Arcades Possible

Video Game Laws Undergo Changes

By Linda Telesco

Commissioners revised Belleville's amusement machine regulation last week by approving two measures altering age and zoning restrictions previously in effect.

Township Attorney Frank Zinna predicted the board's action would lead to dismissal of a pending two-year old court complaint, Hodes Vs. Belleville, in which a merchant challenged previous restrictions.

In the past, Zinna said, Belleville's zoning code limited commercial establishments to three amusement games, including pinball, machines, and similar games.

Also, the old ordinance read that a parent or guardian must accompany anyone under the age of 19 operating an amusement machine.

"We haven't changed those restrictions drastically, but have altered the ordinances to permit the possibility of amusement arcades," Zinna said.

One of the newly adopted measures amends the township's 1980 ordinance providing for licensing and regulation of the amusement machines which contained the age restrictions.

The new regulation prohibits any person under 18 from operating the games before 3 p.m. on Belleville school days.

Commissioners also amended the zoning ordinance to permit establishments more than three amusement machines if certain parking and area conditions were met.

According to Zinna, the rules designate certain areas in the township as appropriate for such machines. Also, there must be 60-square feet of operating area for each amusement device. That area excludes parts of the premises used for other purposes but includes access and walkways.

There must also be a minimum floor area of 1,500 square feet for each establishment and a maximum area of not more than 30 percent of gross floor area in the establishment devoted to the amusement devices.

The measure also prohibits locating the devices within 300 feet of a church or other religious institutions or of a school or playground.

The township attorney explained a case challenging Belleville's old regulations pending before Newark Judge Paul Thompson and will now probably be dismissed as moot.

The judge delayed decision pending outcome of a Supreme Court hearing on a similar issue in a Texas community.

In that case, the high court ruled last summer that minors have a legitimate right to play the amusement games. Coupled with that is recognition that the amusement devices are, as Zinna said, "a legitimate business enterprise that have a right to exist and be appropriately policed rather than just phased out."

Both amendments were approved unanimously by Commissioners.

Spillane Elected Vice President

Trustees Choose Grace Purdue New Head of Board of Education

During its annual reorganizational meeting, the Board of Education elected, for the first time ever, a woman president while denying a second term vice presidency to another woman.

Grace Purdue, serving her second year on the board, was elected president by a unanimous vote Monday night. Purdue will replace John DiStasi who was re-elected to the board last week.

Communication and visibility are the goals of Purdue's presidency. She says she will try to improve communication between the board, school officials and voters. "I am going to be a visible president," Purdue added.

Trustees deadlocked in a vote between Donna Rainone and Charles Miele for the vice presidency. After a brief recess, the trustees returned to elect Thomas Spillane as the vice president by a 4-2 vote.

Rainone held the vice president's post last year.

Charles Miele was nominated for the vice president's spot by Purdue. Her reaction to the board's failure to elect her choice was disappointment seasoned with hope. "I think I can work with anyone," she commented.

Spillane was surprised by his election to the vice president's seat. However, his surprise did not diminish his feeling of satisfaction. He said he was honored by the election.

Swearing in ceremonies for the board members elected last week were also held Monday night. Gabe Nazzola, who was successful in his second attempt at a board seat, took the oath of office at the meeting along with incumbent DiStasi. Incumbent Dr. Anthony D'Agostino will take the oath at the next public meeting.

Penalties Are Approved For Non-snow Removers

By Linda Telesco

Spring fever reached a heated pitch at Town Hall last week when commissioners approved a measure extending penalties for citizens who fail to remove winter snow and ice from their sidewalk by authorizing the municipality to clear the obstructed walks at cost to the negligent offender.

Despite strong objections from citizens present to the new provision,

Commissioners voted 3-2 in favor of the measure which is an amendment to the township's 1974 ordinance providing for removal of obstructions from local sidewalks.

Mayor Michael Marotti and Commissioners Matthew Pica and Vincent Strumolo favored the measure. Opposing were Joseph McGreevy and Mary Senatore.

"We don't need this law," cried activist citizen Joseph Fornarotto, who had at past meetings, urged the board to remedy the wintry hazards. "We already have a snow removal ordinance," he added. "We should just enforce that one."

He referred to the existing law requiring property owners to clear their walks of snow and ice within 24 hours of a storm's end under threat of receiving a summons.

Despite the measure, many walks in Belleville remained snow covered several days last winter. The new law would permit the township, after allowing a property owner sufficient time to comply with a summons, to clear the sidewalks and in turn levy the charge for the service against the property owner.

Further, the amendment prohibits citizens from depositing snow or ice onto township roads and sidewalks.

Commissioners said Belleville plows were hampered in their work because residents shoveled out their driveways and sidewalks and dumped the snow right back onto plowed streets.

Violations carry penalties of fines up to $500 or prison sentences up to 90 days or both.

Fornarotto complained such a regulation would burden the elderly needlessly. However, he took particular exception to the portion of the ordinance authorizing municipal workers to clear walks "under the direction of the appropriate official of the Department of Public Works

Brothers Are Captured In Drug Raid

Belleville detectives executed a search and arrest this past Monday night and charged two brothers with possession of cocaine and marijuana.

The two brothers, ages 22 and 20, live on Howard Place. Detectives made the arrests after a two-month stake out of the home. The surveillance and arrests were part of the ongoing drug crackdown program here.

Both brothers were charged with possession of marijuana. The older brother was also charged with possession of cocaine, possession of hashish, possession of drug paraphernalia and the sale of marijuana.

Bail was set for the two young men at $15,000. The brothers were detained in police headquarters and will be arraigned before the Essex County Grand Jury on April 27.

Detectives involved in the arrest were Det. Joe Rotunda, Det. Joe Tortorello and Det. Sgt. Michael Petrillo.

"There will be many more arrests to come," warned Det. Sgt. Petrillo.

The fingerprinting of Belleville elementary school students will begin by the end of the month and be completed by early June, to school and police officials announced this week.

The program will get underway on April 25 at School 3 and will be completed on June 10 at School 10, with the procedure taking one week at each school.

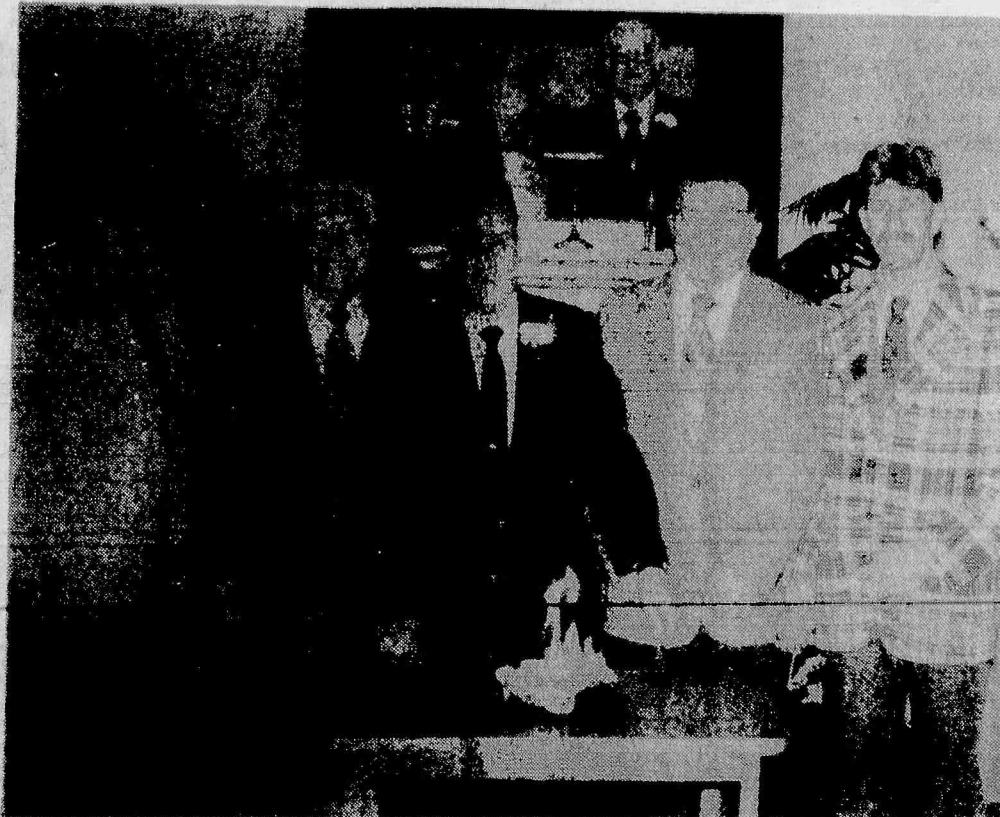

The fingerprinting of Belleville students attending parochial schools will be announced as soon as arrangements are completed.

The schedule for the program is as follows: School 3, 400 students, April 25-29; School 4, 270 students, May 2-6; School 5, 380 students, May 9-13; School 7, 395 students, May 16-20; School 8, 415 students, May 23-27; School 9, 150 students, May 31-June 3, and School 10, 170 students, June 6-10.

Thursday evening appointments will be available for parents or guardians who want to be present, but are unable to attend their child's fingerprinting session during daytime hours. The hours on Thursdays will be from 7-9 p.m. If the evening time is desired, parents are asked to indicate on the permission slip.

No child will be fingerprinted unless a parent or guardian's permission is obtained.

Upon completion the card will be held and controlled by parent. The (Please see "Elementary" on page 18.)

Mortgage Burning — Members of the Assembly of God on Holmes Street at Hornblower Avenue Sunday celebrated the final payment on the mortgage for the church parsonage with an afternoon dinner program in the church hall. # The Wall Tumbles Down On Nardone's Villa Capri

The weight of the statues and other objects of art that Angelo Nardone has continued to pile the past 20 years on top of a wall surrounding his Villa Capri, proved too heavy for the ground weakened by last weekend's heavy rains.

"The walls have come tumbling down. It may look like a bomb hit, but you have to admit — it adds character to the place," Nardone said as he surveyed the damage Monday morning.

While Nardone wasn't upset with the fact his Villa Capri was literally crumbling apart along Franklin Avenue at the Belleville-Nutley boundary, local officials were concerned.

Even before the rains stopped Sunday evening, police at the scene were asking that debris completely blocking the sidewalk and a portion of the street be removed. The street was made passable. Nardone reacted calmly.

"I'll clean the sidewalk tomorrow," he said.

Police then called official inspectors to the scene who determined there was no real emergency. But as of last Tuesday night, Angelo Nardone still had not finished his sidewalk cleaning chores.

"He's picking through the debris by hand, separating the rocks from a piece of a statue which he then puts aside and dusts off," said one town inspector who's been watching the scene.

Nardone is not quite sure about the future of the Villa Capri, which is cluttered with pieces of art he's created from stone and leather and those which he's salvaged from demolition projects throughout the metropolitan area.

The Villa Capri was once an out-of-the-way coffee house which in the 1960's even featured a weekly live radio broadcast by New York's WBAI and regular theatrical offerings on a small stage.

He served Italian coffees and delicacies and would often offer a complimentary glass of wine to friends or even strangers whom he thought were truly appreciative of the classical arts.

But Nardone's own love of music and the arts so preoccupied his life that he considered compliance with local town ordinances an interference. He still feels the same way today.

He was brought before the municipal court in both Belleville and Nutley several times on a variety of charges ranging from cluttering the sidewalks to health code violations in his kitchen. Nutley once charged him with stealing wood for his fireplace from the Town Garage. But he appealed that verdict to N.J. Superior Court and won.

One Halloween night in the 1960's, Nardone closed his Villa to the public and sponsored a private costume party. Since guests chipped in for the evening, which included wine, town officials raided the premises and closed down the Villa on charges of dispensing liquor without a license. That charge was later overturned by the courts.

In fact, Nardone won all of his court challenges except the last one in which he pressed charges against more than a dozen local officials, including all members of the Nutley Board of Commissioners.

Nardone charged them all as being part of a conspiracy to close down his Villa Capri. He asked for $16 million in damages, and vowed should he win his case, he'd build a massive castle at the end of Franklin Avenue "which would be a home for poor artists everywhere." That was the court case Angelo Nardone lost.

The coffee house never reopened, although even this week, as he picked through the debris at his Villa Capri, he talked about "fixing the place up right" and reopening for business.

During the past decade or so, Nardone has supported himself because of his discovery of a secret process which enables him to carve artistic patterns and scenes on to large pieces of leather.

"I'm the only person on earth who can do this," he says as he displays hundreds of belts, pocketbooks and boots which he's crafted with his secret process.

But then he paused and surveyed the sunken Villa and the crumbled wall.

"Maybe if I could just find a buyer, I could sell everything — all of this — and then go back to Rome and do my leather there."

Drug tolerance results in the body's needing a higher dose to get the same response as previously attained. Tolerance can result from specific antagonistic enzymes in the body which detoxify the drug. Or, the body's cells may simply become less sensitive to a drug. A possible danger arises because the body may more rapidly tolerate beneficial effects of a drug while adverse effects are slowly tolerated. In the case of some sleeping pills, the margin of error between an effective dose and a lethal dose may be largely reduced. For this reason, great care and consultation with a physician must be observed.

School Board Election

The voters performed as most observers of the local School Board scene expected — they re-elected Dr. Anthony D'Agostino and incumbent John DiStasi and elected Gabe Nazzola who was making his second attempt to win a School Board seat. A former board trustee, Ernest Zoppi, lost by 106 votes.

Belleville voters this time were confronted with four supremely qualified candidates. It is unfortunate that only three seats were available, for Zoppi would have proven to be, as he has in the past, an able member of the School Board.

Most of all, we congratulate the winners and the losers on the quality of campaigning that is not often seen in Belleville elections.

They established high campaign standards — addressing themselves to issues, with the campaign bereft of personality discussions. This result is a proud day for Belleville. The tone of campaigning has reached a new high in Belleville.

Another historical event happened in Belleville. The budget was approved by the widest margins — by the way — only the second time in 21 years that voters approved the school budget. We hope these results — the high quality of campaigning and approval of the school budget, mean that voters and candidates recognize that the cornerstone of a community's life quality is a good educational system governed by a harmonious board that is out to serve the best interests of the students at the lowest possible cost to taxpayers.

Nuclear Freeze

Congress is currently considering a resolution which directs the Government of the United States to seek a mutual freeze on nuclear weapons.

The SANE organization has been in the forefront of this effort for many years. History proves that the objective of SANE was right on target. The insane nuclear competition between the United States and Russia is out of hand. The nuclear arsenals of both countries are so large that all the people of the world could be killed many times over and still leave an inventory of nuclear weapons untouched.

President Reagan is perceived to be on a course to increase the nuclear power of the United States — his posturing notwithstanding. A meaningful mutual freeze and adequate inspection is necessary to preserve this world for generations still unborn.

The arms race is very costly. There is nothing constructive about it. The billions of dollars spent on defense would be more than adequate to take care of the world's helpless poor.

We support the nuclear freeze effort and hope Congress will get to the business of approving a resolution very quickly.

Frank A. Orechio

Letters in Print

All They Wanted Was a Little Help

To the editor:

I've wanted to write this letter for a long time now. It's about a little help I asked for on a Monday evening in November.

We called our plumber to our home because we noticed some water around our traps in the cellar. On checking out the problem the plumber informed us the problem was coming from the street. He went outside and checked the sewer in front of our house. It was filled almost to the top. He told us to call the water department right away and report it. We called the Public Works Department and had to tell our problem to a recording machine. We then called the police department and they told us we had to call the Public Works Department because that was the only number they had to refer us to. We made a couple of more calls to the water works and gave our frantic problems to the machine. By about 12 a.m. the water subsided and seemed to be drying up. During the night we kept checking to make sure there wasn't anymore water in the cellar. The problem seemed to be ours. Of course we got no response from the Public Works Department about our problem at all during the night. About 7 a.m. the next morning, we called the water works department and were told by whomever answered the phone that as soon as the crew came in they would come and take a look at the cellar. About 10 minutes later all hell broke loose. Water started pumping into my cellar and raw sewerage and mountains of toilet paper came flowing in. We called the fire department which responded immediately. They contacted the Public Works Department. At about 7:45 that morning the work crew arrived. Some of them pumped the sewer out on Belleville Avenue and that solved the problem immediately. Some of the other men on the crew took notes and wrote down the damage they saw. They also mentioned that someone must have forgot to check the recording machine because they knew nothing about our problem till they arrived at work that morning. All toll we had to wait eight hours from our many calls we had made to the department before anyone would help us. And all it took was about 10 minutes of work just pumping the sewer down the street.

When I called Mrs. Senatore's office that morning to let her know about our problem, I was informed she wouldn't be coming into work that day as she was sick.

I was literally sick to my stomach for two days afterward. We all cried at all the damage done to our almost completed cellar. All the damage came to about $1,000, including two weeks of work cleaning and sanitizing. My insurance company couldn't pay me because they said the water came from an outside source. When I wrote the town a letter and they said they would submit it for me, I was informed 30 days later that their insurance company after careful consideration "that the town is not responsible to continually check the main sewer line, although they try to provide prompt service when these incidents do occur."

The night we called the department continuously to check our main sewer line we got no response whatsoever. If the town does not provide emergency service to citizens in an emergency, then when does it! Who will pay us for all our damage done if the town doesn't feel responsible? What kind of connection do we need down at town hall in order to get the service we are entitled to? We only asked for help!!

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Frances Trabucco

Students Are Praised For Conduct

To the editor:

On Thursday, April 7, the seventh grade students of Belleville Middle School attended a private showing of the new movie, "The Outsiders." This movie is a film version of the novel by S.E. Hinton and read by most of the students as part of the seventh grade reading curriculum.

The enthusiasm from both students and teachers was evident from the very beginning and we were all looking forward to an enjoyable and informative morning together. It was a wonderful day. The students enjoyed the movie immensely, but best of all was the exemplary behavior of the students. We, as their teachers and chaperons, are truly proud of them.

Sincerely,

She's Throwing Support Behind Joe Fornarotto

Joseph Fornarotto is a candidate for one of the seats in the Township of Belleville's upcoming Commission election scheduled for May 10. Belleville is a town which Joe believes in. He is one of the most electrifying candidates this town has seen in a long time. He is electrifying because he cares.

Joe Fornarotto is the kind of "guy" you usually read about, but because of our hectic schedules, seldom meet. When you meet Joe, you can feel his dynamic character. A trait which gets him out to township meetings to act as the eyes and ears of all the townspeople. A trait which guides him to seek out any and all information which is for a better Belleville. A brighter and better Belleville.

D'Agostino Says Thanks

To the editor:

I take this opportunity to thank the citizens of Belleville for re-electing me to the Belleville Board of Education.

The elation and joy shared by my family and the committee are most gratifying. This jubilation we are experiencing is further accelerated by being the top vote recipient and the passing of the budget.

I have always possessed a deep respect for the electorate of Belleville. This respect, in conjunction with the democratic process of wisely exercising one's vote, has further reinforced my faith in all the citizens of Belleville.

Therefore, I recommit myself to my constituents. I shall continue to "vote my conscience" and continue to offer my expertise and knowledge in the formulation of policy that will best serve the students and citizens of Belleville.

Please permit me to conclude with a quote from William Shakespeare:

"This above all, to thine own self be true, and it must follow, as the night the day, Thou canst not then be false to any man."

Very truly yours,
Dr. Anthony D'Agostino

Golden Comments

By James R. Golden

How will the major changes in the Social Security bill affect you? For employers and employees the tax, currently 6.7 percent, will rise to 7 percent next year, 7.15 percent in 1986, 7.51 percent in 1988 and 7.65 percent in 1990. The wage base against which the tax applies, currently $35,700, rises automatically with national average wages.

The measure would allow employees to offset their 1984 payroll-tax increase with a one-year credit of .3 percent of payroll. This credit is refundable, which means those without enough other taxes against which to apply it could get it in the form of a check from the Treasury.

This means the effective rate for 1984 would remain at 6.7 percent, but the Social Security trust funds would be credited by the Treasury for the full 7 percent, which means that the .3 percentage-point difference would come from the general treasury. This backdoor general-fund infusion would amount to $5 billion. Altogether, the payroll-tax increases would add about $39.4 billion to the Social Security trust funds during the decade.

The self-employed would pay a higher payroll tax with part of that offset with a tax credit. Currently paying 75 percent of the combined rate of employees and employers. The new bill will increase that to 100 percent. But the measure effectively would reduce the tax during the decade through a credit against the payroll tax. The credit would amount to 2.7 percent of payroll in 1984, 2.3 percent in 1985, 2 percent in 1986 through 1989. Thereafter, the credit would be replaced by an alteration in self-employed payroll taxes that conferees said would be more generous than continuing the credit.

The credit reduces the payroll tax for the self-employed by a percentage-point amount equaling the credit. Thus, when the credit is 2.7 percent of payroll, the payroll tax — 14 percent next year, for example — would be reduced 2.7 percentage points, to 11.3 percent.

Benefit taxes: For the first time, some benefits of generally well-to-do retirees will be subject to tax. The tax, collected by the Treasury as part of the income tax and then credited to the Social Security trust funds.

This is how it will work: A portion of Social Security benefits will be subject to tax if half of overall benefits coupled with other income, exceeded a "base amount." For individuals, that base will be $25,000; For joint returns, $32,000.

The amount of benefits subject to taxation will be the lesser of half of the benefits or half of the taxpayer's combined applicable income (all outside income plus half of Social Security benefits) that exceeded the base amount. This formula has the effect of phasing in the tax as income rises above the base amount. The amount of Social Security benefits taxable would be half of the benefits. The bill requires inclusion of tax-free income in calculation of the base amount.

The bill postpones cost-of-living increases from July 1 to Jan. 1, 1984. Raises the retirement age to 66 by the year 2009 and to 67 by 2027. State and local government employees will not be allowed to opt out. The 900,000 employees of non-profit organizations who are not already members will be required to get in. The president, vice president, federal judges and members of Congress, previously exempt, would also be brought into the system next January.

Curbs will be put on "Windfall benefits" by changing the formula used to compute benefit levels for people who gain Social Security rights after spending most of their careers in non-Social Security employment. By subsequently working a relatively short periods of employment covered by Social Security, they become eligible for what many consider overly generous Social Security-benefits. It will apply to people reaching age 60 after Dec. 31.

The retirement earnings test is liberalized...a retiree who is less than 70 will only have benefits reduced $1 for every $3 income above the base amount, now $6,600. There is a bonus increase in retirement benefits available to people who delay retirement beyond age 65.

Beginning next year all new federal employees will be covered by Social Security. The early retirement age will stay at 62, but benefit levels eventually will fall to 70 percent of full benefits from the current 80 percent. The Treasury will be required to credit to the Social Security trust funds at the beginning of each month the revenue expected that month. Currently, that revenue is credited as it is received. Unashed checks would be credited to the trust funds rather than the Treasury, as they have been. Widens eligibility for benefits for divorced or disabled women.

Heavy Penalties Are in Store For the Lazy Snow Shovelers

and the cost of such removal as nearly as can be ascertained shall be certified by such official to the governing body."

After approval by Commissioners, those costs would be levied, in addition to any exacted fines, against the offending property owner in the form of a lien.

Fornarotto complained the new rule could be costly to taxpayers if Public Works employees must be paid for the additional duties. "You should have just enforced the ordinance you already have," he said.

Apparently annoyed by the outburst, Pica — who sponsored the amendment — said to the citizen "you brought this matter up yourself and we're trying to correct it. Get lost," Pica said to Fornarotto who charged the police had not been issuing summonses last winter.

Pica said the snow removal would be performed "at the hourly rate" for the employees assigned to the job. Public Works Commissioner Mary Senatore added the rate depended on who was available to be assigned, admitting a higher paid employee might sometimes be the only one to send.

Township Attorney Frank Zinna explained to other citizens who agreed with Fornarotto's complaints that the elderly would not suddenly suffer extreme consequences. "We just amended the original ordinance to put some teeth into it," the attorney said, noting the harsher penalties could be "selectively imposed" on serious chronic offenders.

"We don't have to enforce this on every single person within 24 hours of a snowfall," Zinna said.

Taking a firm stand, Mayor Michael Marotti noted, "from now on we'll fine them once then clear the walks ourselves."

Following the session, McGreevy said he opposed the measure "because there is definite nothing about it, no rates or anything."

Senatore also said the amendment was "not carefully prepared." She added, "I didn't like the idea of Public Works doing the removal," and said she didn't know anything about that part of the ordinance until the evening of the meeting.

"This is just another ordinance on the books that won't be enforced," she predicted.

Dear Umberto,
We are two sisters who color each other's hair. We use the same formula. As a matter of fact, we use one big bottle for both of us.
I blame my sister for making my hair reddish. I told her that she does not know how to apply the formula. She blames me for the front of her hair turning ashy red and the back brownish red. We have been arguing with each other ever since this happened. Please resolve this problem since we both have complete faith in you.

Two Blaming Sisters
Dear Blaming Sisters:
Thank you for your faith in me. Usually I don't get myself involved between two fighting sisters, but since this appears to be a technical problem, I can explain what happened.
What occurred is a chemical reaction on two different textures of hair and pigments of hair — one reacting as reddish ashy blonde in front where she obviously has gray hair, and darker brown in back where he has reddish pigment. So don't blame each other since it is a normal chemical reaction to your different types of hair. Use a little Drabber in your mixture to kill the red pigment. On the gray sections in front, try a darker shade with Drabber.
If you don't understand, please visit my studio and I will demonstrate how to mix each free of charge. Umberto

The headache is America's Number One malady. We take literally tons of aspirins every day in the effort to find relief from pain. Notice that no pill or potion ever promises more than "temporary relief" and many people settle for that because they don't know what else to do.
Headache is a symptom...a warning that something is wrong. The true cause of the pain could be any one of hundreds of things. The objective of chiropractic is to determine the cause of trouble and treat it, not the symptoms that show up.
Could chiropractic provide permanent relief for your chronic headaches? A chiropractic examination will determine the facts. Phone us.

School Board President Denies Charges Of 'Politicking' For Top Board Position

By Ed Capparucci

Thirty Years Ago

Board of Education President Eugene J. Kelly denied charges of "politicking" by another trustee, Raymond McCann, during a board meeting.

Kelly viewed his side when he was asked by James Golden if a meeting had taken place two years ago at Mayor James Tully's home, and did Tully select Kelly as president of the board and Max N. Schwartz, as board attorney at the time.

"The meeting which you are referring to was called by McCann and not the mayor," answered Kelly,

"and it was called with the understanding that all the members were invited. But only Walter Loesner, McCann and myself were present."

"McCann conducted the meeting saying, 'Gene, you and I and Walt can control the Board of Education. You can be president this year, provided you agree the three of us will make the decisions before each meeting, if you will give me the right to name the members of the Athletic Council and if you agree that I be president next year,'" Kelly continued.

"I told him that as much as I would like to be president of the board, I would not take the job under those circumstances," Kelly said. "He then threatened to go to other board members with the same proposal."

"I have done nothing wrong," he said. "McCann has. He is the one who has tried to make a political football game out of the Board of Education."

Twenty-five Years Ago

The Board of Commissioners voted to reserve a piece of property which was owned by the board at the corner of Franklin Avenue and Chestnut Street for the site of a new firehouse, which has been under consideration for several years. The resolution was passed after much furor and name calling at the meeting. Several commissioners stated that the resolution smelled of "politics" and that an alternative site would have been better suited.

A gang war was narrowly averted with the busting of four youths and six juveniles who were loitering at Valley and Williams streets. The fight was to have been in retaliation for the beating of several of the gang members by another gang located in Newark. The police picked up the youths, who were carrying baseball bats, clubs and rubber hoses.

Twenty Years Ago

Mrs. Thomas McCool, a Board of Education member, said an unidentified party had attempted to bribe her. She declined to identify the party or what he had tried to bribe her to do, but she said the information was taken to the prosecutor's office for investigation.

McCool also ran into problems with her fellow board members when she tried to pass a resolution calling for all meetings of the board to be open to the public, except when the trustees unanimously vote to go into closed session. Other trustees said the resolution was similar to one in effect, with the exception of the voting procedure. Several board members also suggested that McCool "do herself and the community of Belleville a favor," by resigning from her seat.

Dennis Carey, Essex County Democratic Leader, said he would move slowly in selecting the new Democratic leader of Belleville.

The 48 members of the town's Democratic committee met and cast 24 votes for incumbent Harry Sullivan and 24 votes for George Adonizio. A tie can only be broken by the county chairman.

Andra Gale Denko, a 19-year-old blonde from Irvington, was named Miss Cherry Blossom 1963, during the annual Cherry Blossom Pageant held at Belleville High School.

Ten Years Ago

Mayor Joseph McGreevy was tapped by the Essex County Republican Party screening committee as a candidate for the New Jersey Assembly race.

It was announced that McGreevy would run in the newly arranged 30th district with Kolin Johnson of Kearny, an executive for Provident Mutual Life Insurance.

Making an early assessment on his chances for success in the heavily-Democratic district, McGreevy said, "I think we have a 50-50 chance."

Three members of the Board of Education showed their displeasure at Town Treasurer Francis McCoy's opposition to their use of surplus funds, when McCoy's proposed $100 raise came before the board.

In a 4-3 vote, McCoy won the raise to $1,000 a year for his position as custodian of school monies. Matthew Pica, Norma McCool and Caesar Romano voted against the hike, while James Risoli, G. Fred Burlazzi, Richard Mahmahrian and board President Larry Schwartz, voted in favor of the raise.

The quarrel over McCoy's raise stems from a move in February by the Board of Education to remove $157,487 from the school's surplus and apply it to cover operating deficits in the 1972-73 school budget. McCoy questioned the legality of the transfer, saying the School Board had made commitments to spend the money that was not available.

After a string of unsuccessful attempts to open Board of Education meetings to the public, school Trustee Matthew Pica won his battle — temporarily.

The board voted 5-0, with two abstentions, to try Pica's suggestion once a month, for an indefinite period of time.

The first executive session of the board each month will be open to the public. No citizens will be able to offer remarks and matters involving personnel will not be discussed.

One Year Ago

John DiStasi, starting his third year on the School Board, was elected as president of the board by a 5-2 vote, over former board vice president Dr. Anthony D'Agostino. Thomas Spillane, starting his second year on the board, was elected as vice president. Grace Purdue, who placed first in the School Board election, was sworn-in as a new board trustee.

The Board of Commissioners performed minor surgery on the School Board's $15.1 million budget which was rejected by voters. The Town Fathers trimmed $135,000 from the budget in an unusually brief special session.

Health Van Coming Here On April 27

Commissioner Vincent T. Strumolo, director of the Department of Public Affairs, reminds residents of the "Health-Wise" program coming to Belleville.

On Wednesday, April 27, a mobile health van, owned and operated by the New Jersey Hospital Association, will be parked directly in front of the health department (corner of Washington Avenue and Joralemon Street) between the hours of 9 a.m. and noon. All who are interested are invited to visit it.

The van, called "Health-Wise," is staffed by a health educator, and is equipped with individual booths where participants may view films, film strips, and slides, or where they may listen to audio-cassettes. The subject selected by the health department for emphasis is "Cancer — how we can help prevent it, latest methods of treatment, and up-to-date information on the prospects for its eventual eradication."

Mobile Educator — Commissioner Vincent Strumolo has announced that a mobile health van, owned by the N.J. Hospital Association, is coming to Belleville on April 27. The van will be parked in front of the health department and will educate people on the dangers of cancer. Test will be available.

WalkAmerica is Set For Sunday Morning

When the clocks "spring forward" this weekend, so will an estimated 3,000 citizens of Essex County, including 13 students from Belleville and 72 team walkers from Wallace & Tiernan, will be taking part in the 12th annual March of Dimes WalkAmerica.

The 30-kilometer trek will begin at 9 a.m., this Sunday, April 24 at five starting points: Branch Brook Skating Rink, Newark; Brookdale Park, Bloomfield; West Essex High School, North Caldwell; Livingston Memorial Park and Maplewood Junior High School.

Walkers will be served a free lunch of hot dogs, coke and cookies along the route which ends at Verona Park. Teams of employees from 61 companies will take part in the team walk component of the walk.

Birth defects are the country's number one child health problems, striking 250,000 babies every year. Money collected from WalkAmerica pledges will assist March of Dimes programs of research, medical services and education. Here in Essex County, funds will be used to support research at New Jersey Medical School, educational materials on Genetics and Professional Education programs for physicians and nurses. Students will have the special incentive of a chance at winning an Apple II computer for their school donated by Prodigy Computer Centers of East Hanover to the school that raises the most money per student.

It's not too late to sign up to walk

Friendly Visitors Laud Volunteers

The Friendly Visitors Program of Community Mental Health Services of Belleville, Bloomfield and Nutley wants to join with other communities across the country in honoring their Belleville volunteers during National Volunteer Week, April 17-23.

"Our volunteers have given many hours of enthusiastic and dedicated service to the homebound elderly in the area," said Martha Angelone of the Friendly Visitors. "Their caring relationships that have developed through daily telephoning and/or weekly visits have done much to relieve the loneliness that accompanies isolation. They provide a vital link to the community and its services, and through their contacts help the homebound to remain in the community."

Special thanks go to the following volunteers for their friendships with understanding: Antoinette D'Acunti, Anthony Nardiello, Frances Gerino, Bill Rundle, Marietta Signorin, Susan McTeigue, Norma Vitiello, Felicia Falzarano, Una Simon, Sue Leonardo, Fred D'Ambola, Carol Halek and Anna Chiavini.

Lawn Gone?

Time to call Lawn King

All lawns need an annual program of lawn care and every program must contain both granular and spray. Some chemicals work better when applied in a granular form, and others, like weed controls and post emergent crab grass controls, work better in a liquid form. All lawns also require periodic aeration and seed, but only Lawn King gives all these via LAWN COMBINE & SPRAY — THE BETTER WAY! WE KNOW IT'S THE ONLY WAY!!!

LAWN KING ANNUAL PROGRAM

We are chemical applicators, not miracle workers. We know what your lawn needs and when it needs it. What you see in the program, is what you get. Top quality chemicals and seed — only the best — that's all we use. There's no such thing as specially formulated for drought.

Aeration, seed and lime are part of our program. Fungus controls and grub controls have always been part of our program — not options at extra cost when you need them. By the time you know you need them it's too late anyway. No slopes please. If we can't aerate twice a year we can't help you.

OPTIONAL PREPARATORY SERVICE

Call us today — within 10 days your lawn will be serviced and we'll leave you an invoice. We will also leave you a lawn analysis, the cost for the complete program and the cost per service. Someone will call to discuss the lawn with you. There's a one time charge if you need any extras like a preparatory service, extra seed or additional lime. We'll tell you what you need. We may not be the cheapest lawn service around but we are the only ones who give your lawn everything it needs at a price you can afford to pay. You can figure your costs from the chart below. No contracts to sign, no guarantees, no promises, no slopes, and no nonsense. Pay from service to service or prepay for the year and we'll give you a 5% discount too!

If you compare our program and prices with any other company, you'll find that either they are charging too much, or we are not charging enough! Look at it real close and you may even arrive at the conclusion that not only is it better to do business with us — it's cheaper too!

Kennedy Outlines 10-point Program To Move Belleville Forward in the 80's

Kevin G. Kennedy, the youngest candidate in the May 10 Belleville Commission election in the 6-A slot position on the ballot, has presented a 10-point progressive program plan designed to move the Township of Belleville forward in the 1980's.

His 10-point proposal encompasses the following:

- Dedication to honest, sincere, economical and responsive local government.
- Improved efficiency in all departments, provided by dedicated employees giving a full day's work for a full day's pay.
- Strict observance of Civil Service hiring rules and curtailment of fulsome nepotism practices in all departments, that will halt the hiring of relatives and friends.
- Installation of sewage disposal meters in all local industrial plants and Clara Maass hospital, at user's expense, so that their sewage discharge may be measured and properly charged.
- Better police prowling protection activity, especially during night hours.
- Assessing a fee on plants having artesian wells, since they avoid purchase of water from the township, yet, township must pay for waste disposal of this effluent.
- Concentration on improvement of business areas of town with an eye to solving area parking facilities.
- Revitalization and improvement of the south Belleville section of Washington Avenue.
- Move to seek reimbursement from the county, in lieu of taxes, for untaxed County Golf Course, Park Lands and the Soho Hospital Complex.

• An open door policy: "My door will be open anytime, to anyone in Belleville...I'll be a 24-hour commissioner seven days a week."

Kennedy, who sought commission office in the 1979 town election, in which 16 candidates entered the race, points out that the vote was so spread among all the candidates that even the winners won with less votes than previously. "I garnered close to 700 votes last time," he said, "and that isn't bad for the $75 I spent that year." He claims those votes encouraged his interest, as a young man, to become involved in township affairs. This he explains is his main reason for seeking the office of commissioner.

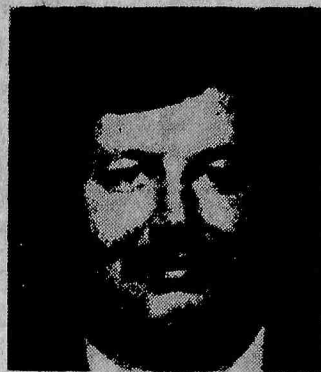

Kennedy cites his participation in having worked for the defeat of the appointed school board proposal, worked for the successful election of school trustees Gabe Nazzola and Dr. Anthony D'Agostino. Works for rent control continuance and regards himself as an out-spoken critic when circumstances warrant. His affiliations include membership of St. Peter's Parish, National Auto Dealers Association, Belleville Independent Citizens Association, and the Kevin G. Kennedy Civic Association. Kennedy also is a supporter of the Salvation Army, Police Athletic League, Foster Parent, and the Humane Society.

Kennedy was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., in 1956, moving to Belleville in 1960 residing in his grandfather's house on Hornblower Avenue, the home in which his mother was raised. Kevin attended School 8, Belleville Junior High, and three-and-a-half years at Belleville High School which he left because of the uncleanness of the school restrooms that were locked since some people destroyed the sinks, toilets, etc. "During that period it seemed the teachers were only concerned about putting in their eight hours," he says. "Today the high school kids tell me it's much better, thanks to a new breed of teachers."

After leaving school he worked for Belleville Yellow Cab Company, serving as head dispatcher for five years. During which time he studied and received his high school equivalence certificate, later being accepted at Montclair College as a part-time student.

Kennedy's business career burgeoned when he started a used car dealership with his life-long friend, Fred Accordino, known as K & A Auto Sales in Newark. As an aggressive entrepreneur, Kennedy felt the urge to become concerned and active in the town affairs of the community he grew up in. The community he says impelled him to become a commission candidate in the 1979 town election.

Heard at Ringside

By Steve H. Frank

Sports writer Ben Sharow wrote an eye-opening article, February, in which he stated: "We were made pawns in a game of geopolitics engineered by the Korean Sports Federation; that the woman who came to the states was not the mother of Deuk-Koo Kim." Immediately the telephone was put to work. The following facts were discovered: At a press conference before his fatal bout with Ray Mancini, Kim let it be known that his mother had died seven years previously. The mother's death has been verified by the Korean consulate in Los Angeles and supported by a death certificate. Adding more mystery to this macabre situation it was uncovered, the girl in South Korea, who said she was carrying Kim's child and wanted to marry Kim posthumously, was not known to anyone of Kim's friends or associates. Why the Masquerade? Was it for the reportedly $60,000 death benefits, if so who did collect?

Dr. Richard Chenoweth, who operated on middleweight Ray Seales for detached retinas, said, "The physical given a boxer is clearly inadequate." He suggested having the boxer read an eye chart to determine any eye damage. The 30-year-old Seales knew he had eye trouble. He fought for two-and-a-half years while suffering this condition and was never questioned by an examining doctor before or after a fight. In that two-and-a-half years he fought seven times, including in New Jersey on Oct. 30, 1982.

World Boxing Council's favorite referee Carlos Padilla turned in his usual bungled job in handling the Larry Holmes-Lucien Rodriguez bout in Scranton. He allowed Holmes to walk around the ring just before each round instead of staying in his corner and to wave and have conversations with ringside friends during the rounds. And Padilla collected $1,500 with all expenses paid. He's sad as a thirdman, he demonstrated in Las Vegas several different times — but, he's got good connections.

New Jersey's popular, respected fight figure Al Certo of Secaucus, has lightweight Gino Perez of West New York, N.J. back on the right track. Perez showed promise to climb the fistic ladder part of the 70's and 80's but suddenly dropped out of the picture. He reappeared fighting in Mexico. Now that Perez has returned to Jersey and with Certo in his corner, the full potential of Gino should be brought out. Perez will try to improve his 18-1 record at Newark's Symphony Hall on April 21, when he glove duels George Jorjegenina in the main event.

Heavyweight Scott Frank of Oakland, N.J. and Lee Canalito, native of Houston, Texas, now out of California via Florida, have been pegged to exchange haymakers at Atlantic City, May 1. If Frank don't flatten Canalito, his future is in jeopardy. It'll be an NBC-TVer. Frank is again in the good graces of manager Lou Duva. Canalito is piloted by Sylvester "Sly" Stallone.

Co-promoters Don Elbaum and Ted Menas has lined up a sensational triple-windup of 10-rounders for Tuesday, April 26, at the Tropicana in Atlantic City. Unbeaten junior middleweight Mike McCullum of New York will slug it out with tough Tony Suero of Upper Darby, Pa. Lightweight Livingston Bramble of Passaic, N.J. will clash with Gaetan Hart of Canada and junior welterweight Simon Brown will exchange leather with Antonio (Kid Can) Cruz of the Dominican Republic.

Promoter/matchmaker Gene Moore has paired unbeaten featherweight Gino Gelormino, 15-0, of Levittown, N.Y. to take on Cleveland's Joey Maye, 18-7, for New York's Manhattan Center, April 23. Moore also signed Roberto Vinas for his April 23 show. Memory refresher: Vinas was three-time New York Golden Gloves winner. He also defeated Hector "Showboat" Camacho twice in the amateurs. Lawyer Rudy Greco is Vinas' manager and attorney for three-time champ Wilfred Gomez.

Express Professional Sports presented a six-bout boxing card that provided some exciting moments that the fans enjoyed. In the main event Brent Summers of Detroit WTKO in fifth round over Angelo Williams of Jersey City; Rodney Trusel of Detroit WTKO in second round over Alfredo Rivera of Trenton; Timmy Richardson WKO in second round over Mark Labos of New Brunswick; Bruce Edward Starling W-Dec. in six rounds over Nathaniel Akbar of Detroit; Naim Muhammad of East Orange W-Dec. in four rounds over Lino Perez of Paterson and Elijah Muhammad and Larry Highsmith of Trenton fought a four-round draw. Qasim Akbar promoted the show and announced the next boxing show will be June 2, 1983.

The Police Athletic League of Jersey City sponsored an amateur boxing card at Jersey City's School No. 11, Thursday, with the following results: 106 pounds, Ruben Santos of Middletown, N.J. defeated Eddie Mirlas of Jersey City; 119 pounds, Enrique Ramos of Lou Costello Club defeated Steve Green of Plainfield; 125 pounds, Tracey Spaw of Plainfield defeated Jacques Short of Yonkers PAL; 132 pounds, Harold Knight of Plainfield defeated Wayne Anderson of NYC 25th PCT; 147 pounds, Anthony Palumbo of Yonkers PAL defeated Wayne Marsh of Meadowlands BC; 156 pounds, Gregory Blanding of Yonkers PAL defeated Cornell Sims of Lou Costello Club; 165 pounds, Adam Garland of Plainfield defeated Clarence Pryor of Yonkers PAL and heavyweight Frank Santini of St. Anthony YC defeated Kelvin Murray of New York City Recreation.

World Boxing Association (WBA) officials claim they have not approved the rematch between junior welterweight titleholder Aaron Pryor and former lightweight champ Alexis Arguello. WBA president Gilberto Mendoza from Venezuela, said, "Arguello has never beaten a contender in the division." Main Events promoter Dan Duva says, "We will put the fight on with or without sanction in July as planned."

Enrique Ramos of the Lou Costello Sportsmen Club listened to his trainers Bernie Taylor and Tommy Parks and won. The 17-year-old Jersey City resident, fighting out of the famed boxing club in Paterson, defeated Steve Green of Plainfield via the decision route in the 119-pound finals of the Regional PAL tournament at Jersey City's Martin Luther grammar school. Ramos is now 4-1 as an amateur boxer. Cornell Sims, who also fights out of the Lou Costello gym, was forced to default the 156-pound title bout to Gregory Blanding of the Yonkers PAL. In an earlier bout Sims was thumbed in the eye. Due to the tremendous swelling that developed, Taylor and Parks said, "Forget about the title your sight is the first priority."

NBC Sports helped make boxing history on April 2 at Americana Host Farms Resort in Lancaster, Pa., when a decision was changed after state officials checked a tape of the fight in an NBC production truck. The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission's action to change a decision based on a post-fight look at a television tape was a historic first in boxing. A six-round fight between welterweights Jose Fuentes of Jersey City and Signey Gantz of Lancaster, Pa. was stopped at 2:43 of the second round after Gantz complained of an eye injury. After examination of the eye, referee Tony Wolfe and Dr. Eugene Gottfried decided to stop the bout and award a TKO to Fuentes. Producer Peter Rolfe and director Dick Cline noticed that on the tape it showed Fuentes clearly thumbed Gantz in the eye. Frank Walker, executive secretary of the commission, deputy commissioner George Sacidor, the referee changed their original decision from TKO to technical draw, TD.

Bobby Chacon is scheduled to defend his WBC junior lightweight belt against former champ Cornelious Bozo-Edwards at Las Vegas, May 15. NBC-TV Ch. 4 will televise. Hold the phone! Along Bustad-Beak Alley the word is Edwards will be bypassed in favor of Hector "Clutch" Camacho.

Zanfini: Testimonial to A Legend

By Mike Lamberti

Last week at the Chandelier in Belleville, a legend was given a testimonial dinner to commemorate two decades of coaching freshman and varsity baseball.

George Zanfini, who retired following last season, was honored by over 350 guests and friends of the coach. Zanfini is a popular figure around the school, and obviously a popular man throughout town. A number of his former players, opposing coaches, assistant coaches and plain old fans came out to see the man who gave Belleville so many thrills during his eight year reign on the varsity level.

Almost everyone knows the career story of George Zanfini. He started his varsity coaching career in 1975, replacing Charley Travers. Zanfini had long been known as a great freshman coach, molding some very talented players that later became solid players on the varsity level. He compiled a 135-50 mark on the freshman level.

In 1975, Zanfini took over the reigns of the varsity and inherited a senior oriented club that possessed a lot of talent and had a knack for winning exciting ball games. Louie Grasso was at first, Vic Pasquerella at second, Chipper Bialore played shortstop and Steve Gerard was at third base. The catcher was Greg Dunleavy. Joe Pantalone, John Guariono and Dan D'Notaris played the outfield.

After losing its opener to an awesome Irvington club and a pitcher named Ron Krill, the Bel-boys won their next 11 games, setting up a rematch with the Campers at BHS. Irvington came in undefeated, ranked first in the state and was clearly the team to beat.

The game, as everyone knows, was a classic. It went 14 innings, endured a rain storm, two near brawls, horrendous officiating and a stirring 11 inning pitching performance by Bellboy Greg Petite. Before he would leave, Petite would strike out 12, allow one run and be long remembered as the pitcher who battled Greg Wacker and Ron Krill on the same day. Wacker, a strong pitcher in his own right, hurled the first six innings before yielding to Krill who pitched the next eight, not allowing a Belleville run.

Belleville scored first and took a 1-0 lead into the sixth inning before Irvington scored a crucial run to tie matters and set up the extra innings. During those additional frames, Victor Pasquerella went after an Irvington second baseman following the end of an inning. D'Notaris told the Irvington fans in no uncertain terms just what he thought of them. Zanfini almost had a brawl with the opposing coach and later the umpire, and finally an Irvington player blasted a 375 foot homerun with two men on base and the Campers won, 4-1. The Bellboy squad of '75 was never the same, finishing the season with a 14-10 record.

In 1976, the Bellboys put together perhaps Zanfini's strongest outfit. The team won 20 straight games, were ranked first in the state for a six week period and would finish the season with a 24-4 record. The team, despite its marvelous record, would remember the two bitter losses to Livingston, the latter defeat starting some controversy when Zanfini was accused by an umpire that game of striking the umpire. The case went to court, was later resolved, but nonetheless, put a bit of a cloud to a season that went so well. The '76 Bel-boys were led by Bialore, Dunleavy, Bobby Giordano, Petite, Ricky Loma, Guarino, Michael Cancelliere and Nick Cancelliere.

Despite the sour finish to '76, the 1977 campaign started off with flying colors. There were new faces now, people like Pat Nufrio, Anthony Gammara, Phil Agosta, Mike Lemongelli, Scott Osche, John Clarizio, and Rocco Balsamo.

The club started strong, winning 11 of 14, but disaster would hit once again. This time, the problem was off the field. Zanfini came down with a serious case of hepatitis, a sickness that kept him in Clara Maass for three weeks and ended his season early. Without him, the Bellboys slumped somewhat, finishing with a respectable 18-15 mark. The team was 7-12 after Zanfini's illness.

In 1978, the coach returned with a clean bill of health and the Bucs seemed primed for a return to prominence. Back were Agosta, Dean Campana, Lemongelli and Nufrio. New to the club was a sophomore named Mike Nicosia and a certain all state prospect in catcher Jim Tensfeldt. The Bucs did return strong, making it to the sectional semi finals and winning the last Big 10 title. The teams final record was 18-4.

The 1979 season was a continuation of success. Nicosia was establishing himself as one of the best players in the state and Tensfeldt was one of the best catchers in the league. Steve Kelly was a top hitter and Steve Coffey was one of the most consistent players on the squad. The Bucs were upset early in the Greater Newark Tournament, a tourney that always seemed to avoid Zanfini. The team did make it to the state sectional finals, losing to Linden, 1-0 behind a stellar pitching performance by Danny Borgo, perhaps the best pitcher in Belleville history. Borgo, now a senior at Monmouth College, is the all time leader in victories with 22.

The '79 squad would finish with a 17-4 mark, making way for a super 1980 season. For the first time, the Bucs made it to the finals of the GNT, battling Livingston for the crown. The team had a top flight pitching staff, led by Nicosia and Eddie Aulisi. After a 5-0 shutout of Seton Hall Prep in the semis, Belleville battled Livingston for the finals at Verona Park in a classic game.

After jumping out to a big lead, the top ranked Lancers came back with George Alpert leading the way. A crucial play at third base, a bad call by the umpire and a few big players led the way to an 8-6 Livingston victory. The Bucs would later lose to the Lancers in the finals of the state sectionals, this time by a 10-8 count.

Perhaps the most exciting of all the seasons came in 1981. The Bucs had a sound outfit that year, with Anthony Coco and Roger Lentz leading the pitching staff. Eugene Cancelliere, Frank Fazzini, Ken Costantino and Joe Corbalis made up the infield. Phil Cerza was the catcher.

The '81 squad was led by Fazzini, who had an absolutely amazing season. He would finish the season batting over .500, hit 10 homeruns and drive home 48 runs. He hit back to back grand slam homers in a game against Middletown South and quickly let it be known that he was a very special athlete.

Anyway, the Bucs won the GNT tournament, but getting to the finals was quite a tribute. In round one, Cedar Grove was an easy 12-3 victim. In round two, Belleville and Columbia mixed it up at BHS in a game that will go down as one of the greatest come backs in school history. Coco started the game, but didn't have his good stuff. He lasted two thirds of an inning, gave up eight runs and before the inning was over, Belleville trailed, 8-0.

Somehow, it just seemed as if Belleville would win. Fazzini pounded a homerun, Bobby Brave, Jerry Ross and Corbalis came through with some big hits and Dave Starr made some key plays along with outfield mate, Paul Scheplein. When the sm-

Know your baseball — batting

By Paul Horowitz

(This is the third in a series on baseball by Paul Horowitz, who was a distinguished sportswriter for the Newark News, the greatest newspaper New Jersey has known. In previous articles, Horowitz dealt with pitching and catching. Next week, he will deal with base running. The editor.)

They pay off on hitting. Babe Ruth was one of the best pitchers of his time, but when he demonstrated his batting prowess he was converted into an outfielder so he could play every day. People flock to ball parks to see Ted Williams or Stan Musial belt the ball. They like the spectacular long-ball hitters, the Ted Kluszewskis and the Yogi Berras. Those are the men getting the highest salaries in professional baseball. They're the chief gate attractions who satisfy the desires of the average fan for high scoring games.

In a few weeks you'll be watching big leaguers in action, either at the ball park or on the television screen. Note the differences in each batter's stance or position in the batter's box. Some stand far back, their rear foot touching the chalkline border of the box. Others crouch close, their feet even with or in front of the plate. Solly Hemus of the Cardinals actually leans over the plate. Gil McDougal of the Yankees has an unusual stance. His right foot is back in the corner of the box pointing towards right field, his left foot is away from the plate and points toward left field. He seems to drape the bat over this right arm and doesn't pump it the way most batters do before the pitcher's delivery.

It doesn't matter what stance a batter takes. He can be a good hitter even with his front foot in the "bucket"; that is, far away from the plate in the forward part of the batter's box, almost pointing toward the dugout. Al Simmons and Vern Stephens placed their feet that way and they were good long-ball hitters.

Rogers Hornsby, one of the greatest righthanded hitters of all time and a .424 batter in 1924, says great hitters make themselves great and aren't born that way.

Horizontal groove

A good batter swings in a groove that's horizontal to the ground. He tries to get the fat part of the bat to meet the ball just as it crosses the plate, which is 17 inches wide and should be "protected" over all 17 inches. Note how far down the handle a batter grips the bat. If he chokes up a bit, allowing two or three inches at the end of the bat to extend below his grip, he's the type known as the punch hitter who's simply trying to meet the ball or trying to place it through the infield holes or just over the infield. This type rarely hits homers. Jerry Coleman of the Yankees is this type of hitter.

Most batters, you'll notice, take a long grip and swing ferociously at the pitches they like. They're the fellows trying to hit the long ball. Power hitters such as Kluszewski and Berra take a full cut at the ball and, because of their strong wrists and powerful shoulder muscles, can be fooled on a pitch and still clout it out of the park.

The important things that make one hitter better than another are perfect vision, a level swing, strong wrists action, coordinated swing and stride and, most important of all, supreme confidence in his ability to hit any type of pitching.

Why do batters usually carry two or three bats to the plate, flinging aside all but the one they intend to use before assuming their stance? The answer is simple. The bat they eventually use seems far lighter to them after having swung two or three times its weight a moment or two earlier and a relaxed swing is assured.

You see a leadoff batter get into the "on deck" circle when the eighth man in the lineup is at bat. Why isn't the ninth man, or pitcher, in the circle? The pitcher is the club's most valuable asset. A team can't risk injury to him, for he may be hit by a foul ball or run into by a catcher going for a fly. The pitcher also needs as much rest between chores as he can get, so he sits out his "one deck duty" in the dugout.

When a manager calls for a pitch-hitter, he'll usually send a righthand batter to the plate if a left-handed pitcher is on the mound, and vice versa. Why?

It's because most batters can't hit a ball well if it is curving away from them. A southpaw's breaking stuff, for example, sweeps toward the outside of the plate when a left-handed batter is in the box. A right-hander's curve comes in toward him and he has a better view of the ball as it breaks over the plate. Fine hitters don't care who is pitching, for they hit the ball where it is pitched. Most batters, however, are less effective in righty vs. righty or lefty vs. lefty situations.

Hitting the ball where it is pitched is essential to good batting. Musial, for example, often hits to the opposite field, which would be left field. He's a good pull hitter to right center or right, but when the pitcher throws a fast ball on the outside Stan usually drives to left center or left. A right-handed batter usually hits a curve ball to left and a fast ball on the outside corner to right.

There are batters who can hit from either side of the plate. They're known as switch hitters. Mickey Mantle of the Yankees and Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals are two of the best in their respective leagues. They bat righthanded against southpaws, left-handed against righties.

Watch Ted Williams at bat (if he decides to play this year). He'll never swing at a pitch that isn't in the strike zone. His amazing eyesight can detect if the pitch is a strike or a ball, and he won't swing at bad balls. Most strikeouts are on bad pitches. A batter gets behind in the count and often will swing at a pitch which may be an inch or two off the corner. A batter who takes a third strike without swinging, often is fooled by breaking stuff, or he's guessing the pitcher, that is, anticipating a curve when a fast ball whizzes by, and the reverse.

Ability to bunt is extremely important. Most bunts are sacrifice bunts, which means the batter is at the plate to advance the runner and not to try to beat out the bunt. There are few good bunters in either league. Phil Rizzuto is one of the best.

A batter possessing great speed afoot, such as Mantle, can be a dangerous drag bunter. This means he'll start from the plate and bunt the ball in the same motion, trying to drop it past the mound so the pitcher can't field it. The perfect drag bunt for a left-handed batter draws the first baseman far off his bag and is too slow a roller for the second baseman to field. It also must be out of reach of the pitcher.

oke cleared, Cancelliere had pitched 6 2/3 innings, allowed one run and Belleville won, 15-9.

While the win was an exciting one, there was an even better one upcoming. In round three, Bloomfield and Belleville battled at Verona Park in the semi finals. The game went 12 gruelling innings on one of the hottest days of the year. Coco and Anthony Sarno of Bloomfield went the distance, and when it was over, Belleville had come away a 5-4 winner, a game that Zanfini recalls as his most memorable.

The finals were anticlimatic. The Bucs' opponent was a tough Glen Ridge team, a club that stopped Livingston, 1-0 in the semi finals. A day before the GNT finals, the Bucs played that Livingston team for the state sectionals. The Lancers won that game, 7-1, thus making the GNT the final game of the season for the Bucs.

Belleville was determined to walk away a winner. They came in with a 21-7 record, and the senior wanted this game in the worst way. The Bucs got it, and did it big. Belleville scored five runs in the second inning and breezed home, 10-4, with Coco gaining the decision, his third GNT triumph.

George Zanfini will be watching from the sidelines this year. He could possibly be watching for a number of years to come, but deep inside the feeling is he'll be back, whether it be Belleville or somewhere else. In any event, good luck "Z", you've been a tribute to BHS and will always be remembered as a class gentleman and top notch competitor.

Here is the answer to last week's quiz. The question was, who won the 1960 World Series. The answer: Pittsburgh and the Yankees played the series with the Bucs winning in seven games.

Suppertime Talks — Joseph Conrad

By Russell Roemmele

Oh, the English have given us so many immortal novelists: Dickens always first, of course, followed by Sir Walter Scott and then, not too far away perhaps, Thomas Hardy and George Eliot. But nearest to Dickens, in my view at least, would be the Polish-born Joseph Conrad. To read Conrad late at night in solitude forces one to reflect deeply on life and its meaning and to reach out to that uncertain fate which, Conrad reminds us, "binds men to each other and all mankind to the visible world."

No, I do not recommend Conrad to young people. He, like Dostoyesky and William Faulkner should be read by men and women over 40, at least. It is not the age that matters, mind you, it is the experience. Not just experience, I should say, but the knowing of despair, dread, loss, absence of a home, loneliness. Conrad infuses each of these emotions into his masterful stories. He gives the reader no relief, no easy way-out. He wrote (in "Nostromo"):

"Not a living being, not a speck of distant sail, appeared within the range of his vision; and, as if to escape from this solitude, he absorbed himself in his melancholy. The vague consciousness of a misdirected life given up to impulses, whose memory left a bitter taste in his mouth, was the first moral sentiment of his manhood. But at the same time he felt no remorse. What should he regret? He had recognized no other virtue than intelligence, and had erected passions into duties.... Sleeplessness had robbed his will of all energy, for he had not slept seven hours in the seven days. His sadness was the sadness of a sceptical mind. He beheld the universe as a succession of incomprehensible images. Nostromo was dead. Everything had failed ignominiously. He no longer dared to think of Antonia. She had not survived. But if she survived he could not face her. And all exertion seemed senseless."

So that is why young people must avoid Conrad. For Jozef Teodor Konrad Nalecz Korzeniowski, who lived from 1857 to 1924, penetrates the human heart as few writers are able, or want to. Although many of his books deal with the sea (as does Melville's, whom he resembles somewhat) and the jungle, his themes are made of the stuff that never gets out of the closet of our hearts. Only a Conrad knows how to open that closet — and then scare the hell out of us.

Yes, he wrote in English, but his Polish heritage (by way of the Polish Ukraine) accounts for some of his mysterious themes. His sea life and his trips to Africa and South America contributed to the endless cracked mirrors he gives us, instead of mirrors in which we would see no distortions. When we read Conrad, we see ourselves through these cracked mirrors.

A storyteller superb. This should not be lost with all the profound talk or the pretense of profundity. Listen to these words:

On that impenetrable background, obliterating the lofty mountains by the seaboard, she saw the slave of the San Tome silver, as if by an extraordinary power of a miracle. She accepted his return as if the world could not surprise for her on that night.

She rose compelled and rigid, and began to speak long before the light from within fell upon the face of the approaching man.

"You have come back to carry me off. It is well? Open thy arms, Giovannina my lover. I am coming."

His prudent footsteps stopped, and, with his eyes glistening widely,

he spoke in a harsh voice:

"Not yet. I must grow rich slowly."

A threatening note came into his tone. "Do not forget that you have a thief for your lover."

"Yes! Yes!" she whispered hastily. "Come nearer! Listen! Do not give me up, Giovanni! Never, never!... I will be patient!"

Her form drooped consolingly over the low casement towards the slave of the unlawful treasure. The light in the room went out, and, weighted with silver, the magnificent capataz clasped her round her white neck in the darkness of the gulf as a drowning man clutches at straw.

That type of writing is limited to but a few masters in each century. Conrad did not really write in English or in Polish or in Polish Ukraine or in Congolese or in South American. No, he wrote in human blood. All of ours. He wrote in his preface to "The Nigger of the Narcissus":

"To arrest, for the space of a breath, the hands busy about the work of the earth, and compel men entranced by the sight of distant goals to glance for a moment at the surrounding vision of form and color, of sunshine and shadows; to make them pause for a look, for a sigh, for a smile — such is the aim, difficult and evanescent, and reserved only for a very few to achieve. But sometimes, by the deserving and the fortunate, even that is accomplished — behold! — all the truth of life is there: a moment of vision, a sigh, a smile — and the return to an eternal rest."

Never will I regret having read Joseph Conrad. But, dear reader when you read him, be prepared when the closet opens. And you see your heart through those cracked mirrors.

'Deathtrap' Will Open At Actor's Cafe Theatre

'Deathtrap,' Ira Levin's thriller and one of the greatest popular successes of recent Broadway history, opens a six-week run at the Actor's Cafe Theatre, in residence at Bloomfield College, Franklin and Fremont streets, Bloomfield, starting Friday, April 29 and will play every Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. through June 4.

Seemingly comfortably ensconced in his charming Connecticut home, Sidney Bruhl, a successful writer of Broadway thrillers, is struggling to overcome a dry spell and series of failures. Receiving a new play from a former student, Sidney recognizes it as a potential Broadway hit, and agrees to a possible collaboration with the student through his wife's urgings, but really would prefer to bash the young man's head in with the mace hanging on the wall, and assume authorship of the thriller. Thereafter suspense mounts steadily as the plot begins to twist and turn.

Reservations can be made by calling the box office at 429-7662 at any time. Tickets are $4.90 and $5.90 on Friday; $5.90 and $6.90 on Saturday. They are held at the box office until 15 minutes prior to start. Students and senior citizens receive $1.50 off at all times. Ample free parking.

Anointing the Sick Will Take Place At St. Peter's

A Mass for Anointing for the sick and invalid will take place Sunday, April 24 at St. Peter's Church, 157 Williams St., starting at 2 p.m.

The Mass fulfills the Sunday Mass obligation. St. Peter's is asking the more fortunate to make this their Sunday Mass and bring all who, because of their condition, cannot ordinarily get to church.

If transportation is needed, an effort will be made by St. Peter's to get people to the church and home.
