Welfare Director Post Reduced to Part-time Job

Ippolito Charges Politicking Taking Place in Department

By Linda Telesco

The township's welfare department is the focus of a heated controversy this week over recent changes made in the director's post by the Local Assistance Board. A welfare investigator, who has been performing the duties of the director since June, charged that a recent decision by the board to change the director's post from a full-time to a part-time one is politically motivated.

Michael Ippolito, a 10-year employee of the welfare department, charged that the current changes are part of a plan to fill the post as a political favor for Commissioner Michael Pizzi, director of the Public Affairs Department. "I will not turn this department over to a political machine," said Ippolito in a Monday interview. "Politics must stay out of the welfare department. It makes me sick."

Pizzi has denied all charges saying that the change was made to "streamline the department and save taxpayers money." He called Ippolito's reaction "sour grapes."

The job in question, director of the welfare department, has been vacant since June 1983 when Ceil O'Toole, a full-time, retired.

Since then, Ippolito has been performing the duties of director as well as his own work as an investigator for the department, which is also a full-time post.

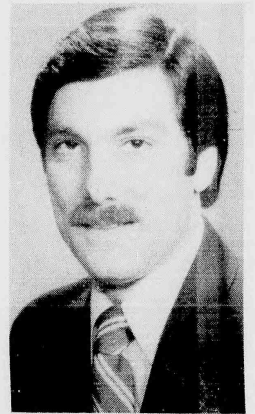

When the director's post was advertised recently, Ippolito applied for it. He is now one of 12 candidates under consideration for the post, but fears the recent decision will force him out of the running since he cannot afford to accept a part-time job. The decision to change the post was made last week by the Local Assistance Board, a panel composed of five members of the Public Affairs Department: Pizzi, Township Registrar Ralph Risoli, Health Officer Thomas Longo, and clerks Antoinette Morello and Carol Ann Russo.

The panel voted 4-0 last Friday to change the post to part-time, with Longo abstaining from the voting. "I did not have enough data to make a determination at the time as to whether it was more feasible to have a part-time or full-time director," said Longo this week.

However, Ippolito charges the other board members were pressured by Pizzi to favor the change which is, he claims, part of a plan to give the post to Russo, who has been a clerk in the department for four months.

School Board Trustees Preparing To Veto Alcohol Abuse Program

The disagreement between School Board members and concerned parents over a controversial alcohol and drug abuse program being implemented in the Middle School continues — but perhaps for only a short time longer.

After listening to more than two hours of discussion last Monday night on the alcohol/drug prevention proposal, being considered for the Middle School — which is strongly supported by parents throughout the community — the School Board announced a decision would be rendered by the end of the month. But many parents believe the board had already made its decision before members of the National Council on Alcoholism made their presentation.

"The only reason the board even listened to these counselors tonight was because of pressure applied by parents," said one Home and School Association president, who wished not to be identified. "The board says it will make a decision by the end of the month, but they have already made up their minds. They are dead set against this and I cannot understand why. The program is workable and can be made to meet the needs of the board. We can always use more alcohol and drug prevention programs in this school system."

The program, which involves three aspects: curriculum, student counseling and faculty counseling, would place a counselor with expertise in alcohol abuse in the Middle School to aid the present guidance program. But some school administrators and guidance persons find the program as being insulting.

"I am not willing to say that our professionals in this district cannot handle our needs," Michael Nardiel, superintendent of schools told the board when asked about the proposal. "We have an excellent staff which has been meeting the needs of our children. I am not saying this agency is not a good one, it indeed serves a valuable purpose."

According to Nancy Brach, director of NCA, the group offers its three services individually to school and professional groups, but this is the first time all three proposals would be established in one setting.

"We are offering a program to Belleville which will enrich the facilities you already have," Brach told the trustees. "By reaching out to students at the Middle School level, you can teach prevention. And prevention is where it's at today. Once they start to experiment, then it can be too late. You have to start early and that is what we will do with this program. If you want this program, you got it — if not, then we can offer you any of the three proposals individually for a fee. But we are giving Belleville the first crack at this proposal."

4 More Candidates Enter Special Commission Race

By Ed Capparucci

With the filing deadline for the special May Commission election today, March 22, four more residents have filed petitions, bringing the field of candidates to five.

Joining former commissioner Vincent Strumolo in the battle for the seat vacated by former Public Safety Commissioner Matthew Pica earlier this month are: Joseph Fornarotto, a township veteran; Ralph DiRuggiero, a Zoning Board member and administrator in the Essex County government; Joseph Dasaro, member of the Belleville Redevelopment Agency; and Sam Papa, president of the Bridgebrook Tenants Association.

The special election, which was approved by the state Legislature earlier this month, will take place May 8.

As of Tuesday afternoon, only DiRuggiero and Papa had officially handed in their election petitions with Township Clerk Mary Lou Hood. But Fornarotto, who has sought a commission seat in the past, and Dasaro, a first-time runner, told the Times they would hand in their petitions before today's deadline. Strumolo became the first candidate to enter the race when he filed last week.

DiRuggiero, a lifelong resident of Belleville, serves as assistant administrator for general service in the county. A member of the Zoning Board, DiRuggiero said his campaign would focus on five major issues: code enforcement, redevelopment, toxic waste, senior citizens' programs and tenants' rights, particularly with respect to condominium conversion.

"I was born and raised in this town, and like many members of my family, I have stayed here because of my interest in making it a better place to live," he said. "I believe I have a solid background in government administration — both academic and hands-on — and now I want to give something back to the community that gave my family and me so much."

DiRuggiero's father, the late Dr. Frank N. DiRuggiero, served as a member of the Belleville Board of Education for 16 years.

A graduate of Belleville High School and the University of Scranton, DiRuggiero, 33, is presently completing course work for a master's degree in public administration at the Baruch College of the City University of New York.

A former member of the township's Rent Leveling Board, he joined the county in 1979 as executive assistant to the director of management and budget. He was appointed director of the office of purchasing and purchasing agent in 1980 and was named assistant county administrator for general services in January 1982.

Dasaro, a resident of Belleville since 1955, is a member of the township's Redevelopment Agency and owner of Belleville Travel, located on Washington Avenue.

"Belleville is at the crossroads of major vital decisions, and the people of Belleville will now have a choice of their destiny if Belleville is to be on the grow," Dasaro said.

An active member of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, Dasaro says as a "free-thinker, independent

Dailey Succumbs at 85; First DeWitt Chairman

John P. Dailey, 85, chairman of the board of First DeWitt Savings and Loan Association of Belleville, Bloomfield, Cedar Grove and Hopalong, and a longtime resident of Belleville, died Wednesday, March 14, at the Jersey Shore Medical Center in Neptune.

Until his death, Mr. Dailey was actively involved as chairman of First DeWitt, as well as in community and financial organizations.

Mr. Dailey was associated with First DeWitt Savings for over 27 years as an officer, director, president, chief executive officer and finally chairman of the board. He was the third president of the association serving from 1964 through 1969 at which time he was elected chairman.

Prior to joining First DeWitt, Mr. Dailey had been secretary of the former North Belleville Savings and Loan. Until his death, he was also the treasurer and had been former president of the Essex County Savings and Loan League. Altogether he had spent over 42 years in banking.

In addition Mr. Dailey was still actively involved as a member of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and treasurer of the Belleville Manufacturers Association.

He was a Navy veteran of World War I and a member of American Legion Post 105 Belleville. In 1938 he was appointed to the New Jersey Selective Service System and later to the Selective Service Appeals Board where he served as administrator through World War II and the Korean conflict. In 1951 President Harry Truman and General Lewis Hershey, director of the Selective Service System, awarded Mr. Dailey

Dr. Eastern Lectures On Laser Technology

The laser is not a Star Wars dream come true, or the answer to all of our problems, but it is a very valuable new tool for medicine. That was the important message of Dr. Joseph Eastern's talk before the Ladies Auxiliary of the Nutley Elks Club Wednesday.

Dr. Eastern, a board certified dermatologist and a pioneer in the use of lasers in treating skin diseases, runs the Belleville Dermatology Center and its associated Laser Treatment Center in Belleville.

"Many people are scared of lasers because of all the science fiction and rumors of laser 'death ray' space stations," he said. "Sure, they can be dangerous, but so can scalpels and scissors. Like any medical instrument, a laser is only as good as the surgeon using it."

Pioneered in the early 1960s for the treatment of eye diseases, lasers have become "jacks-of-all-trades" that are used in nearly every specialty of medicine. Dr. Eastern presented slides demonstrating his work with skin disorders that had never been treatable before, or for which the laser is a better therapy than the conventional ones.

"We never had a good treatment for port wine stains," he said, referring to the disfiguring purple birthmarks many people are born with. "Now, with the Argon laser, these marks can be lightened, and sometimes almost completely obliterated." Dr. Eastern also uses the Argon laser for spider veins and other malformations made of blood vessels. He is especially interested in the treatment of unsightly dilated leg veins, but results have been disappointing so far. "We're trying some new techniques developed in Japan, but that work has a way to go yet," he said.

Dr. Eastern's chief interest, however, is the carbon dioxide laser. "It's a far more versatile instrument, and treats a great many more disorders." For example, "Well, it's the first truly effective way to remove tattoos! It leaves a scar, but most people prefer the scar to the tattoo." He also showed dramatic pictures of warts resistant to all conventional methods melting before the laser beam. And rhinophyma, the "bulbous nose" caused by overactive oil glands, becomes a normally-shaped nose under the careful sculpting of the laser.

"Because the laser seals blood vessels as it cuts, it can be used in areas full of blood vessels with almost no loss of blood. We're discussing the use of lasers in various skin tumors to minimize blood loss and decrease the chance of tumor spreading and recurrence," he asserted.

What does the future hold? "The possibilities are just beginning to be uncovered. Lasers won't replace conventional surgery but they are a valuable new option that can improve our results, and sometimes produce results where none were possible before."

The Belleville Dermatology Center is situated in the Clara Maass Professional Center West, Belleville.

Pathmark Banks Are Now Offering Automated Teller

An Automated Teller Machine (ATM) system designed for convenience banking in supermarkets and other retail locations will be installed in the 130-store Pathmark chain — including the two Belleville stores — starting late this spring, it was announced by MetroExchange, Ltd.

Metro Exchange is a cooperative venture formed by the Dime Savings Bank of New York, FSB; the Electronic Banking Systems Division of Docutel/Olivetti Corporation; and Automatic Data Processing (ADP) for the purpose of establishing a shared ATM network in the Northeast. All financial institutions will be invited to participate, and plans are under way to interface with other regional and national ATM networks.

Howard Mandelbaum, executive director of Metro Exchange and director of electronic funds transfer planning of Docutel/Olivetti, said the first units will be installed at the Pathmark stores in Garden City, Franklin Square, Baldwin, East Rockaway and Woodmere, N.Y. This will be followed by installations at 70 additional Pathmark stores in metropolitan New York, northern New Jersey and southern Connecticut. The second phase will be installation of ATMs in the entire Pathmark chain in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Delaware by early 1985.

Leonard Lieberman, president and chief executive officer of Supermarkets General Corporation, parent company of Pathmark, noted that Pathmark has offered bank services to customers for the past 10 years through in-store branch banks in selected stores. He added, "Now, for the first time, we will have in all stores a banking service potentially accessible to all customers and the individual bank of their choice."

Customers of financial institutions participating in the network will be able to perform cash withdrawals, transfers, electronic bill payments and balance inquiries at any ATM in the network. The system will accept both debit and credit cards. The machines are Docutel/Olivetti's Model 5100. ADP, a leading provider of data processing services to the financial community and manager of the nationwide ATM network, "The Exchange," will provide the data processing, communications and message switching to support the Metro Exchange machines' functions. Settlement will occur on a daily basis and monthly activity reports will be distributed to each participating financial institution.

If afflicted with rheumatoid arthritis, one can become severely ill with fever, swelling of the joints and intense pain. It is no wonder, then, that many patients seek relief in regular cortisone therapy. Once embarked on this therapy, however, it may have to be continued for life. It is for this reason that the initial dose is kept very small. The dose needed for partial relief will increase with time. That is, as tolerance develops. In arthritis conditions, cortisone acts directly to suppress the inflammatory process in the joints. It reduces the swelling and stops the deposits of materials that surround an inflamed area. It also reduces the increased blood flow and stops the migration of white blood cells to the area.

If your physician gives you a prescription, stop by and let us fill it promptly at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1956, 759-1968. Baby needs, cosmetics, toiletries, Timex watches and many other items are stocked. We also have a camera and film department. Open 9am-10pm daily, 9am-9pm Sunday.

Prayer For Today

Keep us this night, O Lord, from all works of darkness, and whether we wake or sleep, let our thoughts and deeds be in accordance with Thy holy will. Preserve us from all dangers and terrors of the night; from restless watching and sorrowful thoughts; from unnecessary or fretful care and imaginary fears. Let us awake tomorrow renewed in strength, and cheerful in spirit; may we arise with holy thoughts, and go forth to live to Thine honor, to the service of our fellowmen, and the comfort and joy of our households.

One Language Only

Should we Americans encourage dual language use or should we insist upon English language only in the public domain?

Last month in five counties in the State of Florida ballots were printed in Spanish as well as English. To report the results of the election, The Miami Herald published voting information in English with a Spanish translation.

It is an insult to be faced with the proposition of having ballots printed in two languages. One of the requirements to become a United States citizen, and therefore be able to vote, is that the person have sufficient knowledge of the English language. Why then should we tolerate a ballot printed in Spanish?

We have nothing against the Spanish language — in fact we love it — but it has no place in the public domain. The language we share represents full participation in the American way of life. English is the language of public discourse — and of the voting booth — and no other language should be tolerated, either with traffic signs, public information areas and the voting booth.

When immigrants come to America — as they have over the past centuries — it is understood that English is the language of the nation and immigrants must comply with our language requirements.

Even on a selfish point of view — to achieve maximum success in America one needs fluency in English.

It makes no sense for the government to require voting instructions and ballots in languages other than English. We resent the implication.

Tom Kean's Budget

The New Jersey joint Legislative Appropriations Committee is about to go into a six-week session to review Gov. Thomas Kean's budget proposal.

The Governor has utilized increased revenues to expand state services.

Tom Kean's budget is a prudent document. There is no doubt that members of the Legislature will fine tune Kean's budget guidance to reflect their personal and/or political commitments.

Kean is a fiscal conservative, but his personal philosophy does not interfere with his consideration for the economic needs of the poor, the disabled, the aging and the sick.

Since the budget does not call for new taxes, we anticipate minor disagreement the Governor may have with the Legislature over the proposed budget.

It is a basically sound document. State Democratic leaders have indicated as much. There appears to be a basic difference in the anticipated surplus in the new budget. Democrats project twice the amount that Kean does. Only time will tell who is right.

Meanwhile, the residents of our state will live through this year and this new budget without any fear of increased taxes.

Spillane Receives Big Endorsement

To the editor:

When the Essex County Superintendent of Schools presented her report on the Belleville schools this past month, she stated: "It is clear from our visitation that good things are happening both to and for the young people in the schools of Belleville."

That report recommended to the State Board of Education that Belleville receive a five-year certification.

Very often at election time, requests are received from candidates soliciting your support in exchange for promises they will never fulfill.

We, as present and past members of the Belleville Board of Education, ask your support for an elected trustee who has given you performance, not empty promises.

We urge you to continue quality education for your children by voting to re-elect Tom Spillane on April 3.

For the past two years, Tom Spillane has served as vice president on your Board of Education.

Having served with Tom during his first three-year term, we can tell you that he has worked hard in providing the best education affordable for your children while at the same time exercising strong budgetary control.

At the weekly meetings, Tom Spillane has provided us with the benefit of his 25 years of business experience and management training with New Jersey Bell.

In order to retain the experience and leadership that Tom Spillane tirelessly provides as an elected trustee, we ask you to cast your vote for him this coming April 3 on line 4A.

On behalf of our children, we thank you.

Sincerely,
Dr. Anthony D'Agostino
and Thomas P. Zampino

Rainone Endorsed By County Official

To the editor:

The upcoming Belleville School Board election for a specific trustee is critical.

I wholeheartedly support and endorse Miss Donna Rainone and encourage you to vote for her second term of office. I have worked with Miss Rainone on the Essex County School Boards Association and I assure you that her attendance and participation is superb. Whether it be a workshop or a general membership meeting, Donna is there representing Belleville and its great school system as recently stated by Doctor Scumbia, the Essex County superintendent of schools.

You don't find this type of person with this type of commitment and participation to her system if she didn't care. I have been involved for a few years as an officer to the Essex County School Boards Association and as president of my own Board of Education. Donna has always been there supporting Belleville and working along with the others that give more than just showing up at Board of Education meetings. Please believe me there is more to being a trustee than to just attend your weekly meetings.

I urge you to support Miss Donna Rainone for her school term to continue to serve you on the Belleville Board of Education.

Robert V. Mirenda,
Vice President/Legislation,
Essex County School Boards Association

Phil Linfante Voices Commitments to Board

To the editor:

Throughout the nation, school districts have been faced with a decline in educational performance. This is a result of the lowering of educational standards. We must be certain that we are providing the students of Belleville with the skills, background and knowledge necessary to insure that our graduates can compete successfully in the complex society in which we live.

The following is a list of commitments and beliefs that I will follow if elected to the Board of Education: belief in local control of our school district, committed to maintaining high educational standards, against spending money where the children are not the direct beneficiaries, vote only for the best qualified personnel based on merit, review budgets in a responsible and business-like manner, belief in improving communication between the people of Belleville and the Board of Education, visit the schools to gain a clearer understanding of school problems, strong supporter of the Sunshine Law (open board meetings) and keeping the people informed, and having the interest of the children of Belleville at heart.

The Catholic Church Seems in Deep Trouble

To the editor:

The Catholic Church today is in deep trouble. It has been for at least two decades. Yet, it has not taken much action. It's in trouble on two fronts. One: Requirements for male priests. Two: Rather or not if women should be allowed to become priests. I'll try to tackle these two issues in one article. Mostly, I'll concentrate on the first one.

Why is the church so set against priests marrying? I do not think it makes any difference. They have this law called a celibacy law which dates back 800 years. One of the popes decreed it, as far as I know. It's been a canon of the church ever since. In my opinion, I do not think that it would interfere with the duty of serving God. However, the question of how much time a man would give to God and his family is a legitimate one. However, ministers of other faiths do get married and it seems to only interfere a little. They can do their Christian service and still have a family. Besides the ones who want to get married should be allowed to and the ones who choose not to, may remain single. In this way, you would have all the priests needed without a problem. Today is a different age. Most men and women want to get married or go steady. When that particular decree was handed down, it was a different generation. A lot of men stayed single and became priests. Nowhere in the Bible does it mention that a priest can or can not be married. In the Old Testament they tell stories of priests that were married and they didn't have any trouble. One time, they asked Paul that question. As far as we know, he might or might not have been married at one time. Before he became a Christian, he probably fooled around. Just about everybody does! Paul answered approximately what I'm saying: "It's up to the individual," and we'll let it go at that!

Second controversy, should a woman become a priest or for that matter, even a minister? I honestly don't know. On one hand, I feel they can do a lot of good as they are now doing at the counseling level. Talking to people, getting the crowds out, etc. Just continue as they are doing, also giving Holy Communion. On the other hand, I feel if they want to be priests, they should. After all, I used to watch Kathryn Coleman on television. She wasn't bad at all! So, if she can do it, just about anyone can if their heart is in that direction. Women are good teachers. Lots of times, better than men. For some reason, they can keep an audience. I'm not too sure if it's their attractiveness, attitude or what. Whatever, they can usually keep your interest. Very few guys can do that!

Sincerely,
Bill Rundle

Mr. Charles, the interested Valley resident who attends almost all town meetings offering his observations on town affairs affecting the Valley section, isn't pleased with the response of the township's insurance carrier in its hesitancy to reimburse him for his car damages resulting from the crash of one of the community's fire trucks skidding on slick ice covering Washington Avenue during a winter storm...he is planning to consult an attorney to effect a settlement.

Presidential candidate Gary Hart was born in Ottawa, Kansas in 1936 and was christened Gary Hartpence; in the late 1950s the family dropped the second syllable of its surname. High praise is heaped upon Pat Caddell by Gary Hart for the 33-year-old campaign adviser's creative talent and advice in persuading him to present a populist tinge to sharpen the contrast between himself and Mondale, leaving new leadership the issue. Hart has said social "entitlements" such as Medicare must be reduced...that doesn't bode well for senior citizens.

The local patrons of N.J. Transit route #20 traversing Joralemon Street and Franklin Street to the City Subway Station, coming from Bloomfield, especially those in the Rutan Estates area will be denied service on this route effective April 28, since the #20 bus route will use Belleville Avenue in both directions, on that part of its Belleville portion of its route.

The Essex County Division on Aging and the Division of Planning will work together in developing and implementing a program which would allow agencies in the county to purchase vehicles to transport the elderly and handicapped. The Division on Aging will administer this program which will be funded by casino revenues.

Heard the latest advice of the Washington pundits on saving Medicare? They recommend raising the age to 67 to become eligible. What are they trying to set up? Is it an attempt to keep raising Social Security deductions of workers, while hoping that they will expire before they qualify for Medicare? Wouldn't that be something like a bunco game?

Within 12 days the eligible Belleville voters will be expected to cast ballots to determine who among six candidates will become school trustees, two for a three-year term and one for a one-year expired term occasioned by Trustee Miele's resignation.

Kevin Kennedy, aspiring to seek a spot on the Township Commission in 1987, is supporting Ernest Zoppi in the school election, as well as former commissioner Strumolo in the May 8 town election.

Of much more significance in this school election is the response and reaction of the taxpaying voters who will be confronted with the aspect of, finding what is a 16-point tax increase in this school budget over last year's. Increases are reflected in almost every category, especially in administration and instruction which with a 24-point township budget increase along with the prospects of an additional county increase, it could mean a steep 42 or more tax rate increase starting on August 1. We can vote on the school budget. Do we want the increase at a time when people in private employment aren't getting increases and may be being called upon to take reductions?

Newly announced commission candidate Joseph Dasaro of the Belleville Redevelopment Agency established himself as a formidable rhetorician in eliciting the plaudits of the opponents of the proposed alcohol clinic here when he protested, "It's time we told the county Belleville will no longer be a dumping ground for them."

His knowledge, in a surprise revelation, that the county plans to divest itself of the property now occupied by the Geriatrics Center with an unofficial option to seek that property brought out the remark by Mr. Dasaro that such a move could render that property very attractive to developers, predicting a possible yield of over $40 million in tax rates...all marks of a bright and knowledgeable potential commission candidate.

While on the subject, how about the county giving up that mecca of supportive gentry who cavort upon the green of the county golf links, which makes money for the county, while tax free. It should be ceded to the Township of Belleville in lieu of taxes or sold to a developer so that the vast acreage could be developed into building lots for ratable homes and buildings that would provide rates to the community. Yes! The county has exploited Belleville long enough.

We could use strong willed men and women running the affairs of this community...people who have no strings of attachment or obligation to the overlords of the county power structure. Cedar Grove gets favorable concessions because of a county institution situated there. Why not Belleville? Too long we've been the county's stepchild. It's time for a change.

Michael Chieffo Succumbs at Age 39; Former School Board Vice President

Michael Dennis Chieffo, who served as a member of the Belleville School Board for six years, died Monday at St. Michael's Medical Center, Newark, after a short illness.

A Mass is scheduled for tomorrow, March 23, 9:30 a.m. at Holy Family Church, Nutley. Viewing is at the Irvine-Cozzarelli Funeral Home, Washington Avenue, Wednesday and Thursday from 2-4 p.m. and 7-9:30 p.m.

Chieffo, who served on the Board of Education from 1975 to 1981, served one year as the board's vice president in 1978.

"The loss of Mike Chieffo is a great loss for this community," said board President Grace Purdie. "My association with Mike goes back a long time, when he first ran for the School Board, and to that time there have been many, many happy memories."

An entrepreneur for the past 17 years, he was former president of Chieffo Motors Corp., in Belleville. Until his death he served as president of Chief Development Corp., Chief Data Corp., and Chief Broadcasting Corp.

A 1962 graduate of Belleville High School, he received his bachelor's degree from Fairleigh Dickinson University in 1967.

An active civic leader, Chieffo introduced a mass communications program into Belleville High School and was host of a cable television program called "Belleville in Review."

He was organizer of the Craig Fabin Fund, which was promoted by organized charity basketball games. He was founder of the Belleville Broncos Junior football organization and founder of a Peeewe Touch Football League in 1980. He also served as committee chairman for the founding of the Belleville High School Hall of Fame in 1977.

Born in Newark, Chieffo lived nearly all his life in Belleville.

Surviving are a daughter, Miss Tenore Ann; a son, Michael D. Jr.; and a sister, Miss Catherine Chieffo of Belleville.

A blood bank, which was scheduled for Friday, March 23 for Chieffo, will still be held according to family members. The blood drive will take place at the Chandelier Restaurant, Franklin Avenue from 5-9 p.m. All are urged to come and give blood.

Interment will take place at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. The family requests in lieu of flowers that donations will be accepted at the funeral home for the establishment of the Michael Chieffo Children's Trust Fund.

DENTALLY SPEAKING

By Drs. James D. Muglia and Paul N. De Maio

Dear Readers:

This column will serve as a weekly forum to increase our communities awareness and knowledge of dental health. By writing us at the address given below we intend to give our opinions to your dental questions based on our experience and judgment. In some cases these opinions may need to be simplified due to space limitations as well as the inability to diagnose your questions or problems completely. In these cases we strongly suggest you seek the advice of your dentist for a more complete answer.

Occasionally you may hear the response of other professionals in our community. We think it will be beneficial for you to receive the views of our other colleagues in their area of specialty.

As mentioned this is a forum and as such will exist only if there is an interest among you the readers. Only questions received through the mail will be used. Signing your name is optional. Please address inquiries to:

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kinsley

Betty and Ray Kinsley Celebrate Golden Year

Betty Vogel and Ray Kinsley were joined in wedlock March 3, 1934. Fifty years later, they are still happily married, the parents of six children, Dolly, Carol, Barbara, Raymond, Shirley and Robert and grandparents of 16 grandchildren. To celebrate the anniversary, the couple's children arranged to have them reaffirm their marriage vows with Mayor Michael Marotti performing the ceremony. Family and friends filled American Legion Post 105 to celebrate and feast with the Kinsleys. A highlight of the evening was the presentation to Ray of a gold life membership in Post 105 by Commander Pat Wynn.

Umberto's Corner

Dear Umberto,

Last week I had a perm in a beauty salon. The perm came out just top and loose around the nape of the neck. I went back to the beauty salon and showed the girl. I told her I wanted a tighter. She replied, "Once a perm is done, it cannot be redone. I can't see the point why did this happen, and praising you as a troublemaker. Do you have any method to help me?"

Ms. Mary Stewart

Dear Ms. Stewart,

Yes, I can be redone. Only if the perm has been wound in the proper way and only if it is done many weeks after you had the first perm. This happens, and praising you as a troublemaker. Do you have any method to help me?"

Town Fathers Seek A Salary Increase

By Linda Telesco

Commissioners may be paying themselves a higher salary under a new system that will combine their salaries and expense accounts.

Mayor Michael Marotti said last week that a plan to combine the present salary with the now separate expense account was "under consideration."

He also noted the change, as contemplated, could hike each Commissioner's total income for the part-time post by $500.

Under the present arrangement, each of the five Commission posts receives an annual $4,750 breaking down to $2,250 in salary and a $2,500 expense account.

Marotti said the proposal under consideration is to pay each official "an even $6,000," which he said would "come out to about the same as they get now after taxes are taken out."

The change, the Mayor explained, is an effort to do away with the confusion caused by the need to produce vouchers for tax purposes to verify charges to the expense accounts.

"There are expenses we might not make vouchers for like sending flowers or buying tickets for business reasons," he said.

Combining the salary and expense account into one sum designated as simply "salary" will end the need for vouchers, Marotti said.

The Mayor admitted; though, that the suggested $6,000 sum would actually be about $500 more than the current annual allotment even after taxation.

"If it is higher, the Commissioners deserve it," he said. "They haven't gotten a raise in at least 25 years."

Marotti noted the idea is still in its early stages and will not affect the proposed 1984 budget.

Each Unit Will Cost $100 Condominium Fee Ordinance Passed

Belleville property owners who want to convert apartments to condominiums face an application fee of $100 per unit.

Commissioners voted unanimously to establish the new fee at the March 5 meeting.

Township attorney Frank Zinna noted the fee would cover the paperwork of each application. The applications will be handled by Belleville's Rent Leveling Board.

To date, Zinna noted, only one property owner in Belleville has begun a condo conversion project and will be subject to the newly established fee.

During a February Commission caucus, William Govel of Govel Realty urged the board to reconsider the plan to set the fee at $100.

Govel is managing agent of Bridgebrook Gardens, an apartment complex on Jaramelo Street in the process of converting to condos.

Govel noted that with 250 units, Bridgebrook would be forced to pay $5250,000 just to apply for conversion. "I don't think that's fair since not all the units may be converted," he argued.

Govel's remark reflected another legality covering conversion. According to state law, qualifying senior citizens and disabled people who reside in an affected apartment may apply for exemption from conversion and obtain permission to remain in the apartment for several decades.

Govel argued it did not make sense to require owners to pay application fees, particularly such steep ones, on apartments that may not be converted for years to come.

Since the entire conversion process is relatively new statewide, Zinna suggested to Commissioners that he have some time to explore further and see what kind of fees other municipalities charge for processing applications to determine if Belleville's is "fair and reasonable."

Commissioner Joseph Grande said he did not see the necessity, calling the $100 fee per unit "perfectly reasonable." He noted, "It should be well worth it to a property owner to pay $100 for a unit he plans to sell for over $60,000."

Grande noted the application fee is a small price to pay for the kind of profits that can be realized from a condo conversion.

Belleville Wants Minish Back

County Joins Township in Its Battle Over the New Redistricting Proposal

Essex County and the Township of Belleville will jointly ask the United States Supreme Court to overturn the congressional redistricting plan established for New Jersey last month by a three-judge Federal Court.

County Executive Peter Shapiro announced that the Essex County Counsel will intervene in behalf of the county, its Board of Chosen Freeholders and Belleville in the litigation based on its conclusion that the redistricting will detrimentally affect the voters and interests of Essex County and Belleville.

"By simple arithmetic, we should be entitled to one and two-thirds Congressional Districts," Shapiro said. "This new plan fragments Essex County among four congressional districts and fails to preserve communities of interest."

The Essex County executive said the new plan is more likely to confuse voters and create administrative difficulties.

"Additionally, Essex has been predominantly represented by two members of Congress, while under the plan only one will have Essex as his or her principal constituency," Shapiro said.

Mayor Michael Marotti said "Belleville and Kearny are the only two municipalities in the state which would each be split between two congressional districts by the plan and would have their voices reduced."

He said that even the three-judge court stated in its opinion that the "disadvantage" of its plan is that it splits both of these towns.

Freeholder President Jerome D. Greco said he polled the Board of Chosen Freeholders and found strong support for an appeal.

"By a majority vote, the Freeholders express their view that this plan is unfair to Essex County," he said.

He emphasized that "the plan divides only Essex and Middlesex counties into so many districts and that the new 11th district, into which much of western Essex will fall, inappropriately includes towns as far away as Warren and Sussex counties."

The opposition of the county and the township to the new apportionment for Essex will be argued in an amicus curiae brief which they will jointly file in the Supreme Court later this month, according to county counsel David H. Ben-Asher whose office will act as lead counsel. He will be assisted by freeholder counsel Thomas M. McCormack and Belleville attorney Frank Zinna. Their brief will ask the court to grant petitions for certiorari being sought by several parties in the case and to accept the appeal and invalidate the lower court's districting decision.

The county and town will argue that the plan fails to satisfy the policy goals of compactness of districts, and of preserving boundaries of political subdivisions and cores of political districts. Their position will be that the plan's absolute adherence to numbers alone has effectively eliminated these important policy considerations and contravenes the state policy of using counties as the basic unit of government organization wherever possible.

The arguments about the fragmentation of Essex County have not been fully put forth by any of the parties to the litigation up to this time, Shapiro said.

The plan, approved on Feb. 17 by the three judges, places Milburn in the seventh congressional district with towns in Middlesex, Somerset and Union counties. It places parts of Belleville and all of Bloomfield, Glen Ridge, Montclair and Nutley in the eighth district together with towns in Morris and Passaic counties. The 11th district will join the remaining 12 western Essex municipalities with 37 municipalities located in Morris, Sussex and Warren counties. It combines in the 10th district with all of Hudson, Orange, Irvington and Hightstown.

Junior Woman's Club Donated $4,900 in 1983

In its 13th year history, the NJFWC Junior Woman's Club of Belleville is proud to announce this year's contributions as the most ever allotted to charities. The contributions for the year 1983-84 totaled $4,900.

The Junior Woman's Club of Belleville has donated monies to the various charities and organizations: Belleville Public Library for redesigning the children's room, two Belleville High School scholarships, Woman's and Sub-Junior Clubs donations; Operation Red Ribbon Inc., Passaic River Coalition, Bobby Travers Fund, Belleville Soccer Association, Care, Unicef, American Liver Foundation, Federation Fund, federated charities, Channel-13, M.S., Ronald McDonald House, Covenant House, Lupis, Make-A-Wish, American Cancer Society, Child Abuse and Battered Women.

Due to the success of several fund raising projects, the 14 members of the Junior Woman's Club of Belleville feel very proud and honored at their attempts to raise this amazing amount of money. The Belleville Juniors' successful major fund raiser this year was a dinner-fashion show which yielded all its income to the two Belleville High School scholarships and the re-designing of the children's room at the Belleville Public Library.

Also in June the Belleville Juniors were the second club in the nation to start and successfully finish the Red Ribbon campaign for the POW's and MIA's still in Vietnam. This year was a first also for attempts at an art auction which raised $625 for the restoration of the Woman's Clubhouse at 51 Rossmore Place. Due to the success of their international pot luck supper held in November, all monies profited from the event were donated to the American Liver Foundation, which is the NJFWC state project for the year 1983-84. At Christmas the Belleville Juniors held a Christmas boutique and sold cookies and plants. The income from this project was given to all federated charities of the JMD-NJSFWC.

Religious Viewpoint

A Plea for Honesty

By Rev. Robert Paul

A famous scholar, who for more than 30 years had denied the deity of the Lord Jesus Christ, recently said, "No one can honestly consider the overwhelming evidence proving the deity of the Lord Jesus Christ without becoming a Christian." Having carefully investigated the birth, life, teachings, miracles, death, resurrection and continuing influence of Jesus of Nazareth, he confessed that there is no other consistent choice. After nearly a lifetime of agnosticism and even antagonism toward Christianity, he became a devout follower of the Son of God.

C.S. Lewis, formerly a professor at Cambridge University, another who was for many years a vocal agnostic, has written several convincing books advocating belief in Jesus Christ as the only Saviour and Lord. He makes this statement: "A man, who was nearly a man, and who said the sort of things Jesus said wouldn't be a great natural teacher. He would either be a lunatic on the level with a man who says he's a poached egg, or else he would be the devil of hell; you must make the choice. Either this was and is the Son of God, or else a mad man or something worse. You can shut Him up for a demon; or you can fall at His feet and call Him Lord and God. But don't come up with any patronizing nonsense about His being a great moral teacher. He hasn't left that alternative open to us."

Many professors and students who say they cannot believe in the Bible are embarrassed by the simplest questions regarding it.

My challenge to you is to consider the claims Jesus Christ has made upon your life. I invite you to enter into a great experiment with God with an open mind. Read the Gospel of St. John, the fourth book of the New Testament through at least five times in a month.

You may wish to pray something like this each time you read: "God, if you exist, I want to know you as Saviour. I am aware of a need in my life. If you can forgive my sins and meet my needs, I want your help. If you actually interrupted history and revealed yourself to man in Jesus Christ, I want to know Him as my own personal Saviour." (See St. John 5:24.)

Four Starters Missing Next Year

Changes Ahead for 1985 Girls' Basketball Squad

By Michael Lamberti

As has been tradition with the wrap up of the girls' basketball team, we take a hypothetical look at what the girls would be facing if they were a professional team. The reason for this is that the girls, under Karen Fuccello, run a professional operation from baseline to baseline and their play is something that everyone can enjoy.

Belleville Athletic Director Jim Silvestri is having problems with four free agents. Chances are he will not be able to sign any of them for next season. Instead, the owner has decided to go with a youth movement, keeping only starting center Donna Brooks on next year's team. The other four starters, players who have been with Belleville during their rise to glory, are asking too much in their contract negotiations.

First off, Tracy Buono, a two-year starter and fine all-around athlete, is believed to have signed a lucrative contract with the New York Mets. Buono will be the team physician and will work with the catchers on the Mets' roster. Talk is that Buono might be activated into service with the Mets should John Stearns not be able to come back. Mets' owner, Nelson Doubleday, would not give details, but Buono's contract is believed to be in the six-figure range.

Loreli Wells, a four-year starter, will not return next fall. Instead, Wells has been approached by Random House Publishing to do a book on the fundamentals of man-to-man defense. Wells is considered a defensive wizard and in addition, a number of major colleges are looking to sign Wells as an assistant coach. Her knowledge of the man-to-man defense is something that many schools would love to acquire.

Dina De Aquino, another four-year starter, has been approached by Datsun to be the voice of its product on television. All De Aquino has to say is "Awesome" and the people at Datsun feel that De Aquino will get the message across better than anyone. Also, De Aquino is being closely scouted by the Yankees to pitch underhand on the major league level. The Yanks need a stopper out of the bullpen now that Goose Gosage is gone.

Finally, Jennifer Apicella, "Miss Everything" for four years, has declared her free agency and a number of NBA teams are very interested. Apicella is believed to be close to signing a lucrative contract with the New Jersey Nets, a deal worth $6 million over the next three years. Apicella will play guard with the Nets and will be the highest paid guard in the NBA.

Donna Brooks, with one year left on her contract, has agreed to a contract extension and will have a brand new east around her next fall. Brooks will play next season, but she is uncommitted the years after that. Also, head coach Karen Fuccello is still in negotiation with Silvestri on her contract for next season.

It's hard to believe that there will be a basketball season at Belleville next year without Apicella, De Aquino, Wells and Buono. During the four years that these players were on the court, Belleville compiled a 74-27 record. This past season, the girls posted a 22-7 record, the best season in school history. Over the last four seasons, Belleville improved every year, going from 15-7 in 1981 to 17-6 in 1982, 20-7 last year and 22-7 this season.

In 1983-84, Belleville advanced to the finals of the Essex County Tour-

Experienced Team Reports For Track

The Belleville track team has started practice in earnest and head coach John Tosato is looking forward to the start of the 1984 season.

The Bucs open the campaign with a home meet with Livingston on April 3. For the first time in a number of years, Tosato has an experienced team returning and the coach reports a good turnout this spring.

"We had 38 boys come out for the squad," explained Tosato. "We have a lot of returning lettermen on the team and we're ahead of schedule as far as conditioning is concerned."

Some of the athletes started with Tosato in cross country this fall and have continued running through the indoor season. The weight team, under coach Rich Ruffalo, has some good athletes returning and should keep the team, which is traditionally strong, competitive in some of the tough meets scheduled this spring.

The weight team is led by seniors Dennis Bogden and Tim Daudelin. Juniors Frank Trupia and Anthony Cappachio will also be working with the shot put, discus and javelin.

In the running department, Karl Hauschild, a senior, will compete in the intermediate hurdles and 400 meters. Bob Hutchinson, a fine cross country runner and indoor performer, will compete in the mile and two mile. Sophomore Dominick Ferry will also see action in the mile and two mile.

Felix Rodriguez will be back to compete in the triple jump and pole vault. Last season Rodriguez lettered in those events and should provide leadership there this year. Mike Siletti will see action in the middle distance events, Billy Huamani and Craig Burden will compete in the longer distances and J.R. Di Vincenzo will lead the sprinters.

"We had a good turnout of freshman runners this year," said Tosato, noting that 15 freshmen came out for the team. "I'm hoping that the freshmen will be ready to compete on the varsity by the middle of the season."

Tosato also reported that Mary Siletti has joined the staff and she will work with the jumpers this spring. Siletti joins Tosato, Ruffalo, Karen Fuccello, the girls coach and assistant girls coach, Karen Portuese. Portuese is a 1979 graduate of BHS and one of the best javelin throwers in school history.

Transition Period Is Over For the Bucs' Diamondmen

The transition, according to head coach Ralph La Conte, is over. The enthusiasm is back, the intensity is there and that winning spirit of Belleville baseball also appears to be coming home after a one-year hiatus.

For La Conte, the second year varsity coach, 1983 was a learning experience, both for him and his players. "This year," said La Conte, "The players know what I'm looking for, and I know what to expect from my players. There is some experience coming back this year and the seniors have really picked up the role as team leaders. The attitude is positive, the kids have been aggressive in practice and are working very hard."

Last season, the Bucs were 8-17 in La Conte's first turn as head coach after 15 very successful seasons as assistant to Charlie Travers and later, George Zanfani. Despite the sub par record, the Bucs' freshman team compiled a 17-4 record under Mike Welch, the jayvee team was 500, not bad considering the shifting of players through the jayvee ranks. In addition, La Conte used a great deal of underclassmen last year and now, those players are back with experience, confidence and a lot of dedication.

"We have experienced players back," said La Conte, "however, no one is assured of a starting job. Right now, we have a lot of hungry players and everyone's position is up for grabs."

Returning to center field is senior John Guarino. Last season he hit .286 and did a solid job defensively. Guarino makes good contact with the ball, has some power and will anchor the outfield.

At shortstop, Joe Borrello is the leading candidate. The senior is in his third year at the position and last year he had an exceptional second half of the season. Borrello ended up hitting over .300 after laboring around the .140 mark for a good deal of the campaign. Borrello played American Legion ball and should be solid this spring.

At second base, junior Dean Sternik leads the way. Sternik stopped in mid-way through the 1983 season and finished up strong. Senior Anthony Lombardi leads the way at catcher. Lombardi was named second team, NJJHL last year and barring an injury, which kept him on the sideline for a while last year, Lombardi should provide stability at the battery position.

Pitching, the vital link to a team's success, is anchored by senior Frank Tursi and junior Tommy Reid. Last year these two men accounted for six of the eight Buc victories. Tursi was 4-1, Reid, 2-3.

A number of players are vying for additional positions. On the mound, Mario Silvestri, Joe Tribuca, Dave Alfieri, Danny Ruggiero and Mark Palumbo are all looking for pitching assignments on the varsity. The catching position also has a number of candidates. John Auriemma, a sophomore, Mike Debelak, a junior, and Andy Horashinski, also a junior, are vying for playing time.

The infield sees versatile Allan Ruopp, the leading hitter on the Legion team last summer, trying out at third base. Anthony Cook is a candidate for either third or first base. Joe Feith is working the infield. Joe Mullaney is battling Borrello at shortstop and Brian Cook, a "sleeper" according to La Conte, is looking good at first base.

"There is no substitute for experience," warns La Conte, "It's good to be hungry. The kids want it

(Please see 'La Conte' on page 12.)

Soccer Association Holding Annual Candy Fund Raiser

The Belleville Soccer Association has begun its candy sale to raise funds for its upcoming season. Members of the club comprise of players from age groups 6-7, 8-9, 10-11, 12-13, 14-15, and 16-17, their parents, coaches and interested supportive adults.

Belleville Soccer Association teams play in Northern Counties Youth Leagues, Progresso Suburban Youth League and travel and compete around the state. The club is self supporting and depends on these fund raisers to buy equipment, uniforms and pay expenses. It is a non-profit group devoted solely to the youth of Belleville in the sportsmanship of soccer.

The drive will continue through April 17. The club will expand to the older divisions with community help. Please support the club by buying a bar or two.

Basketball Fever is Catching Throughout the Country

The basketball season has been winding down, both on the high school and collegiate levels and the spirit of play has intensified to the point where no team is considered a shoo-in for a victory and a Cinderella team might once again come away with a championship.

First off, on the high school circle, Camden High won the Group IV championship for the second time in three seasons, downing a good Paterson Kennedy squad, 69-49 in the finals at Rutgers University. For Camden, Kevin Walls, who will be attending Louisville next fall, scored "just" 26 points to lead his team. Walls averaged over 43 points a game for Camden in his senior campaign and broke the single season scoring record. For his career, the senior tallied over 2,700 points.

The Panthers' head coach, Clarence Turner, noted after the victory that he felt this year's squad was the best team he has ever coached. For the season, Camden went 31-0, playing some of the top teams in New Jersey and the United States. You can imagine how good they must be, considering that past teams have included the likes of Milt Wagner and Billy Thompson. The Camden team of 1982, with Thompson leading the way, finished 27-4, won the Group IV crown and was considered by many polls, the top team in the United States. Camden's four losses during the '82 campaign came to clubs outside of New Jersey. In 1981, the Panthers were 30-0 when Neptune pulled the stunner of all times, whipping Camden, 76-56 in the state semi.

Speaking of Neptune, its girls' team pulled a similar stunner last weekend, defeating Plainfield by 14 points, 69-55 in the finals of Group IV. Plainfield, which eliminated Belleville in the Group IV, Section II finals, came in undefeated and ranked number two in the state. It was the Cardinals' third straight try at the Group IV crown and for the third time, they came up empty. In 1982, Atlantic City won by 12 points, last season, it was Hamilton West by 12 and this year, Neptune by 14. Coach Harry Lambert must be looking for that magic to carry his team all the way.

The Clifford Scott girls' squad, winner of two straight Group II crowns, moved to Group III this year and won a state title once more. Led by Sandra Prophet and Melissa Stephenson, the Scotties whipped arch rival Shabazz to win the Group III, Section II title and then went on to capture a state crown.

In a similar feat, Roselle High School boys' squad, winner of two straight Group I titles, moved to Group II this year and won another crown. It's amazing at the remarkable success of these young athletes and the championships that the schools seem to bring home year in and year out.

On the collegiate level, I'm sure many fans are glued to the television set, catching the big games in the NCAA basketball tourney. As of press time, there were 16 teams left in the tournament, all vying for a shot at Seattle and the final four. In the Eastern Regional, a big match-up is set for tonight with Indiana and North Carolina battling in a semifinal game. The other East semi features Syracuse and surprising Virginia, perhaps the Cinderella squad of the '84 tourney.

Indiana and North Carolina last met in championship play on March 30, 1981, the championship game of the NCAA tourney. That night, which will be remembered by the American people as the day President Reagan was shot, saw Indiana come away a 63-50 victor.

This season, the Ter Heals are favored by many experts to win a second championship in three years and avenge the loss to Bobby Knight's team. There aren't many weaknesses for Carolina, a team with only two losses the entire season.

Virginia, which many people wrote off early because Ralph Sampson graduated

BUC SHOTS

By Michael Lamberti

Sports Editor

last spring, has made a strong bid, upsetting Arkansas after a close call with Iowa in the opening round. Without Sampson, Virginia seems to play a more relaxed game and many feel that this team could pull an N.C. State miracle of '83, despite losing 11 games during the season.

In the Mid-East, Kentucky is the favorite, but it has to get by a giant obstacle when the team plays Louisville tonight in a regional semi. When Kentucky and Louisville play, bedlam usually occurs. Last spring, they met in the regional final and Louisville won by 14 points in overtime. This season, in an early contest, Kentucky romped by 24 points, but chances are, it won't be like that this time around.

In the Mid-West, De Paul is the emotional favorite to send Ray Meyer home with a national title after 42 years of trying. You can't help but like and admire the way Meyer coaches. It would be nice to see the good guy come away with the title. To get out of the Mid-West, the Blue Demons will have to get by Houston, last year's runner-up and a team loaded with talent this year.

In the West, Georgetown is favored, but don't overlook the University of Washington. Don't forget, the final four is being played on Washington's home court this year and can you imagine the reception the Huskies would get should they advance to Seattle?

Who do you like for the championship on April 2? It's a wide open field, I'm sure you'll agree. There is an exciting weekend of action set in the NCAA tourney, if you are a fan of college basketball, don't miss this bonanza of talent.

Coming home, congratulations to Jennifer Apicella on being named to the Parade Magazine All-American team for the second straight season. It is quite an honor to be named to a prestigious poll for two years. One thing, however, which seems a little puzzling. How does the all-time leading scorer in New Jersey history, a girl who averaged 35.4 ppg, scored 3,105 points in her career and shot 85 percent from the foul line, make four team with three girls from New Jersey finishing ahead of her? I think, in total honesty, that Apicella was the best high school player in New Jersey this winter. She played the majority of the season with a broken wrist, yet missed just two games. It is indeed an honor to be named to the poll, no doubt, but her placement among the other New Jersey candidates is a bit questionable.

Our spring sports are under way with the opening games and matches set for early April. Optimism is the tone for the Belleville basketball team, under second year man, Ralph La Conte. On the waters of the Passaic, Sam Giuffrida figures to lead a strong crew which should challenge for the regattas in May. Rocco Colucci sees a major rebuilding job for his golf team this spring, with Jimmy Apple leading the way. The track team, with John Tosato in his second year, should be tough in the upper distances and weights, but will have problems in the sprints and hurdles. Finally, the girls' softball team, behind the fine coaching of Carl Corino, returns an experienced batters but has some gaps to fill in the infield. Lenny D'Armentio is leading the tennis team, which faces a difficult schedule against a solid Bergen County opponent. Stay tuned for some exciting action as the school year slowly draws to a conclusion.

Here is the answer to last week's quiz. The question was, name the teams in the 1978 NCAA tourney final and the MVP of the game? The answer: Kentucky and Duke played in the finals with Kentucky winning, 94-88. Jack Givens scored 41 points and was the MVP. Duke's starting team consisted of Jim Sparhawk, Gene Banks, Mike Givinski, Bob Bender and Kenny Denard. All five players were underclassmen and many felt the Blue Devils would be untouchable the next three years.

For this week's quiz, name the teams in the 1974 NCAA final and the score of the game.

Heard At Ringside

By Steve H. Frank

Co-promoters Joe Verne and Joe Hand informed, via publicist Sy Roseman, they have signed the following fighters for the Playboy Hotel-Casino in Atlantic City, Wednesday, March 14 - junior welterweight Joe Frazier, Jr. and welterweight Hugh (Buttens) Kearney for six-rounders. Also slated in four-rounders will have junior welterweight Murray Frazier and welterweight Ed Priester. Verne-Hand have welterweights Roger Stafford and Julie Nash slinking leather at each other in the main go.

Former 5th ranked 160-pounder in the world of boxing and Pennsylvania State champion Jimmy Beechman, who recently joined the Joe Verne Boxing Club to train Verne's team of professional and amateur glove slingers, fought 5 world champions among his many ring foes including Joey Giardello, Sugar Ray Robinson, Nino Benvenuti, Kid Gavilan and Terry Downs. He also fought such popular fighters as Holly Mims, Virgil Akims and Spider Webb.

Legally declared manager of allegedly retired WBA junior welterweight champ Aaron Pryor of Cincinnati, Buddy La Rosa, said Tuesday, "The Battle of Ohio" might take place after all. La Rosa claims he talked with Dave Wolf, manager of WBA lightweight titleholder Ray Mancini of Youngstown, Ohio and they're interested. Cleveland's Municipal Stadium operators said the stadium will be made available for a Pryor-Mancini fight. La Rosa added, "After we dispose of Mancini we're going after a show-down with Sugar Ray Leonard if he's still active."

Thomas W. Mc Gee, in his ninth year as the Massachusetts Speaker of the House from the 11th Essex District of West Lynn, Mass. was formerly New England featherweight and later lightweight champion. From the boxing arena he entered the political arena. Mc Gee also returned to finish his schooling. He earned a Bachelor Degree and Doctorate in law at Boston University.

Lightweight Tyrone Crawley, 25, of Philadelphia is currently relaxing in between matches. Crawley was scheduled to battle Howard Davis on Jan. 15, in Atlantic City but Davis became ill so Tyrone KO'd Californian Steve Romero in the 4th round. Crawley now has a 15-11 record and is in the 5th spot in both WBA and WBC ratings. His managerial and promotional rights are held by the Washington, D.C. combine of Gil War's and brothers Brent & Gene Molinsky. Bill "Smiley" Heyward trains Crawley at Champ's Gym in Philadelphia. Sy Roseman, popular publicist, handles the public relations for the combine.

Rocky Lockridge of Maple Shade, N.J. pulled a stunning upset with a knockout at 1:31 of the 1st round to capture the WBA junior lightweight crown from the head of Roger Mayweather, native of Grand Rapids, Mich. now of Las Vegas. New Lockridge caught Mayweather in the stomach with a left hook and when the jaw followed by a thunderous right to the same spot and Mayweather went to slumberland. The bout was fought at the Civic Center in Beaumont, Texas. Lockridge had lost two bids for the title to Eusebio Pedroza and lost the USBA title to Juan La Porte. This time Lockridge was determined to win the title and wasted no time in upping his record to 33-3. Mayweather in suffering his first defeat in now 17-1. Rocky the 4-1 underdog is managed by Lou Duva. Roger is managed by Billy Baxter.

Unbeaten light heavyweight (WBA & WBC) champion Michael Spinks of Philadelphia retained his crown by taking a unanimous, but close, 12-round decision from Eddie Davis of Freeport, N.Y. Judges scored the bout: Larry Hazzard 118-111, Joe Cortez 119-109 and Carol Castellano 115-114, all for Spinks. The bout was fought at Atlantic City's Resorts International. Spinks said, "Twight (Braxton) Muhammad Qawi is who I want next in either April or May. Details for this match are being worked out."

Manuel "Manny" Steward, manager/trainer of a stable of fighters, must be doing something right. He handles WBC junior middleweight champion Tommy Hearns; WBC welterweight titlist Milton Mc Crory; NABF junior middleweight champ Jackie Beard; USBA junior middleweight champ Duane Thomas and several National Amateur champions (future professionals). Recently Steward became chief stock holder in Detroit's famous Kronk Gymnasium and was voted the director of the corporation.

New York's Juan La Porte will defend his WBC featherweight championship belt in San Juan, Puerto Rico, March 31, when he slugs it out with challenger Wilfredo Gomez of Puerto Rico. The only fighters recognized as sole champions of their divisions by boxing two major ranking bodies, WBA & WBC, were honored last Tuesday at Madison Square Garden's Hall of Fame Room by the World Boxing Council, middleweight Marvelous Marvin Hagler and light heavyweight Michael Spinks. Hagler was named "Boxer of the Year" and Spinks was voted "Champion of the Year." Also honored were WBC junior lightweight champion Hector "The Clutch" Camacho as presented an honorable mention for being boxer of the year. WBC welterweight champion Milton Mc Crory and challenger Colin Jones were honored for their fight of the year, a 12-round title fight with Mc Crory winning the title by the narrowest margin.

Dave Wolf, manager of Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini of Youngstown, Ohio, said, "Ray must fight Livingston Bramble of Passaic, N.J. in May. If Ray wins he will then take on Hector "The Clutch" Camacho of New York City." Our opinion - Bramble has a good chance of upsetting Wolf and Mancini's plan.

Just in case anyone is interested, Sal Algieri, formerly of Lodi, N.J., now of Clark's Summit, Pa., husband/manager of former women's lightweight champion Cathy "Cats" Davis, is talking about writing a book on the "Cat." He didn't say if it will be fiction or true story.

LaConte Happy With Team

and that's good. However, we need the playing time and consequently, we have scheduled a number of scrimmages.

The Bucs, because of the weather, couldn't practice outdoors until last Saturday. Ironically, that first outdoor practice was the team's first scrimmage, a three-hour game with Bloomfield. "I saw some good things in that game," said the coach. "I see some depth in certain positions, I saw some kids who can hit the ball."

The Bucs battled Central High School last Tuesday. Yesterday, they were in Glen Ridge and tomorrow afternoon, will be at North Arlington. On Saturday, the team travels to Verona and next Tuesday the Bucs host Immaculate Conception at the Four Diamonds in Belleville. The Four Diamonds is located near Clara Mass Medical Center for those interested in seeing the scrimmage. After Immaculate, it's off to Toms River South for a scrimmage on the 27th, Queen of Peace, away on the 28th and Bloomfield, away on the 29th. Finally, on the 31st, the Bucs play in Union, before the regular season opener on April 3 at home against Barringer. "We'll be prepared this season," LaConte said. "If we lose, it's going to be because the other team was better than us, not because we handed them the game."

The early signs are positive, the feeling is optimistic. It's a long season, but the early indications are good for the players and fans of Belleville baseball.

NOTES: The Bucs were 12-11 in 1982. George Zuffini's final season as head coach. In 1981, the Bucs were 22-7 and champions of the Greater Newark Tournament. The home opener with Barringer is questionable because the home field might not be ready. After the Barringer game, the Bucs play the next four games on the road.

But Squad Will Miss Giuffrida and Meylers Next Year Looks Exciting One For Belleville High School Grapplers

By Dino Ibelli

Despite the losses of standout wrestlers Mike Giuffrida and Jimmy Meyler, the juniors, sophomores and freshmen of this year's Belleville wrestling team should make 1984-85 just as exciting for grappling fans.

At 101 pounds, Tim Buckley returns next year as a junior with a load of experience. Buckley finished the season with an 8-8 record and showed marked improvement over the second half of the season.

Junior Dom Cerreto figures to be one of the leaders next season. At 108 pounds, Cerreto came through with a marvelous record of 23-3. Next year, he should pass Chris Musmanno in the all time victory column at Belleville High. Cerreto advanced as far as the regionals this year and next season, will be ranked as one of New Jersey's best at 108.

Freshman Vince Capriglione made an instant impact on the varsity team. Vince finished the season with a fine record of 6-4-1. For a freshman to do so well against some very stiff competition should give that athlete a lot of confidence in the next three years.

The middle weights should also be solid. Vince Padula did a fine job this season in limited action for the Bucs. Another junior, Cami Rispoli, was injured for most of the season, but he should be a valuable team member next fall.

Luke Siletti was a very pleasant surprise for coach Gene D'Allesandro. The junior posted a 14-8 record in his first season of varsity wrestling. Next year, Siletti is gunning for a spot in the regions, along with another impressive junior, Ralph Zarro.

Zarro was 15-9-1 this year and took third in the districts. He advanced to the regions before being eliminated and next year, Zarro could be a big entry in the regions. Not enough can be said of the incredible year that Mike Gibbons put together this winter. The junior finished 26-2, winning his first 26 matches before losing in the regional finals to a Clifton wrestler. That result was termed "controversial" by the Belleville fans because of the possible stalling tactic employed by the Clifton wrestler. Gibbons won the Essex County championship, the Bloomfield Tournament and a second straight district crown. He will be a solid choice at 185 pounds to continue his success.

Finally, at heavyweight, Mark Criscione, a freshman, finished at 5-5 against some stiff competition. Criscione, with experience and work, should continue in the long line of Belleville heavyweight wrestlers who have won by matches in the closing minutes. Who can forget the heroes of George D'Allesandro, Scott Grant and others who came through to win a match when it appeared that Belleville was on the verge of defeat.

With a 14-0-1 record to show for 1983-84 and a host of experienced wrestlers coming back next winter, the future certainly looks good for the Belleville wrestling team.

Several Changes are Waiting Ahead For 1984-85 Girls' Basketball Team

nament for the first time. On the way there, the girls plastered Mt. St. Dominic, ran away from Montclair Immaculate, edged Irvington in a thriller at BHS and lost to Shabazz by five in the finals. Then, Belleville advanced farther than ever before in state play, defeating Morris Knolls and Morrisstown to advance to the finals of the Group IV, Section II playoffs. There, with a possible sectional crown on the line, Belleville fell to a buzzsaw named Plainfield and were eliminated, 54-42. The game marked the end to the fine careers of four seniors.

The 22 victories by Belleville also represent the highest win total in school history. Along the way, Belleville battled a tough schedule this season and obviously fared very well. Its only losses came to Teaneck twice, Ridgewood, Nutley, Plainfield, Shabazz and Bayonne. Teaneck lost to Bayonne in the finals of Group IV, Section II. Bayonne advanced to the state semi before losing to Plainfield. Shabazz lost just two games this year, having to even out a game with Cliffard Scott, in the finals of Group III, Section II. Plainfield, of course, was undefeated until it lost a stunner to Neptune in the Group IV finals last weekend at Rutgers. Ridgewood and Nutley also had good seasons and Belleville defeated both of those teams in the rematch later in the season.

There were many highlights along the way. To top it off was the game with Bayonne, not because of the final score, but because that was the game that Apicella would become the all-time leading scorer in state history. Later, Jenny would break 3,000 career points, doing that in the victory over Morris Knolls.

It wasn't all peaches and cream for the senior, all-American, however. There was a broken finger at the outset of the campaign, later a sprained ankle that hampered her in a two-point loss to Nutley. Then, on Jan. 17, 1984, Apicella was pushed into a wall on a fast break and came away with a broken wrist. Belleville went on to defeat Paterson Eastside, but the immediate concern was Apicella. The senior came right back, missing just two games and continuing her torrid pace. In her first game after the injury, Jenny scored 41 points in a losing cause at Ridgewood, then injured her ankle late in the contest and was in Mountaintop Hospital for a good part of the afternoon. Luckily, the injury was just a sprain and the following game, Jenny scored a career high 51 points as Belleville stopped Passaic.

The girls were 5-3 in the NNJLL Division 2. Perhaps their most exciting victory came against Irvington, in the semifinals of the county tourney. Belleville won, 56-54, as Cheryl Marion, a junior, hit a big jump shot with 25 seconds left in regulation time to win the game. It was Belleville's first victory over Irvington since 1980 and avenged losses to the Cambers in 1983 and 1982.

As for the starters, Apicella's stats were incredible. This season, she scored 957 points, averaged 35.4 ppg. and shot 85 percent from the foul line. She probably would have scored 1,000 points for the season had it not been for her broken wrist. For her career, Jenny tallied 3,105 points, an average of 31.8 ppg. over four years.

Apicella scored 457 points as a freshman, 779 as a soph, 912 last season and 957 this year. She led her team to two straight Holiday tourney championships and was named the MVP of that tourney for three straight years. Recently, she was named to the fourth team, Parade All-American for the second straight year. That was a bit questionable, considering that three players from New Jersey placed ahead of her, but Jenny's accomplishments speak for themselves. Her play will never be forgotten, her all out style, something that everyone can look back on.

For De Aquino, she tallied 274 points this season, an average of 9.4 ppg. However, it was De Aquino's uncanny passing ability that was her biggest accomplishment. Dina led the team in assists and had a tremendous outside shot. She also developed a fine move to the basket and was a tough rebounder. A hyperextended knee near the end of the season did not slow her down and now she concentrates on the softball season where she holds just about every pitching record in school history. The senior has won 35 games over three years, 32 of them coming the last two seasons. In addition, De Aquino was a fine tennis player and outstanding student. You can't say enough about her talent, charisma and school spirit.

Buono, a two-year starter, is an outstanding athlete. Her team play this season and leadership on the court was her most valuable asset. The senior is known for her play on the softball field, but she is also a tremendous volleyball player and dedicated basketball player. On top of her athletic skills, she is an unbelievable student, ranked sixth in her class and considering the Ivy League next fall. She plans on becoming a doctor one day and would like to continue her athletic career on the collegiate level, although she admits that school comes first.

Wells, a four-year starter, is an outstanding defensive player and developed into a fine leader on the court. Fuccello considers Wells the best defensive player she has ever coached, a comment not to be taken lightly. Fuccello's teams in the past have always been good defensively and to say that Wells is the best of them all is quite an accomplishment. Wells played the top scorers from the opposing teams and always turned in a solid performance. Once again, she will be very tough to replace.

As for next season, Donna

Brooks figures to lead a cast of good athletes. Brooksie, a three-year starter, averaged 10.6 ppg. and shot 57 percent from the foul line, but stats good for second place on the team this year. She is an excellent leaper and has improved markedly over the past two years. Also, Brooksie is a super softball player and fine volleyball performer. You will hear a great deal about her next winter.

Cheryl Marion, Desiree Johansen, Angel Greco, Sheri Phelps and Sheri Sorrentino will also be back next season. The girls put together a fine jayvee team for Debbie Meola this winter and now the spotlight will be on them.

The season: fantastic. The memories: long lasting. It was a great season, will be very hard to duplicate and is something that everyone in town took part in. Next season, a new cast of players, a new era in the heights of Belleville girls' basketball.

The coaches are Joseph and Michael DeRiggi.

Belleville Americans — The Belleville Americans sponsored by Caputo's Florist were formed two years ago. They are a Division III team with boys ages 12-13. The team is coached by Ron DePiro and assisted by Rick DePrizio. The players are: Steve Tice, Kenny Sainz, Bobby Scricco, Mark Tobia, Ronnie DePiro, Steven Hywell, John Scoriolla, Chris Oese, Tony Narciso, Ray Zamloot, Anthony Cultrara, Anthony Zarro, Fabrizio DiCarlo and Glogioza.

Belleville Suns — The Belleville Suns sponsored by JNC of Nutley and Rossi Travel of Nutley, are coached by Ralph DeToma and George Ricci. They finished the fall season with a 5-1-3 record. Members of the team are: Alan Constantino, Richard Constantino, Dominick Costa, Brian Davis, John Del Mauro, Joseph Del Mauro, Joseph DeRiggi, David DeToma, Dennis Dework, James Landon, David Liloia, Christopher Ricci, Jason Ventola, Richard Quine and Billy Zigmund.

Belleville Blast — In 1980 the Belleville Blast was formed by the Belleville Soccer Association as a Division VI team, consisting of 6-7 years old. The team was coached by Diane Travers and Bob Dorrey. Frank Koch was added to the coaching staff this year. The team competes in the Northern counties soccer league, against teams as Bayonne, Harrison and Kearny.

School Board Trustees and Parents Disagree About Controversial Alcohol-Drug Program

The program serves students who may be experiencing alcohol problems, or whose parents are involved in alcohol abuse, which causes the students other problems.

Gabe Nazziola, who was the most outspoken of the trustees during the presentation, said that while the program could indeed prove fruitful, he doesn't wish to see it housed in the Belleville school system.

"I think it is a great program and anything which would save just one child from destroying his or her life on drugs and alcohol is a plus," Nazziola said, "but it should be housed outside the school building where we do not have to be responsible for the program officials' actions. There is a confidentiality factor which must be concerned as well as the administration's right to know what children are going to the counselor. Mrs. Brach says that the children are seen confidentially but school officials should know where the children are when they visit the counselor.

"They also want to check our tardiness and absentee rates for children," Nazziola continued. "They believe that there is a strong relationship between alcoholism and absenteeism. But what if a child is out for an extended time because of an illness and then is tardy for several days. These people will call and investigate if an alcoholism problem exists in the home. Now is that fair to the child or his family?"

"The organization also said that this program will not cost the Belleville school district one penny," he concluded, "but they want us to provide an office, a phone, a locked desk and a locked filing cabinet at our cost. What I do not understand is if they do not keep records of the children's visits — and they claim they do not — then why do they need a locked cabinet? There are a lot of distortions and politicking which went on behind the scenes that the board dislikes."

NCA officials repeated several times during the course of the evening that they were "willing to negotiate" with the board to develop a program which would be favorable to the Board of Education and its policies.

"There is nothing in our written proposal which is written in stone," said Brach. "We are open to any suggestions and comments the board wants to make in the proposal. We are here to work with you, not against you."

But the fact that the proposal was not "formal" upset several board members.

"I do not see how the Board of Education can act on a program which we know very little about," said President Grace Purdie. "At this time there are three proposals which have been given to us from this council and changes are constantly being made in them. We cannot vote on something like this at this time."

Mario DiMaggio, principal of the Middle School where the program will take place if approved by the board, also was against the implementation of the project into the Belleville school system.

"My staff has reviewed this proposal and is not in favor of it the way it stands now. We are in favor of the group coming in and training our teachers so they can work with the children," said DiMaggio. "I am also concerned because this proposal does not elaborate on the role administration plays in the program. These counselors will be in the building, but who is in charge of them and their actions?"

Joseph Parisio, who works for the county prosecutor's office and tours the county giving lectures on drug and alcohol abuse, told the board the "program would be an asset to the community."

"I say that this program is good not because Belleville has massive problems where drugs and alcohol are concerned, but because Belleville is a community which has always displayed a progressive system where drug awareness is concerned. I was giving lectures in front of 300 and 400 persons in Belleville when I had a hard time getting a dozen to turn out in any other community in this county. Belleville residents care. This type of program will not be a threat to the community. It can only help our cause."

But members of the Belleville board just don't seem to agree. — Capanuzzi

Assistance Board Reduces Welfare Director Position

Russo worked actively in Pizzi's election campaign last spring. Pizzi won his first term on the Commission in May, and critics of the internal controversy charge the director's post is a reward for Russo who is one of the 12 applicants for the job.

Several citizens interrogated Pizzi relentlessly on the matter at Monday's Commission meeting, questioning whether it was even appropriate for Russo to vote on the change since she is an applicant for the position.

"She did vote Friday, but she will not vote on who will get the position," Pizzi said. He noted that the four remaining panel members would cast the other votes. None of the other members are vying for the position, according to Pizzi.

He explained the change was made after a study of other communities revealed that most of them operated a welfare department with a part-time director. "If we can save some money, then we should try to and I think we can do that here. We don't need a full-time director any longer," said Pizzi.

According to information provided by Ippolito, the welfare department has functioned with four full-time employees: a director, an investigator, a senior clerk-bookkeeper, and a receptionist/clerk, since 1974. That number was reduced to three when O'Toole retired. The former director was "near the top of the salary scale" when she left, according to Pizzi.

The 1983 scale for the full-time job was set at a minimum of $19,856 to a maximum of $22,397. The same post for 1984 ranges from $21,047 to $23,740.

Pizzi stated Monday he expected to reap a savings of about $9,000 by making the position part-time. However, when asked what the new salary or hours for the job would be, he said, "that has not been determined yet."

However, Ippolito claims the change would be "a disaster for the department," since the caseload has been increasing over the years and since the Belleville department, he noted, has extended the programs it offers beyond what most other communities provide.

According to the acting director's annual report for last year, there was a 64 percent increase in active caseloads over the year before.

Specifically, the report states the department handled an average of 885 cases in 1983, up from 542 in 1982. Also the number of persons served rose to 904 from 554 the prior year.

In fact, Ippolito said the present state of operating with only three full-timers was already a problem and last month he made a formal request for more personnel to handle the increased load.

"I asked for more and they're trying to cut," he said, listing some of Belleville's programs as Food Stamps, Outreach, Home Energy Assistance, Medicaid and Medicare applications and more.

The employee also notes that besides reducing the work force dangerously, the new change could cost the welfare department what he calls, "a comfortable relationship with the state" which results in 75 percent state aid for the township.

He said if the operation does not meet with state approval, Belleville could lose some of its funding and would have to raise money locally to support programs or else cut services to the needy.

Ippolito said he feels the job change was made without proper study of all the consequences. Also, he claims it was wrong of the board to take "such a drastic action without the input of employees."

He continued, "I feel this board acted improperly and I will ask the Commissioners to suspend the board's authority until this change can be studied as thoroughly as it should be."

According to a survey made by The Times of 10 surrounding communities, the following have full-time welfare directors: Bloomfield, Nutley, Montclair, East Orange and Orange.

Of those communities, two have a population higher than Belleville's, two are the same, and Nutley's is lower.

Surveyed communities with part-time directors are Verona, Caldwell, Cedar Grove, Glen Ridge and West Orange. All have populations of less than 15,000 except for West Orange, which is on a par with Belleville's 36,000 population count.

In addition to the controversy over the post, the Local Assistance Board is accused of holding two meetings, March 14 and March 20, without proper advertisement according to Open Public Meetings Law.

Board chairman Ralph Risoli has responded that the first meeting was advertised, although no evidence was produced.

Meanwhile, board secretary Morello said the Tuesday meeting was an official continuation of the March 14 session which had been announced.

Belleville Man a Finalist

A top prize of $200,000 in cash will be at stake when the New Jersey Lottery holds a "Pick-6 Lotto" Bonus Drawing today, March 22, at the Ocean County Mall in Toms River.

Lottery Executive Director Hazel Frank Gluck announced that 150 finalists, including Jerry Iannuzzelli of Belleville, will compete for a total of $335,000 in prizes during the drawing, which will begin at 12:15 p.m. near Bamberger's.

The finalists won their ways into the drawing by matching, in exact order, the five-digit bonus numbers picked Thursday evenings as part of the televised drawings for the "Pick-6 Lotto" weekly game. Entered in the March 22 drawing are those winners whose claims were received by the Lottery in Trenton by Feb. 15. Additional Bonus Drawings will be announced in the future.

In addition to the top $200,000 prize, the Ocean County Mall drawing will decide a second prize of $50,000, one third prize of $25,000, one fourth prize of $10,000 and fifth through 10th prizes of $2,500 each. The remaining 140 finalists will receive $250 consolation prizes.

HAZELCREST MANOR NURSING HOME INC.

The Hazelcrest Manor Nursing Home is located at 60
Hazelwood Road in Bloomfield, phone number is
(201) 743-2366.

Here parents and other close relatives who have reached the Golden Age of retirement, and prefer the company of their own generation can find the kind of pleasant and relaxed atmosphere of leisure which they have spent so much of their life earning. They discriminate to no one.

Friendly, Professional care is only part of the extensive services offered here. They desire to add years to SENIOR CITIZENS lives and LIFE to their years.

Physicians and pharmacists are available and each guest is supervised with constant care. Controlled diets, if necessary will be carefully prepared in the clinically clean, sanitary facilities of their well stocked kitchens.

You will be happy you chose Hazelcrest Manor Nursing Home.....
