For New Garbage Contract

Two Collectors Submit Widely Varying Bids

Two competitors submitted widely varying bids for Belleville's new scavenger contract at a special meeting held Monday.

Belleville's present scavenger, Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) of Fairfield came in the high bidder with base price proposals of a one year contract at $844,874, a three-year contract at $2,654,382, or a five-year contract at $4,732,460.

Lower bids were submitted by Haul Away, Inc., a Hohoken company seeking, for the first time, the Belleville contract. Haul-Away's offer is a one-year contract at $604,000, a three-year contract at $1,927,000 or a five-year contract at $3,444,400.

"We'll have to look into this further," said Mayor Michael Marotti after the session. Marotti said he had never heard of Haul Away before but wanted to find out more about them since their bid was so low.

"We'll see what other towns they work for and if those places are satisfied," said Marotti. "Their quotes are low. We'll just look into it to make sure they're all right," he added.

Commissioners Joseph McGreevy, Joe Grande and Michael Pizzi were also present Monday. Commissioner Ralph DiRuggiero did not attend the special session.

Representing BFI was the firm's president, Thomas Loy, who asked Commissioners for permission to examine more closely the bid proposal of his competitor after the meeting.

When asked later if he found anything questionable in the Haul-Away papers, Loy replied, "Everything seems to be all right."

Belleville's one-year $598,425 contract with BFI expires Sept. 10 and Commissioners hoped to get as economical a contract as possible.

The special meeting this week was called when only one bidder, BFI, showed up at the first session slated for taking bids on July 17.

At the time, Commissioners rejected BFI's bid, unopened, explaining they preferred to readvertise to get more competition.

Officials also noted they have not been entirely pleased with the services of BFI which has been Belleville's garbage collection company since January 1983.

Mayor Marotti previously explained residents complained about garbage not being collected until early or mid-afternoon on some days although the agreement was for BFI to complete collections in the morning.

Marotti said Commissioners expect to award a new contract at the Aug. 14 township meeting.

Papasidero Steps Down As Buc Coach

By Mike Lamberti

In what has to be considered shocking news, head boys' basketball coach Joe Papasidero announced his resignation from his job as coach and teaching position at Belleville High School.

Papasidero, a 1971 graduate of Belleville High School, will be leaving education to pursue other business interests. A 1975 graduate of Trenton State College, Papasidero started coaching basketball at Wood Ridge High School, learning the "traps" from one of the best in the area, Herb Cohen.

In 1979, Wood Ridge posted a 25-1 record and won the Group I championship under the direction of Cohen and Papasidero. Shortly thereafter, in a stormy debate, Papasidero was selected as the new basketball coach at BHS, succeeding Dan Grasso who had stepped down following the 1978-79 season.

Although Papasidero's selection came under a certain amount of scrutiny, the coach quickly proved himself on the floor. He took a team that had not won more than five games in the last five years to an 11-13 campaign. (Please see "Hooper" on page 12.)

Accidents Will Happen!

A Little Too Close — A Times reporter came across this traffic accident which occurred last Thursday afternoon at the corner of Greylock Parkway and Passaic Avenue. There was damage to the car, but according to Police Officer Vincent Cosenzo who was on the scene, no one was seriously injured.

Fire Hydrant Flushing Next On Joralemon

Public Works Commissioner Joseph Grande has announced the site of the township's next fire hydrant flushing, which is being conducted as part of the program to combat the community's dirty water problem.

Beginning the week of Aug. 6, Joralemon Street south to Mill Street and Union Avenue, west to the Bloomfield line will be flushed. Residents are reminded that the work will be conducted during the early morning hours.

For more information please call the public works department.

Township's Lack of Action Upsets Local Businessman

During his three years as a businessman in the Valley section of town, Richard DeMarco has proven time and time again to be one who takes pride in his community. But the auto body shop owner feels that there are others who do not take the same amount of pride in their property, and the township is doing little to correct the situation.

"I purchased property located at 7-33 Cortlandt St. from the Erie Lackawanna Railroad earlier this year," said DeMarco. "The property is the site of a former coal yard and it is really a mess. So the township wrote me a letter saying to clean up the area, which I have every intention of doing, but there is only one problem — the piece of property adjacent to mine is owned by Con-Rail and it also is a mess, but the town is not doing anything to make them clean it up. In fact, the contractors I have gathered to do the clean-up job are afraid of getting injured because it is such a mess back there."

The major problem confronting clean-up workers is a partially collapsed wooden trestle which was damaged during a fire which took place on the property almost 10 years ago, and workers are worried that the structure will collapse during the clean up operation. DeMarco would like Con Rail to come in and remove the trestle before he starts his clean up operation, thus assuring the safety of his clean up crew.

"There was a house on the property which was also destroyed by the fire," said DeMarco, as he led a Times' reporter through the thick-weeded lot. "And as you can see, the burnt-out frame of the building is still standing here. That is ridiculous. All these years, someone could have been severely hurt. And what does this look like for the town, having something like this mess laying around for so

Camper Controversy Causing Uproar in Belleville

No Parking Allowed — Owners of campers and trailers used for recreational purposes are finding themselves with no place to park, thanks to a township ordinance which prohibits the trailers to park in driveways.

By Linda Telesco

Township residents who enjoy camping outings may discover that finding a campsite is the least of their problems this summer. Another dilemma is finding a suitable parking place for campers and trailers used for recreational purposes.

It's an issue that local officials tried to downplay in the past, but a recent complaint of "selective enforcement" of the township's parking laws may force Commissioners to act on the matter soon.

Carol and Al Stauss of Suzan Court brought their complaints to Commissioners at recent meetings. Owners of a one-family house, the couple told Commissioners they were recently visited by a representative of the township's code enforcement department and told they were violating the local zoning ordinance by parking their 18-ft. camper trailer in their driveway.

"I'm not asking for a special favor," Mrs. Stauss told Commissioners. "If we're in violation, we understand, but the law should be enforced fairly against everyone who parks campers on their property in Belleville."

According to Mrs. Stauss, the issue began when she was visited by Aldo DiChiara, an inspector in the code enforcement department.

Mrs. Stauss said DiChiara was there to investigate a neighbor's complaint made against the Stauss' for having the vehicle parked on their residential property.

"I was annoyed that an investigator could look into a complaint like this, but the person who complained did not have to give a name," explained Stauss.

The couple claim a disgruntled neighbor made the complaint out of a personal vendetta and was not particularly upset about the vehicle itself.

The Stauss' said they had noticed similar vehicles parked around Belleville and asked DiChiara if all those owners would also be cited for violating the ordinance.

"Mr. DiChiara told us he could only investigate if a complaint was made," said Mrs. Stauss, adding, "We don't think it's fair that only one party has to suffer and move the trailer while others can keep theirs only because their neighbors didn't complain."

She continued, "If we're in violation then we'll have to comply with the ordinance, but so should everyone else with the same violation."

The pair also recited to Commissioners local streets they toured and viewed recreation vehicles parked similarly; among them Plenge Drive, Continental Avenue, Birchwood Drive, and Hornblower Avenue.

They declined to name specific addresses. "We're not trying to get anyone else in trouble," said Mr. Stauss. "We just want to be dealt with fairly."

The law in question is part of the Belleville Zoning Ordinance, Article 6 "Off-Street Parking and Loading Requirements" paragraph 11 reads: "In a residence district, automobiles, motorcycles or utility and recreational trailers shall not be parked or left standing or stored in any front yard area or side yard or rear yard abutting a street..."

The same section also prohibits parking recreational

The proper tools are very important in almost every trade and profession. Without them, even the most skilled tradesman wouldn't be able to function. The gourmet chef relies on his kitchen tools just as much as his "secret" ingredients in the dishes he prepares. Mouli Manufacturing Corp., 1 Montgomery St., is a prominent supplier of gourmet food shops such as the famous Zaber's in New York City. One unique product is the Cafe Steamer which uses an ordinary tea kettle to make cappuccino and retails for $5.98. A product from France, the Salad Maker does everything from grating to slicing with five steel cutting discs for $12.98. Other products include electric and manual mincers, stove top ovens, rotating food choppers, salad washers, reversible grills, roaster racks, and many other helpful and unique kitchen tools for the amateur as well as the professional chef.

Kondreck Studios have gone to Great Adventure to photograph wild animals for calendar pictures. Fearless John stood right in front of the animals to get these shots. "It seems that the big cats were less ferocious and more inclined to have their picture taken than the smaller animals." He told me that a lion actually came up to him and sniffed his beard. They also make video tapes for entertainers to be used for auditions.

Belleville boasts of yet another major industry in town. Charles Gendler & Company, 681 Main St., is the largest manufacturer and supplier of automotive soft trim and binding trim in the country. Since Charles Gendler has retired, the firm is now known as Ardwyn Binding Products, headed by Ralph Gilbert and his son Richard who is the executive right hand. Ardwyn manufactures leatherette trim for convertible tops, vinyl tops, car seats, and carpeting for every major auto manufacturer in the U.S. and Canada. Celebrating its 40th anniversary, the company originated in New York and has been in Belleville for eight-and-a-half years. The Gilberts have 60 employees on the payroll and are extremely happy to be in Belleville. Carmen Orechio Plays Major Role At Dem Convention

By Bill Gruver

As anyone who watched the Democratic National Convention held last week in San Francisco must know, New Jersey played a major role. As a matter of fact, it was the first time in the 20th century that the Garden State's national convention delegation was important.

The only other possible comparison was in 1912 when New Jersey Gov. Woodrow Wilson was nominated for President. He went on to be elected and four years later was re-elected to a second term.

New Jersey Senate President Carmen Orechio, who was one of the leading public figures in the New Jersey Delegation, said "this is a significant convention which provides a good start for this year's Presidential campaign. Democrats leave this convention much stronger. In particular, the issues have been pin-pointed for all to understand. I think that New Jersey will be as important in the fall as it was during the Primary."

Orechio was joined on the delegation by such other of the state's political leaders as Assembly Speaker Alan Karcher, Congressman Frank Guarini (who was delegation chairman), Bob Roe, Jim Howard and James Florio, State Senator Matthew Feldman, Assemblymen Ozzie Pelliccia and Jackie Walker, and U.S. Senators Bill Bradley and Frank Lautenberg. Essex County Executive Peter Shapiro, also a delegate, was floor whip for the delegation.

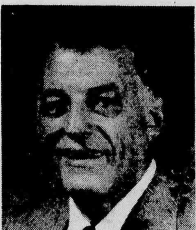

Impressed by the keynote address delivered by New York Governor Mario Cuomo, Orechio said "it is much more likely that Walter Mondale will carry the Garden State this fall. Cuomo's speech was the strongest communication of the Democratic platform I've heard yet. He has energized New Jersey Democrats to do a stronger job in the upcoming campaign against Ronald Reagan."

Pledged as a supporter of Walter Mondale, Orechio noted the unity shown by Democrats at the convention. He also stressed the importance of the Jersey delegation.

"Without question, New Jersey was the leading delegation at the convention in terms of support for Walter Mondale," he said. As the senate president and the state's leading Democrat, Orechio was given the same courtesies as a Democratic state governor during the convention. Several times during the 1984 Convention, New Jersey was singled out for its part in bringing Walter Mondale to the Presidential nomination. Joan Mondale made a special visit to a delegation breakfast and underlined the Mondale bond with New Jersey supporters and promised that her husband would devote much of his campaign to the Garden State. Delegation Chairman Rep. Frank Guarini told the delegates that they were part of "the flagship delegation" for Mondale. "Remember you represent Walter Mondale at this convention and are being watched by everyone else," Rep. Guarini said.

The now-famous vote by New Jersey that gave Mondale his winning margin during the balloting last week was a matter of luck and some floor maneuvering by N.J. delegation leaders. It seemed quite appropriate to all concerned.

Carmen Orechio

Although the N.J. delegation drew a seating area in the rear of the Moscone Center, it did not dim the group's enthusiasm. They were the loudest voices for Mondale and his chosen Vice Presidential running mate, Rep. Geraldine Ferraro; cheering for the exciting and stirring Keynote address by New York Gov. Mario Cuomo; and starting a music and chant greeting for Mrs. Ferraro and Senator Ted Kennedy. But the Garden State's Democratic delegates did draw the luck when billeted at the plush Holiday Inn at Fisherman's Wharf overlooking the spectacular San Francisco Bay.

Combating Town's Rodent Problem is Year-Round Job

Rivers, Open-Land Areas, Create Trouble

By Ed Capparucci
Rats.

The word alone is enough to turn anyone's stomach, and the thought of having them around is more than frightening, it's down right disgusting.

But the truth of the matter is that there are rats throughout the community of Belleville — perhaps even more than homeowners would like to admit.

"It may sound crazy to most people, but you cannot rid a community of rats," said Vincent Strumolo Jr., who serves as an inspector for the Belleville Public Affairs Department. "They were here before us and they will most likely be here after we're gone. Belleville's rodent problem is most likely no larger than communities surrounding us, but there could be a problem if it is not controlled. In fact, there are no towns which are rat free, although some like to think so."

Strumolo contributes Belleville's rodent problem to two basic elements, water and large open land masses.

"There are few areas of Belleville in which there is not water nearby," he said. "You have the Second and Third rivers, along with the Passaic River, and rats enjoy staying near the water, it is a good source for food. Also Belleville has a lot of open land area. You have the golf course, the hospitals, both county and Clara Maass, and a lot of park area. Open land is a good place for rats to breed, especially if there are a lot of weeds and cover."

But while rats are found mainly along the river areas of town, there are also cases of sightings in areas which are not close to water.

"The mid-section of Belleville is where we get the fewest calls," said Strumolo, who spends an average of three days a week during the summer months investigating rat sightings. "But we

"In order to survive a rat will eat anything it can get into. Paper, plastic, cans, garbage and animal feces," said Strumolo. "The growth of their teeth is amazing and therefore, they must continuously gnaw. They can gnaw through anything and I mean anything. If a rat wants to get through concrete, it will gnaw through concrete. There is really nothing which can stop them."

But according to Strumolo, rats are not to be considered dangerous animals.

"If you kept a rat well fed, then you could have one for a pet," he said. "They would be gnawing all the time, but they could not be a danger. Of course, I would not recommend to anyone to keep a rat for a pet. But they are no more dangerous to man than a squirrel. But like any other animal, if you trap it, then it will attack. But basically the rat is an animal which tries to avoid contact with humans. That is one reason they come out at night most of the time."

And while rats are known for carrying diseases, according to Strumolo, they are not considered carriers of rabies.

"That is one of the great many myths about rats," said Strumolo, who is fascinated with the animal. "They are not known carriers of rabies. In fact, they carry many of the same diseases which man carries."

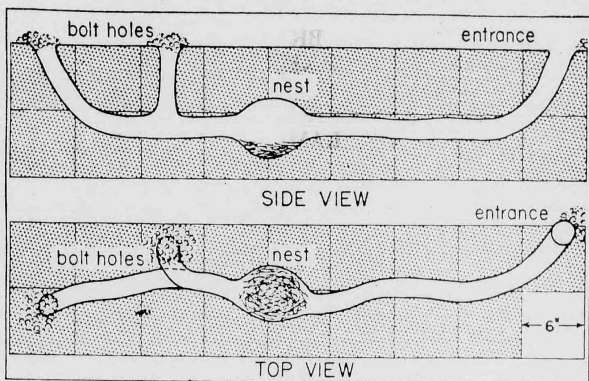

"Rats are also known as reproducing quickly, which makes it that much harder to combat the problem," he continued. "If you put a male and female rat together there is a mathematical chance that they can produce 880 offspring in one year. It is really amazing when you think of them in those numbers."

ment uses two types of poison for killing rats: Warfarin and Talon-G. But according to Strumolo, inspectors try killing the rodents with Warfarin first, before using the more potent Talon-G.

"There are several reasons for using Warfarin, the most important is that it is not as strong as Talon-G," said Strumolo. "When you are baiting, you must take into consideration that we are in a populated environment, where there are children and pets. If a pet should eat some Warfarin, the most that will happen is it will get sick. But that is not always the case with Talon. That is why I rows (holes which lead to a rat's nest)," said Strumolo. "Then I will bait the property and then make two or three re-inspections to make sure the problem has been cleared up. People don't understand that because the poison takes time to work, the rats will not be killed overnight. It takes time, but we get them."

"Sometimes people make it harder on me by closing the burrows before I get there," he continued. "And once they fill the hole the rats have moved on and it makes my job impossible. Rats usually have two or three burrows leading to their nest, not just one."

Burrow of Norway rat in poultry pen. Emergency exits or bolt holes have light covering of soil, are not easily seen.

Checking It Out — Vincent Strumolo Jr., an inspector for the Belleville Health Department, looks for rat burrows during an recent inspection. The department baits throughout the township four times a year in an effort to control the rodent problem.

Combating The Problem

While spring and summer are the seasons in which the highest number of rat sightings are made, the health department is fighting the problem throughout the year, by making routine inspections and using bait to poison the rodents.

"I do baiting four times a year throughout the community in trouble spots, such as the rivers and near the open land areas," said Strumolo. "Like I said before, you cannot eliminate the rodent problem in any town, the best you can do is control the problem. That is our job."

Basically the health department needs to talk to the residents before I bait near their home.

"The major difference between the two poisons is that Warfarin is a slow killer. A rat which eats Warfarin will take 10-14 days to die. What the drug does is cause the rodent to bleed internally. Talon-G is somewhat strong and takes 5-7 days to work. It is the drug which is used on the Super Rats, which populate New York City. Those rats are termed super because they have become immune to Warfarin."

"When the health department receives a call, we make a survey of the property looking for burrows. The others are for escape in case they are attacked."

According to Tom Longo, the health officer, residents are also expected to help fight the rodent problem.

"We help combat the problem by the inspections and baiting throughout the year, whether someone calls or not," said Longo, "but people are expected to help also. They can do that by keeping their property garbage free and keeping the garbage in metal containers. A rat will eat right through a plastic bag. Once their food source is eliminated then they have to move on."

do still get calls. I had one on Perry Street last week and another on Jorammon Street near Garden Avenue, and that is unusual, but it does happen.

"Rats are smart creatures, and that is where humans make mistakes," he continued. "Rats are not like mice. Rats are also now considered domesticated animals since they live with man."

The Norway Rat

There are basically three types of house rats in the United States: Rattus rattus rat, better known as the black or ship rat; Rattus alexandrinus, known as the roof, gray-bellied or Alexandrine rat; and Rattus norvegicus, commonly referred to as the Norway, barn, wharf, brown, sewer, water or gray rat. It is the Norway rat which is found in Belleville and other areas in this part of the country.

The Norway rat is basically 16 inches long and weighs anywhere from one to one-and-a-half pounds. It is a grayish-brown color and considered a scavenger since it will eat almost anything.

MEDICATION AND TODDLERS

The major problems in administering medicines to toddlers are taste and consistency. Parents have used numerous methods in disguising medicines that their children dislike taking. Some of the more successful methods including hiding the medicine in well-liked foods such as ice cream. Remember that it may be said to some children to swallow a ground-up tablet in ice cream than it is to swallow a supposedly good-tasting liquid. Taste the medicine yourself so that you have some idea of what the child has to confront. Whatever system you use to administer your child's medicine, inform your physician. It may be that certain techniques can alter the medication's effectiveness.

If you can't reach your physician call our pharmacist at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1988. Brendan Byrne Arena

Well, they are at it again. There are some people who will never stop! The Meadowlands Sports Complex Arena was given the name of former Gov. Brendan Byrne, in recognition of his effort to make the sports complex a reality. We think a living memorial to the man that made possible a dream come true is appropriate. The Brendan Byrne Arena has received universal acclaim. It makes possible an opportunity for area sports fans to travel a short distance to attend important social and sports events.

For the life of us, we cannot understand what Gov. Byrne did wrong to be the recipient of such abuse and degradation. Is there no moral fiber left in public officials and private citizens who show disrespect for an able, former public servant who had the courage to face the music, and face down opponents of a needed broad-based tax to insure adequate funding of our state educational system?

Brendan Byrne served two terms as governor — was elected by the people twice — in the process he was obliged to overcome party primary opposition and then win over Republican opponents in an election.

The record shows that Brendan Byrne served honorably and well. His name deserves to be on the sports complex arena.

It is about time public officials and private citizens stopped beating a dead horse and got on with more important things.

Gov. Thomas Kean

Recently, Gov. Thomas Kean signed legislation which provides for permanent sources to find an ambitious $3-billion program to improve our road transportation system.

The end results of this legislation proved what a determined governor, with the ability to reconcile his differences with legislative leaders of the opposing party, can accomplish when he acts in the greater interest of the state, rather than serving the lesser interests of his party.

The Democratic legislative leaders, Assembly Speaker Alan J. Karcher and Senate President Carmen Orechio, likewise, rose above partisan considerations to better serve the needs of the state. These principals should be commended for the great service they rendered to the state of New Jersey in negotiating an adequate transportation fund package, avoiding partisan bickering, which has bogged down so many past efforts.

This demonstration of statesmanship represents bipartisan government at its best. Events of this nature make us like the idea of having a governor represent one party, and the legislature represent the other.

As students of government for almost a half century, we have come to the belief that bipartisan government is superior to one-party government. Bipartisan government better represents the people. Bipartisan government keeps down the cost of government. Bipartisan government insures better quality gubernatorial nominees.

Residents of the state of New Jersey should pause in their daily labor to ponder over the important message of the new transportation legislation. It sends a signal to leaders of business and industry that New Jersey cares about its transportation needs — and more than just caring — is putting its money where its mouth is. This action should insure continued commercial and industrial growth for the state of New Jersey.

Congratulations to Gov. Kean, Assembly Speaker Karcher and Senate President Orechio for their statesmanship and leadership.

Rega Responds to Golden

To the editor:

In response to an article which appeared in Mr. Golden's column, where Mr. Golden suggests that I respond to persistent rumors and letters submitted to The Belleville Times, in regards to my having trouble in the Italian-American Club of Belleville. To begin with, I'd like to say that I've been a member of that club for approximately 15 years. I didn't attend as many meetings as I should have, but I did attend all the functions in helping to raise funds for the club. Most of the members I know quite personally as friends and customers of my business. That's why I chose to remain silent in this matter. Now I feel that I should give my side of the story.

To begin with, I'm still a member of the club because I was not given any notification of what the review board intended to do with me. My trouble started when Chris Albanese became president of the club. The review board consisted of three executive members: Chief George Sbarra, chairman Sal Calabro and Angelo Veneziano, hand-picked by Mr. Chris Albanese. I feel that these men were prejudiced against me for reasons cited below:

1. Chris Albanese, I'm sure took offense when I responded to a phone call from the town hall alerting me that Chris Albanese, who is the owner of a knife grinding business which he operates in his garage behind his house on Frederick Street, Belleville, had been submitting vouchers to the town of Belleville, it's my duty and it's my prerogative to check any vouchers that are submitted to the town of Belleville, without any fear of reprisals.

2. George Sbarra, another one of my jurors: Mr. Golden, you know perfectly well that George Sbarra and I never hit it off because I was against Mr. Sbarra's appointment as chief of the fire department (nothing personal, though, I just felt and still do, an appointment of that stature should have gone to the man with the highest credentials). Chief Sbarra, unfortunately finished number three on the test and as a citizen and taxpayer of Belleville, I feel that we should get the best for our money, not third best, but first best. In business, when we hire, we seek out those with the best credentials.

3. Mr. Angelo Veneziano — When I became involved in the citizens tax union, of which he was president, in order to give them moral support, I brought down hundreds of my friends to their meetings until we found that we were wasting our time because Chris Albanese, Sal Calabro and Angelo Veneziano were just talking and these friends of mine and myself, whenever they passed the hat, donated what they could, so it was only natural that they inquire of me what happened to the funds and the club. In confronting Mr. Veneziano, in asking him the same, he became very, very angry and threatened to punch me in the nose. I feel that he shouldn't have been one of my jurors.

4. Mr. Salvatore Calabro, the chairman of the review board, who assured me, the night they sat to hear my case, that they had no charges to level at me, that I, in fact, had been a good member and I had nothing to worry about. Then, suddenly, without any notification whatsoever, I received a letter from Mr. Calabro advising me that I had been expelled from the club. I could only attribute this change of heart toward me, to an incident that occurred at my place of business, between Mrs. Calabro and three of my workers. Jim, I'm sure you remember this incident. For years, I've been donating Christmas wreaths, Easter flowers, etc. to Mrs. Calabro, who in turn would donate them to some poor families. This one year, I was absent from my business and there seemed to be a difference between these three girls and Mrs. Calabro. When they suggested that she pay and straighten matters out with Jackie, she became very indignant and made some snide remark to the three young ladies and walked away.

Everything contained in this letter can be substantiated, if need be. Jim, I wish you would close this matter because like I said before, I have many friends in this club and to all my friends who responded when I asked them to come down to the citizens tax union meetings: I apologize. And one more thing, if the men in question want to perpetuate this and feel there are any lies in this letter, I'd be more than happy to air this out any way they like.

Respectfully submitted,
Jackie Rega

Do it Ourselves

To the editor:

Sanitary conditions and the health of the people is important to the city since they pay the bill. Garbage collecting is not an art or a skill; it can be done by anyone.

The wording of the contract to the successful bidder should be changed: there shall be no strikes at any time by the contractor or his employees' failure to obey that rule will be a violation of the contract, and a new contractor will be named. If that is not possible, then the town should collect their own garbage; and put their own people to work without involving a union. Our taxes are way too high now. The town will save thousands of dollars.

Sincerely yours,

Golden Comments

By James Golden

The recent Sunday Star-Ledger's stridently harsh editorial, which expressed obdurance and censure of Assemblyman Steve Aduabato's insistence upon delay in the final approval of the Passaic River flood control, neglected to recognize that the Assemblyman, who is chairman of the Passaic River Restoration Subcommittee, was efficaciously and properly representing the objections of the people and public officials of the down river communities who are his constituents.

The adverse effects of the proposed Army Corps' plan for flood relief in the Wayne area by diverting, through a 40-foot tunnel of 13.6 miles some 200 feet below the ground at a cost estimated at $930 million that would empty into the Passaic River at the Nutley-Clifton boundary, would produce devastating afflictive results upon the communities bordering on both sides of the Passaic River south of that point.

Nutley Mayor Harry Chenoweth was selected as a spokesman for many of the lower basin communities and speaking at a meeting in Wayne, along with engineers of the affected downstream local governments, declared that insufficient engineering data have been provided to "show that this plan will not work, but will simply transfer the flooding problems upstream to Nutley and our neighbors in the lower basin."

Belleville, like Nutley, will be beset with the analogous problems confronting all the river communities on both sides of the river south of the tunnel outlet, while those north of that point could, to a lesser extent, also be affected by a "flood tide" back up in extreme heavy storms or hurricanes.

Many of the salient points brought out by Mayor Chenoweth, a member of the Nutley commission 37 years, accompanied by Public Works Commissioner Peter C. Scarpelli and Nutley municipal engineer Carl A. Anlas, to back up his arguments against the Army Corps' tunnel plan, pointed out, "We've only had these proposals to study for three weeks. Our engineer already has told us our sanitary and storm drain systems would become inoperative under this plan. In Belleville, they don't even have an engineer to offer a professional analysis. We need more time to study the effects of this plan on our communities."

Mr. Anlas, the engineer, said the tunnel would more than double the flood-flow of the Third River (that used to back-up and flood Fairway Avenue in Belleville). Army Engineers don't disagree with that theory and have included 10- to 13-foot floodwalls in their proposal along the Third River to keep flood waters from spilling onto River Road and Washington Avenue. (Are the people of Nutley and Belleville supposed to live in "walled in" townships?)

Anlas also explained an elaborate system of pumping stations would have to be constructed to pump flood waters from the Valley areas over the dikes into the Passaic River. He stressed pumps, likewise, would be required to keep the sanitary and storm sewage systems operative.

"Who's going to pay for these pumping stations, and who's going to maintain them and operate them?" Mayor Chenoweth asked. No mention of such contingencies was made by the Army Corps' studies.

Belleville Commissioner Joseph Grande has also blasted this $930-million plan stating, "This project will be a burden on the lower Passaic area and I will do everything possible to make sure that we do not get the dirty end of the deal."

We consider this State Department of Environmental Protection tentative approval to the flood tunnel plan an unrealistic "window dressing" appeasement effort to placate and mollify the angry flood victims of the Wayne area and an attempt of the politicians of the area to get the people "off their backs."

Assemblyman Stephen Aduabato Jr. has taken a bold and courageous proper stand in calling for more time to study this "Rube Goldberg" monstrosity that, if implemented, would transform Nutley and Belleville into "Holland type" communities confined by dikes to keep out the river.

Assemblyman Aduabato is doing the right thing in representing his constituents' best interests. His rejoinder to the Sunday Star-Ledger's editorial diatribe more than vindicates his concerned interest in "looking out" for the people of his legislative district when he detects objectionable proposals inimical to their interests.

It is well that we of the 30th District have such a perspicacious young man representing us. Remember that this tentatively approved palliative tunnel proposal cannot be implemented without legislative approval, therefore, it's well that we have Mr. Aduabato down in Trenton to take care of our concerns.

She Doesn't Deserve the Title

I always hate to get involved in a bitter controversy, but I can't help but comment on the Miss America scandal which has been on the everyone's lips lately.

First, the members of the pageant committee were absolutely correct in their decision to ask Vanessa Williams to relinquish her crown for appearing nude in a layout of the September issue of Penthouse Magazine, which sold out across the country when it first appeared on the newsstand last week.

The committee contended that her posing for the sexually explicit photographs marred the "wholesome" image expected of a title holder. And they're dead right.

When you think of Miss America, you image the all-American girl who has pride in herself, her country and her title, not a nude model.

Albert Marks, chairman of the contest, summed it up best. "The pageant was built on traditional American virtues and has celebrated the beauty and vitality of young American womanhood in a fashion that has created wholesome role models for girls and young women throughout the country. The pageant celebrates the whole woman and its spirit is intrinsically inconsistent with calculated sexual exploitation."

Miss America is more than a woman in the eyes of millions. She is a symbol of righteousness, beauty, honesty and high moral standards. Now I am not saying that Miss Williams is immoral, but the pictures which appeared in Penthouse are not to be considered art in any form. They lean toward the class of soft pornography, and there is nothing beautiful about them. On second thought, they are down right pornographic. And Vanessa also told reporters that she did not partake in sexual contact with the other model at any time. All I can say is Miss Williams has lied, or my eyesight is worse than I thought.

Of course Miss Williams should have the right, as every other woman in this country, to pose nude if she so desires. But Miss America doesn't belong in a layout section of a men's magazine for all the world to see.

But we shouldn't feel sorry for poor Vanessa. Despite being stripped (I'm sorry, I just couldn't help myself) of her crown, she is well on her way to what should be a long and very profitable career in the entertainment field.

The person you have to be disgusted with for his part in this mess is Penthouse publisher Bob Guccione, who can be considered nothing more than a donkey's behind.

There is no reason why Guccione couldn't wait until the fall to publish the pictures, after Miss Williams' title would have been lifted. No reason except for greed.

Now there is a man who must be worth a small fortune, why the need for more money? All he has done is exploit Miss Williams' plight and hardship. The man, who claims his magazine is a classy one, has shown the country he obviously has none. And his claim that he owed it to his readers to publish the photos is a ridiculous.

shameful and insulting excuse for his decision.

I only regret that I do not subscribe to his sluttish publication, so I could have the opportunity to cancel it.

Belleville's Past

Roosevelt rehabilitated the Schuyler copper mine and opened up the mill on Second River called Soho Company in 1798 with Josiah Hornblower as superintendent. He was anxious to build a mill that could be fed by American copper. He made available enough bolts and spikes for a 74-gun ship. Despite all of his efforts, the mill did not meet with the encouragement necessary for its success.

In Massachusetts, Paul Revere, the old patriot of the Revolution, was faced with a lack of encouragement when he founded his rolling mill in Canton on the Neponset River in the fall of 1801 for the rolling of sheet copper. His water supply for the mill was inadequate for a successful all-year operation. He was unable to obtain sufficient black copper and he had to rely upon brittle scrap and old copper. Frequently he augmented his supply by purchasing it from Harmon Hendricks. In 1804, Harmon Hendricks purchased a foundry on Bedlow Street that could reconvert old and scrap copper into the production of bolts, spikes and shipwork. Many purchases from many sources were required to keep the foundry working.

In 1801 a daughter, Hetty, was born to the Hendricks. A year later, a son, Uriah, was born. There was a succession of sons born to Frances and Harmon within the next few years: Henry, Joshua, Washington and Montague. In addition to Justina, whose birth preceded Montague's, seven daughters were born to the Hendricks in the years that followed. As the family grew in number, the Pearl Street home could no longer accommodate them.

Few human ailments cause more discomfort and pain than arthritis. We've all seen the TV commercials that suggest that relief from arthritis pain may be obtained by pills or surgery. Chiropractic is concerned with finding and correcting the cause of arthritis, NOT just relieving its painful symptoms.

Arthritis does not show up on a particular day in full effect. It starts, usually with minor twinges or a "little burrsitis"...nature's warning that trouble exists which can grow worse if neglected.

A chiropractic examination will establish facts and locate the causes of trouble, which may then be corrected.

CMHS HOTLINE

Daughter Entitled To Life of Her Own

Dear CMHS:

I am an active, busy adult who enjoys many club and volunteer activities as well as meeting with friends and caring for my husband and children. My parents live nearby in their own home, are reasonably well physically and have no financial problems. The problem is that I find myself feeling angry and guilty much of the time. My mother calls me early every morning to ask me what I'm doing that day. She then tells me how lonely and miserable she is and that she has no friends. She doesn't ask me to do anything specific but I end up feeling guilty, miserable and angry. I love my mother and enjoy getting together with her, but aren't I entitled to a life of my own too?

A Frustrated Daughter

Dear Frustrated:

The answer is a most definite YES!

While you don't mention how long this has been occurring, it is common for parents to become more emotionally dependent upon their adult children, even when they continue to be in good physical health. They begin to experience losses and feel their own mortality and it is easy for them to become frightened and depressed. Thus people who were once more independent and authority figures can become dependent, clinging and turn more to their children to provide support and direction.

Nevertheless, you continue to have the right to meet your own needs. In fact, it is essential to your fulfillment as a human being to do so. If you give up meeting your needs consistently, you will feel angry, guilty, helpless or even sick.

Try talking with your mother about your feelings and try listening to her fears and concerns. Suggest specific dates and times the two of you can meet for lunch or shopping. Involve the entire family since this is a shared responsibility. Suggest a seniors' club or community organization with which she can involve herself. Perhaps you can accompany her to the first meeting if necessary.

(The Community Mental Health Services of Belleville, Bloomfield and Nutley is a non-profit agency serving the three communities. For information, call 450-3100. Send letters to CMHS Hotline, c/o Irving W. Hahn, Community Mental Health Services, 570 Belleville Ave., Belleville, N.J., 07109.

MIDS Offers Support To Grieving Parents

One of the newer support groups available to Nutley and Belleville residents is MIDS, open to parents who have experienced miscarriage, infant death or stillbirth. It is not a therapy group; rather, it offers friendship through understanding and sharing with bereaved parents who have suffered similar losses.

When a baby dies, the parents go through an intense grieving process. Sometimes the feelings of grief can be so severe that the couple is unaware of what has happened. Everyone handles grief in his or her own way. MIDS offers support through various stages of grief — disbelief, anger, regret and loneliness.

MIDS was founded in the spring of 1982 by Janet Tischer of Parsippany. After the death of her son and two previous miscarriages, Tischer realized there was a particular need for grieving parents who had experienced miscarriages, infant death or stillbirth. The group evolved from her despair and anger at the lack of support she received. At the first meeting in April of 1982, five women were present. One year later, MIDS had 50 members and is still growing.

Newly bereaved parents may use the group as they feel the need. Some parents come once or twice. Others come more often and those who wish to help may continue with the group to offer support to new members. Any bereaved parent or relative may attend without regard to age, creed, social status, sex or financial condition. MIDS is a non-profit organization that depends upon donations in order to remain in existence to help others. All donations are tax deductible.

The group lists its goals as follows: to offer understanding and support to all grieving parents; to provide telephone friends; to meet once a month and share feelings; to offer library resources; to make friends, relatives and the medical profession aware of the needs of grieving parents; to help parents find a positive resolution to their grief.

Its advisory board includes doctors, psychologists, bereavement consultants, nurses, clergy, social workers and other professionals. Referrals come from many different sources.

The Essex County Chapter of MIDS meets once a month at 15 Clover St., Nutley. The meeting dates are announced in the Nutley Sun and Belleville Times. For more information, please contact Lisa Calabaria, Chapter Coordinator for Nutley at 235-1364 or Diana Cordasco at 235-0521.

Umberto's Corner

Dear Umberto:

My mother has grey hair and she doesn't like it anymore. She decided to dye it brown so she went to the beauty salon to dye it brown and it didn't take. Her hair was messy grey. She went to another place and the color still didn't take. When she went to the drug store she bought brown conditioner. She brought it home for me to dye. I told her, "If they don't know what to do in a salon how can I do it?"

Waiting for your answer

Dear Lady:

I am glad I know the answer. The reason why the color didn't take is because your mother has very light grey hair. It is very hard to color in but let me tell you one of my secrets how to color it when the hair is in condition. I use your mother wants to color it brown. Take the color that she chose, mix it with peroxide, take a teaspoon of ammonia and put it in the color mix well. Do not let it go into the eyes, ears and facial area. The mixture will work. She will be very proud of you because you did it into the eyes, ears and facial area. She couldn't do it.

Yours Truly,
Umberto

Belleville's Past

Of the dozens of pamphlets that were ever present on his orderly desk, there was one that Hendricks had obtained in 1801 while he was still located on Pearl Street. It recounted the story of the Schuyler copper mine up to the time when it was reorganized under the name of the Soho Company. He began seriously to think in terms of buying the Soho mine and mill. He had visited the mill shortly after Roosevelt had reorganized it and he had revealed some concern about its potential production, but he was strongly impressed by the men who ran it: Josiah Hornblower who planned its engineering facilities; Nicholas J. Roosevelt who envisioned substantial profits from operating it; and Chancellor Robert Livingston who helped finance it.

In 1813 when Hendricks decided to attempt to alleviate the crisis that faced the copper trade, his interest in Soho was renewed. He was not the only one to hold an interest in copper manufacture. Robert Fulton, who complained of the brittle copper produced by Revere, also considered the possibility of manufacturing copper in the New York area, but his preoccupation with steamboats prevented him from doing so. The lack of manufactured copper would have disastrous results upon the trade, and Hendricks, who possessed the courage and vision required to invest in a productive and important manufacturing enterprise with which he was familiar, took the necessary steps to do so and bought the Soho Company.

Hendricks' decision to buy the Soho Company, made within a year after the war had begun, was the first step in his transformation from a merchant-investor to an industrialist. In this remarkable short time, Hendricks had determined on a course of action that was to influence the lives and fortunes of generations of Hendrickses to come. The decision would also play a key part in the development of the metal industry in the United States, and was to establish the name of Hendricks as a leader in American copper for the next century.

The history of the copper trade prior to the Civil War is so fragmentary that the story of the Hendricks Family contributes extensively to our knowledge of the American Copper Industry. There were few mines and no rolling mills in the American colonies when the metal business that carried the Hendricks name from 1764 to 1939 was founded by Uriah Hendricks. The copper that was mined in Colonial America was exported to England to be used by her mills and industries. The colonial merchant had no opportunity to enter into copper manufacturing, he could only import manufactured copper. Copper imports quickly became part of the iron-mongers trade.

After the American Revolution, copper sheathing was used for the protection of wooden ships. More than a decade passed before this attracted the attention of the United States Navy. The practical and clever shipping merchants proceeded the Navy in adopting copper sheathing to protect the ships that brought their goods across the Atlantic.

World's Greatest Book

By Rev. Robert Paul

In His great wisdom, God has chosen to express His thoughts to human beings on the pages of the Bible. The Bible was not designed as a textbook on psychology, science or history. It addresses issues which cannot be researched through telescopes, microscopes, test tubes, bunsen burners or computers. Its message is not confirmed through laboratory analysis, experiments with white mice or even archeology. Certainly we would expect the Bible to deal accurately with scientific and historical date when it touches those areas, but the message of the Bible concerns a totally different area.

The message of the Bible focuses on man's origin, his purpose for living, and his ultimate destiny. "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them." The Bible explains the existence of the universe as a matter of divine creation. (Genesis 1:1.) Please note the three basic elements of science in this verse: time, energy and space.

The very highest regard is given to humankind. People are depicted as having the capability of fellowship with God and are even regarded as worthy subjects of God's love. (St. John 3:16.) The Bible regards a human soul as having such tremendous worth that the Son of God Himself willingly left His position of heavenly glory to take up residence on this earth in the form of a man. (John 1:14.) The Lord Jesus Christ went to the cross willingly to make possible a reconciliation between God and rebellious man.

The World's Greatest Book concentrates on God's program for making men immortal. "He that believeth on the Son has everlasting life." (St. John 3:36.) We abuse the Bible when we use it to condemn the sins of men without holding up the hope of forgiveness. "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." (Romans 6:23.) In a day when the times are troubled, the trials are many, we need to understand that the message of the Bible is the message of freedom from those influences that would drag us down and make us despondent. "And you shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (St. John 8:32.)

John Jurich Named Pica Club President

John Jurich, former Belleville Times editor, last Saturday will be installed as president of The Pica Club, the nation's oldest newspaperman's club.

Now copy editor of The Star-Ledger and still a Nutley resident, Jurich presided over the club's annual outing Saturday at the ITT grounds in Nutley.

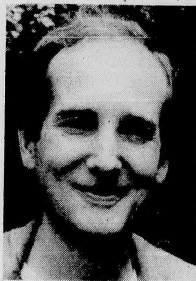

The club's membership today is made up not only of men and women in the newspaper business, but those with broadcasting news organizations. Associate members from business and politics complete Pica's enrollment.

A graduate of Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Jurich grew up in Port Jefferson, L.I. Prior to joining The Times in 1977, he worked on the first newspaper stylebook to be jointly published by the Associated Press and United Press International.

He currently is copy editor at The Star-Ledger where he oversees the main news section and the editorial pages. He works on the copy desk at The Ledger with another former Nutley Sun editor, John Bunevich of Clifton.

Locally, Jurich is a member of the John V. Kelly Civic Association and served as an aide to Kelly in the N.J. Assembly.

Art Clay Supporting Officials' Resolution

Freeholder Arthur L. Clay voiced his support for the Belleville Board of Commissioners' resolution opposing the proposed plan for a County Environmental Health Program. The Belleville Commissioners adopted the resolution earlier this year.

Clay noted that we already have in place a Suburban Regional Health Commission, health offices in every community, plus state and federal environmental protection agencies.

"The Belleville Commissioners are right on target in their opposition to the present county proposal," he said, "and I support them completely."

Clay also pointed out that the county program would create an additional layer of bureaucracy and another unnecessary burden on our county taxpayers. He said he would urge the county to restudy the proposal in conjunction with the Essex County Health Officers Association and Suburban Regional Health Commission "to come up with a truly responsive and cost effective environmental health program for Essex County municipalities that does not duplicate present services or create expensive new agencies."

"The real problem in the past," said Clay, "was a lack of proper and timely community between the state EPA and local municipal health officials. People were in the dark, and as a result of rumors and lack of information, they were naturally frightened. This condition must be remedied."

"Essex County could be most helpful by acting promptly through the well qualified professionals already on the county payroll to insure that any municipalities affected would be immediately and completely made aware of all suspected incidents of environmental pollution, so that local officials could take all actions necessary to protect the health and well being of their communities," he said.

Getting Old Railroad Property Cleaned Up Is Major Problem

long? The Valley is the only section where something like this could go undetected. Anywhere else in this town and it would have been cleaned up long ago."

DeMarco says he has no quarrel with the township for asking him to clean up the property, but he wants the township to pressure Con Rail to do the same.

"What good is it if I clean up my section of the property and the railroad is not told to clean up its area?" he asked. "And how come the property goes unnoticed by the town officials for 10 years, and as soon as I purchase the property, they start demanding action be taken?"

"There is no doubt that the property has to be cleaned up and I have every intention of doing so," he said. "I take a great deal of pride in my business and this neighborhood. I don't want to see property go unattended like it has. That is why I am willing to clean up, but I believe Con Rail should be told to do the same thing."

Frank Cozzarelli, the assistant township attorney, says that the property which DeMarco purchased belonged to Erie Lackawanna, and the company had been involved in bankruptcy court for a number of years.

"Whenever the township made an attempt to get the railroad to clean up the property, it would seek an injunction through the bankruptcy procedures, thus making it difficult for us to enforce them to clean up the area," Cozzarelli said. "But we will do everything possible to assure that the area owned by Con Rail is cleaned up. We will take every step available to do so."

"As far as Mr. DeMarco is concerned, we believe that he has the ability to clean up his property and we are expecting him to so," Cozzarelli continued.

DENTALLY SPEAKING

By Drs. James D. Maglio and Paul N. De Mula

Miss Y of Belleville asks, "Are x-rays so important that I must have them?"

Miss Y, x-rays allow us to better diagnose conditions that we cannot see. These conditions can range from 1) decay to life threatening tumors; 2) from potential missing teeth to "extra" teeth; 3) to determine the health of your jaw bone; 4) to evaluate the position of wisdom teeth and; 5) to determine the quality of various fillings.

Ultimately, Miss Y, the purpose of x-rays is to either prevent problems or if problems exist then prevent them from becoming serious.

With sensitive x-rays films, only 3-4 tenths of a second of exposure is needed plus with protective lead aprons patients receive less radiation than summer sun baths.

Usual dental examinations may require x-rays once every 3 years (a full mouth series) and 4 cavity detecting x-rays in other years.

However Miss Y, you ultimately must evaluate what is best for you. We as dentists can only advise.

Belleville Times SPORTS

Braves Backstop — Jim Tensfeldt has done a solid job this summer playing catcher for the Belleville Braves. A 1979 graduate of Belleville High School, Tensfeldt has provided a steady glove and bat for the team. The Braves held a record of 14-15-1 and continue to fight for a playoff spot.

But Team Still Hopes for Playoff Spot

Braves Lose 3 Games, Tie One To Fall Below .500 at 14-15-1

By Mike Lamberti

Just when it looked as if things were going so well for the Belleville Braves, disaster struck in the way of three losses, a controversial tie and a return to sub .500 baseball for the once hot ballclub.

Sal Garrilli's crew, who now sports a 14-15-1 mark, as compared to last week's shining 14-12 record, traveled to Parsippany on Tuesday and hosted the same team last night. Garrilli called those games "critical" toward the Braves' playoff hopes. Tonight, the team travels to Irvington in what should be a hotly contested game starting at 6 p.m. Tomorrow night, the Braves visit the Union Jays, starting at 6 p.m. On Saturday, it's the Jays once more, starting at 2 p.m. from Union. On Sunday, the team returns home to face Milburn, starting at 5 p.m. from BHS. Next Tuesday, another critical contest, this time with the Union Rams, starting at 6 p.m. from Union.

The week had started off with so much promise, following the victory over Montclair State College last Sunday. What followed was a textbook demonstration of how not to play winning baseball. It started with a 15-1 loss to Parsippany, a game that Garrilli was bound to pass over as just one of those ball games.

"Everyone has a bad game," the coach said, referring to the disaster with Parsippany. "I can forget about that game because it was a lousy game. We had been playing so well that you're just going to have an off game. I'm just disappointed with the way we played the rest of the week. We didn't capitalize on our chances, we didn't hit well and didn't field too well. There was a heartbreaking loss (to the Union Jays) and a game we shouldn't have tied (with Irvington), but the bottom line is we have to get our game back in order, or we're going to lose out

Boyd Hopes for Perfect Season As Buc Cagers Improve to 4-0

Things are going so well for the Belleville boys' basketball team that they don't even have to take the court and they earn a victory. Such was the case last week when Parsippany officially forfeited a contest with Belleville, boosting the Buc's record to 4-0 and setting up some key ball games down the stretch.

Earlier this week, the Bucs battled Bloomfield and Clifton. Next Wednesday, it's showdown time with two-time defending champion Essex Catholic, starting at 7:30 p.m. from Pulaski Park, Bloomfield. Entering this week's action, Belleville and Essex Catholic were in a first place tie with 4-0 marks.

Head coach David Boyd, himself a recent BHS grad, has done a superb job in turning the young Buccaneers into a solid unit. He has the team running, hitting the boards and believing it can play with anyone in this league. "I'd like to see us go undefeated," Boyd said. "The Essex Catholic game, of course, is the big key. Also, we expect a very tough game with Bloomfield, but the way we're playing, it's not impossible."

Already this summer, the Bucs have posted a victory over longtime nemesis Nutley and have defeated Bloomfield "B" and Glen Ridge. The Bucs have accomplished the success of the summer of '84 with a total team effort.

The Buccaneer front line, for the most part, consists of Donald Washington, Ted Sochaski, Mike Sochaski, Steve Kimble and Mauricio Puentes. Washington, a 6'4" center, has a world of talent, according to his coach. "Donald has a number of strong points to his game," said Boyd. "He could be a dominating force, he has a great deal of potential."

Washington has not played every game this summer and so Mike Sochaski, a 6'2" senior who is better suited at forward, has seen time in the pivot. About the only thing that has held Mike from being an awesome player has been some nagging injuries. Last year, it was a bad lower back, and later a broken ankle. Right now, he's healthy and has been very impressive up front.

"Mike gives us about 10 points per game," said Boyd. "He does a nice job on the boards and gives everything he has."

Younger brother Ted Sochaski, entering his freshman year, appears to be heading toward a very bright future. Already 6'2" and growing, Ted is third in the league with a 20 ppg. average. He also plays a solid defensive game. "If Ted keeps playing like this," Boyd said, "he

Flashback: Garfield Beats Belleville in 1970

Nov. 5, 1970

The Belleville football team gained a reputation for being a second-half ball club by ruining Bayonne in the final quarters and generally outclassing all opponents in the crucial part of its first five games. Garfield seemed quite the opposite, being tagged a first-half ball club because it played better in the opening rounds and generally if it wasn't leading at the break, could be counted on to lose.

The tables were turned Saturday afternoon as Garfield upset the Bellboys, 20-14, by scoring 14 points in the last quarter. As far as performance went, in the first half, the only real offense shown by Belleville was by Charles Ziegler, but that was good enough for a 58-yard touchdown which, with an extra point by Phil Bruno, put Belleville ahead, 7-0.

Mark Bradley also had a long gain, a 30-yarder, but a few miscues dampened the drive. Other than that, Belleville gained only four yards on the ground and went 0-5 passing.

Belleville was helped in the first half by Garfield, which never managed to get inside the Belleville 30 even though Dennis Serritella had 5-10 passing for 57 yards.

But in the second half, the

D & M Wins Two Games In Dombrowski League

D & M Printing of Belleville took two straight games in the opening round of the James Dombrowski Softball League playoffs but did it the hard way. D & M, ranked number four in the field of 16 playoff teams, faced number 13, the No Shows of Belleville.

D & M, with a record of 9-2, figured no contest against the 5-5 record of the No Shows. That was not the case as the No Shows took D & M to 13 innings in game one before losing, 9-8.

An eighth-inning rally by the No Shows tied the score at eight apiece sending the game into extra innings. D & M wasted several chances in extra innings until a misplay by the No Shows in the 13th inning gave D & M a gift.

With all-star shortstop Jimmy DeAngelis on third base by way of tagging up from second, base pitcher Pasquale threw to second for an appeal. DeAngelis raced home, jarring the ball from the No Shows' catcher and scoring the winning run for D & M.

Game two saw the underdog No Shows jump to an early 6-5

Papasidero Decision End of BHS Era

By Mike Lamberti

When Joe Papasidero announced he would not be back to coach the 1984-85 boys' basketball team, his decision marked the end of an era at BHS. Papasidero proudly served the Township of Belleville during his five-year term as head coach.

It was a bright autumn day in the fall of 1979 that first introduced Papasidero to the man who would be covering his term for the season. Papasidero did not have a very warm spot in his heart for The Belleville Times, mainly because his hiring brought about a question of his ability from a former staff reporter. Obviously kicked once, Papasidero wasn't 100 percent thrilled with dealing on a one-to-one basis with a member of the media.

It quickly changed because I was there to cover his team, not question his ability to coach on the varsity level. Having seen him run one practice answered any questions about his coaching talent. This was a man who knew how to win, he was an assistant coach at Wood Ridge High School the year it won a state championship. This was a man who has his roots firmly entrenched in our township. He graduated from Belleville High in 1971, attended Trenton State College but never left his home in Belleville.

During his high school days, Papasidero was a standout football player, leading the 1969 team to a 6-3 mark as its quarterback. In 1970, Papasidero was a standout defensive back. On the baseball diamond, Joe stood out once more. His talent toward the game of baseball and his knowledge of the game now is respected throughout the area.

However, it was basketball that really interested him, and he learned the game from a master, Herb Cohen. Wood Ridge basketball is one of the better programs in the state and Cohen is the man behind that success. Papasidero had learned from the best, and now he was returning home.

"Coaching at Belleville was an honor," Papasidero said last weekend. "Working with the kids, having a chance to see them grow, that was what made the game so enjoyable. We had some good teams, sometimes we just didn't get the breaks necessary. However, it wasn't all wins and losses. There were some super kids, young gentlemen who should fare very well."

The impact of a new coach at BHS was near shattering. The Bucs jumped out to a 9-3 start in 1979, with a veteran team that included Ed Aulisi, Gary Ferrar, Wayne Bubet, Ron Wittman and Rich Cook. The tough schedule caught up to the Bucs in the later stages of the season and the team finished 11-13 for the season.

The following year, the Bucs, with newcomers Rich Wilkes, Anthony Coco and Sam De Capua, along with Bubet, Wittman and freshman Phil Colalillo, embarked on a season in which the team would lose 18 of 22 ball games. However, any fans from the 1980-81 season will tell you that the Bucs played some memorable ball games. The team lost a handful of games by less than two points. Take for instance a one-week period in January 1981.

On Tuesday, Jan. 20, the Bucs lost by one point to Nutley when Dave Siepert hit a jumpshot after the buzzer, to the chagrin of the Buccaneers who thought they won the game. The next day, the Bucs stopped Weehawkin High as Wayne Bubet broke the 1,000-point mark, only the second man in BHS history to do so. On Friday, Jan. 23, Belleville played St. Benedict's at BHS and trailed, 16-0, after four minutes. What followed was an amazing comeback.

With De Capua playing a sizzling game at guard, and Bubet hitting some big shots, Belleville cut the gap to an even ball game with one second left on the clock. St. Benedict's had two free throws coming to them and when their player missed the first shot, the fans at BHS went hysterical. Papasidero called time out to freeze the St. Benedict's player, but the Bucs just weren't meant to win. The ensuing foul shot found its way to the basket. Belleville had lost, 52-51, ending a frustrating, but memorable week.

There are a thousand stories about the Buccaneers' scrappy play against supposedly better teams. In that same 1981 season, the Bucs played a very good Seton Hall Prep team at the Hall, having lost earlier in the season to the Pirates, 77-35. This game started like another Pony Pirate blowout, but Belleville was not giving up and with five seconds left in the game, led by a field goal. In this season of heart-stopping events, Seton Hall sent the ball the length of the court and a Pirate player hit a layup as the buzzer sounded, sending the game into overtime.

It was that kind of season for the Bucs, but the team never gave up. It was a tribute to the coaching of Papasidero and Rocco Collicci. The Bucs might not have won a lot of games, but it was always fun watching them play.

Papasidero kept it all in perspective. He wanted to win but didn't bet the ranch on each game. Joe put countless hours of work and dedication toward the improvement of the program. He entered his team in the Bloomfield Summer Basketball League, worked extra hours with the players, encouraged play in the lower levels and injected a system of winning basketball from the seventh grade upward.

There was always a key line from the witty coach. Back in 1981, with his team scheduled to play an awesome team from Queen of Peace, Papasidero was asked if Queen of Peace had anyone back from their powerhouse 1980 squad. Papasidero, looking for words to describe how good Queen of Peace was, said, "They have guys back who weren't even there last year."

He got the point across. Queen of Peace was a super ball club and he got a few laughs because of his quick sense of humor in an otherwise difficult situation. Winning all the games is always nice but isn't always possible. While the Buccaneers of the Papasidero era weren't on top in every game, they had a certain intangible, the spirit of winning, giving their best even if the opposition was a little too good.

"It won't be easy leaving here," the coach said. "I have a lot of memories, there were so many great athletes, so many wonderful people to work with."

Papasidero listed Wayne Bubet, Ronnie Wittman, Phil Colalillo, Ed Aulisi and Joe Borrello, with Danny Ward coming off the bench as his "dream" team, but then said, "all the players were super, the fans were great, everyone involved with the program was very supportive. I can't say enough."

What can be said, when it's all wrapped up and put away, is that Joe Papasidero was a class act from the word go. He gave this program his heart and soul and in return, the township had some very dedicated athletes who have served their school with pride and professionalism.

A successor? That won't be easy. The best man for the job looks to be Rocco Collicci, but that won't be decided for a couple of weeks. In the meantime, good luck to you, Joe Papasidero, and may good fortune and good health always come your way.

Here is the answer to last week's quiz. The question was, name the managers and starting pitchers in game seven of the 1982 World Series. The answer: Whitey Herzog managed the Cardinals and Harvey Kuenn, the Brewers. Juquan Andujar was the starter for St. Louis and Pete Vukovich for Milwaukee.

For this week's quiz, name the Chicago Cubs' starting infield from the 1969 season.

Perfect Season Within Buccaneers' Reach As Belleville Cagers Post 4-0 Record So Far

Sochaski was a member of the championship Suburban League basketball team last winter and is fitting in very well on the varsity level.

Kimble, a 6'11" senior, has been a big contributor for the last two years. A strong rebounder and fine outside shooter, Kimble will always give 200 percent toward the game. His experience and guts will certainly carry the team down the stretch.

Puentes, who enters his senior year, is a six-foot swingman with a great deal of speed. "We can put him on forward or guard," explained Boyd. "He has that quickness to be effective in either position."

In the backcourt are two men who are synonymous with each other. When a Belleville basketball fan hears Danny Riordan, chances are he'll associate him with Nick Sotomayor. Both men, entering their senior seasons, have grown up in the Belleville basketball system and are experienced athletes, familiar with the Buccaneer system. Riordan, the team captain this summer, is the playmaker, out of the Joe Borrello mold. He calms the team down, keeps them in line and is a very impressive free throw shooter.

Sotomayor is a good scorer for the Bucs. He averages around 14 points per game, can help under the boards, can block shots and according to Boyd, "plays a big man's game."

Finally, freshman Leon Puentes, the leading scorer on the Suburban League team last winter, is starting to adjust to varsity competition. "He can be a very good player," Boyd said. "It's just a matter of time and learning the system."

While it's just the summer league, the early signs are very good for the Bucs. If they can avoid injury and the players continue to improve, the Bucs will be a very formidable squad this November.

Garfield Bows to Bucs In 1970 Classic Game

Boilermakers started to gain steam. After Belleville's Joe Papisidero ran back a punt for 77 yards and a touchdown (with Bruno converting), Garfield went 66 yards on two passes and a three-yard run to get on the scoreboard. Vito Marcollese kept Garfield from scoring a two-point when the 5'7" senior knocked down the point after attempt, keeping Belleville in the lead, 14-6.

Aerials hurt Belleville the next time Garfield got the ball. The Boilermakers went 60 yards on three passes on another 66-yard touchdown drive. Garfield tied it up with a two-point from Serritella to George Ibach who couldn't have asked for the Belleville defenders to be further away and the ball any better thrown. The finishing touch was added by Don Wojdyla, the anti-hero of last year's Garfield game with a 101-yard interception.

Again, it was a misguided pass that furnished the coupe-de-grace. On a second and nine from his own 44, Bruno dropped back to pass and the ball went straight to Wojdyla on the Garfield 46. He then returned it to the 39 where he was stopped by Mark Bradley.

Serritella then connected to Ibach again, this time on the 20-yard line. Ibach's third reception of the day gave the Boilermakers their final touchdown as Serritella called the same play again. Garfield's quarterback finished the day 13-27 passing, plus one-for-two passing on point after touchdowns, totalling 250 yards. Bruno and Jim Miele made a final futile attempt to put Belleville back on top as Bruno connected to Miele for 62 yards on Belleville's last set of downs to the Garfield eight. Belleville ran out of time though with an incomplete pass and a two-yard screen to the injured Ricky Caruso on the six.

Bob Luongo was the top Belleville defensively, but the sophomore sensation probably won't play against West Orange this Saturday as he suffered torn ligaments. Luongo contributed four tackles and nine assists. Besides a 77-yard return for Belleville's second touchdown, Joe Papisidero also turned in a fine defensive effort with five tackles unassisted and two assists. "Paps" had a chance to quarterback but went 0-2 passing on his only two plays. On a false field goal attempt, the first this year by Belleville, Paps took the snap, dropped back to pass but was hit for an eight-yard loss.

NOTES: This story is dedicated to Joe Papisidero. He had his best and worst times against Garfield. In this game, he scored on a 77-yard punt return. In 1969, as the Belleville quarterback, he threw a 101-yard interception to Don Wojdyla in a tough loss at Garfield. Papisidero played one of his best games in this battle versus Garfield in 1970.

Hoopster Head Has Resigned From System

highlighted by a spot in the Essex County Tournament. That 1979-80 squad had started off with a 9-3 record.

Overall, Papisidero compiled a 35-84 mark at BHS, but that's deceiving when you consider the overall improvement of the program since he took the reins. In 1993, the Bucs were 11-16 and made a strong showing in the state tournament. Some of the players Papisidero coached along the way included Ed Aulisi, Wayne Buset, Ronnie Wittman, Gary Fesar, Rich Cook, Brian Cook, Phil Colalillo, Joe Borrello, John Borrello and Danny Ward.

Papisidero gave the Township of Belleville some exciting basketball teams and it will be difficult to fill the void created by his departure. The Board of Education had not decided on a replacement or Papisidero as of press time. It's not expected that the board will render a decision until late August.

Belleville Braves Lose Three, Drop Down to 14-15-1 Record

On the playoffs."

If the playoffs were to start with the Braves' 14-15-1 mark, the team would qualify for the final playoff spot. The format for the post-season competition will see the two division winners automatically qualify. Currently, West Orange, the defending champion, and Irvington are in that position. Then, the teams with the three best records qualify to round out the field. Entering this week's action, Parsippany, Verona and Belleville were those clubs. The fourth seed (Parsippany) and the fifth (Belleville) would play a one-game playoff.

After the loss to Parsippany, the Braves played a very controversial tie with Irvington. The final count was 5-5, in a game called by darkness after six "full" innings. What the box score did not show was Belleville had tallied six runs in the top of the seventh, then watched as Irvington did everything in the book to stall the bottom of the seventh inning. The play worked and by county rules, the game is reverted to the last full inning, in this case, the sixth frame and a 5-5 tie. "It was a bush league tactic," said an angry Garilli. "They bring in a new pitcher and it takes him 32 warm-up pitches to get ready? It was a stalling tactic, plain and simple and was a bush league way to play the game."

D & M Takes Two Victories In League Play

lead heading into the sixth inning when the D & M bats, most powerful in the league in runs scored, took control. D & M swept, whipping the No Shows, 19-6.

D & M was led by Bobby Brave, five-for-nine and four RBIs, Walt Harris, six-for-12, a homer and five RBIs, and Pete Haverick, six-for-eight and two RBIs. John Marx got the win in game one going 13 innings and Mike Santicicoma picked up the clincher.

Scott Wohlrab pitched for Belleville, hurling a solid game but figuring in a no decision contest.

Versus the Union Jays, the Braves were on the short end of a heartbreaking 5-4 game. It had come down to the bottom of the seventh, with Belleville leading 4-3. Scott Lutz had started the game and pitched into the final frame. With two outs and runners on first and second, Garilli lifted Lutz in favor of his relief specialist, Rick Kiernan. Kiernan came in and walked a batter to lead the bases.

The next man ripped a double to left to score two runs and make Union a winner.

Finally, versus West Orange, the Braves lost, 7-2. It was a scoreless tie through five innings, with Anthony Cocco doing a solid job for the home team. West Orange woke up in the sixth inning, however, tallying six runs and capping a week in which the Braves did little right and in the process, dropped three tough ball games.

NOTES: There was a bench-clearing brawl in the Irvington game, with bean ball playing a part in the melee. No one was hurt, but the feelings between the two clubs aren't too kind. Garilli, noting his team has just 10 regular season contests, is aware of the importance of this week's action.

We have to take these games, if it comes down to playing Union for a playoff spot, in Union, we're in for a tough time." The Jays, Rams and Montclair State College are right on the Braves' heels for that final spot.

Campers and Trailers Causing Headaches

trailers in any yard area or on a driveway.

The Staus' said they had their vehicle in the driveway, but were permitted by police during the past month to park it on the street while the driveway was being repaired.

The couple has not been issued a summons yet in the matter.

Mayor Michael Marotti explained to the Staus' that the problem is not new to Belleville. "We try to keep this low-key," said Marotti.

In fact, Commissioners had the ordinance up for amendment in 1981. After weeks of inaction with the matter placed "on the table," the ordinance was quietly removed from the table. No changes were made, but enforcement was not heavy.

Marotti affirmed that with the popularity of camping and the increase of locally owned recreation trailers, Commissioners may have to give the matter more thought.

Public Safety Commissioner Ralph DiRuggiero agreed that changes might be in order. However, he said that officials should be enforcing the current ordinance if they see a violation.

"There is no need to wait for a specific complaint," said DiRuggiero.

When inspector DiChiara was asked by The Times if he had told the Staus' a complaint was necessary before officials took action he declined comment.

DiChiara explained that the Code Enforcement Officer Robert Domenick was slated to attend a special meeting with the Mayor and Commissioners to discuss the trailer issue.

"I would rather wait and see what comes out of that before I comment," explained DiChiara.

Repeated calls directly to Domenick were never returned.

Recovery Picnic Set August 5 in Kearny

Nutley Recovery, Inc., the association of nervous and former mental patients, will hold its annual picnic Aug. 5, 1 p.m. at River Bank Park, Kearny.

Founded by Dr. Abraham Low in 1937, the group has its international headquarters based in Chicago. There are nearly 1,000 weekly group Recovery meetings throughout the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico, Ireland and the United Kingdom. The group is patient-managed and provides a self-help method of mental health through will training.

Mia Daire of Nutley serves as the local leader and area publicity coordinator for Recovery. The group holds weekly meetings at the Nutley Parks Department building, 44 Park Ave., every Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. One of 14 state group meetings, Nutley Recovery sessions are free and open to the public. Call 766-7466 for more information.

Medicine Shoppe Puts Freeze on Generic Drugs

The Medicine Shoppe of Nutley, 559 Franklin Ave., announced that it will put a price freeze on all generic drugs through the end of the year.

"We hope this will give our customers further incentive to try a generic drug," Michele and Joe Martinez, owners of the Medicine Shoppe, said. "We're trying the price freeze to draw attention to generic drugs and the savings they can offer to consumers."

Generic drugs cost less than their brand name counterparts and are identical in chemical makeup. Patents on brand name drugs expire after 17 years, making the formula public property. Then, the numbers increase as manufacturers can produce the drug without research or development expense, passing the savings on to consumers.

The Food and Drug Administration has approved over 2,000 generic drug products. Each year, the numbers increase as patents expire. In 1985, the patents on the arthritis medication, Motrin, and the popular tranquilizer, Valium, will expire.
