BUT 'CLASSIFICATION' DRAWS FIRE

Trenton gives schools generally high grades

While the "classification" of the Belleville school system released by the state this past weekend pleased some trustees, others were angered by what they feel is Trenton's continuing intervention in local affairs and usurpation of local authority.

Overall, Belleville schools received good marks, with only the basic skills level at Belleville High and basic skills level at the now closed School 1 receiving "interim approval." What interim approval means is that Belleville High is now subject to an annual re-evaluation by state officials because reading scores on the minimum basic skills test there were below state standards. That "interim approval" label will stick with Belleville High until concrete evidence shows an improvement, according to state officials.

The state, meanwhile, stamped the BHS educational plan "approved," though the high school's compliance with New Jersey's "thorough and efficient" (T&E) law was given only interim approval.

All elementary schools received approval in basic skills levels, except School 1, while all passed with an approved education plan and compliance with T&E. The Junior High passed with flying colors in all three areas.

The Garden School received an "interim approval" rating for law, possibly because of its failure to comply with state and federal guidelines for handicapped children, along with the need for renovating its building to more easily accommodate the handicapped.

Board President Ernie Zoppi said he was angered because state classification inspectors reportedly monitored educational areas that differed depending on what county they covered. "I think it's (different classification) on page 13.

Jerry's Kids — Raymond Ritonnale, 17, and Diane Wanamaker, 12, both of Hilton Street, display a copy of a check for $166, money they and friend Mona Tripodi raised going door-to-door in two days for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon held this past weekend.

Judge lets School 1 close — may dismiss PTA suit

Defeated last Wednesday in their bid to keep School 1 open, parents can now only hope that Newark Administrative Law Judge Arnold Samuels doesn't dismiss their suit entirely because it wasn't filed within 90 days of the time Belleville's desegregation plan gained the approval of trustees.

Heads bowed, unwilling to accept defeat but forced to, five parents, including Valley Association President Bob May, School 1 PTA President Judy Sobanko, Sandy Toppeta, Amelia Augustowicz and JoAnn Byer, sat quietly as Samuels slowly pronounced his verdict, mixing legal vernacular with layman's language, confusing everyone except the lawyers.

"I find the relief sought by the petitioners is something extraordinary," said Samuels in denying the requested stay of School 1's closing.

He said School 1 parents delayed filing a lawsuit for too long, fought the closing on the wrong grounds by opposing the shutdown and not the entire desegregation plan, and didn't see "probably cause at this point that the moving party (School 1's PTA) will prevail."

Less than 10 feet from the parents sat board attorney Lawrence Schwartz who filed a motion with the judge to dismiss the suit. A hearing on that motion will take place in the late fall. With Schwartz were Board President Ernie Zoppi and School Superintendent Dr. John Greed.

Neither side in the dispute spoke freely with the other.

Pleading the parents' case, attorney Richard Vallario stressed that trustees still have funds for School 1 in their budget, a claim which Schwartz denied, saying those monies were allocated elsewhere. Vallario said the 90-day response time limit should begin from July 24, the date when State Education Commissioner Fred Burke okayed Belleville's plan. Schwartz opposed that position citing several previous education cases where a 45-day time limit had been imposed. Samuels hesitated, suddenly appearing unsure about hearing the case at all, then said "on such short notice" he didn't know whether the 90-day time limit applied in School 1's case.

Vallario emphasized trustees did no study on possible effects of School 1's closing, safety problems associated with new walking routes or future uses for the building. He said teachers could be reassigned to keep it open and that racial balance should never be used to close a school.

However, Schwartz said School 1 was at less than 50 percent of capacity and needed to be closed. "I don't believe kids suffer by moving... they will be able to acclimate themselves," said Schwartz. "The irreparable harm will not be on the children but the Board of Education (if the stay is granted)," he added.

Schwartz pointed out that funds for School 1 funds have been "put in places where they're sorely needed... we have got to send children based on race, we are forced to do that. The Please see "Judge" on page 19.

Angry parents call last-minute caucus

Yesterday morning most parents of School 1 children were scheduled to meet in the school's parking lot to discuss what further action, if any, will be taken against trustees for closing down the building.

The meeting was called by Judy Wright and Judy Sobanko, both Valley parents whose children will now be walking longer distances since Newark Administrative Law Judge Arnold Samuels refused last week to stay School 1's closing.

One of the parents' main concerns is safety. Some feel their children are being unfairly jeopardized by being forced to walk longer distances to school — but trustees object, pointing out that children in nearby towns walk equal, if not further distances than most Belleville kids.

Trustees emphasize that crossing guards will be placed at dangerous intersections, but remain unsure about revising their "hazard busing" formula. At last Wednesday's meeting, talk about revising the K-6 hazard system was put on hold until administrators fully assess it. The system awards points for intersections, traffic flow and other potential dangers to children. Right now, an elementary school child must have a total of 95 points on his route to school in order to qualify for busing. There had been some discussion of lowering that figure to 80.

Valley Association President Bob May said Belleville Police Det. Fred Puleo, supervisor of school crossing guards, could not determine a "safe route" for School 1 children leaving the Valley. Board members said "at least" one more crossing guard will probably be hired this year, although limited busing just for School 1 children seemed unattainable.

In their meeting yesterday, parents, along with their children, were to discuss what alternatives they have, or want to pursue since last week's legal ruling closing School 1. Please see "Parents" on page 13.

Trustees vote major shift of elementary principals

School 4 Principal Michael Nardiello has been hired by the Board of Education as the system's second assistant superintendent. A major shuffling of administrators last Wednesday also saw three principals change schools and a new vice principal appointed at the Junior High.

Pat Forte, principal of the now closed School 1, and the man many expected to receive the assistant superintendent spot, will take over for Nardiello at School 4. School 2 and 10 Principal Arthur Pico was transferred to School 8, with School 8 Principal Nicholas Petti going to School 10. Director of Grants George Nucera will become a second JHS vice principal.

The final vote on Nardiello's appointment was 6-0, with Trustee Caesar Romano abstaining. About three weeks ago, Romano strongly opposed creation of a new assistant superintendent's position, but last Wednesday he decided only to take "no part" in the voting, stressing though he felt Nardiello was qualified, he didn't think a second superintendent was needed.

"If you're going to reduce the number of buildings, you need no new staff and no new hierarchy," said Romano said several weeks ago. He abstained from voting, however, noting that he wouldn't want anyone to interpret a "no" vote as "displeasure" with the choice of Nardiello.

"With less schools and declining enrollment, we need less administration, not more," said Romano last week. However, Board Vice President Charles Miele defended Nardiello's hiring.

"We do have the staff available, and this will be adding to the efficiency of the board office. I'm sure he'll be a great asset," said Miele.

"This is not a large expense. I felt we had a need for a second assistant superintendent for a long time," said Board President Ernie Zoppi. "He's an excellent choice," added Trustee Tom Zampino.

Nardiello will make $39,000 as assistant superintendent for personnel. Assistant Superintendent for Instruction Seymour Grossman pulls down $40,600. School Superintendent Dr. John Greed makes $46,000 a year.

Nardiello, a lifelong Belleville resident, worked his way up through the local school system. Back when Belleville High Principal John DeCesare was hired, many felt Nardiello should have been tapped for the job instead. Some local educators, Nardiello included, were perturbed then that trustees felt they had to "look outside the system" for the new principal.

Trustees abolished the controversial director of grants position last week in making former director George Nucera second vice principal at Belleville Junior High, itself a new position. Please see "Board" on page 10.

Commission made illegal '79 transfers

The recently released town audit for 1979 reports several instances of lax financial practice, but it does not mention two apparently illegal moves made in connection with the municipal budget. The Belleville Times learned this week.

On Dec. 28, 1979, the Town Commission voted to approve two resolutions transferring a total of $78,414 from several municipal accounts with extra funds into several other accounts which were short of money. Three commissioners — Mayor Michael Marotti, Finance Director Joseph McGreevy and Public Affairs Director Vincent Strumolo — were present at the special Friday morning meeting, adjourned from the previous night.

Town Attorney Frank Zinna did not attend the early session, which appeared to be routine enough. There was only one problem. New Jersey law requires an affirmative vote by two-thirds of a municipality's full governing body in order to pass appropriations transfers. That means that the votes of four commissioners were needed in order to make the transfers legal.

During the first 10 months of the year, a town cannot make any transfers without the approval of the State Division of Local Government Services, but even after Dec. 31, 1979, commissioners had time to rectify their apparent oversight since New Jersey statute also gave them until March 31, 1980, to amend the transfer resolutions and add the required fourth vote. However, they did not make any change in the Please see "Commission" on page 13.

The stomach of a person with a slender body type is generally long and has a fish-hook shape. Sagging posture is quite likely to result in further lowering of the stomach increasing its sag and possibly producing functional disturbances. The stomach of a stocky individual is less likely to be displaced downward by poor posture. However, it, too, is subject to pressures which account for some of the abdominal distress encountered by these people. Experts say it is wise to improve the posture.

Chamber to hear Shapiro; sidewalk sales Sept. 26-27

Essex County Executive Peter Shapiro will be the featured speaker at the membership meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce to be held noon Tuesday, Sept. 16, at The Fountain, 46 Watsessing Ave.

Besides an address by Shapiro, the meeting will include discussion of plans for projects and programs the Chamber hopes to undertake during the rest of the year and those the organization is looking forward to in 1981.

The Chamber's next sidewalk sale is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Sept. 26 and 27. Each participating store will be provided with a 24 by 19-inch sign free of charge. Those merchants interested in participating may call Ernest Zoppi of Wallcovering Direct, Inc., chairman of the Chamber's sales promotion committee, at 751-8899.

Tickets are now available for the Chamber's annual dinner-dance set for Saturday, Nov. 22, at the Branch Brook Manor, 13 Washington Ave. A cocktail hour will be followed by dinner, with dancing to the music The Pleasant Company until 1 a.m. Members who have joined since last year's dinner will be introduced.

Tickets are $30 apiece. Reservations are also being accepted for full tables of 10 or 12 persons. To obtain tickets, call the Chamber at 759-4848 or write to the organization at 302 Washington Ave., Belleville, N.J., 07109.

Bloomfield merchants name Diana executive

Patricia Diana

Patricia M. Diana of Belleville has been named executive vice president of the Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce. The announcement was made by Chamber President John N. Stevens.

A former news and social reporter with The Belleville Times, Mrs. Diana has been an advertising and public relations consultant for several years, specializing in promotion of small business firms, an ideal background for the responsibilities of her new position, according to Stevens.

A graduate of Kearny High School, Mrs. Diana attended Middlesex County College. She is the membership chairman for the Tri-Town Business and Professional Women's Club of Belleville, Bloomfield and Nutley and is also a board member and publicity officer for the Community Mental Health Services of Belleville, Bloomfield and Nutley. Recently, with the approval of Gov. Brendan Byrne, she was appointed to the board of trustees of the Glen Gardner Geriatric Center.

A former board member of the Belleville-Bloomfield chapter of the American Red Cross, Mrs. Diana has two daughters, Linda and Susan.

Firecracker throw ends in $300 fine

It wasn't a stick of dynamite, but a single firecracker was all that it took to cause more than $700 worth of damage to a Belleville home during the late afternoon of July 29.

While visiting relatives in Belleville, 24-year-old Kenny Giacola of Bloomfield, tossed a firecracker over a wall of tall hedges into a neighboring backyard.

The explosion ignited pool chemicals which burned out of control until the fire was extinguished by the neighbors with special foam. But the burning chemicals had scorched a large area surrounding a cement built-in pool and a good portion of the home's foundation.

"What would possess you to do such a thing?" asked Judge Edward Abromson last week of Giacola in Municipal Court.

The defendant, who is employed as a mechanic at a Bloomfield gas station and who is married with one child, could not find the words to answer.

"This is hardly the kind of behavior I would expect from a mature individual," continued the judge. "It was a very stupid thing to do. It's very fortunate that no one was injured in the incident."

Giacola was issued a 60-day suspended jail sentence accompanied by one-year probation. He was also fined $300.

Three Newark men, ranging in age from 22 to 25, made an appearance in Municipal Court only to have their case referred to the Essex County Grand Jury.

The three were apprehended by Det. Sgt. Martin McNish during a drug bust along the Belleville-Newark boarderline. One man is charged with distribution of substantial quantities of marijuana. Another is charged with purchasing the marijuana. The third is charged with having several loose joints and a large knife.

Daniel Rinaldi, 27, of Belleville, was restrained and then arrested by Officer Alan McGuinn last month. Rinaldi was found guilty of violent behavior for fighting in the streets outside a local bar during the earlier hours of Aug. 24.

The guilty party caused a public annoyance and inconvenience, interrupting traffic and shouting in the streets.

Rinaldi had spent five days in the Newark Street Jail and Judge Abromson considered that punishment enough as he issued a five-day jail sentence, crediting the defendant for time spent.

A Belleville woman contesting a parking ticket issued two weeks ago was found not guilty of the violation. There had once been a no parking sign along Joralemon Street quite near the Circle Bar but at present there is no sign. The woman, a resident of the area for several years, parked her car in that area feeling the parking ban had been lifted.

Apparently the only thing that had been lifted was the sign. Police believe it was the work of local youths. Thus the woman was able to beat the ticket.

"Please believe me, your honor," said the woman to Judge Abromson. "I wouldn't lie under oath. Come see for yourself that there is no sign there if you doubt me."

"Oh sure," responded Abromson with a smile. "I'll just remove my robe and run right over now to check on the sign."

The judge's statement proved good for a chuckle and was one of the lighter moments that sometimes make their way into Municipal Court proceedings.

Belleville resident could win million

A Belleville resident is among the 45 finalists who will compete next Wednesday in Atlantic City to become the New Jersey Lottery's 71st millionaire and for $140,000 in additional prizes.

George Krehel of William Street became eligible for the 11 a.m. drawing at Bally's Park Place Casino through a preliminary drawing Aug. 27 in Lawrenceville.

The grand prize at stake Wednesday is $1 million paid at $50,000 a year for 20 years. There will also be one second prize of $25,000 in cash, eight third-place prizes of $10,000 each and $1,000 consolation prizes for the remaining finalists.

Jersey Blood Center needs donors badly

The North Jersey Blood Center, its blood supplies at critically low levels, has issued an urgent appeal for donations.

"We are experiencing, together with blood centers throughout the metropolitan area, an acute shortage of blood that is expected to grow worse immediately following the Labor Day weekend," said Dr. Harvey P. Einhorn, president and chief executive officer of the Blood Center.

Individuals and organizations wishing to donate blood may do so by calling the center at 676-4700. Donating blood is a simple and safe procedure taking less than an hour and requiring only that the donor be in generally good health and between the ages of 17 and 66.

The need for blood and its components increases yearly because of its new uses in surgery and in the treatment of blood disorders.

The North Jersey Blood Center, serving 47 hospitals in the area, is located at 45 South Grove St., East Orange, just east of Exit 145 (Route 280) on the Garden State Parkway.

Zoppi is right

School Board President Ernie Zoppi has proposed a scheduled rotation of school principals.

It's a good idea. The plan is worth a try. It may prove nothing, but on the other hand it may enrich the school system and in the process enrich principals as well as staffs and students. A side benefit from such a program is the obvious reduction in the level of political influence which cannot so easily intrude its ugly head at the school principal level.

If in practice the plan does not produce the benefits President Zoppi foresees, then there will be time enough to call it quits and reinstate the present policy.

Belleville has been so bankrupt of new ideas that Zoppi's suggestion has the appearance of a rainbow.

What else is new?

It appears from the facts in the public record at Town Hall that an illegal transfer of funds took place on Dec. 28, 1979. When funds are transferred from one municipal department to another, a two-thirds vote of the membership of the Town Commission is necessary to give legality to the action. On Dec. 28, 1979, a motion was adopted transferring $78,000 of municipal funds. Attending the meeting and voting in favor of the transfer were Commissioners Joseph McGreevy, Vincent Strumolo and Mayor Michael Marotti. Absent from the meeting were Commissioners Mary Senatore and Matthew Pica. Also absent was Town Attorney Frank Zinna.

The commission had until March 31, 1980, to cure the defect. It did not.

The outside auditor who performed an audit of the books and records of the Town of Belleville apparently failed to discover this illegality.

Last year, in this column, we expressed some misgivings over the financial doings at Town Hall and we asked for an investigation. The request went unheeded.

This year we were confronted with a similar set of facts — and now we have the disclosure of an illegal act.

What else is new? And when will those town officials responsible for setting to right the books and records of the town get around to doing the job for which they are paid?

One of Belleville's leading citizens, commission critic James Golden, is insisting that the state owes the citizens of Belleville an investigation of the town's municipal finances.

We do not know what is the penalty for an illegal fund transfer. There is no doubt that the money was used for lawful purposes, and we make that statement without checking the record, however, there is a legal way of doing things — even for town officials.

Residents at Geriatrics Center hope to make place like home

To the Editor:

Here at the Essex County Geriatrics Center we now have a Family Council made up of the residents' relatives. It includes brothers, sisters, sons, daughters and friends. Thank God we have them and they are most welcome.

Local senior citizen thanks 'Dial-a-Ride'

To the Editor:

I want to thank all the nice people who make it possible for our Belleville senior citizens to get to the doctor, senior citizen club meetings, etc.

Without them, we would sure find it hard to get around. My thanks to Vinnie Strumolo, Rosemary and Michael "Drivers."

Sincerely,
Mrs. Lucille Foselli
"Tommy Mac"
56 Walnut St.

Starting in September, they are hoping to raise $10,000 to make the Essex County Geriatrics Center more like a home rather than a 100-year-old institution. In short this is what they want to do:

To decorate each one of our rooms. I do not know for sure what they plan for each one, but it would probably depend on what the resident wants. Example: drapes, pictures, bedspreads, lighting fixtures and plants. In the recreation hall, we are hoping to get a movie screen that will come down from the ceiling. With the help of the Bell Telephone Company, we will soon have this. Aren't people just great? You can get many things accomplished when people work together, stick together and live in harmony.

Whether you are sick or well, young or old, you would like your surroundings to be as much like home as is possible, rather than four walls.

Once again we at the center would like to thank the Family Council and the administration for starting us on the road to dignity. Let's make the Geriatrics Center the best institution in the state of New Jersey.

Sincerely,
Wm. H. Rundle

Letters policy

Recently, we have received a number of very interesting and well-written letters that we would print without batting a typewriter key but for one problem: They are not signed.

As a policy, The Belleville Times does not print letters unless they are signed. This does not mean that your signature must appear in the paper, however. We will withhold names upon request. So keeps those cards and letters coming, but be sure to include names with them.

Jewish High Holy Days will start this weekend

Joseph Berkowitz, president of Congregation Ahavath Achim of Belleville, has announced details of the High Holy Day services which begin this weekend.

The services will be conducted by Rabbi Noah Burstein and Cantor Samuel Dov Ritter of New York City, who has chanted the High Holy Day liturgy at Ahavath Achim for many years. Joseph Shlissel is ritual chairman, Mrs. David Robbins heads the committee in charge of tickets for seats at the services, and Samuel Panansky is chairman for Kol Nidre pledges.

Mrs. Robbins has announced that there are a limited number of seats available for non-members of the congregation. Tickets are required for all services, including Yiskor. For seating information, contact Mrs. Robbins at the synagogue.

Slichos services will be held mid-night Saturday, preceded by a general congregation membership meeting and coffee hour at 10:30 p.m. Rosh Hashanah services will be held Wednesday evening, Sept. 10, and Thursday and Friday, Sept. 11 and 12. Kol Nidrei services will take place Friday evening, Sept. 19, and Yom Kippur on Saturday, Sept. 20.

The congregation is sponsoring a membership drive. For information, contact Berkowitz, Shlissel or Mrs. Robbins. Congregation members receive free tickets for High Holy Day services.

The congregation is located at 125 Academy St., in an air-conditioned building behind the Belleville Public Library on Washington Avenue. The telephone number is 759-9731.

Congregation Ahavath Achim is the only Conservative congregation in the area affiliated with the United Synagogue of America.

Senior Notes

By George Chenoweth

For those seniors who have been on vacation or are going on vacation or are looking forward to next year's vacation and expect to travel, here are a few hints that may help to save you money.

A directory has been published and is available by writing Pilot Books, 347 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y., 10006, at $3 a copy, postpaid. Ask for "The National Directory of Budget Motels." This directory contains the listing of over 1,800 motels in 50 states. Also listed is the headquarters for 26 chains where you can get all the information you need by dialing a toll-free 800 number. Senior citizen discounts are usually obtainable from all motels, and the savings on a one-night stay-over could pay for the directory.

There is a free directory available by writing Days Inns of America, 2751 Buford Highway, NE, Atlanta, Ga., 30324. This chain has 310 inns and lodges in 28 states and Canada. The directory also contains a toll-free number and room rates and maps for all locations.

Travel Planner, Econo-Travel Motor Hotel Corporation, P.O. Box 12188, Norfolk, Va., 23502, will send you a directory free for the asking. This directory lists 130 locations in 17 states with rates under $20 for a room for two people.

So here are a few hints on how to look for inexpensive lodging. More and more seniors are turning to low-cost, budget chain motels where the price is right.

Speaking of vacations, there are many good trips offered by the senior citizen clubs in the locality, these at reduced cost to people of our age group. The best bargains are coming in September and October when the busy summer season is over and the hotel-motel owners are looking for a way to extend their seasons by catering to senior groups.

The New Jersey shore is still the most popular resort area and there are trips available to Wildwood and Wildwood Crest and also the Pocono Mountains. Some are of one-day duration, while others will keep you away from home for four nights and five days. On the extended tours, the managers have put together a package that includes dine-around and day and evening activities to keep the seniors on their toes, if that is what they wish. All of the trips are at reduced rates because of package deals in the off-season. To enjoy all that is offered, it is best if you belong to a club or group. Fact is, it's the only way to go!

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Piscopiello of Belleville

Piscopiello mark 50 years together

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Piscopiello of Belleville celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary June 28 at a surprise party given by their children at the San Carlo Restaurant in Lyndhurst. The couple was married June 29, 1930.

Attending the party were their children, Mrs. Mena Ryan and Michael Piscopiello, and their spouses, Thomas Ryan and Mrs. Marie Piscopiello, eight grandchildren, a sister, a brother and 50 other close family and friends.

The couple continued their anniversary celebration on a month-long trip to Europe.

Junior Women select two for Jersey honors

The Junior Woman's Club of Belleville has placed the names of Janet Pickover and Pamela Van Holland on the state honor roll.

Mrs. Pickover, a past president of the local club, has served the Juniors and her community well. She has been the organization's drama, program, and literature and education chairman and co-chaired the Juniors' Peter Pan play. She has served on the nominating, youth activities and pre-school screening committees, helped arrange entertainment for the club's annual "Lunch with Santa," and appeared in both the music and drama festivals sponsored by the club.

Awards have been numerous for Mrs. Pickover. She has won first place for literature and education and second place for programming from state club. She played a vital part in helping the Belleville Juniors gain a Community Improvement Award at the State Federation of Woman's Clubs convention held in May. The award was presented to only five clubs, Woman's and Junior Woman's, in the state. Mrs. Pickover served as president in 1979 when the Belleville club won the Diamond Dozen Award at the state convention as one of the top 12 organizations in New Jersey.

Mrs. Pickover and her husband Ben have two daughters, Laura and Susan. A former teacher, Mrs. Pickover is active in consumer affairs and enjoys the theater, music and art.

Mrs. Pickover will be most remembered by her fellow club members for her helping hand and her personal friendship. Following her graduation from the Juniors, she now belongs to the Evening Membership Department of the Woman's Club. She will serve as club advisor to the Juniors for 1980-81.

Mrs. Van Holland is an active member of the club and has served on many committees. She has been hostess for the Juniors' fashion show and chairman for the Christmas carnival, the Chinese auction, the pie sale, music festival and drama tournament and youth activities for club children. She also chaired the program department for two years.

Dear Umberto,
My daughter just graduated from beauty school. She said she wanted me for her first customer, so she gave me a permanent. I have been getting permanents in beauty salons for years and everytime I got one, after putting the permanent lotion on, they rinsed it out. But my daughter didn't rinse it out. She said it wasn't necessary. What is your answer? Did I waste money by sending my daughter to beauty school?

Mother with Doubts

Dear Mother,
I don't know if you lost money or not because when she goes to work in a beauty salon the owner will train her to do it his or her own way. The important thing is that she is artistic. It is important to rinse the permanent lotion when the curl on the hair is achieved but sometimes you will find permanents with instructions that say it is not very important to rinse the permanent lotion. I believe you should rinse it out whether stated or not stated.

Yours,
Umberto

Unusual Orientation — Tina Martorani of Belleville, an incoming freshman, is greeted by Mike Morano of Kenilworth, one of the organizers of the miniuniversity orientation program at the New Jersey Institute of Technology. Held last Tuesday and Wednesday, the freshman orientation included 97 mini-courses on a wide variety of topics. It was meant to be a social and informational event, and the 50-minute courses covered subjects ranging from "Check Book Mastery" and "Body Language" to "Freestyle and Ultimate Frisbee" and "Fine Wines for Student Budgets."

Famed doctor to lecture at Clara Maass Hospital

Dr. Gianni Bonadonna, director of medical oncology at the Tumor Institute of Milan, Italy, will be the guest speaker at the first Judge Morris Hartman memorial lecture to be held 11:30 a.m. Sept. 15 in the nursing auditorium at Clara Maass Memorial Hospital.

The doctor's topic will be management of breast cancer and Hodgkin's disease. Bonadonna is a world-renowned cancer specialist who has developed chemotherapeutic approaches to the disease.

Bonadonna is being honored by Clara Maass Memorial Hospital and the Oncology Society of New Jersey. He was chosen for the lecture through the efforts of Dr. James M. Orsini, a staff physician at Clara Maass who had worked with him at the Milan Cancer Institute.

NLT to present 'Play It Again'

Early Entry — BHS junior Maria DiPaolo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony DiPaolo of 49 Center St., has been granted early admission to Caldwell College. She plans to concentrate on secondary education this fall and hopes to major in social studies with a minor in religious studies.

Nutley Little Theatre will present its first show of the 1980-81 season, Woody Allen's "Play It Again Sam," this month.

The romantic comedy/fantasy concerns a helpless, neurotic young man who uses advice given him by the spirit of Humphrey Bogart to cope with women.

The large cast includes Dennis Gualtieri, Denise Guerrero and Phyllis Cupparo of Belleville, Robert Sapoff of Nutley, Maureen Cooper of Lodi, Art Turbull of Kearny and Gail Rog of Wallington. The play is directed by Vicky Chalk Little of Montclair.

Performance dates are Sept. 26, 27, Oct. 3, 4, 10, 11 and 12. Curtain time Fridays and Saturdays is 8 p.m. with a 3 p.m. Sunday matinee. Tickets are $3.50. The NLT Barn is located at 47 Erie Place, Nutley. For information or reservations, call 667-5492.

High tide of pollution for Passaic River now

By Mike Olohan

We drink it, take baths and showers in it, wash our cars with it, hose our lawns with it, sail boats on it and swim in it. But too often we simply exploit and abuse it, because the "it" is water and its supply seems endless.

Unfortunately, it's not, but too many people think it is. When we hear the word "conservation," immediately we think of energy, whether it be gas, electricity, or oil but rarely do people think they should try to conserve water, probably America's most precious resource.

Our water supplies are limited. There's only so much of it around. It can't really be manufactured. But it can be conserved, recycled and reused.

The Passaic River Coalition, an environmental group in Basking Ridge, has recently been trying to enlist citizen support in 19 towns along the Passaic, including Belleville, to clean up the pollution-spiked river.

Originally, many towns lining the Passaic began by using the cheap transportation offered by the river now held high only in disrepute. So far, only about five communities, notably Belleville, North Arlington, Kearny, Rutherford and Newark, have shown interest in reviving the Passaic.

Now laced with toxic pollutants and numerous destructive chemicals, along with billions of gallons of raw sewage recently unleashed by the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission, the Passaic has become a rambling toilet for many bordering communities and industries — a toilet that when flushed only pollutes more water.

Because of the small amount of rain received lately, Betty A. Little, the Passaic River Coalition's public information officer, says the Passaic's water level has been lowered, making it possible for fish to absorb more toxic chemicals into their bodies. "They really shouldn't eat any fish now caught in the Passaic," warned Mrs. Little. "Some forms of bass and perch reach 10 to 12 inches, but the real problem right now is more pollution."

She said when water levels fall, toxic substances settle in the sand, or on the river's bottom, where fish often rest.

Overall, Mrs. Little's organization has been reaching out to local activists, hoping they'll become concerned with the plight of the Passaic. The coalition needs people to get involved before it can really make any substantial progress in cleaning up the Passaic.

The coalition is only one of 20 groups, from a total of 187 that applied to the National Science Foundation for water planning grants, to receive approval of its application. The local group hopes to get between $45,000 and $49,000 if enough citizens become involved.

"What we're trying to do is make people conscious of this resource, because if our present drought continues, we may even have to go to water conservation, which people aren't used to," said Mrs. Little. She said too many people just use water, never stopping to think where it came from or that it might be conserved.

Although close to four trillion gallons of precipitation fall each day across the United States, the American people use but a tiny tenth of that. The rest escapes back into the atmosphere, only to be dispersed elsewhere in an endless cycle known as the "hydrologic cycle."

According to Thomas Canby, writing in the August National Geographic, "... on an average day, you and I each draw about 87 gallons; 24 for flushing, 32 for bathing, laundry and dishwashing and 25 for swimming pools and watering the lawn. We use a mere two gallons for drinking and cooking — the only water we actually require to survive."

"It's a matter of education that we have to do," said Mrs. Little. She said if more people used water sparingly, there'd be even less of "a need to conserve" since then people would be conserving all the time.

Another meeting of the Passaic River Coalition is scheduled Oct. 9 in North Arlington Borough Hall. Coalition officials are hoping for their biggest turnout yet, with citizens invited and encouraged to also "give a damn."

"The news is that citizens have been invited in to help with all these kinds of (water-related) projects," said Mrs. Little, attacking National Geographic's article on water as "superficial."

She said people involvement should have been the focus of National Geographic's report, rather than a "rehash" of water pollution problems throughout the country. She stressed people-power as the answer to solving pollution problems — because many of the problems are now simply out of the control of industry and government officials.

Top Granny — Catherine Murphy will be honored this coming Sunday as "Ocean County Grandmother of the Year." The former Belleville resident still has many relatives and friends here in town. She boasts a total of 44 children, 49 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren altogether.

Former resident Grandma of Year

She will be named "Ocean County Grandmother of the Year" this Sunday in Seaside Heights, but beyond that, former Bellevillite Catherine Murphy will always be a favorite grandmother among her huge clan.

Thanks to son-in-law Frank Vaccaro of Montclair, who submitted her name while strolling on the Seaside Heights boardwalk, Mrs. Murphy will receive a $50 gift certificate, a corsage from her admirers and probably television exposure on Philadelphia's Channel 6.

"I'll probably end up in Hollywood," said the 75-year-old Mrs. Murphy with a laugh Tuesday. "I think it's great, it was a total surprise," she added.

This Sunday at 3 p.m. at Franklin Avenue and the boardwalk, Mrs. Murphy will pick up her contest booty and no doubt take a proud winner's stroll along the boardwalk with happy relatives.

"I'm very proud, I'm extremely proud of her," said Mary Baldwin, one of Mrs. Murphy's 14 children. Besides her 14 children, she has 49 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. Three of Mrs. Murphy's sons, James, Charles and Thomas, are Belleville firemen and two sons-in-law, Deputy Chief John Baldwin and Fireman James Salmon, also man the local brigade.

Mrs. Murphy said she probably won "because I have so many grandchildren." But if a brief conversation is any indication, it could also be because she's nice, helpful and has a good sense of humor.

Her late husband James was a Belleville fireman for about 25 years, and she has many friends in Belleville.

A telephone call last week informed Mrs. Murphy she had been named "Grandmother of the Year," and she said she couldn't believe she had been picked. She said her relatives threw her a tremendous birthday party on March 20, when she celebrated her 75th birthday — a day that she'll long remember and be thankful for.

With so many Belleville relatives and friends, there will undoubtedly be a mass departure from here Sunday morning to help Mrs. Murphy celebrate her newly acquired title.

Two trustees critical of principal switches

Two local trustees refused to go along with the transfers of a pair of Belleville principals to different schools, because the board majority gave no "educational reasons" for the changes and because they felt the switches would do more harm than good.

School 8 Principal Nicholas Petti was moved to School 10, while that school's principal, Arthur Pico, moved over to School 8 — only a week before classes were scheduled to begin. Trustees Anthony D'Agostino and Caesar Romano opposed the moves.

While most trustees paid little heed to D'Agostino's comments, the Newark school principal was upset that board members could be destroying close relationships between principals and their faculties and students merely because they want to switch them on what could become a rotating basis.

Board President Ernie Zoppi suggested the rotation, a suggestion which no trustee commented on, except for D'Agostino who accented its negative aspects.

"I didn't get any answers on the educational reasons for doing this, even though I brought it up several times in our personnel discussions," said D'Agostino Tuesday afternoon.

"It seems to me their buildings are functioning okay. But with this move, it's going to take a year to a year-and-a-half for them to get used to their new buildings and get to know the teachers and students," he added.

D'Agostino said minimum basic skills scores could decline without strong leadership at either school, repeating he saw no "educational" support for the switch. Asked if the decline would be measureable, D'Agostino said it may be, not only in basic skills areas, but intangibles like staff morale and student-teacher-principal interaction.

"The morale of a school starts from the top," noted D'Agostino, adding that trustees seemed to have little justification for switching the two principals besides Zoppi's explanation that "rotating" principals may be a new plan trustees need to look into.

Board of Ed abolishes grant director position

Present vice principal Joe Ciccone is expected to move to the high school in 1981, however, when ninth graders will be moved permanently.

Romano was upset with abolition of the grants position, stressing that more funds will now be available to trustees since their desegregation plan has been approved and that someone in the system should be in charge of getting that money.

However, trustees quickly dismissed any grant concerns for now, and Trustee Mike Chieffo convinced his colleagues to take Title I directorship from Nucera too. Chieffo felt Nucera's pay should be cut, but he was told Nucera would get the same salary since other responsibilities would be cast his way to take Title I's place. A new director for Title I, a federal program that aids slow learners, will be appointed in the future.

Buc Shots

Bucs of 1978 built strong foundation

For months there has been much acclaim for the 1979 Belleville High football team. Everyone raves about the great play of Aulisi, Pagano, Rainone, Garofolo et al.

Now while those players did make a tremendous contribution, another group of athletes who helped to set up that 1979 team have been very much forgotten.

Does anyone remember the 1978 football team? For those who might have forgotten, that club finished with a 6-3 record and started Belleville back on the road to respectability. Not since 1969 had a Belleville football team put together a record that impressive, but that squad's showing seems to have been overshadowed after last year's 8-2 record.

The 1978 season was John Senesky's second as a coach. He had guided the 1977 club to a 2-6-1 record. During that season, the Bucs were shut out four times, including that infamous 63-0 loss to Seton Hall.

Many of the losses that year were blowouts. Most notable were the 40-0 loss to Livingston, the 36-12 defeat at the hands of Passaic and a 34-7 trouncing by Hillside. But still, there were some bright spots to that season and a number of talented players returned for the 1978 campaign.

The Bucs started with a 28-14 win over Livingston at Belleville High School. It was quite a turnaround after the shellacking they took a year previous. The game starred juniors Lenny Mendola and senior Angelo Santinelli. Santinelli and Joe D'Agostino were the captains of that team and provided a great deal of leadership and hard-nosed determination that rubbed off on the entire team.

Senior Perry Mayer was a fine tight end who caught 14 passes, three for touchdowns. His blocking was superb and his all-out play was a big spark to that team. Scott Grant, better known as "Big Mac," was a strong member of the defensive line who took no wisecracking from the opposition. His huge frame was very intimidating and he provided a strong rush on opposing quarterbacks. Phil Lazard played defensive end. Weddy Tramultola was a fine wide receiver. John Pravata displayed a great deal of courage in addition to being a fine offensive and defensive tackle. Pravata is legally blind but had the guts and drive to overcome his difficulty.

Tom Henry was a fine linebacker, Alex Donna Maria was a stalwart at halfback. Mike DeMayo was a sure-handed split end, James Galasso played wide receiver despite a bad ankle, broken in summer training. Joe Franceschini was a smooth defensive end who often gave the quarterback nightmares, and Anthony Dondarski played safety, showing that the little guy can play just as hard as anyone else.

After the victory over Livingston, the Bucs ran into Montclair and fell short 27-6. The Mounties had a super team in '78 and were a class better than the Bucs. Game number three was the memorable 31-0 rout of Nutley. It was Belleville's first home victory over the Maroon since 1966 and its first victory over Nutley since the 1971 game. The following week Belleville ran into a high-powered Passaic team and lost 38-13. Having split its first four games, Belleville traveled to Irvington for its first road game and won big, 27-7. The team then returned home and blitzed the tough Eagles of Essex Catholic 19-0. The Bucs were now 4-2 and had a shot at a playoff spot. The only obstacle in the team's way was mighty Seton Hall. The Pirates had not lost in a number of years and the Bucs were hungry to avenge the embarrassing defeat of a year ago.

Revenge was not accomplished as Seton Hall won 28-6. But in this case, the team showed a great deal of class by traveling to South Orange and giving the Pirates a run for their money. Some very shoddy officiating by the refs didn't help the Bucs' chances.

Now out of the playoff race, Belleville concluded the 1978 season with victories over Clark 16-7 and a 21-0 whitewash of the Kards of Kearny.

The final stats were impressive. The Bucs recorded three shutouts but in turn were not shut out during the season. In addition to the three shutouts, they limited two teams (Irvington and Clark) to one touchdown each and held Livingston to two TDs, one coming in the waning seconds of the game.

On only two occasions did the Buc offense fail to score more than one touchdown and in seven of the nine games, the Bucs scored the first points.

The 1978 season will be remembered by many as the start of something very special at Belleville High School. The team lost 14 seniors to graduation, but the juniors and sophomores from that club went on to last year's great season. The 1978 club put Belleville back on the road to football respectability, and the Bucs hope to stay on that road for a long time.

This is the last week for the Buc Shot moment of the week now that the school semester has begun. By late September, I will resume the Belleville High School athlete of the week. The final moment belongs to the 1978 football team. The Bucs, behind touchdowns by Perry Mayers, Lenny Mendola and Ralph "The Bear" DePasquale, blanked Kearny 21-0. It was the first Thanksgiving game between the Bucs and Kards and it is a rivalry that should continue for quite a while.

Here is the answer to last week's quiz. The question was Which pitcher has never won 20 games, Joe Niekro, Dennis Leonard, Rick Wise, Bob Forsch, Dave Goltz or Randy Jones? The answer: Dave Goltz. Goltz got himself a hefty contract from the Dodgers during the off-season but has never won 20 games, and the way he's going will be lucky to win 20 the rest of his career. He pitched previously for the Minnesota Twins.

Now for this week's quiz. Can you name the last Jet runner, if any, to break the 1000-yard mark?

Gridmen in better shape than they were last year

By Mike Lamberti

The familiar names of Aulisi, Rainone, Mendola, Nicosia, Pagano and Garofolo are no longer on the roster, but the Belleville High football team is rarin' to go after a very team. Once again we have that 'family' cohesion and it helps everyone blend together."

The players were given pads after the decathlon and were to start contact drills at Tuesday's practice. The triangular affair at Perth Amboy. On Sept. 13, the team will play Ridgewood, but the location of that test is yet to be determined. On Sept. 16, there is another triangular scrimmage, this one with Scotch Plains comply thus far is to teach each player two positions, one on offense and another on defense. Currently, the kids are learning fundamentals and working on conditioning.

Another area that has Senesky very happy is the power index category. Nineteen athletes have cleared the 5.0 mark, while last year's team had only nine in that level.

As mentioned earlier, the Bucs open with the Lancers of Livingston on Friday night, Sept. 26, at Municipal Stadium. The Lancers are a strong team with a super quarterback in Stan Yagiello and a fine receiver in George Alpert. Belleville blasted the Lancers 35-8 last year, but Livingston went on to win its next seven games and advanced to Giants Stadium where it defeated Westfield before finally falling to Union 35-14 in the Group IV finals. Union had defeated Belleville 15-12 in the first round of the tournament. Consequently, the Lancers' 9-2 record won them the county championship with Belleville a close and controversial second.

After the Livingston game, the schedule goes this way: Montclair 8 p.m. Oct. 3, at home; Nutley 8 p.m. Oct. 10, home; Passaic 1:30 p.m., Oct. 18, away; Marist 8 p.m., Oct. 24, away (Bayonne); Essex Catholic, 8 p.m., Nov. 1, home; Seton Hall, 1:30 p.m., Nov. 8, away; Clark, 1:30 p.m., Nov. 15, away, and Kearny 11 a.m., Nov. 27 (Thanksgiving), away.

Despite the bright spots, Senesky is quick to point out that the team has lost 22 seniors to graduation and has a number of gaps to fill, especially on offense. Only senior Anthony D'Agostino remains from the offensive line of 1979, so there are plenty of jobs open.

As for the 1980 season, only time will tell. The team has started off on the right foot and thus far the future looks bright. Chances are very good that the 1980 season will be one to remember just as the 1979 season was.

Early Rally — Buc head football coach delivers some messages to his team last week at the stadium training grounds. Belleville has its first scrimmage next Tuesday, a triangular affair with Freehold and Perth Amboy, and others will follow rapidly. It's all in preparation for that big opening game with Livingston here on Sept. 26. The Bucs are hoping for a repeat of last year's rout.

successful decathlon held by John Senesky and his staff this past weekend.

"I'm very, very pleased with the results thus far," declared the head coach. "We haven't started with the pads yet, but I'm looking forward to seeing the kids under those conditions."

The 1979 season has been emphasized long enough and that fantastic 8-2 record will never be forgotten by Belleville football faithful. However, this is 1980 and this year's club is very anxious to give a good account of itself and maybe make memories of last year a little bit hazy.

Thus far, the team is in fantastic condition. Seven players cleared the magical 1,000-point mark in Senesky's grueling decathlon events held last week. Jeff Walsh, a junior back, took high honors with 1,077 points, just 23 shy of a perfect score. Robbie Cancellieri, one of Belleville's "super sophs," compiled 1,059 points, and Rick Racioppi, a senior linebacker and center, came through with 1,053. Paul Scheuplein, another senior, was fourth with 1,044, Mike Dalla Riva and Ray Kimball tied for fifth with 1,038 and Adam Pappas closed out the 1,000-point plateau with 1,010. The amazing part of this year's event was that 23 players cleared the 900-point mark as compared to only four from last year's team.

"The kids looked very impressive in the drills," continued Senesky. "The fact that so many cleared 900 points is a good sign for the season. Furthermore, there is a good attitude in this club, very similar to last year's team started regular practice after school yesterday and will continue from now on with a Monday through Friday schedule that may include some Saturday mornings."

The Bucs will need plenty of practice with their first scrimmage this coming Tuesday against Freehold Township and Perth Amboy in a and Parsippany Hills in Scotch Plains, and around the 20th of September, there's the annual game with Columbia at South Orange. The contest with the Cougars is under game conditions and will be the last test before the home opener with Livingston on Sept. 26.

What Senesky has tried to ac-

Fancy Footwork — Buc football candidates run the ropes under the watchful eye of assistant coach Joe Vitiello who'll be in charge of Belleville's defensive secondary this season.

Bouncing Bucs — Helmeted hopefuls do some jumping exercises for Coach Senesky under the hot stadium sun. The workouts and individual sacrifice paid off, with the Bucs in better shape as a whole than last year.

Rec sports forms due in next week

Applications for town football and soccer are available at the Rec House, 407 Joramemon St., and in all public schools.

To play football, boys must be at least 10 on Sept. 1, 1980, and no more than 14 on Sept. 1. The minimum weight is 70 pounds and the maximum 145. League divisions, based on weight, will be determined by the turnout.

Boys must report to the Rec House 6 p.m. Tuesday with their applications for weigh-ins.

Those interested in playing recreation soccer must be at least 8 on Sept. 1, 1980, and no more than 14 on the same date. Three leagues are formed by age, the age classifications for each league to be determined by turnout. Applications will be collected at the schools Friday, Sept. 12.

To be eligible for either sport, children must live in Belleville. Those returning forms after deadline will be put on a waiting list. All children who played last season must once again apply to be eligible this year.

Tavern's dart tourney attracts crowded field

Freas and Pat's Bar & Grill recently decided to run a dart tournament just to give customers something to do. By the time it had started, though, the field of throwers had grown large and the competition fierce.

The brand of darts played was a Pennsylvania game called baseball in which the scoring runs by innings. The owners of the 70 William St. tavern had expected only a handful of patrons to enter the tournament, but as word spread the number grew until there were 34 throwers in the men's division and eight in the women's. Several last-minute entrants had to be turned away.

Bill Fisher, the men's champ, had to play for his life all the way. He beat the owner of the bar, Freas Willis, in a close contest and next had to face Ed Noack Jr. in the second round. Fisher won two out of three matches and then beat Jeff Herman in the finale, sliding by with scores of 35-28, 33-36 and 21-13. Herman finished in second place, Noack in third.

About 30 customers were watching the women's action as Laurie Codomo defeated Becky Schrum and Pat Willis topped Carole Ann Mehalenko. Becky and Carole Ann played darts for the first time the week of the tournament, with Becky beating her future sister-in-law, Eleanor Herman, in an early round.

Later Laurie Codomo got a scare before winning when Joan Miller bested her in the first game of the three-game series. Pat Willis defeated Mary Ann Romanski in two games to go on to the championships. Carole Ann Mehalenko got by Arlene Steigerwald to advance.

In the championship match, Pat Willis beat Laurie Codomo two

Another hole-in-one scored at Hendricks

Ted Seritella of 18 Magnolia St. is eligible to win a free trip to Scotland and $1,000 as a result of scoring a hole-in-one at Hendricks Field Golf Course.

Seritella's ace qualified him for the 20th annual Rusty Nail Hole-in-One Sweepstakes, a national competition sponsored by the Drambuie Liqueur Company of Edinburgh, Scotland. The winner will be announced early next year.

Minichini off to Upsala mat

Upsala College wrestling coach Rick Freitas has announced the recruitment of Belleville High School's Gerard Minichini.

Minichini, who is expected to wrestle at 126 pounds, finished his senior year with a record 23 wins, five losses and one tie. Twice he was a regional place-winner and twice a district champion while at BHS. This past spring, he made it down to the state mat tournament in Princeton wrestling at 122 pounds.

"Gerard comes from an excellent wrestling program at Belleville High and stands a good chance of being our number one man in his weight class," said Freitas. "He is a very slick wrestler and is best on takedowns. We are extremely pleased that he has joined our growing wrestling program at Upsala."

Classification upsets local officials and so does timing of state release

sification criteria) a very poor idea. If one person was to go out and make the same inspections all over, that'd be okay," said Zoppi, but he noted that inspectors were given too much latitude. "There were too many interpretations," he added.

"I think we did pretty well," said Assistant Superintendent for Instruction Seymour Grossman. "All of the educational plans were approved, it was only the facilities at some school buildings that received interim approval," he said.

Many local educators, including School Superintendent Dr. John Greed, who was strongly opposed to classification, have charged classifying schools will "stigmatize" the children who attend those schools. Greed was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

Some trustees were upset at the way the "classification" results were released. Trustee Caesar Romano said newspapers received the grades before local board members were told, which infuriated him.

"I think it's a travesty. I want to know how the state department can do something like this," said Romano, referring to releasing classification results before local trustees had them.

Romano said he may even consider resigning since state officials seem to think they can run everything. "I'm so fed up with the people down in Trenton...they speak from an ivory tower," he said.

"I honestly believe we should fight them on this. I would hope the board comes to the same conclusion," said Romano, pointing out though he wouldn't "lead the charge" against state intervention, he hoped other trustees would.

Romano said he "assumed" because trustees asked for a dispen- sation, it was several standard classrooms, state officials ended up knocking the school system. "I think these guys are wasting my time and my money," added Romano.

But Trustee Tom Zampino felt an outside evaluation was justified. "Too often people look at this from a negative view. I think an outside opinion is very good. I don't think we should be afraid of an outside opinion," he said.

"I don't feel the kids are losers with this. I feel it's our responsibility to make the schools better," said Zampino. He expected Belleville's interim approvals to be upgraded by next year.

That opinion was more than backed up by Belleville High Principal John DeCesare. He stressed that Belleville High was classified "interim approved" in basic skills because it was less than 1.1 percent below the state reading requirement, a small difference to make up.

DeCesare noted that Belleville High students have raised their math MBS scores 3 percent in the last year and reading MBS scores are up 4 percent — although reading still didn't reach state compliance levels.

"We feel we give a really good education here," said DeCesare, downplaying the classification. He said "well over" 77 percent of Belleville High students scored above minimum levels in math and "well over" 84 percent of the students scored above the reading requirement.

"The problem is people don't understand the implications (of classification). What they have to do is be more specific (in telling why districts are classified the way they are)," said DeCesare.

He also pointed out that it is unfair to compare districts when you don't know the differences between them, which is what educators feel citizens too often do.

Presently Belleville High gets one full-time and one half-day state compensatory education teacher to handle reading and math. And Grossman says this year, the school will have that second SCE teacher full-time at Belleville High.

DeCesare will probably respond to the state "within 30 days," according to Trustee Anthony D'Agostino, with a remedial plan to improve the basic skills scores. He stressed that MBS scores over a three-year period, along with monitoring school educational plans and T&E compliance, were taken into account for classification.

"That (interim approval) should tell us there's an area that needs more attention," said D'Agostino, who has been pushing criterion-referenced testing. That type of testing takes into account locally taught subjects, citing specific problems and how to correct them.

"The stigma that's attached to this is bad," said D'Agostino, noting that variables like Belleville's curriculum and pupil-teacher ratio weren't considered when final tabulations were made.

He acknowledged that the state is trying to force districts to replace old school buildings and make renovations before they'll be granted full classification compliance — which is what many critics consider a noose that state officials will pull tighter if districts dissent.

"One of the motives of the state department is to get better buildings (for education)," said D'Agostino from his principal's office at Mount Vernon School in Newark. "It's (renovations) more of an awakening cycle the public has to be enlightened of and constantly reminded," he added.

Agreeing with D'Agostino was Grossman who noted, "It's (classification) going to cost the people a lot of money. There's so many building that are not being kept up well," he said, referring to schools not only in Belleville but across the state.

Belleville's school maintenance

Parents ask board for transportation

School 1. "We're trying to get a consensus of what they want us to do," said Mrs. Wright Monday afternoon.

Asked what alternatives she felt parents had, Mrs. Wright replied, "We have hundreds of alternatives," noting the majority's decision will rule. Individual parents may still make new choices for their children.

Mrs. Wright asked trustees last Wednesday to provide School 1 children with buses opening day, but they doubted whether that was legal — an opinion backed up by counsel Lawrence Schwartz.

Although he said he couldn't "give an absolute answer" if busing only School 1 kids would be discriminatory, Schwartz said he thought it would be. Schwartz said he'd research the legal questions involved.

"I don't think the town would mind so much giving us this one small concession," said Mrs. Wright last Wednesday. She pointed out that School 2's relocated students are going to schools closest to their homes, whereas School 1 minorities aren't — a fact Zoppi grudgingly conceded.

"At least give us something so that us mothers and fathers don't have to worry if we go to work. What happens if on the way to work our kid gets hit by a car," said a frantic Dorothy O'Keefe. Mrs. O'Keefe asked for answers, but received few replies.

"You had no answer March 3 either," she said, while walking away, referring to trustees' desegregation plan. Mrs. O'Keefe said her 8-year-old son would have to walk 13-and-a-half blocks to attend school, which she considered outrageous.

"We're going to have to deal with this busing problem," said Trustee Caesar Romano, about three hours after Wednesday's heated meeting began in Belleville High's equally hot auditorium.

Both School Superintendent Dr. John Greed and Secretary Business Administrator Mary Shader were told to prepare reports on Belleville's hazard busing formula and what effects lowering its point total would have.

"Do we have to provide busing to the entire community if we give it to them?" asked Romano of Schwartz.

program has repeatedly come under fire from parents, who have charged that trustees endangered children at School 4 by not repairing its roof when problems first developed and that they continue to neglect needed repairs. However, trustees stress that constant budget defeats tie them in knots when it comes to making major repairs — since little funding is available for renovations.

Few trustees predict any school closings soon, with Zoppi stressing that no Belleville school would ever be closed simply to get money for needed renovations. Only a declining population would cause a school closing, he said.

The first resolution transferred $65,103 — the largest amounts coming from public safety, finance and public works accounts — into accounts for recreation and public works department wages and salaries and the police pension fund, among other items. The second resolution moved transferred $13,312 from accounts for security bonds and auto insurance into the financial administration account. The resolutions, which contained 13 transfers in all, were moved by McGreevy, who has headed Belleville's Finance Department the last 12 years, and seconded by Strumolo.

Since the legal process was not followed, overexpenditures occurred at least technically on any bills that were paid out from accounts receiving transferred money. Such overexpenditures are illegal in New Jersey.

What action the state will take in the matter is uncertain. James Golden, a former Belleville councilman and frequent commission critic, has been exchanging letters with Barry Skokowski, acting director of the Division of Local Government, about the fiscal irregularities pointed out in the town audit. So far, Skokowski hasn't seemed overly concerned about the case, but Golden hasn't gotten any reaction from him yet to the vote on the transfers.

Golden also phoned Nathan Honig of Samuel Klein & Company in Newark, the firm that prepared Belleville's audit, to ask him about the transfers. Honig told Golden what he had told The Times last week — he would answer questions submitted in writing but would not respond over the phone.

Democratic membership meeting on Wednesday

The Democratic Club of Belleville will hold a membership meeting 8 p.m. this coming Wednesday, Sept. 10, at the Chandelier Restaurant, 340 Franklin Ave.

President Rosemary Ciccone will preside. Chairmen will be asked to report on the progress of their committees. Ralph Risoli, the town's registrar of vital of statistics, will speak about services offered by the Belleville Health Department.

Mrs. Ciccone has announced that plans have been finalized for a "Festival Italiana" to be sponsored by the club. Vito Sylvestro and Vinnie Cosenzo are co-chairmen for the affair, to be held 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 11, at Don's 21 in Newark. There will be dancing and a menu-featuring delicious Italian dishes prepared by Rapheal. Tickets are limited and will be $25 a person.

Mrs. Ciccone requests that all members attend the Sept. 10 meeting to renew acquaintances and learn about the club's plans and programs for the coming year.

Food cooperative short people power

By Mike Olohan

Working together, saving money and helping others are three things that don't often happen simultaneously. But in a cooperative, which is an investor-owned business, people help people by contributing their time, effort and concern.

For several years, Catherine and Louise Mingle have been venturing down to Newark's Farmers Market to pick up fresh fruits and vegetables for the local Valley neighborhood's food cooperative. They have been bringing the produce back to the Dutch Reformed Church on Main Street where little stands are set up and area residents can then come in to make purchases.

The food cooperative originally had about 30 to 35 members when it was started by the Rev. Paul Reuter, formerly pastor the Reformed Church. Louise Mingle and other cooperative members used to take turns going to the Farmers Market, but last year, Louise was left alone having to travel weekly to Newark.

As of Friday, Catherine was unsure if enough people would again show interest to keep the cooperative alive this year, and she really wasn't sure she even wanted people to show interest since running a cooperative fruit and vegetable stand is a very time-consuming and thankless job.

She noted that older people have been quite happy about the cooperative since they get cut-rate breaks on food items — reductions many need, living on low, fixed incomes.

Whether the local cooperative will operate this year depends on whether Catherine's supply helper can get a good deal on vegetables and fruits — and then whether she can get enough people to help run it.

The Reformed Church was being cleaned recently and some senior citizens, noticing boxes outside the building, thought the cooperative had reopened. Unfortunately, it hasn't yet. A meeting Wednesday will help decide whether it will or not.

What the Valley cooperative symbolizes — cooperation, sharing and self-sufficiency — it has yet to obtain in reality. The reason is simple: Not enough people are involved to help it hold its own against stiffer competition from local food markets intent on monopolizing food sales.

Cooperatives attempt to give both economic and political power back to local residents by enabling them to control their own supply and demand system — making them independent of established businesses or political institutions.

Valley people have had a long history of pulling together, but lately much energy has been directed toward the fight to save School 1 and prevent "industrialization" of the area.

"Cooperative organizing efforts are often sparked by community activists and other groups concerned with the lack of local control and accountability in the economic sector," say Mitch Rofsky and David Thompson in a recent article. Rofsky was the original secretary of the National Consumer Cooperative Bank, and Thompson is a consumer cooperative organizer.

The National Consumer Cooperative Bank, infused with $300 million of treasury funds, was begun exclusively to make loans and provide technical assistance and advice to a broad range of new and existing consumer cooperatives.

Cooperatives often run against traditional business values in that savings and local pride, rather than the profit motive, is their reason for existing.

Belleville's Valley cooperative is unique, since it's the only one in town, but others could start if enough people become interested. Catherine Mingle knows they're a lot of hard work, but they do pay off if they can get all members to put in an equal share of time.

"Food cooperatives are the simplest to start, given the minimal capital investment required. Many people start buying clubs which operate out of churches and people's homes and buy once a week at the local wholesale produce market," say Rofsky and Thompson. "Many in the 'new wave' of cooperatives pay attention to the quality of their products and focus on foods which are basic, unadulterated and free of harmful pesticides and fertilizers," they add.

Mingle noted that recruiting energetic people is probably most important to a cooperative's success, since people power is crucial to keeping a cooperative active and vital.

However, as is the case with the Valley's faltering venture, too many people like the idea of a cooperative but can't seem to find the time needed to run one.

Years ago, a group of Valley residents got together to beat inflation, and help each other. If the group survives, it will be through the efforts of many "cooperative" people, not just the Mingle sisters.

Greed overruled, teacher is hired

The hiring of a social studies teacher at the Junior High — over the recommendation of School Superintendent Dr. John Greed — brought charges last week that the Board of Education is playing politics and interfering with administrative duties better left to educators.

Greed didn't attach his approval to a resolution appointing Joseph Papisidero to the position, and Trustees Mike Chieffo, Tom Zampino and John DiStasi, who voted against the hiring, said qualifications hadn't been considered in making the decision — a charge denied by the board majority, President Ernie Zoppi, Vice President Charles Miele and Trustees Anthony D'Agostino and Caesar Romano.

"The board is taking an administrative position, not just a policy-making role," said Thomas Spillane, a former board candidate whose wife Barbara was passed over for the social studies position. Spillane said politics had influenced the board's decision.

Several weeks ago, Greed had recommended Mrs. Spillane, who taught special education last year in the Belleville system. The superintendent's recommendation is nearly always followed. According to Zoppi, however, more than a recommendation had to be considered in this case.

He cited Belleville's skimpy school budget, noting Papisidero, who is at a lower salary step, would be cheaper to hire than Mrs. Spillane — a point that all the dissenters rejected. They felt Mrs. Spillane would be worth the extra dollars because of her experience, but they couldn't convince any of their colleagues.

On previous occasions, both citizens and trustees have spoken out against so-called "political appointments," by trustees, hoping to convince them to stay clear of strictly educational decisions.

On Aug. 27 of last year, Papisidero, a teacher at St. Aloysius High School in Jersey City and a BHS graduate, was hired as head basketball coach at the local high school after a raucous meeting. He was number three on the list of candidates submitted to the Board of Education by Belleville's Athletic Council. The father of the number one candidate publicly confronted trustees, contending Papisidero was being shown "favoritism" — a charge that infuriated then Vice President Zoppi and Romano.

"I think I would contradict myself if I didn't believe the administrators should handle this," said Zampino of last week's appointment. He stressed that individual qualifications were being ignored and that saving money shouldn't be the overwhelming reason for hiring someone. Though the majority pointed out that Papisidero was amply qualified for his position, the 4-3 split indicated the obvious disagreement among trustees.

Miele, who blasted Zoppi last year for hiring Papisidero as basketball coach, was fairly quiet, only citing the "dollar crunch" as a main reason for selecting Papisidero. This year's meeting was generally more subdued than the one last year in which trustees shouted at each other while taking repeated curtain calls on the stage of the high school auditorium to caucus on the coaching appointment.

"With pleasure, I vote 'yes'," said Zoppi in okaying Papisidero's appointment. Each of his colleagues voting along with him voiced similar sentiments. In his first year on the job, Papisidero guided the Belleville varsity basketball team to its best season in five years.

Judge sets hearing in November on board motion to toss out suit

board has relied upon that closing (School 1)."

He emphasized that even after Burke's July 24 desegregation approval, School 1's PTA took three weeks to file a lawsuit.

Since, as Samuels said, trustees' decisions "carry with them a presumption of correctness," the burden fell on School 1's lawyer to prove their decision arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. "This (presumption of correctness) does not attempt to determine whether their action is reasonable or unreasonable," the judge said.

Samuels said School 1's PTA should have been fighting Belleville's entire desegregation plan, not just the closing of School 1.

Arriving about 9 a.m. for the hearing, Vallario presented Schwartz with two affidavits the board attorney wasn't too happy to receive. One affidavit supporting School 1's case was from former Board President Ralph Risoli and another from Judy Sobanko.

"The petitioners (School 1 parents) can't prove they'll be able to overturn the board decision. The board has been looking for years to economize and streamline...I don't see any likelihood of success for this (suit)," said Schwartz.

Though Schwartz sees no likelihood, School 1 parents will continue their legal battle, sure that they are right and trustees wrong. Samuels called a Nov. 13 hearing to decide on Schwartz's motion to dismiss the suit because it wasn't filed in 90 days.

However, the judge seemed to feel the suit should continue to be heard, and he set aside four further hearing dates, Jan. 5, 6, 8 and 9 of 1981, in case he decides the case warrants more legal debate.

"I still have other problems with this case," he said, obviously referring to the strictly racial grounds being used to force movement of children who live next to each other and are friends.

"This is the only case I've ever heard of where we've been faced with a last-minute application (to stop a closing)," said Samuels. "Our breathing time is nil," he added, noting that administrators would probably have trouble getting teachers back to School 1 if it were opened this year.

Both attorneys agreed that with court delays, they couldn't see School 1 opening this year, even if parents were to win after January's hearings. What tactic School 1's attorney will now use is unsure, though both sides will be back at it Nov. 13.

"It was an injustice," said Bob May as he and several friends walked from the hearing room following Samuel's decision. Shortly thereafter, Samuels exited the room, declining to either talk or have his picture taken.

"The way Schwartz presented their case changed this (challenge) around," said May Wednesday night, giving the board attorney an off-handed compliment. However, he said Schwartz's arguments were laced with "half-truths," notably the assertion that School 1 wasn't maintained this summer and had suddenly disappeared from the school budget.

"There are merits on both sides of these arguments, and there are substantial disputes of fact on these merits," said Samuels. Despite his allusions that School 1's case wouldn't be successful if he heard it — once saying he saw "no avenue of success" if parents try to "obtain revision of the redistricting plan" — Samuels encouraged the legal appeal.

"You (School 1 parents) certainly have more irons in the fire than this (restraint hearing)," said Samuels. "This (denial) is not an opinion on the merits of the case."

Samuels emphasized that minority distribution through legal order isn't satisfactory to everyone and often "inconveniences some people for the good of the total."
