On top again

Tom Testa, the man who directed the efforts of the Blue-Gold varsity grid squad last year got the nod from the Board of Education this week, and will be back in the coach's slot come the fall. There was some question as to whether or not Testa would be renamed, and the final official decision is yet to come. Indications are, however, he will be on the field for BHS.

Senatore, Saletta will defy court

By CHUCK JACKSON

Despite a court order to appropriate funds for a revaluation, Commissioners Mary Senatore and Rocco Saletta said they would again vote no on the resolution, leaving themselves open to contempt of court charges.

Superior Court Judge Arthur Blake issued the order last week, directing the Commission to pass the resolution which would appropriate $149,000 to pay for revaluation. As of late Tuesday, Town Attorney John Scott had not yet received a copy of the order, but he said he believed the Board would have to act before the end of this month.

At least four of Belleville's five Commissioners must vote in favor of the motion in order for it to pass. Early this year, Commissioners Senatore and Saletta blocked the appropriation by voting "no." Public Affairs Director Vincent

Renting law up for hearing

The Belleville Board of Commissioners will hold a public hearing April 27 on the town's Rent Leveling Ordinance, passed on first reading at that group's March 23 meeting. The ordinance, which praces limita-

The ordinance, which praces limitations on the amount a landlord may increase rent, was passed unanimously only after a provision which would have extended the Rent Leveling Board's power to two-family homes was taken out. Unless changed, the law will cover structures housing three or more families.

Though the Commissioners voted unanimously for the amended ordinance, their reasons for doing so were, in some cases, not altogether clear. Interviewed this week by the Times/News, several of the Commissioner's had difficulty in recalling exactly why the two-family provision was struck down.

Commissioner Rocco Saletta said two family homes were not included because, "there might be a problem in a situation where a man rents part of his home to one of his relatives." According to the ordinance, if a Strumolo voted in favor of it, providing the move became court ordered.

Contacted Tuesday, Mrs. Senatore and Saletta bath indicated they had not changed their positions. Mrs. Senatore added, "I am going to vote no again. Let them take us to court and give us a chance to have our say."

Town Attorney Scott said if the resolution is defeated again, the members who cast the negative votes could be found in contempt.

"The parties who vote against the appropriation of the money," said Scott, "will be held in contempt, which could carry imprisonment or a fine."

Scott said he "would not speculate" on whether a citation would result in imprisonment fac the two officials, but he added, "Judge Blake would not take this lightly. He might be severe in contempt proceedings."

Commissioner Senatore said she did not believe she would be jailed for refusal to obey the order. "How could they throw us in jail when we haven't had a chance to argue out the case? I don't believe it will happen if we go to court and make our positions known." Please see "Commissioners" on page 24.

Testa reappointed

Belleville High School's head football coach, Tom Testa will be officially reappointed to that post at the next Board of Education meeting, the Times/News has learned.

Testa met with the Board Monday, night in a private session, and it has been learned the group voted in caucus to reappoint him.

"I just got the word," Testa said Tuesday, "and I am very happy it ended the way it did."

Rumors have been circulating for some time indicating several Schoolers opposed the coach's retu'rn. Reappointment of the coach was scheduled to be made a month after the season ended. The reason for the delay was never made entirely clear.

Sources said Testa had been asked for his resignation prior to this week's meeting, and asked to see the Board as a result. Board members said they did not want to reveal how the vote on the reappointment broke down, but it was learned the approval came on a 4-3 vote.

At least one member of the Board was dissatisfied with the group's action and indicated the matter may not end here.

Most of the Schoolers, however, expressed relief over the final decision. "It's time to move on to other more important things," said Lawrence Schwarz. "The Board and the town should not be crystalized over the appointment of the football coach. The issue is closed."

This is the second time Testa's reappointment as coach has caused a minor furor. Last year, several parents and fans asked for the coach's removal, and Testa at one point threatened legal action against some of the people who spoke

The vote last year on the issue was identical to the most recent, 4-3.

Planners to discuss re-zoning Valley area

The Belleville Planning Board will meet in Town Hall tonight at 7:30 p.m. to discuss a possible zoning change in the Valley section of town, the Times/News has learned.

Though no specific details have been released, Board Chairman Joseph Grande said there is a developer interested in the Eastwood Nealley Company property on Joralemon Street in the Valley, Grande said the builder is conthe group would consider recommending the change only if the members are assured the property will be used strictly for business purposes.

"We do not want any industry and no apartments. It would have to be strictly business. We do not want any fly-bynight industries coming in there."

The Commissioners themselves could initiate a zoning change, it was noted, but they would then send it to the Planner sidering buying the land only if the area is changed from an "A" residential zone to a business zone.

According to the Board chairman, the developer "does not want to reveal his identity until he sees how things are progressing." Grande said he was approached by the man, who has a local office, and asked to determine the Planners' attitude towards a zone change.

The area in question is in the same area of the proposed shopping center on the site of the Active Oil property. Construction of that shopping center has not yet begun, but developer John Rawson said he hopes to have work underway perhaps within the next two months.

The Eastwood Nealley factory is now operating under a zoning variance as a non-conforming use structure. Should the facilities there be razed, the land would revert back to an "A" residential zone. The interested buyer would like to see the area rezoned for commercial use. The Planning Board does not have the power to change the zoning for the area, but could make a recommendation to the Board of Commissioners favoring the change. The Commissioners might then pass an ordinance making the switch,

According to Grande, the Town Fathers could reject the Planners' recommendations, but, he added, "they are usually very receptive to our suggestions."

Grande also noted Mayor Marotti and Commissioner Saletta would be at tonight's meeting "so the Board will get an idea as to how the Commissioners feel about a change in the zoning." The Planning Board chairman said for review.

Grande termed the Board's discussion of the requested zoning change "one of the most important things on our agenda." He said the group hoped to have some of the details of the developer's plan by tonight, but he said it would not be

More openness is still needed

The Belleville Board of Commissioners recently passed on first reading a renewal of the Town's Rent Leveling Ordinance. Though there were some minor modifications in the statute, it will essentially remain as it was.

Unfortunately, the Commissioners chose not to broaden the power of the Rent Leveling Board by extending its control to two-family homes. In fact, the Commissioners struck the proposed extension from the ordinance without any public debate whatsoever.

While the Town Fathers may have legitimate reasons for refusing to extend the law to two-family homes, it is unfortunate indeed they did not choose to make those reasons clear to the public.

Some members of the community and at least one member of the Rent Leveling Board have indicated the law's failure to cover two-family homes is discriminatory. Others simply wonder why the Board will not extend the coverage.

These matters should be dealt with openly. Simply striking the provision from the ordinance without public discussion and debate does nothing to enhance the Commission's reputation as a frank and open body.

We urge citizens to attend the Board's April 27 public hearing on the ordinance and make their feelings known. Whether the two-family provision is ultimately included or excluded is perhaps less important than a public discussion of the Commissioners' reasoning.

Guest editorial

In this bicentennial year, we people, who always tell the dwell on our nation's heritage. As the Pilgrims founded our country on dreams, 200 years ago, the Colonists declared their independence and fought a Revolutionary War to gain their dreams of liberty.

Since the beginning of America, this land became a melting pot of the world. People of all nations continue to come to 'our shores in search of their impossible dreams.

We, the young citizens of 1976, also have dreams of the future in our country. So, in this bicentennial year, we also look to the horizons of the United States of America.

Therefore, we, the Cub Scouts of Pack 307, Belleville, N.J., challenge all to the following eight articles. We not only outline what we wish for the adults to begin today, but also pledge ourselves as well, for the day after tomorrow.

- 1. Education More and better physical education, to keep us healthy, and to comply with the nation's physical fitness program.
- Better schools and education facilities for all.
- Proper training and materials 7. Transportation

- Lower the speed limits, especially on highways.
- Lower doctor's and hospitalbills.

Bring back capital punishment.

Stronger laws and stiffer penalties for all crimes. Enforce the laws.

Some must bear the burden

To the Editor: Municipal taxes are once again the subject of talk for the townspeople of this fair community Mentors ponder in smoke filled rooms, paring monies from every possible area so as to make an increase more pallatable to the already over-burdened property owner

Reduced services, hiring freezes, cuts in the school budget and applying surplus funds are all familiar phrases to the taxpayer. But somehow, there never seems to be enough of them to reduce the tax burden and the public outery is always the same

"The Commissioners this and the Commissioners that and the public be damned" are heard ever so often at the public budget hearings by irate citizens, showing, in the only way they know how, their discontent.

But what of all this? Where does the responsibility really rest?

Perhaps if we, the tax paying property owner, stopped to look at out town," we would find that we are really an old town with structures dating back 1800's that are still in use as public buildings. We would also find that we are an over-elementary schooled town with 10 said structures to support each year. Approximate costs for these buildings are $125,000 a year, regardless of the student population, be it one or 100 students. It still must be heated, lighted, maintained, have adequate washroom facilities, hot and cold water included.

Why then not do away with some of these buildings, and consolidate the students into nearby schools?

Why? Because the neighborhood of the affected school would not stand for it, but would be the first to say out taxes are too high and vote against the budget because they feared an increase.

All of Belleville pays the increase in taxes that supports our schools and it isa town that stands united when another Bellevilleite is in need.

It is now for both Schools Two and Nine to shoulder the burden of these questions

"Can I, as a Bellevilleite, ease the strain of taxes on my neighbor and myself by allowing my children to be absorbed in nearby schools, since we have the lowest number of students per building'

A most nefarious, illegal practice is subtley being indulged in by unethical individuals or persons whereby money refunds from large corporations for purchase of their products by return of labels or cover tops entitles the buyer to a refund, in some cases a dollar bill, is being stolen by tearing open the side of the senders' envelope and fishing out the dollar while leav-ing the other contents intact.

In most every incident of this nature, the theft of money is perpetrated before actual delivery of the corporation's letter to the person who is entitled to the refund. While the company acted in good faith and sent the refund as promised, the recipient gets only the enclosed notice of their refund without the money.

This is annoying and indeed harmful to the corporation which had attempted to fulfill its commitment. No doubt, it would have been wiser and safer had the refund been sent in the form of a check rather than cash, however, it still does not justify the serious offense of tampering with the United States Mails.

Once it became known that a large batch of this mail was to be placed in the mails containing money, it became easy prey for any un-scrupulous employee of either the corporation or the postal department

Anyone who might be victimized by this flagrant fraud, and it does occur, should im-mediately notify both the sending corporation and the postal authorities. Complaint forms are available at all post offices and a call to the nearest postal inspector's office, in this area Newark, will receive prompt attention.

It isn't the individually small sum involved, but collectively could possible involve thou-sands of dollars and likewise, it must be stopped by stern punitive action to discourage the disrespect for the sanctity of the United States mail's dependability. All good citizens should be concerned about that. If you get "hit" notify the proper authorities at once. It's your duty and we may catch the crooks.

While our busy legislators are cooking up ways to spend money and raise our contribution towards the sky-rocketing cost of government by higher taxes for all of us, it would be a good thing if they gave some serious thought to inding a sensible solution tothe horrendous problem besetting senior citizens and the elder-ly confronted with long term catastrophic il-lness, which, for the old-and the poor, offers a crushing financial burden.

After 90 days, Medicare is shut off. Then, to get Medicare, the elderly must first run through their life's savings, even in some cases to the extent of requiring the hospitalized patient pay the hospital the major portion of his or her social security check.

Every year, with modern medical care and soaring hospital costs, more people undergo treatment that severely taxes their financial stability by forcing most into debt. A long hospital stay can make an individual a poverty - dependent upon welfare or charity.

Many bills have been introduced in Congress and in State Legislatures that would provide aid to such individuals, but few have been approved to bring relief from this dreaded nightmare confronting the aged — a prolonged illness imposing an impossible financial burden.

Most insurance plans have limits. Some npanies have plans that boost benefits to $250,000 and beyond, but the price is high and the elderly, the most likely victims, are ineligi-

The law requires that the individual be at the poerty level after Medicare runs out after 90 days before becoming eligible for medicade. The law should be changed now to erase this unreasonable requirement. It works an unconhospitalized individual, but also produces a ripple emotional strain on the entire family Finances are drained and the strain becomes corrosive, producing a harmful atmosphere throughout. The time to correct this situation is

PLAYHOUSE REVIEW ast fits 'Brown' to a tee

By JOSEPH RYAN

Fans of the Charles Schulz comic strip "Peanuts" should be pleased by the Family Playhouse production of "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown."

The musical in two acts presents Schulz's main characters in comic strip fashion, short four-panel vignettes, and longer Sunday edition situations.

The episodic nature of the play could be a hindrance to the show but director Ray Napolitano keeps the pace of the show fast and handles the constant entrances and exits of the players smoothly

Bob Molloy ably portrays Charlie Brown with open-eyed expectation and a sense of the depressed five year-old who can admit his own dog doesn't like him. Molloy is especially entertaining in the lunchtime scene when Charlie Brown agonizes over talking to the red-haired girl. Both Molloy and director Napolitano are to be credited with keeping Charlie Brown within character. Molloy's portrayal displays a sense of ensemble acting that prevents the "utterly blah" title character from dominating the show

Helen Steblecki's performance as Lucy delightful. Steblecki's tantrums as the perpetually scowling Lucy are comic high points throughout the play. Lucy's songs are sung by Steblecki with a strong voice and a winning whine suitable to the character. Steblecki keeps Lucy's misanthropy entertaining throughout the evening

Snoopy, Charlie Brown's dog, has practically become a national emblem in the last few years and Darrell Carey fills the role with energy and style. Carey, singing and dancing Snoopy's supertime number, performs the musical highpoint of the play. It's easy for the audience to identify with the daydreaming dog's life when Carey laments, "there's so little hope for advancement.

Bob Strauch is Lucy's younger brother Linus. Linus, a character who is wise beyond his years, is portrayed by Strauch with a bit of wordly sarcasm that comes with wisdom. Strauch sings a broadway type production number, "My Blanket and Me" in which Linus is particularily ingratiating

Vicki Guarino is engaging and in good voice as the enthusiastic Patty and Jim Alden rounds out the capable cast as Schroeder, who is beset by a love-sick Lucy

The closing song "Happiness" is the most familiar number in the play but the music of Clark Gesner is not a stong point of the show. It's the spirit of Schulz's characters and their able portrayal that keeps the Playhouse production alive.

Bob Molloy's set design, Ed Brashear's costumes, and Dan Drew's lighting design are all in keeping with the comic strip origins of Charlie Brown and his friends.

The musical accompaniment directed by Carol Gahart wth Gene Parciasepe is a pleasant blend of keyboards and percussion.

It was good to see children in the theater and hear them enjoying "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown." The show at the Family Playhouse will continue its' run April 8, 9, and 10 at 8 p.m. and April 10 at 3 p.m.

Gospel in accord with Mount Laurel

By David F. Moore

Many New Jersey towns find land-use regulation by judicial decision a nightmare. It's what's happening, though, under the Gospel in Accord with Mount Laurel, a township where Supreme Court Justice Frederick Hall ruled against allegedly exclusionary zoning, he had to work with the facts available only in Mount Laurel, and more questions were raised than answered.

The process of land-use regulation under existing law isn't too complicated to an enlightened planner, if one can be found. Three rules apply: (1) Natural resources are essential to human health, safety and welfare. (2) Nobody is entitled to foul somebody else's nest. (3) Many nestfouling systems can be corrected, but financial and technical limitations exist. Here's the five-step process: First, to accommodate any kind of land use, one must catalog existing natural resources. Second, determine standards so as not to cause water and air pollution affecting others. Third, determine the number of people which can be accommodated within the financial limits imposed in overcoming pollution problems. Fourth, count those already using the resources and subtract them from the total: Fifth, arrange according to Mount Laurel, without discrimination, the people on the land in accord with the number we've arrived at Complicating the process are attitudes like "We don't want those kinds of people." or "I'm here, everybody else stay away." Even worse is the Gospel in Accord with St. Dollar — "If I own land I can make money with it regardless of its character or whose health is damaged."

In a hypothetical example, a township has its complement of housing, industry and green space, perhaps former farmland. Development-leading public facilities are already on the scene, like college and highwaysound

What that township obviously needs, and quickly, is a master plan, zoning ordinances and environmental standards ordinances. The master plan is a key to providing healthy living conditions for a reasonable number of people, without adversely affecting others in the region, and without discriminating against anybody, as we learn from the Sermon on the Mount (Laurel).

A little study will prove to us that the final master plan should hinge chiefly on physical quality, health, social and economic factors. Those physical features are water, both in streams and underground, air, topography, geology, soils, geography, vegetation and wildlife, and cultural features. In other words, they are the natural resources mentioned earlier.

Bellevilleite becomes author

The hobby of a Belleville man will result in the publication this spring of his novelette, "A Story of Baloney with Beans & Macaroni.

Edward DiGirolamo, 32, said he began writing the book in the late 1960's but put it aside until the Watergate affair provided the impetus for him to com-plete the work. Watergate was instrumental in DiGirolamo returning to the particular to some the 60 DiGirolamo returning to the project because the 60-page novella concerns "recognizable characters" from American politics.

Tricky Dick, Uncle Jerry, Tony the plumber, and Howard Cowbell are among the characters who might be recognized by DiGirolamo's readers. According to DiGiolamo, the story involves the court case of Tony the plumber, who has been brought to trial for not fixing leaks. DiGirolamo said the book has been subtitled "a fiasco" because the book "is a farce, there's no end to it," nobody gets the real message of anything.

Politicians are a subject of the book, DiGirolamo said, because "they deserve to be made fun of just by the way they operate." DiGirolamo pointed to the current primary campaigning of the candidates and said, "I think it's a shame they are back to their old ways, knocking one another instead of making sense." DiGirolamo said he started writing as a hobby when he was in the Navy. In the last thirteen years his leisure time activity has produced two other unpublished novels. one of which DiGirolamo said, concerns his experiences in the Navy. The Belleville author added he is currently at work on a play, "about a bachelor who gets involved . with three women.

Although he has no favorite authors in particular, DiGirolamo said he had been impressed by Swift's "Gulliver Travels" and the writing styles of Ross MacDonald. Vladimir Nabakov, and Alexander Solzhenitsyn.

"The Gulag Archipelago" by Solzhenitsyn is recom-mended by DiGirolamo. He added, "I think everyone should read the Solzhenitsyn book. "I don't think the people know what went on in Russia, he tells it all and that's why they kicked him out of the country.

Unpublished writers should work at improving their style by reading more and writing more, according to DiGirolamo. He advised young writers not to worry about getting published, "if way do, you've got to have a lot or patience."

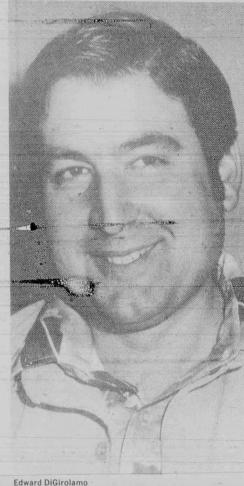

Even though he has a book about to be published, DiGworamo said he intends to keep his writing as a hobby. "Fiction will always be a sideline. It's a world of make-believe and not that important. It shouldn't be your only goal." DiGirolamo added he thinks business and his job are more important than his creative hobby.

A lifetime resident of Belleville, DiGirolamo said he likes the town and the people of Belleville. "I've got no complaints about Belleville. Whatever has to be done is going to cost money and the people will have to pay for he added.

DiGirolamo is proprietor of Tony's Parking Lot in Newark and lives at 52 Baldwin Place with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony DiGirolamo. He is a member of Holy Family Church and belongs to the Newark YMCA and the Singles Unity Club of Bloomfield.

He is a 1970 graduate of Bloomfield College with a degree in business administration and an alumna of Belleville High School, class of 1962.

We must all, as citizens of this town, start to rebuild a town that is for all the people and pause to re-examine the unnecessary services that we demand.

A call to arms

To The Editor:

The people of Belleville have lost faith in our-town officials - Mayor Marotti and the Commissioners. We have no respect for them anymore. Now there is a growing hate because they are taking so much advantage of us!

Assemblyman Michael Adubato warned them at the last Commission meeting, telling them how the people of Belleville feel. We have come to the end of our endurance!

If they think they can raise our taxes again and go on splurging with our money and go on with this type of management, they better watch out.

There are organizations like the Citizens' Union and also "BIC" that will help the people put an end to their raising of our property taxes again before May J. They have no reason or right to do that anymore. I urge the people to attend the Commissioners' budget meeting at Belféville High School April 13 at 7:30 p.m. We home owners protest another tax in-

Reacting to a special county order issued that previous Tuesday, the Belleville Board of Commissioners unanimously defeated a local revaluation ordinance, defusing what was fast becoming a major preelection issue.

Facing a capacity crowd of troubled citizens at the meeting, Mayor Joseph McGreevy announced an indefinite postponement of local real estate revaluation. Belleville was not one of four towns ordered by the Essex County Board of Taxation to begin revaluation immediate-IV.

In that light, the Mayor said that they would wait until they were ordered to do SO.

Belleville's 13.official Commission candidates were to be assigned ballot positions as the campaign narrowed.

Though four of the 17 Bellevillites who took out nominating petitions apparently backed down, all five incumbent Commissioners and eight challengers were officially entered in the race.

As of the filing deadline, the names on the ballots would be: Mayor Joseph McGreevy, Commissioners Michael Marotti, Mary V. Senatore, Vincent Strumolo and Robert Laterza: Nicholas Raimo, Frank Bambo, Caesar Romano, Patrick J. Lee, Rocco Saletta, Rev. Prince Hamilton, Joseph Domanti and Kenneth Smith.

Still regarded a front-runners, by the many political observers in town were McGreevy and Laterza.

Twenty-two candidates were in the field in the election for Water Commissioner They were: John J. Hanne, Edward Livingston, Edward Mathes, John DeGraw, LeRoy Vermeule, Joseph Pico, Henry Mason, Harvey Thompson, Charles Schick, Eugene Kirwin, Louis Galluba, Samuel Kenworthy, Frank Carragher, Frank Neary, John Brown, James Batty, George Daniels, Henry Wilson, Charles Denison and George Yarrow.

Since August of 1975, I have experienced the same problem. I have repeatedly called the Water Department, the Board of Health and the Public Works Department. All to no avail. Each claimed it was not their problem. I was told to get a plumber, which I did. He checked all the pipes throughout the house and said there was nothing wrong with them.

I was then told to have my machine checked, that perhaps oil was leaking into the system somewhere. The clothes actually look like there is dirt and oil on them. We had our machine serviced and were told there was nothing wrong there either. The Public Works Department claimed it was not their problem because it did not affect my neighbors at the same time. The Board of Health claims it is not their responsibility.I told them it is the same water we use for drinking and cooking. I guess unless there is an outbreak of cholera they will not do anything about it.

I live in a two family house. The tenant has a baby. All new baby clothes, after being washed, looked as though they were handed down for generations.

I feel other people in Belleville are experiencing the same thing, and Valley Street is not near Mary Street where I live. I am not looking for reimbursement, even though I have a great loss of clothes ruined each time I wash. All I want is something done so I don't have to worry that each time I wash something it may be ruined.

Isn't there something that can be done? Mrs. Jerry Lemongello 87 Mary Street spectacular Cherry Blossom Parade and other events will salute the nation's Bicentennial in Branch Brook Park on Sunday, April 25. Numerous floats, bands and attractions will represent various organizations, businesses and agencies in the largest Cherry Blossom parade in several years.

Combined with the parade, an art exhibit featuring local talent, a oneman musicale and an antique car show will be held in the park.

The parade, kicking off at 1 p.m. at Academy Street and Washington Avenue will follow Mill Street, enter the park and exit at Mill Street and Franklin Avenue. In prior years the parade remained on Washington Avenue

The art exhibit, coordinated by Barrie Shafter, won applause last year when displayed adjacent to Town Hall. The park setting, increased entries and a competition should heighten this year's event. Frank Zappo, who has appeared in Belleville with a one-man bi-centennial musical program for children, will present a special show following the parade. Zappo also plans to march in the parade with the Belleville Public Library Entry.

The Garden State Regional Group of the Early Ford V-8 Club of America will also display approx. 40 vintage automobiles and drive in the parade.

Coordinated by the Belleville Jaycees, parade planning involves several community groups this year. Co-sponsors are the Town of Bel-leville and the Belleville Bi-Centennial Commission.

According to Gregory Talbot, president of the Belleville Jaycees, the chapter coordinated recent parades with assistance from Town Hall secretaries Irene Decker and Pat Verian.

A This year, because of the nature and scope of the parade, we asked other groups to join with the Jaycees to make this a truly town-wide effort," said Talbot.

Reverend Frederick Long, Bicentennial Commission chairman, describes the parade ad the "focal point" of the town's celebration and urges everyone to participate.

'The Cherry Blossom parade is such an important event in Belleville's tradition," said Rev. Long, "that a separate parade for the Bi-centennial would not be as historically significant.

The parade, officially dedicated to the Bicentennial culminates a week of other activities honoring the

BHS crew squad clobbers Kardinals

BY JOSEPH RYAN

The Bellboys of the Passaic defeated river rival Kearny last Saturday when the varsity shell crossed the finish 8.5 seconds in front of the Kardinal crew

Yesterday, the Belleville rowers took on Blessed Sacrament but the results were in too late for this edition of the Times/News.

This Saturday, the Blue-Gold boaters will travel to Philadelphia to meet Harriton on the Schuylkill River. Coach Sam Giuffrida notes the entire four-man shell is returning for Harriton and says he expects Harriton to provide tough competition

The roving BHS rowers will then return to home shores to face cross town rival Nutley, next Wednesday, in their fourth race in twelve days. Nutley is the defending Goodwill champion and Giuf-frida expects the team to be "one of the better teams we face all season." Giuffrida adds, "Nutley has the edge in maturity." Seven of last year's varsity eight are returning and Giuffrida says the team is well coached.

In comparing the Belleville eight to the Nutley shell in their results against Kearny, Giuffrida notes the BHS boat was 3 seconds ahead of the 5 second Nutley win over Kearny. Giuffrida says he isn't counting the time advantage in Belleville's favor and expects the match to be a close race. "It all depends on how well we can accept the challenge.

The Bellboy varsity successfully livedup to the challenge last Saturday by defeating the Kearny crew to win the first dual meet of the season. Giuffrida praised his varsity for a "very good, very smooth race." The crew coach referred to the fact the meet was the first varsity race. for sophomores, Doug Dorval and Joe Donnamaria, and said he was pleased with their efforts.

Kearny started the race with a slight lead over Belleville for the first 10 to 15 strokes. Giuffrida said the BHS boat started at 45 strokes per minute and lowered down to racing strokes at a rate of 34 to 35 strokes per minute.

At the first quarter-mile the Blue-Gold shell had gained a deck lead of six or seven feet, according to Giuffrida. Halfway thru the course the Belleville shell opened up a full length lead on the Kardinal crew. In the last half of the course the Bellboys solidified their lead to win by 8.5 seconds, a full two and a half boat lengths.

The decision to row the race against Kearny at a 34 stroke per minute pace was made early in the week, Giuffrida Continued on page 14.

Bellboys lack stick attack

The lack of the big hit has been a problem in the Bellboy offense as it split its first two games of the season.

Tuesday, the Belleville nine chalkedtheir first victory of the season defeating East Orange, 5-1. Irvington defeated the Bellboy squad last Friday in the season's opener, 1-0.

Following Tuesday's victory over East Orange, coach George Zanfini said the Bellboys were a good team defensively, "but we can't expect to win consistently if we're not hitting the ball."

The coach also said he is pleased with the pitching staff. He credited junior Anthony Gammaro with "pitching very well." Gammaro gave up three hits and one run while striking out seven to post his first win of the year.

Frank Mozeika was singled out by goach Zanfini as the Belleville ballplayer who is hitting the ball better than anybody. Other than Mozeika, Zanfini said the rest of the team is making contact with the ball but not hitting it solidly The Bellboys did put together a string of hits in the fourth inning of the East

Orange game that scored four runs. In the fifth, Mozeika doubled in Anthony Speer for the fifth Bellboy run. Zanfini said the first win was pleasant for the team but he was still waiting for the BHS bats to start connecting. "I know they can hit," he added. "It's just one of those things."

It happened again last Friday. Petite was on the mound firing a two-hitter against Irvington without giving up a single earned run. Score it another defeat, the Bellboys and Petite lost the game 1-0

Coach Zanfini called the game a heartbreaker. "We've got to learn to take the good with the bad, but I thought we were a better ball club than they were.' Zanfini added, "the bus coming home on Friday was not a happy scene. You could see the true ballplayers on the bus. They were hurt and I was hurt.

The game was lost in the bottom of the seventh when Petite had two outs on the Campers with runners on first and second. Then the Belleville nine lost the game on what Zanfini called a routine

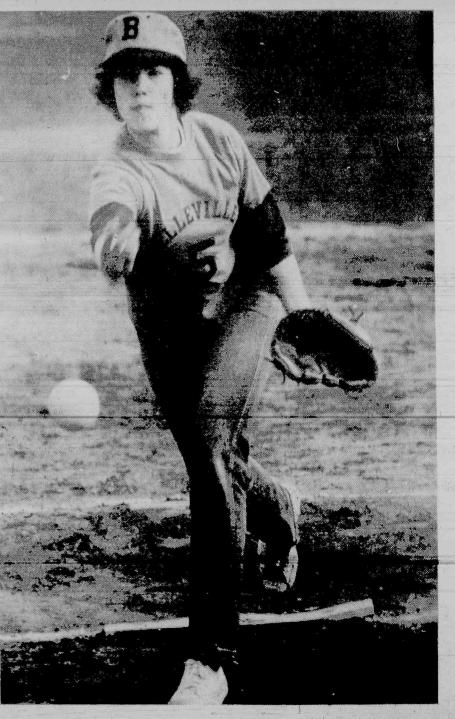

"Excalibur"

Above, the Belleville varsity eight shell knifes its way through the Passaic toward victory at last Saturday's meet against Kearny. The new boat was presented to the team by the Board of Education and christened prior to the opening meet. The crew team named the shell "Excalibur" after the legendary sword of King Arthur, Racing in "Excalibur" for the first time, the Bellboys proved invincible.

Bellgirl Brady

Senior Sharon Brady pitched the entire game in the Bellgirl victory over Irvington last Friday. Coach Eve Lautenschlager said Brady's performance in the 21-9 victory earned her a permanent spot on the pitching staff.

Tracksters whip WO

The delayed Belleville track season finally got off to a start with a three point victory over West Orange Tuesday. The Blue-Gold took eight first places in the fourteen event dual meet at West Orange to compile 621/2 points, three more than the West Orange 591/2 total. On Tuesday, the Belleville runners and jumpers will compete at Montclair and prepare for the Big Ten Relays next Tuesday, at Nutley.

The season was delayed for Belleville when their opening dual meet against Nutley was rained out. Track coach Rich

The games weren't fine examples of style and execution but the Bellgirls softhall team won their first two contests of Ruffalo said the team was able to use the extra days working out, "which is what we need

The work outs must have helped because Tuesday's win over West Orange was close and the cindermen had been beaten last year by West Orange.

The Blue-Gold runners and jumpers took eight events for first place points. Coach Ruffalo said the strength of the team throughout the season will depend on the team depth, how many second and third place points are scored. Bellboy Fran Morel was the high scorer of the day for the Blue-Gold. Morel took firsts in the discus, with a 123 foot 6 inch throw, and in the pole vault, jumping 10 feet, 6 inches. Third place in the long jump was also taken by Morel and he finished with a team high of 11 points

Doug Jackson tallied eight points for he Bellboys by taking first in the broad jump and finishing third in the long jump. Jim Del Guerchio won the 100-yard dash in 11.3 seconds and finished third in the 220. Coach Ruffalo is encouraged by Del Guerchio's results because Del Guerchio is a senior but a first year track man.

Friday at Irvington was not a happy occasion Bellboy pitcher, Greg Petite had faced the Campers for a total of 17 innings last to a loss in Petite's pitching record.

the season

Tuesday the Blue-Gold defeated East Orange, 24-16, in a gome in which both teams combined to make 49 errors. Last Friday, the diamond Bellgirls downed Irvington, 21-9.

Tomorrow, the diamonders play at Kearny, a team that defeated the Blue-Gold in two meetings last year. Next Tuesday, the Bellgirls will face Bloomfield at home. Coach Eve Lautenschlager looks for serious competition to begin with both games.

Following the Bellgirl victory over East Orange this week, coach Lautenschlager said in reference to the lopsided victories of the first two games, there's been no competition" to give the Bellgirls any experience. The coach added, it's been difficult to get one set defense organized."

Lautenschlager said she was encouraged by the play of the freshmen and sophomores on the team. The coach added the young Bellgirls showed more competitiveness and hustle than the more experienced players.

The game at Kearny on Friday is looked to by Lautenschlager as "the opener of the season." The coach said she expected to start Sharon Brady on the mound against the Kardinals.

The Bellgirls won their official season opener last Friday by defeating a rookie Irvington squad, 21-9.

Coach Lautenschlager said it was difficult to assess the effectiveness of the Blue-Gold talent because the Irvingtooum had neveqyed together as a unit before the game against Belleville.

The nine hits by Belleville only topped the livington total by three and coach Lautenschlager credited the alert baserunning by the Bellgirls with the difference in scoring.

said. He added he was pleased his first boat held the pace and "didn't panic.

Giuffrida said his varsity has "matured very fast" as far as learning racing technique. He noted the varsity eight "knew they had the race in control and stayed calm."

After watching the Bellboy eight in their first race of the year, Giuffrida calls them a crew that is strong in power and technique. He says they are a young boat with a good race sense and adds, "we haven't peaked yet at all.'

The Belleville shells that are even younger than the varsity did not fare as well against Kearny. Both the jayvee and freshman boats lost their races to the Kardinals. Both boats lost by two lengths to their Kearny competitors but coach Giuffrida expects both shells will improve. Giuffrida said the freshman eight were hampered by illness and just outpowered by a Kearny frosh shell that was much bigger. The members of jayvee boat were not finally decided upon unni last week and Giuffida speculated that the late organization of the shell might have been a part of their problem. He added the crew coaches will be working on ways to improve the techniques of both shells and deciding on changes in both boats that will improve their potential.

Keith Waddell, a member of last year's varsity eight and four man shells who has been sidelined at the beginning of the Blue-Gold river season due to an injury, has started rowing again. Coach Giuffrida has announced Waddell is recovered from a shoulder separation and has begun working out with the team.

Giuffrida said the return of Waddell will add depth to the Belleville crews, jayvee and varsity levels. Giuffrida says Waddell will have to earn his seat on a shell by winning it back, Waddell knows it, says Giuf-"and the kids in the boats frida, know it.

The BHS crew season was opened before the races on Saturday with the christenings of the two new Blue-Gold shells. Mr. David Waddell christened the new four man shell presented by the Belleville Crew Parents association. School Board members Matthew Pica, and Michael Chieffo shared the honors and christened the eight man shell presented to the team by the Board of Education. The four man Bellevilboat was named "Intimidator" and the eight man shell was called "Excalibur" after King Arthur's invincible sword.

The progressively worsened economy has had its negative impact on the single income family. With dollars being stretched to impossible limits, mothers have found it necessary to return to the job market. The most pressing priority relating to that decision is the care of children while mom is at work. With the school summer-closings looming on the horizons, mothers are finding resident camps serve a two-fold purpose; while freeing them to continue working, camp affords a safe summer of fun for girls from 7 to 17. (Non-scouts are welcome). Inexpensive fees, sessions from July-tst through August 25th, plus a broad variety of activities make Girl Scout camps affordable and a tailor-made answer for the working mother.

In addition to the regular age range, there is available at Camp Madeleine Mulford in the Poconos, a one week session open to 2nd and 3rd grade girls. The program from

Belleville IACA hosts'FestaItaliano'

Civic Association played host to all the Italian American Chapters in the state of New Jersey March 19, at the "Festa Italiano" held at the Fountain Restaurant.

Discussed at the affair were plans for the up and coming "Festa Italiano," scheduled for June 19. The planned event will be a day-long celebration, highlighted by an open air mass.

dancing, and a real carnival atmosphere with booths selling all types of Italian delicacies, such as zepoles, pizza, eggplant, tripe, chicken Marinara, grappetto and, of course, sause and veal and peppers. There will also be an exhibit of Italian art and paintings along with many others emphasizing customs of the Italian culture. There will also be a show featuring Lou Monte and supported by a cast of many local stars.

The featured speaker at the event at the Fountain was Christie Albanese, past president of the Bel-Jeville Italian American Club.

Albanese spoke of the many contributions by the Italians to civilization in the areas of music, art, architecture, inventions and science, "but still," said Albanese, "the Italian American people are not getting their share of political appointments, such as cabinet posts and judicial seats."

Renato Biribin, an attorney from Plainfield will be this year's Festival Chairman and co-chairman will be Louis DeGiroamo, president of the Matawan Itatian American Chapter. Guest of Honor at the festival will be Baldasena Donato, Vice Counsel General of Italy.

Proceeds from the event will enable the Garden State Arts Center to provide free shows to 600,000 New Jersey senior citizens, disabled veterans and underprivileged youths. So far, over 2,000 tickets have been pledged by Italian American Chapters.

Serving on the committee which hosted the chapters from around the state were George Sbarra, president; Christie A. Albanese and Vincent Vecchione, past presidents, Adolph Vecchione, vice president; Salvatore

Firefighters find friends in nursery

Belleville firemen acquired many new "playmates" when they went to Sandy Lane Nursery School for two afternoons on March 30 and 31

While the firefighters, dressed for action, climbed the aerial ladder and demonstrated fire fighting equipment, day care and pre school children tried on fire hats, squirted hoses, sounded sirens, rang bells and climbed aboard the fire engines.

Fun was had by girls and boys alike, and based on comments following the visit, the Belleville Fire Department is due to be inundated by applications come 1989.

The Sandy Lane faculty announced that the school is now accepting registration for its summer and fall program. Any additional information may be obtained by calling 751-6380 or 751-6399.

By GEORGE CHENOWETH

A common question in health care regards Medicare. One might ask, "I have medicare to fall back on, why should I worry worry?" The answer may surprise you. Medicare is footing more on the health bills of the elderly, but it's not the total solution. You still pay for a share of the premiums on part "B," the voluntary ma-jor medical segment that covers most of the physician's approved charges, and there is also the deductible part that you pay before coverage starts. pay before coverage starts.

Actually, because of rising costs and increased use of Medicare, beneficiaries now pay more out of pockets for health care than did the elderly before Medicare went into effect.

period and a second second

In regards to a National Health In-surance Act, there are no indications of final action in this session of Congress. Most experts say that it is at least two or three years away

The Belleville Senior Citizens Club has many trips and parties planned for the near future. This active organization hopes to participate in the Bicentennial and Cherry Blossom Parade, and also in the Essex County Jamboree at the South Mountain Arena. A trip to the circus, also at South Mountain is in the planning stage.

The club, at its last meeting, joined the North Jersey Federation of Senior Citizens and about 15 delegates have signed up to attend that organization's general assembly on April 10 at Montclair State College.
