Feud continues; Marotti steps in

Mayor Michael Marotti has called for a "swift conclusion" to an ongoing dispute over Civil Service appointments which has created chaos and hard feelings throughout Town Hall.

In a statement issued Monday to the Times/News, Marotti backed Town Treasurer Francis McCoy's position in the controversy, and refuted charges by Commissioner Mary Senatore that Marotti has "done nothing" to end the political feud. To date the administrative battle has left one office worker ineligible for work, and has placed another's status in question pending a Civil Service report.

Though Town officials were still waiting Tuesday for a Civil Service ruling on Public Works employee Angela Palmieri's status, McCoy has refused to pay temporary Public Safety Department employee Marissa Danielli for the second straight week. Miss Danielli's paycheck was ordered held by Civil Service until Public Safety Commissioner Rocco Saletta appoints a worker certified by Civil Service to her post. McCoy's wife, Julia, is one of two people eligible for the job.

In his statement Monday, the Mayor said "the Town Treasurer must act according to State statute. . . The fact remains his (McCoy's) position is based on Civil Service law."

Responding to Mrs. Senatore's charge that he has "done nothing", Marotti repeated his "policy not to interfere with the daily operations of any department," but indicated he had met two weeks ago with McCoy, Saletta and Town Attorney John Scott in an effort to resolve the matter. "When a situation such as this arises," said Marotti, "it becomes my responsibility to see that a just solution is reached. This does not mean using authority without discretion." Even as Mayor, Marotti admitted he has little say in Public Safety or Public Works department affairs. "Commissioner (Joseph) McGreevy, who has jurisdiction over Mr. McCoy, has never indicated to me that Mr. McCoy is acting improperly," he said.

The Mayor has since been in touch with Newark Civil Service authorities, but the results of those discussions remain unknown.

"As Mayor I expect a swift conclusion to the matter by Civil Service ruling. I also hope that the citizens of this town know that discussion of this matter, or any other matter, can be made at the public meetings."

Mrs. Senatore said this week she is "not going to make a big dispute of it," but was irked that she was "not invited" to the McCoy-Saletta meeting. The Public Works head said she has dispatched a letter to Civil Service requesting immediate report on the result of Miss Palmieri's desk audit.

The Commissioner said she has "no comment" on what action she will take if her employee is ruled ineligible. She remained critical of McCoy, however, saying "I don't feel as though an employee (McCoy) should go to the press and do what he's doing."

Bellevilleite indicted for kidnapping son

An Essex County Grand Jury Tuesday indicted a Belleville man on charges of kidnapping his four-month-old son from a Nutley home the day after Thanksgiving.

Nutley Detective Sergeant Alfred Ciccone, who located Bruce Calfa, 28, in Key West, Fla., said members of the Essex County Sheriff's Department were expected to dispatch a team to extradite the Belleville man back to Essex County.

Ciccone declined to say how he was able to pinpoint Calfa's Florida location but it was believed some type of telephone tip, anonymous or otherwise, was given the Nutley Police Department. Essex County prosecutors participated in a Grand Jury session Tuesday which resulted in Calfa's indictment not only on the kidnapping charge, but also for assault and battery on the baby's mother, and trespassing.

Calfa is charged with going to the Nutley home of Mrs. Kathleen Bell on Friday, Nov. 28. Calfa reportedly wanted to see his son but was refused entry to Mrs. Bell's home at 49 Brookline Avenue, Nutley.

Detective Sergeant Ciccone says Calfa then forced himself into the house and took the baby from a bassinet in the kitchen and disappeared. Calfa resides at 134 Branch Brook Drive, Belleville.

Nutley Police waited almost a week before releasing the news of the kidnapping. Ciccone said police expected the baby would have been returned, but when the infant and his father failed to appear, a 13-state alarm was issued and news media notified.

On Sunday, an informant reportedly told Nutley Police that Calfa had been seen in Key West, Monroe County (Fla.) authorities arrested the Belleville man who reportedly was accompanied by a friend, Dori Anne Hackling, 22, of 331A Branch Brook Drive, Belleville.

Neighbors of the Hackling apartment say they heard sounds of a baby crying last weekend. A search by police revealed boxes of baby food and soiled diapers, police say.

Florida and New Jersey officials said yesterday that Calfa is being held without bail pending his return to Essex County.

The baby was being cared for by the Key West Family Service Bureau.

Ciccone said Calfa apparently drove to Florida in a van which was found parked at the Stock Island camp grounds, adjacent to Key West.

Mrs. Bell told police Calfa was "psychologically unstable." She said she's "seen him angry at the baby, forcing food into his mouth while he feeds him. These are the kinds of things I worry about."

Mrs. Bell was never married to Calfa. She has two other children, aged 2 and 6, from her divorced husband.

Bids skipped on ambulance

An emergency resolution allowing purchase of a new Fire Department ambulance without bids was unanimously approved Tuesday by the Board of Commissioners.

Though town vehicle purchases are generally put up for bids by all town departments, the Commission invoked the emergency clause to allow fastest possible replacement of one ambulance termed "unsafe" by Commissioner Rocco Saletta and Fire Chief George Sbarra.

The new vehicle, ordered yesterday from Grumman Industries in Garden City, N.Y., will cost $23,300, said Saletta, and will replace a 1969 Cadillac ambulance currently "unsafe" for use on emergency calls. Belleville's only other ambulance, a 1972 vintage, is the department's most active vehicle, Sbarra said.

According to Fire Department officials, the old ambulance has been breaking frequently, and has required extensive work to its chassis and frame. The new vehicle, a Ford, will be fully equipped with the latest para-medical equipment. Delivery has been promised by the Grumman company in 60 days.

According to one Fire Department official, Belleville's ambulances are used on approximately 2,400 to 2,600 runs a year.

Imperiale forming new party

A new political party aimed at "restoring people's faith in government" came into being last week, personally delivered by Belleville's State Senator, Anthony Imperiale.

At a press conference last week at the Fountain Restaurant in Belleville, Imperiale announced plans to build a statewide Independent Party organization capable of producing a full slate of candidates—including a gubernatorial nominee—in time for the 1977 elections. The well-known and often controversial political figure charged that the two-party system in New Jersey "operates in a discriminating manner, and denies citizens of their proper representation."

According to Imperiale, Independent Party incorporation papers were filed last week with the Essex County Clerk's Office, and were to be handed to the Secretary of State. The new party hopes to hold its first convention "shortly after the first of the year," he said.

Imperiale, meanwhile, has assumed the post as State chairman for the new organization, whose ultimate goal is "to become a permanent part of the national political structure," he said. Imperiale would not say if he had personal plans to run for Governor, but admitted to reporters "I have a taste for (Governor Brendan Byrne's) political blood." He said his new party has support from all over New Jersey, though its main strength is in the Newark area. Imperiale would name no current political figures who will be active in the organization, but said he expects his party to appeal to currently disenchanted voters.

Noting that 49 percent of New Jersey's voters are independents, Imperiale said "the present structure is not sensitive to the cries of the people." He said the established parties "have become hypocrites of their own teachings," made "unresponsive" by "complacency, hypocrisy and passification." He promised to "say the things that most politicians are afraid to say, and do what most are afraid to do."

Imperiale's election to the Senate as the only independent candidate "set the precedent" the new party will need to succeed. According to the Senator, his independence has caused other State legislators to discriminate against him and the legislation he introduces.

'Pot party' host is fined $300

A 22-year old Belleville man was fined a total of $300 December 3 in Belleville Municipal Court for contributing to the delinquency of minors and maintaining a place where drugs were used.

John E. Moore, 444 Washington Avenue, was arrested November 8 when Belleville police raided his apartment during a "pot party." Several other adults and a large number of juveniles were also taken into custody at that time.

The defendant pleaded guilty to both charges and Judge Edward Abromson fined him $200 for the first charge and $100 for the contributing charge. Moore was also given a 12-month suspended sentence and placed on probation for two years.

Belleville detective William Escott was the arresting officer.

news briefs

Santa arrives here tomorrow

Santa Claus will be setting up house tomorrow at the Town Hall parking lot for an extended stay in Belleville.

Hosted by the Belleville Woman's Club, E.M.D., Santa will visit with boys and girls and pose with them to have their pictures taken. The jolly old fellow is scheduled to remain on the scene until December 24.

Children may visit with Santa from 10 a.m. to noon, 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., and 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. beginning tomorrow. Saturdays he will welcome visitors from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., but must then depart for engagements throughout the rest of the Christmas world.

The funds from the photos will be placed in the Woman's Club charity fund.

Here come the taxes

Belleville's Commissioners are now submitting their 1976 budgets to the Town Treasurer's office for preparation and ultimate introduction to the public. Municipal Treasurer Francis McCoy reports.

Though not all the budgets are in, salary increases, rising costs and reductions in State aid are expected to drive local levy's skyward again next year.

Neither McCoy nor any other local officials have been able to predict the effect recent reductions in State sales tax, bus franchise replacement revenues and business personal property tax replacement revenues will have on the new tax year. Belleville is currently suing the Governor for those monies.

Belleville's School Board will also begin work on its budget soon, and is expected to ultimately place a bond issue referendum before the public. Belleville's school budget has been defeated ten of the last 11 years.

Belleville composer premiers

An original organ composition written by Mrs. Hazel Hulme of Belleville was the feature number of "Spotlight on American Music" last Sunday at the Munn Avenue Church, East Orange.

Presented by the Festival of Fine Arts, Mrs. Hulme's composition was performed by concert organist Richard Szeremany on the historic Ernest Skinner four-manual organ which uses 5,000 pipes. Also performed at the concert were pieces by George Gershwin and Irving Berlin.

Mrs. Hulme and her husband, Eric, live at 122 Bell Street. She serves as organist at the Fewsmith Presbyterian Church, and dedicated an original composition of hers for the church's 50th anniversary last year. She has also performed numerous piano concerts, and is co-director of the local concert series "Music to Enjoy."

Her new piece is entitled "Lauda Anima" (Praise My Soul the King of Heaven.)

Holdup case referred to jury

The case of a 24-year old Newark man charged with armed robbery was referred to an Essex County Grand Jury December 3 after a probable cause hearing in Belleville Municipal Court.

Carlton W. Johnson, 54 Milford Avenue is charged with the November 13 hold up of Alphonzo's Tavern, 36 Holmes Street. Police say he and another man entered the bar, produced a sawed-off shotgun, and robbed the bar, taking money from the five patrons and a barmaid.

After the probable cause hearing, Judge Edward Abromson ordered the case sent to the Grand Jury.

The arrest of the suspect, now being held in Newark Street Jail without bail, came after almost two weeks of investigation by detective William Escott and other members of the Belleville detective division.

DE classes join nationwide club

By BRIGID FREDERICKS

The Distributive Education Club of America has been incorporated into the curriculum of the Distributive Education classes of Belleville High. Started by Mr. Ralph La Conte in November, this club gives D.E. students a supplement to the regular activities.

Most D.E. students leave school early in the day for work and therefore are not able to take part in extra-curricular activities. Dances and sales projects for fund raising are planned during the class time, along with a program to develop students into the future leaders in marketing and distribution.

D.E.C.A. was established to help students academically, as well as socially. Encouragement of self-reliance and high ethical standards in business and industry are part of this program.

The three Belleville chapters have been presented with awards from the national D.E.C.A. offices for 100 percent enrollment of its classes. Mr. William Trimmer works closely with Mr. La Conte as advisor of the two junior chapters. Each club has elected officers. The senior club has as its president Jackie Wenzel; vice-president, Judy Oliveri; treasurer, Diane Floria; Corresponding secretary, Anthony Nicosia; and recording secretary, Steve Stanzione.

EDITORIAL

Hard work not appreciated

The ripping down of Christmas decorations is a problem in the halls of Belleville High School. It seems the hard work of many is not appreciated.

The Christmas decorations, seen in the sophomore, junior and senior halls, look pretty the first day they are up. After this, they disappear or are ripped in half. The class offices, members of the senate, and other students worked hard decorating their hall. We feel it would be a good idea for the students to consider this before ripping them down.

Mural graces cafeteria wall

By MADELYN MALONOWSKI

A mural was recently painted on the cafeteria wall by a group of senior girls of B.H.S. The mural sketched on Thursday, November 20 and painted on November 21 and 22 will remain on the wall as a memory of the class of 1976.

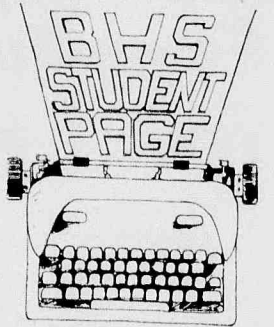

The circular mural, containing flowers, rainbows, sunshine, mountains, waterfalls, clouds, and trees, symbolizes the world. Orange, blue, white, red, yellow, green, pink, and purple are the many bright colors used by the girls for the painting. "We Create A World" with the words "Class of 1976" situated below it is the motto painted next to the mural in large printed letters.

"I feel that the mural serves as a bright and decorative attraction to the cafeteria but its main purpose is to leave to B.H.S. memories of the seniors of 1976 after graduation," said Donna Berrigan, a senior girl who dedicated her spare time helping paint the mural.

The senior girls, who sketched and painted two afternoons following school and on Saturday from nine until two, are Mary Angelino, Donna Berrigan, Sharon Brady, Debbie Current, Michelle Gierla, Kathy Gino, Lori Giordano, Marianne Gomulinsky, Gardenia Lijo, Debbie Morra, Toni Nardone, Jo Ann Rosania, and Leslie Semienick.

'War' rages in Crisis class

By FRANK DALLA RIVA

War was staged two weeks ago and is still raging between six different countries in Mr. Sam Giuffrida's International Crisis class.

The class split into six different countries called Andros, Atweena, Bismania, Egrama, Galbion, and Nurovia. The countries were then given an army and a navy, and offices were established.

Andros was under the dictatorship of Nancy Skrutskie, Atweena elected President Vito Guarino, Bismania was ruled by Queen Diane Carissimo, Galbion was under the imperialistic iron fist of Emperor George Mobilio, Princess Ann Westpy was on the throne for Nurovia, and President Robert Feldman presided over the country of Egrama.

Mr. Giuffrida then explained to the class that the key to the game was for each country to negotiate with each other and gain as many allies as possible. But all the agreements could be broken for the best interest of the countries.

Realism was added by having Atweena be a landlocked country with no navy, but a strong army. Bismania and Galbion were the two most powerful nations. The weakest was Egrama, and both Atweena and Nurovia had equal total power.

Mr. Giuffrida then presented the conflict to the class: Nurovia and Atweena were at war. Ambassadors from the various countries then went to work in negotiating agreements. After a period of negotiating, a four country pact was completed between Egrama, Atweena, Andros, and Galbion. The agreement clearly stated that if one of the countries was attacked by anyone, the other three would come to the aid. Bismania stayed neutral. For a moment it looked as though Nurovia was beaten.

But then Mr. Giuffrida presented another problem to the class. Egrama's C.I.A. had infiltrated into Galbion and assassinated Emperor George Mobilio. All of treaties signed by Emperor George were now invalid because of his death. Some keen political negotiating by Don Paterno, Frank Dalla Riva, and Greg Petite came in handy as the three persuaded Atweena to sign a peace agreement with Nurovia, and then along with Bismania declare war on Egrama.

Andros then made a foolish move as it decided to stay allies with Egrama. The four countries Galbion, Atweena, Nurovia, and Bismania were much too powerful for the weaker forces of Andros and Egrama, and so they were no longer independent states, but countries belonging to the big four.

The war games are still raging, but peace will soon be restored in the first period International Crisis class. No matter what the outcome, the students are sure to get the feeling of what the tensions and pressures of real war negotiations are like.

Q. Recently, I read a magazine article in which Vidal Sassoon was asked his opinion of the movie "Shampoo". He responded by saying that he thought it was a distorted and ugly portrayal of the hairdressing industry. If you saw the movie, please give me your opinion.

CARL DONER

A. I did go to see "Shampoo", and must say that I totally agree with Mr. Sassoon's statement. A good hairstylist approaches his work not merely in a mechanical fashion, but in an aesthetic one as well. This includes the establishment of a congenial relationship between customer and hairstylist. I feel that an important part of my job is to make women feel beautiful as I make them look beautiful. Although this approach is "strictly professional" it is misinterpreted by some people. This fact along with the notorious behavior of a minority of male hairstylists was sensationalized in order to create a box office success.

Freedom from fear

Guest commentary by
Sen. Harrison A. Williams

Freedom from fear now tops the list of concerns for the nation's 22 million elderly, whether they live in central cities, suburbs, or smaller communities. Elderly Americans are the most vulnerable victims of burglary, theft, rowdiness, and shocking forms of violence, including brutal murder. Furthermore, statistics lead to the inevitable conclusion that criminals are deliberately seeking out seniors as prime victims for robbery and attack.

The increasing threat of crime and violence against the elderly demands a prompt and coordinated response from all levels of government, as well as from its citizens. As the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Aging's Subcommittee on Housing for the Elderly, I am particularly concerned about crimes against older persons living in Federally assisted housing.

My Subcommittee has investigated what happens to retired people living in a housing project where crime has gained the upper hand. They live in daily terror of being mugged, beaten, burglarized and abused. Their whole living environment and life style are affected. Doctors will not enter the project when they are sick; drug stores, grocery stores and department stores refuse to make deliveries and taxicabs will not respond to their calls.

As a result, millions of older Americans now live under a form of house arrest, barricaded from the outside world. Many are afraid to answer a knock on the door — some are so afraid of someone breaking into their apartment that they stay awake all night and sleep only in the day.

While the problem of crime confronting the elderly is well known, the solutions are not always so readily available. A resolution I recently introduced in the U.S. Senate calls on all federal agencies which administer programs for older Americans to find ways to reduce crime against the elderly. These agencies are asked by the resolution to develop programs to reduce the frequency of crime and make recommendations to the Senate for legislation needed to protect older Americans from crime. I am hopeful that this will help provide a firm foundation for developing solutions to the problem.

In 1973, I introduced legislation which would have earmarked funds for security programs in public housing and established an Office of Security at the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The measure passed the Senate, but did not have sufficient support in the House. However, in 1974, the Housing and Community Development Act incorporated part of my bill by making it clear that operating subsidies to public housing agencies could be used to cover the cost of security personnel. Several public housing authorities have chosen this route to provide security.

Moreover, through a new target program — as welcome as it is overdue — the Department of Housing and Urban Development recently moved to provide millions of dollars to many major cities to upgrade security in housing projects. While I am personally pleased with this development, there is still a shortage of funds for what must be done, and Congress must keep up its pressure, if the problem is to be solved.

The fear of destitution in old age has always been one of the darkest shadows on human hopes, and, though this fear persists in America, at least in recent years this nation has strived to alleviate it. Increasing attention has been focused on the elderly's special needs, such as income, health care and nutrition.

But while we continue to grapple with these problems, we must pay a great deal more attention to the number one concern of older Americans today — freedom from fear.

Old news is good news

Who cares about yesterday's news?

Lots of people do. There has been strong demand for old newspapers in recent months with an accompanied increase in the market price.

In this case old news is good news. The growing demand has significance beyond the fact that Jaycees, Boy Scouts and other organizations will be able to mount successful paper drives.

It also affects the taxpayer, those concerned with our dwindling natural resources, and anyone interested in economic indicators.

Recycling of old newspaper helps cut the growing volume of waste. As a result, New Jersey's disappearing landfill sites will gain longer lives. And when the volume of solid waste is reduced, the taxpayer is spared higher costs for garbage collection and disposal.

Recycling waste news has other values. It helps extend our natural resources. While trees are considered renewable, continued rising demand for paper can significantly deplete our forests. Some parts of the world are already facing fiber shortage.

Last, increased demand for used news is an economic indicator. Some companies use waste news to recycle into fresh newsprint. It's also used in building automobiles and in the construction industry. Therefore, when waste news is in demand, it could be a signal that activity is picking up in some key industries.

So don't forget to recycle this and every other newspaper you buy.

Mail early week

WHEREAS, to provide expeditious handling and prompt delivery of Christmas mails (letters, cards and gift packages), the Post Office Department is designating the week of December 7 - 13, 1975 as "Mail Early Week"; and

WHEREAS, the tremendous volume of mails to be handled during this Christmas Holiday period makes it imperative that the cooperation of the public be solicited to the end that such Christmas mails be prepared and mailed early; and will extend every assistance as they have in the past in the efficient operation of our great Postal system and will, if reminded, mail their Christmas greetings and gift parcels early to insure delivery before December 24, 1975:

NOW, therefore, I, Michael V. Marotti, Mayor of the Town of Belleville, in the County of Essex, New Jersey, do hereby proclaim the week of December 7 - 13, 1975 as "Mail Early Week" and call upon our citizens to take cognizance of this week by mailing early and patronizing the Postal facilities to the fullest extent during this period.

Where now? —Nutley Third Half Club president Ralph Ferrie (left) and Varsity Club president Joe Casale may look like they are exchanging the traditional Nutley-Belleville traveling trophy, but they're not. Since the squads tied this year, it looks like the two towns will share possession of the prize, though the Nutleyites gallantly offered to keep hold of the cup for another year, the Bellevilleites turned down the gesture.

Friendly House abuse disturbing

To the Editor:

The old adage "what we get for nothing is worth nothing" in essence says, we appreciate what we work for. I was impressed with the article about Phil Grippaldi and admire his feats. He has put the name of Belleville before the world.

I was discouraged to read his comments about the abuse of the weightlifting facilities in the Friendly House, quote, "probably the finest facilities in the country."

Many years ago Bob Cook introduced weightlifting to Belleville, and I had the opportunity to be in his first class, and to witness its development to where it is now, among the best in the country.

We started our session in the high school gym and when the school closed for vacation, had to look elsewhere for a place to practice. We were offered and used the attic of the Recreation House, until the activities were a discomfort to the caretaker and his wife who lived on the floor below.

The Stadium, at that time, was Belleville's big white elephant. It was in a sad state of neglect, although it had seldom been used. As we stood in the space allocated to us, rain was leading down our necks as we threaded our way among the old saws, swings and all other kinds of debris that had accumulated through the years. The Town Fathers promised to fix the leaks, repair the showers and provide heat. We would have to do the rest.

Under Bob Cook's leadership and inspiration we removed the debris, painted the walls and ceiling and made our own equipment. All the members helped and when we finished this gigantic project we appreciated it beyond its true value, because we had worked for it.

With this start, the stadium assumed the role for which it was designed. Today its many uses and its value are history. This became possible through the foresight, imagination and the roll up your sleeves attitude by the Director of Recreation, Bob Cook.

Were it possible for each new member of the Barbell Club to work his share, he would view these facilities in a different light, and their abuse would end. For the outsiders who are destructive, I would recommend they be required to restore whatever damage they cause.

P.S. I do not enjoy Helen Maguire's diary of happenings in her home. Give us back Pat Diana's outlook on Belleville.

AN ODE TO REV. PASCALE

Poetry concludes meeting

"I think the people of Belleville deserve the best," said Saletta.

In another action, the Commissioners unanimously agreed to participate in a legal action challenging the constitutionality of a new bill which will send sewerage taxes to an all-time high.

The bill, recently signed into law by Governor Brendan Byrne, obligates Belleville and 28 other Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission members to pay Newark the full cost of property taxes the city would have received had the site of a proposed $400 million treatment plant been used for private industry.

The vote Tuesday by the Commissioners officially makes Belleville part of the legal action against the bill, though Commissioner Joseph McGreevy indicated last week Belleville would join. The Town will pay a portion of the legal expenses involved.

Co-sponsored by Belleville Assemblyman Michael Adubato, the bill, in effect, circumvents the sewerage commission's tax exempt status by listing property tax replacement payments as part of plant operation costs. According to Town Attorney John Schott, that's illegal.

At least one Belleville resident feels the Commissioners are going about the effort all wrong, however. Frank Stanco urged the Commissioners to "put pressure on the Assemblymen" to repeal the legislation.

When the bill goes into effect January 1, local taxpayers will be hit by a minimum five tax point increase in sewerage taxes.

The meeting ended with a poem, of all

Golden Comments

By James R. Golden

Lest we forget! Whom the gods would destroy, they first make angry.

It is so pathetic to observe the incompetent attempt of a buffoon who would like to inject derisive invective in his feeble epistolary efforts while simultaneously serving in the role of a pusillanimous poltroon who seeks to hide under the cloak of anonymity. All these appellations seemingly would apply to the letter writer who mistakenly thinks we dwell in the letheian world of obliviousness.

This silly, inane "would-be" letter writer should be apprized that one of the first requirements of writing is accuracy and objectivity, qualities he displays a decided lack of. Another glaring foible of this dilettante writer pretender is in unpardonable fault of attempting to demean professional men engaged in essential service by insinuating snide disparaging inferences about the occupations of specially State licensed members of organized labor to whom he or she could probably never hold a candle.

Palpable inaccuracy in writing is the hallmark of a fool. This individual wears it well. When his or her letter makes reference to recall, it reads "something we all know is what removed him (Golden) from office, but somehow we all forget."

Forget? This "lug" obviously knew the score. Records clearly show I was the only elected Councilman to survive a full four-year term in office and was only beaten by 35 votes for re-election, largely because the politicians of this town could never control or dictate to me. I often wonder if many don't wish they had somebody like me down at Town Hall today, what with all that is going on there now.

Likewise, the confused, mixed-up letter writer suggests "I'm sure Mr. McCoy got his salary adjustment, but why didn't he invoke the Commissioners then into applying (the law) when he thought Commissioner McGreevy was unfair? Somehow we all forget."

Well! Here Again he fails in a flagrant breach of truth. The facts are that McCoy's case against McGreevy is still pending in Superior Court. It has a docket number and to date there has been no adjustment of his salary.

We might condone ignorance or misinformation, but when one deliberately tries to distort and misrepresent statements in written form in the public press, we not only find it unpardonable but condemn it to the high heavens and strongly urge this kind of purveyor of lies be banned from the pages of the paper, unless he or she has the "guts" to use his name so that we may all know who the "jerk" is.

We respect his or her right to serve as an apologist for Commissioner Saletta, but let the writer get the facts right before making an utter ass of himself or herself, such as this author has done by the past effort. We even wonder if the letter writer might be a political fug.

It is the hope of this column that the local Planning Board in its considerations of traffic circulation will give studied thought to my persistently urged proposal to "clean up" the traffic mess at the location of the Fidelity Trust Company bank at Belleville and Washington avenues.

This condition arises from the questionable use of Washington Avenue, State Highway 7, by the bank as an extension of its "drive in lane" for customers who bank by car. Periodically the congestion engendered by this procedure produces chaotic and even dangerous driving conditions.

An easy remedy is available by reversing the one way flow of traffic on Greenwich Street from south to north, painting a drive in lane leading into the bank's driveway in a direction opposite from its present flow and providing for only a right turn exit onto Washington Avenue on completion of the customer's transaction.

Surely the modest expense the mighty Fidelity might be subjected to by erecting an additional window to accommodate its customers should stand as no deterrent to the implementation of this corrective measure which will relieve the nasty tie-ups occasioned by the present ill-devised method.

Let's hope the Planners will incorporate such a program among their recommendations. It would help.

Lead characters Valerie Buglione (as Linda Christie) and Frank Paterno (as Allan Felix) pause during Family Playhouse's "Play It Again, Sam" production continuing this weekend at the local theater.

THEATER REVIEW

Play it better, Playhouse

By JANE WITTMAN

Every once in a while it is good to be reminded that there is no one funnier than Woody Allen. Last weekend Family Playhouse drove home the point when it opened Allen's hysterically funny play, "Play It Again Sam," at its theater on Brookline Avenue, Nutley.

It is the misfortune of local Woody Allen fans that the local actors are not the author's equal. They were hysterically funny all right, but more on Woody Allen's account, it seemed, than on their own.

True, no one can play Woody Allen like Woody Allen, and "Play It Again, Sam's" main character, Allan Felix, is really Woody Allen with an assumed name—the same skinny, awkward, neurotic and pathetically funny person he is in every other Woody Allen show.

So it is easy to see why director Mark St. Germain chose a frontal attack on "Play It Again, Sam," choosing Frank Paterno as his lead man, who bears a remarkable resemblance to Allen himself. And it is to Paterno's credit that he is able to cash in on Allen's mannerisms and bearing throughout most of the play. As might have been predicted, however, Paterno is just not as convincing as the original star. Imitating famous people, if not recommended for amateur productions, is particularly difficult to avoid in "Play It Again, Sam," though. The ghost of Humphrey Bogart plays an important part in the play, and imitation was John Monroe's only alternative. He handled it well as Felix's straight man, and was consistently true to character in even the more delicate exchanges of lines.

Bogey, of course, is only a figment of Felix's neurotic and film-obsessed imagination, brought to bear on his disrupted marriage and his attempt to again find a suitable companion in life. The trouble starts when Felix realizes (with Bogey's help) that the most suitable companion is Linda, his best friend's wife.

Linda, played by Valerie Buglione, like Felix, is a neurotic, albeit a better looking one. And she is sympathetic to Felix's plight, even if he does use too much Canoe. Buglione, though, seemed a little uncomfortable with her part at times, particularly at odds with her character's neuroses and sexual attractiveness. Her sympathy for her "platonic" friend comes to her more easily.

Linda's husband, Dick, is played by Dan Magno, who has trouble collecting his lines into a distinct overall characterization. Ideally, Dick is a strong, confident and self-aware business dynamo, who must phone into the office every 15 minutes of the day. Magno lost some of Dick's strength, but still timed the delivery of his punch lines well.

Few of the remaining actresses—Cynthia Wolf as Nancy, Susan Owen as Sharon, Catherine Noble as Sharon Lake, and several others—were on stage long enough to leave the audience with any strong impressions, though collectively they seemed under-rehearsed.

Felix's estranged wife, Nancy, has a key scene with Bogey toward the end of the show, but it passes too quickly and loudly when she discharges an overloaded blank gun at Bogart's vanishing form.

Nancy's scenes were plagued more than others with lighting miscues, which despite their off timing worked well for flashback scenes. The set was excellent, economical and clean, and may rate as one of the best to yet grace a Family Playhouse stage.

"Play It Again, Sam," will continue this weekend at the local theater, and hopefully St. Germain's crew members will have worked into their parts by tomorrow, but the last performances were indicators that Family Playhouse is overextending its resources and available time.

Rev. Pascale: a young 83

At 83, an age when most men have been enjoying retirement for many years, an octogenarian Baptist minister, Reverend Pascale, is busy embarking on a new career.

His latest appointment, which the much-loved minister says came as a complete surprise to him, is chaplain to the Board of Commissioners, a newly organized post.

Rev. Pascale, although he has snow-white hair, and a slight limp from a recent broken hip is a young 83, extremely modern in his thinking, and active in many community projects.

Several weeks ago he celebrated his 61st year as founder and minister of the Silver Lake Baptist Church, and two weeks ago, when he was invited by the Town Commissioners to attend a meeting, he simply thought he was there to offer a prayer to usher in a bicentennial program. Instead, he was chosen as the town's first chaplain, and at the same meeting, was also informed that Friendly House, a local recreational facility, founded by him, would be renamed in his honor.

The minister, who has been called several times by Congressman Joseph Minish and House Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, to offer the invocation at the opening of the U.S. Senate and the House of Representatives, also serves as a chaplain at Columbus Hospital, Newark, a part-time chaplain at Clara Maass, and is an on call chaplain for the PBA. He is involved with the Belleville Foundation, the Red Cross, and is very often asked by various town-affiliated organizations to appear at dinner meetings to offer grace before the meal.

Among his many services to the community, Rev. Pascale was the first to offer his Community House, built in 1929 (now, Rev. Pascale's Friendly House and Civic Center) as a free dental clinic. Always a friend to even the smallest of children, the minister opened the first playground in Belleville in 1914. The grounds are still there, next to the parsonage at 10 Florence Avenue, and while only one play horse remains, children still come to play games and spend much of the day.

At the Silver Lake Baptist Church, on Franklin Street, Rev. Pascale holds a bible school every Sunday at 10 a.m., and services for adults at 11 a.m.

During the week the parsonage is open for the ladies auxiliary to meet and hold small parties, and for the choir to rehearse.

He makes it a special point to hold services at the Geriatrics Center once a month, where ladies from the congregation take charge of wheeling patients to and from the services. In addition, the minister, together with the ladies, bring gifts of powder, jewelry and other small items to cheer-up the confined.

Having been minister to as many as five generations in one family, Rev. Pascale thinks nothing of driving miles to perform a wedding ceremony for a former parishioner. He's been known to go off in the middle of the night to offer someone a comforting word. He's a good listener, a better advisor, and a thoroughly occupied man, but Rev. Pascale always has time for just one more job—and almost everyone knows it.

ALBUM REVIEW

Carlin is four for 14

By ANTHONY BUCCINO

Seeing George Carlin on a television talk show doing a quick three minutes of humorous observation, most people are easily conned into thinking, "My, what a bright, talented, though weird looking comedian."

Woe to "ma and pa" when they splurge for "George Carlin, An Evening With Wally Londo Featuring Bill Slatko," his latest album. Here they'll find an enterprising 37-year-old man making keen observations from the gutter, in a speech known well to those in the gutter of any drug-soaked street.

There are only four tracks on this album suitable for airplay, that is, mostly on your FM dial. The other ten cuts would most likely leave your grandmother in a dead faint.

Obviously, George Carlin is not looking for money from your grandmother's social security check. His influence (it is very powerful) is amazingly a dynamic half-nelson on the minds of most everyone 15 to 30 with others salted on both sides.

His appeal grew from imitations of disc-jockeys to his present imitation of the entire radio dial. His coarse language shuffled from "being fired in Las Vegas for saying shoot," to the "seven words you can't say on television" to the amended seven words.

"Why is he so successful?" you ask. "Where is his social redeeming value?" It is there, believe me, from civic centers to college campuses, in the belly laughs of the "row captains."

The inflection of Carlin's voice has become a trademark with students in high schools and colleges. Everywhere, there is always someone making a fool of himself speaking in the rip-off tone of the top-forties djs.

Another important point to George Carlin's success is on the cover of this new album. The face, the direction of the eyes, even the situation of the lips, we've seen it before, but vaguely. Where? I'll tell you where, on that old Lenny Bruce album in the back of our record rack. Lenny is gone, you see, but George Carlin has the ball and he's got a touchdown in his pocket.

As "goofy" as Carlin gets, as many picaresque points that he brings out, we still walk away smiling. Why not, we've done it with his other five albums. We just can't seem to get enough.

Well-known banker passes on; Erie Railroad gates still an issue

By JODI MASSONE

One year ago

The 74 year old Peoples Bank president, B. Thomas Aitken, died suddenly at his home in South Orange.

The banker, who was born in Niagara Falls, New York, and raised there, joined the Belleville bank in 1934, and in just five years rose to the post of president.

Under his guidance, the bank steadily grew, its assets jumping from $2 million in 1939 to $6 million in 1974.

Active in social, civic and charitable organizations, Aitken was a member and past president of both the Rotary Club and the Belleville Foundation, and past chairman of various other well-known organizations.

Talks were still continuing regarding the restoration of railroad gates at Franklin Street and Belmont Avenue in the Silver Lake section of town.

Witnesses for the Town and the Erie Lackawanna Railway would again return to the New Jersey Department of Transportation building in Newark at 10 a.m. the following week to resume hearings on the restoration.

Responding to complaints lodged by residents of Cedar Hill Avenue, the Board of Commissioners voted unanimously to suspend alternate side of the street parking regulations that had been overlooked earlier that year.

Though the Commissioners had suspended until March 31, alternate side parking rules in most parts of town, a recently adopted parking law covering Cedar Hill Avenue, Carmer Avenue, Mt. Prospect Avenue and Celia Terrace had not been included in their action. The vote was made retroactive to November 20, when the previous suspension of parking resolution took effect.

Two years ago

A three-year contract was accepted by Walter Kidde workers, thus ending an eight week strike by 600 workers.

After voting 531-67, members of Local 147 of the United Auto Workers returned to their jobs with a ten per cent across-the-board increase and a new retirement plan which would provide pensions for 30 year workers, who could retire at age 56.

Although the rationing of gasoline seemed imminent in the near future, Deputy Fire Chief William Fabian issued a warning to all Belleville residents not to consider storing gasoline, no matter what.

While residents were being cautioned, gasoline stations in the area were requested not to dispense gasoline into storage cans other than those cans serving their particular stations, and then only for emergency purposes.

Six years ago

Mayor Ken Smith was in favor of remodeling almost everything in sight.

Speaking before a gathering of the Belleville Manufacturers Association, Smith announced his intentions to rally support for a program that would reconstruct town-owned properties, all financed by a bond issue.

The Mayor told the Times he would meet with representatives of the school and library boards to begin an investigation into the town's physical needs. In this way was the machinery set in motion for the first attempted massive building program in the history of Belleville.

No decision as yet had been made concerning the Town's planned appeal to the State Board of Education concerning the State's restoration of 128,000 dollars to the Belleville School System.

Sixteen years ago

The Belleville Board of Education was ready to hold an election. John R. Basile became the fourth candidate for one of the three seats on the board. Also seeking election were James H. Leary, Miss Evelyn Hannon and Rocco H. Saletta.

Twenty-one years ago

There were three new ordinances in town.

The first was for a $11,000 truck for the Public Affairs Department for spraying; another $8,300 for the new accounting machine and a third was for a change in the bookkeeping system to allow for a 53 pay-period schedule.

Final plans were completed for the sixth annual Christmas party of the Kenneth D. Smith Association.

Father Egan and the boys of Boystown of New Jersey were slated to be guests of the group.

Thirty-one years ago

Belleville resident Alfred Bonaiuto must have been the best taxpayer in the County! The Brighton Avenue man was found to have been paying taxes for thirty years on 18 feet of property which did not even exist. No one knew what was accountable for the mistake but Bonaiuto's taxes, were never-the-less lower, something which did not happen often in the life of any taxpayer.

You, as an individual, can set up your own government approved tax-deductible savings program. Under the Individual Retirement Account Plan, an employee may deduct from his gross income up to 15% of earned wages to a maximum of $1,500 and deposit it in the retirement account. All retirement funds can earn interest at available rates. The prime advantage of this plan is that taxes on interest and principal are deferred until retirement when your income is greatly reduced. According to regulations, payments to retirees may start at age 59 1/2, unless you become permanently disabled. Payments must begin by age 70 1/2. ## Reflecting on days to come

Helen's thing

by Helen Maguire

Christmas approaches, nay is almost upon us. My shopping isn't completed, the Jesus house with it's family is still wrapped up and in the cellar, the tree lights are untested, the stand not inspected for leaks, the tree itself unpurchased though reason tells me it would be better to buy one now, saw an inch off the bottom and stand it in a bucket of water on the porch. That way, with a little bit of luck, it may refrain from shedding needles before December 26 hoves into view.

I haven't yet gotten around to hanging a wreath on the door and the fir boughs for the mantel are still at some purveyor's establishment. (A word about fir boughs, learned from frightening experience: NEVER, NEVER do what I did one year and throw them in a lit fireplace when they have dried out and are ready for the garbage. I have never heard such a roar, seen such flames, watched my husband, hurtling downstairs from the second floor, turn white so fast. The conflagration I caused looked like another Rome in miniature.)

But, some things are accomplished. A few presents bought over the weeks, are stashed away (not in the house, Gavin, so don't bother looking!) A few cookies have been baked. A few major cleaning chores have been accomplished (and a lot have not).

We have enjoyed the Christmas program at Spring Garden. The quartet is busily rehearsing for their parts in the pageant at church (two angels, one shepherd, one reader). The boys are practicing for the Christmas service, with Ryan still warbling, despite numerous corrections "We cooled him to sleep, my mate and I" from that beautiful carol, The Friendly Beasts. The Advent supper is over, the pinatas broken and Gavin's rib rebrused as he launched himself flat out on the Parish House floor to lay claim to some candy.

I hope the meaning of Christmas doesn't get lost in all this hustle. Ogden Nash expresses my thoughts well.

"God rest you, merry Innocents/Let nothing you dismay,/Let nothing wound an eager heart/Upon this Christmas day.

Yours be the genial holly wreaths,/The stockings and the tree;/An aged world to you bequeaths/Its own forgotten glee.

Soon, soon enough some crueler gifts,/The anger and the tears;/Between you now there sparsely drifts/A handful yet of years.

Oh, dimly, dimly glows the star/Through the electric throng;/The bidding in temple and bazaar/Drowns out the silver song...

Two ultimate laws alone we know,/The ledger and the sword-/So far away, so long ago,/We lost the infant Lord.

Only the children clasp his hand,/His voice speaks low to them,/And still for them the shining band/Wings over Bethlehem.

God rest you, merry Innocents,/While innocence endures,/A sweeter Christmas than we to ours/May you bequeath to yours.

MISS C.P. HERLIHY (right) president of the West Hudson Business and Professional Women's Club, presents a check to Clara Maass Memorial Hospital in Belleville. Accepting is Miss Marie DiAlessandro, Administrative Coordinator who also addressed the group and led them on a tour through the 570 bed hospital.

West Hudson BPW Club makes donation to hospital

The West Hudson Business and Professional Women's Club recently made a donation to Clara Maass Memorial Hospital in Belleville, New Jersey. After dinner at the hospital, Miss Marie D'Alessandro, Administrative Coordinator of Clara Maass accepted the check presented by the club's president, Miss C.P. Herlihy of Kearny.

Following dinner, Miss D'Alessandro also addressed the Business and Professional Women's Club on planned expansions and renovations of the hospital, as well as capitalizing the history of the hospital that started in 1868.

William Malencsik, Assistant Director of Personnel, spoke to the club members about the life of Clara Louise Maass, after whom the hospital was renamed in 1952. His comments centered around a pictorial display which depicts the nurse's career and her eventual death in the yellow fever experiments of 1901.

The club members also viewed a "how-to" film on breast self-examination.

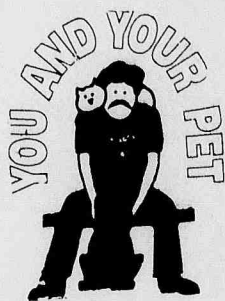

Miss D'Alessandro and Mr. Malencsik also led the West Hudson Club on a tour through various areas of the hospital.

Other club officers include: Mrs. Myra Dard Clark, vice president; Miss Eleanor Kvaska, second vice president.

Christmas show set at School 8

Two first grade classes of School 8, under the direction of Miss Carole Alterizio and Mrs. Rassaella Saulino, will present "The Christmas Show" Thursday, December 18 at 7 p.m. in the school auditorium. Following the show, the fifth and sixth grade chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Carol Mateyka, will perform.

The following day, Friday, December 19, two performance will be given for the school students.

Eye Problems

Although there are very rare instances of a dog or cat being fitted for glasses or contact lenses, the key to eye care for pets lies in prevention rather than correction.

Among the simple rules to remember is this one: Don't let your pet go for car rides with his head out the window. Dust, dirt or small stones thrown up by the wheels can cause temporary and permanent eye problems.

At home, if you are using a powerful cleaning solution, confine your pet to another room. Kittens and puppies are drawn to the hissing sound produced by aerosol can and by the bright soap bubbles in wash water. The end result of their curiosity may be days of discomfort due to the fumes emitted by the cleaning products.

A reliable sign of eye irritation is a sudden, profuse watery discharge. Along with this discharge, you may notice that your pet will paw and shake his head, and avoid bright lights.

If these symptoms are exhibited, calm your pet and try to examine the injured eye. If you spot the offending foreign particle, flush the eye with warm water and try to remove the object with sterile cotton. If there is no apparent reason for the irritation, consult your veterinarian.

Professional help is recommended because so many eye disorders present the same symptoms of redness and discharge. These disorders include conjunctivitis, corneal scratches or infections of the eyelid.

Conjunctivitis is an inflammation of the thin mucous membrane on the inner surface of the eyelid. It can be caused by trapped foreign particles or a bacterial infection. Whatever the cause, if it does not clear up in a day or two, see a veterinarian.

Scratches or other superficial injuries to the surface of the eye can result in cloudy or bluish spots on the cornea (the cornea is a thin, transparent layer on the front of the eyeball). The spots are the result of white blood cells invading the cornea to repel infection. As healing is accomplished and the inflammation recedes, the spotting usually clears.

This type of clouding should not be confused with cataracts. Cataracts occur only in the lens, located deeper in the eye. A cataract may involve all or only part of the lens, and may be seen as a cloudy spot in the lens by looking through the pupil or dark spot in the center of the eye. This condition generally occurs in older animals, and work is being done to determine if a tendency toward cataract formation is an inherited trait. A cataract often means a gradual worsening of sight, ending in blindness, if not corrected surgically.

Glaucoma is another progressive eye disease which leads to blindness. The damage is done slowly by an increase in pressure inside the eyeball, resulting in destruction of the optic nerve and retina. If discovered in time, the condition may respond to medication; occasionally surgery is necessary to save the sight in the unaffected eye. Unfortunately, there are few obvious symptoms for glaucoma and some owners are not even aware that their pet is going blind.

It should be noted that a blind pet is not always a helpless pet. Most four-footed pets, especially dogs, use their noses a great deal in finding their way around the house and neighborhood. If your dog should lose its sight, it can be compensated for by the sense of smell. As long as you do not rearrange the furniture drastically, or move the food dish from its accustomed place, your pet may be able to adjust to the situation.

Annual auction, card party recent success at School 8

A fifth annual Chinese auction/card party was recently held at School Eight, 183 Union Avenue.

In addition to the auction, sweepstakes prizes were also handed out, which helped to add to the success of the affair.

Mrs. Dolores Dill was chairman of the event, while Mrs. Lois Conklin served as co-chairman. Mrs. Eleanor Arthur served as advisor and ticket chairman; Mrs. Addie Cetrulo, Mrs. Pat Gardner, Mrs. Sue Gallina and Mrs. Agnes Perrotta displayed their skills on the decorating committee;

The thanks of a grateful team and a monument sized trophy were given to football team trainer William "Doc" Ellis at last Friday's Varsity Club banquet. The trophy presentation was made by griddier Vito Guarino. Ellis assisted the team doctor in keeping the boys in one piece this season.

John Senesky (right) assistant football coach was given an award for his service on the team. Bellboy defender, Anthony "Chipper" Biafore gave Senesky the trophy. In addition to driving the men at practice, Senesky helped pilot the team's defensive strategy by manning the field phone during the squad's Saturday battles.

Outstanding — Belleville high defensive tackle John Valvano (right) was one of several men who received special recognition at the Varsity Club Football Banquet for outstanding play this season. Club member Robert Racciopi made the presentation as Valvano received a roaring ovation.

Coach Tom Testa (left) was not forgotten by the team, and Bellboy Alan Cervasio presented the mentor with a trophy from the gridders. Testa thanked his men for the honor, and praised them for their hard work and fine play. The presentation of the coach's trophy was one of the highlights of the Varsity Club's grid feast.

Cagers, Campers in season opener

The Belleville high varsity hoopsters have been warming their engines for a month now, and should be ready to get off to a roaring start tomorrow when they host the Irvington Campers at 8 p.m. in Belleville high gym.

Coach Dan Grasso said he is optimistic about his team's chances for a successful season this year despite, as he puts it, "Just about everybody we play will be taller than us."

The hardwooders have been working out for four weeks, and they have several scrimmage games under their belts. Though these practice contests are not always a reliable indicator of how well a team will do, Grasso said his squad's performances have been consistently strong, especially on the defensive side of the scale.

Because of the expected height differential, Grasso has had his men working on "boxing out" attacking players. The men will position themselves in the man-to-man alignment favored by Grasso. So far, said the coach, it has been working out well and the team has managed to keep scrimmage-scoring by opponents down to an acceptable level.

Offensively, Grasso said his men would try and get the ball down to their end of the court quickly, and if the fast break fails, they will go for what he calls "the good percentage shots."

Last year, Grasso had his big man, Abdel Anderson, to depend on for defensive and offensive power. This season, the coach said, "We will have to have a balanced attack and also a strong defense. Our offense has been a little weak, but from what I've seen of these boys, they can give anybody a helluva game."

Winter sports programs to take shape Saturday

The Belleville Recreation Department's winter sports program begins in earnest Saturday at 1 p.m. when the basketball and wrestling programs form up at Belleville High School.

All fifth and sixth grade boys are invited to take part in the basketball program, which will operate under the leadership of Dan Grasso, Belleville's varsity hoop coach.

In addition to team play, there will be a weekly clinic where youngsters will receive instruction in B-ball skills. The boys will also play on teams in the Recreation Elementary Basketball League.

Teams in the league are carefully balanced by a formula which considers both the age and height of the players. Working with league director John Senesky will be a group of volunteer coaches who will guide the teams.

The program is open to students in both the public and parochial schools. A similar program for girls will begin

Mentally, Grasso said the boys were still coming along. "I think they are a little perplexed," he said, "they don't really know what they are capable of doing. When they make up their minds, though, they will really get the job done."

Grasso said that while the team did depend on Anderson last year, he feels the loss of the big man is being taken as a kind of challenge to the present players. The coach isn't really worried about the loss either because, he said, "You don't

'Green' girl's squad to see first combat

The Belleville high women's basketball team has taken to the courts for another season of sport, and after a month of practice and two scrimmages, coach Karen Fucello is cautiously optimistic about her team's capabilities.

The girls' season will officially begin tomorrow when the squad travels to Irvington to match skills with the Campers. The game will begin at 3:45 p.m.

Last year, said coach Fucello, the Campers were perhaps one of the weakest teams in the Big Ten. "They had a new coach last year," the Bellgirl coach said, "and they were fairly weak. They now have a year of experience, however, and they should be a much improved ball club."

The coach said she expects the game to be "tougher than I would like" since her team hasn't "gelled" quite the way she hoped.

There are three returning varsity win a lot of games with just one player. Not in the Big Ten you don't."

What Grasso does have to draw on is a small core of returning players. Seniors Joe Dunn, Doug Jackson and Wayne Riche are all back on the court for Grasso as is junior Ron Krych.

Coach Grasso is especially pleased with Riche's performance in the pre-season contests, and he calls the five foot five inch guard "the real sparkplug for the players, coach Fucello said, with limited varsity experience. As a result, there are a lot of new faces on the court, and, according to the coach, "our greenness shows."

Back from last year are junior Fatima Anderson and seniors Carol Lilio and Nancy Skrutskie. All three girls saw some varsity action last year, and the coach may lean a lot on their experience to help the team out of jams.

Skrutskie's ability to start tomorrow may be up in the air, the coach said, since the center was out early this week with a jammed thumb and a badly bruised knee. "Hopefully she will be ready," Fucello said.

Grapplers are looking good again

The BHS wrestling squad will open its season next Wednesday when the team travels to Morris Hills for the starting match of the schedule.

The team, once again under coach Jim Silvestri, will be trying to at least match last year's record of 13-2. The boys will also be working towards defending their District 7 title and attempting to raise their statewide ranking. Last year the squad was put at 15th in New Jersey.

Coach Silvestri has a lot of material to work with. There are nine returning wrestlers, though the team is a little thin in the 122, 135, and 141 pound weight classes.

With that many men coming back, one would expect coach Silvestri to be, if not relaxed, at least a little more comfortable than in the past. Silvestri, however, never seems happy with his lot in the beginning of the season, and this year is no different.

"I think we are a little behind schedule compared to last year," the coach said. "We've still got some holes to fill, but if we can come around, we should be adequate."

The team has been practicing about three weeks, and Silvestri said he has been having "health problems."

"There have been some slight injuries," Silvestri said, "but mainly its been kids getting sick. We have to tackle the health problem before we can really get down to wrestling."

The team scrimmaged Lodi last Friday, and coach Silvestri came away from the practice contest a little disappointed in his team's performance.

"We looked a little sloppy. Lodi is a fairly decent team, but as a veteran squad, we should have done better. Our moves were a little sluggish, mostly basic wrestling moves."

The team will have an opportunity to sharpen up its style this Saturday when it travels to High Point for another scrimmage.

All was not bad in the Lodi contest, though, and Silvestri said some of the returning starters looked strong.

Chris Tremel, wrestling at 158, and

Campers first test

The coach said she feels the team may have a slight height advantage over opponents this year, and she points to Fatima Anderson as the tallest player on the squad, standing around five feet, 11 inches tall. Fucello said Anderson was looking good, and had played well defensively in scrimmages.

Lilio will probably be starting at the guard spot tomorrow. Except for her, Fucello said her team is slightly lacking in the guard department, mainly from lack of experience.

The other potential starters for the Belgirl squad are Ellen Schulz, a junior, at the forward and guard spots, Lydia Damato, a junior also a possible guard, junior Kathy Stone is also working at the guard and forward spots. Sophomore Michele Giordano may go at the low post spot, and Marita Hoshstuh, a junior will be looking for a starting berth as a forward.

Coach Fucello is relatively happy with her team's progress to date, saying they are "coming around."

"Everybody in the Big Ten is a lot tougher this year," the coach said. "We don't have a set five yet, so that may be hurting us a little, but our inexperience really shows sometimes. The success of this season will depend on just how well the juniors develop their skills. We are just going to have to be patient."

The team will play its first home game next Tuesday when the Belgirls host the East Orange Panthers. The game is slated to begin at 3:45 p.m. in the high school gym.

Sports sign-up this Saturday

According to Zarra, every boy who shows up Saturday will be given an opportunity to prove himself on the mat.

The boys will be taught basic wrestling skills, and honed to sharpness for competition. Zarra said it is his policy to let each boy get the opportunity to enter team and individual meets.

According to the coach, wrestling helps the boys develop manly qualities while having fun and building up their bodies.

Since the wrestlers are each matched with a man equal in weight, size is really no barrier.

Wrestling team's standards high

Keith Waddell, competing in the 170 pound class both did well the coach said. He was also pleased with heavyweight George D'Alesandro's performance.

Hopefully, Silvestri said, the rest of the veterans will get into the groove and regain their winning style.

Carl Arlt will be back for Belleville in the 101 pound class, and should be a tough man to beat. Also back are Vin Mustacchio at 115, Ron Grolimond at 129, Robert Villano, competing in the 148 pound class, and Ken Milano, wrestling at 188.

The 122, 135 and 141 weight classes are still wide open. According to Silvestri there are at least 10 men vying for the spots, and he said it would be impossible to pick the final starters out of that crowd. Because the team has been working mainly on conditioning, the coach said, there hasn't been a wrestle off for the starting spots yet.

In the meantime, Morris Hills is looming on the horizon, and Silvestri is still a bit edgy.

"I'm hoping we can bounce around for next week," said the coach. "I'm expecting a very tough match. We will really have to be ready for them."

Bellboy defense is effective so far

team. Riche looks sharp. He has been hustling both offensively and defensively.

The final starting line-up for tomorrow night's opener was not set early this week, but Grasso said he had a pretty fair idea of who would start. Seniors Jackson and Dunn will go as forwards, Riche as a guard, and senior Mark Montagna, at 6 foot two inches, the tallest man on the team, will handle center duties.

The other guard slot will probably go to either Rich Thomas, a junior or Clyde Murdaug, a senior.

No matter who starts, Grasso is expecting a tough battle. Irvington has at least two big men back from last year, and they are bound to give the relatively short Bellboys a tough time.

Next week, things may be even more difficult when the team travels to East Orange to tangle with the traditionally tough Panthers. That time is slated to begin at 3:30 p.m.

Did you ever wonder how many hours you devote to eating? It is a lot — a substantial part of every day is spent adding to our digestive tracts nutrients — and sometimes a lot more! It turns out that, as you might expect your efficiency and pleasure during the other hours are influenced to a great extent by the foods you eat. For too many, unfortunately a diet inadequate in quality (rather than in quantity!) is the basic reason for their failure to be well-nourished. It is time for all of us to re-examine our diets. We will be happier, healthier, and live longer.

Senior notes

By GEORGE CHENOWETH

We would like to get news of senior citizen's clubs of Belleville and surrounding areas. They could be either church connected or any senior's organization whose members get together for social functions, meetings, or rides. In this way we can keep each other informed of goings on and perhaps create a little interest for those who don't belong to any senior citizen's club to join up and participate in the fun.

We are also interested in finding the names of businesses that give discounts to senior, whether the firms deal in goods or services. We could make a list of these firms, their names, addresses and the amount or percentage of discounts, and pass it on at the various seniors clubs.

Our seniors do take advantage of lower prices and will usually shop in stores and patronize services that give discounts. We do not always know where to go to take advantage of these lower prices and such a list would help. It would also probably be of an advantage to the merchant. Write to me, care of this newspaper, and let me know.

Tickets are still available for the Christmas parties for seniors. The Belleville Senior Citizens Club, Inc., is having its party at the Fountain on December 15. Last week's outing by this club to Radio City was a huge success, reports Mary Cicereale.

The Essex County Seniors in the Park are also having a Christmas party at the Fountain on December 17. Rouse up, seniors! Get out and enjoy the fun!

School salary talks: no end in sight

Belleville school employee salary negotiations are continuing this week with the Board of Education, but no end to the talks is yet in sight.

Despite the arrival of a State mediator to help handle teacher salary talks, Board members and employee negotiating teams are still struggling to keep pace with what both sides have termed progress.

Though all parties are continuing their discussions, insiders expect most of the attention will be given to settling with the Belleville Education Association, which represents about 400 local teachers. Nicholas Petti, head of the administrators' negotiating team, said his group is still talking with the Board, but teacher salary talks are consuming most of the Board's time.

Petti has formally filed with the Public Employee Relations Commission declaring an impasse, he said, though the act is little more than a formality. "We're just trying to go along with the State guidelines to make sure we're protected," he said. Petti speculated that "it's just a matter of time" before the Board and the employees come to terms.

The general consensus among all parties is that Belleville's negotiations are progressing as well as those in other New Jersey towns.

This year is a difficult one for school systems throughout the State, however, and Belleville is no exception when it comes to finances. The School Board will no doubt be attempting to assemble a budget package that will meet with voter approval early next year, despite rising costs of living affecting its employees. Compounding the problem is a State imposed limitation on budget increases — known as a budget cap — which in Belleville's case is in the area of 10 percent over last year.

The outcome of teacher and other employee negotiations will bear on how much the Board can then allocate for other expenses. Salaries constitute the single largest budgetary item of every year.

Couple charged with cop assault

A Belleville man and woman charged with assaulting a police officer had their cases sent to an Essex County Grand Jury after probable cause hearings December 3 in Belleville Municipal Court.

Carmine F. Pedone, 22, and Joellen Pedone, 20, of 131 Passaic Avenue were arrested November 18 and charged with assault and battery on Belleville police officer Charles Oese.

Joellen Pedone was also charged with interfering with officer George Sheridan and that case was referred to the prosecutor's office.
