Grin and bear it

It was trauma time last week in the Belleville school system when the Health Department administered a variety of inoculations required by law. This School Ten student was "shot" with a compressed air inoculation gun.

New leader

No. 15 bus line service will end

Despite protests from local officials, the Number 15 bus will no longer run after February 8, cutting off service to Clara Maass Hospital, the new senior citizens center, the Franklin Avenue shopping center and the Newark Subway.

The end of the line for the 15 bus comes after the collapse of a six month attempt to save it. The line received two reprieves during that period, but it now appears cancellation of the service will come about.

A spokesman for the Department of Transportation explained that the elimination of the 15 bus and 17 other lines throughout the state became necessary because of a $10 million shortfall in the subsidy program maintained by the DOT's Bureau of Bus Operations.

State Assemblyman Carl Orechio, a member of the Transit Study Committee, blasted the shutdown of the lines however, calling the move "a blatant attempt by Governor Byrne to twist the arms of the people who are affected in order to get an income tax through."

The Assemblyman assured riders, "We're going to make every effort to keep the services status quo by putting pressure on the administration to use monies out of the various surplus accounts or possibly by coming up with some kind of a program that will fund mass transit."

While promising to fight to keep the lines in service, Orechio pulled up short of a guarantee, saying, "I wouldn't go that far because there is no way to force the TNJ to operate unless they get their money. We're going to make every effort to keep the buses running."

Riders have already presented their complaints at a public hearing on the cancellation of the 15 bus run, and those opinions have been passed on to the Transportation Department. The next step, therefore is up to the Byrne administration.

Hundreds of citizens from Belleville, Bloomfield and Nutley turned out for a meeting at the Bloomfield Municipal Building last August to protest the first announcement of the cancellation. At that time, the TNJ set the termination date at October 1.

The deadline was extended until December 1 after the protests, but the line was again saved when it was ruled the company had not shown sufficient cause to cancel service.

Commissioner of Public Affairs Vincent Strumolo's office protested the August announcement by firing off letters to Transport of New Jersey president John J. Gilhooley, Public Utilities Commission president Anthony Grossi and Nutley Mayor Carmen Orechio.

Town Registrar Ralph Risoli also pointed out at the time the discontinuation of the line, which serves as a feeder to the Newark Subway, also would cut off service to two hospitals, two medical centers, and a major shopping center in Belleville. He said the cutback came at a time when "Belleville's public transportation is already limited."

A 10 cent fare increase in December led many 15 bus riders to believe they had won their fight to keep the line, but this week's announcement would appear to be final. While it may still be possible to save the line, it does not appear likely.

Avenue food store to open next month

By CHUCK JACKSON

Bellevilleites may soon be able to return to Washington Avenue for one-stop shopping when a new supermarket opens in the once vacant Pathmark store.

Sam Abedrabbo, manager of the planned "Sam's Supermarket" said he hopes to be ready for business by February 15 if all goes well. Abedrabbo is now in the process of renovating the interior of the structure.

Former owner of "John's Bargain Store," Abedrabbo said he has been working on the new store since December 1, and the lease of the building was finalized late last month.

Though parking has been a problem in the past for stores located on Washington Avenue, and Abedrabbo said he was "a little worried" about the parking situation, he said he had spoken to Mayor Michael Marotti about the situation.

"The mayor seemed encouraging," said the store manager, "and he said he wanted to sit down and talk about the parking situation."

Abedrabbo said he had asked about the possibility of having the meters in front of the store and having the area labeled for shoppers only. He said he had asked about the possibility of changing the parking from parallel to angle parking.

Abedrabbo said the fact that the supermarket which had occupied the store previously closed down did not bother him, adding, "I know why they closed."

"The store was owned by a large chain," he continued, "and those companies spend a lot of money on advertising for television. This store was just not big enough to bring in enough money for

Apartment house bid rejected

A variance application for the construction of a 30-unit apartment on Harrison Street was unanimously denied last Thursday by the Belleville Zoning Board.

After two lengthy and emotionally charged meetings, the Zoners ruled that the proposed building would contain an "excessive number of units," and was lacking proper parking area access.

The Board ruled against property owner Dolores Klein, 55 Harrison Street, despite testimony by several witnesses that an unusual "split zone" dividing the property created a considerable hardship.

Though Mrs. Klein's attorney Jack Soriano announced no plans for appeal, about 40 Harrison Street residents were apparently pleased with the Board's decision. Most of the objectors appeared at both hearings to complain the building would congest their neighborhood, overload the sewers and create additional parking and traffic problems.

Officially, the Zoners denied the variance because the building would exceed by 24 the number of units legally allowed, and because "there is no legal means of exit from the parking lot." Though conceding "there would be a practical hardship in construction of six two-family homes" on the site, the Zoners said they were not satisfied the rear portion of the property was unuseable.

Behind wheel training reinstated by Schoolers

Behind the wheel driver's education is expected to resume "no later than February 1" at Belleville High School following a decision last week by the Board of Education to reinstate the popular program.

Though earlier this school year the Board had neither funds for nor teachers to teach the course, both of those problems have been solved.

According to Board president Richard Mahmarian, $3,000 in Belleville Adult School profit has been applied to the driver's education program, and six or seven teachers—three from outside the Belleville school system—have agreed to teach the course at the $5 per hour rate offered by the Board.

"I'm sure everyone involved is very happy, especially the class of '76," said Mrs. Viola Narucki, leader of a large group of parents who had petitioned the Board to reinstate the course.

Mahmarian had no explanation for the "sudden" emergence of teachers, though two of those inside the school only recently received the necessary State credentials. The supply of teachers has been a sore point between the Board and the Belleville Education Association, accused by some Board members of pressuring qualified instructors not to teach at the $5 per hour rate. Before the driver's education course was terminated last year, teachers received $7 per hour.

After advertising the jobs three times in local school buildings, the Board recently turned outside the system in its search for teachers. It is now examining the credentials of three Town employees who said they will do the work.

According to Anthony Greco, Superintendent of Schools, "we're beginning to set up the schedules now," and will begin "no later than February 1." The program's administrators say they will have just enough time to give every student the required six hours instruction on the road.

Zoners deny Harrison Street variance

Soriano's main contention was that the unusual zoning pattern renders the rear of the lot worthless. As proposed, the apartment would have straddled a commercial zone (where apartments are permitted) and a "B" residential or two-family zone. The attorney claimed the "100 foot rule" permitting commercial use in only the first 100 feet of property is "unconstitutional and confiscatory." George J. Fiore, a Bloomfield real estate expert, agreed with Soriano's assessment of the situation, saying the split zone "is not good planning."

In his testimony, Fiore also said he believed the apartment house would "blend in with the area," currently containing a 64-unit apartment, several stores and taverns, and a row of one and two-family homes. The real estate expert said the apartment would be "more beneficial to the public good" than a commercial use.

Objectors from the neighborhood testified to a number of conditions they said warranted the variance's denial. They were most vocal concerning sewerage in the area, already inadequate to serve the buildings there, they said. "The Town must put new sewerage in," said Anthony Campanella, 64 Harrison Street, "or we're going to have that stuff in our living rooms." Testimony was unclear, however, as to whether the sewer problems there began before or after the construction of the 64-unit building.

Lawrence Duva, 80 Harrison Street, questioned "how will fire apparatus get in to protect the extreme end of this apartment?" According to the Zoners, the building's parking lot is too narrow to permit two-way traffic, as required by law.

The hearing was also an opportunity for objectors to blow off steam on matters not directly related to the zoning case. Said Duva: "In seven years I know of eight variances in this neighborhood. I'm quite certain we need ratables in town, but not all on Harrison Street."

Jaycee week proclaimed

Jaycee week was proclaimed this week by Mayor Michael Marotti (seated) when he signed the necessary paper before local Jaycee president, George Riepe.

Who are the Belleville Jaycees?

By GEORGE RIEPE
Belleville Jaycee president

The Belleville Jaycees is an organization of concerned young men between the ages of 18 and 35 who have an active interest in the town of Belleville. We try to express our interest by running projects that we believe attack the problems of the community and improve the image and spirit of our town.

The primary purpose of the Jaycees is Leadership Training Through Community Development for its members. However, each member receives many other benefits depending on his interests and participation in our activities. We offer our members personal development, community recognition, lasting friendships and, most important of all, personal satisfaction.

The following are a few of the many activities sponsored by the Belleville Jaycees. The annual Cherry Blossom Parade is perhaps the best known activity run by the Jaycees. Last year we included a banquet which we hope to run on an annual basis also. Our Bike Rally provides safety inspections of bicycles, safety tips, a skill course and the registering of all bikes with the Belleville Police to help cut thefts. Other programs include bowling tournaments, voter registration drives, fund-raising activities for local charities and non-partisan Candidate's Night events for the various local political candidates.

On the state level, the project receiving the most attention is Camp New Jersey Jaycee, a 185 acre camp located in Effort, Pennsylvania to provide educational and recreational facilities for New Jersey's 250,000 mentally retarded children. Last year, we were able to send two children from Belleville to the camp, something we hope to expand in the years to come.

The Belleville Jaycees, along with the other 6,700 Jaycee chapters across the country, are involved in national programs covering such topics as: energy conservation, criminal justice, the environment, health, poverty, governmental affairs, alcoholism, drug abuse, venereal disease, child abuse, safety and many others.

The Belleville Jaycees are not entirely a "work" organization, for we also have our good times. For the members, there are a variety of sports to choose from: football, softball, bowling and basketball. We have socials throughout the year for our members and their wives or girlfriends, in addition to a family picnic in the summer. We also have a Christmas party for our members' children.

This, briefly, is who the Belleville Jaycees are and what they have to offer. Why be a Jaycee? We can give as many reasons as we have members.

So, if you are a concerned young man, and if you want to get involved, call 751-2968 during any evening and we'll send you an application. The move is yours, now. Join the Jaycees and step ahead. You'll be glad you did.

Senior notes

By GEORGE CHENOWETH

Both Mr. and Mrs. Allen Crisp are ill in Clara Maass Hospital. We wish them well and hope to see them soon. We miss Allen being around. He has done research on our town's history and has come up with many interesting and humorous stories about the early times in Belleville and its development to what it is today. His historical accounts are quite fitting for the Bicentennial year.

Tony Bove is home again after a prolonged stay in New York Hospital. We wish him well and hope to see him up and around real soon.

The Belleville Senior Citizens Club will have nurses and equipment to take the blood pressure of those members who wish to avail themselves of this service. This, thanks to our town's Health Department, will probably become a regular monthly happening and is scheduled for the last meeting in each month starting with the January 27 meeting at the clubhouse.

Louis and Ann Buonopane are the host and hostess for the week at the Belleville Senior Citizens Club. Drop in and say hello.

Commissioners ready to let the Sunshine in

The Belleville Board of Commissioners will hold its first meeting under the new "Sunshine Law" next Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. at Town Hall, Town Clerk Eugene Barnett announced this week.

Despite earlier reports by the Times/News, however, the meeting will not be divided into separate "caucus" and "public" sessions. According to Barnett, the entire meeting will be conducted on an informal or "work session" basis.

The Commissioners are expected to deal with several matters of major significance, including a proposed ordinance funding the revaluation of all Belleville real estate. The ordinance was first scheduled for introduction last week, but along with several other matters was withheld from the agenda.

The Commissioners may also act to withdraw an ordinance creating a new job title in the Public Works Department, sources say. Passed 4-1 on first reading last week, the ordinance may be technically faulty, and will require revision, informed sources report.

Official New Jersey Bicentennial license plates are now on sale through the Belleville Lions Club. Modeled here by Lion Club members (l-r) Robert Williams, club president Harry Ziegler, and Andrew Colaninno, the plates are $3 and may be obtained from Modern Millwork and Supply Company, DeWitt Savings and Loan, DeBacco Sporting Goods, Kondreck Studios, Peoples Bank (Silver Lake branch) or from any Lions Club member.

Portable classrooms discussed

School Three students currently studying at School Seven under an emergency split session system may find themselves housed next year at Clearman Field in portable classrooms.

Though School Board plans are far from definite, the portable classroom system is being widely discussed among local school officials as one likely means of solving the space problem created by the fire at School

Three several weeks ago.

According to some Board members, the portable classroom trailers under consideration are "impressive" temporary substitutes for school buildings. The "new wing" of the burned out School Three building may also be used for classes next school year, the Board revealed at its first caucus session, opened to the public in accordance with the Open Public Meetings Act. The Board has also planned a meeting February 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the Belleville High School auditorium regarding the progress it has made in handling the problems created by the School Three fire. Reports from insurance adjusters and other agencies are still not complete, though $8,000 in replacement textbooks were ordered Monday night.

At the February 9 meeting, school administrators will give their assessment of the first four weeks of split session, their recommendations for the rest of this school year, and their recommendations for the first part of next school year.

General consensus among Board members was that Schools Three and Seven will remain on split sessions for the remainder of the year.

One Board member, Michael

Chieffo, said he believed the February 9 meeting should have been held at an earlier date, since the Board "promised" to report back to concerned parents three week after the fire.

More jets for Jersey

For more than a year, Mayor Kenneth Gibson has been trying to have jet landing fees lowered at Newark International Airport. His efforts came to light in the aftermath of publicity following the bombing at LaGuardia Airport and its diverting many flights to Newark.

Because landing fees are higher at Newark, airlines — when given a choice — schedule flights at LaGuardia or Kennedy instead. Not only has this resulted in unnecessary air-congestion at times over LaGuardia and Kennedy, but the practice has left Newark International's modern terminals vastly under-utilized.

More important are the thousands of New Jersey passengers who are forced to frequently travel an extra hour or two to catch a flight originating at the Queens or Nassau County air terminals. There's nothing more frustrating than having to drive all the way to Kennedy to reach a destination not served, on a non-stop basis anyway, from New Jersey's jetport. How many times have you heard a neighbor say he spent more time driving to Kennedy than his flight took to reach his ultimate destination? Making this problem even more absurd is that Newark International has been the scene of a mammoth construction project which has given New Jersey one of the most modern air terminals in the nation, updated to effectively handle not only jumbo 747's and DC-10's, but to include international customer facilities as well.

Newark International Airport, as its name implies, was designed to handle an increasing number of overseas flights, with domestic connections to points throughout the Western Hemisphere. Kennedy Airport is more convenient only for passengers residing on Eastern Long Island (midtown bus service between Manhattan and Newark International takes only 20 minutes). Yet Kennedy is the busiest of the three New York airports and Kennedy alone offers virtually all of the area's international service, save a few token flights out of Newark. Passenger surveys in recent years clearly indicate a need for increased utilization of Newark Airport, both for domestic and international flights. But when aircraft landing fees at Kennedy are only 48 cents per 1,000 pounds, compared to Newark's rate of $1.84, where would you schedule your flights if you were president of an airline?

We applaud Mayor Gibson and support his effort to persuade the Port Authority to make more equitable its landing fees among the region's jetports. The New Jersey Commissioners on the Port Authority all won their positions through the Governor's Office in Trenton. We're happy that at least the Mayor of New Jersey's largest city is looking after the needs of the state's citizens in the vital area of air traffic and its generating commerce.

McGreevy vindicated

Tuesday, January 13 was a day of vindication for Commissioner Joseph McGreevy, the only candidate in last May's Commission election to advocate revaluation of all Belleville real estate.

Last May, while some candidates were on their soap boxes preaching the horrors of this inevitable phenomenon, McGreevy stood his ground. At the time, he insisted that the Town's failure to revalue as ordered could result in the loss of industrial tax payments to our municipality. Today his warning has already come to pass.

At Belleville's last Town meeting, our Commissioners gave their unanimous, yet unofficial, approval for the revaluation go-ahead. To justify their quick about face, they have concocted any number of lame excuses, most of them an insult to our intelligence.

The issue of revaluation aside, the behavior by some of our leaders raises an important question regarding their integrity and backbone — of lack thereof. If it were raining outside, would these same leaders tell us it was sunny if they thought it would win our vote?

Certainly we would feel better if we could believe Belleville's fate is in the hands of officials who care more about doing right than on getting elected. Certainly we would feel better if once in a while we heard a Belleville Commissioner admit publicly he or she was wrong. An admission of error is an indicator not of incompetence, but of honesty.

We suggest our leaders begin looking out the window more often, so they may better tell if it is going to rain.

Bigg's Business

Golden Comments

By James R. Golden

Did that small gathering of citizens at the last town commission meeting upset the usual staid composure of our town fathers? Perhaps, since the expected action on revaluation was deferred and a general evidence of uneasiness seemed to pervade the session even to the extent of provoking laughter and amusement for the audience occasioned by questions asked by Joe Domanti who was a candidate in the last town election. Commissioner Rocco Saletta was annoyed by the resultant byplay tartly commented "I don't think it's very funny."

Adjournment failed to bring surcease to the strained tempers which spilled over late when "boss" Rega, who accompanied Mr. Domanti to the town meeting, on invitation of Commissioner Mary Senatore entered Commissioner Saletta's office to the accompaniment of a harsh exchange of words between Rega and Saletta who are related through marriage.

Reportedly Saletta suggested he would call in the exterminator to clean the room after Rega's departure which prompted Rega to respond with the loudly uttered implication that he might exert his political prowess to "clean out" Saletta from office. The angry confrontation did little to bring about detente between feuding kin.

It was hardly the most auspicious manner for Commissioner Saletta to start off his vacation to Florida where he was to attend the Super Bowl football classic supposedly with his deputy Joe Granese. On his return the Commissioner is scheduled to take over his new promotion duties in Passaic County with his employer PSE&G.

We trust his new assignment with the utility will prove more serene than his short tenure in the Public Safety Department.

The postponement of the local school elections until March and the resetting of the filing deadlines for candidates at January 31 has apparently opened up a new political Pandora's box that seems aimed at "torpedoing" Rimpie Risoli's candidacy hopes for election to the School Board.

Risoli is a competent and dedicated public figure who would add a much needed degree of competency and sincere intention to best serve the needs of our schools and its children while cutting out the unnecessary costly frills and embellishments that cost local taxpayers increased taxes because of costly school budgets. He would be a good man to "look after" the taxpayer's interests while simultaneously giving proper concern to the educational needs of our school children. It is the opinion of this column that Mr. Risoli merits favorable consideration for election to the local School Board if the taxpayer's welfare, rather than that of the teachers union organization, is to be accomplished.

For varying reasons, many politically potent personalities in town frown upon the election of an independent candidate such as Mr. Risoli because he cannot be controlled by political influence. They obsequiously defer to the dictates of some entrenched political powers who "suggest" they encourage many other prominent town personalities, preferably of the same ethnic group, to enter the School Board election race in the hope of "cutting into" Risoli's voting strength all in the expectation that incumbents favorable to their persuasions may be returned as winners so that the mad scramble can continue on at its present feverish pace and by indirection they may be able to "call the shots."

When Mr. Risoli said he could not stand by and allow the incumbents to win by default he did a great service to the people of this community and his stout courage and keen acumen should not be ignored. Belleville needs now, more than ever, people to represent the public with the "guts" to defy entrenched political power, rather than supinely accept security for being a "sleeping dog" that lies while the politicians make their moves.

Belleville now more than ever needs mature, independent thinking officials, free of encumbering political alliances, in positions of public trust.

This column wants the RIGHT guy in the right spot at the right time. We like "Rimpie" Risoli for the job of looking out for the best interests of the Belleville people, like he always has done.

BEA denies 'pressure' tactics

To the Editor:

We are surprised and annoyed that once again the Board of Education president, Richard Mahmarian, has taken it upon himself to distort the truth and make false accusations against the Belleville Education Association.

It is unfortunate that Mr. Mahmarian — or the Board of Education — has never discussed the Driver Education Program with the Belleville Education Association. In fact, the hourly pay rate, the personnel involved, and the change in pay rate have never been a subject of discussion between the Board of Education and the Belleville Education Association.

Aware of these facts, it is impossible to believe that the Belleville Education Association could have exerted any kind of pressure on any of its members regarding the Driver Education Program.

We cannot understand how the Board of Education can continue to debate a Driver Education Program which no longer exists, due to the action of the Board of Education.

Parents object to split sessions

To the Editor:

I am writing to voice my objections over the recent Belleville Board of Education's decision to place Schools 7 and 3 on a split session.

Many parents from 7, probably the majority, feel very unhappy about this poor administrative decision on the part of the Board of Education. At this time many are in fear of speaking up. They do not want to be BRANDED as heartless, cold and unchristian type people by those who are shocked and caught up in the swirl of emotionalism that has come about as a result of this tragedy.

Then there is also another group of parents who are very unhappy with this decision. They don't know what to do because they are not being informed about the seriousness of the situation and kind of feel in a state of hopelessness. They have reason to.

All decisions were made by the Board of Education beforehand with the parents of No. 7 completely left out of any decision-making even though being directly affected by this decision. Mr. Rosamilia, though acting with good intentions, did so strictly on his own when he offered No. 3 our complete facility.

It would have been much wiser and realistic to offer No. 3 our available rooms rather than giving them our whole school, placing No. 7 pupils also in a crisis time situation.

Being an educator, it is very

Execution—here we go again

By PAUL STERN

For the third time in three years, I learned this week, Belleville's State Senator Anthony Imperiale has introduced legislation calling for the restoration of the death penalty in New Jersey.

For the same number of times in as many years, I must oppose Imperiale's call for a return to the Stone Age.

I have beside me as I write a news release by the Senator. It makes a few excellent points regarding crime and anti-crime legislation, but it also contains one remarkably hypocritical statement and a basic moral flaw.

"Gun control..." says the Senator, "does nothing against the criminal in disarming him, but punishes the decent citizens from owning guns." Despite his horrendous grammar, he speaks the truth.

"It is imperative for the well-being of the citizens that stronger laws be enacted to control the criminal..." Again, true.

Imperiale's notion of "constructive" legislation revival of the electric chair, however. And keeping that in mind, I am unable to comprehend his next statement: "I will continue to pursue this course of action in restoring this badly needed legislation... for to me as well as most Americans, life is very dear and precious."

If life were as "dear and precious" to our Senator as he would have us believe, he would find capital punishment morally repugnant. Instead, he cries from on high about the sanctity of human life, all the while his hands dipped in the same blood he would condemn others for spilling.

I do not enjoy preaching, but preach I must if half-pint dictes like Imperiale feel compelled to expouse their demented views as those of "most Americans."

Of course the stock reponse to people like me from people like Imperiale is (I extract again from his release): "Will you wait until a member of your family is murdered before you take action?" No, sir, we cannot wait for that, because acting out of the rage and pain inflicted to a human under your proposed circumstances is to forsake our special human ability to think rationally and objectively and with respect for the kind of world we create by our actions—not just today but for generations to come.

Would our time not be better spent correcting the faulty and haphazard parole system that puts criminals back on the streets to repeat their violent acts? Instead of howling for revenge like a pack of dogs, would it not be better to spend time instilling the importance and meaning of non-violence into our young?

Or maybe you'd prefer we show executions on Sesame Street, as an example of what happens to bad boys and girls?

Some of us, Senator, have passed by the barbaric practices and beliefs of our forefathers, and see no value in their return.

THEATER REVIEW

'The Fantasticks' is not exactly...

By JODI MASSONE

The Fountain Restaurant launched its first dinner-theatre presentation January 12 when town resident, producer-director Peter Mirabella, presented a premiere of "The Fantasticks."

Discounting the title of the show, the only thing fantastic about "The Fantasticks" is the fact that it has been the longest running musical play in America.

The frivolous story, which concerns the plight of next door neighbors Luisa and Matt, plus the concern of their two fathers to have their children marry each other without them knowing of a precreated plan, is not as pleasurable as one might think. The triteness of the story is saved by the singing of Sandy Simon and the not to be undermined prose, injected throughout the entire play by George Beer, a handsome, neatly-dressed bandit type cowboy.

The stereotyped theme is repetitious and tiresome, and the entire show could have been concluded in half the time, instead of its approximate two hour duration.

Mortimer, an "often dying" Indian, played by Tony Betta, and Henry, an eccentric old man with a cockney accent, played by John Raymond, offered some very humorous dialogue, but even that became irksome after some time.

All in all, if anything is worth salvaging from "The Fantasticks" it's the singing, dancing, and character portrayals of Mike Chelik, who plays Hucklebee, and Jim McEvoy, who plays Bellamy. Their teaming up, and eventually strutting with straw hats and canes, was, in my opinion, the high-point of the entire evening. As the two fathers, they played memorable parts. Their costumes, (if you could call regular clothes costumes) were as "loud" and clear as their voices. They make an excellent twosome. Having no knowledge as to whether or not they have been teamed up before, it seems that they should continue as a couple, for together they make a brilliant, harmonious and eye-catching song and dance duet.

Not to be minimized, their act was more than equalled in performance by white-faced Judy Scarpone, who performed her extraneous mute role with a special finesse. It was a joy to watch her facial expressions, and although she was in the background most of the time, eyes of viewers were constantly focused on the "Mute" rather than on the front stage center characters.

Peter Mirabella's excellent job of directing showed through and Judy Scarpone, once again, is due credit as Mirabella's assistant producer.

Other production credits go to Carol Gahart, music director; Stephen Toth, stage manager; Judy Nash, rehearsal pianist; Mildred Le Pore, communications, Sharon Padovani, art coordinator; Mat Albano, scenery; Paula Zeliff, wardrobe; Paul Minenna, lighting, and Linda Le Pore, who served as assistant to the producer.

clear to me and other educators that I have consulted with, that this Belleville Board of Education's decision was based strictly on expediency rather than good educational planning. All were unanimous in saying that elementary pupils should never be placed on a split session as a solution to a problem, be it permanently or even temporary. Let's face it, half a year is not exactly temporary. Much will be lost if the Board implements its program. Every educator that I have talked to said that it is educationally wiser to move the classes from No. 3 intact to available classrooms throughout our city by busing.

The educational problems that this split session can cause are immense. These are the early formative years of a child's education, and must not be tampered with. Children cannot learn effectively when driven at a strenuous and unnatural fast pace. Slow learners will become nervous and frustrated. They just cannot keep up. They need extra time and attention, which will now be impossible to get.

Subjects will be skipped or gone over quickly. Many art, music and gym classes will be missed. Let's face it, you cannot cut school time in half and expect good and effective education.

Another grave problem caused by this poor decision is the undue hardships placed upon families who have working mothers. Not only are jobs in jeopardy, but also children are at home with too much time on their hands. I believe that little children belong in schools, learning just like every other child in this state is now doing. I'm sorry, but split sessions are not even the best temporary solution to this problem. Little children must be on a FULL SESSION.

Send crooks to 'the Rock'

To the Editor:

Violence is a serious problem create by people in all walks of life—the rich, the poor and the politicians. Most people have lost faith in all branches of government elected by them.

You just can't talk about it. You must act and make the right decisions. Inflation, higher living costs, new programs for relief that don't work, higher taxes that hurt most people, strikes called by labor leaders, who demands are impossible—the law of the land is for everybody and should be upheld. It must not be violated by anyone in power, which is being done in some states.

Not all the politicians are creeps. There are some good ones that listen to the people and try to help.

When a politician is caught up in an act of wrongdoing, he demands a plea bargain. That should not be allowed, and he should be treated like any other person who commits a crime.

All persons who commit a serious crime harmful to others, regardless who they are, should be sent to the rock, Aleatraz, to spend the rest of their lives there and never return to civilization. While on the island they would be free people and must shift for themselves. Why send them to prison with a slap on the wrist? They are a menace to society.

My brother was hit on the head with a black jack in Montclair by a man in an attempted robbery. He required 30 stitches. The robber is not satisfied living on relief, welfare or half a loaf. Like others in the same category, he uses other means to get more. This is the type of criminal that belongs on the rock to prevent him from committing the same vicious act against decent people who are afraid to walk the streets.

I do hope our lawmakers give this idea serious consideration and make all cities in the nation a safer place to live.

Please save this cat's life

To the Editor:

I would like to tell you a story and get some cooperation if I can.

We found a cat (white with reddish brown spots and two reddish brown stripes on its head). We were wondering if you would please help save its owner's sorrows and put an article in the Belleville Times. It would be very appreciate if you did.

On the night of December 28 we went for a walk. We found the cat abused and undernourished. We took the cat to a friend's house. Our friend has called the Humane Society in Newark to take the cat. But we think if the Times would print an article the cat will find its home. For the cat has only a few days left to live in the Humane Society. So please help!

MacArthur: 'Three is alive'

The fire at School Three was, no doubt, a great tragedy for the town and especially for the children who attended classes there. The building was virtually destroyed, a good amount of records were destroyed, and a lot of work by students and teachers literally went up in smoke.

Just about everyone in town says the inferno destroyed School Three except one man: Austin MacArthur, the principal. According to him, "The fire destroyed a building and a lot of material, but it didn't destroy School Three. We are School Three and every day at 12:30 a miracle happens because the school is reborn.

MacArthur, 49, has been with the Belleville school system for 25 years. He spent 11 years as a teacher at the high school, another three as vice-principal there, and has been administrative head of School Three for the last 11 years. Through all those years, he has developed a great love for the schools, the children, and the entire town of Belleville.

MacArthur is a thoughtful man, one with a regard of the thoughts and feelings of others. He understands the worries of School Seven parents because of the split sessions, but because of his long association with Belleville, he is also sure everyone will come around and accept the present situation until something better can be formulated.

"The people of this town are wonderful," said MacArthur. "They would never let another human being down. I can understand the anxieties of some of the parents, and we will work to get rid of those fears."

Many people were surprised at how quickly the shift to School Seven was made, but MacArthur said the change could have been done in one day if necessary. He had thought out the plan, he said, long before the fire happened. It was one of those remote contingency plans that suddenly became necessary.

Still, decisions had to be made quickly, and fortunately, MacArthur was up to the task. He gives credit for this ability to his training as a college basketball referee.

"Being a referee in a sport requires you to make a hundred decisions a minute," MacArthur said. "As a result, when you have to make decisions off the court, you are able to consider all sides of a problem completely and quickly and come to a sound conclusion after looking at all the angles."

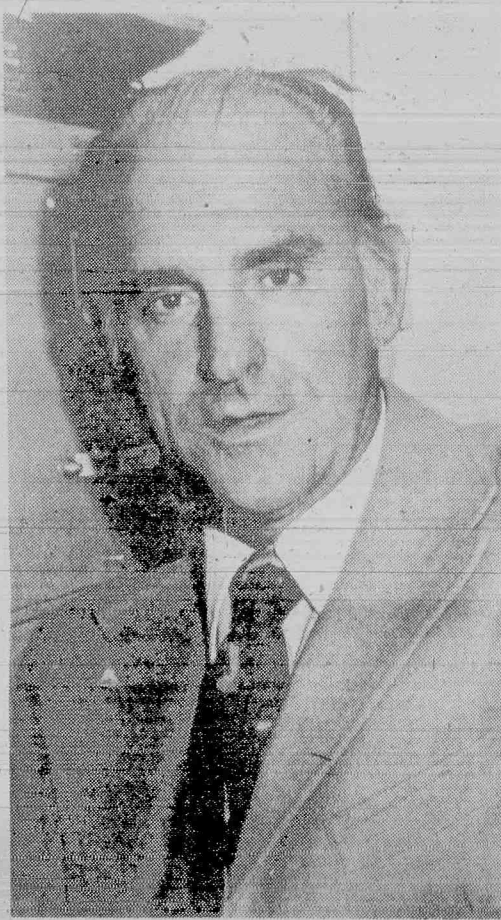

MacArthur's work as a referee has not only helped him in his work as an administrator, but it has also given him a good deal of pleasure and joy. He said that some of the biggest thrills in his life have come as an official, such as his first game in Madison Square Garden, and he also proudly sports a watch given him for his work in the National Invitational Tournament.

MacArthur also has the ability, though some times it seems a handicap, to forget names very quickly.

"I used to practice forgetting names when I was a vice principal at the high school. I am probably the world's worst on-names. The reason I did it was so that each day would be a fresh start and if I had to deal with a student again, I wouldn't have any prior prejudices against him. Now, I have the art of forgetting names down to a science."

MacArthur lives in Clifton with his wife, Joyce. They have four children, Patricia, 21; Rick, 19; Ken, 16 and Mark, 10.

MacArthur is a graduate of Montclair State College and received his masters from there. He has also attended Rutgers and Seton Hall University.

Mrs. McCool ends Board career

By JODI MASSONE

One Year ago

A Zoning Board member, and a former and unsuccessful candidate for the School Board, announced that he was again ready to try to win a Board of Education election.

He was Rocco L. Constantino, a 42 year-old business man, who was administration of the Patrick House Family Health Center in Jersey City.

A year before, in his bid for a board seat, the candidate finished fourth in a field of eight.

Bail had been set at $25,000 for one of three men charged with shooting a Newark policeman who foiled an attempted holdup on the Belleville-Bloomfield border a week before.

The policeman, Newark detective Robert Kerr, 26 was released from Clara Maass Hospital after having been treated for a bullet-wound in the back, while the suspect was arraigned in Municipal Court following his arrest outside People's National Bank in Belleville shortly after midnight the day before.

Dr. John Piet, an archeologist, and two other expeditionaries, arrived at Belleville Reformed Church to investigate and hunt for an underground tunnel under the church which could have served as the only safe access to precious ore during the Revolutionary War.

Two years ago

Mrs. Norma McCool, announcing that she would not seek reelection to a fifth term on the Board of Education a month previously, closed the door on a 12 year term in which she fought for and gained many improvements in the Belleville School System.

In her many years on the board she was instrumental in brining about the reconstruction of gyms of two Belleville schools, ridding them of safety hazards, and in the construction of a new high school.

With work at a standstill because a wage settlement had not been reached with 150 non-uniformed town employees in addition to the state of disruption brought about by faulty computers, the Department of Revenue and Finance, Town Treasurer Francis McCoy announced that no calculations were as yet made for the new municipal budget.

One School Pager, at least, made good! Ten years after having performed duties as Editor of the Belleville Times School Page, Marlise James, former town resident, had her first book, "The People's Lawyers," published.

The book, which marked the woman's 10 year climb up the ranks of the nation's fee lance writers, was a first for the writer, who was now Mrs. Marlise La Duke, whose new place of residence was Reno, Nevada.

Six years ago

A modernization proposal by Mayor Ken Smith was not met with much enthusiasm by the Board of Education.

According to Board Attorney Max Schwartz, "Though we do not disagree that our schools need modernization, we cannot take part in the bond effort at this time.

Speaking for fifteen minutes before the Town Commission, the representative of the Board stated that the litigation between the two bodies required that his client withdraw from the Mayor's proposal to modernize all town owned buildings through a multi-million dollar bond issue.

Eleven years ago

The Town Council was informed that attorney Emil Wulster of Hackensack would not accept the post of special counsel to Belleville. Councilman Robert Westpry made the surprise announcement to the council, charging that Wulster refused to accept the post because of an editorial printed in our newspaper.

The annual Cookie Sale for the Girl Scouts was kicked off by Mayor Nucio Pico, who, besides starting off the sale, even gave the cookies a "plug."

Sixteen years ago

There must have been plenty of bowling enthusiasts among the Board of Commissioners. If it were up to them many local bowling alleys would have had the option to stay open all evening. A number of citizens, however, did object to the proposal.

Pvt. Chester Rkoskove, whose home was on Washington Avenue, before he moved in with some of Uncle Sam's Men, was recuperating in an English hospital after having been wounded in France. He was a member of General Patton's Third Army, and was sent overseas the previous October.

His wife still lived in town.

The hunt goes on and on

I have never lived in the wilds of Africa nor felt any desire to do so. I have never visited the continent. The closest connection I have ever had with it was a cousin of mine who, employed by British Petroleum, spent three years in Kenya with his wife and family. Thoroughly enjoyed the experience, by the way.

Hence, having been no where near a jungle, I have never participated in a "big hunt" of any description, never gone on safari, never wandered in the bus seeking big game. My life, however, has not lacked in little hunts, some of them more frustrating, if not more exciting than the type portrayed on the silver screen by those he-men of my youth.

CONSIDER for a moment The Great Mitten Hunt. With four snow loving kids, it is necessary to have a great supply of mittens (and gloves) in readiness at all times. Most of them I have inherited from mothers of children who have outgrown them and hence, I am often not too sure what some of them look like. If I purchase something, I can usually remember every detail of the raiment since I parted with hard cash for same, but colors and patterns of hand me downs do not register so strongly with me.

The other day I gathered every mitten, glove, woolen hat, scarf in the house, set the machine on washable woollens and threw them in. When they were washed and dried, I paired the mittens and came up with one extra. It annoyed me to have this perfectly good mitten without a mate and I instituted a big search to find it. Ransacked the hall closet, the children's drawers, the cellar, all to no avail.

The next day, Maureen appeared at the door to get some material for a project and I directed her to the basement where I keep odd scraps. She emerged from the depths with the lonesome mitten. Seems she had the other one at home. Those mittens didn't belong to us in the first place!

HOW ABOUT The Great Cat Hunt? The three felines who inhabit these premises love the outdoors in summer, spring and fall, hate it in winter. Hence, every night after supper, father institutes the Great Cat Hunt. He rallies his troops, four strong, and demands that by hook or by crook, they find the beasts and get them outdoors by one means or another.

Father's timing leaves a lot to be desired. He usually picks the middle of a favorite TV program to start Operation Cat and much yelling and running and diving under beds and setting up roadblocks ensues until the last of the trio is heaved into the wintry blast. Reminds me of that chapter in James' Herriot's delightful "All Things Bright and Beautiful" where he describes the inimitable Boris and his attempts to capture same.

ONE FINAL note. The Great Button Hunt. Lost a button on my expensive corduroy coat ($1.50 at St. Paul's Rummage Sale). Searched high, searched low. Gave up. Purchased a whole new set (cost more than the coat!) Found missing button next morning. Would have felt much better if it had never turned up.

Junior Women listen on 'Awareness Day'

Yesterday, members of the Junior Woman's Club, in cooperation with the New Jersey State Federation of Woman's Clubs-Junior Membership Department, participated in "Awareness Day," with Mrs. Jane Thompson serving as coordinator for the affair.

The purpose of the day was to alert the public to the many architectural barriers that exist in the community which serve as a hindrance to the estimated one of ten persons who is physically disabled.

By public awareness and understanding of the needs of the handicapped, plus an examination of both public and private buildings in the community that are not barrier free, the Junior Membership Department hopes to issue a report to public officials in order that handicapped persons may participate fully as members of the community.

TICKETS to the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, were presented recently to Mrs. Laurie McNulty of Belleville, (left) and Mrs. Solange Blau registered nurses at United Hospitals Medical Center, Newark, for best entries in a contest. The purpose of the contest was to increase the awareness of better charting procedures for patient care. Presenting the tickets are Leona Smith, R.N. Director of Nursing and William H. Robinson, Community Relations Administrator of the Hospital.

It's Girl Scout cookie sale time!

Girl Scouts and cookies seem to go together and for good reason.

Each January the Girl Scout Council of Greater Essex County launches its annual cookie sale which is the main fund raiser of the year. The sale accounts for one third of the Council's income and without it the Girl Scout organization would be out of business.

This year the cookie sale began on January 17 and extends to March 26. Girl Scouts will be calling on neighbors, friends and relatives with order blanks and a cookie assortment selection that is designed to wet the taste buds of the most discriminating cookie connoisseur: Scot Teas, Savannahs, Sesame Crackers (for the non-sweet tooth), Mints, Chocolate and Vanilla Cremes and a new one to the Girl Scout sale—Chocolate Chip cookies.

Girl Scouts are involved in many community-service projects that reflect the concern and interests of everyone. Girl Scouts are not just ecology minded, they are active in restoring landmarks, clearing nature trails, planting town-beautifying shrubs and flowers, decorating the town's trees at Christmas time. Many Girl Scouts serve as volunteer candy-strippers in hospitals.

Resident camping is not self-supporting since camp rates are kept at the lowest possible rate in order to make camp available to all economic levels. Cookie sale help keep costs down. Audio visual equipment, troop activity and training for volunteers is also dependent upon the cookie sale.

Anyone who desires additional information may call the Girl Scout office at 746-8200.

YOU AND YOUR PET

Dog food

In the past few decades, dogs have climbed the social ladder from their role as companion animals to "members of the family." One result of this change is that dogs now eat what is purchased for them rather than what they are able to find for themselves.

Many dog food advertisements stress the desirability of an increased appetite and many people believe that unless their dog eats more and more, it does not like the food. Little wonder, then, that there are so many overweight dogs around.

We humans worry about our own weight problems, and we should be equally concerned about the weight of our pets. One way to help keep a dog alive longer is to keep his weight down. This can be accomplished both by exercise and by watching his diet carefully. Often it may be necessary to alter the amount, and even eliminate whole feedings, to suit a particular breed of dog and the dog's particular needs. Once his puppy days are over, the quantity of his diet must be reduced, because he has completed the major part of his growth cycle.

The natural appearance of your dog—from his first year to old age—should be lean and sleek. If you see him broadening through the shoulders or bulging around the abdomen, cut down on his food or increase his exercise until he loses the surplus poundage. If he remains lean, you should have a healthy dog growing well into old age.

If you notice that your dog is developing a weight problem, it's time for a trip to your veterinarian.

A complete physical examination and an accurate diet history are the first steps he'll recommend in establishing a weight for your dog based on his breed, body size and complicating physical conditions such as arthritis, cardiac disease and hip dysplasia. This ideal weight will then become the goal of your pet's weight reduction program.

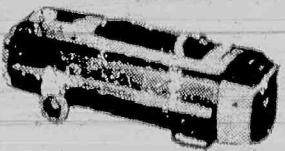

A calorie reducing diet is a drastic change for an overfed house pet. So rather reducing your dog's caloric intake, your veterinarian will outline a completely different diet, replacing fats and carbohydrates with indigestible carbohydrates and fiber. Your pet will eat the same amount of food, but will digest and absorb less.

Normally, a period of at least two months is required to get a dog back to his ideal weight. Once this weight is attained, your dog should be switched to a maintenance diet which your veterinarian can also outline. Thereafter, your dog should be weighed every week and you should keep a close watch on his weight gain or loss to adjust food intake.

There are special circumstances that do call for an enriched diet: a pregnant dog, a very active dog (for example, a hunting, retrieving or working animal) or a very large dog all require extra nourishment.

Small amounts of fatty products are essential for good nutrition and should not be cut altogether from your dog's diet. They provide energy and keep the skin healthy. A dog with insufficient fat in his diet generally develops dry, scaly skin and his coat may become coarse and unattractive.

Hospital room donated in memory of Aitken

The late B. Thomas Aitken, president and chairman of the Board of Peoples National Bank and Trust Company of Belleville and trustee at Clara Maass Memorial Hospital, was honored recently at memorial services at the hospital.

His widow, the former Marie E. Brix, and a group of his associates and family members witnessed the dedication of a memorial room in the hospital's Continuing Care Center. The memorial room was made possible through the contributions donated by the late Mr. Aitken's friends.

Chaplain Donald E. Blume, Director of Chaplaincy Services, offered the invocation. Henry C. Pfaff, Jr., chairman of the hospital's Board of Trustees, touched upon the highlights of the late trustee's career as a public-minded citizen. Albin H. Oberg, president of the hospital, also addressed Aitken's friends and family.

Aitken's banking career dated back to 1915 when he began working at the Niagara Falls Trust Company in Niagara Falls, New York, at the age of 15. In 1925, he graduated from Hamilton College in Clinton, New York, with a major in economics and history. He also attended George Washington Law School in Washington, D.C.

B. Thomas Aitken moved to Belleville in 1934 which was the begining of his 40-year career with Peoples National Bank. Within five years he had risen to the post of president. Under his guidance, the bank steadily grew, its assets jumping from $2 million in 1939 to $56 million in 1974.

Extremely active in social, civic and charitable organizations, Aitken was past chairman of several prominent organizations.

Foiled — The Belleville high women's basketball team was foiled again in its efforts at a win. This time it was the Montclair Mounties who put the damper on the team's try. Above, a Montclair player bats the ball away from Marita "Champ" Hochstuhl (12) as teammate Nancy Skrutskie (42) follows the trajectory of the ball. Below, Michele Giordano's (30) shot at the hoop is deflected by one of the tall Mounties and Champ Hochstuhl moves in to go for the loose ball. Despite the loss, coach Karen Fuccello said the team is improving and she is encouraged by the underclassmen's progress.

Matmen roar past Clifton, Columbia

By CHUCK JACKSON

The Belleville high wrestling squad continued to roar down the winning track last week, barrelling past Clifton, 35-15 on Wednesday, and cannonballing over Columbia, 52-7, Friday. The team now has a record of seven wins and one loss.

Yesterday, the team hosted highly touted Paterson Kennedy, but results came in too late for this edition of the Times/News.

Saturday, the team will take to the home mats again, this time taking on the Irvington Campers. Coach Jim Silvestri said he expects the Campers to be worthy opponents, and pointed out that as of early this week, they were undefeated in the Big Ten. The Irvington team is exceptionally strong in several weights, and solid on just about every level.

The Bellboys absolutely smothered the Columbia Cougars pointwise, but coach Silvestri said the opponent was much tougher than the score would have fans believe.

"The score makes it look like we won big," said the coach, "but I thought the Columbia team was greatly improved. They wrestled very well against our boys."

The Cougars may have wrestled well in comparison to last year, but they were still not nearly a match for Belleville. The team lost only two weight classes — 135 and 141 — and did very well in all the others.

Carl Arlt, who is still undefeated, demonstrated his power in the 101 pound division by flipping opponent Ray Cipolini onto his back in just over three minutes.

Bob Freda at 108 followed Arlt's example, but took a lot less time. Freda had Lewis Orlando staring at the ceiling lights in just 41 seconds. Coach Silvestri commented on Freda's performance, saying, "We've been trying to get the boys to be more aggressive, and Bob just went right after his man and had him. He did a very good job."

Bellboy Vin Mustacchio took the 115 pound win with a decision over Rahman Love. Though the match went the distance, the final score of 15-2 left no doubt as to who controlled the proceedings.

Belleville registered another pin in the 122 pound battle when Mark DeGiacomo turned Steve Meade belly up after three minutes and six seconds.

Ron Grolimond added more points when he shutout his opponent in the 129 pound field. Grolimond left the mat with a 10-0 win over Jeff Press.

The Cougars took the next two weight classes as Armand Cacharalli beat 135-pounder Bob Racioppi, 9-1 and Blue-Gold grappler Tom Zarra went down before Andy Edmond, 12-5.

Cagers lose—but it's close

It won't count as a win on the ledger sheet, but the Belleville loss to East Orange Tuesday by the small score of 44-27 should at least be considered some type of moral victory.

The loss to the Panthers tied to a 69-42 loss to Montclair last week has dropped the team's record down to 1-10. Tomorrow, the team will try to improve on that when it hosts the Columbia Cougars. The game is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in the Belleville High School gym.

The last time the Bellboys met the East Orange Panthers, the hometown hoopsters left the court stunned and humiliated. They were pounded mercilessly by their adversaries, and had a ghastly 98-37 loss thrown in their faces.

Since that time, coach Dan Grasso has obviously been thinking of the best method of meeting the Panther challenge. He apparently found it when he hit on the idea of the stall.

The Belleville team started the first half of the game leaning heavily on the stall tactic, biding its time and taking only the high percentage shots. The plan worked well, and at the end of the first period, the East Orange men had managed to hit for only eight points while Belleville was close at their heels with six.

The second quarter went much the same way for most of the time. Though most of their fans must have been waiting for it, the Panthers never ignited the big scoring explosion that would have blasted Belleville out of existence.

Instead, the EO rooters had to settle for an eight point firecracker that came at the end of the second quarter. The Panthers managed to hold off Belleville long enough to run up those eight points, and that gave the team a slight psychological advantage. When the buzzer sounded for the end of the first half of play, the East Orange squad trotted to the lockerroom with the score at 23-13. It was a comfortable lead, but not as great as might have been expected.

The stage was all set for the Panthers to really lower the boom in the second half, when they took to the court and suprised everyone by adopting the very same tactic that had been working so well against them.

Belleville continued to keep up the stall tactic, and East Orange returned the favor by stalling themselves. As a result, a grand total of six points were scored by both teams during the third period — two for Belleville and four for the Panthers.

The scoring picked up a little in the last period, but neither team really ran into the high points, and not one East Orange player went into double figures for the game.

Blue-Gold hoopster Doug Jackson racked up the most points on either side with 13.

The Bellboys didn't do much better against Montclair last week, either, los-

Girls hit the road, seek comeback trail

The BHS women's varsity basketball team continued its backward slide, dropping a game to East Orange Tuesday, 54-27, and losing last week to Montclair, 64-39. The team's record is now 2-8.

Tomorrow, the team travels to Columbia to take on the Cougars, and Tuesday they host the tough Bloomfield Bengals in a 3:30 p.m. home stand.

According to coach Karen Fuccello, the team lacked just about any offensive punch Tuesday as they were mauled by the Panthers. The high scorers for the team were Marita "Champ" Hochstuhl and Nancy Skrutskie, both of whom had only six points. Skrutskie also had the high number of rebounds for the day with six.

The girls were still having trouble offensively, the coach said, by not being aggressive enough.

"They just don't seem to want to go to the hoop," said Fuccello, "they get the ball and instead of going for the basket, they look the other way. They are hesitating and not shooting."

The coach said she would be working on getting her girls to take the shots, and added, "We have reached the halfway point of the season. If we are going to turn it around, we have to start doing it now. Even though we have been taking the lumps, the spirit is still there and the girls are still up for the games."

Kiwanis hand over trophy

The Belleville Kiwanis Club presented Seton Hall football coach Tony Verducci with the Kiwanis Homecoming Trophy at a special meeting January 15.

Club president Robert Laterza turned over the award, given to the winner of the annual homecoming game. The affair was held at the Fountain Restaurant.

Bellboy grid coach Tom Testa and several of his men were on hand to congratulate the winners, and the coach delivered a brief speech.

Bellboys Alan Cervasio, John Valvano and Anthony Biafore represented the Belleville team and Pony Pirates Steve Reynolds, Paul Sant'Ambrogio and Tony Verducci Jr. came in the name of their school.

The Bellboys went down before the Seton Hall team this year, 20-6.

Coach Fuccello tagged Friday's loss to the Montclair Mounties all on the first period of play. The team just could not get fired up, either offensively or defensively, and as a result, the Montclair girls' built up a commanding 16 point lead — a buffer which held off all Belleville advances throughout the rest of the game.

The Bellgirls were successful in getting only two points on the board during that first quarter, while the Mounties popped for a total of 16. According to Fuccello, "We just couldn't overcome that first period deficit. We played them evenly after the first quarter, but that period was our downfall."

The team did manage to keep just about abreast of the Mounties after that time frame, and Marita "Champ" Hochstuhl spearheaded the Blue-Gold scoring charge by pumping in a total of 10 points. She was also right there for the shots she and her teammates may have missed, becoming the high rebounder for the day with 11.

The scoring for the rest of the team was relatively evenly distributed, with Carol Lelio hitting for seven points, Nancy Skrutskie, Fatima Anderson and Ellen Schulz each for six. Michele Giordano was next high in rebounds with seven.

According to the coach, the game play indicated the team is beginning to get its bearings and a snappier brand of ball.

"They still make some mistakes," said Fuccello, "but the mistakes are lessening and they are starting to perform as a team. They also may be easily intimidated. They hesitated against Montclair's height. That moment of hesitation hurt them."

The team's shooting accuracy was also a little off against the Mounties. The team hit only 35 per cent of its shots from the floor, and while that is a numerical improvement over its earlier averages, it is still far too low.

The team also had trouble from the foul line. They made nine out of the 21 shots afforded them, and the missed points would have greatly helped.

Coach Fuccello also pointed to the team's turnover rate as a contributing factor to the loss. The girls gave the ball away 32 times, even though, as the coach said, "their defense didn't present much of a problem to us."

Still, said the coach, "the underclassmen are finally starting to come around."

Jr. Bowling tourney soon

The Essex County Junior Bowling Association has announced its Annual Championship Tournament will be held February 7 and 8 at Eagle Rock Lanes in West Orange.

This is the 13th year for the tournament, and any junior bowler sanctioned in Essex County is eligible to enter the contest, which will pit four man teams against each other.

The Association said entry blanks for the tournament can be obtained from junior bowling coaches.

The group also held a Holiday Tournament, and several local bowlers were trophy winners. Steve and Anthony Novak came out on top in the boys' class "D" competition, and Alice Dauksis and Tracy Kerekes placed on top in the girls' class "D."

Barbara Krulewicz and Cynthia DellaVolpe were winners in the girls' class "A" grouping.

Chris Magno bowled the high series in the boys' bantam class, and Lois Faraone did the same in the girls' bantam class.

Linda Winship rolled the high game in the senior girls' division.

Ronald Hromoko, 8, of Cub Scout Pack 350 won the Harvey Grinstead Achievement Trophy for his efforts.

DeWitt Savings hits new high

Robert M. Williams, President of DeWitt Savings, has announced that the Association set new high records in members' savings, assets, general growth, and dividends paid out, during fiscal 1975.

"Members' savings," Williams said, "reached an all-time high of over $64 million, an increase of 13 percent or close to $8 million over the same category at the end of fiscal 1974. It gives the officers, directors, and staff of DeWitt great happiness and satisfaction to note the continued trend of prosperity, thrift, and confidence in DeWitt that is shown by our Belleville community. At the same time it gives us pleasure to announce that during 1975 DeWitt also set another all-time high in dividends. The Association paid out almost $4 million on interest-bearing savings accounts during the 12-month period."

Williams also announced that the association was among the top 20 savings and loans, percentage-wise, in New Jersey in all-over growth. Total assets at the end of the year surpassed $70 million, a new high record for DeWitt and a 13 percent increase over the same category a year earlier.

In assessing past patterns, current progress, and analyzing both national and local economic trends, Williams stated that he continues to be extremely optimistic about the future on both a near and long-term basis.

A blues, jazz quartet to visit Ahavath Achim

On Sunday afternoon, February 1 at 3 p.m. Congregation Ahavath Achim of Belleville and Congregation B'Nai Israel of Kearny and North Arlington will hold a musical program at Congregation Ahavath Achim at 125 Academy Street, Belleville, featuring Cantor Elias Roachvarg and Leviathan - a Jazz, Rock and Blues Quartet under the direction of Rabbi Moshe Greebel, in a program of Israeli and American music.

Elias Roachvarg, son of a member of Congregation Ahavath Achim, is presently cantor at Temple Emanuel in Cherry Hill. He earned his Master of Music Degree in Voice at Boston University and is completing his professional studies at Hebrew Union College of Sacred Music. He has performed leading roles in operas, operettas and musical comedies, including the title role in Mendelssohn's Elijah, Mozart's Magic Flute and several Gilbert and Sullivan Productions.

Rabbi Moshe Greebel, Kearny-North Arlington spiritual leader, holds a degree in music from Brooklyn College. He has performed with the Radio Symphony Orchestra of Jerusalem, the National Orchestral Society of New York, as well as with the Newark Chamber Ensemble. He has done solo work and accompaniment with concert orchestras.

Members of the Leviathan Quartet are Rabbi Greebel, trumpet; Rabbi Gerald Solomon of Woodbridge, guitar and vocal; Mordecai Weiss, trombone; and Fred Lipowitz, drums.

Mrs. Sylvia Taffet is Chairman. Tickets are $3 each and can be obtained from Mrs. Claire Grossman of Belleville and Mrs. Edith Saletan of Kearny, ticket chair-persons.

Title I active at School 9

Title I, the federally funded remedial reading program, sponsored by the Belleville Board of Education, is still much alive and active at School Nine.

The program, which supplements the regular remedial reading program carried out in the elementary schools of Belleville, serves children in grades one through three.

Remedial reading teacher for Title I at School Nine is Mrs. Carolyn Fuscaldo, who also serves as the teacher in charge of curriculum for the entire program. The former Belleville school teacher has been with the Title I Program since its introduction into the system as a full time reading program.

Not catering to groups as large as are found in a classroom, small groups of children in the program, are given approximately 30 minutes daily of reading lessons.

Through the first months of the program, first graders are using the beginning books to "Read, Write and Listen." These books take each letter of the alphabet, one at a time, and through a series of short workbooks allows each child a detailed study of the letters with accompanying activities and tapes for increased understanding.

Second graders are using the "Target Red" equipment, where, by using tapes they are working to improve their particular phonetic problems.

Third graders listen to the self correcting tapes of "Target Yellow," and gain self confidence by joining along in reading with the "Talking Storybook Series" as well as the "Read Along, Read Alone" books.

The Title I program, in operation in Public Schools One, Four, Eight and Nine, also serves Belleville children attending St. Anthony's, St. Peter's, and Holy Family schools, as well as the total population of the Essex County Children's Shelter.

Pharmacy Footnotes

Vincent Cazzarelli Reg. Ph.

American people, on the average, are well-fed. The experts say that we are extremely well-fed, when compared with the people of many other nations. It has even been estimated that approximately one hundred million persons have died in China directly from starvation during the past century. Seventy per cent of the 2 1/2 billion people in the world are undernourished. Even though Americans in general are well-fed, however, some studies indicate that some of the undernourished people of the world live in the United States, too!

We at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1956, 759-1968 maintain an up to date supply of thousands of products to fill your prescriptions when needed. "Your Doctor Knows Us - Your Doctor Trusts Us". For Valentine's Day gifts we have greeting cards, Russell Stover Candies, cosmetics and toiletries. Open: Daily 9am-10pm, Sundays 9am-9pm.

HANDY HINT:
Save your fingers—start nails by inserting them between the teeth of a comb, to hold them in place. Then pound.

5 years.

That's the exact time it takes for a U. S. Savings Bond to mature. Unfortunately, most people still think it takes 10 years. Or 7. Wrong. It's exactly 5 years.
Of course, if you want to keep your money earning, there's a 10-year extension privilege beyond maturity. We'd appreciate it if you'd help us clear up the confusion. Next time somebody tells you it takes 10 years for a Savings Bond to mature, smile indulgently. And then show him this ad.
Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds mature in 5 years.

Pitt honored by Kiwanis

Frank L. Pitt, immediate past-president of the Branch Brook-Belleville Kiwanis Club, was recently honored by the group at a dinner-dance which was held at Parrillo's Restaurant.

Governor elected Phillip J. Paul presented Pitt with a plaque and pin, while Thomas J. Jameson served as master of ceremonies for the affair.

Club president Neil Fitzpatrick welcomed the guests, members and wives, while music and entertainment for the evening was provided by Vince and Ann Nocera. Serving on the dinner-dance committee were Jack C. Weidlich, chairman; Stewart Hutchison and Steve H. Frank.

In other news pertaining to the Kiwanis, Thomas J. Jameson has been selected "Kiwanian of the Year" by the club members, and was presented with a plaque and pin to mark the occasion.

Ernest Dyson, program chairman for the Father and Children Night, announced that affair was very successful, and that the Girl Scout Council would be hosts for the program to be held on Tuesday, January 27.

Tri-Town women will meet tonight

Mrs. Mary Jo Torre of Belleville has arranged to have Robert Taylor of the American Automobile Association speak to members of the Tri-Town Business and Professional Women's Club of Belleville, Bloomfield, and Nutley, N.J. Inc. tonight at their regular meeting.

Taylor will discuss the energy crisis as it has effected use of automobiles and what can be done to conserve present energy sources.

The meeting will be held in the Park Methodist Church, in Bloomfield.

The Tri-Town Club is open to all women who are actively engaged in business or the professions. For more information, call the membership chairman, Mrs. Mary Desmond, 751-7590.

Two face counts after cop's assault

Two men charged with assaulting a police officer had their cases referred to an Essex County Grand Jury following proceedings in Municipal Court January 7.

Joseph Gilroy, 19, of 522 Broadway, Newark, and Frank Gilroy of 556 Washington Avenue, Belleville, were arrested December 13 and charged with attacking police officer James Fallano.

Joseph Gilroy is accused of being drunk and disorderly on a public street, and of grabbing the police officer by the head and punching him about the body.

Frank Gilroy is charged with interfering with an officer in the performance of his duty, and assaulting the officer by punching him in the body.

Both men waived their rights to probable cause hearings, and Judge Carl Stier ordered the cases sent to the Grand Jury.

The two men are currently free on $600 bail each pending further court action.

Officer Fallano signed the complaints.

Banks seem to have a language all their own. We speak yours.

When you put your hard-earned money in a bank, that bank owes you a feeling of confidence and trust. We think that this trust only comes from clear, thorough communication about what you are getting for your money.

That's why in our advertising, and in our banks, we won't be talking to you in numbers and textbook banking words as if you were a banker. We'll be explaining our full-service programs to you in language you can understand.

For instance, we'll be telling you something no other bank has ever told you: why all 5% interest rates do not earn the same amount of money for their depositors.

And why some banks' free checking accounts can end up costing you money.

Perhaps you're confused as to when it's advantageous to lease an automobile rather than buy one. We'll end your confusion.

Won't someone ever explain to you why there are all those different Savings Certificates with different rates of interest and different lengths of time? We will.

You don't have to be a lawyer to understand how our tax shelter retirement plans can benefit you. Not the way we'll explain them.

We believe it's a bank's obligation to see that you understand what it gives you in return for the privilege of using your money to make money. We intend to meet our obligation to you.

The moonraker, the highest sail on a ship's mast, should be synonymous with the "Moonraker" restaurant - representing the height of fine dining. The Moonraker is located at 35 Plaza, Route 4, Paramus.

Scrumptious is hardly the word to describe the selection of entrees offered to you at The Moonraker. The Top Sirloin Steak, ever so tender and juicy, charcoal broiled, is served with rice pilaf or a baked potato and all for the small price of $6.75.

If you are sharing your evening with someone, share dinner too, and order the Plank Steak for Two, a gigantic sirloin steak, briefly marinated, broiled to perfection, and a personal touch - carved at your table - $6.85 per person.

The Steak Combinations are simply super, mix and match your steak from a choice of four. A dynamic duo is the Steak and Stuffed Mushrooms, giant mushrooms filled with deviled crab crowned with Hollandaise sauce - so delicious and only $6.95.

Large Gulf Shrimp sauteed in a rich sauce of garlic, lemon and butter is matched with a sizzling steak to give you Steak and Seampi - $7.25.

Savor South of the Border when ordering Steak 'N' Enchiladas, $6.50, top sirloin steak served with two corn tortillas filled with sharp cheese, black olives and green salsa, simmered then broiled in a gentle Spanish sauce - topped with sour cream. A decision solver for those who enjoy the best of land and sea is the Steak and Lobster, a real mouth watering treat - $9.95.

From the coastal waters comes marvelous fish lightly sauteed in lemon butter - the Red Snapper - $6.25, a true treat for real fish lovers.

For your dining pleasure hot breads and a choice of soup or salad are included with all entrees.

Top a tremendous dinner with luscious German Chocolate Cake, the unforgettable Pecan Pie, or one of many other delectable desserts.

The Moonraker also sports a lounge. It is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 9 p.m. - 1:30 a.m.

Young adults will find the atmosphere cordial and friendly.

Lunch at The Moonraker is served Mondays through Fridays from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. The dinner hours are: Mondays - Thursdays - 4 p.m. - 11 p.m., Fridays - 4 p.m. to 12 p.m., Saturdays from 5 p.m. - 12 p.m. and Sundays from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Set your sail for a sensational evening at The Moonraker.

Elks hold deputy clinic

On Wednesday, January 7, a District Deputies Clinic was held in Belleville Lodge 1123, B.P.O. Elks, with over 40 officers from various lodges in attendance.

Conducting the clinic was District Deputy Exalted Ruler Stanley G. Novaco, while those in attendance who represented the Belleville lodge included Exalted Ruler Raymond Mac Donald, Esteemed Leading Knight Warren Natusch, Esteemed Loyal Knight James Salmon, Secretary Fred Hagin and Chaplain Walter Fink.

Another past event was the New Member Party which was held Saturday, January 17, and which attracted plenty of members and many prospective new members, as well.

Besides plenty of food, fun and beverages, great music and entertainment was provided by Vince and Ann Nocera.

Future club news pertaining to the group is that the next membership meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, January 27 at 8:30 p.m. at the lodge, 254 Washington Avenue.

Nomination for officers of the lodge for 1976-77 will take place at the February 9 meeting.

Fashion show tickets available

Tickets for the "Olde to New Fashion Show" card party to be held at the Fountain Restaurant on January 28 are still available, the Belleville Junior High School PTA has announced.

They are $3 each and may be obtained from Michael Lally, vice principal, at the Junior High School. The affair will be held at 8 p.m.
