FOR SOHO REC CENTER

Town mulls purchase of shutdown School 2

School 2, shut down this fall after decades of operation, may soon be turned into a recreational center if local commissioners can come up with enough money to buy it from the Board of Education.

The school, which has stood just past the intersection of Maple Avenue and Mill Street since 1894, was a victim of declining enrollments and a state mandate to consolidate schools to save money. School 2's approximately 100 pupils were transferred to Schools 4 and 10.

In late September, trustees decided School 1, also closed this year, would be more suitable for administrative offices and tentatively put School 2 on the selling block. However, no price evaluation has yet been given trustees, so they'll wait until more specifics are available before making a formal offer to commissioners.

Commissioners have bandied about the possibility of acquiring School 2, which would become the town's third recreational building. Right now, the community is served by the Friendly House in Silver Lake and the Rec House on Joralemon Street. The Friendly House was just refurbished and offers a game room, a gymnasium for basketball, gymnastics and running, along with an Olympic-sized pool.

Federal dollars are available under public works appropriations to purchase a neighborhood rec center, but it's unsure whether they would even be available for purchasing a site like School 2.

"Nothing is concrete right now," says School Board President Ernie Zoppi. Asked if trustees might reduce School 2's cost to commissioners, he said, "I couldn't answer that, but I would be a lot more flexible about it. They (commissioners) have the right of first refusal (in buying the property)," said Zoppi. He said he expects a price estimate "within a couple weeks."

Zoppi stressed that talking about the commissioners purchasing School 2 "is premature" since they haven't yet publicly voted on, or even debated acquiring the property. "The commissioners must approve this (purchase) first," noted Zoppi.

But if Zoppi can convince his colleagues to lower School 2's price, commissioners may jump at the offer if they can get some federal or state funds. However, they're pinched by New Jersey's 5 percent municipal budget "cap" on local spending, a restraint they constantly must cite whenever the question of new appropriations comes up.

"I'd be very happy to see them use this as a recreation center," said the board president. "It has a good-size rec room and a place for indoor and outdoor recreation."

The town owns half an acre of School 2's property and trustees own another nine-tenths of an acre. It's estimated six to eight houses could be put on the property should the school be demolished, but Zoppi would rather see a rec house. "I'd be very happy about that," he said.

Mayor Michael Marotti, who heads the local recreation department, is reportedly favorable to the idea too. He could not be reached for comment this week, however, since he was attending the New Jersey League of Municipalities convention in Atlantic City.

Vandalism falls in local schools

Exactly $8,984 was paid out by local taxpayers last year for vandalism, mostly broken windows, at Belleville's then nine grammar schools and two secondary schools. But remarkably that was down from $14,835 in the 1977-78 school year, the last vandalism tally made public.

Two years ago, the high school and junior high led the list with vandalism totals of $3,543 and $1,837 respectively, with nearly $3,000 of that just for windows.

But specifics weren't available from Board Business Administrator Mary Shader on either Wednesday or Thursday last week, nor have they been proffered when previously requested once before.

Two years ago, then Board President Matthew Pica said, "It's a hell of a waste of taxpayers' dollars" when asked his assessment of the nearly $15,000 vandalism tab. School Superintendent Dr. John Greed then called for "increased vigilance" at Schools 1 and 8, along with the junior high and senior high.

Trustee Caesar Romano then labeled vandalism "a terrible waste" and said another teacher could have been hired with $14,835. Former Vice President Ralph Risoli went so far as to urge trustees hire a security guard since he saw that as "the only answer" to halting vandalism.

Though no security guards have been hired, please see "Neighborhood" on page 13.

Board lawyer pleads guilty

Belleville Planning Board attorney Thomas DiBiasi pleaded guilty Monday in United States District Court in Newark to bank fraud charges stemming from a multi-million dollar loan.

The 33-year-old Washington Township resident was immediately suspended from practice before the federal courts by U.S. District Court Judge Clarkson S. Fischer, who accepted DiBiasi's plea. The attorney faces a up to a year in jail and a $10,000 fine when he is sentenced Dec. 23 before U.S. District Judge Lawrence A. Whipple.

DiBiasi and two other men were indicted in August 1979 on federal conspiracy and false statement charges. Please see "DiBiasi" on page 17.

Eyesore of the week

Long and Weedy Road — Also known as Main Street, this thoroughfare is lined with unsightly outgrowths and numerous patches of trash that look terrible.

Thanksgiving Throng — Holding their own pilgrim stories are School 4 first graders Lisa Galloway, Michael Doud, Michael Cochran and Dana Carlson who stand by their teacher, Margarita Pica. Mrs. Pica read the whole class a Thanksgiving story last week.

Water conservation lags far below state mandate

Belleville's water conservation figures are zig-zagging up and down, with the average reading for Nov. 10 through 19 improving over the week before, yet still short of the 10.6 percent cutback achieved near the end of October.

Apparently, some homeowners and local tenants have decided to follow Gov. Brendan Byrne's strict 50-gallon per day maximum, but others just don't care, continuing to flout the conservation order imposed only to prevent more drastic measures, like business or industry closings.

The second reading since water conservation was imposed of Belleville's "factory book," which lists big water users like businesses and apartment complexes, will be finished tomorrow. Belleville's tax-assessor-turned-water-monitor, Steve Vogel, will have those stats by next week, and they should provide a more comprehensive view of exactly who is or isn't doing his part in saving water.

Belleville's daily water consumption average dipped from the previous 570,700 cubic feet to 563,444 cubic feet, a saving of 7,256 cubic feet, or 1.1 percent better than last week's 9.1 percent saving, but still far from the 25 percent cutback ordered by Byrne.

The 10.2 percent saving last week falls short of October's 10.6 reduction, but Vogel can't be sure what's causing the slightly spastic readings.

"I don't read anything into it...I just don't understand it," he said, noting water use is difficult to predict or judge. However, he stressed with the Thanksgiving holiday approaching, water usage should drop since most local industry will be closed. That could be partially offset, though, by more people being at home, using more water.

Vogel agreed that some people may not believe there's a water shortage since water still flows freely from their faucets, and that although others may know about a shortage, they aren't conscious enough of how much water they're actually using.

Asked if he felt enough leadership by state and local officials was being shown in spearheading a water conservation drive, Vogel hesitated, then said, "I really don't know...I suppose that more could be done, but I'm not really familiar with what the state

Please see "Water" on page 13.

Historians to hear talk on local ghost

Belleville's Rose Cottage, an 18th century structure on Main Street, houses several mysteries, the most fascinating of which is the ghost that residents have reported seeing down through the years. This coming Wednesday at 8 p.m., that mystery should be at least partially explained during a meeting of the Belleville Historical Society. The program, to be held at Christ Episcopal Church, 393 Washington Ave., should be one of the most interesting, and important, the organization has ever held.

The Rose Cottage was built circa 1747. Information regarding the identity of the builder does not exist, therefore the early settlers remain as much a mystery as the ghostly visitor. The Rose Cottage got its name in the early 19th century when the grounds were covered with a myriad variety of roses. The building is a sturdy stone farmhouse executed in the New Jersey Dutch style of architecture. The house has a large main hall, living room, dining room and sitting room.

Many legends have been told about the Rose Cottage. Residents, including the late town historian, Allan Crisp, have claimed to have seen a ghost there. The silhouette accompanying this article is of the ghost and was rendered about 1780 by a young woman who was a member of the prominent Kip family.

One legend in particular concerning the ghost is of interest to historians. In the last year of the Revolutionary War, a young British officer was captured and held prisoner in an upstairs bedroom. Tired of pacing the floor and hurling invective at his rebel captors, he sat down on a window seat and, taking his diamond ring, carved the family coat of arms into one of the window panes. After the war, the owners heard of the officer's death and had the pane removed and sent it to his family in England.

New information as to the identity of the officer will be part of a slideshow presented by Col. Robert Herb of the East New Jersey Artillery Company to the Belleville Historical Society. Herb will provide complete details of the life of the ghost, who was deeply involved with the ultimate destiny of the nation. The public is invited to attend.

Santa's coming to town!

Yes, Santa Claus is coming to town. He has established a headquarters in the store next to Charles Jewelers, opposite Town Hall on Washington Avenue and will be here in Belleville Saturdays beginning Nov. 29 from noon to 6 p.m.

Santa will also be in town 3-6 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and 3-8 p.m. Fridays. Christmas week, Dec. 22-24, his hours will be 3-8 p.m. All children will be welcome and they can have their pictures taken with Santa for a nominal fee. In return, Santa will give the children gifts.

Santa's visit is sponsored by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce which also put together something for Thanksgiving. Drawings for Thanksgiving Day turkeys were held in 16 participating stores last Wednesday, Nov. 19.

It is estimated that close to 3,000 persons took part in the event, with a winner in each store. Eight of the 16 winners were from out of town, which indicates that people come to Belleville to shop.

And the winners were... Ken Shirak, 181 River Road, Nutley, at Pro Lumber and Hardware; William Bradley, 523 Washington Ave., Belleville, at Serafino Printing; Viny DeVingo, 556 Ridge St., Newark, at Charles Jewelers; Mattie Sessa, 450 Belleville Ave., Belleville, at Wallcovering Direct; Evelyn Quinones, 36 Bell Ave., Belleville, at Sherman's Children's Wear; Vanessa Castoro, North Arlington, at Belleville Shoes; Angelina Panulla, 222 William St., Belleville, at the Word of Faith Book Store, and Anne Callela, 61 Floyd St., Belleville, at Carvel Cake.

Also, Neil O'Sullivan, 115 Clifton Ave., Clifton, at Barden Photographers; Donna L. Gibson, 65 Wallace St., Belleville, at Lenzi Hairdressers; Susan Sawicz, 22 Bergen Ave., North Arlington, at Karl's Sales & Service Company; Yvonne Sarcone, 365 Highland Ave., Newark, at Tarantino's Restaurant; John Reilly, 279 Washington Ave., Nutley, at Crescent Press; Doctor Guarino, 469 Ridgewood Ave., Glen Ridge, at Yudin's Glass and Frame Shop, and Teresa Possumato, Rutgers Street, Belleville, at Belleville Tee Party. C&D Market and Deli King also participated, but the winner's name was unlisted.

Spencer opens holiday clubs

Charles R. Duess, president of Spencer Savings and Loan Association, reports the institution's 1981 bonus-paying and gift-bearing Christmas and Chanukah clubs are now open for membership at all offices.

Persons who open holiday clubs for $2, $3 or $5 weekly will receive a country kitchen gourmet toolery set free. Each comes complete with five full-sized utensils housed in an early American crock.

Club members who start accounts for $10 or $20 weekly will receive free a Capodimonte rose-blossom candleholder. Everyone completing club accounts will receive one week's bonus payment.

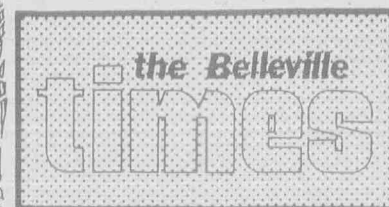

The special holiday offer is limited to one free gift per family, while supplies last.

Spencer Savings maintains offices here at the Pathmark on Belmont Avenue and in Garfield, Lodi, Wallington, Saddle Brook and Clifton.

Bell has new number for business repairs

A new telephone repair number, designed to serve the special needs of business customers, is being introduced by New Jersey Bell this week in Belleville.

Business telephone customers may call the new number, 555-1515, for repair service immediately. Their calls will be channeled through a computerized network to repair service employees specially trained in handling business telephone troubles.

Residential customers will continue to call 611 for home telephone repair service. Their calls will be directed through the computer network to a special residence repair staff.

The new number will be printed on business customers' monthly telephone bill for easy reference. The new business number is an enhancement of the company's ongoing program to centralize and speed repair service for both business and residential customers throughout the state.

Under the system, initiated in 1978, repair calls are directed to a central repair bureau where attendants look up records on a customer's phone by using a computerized video screen. The attendant then analyzes how the problem should be handled and orders the needed repairs from the local repair bureau.

The system speeds repair service by eliminating the need to search manually through paper files previously stored in regional repair offices.

Fidelity profits slowed by inflation, new costs

Fidelity Union Bancorporation's income before securities transactions was $16,634,000 for the nine-month period ending Sept. 30, 1980. That works out to $4.38 a share, an increase of 7.6 percent over the corresponding period the year before.

Income before securities transactions for the same period last year was $15,591,000 or $4.07 a share. Net income, after the transactions, totaled $16,505,000 or $4.35 a share compared with $15,602,000 or $4.07 a share in 1979.

For the three-month period ending Sept. 30, income before securities transactions was $5,212,000 or $1.37 a share, compared with $5,201,000 or $1.36 a share for the same period last year. Net income after securities transactions totaled $5,222,000 or $1.38 a share compared with $5,209,000 or $1.36 a share in 1979.

Chairman Peter Cartmell said the third-quarter results "were favorably affected by the acquisition of the Garden State National Bank in July 1980." He also noted, however, that "this was offset by poorer interest spreads caused by the high cost of six-month savings certificates and lower demand deposit levels, the continued inflationary impact on our non-interest expense, and costs of our new operations center."

Cold water is very beneficial in relieving the pain of first or second degree burns and insect bites. If the burned area is immersed in cold water, or a cold compress applied, pain will quickly be relieved. Applying a cold compress to an insect bite will cut down on itching. Additional treatment with burning involves firm application of a dressing to limit or prevent infection in blistering. Be careful with fire and heat sources and use a good insect repellent as a preventive measure.

We carefully compound all prescriptions brought to us at ROS-SMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1968, 759-1956. "Your Doctor Knows Us-Your Doctor Trusts Us". # Planners give okay for Roche to build drug producing plant

The Planning Board has unanimously though reluctantly approved an application by Hoffmann-LaRoche to build a pilot drug manufacturing plant on its property at Franklin Avenue and Mill Street.

The old boiler building which has stood on the Roche Diagnostics site for 40 years will be converted at some unspecified future time into a plant operating five days a week and employing about the same number of workers. There will be no exterior changes in the building, but two floors will be added.

The plant will produce compounds used in the manufacture of penicillin, and the nature of those compounds and their handling were the main obstacles Roche officials confronted before finally gaining approval of their application Nov. 13.

Planners were very concerned about the flammable materials and acids to be used at the plant, especially after it was revealed at an October hearing that plant employees would be working with them in an isolation room. To several board members, that suggested the materials were extremely hazardous, though as a Roche attorney, pointed out, "Isolation not only keeps things from going out of the room, it keep them from coming in."

The purpose of the isolation room, said Roche, would be to keep materials free of contamination. Roche also said that although its storm drainage goes into the Second River, no materials from the new plant would be flushed out of what was described as its "controlled, closed system." Under questioning, the plant's manager, Dr. Stanley Chmielewski, also assured planners, there would be no noise problems or incineration, adding, "We don't intend to accumulate or store any solid waste."

The project also had the approval of Town Health Officer Thomas Longo who reported to planners that the operation would not pose an "unusual hazard."

However, board members remained skeptical, especially because Roche was requesting a "pilot" plant which some planners took to mean a project that was being tested out by the giant, Swiss-based pharmaceutical company. "Suppose after we pass this, what's for Hoffmann-LaRoche to say we no longer want to produce antibiotics?" asked Board Chairman Joe Grande, adding later, "I don't want to see Nutley reap the harvest and see Belleville get the leftovers, the pilot plants."

Chmielewski had said in October that Roche would return to the board for permission if it wanted to work with or produce other chemicals at the plant. However, Board Attorney Thomas DiBiasi pointed out that planners were merely being asked to approve a site plan and that their legal authority to tell Roche what could and could not be produced at the plant was questionable.

The board approved the plant 7-0 on a motion made by Ralph Risoli and seconded by Grande. Planners stipulated that Roche submit an environmental impact statement on the project and that employees be allowed to enter and exit the property only from Franklin Avenue.

In other business, the board unanimously approved changes in the site plan for the new Pathmark mini-mall on Washington Avenue, though members were upset that the developer had in effect forced their hands.

When Shopping Center Developers Ltd. of South Orange gained approval of its application to build the Pathmark last year, it still had not acquired an 18 by 300-foot strip of land running through what was to be its parking lot. The firm eventually acquired the property and joined an area designated for employee parking with one designated for store customers. A driveway at the southerly end of the property which had been for employees only was thus made accessible to the public as well.

The only problem was that the changes were not specified in the site plan originally approved by the board, and Shopping Center Developers went ahead with them without coming back to planners for permission.

Board Vice Chairman Joseph Doyle asked the firm's president, Harold Wachtel, why he had not come before the planners sooner than Nov. 13. Wachtel replied that the board's informal instructions last year were for his company to develop the strip of land for parking if it were acquired. Doyle angrily took issue with that statement and said the company had never been given a "carte blanche" to make changes. "We definitely did inform our building inspector and I'm sure he did inform Mr. Wachtel that there was to be no development of this area," said Doyle.

Wachtel said the opening of the Pathmark would be delayed if he had to go before the State Department of Transportation with an amended site plan, but Doyle said a more important question of principle was involved. The board's decisions must be enforced or the town's zoning law would be meaningless, contended Doyle.

The board approved the site plans changes, stipulating that the southerly side of the parking lot be for employees only and that the southerly driveway entrance be designated with an sign as entrance only.

Four shoplifters draw fines in Belleville Municipal Court

Four K-mart shoplifting cases were heard last week in Municipal Court as store security guard Ruth Hahn had a busy time apprehending suspects.

Rosa Santiago, 34, of Wakeman Avenue in Newark was convicted of concealing merchandise with intent to deprive the retailer of the full value of the products. The shoplifting took place on Nov. 8. The woman was given a 30-day suspended sentence and a $200 fine.

In another case, Nereida Caro was found guilty of attempting to shoplift $29.91 in merchandise at the K-mart. Caro, a 24-year-old resident of Newark, was apprehended by Ruth Hahn on Nov. 7. The defendant was fined $200.

Two residents of a house on Third Avenue in Newark were also arrested at K-mart on Nov. 7. Sonie and Serfino Morales were both convicted of shoplifting, Sonie of taking $18 worth of merchandise and Serfino for concealing $4.97 in goods. Each of the Moraleses was fined $200.

In other court action, Anthony Fornaty of Belleville Avenue man was convicted of aggravated assault on 17-year-old Michele Limontine on two occasions. The complainant, Silvio Limontine of Passaic Avenue in Belleville, contended that on Aug. 22 Fornaty struck Miss Limontine on the arms causing black and blue marks. He also said that Fornaty, on Aug. 24, struck Miss Limontine again, this time with a beer mug over the head. The case was referred to the Essex County prosecutor for further action.

Another aggravated assault case saw John F. Lindgren of Smallwood Avenue convicted of attacking Tony Lombardi, 14, on July 14. Lindgren pushed young Lombardi from his moped and grabbed him around the neck, wrestling him to the hood of a car.

Lindgren was fined $150 and $25 court costs.

Two local men arrested for attempted robbery

Two Belleville men were arrested last Friday after an alleged armed robbery attempt in Clifton.

The men were armed, one with a handgun, the other with a knife, when they allegedly accosted a Thom McAn shoe store clerk on her way to deposit $1,200 of store receipts, according to Det. Lt. Frank Sperlazzi of the Clifton police.

Both were arrested shortly after the 9:30 p.m. robbery, which occurred at the Valley National Bank branch on Clifton Avenue. Police said that a witness to the crime alert-ly notified them and helped Patrolman Michael Sauer arrest one man outside of the bank and the second man down the street in a parked automobile.

Bail was initially set at $100,000 for each of the suspects, but was reduced to $3,000 for one man and $2,000 for the other by Superior Court Judge Joseph N. Donatelli at a hearing last Monday.

Saving water — critical need

Figures coming out of Town Hall recently show that Belleville residents and businesses are using about 10 percent less water than they were for the same period last year. That's bad news.

North Jersey faces a critical water shortage due to drought and the shortage could last a long time. It will last even longer if people and businesses do not do their utmost to conserve water.

The governor has called on Belleville and many other communities in the area to reduce water consumption by 25 percent. Even so, each household is entitled to 50 gallons of water per person, per day — and that is still quite a bit of water. Failure to abide by the limits can result in fines and restrictions for citizens — and shutdowns for businesses if the emergency becomes even more serious.

We urge citizens and businesses to pay attention to the rules for water consumption. They won't go — until the emergency does.

Code enforcement needs extra help

Belleville has a reasonably good property maintenance and building code, however, a code is only as good as its enforcement. Enforcement entails personnel — that means people — that means a tax burden.

The question for Belleville officials and taxpayers is whether or not enforcement is worth the tax dollars necessary to employ personnel to do the job adequately.

It is clear from all the evidence available that code enforcement is nearly a myth in Belleville, and for one reason — the enforcement staff is undermanned.

In order to achieve a measure of its old glory as a first-class citizen among the community of fine towns, Belleville must address itself to the critical problem of code enforcement.

Run-down neighborhoods have their genesis in the failure to enforce existing laws. Top-grade aesthetics and safety of a community require the hiring of additional personnel to enforce some of the good laws in Belleville's books.

It is never too late to do the right thing. It maybe too late to restore the luster of a town when the direction it is headed for is downhill. To apply the brakes, for goodness sake — let's get going — spend the money it takes to adequately staff the enforcement division and repair Belleville's image. The sooner the better.

Letters

Geriatrics center correspondent most thankful for spiritual gifts

First of all I would like to wish everybody in the town of Belleville a very happy, happy Thanksgiving. Ever since I've been in this town, the people here as well as those in surrounding areas have been very nice to me.

Thanksgiving comes once a year. It is a great time to reflect on all the gifts and blessings that God has bestowed on us this past year. I for one am very grateful to Him for being alive. I am a man soon to be 46. I am handicapped and most times bedridden, although I do sit in a chair a few times a week. But when I do, I have a problem with you know where. Despite this, I am still grateful for the wonderful mind that God has bestowed on me. In spite of all my physical problems down through the years and being in many institutions of one type or another since I was 5, as far as I can recall I never raised my voice once at the Lord. But I did at the devil. Like Job, at times, I cursed the day I was born.

But for the most part, especially since I came to Belleville, my life with God and man has risen tremendously. Today I am happier, more cheerful, joyful, at peace than I ever have been before. Most of all, I have peace of mind. This is the most important thing in a person's life. When you know God and Jesus Christ, you can be sure that come what may, He can handle it if you let Him be your source and energy.

So this is what I have to be thankful for on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27, 1980. I would like to end this letter with a few things that would make most people happy and grateful. They are as follows: love, peace, joy, happiness, friends, friendships, hope, peace of mind. But out of all this, the greatest is love for each other.

Sincerely,
Wm. H. Rundle

Yellow ribbons for the hostages

To the Editor:

Soon the hostages will be released, so we are told. When they step on USA soil it will seem like gold.

To come back to their country family and friends.

It seemed to them their confinement never would end.

It was so hard their time to endure. They thought it never would end, of that they were sure.

So come you gals and come you fellows, Around your tree tie a ribbon of yellow. To show you welcome them all back here.

Let's all thank God and spread good cheer.

To end this poem, I just want to say, Welcome hostages back to the good old USA!

Freshman football team deserves some coverage

To the Editor:

I am speaking for a couple of parents and friends of the boys on the Belleville freshman football team. They have already played six games this season with a record of 4-2 and there was never any mention of them in the sports section at all.

I, as a parent feel that these boys deserve some kind of recognition also. After all, they work hard and are also a part of our town. Every other sporting event in the town gets mention, why don't they? Let our boys feel good and know that they are not forgotten.

Mrs. Joseph Obenauer
8 Park St.
Belleville

(Editor's Note: It wasn't all that many years ago when we gave sports at Belleville High School just a passing mention. Then coverage was limited to the "major" sports. In more recent years, we've expanded to cover all the varsity teams and we're hoping to go further. We haven't forgotten the freshmen and an article is not far off.)

Senior Notes

By George Chenoweth

Although we seniors do have our problems, it is nice to know that we are still in a position to help others. The Christmas collection is again underway to collect food for the less fortunate people of the town. Large boxes have been placed just inside the meeting room door of the senior recreation center for the collection of any non-perishable foods such as canned meats, fruits and vegetables, cereals, powdered milk and soup. This food will be turned over to the Belleville Health Department, welfare division, the week before Christmas and distributed by the town. We collected a great amount last year, let's make this year's collection even greater. Anyone can give!

To correct an error: the meeting notice for the Belleville Old Guard should have read: "First and third Tuesdays of the month."

The Nutley Assembly of God Church is sponsoring a Thanksgiving Day turkey dinner at 3:30 p.m. at the Belleville Elks Club on Washington Avenue. This dinner is free to those who will be alone, would like company and wish to enjoy true Thanksgiving blessings. If interested in attending, call David or Sue Sidilia at 743-0626 on or before Wednesday, Nov. 26, so that they have an idea as to the number of meals to prepare.

The members of the Belleville Senior Citizens Club were fortunate in having Mrs. Sanford, field representative from the Social Security Administration Office, talk about what could be one of our favorite topics, Social Security. Mrs. Springer from the Belleville Health Department was responsible for bringing her to us. We were assured by Mrs. Sanford that our government would not allow the Social Security benefits program to go down the drain.

However, some important highlights were brought out in a question-and-answer period that followed Mrs. Sanford's talk. This was thought-provoking and I would wonder if we, in this country, have become so smart that we may have outwitted ourselves. Because of modern science and technology, there are more machines working today and fewer people. The unemployment problem is one of the most important issues facing our nation. The fewer people working will mean fewer people paying into the Social Security benefits fund.

That brings up the question, what is the attitude of the younger workforce people, aren't they wondering if the system will be able to help support them when they retire? How do they feel about this after having paid all that money in the hopes that they will receive some compensation when they are no longer able to work? They, the younger generation, should be concerned, as we seniors are, about getting more stringent regulations and a positive way of funding that will keep Social Security solvent for all time.

Health talks begin today

If Belleville's health department had its way, nobody would get sick, and residents would be a lot more healthy than they are. Hoping to achieve those aims, Belleville's health educator, Mary Springer, and nurse Joannie Kurek will address three different groups of residents today and tomorrow and again Dec. 3.

Today, Mrs. Springer will talk to a group of mothers in the public library's main branch at 10 a.m., and all mothers and interested persons are invited to attend. Tomorrow, she and Miss Kurek will talk about childhood immunizations 10 a.m. at the library.

On Dec. 3, an expert from the Red Cross will talk to parents about safety around the home at the library's Silver Lake branch. Finally, on Dec. 5, Mrs. Springer will speak before Belleville senior citizens at their Mill Street headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dippel — nee Susan Araneo

Araneo-Dippel nuptials at Holy Family Church

Miss Susan Maria Araneo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Araneo of 57 Church St., Nutley, became the bride Sept. 7 of Daniel Craig Dippel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dippel of 16 Woodcrest Lane, Nutley.

The Rev. Francis Blake performed the ceremony in Holy Family Church. A reception followed at the Richfield Regency, Verona.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a silk organza over crepe de chine gown fashioned with a lace bodice, high neckline, leg o' mutton sleeves and ruffled apron and train. A ring of babies breath with a cluster of yellow mini roses held her lace veil and she carried a white lace fan with yellow mini roses, white daisies, babies breath and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Sandra Lane of St. Petersburg, Fla., was matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Carol Araneo and Doreen Dippel of Nutley, Lynn Franco of Belleville, Pat Dippel of Clifton and Diane Dippel of Verona. Junior bridesmaid was Kimberly Dippel of Verona while Jennifer Rastler of Belleville was flower girl.

Their pale yellow Qiana gowns featured lace bodices and sleeves and high necklines. The honor attendant carried a natural wicker fan with yellow daisies, white mini carnations and yellow ribbons. The others had white daisies, yellow carnations and yellow ribbons on their fans.

Robert Prescott of Belmar was best man. Ushering were Don Dippel of Clifton, Dennis Dippel of Verona, Anthony Caprio of Marlboro Township and Phil Mascolo, Gary Milano, and Billy Robertazzi of Nutley. Peter Scerbo of Nutley was ringbearer.

Mrs. Araneo chose a chalk pistachio Qiana gown with cap sleeves and empire waist, while the groom's mother was in a forest green Qiana gown with an ostrich feather trimmed jacket. Wristlets were of mint green baby roses.

Mrs. Dippel, an alumna of Taylor Business Institute, is with J.P.'s Cafe, Clifton.

Mr. Dippel, a graduate of Nutley High School and a member of the Army Reserve, is with Don Luby Roofing Company.

The couple honeymooned in Aruba and have made their home in Belleville.

Beverly Parrish wed to Anthony DiCristo

Our Lady of Peace Church, Brooklyn, N.Y., was the setting recently for the marriage of Miss Beverly Ann Parrish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parrish of Brooklyn, to Anthony DiCristo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve DiCristo of Nutley.

The Rev. Sebastian performed the ceremony with a reception following at the Micali Terrace, Brooklyn.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore an a-line lace gown with ruffled skirt, long sheer sleeves and old-fashion neckline. A fedora hat held her veil and she carried a pear-shaped bouquet of orchids and white roses.

Miss Cathy Cacamese of West Islip, N.Y., was maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Lori Cacamese, Karen Capaldi, Lisa Calder, Jennifer Venniza, Carmella Quaranta, Paula DeLaurentis and Joann Whittaker. Flower girl was Kristen Maffie. Their gowns were in shades of green with lace capes.

Steve DiCristo of Clifton was his brother's best man. Ushers were Jimmy Sammaro, Bob Della Luna, Frank Molinaro, Frank Paterno, Richard Pizzano, Robert Bell and Joe Cassese, all of Nutley, and Robert Parrish of Brooklyn. Lyle Saverese of Long Island was the ringbearer.

Mrs. Parrish chose a light blue chiffon gown, while the groom's mother was in a brown chiffon gown. Corsages were of baby orchids.

Mrs. DiCristo, an alumna of John Jay High School and Robert Fiance Beauty School, New York City, is with National Industries for the Blind, Bloomfield.

Mr. DiCristo, an alumnus of Nutley High School, attends Bergen Community College. He is a self-employed carpet mechanic and part-time mechanic at Steve's Sunoco.

The couple honeymooned in Daytona Beach, Fla., and at Disney World and made their home in Belleville following the June 29 nuptials.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stefanelli Jr. — nee Roseann DeLizio

Roseann DeLizio bride of Michael Stefanelli Jr.

Holy Family Church was the setting recently for the marriage of Miss Roseann DeLizio, daughter of Gerard DeLizio of Franklin Avenue, Nutley, to Michael Stefanelli Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stefanelli of Dow Street, Belleville.

The Rev. Matthias Conra performed the ceremony which was followed by a reception at Biase's Restaurant, Newark.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a white chiffon gown with a portrait neckline of Alencon lace, sheer bishop sleeves and chapel train. Her headpiece was a beaded Juliet cap with a cathedral veil.

Mrs. Debra Riccio was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Donna Galop, Sandi Mayer, Lisa Wright, Lisa Stefanelli, Angela Capacchione and Michele DeLizio. Toni Ann Frino was the flower girl.

The honor attendant was in a power blue Qiana gown with a matching chiffon cape. She carried a nosegay of mixed spring flowers of lavender, blue, pink, green and aqua with baby white roses. The others were similarly attired in rainbow colors and carried spring flowers. The flower girl's headpiece was of daisies and babies breath and she carried a basket of spring flowers.

Randolf Stefanelli of Belleville was his brother's best man. Ushering were Richie Baker, Sam Sbarra, Louis Cavalluzzi, Ken Gruber, Gerald DeLizio, John Riccio and Joey Suppa.

The groom's mother chose a cranberry Qiana gown and wore a wristlet of pink orchids. Mrs. Stefanelli, an alumna of Nutley High School, is with Howard Savings Bank.

Mr. Stefanelli, a graduate of Belleville High School, is employed by the Essex County Parks Department.

The couple made their home in Bloomfield following the Aug. 2 ceremony.

Umberto's Corner

Dear Umberto,
When I married my husband I thought his hair color was dark brown. After being married for a month I found out he had been dyeing his hair and his real hair color is grey. I was shocked but because I love him I didn't mind. The reason why I am writing to you is because last month I gave him a permanent and I used the smallest rods on the side of his head and it became very curly also when I colored it the side became very dark brown and the top was very light. What happened? Please answer soon. (By the way, I went to beauty school for two months.)

The Lady with the two tone husband

Dear Lady,
First you shouldn't have put the smallest rods on the side of the head, you should have used medium size. Second you shouldn't give a permanent the way they teach you in school. Put the lotion on and roll it up. With the new lotions it shouldn't be done that way, they work rapidly. What I suggest to do is to get a color rinse that is dark brown, close to your husband's dark spots and put it only on the light parts. Otherwise call me.

Umberto

Local mailman best man two times for one family

25 Years Ago — Vincent DiModica of Belleville shakes hands with his best man, Anthony Bruno.

Like father, like son. The old adage has a special meaning for Vincent and James DiModica.

When Vincent and Patricia DiModica were married Oct. 9, 1955, Anthony Bruno was the best man. When Vincent's son, James, married Deborah DeNotaris on Oct. 11 of this year, he also chose Anthony Bruno as his best man. He wouldn't have had it any other way.

Bruno, a lifelong Belleville resident, is a postman here in town and has been a Little League coach for many years. He was not only James DiModica's best man, but his godfather at birth and his confirmation sponsor.

And the story doesn't end with the latest wedding. James and Deborah have already asked Bruno to be the godfather for their first baby.

This Year's Wedding — Anthony Bruno (left), the best man again, poses with the newly married James and Deborah DiModica, and Vincent and Patricia DiModica.

HEALTH WISE

By Ralph J. DiMalo D.C.
The pain of sciatica is so exasperating that sufferers cannot even find relief by confining themselves to bed. Pains in the low back and the backs of the legs result from inflammation of the large sciatic nerve. This in turn is due to spinal imbalance which causes a patient to lean to one side.

Leaning produces only a greater spinal imbalance and more inflammation. The more a patient tries to ignore the condition, the greater his spinal imbalance and his pain.

Correction of the cause of the spinal imbalance can be accomplished through chiropractic. For more specific information, call our office for an appointment.

Optimist Club installs a new slate of officers

The Optimist Club of Belleville held its sixth annual past presidents' dinner recently at the Branch Brook Manor. The dinner honored the club's 1979-80 president, Jack Gurerra, and saw the installation of new officers.

The incoming president, George Sbarra, presented Gurerra with a plaque as an expression of appreciation from the club. Gurerra provided the local Optimists with excellent leadership during the club year that ended Sept. 30. A past president's pin was presented to him by his wife, Angela.

Each year at the dinner, it is the privilege of the immediate past president to present the Optimist of the Year Award; given to a member for outstanding contributions to the community and organization.

This year's award went to Tony Bove who was accompanied by his wife Annie. Bove, who is also a member of the Belleville Senior Citizens' Club, is employed by the Irvine-Cozzarelli Memorial Home.

As is the custom, the ceremonies culminated in the installation of the new officers for 1980-81. In addition to Sbarra, the new officers are Jim Risoli, Ted Rajnes and Marty Lande, vice presidents; Tom Candura, secretary-treasurer; Jack Gurerra, Tom Spillane, Rocco Salletta, Anthony D'Agostino, Tony Bove, Art Caruso, Frank Santasieri and Joel Pisano, members of the board of directors. Anthony Giordano, the lieutenant governor from the New Jersey District of Optimist International, presided over the installation ceremonies.

Yanuzzi's visual art leaves small audience in confusion

By Mike Olohan

Pointing at those surrounding him, with two tape recorders and a radio blaring, a masked Robert Yanuzzi circled a small area in front of 205 Passaic Ave. and molded dirt into the shape of a cross, finally pouring water across the symbol.

Speaking no words, with only tape recorders shouting, "My name is Robert, I am the little American boy," and "Get me into the papers," Yanuzzi proceeded to walk into the street and stand momentarily in front of an oncoming car, holding up his hand. However, before the car got too close, he turned and walked back to a small area in his front yard where he walked around, gesturing, manipulating symbols and mesmerizing his onlookers.

Yanuzzi is an 18-year-old undergraduate student at Manhattan's School of Visual Arts, and last Saturday he made his second non-traditional presentation, dressing himself as defamed Russian ballet dancer Vaslav Nijinsky, and managing to baffle both friends and reporters alike with a metaphorical, obfuscatory display of symbols and props obviously designed to reveal more about the viewers than the performer.

However, following Yanuzzi's two 15-minute shows, silence engulfed his living room with the 12 onlookers either deep in thought or stunned. They stared at each other, listening to rock artists David Bowie and Bob Dylan, nibbling at cheese and sipping wine while intermittently discoursing on Yanuzzi's stimulating, yet confusing and exasperating show, if you can call it that.

Yanuzzi's show was exasperating because it left most viewers guessing what he meant, why he did the show and what he so desperately wanted to say. Afterwards, he joined the spectators, and remained aloof yet strangely open to questions; questions to which he often had puzzling answers.

In his second show down his basement, one woman watching was seen crying at the performance's end — a performance in which he bowed before a picture of Nijinsky taped to the inside of a three-foot high cardboard box open at the top and front. Dirt lined plastic trash bags leading to the box, symbolizing Yanuzzi's mental trek back to Russia and Nijinsky.

Yanuzzi poured water onto the dirt and pushed it towards the box, where he would meet Nijinsky's spirit. Still wearing a mask — in his second show it was wrapped more tightly around his head — Yanuzzi looked out but couldn't be seen — a victim of his own image, his own creation.

The mask Yanuzzi wore made it impossible to detect his feelings throughout the performance; undoubtedly indicative of the emotional masks we all wear when we can't seem to penetrate another person's mind. Occasionally making Nazi-esque gestures, Yanuzzi attempted to portray his feelings through actions, actions too often so ambiguous that it was hard to grasp the complexity of his presentation.

Whether Yanuzzi was trying to empathize with Nijinsky or merely exploit his feelings for discussion, his friendly disposition yet disconcerting silence on the subject made it impossible to tell.

Though his show appeared to be staged simply to attract attention, it was obvious a great deal of preparation and thinking had gone into its creation. But without critical questions and discussion by Yanuzzi himself, most of his viewers, including The Times reporter, were left to speculate, enhancing creativity but eliminating the most important aspect of art: truth.

Yanuzzi's mask, while manipulating symbols and people, was visible, but afterwards, though his visible mask was removed, a mask blurring fact and mystery, revelation and speculation and cautiousness and honesty were still being worn.

Asked to describe his performance in a sentence, Yanuzzi smiled, hesitated, and probably cautious over condensing such a massive bombardment of information and symbolism, noted succinctly, "Any kind of information can be presented in a place that's sensible and attractive... you should draw your own revelations." The mask was still there.

Ten biggest games of the past decade

With the Belleville football team competing in the Group IV, Section 2 playoffs, it seems like a good time to look over the decade of the '70s and pick the program's 10 best games of that decade.

The tenth best game of the '70s occurred back in 1976 when Belleville defeated Kearny 47-30 at Kearny. The '76 Bellboys won only twice that season, but in this game displayed their best offensive fire power of the year. Some star players from that year were Chris Cervasio, Frank Mozeika, Ralph Amiano and Joe Gelpi.

Game number nine belongs to the 1975 team. In their opening game, the Bellboys stopped West Essex 14-3 at West Essex. Frank Pizzi, Chris Cervasio, Ricky Loma and Chipper Brafere led the way to victory in this contest. The team, under head coach Frank Testa, finished the season at 4-4-1.

The eighth best game the '70s was the 48-0 shellacking the 1974 Bellboys administered to Orange, in Orange. Steve Gerard, Ricky Loma, Steve Senatore, Mark Panelone and Mark Cosenzo led the way. It was one of Belleville's best offensive performances and marked the team's third straight victory that season. The '74 squad ended the year with a record of 5-4.

Number seven occurred in 1977 as Belleville rallied from an early 18-0 deficit to defeat Essex Catholic 26-18 at Belleville. The '77 season was the team's first under John Senesky and the Bellboys lost their first four games. They defeated Irvington 17-14 and followed the victory with the big win over Essex Catholic. The Eagles were a fine team that season and the loss was a stunner. Frank Pizzi scored three touchdowns and sophomore quarterback Ed Aulisi, making his first start, scored from a yard out.

The sixth place award goes to the 1972 squad. In that season, the defense allowed a record low 42 points and was especially impressive in a 14-0 victory over Irvington, in Irvington. Brian Banda, Joe Panelone, Jim DeFago and Bob Longo aided the victory in this game with some strong play. The '72 team registered three shutouts, including a scoreless tie with powerful Bloomfield in a driving rainstorm. The team's victory over Irvington came in week four and was the first win of the season. Belleville went on to a 4-4-1 record.

In 1971, Belleville defeated Nutley 7-6 in Nutley. This is game five on the list and was Belleville's few victories over the Maroon in the decade. Joe Lotriglio scored the only Belleville touchdown while the defense limited Nutley to only one score. The Maroon elected to go for two points and Belleville held, thus winning a big game. The 1971 team went on to a 5-4 season.

The fourth best victory came back in 1970 when Belleville defeated Bloomfield 7-6 in Bloomfield. Bloomfield, for most of the decade, had one of the finest teams in the state. Belleville's victory was a huge surprise and it was the only time the Bellboys defeated the Bengals during the '70s. The Belleville-Bloomfield rivalry ended following the 1976 game. The 1970 win was Belleville's second straight victory in two tries. The 1970 team, under Rocco Caffone, won four of its first five and five of seven, but settled for a 3-4 final record.

Game number three was last year when Belleville crushed Livingston 35-8. The Lancers went on to an 9-2 mark, losing to Union in the state finals, while Belleville posted its finest record of the '70s with an 8-2 mark and a state playoff berth. Lenny Mendola, Mike Nicosia and Ed Aulisi were standouts in this game.

The second biggest win occurred in 1978 as Belleville mauled Nutley 31-0. The game, played at Municipal Stadium, saw the Bucs' first win over Nutley at Belleville since the early '60s and as co-captain Angelo Santinelli put it later, "This win was the biggest in some of the players' lives."

Mike Nicosia scored two touchdowns. Tom Henry sacked the Nutley quarterback in the end zone for a safety and John Norton hit Mario Colombito for a touchdown.

Finally, the best game of the '70s as far as I'm concerned occurred last season when Belleville defeated Seton Hall 14-13. The victory was so impressive because just two years before, Seton Hall humiliated Belleville 63-0. Many of the players from last year were sophomores when that loss occurred and wanted the win badly. Furthermore, Belleville needed the victory to remain in playoff contention. The winning score came in the fourth quarter when Aulisi passed five yards to Mendola for the tying TD. Ralph DePasquale added the all-important conversion and Belleville had won the game that certainly marked its re-emergence as one of the preeminent football teams in the state.

That's just a cross section of Belleville football for the last 10 years. If I missed what you thought was a big game during the decade, please feel free to write and tell me about it.

Some random notes: The Belleville Recreation Department will sponsor a soccer coaching clinic 7-9 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 4, at the newly reopened Friendly House on Frederick Street over in Silver Lake. The clinic is open to anyone interested in becoming a coach or wanting to learn more about coaching soccer and working with kids. Coaches from area high schools, recreation teams and the Belleville Cobras will provide the instruction. Be sure to wear sneakers. Anthony Domenick of Belleville is playing on the Monmouth College water polo team and was the offensive star in the team's 21-9 win over St. Peter's in the semifinals of the state intercollegiate championships. Monmouth won the title by defeating Princeton.

Here is the answer to last week's quiz. The question was, how did Belleville's 1970 gridiron finale end, what was the score and who did the team play? The answer: Belleville lost to Orange 9-7 when the Belleville quarterback was sacked in the endzone in the final seconds, snapping a 7-7 tie and sending Belleville to a very distasteful Thanksgiving Day feast.

Now for this week's quiz. In 1976, Belleville defeated Passaic 49-47 in a high school basketball game. It was Belleville's second and last victory of that season but it was a thriller. The Bellboys won it with two free throws in the final seconds. Can you name the player who won that game for Belleville?

Kearny and old friend in Thanksgiving game

All season long, opposing coaches have been speaking with nothing but respect for the Belleville High football team, but the coach opposing the Blue-Gold in the final regular-season game of the season has not only respect, but love for the Bucs.

Ralph Borgess Jr. will face this Thursday's Thanksgiving Day football game with many conflicting emotions. He returned to Kearny this season to become the Cardinal head coach, but for two years prior, he was an assistant coach here in Belleville. Thus it will be hard for him to look at the Buccaneers as an enemy force.

"I'm still so close to most of those kids," Borgess said of the Bucs last Thursday. "I've been over more to see them than to scout them, and I still hear from them. Kids who played for me still write me from college. They're just a great group of kids."

Belleville hits the road for an 11 a.m. start with the 3-4-1 Kards in what could be the last game of the series. Kearny may well be joining the Watchung Conference next year.

The Bucs will be coming off Saturday's first-round state playoff game with Morris Knolls, results of which were too late for this unusually early edition of The Belleville Times. If the Bucs won, they would play the winner of the Barringer-West Essex

Please see "Buc gridmen" on page 12.

Fledgling gymnastics squad gains invaluable experience

The new gymnastics team at Belleville High had six meets this year. The girls lost them all, but that fact did not discourage them.

Actually, they had reason to be heartened by the 1980 performance. "This was our first real season," said Coach Carol Giuffrida. "We started out last year, but we had just two meets and we were late getting things off the ground. So this was our first season with six meets."

Last year, the team scoring was in the low 20s, but this year it rose sharply to the high 40s, and although that wasn't good enough to win any meets since Belleville's opponents were scoring in the 60s, 70s and 80s, it showed that the local girls had improved dramatically from 1979.

"The girls were very inexperienced," said Coach Giuffrida. "I had only two who had any gymnastics experience per se, so I was working with pretty green girls trying to make gymnasts out of them. I really needed to develop them."

The season shows that the coach gradually succeeded. When her girls came up against the Montclair jayvee, the only competition they really had in their range, they were able to stay close though they did not win. Otherwise, things were tougher since the gymnastics programs at schools such as Montclair are much further along than at Belleville. The Buccaneers' other opponents this season were Vgrona, Millburn, Madison, Clark and Kearny.

The coach called junior Laura

Callahan her best "all-around" performer. Of the four events, vaulting, the balance beam, the floor exercises and the uneven parallel bars, Laura competed in all but the last.

The floor exercises were Dana Cetrullo's strong point, while another junior, Gina McCabe, was best at vaulting. Junior Pam Zarrello started out as a gymnast and finished as the team manager due to a back sprain. She should return to action next year.

Rounding out the team were sophomore Mary Beth Del Tufo, whose strengths were the floor exercises and vaulting, and freshmen Debbie Glaser and Sherri Muciegrosso, both good on the parallel bars. Sherri missed part of the season after spraining her ankle in a touch football game.

Any four girls were allowed to enter each event, with scoring — from 1 to 10 as in the Olympics — based on the best three performances in each of those events. Generally, Belleville's strength was in vaulting, and since that event is the first in any meet, the girls usually got off to at least a decent start. Their weakest point, according to the coach, was dancing, and a deficiency there hurt them in the floor exercises and on the balance beam.

But things are bound to get better. Since there were no seniors on the team, everybody should be back. Then too, the free gymnastics programs Mrs. Giuffrida runs for girls 6 to 14 Saturday mornings and for older girls Thursday nights at the recently reopened Friendly House may begin to pay dividends. About 130 girls are enrolled in the Saturday session at which Seton Hall University juniors Corrie Costa and Annette Cozzarelli help out. A number of eighth graders from the recreation program are due up next year.

Still the process of building a strong program at the varsity level will be slow. "If they have no experience, you're hoping for miracles," said Coach Giuffrida. She's hoping to give her girls the experience so the miracles will happen more easily.

Blue-Gold netwomen give Coach Fuccello 'surprise'

It was a fine year for the girls' tennis team at Belleville High, a season that saw eight wins and five losses.

Karen Fuccello's troops were led by senior Carol Ann Salerno, playing at first singles. Salerno did a great job in the tough first slot by winning nine, losing just three and tying one match.

According to Fuccello, "Carol is a prime example of what hard work will do for you. She practiced hard all summer and consequently did a fine job all year long."

Salerno also became the first tennis player in Belleville history to advance to the third round of the tough state tournament.

Rosie Leonidis, only a junior, was 6-6-1 in the second singles slot and performed well most of the time. Her hard-nosed attitude towards the game was a big asset and with a year of experience, Leonidis will be a key member of next year's team.

Angela Chimento also did and did some work on the doubles team as well. Chimento was only 1-9 as a singles player, but as part of the doubles team, her record was a very impressive 3-1. Gina Pasquale was 6-5 on the doubles team and 1-1 on the singles team.

Karen Pettineo was 5-6 for the season, with a 3-4 record on the doubles team and a 2-2 mark in the singles position. Kim Indiero did a super job with a 5-1 record on the first doubles team and a 4-1 record on the second team of the doubles combination.

Playing on the second doubles team, Rose Cataldo was 6-4-1, showing rapid improvement in the second half of the season.

Kathy Woods was 2-0 for the season, Dina D'Aquino was 1-1, Gina D'Paolo was 1-1 and Maria Madrid closed out the scoring with a 1-0 record.

Fuccello is looking forward to next season with its first

"This season was a very nice surprise," said the coach. "Our underclassman did learn a lot from this season and should work hard over the summer. If they can dedicate themselves to being good tennis players, I don't see why we cannot be successful."

Varsity Club sets dinner for Dec. 3

The Belleville Varsity Club will sponsor its 36th annual fall sports dinner 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 3, at the Wayne Manor in Wayne.

The dinner will honor members of the BHS football, soccer, cross country, girls' tennis and gymnastics teams. Prepaid tickets are $13.50, tickets purchased at the door will be $15.

Tickets may be purchased from any Varsity Club member or by calling 759-3917 after 7 p.m.

Trustees continue to search for help in obtaining grants

"For at least the three months since school opened, local trustees have been without a grants researcher, and because of that, Belleville may be overlooking and not receiving thousands of dollars in federal and state aid for which it's eligible now that the district has a desegregation plan."

But according to Board President Ernie Zoppi, trustees may soon be hiring a grants consultant organization after interviewing a couple more consulting agencies within the next month. Already, trustees have quizzed Bruno Associates and Communication Technology Corporation. Bruno handles grant applications for Belleville's commissioners.

While trustees delayed developing a desegregation plan, they continued to make themselves ineligible for numerous federal funds, what former grants director George Nucera said was "hundreds of thousands" of dollars that they couldn't get.

No funds were obtained even after the desegregation plan's approval in March. Nucera's hands were fairly tied because of his added responsibility as Title I program director. Nucera was transferred to Belleville Junior High as vice principal in the fall when the grant director position was abolished by trustees.

Both Zoppi and Bruno grants consultant Craig Brown, called separately, admitted the School Board has probably not obtained a lot of money it could have used had it applied for the myriad of federal and state grants available.

Local citizens have accused trustees of being lax in pursuing funds, though last year School Superintendent Dr. John Greed's grant application yielded $679,000 in vocational aid funds. Nucera obtained no grant dollars, although he filed applications. The job was completely new to him last year, which is why trustees are considering hiring a professional grants consulting firm.

"My feeling is we should do whatever we can to obtain funds," says Zoppi. Asked if he felt trustees had "lost" any funds by not having a grant person or consultant, Zoppi stressed, "We haven't lost anything. I'd say we lost time, if nothing else." He noted Belleville's administrators do keep tabs on what grants are available, and apply for them as they're needed.

Before Nucera was appointed director, obtaining grants was Assistant Superintendent Seymour Grossman's job, along with other administrators.

"Nobody has yet taken over for him (Nucera)," said Grossman, contacted Thursday afternoon. But Zoppi pointed out that a consultant is definitely a high priority. However, the recent Republican landslide may presage less federal education funding, so it's possible trustees may indeed have lost out on much money.

"It's not like you're losing it if you don't apply," said Brown of Bruno Associates. But he added, "There's a lot of dollars out there (federal and state programs) that they (Belleville trustees) can get."

Brown said it would probably take six months to a year to get federal approval of any grant application. He pointed out that there is no grant category labeled strictly for "desegregation" but that having a desegregation plan is simply "a stipulation" for receiving many types of federal funds.

He said the "Catalogue of Domestic Federal Assistance" and "New Jersey State Aid Catalogue for Local Governments" were just two grants catalogues trustees and administrators could peruse to determine what grants they'd like to apply for. What a consulting firm will do, if hired, is find out why type funding is available based on the needs of Belleville's education system, said Brown.

Trustee Tom Zampino said a consulting firm may be hired on a "monthly basis" if trustees can find enough money to swing it. "We don't have enough money, but I'd like to see that we actively pursue grants," he added.

"I've never seen a proposal turned down because of a lack of a desegregation plan," said Communication Technology Corporation's Tom Monahan addressing trustees Oct. 20. Monahan's statement caught trustees somewhat by surprise, but they probably didn't realize many proposals aren't even submitted when a desegregation plan is required but isn't available.

"We can't guarantee that a grant we help you prepare will be funded," said Monahan. Several weeks before,

John Bruno of Bruno Associates told schoolers his firm would prepare Belleville's grant applications, but like Monahan, admitted funding couldn't be guaranteed.

But Brown said getting funds is exactly what a grant company should be judged on. If the firm can't produce, Brown said, it is usually not rehired.

Trustee John DiStasi asked Monahan to submit a list of CTC's professionals on staff, along with their credentials, which Monahan agreed to.

Monahan said his firm charges $200 per day, plus expenses, when working on a grant application. The company employs 10 professionals to handle grant proposals. Brown declined to reveal a figure Bruno would charge Belleville's board last Thursday, but noted the firm is paid "on a flat fee basis." He said he wouldn't reveal a price because other firms have previously underbid Bruno just to get work.

Brown, agreeing with Zoppi's assessment of grants, said the most important aspect is following through on the initial proposal. "It takes writing ability and salesmanship," said Brown.

Two major types of federal and state grants, notably entitlement and competitive grants, are available to school boards. Entitlement grants are those for programs like Title I, which the federal government funds on a yearly basis as long as a district continues to submit a grant request.

But competitive grants are just that, competitive. They're much harder to get, said Brown, because many districts are trying to get funds for the same program, or programs, but have varying degrees of need.

"They (trustees) could've missed some funds, but every year these programs change," said Brown. He stressed that maybe more funding will be available in the next funding cycle, but then again maybe it won't.

Neighborhood pride prevents vandalism

been hired, it's apparent Belleville youngsters have either become more responsible or simply found other ways to get their kicks.

Twenty-four months ago, then Trustee Ernie Zoppi, who is now board president, said "more parental involvement" with children and their schools would help decrease vandalism.

Emphasizing vandalism has been cut in half, and actually more considering inflation's rise over two years, Zoppi attributes the decline to buildings being lit outside at night, along with patrols by local police and auxiliary officers.

"Naturally, you don't want to see any of it," said the board president. He added laws making parents more responsible for vandalism committed by their children may also have helped reduce the senseless destruction.

"You've cut this by more than half," said Zoppi proudly. "A small part of it is not vandalism," he added, referring to accidental window breakages and accidents at schools.

"This is very encouraging...it's (vandalism) common in any system though and a national problem," Zoppi said he doubted vandalism could ever be completely eliminated but that he was happy with the decrease in local destruction.

The $8,984 vandalism bill doesn't shock former Jersey City teacher, now school trustee Tom Zampino either. Zampino taught at a school in Jersey City where police guarded the hallways.

He stressed the vandalism in Belleville "is isolated...it's just a few individuals." He said making the school an integral building in each neighborhood was essential to getting people to respect it, and hence protect it, rather than harm it.

"The school must become part of the neighborhood," he said.

Water monitor not keen on stricter enforcement

could be doing."

"What I'm trying to do is avoid singling out one family (locally). To hit one family with a fine would be bad publicity" about the entire conservation effort, he stressed. He noted making examples of one or a couple water abusers might convince others to stop wasting water, but it could permanently damage the relationship his men have with local residents.

Vogel didn't rule out the possibility of fining people, but pointed out, "When this is all over and forgotten about, those men (water meter readers Michael Mignelli, Leonard Linfante and Anthony Rinaldi) still have to go back and read the meters." He said people might then attempt to take their frustrations out on his meter-readers, a situation Vogel will do his best to avoid.

He said a meeting with Belleville's big water users will take place soon. "I think we need it just to let them know this is serious," he said, adding an exchange of ideas about conservation among big users may help reduce Belleville's usage even further, and keep it down in the future.

"It won't hurt, we know that," he said before going back to his regular duties as tax assessor.

Revision of rec vehicle law awaits court case outcome

Belleville's as yet unformulated recreational vehicle (RV) code won't come before residents or commissioners until a judge decides whether Bloomfield's code is constitutional. His decision will have a major impact on Belleville's new law.

Whatever happens, Public Safety Commissioner Matthew Pica says Belleville will definitely have an RV law since vehicles like campers, trailers and boats can often obstruct the view of neighbors and provoke complaints.

"There's no use putting an ordinance on the books that's unconstitutional," said Pica, contacted Tuesday afternoon. However, he noted a law governing RVs must be put into effect.

At a September commission meeting, about 75 local RV owners criticized Pica for tampering with Belleville's strict, but unenforced old ordinance, even though his proposed ordinance was more lenient. Just the fact that Pica was discussing the ordinance, which for so long had lain dormant, seemed to irritate many of the owners.

"These laws have been tested in court and found to be unconstitutional," said Belleville Fire Capt. Leo Killeen, organizer of September's protest against a new RV code. He said the ordinance discriminates against selected RV owners, stressing RVs like motorcycles and snow mobiles, aren't included in the restrictions.

The old ordinance allowed parking RVs only when housed in a garage, whether the vehicle was being stored or repaired. But the new ordinance would have permitted temporary parking for RVs in driveways or streets for two hours and would have allowed parking right behind the owner's house as long as no part of the camper, trailer or boat projected beyond the walls of the dwelling.

"Ninety-five percent of this town is built-up," said Killeen, attempting to refute complaints that RVs should be kept out of sight. He said many RV owners can't get their vehicles into their backyards because their driveways aren't wide enough.

Killeen's group of about 10 people has met two to three times so far to begin drawing up an RV code. Commissioners have voted to put "a moratorium," on the old ordinance while awaiting a new formula.

Former Policeman Hugh O'Toole said Pica has stirred up "a big bag of rattle snakes" by proposing a new RV code, contending that any RV law infringes upon people, taking away part of their civil rights.

"What is the aesthetic value of not having a truck or van parked next to your house?" asked Killeen. He stressed an RV's average size of 25 to 33 feet makes it impossible to store them in a backyard. "The only times complaints occur is when neighbors have a falling out," he surmised.

He said no complaints are usually lodged when a bakery van or piece of construction equipment owned by a neighbor is parked in the driveway, and he wondered why people were so against RVs? "It's just a driveway that separates two buildings," said Killeen, referring to the unexpected hostility he's encountered about storing RV vehicles next to neighbor's house.

Pica previously called the old RV ordinance "crazy," suggesting a compromise would have to be agreed upon. When that compromise will be aired is now uncertain with the Bloomfield case still pending.

"Stop and consider something. Suppose you invested $25,000 to $30,000. What do you think you'd do with them? What do you do with them (to avoid problems)? Burn them!" he asked in a dejected tone.

"First and foremost, I'm hoping a court decision will solve this problem," said Killeen, regaining optimism, yet realizing he, along with Belleville's other RV owners, face a tough battle especially if they're going to try to eliminate all RV restrictions.

Trustees starting to work early to get the school budget passed

Belleville's school budget won't be voted on for another five months, but more than a month ago, trustees took the first step in what they hope will mark the first local budget victory in nearly 20 years. They established a committee to figure out ways to reverse public cynicism and establish a lucid, detailed presentation of the school tab.

Serving on the committee are Board Vice President Charles Miele and Trustee John DiStasi, a member of Belleville's controversial 1978 budget panel from which several citizens resigned in disgust. DiStasi won election to the board in April saying proper presentation of Belleville's school budget must be trustees' No. 1 priority.

About two weeks before the March 25 vote this year, DiStasi commented, "The budget, is an educational issue which should have been the utmost concern of the trustees..." and continued pointedly,

"unfortunately, there appears to have been no satisfactory plan to have this tentative budget presented to the people well in advance."

Local school tabs have been axed 17 of the past 18 years and trustees have been saying that happens because townsfolk let a "small minority" of voters decide educational issues. However, critics like DiStasi have pointed to trustees' lack of planning and emphasis on budget items, including a definite paucity of budget stats, as more plausible reasons for Belleville's yearly school budget demise.

Last year's two hearings on the budget were called "totally inadequate" by DiStasi, and he noted, "I served as a member of the budget committee. We attempted to go before the public at least four months prior to the adoption of the 1978 budget. More people can be informed. The press of the local newspapers were able to report on these meetings."

It's clear DiStasi is a strong advocate of getting people concerned and involved with passing Belleville's school tab. "I'm trying to strive to get as many people possible involved in this (presentation)," he says. But DiStasi realizes his job in presenting the budget is closely tied to residents' perception of board members' integrity.

"The biggest function of our board is to try to establish some credibility," DiStasi says. "Without that, you really can't function."

He said the one public session required by law to present a budget "is not sufficient. If we offered people a number of opportunities to say what they feel, then we could honestly say we tried to get the budget passed."

Whatever DiStasi and Miele concoct, Belleville's five other trustees still must make passing the budget a top priority. If they decide to visit each and every school and state specifically what exactly they think they can and can't do with the funds available to them from the present and proposed budget, it's expected people will be much more likely to pull down the budget's "yes" lever.

However, two years ago, then board vice president, now President Ernie Zoppi, handled Belleville's budget road presentations. He was an optimistic budget proponent, but along with most trustees, became somewhat disheartened with small turnouts at presentations, especially after another lopsided defeat.

Although the new committee hasn't made any recommendations yet, it's apparent DiStasi and Miele's enthusiasm for being a part of a rare occurrence — a local school budget victory — will soon spur them to propose some solutions to prevent another budget disaster.

Obituaries

Nellie Schudlick; sewing operator

A Mass was offered Friday in Holy Family Church for Nellie Schudlick, 77, who died last Tuesday at Clara Maass Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Schudlick was a sewing machine operator with Calari Manufacturing Company, Jersey City, 10 years before retiring in 1971. Born in Pennsylvania, she came to Belleville nine years ago from Jersey City.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Lillian Lane of Old Bridge, Mrs. Mary Ryan and Mrs. Dorothy Lemanowicz, both of Nutley, six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Christine Tamburro, 90; Mount Carmel member

A Mass was offered Nov. 15 in Mount Carmel Church, Newark, for Christine Tamburro, 90, who died Nov. 12 at Clara Maass Memorial Hospital.

Before her retirement, Mrs. Tamburro was an assembler for Federal Electric Company, Newark. She was a member of the Mount Carmel Society of Mount Carmel Church.

Born in Italy, Mrs. Tamburro came to Belleville 26 years ago from Jersey City.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Rose Mennella, Mrs. Jeanette Bove and Mrs. Christine Confalone, nine grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

The Galante Funeral Home, Union, made arrangements. Interment was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, East Orange.

Family council hopes to improve life at Belleville Geriatrics Center

A little less than a year ago, Geriatrics Center psychologist Mike Ziv wondered what could be done to make Belleville's least understood, even less visited hospital known to local residents and county officials who could, and just might, do something to help it.

What happened was that his idea, just an idea, was picked up by others visiting the hospital to see their relatives and friends, and turned into the family council — a group of 150 kin representing the nearly 300 "residents," as they're now called, of the center.

DiBiasi will continue as Plan Board lawyer

counts, DiBiasi was the attorney for Dr. August Juliano, a 54-year-old Bergen County surgeon, and Ludwig Bruschi, a 46-year-old businessman, who were entered in a partnership called Vista View which owned a three-story office building in Union City. DiBiasi was accused of presenting a lease agreement — for a non-existent dental office on one of the floors — to the Columbia Savings and Loan Association of Fairlawn. According to the charges, made after an FBI investigation, he and the other two men obtained a $2.1 million loan from the bank by tricking its officers into thinking Vista View was a money-making operation.

DiBiasi pleaded guilty to the lesser charge of "causing misappropriation of funds and monies" by the bank. The other two men were sentenced early this year. Bruschi got three years in jail, Juliano 18 months and a $35,000 fine. Bruschi is reputed to be an associate of Joseph "Joe Bayonne" Zicarelli, a Hudson County organized crime boss.

The group held a meeting last Wednesday with Essex County Executive Peter Shapiro, the first meeting ever with him, and Family Council President Don Vaillancourt hopes they can make it a biannual get-together.

During the meeting, Phyllis Katsak, a recreational therapist coordinator, told the assemblage of several upcoming Christmas parties including the first "family" Christmas gathering scheduled for Dec. 21. She and Gail Catrambone, another therapist, do most of the legwork necessary to organize parties for center residents.

Concern and empathy are all nice words when it comes to describing your feelings for those less fortunate than you, but concern and empathy first begin with giving of your time, time that only you can give. It's the one gift that's uniquely and permanently yours to offer to those whom you choose.

The officers and members of the Family Council give freely of their time, but they work behind-the-scenes as well as at monthly meetings.

"Some people here go months or even longer without a visit from anybody. We (council) try to encourage an active volunteer program," says Vaillancourt. But the present volunteer force is sparse, at best.

"We desperately need someone to work on the weekends," said George Myer, a seven-day-a-week volunteer. "We also need somebody to play the piano for just three hours on Thanksgiving Day. Please see if you can help us get somebody just for that day," he said, smiling a smile of hope and despair.

"We need volunteers, even just for three hours a week. We need people who can help us (guide) the residents down from their rooms to here (activities center). We need help," he said, while running about, helping patients depart following Shapiro's appearance.

"Having children (and students) around reminds them of their own grandchildren and children. They (volunteers) can make them feel important by just talking to them or saying 'hi,'" added Myer.

Myer works every day at the center from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. He can be reached at 399-2543, usually most afternoons, or you can stop at the center and ask for him.

"We need more aides to help get the patients up in the morning," says Evelyn Heim, council secretary, noting another hospital shortcoming. "We're all put here to do something," pointed out Myer when

How to turn out a holiday classic in one third of the time

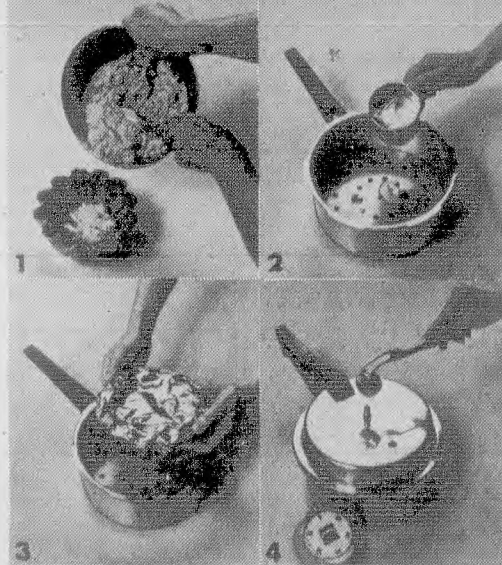

Family traditions are what holiday celebrations are made of. Treasured recipes handed down through the generations are an important part of these traditions.

In years gone by, long hours of preparation and cooking time were necessary to serve these specialties. Today's busy cooks, who want to keep family customs alive but do not have time to fuss, can get help from their Mirro pressure cooker.

Steam cooking under pressure is fast and easy, requiring only one third the time of conventional methods. For instance, a steamed fruit pudding usually takes four hours of cooking time, but it takes only about one hour in the pressure cooker.

ONE OF YOUR BEST TOOLS in making the most of precious holiday preparation minutes is a Mirro pressure cooker. Easy steps in making the 60-minute Dickens' Plum Pudding include: 1. pudding mix is steamed in a buttered aluminum mold; 2. with the rack in position in the cooker, add water; 3. place the foil covered mold on the rack in the cooker; 4. cover, allowing steam to escape for 20 minutes before placing the control over the vent.

Step-by-step

With the following step-by-step guidelines from the Mirro test kitchen, revive a family tradition or, better yet, start one yourself.

DICKENS' PLUM PUDDING

- ¾ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon ground cloves
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup milk
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- ½ cup chopped, mixed candied fruit
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons water
- 2 tablespoons dark rum

Cream butter with ½ cup sugar until light.

Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Toss flour, baking powder, spices and salt to mix.

Add to egg mixture alternately with milk, blending well after each addition.

Stir in raisins and candied fruit.

Turn into a buttered 4-cup metal mold.

Cover with foil.

Pour 3 cups water into cooker.

Place mold on rack in cooker.

Cover, place over heat and allow a small stream of steam to escape from vent tube for 20 minutes.

Set control at 15. When control jiggles, reduce heat and cook 40 minutes.

Run cold water over the cooker to reduce pressure instantly.

Dissolve 2 tablespoons sugar in the water; add rum.

Pierce pudding with a long-tined fork or cake tester and baste with rum sauce.

Serve warm.
8 servings.

Pets enjoy the holidays, too, but take some precautions...for safety's sake!

The advent of Christmas evokes excitement and pleasure in virtually everyone, and the family pet is as likely to be affected by all the activity and glitter as any.

The look of wonder in a kitten's eyes as it stares at its first Christmas tree is something too precious to be forgotten.

Let your pet join in the festivities, but take some precaution, for its sake and yours.

- Some seasonal plants, such as mistletoe and poinsettia, are poisonous. If you have pets—or young children—around, you're wiser to forego them.

- Candles add a special glow to holiday parties and even quiet winter evenings at home.

However, if you have a cat or dog, it's wiser not to leave candles burning unattended. A curious animal could knock one over and start a fire.

- If you have a natural Christmas tree, you're better off not using preservative in the water at its base. Cats, particularly, are notorious samplers and, after all, you wouldn't want your pet drinking water which has been heavily treated with chemicals.

- Many people feel that a tree is not complete without garlands of lights. If you belong to this group, and you have a cat or dog, be careful not to leave the animal unattended in the vicinity of the tree. If possible, stand the tree in a room that can be closed off.

- Stay away from breakable Christmas tree ornaments. Besides the waste of breakage, a glass ball which shatters can leave splinters about—making it easy for either pet or person to cut him or herself unawares.

Replace those shiny glass balls with satin ones. They're equally decorative, and far safer.

- Silver icicles turn a Christmas tree into a wondrous, glittery sight. They can also cause severe digestive problems to an animal that is so entranced by them that it just has to take a taste.

CHRISTMAS TREE ORNAMENTS make terrific playthings, on or off the tree, in the eyes of your average household pet. This cat contemplates pouncing on a shiny satin ball for a romp across the room—which proves conclusively that Yuletide is an occasion to be enjoyed by every member of the family.

How to turn out a holiday classic in one third of the time

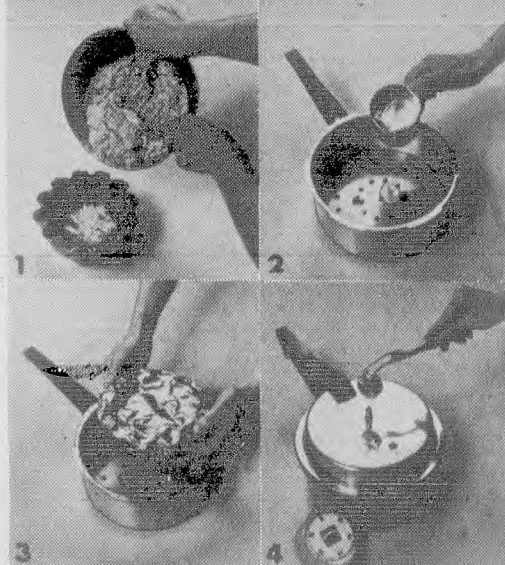

Family traditions are what holiday celebrations are made of. Treasured recipes handed down through the generations are an important part of these traditions.

In years gone by, long hours of preparation and cooking time were necessary to serve these specialties. Today's busy cooks, who want to keep family customs alive but do not have time to fuss, can get help from their Mirro pressure cooker.

Steam cooking under pressure is fast and easy, requiring only one third the time of conventional methods. For in-

This year, give a gift of Christmas spirit — plus!

Christmas is a time for exchanging gifts and celebrating with good cheer. One of the most popular gifts given year after year is a gift of spirits, one that will toast to auld lang syne as well as the year to come.

If you plan to give "spirited" gifts this year, start off with a fine brand. A quality, moderate-priced cognac, such as Hennessy V.S.O.P., will be enjoyed by any appreciator of fine spirits.

Match gift to recipient

Then, customize your gift with an accompaniment that matches the recipient's lifestyle. Here are some examples:

• A quality spirit is a chef's best friend. Show your creativity by hunting for recipes featuring his or her favorite liquor.

Have a calligrapher hand-print them on recipe cards and place them in a handsome box. They're sure to entertain the cook as well as the company.

• For the literary-minded, visit a leather shop and have a specially-designed bookmark made. Have it engraved with initials or a personal note, then slip it between the covers of a new best seller. You're sure to make high marks with your favorite bookworm.

• There's hope for the bachelor or working woman who can't find the time to plan a party. Give a gift that will take care of time-consuming preparations for them.

Instant party package

Put together an "instant party package" that includes paper napkins, fancy skewers, tins of gourmet hors d'oeuvres and fine imported cheeses. It's an idea they'll use time and again.

• For outdoor lovers who want to chase away the chills, give a wineskin that will keep all their spirits intact. There'll be no need to call in the St. Bernard on their next trip into the hinterlands.

So, whether it's for the man who has everything or the woman with a flair for entertaining, give a special gift that shows your spirit as well as that of old Saint Nick.

Tire Industry Editor Approves of Inflation

Keeping your tires properly inflated can enable you to drive another 500 miles a year on the same gasoline you are presently using, according to the editor of Tire Review Magazine, a publication for the tire industry.

William B. Whitney reports that tire industry studies show one car out of four, on the average, has at least one tire seriously underinflated. The result, he notes, is a double penalty: The engine has to work harder, requiring more gas, and tire life is reduced.

Underinflated tires also flex more, increasing the chances of tire separation and blowout, the magazine editor says.

Another concern is over-inflation. Overinflated tires are prone to more cuts, impact breaks and more wear at the center of the tread.

Air pressure should be checked at least once a month, preferably weekly, Whitney advises. This frequency should be increased during the winter months, when changes in outside temperatures can result in drastic changes in the pressure in your tires.

The tires should be checked when they are "cool," that is, no later than two or three miles of driving. Even driving a mile can increase those readings because normal heat buildup raises temperatures.

Whitney notes that the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association advises allowing at least three hours after driving for tires to cool before "reading" them.

Motorists should have their own tire gauges, Whitney advises. Here's how to use them:

- Remove the valve cap from the tire and put the rounded end of the gauge over the top of the tire valve.
- Press down with firm, even pressure.
- Release the gauge, then read the air pressure shown.

There are other ways to increase your safety and the performance of your tires.

- Keep car wheels balanced. When wheels are out of balance, they shimmy and shake and cause unusual vibrations through the steering wheel. Unbalanced wheels shorten tire life and don't help the engine, either.

- Put the right tires on your car. Talk to your tire salesperson about the "shoes" for your car. Describe the loads the car carries, the roads travelled, the type of driving (business, errands). All four tires should be the same type and construction. Mixing tires (radials with conventional tires, for example) can affect vehicle control severely.

- Keep your wheels aligned. Poor alignment, which means the wheels aren't pointed in the right direction, makes your tires wear faster on the inside or outside edges because they are scuffing along instead of rolling. Misalignment also can make your car "pull" to the left or right.

Check Treads

- Check your tire treads. If the grooves are less than  $\frac{1}{4}$ " deep, you are inviting trouble, especially on wet roads. The grooves have the job of carrying rain water out of the way and if they are too shallow, your car will "hydroplane," which means your car isn't even touching the road. Instead, it is skating atop a slick surface of water — totally out of control.

- Rotate your tires when necessary. Because the front tires do more work in turning and braking, they tend to wear faster. Rotate front to rear or as shown in your car's owners manual about every 7,500 miles. Cars with front-wheel drive are an exception and don't need to have their tires rotated.

- Practice safe driving habits. It is a touchy subject. YOU are a safe driver, but make sure that others driving your car are, too. Avoid jackrabbit starts and sudden stops, slow down before you come to a corner or curve or on rough roads, don't ride the edge of the pavement, avoid curbs and chuckholes, and don't speed. These driving techniques, editor Whitney assures, will save on tires and gasoline.

Holiday Greetings

Open Hood

Open your car's hood occasionally and make sure that the hoses are in good condition. You can tell whether a hose is soft, cracked or leaking without being an expert mechanic. Battery terminals should be cleaned and tightened to assure no power loss and the fan belts should not be loose or worn.

1985 Car

The car Americans will buy in 1985 will be more fuel efficient, lighter in weight, loaded with electronics, and will be much smaller, the Automotive Information Council predicts. About 25% of the new cars will hold five or more passengers while all the others will hold four or fewer.

Short Trips In Winter Affect Car

Driving habits and conditions tend to be different during the winter's cold and often inclement weather. Faced with bad weather, many drivers may stick closer to home, driving shorter distances more frequently.

A winter of short-trip driving can put excessive wear and tear on the engine, transmission and other components because it takes several miles of driving to warm up a car to operating efficiency, says the Automotive Information Council (AIC). Frequent cold starts also are hard on the complete electrical system — battery, plugs, wiring, etc.

The same practices that can guard against excessive winter engine wear can help you get better gasoline mileage. Try to combine many short trips into one trip with several stops. You may even be able to reduce the number of stops by planning ahead. Fewer stops mean better gas mileage too, and a car is easier to start once it has been warmed-up.

Try to avoid excessive periods of idling to warm the car up. Idling produces zero miles to the gallon and is harder on the engine than normal highway use. Except for below-zero weather, the car should be ready to move after about 15 seconds and then driven at moderate speed to warm-up. This method warms up the car faster, saves gasoline and engine wear.

Failing Inspection Could Be Costly

By DAVID GILMORE

The 1979-80 session of Congress produced no major legislation affecting car owners but a program mandated earlier for emissions testing of cars is getting off the ground.

The Clean Air Act was amended in 1977 to require areas which can't meet national air quality standards to establish an inspection-maintenance program by 1982. Forty-four areas in 30 states have been declared "non-attainment" areas and will set up testing programs.

Vehicles will be tested at least annually to determine whether their exhaust emissions are within the national standard for the vehicle class. Cars that fail will have to be repaired and retested.

Most states are establishing a maximum dollar figure — typically $50 — that motorists will have to pay to correct an emissions problem. But if a motorist has tampered with his car's emissions system or used leaded gas in a car requiring unleaded, he will have to pay to correct the damage.

The bill could run as high as $300 or $400, according to the Automotive Parts and Accessories Association.

This makes it all the more important to follow the maintenance schedule in the owner's manual, and to use unleaded gasoline in cars equipped with catalytic converters.

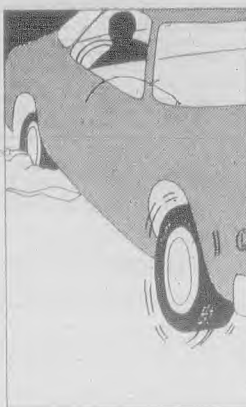

Starting with 1981 model cars, manufacturers will be required to provide an emissions warranty covering five years or 50,000 miles, assuming proper maintenance.

The warranty will be given in two segments. The first is for two years or 24,000 miles and covers all emission-related components. The second segment, running from 24,000 to 50,000 miles, applies to the basic emission system, including the catalytic converter.

This warranty will be extended only to cars registered in non-attainment areas.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, which administers the Clean Air Act, is letting states decide what kind of inspection program to implement. Inspections may be conducted by licensed private garages, state-operated centers or contractor-operated centers.

Some states are planning to combine emissions testing with their existing safety inspection programs.

BEWARE OF THE FREE-SPINNING WHEEL, warns the Tire Industry Safety Council. If one wheel on the drive-axle of your car is stuck and the other is off the ground, don't attempt to free it by racing the engine. Tire industry experts say the free-spinning wheel is rotating at twice the speed shown on the speedometer and can actually explode from centrifugal force.

Front-Wheel Drive Cars Can Have Winter Tires

Do snow tires ever go on the front wheels? Yes, if it's a front-wheel drive motor vehicle, says the Tire Industry Safety Council.

"Mud and snow tires should always be mounted on the axle that propels the vehicle in order to gain the extra traction that these tires provide," said Council Chairman Malcolm R. Lovell, Jr.

Snow tires are mounted on the rear axle on most cars, station wagons and light trucks, but since more and more vehicles are being manufactured with front-wheel and four-wheel drive, precautions should be observed when getting ready for winter driving.

"If you have a four-wheel drive vehicle, you should put snow tires on all four wheels for maximum traction," Lovell advised. "Also, all four tires should be of the same diameter and construction, either bias ply, belted bias or radial."

Lovell said that if radials are used on the front, radials should be used on the rear regardless of whether the vehicle is front-wheel or rear-wheel drive. "The handling of a car can be severely affected if you have radials on front and bias or belted bias on the rear."

The Council chairman noted that in some areas if you don't have snow tires, you may be fined if you get stuck and block traffic on a snow emergency route.

Snow tires made in the U.S. since Jan. 1, 1976, have the words "Mud and Snow" or some contraction, such as "M/S," molded on the sidewall under a voluntary industrial standard.

Use Air Conditioner Even During Winter

If you don't operate your air conditioner at least once a month for about five minutes, the seals — especially the one for the compressor shaft — can begin to leak Freon, the chemical gas which serves as the refrigerant, the Automotive Information Council advises. By all means, AIC says, do not remove the compressor drive belts during the winter.

Poor Alignment Wears Out Tires

Improper wheel alignment can cause uneven tire wear, meaning you will buy new tires thousands of miles early, the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association says.

Another front-end situation may be the car's tendency to pull to one side when you hit the brakes. That suggests worn brake linings.

Who's loving whom?

A BABY DOLL SO SOFT AND LOVABLE, Baby Soft Sounds will respond to your child with a whole range of happy baby sounds when she's picked up. Put her down or keep her still and she fusses for more attention then, after a bit, she quiets down. These gentle, life-like sounds come from a sensitive "voice" that runs on one transistor 9-volt battery (not included). Completely enclosed in a protective casing, the electronic unit may be slipped out of the doll, making her completely machine washable. Baby Soft Sounds is available for Christmas as a black or white doll, and comes with a simple sewing pattern to make a special coat outfit. From Fisher-Price.

ROOMY STOCKINGS to hang by the chimney with care—McCall's Pattern #7225.

Who says that Christmas has to be a big expense?

It doesn't you know if, instead of buying high priced decorations, tree ornaments and gifts you apply a little old-fashioned, tender loving care by making them yourself with McCall Patterns.

You don't even have to know how to sew—the patterns are that easy to make. And, nothing could be more personal and appreciated.

You and the kids will get in the holiday spirit stitching up personalized Christmas stockings, a colorful braided wreath to brighten a door, a Santa strip of bow-tied treats, a festive tree skirt, and a whole array of ornaments to trim the tree or spruce up a gift—all for $2.50 in McCall's Pattern #7225.

To decorate your own holiday table, or as a gift for someone special, you can make beautiful Christmas place mats and napkins with a stuffed "tree" centerpiece to match—McCall's Pattern #7274.

A way out of the camera maze

Cameras are something a lot of Christmas shoppers think about. But, many get cold feet when it comes to buying one because they are intimidated by the vast array available.

Here's a quick guide to help you through the maze.

All cameras can be divided into two basic types. One is the instant picture kind. The picture is developed in the camera and you have a finished print in seconds. All other cameras use film that must be processed outside the camera before there's anything to look at.

Differences in cameras

The instant cameras give you a print right away. But, if you have a picture you want to share with family and friends, you'll have to get copies made. And, they won't be as good as the original. The problem is magnified if you want bigger copies.

The rest of the camera world breaks down this way:

- View cameras—These are big and cumbersome; they aren't for the amateur.

- Large format roll film cameras—Again, cumbersome plus being very expensive. For the professional.

- Single lens reflex (SLR) 35 millimeter cameras—Ideal for the amateur because they allow for a high level of automatic control which ensures perfect exposures with a minimum of adjustment.

The most sophisticated SLR is the Canon A-1 which features a unique mode of automatic operation known as "programmed exposure." This means that the camera's microcomputer automatically adjusts both the lens opening and the shutter speed.

Focus and shoot

All the user does is focus and shoot. All other SLRs require that either the lens opening or shutter speed be set manually.

The 35 mm film used by these cameras is large enough to allow for blow-ups to most any size and virtually all of them can be used with a variety of lenses from all-encompassing "fish eyes" to extreme telephotos. There are, for instance, over 40 lenses for the Canon A-1.

- Rangefinder type 35mm cameras—Because of their film size, they make big blow-ups possible but their basic design does not allow for the same highly accurate exposure automation you get with an SLR. The biggest drawback is that most rangefinder cameras can't be used with additional lenses.

- Pocket cameras—Very convenient and moderately priced but most use a small size film format that doesn't allow for large blow-ups. These cameras are fine for simple, album-size snapshots, but that's what they are limited to.

- Automatic focus cameras—These are the newest additions in most camera stores. There is one automatic focus instant print camera but most are of the 35mm rangefinder type.

Use camera immediately

Tiny computers automatically adjust the lens to the camera-to-subject distance. One known as the Sure Shot even automatically winds and re-winds the film.

When buying any type of camera, either as a gift for someone else or yourself, it's a good idea to start using it immediately.

Get the film processed and some prints made as quickly as possible. That way, if there's anything wrong with the camera you can return or exchange it. Most photo dealers will be happy to oblige you in this regard.

Dreamy intimate apparel doubles as holiday attire

Question. If you have just slipped into a glamorous, flattering, slinky nightgown, are you getting ready for bed? Answer. Not necessarily. You could actually be getting ready for a dinner party, a holiday dance or a night on the town.

Gary Bryan, nightwear buyer for JCPenney, suggests the use of nightgowns, lounging pajamas, caftans and robes for this double purpose.

"It's one way to beat inflation," he points out, "since almost always the things you buy in the intimate apparel department cost less than a garment from one of the ready-to-wear departments."

Actually the concept of two-purpose gowns and robes is a practical way to fight inflation. However it's a concept that has been around for some years.

A brief history

At least five years ago, John Kloss came out with a collection of nightwear that could make it glamorously out of the bedroom into the social whirl.

Other designers quickly followed his lead and today many of the things sold in intimate apparel departments look as though they have been created with this dual purpose in mind.

Color important

Penney's expert suggests several criteria in deciding whether a nightgown can be worn as an evening gown. "First, the fabric. It should be fairly opaque. Look for things like matte-surfaced jersey or other fabrics with a dress look."

Next, consider the color. Pastel colors may look too much like a nightgown. Deep tones, such as wine or black, or brights, such as red or persian blue, will look more dress-like. Finally, he cautions, examine the way the garment is cut.

If it is cut high enough to let you wear a strapless bra or has a bodice of lycra spandex that fits as firmly as a swimsuit (so that a bra is unnecessary) the gown is apt to be more successful in its social usefulness.

In creating an outfit from the intimate apparel department, Bryan suggests that, besides nightgowns as evening gowns, you weigh the possibilities of lounging pajamas for disco-ing or other holiday activities. Even when there is lace present, he states, it can still look right since there is so much lace shown on dresses this year.

Accessories the key

Choosing the right accessories can be the key to the whole success of socializing a nightgown. Make sure that your shoes, your jewelry and your evening bag are definitely meant for partying. Then, no one will question your gown unless you choose to turn it into a topic of conversation.

If you like being the center of attention—tell all. If you don't—let it be your secret.

To wrap your outfit up luxuriously and inexpensively, Penney's buyer suggests a full-length pile-fabric robe in white, black or a deep tone.

It really can look like an expensive fake-fur evening wrap and your whole outfit will cost a third or a fourth of the price of a comparable outfit from ready-to-wear.

How to start his day a little bit smoother

Got a special man in your life? Why not do him, as well as yourself, a favor—give him the Norelco Rotatract® rechargeable razor for Christmas.

More than just another electric razor, the Rotatract™ razor looks, feels and performs like the luxury model it is. Its space-age shape and sophisticated styling make it a stand-out gift because its unique features make life easier for that someone special.

Inside three floating heads, 45 blades and 45 retractable lifters grip the hair, raise it up and then razor it off to give him the closest, fastest, most comfortable Norelco shave ever. What could be nicer next to your skin?

Special features include nine adjustable closeness/comfort settings, cord or cordless operation, flip-top for easy cleaning, pop-out trimmer, charge indicator light, shave counter, plug with built-in recharger/transformer and voltage selector.

CLOSER, CLEANER, FASTER—that's the shave he'll get with the new Rotatract™ rechargeable razor from Norelco. The special Twin Action system and outstanding features make this a truly luxurious razor.

Gifts to gladden a gift giver's budget

Anyone who has experienced the "my Christmas list is growing but my Christmas budget is shrinking" syndrome, will appreciate the difficulty of finding interesting, quality gifts with a practical price tag.

For those who still believe quality doesn't have to cost an arm and a leg, here's a variety of gift suggestions anyone would be proud to present—but which should all be easily affordable at $15 or less.

Toys are tops

The most exciting toys on wheels this Christmas are the first vehicles ever with real four-wheel drive. Stomper 4x4s, from Schaper, are fully equipped with super-tread foam tires, which enables the four-wheel drive action to take them over just about any child-imagined obstacle course.

Featuring working headlights, Stompers are available in a Wild Mountain Set complete with mountains, bridges and logs, for about $14.99.

Kids will clean up—and enjoy it—all year long with a Spider-Man or Barbie Bath Center, by Kusan. There's a place to store toothbrush, toothpaste, brush, comb, towel and cup all under the approving eye of the popular Barbie or Spider-Man characters. The Bath Centers stand on their own or may be attached to the wall, and cost about $11.

With a guarantee of fun—or your money back—a gift of Playmobil is a risk-free investment. The miniature figures come with accessories in a variety of themes, from Police Rescue to Farmers to Knights or Cavalry, and play situations are as unlimited as a child's imagination.

In Deluxe and Special Deluxe sizes, both priced at under $15, Playmobil is actually guaranteed to be fun, or parents may return the set for a full refund.

A Christmas gift from out-of-this-world is the Sonic Fazer, a space toy from Kusan with a down-to-earth price of about $11. The computerized Fazer creates five "intergalactic" sounds, each accompanied by a flashing red scope light, and will send young space adventurers into orbits of fun.

The whole family will enjoy a pet, a gift that immediately adds friendly charm to any household. An ideal way to introduce an animal is with a special "starter set," available at many pet stores.

The package includes a pet, such as fish, hamster, reptile or bird, plus cage or aquarium, basic accessories, and a limited supply of food.

All that's left to add is a healthy dose of love, and the joy of pet ownership is complete—often for $15 or less.

To add elegance to someone's signature, a quality pen from the Ronson Pen Collection is "write to the point." Writers who enjoy the smoothness of liquid ink nylon or rollerball points will be delighted with a System II model, featuring the two points on quickly interchangeable cartridges.

A stylish brushed steel pen at $13.95 or distinctive matte black chrome model at $14.95 are not only great for the writer, but also for the gift-giver's pocketbook.

Or, for those who prefer a traditional ballpoint, a brushed stainless steel Slim pen offers a medium or fine point in an exceptionally slender casing, at an affordable $13.95.

Action heads indoors

For the tennis buff who can't wait for spring, a Cosom Tennis Set brings the game safely indoors to family or rec room. Two lightweight plastic rackets and a high-bounce, polyurethane foam ball let players practice realistic volleys and serves, with or without a net.

The special construction of the ball gives it tremendous rebound, yet it's so soft that it can't harm or dent furniture or walls. And, at $9 for the set, it won't dent Christmas budgets either.

Another action game for those long winter afternoons is Table Top Shuffleboard. The complete set, from Cosom, comes with red and yellow discs and plastic "coul" that fits most pool or ping-pong tables. Everyone will want to get in on the action, especially gift-buyers when they see the value for the $15 price tag.

Show you care by giving in true Christmas spirit

There are few things more pleasurable during the Christmas season than the look on the face of someone dear to you, for whom you have chosen the perfect gift.

The custom of giving gifts dates back to the Romans who adopted it from the story of the Magi—the three Kings who presented gifts to the Christ Child.

One of our most celebrated American writers, O. Henry, expressed the custom of Christmas gifts best in a beautifully crafted short story, "The Gift of the Magi."

A young couple, very much in love and very poor, sell their most precious possessions to bring happiness to each other on Christmas. He sells his heirloom watch to buy combs for her luxuriant hair; she cuts and sells her hair to buy a fob for his watch.

For all the cries of Christmas commercialism, the thoughtfulness expressed in an appropriate gift delights all. It is also a good time of the year to spread goodwill, to let those who have touched your life know in a tangible way that you appreciate them.

From family members to special friends to the neighbor who baby-sat for you in an emergency, a present shows you care—and that's what Christmas is all about.

Auld lang syne, etcetera — easing into the New Year

New Year's morning! Is it best to lie (lay?) low and hope that you didn't serenade your neighbor with Auld Lang Syne at four in the morning (and apologize for kicking either his cat or his four-year-old child), and then spend the rest of the day returning to a semblance of normal?

Resolutions are for other people—disciplined perfect human beings who probably don't need to make them anyway. Playing with the kids and their new Christmas toys would be very noisy and make your head pound even more.

About twelve or one o'clock, something happens. The headache goes away, the stomach gives off signals of hunger and you notice that your eyes are open.

After all, it is 1981, a brand new year, a time to anticipate rather than hide under the covers. Chances are some of your best friends are feeling the same way.

Gold jewelry is status symbol, treasured gift

Real gold jewelry has become the status symbol of the '80s. With gold's increased publicity and recent price fluctuations, more Americans than ever are clamoring to own this beautiful, but increasingly rare, metal.

And, according to The Gold Information Center, America's leading jewelry designers are striving to create "affordable" looks to meet this demand.

They are responding to the higher gold price with innovations in design and manufacturing processes that reduce the weight of their gold jewelry without diminishing its innate beauty and styling.

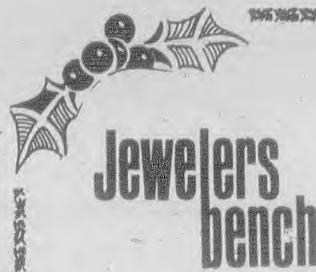

THIS 14-KARAT GOLD chevron necklace, designed by Alwand Vahan, was made through a process called "stamping," which allows it to be priced much lower than if it were made by "casting." It has the look of a heavy, opulent piece but the comfort and price of a lightweight design. Today, the matching 14-karat gold "stamped" bracelet and earrings can be bought together with the "stamped" necklace for less than it would cost for the heavier, "cast" version of the necklace alone! The burnished apricot silk gown is by Judith Wister. The 14-karat gold belt buckle on a grosgrain sash is by Editions Limited.

Don't dim your spirits!

DOES THE ELECTRIC BILL DIM YOUR SPIRITS? Especially at this time of year, when lights burn brightly into the wee hours of the morning? Now, you can know just how much all your pluggable electrically-operated appliances in your home, apartment, shop or factory cost you to run. With the new UL listed "Watt Sensor," you can tell how much electricity an appliance costs you to run and whether your motor driven appliances such as refrigerators and air conditioners are in need of repair, service or replacement. By plugging the appliance into the receptacle located at the base of the unit, an instant reading of the cost in cents per hour is obtained. It's a great help when choosing new appliances too. "Watt Sensor" is manufactured by Dynamic Instrument Corp., Hauppauge, N.Y. 11787.

Answers to frequently asked questions about fragrances

Buyer be prepared... that's the Caron Christmas advice this season.

This fine French fragrance house has done research on what are the most frequently asked questions about perfume. And the answers are something everyone considering a fragrance gift should know.

Q. Why is French perfume expensive?

A. The ingredients used are among the most expensive in the world. For example, the jasmine Caron uses in Infiniti, one of its classic perfumes, costs as much as $6,000 a pound.

Q. What is the difference between Toilet Water and Cologne?

A. They are both diluted versions of perfume. Toilet Water is the stronger and more lasting. Cologne is most effective as a light refresher.

Q. How long should a fragrance last?

A. It depends on the form of fragrance you select. Perfume lasts the longest... Toilet Water, followed by Cologne.

Q. Where should I apply my fragrance... so that it lasts the longest?

A. If you are using perfume, limit the application to pulse spots which are temples, the base of the throat, the inside of wrists and elbows, center of the bosom... and, traditionally, behind the ears and knees. If you're using other forms of fragrance... apply more lavishly... splashing over the body.

Q. How can I make certain my perfume doesn't dry out in the bottle... or lose its strength?

A. Keep it in a cool, dark place, away from direct light, and tightly sealed.

And, perhaps one of the most important questions... with an apparent answer: Why perfume for Christmas? Simply because it is traditionally one of the most cherished gifts to receive!

Holiday beauty at your fingertips

The holiday season is one time of year that allows for extravagance in fashion and beauty! From elegant party fashions to glittering palettes of make-up—it's a time when you can create your own special beauty fantasy—right down to your fingertips.

This season's fashions range from soft, pastel romantics to sleek and colorful classics with accessories to suit every mood.

And, more than ever before, the added pizzazz of artistic make-up is the thread that ties any holiday "look" together!

The season's best make-up trends include richer, more luminous colors, applied creatively and with intensity. So, why not do the same for your nails?

Here are a few suggestions from the Cutex beauty experts to help you try your artistic hand at creating unusual nail designs to complement your holiday "look!"

Simply choose your polish, then apply a base color, such as Cutex Scarlet Ribbons

PERFUME... a Caron tradition for Christmas. One of the classics, Infiniti, 15 years in the blending, a most modern floral... in parfum de toilette, cologne and, of course, parfum.

Your holiday game dinner plan

Game dinners are perfect at holiday time, and the hunter in the family will love this special, festive table arrangement.

With duck, for example, compliment the hunter by really dressing it up elegantly with an orange glaze, and garnish it with orange slices, parsley and red cranberries. You'll also please him by serving another classic—Erlanger beer, the perfect beverage with game.

Decorate your table imaginatively with a hunting horn or any other hunting paraphernalia you have.

Make a festive centerpiece with a wreath of seasonal greens, placing a number of "special label" beer bottles in the center to serve as candleholders, and dress the bottles with small holly necklaces. To prevent tipping, fill the bottles with water, pebbles or sand. Add small ornaments and a bow to the wreath.

WHETHER YOU'VE GOT AN IN-HOUSE HUNTER or buy your game from the store, a classic holiday dinner is a beautifully glazed duck with Orange Sauce. To please the hunter even more, serve a cold and frothy "special label" beer. An imaginative centerpiece of Christmas greens with bottle candleholders, dressed up with holly, makes the table festive.

ROAST-DUCKLING WITH ORANGE GLAZE

- 1 duckling, about 5 pounds
Salt and pepper
½ cup orange marmalade

Sprinkle duck with salt and pepper; truss.

Place duck, breast side down, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Roast in 350°F. oven 1 hour.

Turn duck over; roast about 1½ hours longer or until duck is tender.

Spread duck with orange marmalade for last 15 minutes roasting time.

Serve with Orange Sauce.

ORANGE SAUCE

- 2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
1 small clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
½ teaspoon catsup
½ cup orange juice
1 cup chicken broth
2 tablespoons orange marmalade
2 navel oranges, sectioned

In small saucepan over low heat, melt butter with orange peel and garlic.

Blend in flour, salt, pepper and catsup until smooth.

Gradually stir in orange juice, chicken broth and marmalade. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture thickens and boils.

Lower heat and simmer 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add orange sections. Serve over duckling. Yield: 2 cups.

Old and new traditions combine to make the Christmas present

Friends exchange greetings of good cheer. Children everywhere are too excited to sleep. Gifts miraculously appear under the tree.

Around the nation people who normally wouldn't, cross their fingers and dream of snow. And, tables are laden with treats much too good to resist.

As the celebration of Christmas varies from one country to another, and from family to family, so do regional food tastes and the table trimmings.

One seasonal favorite which adds cheer to any feast, is pumpkin—in cookies, breads, cheesecake, blonde brownies, ribbon cake, pudding and pies.

Creative cooks everywhere have adapted Libby's "All American Famous Pumpkin Pie" to reflect the taste, spirit and tradition of their Christmas celebration.

In the Midwest—Pumpkin Ice Cream Pie; in the Northwest—Pumpkin Apple Pie; in California—Pumpkin Pie with Orange Cream Topping; in New England—

Pumpkin "No Crust" Pie; and in the South—Pumpkin Pudding Pie with Peanut Glaze. These variations of the old tradition create new traditions of good taste.

Old traditions are passed along from generation to generation, family to family, and they soon become the new traditions. Here's an old-time favorite tradition from the Libby

Kitchens that's easily made into a new tradition from your family kitchen.

LIBBY'S "ALL AMERICAN FAMOUS PUMPKIN PIE"

- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 can (16 oz.) LIBBY'S Solid Pack Pumpkin
- $\frac{1}{4}$  cup sugar
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon ground ginger
- $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon ground cloves
- $1\frac{1}{2}$  cups (13 fl. oz. can) evaporated milk or Half'n Half
- 1 9-inch unbaked pie

shell with high fluted edge

Preheat oven to 425°F.; mix filling ingredients in order given.

Pour into pie shell. Bake at 425°F. for 15 minutes.

Reduce temperature to 350°F. and continue baking for 45 minutes or until knife inserted into center of pie filling comes out clean.

Cool. Yields one 9-inch pie.

FAMILY TRADITIONS enrich the Christmas season and elicit appreciative cries all around the table for (from top, clockwise): Midwest-Pumpkin Ice Cream Pie; Northwest-Pumpkin Apple Pie; California-Pumpkin Pie with Orange Cream Topping; New England-Pumpkin "No Crust" Pie; All American Famous Pumpkin Pie and Southern-Pumpkin Pudding Pie with Peanut Glaze. All these pies are made easy by starting with LIBBY'S Solid Pack Pumpkin. The recipes are available from the Libby Kitchens, 200 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, IL 60604.

Berry merry cranberry Christmas

CRANBERRY-ORANGE PIQUANT

AUTO COOK CODE: 1

MICROWAVE TIME: 24 to 27 mins., total

- 2 cans (16 oz. each) whole cranberry sauce
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup winesap apple, unpeeled, coarsely chopped
- 1 cup orange sections, drained
- ½ cup raisins
- ½ cup walnuts, coarsely chopped
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- ½ teaspoon ginger, ground
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ground

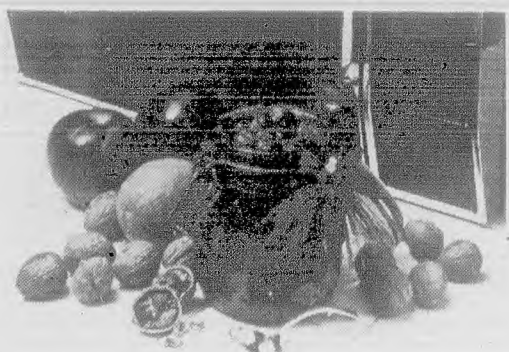

Cover.
Micro-wave at AUTO COOK, CODE 1.
Cool.

Store in refrigerator until serving time.

Makes 4½ to 5½ cups.
NOTE: To use fresh or frozen cranberries substitute 1 pound berries for the canned berries in the recipe and increase the sugar to 2 cups. Microwave the recipe using fresh berries at AUTO COOK, CODE 3 (20 to 22 mins.), covered. Microwave the frozen berry recipe at AUTO COOK, CODE 7 (28 to 30 mins.), covered.

When done the berries should begin to burst. Chill until serving time. Stores well in the refrigerator.

In 3-qt. casserole mix together cranberries, sugar, apple, orange sections, raisins, walnuts, vinegar, ginger and cinnamon.

THIS BERRY MERRY 'big batch' cranberry-orange piquant microwave recipe from General Electric Company is a delicious relish/chutney/meat accompaniment that may be served hot or cold. And as it keeps well in the refrigerator, plan to make it ahead for serving throughout the entire holiday season. Serve it at special holiday meals or give a portion to a friend neatly packaged in a reusable container.

A gift of time

ON THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS you can sleep peacefully, knowing how delighted friends and family will be with your gifts of beautiful and dependable Seiko quartz clocks and watches. Elegant gold-tone Greek columns frame the new traditional quartz mantle clock, which gives the illusion of being suspended in the glass. Roman numerals and exquisitely detailed hands punctuate the white dial. This aristocratic, battery-operated clock comes with a plaque suitable for engraving. The fashion conscious woman will graciously welcome the lovely ultra-thin Seiko quartz baguette watch (center) to her fine jewelry collection. It features a gold-tone case, white dial highlighted with a bold Roman numeral "XII" and an elegant gold-tone bracelet.

A touch of festive coloring has your hair looking its holiday best

Ⓜ Holiday time is party time! But, any holiday occasion becomes fun and exciting when you look your very best. Whether you're sipping wine in front of a glowing fire, or dancing the night away, your hair can be as festive as the season.

Turn heads at the Christmas party with Nestle Streaks 'n Tips, spray-on, shampoo-out hair color in spirited holiday shades of red and green. It's so easy, you can do it yourself, at home, just about as quickly as you can say, "St. Nick."

Get into the spirit of the season! Top off a glittery, chic New Year's Eve look with a dramatic, glamorous hairstyle. Heighten the drama by streaking your hair with shimmering silver or gold.

Whether you streak it or tip it, go for subtle sophistication, all-out drama, or a look that's just plain fun, Streaks 'n Tips is the key to your special holiday look... an instant hair coloring that sprays on and shampoos out without permanently changing your natural color.

You can choose from a dazzling array of colors—gold, silver, orchid, snowy white, red and green—all party perfect, to complement your mood, your outfit and the occasion. You can be a "golden girl" one day, a sparkling "silver beauty" the next, and all at only the touch of a button.

When the party's over, simply shampoo your hair to remove the color... it's that easy. Then, you can still have a smart new look with Streaks 'n Tips in "everyday" colors.

Interesting Yuletide for the collector

Is there a history buff, sports fan, collector of Americana or photography buff on your Christmas list this year? If so, you can stop racking your brain for a new and interesting gift idea.

Through an agreement with United Press International, Past Press Productions, a New York-based company specializing in historically-related products, has begun production of photo stories on major events in American history, sports and Americana.

What sports fan would fail to recognize the familiar stance of Babe Ruth as he shattered his own home run record in 1927? Or, the graceful poise of Romania's Nadia Comaneci during her flawless performances at the 1976 Olympics?

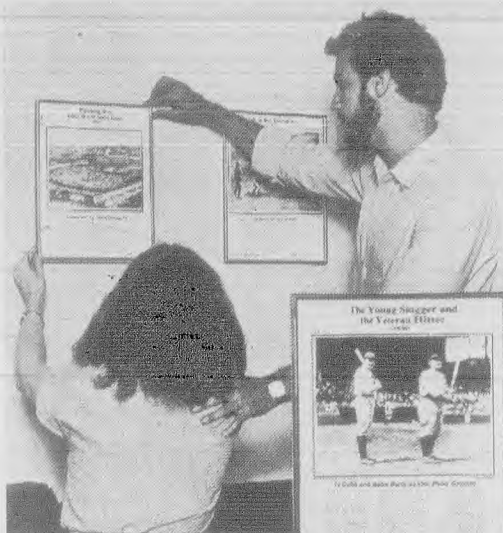

Who can look at a photograph of American liberating forces marching down the Champs Elysées in Paris without acknowledging a powerful sense of history, not to mention patriotism?

And, who will ever forget that eventful summer's night in July, 1969, when millions of individuals the world over watched astronaut Neil Armstrong first set foot on the moon?

These outstanding moments, captured on film and in print by UPI, are just a few of the major events of the century that can live forever in a home or office.

Past Press charts dramatic moments in American history—from the Civil War to the Space Age, from the trials of the Wright Brothers to the first moon landing, from the first World Series game to the US Hockey Team's triumph at Lake Placid.

STUMPED FOR A CHRISTMAS GIFT IDEA? Why not give a little bit of history to your favorite sports buff or collector of Americana? Outstanding moments in American history, sports and Americana come to life in a home or office with authentic reproductions of UPI photographs and newspaper copy. Mounted in 11" x 14" chrome-colored mylar frames, these decorator design photo stories make the perfect gift idea for nostalgia buffs and collectors alike.

"A FAMILY BUSINESS"

Lighting of the Yule log is a long-standing Christmas custom

Of the many Christmas traditions that have survived through the ages, one of the most ancient is the ceremonious lighting of the Yule log on Christmas eve.

It is a tradition that is more strongly rooted in European culture than in our own, yet it is not uncommon for an American family to gather round the hearth on Christmas eve, sipping eggnog and watching the flames dance.

Ancient tradition

This ceremony dates back to the time of the Saxons and Goths, as well as the early Germanic tribes, who burned such a log at their festival of the winter solstice.

The log was often a stump or root of a tree that had been obtained from one's own land or a neighboring wood, and which was brought into the house not before sundown on Christmas eve.

With the entire household gathered in front of the fireplace, the log was lighted with a piece of wood that had carefully been saved from the previous year's Yule log.

Should the log not ignite on the first attempt, superstition held that ill luck would follow.

To further ward off ill fortune in the coming year, the log had to burn for at least 12 hours. A portion of the extinguished log was then saved for the following Christmas, often stored in the house as a protection against lightning.

The ashes of the Yule log were later mixed with the earth at the base of the fruit trees on the land, with the belief that this would make them more fruitful.

Perhaps the most interesting abstraction of the Yule log tradition exists in France today, where the French Christmas cake, a bûche de Noël, is one of the most obvious symbols of the holiday season.

It is actually a chocolate roll covered with chocolate icing, meant to resemble a log of wood.

Tree-trimming with glee

Tree-trimming—one of the pleasant traditional activities that impart to the Christmas season a feeling of family togetherness.

Armed with a bowl of freshly-popped popcorn, and another of eggnog flavored with nutmeg, tree-trimmers will get to work, taking pride in their activity.

Whether the tree is natural or artificial, six feet tall or perhaps two feet, it engenders the same feeling of warmth and happiness that characterizes Christmas.

Ornaments range from strings of bright lights to garlands of popcorn and cranberries to family heirlooms handed down from generation to generation.

Well-traveled people may take pride in the wide variety of countries represented on their tree, a veritable U.N. Food-lovers may opt to make their tree edible—hanging little chocolate balls and bells covered in bright-colored foil, and home-baked gingerbread cookies in a myriad of shapes.

And, with edible ornaments, there's one further advantage—when it comes to taking down the tree, after Christmas, you can make a last party of it—eating what comes off the tree, with glee.

'Tis the season to get ready

Does simply thinking about Christmas send you into a mild frenzy? Along with evoking pleasant visions of carolers, eggnog and happy family, get-togethers, Christmas also means crowded stores, hectic shopping and last-minute preparations.

You can avoid the holiday rush by preparing for it ahead of time. Here are some suggestions to help you get ready for Christmas before it arrives:

- Put your Christmas card and gift list together in the fall to avoid any last minute rush. Starting early also allows you plenty of time to make your own creative greeting cards. All you need is some white or lightly colored blank note paper, a thin artist's brush and a bottle or box of household dye.

Begin by lightly outlining an open-faced design onto the note cards—Christmas tree, star, heart, etc. Prepare a hot concentrated dye solution (dissolve ½ cup of liquid dye or one package powder dye in one pint of very hot water [steamy hot—not simmering]), and dip brush into your favorite Rit color.

After removing any excess dye from the brush, paint the dye onto the paper with light strokes working from the edges toward the center of the open area. After your design dries, you can add details with colored pencils, India ink or paper appliques such as gold stars.

Making your own colorful season's greetings is easy and economical, and adds a warm personal touch to the holiday.

Also, remember to mail your cards early so they aren't delayed in the heavy holiday mail crush.

- Select your Christmas gifts early in the season. You can easily avoid the last-minute shopping rush by purchasing items as you see them throughout the year and storing them away until gift-giving time.

Or, if the stores seem unbearable to you, why not make your own presents? With a little imagination, some inexpensive items and Rit Dye you can do creative things.

For instance, dye an unfinished wood picture frame and place your favorite photo in it to give to someone special; make a wall hanging by painting with dye on stretched canvas, or dye a natural colored wicker planter and place dried flowers in it to use as a centerpiece.

- When wrapping your Christmas gifts this season with colorful paper and bows, make them even more special by adding a personal touch.

With a store bought alphabet stencil, household dye and an artist's brush, you can stencil your special friend's name on a gift tag. Just fill in the stencil with dye in the shade you like the best.

- Check your Christmas ornaments before the holiday arrives. Replace any that have broken; spruce up the ones you plan to use and check the strings of lights to be sure everything's in proper working order.

Are your lips ready for the mistletoe?

☞ Christmas is "kissing time?"

So, be sure your lips are in good shape for the advancing holiday season—smooth, moist and healthy.

Beautiful lips don't just happen. If you want to be ready for the mistletoe, start now to take precautions against winter's onslaught.

Winter sun, wind and cold tend to dry lips, especially in areas not easily bathed by saliva. Evaporation may result in chapping and cracking of lips, increasing the chance of infection, first degree burning, swelling, even blistering, according to Dr. Tony E. Jones, Director of Research for Blistex Inc. and Professor of Medicinal Chemistry at the University of Colorado.

For kissable lips

To keep lips soft and smooth—and kissable—it's a good idea to get into the habit of routinely using a medicated ointment or balm, both indoors in dry, heated rooms and outdoors when you face the elements. The emollient waxes in these products make lips soft, protect as a screening agent, and keep lips in good health.

Also, just before using lipstick, coat lips with medicated lip balm or ointment—wiping the balm or ointment off after a few minutes. This removes flaking, unwanted skin. The result is softer, more attractive lips.

Most moisturizing lotions and creams for other parts of the body are blended to provide water to the skin. However, an effective moisturizer for lips primarily contains wax which places a coating on the skin and prevents evaporation of moisture, explains Dr. Jones.

Medicated lip balms, whether in ointment form or stick form, have been used for years by Hollywood studios as gloss and conditioners to seal in moisture under lipstick.

The holiday season poses other dangers for lips as well. When you're upset—late hours, stress, too much "decking the halls," perhaps—your lips can reflect the emotional strain by "breaking out" in herpes simplex, better known as pesky cold sores or fever blisters.

Actually, there's a good physiological reason for "breaking out," explains Dr. Jones. If you're upset or under emotional strain, or if a common cold drives your temperature up, you are causing a change in your body chemistry.

The lips become vulnerable because their cells are thinner than in other parts of the body. Consequently, it's relatively easy for a "breakout," like a leak in an inner tube, to occur when there's been a maladjustment of the system.

If you have a tendency toward herpes simplex blisters, you should avoid excessive exposure to sun, wind and glare.

Use Space To Prevent Accidents

The best way to avoid accidents, says the American Driver and Traffic Safety Education Association, is to use space correctly.

"Space" means keeping distance between your vehicle and any person or property, including other vehicles," instructs Dr. William D. Cushman, ADTSEA's executive secretary.

Ways to keep that space, Cushman says, are:

- Don't tailgate or tolerate a tailgater behind you.
- Watch traffic at your sides for movement.
- Move with the flow of traffic, providing the flow is legal and safe. Leave enough space to be able to drive comfortably without having to dodge, or slam on the brake to avoid harm.

Planning makes the advice achievable, Cushman says. "Look where you will be three, ten or twelve seconds from now. Plan your approaches to traffic lights. Search ahead, left and right to respond early if it is conceivable that there could be a problem, hazard or change.

"Check mirrors every several seconds. Turn your head to quickly check the blind spot before every lane change."

Fine—but how do you get rid of that tailgater?

"Tailgaters will be encouraged to pass your car if you slow down gradually,"

WELL INTO THE NEW YEAR, creative play is actually guaranteed—or your money back—with a toy from the Playmobil series of "little people" toy sets. Themes such as Police Rescue are designed to stimulate limitless play situations, fueled by a child's imagination. And, if after 30 days, the child isn't still enjoying the set, parents may return it for a full refund, no questions asked.

CHECKLIST FOR A PERFECT HOLIDAY SEASON

Christmas is a time for good cheer, not chaos! Yet, the unprepared may find that the holiday season has crept up on them, leaving them to frantically address cards, rummage through the basement for decorations, and garble excuses as they sneak out to buy food and drink for their unexpected guests!

Here's a handy holiday checklist to help you avoid such last-minute problems!

For the tree

- Look over ornaments. If any are broken, replace them early before selections narrow.
- Have a supply of ornament hangers to replace those left on last year's tree.
- Check lights and cords.
- Buy extra bulbs.
- Look over tree cloth to be sure it is clean and has no holes.
- Find tree stand and clean it up.

For gifting

- Make your list early and do a little at a time.
- Get wrapping paper, ribbons, cards.
- Wrap as you buy gifts.

For cards

- Select your cards early. If they are to be personalized, take the envelopes home now.
- Bring address book up to date; remember zip codes.
- Address envelopes during short sessions while watching television, listening to the radio or stereo.
- Get postage stamps, and remember special denominations for those going to foreign countries.
