BUT OTHERS HAVE SOLID SUPPORT

Roe and Kean in front in primary race locally

Although a few prominent local names are on the ballot, the chief interest in Tuesday's election primary here as elsewhere is who will receive the party nominations for governor. Belleville voters will visit the polls from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. and choose candidates not only for the state's top executive post but for the State Senate and Assembly, county freeholder and local county committees.

Right now the feeling seems to be that Rep. Bob Roe has the edge for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination and former Assembly Speaker Tom Kean for the Republican nod. However, other candidates in both parties have substantial backing here and cannot be discounted.

Thirty-three persons — 14 Democrats, eight Republicans and 11 independents — are fighting for the state's number one position. The Democratic organization has nominated Nutley Mayor Carmen Orechio for another term in the State Senate in the new 30th District of which Belleville is now a part. He is running unopposed as is John Crecca of Bloomfield, the Republican candidate.

Belleville Public Works Commissioner Mary Senatore is running unopposed for State Assembly from the 30th District and will square off in November with Republican John Kelly, president of Nutley Savings and Loan Association, also without opposition Tuesday.

Mayor Michael Marotti threw his support early in the campaign to Roe, saying the congressman has done "a lot" for Belleville.

"Roe helped us years ago when we were trying for the public works fundings," Marotti said. "He fought for us, and the money we got enabled us to build the new firehouse, the addition to the high school and put the sewerage system in the Valley. When we needed him he was there, and now he needs us."

Marotti said Roe could expect a battle with Rep. James Florio, but he predicts Roe will carry the town.

"It will be close between Roe and Florio, but I believe that Robert Roe is the stronger one in Belleville," he said.

Florio, however, has powerful backing here. Marotti's colleague on the Town Commission, Public Safety Director Matthew Pica, has endorsed the Camden congressman, who campaign effort here is headed by longtime supporter Mike Chieffo, a former School Board member who was a top vote-getter in his own right.

Commissioner Senatore, who is the town Democratic chairman, says the primary is open and she is remaining neutral.

"They are all good candidates and I think it is great that they all have a chance to run," she said. "We will let the people decide and not the politicians."

Mrs. Senatore did say that she is

Belleville getting $680,000 grant

Belleville is one of five local municipalities which will receive more than $2.4 million for traffic improvements under the Federal Aid Urban System transportation program.

Belleville is scheduled to receive $680,000 which will be used for improvements to major intersections throughout the town. Several other towns will also benefit from the funds. They are Bloomfield, Montclair, Nutley and Glen Ridge.

The program, which was approved by the Board of Chosen Freeholders earlier in the week calls for the improvement of four major intersections in Belleville.

The four improvements will take place at Franklin Avenue and Joralemon Street, where signals will be improved and left turn lanes will be created; Main and Joralemon Streets, where signals will be improved; Union Avenue and Joralemon Street, where signals will be improved, left turn lanes will be created and a traffic island installed; Joralemon Street, Hoover Avenue and Bloomfield Avenue, where a safety flasher will be replaced with a traffic light.

The Federal Highway Administration will pick up 75 percent of the cost of the improvements, with the State Department of Transportation assuming the remaining 25 percent share.

Trustees exploring possibility of joining athletic conference

By Ed Capparucci

By a unanimous vote, the Belleville Board of Education has decided to apply to two sports leagues in hopes of easing the scheduling problem the high school athletic office has had since the Big Ten Conference folded three years ago.

By a 7-0 vote the board gave Athletic Director James Silvestri permission to file applications with both the Northern New Jersey Interscholastic League and the Iron Hills Conference. Both leagues are expecting applications which are required by a state mandate.

Silvestri appeared before the board Tuesday night to answer questions which trustees had raised about joining the league. Many board members raised concern over issues such as recognition, travel, competition and rivalries.

Since the folding of the Big Ten Conference more than three years ago, Belleville has been listed as an independent school and has had to set up its own schedule with whatever schools were available. But as Silvestri noted, many schools have been joining leagues over the years and the schools available for the Bucs either are not as competitive or require a long traveling distance. This fall the football team will travel to upstate New York to complete its schedule.

"We want to join a league because it will be beneficial to our athletes," Silvestri said, "not because we just want to join a league. We want the best for our kids and I am sure that this board agrees with me."

Fifty-car lot planned for site in park here

For more than a year people who use Belleville Park have been complaining about the lack of parking in the area. But this week Essex County Freeholders Jerome D. Greco and James Piro confirmed that a new parking facility will be built by the end of the year.

A lot which will hold 50 cars will be constructed by the county adjacent to Belleville Avenue, between Walnut Street and Garden Avenue. The cost of the project will be $80,000.

Last year many residents complained to town commissioners about the lack of parking in the area. During the spring and summer, Belleville Park is the site of numerous softball leagues, and finding a parking space in the area can become a very difficult task. Members of the senior citizens recreation club located on Belleville and Franklin Avenues also voiced their disgust with the parking problem in recent months.

Riverside Service — Past state AMVET commander John Lorec (right) offers the traditional Memorial Day prayer as James Leary of VFW Post 275 bows his head. The service took place on the Rutgers Street Bridge Monday morning.

Town honors veterans with Memorial services

Stressing that "history repeats itself," American Legion national executive committee member Joseph Ward told a Memorial Day crowd the United States is once again not prepared should a war break out in the near future.

Ward was the guest speaker at this year's Memorial Day services which began with prayers at the Rutgers Street Bridge and a brief parade down Union Avenue to the war monument. Services were also held at Town Hall for Belleville's deceased police officers and firemen.

Nearly 100 people gathered at the monument to take part in the services honoring the men and women who gave their lives fighting for freedom.

Members of Belleville veterans' organizations and local dignitaries listened as Rev. Benedetto Pascale of the Silver Lake Baptist Church delivered the invocation. Among the dignitaries present were Mayor Michael Marotti, a former state commander for the AMVETS; School Board members Donna Rainone, Thomas Spillane and John DiStasi, and two other former state AMVETS commanders John Lorec and Al Pico. Frank Catenacci, the present state commander of the AMVETS also attended.

After master of ceremonies James Leary presented the welcoming address, Ward told the crowd how unprepared the U.S. has always been in time of war.

"It is funny how history repeats itself," said Ward. "When World War II broke out, the U.S. didn't even own a machine gun. We had to borrow one from the British. We didn't even know what a tank was, and we had to buy them from the British and French. Japan would have never bombed us on Dec. 7, 1941, if we would have had a strong Army and Naval force. But they knew we were weak and they tried to

Colannino a guest at kitchen seminar

ALNO Kitchen Cabinets Inc., Europe's largest kitchen cabinet manufacturer, welcomed new dealer Andy Colannino of Modern Millwork in Belleville with an extensive three-day seminar held at the company's American headquarters in Charleston, S.C.

Colannino recently acquired a sizeable portion of New Jersey as his A. NO dealership territory. His showroom, located at 624 Washington Ave., opposite McDonald's, will feature ALNO products by the end of July.

The main topics of the seminar concentrated on European layout and design, cabinetry specifications and metric principles. Colannino sees the introduction of the "European look" in the United States kitchen market as something new and fresh, and yet also as a style that will be around for a very long time.

ALNO was founded in Waagen, West Germany, in 1912 with only a handful of workers. Today, ALNO is a multi-million dollar corporation located in Pfullendorf, West Germany.

First DeWitt officers attend Savings League convention

"New Horizons in Housing" was the theme of the 72nd annual convention of the New Jersey Savings League attended by Henrik Tvedt, president of First DeWitt Savings of Belleville. Tvedt was a delegate from his association and a participant in seminars and workshops at the Atlantic City parley.

"As part of this theme," Tvedt said, "the principal thrust was an appeal by speakers from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board of New York to provide greater tax relief to savers through government-sponsored income tax exemptions."

"The result," said Tvedt, who is vice chairman of the board, "would be to increase deposits at thrift associations and provide much needed funds for mortgage lending. The entire savings and loan field is in agreement that this type of tax relief is necessary because with the current

Janowski promoted

Ronald Janowski of 36 Oak St. has been appointed district sales manager of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's Essex office at Newark International Plaza. In 1980, Metropolitan's Essex district ranked number one in the Atlantic territory which covers the states of New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland.

A Metropolitan employee for 14 years, Janowski joined the company's Essex district and rose up the ranks as a successful sales representative and sales manager. Over the years, he has qualified for Metropolitan's Leaders Conference, the Manager's Club, 200 Club, Professional Management Award and in 1977 and 1978 was ranked the number one sales manager in Atlantic's North Jersey region. Janowski is a graduate of the Life Underwriter Training Council.

He and his wife, Beverly, are the parents of two daughters, Aileen and Georgena. Janowski is a committee chairman of Newark Boys Scout Troop 102.

high inflation rate, many thrift-minded wage earners and savers are finding it difficult to cope with the cost of home ownership, high taxation and the need to set aside funds for the future. Many hard-working people are finding themselves one step forward and two steps backwards with the present policy," he said, "and steps should be taken to avoid hardships for the thrifty."

Another point of agreement between Tvedt and his colleagues at the convention was that legislation should be approved to establish parity between thrifts and money market funds. "At present," he said, "these funds act like banks but are not regulated in the same way. They are permitted to put all of their money received into short-term, high-interest investments giving them a competitive rate advantage over thrift associations which by law, must have a substantial part of the funds in fixed rate investments such as mortgages. In addition, money fund customers are provided check-writing privileges without the state and government regulatory limitations imposed upon banks."

Tvedt said he is in favor of legislation that would limit and control the funds and establish a situation where their customers' money would be regarded as investments rather than deposits. In addition, he favors limiting the check-writing privileges of the funds' customers to two-party transactions instead of the three-party transactions that many of them now offer.

The convention, which was coordinated with the 150th anniversary of the savings and loan business, was attended by over 1,000 delegates from over 200 thrift associations in New Jersey. The annual event provides the opportunity for savings and loan administrators to exchange views or daily operational problems, and long-range objectives. Tvedt was specifically interested in mutual problems of associations in the $200 million asset category. First DeWitt expect to pass that figure shortly since it has been experiencing a strong growth in assets throughout the past 12 months.

Three other delegates from First DeWitt accompanied Tvedt to the convention. They were Walter J. Davis of Bloomfield, Herman Lietzow of Montclair and Clarence Lommerin of Branchville, all Association Directors.

Priest marks anniversary

The societies of St. Anthony's Church will hold a 36th anniversary dinner for Father Joseph Cestaro at the school cafeteria 7 p.m. tomorrow.

Father Cestaro was ordained on June 15, 1946, and served his early days of priesthood at St. Rocco's Church in Newark. Prior to coming to St. Anthony's Church in July 1969, he was at Immaculate Conception Church in Newark where he was responsible for building of a new church building.

The Town Commission unanimously passed a resolution Tuesday night congratulating Father Cestaro on his anniversary.

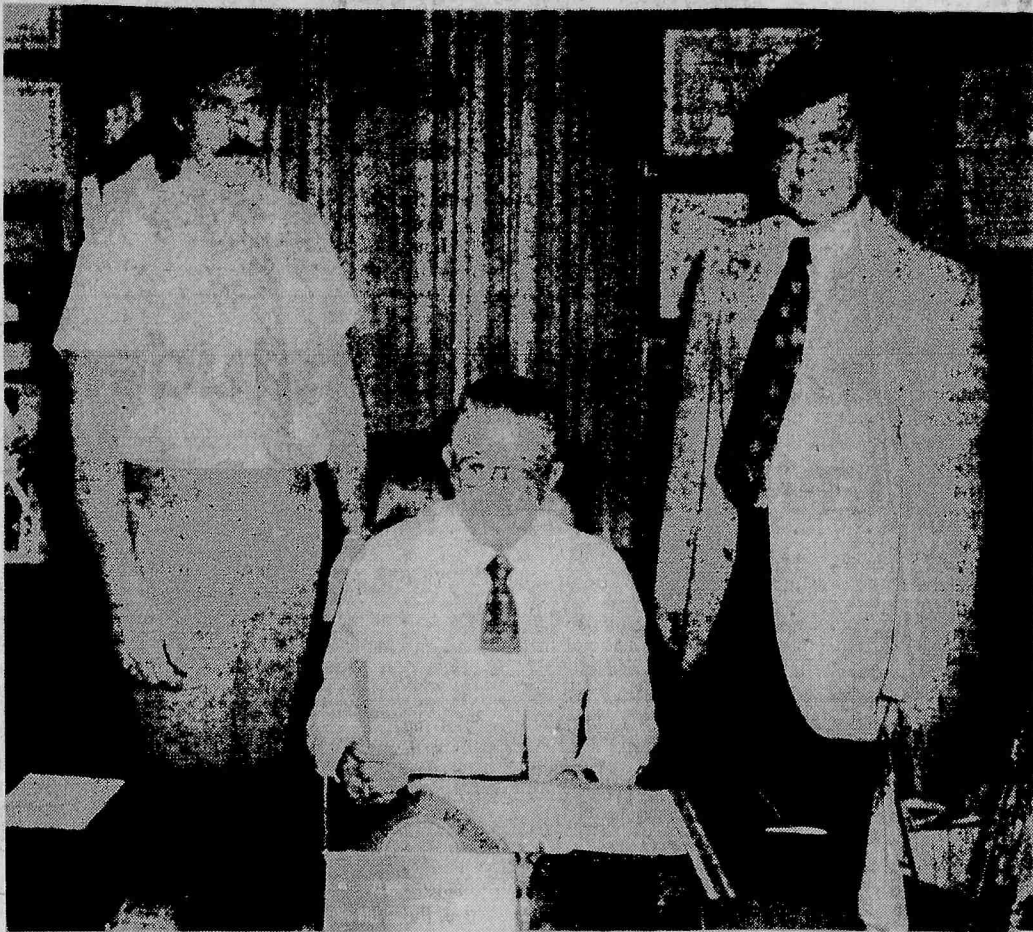

Lawmobile makes visit

During the first week of May, the Essex County Bar Association sponsored a pilot project under which lawyers volunteered their time to work on a "lawmobile" providing free legal advice to residents of Essex County. The lawmobile appeared here May 5.

The project accomplished two goals. First, it gave lawyers exposure to the everyday problems of people on the street. Many of the lawyers who volunteered for Law Week have law practices that involve the high power problems of business and finance and the majority of problems presented during Law Week included landlord-tenant, consumer protection and marital difficulties. Secondly, the availability of free legal advice allowed many Essex residents to make their first contact with the legal profession to see if the legal system could help with their problem. Lawyers who volunteered their time were not allowed to accept any business as a result of their consultations. If a person who sought the free legal advice needed further assistance the person was referred to the Essex County Bar Association Lawyers Referral Service.

The Lawyer Referral Service is provided free of charge to any person who calls 622-6227. When a call comes into the Lawyer Referral Service, the caller is told that a brief interview will be conducted over the phone, an attorney who specializes in the particular area where their problem is, is called and an interview (four-hour consultation) will only cost the client $10 and there is no obligation beyond that first half hour. Many Essex residents use this plan to discuss problems that will not necessarily result in further legal action beyond the consultation. The Bar Association LRS program refers approximately 2,000 people each year as a public service to residents of Essex.

When the Lawmobile was in Belleville on Tuesday, May 5, Mayor Michael Marotti was on hand to greet those attorneys who volunteered their time. Also on hand were Town Attorney Frank Zinna, Assistant Town Attorney Frank Cozzarelli, Commissioner Mary V. Senatore and Dennis Mautone, who organized and the event for Belleville.

County Aid — Craig Brown of Bruno Associates and Jack Case of the Essex County Section 8 Housing Program flank Mayor Michael Marotti. The three discussed a new county program that would provide rent subsidies to landlords for repairs.

County program to aid landlords and tenants

Mayor Michael V. Marotti announced this week that the Town of Belleville is considering participation in a program that will benefit both landlords and tenants.

In a meeting conducted in his office, details of the program were discussed by Jack Case, Essex County coordinator of the Section 8 Moderate Income Housing Program. The program enables a landlord to rehabilitate apartment units and be guaranteed a rental subsidy for a period of 15 years.

The tenants, who must be classified as low or moderate income persons, pay 25 percent of their gross monthly income for the rental units. The amount of the monthly rental, which is set by the government, is then calculated, and if the amount exceeds the tenant's percentage a subsidy is paid directly to the landlord.

In the first year of the program Belleville will be eligible for 54 housing units for rehabilitation. "The program will benefit both landlords and tenants," said the mayor. "The landlord will receive a fair return on their investment and the tenant will receive improved housing conditions. It is even possible that a tenant will pay a lower monthly rent since the formula for rent is based on 25 percent of their monthly income."

Any landlord or owner of a dwelling with more than two rental units is potentially eligible to participate in the program. Anyone wishing additional information may contact Case at 759-0550 or information is available at the Town Clerk's office at 152 Washington Ave.

Tuesday's vote

Last weekend most of us, in one form or another, celebrated Memorial Day — that was a day set aside to recognize the sacrifices of war veterans — living and dead — who fought to preserve America's freedom — and with it preserve the human rights most of us take for granted.

Next Tuesday, June 2, we have an immediate opportunity to exercise one of those valued rights for which some Americans gave up their lives.

The least we could do is visit the polls, cast a ballot for the person we think best will represent the voters' party affiliation in the November election.

Running for governor seeking the Republican nomination are eminently qualified candidates. Six that we have personal knowledge of are Newark Assemblyman Anthony Imperiale, former Superior Court Judge Richard McGlynn, Essex Fells industrialist Bo Sullivan, former Assembly Speaker Tom Kean, State Senator Jim Wallwork and Paterson Mayor Lawrence "Pat" Kramer.

If a Republican voter seeks a one-issue candidate — a law and order candidate — Imperiale would fit the mold. If a Republican voter wants to vote for a qualified person without prior government experience, businessman Bo Sullivan would be the easy choice. If the Republican voter is seeking a candidate with an impeccable character, served ably as a Superior Court judge, assistant prosecutor, a public utilities commissioner — then Richard McGlynn, attorney, is an easy choice.

If a Republican voter is looking for a candidate with legislative experience and substantial family wealth, then again the voter will have no problem in selecting Tom Kean as the nominee. State Senator Jim Wallwork, a former assemblyman, is independent, conservative and able. His legislative experience has branded Jim as an independent. Among many voters, including Republicans, this is seen as a virtue. Jim does not come from a wealthy family. He is making his way through life on his own. An outstanding Westpoint graduate, Jim is quitting the Senate in order to take this fling at the Republican gubernatorial nomination. He was endorsed by the New Jersey Conservative Party. So the Republican voter has a choice between two candidates with legislative experience — Tom Kean or Jim Wallwork — if that is the route the voter wants to go. Both men are qualified to be governor. Deciding between the two, the voter can't lose.

If a voter is seeking a nominee for both experience as a member of the governor's cabinet and mayor from a large, overwhelmingly Democratic city, then Paterson Mayor Pat Kramer is the easy choice.

In their own ways, each Republican candidate has experience that separates one from the other. Since most Republican candidates are in agreement more often than not on the issues of the day, it appears clear that the Republican voter will cast a ballot based upon the experience of the individual candidate.

The important thing for Republican voters to remember is that next Tuesday could be a date with destiny — a visit to the polls by each Republican voter may change the direction and destiny of the state of New Jersey and the people who call it home.

As for the Democrats, a dozen candidates are seeking their party's highest state prize. Extremely well qualified, there is a handful that rises above the crowd. Congressman James Florio, a former assemblyman, is making his second run for the nomination. Congressman Bob Roe of neighboring Passaic County is making his second run for the brass ring. Jersey City Mayor Tom Smith believes Hudson County is entitled to one more gubernatorial nomination. Smith has proven an able mayor of a difficult city. He has governed wisely and well.

New Jersey Senate President Joe Merlino, an attorney, former prosecutor, former assemblyman, is wagging an independent and aggressive campaign for the nomination. During his tenure as senate president, he has served almost a year as acting governor of New Jersey.

Newark Mayor Ken Gibson is running hard for the Democratic nomination. He brought peace and quiet to a torn city. Gibson has surrounded himself with an exceptionally qualified staff, and because of his integrity in office, an ability to be fair with all the people his city serves. The business community has expressed a vote of confidence in Mayor Gibson by committing itself to build millions and millions of dollars worth of new office buildings in the heart of Newark — clear evidence that Gibson enjoys the respect and admiration of all groups within the city of Newark.

Essex County Senator Pat Dodd has a commitment with the people of the state of New Jersey to discuss issues which compelled him to leave this safe Senate seat for a crack at the gubernatorial nomination of his party. Dodd is eloquent, competent and dedicated.

Former Attorney General John Degnan, an able attorney, decided at the last minute to try his hand at garnering the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Degnan appears to have the inside track for the support of the Brendan Byrne Administration associates. If there is a Democrat who is considered to be a law and order candidate, it is John Degnan. A native of Essex County, Degnan is very much in the race.

Middlesex County State Senator Bill Hamilton is also leaving the Senate for the big time. Hamilton was the only Democratic candidate to visit the offices of this newspaper to discuss the issues of his campaign. He impressed us most favorably with the grasp he has on the problems confronting the people and businesses of our state. I came away from that interview with the feeling that Senator Hamilton is extremely confident, knowledgeable and able. He was perceived as a middle-of-the-road candidate.

Based upon their records in office, their competence, their political philosophy, we can easily endorse a half-dozen Republican and a half-dozen Democrats for their party nominations. Because of personal relationships with candidates of both parties, we have come to know some candidates better than others.

Millions of dollars have been and are being spent to bring the candidates' messages to the people via television and the print media. A voter with a particular leaning will find it easy to make a selection among a wide range of qualified gubernatorial candidates.

Most important, your vote will not count unless you visit the polls on Tuesday. Most important, the men and women of the armed services who we memorialized last weekend will have died in vain if the cherished right to vote is not exercised by you next Tuesday — for why enter a war if not but to preserve our freedom, our liberty and our rights? Voting is a cherished right — don't abandon it.

Letters

Drama and all student activities have backing of administration

To the Editor:

It is most unfortunate that time must be spent to answer a letter such as appeared in this paper last week. While it is not my practice to answer crank calls and letters, I think occasionally it is necessary to set the facts straight. I cannot honestly see where it takes "guts" to answer a letter such as this, but I can see where it would take some intelligence to know the facts before complaining about them. Therefore let my present the facts as they are.

No one has ever threatened, considered, insinuated or spoken of eliminating dramatics at Belleville High School, least of all the principal. The only admonition was to keep the productions within a cost that could be paid for by the proceeds of the plays. It stands to reason that you cannot be in the "red" on every production without someone paying for the bills. The most recent play was a financial success after the previous two were financial disasters. With the proper planning by the dramatics staff at the high school the plays can be kept within their means and, to repeat, this is all we ask.

Regarding support of the dramatics activities, I would like to present the following facts:

I personally have attended several of the senior and/or dramatic club plays in the past few years. Most specifically the "Pippin" and "Cabaret" performances stand out in my mind. When I have not attended, one of the other secondary administrators has represented the high school administration. Most recently, Mr. Lally attended "Godspell." Support of the dramatic activities has gone beyond attendance. The administration of the high school has aided the cause of dramatics by facilitating funding of the plays, by securing better pay for the advisors and the other people who participate in the preparation of the plays, by facilitating the purchase of better lighting and repair and upgrading of the entire stage area and sound system. Not only does the administration support the dramatic activities of the school, but likewise supports every activity. There is not a sport, committee or meeting that takes place any time during the school year that does not have administration representation. This does not mean that someone attends every single event but someone does attend at least a representative number of events for every function. Drama is included in this representation.

In summary, I do not feel the administration or myself is above question but I do feel that if the paper is going to print every unfounded rumor then it will become simply a gossip sheet which has no basis in true journalism. These being my feelings this will be the first and last time that I take the time to answer such a letter as that published last week.

Yours truly,
John L. DeCesare

Prisoner in Georgia wants some pen pals from home

To the Editor:

I am writing you in hopes that you will help me. I was born in Belleville in 1959 but my parents moved away when I was 4. Both my parents were killed in an automobile accident in 1965. Since that time, I lived in several foster homes until I was 15.

I am presently in prison in Georgia. Being moved from home to home made it really hard to make friends. But I've never been so lonely as I am now. I have no one to write and no one writing me. However, I believe it possible that I have relatives in or around Belleville. I was hoping that you could find space in your newspaper to publish my letter in hopes that my relatives, or anyone who knew my parents, would find time to write me.

I have never had the chance to revisit Belleville, but one day I hope to. So if there is anyone reading this letter who would like to correspond as a pen pal, I would like to hear from you. I am a 21-year-old white male, but loneliness picks no certain age or color. So please write if you would like to share a smile. I've almost forgotten how to smile. A letter means so much to a man in prison, especially if he has never received one. Thank you for your time.

Senior Notes

By George Chenoweth

Today's news is good in that some of the budget cuts pertaining to social services will be restored or left as is. This may be a setback for administration goals, but it is a victory for the elderly. The consensus of the Senate is that it will not precipitate an unfair reduction in retirees' benefits. Although it does put a crimp in the president's plan, it also does not set any firm policy for Social Security cuts.

The attitude of the House of Representatives is that a breach of faith with the elderly has been committed and that the disallowing of cuts for early retirement is partly responsible for re-establishment of faith in our legislators. For this we have a long way to go.

We also have a long way to go in preventing substantial reductions in many social services, but the pressure being brought to bear on the administration should show favorable results. There is a pressure now where before there seemed to be complacency on the part of the affected parties, the senior citizens and those who represent them.

In reference to the proposed cut to 55 percent for those retiring at age 60, Rep. Biaggi (D-N.Y.) says it best. As he states, "This is the first grievous mistake that the president has made. The perception is that he is hurting the elderly and breaking his promise."

What had happened previous to Thursday in the House of Representatives, and a problem that still will have to be dealt with, is, that in a series of showdown votes affecting long-established social programs, the house has shown clearly where it stands in regards to education, job training, Social Security, food stamps and other social services. House members rejected all pleas from the American people and voted 253-176 to accept the Reagan Administration-endorsed budget resolution. They turned down a bill introduced by Rep. David Obey (D-Wisc.) that would have restored, among other things, funding for Medicaid, housing programs and housing programs for the elderly. This bill was defeated 303-119.

The cries of the elderly through the national organizations and personal appeals to legislators sometimes fall on deaf ears, and those legislators totally ignored what thousands of concerned seniors have been asking for. They weren't asking for anything new, just hoping that the programs affecting the elderly would continue.

It is true that many of the programs for the elderly have received less drastic cuts. However, one cannot assume that those programs will not be targeted for future rounds of cuts. Already Senator Baker is proposing raising the Medicare deductible from $60 to $100. One can also not assume that seniors have been protected across the board.

The time is now to make New Jersey work again.

Jewels & Gems

by Lou Cienia

The amethyst's royal purple color and enormous size have strengthened its supernatural connections, making it a favorite material for the clairvoyant's crystal ball. It is the traditional stone for a Bishop's ring, to be worn on the third finger of the right hand. This "jewel of the High Priest" was said to be instrumental in avoiding confusion, distractions or fascination with external phenomena. Political power was also to be had by its adornment. Care should be exercised in its wearing. Prolonged intense heat or light can cause loss of color.

Do you want us to design a special wedding ring for you? Come see me, Lou, at CHARLES JEWELERS, 163 Washington Ave., Belleville, and let my 34 years of experience help you with the design. We offer service, selection and are priced competitively. Remember that nothing can match the special feeling of wearing fine jewelry designed and made just for you. We have a staff of fine old-world craftsmen and we offer "practically overnight service". Stop in today and see me or call 759-2468.

ANTI-BRACE FOOD

Kids have a way of destroying the indestructable. Johnnie had a beautiful set of braces. Should have stayed in place until the day of reckoning. But Johnnie was a kid. It was a hot day and he was trying to break an ice cube with his teeth. Pop went the icecube — Pop went the braces!

Of course, with the evidence gone (melted) and the braces in Johnnie's hand, it's easy to lay blame on the orthodontist for placing the braces on improperly. True, orthodontists are only human and this can happen — but most of the time, braces that come loose in treatment are not due to this factor, but rather to the type of food the patient eats (or tries to pulverize).

Hard foods, like candies, French bread crusts, hard vegetables, ice cubes, etc. can all fracture the cement that holds the brace to the tooth thereby causing a loose brace. Sticky foods, like chewy candies can do the same thing. Special attention has to be paid to the kind of food eaten in order to preserve the braces and the teeth that the braces are hooked onto.

Gold Medalist — Madelyn Chiusano, 10, of Belleville, won the gold medal in an American Dancing Arts Association competition, April 25 with a winning tap solo and vocal rendition of "The Trolley Song" in the junior division. A student at Daniels Cultural Arts Institute of Nutley, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chiusano of 11 Tremont Ave.

Belleville's past

One of the worst calamities in the history of Belleville occurred in October 1902. Although no lives were lost, heavy property damage took place when a great flood inundated Main Street, then the town's principal road, after the Passaic River overflowed its banks for the second time in less than a year.

Cellars were flooded when water rose to the height of two feet in Main Street in April of that year. At that time, residents declared that the river had never been so high before and would never overflow again. Although only a minor flood was caused by the spring freshets, Postmaster Verner Forgie had to wear hip boots to enter the post office, and carried the mail to the chapel of the Dutch Reformed Church for distribution.

One day in October, residents of the Valley were alarmed to perceive that the river was again rising and appeared ready to overflow after a series of heavy rains. That night, the dams of the East Jersey Water Company, several miles up the stream, let go and Main Street residents were amazed to find the lower stories of their homes flooded when they awoke.

The flood waters extended as far west as Stephens Street. Until a few years ago, a marker on the store of the late Chester DePuy, one of Belleville's pioneer grocers, indicated the height of the waters, which rose five-and-a-half feet above the street level. Mr. DePuy suffered a heavy loss in the flood as the water upset a 200-gallon tank of kerosene, and the stock which was not destroyed by the water was soaked with oil.

Mr. Forgie was more fortunate this time. The post office had been moved up to Washington Avenue on Labor Day, barely six weeks before the flood.

Visitors came from Newark and towns close by to see the flood, which extended for several miles and caused much local excitement. Children made rafts which they used to navigate among the flooded buildings. Every rowboat in town was used to transport residents to and from the second floors of their homes.

A controversy raged for years about the cause of the flood. The water company maintained that its dam had burst, causing it to suffer great loss, but localities declared that the dams had been broken intentionally to save them from complete destruction by the unusual flow of water.

There also were the days that the patrolmen did their patrolling via rowboats along Main Streets, and it made their job none too easy. One resident, the late John Eastwood Sr., refused to leave his home at Main and Schuyler Streets when flood waters filled the lower floor. The police were compelled to order him to leave and brought a boat to row him to safer quarters.

Roche Players slate 'Oklahoma' for June

The Roche Players will present their 1981 production, "Oklahoma," June 12, 13, 18, 19 and 20 at Montclair-Kimberly Academy in Montclair. All performances will begin at 8 p.m. Ticket donations are $4 and proceeds will benefit the Community Mental Health Services of Belleville, Bloomfield and Nutley, and the Clifton Mental Health Services.

Over the years, the theater group, whose members are employees of Hoffmann-LaRoche in Nutley, has donated approximately $51,000 to local mental health organizations.

"Oklahoma" is being directed and choreographed by Tom Panko, who staged and choreographed the film "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?," the Broadway show, "Golden Rainbow," and the Miss Universe Pageant for television.

Other leading roles will be performed by Ray Lip-tak of Clifton; Barbara Felter and Tom Tagliente of Nutley, Marty Minich of Montclair, Charlie Waage of Saddle Brook, Jim Bailey of Rahway and Vernon Gordon of Passaic.

Janice Lynn lands lead in 'Cabaret' production

Life is indeed a "cabaret" for Belleville actress Janice Lynn these days as she reaches another landmark in her career. Tomorrow, Miss Lynn begins a three-week engagement starring as Sally Bowles in the hit musical, "Cabaret," at the CDC Theatre in Cranford.

An accomplished singer, dancer and actress, Miss Lynn won the coveted role in February. Later she was offered and accepted the position of choreographer for the musical as well.

Admitting she thrives on a busy schedule, Miss Lynn is excited about her current project. "Sally Bowles is a multi-dimensional character which offers a performing challenge in song, dance and acting," Miss Lynn commented. "As choreographer, I also contribute to the overall production beyond the limits of my individual performance."

As Sally Bowles, Miss Lynn's talents are showcased in the musical numbers, "Don't Tell Mama," "Maybe This Time," "Perfectly Marvelous" and the title song.

She has appeared in major roles at the CDC in productions of "Company" and "The Boyfriend." In addition to her involvement with

"Cabaret," Miss Lynn is currently choreographer for a production of "Godspell" opening in June at Montclair State College.

"Cabaret" runs through June 13 at the CDC Theatre, 78 Winans Ave. Reservations may be made by phoning 276-7611.

Clutch pitcher Coco helps Bucs survive

Winning. It's become a way of life for the Belleville baseball team the past couple of weeks. Witness the 19-5 record the club has posted thus far and you can see that George Zanfini has good reason to smile at his team's success.

While Frank Fazzini, Joe Corbalis and Bobby Brave have supplied the power, Dave Starr, Kenny Constantino and Jerry Ross have come through with some clutch hitting. The pitching has been spearheaded by Roger Lentz, Eugene Cancelliere and Billy Zeimer. Then of course there is Anthony Coco.

Oh yes, how can you forget Mr. Coco? After all, he threw some 200 pitches the other day and in the process defeated Bloomfield to help his team enter the finals of the Greater Newark Tournament for the second straight year.

That's not a bad day's work, huh? The victory also ended a crazy, hectic week in the life of Anthony Coco. It all started last Sunday when he was scheduled to pitch in the second round of the GNT against the Cougars of Columbia.

Coco started the game, but lasted only one-third of an inning and in the process gave up some eight runs. But while the Cougar players were thinking about their next opponent in the GNT during their first-inning spree, Coco walked off the mound with a calm attitude. "I had the feeling all along we were going to win," the senior hurler said. "It was only the first inning and I knew with the talent we had we could definitely come back."

That turned out to be a bit of an understatement. Belleville roared back, scoring 15 runs over the next six innings and winning 15-9. So, with Belleville still in the GNT, head coach Zanfini decided to pitch Coco the following Tuesday against the Campers of Irvington. The assignment was a tough one. Irvington has always fielded a strong team and the game was the first round of the state tournament.

Even though Coco felt he would do well, there was that sudden lack of doubt. He might have lost a bit of confidence, but that was quickly dispelled after the super performance he came through with against Irvington. Anthony pitched the entire game and helped his club to a 4-3 victory.

Then Coco did the coaching at first base as Belleville coasted past Secaucus and Roxbury. He would get the nod against the Bengals in the semifinal round of the GNT. His opponent would be Anthony Sarno. Earlier this year, Sarno fired a one-hitter by the Bucs and in the process defeated Coco who also pitched a fine ballgame.

In blistering temperatures, the two ace hurlers pitched 12 gruelling innings and when the smoke cleared, the Bucs had earned a 5-4 win. Coco said later that he never felt so sore in his entire life. He felt as if he went 15 rounds for the heavyweight championship. After a while, it seemed that instead of winning, surviving was more the key ingredient.

So let's put it this way, the Bucs didn't win against Bloomfield, they were the survivors. It was a salute to a gritty bunch of athletes who worked long and hard at doing one thing, reaching the GNT finals for a second time. Had it not been for a tough competitor like Coco, the victory might have eluded the Bucs.

An athlete with the class and character of Anthony Coco doesn't come around every day. For that manner, an athlete like Coco usually doesn't come around every 10 years. Coco's hard work and team leadership are the main reasons why the Bucs will be going to the finals. His record for the year is 6-3 but his desire and heart along with his hustle and endurance make him an undefeated pitcher in the hearts of all Belleville fans.

The Belleville track team concluded its season last week at the Group IV, Section 2 championships. High jumper Cecilia Graham, the defending Essex County champ, will go on to the all-group championships this week. She was at Bridgewater West High School yesterday to qualify for the state finals this Saturday at Rutgers University in New Brunswick. Cecilia has had quite an incredible season and best of all, she will be back next year.

Believe it or not, the school year is almost over. The lineup for the June edition of Buc Shots will be the athlete of the month award for May on June 4, a wrapup of the school sport scene on June 11, the Belleville High School boy athlete of the year on June 18 and the Belleville High School girl athlete of the year on the 25th of June. I'll also try and do a coach of the year article.

The Belleville High School athlete of the week award goes to (who else?) Anthony Coco. Need any more explanation?

Over on the major league baseball front, the Baltimore Orioles are off to a good start, and that's bad news for the rest of the American League East. Over the years, the Orioles have been noted for starting slow and then coming on strong in the months of June, July and August. As a matter of fact, over the past two years, the Orioles have been the best July and August team in the majors. In 1979, the Orioles got off to a strong start and then put on the motors in July and August and had everyone in the dust by Labor Day. In 1980, the Birds got off slow, fell 14 games behind the Yankees in early July and then went on a rampage, closing to within a half game of the Bombers in mid-August. The Yankees, in this case, held on. Now, the Orioles are playing .667 baseball and their best games are still ahead of them. Yankee fans had better hope the Orioles don't stick to tradition or the summer of '81 will be a very hot and dry one in the Bronx.

It might be a dry season for all baseball fans if the players strike tomorrow as threatened. The betting here, though, is that baseball will continue to be played. Both sides have far too much to lose to risk a strike over, and they will probably come to their senses sometime just before the deadline.

Here is the answer to last week's quiz. The question was, who were the four 20-game winners on the 1970 Oriole team? Also, did any of these pitchers ever win 20 games again? The 20-game winners that year were Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar, Jim Palmer and Pat Dobson. McNally did win 20 games in 1971, Cuellar was also a 20-game winner the following year. Palmer, of course, has won 20 games on a number of occasions while Dobson never did win 20 games again.

For this week's quiz, let's stick with major league baseball. Think back to the 1973 season. That of course was the year that the Mets rallied in the final month of the season and went on to win the National League Eastern Division and later the National League pennant. Can you recall the Mets' record in that 1973 season, who they defeated in the playoffs, who they played in the World Series and the Met pitcher who hurled in games one, four and seven?

Red-hot baseball team going to tourney final

By Mike Lamberti

A couple of weeks ago, Coach George Zanfini was asked to recall the most memorable game of his baseball career. He said it was an extra-inning affair in 1975 against Irvington. In that battle, both pitchers were superb. The game was a classic except for one thing, Belleville lost. If you were to ask the head coach this week his most memorable game, he would tell you it was an extra-inning contest in which both pitchers were once again superb. However this time, the opposition was Bloomfield, the year was 1981 and the Bucs won.

Last Saturday, at a jam-packed Verona Park, the Belleville Bucs earned a trip to the finals of the Greater Newark Tournament for the second straight year with an incredible 5-4, 12-inning victory over the Bengals of Bloomfield.

Last week also saw the Bucs advance in the Group IV, Section 2 state playoffs with victories over Irvington and Roxbury. In an independent battle, the Bucs defeated Secaucus 6-0.

Belleville, 19-5 and winner of five straight, was at Schools Stadium to face Barringer on Tuesday in the third round of the state tourney. If the Bucs won that game, they were to face the winner of Livingston-Scotch Plains match tomorrow at an undetermined site. If the Bucs lose the Barringer outing, they will host Kearny in a regularly scheduled game tomorrow.

The Bucs' schedule was loaded. Please see "Coco" on page 15.

Man of the Hour—Anthony Coco displays his hurling form. The Buc senior pitched the Blue-Gold baseball squad to some key victories this past week, including a 12-inning win over Bloomfield that brought Belleville into the finals of the Greater Newark Tournament for the second year in a row. Coco now sports a 6-3 record for the season.

Girls' softball squad refuses to let up as year winds down

By Mike Lamberti

As the season winds down for the Belleville softball team, one might think the squad has nothing left to shoot for. After all, the girls were defeated in the county and state tournaments and have their 16-7 record to content them, so they might tend to relax.

To the contrary, however. Carl Corino's squad has been playing inspired ball lately and made Mount St. Dominic's and Irvington its latest victims. The scores of those games were 12-1 and 16-1 respectively, with the latter contest lasting just five innings because Belleville had built up a 15-run lead.

This week, Corino's girls were host to Nutley on Tuesday and won by an 8-0 whitewash. They will travel to Kearny this afternoon for a 3:45 p.m. start. Yesterday, the girls were scheduled to play at West Orange. The team is hoping to make up a game against the tough Cougarettes of Columbia, but right now the chances for that game does not seem too bright. Should that contest not come off, today's match against Kearny will close out the 1981 season for Belleville.

Some revenge was in the forecast for the girls this week. The Buc ladies could hardly wait to get even for their earlier setback to Nutley, a 9-1 disaster toward the beginning of the season. Belleville also lost a heartbreaker to a 19-3 Kearny team, 2-1. The game with West Orange should also be pretty tough. "We would love to finish the year with a better mark than last season," Corino said. "We've been hitting the ball well recently and the girls are psyched for the big games coming up."

The girls were 18-8 last year and chances for improvement are definitely possible. As a matter of fact, Belleville is shooting for a 20-win season and if the Columbia game is played, the girls have a shot at that elusive mark.

Last week, the play of Nancy Coffey, Rosie Leonidis, Mona Stampe, Kim Indiero and Michelle Jeannotte led the girls to easy wins over Mount St. Dominic's and Irvington.

Against Irvington on Wednesday of last week, Dina DeAquino, the freshman hurling sensation, won her third game in three attempts by allowing just one Camper hit.

DeAquino has excellent speed on her fast ball but needs to work on her control a bit more. However, with three years still ahead of her, the chances are good that she will be one of the most highly regarded pitchers in the area and soon.

Luisa Dinis smacked her second homer of the season in the Camper game and catcher Tracey Bruno continued her fine defensive work and clutch hitting. Finally, who can Roadside Break — Lisa Aulisi takes a rest during track practice. The girls' team finished its season this past weekend at the state sectional tournament.

Please see "Softball" on page 14.

Cosmos' corner

The word slump is rarely used in the Cosmos' playbook but the team did hit a mini-slump last week, losing to Andreliet of Belgium and the Washington Diplomats. The Cosmos rebounded with a resounding 5-1 victory over the Dallas Tornados last Monday at Giants Stadium.

The Cosmos, now 9-3, will battle the tough Tampa Bay Rowdies this Saturday in Tampa Bay. Game time is 8:30 p.m. and the game can be seen on WOR-TV. The Cosmos will host Sao Paulo of Brazil next Wednesday in a 9 p.m. start.

In Andreliet, the Cosmos were up against one of the strongest teams in Europe. That fact was painfully obvious early in the game as the Belgium club clearly dominated play in the first 45 minutes. At halftime, the Cosmos trailed 2-0. In the second half, they scored when former Andreliet midfielder Francois Van Der Elst took a pass from Seninho and beat the Belgium goalkeeper to cut the deficit to 2-1. The Cosmos pressed the action late in the game, but the Belgium squad held on to win.

Cosmo Coach Hennis Weisweiler wasn't too upset with the outcome. "We played a very good team tonight," the coach said. "I think we held our own against them and with our injuries, I feel we gave a good account of ourselves."

Van Der Elst felt the Cosmos were indeed very impressive. "I don't feel they dominated us," the midfielder said. "They capitized on their two chances and we missed a number of good chances. Andreliet will go back knowing the Cosmos can play with any good team."

Last Friday, the Cosmos resumed their NASL schedule with a game against the second-place Washington Diplomats in Washington. The largest crowd of the year for the Dips saw an exciting game that ended in a 3-2 Washington victory. The Dips scored early and held on despite goals by Belleville hero Chico Borja and Roberto Cabanas.

The game with Dallas was over early as Cabanas enjoyed his finest day as a Cosmos player. The 20-year-old center forward scored four goals and had a fifth goal called back, and Wim Rjeisbergen scored his first Cosmos goal in leading the team to an easy win. The Dallas team fell to 2-10 with the setback.

Weisweiler was happy with the win. "Today, we played very well," the coach said. "I feel we played pretty well in Washington too, but we didn't convert on our opportunities."

Cabanas was happy with his performance for a number of reasons. First of all, he left Paraguay last week after joining his native country the World Cup trials. He was not happy there because he was sitting on the bench and he preferred to be playing for the Cosmos anyway. "Over there, the head coach just wanted to show off his players so they can sign with other teams," Cabanas said through an interpreter. "I am playing with the Cosmos and I don't need to be advertised to any other clubs. I went there to play, not to sit the bench."

Cabanas and teammate Julio Caesar Romero have clauses in their contracts that say they will return to their native country to play in any big games.

The Cosmos were without the services of Angelo DeBernardo, Seninho, Ricky Davis and Boris Bandov, who are out with injuries.

One player who isn't too happy these days is backup goalkeeper David Brcic. Brcic is indeed a fine talent and was extremely disappointed that he didn't see any action against Dallas or Andreliet.

"Dallas is probably the weakest team in the league right now," Brcic said. "I was disappointed that I didn't see any action and also disappointed some of the other players didn't see too much time." Asked about playing against Andreliet, Brcic replied, "I asked about playing a little bit there, but they said no."

Cosmos fans will remember that Brcic was forced into action back in 1979 when the Cosmos traded goaltender Jack Brand to Tulsa and Erol Yasin was injured. Brcic won seven of eight games, his only setback a shootout loss. He is a fine player and as he said, "I can play soccer. I really don't understand why I can't receive some playing time."

Buc rowers look sound in national competition

By Rich Leardo

The season may have ended in some slight disappointment for the Belleville High crews, but not enough to get to either the team or coach Sam Giuffrida. The Buc boys' eight crew took fifth in the semifinals while the girls grabbed fourth in the semis at the national races in Delaware this past weekend.

The disappointment stems from a feeling that the crews could have rowed somewhat better, but it is offset by the fact that the Buc shells were rowing above their heads since their shells were filled with underclassmen. To Giuffrida, the bitterness of the disappointment may turn to the sweetness of victory next season, as the experienced crew members will all be returning to guarantee one of the finest, most seasoned teams that Belleville has ever fielded.

"The kids gave 110 percent effort in the nationals," said Giuffrida, "and I have no complaints. They've been an excellent team to coach."

The meet was somewhat ironic in that Belleville finished behind some of the teams that it had beaten just the week before in the Mid-Hudson

Regatta. That was an indication that the Buc shells did not row as well as they might have.

The boys' competition was especially keen, with boats two through four finishing within two seconds of each other. Only the top two teams qualified for the finals, so the Bucs were knocked out of the running for the "grand final." Giuffrida admitted that the caliber of crews was "exceptionally high" and that the Bucs put up a respectable fight. Keep in mind also, that the Bucs were rowing against crews with a year's advantage in both age and experience.

As for the girls, they did exceedingly well in turning a fourth place in the semifinals, though they did not qualify for the grand final. The amazing fact behind the story is that half of the girls in the boat were freshmen. Giuffrida is looking for big things from them in the years to come. The coach added that much of the credit for their advancement must go to their coach, Mr. Fabian.

One drawback that both the Buc boys and girls were faced with during the competition was the fact that they drew lanes which carried a disadvantage. Most of the winners on the day came out of lanes one and two, several spaces from where the Belleville teams were starting. Teams which they had beaten just the week before had a big advantage this past weekend with the inside lanes, and several of them wound up besting the Bucs.

Looking into the future, Coach Giuffrida thinks that Belleville will be a team to be reckoned with in the near future, possibly even next season in the case of the boys especially. Since everyone on the varsity is returning, the Bucs may well live up to his expectations for them.

overlook the strong play of the very quiet first baseman named Mona Stampe? The curly-haired junior is hitting well over .400 and plays a very steady first base.

Debbie Jinks went the distance in Belleville 12-1 victory over Mount St. Dominic's last Monday. Belleville scored early and in every inning against its weaker opponents. The Buc ladies shelled the St. Dominic pitcher with a barrage of singles and hits down the lines to coast to the victory.

TAKING CARE OF YOURSELF

"Good thing you checked it out before it did you in."

Checking out your blood pressure really is a matter of life and death. Over 35 million Americans are walking around with this life-threatening disease without knowing it. And many will suffer the disastrous consequences: stroke, heart attack, heart failure or kidney failure.

The pity is, high blood pressure can be easily detected and controlled. The test is fast, easy and painless.

And the treatment is easy and painless, too.

So Blue Cross and Blue Shield urge you: check out your blood pressure. Make your loved ones do the same.

Your health is far too precious to take for granted.

And so is your life.

A plan for all seasons.

The Payroll Savings Plan

is one of the easiest, safest ways to get started on the saving habit. Even if saving has always seemed too difficult in past seasons. A little is automatically taken out of each paycheck toward the purchase of U.S. Savings Bonds. You'll never miss it, so you'll never spend it.

It just keeps growing for some coming spring, or maybe a warm vacation during a cold winter.

It's a plan for all seasons. For all Americans.

Take stock in America.

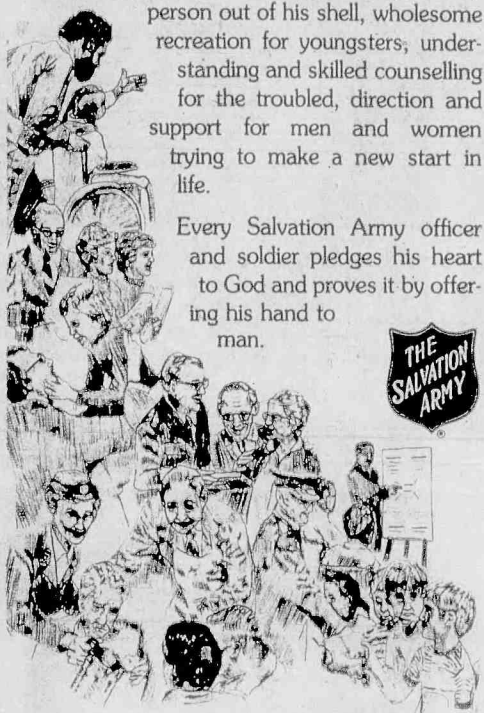

Heart to God Hand to Man

When a teenager feels there is no one to turn to. When a man or woman is drinking too much, but can't seem to stop. When the car breaks down and the family runs out of money on the way to a new job. When a child dreads the last day of school — because there won't be anything to do all summer. When an elderly person eats very little; it's disheartening to be alone so much. When a discharged prisoner finds himself out on the street — what next? When a deserted mother doesn't know how she is going to take care of the children. When disaster strikes — fire, flood, tornado — and a family is homeless.

Every day, the men and women of The Salvation Army reach out to the discouraged and desperate. They offer practical help to tide over a needy family, activities to bring a lonely, elderly person out of his shell, wholesome recreation for youngsters; understanding and skilled counselling for the troubled, direction and support for men and women trying to make a new start in life.

Every Salvation Army officer and soldier pledges his heart to God and proves it by offering his hand to man.

Heart attack or stroke could make the best years of your life the worst.

You have loved ones, a future, good health. It could all be lost with a heart attack or stroke. And that happens. Last year, nearly one million Americans died of heart disease and stroke. And 200,000 of them died before retirement age. The American Heart Association is fighting to reduce early death and disability from heart disease and stroke with research, professional and public education, and community service programs.

But more needs to be done. You can help us support research and education by sending your dollars today to your local Heart Association, listed in your telephone directory.

Put your money where your Heart is.

Nation unprepared militarily, Legion leader warns citizens

take advantage of it. "Then came World War II and we were using WW I guns. But we paid for our imperfection with the cost of thousands and thousands of human lives during those two wars," he continued, "and today the same problems exist.

"While we have cut down on our defense spending, the Soviet Union has continued to build up its armed forces," Ward said. "We must start to make an effort to catch up to the Russians and show our strength.

"None of us are interested in war," he continued, "but we must sacrifice in order to keep the U.S. strong and safe. In the words of former President Teddy Roosevelt who said, 'Speak softly and carry a big stick,' we should start wondering 'how soft are we speaking and how big is the stick.' It is right for us to remember the past, but we should start facing up to the future and what it would mean to the U.S. and the freedom it stands for."

Ward's speech was followed by a selection played by the Belleville High School band and the placing of flowers at the war monument by representatives of the veterans' posts. After the firing of a volley by the Post 275 firing squad, the benediction was offered by Rev. Cajeyan P. Salemi of St. Peter's Church.

Earlier in the day, the veterans' posts gathered at the Rutgers Street Bridge where an anchor wreath was placed on the Passaic River in memory of fallen servicemen. The bells of the Dutch Reform Church rang out after the Post 275 firing squad shot a volley.

The final ceremony of the day took place at Town Hall where the veterans' groups held a memorial service for all the deceased members of the Belleville Police and Fire Departments. After the playing of the national anthem, wreaths were placed at the police and fire monuments to end the program and the day's activities.

Other organizations besides VFW Posts 275 and 6265 which participated in the ceremonies were Belleville AMVETS Post 26, American Legion Post 105 and 299, Belleville-Nutley Disabled American Veterans Chapter 22, Italian-American War Veterans Post 7, the Catholic War Veterans, Belleville Police and Fire Departments and the Gold Star Mothers.

In an attempt to solve the problem, Mayor Michael Marotti and Commissioner Joseph McGreevy met with the Board of Freeholders early last year to discuss the situation and draw up some type of solution.

Now freeholders have decided to allocate nearly $80,000 for the construction of the parking lot, which should be completed by the end of the year.

"The situation in the area got pretty drastic," said Freeholder Piro. "The town came to us and told us that many of its residents were upset with the parking situation. During the summer months with all the softball leagues which take place in Belleville park, the parking became nearly impossible. I was hoping that the project would be started in the early summer months," Piro continued, "but the bids have not gone through as of yet and I don't think the project will start until late fall. It should be done, however, by the end of the year."

"This is the result of the efforts of many people who had the energy and determination to see the project through," said Freeholder Greco. "The Board of Freeholders wants to especially thank Julie Benenati for bringing to the fore this pressing need. Without her labor and valuable counsel, it wouldn't have been possible."

Public hearings on the project are tentatively scheduled for Aug. 17.

Marines promote Esposito on merit

Frank Esposito, son of Joseph and Angelina Esposito of 45 Linden Ave., has been meritoriously promoted to the rank of Marine private first class after graduation from recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

He received the early promotion for his superior performance during all phases of the 11-week training cycle, which emphasized physical conditioning, self-discipline and teamwork.

A 1977 graduate of Essex Catholic High School, Newark, he joined the Marine Corps in October 1981.

Jennifer V. Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Harvey Sr. of 10 Quinton St., has been promoted in the U.S. Army to the rank of first lieutenant.

Miss Harvey is a medical operations assistant platoon leader at Fort Riley, Kan.

Airman Thomas Hunt, son of William Hunt of 553 Washington Ave., and Edith Sarno of 14 Shoreland Terrace, East Keansburg, has been assigned to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

During his six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, Hunt studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Hunt will now receive specialized instruction in the aircraft maintenance field.

League applications must be in by June 1

Silvestri said that most of the coaches preferred the Irons Hills Conference over the NJISL because the teams involved could be easily reached from Route 280. Also the coaches liked the competition provided and saw the chance for more cable TV access.

Teams in the Iron Hills Conference include Columbia and other teams from the Morris County area, and the NNJISL includes Bloomfield and Bergen County teams.

The Athletic Advisory Board backed the decision of the School Board, saying that joining a league would be a benefit to the community, the school system and especially the students.

The School Board stressed that although it approved the filing of applications, a final decision on whether to join a league or not would not be made until all the leagues gave their final replies. That is expected sometime in October. Belleville would not be able to join a league until the start of the 1982-83 school year. This year Silvestri says he has most of his schedule completed.

Several area schools had or are looking into the possibility of applying for the leagues. They include Nutley, Clifton, Passaic, East Orange, Barringer and Bergen Catholic.

One question which came from trustee Tom Zampino had to do with the continuation of traditional rivalries. Zampino was concerned that in joining a league, Belleville may be locking itself into playing only league teams, therefore, eliminating matchups against Nutley and Kearny.

"That is possible," said Silvestri, "but we have already lost Bloomfield and we may lose Kearny, because they are joining the Watchung Conference and may not be able to play us any longer. Scheduling is a headache we don't need. We are trying to make the Belleville athletic program one of the best in the state and the scheduling slows us down."

Silvestri said he would get the applications in by the June 1 deadline.

Town Republicans silent compared to Democrats

supporting the entire Democratic "D" line which includes Assemblyman Buddy Fortunato, Senator Carmen Orechio, freeholders-at-large Jerome Greco, Adrienne Davis, Joseph Parlavecchio and Thomas Giblin, County Surrogate Nicholas R. Amato of Belleville is also on the "D" line.

All the organizational candidates running for the 48 Democratic county committeemen seats here are expected to win re-election, and only one is opposed.

Republicans, as usual, have been extremely quiet here. Town Chairman Jerry Ferrara has endorsed Kean but there has been little activity for any GOP candidate here, and only one has made an appearance. Essex Fells businessman Bo Sullivan was in town last Tuesday on a brief campaign swing. State Sen. James Wallwork and former prosecutor Richard McGlynn have picked up a smattering of support.
