Auto entry case hearing is waived

A 23-year old Bloomfield man charged with breaking into cars had his case sent to an Essex County Grand Jury following proceedings in Belleville Municipal Court February 4.

Sabino A. Galioto, 215 North 17th Street, was arrested January 23 for breaking into two cars at Clara Maass Hospital and stealing two batteries. He was also charged with possession of burglary tools for carrying a wrench and a pair pliers.

The defendant waived his right to a probable cause hearing, and Judge Carl Stier ordered the cases sent to the Grand Jury.

Galioto, who was arrested by Belleville detective Robert McDonald, is being held in lieu of $250 bail.

A 53-year old Newark man and his 34-year old son were fined a total of $1,000 and given suspended sentences for shoplifting following February 5 proceedings in Belleville Municipal Court.

Rudolph Sosna Sr. and Rudolph Sosna Jr., both of 268 Ridge Street, were charged January 24 with taking meat items and clothing from the Belmont Avenue Pathmark valued at $35.

Both men pleaded guilty to the charges, and Judge Carl Stier imposed a $500 fine on each man, $25 in court costs, and 30 day suspended sentences.

The complaints were filed by a Pathmark employee.

Alleged drug seller sent to prosecutor

A 29-year old Belleville man charged with selling drugs had his case referred to the Essex County Prosecutor's office following February 4 proceedings in Belleville Municipal Court.

John Sztela, 117 Rutgers Street, was arrested November 19 for selling marijuana to an undercover Essex County detective, Ronald Szamreta.

Judge Carl Stier ordered the case sent to the prosecutor's office for action.

Sztela is currently free on $250 bail.

Campenella Fund rock concert

A rock'n'roll concert featuring The Sho Bop Review will be held in April to benefit the James Campenella Fund, fund officials announced this week.

Scheduled for April 9-10 at the Belleville High School auditorium, the show will benefit James Campenella of Belleville, who lost both legs in an unfortunate work accident almost two years ago. Tickets for the affair will be priced at $4, and will be available through various retailers in the Belleville-Nutley-Bloomfield area.

The Campenella Fund is chaired by Joseph Raimo.

Keywanettes attend first conference

The Belleville Keywanette Club, recently chartered by Kiwanis International through the Belleville Kiwanis Club, attended its first district conference recently at Mother Seton High School in Clark.

New club president Donna Berrigan and vice president Lori Giordano, both Belleville High students, represented their unit along with Kiwanis members Larry Gonnello and Vincent Vitty, a Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor.

The Belleville delegates took part in the new organization's efforts to structure a district administration. A Keywanette board meeting will be held March 14, and a State convention is scheduled for May.

Anthrax warning issued by officials

Belleville Health Department officials have issued a warning to all retail merchants and citizens regarding anthrax contaminated wool.

According to Belleville's Health Department, retailers and consumers are to be very wary of any wool items distributed by Tahki Import Limited, Teaneck. The wool may be contaminated with anthrax pneumonia bacteria, discovered in the large round wool from Pakistan.

Local Health officials advise that any such items be placed in a double plastic bag, sealed, and handed over to them. Retailers are advised not to open any shipments from Tahki Import containing woolen items.

More Bicentennial license plates

Bellevilleites who have not yet been able to obtain official New Jersey Bicentennial license plates for their cars now have a second chance.

The Belleville Optimist Club has just received a new shipment of the plates, priced at $3 each. Commemorating the nation's 200th birthday, the plates may be displayed over the regular front license plate of New Jersey cars until February 1, 1977.

Proceeds from the sale will help support the club's annual scholarship fund for Belleville High School graduates. Any Optimist member is authorized to sell the plates.

Valentine's Day dance to aid band

The Belleville High School band will hold a fund-raising St. Valentine's Day dance this Saturday, and everyone is invited.

The affair, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., will be held at Fewsmith Memorial Presbyterian Church, 444 Union Avenue and will feature the band "Cliff" as entertainment.

There is an admission charge of $1 for band members and $1.50 for non-members.

Proceeds from the dance will go to sponsor various BHS band activities.

'Godspell' won't give up ghost

Family Playhouse's hit production of "Godspell" will be extended for one more performance this Sunday at 2 p.m., director Ray Napolitano announced this week.

The popular rock musical's third extended weekend show has been almost completely sold out, he reports, to a theater-loving church in Kearny. Some seats are still available, however, by calling 997-5626. "Godspell", showing at the theater at 28 Brookline Avenue, Nutley, is now the Belleville-Nutley area's longest running community theater production—by a long shot.

Though performances of the show will end this Sunday at the troupe's own theater, Napolitano may be producing it for two shows in Newark's North Ward, he said.

Tickets for Sunday's show are $4 and $3.50.

Rev. Alspach moving to Illinois

The Rev. Albert E. Alspach, pastor of the Lutheran Church on Joralemon and New Streets, will be changing pastorates as of March 1, when he will relocate in Darien, Illinois, he said this week. "Parting from the Bethany Family is painful," he said, "We have grown together. But it will be a new challenge in the mid-West and I look forward to it."

Rev. Alspach also reported that the Son family—the family of Vietnamese refugees sponsored by the church—are now "on their own and doing very well." Mai Xuan Son, a former South Vietnamese Air Force officer, and his sister, Mai Thi Bach Dao, are employed at the Annni Flag Company in Verona. Son's wife, Tri Thi Vien, is a beautician, and the entire family is happily ensconced in its own quarters.

Historical Society sets annual dinner

The Belleville Historical Society will hold its fourth annual dinner next Friday, February 20, at Christ Episcopal Church, Washington Avenue and Essex Street.

The Rev. Frederick Long, pastor of the church and chairman of Belleville's Bicentennial Commission, will be featured as principal speaker, Historical Society president George Gebrian announced.

"Our Country's Flag" will be the theme of the affair, said Gebrian, and the evening's program will include flag displays and a commemorative skit staged by members of the society. "It is the Society's aim," said the president, to encourage flag display at each home in this Bicentennial year."

The dinner will also include a presentation to the Society and Public Library of Belleville's newly designed Bicentennial plate. Mrs. Barbara Spillane and Mrs. JoAnn McGough of the Belleville Junior Woman's Club (designers of the plate) will make the presentation to Gerald Hickey of the Library and Gebrian.

According to the president, invitations have been extended to the members and friends of the Historical Society. Tickets are $4 payable to Edward O'Neil, chairman of the dinner committee, or payment can be made at the door.

Commissioners tangle over payment of bills

Public Works Department bills for the last two weeks will not be paid this week following a tiff between Mayor Michael Marotti and Commissioner Mary Senatore at Tuesday's Commission meeting.

Mrs. Senatore, protesting she was not given sufficient time to scrutinize the bills she was to vote on, opposed their payment, and her bills, accordingly, were removed from those approved for payment by the Commission.

"This is no way to run a town," said Mrs. Senatore after voting against the bill payment resolution. "I didn't receive these (the bills) until five to seven (6:55 p.m.). I'm not voting on anything I don't know about."

Visibly irritated by Mrs. Senatore's remark, Marotti moved her bills be amended out of the resolution. "If you can't vote for my bills," he said, "I can't vote for yours." Marotti's motion was carried 3-2 with affirmative votes from Commissioners Joseph McGreevy, Vincent Strumolo and himself.

The confusing exchange did not end there, however. "You put a statement in the paper that we're going to freeze salaries," said Commissioner Senatore. "Well I think we should start with the administrators." She accused Marotti of spending $600 for convention expenses.

"How long have you been a Commissioner, Mary?" asked Marotti. "Nine years," said Mrs. Senatore.

"Then why did you wait until now to complain?" the Mayor asked.

"Go ahead, take mine out (the $600). Take it out, I don't care!" he said.

"You said, as Mayor," replied Mrs. Senatore, "that everything was to be in on Monday. I got this (the bills) Tuesday."

Commissioner Rocco Saletta finally stepped in to quell the dispute. Noting that the $600 was for Marotti's dues to a mayoral organization and not for conventioning, "I think this is getting out of hand," he said. Noting that Marotti should represent Belleville at various County and State level meetings, "It's very foolish to take that $600 out of there," Saletta said.

"In for years as a Commissioner," added Marotti, "I never put in for a convention expense."

"And what about the bills?" "Who cares?" asked Mrs. Senatore. "I'll show them."

School race heating up

The heat intensified in the 1976 School Board election campaign last week when Peter Paglia, a veteran Newark school teacher, continued his frontal assault on the incumbents at a Belleville Jaycee-sponsored candidate's night.

Though criticized by incumbents Richard Mahmorian and Caesar Romano as being "inaccurate and uninformed," Paglia chose the split-session system at Schools Three and Seven as his main target.

"Double sessions in a town like this are a disgrace," said the 54-year-old Malone Avenue resident.

Both Mahmorian (a corporate executive for National Cash Register) and Romano (Public Relations Director for two county hospitals) refuted Paglia's charge, and insist the double sessions are the best temporary solution to the fire which took the School Three building at the beginning of this year. "There is no one on the Board who deplores anything more than double sessions," said Mahmorian, and indicated that system would be ended by July 1.

Paglia also called for a "feasibility study" on whether the "new" wing of the School Three building could be used to house students after "two or three weeks" renovation there. That remark, and several others, irked the incumbents, apparently, who responded by calling for more "responsible" commentary by School Board candidates.

According to Mahmorian, there is no heat and no bathrooms in the remaining wing of the building, making its use impossible with out large expense. Said Romano: "I wouldn't want my children there while the adjoining building is being demolished."

Challenger Ralph Risoli, Deputy Public Affairs Commissioner and Town Registrar, sat calmly through the often heated debate, refraining from joining the controversial discussion. His proposals largely concern the current political structure, rather than strictly educational issues.

Risoli, who said his allegiance would be to the School Board rather than the Town Commission if elected, suggested a nine-man School Board.

Risoli said that if elected he would introduce creating a nine-man panel, one representative elected from each grammar school district. The new arrangement, he said, would create "equal representation from each school," while also building community interest in the Board. Risoli also proposed rotating the Board meetings to different school houses each month.

Clearly, the Three School problem — including the insurance negotiations and rebuilding of the school — is emerging as a key issue. Both John Caruso and Robert Sebben, represented by his wife at the Jaycee meeting, having indicated considerable interest in that subject. Sebben has also indicated concern that politics have come too strongly into play in school matters.

Paglia, so far, has been the main aggressor in the campaign. Romano said he is afraid the Belleville community will become "polarized" by the School Three problem, and Mahmorian is running primarily, "on my record."

Paglia seems the most prone to raising his voice. "I'm sorry," he said, "I'm a challenger. You can't be a gentleman and win elections."

Caruso, though absent from the Jaycee event last Thursday, in a statement issued Monday seized upon the School issue as an area in which "more rapport" is necessary between the Board and the parents.

Caruso also echoed Risoli's sentiments in calling for mobile Board meetings. "This way each area's problems can be resolved," he said. He is in favor of holding meetings at four different locations: School Four, Ten, the Junior High and the High School.

The challenger also called for an investigation of the resignation-retirement of Schools Superintendent Anthony Greco — a subject debated in the last school election one year ago. "I am for a thorough investigation of this issue," said Caruso. "The taxpayers do not know the facts about Mr. Greco, and since they pay the bill, they have a right to know. I feel the Board's credibility is in question here," he said. Caruso said that if elected he would request "a sworn affidavit from Greco as to whether he is leaving 'on his own.'"

The Sunshine Law, said the candidate, "was the best thing that could have happened to Belleville." Though currently teacher salary negotiations are exempt from the Open Public Meetings Act, he said he would favor "open negotiations with the Belleville Education Association."

Property crimes increasing

stable, with just one person the victim of a homicide. Roberier went down by 11 per cent, an actual decrease of five, and atrocious assaults stayed at the same level, 24. There was a slight increase in the number of simple assaults, from 130 in 1974 to 135 last year.

Belleville police officers were most effective in solving crimes of violence and least effective in clearing up thefts. Arrests were made in Belleville's single murder, the two rapes, 43 per cent of all robberies (10 out of 23) and 83 per cent (20) atrocious assault cases.

Deputy Police Chief Frank Haight accounted for the high arrest percentage in violent crimes by pointing out that in many cases, the victim knows the perpetrator.

Of the 177 thefts in excess of $200, police were successful in making only five arrests. Eleven per cent of the thefts of less than $200 ended in arrests, and 13 per cent or 50 of the 372 breaking and enterings were cleared by arrests. Nine individuals were taken into custody for auto theft.

According to Haight, the statistics fail to reflect the effect of preventive police work, such as the visibility of patrol cars and the presence of police officers at a given location. The deputy chief also said the overall arrest record of the department indicated, "this police department is at least on a par with or more effective than its local counterparts."

Juvenile arrests and cases sent to juvenile court for action also increased in 1975.

There were 657 youths arrested last year, an increase of 98 or an 18 per cent rise. Police also recorded a 15 per cent up-turn in the number of cases involving youths and a great increase in the number of children referred to court for action.

In 1974, 126 juveniles appeared in court, either because they were repeated offenders or on charges too serious to be handled by local authorities. Last year, that number rose to 215, a jump of 70 per cent.

confiscatory," said Calabro, "then we will go on strike! Everyone else has a union," he added, "why can't the citizens?"

His remarks drew loud applause. "If you pass this (reevaluation), you're only going to accelerate the discontent," said Calabro. "Until the court order," he said, "this body should hold its ground."

"It might be tomorrow," answered McGreevy. "It doesn't take long to get a court order, you know."

According to Town Attorney John Scott, "my opinion is that (court) action will be taken against those people who dissent."

Seiden named Lottery Commissioner

Jerome Seiden, co-owner of Bigelow Motors in Belleville, has been appointed by Governor Brendan Byrne as a member of the New Jersey State Lottery Commission.

Sworn in Friday by Judge Felix A. Martino in Newark, Seiden will serve a five-year term on the five-man State panel. His appointment was approved January 20 by the State Senate.

A longtime political activist, Seiden has served for the past two and a half years on the Essex County Planning Board. He has been in business on Washington Avenue with his partner Joseph Pfeffer since 1945. Though he is a resident of West Orange, Seiden considers himself more a Belleville resident, he says. "I sleep in West Orange, but I live in Belleville. This is my town."

Friday's swearing in ceremonies gave ample support to his remark. Along with his wife, Muriel (a former Democratic County committeewoman), his children and grandchildren, Belleville's Commissioners and other local officials were present at the ceremonies, held in Judge Martino's stately old courtroom. Essex County Prosecutor Joseph Lordi, Sheriff John Cryan, several Freeholders and other public officials were all present in honor of the occasion.

Charles Grimm, chairman of the Essex County Planning Board, also attended to present Seiden a plaque thanking him for his service to that body.

As a lottery commissioner, Seiden will help set policy for a $125 million per year operation, he noted. "I'll know more about it after I go to a few meetings," he said.

'THE MURDERER IS A CANCER TO SOCIETY'

Murder victim's daughter backs death law

To the Editor's Journal, Mr. Stern:

This is concerning your editorial on the death penalty and Mr. (Senator Anthony) Imperiale's and gun control.

Maybe you should print the story from the victim's families' point of view.

We are all for the reinstatement of the death penalty. Why not? What we now have doesn't seem to be working to stop crime. To take away guns and bullets won't help. Aren't there other weapons? Such as rape, knives and clubs? Are we to take them away, too?

It's not the gun or knife that kills; it's the man that puts it in action. Get rid of the man. If I seem bitter, I am. After all, is not bitterness a part of human feelings and being human? Mr. Stern, I ask you to put yourself in my place and walk in my shoes as I have these past nine months. If you can do this, I don't see how you cannot change what you have written.

Yes, Mr. Imperiale has said life is "dear and precious." He knows for he is honest and one of the few honest legislators around who has seen and felt the pain, headache and sufferings of the families of victims. He knows of what he speaks.

Mr. Imperiale is right when he said explain your theory to the families of these victims. You couldn't because they don't want to hear it. They are tired of hearing it and have had enough of so-called justice, courts, hospitals, double-talk, low bails and no answers to questions asked. They don't want to hear the murderer has been set free or that he'll be out to kill again in a few years.

Mr. Stern, dare if you will to walk with me and my family back into the most horrible nine months of our lives.

Dad was a man who worked 18 to 24 hours a day. He wasn't a rich man, for most of his work was for others and favors he did. He fixed many of our friends, policemen's cars, and helped were he could. He never asked even a thank you in return.

He raised eight children of which six are left. Dad had worked hard and had a hard life. He was going to retire this year. He was sick and getting older and going blind. He had already had one operation on his eyes and was due for another and had a hernia.

Dad was beaten, shot twice, beaten, and the murderers threatened to pour gasoline on Dad and set him on fire. When is enough enough? If you think twice about giving these guys a second chance, do you think they will do it again? I don't think twice about the death penalty for them. I want it. They didn't think twice about the sentence they gave Dad. It was death.

And they also threatened to blow my mother's brains out, while Dad was dying there on the floor.

Who are you protecting? The murderers? Because of people like you, these animals are on the street hurting, robbing and killing other people.

If, Mr. Stern, you had cancer, would you cut out just as close as you could, not to cut out a big piece, and say "we'll wait and see if it grows before we cut out the rest"? Or would you cut it all out and be sure?

Well, I'd rather cut his life off than put him in jail a few years and give him a chance to kill again. Right now there is no better way. The murderer is a cancer, a cancer to society. Cancer kills like a murderer, without concern or feelings for the victim.

You, Mr. Stern, live in a dream world. Wake up and listen with an open mind to Mr. Imperiale. Speak with the families of the victims. Spend a day or a night at Martland Hospital and tell me how you feel about the death penalty.

Don't speak for the American people who have been there unless you've walked in their shoes.

I might add, I don't know Mr. Imperiale to talk to, but have read of the good he has done. I've seen the people he has helped.

Don't knock the people who try to help us citizens protect our lives and loved ones. It is the blood of the innocent people that is on your hands, for you protect the criminals.

At least Mr. Imperiale is concerned with the innocent victim's families and the hard-working citizen.

I know this is a long letter and it will not be printed. After all, it is in favor of an honest man, Mr. Anthony Imperiale. But do me a favor, look at the other side before you speak. Someday it may be the murderer you save who will kill you.

Because the case concerning my Dad's murderers has not yet come to trial, I cannot mention any other name than my own.

To Mr. Imperiale I say, God bless you. Tell all those people cowering with fear behind locked doors that only if we all speak up at once can be heard. No more killing and hurting people. We don't have to put up with it. We want to live.

We would like to help Mr. Imperiale in any way we can, that is, myself, my family and the other many friends I have. Mr. Imperiale we need you as our President, then the country will be safe.

Mrs. Harriett Cannella

Doctor remembered with patient's poem

(The following is a poem written by Mrs. Dorothea Redding, 53 Joralemon Street, following the death of her family physician, Dr. George F. Simms. Dr. Simms was formerly of Lyndhurst, and was on the staff of Clara Maass Memorial Hospital in Belleville.)

He's gone but not forgotten.

His memories will live on,
And we are thankful
For all the good he's done.
God called him to glory,
His skilled hands are now still.
He called him to heaven
Because that was his will.
He struggled through thick,
He struggled through thin,
As summers went out
And cold winters came in.
He traveled with horse,
He traveled with car,
He went to the sick
No matter how far.
His heart in his work,
and never a grumble

Cousin Brucie vs. Bay City Rollers

To the Editor:

Since Cousin Bruce Morrow of WNBC radio station of New York published his opinion of the Bay City Rollers in the February 5 issue of the Belleville Times/News, I hope you will publish ours now.

Let us give you a brief history of the Bay City Rollers. The Bay City Rollers first came to America in September of 1975. They sold out at their first American concert over at Shea Stadium in New York. The Bay City Rollers also did a guest shot on the Saturday Night Live show with Howard Cosell.

Within weeks of their appearance on Howard Cosell, they came out with their first American album and their first smash hit, "Saturday Night." Right now the Bay City Rollers have just come out with another soon-to-be hit, "Money Honey" and the Bay City Rollers are now one of the hottest groups in the country.

Now, Mr. Morrow, I have a few things to say to you: 1) We say you can take that article and go someplace; 2) as the old saying goes, "If you don't have anything nice to say about some people, keep your comments to yourself; 3) The Bay City Rollers have more niceness in one of their pinkies than you have in your whole body; 4) the Bay City Rollers have more talent than you ever will have; 5) If the Bay City Rollers (as you say) don't have any talent, how come "Saturday Night" sold over two million copies?

Greed: not a paper man

The search for a School Superintendent was long and hard for Belleville. Many people applied, many were interviewed, and finally, just a few were asked to come for one last going over.

After all that work, a selection was made last week. Dr. John Greed, 45, superintendent of schools in Beacon was selected to fill the post.

A school administrator for many years, Dr. Greed is coming to Belleville with some definite ideas on how to perform his job, but also with an open mind regarding suggestions by subordinates and members of the community.

"I like to work democratically," said Greed. "I see my role as gathering as much data and information from the staff, including the teachers as possible. When we come to an understanding on how something should be done, I see myself as the enforcer of the group's will."

Dr. Greed frequently emphasizes the importance of gathering information from all sources, including the students themselves. In fact, he sees everyone connected with the school system, even the lowest employees as important.

"While teachers are what makes a school a success or failure," Greed said, "it takes more people than that. It takes cafeteria workers and custodians to run a school also. If the school is clean, the morale is higher, and if it is painted attractively, a better atmosphere for learning is created."

Dr. Greed feels that a superintendent must pay some attention to detail if he is to be a successful administrator, but he also has to avoid what Greed calls "administrivia."

"Administrivia is the reason I need good secretaries, so they can fill out all the forms. On occasion I have called Trenton to speak to the people who make up these forms to see if there is a way of getting them shortened. I haven't done it yet, but I have been tempted to send them my own forms and refuse to fill out theirs until they fill out mine."

Greed said he realizes the necessity of paper work and the importance of planning. It seems to be a burden of the job he bears well.

The personal touch is also important to the new superintendent. He said he tries to find as much time as possible to get around to the schools and see any problems first hand.

"I'm not a paper man, I like to be with people. I will be in the schools talking to the teachers and pupils to find out what we are doing and how we are doing. I may not get to know every teacher but I will see and learn as much as I can."

Greed was director of curriculum and superintendent of schools in Florham Park from 1966 to 1971. He served as a principal in the Kinnelon middle school from 1961 to 1966 and was an elementary and secondary school teacher and principal in Linwood, Pa.

A Navy veteran, Greed earned his Ph.D. from Fordham University in 1967. Following undergraduate study at LaSalle College in Philadelphia, he earned his master's degree at the University of Delaware.

Greed said he and his family will be moved into a home in Belleville by the end of this year.

Greed and his wife, Clara, have four children, John, 19; Maria, 17; Christopher, 15 and Gladys, 13.

Greco to 'retire,' not 'resign'

By JODI MASSONE

One year ago

Following a vote by the Board of Education, Superintendent of School Anthony Greco would remain in his job until September of the following year. At that time the man would "retire" instead of "resign."

Also, included in the new decision was a provision allowing Greco to keep the $37,000 salary granted him by the Board when it accepted his resignation in June of the previous year.

Following the appointment of four members to the body, the recently created Belleville Commercial and Industrial Development Committee was now only one member short of full staff.

Though Commissioner of Public Safety Robert Laterza had not named his candidate for appointment to the body, four members of the local business community were voted seats on the 11 member panel.

The new appointments were: Stanley Slavin, president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce; Robert Williams, president of the DeWitt Savings and Loan Association; Andrew S. Colannino Jr., vice president of Modern Millwork and Supply Company, and Emil Nardachone, an attorney for the Newark Housing Authority.

Two years Ago

The Belleville Board of Education and the Town Commission met to discuss the proposed $7.7 million school budget. The Board's 1974 proposal represented an increase of $344,734 (4.6 per cent) over the proposed 1973-74 budget.

The tentative 74-75 package represented a jump of about $584,578 over the budget as amended by the Commissioner of Education.

An appeal filed by the Town of Belleville the previous February to increase the municipality's allotment under the Federal Revenue Sharing Program was decided in Belleville's favor.

As a result, Belleville had received two checks for $20,000, all of them retroactive to 1972.

Five years Ago

The new Board of Education was scheduled to meet for the first time for that school year. Caesar Romano and Richard Mahmarian were both on hand to face the many educational problems that had to be dealt with.

Dr. Frank DiRuggiero, winding up his term as president of the group, stated that the Board would invite the Commissioners to come and discuss plans for the new budget with them, saying that the board would like to be in a consulting role.

There was a teachers walkout a few weeks before, and it had caused some underlying tensions in the school system which were to have serious repercussions in the weeks to follow for School Superintendent Anthony Greco.

Greco had been caught in the middle of criticism leveled by teacher officials, and Board President Frank DiRuggiero, who both accused him of contributing toward the communications problem in the school system and the lack of cooperation during the previous week's School crisis.

Ten years ago

Dr. Frank DiRuggiero and Mrs. Norma McCool were reelected, and newcomer Rocco Saletta was elected to the Board of Education after a vigorous campaign that included ten candidates, all of whom were seeking election.

In response to requests by boys of the high school for a town recreation program, Belleville Junior High School was to be open on a trial basis on Saturday afternoons.

Boys from the ages of 16 to 19 were allowed to come into the gym and play basketball.

Can you believe, that they even wanted to go to school on Saturday?

Fifteen years ago

New bus routes for Belleville were proposed by the Washington Avenue Merchants Association. Final plans for the new routes were pending while approval was received from the Public Service Transport Company and the Public Utilities Commission.

Twenty-One years ago

A new town budget was introduced. It resulted in a $7.00 plus tax rate, which was attributed to an anticipated drop in revenue. There was a $78,246 increase in operating appropriations; increasing sewage costs, and increased contributions to the public employees retirement system.

Trophy case student-built

By RON GROLIMOND

Two students from Mr. Joe D'Ambola's vocational cabinet-making class put an extra plus to Belleville High School by making a brand new trophy case out of a hole in the wall. The project took about two weeks of actual hard work in which the two boys, Joe Fierro and Jerry Kamen, can take great pride.

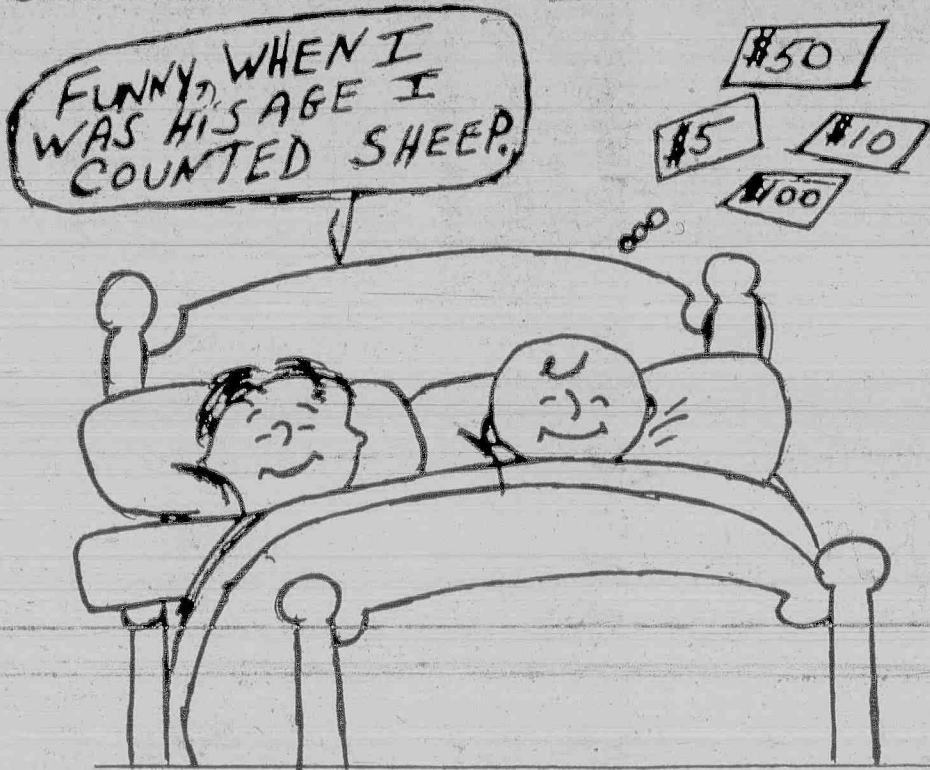

The trophy case, which now takes the place of what was a section of lockers, is located on the first floor next to the back entrance of the school or between the two entrances to the gym. The trophy case already contains trophies from the different activities within the school, but there are still vacancies to be filled.

Mr. D'Ambola said that the trophy case will have awards from all the activities in school contained in it. The case has glass doors with lights, which is a welcomed added feature, and glass shelves.

Student actors selected for 'Dolly'

By JOANNE SANTIGLIA and DONNA NEWCOMER

Audition results for the senior class play, "Hello Dolly," which were held on January 14 for all seniors and January 15 for underclassmen, have recently been released to a very anxiously awaiting student body.

The play, which is under the direction of Mr. Robert Leffebine, will have the following students comprising its cast:

Michele Gierla, a senior, cast as the female lead, the unforgettable Dolly Levi; Thomas Coughlin, also a senior, cast in the major male role, Horace Vandergelder.

Ernestina will be portrayed by Margaret Tague. Ambrose Kemper will be played by Oscar Celico. Ermengarde will be played by Susan Diana. Cornelius Hackl will be portrayed by James DelGuercio.

Other seniors that will be taking minor roles are: John Pontrella, Ellen Ventura, Mariruth Cavanaugh, Steven Donald and Sal Taibi. Thirty singers and 23 dancers were also selected.

Each student who auditioned for a major acting role was required to perform the following: a reading of an excerpt from the script of the play, a small dancing routine, and a few bars from the play's musical score. This was to determine each student's capabilities as well as to ensure proper and appropriate casting for each role.

Any student who wished to only enlist in the chorus or dancing group was only required to perform whatever pertained to his own specialized group.

Many teachers were present at the auditions to lend a helping hand. Mr. Brian Rafferty, who will serve as assistant director of the play, was there to help in the readings and overall supervision of the auditions.

Mrs. Marilyn McGrath will serve as choreographer. Mrs. Linda Gracagnola, along with Mrs. McGrath, served as judges for the students auditioning for dance.

Mr. Jeff Stone, a Belleville High School graduate, will also help in the production of the play, and was present at the tryouts to supervise the students who were required to sing.

Mr. Leffebine seemed optimistic when he said, "The competition this year was very high and I feel we will have an exceptionally well performed play."

Everyday English: a break with past

By DEBBIE BRADLEY

Remember old high school days? Alumni returning for a nostalgia tour might be surprised at the curriculum changes that have occurred. As recently as last year, another new course was adopted. It is called Everyday English.

This course is a full year course that can be taken in place of an English Literature IV or General English IV course. It is available only to seniors who are not college bound and need basic skills in English.

The course's teacher is Mr. McDonough. He feels that, "the course is beneficial to students with difficulty in English. It's a last attempt to review all the basics of English that they really need."

Everyday English was an experimental program last year and was so successful it was re-instated as a full year course. A variety of topics is taught.

For instance, during the first marking period, the class discussed law. The class was divided up, leaving students in the classroom and the remainder adjourned to the BHS rear parking lot. Once there, they staged a "pick-pocketing." The students who remained in the classroom acted as judge and jury. The participants acted as thief, victim and witnesses.

In this way, Mr. McDonough wished to demonstrate to his students what the law is and how it works. Everyday English classes also discuss setting up personal checking accounts, the effects of propaganda, spending money wisely writing resumes, and filling out job applications.

The classes also cover what Mr. McDonough terms his "grammarless grammar." The students learn to write longer, more mature sentences. Each month students write letters to companies asking for certain information or expressing their opinions on the company's product.

Students also learn to comprehend more of what they read and retain more information. Mr. McDonough's classes read two-minute mysteries which, he feels, is a fun way of improving reading comprehension.

It is encouraging to know that the teachers of BHS approve of the idea of Everyday English. They feel that there is a need of it. One new step for education, one large step for BHS!

Lamberti on sports

By MIKE LAMBERTI

When Miss Karen Fucello was re-hired as the head coach of the Belleville Bellgirls basketball team, she realized that success would not come overnight. Her players are young and lack experience. The team has only three players with game experience and they are upperclassmen. Lack of game experience is part of the reason the Bellgirls' record is not all that it might be.

The girls did get off to a good start, defeating Irvington 32-21. After losing to East Orange by a wide margin, they came back to edge Kearny. That victory proved to be expensive, however.

Carol Lelio, a senior and the team's star guard, sustained a sprained ankle and would be out for two to three weeks. Without Lelio, the team lost to East Orange Catholic and Kearny in the Christmas Tournament.

The team was then beaten by Bloomfield and routed by an undefeated Nutley squad.

With their record at 2-5, Lelio returned to action when the team played Orange. Despite Lelio scoring eight points and showing some good ball handling, the Bellgirls lost 48-42. But the team looked much more improved and had hoped to defeat highly regarded Montclair.

It was not to be, as Montclair won, 64-39.

The Mounties were a much bigger team than Belleville and also proved to be more aggressive.

With their record at 2-7, the team traveled to play the highly rated East Orange squad, and were again beaten, 54-27.

The team's record now stands at 3-13 and there are still four games remaining plus action in the state tournament. The remaining games will not be easy, but if the team can stay healthy, the girls could still make something out of the season.

As mentioned earlier, the girls lack game experience. The team has only three upperclassmen. They are Lelio, Nancy Skrutskie at forward and Fatima Anderson at center.

Skrutskie is averaging seven points a game, and averages about 10 rebounds per game.

Anderson is averaging 10 points a game and has vastly improved since the beginning of the season.

Lelio is averaging 17 points a game, including a 27 point performance against Kearny. She is an excellent ball handler and helps the team out with assists.

Tempers flared at Board meeting

It was a night of flaring tempers, impatience, confusion, soapbox oratory, and, occasionally, agreement. But most of all Monday night's jam-packed Board of Education meeting was an evening of concern.

Though the crowd of 400 School Three and Seven parents differed in their views, their presence in the high school auditorium was an indicator that the School Three-Seven split session issue is one of the most volatile to have recently faced any local elected body.

There were times when the Auxiliary policemen on duty moved to the front of the auditorium prepared to escort loud-mouthed citizens outside. Twice Board members became visibly — and vocally — ticked off. Board president Richard Mahmarian more than once gavelled down parents who had waited three hours to speak and could wait no longer.

It was a night of embarrassment for some parents — "I'm ashamed of this," said one — and for some members of the Board. "I don't understand," said Board member Lawrence Schwartz, "how you're acting tonight. Nothing will be accomplished by hollering."

It was a night of theatrics for some: "You'll see us on the streets, you'll see us in the newspapers, you might even see us on TV!" said School Seven parent Anthony Tornatore, hurling the public address-system's microphone back onto the stage. Others, not opposed to the Board's handling of the affairs of school, stood to offer their commendation. Said Douglas Cantarella: "I commend the Board for making a stand and staying with it."

At least one School Board candidate — other than the incumbents — seized the event as an opportunity to be heard. Peter Paglia, by far the most aggressive of the election challengers, stood to make his pitch against split sessions — unfortunately during the wrong part of the meeting — and was gavelled down by Mahmarian, himself up for reelection. Paglia, who spoke later, was admonished by one parent. "No more political speeches," said the parent, "I heard it at the last meeting."

"You don't frighten me," said the candidate to the Board president, "but I'll step aside."

It was perhaps an evening of self-restraint for principals Austin MacArthur and Michael Rosamilia, accused of "selling us down the river," then praised for their unstinting efforts to accommodate everyone.

And it was perhaps an evening of only limited cooperation where maximum cooperation was necessary. Said MacArthur to the dissident throng: "We're one school system, and I'd like to have the idea we're going to stay that way."

The remark drew heavy applause, and also a few scowls.

Caught between irate parents and the Board of Education, principals Michael Rosamilia (left) of School Seven and Austin MacArthur of School Three show some of the strain felt by everyone at Monday's School Board meeting at the Belleville High School auditorium. Both principals addressed the parents and the Board on a variety of subjects. About 400 parents attended the meeting.

Parents object to split session

however, how much money it will receive from its insurance handled by the Insurance Company of North America. Salvage considerations still under study, said Bouman, make monetary settlement estimates difficult at this time. Two key insurance company officials have also been stricken with the flu, reported Board business administrator Mrs. Mary Shader, stalling negotiations. Neither Mahmarian nor Bouman could guarantee the settlement would cover the cost of the newly proposed building.

"This building would cost less to construct with today's technology than it would to rebuild the old one," said Bouman.

The Board voted to delay submission of the new plans to State Education Department officials until after the insurance settlement. "We've waited this long," said Pica, "a couple of more weeks won't make any difference." Both Pica and Schwartz said they feared earlier action might jeopardize full return from the insurance company.

Though concerned with the financial aspects of the settlement and reconstruction plans, the parents were more concerned about returning their children to "a normal academic environment." A flyer distributed by a group called "School Seven Parents for an End to Split Sessions," charged that "Belleville children (in Schools Three and Seven) are now receiving only a part-time education." The group also said its children are being "deprived of sixteen full school days from the current year," at a rate of 45 minutes from each school day.

Greco and both affected school principals denied the charges, however. According to Austin MacArthur, School Three principal, various adjustments are being made to save education time. Though the school day is shorter, library time, assemblies and other activities are being curtailed to allow more teaching time. "The children are not going to be behind academically," he said.

Michael Rosamilia, School Seven principal, said children who need additional instruction are getting it. Both he and MacArthur recently spoke to students at Montclair State College, he said, to seek their help as part-time tutors. Other recreational programs have been arranged through the Town to supervise children whose parents are working during the day, Rosamilia said.

Special instruction for both slow and fast learners is being given during time allotted for musical instruction, said MacArthur. "Had your building burned down," MacArthur told the School Seven parents, "you would have been welcome in ours."

Persistent telephoner sent to the slammer

A 24-year old Pine Beach man was given a 10-day jail term February 4 in Belleville Municipal Court for making annoying phone calls.

Stanley F. Radomski, 815 Huntington Avenue, was charged January 23 with making annoying phone calls to Belinda Duva, 41 Cedar Hill Avenue.

Bellevilleite fined $500

A Belleville man charged with drug possession was fined $500 and given a suspended sentence following proceedings February 4 in Belleville Municipal Court.

Elijah L. Polite, 127 Stephens Street, was arrested November 15 and charged with illegal possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

The defendant pleaded guilty to the charges, and Judge Carl Stier imposed the fine, $25 in court costs and the suspended sentence. Polite was also ordered to remain in a drug program.

College applicants up about 10 per cent

Student applications for independent colleges and universities in the state are running 120 percent ahead of last year, according to a survey taken in January.

The survey, conducted by the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities in New Jersey, showed that 23,049 applications have been made so far for the 1976 Fall semester. Last year at this time, the 17 member institutions had received 21,038 applications.

The 2,011 increase is significant because dates of applications, deposits and final registration have shown a strong trend in recent years toward late Spring and early Summer.

'Twas fun to test the truth

GAVIN'S ACTIN career has included many roles. He can count in his repertoire appearances as a raindrop, a shepherd, an Eskimo child, an alligator, Moses and a grasshopper. Add a few stints as a narrator or reader and his file is complete.

I wait with interest each year to see what the school play will be and was quite intrigued a few weeks ago when my son announced that Miss Dougherty had chosen to produce an adaption of that perennial television favorite "To Tell the Truth". The characters were three George Washingtons, three Abraham Lincolns, four panelists, a host and an audience who recited the facts about the celebrities and sang appropriate songs in between their appearances.

A COUPLE of days later, he was pleased to report that he had been picked to portray one of the panelists and had to decide toute suite whom he would be. After an evening of agonizing and consulting with his brother (who was strong for Henry Winkler, a la Fonzie), he chose Peter Falk in his role of Columbo and went off to clear his choice with his teacher. When he came home, Falk had joined Sally Struthers, Karen Valentine and Rich Little and the panel was complete.

Breathing a sigh of relief that I didn't have to wrestle with costuming George or Abe, I began to think in terms of turning Gavin into a reasonable facsimile of Columbo. My first line of defense when faced with a task of this sort is the Nutley Thrift Shop and there, tucked away in the back room with all the other men's apparel, was a perfect raincoat, miles too big of course but having all the other qualifications. Forking over a modest sum, I started home with it, stopping on my way to purchase a cigar. The man in Jerry and Anthony's Confectionary was so intrigued when I requested the cheapest Columbo type stogie he had that he presented it to me gratis!

THE COAT, which turned out to be in perfect shape, (even the extra buttons in three sizes were firmly attached to the lining) was turned up and the sleeves shortened. His white Sunday shirt, worn only under protest on Sundays, a pair of dark slacks and Dad's black tie completed the outfit and a few days of slouching around the house, scratching his head in puzzled thought and puffing intermittently on the unlit cigar and the kid thought he had the character pretty well defined.

The play was neat. Thank you to Frank, Ken, Sal, Bobby G., Bobby Gr., Richard G., John, Anthony, Richard R., Freddy, Michael, Wendy, Michele, Tracy, Lauren, Kori, Amy, Jean Marie, Laura, Janice and Francesca for an enjoyable afternoon.

THE TWINS had heard nothing but "To Tell the Truth" for quite some time and both had seen it in school. I took Nora over to the Sun with me the next day. Hanging in the entrance is a large portrait of the three Orechio brothers. My daughter took a long look. "Mommy," she piped, "which one is the REAL Mr. Orechio?"

A portrait of Mark LaRussa the student and the patient

by Jodi Massone

Mark LaRussa is not "one of a kind" but he is "one of seven." That is, he is one of seven Bellevilleites whose life is sustained by an artificial kidney machine.

Mark, 20 years-old, is a part-time student at Montclair State College, and a part-time patient at Bio-Med Life Support, Irvington, where he spends five hours a day, three days a week, attached to an artificial kidney machine.

The hemodialysis patient, who first became aware of his ailment while a student in junior high school, was originally diagnosed by a dentist, following a routine examination. he was sent to a physician, placed in a hospital, and then, two years ago, was given a kidney transplant, donated by his father.

Things were going well for a while, but a short time ago the kidney transplant started to be rejected, and now Mark's name is one on a long list of names awaiting a cadaver kidney.

Strange as it may seem, Mark, whose future lies in the area of business administration, is much like any other 20 year-old man. He reads, goes to school, until recently held a part time job, and does everything any other 20 year-old does, plus things 20 year-olds don't do (take hemodialysis treatments).

Namely, there are four essential things that Mark has to watch out for: good dialysis, proper diet, potassium intake, and girls!

Mark is friendly, noisy, tough, timid, sensitive, extroverted, and most of all, happy. He's not looking for publicity for himself, but wants

Former Bellevilleite scouting talent on basketball courts

The latest "looker" on the basketball courts in the New York-New Jersey area is a former Bellevilleite named Toni Harris who has been hired by Nate Archibald Enterprises Inc. as a recruiter of professional basketball players. Vice-president Edwin Greenidge believes the hiring of a woman recruiter to be a first in the field and certainly a first for his firm which is in the business of representing professional athletes.

Toni Harris (Gaskin) who prefers the use of her maiden name professionally, lives in East Orange and has been employed as executive director of Architects' Community Design Center in Newark for the past four years while completing work on her master's degree in educational administration at Rutgers School of Education in New Brunswick. She is one of the new breed of females who function largely in what was a man's world where she not only directs the operations of architects and engineers in the New Jersey community but sits on the Board of Directors of Newark's Construction Trades Training Program as well.

Although basketball is one of many interests, she spends many of her free hours watching pro and college games and has a life-long interest in the sport, kindled when she played playground and intra-mural team basketball for St. Peter's Parochial School in town. A graduate of Belleville High School, Miss Harris is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wells of 29 Belleville Avenue.

"Females," says Greenidge, "are increasingly finding professional sports to be a challenging business environment."

Dogs in heat

Unwanted puppies are the best reason to be concerned when your female dog enters her heat periods. Many dog owners today prefer not to have their female pets altered, particularly if the animals are purebred and they hope to mate them. In such cases, these owners need to take special precautions with the female during her seasonal periods.

Dogs become sexually mature during the ages of six to twelve months, and during this time, the female begins her first heat period. These periods are usually six months apart and last around three weeks. During the middle week of the period, the female is receptive to males and can usually become pregnant at this time. If you do not want puppies, then you must keep your female dog indoors during the middle receptive week.

You can recognize when your dog is entering a period of heat first by her extra friskiness and affection, her increase or decrease in appetite and urination and the swelling of her external genital organ. After about five days, a bloody discharge may begin and will continue for four or five more days.

During the bleeding period, you should keep your dog close off in a specific indoor area. However, don't shut her in a basement or closet because she is already somewhat unsettled. Reassure her with frequent attention and a warm tone. You might need to cover the genital area with some sanitary protection. If you have children around, tell them the bleeding is a normal condition, and not to be alarmed. Try to keep your dog away from things she might soil without making her sense that you would like to banish her. If you feel this way about her season, it is best for you and for her if she is spayed.

When the bleeding discharge lessens, your dog is ready for breeding. If you do not wish to breed her, the next five days are the most critical in terms of confinement. If you live in the city, the problem may not be serious, since male dogs there are usually leashed and therefore controllable. But suburban male dogs frequently roam the neighborhood looking for a female in heat.

During the final week of her season, your dog may repulse any male who approaches her, so is in little danger of becoming pregnant.

Before the onset of heat, you might want to take your dog to your veterinarian for a hormone injection that will halt the period. Also, the first oral product on for controlling a heat period and for treating false pregnancy in dogs was introduced recently. Your veterinarian will know about it.

Since your dog can produce a litter or two every year, there is not point in rushing her. If she is very young, she may be immature psychologically and insufficiently developed physically to cope with the sudden burden of all those puppies.

Riders and officials back No. 15 bus

By PHIL WHITE

Elimination of the 15 bus line would create severe hardships on several riders and institutions, in addition to seriously inconvenience daily commuters, the Public Utilities Commission was told during a three-hour public hearing at Nutley Town Hall Friday night.

Officials from industries, hospitals and senior citizen institutions testified termination of the 15 would be disruptive and create chaos. The PUC has held many elderly persons visiting patients would not be able to reach hospitals, volunteers presently assisting at Clara Maass Memorial Hospital would have to give up their work, some commuters would be forced to walk a mile each day to reach alternate transportation lines and employees, especially at Hoffman-LaRoche, would be forced to quit jobs and join the lines at unemployment offices.

Several of those testifying charged schedule cuts and service changes in recent years seemed "designed on purpose" to chase riders away.

The 15 bus, for example, has changed operation in the past five years to climate all weekend patronage, to institute schedules so students at both Nutley and Belleville high schools cannot use the route, and to rule out its patronage by evening commuters returning from New York and Newark.

Visitors at the Essex County Geriatrics Center frequently wait hours for a 15 bus during the mid-day when no runs are scheduled, a spokesman revealed. Workers arrive more than an hour before their scheduled starting time at Roche. "I simply sit around in the ladies' lounge for an hour every morning because of the bus schedule," one work said. "At night, I have to wait another hour to get home because the bus misses our shift by five minutes."

Mrs. Doris Popadick of the Nutley Board of Education says the morning bus "gets students to the high school five minutes too late for their first class." Thomas Smith of 14 Coeyman Avenue says the last bus he can catch home from the subway terminal leaves at 5:20 p.m. "hardly a schedule designed to accommodate the evening commuter."

Commissioner Harry W. Chenoweth, himself a commuter for 37 years, said service cuts and poor timetables "finally drove me away." He notes on week nights "there is no service any longer to accommodate the people coming back from New York. There has been a design in the development of schedule changes to turn away patronage," Chenoweth charged.

The PUC hearing listened to 22 persons at Nutley Town Hall Friday and then recessed the hearing until next Wednesday when sessions will resume at 10 a.m. at 1100 Raymond Boulevard, Newark.

Belleville Commissioner Vincent Strumolo, however, is petitioning for another evening hearing — this time in Belleville. "The 15 is more important to Belleville than any other municipality simply because it runs the entire length of our town," Strumolo said.

Mayor Carmen Orechio of Nutley addressed the PUC in his dual capacity as a State Senator. Orechio is a member of the Senate Transportation Committee and said once the legislature has found the formula to fund the educational system in New Jersey, "that same formula will be one which will provide funds for transportation subsidies." Orechio asked the PUC to mandate the continuance of bus service during the present interim period as the legislature tackles the funding problem.

Ralph Risoli, Belleville's transportation director, stressed the 15 line provides the only connecting with that town's Silver Lake section and the downtown center. Risoli reported Belleville's senior citizen complex was built in its new location "because it's situated right on the 15 line." To take away this bus would be to take away life for our mothers and grandmothers. These are the only things our senior citizens live for."

Bernard Gallagher, a Nutley resident who as director of the Aging in Essex County works in Belleville, testified that 50 per cent of the more than 11,000 senior citizens in the two neighboring towns rely upon public transportation.

Most of those testifying said they would be willing to pay higher fares if that was the only means of keeping the 15 running.

Caesar Romano, represented the Belleville Board of Education, the Essex County Geriatrics Center and the Overbrook Employees Association. His position was supported by a telegram from William F. Baker, chief of the air pollution branch of the United States Environmental Agency.

Romano said the 15 line was vital to patients, visitors and employees of the Essex County Center. He produced figures of employee surveys showing 75 per cent of the 900 visitors to the institution each week use public transportation. The 15 line is used by 12 Nutley employees, 35 from Belleville and 73 from Newark, Romano reported.

Stephen Guenzler of the N.J. Public Advocates Office, who was represented on the PUC panel, cross-examined Romano: "Would it be fair to say the 15 line is vital and necessary to the mental well-being of the patients at the geriatrics center?" Romano replied in the affirmative: "I couldn't say it any better."

Robert Ward represented Hoffmann-La Roche "We're encouraging our employees to avail themselves of public transportation," Ward began. "About 90 to 100 of our employees take the 15 bus everyday as their only means of transportation to and from work. Ending this service would create a tremendous problem for people coming to us from Newark, Bloomfield, Belleville and Nutley."

Donald Hoch, a Nutley resident and an employee of Clara Maass Memorial Hospital, represented the Volunteer Services Group at the institution. "If the 15 were terminated 'it would wipe out an entire volunteer group, creating a hardship on patients, and a hardship for some of our employees who would be out of work,'" Hoch testified.

Tom Condiff, a Clara Maass volunteer, reported he knew of 80 volunteers from Nutley at the hospital "and approximately half of those use the 15 bus — and there's more from Belleville, as well."

When you put your hard-earned money in a bank, that bank owes you a feeling of confidence and trust. We think that this trust only comes from clear, thorough communication about what you are getting for your money.

That's why in our advertising, and in our banks, we won't be talking to you in numbers and textbook banking words as if you were a banker. We'll be explaining our full-service programs to you in language you can understand.

For instance, we'll be telling you something no other bank has ever told you: why all 5% interest rates do not earn the same amount of money for their depositors.

And why some banks' free checking accounts can end up costing you money.

Perhaps you're confused as to when it's advantageous to lease an automobile rather than buy one. We'll end your confusion.

Won't someone ever explain to you why there are all those different Savings Certificates with different rates of interest and different lengths of time? We will.

You don't have to be a lawyer to understand how our tax shelter retirement plans can benefit you. Not the way we'll explain them.

We believe it's a bank's obligation to see that you understand what it gives you in return for the privilege of using your money to make money.

We intend to meet our obligation to you.

Senior notes

By GEORGE CHENOWETH

The Public Utilities Commission hearings were held on Monday, February 4. At these hearings the public had a chance to relate how it felt about the proposed increases in utilities rates. Needless to say, almost all of those who gave testimony were definitely against any increases at this time.

The Public Service Gas and Electric Company was represented by one of its vice presidents and he informed the panel that an increase was necessary in order to further exploration of new sources of power, for the construction of atomic power plants, for new development in the producing of power, to overcome higher operating costs and, among other things, to satisfy the stockholders.

The two most vehement opponents to the proposed rate hikes were Bernard Gallagher, Director of the Essex County Office on Aging, and the State's public advocate.

Gallagher, in his statement informed the Public Utilities Commission of the status of the senior citizen, and how the seniors would be affected if a rate increase was allowed. He cited instances and figures to prove that an increase for seniors would create a hardship at this time.

The Public Advocate vowed to ask for justification of any rate increases and he intended, he said, for the good of all concerned, to investigate any and all reasons that the utilities companies may have to increase electric and gas rates.

Our local Belleville seniors were well represented and must be commended for attending these all-important hearings.

B&E defendants sent to the Grand Jury

A Bellevilleite and a Bloomfield man charged with attempted break and entry had their cases referred to an Essex County Grand Jury following January 28 proceedings in Belleville Municipal Court.

Louis Pisano, 20, of 202 Heckel Street and Joseph F. Gurgick, 20, of 76 Linden Avenue, were arrested January 12 while attempting to break into Stefanelli's Tavern, 210 Heckel Street, officials charge. Gurgick was also charged with possession of burglary tools. He had a flashlight, screwdriver and needle-nose pliers in his possession when apprehended.

The two men waived their rights to a probable cause hearing, and Judge Carl Stier ordered the cases sent to the Grand Jury.

Gurgick is currently free on $500 bail pending outcome of the case and Pisano is being held on another charge.

Both men were arrested by Belleville police officer Louis Pomponio.

Pisano also appeared in court on shoplifting charges and was found guilty.

AFTER 53 WINS, A LOSS

Bellboys smash Pascack streak

By CHUCK JACKSON

It was a moment almost impossible to describe.

The sound of the referee's hand hitting the mat to signal the pin in the heavyweight class sent shock waves through Belleville high gym that crushed fans and players on one side with a wave of depression and threw the other side momentarily into near frenzy.

The Bellboy varsity wrestling squad had snapped the Pascack Hills Cowboys' 53 game winning streak with a come-from-behind power surge. Belleville led in the final tally, 29-25.

Though it seemed the entire match came down to that one man-to-man confrontation in the center of the gym, it was the pre-game plotting and quick decisions during the contest that threw the weight to the Blue-Gold side.

By the time coach Jim Silvestri entered the arena, he had his battle plan mapped out and had quietly shifted his men like general poising his troops for a surprise attack.

The Silvestri strategy for the win was complicated. It involved moving some of his men around in different weight classes — a trick he has not employed before — and also required giving up one weight class by forfeit, a coolly reasoned gamble.

Tom Husted, wrestling at 115 for Pascack Hills, is one of the finest wrestlers in the state.

His performances electrify his teammates and fans, and that was just what the Belleville coach wanted to avoid.

"Whenever Husted wrestles," said Silvestri, "he gets the rest of his team psyched up. We didn't want that, we wanted to de-psyche them. So, we forfeited the weight to keep him off the mat."

Belleville had a slight edge in points before the 115 contest was scheduled. Carl Arlt, tangling at 101 pounds for Belleville, scored a major decision over his opponent Warren Jimenez by defeating him 8-0. The win also gave Arlt an undefeated season.

Bob Freda wrestled 108 for the hometown team, and though he was reportedly ill, performed well for his team and lost a close decision to Jim DeVanna, 6-5.

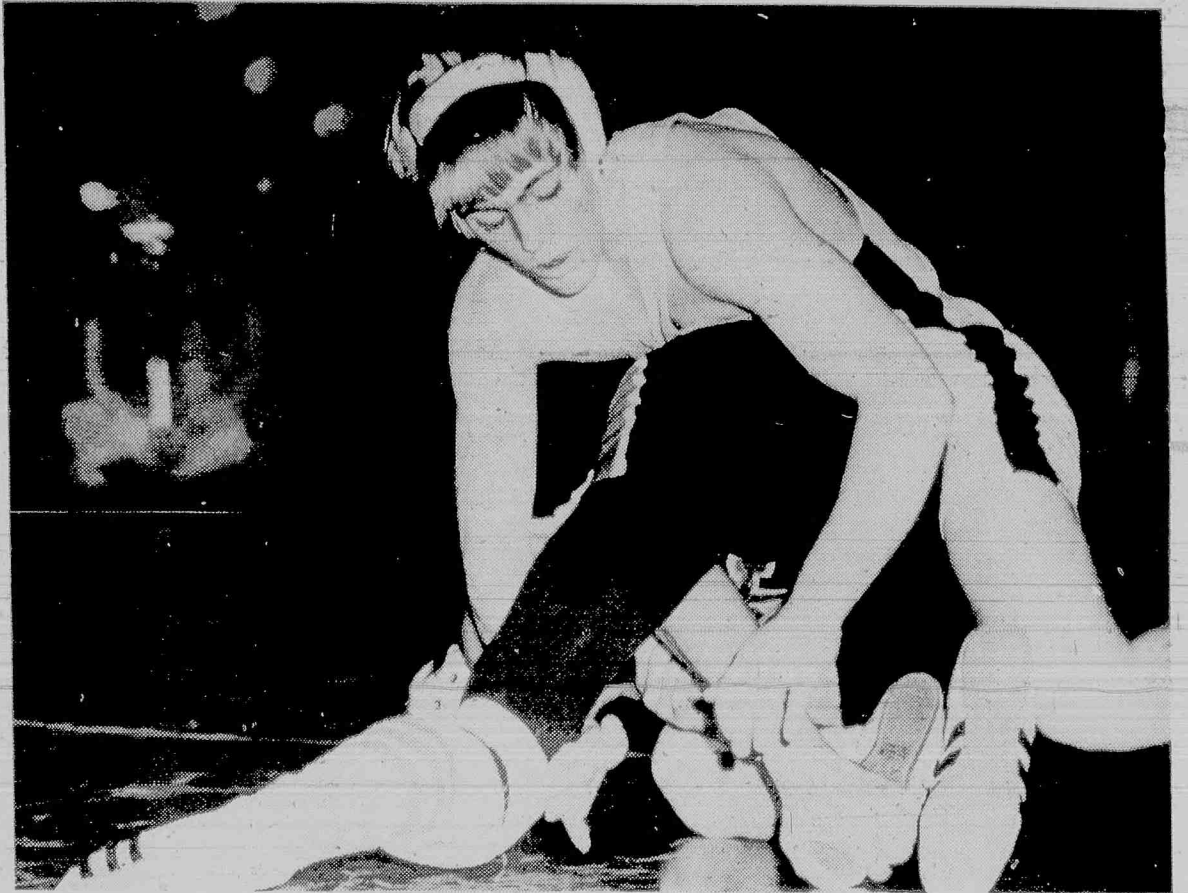

Coach Silvestri threw away his team's one point lead by giving up the 115 pound match. The forfeit was not only a gamble, but it also required great sacrifices by at least two of the team members.

Mark D'Amico was, in effect, the sacrificial lamb for the team. He had weighed in at 115, and been introduced as the wrestler for that slot during the opening ceremonies. It was all show. Silvestri never intended for him to see action.

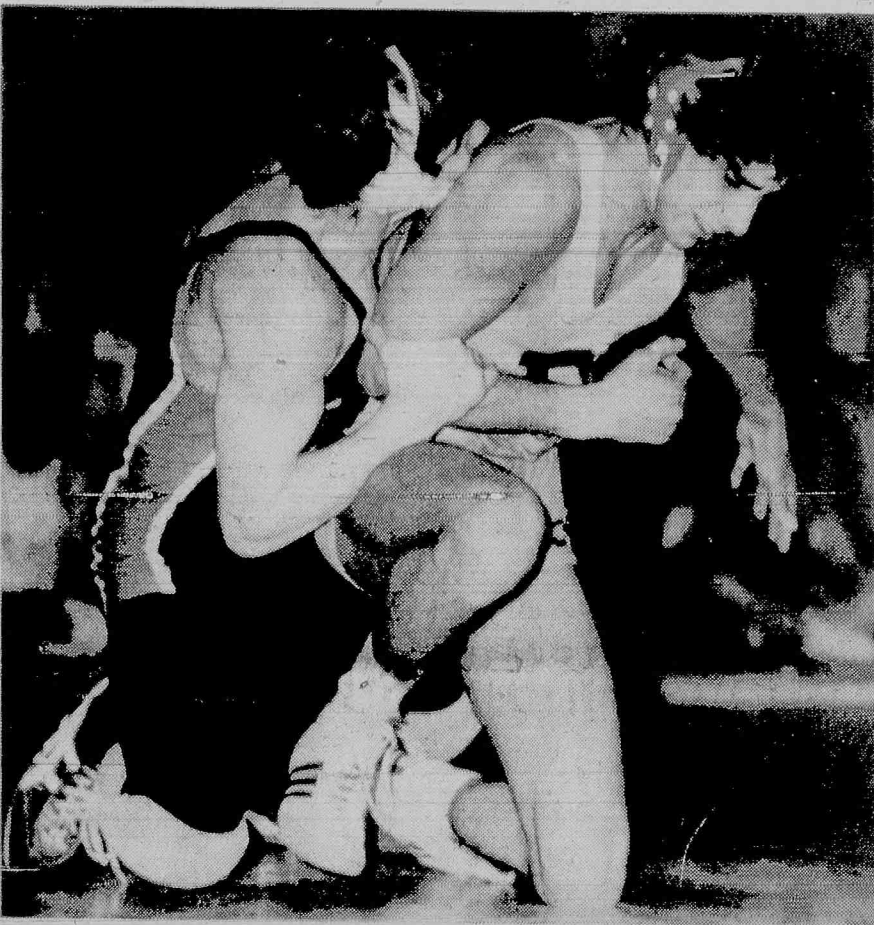

"We had planned for a week on giving up the match," said Silvestri, explaining the tactic.

Please see page 17.

times/news sports

Twister — Bellboy Carl Arlt twists his 101 pound opponent into a precarious position. Arlt took the match and finished the season undefeated.

Escape — Pushing off the mat, Bellboy Vin Mustacchio attempts to effect an escape from his Cowboy opponent. Going at 122 pounds, Mustacchio not only got away, he shut his man out, 10-0.

Trouble — Blue-Gold grappler Bob Freda (bottom) fights off a pin attempt by his 108 pound opponent. Freda just barely lost the match, 6-5. His coach praised his work.

Helpless — on the sidelines, coach Jim Silvestri and his team manager watch anxiously as each wrestler does his job. The tension of the contest was almost too much to bear, but Silvestri kept his cool throughout.

Straining — BHS grappler Ron Grolimond winces at the effort it takes to stave off a pin. Grolimond lost the 135 pound match, but still stopped the Cowboys from pulling down the big points they expected.

Defending — Belleville's DeWitt Rangers (light jerseys) close on a Nutley Flyer in Sunday's street hockey battle. The Bellevilleites downed the Nutley boys in the last period when they fired in two goals to win, 5-

3. Unfortunately, there were several "disputes" which slowed the flow of the game and did little to change the outcome.

Rangers rally in clash with Nutley

Belleville's DeWitt Rangers street hockey team turned on the power late in the third period Sunday, and defeated the Nutley Flyers, 5-3.

The Rangers have been playing a limited season this year, due to problems in securing a regulation size home rink, and their "exhibition" record now stands at 5-1. This Sunday, they will try to pull yet down another win in a scheduled duel with the Nutley Blues. The game is tentatively slated for noon at School Three playground.

Last Sunday's game was originally scheduled to be played the previous week, but foul weather forced cancellation and the men regrouped for this week's confrontation.

The game must have been a big disappointment to true hockey fans, because the game never ran very smoothly. From the first period on, there were individual fights and almost every one escalated into bench-emptying brawls.

Belleville coach Paul Ciccone has been drilling his men hard, but continuing poor weather has hampered his efforts and the team doesn't always look as sharp as it might.

Still, the Rangers were first on the scoreboard, firing in two goals early in the game. Frank Buonano and Bill Sauers were given credit for the scores which put Nutley on the defensive almost immediately.

The Flyers soon got themselves on an even keel, however, and slapped one past Ranger goalie Mark Lukowiak. Paul Denning restored the Ranger two point edge late in the second period with an unassisted goal.

It was almost surprising either team had the time to score any goals in between fights. The checking in the game was hard, but much of it appeared to be clean. There were a few uncalled penalties, to be sure, but none that would have seemed to warrant the violence that attended the game.

The Rangers objected to the constant fighting, but never really did shy away from the fights once they were initiated. Both benches emptied three times during the game, and coach Ciccone threatened to end the contest on the spot if another major fight broke out. According to the coach and captain Bill Sauers, this was the first time this year the Rangers were engaged in such incidents.

While the Rangers were up in arms about the fights, the Flyers were steadily working at putting together a scoring threat. Their efforts paid off in the third period when a pass intercepted in front of the net was fired past the Ranger goalie.

Joe Vincenti right the situation a few minutes later by scoring what turned out to be the game winning goal. Sauers added the insurance point shortly thereafter.

Domenicks pile on the points

Belleville's splashingly fast Domenick brothers piled on points to cinch Montclair YMCA's sixth and seventh consecutive victories in the Northern NJ YMCA boys' swim league.

Saturday, the undefeated Marlins trounced Westfield, 114-93 and a week earlier defeated Fanwood-Scotch Plains, 112-96.

Anthony Domenick tied the score against Westfield in the 15th event as he won the 13-14-year old 100 yard backstroke race in 1:01.6. He also finished second in the 100 yard butterfly with a time of 1:02, and sprinted the butterfly quarter of the winning 200 yard medley relay, which clocked a team time of 1:54.8.

Against Fanwood-Scotch Plains YMCA, Anthony Domenick

touched second in both the 100 yard butterfly and 100 yard backstroke. He turned in times of 1:02.9 and 1:02.2 respectively for the two events.

Angelo Domenick, racing in the 10-and-under age bracket, won both the 50 yard backstroke (36.6) and 50 yard butterfly (34.3) against the powerful Westfield Y swimmers.

Angelo again proved his racing skill when he earned a silver second place medal at the New Jersey AAU "AA" age group swim meet January 17. He covered the 100 yard butterfly course in 1:17.8.

Mounties batter Bellgirls

Put down again.

The Belleville high varsity women's basketball team traveled to Montclair Tuesday in search of its fourth win of the season, but came back with another loss packed in the bag. Montclair came out on top in the final tally, 72-51.

The team record now stands at 3-12.

The girls have the rest of the week off before going back into the fray next Tuesday against Columbia. That game will begin at 3:45 p.m. at Belleville High School gym.

The first and the fourth quarters were the telling periods in Tuesday's game. The Bellgirls came on slowly, built up their momentum in the second and third quarters, and petered out again in the fourth.

Coach Karen Fuccello was unable to make the trip to Montclair due to illness, and she had been out of action for a couple of days before that.

The Blue-Gold women only managed to get seven points on the board during the first period, while Montclair took advantage of the sluggishness by firing in 15.

During the second quarter, things began to click for the hometowners, however, as they started hitting the hoop and also got to work icing out the Montclair rebounders.

Belleville's she-shooters out-scored the Mounties 18-15 during that time frame, and went to the locker room down by only five points and with plenty of time to make up the deficit.

The girls came on strong again in the third quarter, but so did the Mounties. Belleville shot just about as well as it had right before the half, but the Montclair women had apparently talked things over during the break and got their act together.

Mounties barely beat Bellboys

They may still be losing, the Bellboy hoopsters are showing signs of improvement, and are cutting down the point margin by which they lose. Tuesday, they were narrowly defeated by the Montclair Mounties, 55-52.

Yesterday, the team was scheduled to host the Kearny Cardinals, but there appeared to be some type of scheduling conflict and the contest has been postponed once again, this time to next Wednesday.

Tomorrow, the Blue-Gold hardwooders face the Passaic Indians at Passaic. The game is scheduled to begin at 3:45.

Tuesday's tough stand against the Mounties could be a hint of bright things to come from the Bellboys in these waning days of the season. The team played very well, and threw a scare into the Montclair men, ranked 15th among basketball teams in the state.

The hometown team played what has to be one of its best games all season against the Mounties. The boys stalled with the ball at times to eat up the seconds on the clock, but generally, the offensive was hitting like great guns and the defense did a fine job of containing the Montclair attack.

The Bellboys increased their chances of winning the game by staying away from the wild shot and sticking with the percentages. Most of the points scored by the BHS men came on hard driving lay-ups.

Even though the Mounties had a distinct height advantage, the Belleville men did a good job of handling them. The hometowners were psyched up.

The fourth quarter turned out to be Montclair's, but the Bellboys didn't give up the ghost without a fight.

The two teams matched each other bucket for bucket throughout most of the period, and excitement in the home stands began to build.

tic. "We didn't want to forfeit at the scales and give them time to make last minute movements to counter ours, so we went through with everything right up until match time."

"D'Amico was very disappointed," continued Silvestri, "but we just didn't want to get them up, so we gave up the six points. It was a great sacrifice for D'Amico."

It was also a great disappointment and great sacrifice for Vin Mustacchio, the regular 115 starter. The coach moved Mustacchio up to 122, denying him the opportunity to tangle with Husted. Mustacchio may not have been happy with the plan, but he followed the coach's orders like a good soldier.

Mustacchio made it look like the coach's maneuvering might pay off by getting back four points for his team by a major decision over Craig Hulford at 122. The Blue-Gold man won, 10-0.

The next two men to the mat for Belleville were also wrestling in higher weight classes than normal. Mark DeGiacomo, usually at 122 took over at 129, while Ron Grolimond moved up to the 135 pound class.

Though DeGiacomo and Grolimond both lost by decisions, those contests contributed to the defeat of the Cowboys. According to coach Silvestri, the Pascack Hills coach later told him his team had been counting on pins in the 122, 129 and 135 pound classes to assure the win. DeGiacomo and Grolimond went a long way towards smashing that dream by staying off their backs.

Andy Schenke went into battle at 141 pounds for Belleville, and though he was pinned at 1:43, Silvestri had nothing but praise for him.

"Schenke wrestled a beautiful match. He was going against Tim Catalfo, a boy I believe is a future state champ. Schenke just did a fine job."

Belleville suffered a minor setback at 148 when Bellboy Robert Villano struggled to a tie with Bob Waldron. Though it did give the team some points, Pascack Hills also gained, putting the challengers in a precarious point position.

Virtually all of the remaining wrestlers for Belleville had to win, and the pressure on each boy was mounting with each second.

Chris Tremel came through in the clutch for his team, and picked up some big points by pinning Steve Bessette at 2:50 to win the 158 pound round.

Keith Waddell also added zip to the team momentum by winning a major decision over Jim Thorsland, 9-1 to give his squad four points.

Late in Waddell's 170 battle, it looked as though he would win a simple decision. His opponent was successful in staying off the pin, and would not give up the point necessary for Waddell to gain the advantage he needed. Coach Silvestri quickly ordered his wrestler to let the other man get up and took a chance Waddell could score the take down. He succeeded, and Belleville got another big boost.

Ken Milano had to win the 188 pound match if the Blue-Gold tangles were to have a shot at winning. He rose to the occasion magnificently by scoring a 6-0 decision over Roy Barudin.

That left everything up to George D'Alessandro at heavyweight.

Coach Silvestri has said before he believes D'Alessandro really thrives under pressure instead of cracking. The big man proved the coach's point by taking to the mat, even though he was ill, and slapping his Cowboy opponent. Howie Lindstrom, on to his back at 3:24.

The gymnasium exploded as the referee signalled the win. D'Alessandro put out so much effort in the match, he had to be carried into the locker room.

While the Belleville team was rejoicing in the showers, the Pascack team, including the coach, broke down in the lockerroom. Their dreams of a new state record for straight wins had melted before their eyes, that destruction signaled by a single slap of an official's hand.

The victory gave the Blue-Gold grapplers win number 13 of the season. Last week, the team defeated Caldwell decisively, 47-12.

Th terms only defeat of the season came at the hands of Essex Catholic, a squad the Bellboys will see again in the upcoming Essex County tournament and the state title battles to come.

DYLAN'S 'DESIRE': from 'Hurricane' to Emmylou

By ANTHONY BUCCINO

I must have written this review over a hundred times. Sitting at a hard wood desk in a grey mist in the middle of a thousand different things happening. Bob Dylan's "Desire" isn't the easiest new album to review, nor is it the easiest to listen to.

We waited over two months for this album to appear. When it finally did, it took us another month to begin enjoying it. Unlike Dylan's "Blood On The Tracks," released about a year ago, "Desire" is not as quick to the heart.

Unable to discard the unfavorable reviews Dylan received with his "Self-Portrait" album, released in 1970, we wanted to give "Desire" time to grow on us. With a little time under their belts, the reviewers of "Self-Portrait" learned ultimately that Dylan was ahead of his time. We did not want to make that mistake.

The much celebrated "Hurricane" is a shot in the arm to Dylan's story telling. For instance, in the early part of the song after we find the "bartender in a pool of blood" there is a "man named Bellow moving around mysteriously." "I didn't do it, he says. I was just robbing the register, I hope you understand." Only robbing the register? It's hard to believe he was only robbing the register, not the least bit interested in the three dead (dying) people.

Patty Valentine seems to be thrown in the middle of it. She didn't see what happened but goes along with what the mystery man, Bellow, says. It might pass for shock treatment, but the injustice is set into motion.

Dylan takes us through the bigoted efforts of the Paterson police. "In Paterson, that's just the way it goes, if you're black, you might as well not show." The police wanted Carter, "We want to pin this triple murder on him he ain't no Gentleman Jim."

If there is any doubt in the listener's mind as to Rubin's innocence, Dylan puts it all into perspective. "The trial," says Dylan/Levy, "was a big circus...how can the life of such a man be in the palm of some fool's hand?" Wouldn't you feel "ashamed to live in a land where justice is a game?"

We all want to see murders brought to justice-but innocent men framed, that's not what America is about. Rubin "Hurricane" Carter may have been the "Champion of the World" but we'll never know until he is vindicated and "given back the time he's done."

"Romance in Durango" should have been found on the "Pat Garrett and Billy The Kid" soundtrack. Somewhere along the line it was dedicated to Sam Pekinph. We should have guessed there'd be something like this, though we hoped there "wouldn't be. "Romance in Durango" doesn't have much going for it except two beers, it's "ready for the broom."

When we hear "Joey" we think of Peter Boyle in the title role, standing in front of cases of Gallo wine. "Joey" is an eleven minute venture into the underworld. It is a quaint dirge with sharp turns of phrases.

The most familiar Dylan music to be heard on "Desire" is on "Black Diamond Bay." Similar in melody to "Lily Rosemary And The Jack Of Hearts," "Black Diamond Bay" describes the goings-on in two days on a volcanic french island.

There is the futility of a Greek who wants "some rope and a pen that will write." The woman of the story passes his door reading a "do not disturb" sign. She goes in as he says not to. She wants to talk to someone, he just kicks away the chair and hangs from the chandelier. She cries, "There's danger near!" Before the song is over, the volcano erupts and we're whisked back to L.A. and "Old Cronkite" ready for the moral of the story.

Dylan's harmonica leads off "Sara." "Sara" describes Dylan's wife, a former model as "so easy to look at, so hard to define." Scattered stories in the press reveal their marriage isn't what it used to be. Dylan would certainly be hard-put to replace the loss of his "radiant jewel."

Mrs. Dylan does not seem to fit the "Sad-Eyed Lady of the Lowlands" image. She never seemed the type to have "match book songs" and "gypsy hymns." She may have "flesh like silk" but what about a "magazine husband who one day just had to go?" "Sad-Eyed Lady Of The Lowlands" would sooner fit Joan Baez than Sarah Lowndes Dylan. We write the allusion off as another Dylan put-on. The balance of the song is most reverent.

With intimations of "I Don't Believe You" and "Ballad In Plain D," "One More Cup Of Coffee" flows in crisp descriptive images. "Loyalty not to me but to the stars above." Just "one more cup of coffee before I go to the valley below." A father who is street-wise, a soothsayer for a sister, a heart like an ocean, "Mysterious and dark." That's more like Sarah. This song, like another cup of coffee is an excuse for staying a few more minutes.

"Oh, Sister" is almost religious, high in pious reasoning. Scarlet Rivera here, as throughout "Desire," is excellent on violin; she seems to tell a story behind each song. "Oh Sister" is Dylan reserved, "You may not see me tomorrow."

Emmylou Harris and Ronee Blakely work wonders in the background—vocals pleasantly balancing Bob Dylan's troubadour voice. Jacques Levy's hand in the writing of most of these songs is hard to trace. If he could bring more of Dylan's music to us, we'd surely grow to love him too.

Who better to write the jacket notes ("Songs Of Redemption") for folk music's best known poet than the poet laureate of another generation—none other than Allen Ginsberg.

Ginsberg captures the spirit of the music and the aura of the "Rolling Thunder Revenue." Written virtually in 'spontaneous prose' as taught at the "Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics," these jacket notes will prove tricky reading for the untrained. It's like a paragraph in morse code five miles long.

Dollars and sense laid the foundation for fortunes.
