Smile for Santa — Caroline Kaufman tries to induce her son Jerome to smile for the jolly old fellow Saturday, but the boy was just a bit too young to know what it was all about. The meeting took place at the Junior Woman's Club's annual "Lunch With Santa" at St. Mary's Church.

Wendy's Restaurant gains Planning Board's approval

By John Jurich

After months of wrangling, Planners have approved the proposal for a Wendy's Restaurant on Franklin Avenue.

The site plan for the eating spot and a Fabric Emporium provides 40 spaces in which customers of the Chandeliers Restaurant across the street may park. The plan also calls for a 181-foot-long, six-foot-high brick wall to be built as a shield between the Wendy's site and neighboring residences.

Parking, the wall and type of outer building material to be used for the fabric store were the main bones of contention at the Planning Board meeting Thursday night.

Three years ago, Wendy's applicant Phil Fucetola made a gentleman's agreement with Chandeliers' owner Tom Apiselli, allowing Apiselli's customers to use the old A&P property, on which the two new stores would be located, for parking. After the A&P burned in January, Fucetola contended that he was experiencing a hardship because he wasn't make profitable use of his property. He applied for the Wendy's and Fabric Emporium and nullified his agreement with Apiselli.

That left the Chandeliers' owner with the problem of where to park his customers. The problem will still exist under the new arrangement, said Planner Al Schmitt in voting against it. "I think we're taking something that we've lived with for three years that was a bad situation to begin with and compounding and ratifying it," Schmitt said, noting that two experts the board had heard said the arrangement wouldn't work.

Attorney John Scott, representing Fucetola, said Apiselli had told him 90 percent of the Chandeliers' business was on Saturday and Sunday nights. The Wendy's would be open 8 a.m. to 11 p.m., and the fabric store until 9 p.m. at the latest.

Zoning ordinance requires 183 spaces for the two restaurants and fabric store, and only 97 are shown on the plan. Planners did not accept an earlier recommendation from their consultant, Grace Harris, that all parking be angled. They left it perpendicular. If they hadn't, 14 spaces would have been lost. The operating hours of the three businesses and number of spaces available make overcrowding in the parking lot a possibility. The majority of planners, however, felt the arrangement was the best that could be made. They did not like having the Wendy's open so early — they had been told it wouldn't open before 10 a.m. — but agreed they had no power to set operating hours.

The 40 Chandeliers spaces, located

Library wing is given OK

By John Jurich

With some reluctance, the Planning Board has unanimously approved a two-story addition for the front of the Belleville Public Library's main branch.

Terms of the approval, which call for brick to be used on the building instead of cheaper block as originally proposed, will increase the cost of the project by about $5,000. And town commissioners were told last Tuesday that bids for the addition had come in at about $60,000 more than the $250,000 already set aside for the expansion.

Thus it's likely that library trustees will have to approach the town for more than the $120,000 it

TWO SIDES FAR APART

School administrators asking 7 percent raise

By Mike Olohan

Twenty local elementary, junior high and high school principals and vice principals will not sign a job contract until trustees raise their salaries 7 percent.

"Why should we accept less?" asked School 5 Principal Archibald Gallombardo, the association's local press liaison. Administrators walked out of the Nov. 26 public School Board meeting demanding a contract settlement before they would attend any evening board meetings, notably those of the restructuring committee.

Negotiations between the administrators and board began 26 months ago, reached an impasse in April 1978, and little appears to have taken place since then.

Although boycotting night meetings, administrators stress that they'll continue to perform their jobs and not let their dispute with trustees affect any child's education, said Gallombardo.

Both sides had declined to discuss specific contract percentages, but in a press release Friday, the administrators emphasize that "teacher and administrator settlements in our district and neighboring communities have averaged about 7 percent over the past two years, if we are the only one of four bargaining groups refused longevity by the board, should we not make an issue of this disregard for our welfare?"

A meeting is scheduled Dec. 19 to discuss possible longevity benefits the administrators association is requesting, along with pay parity (equal pay for equal work) for administrators and salary increases.

Last week, the board's chief negotiator, Lawrence Schwartz, who

Students here improving but they could do better

By Mike Olohan

Ninety-four percent of Belleville's 345 third grade students passed last April's Minimum Basic Skills (MBS) reading test while only 78 percent of the ninth graders passed the MBS reading test — leading local administrators to conclude after studying similar math MBS results that many students in the ninth and eleventh grades are taking the state tests with a grain of salt.

"Since they don't count towards any grade on the report card or affect whether they can get into college, many students are just not taking these (MBS) tests seriously enough. Some of them are making drawings and doodles on the tests," said School Superintendent Dr. John Greed, adding that some students apparently are just randomly guessing at answers rather than working them through.

Greed noted that despite the low regard some students have for the MBS tests, Belleville's scores have improved over last year's. However, much work remains to be done.

An analysis of grades three and six done by School 1 Principal Pat Forte and School 9 Principal Joseph Grosch shows while 94 percent of third graders met reading standards, only 80 percent met the MBS score of 65 percent correct on the math test.

Eighty-two percent of 372 sixth graders met the 75 percent correct score in reading, with only 79 percent meeting the sixth grade minimum math requirements.

The third grade MBS reading tests showed student weaknesses in identifying inflectional endings and plurals, remembering facts, knowing order and sequence of events, picking out the main idea and distinguishing fact from fiction.

"Two test items on distinguishing fact and fiction were very low, however the district compared

Eyesore of the week

Down in the Dumps — This dump is located behind Belleville's Public Works Department building on Stevens Street. Leaves are brought here for transportation to Harrison this time each year, and so the dump is more loaded than normally. But what compounds the problem is that citizens bring they're trash in through the broken fence.

Swinging Therapists — Occupational therapists Judy Gerstein, Claudia Mielach and Kathy McMahon pose during dedication day at the Cerebral Palsy Center here. The swing they're on is used to help children who have trouble standing or balancing.

Santa sets up his mailboxes

The Belleville Recreation Department has set up special mailboxes for children to post their letters to Santa Claus.

The mailboxes have been set up at Town Hall on Washington Avenue and in front of the Silver Lake Firehouse on Franklin Street. They're bright red and marked "Santa's Mail."

By very special arrangements made between Mr. Claus and the Belleville Recreation Department, all letter writers are guaranteed an answer.

If children are too young to write, they can draw a picture and Santa will get the message. Be sure to have someone write the child's name and address so that Santa can answer the letters.

Christmas calls provided by Bell

For the third year in a row, Santa and Mrs. Claus are sticking by the phone to await calls from children. New Jersey Bell is offering "Call Santa," a series of holiday messages that are available by dialing 936-3636.

The series includes a look at what Santa, his helpers and reindeer are doing in preparation for Christmas and continues with visits to 19 countries. Each daily story will deal with holiday traditions and legends of other lands from Italy to Ghana and Brazil to Ireland.

On Christmas Eve, there will be a special series of hourly updates detailing Santa's trip around the world and his estimated time of arrival in New Jersey.

Jersey Bell will also offer "Hanukkah: The Festival of Lights," which will begin Dec. 15 and continue through the holiday's eight days. The messages will be available at 936-7373 for same 10 cents charged for the Santa calls.

Senior Notes

By George Chenoweth

Do you know where your next benefit is coming from? Perhaps relief would be a better word. If you are in need of financial aid, perhaps the following would be of interest. The Essex County Community Development Home Improvement Loan and Grant Program is making home improvement loans available to county residents in many county communities including Belleville. Homeowner occupants of one- to four-family homes whose annual family income does not exceed $17,500 can obtain loans at a 3 percent interest rate for repairs and improvements. High priority is given to the elderly, low-income and handicapped homeowners. For further information, call 759-0550.

The state also has a program called the New Jersey Mortgage Finance Agency which has recently launched the second phase of its Home Improvement Loan Program (HILP). Modest income owners of one- to four-family homes can obtain loans at 8 1/2 percent interest rate for the repair, renovation or expansion of their homes. A wide variety of improvements is eligible, but energy-saving measures are especially encouraged. We are informed by the director of the Essex County Office on Aging that brochures can be obtained from the State of New Jersey Mortgage and Finance Agency, 1180 Raymond Boulevard, Newark, N.J., 07102.

If you are living in senior citizen housing, subsidized under Section 236 of the Housing and Urban Development ruling, you may be entitled to a rebate on your rent. This is the result of class action suits won by tenants of senior housing against HUD. Project owners have been passing along increases in utilities bills and increases in property taxes to the tenants in the form of higher rents. This was proven to be illegal, and all eligible tenants and former tenants will share in the distribution of the settlement fund which, by the way, is $60 million nationwide.

The Belleville Senior Citizens Club, Inc., entertained as guest speaker at its Tuesday meeting Director Robert Misurell of the Essex County Division on Aging. The director brought us up to date on the need for inter-transportation for the towns of Belleville, Nutley and Bloomfield. The bus hook-up would allow seniors to go from town to town for essential shopping, doctor's visits or whatever needs should arise, at no expense. It is working now on a trial basis, and the director is hoping for expansion of the service. He also had a word on dental examinations for the elderly and reduced costs for dentures. Director Misurell was accompanied by Lois Hull, assistant director, and a question-and-answer period followed his interesting talk.

Don't forget the Christmas collection for the more needy people of the town. If each member would give one article of canned goods or dry groceries as their contribution, the drive would go over the top. Collection cartons are set up at the Senior Recreation Center just waiting to be filled. Make it a merry Christmas for all!

Belleville AARP meets noontime at Fewsmith

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville American Association of Retired Persons, Chapter 2051, will be held today at Fewsmith Presbyterian Church, 444 Union Ave. Members are requested to bring their completed Vial of Life worksheet form to the meeting place at noon. A representative from the Health Department will be there to conduct registration. Entertainment will be provided at 1:15 p.m. by the Belleville High School Chorus and Orchestra under the direction of Thomas Finetti. Ice cream and cookies will be served. The chapter's regular monthly meetings take place the first Thursday of each month. The official board meets the second Thursday, in this case, Dec. 13.

BHS guidance office will move downstairs

By Mike Olohan

Belleville High School's guidance department will soon be moving downstairs, taking over the offices of the distributive and cooperative education departments which will move upstairs to occupy their former offices.

Belleville High's version of "Upstairs, Downstairs" is occurring because the guidance department now occupies a crowded space on the first floor with hardly any room for a career library where youngsters might research and ponder their career choices.

By moving downstairs, says School Superintendent Dr. John Greed and high school Principal John DeCesare, the guidance department and its five counselors will have more room and also be closer to student congregating areas like the cafeteria and gym.

The move will cost about $1,000 since another room will have to be added, said DeCesare. "We really should have a guidance library, and we don't have to meet any specifications (in building) because children are not being taught down there."

DeCesare said a fan for ventilation or air-conditioning might be installed downstairs to increase poor air circulation.

"The kids may be more inclined to just walk into the guidance office if it's not located" near the principal's office, he said.

"The guidance facilities in the high school are somewhat limited," added Greed.

Open Wide — Paul Permison, center administrator, and dentists Mitchell Kagan and Marshall Elpus appear at the opening of Direct Dental Centers' new office at 374 Main St. in the Grand Union Shopping Plaza. Direct Dental Centers is open evenings and Saturdays and offers a full range of dental care.

'Plain language' bill should allow citizens to fathom what they sign

By Mike Olohan

A "plain language" bill which eliminates vague, obfuscating in consumer contracts for mortgages, leases, real estate forms, insurance policies; loan forms and purchase agreements "will help every average citizen understand" what he's signing, says Belleville's consumer affairs director.

Edward Leonard points out that the plain language bill which passed the Assembly Nov. 19 eliminates many Old English words, double negatives and Latin phrases which baffled consumers trying to understand contract papers thrust at them quickly.

Leonard stresses that anyone purchasing an expensive item should thoroughly read the contract, ask questions if anything is not clear and take time to reach a final decision by comparative shopping. He noted that reputable stores and businessmen will give you a couple days to think over any major purchase, but pressure salesmen won't and often get upset when you hesitate.

Gov. Brendan Byrne is expected to sign the bill soon, and it will take effect a year after its okay. Last summer, Byrne signed a similar plain language bill affecting only life and health insurance policies. That law requires a specific readability formula, and takes effect in two years.

After two years of debate, compromise and several rewritings because the bill itself, ironically, was not understandable, it whipped easily through 66-1 behind the support of Assembly Speaker Christopher Jackman, its sponsor.

"This bill will be able to help so that everybody knows what a lot of contracts now say, and realizes that they can be read a different way (by others). They'll be able to get one clear simple interpretation," says Leonard.

Legalistic doubletalk should be outlawed, says Leonard, stressing that because many lawyers will lose much money, "that's the reason many lawyers are dead set against this...a lot of times when something goes wrong (legally), the average person is left holding the bag because he didn't understand what's going on."

"If it's down in simple facts, then people will be able to easily understand."

contractor subleases jobs to other companies under his name, this will have to show up on the work contract under the bill."

Samples of contracts must also be submitted to one of a few state agencies for evaluation, and they will be ruled either understandable or not understandable. A company with an unclear contract can be sued by a consumer who loses his money because he doesn't understand it.

A company losing a lawsuit could be forced to pay $50 to a consumer and $10,000 for a class-action suit by a consumer's group.

land, and I think Byrne will have to sign this because of the pressure from citizens," Leonard says.

Leonard emphasizes that "everything is becoming so expensive, it's hitting the people even harder now with inflation. When a

Jr. High PTA will discuss restructuring Wednesday

The Junior High School PTA will meet 7:30 p.m. this coming Wednesday in the school cafeteria to discuss the interim report of the Belleville restructuring committee.

Committee representatives will be on hand to get reaction from the public to the report and will note alternatives favored by those in attendance.

The Belleville school system is under state order to correct what the state has charged are racial imbalances at Schools 1 and 9. The restructuring committee has been working the last few months to decide how best to comply with the state mandate and, in addition, how best to make use of the town's school facilities. One of the questions the committee is dealing with is whether to keep ninth graders at the Junior High or transfer them to the high school.

Prayer for today

Lord, make me an instrument of Thy peace:
Where there is hatred, let me sow love;
Where there is injury, pardon;
Where there is discord, union;
Where there is doubt, faith;
Where there is despair, hope;
Where there is darkness, light;
Where there is sadness, joy.
O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek
To be consoled, as to console;
To be understood, as to understand;
To be loved, as to love;
For it is in giving that we receive,
It is in pardoning that we are pardoned,
And it is in dying that we are born
To Eternal Life.

Schools One and Nine

Well, the jury is still out on the reorganization of our school system. A blue ribbon citizens committee has submitted a report to the Board of Education outlining several alternatives to meet the state requirement of full integration of its school population.

In a recent editorial we suggested the possible closing of Schools One and Nine which would have the effect of integrating the school system to meet state requirements, moreover the cost of operating a rather inefficient school plant would be reduced.

Many residents of the Valley where Schools One and Nine are located have expressed their anger over any suggestion which would eliminate both schools from their neighborhood. They have something there. Since the beginning of time we have subscribed to the concept of neighborhood schools. Closing both schools in the Valley neighborhood for whatever reasons would violate our neighborhood school concept.

One of the recommendations of the blue ribbon citizens committee included the merger of Schools One and Nine and the transfer of some minority students to other schools in order to meet the integration standards of the state. That proposal is sound.

School sport

Preliminary plans for a new high school athletic conference based in suburban Essex have the tentative approval of Nutley and Belleville educational leaders.

With unrestrained enthusiasm most-school board members of both communities can't wait for the opportunity to help give birth to the new child.

We applaud them for their good judgment.

There is an unanswered question as to whether or not the proposed conference should be open to any school desiring to join or membership be restricted to its charter members.

Charter membership should be the controlling factor in this judgment. A choice of a mate should be made with eyes wide open and a deliberate affirmative decision. In the context of this editorial subject matter, the closed membership approach is necessary for the very success of the proposed conference.

It is difficult to give this person a printable first name. Khomeini parades as a religious leader. Amin looks like a Boy Scout compared to Khomeini.

Our prayers and hopes are with President Jimmy Carter. Under the most difficult of circumstances President Carter is performing an excellent job. We hope and pray Carter's efforts will gain the release of the hostages and avoid war.

Football team thanks the men who started them on path to 1979 glory

To the Editor:

Belleville High School Buccaneers, class of 1980, a team that will go down in the history of our town to be the closest group of players to ever have competed in Belleville.

This year's football squad consists of a large number of seniors who have worked together as one team for over seven years, and this not only makes us friends, it makes us a family. The warmth, understanding, companionship, sportsmanship, and above all, the love that each and every player possesses are the keys to success, and we owe much gratitude and appreciation to the five men who gave all of their time and energy to teach us these basic goals. Most of all, the respect, determination, and courage that will remain with us for the rest of our lives was demonstrated by each coach.

We are honored and proud to have been the offspring of a new revolution in the history of Belleville football. When we first began playing and learning this magnificent sport, we were like lumps of clay; the potential was there, but it was hidden. It needed to be uncovered and created. These great men molded each of us individually, and they taught us to be the best we could be. By realizing our likes and dislikes, by coping with our needs, and desires, and by giving us strength to overcome the negative aspects with which we are frequently faced, they watched us grow and mature into a team whose close-knit ties could not be broken. Richard Luzzi, Michael Chieffo, Michael Limongelli, Leonard Luongo, and Chick Puleo were and always will be a part of this team, and they will live forever in our hearts.

Although these men were coaches for the Belleville Broncos Junior Football Organization, they were our stepping stones to a higher, more advanced form of playing. We, current members of the Belleville High School football team, wish to express our deepest appreciation to those who instilled in us a feeling of love and respect for competitive sports. From the support and encouragement of fine citizens such as the five previously mentioned men, this commendable organization has become the cornerstone for sportsmanship in Belleville.

We hope to see this organization continue for many years to come bringing a sense of fair play to the lives of ripening athletes. Thank you for caring enough to make us work hard and helping us to learn the insights of the game. We are proud and honored to have had the privilege of knowing individuals such as these great men who are the backbone of this fine 1979 football team.

Our deepest gratitude,
The Bucs

How about that band?

To the Editor:

During the football season I avidly reach for each issue of The Belleville Times/News to read about the most recent victory (hopefully) of the Belleville High School football team. I enjoy seeing Belleville youth win at anything because I know how hard those who excel must have worked.

Every issue brings lots of prose and pictures of players in action, cheerleaders, twirlers and drill team. However, I very, very seldom see even the elbow or a drum stick of one member of our excellent marching band.

Under the direction of Mr. Andrew Silbert, this year's marching band is a dedicated group of performers, who spend many hours after school, learning and perfecting their music and routines. How about an occasional mention or picture of this fine group of industrious musicians before the football season ends? They're an important part of the whole football scenario!

Very truly yours,
Sandra J. Schillon

Sport league needed now

To the Editor:

Through the Nutley Sun issue of Nov. 20 and This Week in Belleville, I have read about the formation of the Suburban Essex Athletic Conference.

The conference is something that is way overdue! Why did Bloomfield go into the NJFSL? Because there was no alternative in this county. Who can remember Bloomfield-Belleville, Bloomfield-Nutley especially Foley vs. Stanford and the Sandy Phillips era? The top football game in Essex County on Thanksgiving was Bloomfield-Montclair as the New York City media always covered it. Why not a return to those days?

Last Saturday I was in both Nutley and Belleville and won't forget it. I was urging the people, especially in Belleville's Grand Union Plaza, to make this dream into a reality by telling their feelings to the board.

Let us, whether we be from or root for Bloomfield, Montclair, Kearny, Seton Hall, Passaic, Essex Catholic, Irvington, Belleville, or Nutley work hard to make this dream into a reality.

Sincerely yours,
George R. Rosner

A simple note to say thanks

To the Editor:

Will you please print the following? Or sincere and grateful thank you to the Belleville Firemen who responded so quickly when we asked for help.

It was greatly appreciated.
Happy holidays to you all.

Greed: Some older students took state skill tests lightly

favorably with all reference groups," says the MBS report. Weaknesses in overall comprehension and making story interpretations and inferences stand out.

Of 49 reading test items, 39 were perfect, nine satisfactory and one poor. "A commendable performance by all schools," says the report.

Third grade math results show 80 percent, or 275 of 345 students, equalled or passed the "minimum" 65 percent correct answers. A townwide weakness in all nine elementary schools is evident in subtraction. When regrouping of numbers is involved. Also, test items on fractions and inverse operations were usually answered incorrectly. The report stresses that more time and effort to visually explain and correct these weaknesses must be made.

Both Greed and Forte agreed Friday, that the elementary results "are more valid" than ninth and eleventh grade scores because grammar school teachers emphasize specific areas they test on MBS exams.

Each district receives scores of computer sheets listing every specific item on the MBS test, individual performance, the class, building and each particular cluster item which then must be individually tabulated and evaluated by either a committee of teachers and administrators or just administrators as in Belleville.

MBS tests are designed to measure performance on previously taught minimum "essential" skills "and do not measure higher level skills." (the completed analysis of the MBS tests represents only the first step of a (school system's) program assessment process. The MBS tests should be used as the initial indicator of program strengths and weaknesses, and not the final word," say state officials in an MBS testing program booklet which describes how to interpret every aspect of MBS tests.

Sixth grade MBS reading tests show 82 percent (303 of 372) students passed. Breaking words into syllables, using antonyms, possessives and apostrophes need to be stressed, along with identifying the main idea of a story and remembering the sequence of events taking place.

Failure to detect the difference between fact and fiction was prevalent among most sixth graders. "...one of our teacher interpreters (said) 'a lack of imagination' might be the cause of weakness in interpretive comprehension," reads the report.

Adding similar fractions and multiplying a whole number by a fraction need more attention by sixth grade teachers. About 50 percent of students did poorly in understanding place value, changing decimals to numbers, determining percent, rounding fractions greater than one, finding equals, using the number line and recognizing the inverse.

Of 449 ninth graders taking the reading test, 352 or 78 percent passed. Improvement is needed in identifying word roots, determining a word's meaning from definitions of words near it, distinguishing possessives and contractions, defining words and identifying antonyms.

Separating fact, opinion and fiction, and finding the main idea also need to be retaught. "All teachers deal with words, and they should be aware of (words) in their areas..." (also), teachers must introduce practical, everyday words," reads the MBS analysis.

Under "study skills," ninth graders were strong in identifying appropriate reference sources, using guide words, using the dictionary for meaning and spelling, using parts of a book, charts, cartoons, pictures and diagrams. However, weak areas were use of guide words and road maps.

More emphasis must be placed on study skills by the classroom teachers, reading teachers, SCE (state compensatory education) teachers and the librarians. Reviewing these skills in smaller classes with individual instruction is crucial, says the report.

"We must continue to spend more time on the dictionary, Dewey decimal system, card catalog and other study skills...the librarians must assert themselves and promulgate their expertise in the area of study skills," urges the report.

"We are well above average in most every (MBS) area, I hope (the public) is aware of that. There's always a lot more to be done, but Dr. Greed has done a fine job. I think we're coming along but we have a long way to go," said Board Vice President Ernie Zoppi.

Greed said MBS results in each school will be discussed by PTAs "to see the similarities and differences between schools and classes," although he stressed that comparing Belleville's scores to nearby districts "would be an exercise in futility, it's odious and misleading...when comparisons are made, you suffer."

He said because Belleville doesn't "tailor its curriculum to what the state testing people think is important," and other districts might, Belleville could look worse than its neighbors, though teaching quality might be superior.

Because the state's educational assessment (EAP) program (part of T&E), only stresses minimum standards, Greed notes that some school systems may be depriving their children of a liberal education by focusing strictly on state testing, which often requires teachers to spend much time on drill concepts being tested.

Although MBS booklets are distributed to third, sixth, ninth and eleventh grade teachers, they should supplement the MBS problems with extra, probably more creative assignments, said Greed.

Of 448 ninth grade students taking MBS math tests, 347 or 78 percent exceeded the 65 percent passing score. More attention is needed in addition and subtraction of mixed numbers, subtracting decimals, dividing and multiplying decimals and problems using percents.

Detailed explanations for finding the area of geometric figures and converting inches, feet and yards to metric measurements must be given and reinforced. Basic business math like computing discounts and interest also needs work, says the report.

Of 420 eleventh graders taking the MBS reading test, 336 or 80 percent surpassed the 75 percent minimum correct score. However, many were unable to judge a word's meaning from its context in a sentence.

"Our (ninth graders') strength was evident in the areas of following directions, finding main ideas, making inferences, determining meaning, relating ideas and determining validity. Our weakness lies in distinguishing fact, fiction and opinion, identifying signal words purpose of the author, and distinguishing what is relevant and irrelevant."

"To improve...the reading program must be enlarged to reach all of our students in remedial and developmental reading (and) our SCE program must be enlarged to handle more students (and) more SCE teachers are necessary (together) with smaller classes and individualized instruction," notes the report.

To raise English scores, a team effort between regular and SCE teachers must be made to teach students "the skills of (using) reference sources, library materials, etc..." teachers must plan to (make) assignments so the library becomes the heart of the school for both students and teachers.

Reading books and reading kits on all grade levels must be studied and purchased, along with providing reading workshops and in-service training to help teachers comprehensively focus on their specific subjects, says the report, adding that only one reading teacher and one-and-a-half SCE teachers now teach at the high school.

Only 75 percent, or 313 of 420 eleventh students, taking the MBS math test passed. As Greed suggested, high school students may not be taking MBS tests seriously, but other noted educators feel because

BHS career night next Wednesday

By Lisa Pitera

The Belleville High School Guidance Department and the high school Home and School Association will cosponsor a career night next Wednesday, beginning at 7 p.m.

Career night is open to everyone in the Belleville community. The Home and School Association and the guidance department have collaborated in notifying the parents of BHS students. Dr. Richard Benninger, the director of guidance, feels parents should be involved with their children's career interests and hopes there will be a good turnout Wednesday night.

Speakers representing a wide range of career possibilities will be present to answer questions about their fields.

Programs will be distributed at 7 p.m. in the BHS cafeteria. Starting at 7:15 p.m. there will be two 45-minute periods, during which students and parents may attend any two seminars. From 8:45 to 9 p.m., refreshments will be served in the cafeteria with help from the Student Government Organization and other service clubs.

Speakers representing the following careers will be present: electrical wiring, secretarial science, accounting, court reporting, computer science, communications, hair styling, fashion merchandising, modeling, cosmetics, liberal arts/music, music, mechanics, travel and tourism, hotel and restaurant management, architecture, engineering, banking, law/law enforcement, medical association, nursing, dental assistants, chemical technology, psychology, journalism and aviation. There will also be representatives from all of the armed services and state and private colleges.

MBS tests do represent minimum standards, each school system must motivate students to perform their best since MBS scores culled statewide are used to judge the public school system.

"Special review of addition and subtraction of mixed numbers with regrouping, multiplying decimals by zero, dividing decimals by themselves and by multiples of 10," is needed. Converting fractions to decimals and rounding off decimals also requires reteaching, says the report.

As in ninth grade, determining metric length and a circle's area both need emphasis. "More review is needed interpreting a line graph and (determining) discounts, check stub completions, reading maps and estimating mileage," concludes the report.

Trustees are glad Belleville students are improving basic skills but emphasize much hard work remains to be done before anyone can stop being concerned, including students, parents, teachers, administrators or themselves.

"I'm vitally concerned about reading. I'm concerned about the Junior High School kids. If kids are not being exposed to developmental reading (sequential steps to increase reading comprehension and intelligence), then we must look into this. The stress in the upper grades is on comprehension," said Trustee Anthony D'Agostino Tuesday while discussing Project Read and Write, a program being used in two Newark grammar schools, supported by federal funding.

Trustees decided to consider not only Project Read and Write, but to have Director of Grants George Nucera more actively search for federal funding for basic skills programs.

Miss DeLuca, John Hudak are married

Miss Stephanie DeLuca, daughter of Mrs. Margaret DeLuca of 10 Humbert St. and the late Mr. Louis DeLuca, was married Sept. 22 to John Hudak, son of Mrs. Marie Rizzolo of Newark and the late Mr. James Rizzolo.

The Rev. Benedetto Pascale performed the ceremony at Silver Lake Baptist Church with a reception following at The Chandelier, Belleville.

Miss Denise Russo of Nutley was her sister's maid of honor. Miss Diane Bellotti of Belleville was bridesmaid. Ralph Palmieri of Newark was best man with James Rizzolo, brother of the groom, ushering.

Mrs. Hudak, a graduate of Nutley High School, is a junior office assistant with Public Service Electric and Gas Company.

Mr. Hudak, an alumnus of Baringer High School, is an Essex County correction officer.

The couple honeymooned across country and now reside in Las Vegas, Nev.

While there, Miss Sinnott majored in fashion marketing and management. She is a graduate of Belleville High School.

Cancer Society meeting scheduled for Dec. 12

The Essex County Unit of the American Cancer Society will conduct a public education committee meeting next Wednesday at the group's headquarters, 336 South Harrison St., East Orange. The committee is responsible for instituting, coordinating and following up on all society cancer education programs.

The society today asked Nutley and Belleville residents to volunteer in "helping us get our message to the people and to wipe out disease."

"If you are interested in fighting cancer through education and alerting your friends and neighbors to its warning signals, please call the society at 678-1990."

Umberto's Corner

Dear Umberto,

My mother has grey hair and she doesn't like it anymore. She decided to be brown so she went to a beauty salon to dye it brown and it didn't take. Her hair was messy grey. She went to another place and the color still didn't take. When she went to the drug store she bought brown coloring. She brought it home for me to do. I told her, "If they don't know what to do in a salon how can I do it?"

Waiting for your answer. The lady with the stubborn mother. Dear lady, Leave it to me and I know the answer. The reason why the color didn't take is because your mother has very right hair. It's very hard to color it but let me tell you one of my secrets how to color it when the hair is stubborn. I see your mother wants to color it brown. Take the color that she chose, mix it with peroxide, take a teaspoon of ammonia and put it in the color, mix well. Do not let it go into the eyes, ears, and facial areas. This mixture will work. She will be very proud of you because you did something that the other beauticians couldn't do.

Yours Truly

Catherine Danieli in new 'Who's Who'

A Belleville coed at Upsala College in East Orange has been selected as one of the nation's most outstanding campus leaders and will be honored in the 1979-80 edition of 'Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.'

Catherine Kaye Danieli, daughter of Alberta and Frank Danieli of 14 Avenue St., was chosen on the basis of academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential. She was selected from more than 4,200 institutions of higher learning in the United States, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Miss Danieli, a junior, is majoring in business administration. She is a graduate of Belleville High School where she was a National Honor Society member.

Frank A. Frederick of Belleville is serving on the environmental planning committee of the 1979-80 Student Government at Thiel College in Greenville, Pa.

Frederick, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frederick, 119 Carpenter St., assists the governing body with its responsibilities for representing student concerns to the faculty, administration and board of trustees.

Frederick is a senior majoring in biology and environmental studies at the western Pennsylvania liberal arts college.

Gerard Servidio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Servidio, 158 Beech St., is enrolled as a freshman at Flagler College, St. Augustine, Fla.

Servidio is majoring in business administration. Flagler is a coeducational, liberal arts college with pre-professional programs in business, administration, education and social science.

Three Belleville freshmen were welcomed to Caldwell College in a ceremony last month. They were Paula Busto, 34 Brighton Ave., Deborah Perrone, 26 Howard Place, and Lisa Sammaro, 24 Rosmore Place.

At the "freshman in vestiture" ceremony, the three residents were robed for the first time in academic attire and presented tassels for the first time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Idenden of Tappan Avenue and Mr. and Mrs. P.S. Chatham of Joramelon Street recently attended a parents' weekend at Chatham College in Pittsburgh, Pa. They participated in class observation and special programs designed to acquaint them with faculty, administration and student activities.

Stevens Tech appoints Moeller associate dean

Dr. Joseph J. Moeller Jr. has been promoted from assistant dean to associate dean for educational development at Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken.

Moeller, a Belleville resident, has been with the institute since 1970 when he joined the department of electrical engineering as an instructor. He was promoted to assistant professor in 1975 and was made assistant dean in 1977. He is responsible for developing and coordinating special educational programs and educational funding proposals.

Moeller has earned undergraduate, master's and doctoral degrees from Stevens. In 1973, he was honored by the institute with the Freygang Award for Outstanding Teaching. In 1975, the Outstanding Americans Group named him Outstanding Educator of America, and in 1977, the same group named him Outstanding Young Man in America.

Horton training at Lincoln Tech

Robert B. Horton of Belleville has begun training at the Lincoln Technical Institute for an entry-level position as auto diesel technician.

Horton lives at 543 Washington Ave. Lincoln Tech is a private school offering courses in air conditioning, refrigeration and heating as well as automotive and diesel technology.

Taking a Reading — Public health nurses Nancy Verian and Joanne Kurek take the blood pressure of Belleville Junior Woman's Club President Sherry Moccia.

Belleville Juniors sponsor craft bus and blood clinic

Members of the health department of the Belleville Junior Woman's Club recently sponsored the New Jersey Commission for the Blind's mobile craft bus.

The bus was in use for two days by Belleville Juniors and the public was invited to browse and shop. The proceeds were donated to the Commission for the Blind.

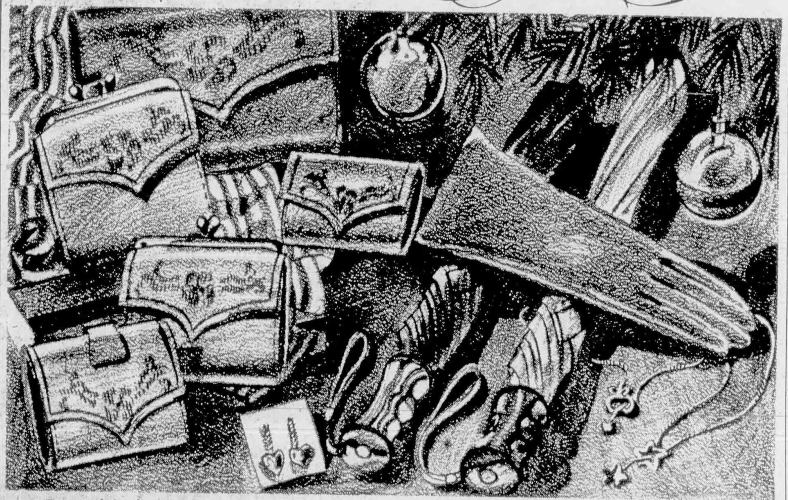

The bus contained handmade items made by visually impaired adults who produce them as a source of income.

It was the sixth time the Belleville Juniors had sponsored a bus, which tours the state throughout the year.

Janet Pickover coordinated the visit. On Nov. 12, the club sponsored a public blood pressure clinic. Twenty persons took advantage of the program and had their blood pressure read and received information on hypertension.

Public health nurses Joanne Kurek and Nancy Verian of the Belleville Health Department conducted the tests. Linda Caputo, the club's social services chairman, coordinated the program.

Selection of reliable sources of health information and advice is of course very important to consumer health. In addition to that provided by television, radio, magazines, newspapers, etc., official health information is readily available as well. But all health information should be carefully appraised along scientific guidelines or both reliable and unreliable sources of health information exist. Then a selection of products and services needed by the health consumer can be made intelligently. The most important question to ask is whether this health information comes from a reliable source.

We're here to reliably answer your questions on prescription drugs, and consider that an important part of our complete services at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1968, 759-1956. We'll be happy to help you select the right cosmetics, toiletries, Times watches and other items for Christmas gifts. Open: 9am-10pm daily, 9am-9pm Sundays.

School 9 raises PTA funds in 'Santa's Shop'

Unique Project — Pupils at School 9 participated in the annual Santa's Secret Shop program there. Children learned to shop, budget and make decisions as they selected items for Christmas. All proceeds went to the local Parent-Teacher Association.

The School 9 PTA held its annual Santa's secret shop program Nov. 28-30. It is a unique program for it not only raises funds for the PTA but offers a memorable learning experience for each child.

There were 70 different types of gifts, ranging from 10 cents to $3. Each child received the educational experience of learning to shop, budgeting and making his own decisions. In addition, he learned to recognize the denominations and value of money.

Some gifts available were assorted tool kits, candles, jewelry, mugs, novelty items and educational toys. Mary Ellen Scala was the event's chairman. Each class came down to purchase gifts during the three days and shop for family members.

Teacher's club holds toy drive for Christmas

By Ava Zarrello

The Future Teacher's Club of Belleville High School held a toy drive from Nov. 3-17. Different kinds of children's toys and clothing were collected to give to needy children during the holiday season.

After all the items were collected, the group headed towards the Children's Shelter dressed as Santa and his elves to give and share with the children a little joy.

The group expresses its appreciation for any effort of those who helped support the cause. Many children are not as fortunate as we and don't have a home of their own. They enjoy and really appreciate visitors looking to give them joy. This type of work gives true meaning to the Christmas spirit.

New Addition — Instructor Lucha Lapina works with senior student Cindy Dunning on newly purchased typing computers at Belleville High School.

SGO selling holiday wrap

By Donna Marie Jones

The Student Government Organization of Belleville High School has already begun its Christmas fund-raising project. Selling wrapping paper is the function and purpose of the members of this group, and they hope to raise enough money to help support a dance or some other type of school activity such as a talent or gong show.

The package is selling for a total of $2, and there are 16 sheets of this wrapping paper contained in every bag. The paper is both decorative and colorful, and there is something for almost everyone.

The SGO hope that all will support its cause and help to make this a most successful and enjoyable fund-raiser.

Musicians will see 'Nutcracker' ballet

By Toni Grippaldi

On Wednesday, Dec. 19, there will be a field trip to see "The Nutcracker" ballet.

Approximately 50 people — about half of them Belleville High School music students and the other half teachers and parents — will attend the ballet. "The Nutcracker" will be performed by the New York City Ballet at the Lincoln Center.

Students, parents and teachers are all going to leave the high school at about 4:30 p.m. to head for New York City. They will be transported by bus.

The cost of the tickets for the ballet ranged from $3 to $20, depending on the seat the person desired.

Everyone is looking forward to this trip which will fill all who attend with true Christmas spirit.

Jazz band keeps alive 'big band' era music

By Nancy Roberts

Once again, jazz band is underway this year under the direction of Mr. Andy Silbert. Jazz band is a group of about 25 students who play big band music. They practice twice a week on their own time after school on Thursday and Monday nights.

Anyone can join jazz band. The instruments that make it up are saxophones, trumpets, trombones and the rhythm section.

Presently, the band is working on the once hit, "Love Will Keep Us Together," by the Captain and Tennille. They will be performing in a band show this May and will be in several jazz festivals throughout the year.

Oarsmen start practice for spring crew season

By Nancy Lisboa

The Belleville High crew team, known as a rowing team, is warming up for its season which begins in March. The crew members are doing various exercises including running, calisthenics, isometrics, lifting weights and working out on the ergometer (rowing machine). The girls do the same types of exercises as the boys, but in lesser quantities.

They practice after school from 3 till about 4 or 4:30 behind the school store at Belleville High. Mr. Sam Giuffrida also has them rowing anywhere from three to four miles a day on the ergometer and running two miles in Kearny Park.

When they start racing and if they row at home, the crews will start near the Little Street entrance to Route 21 north. From there, they will row one mile south (towards Newark) and the miles will end about 100 feet from the Rutgers Street bridge on the southside. People will observe the race at the bridge or the dockhouse. The dockhouse is located in Kearny and it's shared by the Belleville, Kearny and Nutley crew teams.

When the people observe the race at the bridge or dockhouse, it is because it's not the start that counts but the finish.

Mr. Giuffrida's goals for the crew team are to go to the Stotesbury Regatta in Pennsylvania and for all their races to end in victories!

Seniors wear hats to promote 'spirit'

By Denise Lardieri

The Senior Senate is holding its annual hat day tomorrow for the second time. Seniors are allowed to wear hats of their choice as long as they aren't helmets or anything similar.

Robert McDonough, an English teacher and senior class advisor at the high school, commented, "The purpose of hat day is to promote school spirit and just to have a lot of fun. Last year was extremely successful and hopefully this year will be even better." Considering Belleville High's school spirit this year, it just might be.

Belleville High group keeps philosophy from extinction

By Kelly Martin

Today philosophy is a dying art and Mr. Patrick Ritacco and a group of enthusiastic students have organized a meeting of minds and revived philosophy in Belleville High. The group was started for students who enjoy discussing and debating philosophical matters.

Too many people are intimidated by the mention of philosophy and associate the word with people who sit with their noses behind books all day. Not so: the group discusses the many ideas and beliefs of man. This covers a lot of ground. For instance, the group discusses topics like the size of the universe, the great philosophers of yesterday and the 20th century, scientific theories, like those about black holes, and even current topics like the situation in Iran.

Mr. Ritacco feels that the "beauty" of this group is the fact that there are no written rules or list of members. It is run on an open-door policy where anyone can come to a meeting and contribute his thoughts. So far, the average number of people who attend meetings is about 12 or 13, but Mr. Ritacco feels the group could get as many as 20 people to attend.

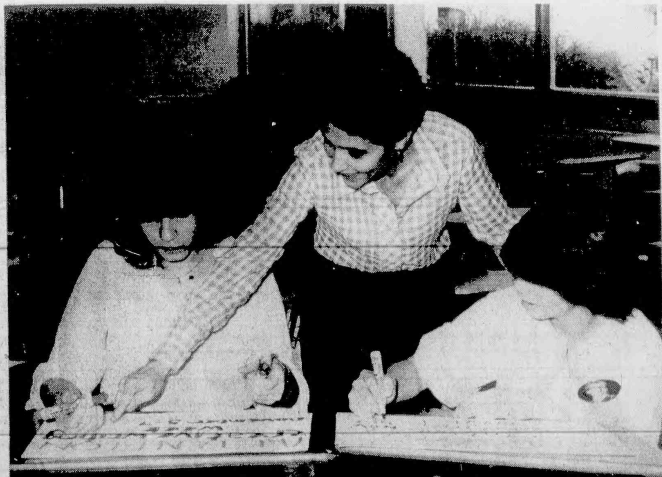

The club is open to all students, and meetings are held in the library. The reason for having meetings there is because many sources are right at hand to use if a debate arises and any point must be brought to light. The group also watches the Associated Press newswire of cable TV to keep up with current events. Although there are no strict, written rules: the students who participate are extremely courteous to each other and listen to one another's views. All of these students are well informed and well versed on the subjects they discuss, and this makes listening to them very interesting.

And as Mr. Ritacco pointed out, none of these students was forced to join the group. They came to the meetings of their own free will and only come to participate because they want to and like to. This is all for pure enjoyment and enlightenment on the students' part. There are no dues to pay or strict rules to follow. This is simply a meeting of minds where the topics are unlimited and all questions and answers are possible.

International — Fifth and sixth grade teacher at School 3 ran an "International Day" recently for pupils there. Caught in their native garb are (l-r) Chris Fetch, Mark Palumbo, Susan Aschauer, Aileen MacDonald, Laura Messito, Anna Turano, Sandy Kelly and Felicia Del Duca. Pupils entertained parents with the special program.

Preparation — Arlene McFarland, advisor to Emanon, the BHS literary magazine, prepares advertising posters for the recent creative writing week with Debbie Garofola and Kelly Martin.

Better quarterback used as door 'Matt'

For the entire season, Jet fans, myself included, have been pondering the quarterback situation and coming up with a disgusted sigh.

The 1979 New York Jets have been a major disappointment. Some people may blame the defense, one that is vulnerable to the pass. You certainly cannot blame the running game. It currently is tops in the NFL.

Let's face it, what has ruined the Jets this season is the total inconsistency of the "starting" quarterback, Richard Todd. Todd should never have been the starting quarterback. Matt Robinson earned the job in summer camp, played one game and hasn't played a down since.

The one game Robinson did play in, he completed 17 of 31 passes for 191 yards and one touchdown. This performance was supposedly with a bad thumb, an injury incurred in closing a hotel door. Tell me the one about Snow White and the seven dwarfs. Walt Michaels.

Furthermore, the Jets would have won that game with Cleveland had tackle defensive tackle Mark Gastineau not roughed the passer of fourth down late in the contest. The Jets were leading the Cleveland Browns 22-19, but the penalty set up the Browns' tying field goal and eventual win in overtime. What also has to be considered is that place kicker Pat Leahy missed two point-after attempts and a short field goal.

It's been a tough season for Robinson and the Jet fans, who have booed Todd all year long. After the outstanding season that Robinson gave the team last year, it looked like a pretty good bet that he would be back to run the club this year.

In 1978, Robinson came on as the starting quarterback after four games because Todd suffered a broken collar bone. Matt directed the team to wins over Miami, Buffalo, Baltimore twice, St. Louis and Denver. He ran the club well, mixing his running and passing with precision. He had the team in playoff contention until the 15th week of the season.

What epitomized the kind of season Robinson had was his efforts in the Denver and New England games. Against Denver, the Jets fell behind 28-7 in the second quarter. However, instead of panicking, Robinson directed the team with patience and poise to a 31-28 stunner in Mile High Stadium. The Jets scored the winning touchdown late in the game when Robinson hit Wes Walker with a 40-yard strike.

Later in the year, the Jets were host to the New Patriots. Todd had just been reactivated, and get this, Michaels decided to start him. This had to be a major blow to Robinson who had led the club to a 6-5 record. For three quarters, Todd was totally ineffective. Finally in the last quarter, with the Jets trailing 16-10, Robinson entered the game. His first pass was a 48-yard bomb to Walker who was all alone. The Jets went ahead 17-16. They would have won the game had the officials not burned them with a bad call late in the contest and had Leahy not missed a last-second field goal. The Patriots won the game 19-17.

Since Richard Todd has been the quarterback, the Jets have had a 6-7 record. He has led the team to one touchdown against Minnesota, two against Miami, none against Baltimore in the first game, none against New England and one against Seattle and its swiss cheese defense. The Seattle game was a good example of Todd's inefficiency. He was absolutely atrocious in front of a Monday night TV crowd.

In all this time, do you think that Jet coach Michaels would make a change? Nope. He was quick to bench Robinson, but when it comes to the inept and simply mediocre Todd, it's a different story.

And so, the Jets who have been out of the playoff picture since the 10th week of the season will close out the year with Todd as the quarterback. The team record is currently 6-8, and the chances look bleak for a repeat of last year's 8-8 mark. Furthermore, the Jets were 8-6 at this time last year and that was playing the NFL's toughest schedule.

Walt Michaels and Richard Todd are to blame for this year's disappointment; not the defense. It was the defense that won the Miami game by blocking a punt and falling on it in the endzone. The defense also intercepted a Bob Griese pass and returned it for a touchdown. The defense won the Minnesota game by intercepting a pass and returning it for a touchdown. The defense won the Oakland game by intercepting Ken Stabler five times and halting the usual strong Raider running game. The defense might have been more effective if it had more time to rest on the sidelines. It seemed every time the defensemen would leave the field, they would have to come back because Todd would throw one of his brilliant passes that were being caught by the team wearing the other jerseys.

And finally, the front office should realize this: A bright point of the 1979 season was the Jets' fine attendance, the best showing in a number of years at Shea. You know the reason why? It was because of the play of Robinson and the Jets in 1978, not Richard Todd. If the team hopes to continue to do well at the box office, the front office had better start investing in Matt Robinson stock. It has been known to yield high dividends. Shea Stadium is a ghost town while the Mets play, let's not make it that way from September to December as well.

Did you watch the Sugar Ray Leonard-Benitez fight? It was good to see an American bring home the title. Leonard is probably one of the best lightweights to come around in a long time, and he should hold the title for a good period of time.

The Giants played a good first half before falling to Dallas in the second half 28-7. Let's face it, the Giants are a good ballclub. They're moving at a good pace. The coach, Ray Perkins, is doing a fine job. Phil Simms, the rookie quarterback, is looking awfully impressive. But they are not in Dallas's class. Not by a long shot.

Here is the answer to last week's quiz. The question was who were the starters on Belleville's last winning basketball team? The answer is Abdel Anderson at center, Joe Dunn and Doug Jackson at forwards and Wayne Richey and Bob Tsai at guards. Also worth mentioning is the fine play of Michael Meagher and John Megna for the 1974-75 team.

Here is this week's quiz, for all you college basketball fans. In 1974, UCLA was beaten in the semifinals round of the NCAA tournament. The Bruins' elimination meant that the team would not be the national champ for the first time in six years. The question is what team beat UCLA and went on to win the 1974 NCAA tournament?

1979 saw continuation of grid program ascent

By Mike Lamberti

John Senesky has been football coach at Belleville High for three years. His first season ended in a 2-6-1 Belleville record. The Bucs were blasted by Seton Hall 63-0, Livingston 40-0, and Passaic 36-12. In his second season, the team was 6-3. The Bucs beat Livingston 28-14, were blasted again by Passaic and lost to Seton Hall 28-6.

In 1979, the Bucs put it all together. They finished the season with an 8-2 mark. They beat Livingston, 35-8, Passaic 26-14 and Seton Hall 14-13. What a difference three years make! The 1979 Bucs could very well have gone undefeated. They were beaten by Montclair, 14-7 and by Union 15-12 in the first round of the Group IV, Section 2 playoffs. It took a late touchdown by the Farmers to beat the Bucs and spoil the team's Cinderella season.

But what wasn't sullied in the least was the fine effort the team gave all season long. It all started back on Sept. 24 when the Bucs buried the Lancers of Livingston 35-8. The win was particularly impressive because Livingston would not lose again until the finals of the Group IV, Section 2 playoffs. The Bucs were completely devastating in this game as they halted the Lancers through the air and on the ground.

The following week, the team traveled to Montclair where it lost in the heat 14-7. It took a late touchdown pass from halfback Steve Puryear, the Mounties' finest, to Aubrey Lewis for Montclair to upend the tough Bucs.

With their record at 1-1, the Bucs traveled to Nutley, where the Raiders were waiting with fire in their eyes. They remembered the embarrassing 31-0 loss of 1978 and were determined to be up for this game. They played their hearts out but fell short 7-0 when quarterback Ed Aulisi hit Lenny Mendola with a 40-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter.

Belleville returned home to Passaic and beat the unbeaten Indians 26-14. Bob LaBuzza was the star of this game, scoring one touchdown and rushing for 137 yards. Senesky felt it was the finest effort by his team all season long.

Belleville had a tough time with winless Irvington the following week but prevailed 7-0. Once again, Aulisi hit Mendola for the game's only score.

The Bucs cranked up the offensive machine against Essex Catholic the following week, winning 53-0. The win boosted the team record to 5-1 and set up the big game with the Pirates of Seton Hall.

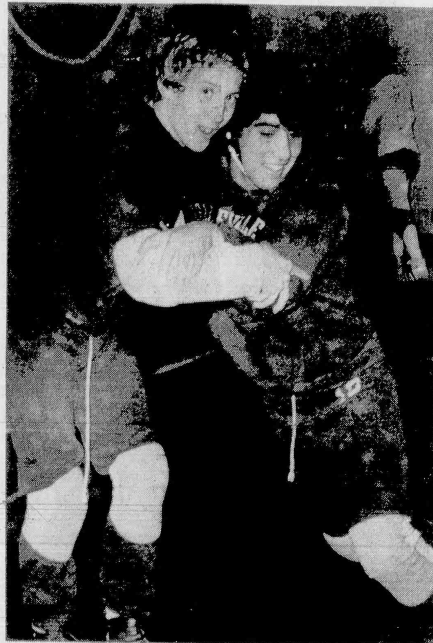

Unlike the 1978 fiasco, this game with the Pirates was well-handled by the officials. Furthermore, it was a thriller of a game from the opening kickoff as Belleville rallied from deficits of 7-0 and 13-7 to post a 14-13 win. The winning score came late in the afternoon when Aulisi hit, who else, Mendola for the game winner.

Belleville needed a win over Clark the following week to assure itself of a playoff berth. The Bucs had all they could handle in this game as the Crusaders played the Bucs even for three quarters. However, the last quarter saw the veteran Belleville squad pull out a 26-17 win in the rain and gloom of Belleville Stadium. The win sent the Bucs to Giants Stadium.

Most of you fans know that Belleville lost on a late touchdown to Union 15-12. It was a tough game to lose, but the Bucs played it with class and took the decision like true champions.

In their last test, the Bucs finished the season at 8-2 with a 50-0 trouncing of Kearny. Mendola concluded his fine career with a five-touchdown performance and 176 yards rushing. All told, the senior halfback rushed for over 700 yards in the year.

Tuesday, the Bucs' annual football dinner was held by the varsity club at the Wayne Manor. The Times/News will present a full story dedicated to the 24 seniors who will be leaving the Bucs as well as pictures of from entire evening.

Class Action — Senior Belleville wrestlers Tom Craziano and Gerard Minichini appear to be fooling around at mat practice Monday afternoon, but it will be all business when the team starts the season next week. The boys' and girls' basketball squads also have openers coming up, and The Times/News will have team previews next week.

What will future football teams be like? Meet this year's frosh

In case you're worried that the Belleville varsity football team might be depleted next year because of the loss of 24 seniors, you'll be relieved to know that the Belleville freshman team finished with a 7-1 record.

As a matter of fact, the freshman have lost just one game in the last three years, a good indication of what to expect on the varsity level in the next couple of seasons.

This year's team was coached by Michael Welsh and newcomer Vinnie Casale. Welsh took charge of the offense, while Casale nailed down the offensive and defensive lines. They did a great job together. The offense scored 198 points, 106 of them in the second half. The defense allowed just 56 points and only 14 in the second half.

The junior Bucs averaged 25.7 points a game, while giving up just seven points a game. The team's only loss was a 6-0 setback to the Pony Pirates of Seton Hall in the final seconds.

Belleville's victories were against Bloomfield South 25-7, Montclair 7-0, Nutley 22-8, Passaic 13-6, Irvington 22-16, Essex Catholic 48-14 and a rout of Kearny, 61-0.

The starting center was Craig Mack. The guards on offense were Ron Chiles and Fred Scherrer. The tackles were David Grant and Anthony Gammara, while the tight end was Ray Kimble.

On defense, Casale's troops consisted first of Rober Humphreys at nose guard. Humphreys led the team with eight quarterback sacks. Sam Pica, Ron Chiles and Craig Mack shared the defensive tackle slot. Ray Kimble, David Grant and Cosmo Rizzo were the defensive ends. At linebackers were Jack McCabe, Vin Ciallela and Joe Persoud.

Doing an equally fine job were center Tom Vaccaro, guards Carmen Marglia and Greg Lowak and tackles Joseph Nitti and Amedeo Salemoni. The tight end was Fabian Swain.

The team's quarterback was John Borello. He is a smart athlete with good sense of opposing defenses. He knew his formations well and was a great team leader.

The full back was McCabe. He was effective as a short yardage man and was very well known to opposing tacklers for his crunching blocks. The left halfback was Jim Castelli. He has good speed and given an inch of daylight would leave the opposition in the dust. Bob Candelieri was the team's high scorer with 13 touchdowns. He played the right halfback position. He also did the team's point-after kicking. According to Welsh, "He could do it all. Six of his touchdowns were from 50 yards or further."

Ciallela was a strong backup at the fullback slot. Also getting time in the backfield were Mark Senatore, Joe Tracey and Tom Zecca.

At the split end positions were Bob Della Riva and Joe DeFeo. The two brought in the plays to Borello and did a fine job with some great catches and some good speed.

Also playing at the split end positions were Jude Muzzicko, Bob Walker and Joe Bunucci.

Finally, the cheerleaders who did such a good job in supporting the team all year long were Donna Gonnello, Mary Beth Del Tufo, Lisa Floria, Patty Gonzalez, Alice Alliello, Doreen DeMayo, Robin Forsyth, Linda Cozzarelli, Lisa Romano and Susan Conti. The cheering squad's advisor was Annie Aulisi. — Mike Lamberti

First Winner — The Belleville-Kearny game trophy is displayed by school officials from the two towns. The trophy, instituted just this year, went to the Bucs Thanksgiving Day after they had whipped the Kards 50-0. It will remain here in Belleville until the day a Kearny football team is able to take it away. From left are Frank Monaco, Don LoCasto, Walt Green and Flo Sherm, all of Kearny; Belleville Board of

Lancers, Aztecs, Cosmos win soccer tournaments

Indian summer weather the weekend before last allowed for the completion of the 1979 Belleville Recreation soccer season. Conditions were finally dry, and the Rec players were soaked with desire and determination as one tournament title came within reach.

The league championships in Divisions I and III had already been won, but the Division II crown remained to be decided in a playoff among three teams with identical 4-1 records.

The Cosmos drew a bye into the final round of play and they were to meet the winner of the Foros-Aztecs matchup. The Foros edged the Aztecs 1-0 in a well played, defensive battle. George Ricci scored for the Foros in the first period, while goalie Ralph Caruso shut down all Aztec threats.

Boxing group honors Frank

Steve H. Frank of Belleville was one of four former boxers honored recently by Bergen-Essex-Passaic Ring No. 9, National Veteran Boxers Association.

Frank is a boxing and general sports writer. He and his wife Evelyn were in Puerto Rico when the presentations were made Nov. 24 at the Bethwood in Totowa, and Stu Levine, a writer for Boxing World magazine, accepted Frank's award. Other honored were Frankie "Chico" Doyle of Passaic, Bobby Gilmore of Elmwood Park and Henry Hascup of Lodi.

In post-season tournament action the Division I Lancers beat the Spurs 2-1 for the title. Mike McGreevy and Rich Moraski paced the Lancers to their 16th straight victory. Steve Mulhearn scored the only goal for the Spurs in a very physical final game. Mulhearn led the Spurs to their 1-0 victory over the Aztecs en route to the finals.

The Aztecs topped the Foros 2-1 in the Division II playoff final. Sal Woodcock and Philip Zanloot scored the Aztecs, while Jim Eustice chalked up a goal for the Foros.

In the first round of the Division III tournament, the Comets failed to put seven players on the field and the Aztecs were awarded a forfeit. The Foros advanced to the semifinals by beating the Spurs 2-0 on goals by Robert Ricci and Pete Russo.

In the semifinals round, the Cosmos defeated the Aztecs 5-1. Steven Hywel scored twice and Chris Charamonte, Steve Tice and Alex Araya had one apiece for the Cosmos after Sal Juliano had put the Aztecs on the board first. Joe Cerreto's three goals were all the Lancers needed to top the Foros 3-0.

In the final game, the Cosmos nipped the Lancers 1-0. The lone score came in the first period when Walter Capozzella drilled a throw-in pass just out of the reach of the Lancer goalie.

The regular-season champs were Lancers, Division I; Cosmos, Division II and Cosmos, Division III. The post-season tournament champs were Lancers, Division I; Aztecs, Division II and Cosmos, Division III.

Division I coaches this season were Gary Serio, Aztecs; John Scaria, Lancers; Frank Dinverno, Spurs; and Tom Grassio, Foros. Coaches in Division II were Bart Botta, Aztecs; Mike Biondi, Comets; Burt Tobia, Cosmos; Doug Wamsley, Lancers; Pete Gurst, Spurs; and Nick D'Aloia Jr., Foros. Coaching in Division III were Lou Ritacco, Aztecs; Lois Intindola, Comets; Walter Hywel, Cosmos; Ralph Piccinini, Lancers; Michael Van Emburgh, Spurs; and Nick D'Aloia Sr., Foros.

Military personnel complete training

Marine Pvt. Michael G. Shenton, son of Martha Keegan of 15 Elena Place, has completed a motor vehicle operator's course.

During the seven-week skill training at Marine Corps Development and Education Command, Quantico, Va., Shenton received classroom and behind-the-wheel instruction on the operation and capabilities of Marine Corps vehicles, defensive driving techniques, rules of the road and preventive maintenance.

A 1977 graduate of Belleville High School, Shenton joined the Marine Corps in March 1979.

Pvt. Anthony C. Bell, son of Mrs. Vera Bell, 188 Branch Brook Drive, recently completed advanced individual training at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. This qualified Bell as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect fire crewman. He was taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.

Bell entered the Army last July.

Airman Kenneth H. Nash Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Nash of 4 Melvex St., has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training.

During his six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, Nash studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, he earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Nash will now receive specialized instruction in the administration field. He is a 1979 graduate of Belleville High School.

Vietnam vets not using all their GI Bill benefits

Half of all veterans who served during the Vietnam War are still eligible for GI Bill education benefits, according to Veterans Administration statistics.

Although 65 percent of the nine million plus veterans of the Vietnam Era have used the GI Bill, the Veterans Administration estimates that more than five million are still entitled to some or all of the training time earned.

The estimate is based on the number of veterans who have not reached the 10th anniversary of their separation from military service when by law their GI Bill education rights expire.

"The Veterans Administration is eager that veterans know that training must be completed within this 10-year period," James R. Purdy, director of the Newark Veterans Administration Regional Office said. "It is a waste to allow this valuable entitlement to slip by."

Officials predict that 887,000 veterans will lose their eligibility during the 12-month period which started Oct. 1, fiscal year 1980 for the federal government.

This is eligibility that could mean up to:

- 45 months of financial assistance for school or college, farm or on-the-job training or a combination of school and job training.

- $725 in earnings a semester through VA's work-study program if the veteran is in college full-time.

- $825 tutorial assistance if the veteran is deficient in a required subject.

- $2,500 in low-interest direct loans an academic year, based upon financial need.

- While many have reached their educational goal and more than one million will train this year," Purdy said, "we urge veterans with entitlement to start a program early enough to complete it before time runs out."

Veterans in the midst of training lose their right to Veterans Administration payments 10 years after their separation dates, and all activities under the current bill cease Dec. 31, 1989. For more information call 645-1438 or visit the regional office at 20 Washington Place, Newark.

Farrell named aide-de-camp by national VFW commander

Art Farrell of Belleville has been appointed by Veterans of Foreign Wars National Commander-in-Chief Howard F. Vander Clute of Montvale to serve as a national aide-de-camp for 1979-80. Farrell, 137 Birchwood Drive, is a member of VFW Post 1851.

Vander Clute, head of the nearly two million-member organization of overseas veterans, commented, "It is because of the tireless efforts of civic-minded citizens like Mr. Farrell that the veterans and communities the VFW serves have been affected in a positive manner."

"Our programs touch every citizen in the community," continued Vander Clute. "They help the young, the old, the Vietnam veteran, the World War I veteran. I am pleased to make this appointment because I know Mr. Farrell will do an outstanding job for the VFW. Our theme for this year is 'In Front of the Rest' and that means the veteran, his community and his country."

Salvatore Mondo; AMVETS member

A Mass was offered Monday in Sacred Heart Church, Bloomfield, for Salvatore A. Mondo, 56, who died Friday at Clara Maass Memorial Hospital.

Before his retirement in 1974, Mr. Mondo was a mechanic for Transport of New Jersey, Maplewood, 35 years. An Army veteran of World War II, he was a member of Belleville AMVETS Post 26.

Mr. Mondo was past president of the Railroad, Conti and James Associations, both of Bloomfield. He was a former member of the Bloomfield Recreation Board, an honorary member of the Bloomfield Fire Department and a founder of the Little League and Pon-Warner football league, both of Bloomfield.

Surviving are his wife, Satina; four daughters, Mrs. Satina Drexler of South Plainfield, and the Misses Elizabeth, Laurie Anne and Jacqueline Mondo; all of Bloomfield; three brothers, Vincent, Dominick and Louis Jr., all of Bloomfield; two sisters, Mrs. Marie Terenti and Mrs. Josephine Panoff, both of Bloomfield, and two grandchildren.

The LaMonte Memorial Home, Bloomfield, made arrangements. Interment was in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Bloomfield.

J. Kish; machinist

A service was held Monday for James Kish, who died last Thursday at John F. Kennedy Medical Center, Edison.

Before his retirement six years ago, Mr. Kish was a machinist for Westinghouse Corporation, Bloomfield.

Born in New Brunswick, Mr. Kish lived in Newark, Belleville and Nuddy before moving to Fords three months ago.

Library branch addition criticized for building face, lack of parking

Director Hickey said library trustees had been trying for 16 years to come up with property for parking, but to no avail. Congregation Ahavah Achim, on Academy Street to the rear of the Washington Avenue library, had made offers to sell some of its land, on which a temple wing is located, but Hickey said those offers hadn't been concrete. In any case, he added, purchasing the property would have eaten up too much money needed for the library addition. He said a driveway might be put on the existing library property to create one or two spaces, and planners eventually attached this as a condition to their approval.

Planners wanted to know if the addition couldn't be built on the congregation property or if the Ahavah Achim wing couldn't itself be used as the addition, but Hickey said neither option would be feasible because of the steep grading on the hill on which the library is located. He pointed out that the second floor of an addition behind the library would be 20 feet higher than the main building and that the addition would be 40 to 60 feet away, making for administrative problems. "This would create a monstrous construction not in keeping with good library procedure," the director said.

Thomas P. Greco of 2 Morse Place told planners they'd be "enhancing an error" by putting the addition anywhere near the main building. He criticized the site, saying Washington Avenue "is no longer the populated center of town."

Ray Koon, architect for the addition, said the red-colored block would blend with the brick on the existing building, but pressed for comparative costs, he said, "It wasn't a tremendous difference, it would just put us over our budget."

The new addition would contain a first-floor elevator to give the elderly and handicapped better access to the library, but, said board member Ralph Risoli, "There's no sense having the elevator if they'll have to walk a long way to the library." The library has no off-street parking facility and none was provided in the site plan.

Cub Scouts slate 'visit with Santa'

Cub Scout Pack 387 will sponsor a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. this coming Sunday at St. Anthony's Church.

Those attending will receive a gift from Santa, orange drink and potato chips. Tickets are $1.75 for children and parents are admitted free.

For more information, call Mary at 485-7154 or Tommy at 481-2770.

Belleville Policeman's Benevolent Association Local 28 will sponsor "Photos with Santa" 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. this Saturday through Dec. 24 at the Grand Union Mall.

The photos, $2 each, will be taken Mondays through Saturdays between Radio Shack and Pickwick Village. All proceeds will be donated to charity.

Planners okay Wendy's with several conditions

on the south and west sides of the lot, may be used only after 6 p.m., according to the terms of a five-year lease between Fucetola and Apiselli. Chandelier patrons may not park their own cars; there will be valet parking.

The Wendy's case was in danger of not being heard when Schmitt pointed out at the start that an earlier condition set by the board for approval of the site plan was that the Wendy's and Fabric Emporium be notified of the lease arrangement. Planners caucused and then agreed to change the condition and let Fucetola make the notification in any future lease agreements with the tenants themselves.

Fucetola wanted a jog in the wall where he owned a strip of land behind the property of John Giuliano, 1 Marion Court. That 10-foot strip of Fucetola's property lies outside the area of the site plan and in a residential, rather than commercial zone, and planners insisted that the wall be on the boundary line of the two zones. "Request it, you've been doing it for five months," said Fucetola, obviously exasperated.

Fucetola also wanted to put stucco and the back side of the fabric store. Planners wanted to see all brick facing and attached that as a condition to site plan approval. "I think it would be nicer for our community," said Board Chairman Joseph Grande, pointing out that the board had required one recent applicant to not brick on the side of a building facing railroad tracks.

"Well, you know it's a little bit out of whack as far as the cost," said Fucetola of the idea. Scott added that stucco was easier to maintain, noting that graffiti was harder to remove from brick. "Anybody who tells me graffiti can't be removed from brick is out-and-out lying," said Grande, citing a chemical brand used in the construction trade.

Other conditions set by the board were left-right turn lanes out of the Wendy's lot, signs for drive-up lanes, an update of site plan details, complete repaving of the parking area, approval of a variance for a sidewalk smaller than that permitted by town ordinance, and all underground utilities. This last item had been opposed by Fucetola as too expensive. The County Planning Board must also approve the site plan, and there were indications that it would not.

It was once, it's not now."

Greco suggested building an annex on the recreation property in the northwest part of town so that a library would be closer to where the majority of Belleville lives.

"Mr. Greco's idea of the center of town is very accurate, very correct," Hickey commented, adding library trustees actually had a preliminary site plan for construction in the northwest section. What they didn't have, the director said, was property to build on, and in any case, Hickey said, an annex would cost more than an addition to the main branch.

Hickey said a town of Belleville's size usually has just one library building. The Silver Lake branch was built because of the lack of public transportation from that area to the main branch. Four other sites had been considered, he said, but trustees had been blocked from acquiring those properties.

"We have almost come to the end of the road," Hickey told planners, stressing the need for quick action to get the addition underway before construction costs went any higher. State library funds must also be used, Hickey said, or they would lose the state, for instance, requires that 1979 funds be spent by 1981.

In the end, Hickey's sense of urgency seemed to convince planners to approve the project rather than delay. "I'm very reluctant to vote 'yes' but I don't want to see something like this go down the drain," said Grande.

Library trustees will meet with planners next Thursday to discuss the addition. "Maybe we could get somebody to get off their fanny and do something about the parking in this area," Grande said.

Hickey said about 75,000 persons visit the library in the course of a year but that more might come if it weren't so cramped. Room to move would be one of the benefits of the addition, he said. He added that activities which now must be carried on one at a time could be run simultaneously with the expansion.

Right now, Hickey said, the limited parking is an advantage in a way because only persons really wishing to use the library come there. Students who might ordinarily come to fool around stay away.

Students, though, would particularly benefit from the addition, the director told planners. A community as large as Belleville should have about 100,000 volumes in its library. There are about 79,000 or 80,000 now. "Youngsters come in looking for a book," said Hickey, "and we have to say, 'We're sorry. We only have a certain number of books, and you'll have to wait. We'll put your name on the list.'"

Center is still in need of funds, volunteers

school education and therapy for speech, physical and occupational problems, along with complete work program for teenagers and adults is offered.

An orthopedic surgeon, pediatrician, dentist, ophthalmologist, psychologist and social worker also are available to assist the center's students and parents.

Initiated in 1946 by a group of parents of children afflicted with cerebral palsy, which results from brain damage and often causes a lack of muscle control, the center has grown in size and sophistication over the years.

In March 1946, some parents and friends of cerebral palsy children met in Newark, with 20 people donating $15 each to begin an organization to help these children.

"As recently as 1946, the cerebral-palsied of this area were living as the cerebral-palsied had lived for centuries — many of them doomed to lives of inactivity and invalidism in a world unaware of their needs," said Charles Garrabrant, a center administrator in a speech during the dedication.

"The general public was unaware of the problem of cerebral palsy and neurological disabilities and there were few doctors with specialized knowledge available for treatment of these conditions which were in many instances referred to as Little's Disease or spastic paraplegia," noted Garrabrant.

In 1948, the first cerebral palsy treatment center and dental clinic began in one room of the Hospital for Crippled Children in Newark. "In spite of overcrowded conditions, a comprehensive treatment program was developed," said Garrabrant.

Because the board of directors wanted "to use all funds raised locally to help local children...we joined with six major health organizations known then as the Combined Cooperative Campaign and now as the United Way...to (maintain) our financial viability," said Garrabrant, naming many of the groups who have helped the center.

A staff of 55 trained therapists works five days a week, along with many volunteers, to keep the center going. About 160 children and young adults, besides 300 former students receiving out-patient care, like ongoing speech therapy, muscle stimulation and dental and medical check-ups, must be taken care of.

"It's remarkable how many people don't know that the Cerebral Palsy Center is here," said Dickinson, adding volunteers are always needed and financial support is never turned away.

"We're now probably the best equipped of 15 to 20 centers in New Jersey, but we feel that as far as what is required for handicapped kids and what is really needed and then what is given...there is a big gap," stressed Dickinson.

"...The present center is proof of the possible, impossible dream. A dream in which every individual is given the opportunity to develop to the fullest potential and to live with dignity and pride in self," said Costenbader last week.

He said the local awareness "as to the needs of these children and their talents and abilities" is very important. "This awareness has taken form in the special services and classes provided in local schools. Now that the community has joined in this work, the center is developing programs for infants, severely affected children, youngsters and adults," he added.

Asked if more room will be needed at the center soon, Dickinson laughed resignedly at the thought and said, "...there's a lot more to be done."

Board: District already pays more than average

along with Trustees Ernie Zoppi and Charles Miele is handling the talks, released administration salary figures showing a grammar school principal makes about $29,000 a year, while a secondary school administrator gets about $32,000 to $34,000 a year.

Although salary figures are public record, administrators feel Schwartz publicly salaries "attempting to show that we are literally rifling the poor box. This won't work," said Gallombaro.

A Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) fact-finder will probably meet Dec. 19 with trustees and association members, although administrators seem to think binding arbitration will be the only way to end the dispute.

"We should get ourselves a little ruffled over this," said Gallombaro, referring to no longevity (extra pay for years on the job). Why not treat us with equity with the other three (teachers, custodians and secretaries) bargaining units?"

Teachers started getting longevity only two years ago, said Schwartz, and it only amounts to $250 after 20 years of service. "That's really not an issue, but the board will keep an open mind on it," he added.

"Instead of using scare tactics, we'd be very willing to negotiate with them if they just come to the meeting Dec. 19," said Schwartz, stressing that he doesn't think contracts should be debated in the press, even with a stalemate.

Schwartz said Bloomfield teachers just settled for a 7 percent pay increase in October "and they're using the upper limits for salaries. Bloomfield's is the highest and they just settled," he said.

"What they're (administrators here) doing now is so off base it's not funny. We've had some good conversations recently and a few unofficial meetings...but they really should get down to being logical," said Board

Vice President Ernie Zoppi, a member of the negotiating team.

Zoppi quoted statistics saying that Belleville spends $89.07 per pupil for principal and administrator salaries compared to a county average of $87.58 and a state average of $74.85.

"We're paying above proportions other districts are. The administrators are not being underpaid by any means," said Zoppi, noting negotiators are working to establish parity among administrators.

"We don't want to have to negotiate contracts in the press...and at the Nov. 26 meeting, the administrators gave the impression they hadn't been getting paid, which just isn't true," added Zoppi.

During the summer of 1978, trustees and teacher union representatives fought a four-month verbal battle before a contract was signed in September, leaving bitter feelings on both sides.

"The board said they would work on these problems and we are," said Zoppi, while Schwartz emphasized that negotiators should think positive. "I'm always optimistic," he said.

'Wizard of Oz' a dream come true

Lions and Tigers and Bears — Chris Oleartchick (the Scarecrow), Gary Martins (the Cowardly Lion), Jacqueline Wis (Dorothy) and Mario Brosius (the Tin Man) set off on the Yellowbrick Road in search of the Wizard of Oz. The play by the same name was performed this past weekend at Belleville High.

BHS Drama Club enhances magic of Dorothy's Emerald City sojourn

By Mike Olohan

We're off to see the drama club, the wonderful drama club of Belleville High. We hear it is the club of clubs if ever a club there was. If ever a wonderful club there was, the drama club is one because, because, because of the wonderful things it does.

Sounds familiar, huh, but a bit different? Well, it is, and each member of the drama club, from actors, to director Bob Lefebvre, should not forget the praise and applause of all three audiences who attended the club's production of "The Wizard of Oz" on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Glowing reviews of school plays are often boring because they seem unconvincing to people who didn't attend. But remember when you were a little kid and watched "The Wizard of Oz"?

There was something magical about it, or at least you thought so. A motley group of characters, a cowardly lion, a scraggly scarecrow and a rusty tinman, joined with a young, lost farmgirl from Kansas named Dorothy to find courage, brains, a heart and a home. They never realized, nor did you, that all four actually possessed the power to obtain their needs all along. They never needed a "Magnificent Oz" to grant them any wishes; the power to change their own lives had never left them.

"As you live, can you wish?" asks Dorothy of the scarecrow when first seeing him. "I don't know, I never tried," he responds, as the audience cracks up. To succeed at anything, you have to try, to take risks, to chance going too far to find how far you can really go.

But besides a message, watching the odd quadruple march off into the fairland of Oz was well worth the $3 admission price, especially knowing it would go to more productions like this, distinguished by exuberant acting, creative choreography and mesmerizing and motivating music which enriched the whole show.

Jacqueline Wis played a smiling, effervescent Dorothy, dancing and singing endlessly, feigning naivete and enticing the audience with "Over the Rainbow" and "Evening Star."

The Wicked Witch of the West, Dorothy Widuch, was sensational in letting out skin-chilling, ear-piercing screeches visibly frightening the audience on several occasions. Her hair-raising screams and sarcastically sinister tone of voice kept everyone on edge, despite the presence of saintly munchkins, Glinda the Good Witch, and four innocents astage.

Wobbling and weaving, twirling and swirling, Chris Oleartchick did dazzling dips, skips and booming trips as a scatter-brained, winsome scarecrow. A straw roll of the audience proved this scarecrow had the stuffing to make it.

Mario Brosius's character armor was a rusty, silvery suit, which boogied beautifully when oiled. Though a bit stiff from years of rust, the Tin Man danced hesitantly (but with heart) on the stage, proving false the claim that the echo resounding within was "hollow, hollow, hollow."

A growling, but often shaking-with-fright cowardly lion, Gary Martins, received raves of applause after singing "If I Only Had the Nerve," while sashaying slowly around, twisting and tugging at his own tail. Snarling at a jittery scarecrow and jangling tin man, but scared by Dorothy's harsh words accusing him of being a "bully," the cowardly lion began crying, but drying, swiftly segued into singing. He may have been cowardly, but the audience knew it sure takes courage for a lion to try carrying a note. And they roooooooooooooo!

Living jitterbugs jolted the four wanderers on their trip through the forest to Oz, taking the place of those mean harpies sometimes sent by the Wicked Witch of the West. The jitterbugs, dressed in black bodysuits with silver trimming and antennas, shimmied feistiously to a bumpy beat, besieging the already much tired travelers.

As mayor of the munchkins, a noticeably nasal Donald Flynn presented an engaging picture of a bungling official, particularly picky about pompous procedures.

Dressed in a sheer white evening gown, Cynthia Scheder as Glinda sparked like the colliding colors reflecting off silvery strips hung as a backdrop, visible then invisible yet entrancing.

Cathi Fabian's Auntie Em had a catching southerly accent adding spice, while Joseph Nigro and Rick Kiernan who doubled as wizard in drag and out, were top notch. The booming voice of the towering, green great wizard echoed throughout the auditorium.

Although unmentioned by name, the other actors, stage crew and orchestra all did first-rate jobs. After the final curtain closed, everyone backstage could be heard yelling in celebration. Many were hugging each other, immersing themselves in the excitement they were forced to control during the show.

After the show, several groups of young girls could be seen skipping and bouncing, animatedly singing "We're Off To See The Wizard," not really caring who was watching or how silly they may have looked.

It was fun to dance and sing. The Great Oz had spoken.

Belleville's Jacqueline Wis second in Essex Junior Miss Pageant vote

Nearly 500 parents and friends of 28 Essex County Junior Miss finalists filled Nutley High School's auditorium two weekends ago to applaud their favorites, and more than four hours later, to the screams and cheers of local partisans, Susan Schmidt of Nutley had won the 1979 title.

Previous to the Sunday finale, the 28 girls had practiced for a month on not only their individual performance segments, but the youth and fitness and poise and appearance parts of the program.

Belleville High School's Jacqueline Wis, who won three trophies for poise and appearance, creative and performing arts and youth fitness, was the first runner-up. She starred as Dorothy this past weekend in the BHS production of "The Wizard of Oz."

Sponsored by the Nutley Jaycees, the pageant attempts to "recognize, reward and encourage excellence among all young people by focusing attention on the constructive achievements of outstanding high school senior girls."

Junior Miss contestants are judged on scholastic achievement, worth 15 percent in the overall evaluation; an interview with each judge, 35 percent; poise and appearance, 15 percent; youth fitness, 15 percent; and creative and performing arts, 20 percent. Fifty percent of the judging is over before the final day.

"There are no bathing suit competitions, physical measurements or 'cheesecake' photography at any stage or level," stress pageant officials.

Second runner-up this year was Bernadette Bullock of East Orange High School, third runner-up was Erin Byrd of Marylawn of the Oranges High School in Newark, and fourth runner-up was Kathleen O'Shea of Nutley High.

Susan Schmidt is the daughter of Paul and Bea Schmidt of Warren Street in Nutley. She hopes to become a nurse and will attend college.

Laurie Day of James Caldwell High School received the scholastic achievement trophy and Karen Womack of East Orange was awarded the "Spirit of Junior Miss" or congeniality trophy.

The state Junior Miss finals will take place Jan. 19 in Cherry Hill when girls from every county gather to compete. All totaled, more than $1.5 million in scholarship and awards will be presented in local, state and national finals competition.

Each of the 50 state winners has a choice of a scholarship from one of six institutions, Troy State University, Judson College and Huntington College, all in Alabama, Columbia College in Missouri, Westminster College in Salt Lake City, Utah, and Mississippi University for Women.

During the final two weeks in Mobile, Ala., where the national finals are held, scholarships and awards worth $80,000 are donated by the Junior Miss organization, Coca-Cola USA, Kodak, Kraft, Simplicity, the state of Alabama and city and county of Mobile.

Belleville's Susan Santiglia was Essex and New Jersey Miss and fourth runner-up nationally in the 1977 pageant.

Dagwood's adds a gourmet chef

Gourmet chef Frank Fede has joined the culinary staff at Dagwood's Pub on Belleville Avenue. Fede's arrival has brought the addition of French and Italian dishes to Dagwood's regular surf and turf menu.

In celebration of Fede's coming, Dagwood's held its official grand opening Nov. 12-13. On hand were the establishment's owners, Al Mingucci and Mike Critchley.

Over the Rainbow — Belleville High School senior Jacqueline Wis accepts a first runner-up trophy at the Essex County Junior Miss Pageant the weekend before last at Nutley High. She won three trophies, for poise and appearance, creative and performing arts and youth fitness.

Wandering Troubadour — O.T. Zappo, the Wandering Troubadour, appears in his Middle Ages garb. The Belleville residents gears his shows for children.

Local troubadour finds his audience

He wears the costume of the wandering troubadour of the Middle Ages, a qd-feathered hat and the green velvet tunic with slit sleeves. But unlike the troubadour of years ago, his audience is not the lord and his court, but children who gather to hear him at shopping malls, schools, department stores, recreation centers and libraries throughout the greater metropolitan area.

O.T. Zappo, the Wandering Troubadour, a professional singer-guitarist and resident of Belleville, brought his fast-moving and colorful Christmas show, "Holiday Fun with O.T. Zappo," to the West Belt Mall in Wayne last Saturday.

When O.T. sings and plays his guitar, children follow with zeal, anxious to get into the act. And that active participation is precisely what the 20th Century Pied Piper encourages.

Attractions include popular Christmas sing-alongs, children performing on foreign-made drums to the song, "Little Drummer Boy," and volunteers from the audience performing on a wide variety of percussion instruments and wearing hats from the world over during the sing-alongs.

Zappo also performs with Elmo, the Dancing Elf, a brightly costumed marionette, and leads a rousing grand finale with the youngsters parading with colorful streamers, flags and tambourines to the song, "Colors of the World."

O.T. Zappo, who has several television appearances to his credit including "Wonderama," "A.M.," "New York," "A feature story on 'Action News,'" "The Uncle Floyd Show," "Focus: New Jersey," and his own cable TV show, "The Wandering Troubadour," admits to being "half kid at heart" and gets "more of a kick doing this kind of show for children."

Little Theatre will present Christmas plays tomorrow

The Nutley Little Theatre will present two one-act Christmas plays beginning 8 tomorrow night at the NLT barn, 147 Erie Place, Nutley.

The two plays, "A Child's Christmas in Wales," by Dylan Thomas and "Just What They Wanted" by Mary Cunningham, will also be presented 8 p.m. Saturday and Dec. 14 and 15.

Waffles and egg nog will be served in between plays. Tickets are $3.50 and may be purchased at the door.

Auditions

NLT will hold auditions for its next major production, "Shadowbox," by Michael Cristofer 7:30 p.m. Dec. 12 and 13 at the barn.

Auditioners should come with a prepared monologue. Though monologues should not be from the "Shadowbox," director John Loan advises auditioners to read the play to get an understanding of its content and to choose a character to try out for.

Volunteers are also needed for various backstage jobs such as stage manager, lighting technician, set construction and design.

Performance dates for "Shadowbox" are Feb. 1, 2, 8, 9, 15 and 16, 1980. For more information, call 667-5492.

Teen Program

The Little Theatre Youth Action Committee offers a program for teenagers with theatrical interest. The group meets every Sunday at the barn to develop presentations, explore theater history, acting technique and backstage technical knowledge.

The free program is run by teenagers and an adult sponsor, all of whom have experience in all areas of theater. For more information, call Guy Tiene at 667-5853 or Robert Diachescu at 661-3405 or visit the barn this Sunday at 1 p.m.

Seton Hall sets 'Cabaret Night'

Seton Hall Prep parents and teachers will entertain when they and their friends gather for "Cabaret Night" 7 p.m. Saturday in Walsh Auditorium on the South Orange campus.

The evening will begin with a buffet supper followed by a musical review. The Rev. Anthony Kullig, director of the Prep's annual spring show, is coordinating the production. Dance music will be played 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. and cocktails will be served.

Reservations at $5 a person can be made at the school office.
