Cubs.

The Braves hold third in the league with a 2-2 tally, the Yankees follow them with a 1-3 count, and the Pirates with an 0-4 record have a long way to travel to catch up with Patsy Fata's Cubs.

In the 13-15 year old senior league, the Braves have a tenuous hold on first place with a 3-0-1 record. Coach Bob Mallack will have to keep his boys on their toes, because the Giants are pressing close to them with a 2-1-1 record on their side.

The Cubs and Pirates are in a tie for third with .500 records of 2-2. The Yankees bring up the rear with a game total of 0-4, still searching for their first win.

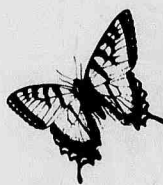

League director John Senesky has done a fine job of seeing that all things remain in order and the season progresses smoothly.

Give blood tomorrow

Belleville Red Cross Chairman Eugene Barnett has announced that the annual June Blood Bank sponsored by Belleville Council 835 Knights of Columbus and St. Peter's Holy Name Society will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall tomorrow evening from 3 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Those who are between the ages of 17 through 66 (17 year olds need parent or guardian written consent) are urged to participate in the program, since, Belleville, at the present time has only 23 credits of blood on account with the North Jersey-Essex County Blood Bank.

Inability to give blood should not be a consideration since a complete physical examination is given before anyone can make a donation.

Kiwanis to celebrate 20th anniversary

The Belleville Kiwanis Club will celebrate its 20th anniversary on Friday, June 13th, with a cocktail party and dinner-dance at San Carlos, Lyndhurst.

Guests of Honor at the formal affair will be the N.J. District Governor, Dr. George McCrossan and Lt. Governor Vincent Vitty, a member and past president of the Belleville Club, with their wives, Anne and Dorothy.

Highlights of the evening will include the induction by the Governor of local attorney Ralph Casale, increasing the membership to 46, and the presentation of a pin to Charter member Eugene Reilly, signifying his 20 years of perfect attendance. Other Charter members still active in the Club are such well known citizens as Frank Bolen, Robert Laterza Thomas McLaughlin, Leo Taubin and John Zepka.

The Belleville Club is widely known for its many civic activities, such as the annual Cloth for Cancer Drive, distribution of food baskets to needy families in town during the Holiday Seasons, Scholarship aid and other programs for the benefit of Belleville Youth and our Senior Citizens.

The club has sponsored the Key Club at the High school, the Builders Club at the Junior High, and within the next month will sponsor the Charter of a Circle K Club at Essex County Jr. College.

Hospital Pays Tribute To Work of Trustees

Several trustees at Clara Maass Memorial Hospital were honored for years of service at a dinner attended by more than 60 people. Trustees Everett B. Smith, Henry C. Pfaff, Jr., Archie C. Barbata, Howard J. Schoenfeldt, Frank C. Pesvey, and William R. Harris were honored.

The Rev. Albert H. Meiburg, chaplain supervisor at the University of Rochester Medical Center, was the guest speaker.

A silver bowl honoring 25 years of service to Clara Maass was presented to Everett B. Smith, board secretary. Smith also serves as the hospital's legal counsel and was a leader in the campaign to move the hospital from Newark to Belleville.

Henry C. Pfaff Jr. of Summit received a desk set honoring 20 years of service. A vice-president of the board since 1958, Pfaff is also chairman of the hospital's building and grounds committee.

Also honored for 20 years' service was the chairman of the board, Archie C. Barbata of Nutley. Since appointment to the board, Barbata has served in many capacities including, treasurer, vice-president, president and chairman of the finance committee.

Noted for 10 years of service was Howard J. Schoenfeldt of Livingston, Frank C. Pesvey of Nutley and William R. Harris of Short Hills.

Schoenfeldt serves as chairman of the chaplaincy services committee and is a member of the School of Nursing committee.

Frank C. Pesvey, a board vice president, is chairman of the School of Nursing and a member of the executive and joint conference committees.

William R. Harris, also honored for 10 years of service, has served as chairman of the public relations and development committee, as a vice president, and has been board president since 1973. He is also chairman of the executive and joint conference committees and serves ex-officio as a member of all committees of the board. Harris, who will be retiring and moving to La Jolla, California, next month, was presented with a resolution noticing several achievements and contributions to Clara Maass Hospital.

The DeWitt Savings and Loan building, festooned with various historical flags.

Curiosity aroused?

Interest and curiosity has been aroused throughout Belleville as a result of the Revolutionary War Flag Display mounted atop the DeWitt Savings building at Washington Avenue, according to Robert M. Williams, Association President.

The collection of colonial flags is part of the overall decoration on the DeWitt building placed there on Memorial Day to initiate the Bicentennial Year for DeWitt. The display will be maintained until July 4.

Students, history buffs, teachers, customers, and just plain passers-by have all stopped into the DeWitt office to check out the significance of the banners.

Williams explained that there are twelve flags flying as follows: St. George Cross, Kings Colors, British Red Ensign, Continental Flag, Pine Tree Flag, Gadsden Flag, Grand Union Flag, Betsy Ross Flag, Bennington Flag, Star Spangled Banner Flag, Old Glory, and our present 50-star flag.

The significance of the various flags, according to Williams, is as follows:

"The St. George Cross." This flag was the first English flag used in North America. It was flown by John Cabot in 1497 under the reign of King Henry VII.

"Kings Colors." In 1620, when the May flower landed in America, a new flag was used for the colonies. King James I took the Cross of St. George and superimposed it onto the Scottish flag of St. Andrew and called it the Kings Colors.

"British Red Ensign." In 1707 Queen Anne adopted a new flag for England and her colonies. The Kings Colors were placed on a field of red. This was called the British Red Ensign. Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown under this flag.

"Continental Flag." During the Revolutionary War the colonists began unfurling new flags; among them was the popular Continental Flag. It replaced the Kings Colors with a Pine Tree, symbolic of the New England way of life. Many historians believe this banner was flown during the famous battle of Bunker Hill.

"Pine Tree Flag." In 1775 the colonies launched some floating batteries in the New England area. These vessels were put into service against the British shore defenses. The flag flown on these ships was the famous Massachusetts Colony Flag or Pine Tree Flag.

"Gadsden Flag." One of the first Rattlesnake flags was devised by Colonel Gadsden of South Carolina. It was claimed to be flown by Commodore Esek Hopkins, first Commander of the Continental fleet. The inscription was intended as a warning to the British — meaning it was as dangerous to tread on the colonies as it would be to step on a rattlesnake.

"Grand Union Flag." In 1776 the colonies adopted the thirteen stripes representing the thirteen colonies and kept the Kings Colors in the Canton, illustrating their allegiance to England, but their willingness to fight for their rights and justice. This flag was raised at Cambridge by General Washington and was called the Grand Union Flag or Cambridge Flag.

"Betsy Ross Flag." The original Betsy Ross Flag was officially adopted by an Act of Congress on June 14, 1777. It is generally believed that General George Washington was instrumental in designing the Betsy Ross Flag.

"Bennington Flag." The oldest Stars and Stripes in existence. Used at the Battle of Bennington, August 16, 1777, by the Vermont Militia. The first Stars and Stripes to lead the American armed forces on land.

"Star Spangled Banner." Shortly before the War of 1812, two new states were added to the Union and the flag was changed from 13 to 15 Stars and Stripes. This Star Spangled Banner was the inspiration for Francis Scott Key to write our National Anthem.

"Old Glory." As the United States expanded and more states entered the Union, it became necessary to adopt a practical design to represent each new state. April 4, 1818, Congress passed legislation establishing the number of stripes at seven red and six white and an additional star for every new state joining the Union.

Development loans given by state

Economic Development loans totalling more than $8,000,000 and creating nearly 400 permanent jobs and another 300 construction jobs were announced today by Joseph A. Hoffman, Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, following a meeting of the New Jersey Economic Development Authority.

Commissioner Hoffman, who is Chairman of the Authority said the low-interest loans, to be arranged through the Authority's tax-exempt bonds, will go to eight different firms for construction or expansion of business facilities in six different counties.

Jerseyvision boasts increase in viewers

A sharp increase in television viewers — up almost a half-million in eight months — was announced today by the New Jersey Public Broadcasting Authority for its four-channel public television network.

Figures on the Jerseyvision audience, which show significant gains in the northern section of the state as well as continued growth in the southern and central areas, were determined in a poll conducted by The Eagleton Institute, Rutgers University.

The latest poll shows that 1.4 million New Jerseyans tune in Jerseyvision, compared with an audience of fewer than a million reported early last summer. In terms of total population statewide, the current figures represent about one household in five.

In northern New Jersey, a gain of more than 76 percent in total viewers increases the audience in that area to about one household in eight, with the number of viewers of Channel 50 in Montclair more than doubling since last May. Viewers of Channel 50 and Channel 58 in New Brunswick now total more than a half-million or approximately one-third of Jerseyvision's viewing audience.
