Rain Check — Nancy Patterson, right, and Pat Morrison look up to the heavens in search of the sun outside a local voting center during Tuesday's Election Day storm which caused floods up to four feet in some sections of Belleville, Town Hall blamed the rainy weather for the lighter than usual turnout at the polls.

Sunday opening out for Channel store

Channel Companies opens its 43rd home center today in the former W. T. Gränt outlet at the Belleville Plaza Shopping Center.
There will be plenty of celebrations and sales today but the firm's plans to do business this Sunday have renewed debate on Belleville's municipal blue laws designed to close down retail outlets employing more than four persons.

Because of Belleville's unusual Sunday han on sales, officials here contend Channel won't be able to do business over the entire weekend as the firm has been advertising locally. Channel itself seems to have been caught by surprise when told of Belleville's, ban on Sunday sales by reporters after the firm purchased full page ads in this newspaper last week.

"A community's blue laws has no "Anders and the community" blue laws has no "Anders and the community should be communit week.

"A community's blue laws has no effect on where we pick our stores."
Erwin Hoffer, assistant vice president of operations for Channel, said "We always wanted to be in Belleville and open a full-line store here."
Channel hasn't asked Town Hall for permission to open this Sunday and public relations spokesmen were caught by surprise when questioned by reporters about the sales ban. Bus—Commissioners this week, in an "informal conference session, made it

The only store personnel not from the local area are Channel's manager Karl Williams, of Cranford, and assistant manager Larry Proscia, of Cedar Grove.

Williams previously served as assistant manager in Springfield and Madison home centers, while Proscia was operations manager in Paramus and Ridgefield stores.

Clear that any Sunday operations by Channel here would be illegal. Commissioner Rocco Saletta pleaded with his colleagues to drop the blue laws but Saletta, along with Mayor Michael Marotti, are aminotity of two at Town Hall on the Sunday retail ban. "This is nothing new. They knew or should have known about our ordinance before they came here." Commissioner Mary Senatore reacted. "It's their problem now." Senatore also suggested Sunday openings at the shopping complex would interfere with parking for customers patronizing the hearthy bakery and pharmacy. Hoffer notes Channel operated a paint and panelling shop on Franklin Ave. until about 10 years ago, but that this new store will be complete with the eight departments usually found in Channel Home Centers. The store is completely finished and stocked, with all of the 100 local residents it employs fully trained in product knowledge and customer service. The only store personnel not from Belleville will join with the rest of the nation in honoring more than 27 million veterans across the United States when it stages its annual Veterans Day Parade tomorrow night. The parade, which begins at 7.30 p.m., will kick off at the corner of Washington Ave., and Greylock Parkway and continue south on Washington Ave., up to Town Hall. Mayor Michael V. Marotti has issued a proclamation requesting that all public officials, civic and particult organizations and private citizens commemorate the occasion with appropriate prayers and participation in the annual parade to climax the occasion.

Sponsored by the Belleville Veterans' Council, with expenses funded by the Town Recreation Department, the parade features floats, color guards and marcfring bands.

The Veterans' Council has set a Sunday date for the parade in case of rain. In this event, the parade will begin at 2 p.m.

Arizona man to help Belleville with policies

The Belleville Board of Education is considering contracting the services of Dr. Daniel R. Davies, president of Davies-Brickell Associates, tld., to compile a policy guide for the Board.

for management information of the NJSBA.

"For the past four to five years, we have identified a strong need for assistance in policy development," Miss Morton said. "We at the NJSBA agree with the procedures being followed by Dr. Davies."

The policy developer begins his task by checking the school board's current policy manual and hand-books, reading the minutes of the board's meetings and then making comments and judgments as to whether the practices are consistent with good educational procedures.

"I make recommendations for the kinds of things you (the Board) might want to consider in areas where there are gaps," Dr. Davies said, "I have to form opinions on the basis of research, talking with the superintendent, and checking with legal statutess."

Dr. Davies told the Board that he complies all the information that would be "pleasant, productive and useful" to the trustees in a loose leaf binder.

"The Board then needs to check tions and produce the final versions policy."

The firm president suggested that the Board turn this finished policy over to its own typist, as that would be less expensive than if his company were to do the work.

Then, the Belleville Board would have a policy manual completely covering goals, community relations, administration, personnel, the bylaws of the Board and many other-pertinent facts to the efficient running of a board of education.

The manual would detail ways to handle unpredictable situations like fires, bomb scares, riots and inclement weather.

A Better Belleville

Throughout the years we hear an occasional voice among us clamoring to make Belleville better. Everyone identifies with the idea but the question is to what idea but the question is to what extent can the average citizen be shelpful in making Belleville a better place to work and live.

Jonight, Thursday, Belleville citizens have an opportunity to respond to the call to make Belleville better. Up for public hearing is an ordinance to adopt a Property Maintenance code obliging home owners to maintain, their homes in reasonably good condition.

tain their homes in reasonably good condition.

Adoption of the Property Maintenance code will go far towards bringing back to Beleville the pride it once knew.

Failure of the Town Commission, Long to Property.

Maintenance code will only cause further decay of our community. Decay usually starts at the fringes of a town and moves the fringes of a fown and moves toward-the center. Washington Avenue, at the Mill Street entrance to Belleville, has been on the way down for a long time. The downward trend of property maintenance can be arrested only by giving town officials the power to enforce an appropriate power to enforce an appropriate Property Maintenace code.

There will be some among us who, will argue about some facets of the property code. These critics should remember the American Constitution has a few amendments to it since its critical adection. original adoption.

original adoption.

The proposed Property Maintenance code may not be perfect but at least it gives Belleville a foothold from which it can start to build itself up. If, in practice, the Property practice, the Property Maintenance code proves to be too severe, then it would be timely to amend it. First, however, let's get on with the business of adopting a Property Maintenance code with the sup-port of Belleville citizens who really care about its future.

Nursing home priorities are completely mixed up

To the Editor:

This letter as about the running of nursing homes. You can take it from one who has been in three or four of them. It is true that nursing homes should be more for the patients than the ones that run them. I often thought; who is the nursing home for — the patients or the employees? Because to hear, talk you would think it was more their home than ours.

Suggestions: — Let me frake few suggestions on how it could be made more like home.

1. The patients should be allowed to have pictures hanging on walls and cutains to make rooms more homey.

2. When possible the residents who can use telephones should have them in their rooms. I know there are some who would not be able to use them and should be in separate rooms.

3. When hiring employees it should be based on qualifications and outstandingness rather than polities.

4. When patients are to be discussed it should not be within earshot, it is should not be within earshot. It should be done in an office or anywhere away from patients.

5. The administration and patients should have more communication with ald have more communication with other. Unfortunately this is not today. There is very little com-true today. There is very little com-munication.

6. When hiring one should go through a few weeks of training on the job — not just how to take care of patients but also for attitudes and per-sonality.

Urged a 'yes' vote on charter change

To the Editor:
Citizens for Charter Change have persevered in their efforts to give Essex County woters the opportunity to change the present inefficient county government to an elected executive form. The New Jerses Supreme Court refused to hear an-appeal of the unanimous appelate decision which ordered the question placed on the ballot; thus, Essex voters will have their say.

The County Executive Plan will provide for an elected executive to administer the business of county government. A Board of Freeholders of nine members will perform the legislative function. Five will be elected by district and four at large. Now, nine freeholders are elected at large.

This form will bring "checks and ances" to county government. - I urge all concerned citizens and tax-

Happy to see Belleville on TV

To the Editor:
Belleville in the news!
It was certainly a pleasant surprise to see Belleville on the television news.
The network presented the Dutch Reform Church and the historical search taking place there. New findings that would put Belleville in the history books would be a great honor for all its citizens.

However, wouldn't it bring greater pride if those students doing the study were students from Belleville High rather than another town?

Gone, but not forgotten, is the heyday of these behemoths of yesteryear. Those colorful Mississippi steamers and the awesome "puffers" of those crack trains like the Commodore Vanderbilt, The Twentyteh Century Limited, the Nellie Bly, The Black Diamond and The Blue Comet.

These relics of the past have written a saga of American legend and history. They have woven an epic in the annals of travel, commerce and the growth of many of our country's principal cities which sprang up as rail centers and hubs that branched out on rails that opened up vast isolated areas.

There is nothing that Amtrak nor Conrail can offer today that compares with, nor rivals, the fascination that those steam giants of another era inspired in the imaginations of young boys of the "roaring twenties." It seemed the dream of every boy then to become a locomotive register.

I can wividly recall my own thrill in being a passenger of the fabled "Nellie Bly," the Peninsy's track train to Atlantic City-I well recall many hours spent at the old Pennsy railroad station behind the old Atlantic City city hall, watching vacationers pouring into the "World's Playground" by the thousands from all the principal cities of the country. They arrived at regular 10 minute intervals at the four track terminal during the prosperous days before the Wall Street "crash" of 1929, the days when steam and the rail giants were king.

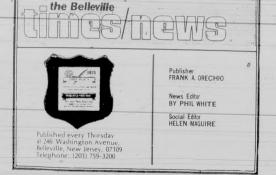

I'm inspired to dwell on trains, even though they represent only replicas of the legendary steam trains that dominated the period when the railroad tycoons ranked high in financial circles, because of a small boy's wonderment and attraction to a Lionel electric train set-up with its labyrinthian maze of tunnels, switches, cross-overs, lights, bumpers, uncouplers and all the paraphernala that constitutes minature railroad that had taken up a large protion of my basement, since the days of my own son's intrigue over railroads, as a boy.

On every infrequent trip of this five your old lad to my home, he'd beg to visit the basement to look-over the trains and watch them run. His wide-eyed entrallment clearly betrayed his fascination and longing desire to become the "engineer" of this fabulous dream-train.

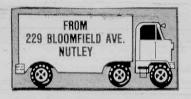

We felt the pangs of his despondency when he'd be told he'd have to wait a little longer, until he was older. We sensed his burning desire to operate that sleek train, to get at the controls and have it "roll out" with its shrill whistle blowing and snoke puffing from its snoke stack. Alas, we knew all too well that something of the past was soon to be taken away from us. The weak of the work of the Well! It's happened. Just as the cold winds of autumn turn the leaves to gold and the barren outdoors drives. a young boy to thoughts of indoor play. How could be escape conjuring up having those long sought trains to play with on cold wintry days, all by himself?

That did it. They boy's dad brought the lad to my home last Saturday and they took the whole railroad system away with them. The little boy's eyes glearmed with joy and expectation. A nostalgic tear was wiped from my eyes as a big void remained in my basement and the treasured memorabilia of my own son's era of "railroading" passed into memory. I hope my little grandson Jimmy gets as much pleasure from those trains as hid dad and I did.

TEACHERS DROPPED

Remedial reading aid decreases in Belleville

Children in Belleville's elementary schools are not receiving as much remedial reading instruction this year as they did when the school year ended last June, according to information provided by Dr. John Greed, superintendent of schools.

Dr. Greed said that, of 15 state compensatory education teachers employed as remedial teachers in both reading and mathematics, only two are back in the Belleville school system this fall.

"We had a choice between no remedial reading or using the money to pay reading specialists already employed within our school system," the superintendent noted.

He said that the two state compensatory education teachers that are back this year and about six or seven reading specialists are taking over the remedial instruction provided last year by 15 state compensatory education instructors. "Students are still getting instruction, but fewer people are around to do it," Greed said. "These reading specialists that are undertaking the remedial instruction this year are better qualified and prepared, because of experience, than the elementary certified teachers who worked under the state compensatory education program."

Greed noted that the reading degrees or quite a few creatis beyond their bachelors degree in remedial instruction.

One teacher, who worked in the Belleville schools under the state compensatory education program last year from December to June, said that all of the teachers had bachelors degrees and teaching experience.

"Children who were receiving one hour of remedial teaching per day are lucky if they receive 20 minutes now," the teacher, who asked to remain_amidentified, said.

She added that, even though she believes the Board of Education to be within its legal rights in cutting the program, the new system in no way compensates for the training given last year.

"Nobody was told what was going on with the program," she said, "and now the whole point of it is gone."

Dr. Greed said that he would like to have the teachers back, but that it is financially impossible at this time.
"We can't lose money year after year and continue operating." Dr. Greed said. "If we had the money to have all 15 teachers from last year back again, we'd have them, but we can't afford it."

Greed noted that all of the reading specialists already teaching within the school system received increases in salaries to go along with the heavier responsibilities.

He added that there has been some comment about too much specialization in recent years, with criticism especially pointed at taking a child out of the classroom too much during the course of a school

"The elementary teacher should be qualified to help students to a cer-tain extent," he said, "and taking a child out of his usual classroom set-ting too much can be bad."

Kardinal gridders fly in Saturday

The Blue-Gold grid squad will almost be looking at a mirror image of themselves when the Kearny Kardinals fly across the river and land in Belleville High School Stadium this Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Both clubs have identical 2-5 records, both are under the direction of first year coaches, and both have notched upset victories and had flashes of gridiron brilliance during the year.

tories and had flashes of gridiron briliance during the year.

"Our teams have had good moments and bad moments this season," stated Belleville head coach John Senesky, "and we anticipate a very close ballgame."

The two pigskin squads will both be hungering to increase the diget in the win column on Saturday.

The Bellboys will be looking to avenge last week's 63-0 defeat along with capping off the annual home-coming celebration and the home season with a victory.

Kearny, after evening its record at 2-2 early on with a 12-0 win over Paterson Eastside, has lost its last three confrontations and will be striving for the taste of success once again.

Kearny coach Norman Muro boasts a stong defensive club with an offensive unit which utilizes a wide open passing game.

Offensively the visitors are expected to lineup similar to Belleville with a split end, a halfback in the wide slot position and a tight end on the other side.

"They'll go with a number of formations with the other two back in the backfield," stated Coach Senesky.

Kardinal quarterback Chris Souza has a strong arm and is a good runner. The senior signal caller averages between 12 and 15 passes per game.

"Their offensive line gives him good protection," said the Belleville mentor. "They have pretty fair size although they are not too big and in fact this week we face the unusual situation of playing a team which is about our size."

The bulwark of the Kearmy rushing attack is QB Souza's younger brother Sam along with halfback Tom Flynn.

Defensively Saturday's visitors from across the Passaic display an eight man line and blitz only occasionaly.

The Bellboys-do-not plan-to-change their basic offense very much despite last week's whitewash by The Hall.

"We've got a pretty sophisticated offense now and we don't want to make it any more complicated," stated Senesky.

"What we really have to improve in is our execution."

The passing success of soph QB Eddi Aulisi may have inadvertently led to a neglect of the Blue-Gold running game, Senesky admitted.

"We believe in order to run the ball you have to be able to throw it and in order to pass successfully you must have a rushing threat," stated the Belleville Kearny Coach Muro has had 10 years of coaching experience. Before joining KHS he was mentor of the MacArthur Military Academy, Mt. Freedom, recording a 25-17-2 mark in five years there.

Booters blank Nutley Raiders

Center forward Joe Coscarelli netted goals in both the second and fourth periods to help-lift the Bellboy booters past the Raiders of Nutley, 2-0, Friday at Clearman Field.

Earlier in the week the Blue-Gold did not last Thursday and dropping a 2-0 decision to Cedar Grove the day before. Both kicker confrontations were played on the road.

On the road.

Tomorrow the Belleville clubbers host the Kearny Kardinals at BHS Stadium in an unusual 11 a.m: start.

Last Monday's match against East Orange at home was canceled by the ever present rainy weather. The contest, slated to be the finale of the '77 season for the local European footballers, is set to be played out here Monday afternoon.

Friday's game against the Nutley Maroon, moved to Clearman Field because of wet grounds, saw the Bellboys break into the scoring column first with a goal in the second quarter.

Bellboy Gallo Calvache sent in a perfect lead pass to senior Joe Coscarelli who utilized his speed to beat three defenders and smack a low ground shot past the Raider goalie and into the far corner of the Nutley net to give the home team a 1-0 edge.

"We accomplished what we've been trying to do all year," explained the Blue Gold-soccer coach Tony Cahill. "We worked the ball to the outside more and from there crossed it toward the center."

A badly bruised thigh suffered in the Cedar Grove contest to Pat Leonidis forced the sophomore to miss the Friday game and is a questionable starter for the remainder of the schedule, stated Coach Cahill.

The injury caused the Belleville clifer, into injury caused the Bulletian to the faint on the first of the termain of the Stefan to Inselle his linear for the Nutley in the sent to the sent of the schedule, stated Coach Cahill.

The injury caused the Belleville chieftain to juggle his lineup for the Nutley

Belleville Broncos gain another shutout

Belleville's Broncos notched another victory and another shutout whitewashing Cresskill, 39-0, Saturday night under the lights of Belleville Municipal Stadium.

The local traveling squad, 6-0, have racked up a total of 209 points while allowing none in maintaining its top position in the Bergen County Junior Football Conference.

The Bronco offensive unit went right to work in the opening period. Quarter-back Frank Fazzini rifled 6.7-yard pass to tight end Eugene Cancelliere on the opening play from scrimmage for the in-tital TD of the contest.

Belleville's Angelo Centanni powered his way across the goal for the extra point and the home squad had the early sevenzip advantage.

The home squad continued its offensive roll in the first quarter posting two more TDs in the initial quarter.

John Bucciarelli colored in the Bronco scoring framework in the first period when he galloped 31 yards for six points. Fazzini connected with Cancelliere to post the point after.

Racket club ousted from Essex tourney

Columbia's courtiers out-pointed the Blue-Gold racket women 5-0 last Thursday to eliminate the Bellgirl baseliners from the Essex County Tennis Tournament.

The Belleville racketeers were slated to close out the fall season against Irvington last Friday and then again last Monday but heavy rains frored the post-ponement of the match both days.

No definite date has been set for the year's finale confrontation, as the Times/News went to press, but it is expected—the schools will meet sometime this week on the Camper courts.

"We were completely flat (against Columbia)," said Blue-Gold tennis men-tor Karen Fuccello. "When you're not having close matches it tends to relax having close matches it tends to retax everyone."

The Bellgirls had gone into the Essextourney at Columbia following a pair of easy victories over Bloomfield, 4-1, and Immaculate Conception, 5-0.
"It was not a matter of one or two people not playing well," stated the coach. It was everybody. We looked like we kind of lost the drive. Almost as if we had already pekked and were on the way down. We just didn't have it."
"Unfortunatley it was the wrong day to be that way," continued Coach Fuccello. "I was a little disappointed with the loss. I thought at least we would give them a good match."

Belleville sharp shooters take aim for turkey dinner

The 10th Annual Belleville Turkey Shoot is scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 20, at the Pistol Range, corner of Joralemon St. and Hoover Ave., from 11 a m. to 4 p.m.

Anyone over the age of 12 is invited to participate but children must be accompanied by an adult.

Shooting will be done in flights of eight with each contestant getting three shots. The one scoring highest in a flight will receive a certificate of $8 toward a Thanksgiving Day $8 toward a Thanksgiving Day Turkey. Targets sell for a buck each:

Sharp shooters will take aim at random targets marked off in small numbers which cannot be seen from the firing line. All that is needed is enough skill to hit the target and enough luck to strike good numbers.

A shot going into a small numbered square will score that number but a shot breaking the line between a pair of numbers will score the total. A shot breaking the intersection of four numbers will earn the competitor a total of four numbers.

6-0. The Columbia girls experience always seems to help her out against Tom." pointed out the Belleville coach. "Toni plays a defense game most of the time (volleying a lot and returning shost from the edge of the baseline). Her opponent has her pretty well figured out and you have to give her credit."

Over the last two years the pair of court opponents have met three times.

The Blue-Gold's Denise Juliano lost 6-1, 6-1, in second singles play. "Denise just committed too many errors," stated the coach. "It was a case of lack of concentration on he part but that's something she will learn with experience."

Third solo play featured LuAnn Graffeo losing a 6-4, 6-0, decision to ther Cougar opponent. "The Columbia teams were much bia girl is probably the strongest hird singles player we have met all lo."

once again excelled by grabbing mith position among a field of 80 athletes.

"Sue is an unbelievable competitor and will be missed by the entertee team next season," stated Coach Ruffalo. "She has been a pleasure to coach."

Sue ran the gruelling three mile course in a time of 19:31 some 30 seconds better than any of her previous performances. Mary Connelly, a junior, who has been rapidly improving since the beginning of the year ran a 22:10 for the three mile course. Said Ruffalo, "Mary should really come into her own next year now that she has a year of experience behind her. She improved tremenbush over the course of the season."

In the state sectionals, Mike Graham despite a bad foot, rân a 16:30 on the 31 mile Warnaco Park course taking 81st place.

The "G" man was followed by Dean Santulli and John Vacaero, who finished in 54th and 76th place-respectively. Weddy Trementola, due to a stomach virus, could not finish the race.
"We ran kind of flat today," stated Coach Ruffalo after the race. "I'm still very proud of the team, though, because of their steady improvement all season."

Sue Smith grabbed eighth place in the girls race and if she placed in the top 10 on Saturday will advance to the All group state championships set for November 19.

Boys gymnastics prepare to roll

The Belleville Recreation Department will open its boys gymnastics programs, under the direction of Ray lannuzzi, this Wednesday, Nov. 16, from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Friendly House, 21 Frederick St.

This year's instruction is planned work to parallel bars, high bar, horse and rines.

work to parallel bars, high bar, horse and rings.

Although ground tumbling is still the core of gymnastics, television coverage of the recent Olympic games has created a demand for all-round gymnastic training.

According to the Rec Department if the turnout is large enough the program may be expanded to include two afternoons per week.

Soph tabbed 'most offensive'

Vito Guarino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vito Guarino of 22 Mary St., was honored with the Moravian College "Most Offensive" award for the fourth time in six games for scoring the best blocking percentage in a game.

The sophomore tackle, a graduate of Belleville High, was honored for his latest performance in a 17-0 loss to Lebanon Valley College two weeks ago.

Car Wash —Many of the town's thoroughtares were under water during Tuesday's heavy rainfall. Mill St. was particularly hard hit by the rancor of "Mother Nature," forcing this hapless motorist to abandon his auto until the tides subsided.

of him and of his running mate.
Both Adubato and Cali mingled with the crowd of Well-wishers that greeted them at the Fountain, stopping to munch on hot dogs and listen to entertainment before they moved on to congratulate Frank Rodgers on his victory.

The group of Democrats the sathered at the Chandelier to compile election returns also made its way to the Rodgers headquarters in Harrison to join with a bevy of fellow supporters.

Earlier in the evening, many of these Democratic leaders and workers had gone out in the rain to bring people to the polls.

"The weather hurt us," Mrs.
Senatore noted, adding, "During the least two hours, we had to literally bring the voters in."

Eugene Barnett, Town Clerk, said the weather this election day was the worst he had ever seen.

"I'visited every district Tuesday

Newark Rutgers lists free concert events

Some of the world's most ac-claimed music groups and soloists are among the attractions in an un-usual free-admission concert and dance series to be presented this fall, winter and early spring at the Newark campus of Rutgers Univer-sity.

Newark campus of Rutgers University.

Arranged by the State Chiversity's office of concerts and lectures in Newark, the music and dance programs will be preceded by a performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" by the Oxford and Cambridge Shakespeare Company at 2 p.m. this Sunday in the Robeson Campus Center, Rutgers-Newark, at 350 High St.

There will be a charge of $2 to the public and $1 for students for the Oxford-Cambridge performance. The noted British troupe will also put on a Monty Python-type revue, to be followed by a wine-and-heese party without extra cost.

The series will include programs by such internationally known artists as cellist Janos Starker, No. 14; the Chuck Davis Dance Company, Feb. 1; the Tokyo String Quartet, March 22, and the New Brass Quintet, April 10.

The free programs will open

22, and the New Brass Quintet, April 10.

The free programs will open Monday with a lecture-demonstration by Janos Starker, the noted cellist, who will perform at 11:30 a.m. in the main lounge of the Robeson Campus Center.

This past summer, Starker played recitals, appeared with orchestras and conducted master classes at music festivals, including Tanglewood, Meadow Brook, Caramoor, Cabrillo and the Festival Casals in Puerto Rico.

During the 1977-78 season, he will make two European tours, a South American tour and a tour of Japan. He will appear as soloist and conductor with the St. Louis Symphony and will play with the orchestras of Detroit, Washington, Indianapolis, Albuquerque, the Florida West Coast, Kansas City and in Candé in C and in Canada and in Canada.

A new group, the Young Performing Artists Series, will make its debut in the Rutgers-Newark program, I includes the Curits Trio, Dec. 5; the Uptown Winds, Jan. 18; harpist Raphael Rudd, Feb. 15 and violinist Adam-Silk, March 16.

Mildred Levinstone, coordinator of concerts and lectures, said the free-admission policy and the program's diversity are expected to, attract large audiences from northern New Jersey.

"It is the first time that we have been able to offer so many free programs," Mrs. Levinstone said. "We don't know of a comparable series, with major attractions, in this area."

"Where," she added, "can you get a top Shakespeare company, a hilarious revue and wine and cheese for $1 and $2 admissions?"

for J1 and $2 admissions?"

The Oxford-Cambridge show, directed by Peter Farago, is the company's most ambitious undertaking. Farago has directed more than 50 productions, including "Hamlet," with John McEnery, and a rock musical version of "A Midsummer Night's Dream." For the past year, he has been associate director of the Birmingham Repertory in Britain's second largest city.

Senior notes

By GEORGE CHENOWETH

The Belleville Senior Citizens Club has agreed to contact those members who are delinquent in dues with the hopes of getting them back in the fold. We do not want to drop them from membership. Paid up members are good members and are entitled to all of the privileges of the organization.

A change in by-laws is anticipated in regards to members who move out of town. Plans have been completed for the Christmas Party. We will take part in the Veteran's Day Parade and then back to the recreation center for refreshments. Our activities during the week are improving with larger attendances and our meetings on Tuesdays continue to draw the usual large crowd. Last week's meeting of the Belleville Club was an interesting one in that representatives of the gubernatorial candidates were present to air their reasons as to why their candidates should be elected. candidates should be elected.

Governor Brendon Byrne was represented by Mrs. Margaret Marucci and Senator Bateman was represented by Mrs. Carolyn McCullum. Speakers were invited to talk on the Essex County Charter and Mrs. Mary Senatore appeared as private individual rather than a town official and also invited was Mr. Veneziano who was for charter change. Mrs. Senator was against the charter briange and Mr. Veneziano did not appear until after the meeting was long over. We will know the results of this important issue after Tuesday.

This column is being writen on Monday and must be This column is being writen on Monday and must be submitted for publication before the results of the election are known. Our column for last week got lost in the shuffle, instead, the column from the week before was included in the "Senior Notes." We were, and still are, for Governor Bryne. We could have published our reply in case of victory or defeat by saying, "We told you so" or "Better luck next time." Whichever is applicable.

The New Jersey Federation of Senior Citizen had their regional meeting in Parsippany on Nov. 4. The turnout was good and the budget was discussed. There were speakers from the Medicaid Program and a question and answer period followed. Federal as well as state issues concerning the elderly were discussed and the Federation was urged to expand to include more federal issues in future demands for seniors services.
