Times' Headlines Detail Township Events in 1984

By Gigi Ruda

Throughout the year of 1984 the Township of Belleville was faced with many challenges, changes, triumphs and tragedies. Looking back over headlines stories in The Belleville Times during the past 12 months, stories that largely affected the township included the Bridgebrook Apartment controversy, the death of Commissioner Mary Senatore, the redevelopment of Washington Avenue, and just recently, the fire which destroyed the Public Works Department Building.

The controversy surrounding the Bridgebrook Apartment Complex started at the end of 1983 and drifted into the new year when the complex was given a summons for public health violations on Jan. 3. The summons cited the management and owner of the 250-unit complex for an overflow of raw sewage and brought forth several Bridgebrook tenants who protested these conditions.

During the same week the Belleville girls' basketball team, paced by Jennifer Apicella's 34-point effort, stormed by the Bloomfield Bengals, 50-31, in the championship game of the Essex County Holiday Tournament.

Charles Mida, a five-year member and one-time president of the Belleville Board of Education, announced his resignation the week of Jan. 12.

In that same week the girls' basketball team remained undefeated, sporting a 7-0 record after defeating Bloomfield and Passaic. The Belleville High School wrestlers were also undefeated with a 3-0 record.

The next week brought Belleville the opportunity to own its own water supply by applying for admittance into the Wanauke South Water Diversion Project. The township had applied in September 1981, but was denied by December for lack of room in that project.

The Bridgebrook Apartments once again made the headlines on Jan. 26. Belleville had requested the state to rescind the controversial garden apartment complex and was denied. The request followed residents' complaints.

February brought the surprising news of Commissioner Matthew Pica's resignation after 14 years of community service. Pica said he was resigning because "it was becoming impossible to work two full-time jobs at once and at the same time be fair to them both and himself."

Pica had served on the Board of Commissioners since 1979, after spending nine years as a member of the Board of Education, including two years as president. He was re-elected to the Commission in May of 1983. At the time of his re-election, Pica said he was happy to have held his seat, and felt honored that he was re-elected, but the pressure of running an 83-man police force and fire department proved to be just a little too much for the lifelong Belleville resident.

Thomas Spillane announced his candidacy to seek re-election as vice president of the Belleville Board of Education the week of Feb. 9. Spillane joined former assistant superintendent of schools, Sy Grossman as a candidate seeking one of the two three-year seats available.

The high school wrestling team kept its record perfect at 9-0-1 with two impressive victories over St. Joseph's and Paramus Catholic.

The following week brought triumph to the girls' basketball team as Jennifer Apicella broke

Another Grand Opening — Chicken Holiday, located at 368 Main St. in the Grand Union Shopping Center, had its grand opening last week. Chicken Holiday features chicken, ribs and seafood and offers free delivery seven days a week from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. At the ribbon cutting ceremony were owner Joe Quartier, Jim Kahlan, Mayor Michael Marotti, Patty, an employee, and Michele Dalbo of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Graffiti Ordinance Approved; Town to Buy New Ambulances

By Linda Telasco

Sidewalk Picasso's who decide to express themselves on Belleville property may end up paying for their own masterpieces.

Commissioners last week unanimously approved a measure to prohibit graffiti in town.

However, a companion ordinance designed to restrict the sale of certain items used by graffiti artists was not so successful being tabled for further study.

The ruling to prohibit graffiti was adopted as an amendment to the township's disorderly conduct ordinance and prohibits defacing both public and private property.

The penalty for a conviction on graffiti charges is a fine of up to $500 or a jail sentence of up to 90 days or both.

Offenders will also be expected to remove the defacement from the damaged properties, according to the new law.

When the measure was introduced at commissioners' Dec.

17 session, Mayor Michael Marotti explained that any juveniles held on graffiti charges would be responsible themselves for penalties imposed by the Superior Court.

"In the past, we had a property damage law that held parents responsible if a minor was caught defacing property," the mayor told The Times.

He expressed satisfaction that having a measure specifically designed to curb graffiti would control the recent proliferation of scrawls and painting on public buildings.

Marotti said several schools and the township's recreation building on Joramemon Street had been recent victims of graffiti artists.

The mayor noted that municipal workers removed the paint. "This was done during their regular working hours, so the graffiti did not yet cost the taxpayers clean-up money," Marotti said.

The ordinance labels acts of graffiti as "a contempt for the property rights of private citizens as well as government authorities" and it puts responsibility for "written or pictorial" graffiti on "all persons directly or indirectly involved" including the one who actually defaces a property, companions who assist by serving as lookouts, and those who provide monies to purchase tools of defacement including, the measure says, "spray cans, pencils, crayons or other marking devices."

In a related move, the board decided to table a proposed ordinance to restrict the sale or

First Baby Here Will Be Honored

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is once again sponsoring its "First Baby of the Year Contest." Because of The Times' early press date, news of the township's first born will appear in next week's issue.

According to Shirlee Sherman, the New Year baby contest, in its 19th year, awards the first born and its family a number of gifts from township merchants and chamber members. Included in this year's contest are: Belleville Shoes, The Belleville Times, Branch Brook Manor, Charles Jewellers, Clara Maass Medical Center, First DeWitt Savings, First Jersey Bank, Flemings Food Supply, Flowerama, Fountain of Flowers, Jovial Card, K-Mart Corporation, Nannina's Inc., Peoples Bank, Spencer Bank, Supermarket General (Pathmark), Sherman's, Harry French, and Grace Purdue.

Building Height Regulations Lifted On Washington Avenue

The Manhattan skyline may get some competition from Washington Avenue soon if any speculators take advantage of a new measure adopted last week by commissioners to establish a high rise construction zone downtown.

Commissioners voted Thursday to lift building height regulations for the Avenue established by a 1980 zoning ordinance.

The move now permits construction of eight story structures on the east side of the township's main thoroughfare between Mill and Rutgers Streets.

The area excepted from the restrictions is part of the street targeted for revitalization by the Belleville Redevelopment Agency, an autonomous body that seeks to renew the deteriorating parts of the Avenue by encouraging new developers to build there.

In past months, members of the agency expressed the hope that high rise buildings would be allowed in order to open the field to more speculation.

In fact, member Joseph Dasaro said at a recent agency meeting that he knew of a developer whose identity he would not disclose who was interested in working within the zoned area, if high rise buildings were permitted.

Proponents of the rezoning argued that with its proximity to New York City and Newark

International Airport, Washington Avenue had the potential to become an attractive location for office building which would increase the township's taxables.

Objectors complained that such drastic alterations would destroy the character of the community and bring hardship to small merchants and area residents who might be forced out of their businesses and homes by conglomerates.

Further action on the redevelopment plans is expected this month when the Planning Board delivers its formal report on the Redevelopment Agency's plan to declare blight along certain portion of the Avenue.

Redevelopment Or Blight? — Both township residents and merchants await the fate of Washington Avenue while the local Planning Board prepares to present its formal report on the Redevelopment Agency's plan for the Avenue. Washington Avenue has been the center of the township, but has recently suffered loss of business and deterioration.

Annual Alumni Reception At High School Tomorrow

The Belleville High School Guidance Department will host its annual alumni reception tomorrow, Jan. 4, 2:35 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Former graduates who are home for the holidays will have an opportunity to revisit the high school. A particular invitation is being given to the Class of 1984. The reception has a dual purpose in that it affords the department an opportunity to interview last year's graduates and to obtain follow-up information, while at the same time, last year's graduates have one last opportunity to meet their friends again in school.

United Way of Essex, West Hudson Will Begin New Funding Methods

United Way of Essex and West Hudson counties, 303 Washington St., Newark, announced five new funding methods which will be implemented to fund projects for public shelter and jobs, its top priorities for 1985.

The Newark-based group supports and sponsors various organizations and agencies throughout Nutley and Belleville. "Five funding techniques will help us to address the priority needs of shelter and job placement in the coming year," United Way president Harry W. Witt said at a news conference held in Newark last week.

Shelter Is Top Priority
"The severe shortage of shelter in our area is a major concern," Witt said, "it currently ranks number one among our funding priorities. As a result, our allocation committee has recommended significant funding increases to shelter programs for 1985."

"These programs will offer housing to individuals who are recently released from institutions, are incapable of caring for themselves and have nowhere else to turn," he continued.

Witt pointed out that the use of purchase of service and challenge grant funding will help United Way to fulfill its commitment to the homeless. Purchase of service will allow United Way to pay agencies specifically for shelter. Challenge grants act as an incentive by challenging agencies to seek additional funding from other sources.

Job Placement Also A Priority
According to Witt, the use another new mode of funding — performance purchase — will allow United Way to increase its job placement efforts.

"This year, we entered into a joint venture known as Job Start with the state Division of Youth and Family Services," Witt said. "No money was provided to participating agencies at the outset. Instead, agencies receive $200 for each teenager successfully placed in a job."

United Way believes that performance purchase has tremendous potential as a method of funding job placement programs, according to Witt.

"We hope that Job Start will serve as a prototype for a wide-sweeping job placement effort," Witt said. "We're excited about our new approach and hope that other governmental agencies and private industry will follow suit and join forces with us on similar job finding projects."

New Funding Methods Answer Emerging Needs

Long Range Strategic Planning and ongoing needs assessment have helped United Way keep abreast of emerging needs in its community service area, according to Witt. For the past decade, the organization has been refining a funding system based upon priority needs.

"Our priority ranking system is now in place," Witt said. "And we believe the best way to implement it is a gradual movement away from deficit funding and into five new funding techniques — matching funds, performance purchase, reimbursement, challenge grants and purchase of service."

Witt said that statistics indicate an 80 percent increase in the number of fire victims in the past year, that 50 percent of our minority youth in search of jobs can't find them; and that the number of single parent families and senior citizens in our area is on the increase. He pointed out that United Way's network of beneficiary agencies offers programs that specifically address the needs of all of those groups.

Ministry Needs Addressed
"In recent years, we have also seen a significant increase in the size of our minority population," Witt said. "Our statistics show that agencies receiving allocations of more than $100,000 from United Way serve an average of 65 percent minority clients and that 29 percent of all beneficiary agencies are under the leadership of a minority administrator."

"United Way has always maintained a color blind attitude toward the delivery of services and those statistics are a natural outgrowth of that attitude," he said.

"Our primary concern is meeting human need wherever it exists," Witt said.

New Funding/Special Grants Add Up To Accessibility
"The recent establishment of a Special Projects Grant fund under the auspices of our Community Planning and Development Committee has helped us to embrace creative approaches to solving problems and grassroots organizations," Witt said.

Witt cited the Central Ward Coalition of Youth Agencies as an example. "With special grant funding from our United Way, the coalition has managed to coordinate services provided by a variety of agencies in one of our most economically depressed neighborhoods," he said.

Thirteen programs received Special Grants this year including the Tenant Safety and Crime Prevention Project; Joint Connection, which deals with the children of prison inmates; and a number of anti-drug education and tutorial programs for youngsters.

"In Essex and West Hudson counties, United Way is second only to government as a provider of human services," Witt said. "We feel that our new priority ranking system and new funding modes will allow us to better address urgent needs and explore creative solutions to problems while continuing to fund the host of other services for which the community has come to rely on our beneficiary agencies."

Happy New Year — 1985 is upon us. It seems to have crept up while no one was looking. You might ask yourself, is this year going to be better than 1984? If you have to ask, it won't. Optimism is brought on by motivation. A pessimist only hopes for the best and usually gets mediocrity in return for his "effort." The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is very optimistic about 1985. Advanced projects are under way to triple membership, coordinate community efforts by teaming up with other organizations, laying the groundwork for redevelopment, working together with town officials in community projects and most important to bring, promote, and sustain business in Belleville.

1985 also brings new tax increases and new tax laws. As you may already know, the Social Security tax rate and maximum taxable earning figure will both increase on Jan. 1. Once again employees and employers will pay identical taxes but at the increased rate of 7.05 percent of the first $39,600 of each employee's earnings in 1985. Happy New Tax Year from your government.

"When I was in the eighth grade, I earned some extra cash by making deliveries after school for the neighborhood drug store," Vincent Cozzarelli must have loved working for William Rivola's Rossmore Pharmacy. He loved it so much, that on Dec. 19, 1964 he and his brother Raymond bought the business and now celebrate their 20th anniversary. Raymond and Vincent are both married, Ray five years and Vince four. Vinnie's wife, Georgetta, was his next door neighbor for 30 years before they were married. No one can accuse Vinnie of making snap decisions. These two hard working brothers are registered pharmacists and are proud of their service.

Open seven days a week, Rossmore Pharmacy, 338 Washington Ave., features pick-up and deliveries and an emergency phone number for prescriptions. Rossmore sells Precision Mount figurines, a well known collector's item. The pharmacy also offers Union and Third Party Programs, as well as senior citizen's discounts. A complete Russel Stover Candy line along with name brand cosmetics and fragrances can be found on the shelves. The Belleville Chamber of Commerce welcomes Rossmore Pharmacy to its evergrowing membership. Best wishes on their 20th.

A General Membership Luncheon is scheduled at Tarantino's Ristorante, 140 Washington Ave., on Jan. 15 at 11:45 a.m. — $12.50 for members, $15 for non-members. The results of the Chamber's membership vote for issuing a formal statement on the Chamber's position for Redevelopment will be made public at this luncheon. Guest speaker will be Tom Bradey of New Jersey Bell. The topic will be access changes — "Diversifying the Unfinished Business." Seating is limited. Contact the Chamber office, 759-4848, for reservations.

Story Times Series Begin This Week

Registration for the Belleville Public Library's Preschool Story Times program is still being conducted in the children's room at 221 Washington Ave.

The Preschool Program, which will run for 10 consecutive weeks, is open to all Belleville 3- and 4-year-olds. Because group size is limited, advance registration is required. Interested parents should call the children's room, main library, at 759-9200 or register their children in person as soon as possible. Storytelling, nursery rhymes, finger plays, crafts, filmstrips, and simple sign language and creative dramatics will be featured.

Two separate groups will be formed. One session will meet Tuesdays, beginning this Tuesday, Jan. 8, through March 12. The other will begin this Thursday, Jan. 10 through March 14. Each session runs from 10-11 a.m.

A parent or guardian is required to be in the building during the program and is invited to join a series of lecture, film and discussion programs in the Adult Department, conducted concurrently with the preschool program.

A 10-week spring story time will be held in April and May.

A CHILD'S FEVER

A recent study at a leading children's hospital showed that most parents do not know what temperature signals a fever or when a fever is so high it can cause brain damage. In most cases, parents worry too much about low to moderate fevers, giving their kids drugs that they do not need. Here are the fever facts: A temperature of 101 degrees Fahrenheit or greater, measured rectally, signals fever in children aged six months to four years. A child's temperature may be as high as 104.4 degrees during a normal day. An oral reading of 100 degrees signals fever in children over four years old. It is not until a fever reaches 106 degrees that harmful side effects such as brain damage can occur.

You'll find a friendly staff and complete selection of prescription drugs at ROSMORRE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave. 759-1936, 759-1968. We are Medicare and Blue Cross approved. Stocks include greeting cards, baby needs, cameras and film and transistor radios. Hours: Daily 9am-10pm, Sundays 9am-9pm.

HANDY HINT:

Religious Viewpoint

Rose Bowl Blunder

By The Rev. Robert Paul

One of the most startling plays in football history occurred during the Rose Bowl game of 1929. Roy Riegels, an excellent player and captain of the California team, grabbed a Georgia Tech fumble, was spun about in the line of scrimmage, broke into the clear, but then headed for his own goal line 75 yards away.

The roar of the crowd rendered the shouts of his teammates futile, but one of them caught up to him and stopped him less than a yard from his own goal! California had to kick? But the kick was blocked by the hard charging Tech team. California fell on the ball to give Tech two points for a safety, but that was the ball game. Instead of losing 7-6, Georgia Tech won 8-7 because Roy Riegels ran the wrong way.

But he was not the only one to make such a mistake. You may be one of the same individuals who is making in life the same mistake that was made that day on the gridiron.

Each of us is in a game called life. How easy it is to be spun around and as you imagine that you are racing towards the goal-line of eternal life, you are headed in the opposite direction toward the place the Bible calls the Lake of Fire.

Roy Riegel's teammates shouted warnings, but because his ears were deafened to their frantic cries by the crowd's roar, he sped on.

You have been warned many times that you are headed in the wrong direction and need to repent and receive Jesus Christ as your own personal Saviour, but all to no avail. Because of the pleasures which sin affords, you cannot think of laying them aside for the nail scarred hand of Christ.

God offers you thrills, joys, peace and pleasures that are not only for this life, but for all eternity.

Many people are traveling the way that seems right, but their Bible says it is the way of death. (Proverbs 14:12) "Jesus said unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life; no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." (St. John 14:6)

Orechio Proposes Creation Of Information Commission

In an effort to examine ways to enhance the interaction of the Legislature and the general public, Senate President Carmen A. Orechio has proposed the creation of a legislative public information study commission.

"During the last ten years the Legislature has undergone significant changes in its composition, organizational structure, staff and facilities," the Senate President stated. "These changes have resulted in the Legislature's assuming its proper and constitutionally mandated role among the three branches of State Government."

"The Legislature has established and developed a variety of programs and procedures to enhance the level of the public's awareness of the legislative process and understanding of the duties and responsibilities of its elected representatives," Orechio continued.

Orechio went on to explain that the commission will examine the relationship of the Legislature and its members to the communications media, the sufficiency and value of orientations and tours within the legislative facilities in Trenton, the development of and participation in educational programs on the Legislature and legislative process, and the legislative district office program.

"I have always believed that it is the responsibility of elected representation to do all they can to encourage active citizen participation in the governmental process. Raising the level of public awareness is the first step," Orechio said.

DENTALLY SPEAKING

By Drs. James D. Muglia
and Paul N. De Maio

Diane K. asks, "What is root canal? Why does it have to be done and does it always hurt?"
Well, Diane, endodontics or root canal is performed when the blood supply and the nerve inside the tooth start to become infected, or if there had been an infection before and it is now abating. The blood supply inside the tooth is like a one way street; if it turns around inside the tooth at the top becomes infected, the blood cannot return to the bottom and outside the tooth. The cells inside the tooth die and then must be removed.

The removal of these dead cells is called "root canal." After the inside cells are removed, the inside space must be filled up so nothing can leak back inside the tooth. This procedure can be done under Novocaine. Once you are fully numb, there should be no pain.

Thank you.

Prayer for Today

Keep me, O Lord, from all pettiness.
Let me be large in thought and word and deed.
Let Me leave off self-seeking and have done with false findings.
Help me put away all pretense, that I may meet my neighbor face to face, without self-pity and without prejudice.
May I never be hasty in my judgments, but generous to all and in all things.
Make me grow calm, serene and gentle.
Teach me to put into action my better impulses and make me straightforward and afraid.
Grant that I may realize that it is the trifling things of life that create differences, that in the higher things, we are all one.
And, O Lord, God, let me not forget to be kind!

A New Resolution

Now that 1985 is upon us, we all have an obligation to close ranks and end up with a consensus on the future of Washington Avenue.

For three years, the BRDA has advanced a program to give Washington Avenue a new face. Its goal merits the gratitude of the entire community. However, there are some among us who believe the plans developed by the BRDA are too ambitious. There are still others among us who feel strongly about the elimination of merchants who have been located in the area for many decades.

In the recent past, the Township Commission, the Planning Board and the BRDA have met to exchange views in the hope that a consensus could be achieved.

What with the holidays, progress has been slow. Now with 362 days ahead of us in this year of great promise, the time has arrived for a final decision. Should the BRDA plan be approved in its present form — should a modified plan be adopted — or should the entire redevelopment idea be abandoned? A final decision that would be absolute is necessary in the immediate future. Businesses located in the path of the "blighted" area need to know whether their life continues on Washington Avenue or whether they should seek to locate elsewhere. Property owners must be given the right to feel comfortable with their investments — they should be given the right to plan ahead, instead of standing still not knowing what tomorrow brings. The future of Washington Avenue is in the hands of elected and appointed public officials. The time for study is past — now is the time for action.

A Father's Prayer

Build me a son, O Lord, who will be strong enough to know when he is weak, and brave enough to face himself when he is afraid. One who will be proud and unbending in honest defeat — and humble and gentle in victory. Build me a son whose wishbone will not be where his backbone should be, a son who will know thee and take to know himself as the foundation stone of knowledge. Lead him, I pray, not in the path of ease and comfort, but under the stress and spur of difficulties and challenge. Here, let him learn to stand up in a storm; here, let him learn compassion for those who have failed.

Build me a son whose heart will be clear, whose goal will be high; a son who will master himself before he seeks to master other men, who will learn to laugh — and not forget how to weep; one who will reach into the future — and not forget the past.

And after all these things are his, add, I pray, enough of a sense of humor so that he may always be serious — yet never take himself too seriously. Give him humility so that he may always remember the simplicity of true greatness — the open mind of true wisdom — the meekness of true strength. Then, I, his father, will dare to whisper, "I have not lived in vain."

Students Celebrate Holiday

'How Do We Know It's Christmas' — First and second graders of School 4 presented a Christmas program Dec. 18. The show, under the direction of Miss Rinaldi, Mrs. D'Amola and Mrs. Bush, featured stockings, candy canes, toy soldiers, and dolls which made appearances through poems and songs. The show ended with Santa's arrival.

Golden Comments

By James R. Golden

There was a lot of moaning and groaning by Belleville property owners when they saw their new tax bill due Aug. 1, 1984, increases averaging around $300 or more were not uncommon. Rents were raised and mortgage payments increased to compensate for the tax increase.

The cost of living remained high, car prices soared, many were still unemployed and those working seldom benefited by getting raises. Those who did, received meager increases around 3 percent, some giving up previous perks in the bargain.

The elderly on fixed incomes found it tough to make ends meet. A not too well thought of western governor intimated they should die...his solution to curb budget expenses.

All during the election campaign President Ronald Reagan kept assuring the people they didn't have to worry about the huge federal deficit. The economy was going so well that the growth would take care of the whole thing. He assured everyone there wasn't any connection between the deficit and interest rates anyway, so why worry?

But now it turns out that Budget Director David A. Stockman had estimated the deficit wrong and that it will be greater than President Reagan kept telling people it would be. Looking more like $210 billion a year or more — if the economy doesn't perform up to expectations. What a mess.

Was all this a political maneuver by the White House, an obvious attempt to position itself correctly and create a favorable climate before the election? What stands out about this is the gall of the White House. Are we now to conclude that all those assurances President Reagan gave the people before the election don't apply now? It looks that way.

Newsweek, in a special issue, offered an "inside" report on the 1984 campaign based on materials provided the magazine on condition they would not be released until after the election.

In that report, Newsweek disclosed that Stockman and Richard Daman, another senior advisor to the President, had concocted long before the election a plan called "The November Project" that, according to Newsweek, accepted the seriousness of the threat posed by huge federal deficit and proposed measures to meet that threat, including changes in the tax system that would increase revenues.

By this account, Reagan never saw the plan before the election, which seems to get him "off the hook" from the charge he was deliberately misleading the voters. Instead, it seems that he was just as much in the dark as all the rest of us. The November Project apparently was the kind of thing that, in Washington language, is distributed only on a "need to know" basis and neither the President nor the voters qualified. The existence of the document obviously supports Mondale's contention that there was indeed a White House "secret plan" to raise taxes — an accusation that Reagan so righteously and successfully denied. In fact, it is fair to assume that if the existence of the November Project had been disclosed in September or October, serious questions might have been raised about Reagan's credibility on the issue. The question remains...Were the voters bang jacked around by the White House? What does this have to do with our Belleville tax rate?

Plenty! You can see how easy the voters and even our elected commissioners can easily become pawns, at the hand of our generous elected school board members who, without batting an eye, grant a 2.5 percent salary increase to teachers over a three year period, then allow it to go up an 8 percent increase to secretaries and a 6 percent raise to supervisors, all across the board, and retroactive to July 1.

Who do you think pays for these big salaries, some of which reach a $37,130 a month rate? You do, the taxpayers. The school board can't raise taxes, only our commissioners can...and we taxpayers pay the salaries our overgenerous school board members grant the school employees.

The tax rate must rise to meet this increased cost of education. And our taxes must be increased to pay for the generosity of our school board members who give our money away in fancy salaries in the hope that those benefiting from this largess will sponsor and support their candidacy for reelection, so that they may back in the glory of prominence.

State Insurance Policy May Cover Court Action

To the editor:

On Christmas morning, while reading a newspaper, I found out about a ruling given out by a court in New Jersey which spoiled my whole morning. I might add that this is not the first time some idiotic ruling has come out of some court in our land.

For instance, letting a person sue a cigarette company because they got cancer has to be the most ridiculous. No one asked them to smoke. Another beauty was when a young man admitted going 90 miles an hour and caused an accident. Later on he was allowed to sue the car manufacturer.

There is no doubt are many more, but back to my original ire. An innocent pedestrian was killed in 1980 by a person (apparently intoxicated) who was being chased by police from Belleville and Nutley. Now, according to the courts, the family of the man killed will be allowed to sue the two towns and the two officers. One has to feel sorry for the innocent pedestrian, but where is the logic of suing the towns and the officers?

The law wants the police to do their job and yet they slap their hands all too often. Had they not chased him, he may possibly have caused more harm, and the officers could have been accused of not doing their job.

What's the answer to all this? Who knows? Maybe a flat mandate throughout the entire state paid for by the state in the form of an insurance policy could be the answer. The family of an innocent bystander (when a policeman is involved) would get a certain amount of money depending on age only. The money saved by the state by keeping it out of the courts would more than make up for the cost of funding such a project.

Sincerely,
Donald Capanear

United States Government Should Have a Chancellor

To the editor:

The recent elections brought to mind an unpublished article I did back in the 1950's. Unfortunately, I didn't have the opportunities I have now.

At that time there was a story in the Saturday Evening Post in relation to the presidency. It was about the time General Eisenhower was running. The subject of this article was about having a prime minister (or what ever else you wanted to call him) to help the president. The presidency was beginning to be a hard job. It still is today. Most of our presidents have shown old age in just four years. Pres. Carter, to name just one, Eisenhower suffered a lot; two heart attacks while in office.

I agreed then and I still do now. I think it's long overdue. We should consider a chancellor or prime minister to handle foreign affairs. He should be elected the same way as our president is, every four years and four more if popular; but no more. If that isn't agreeable, the job of Secretary of State should be reconsidered. Today, it is more of a figure head as most presidents rely on their advisors more than the Secretary of State.

There should also be a "back-up man" in case of death, sickness or other kinds of incapacity. I think this would definitely be a plus for our country. The president would take care of all the other areas and the chancellor would handle all foreign affairs. This way, the burden is lightened and it's not too much for one mortal man.

Sincerely,
Bill Rundle

Year in Review: Township Events Detailed in Times

the state scoring record previously held by Kate Larkin in Apicella accomplished this feat during a game against Bayonne when she sank a foul shot in the fourth quarter to give her 2,746 career points.

In a victory of sorts, tenants of the Bridgebrook Garden Apartment Complex and township officials met with Community Affairs Commissioner John P. Renne to discuss health and safety violations at the complex.

Howard Halpern was sworn in as president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce Feb. 21 at the Chamber's annual officers' installation ceremony held at Nanima's in the Park Restaurant.

Halpern, who had been a member of the Chamber since 1975, replaced Mrs. Jaye Tarantino who was appointed Chairman of the Board. She had served as the Chamber's president for two years.

The Buccaneers wrestling squad concluded its season with a perfect record of 14-0, and gave head coach Gene D'Alessandro his first undefeated season since his arrival at Belleville in 1976.

Loreli Wells and her defensive play became the main factors for the Belleville girls' basketball team advancing to the semifinal round of the Essex County Tournament.

In March, Matthew Pica was honored by the Essex County Board of Freeholders for his many years of outstanding community service.

In sports, Jennifer Apicella hit the 3,000-point mark.

Heated political controversy was the topic of discussion the week of March 22 when a welfare investigator charged that a decision by the Local Assistance Board to change the welfare director's post from full-time to a part-time job was politically motivated.

Michael Ippolito, a 10-year employee of the Welfare Department, charged that the changes were part of the plan to fill the post as a political favor for Commissioner Michael Pizzi, Director of the Public Affairs Department.

Still in the political vein, April brought new school trustees, Phil Infante, Ernest Zoppi and Sy Grossman were elected to the Board of Education. Infante and Grossman captured the two three-year seats, while Zoppi won the one-year term.

The following week saw Grace Purdue re-elected board president and Dr. Anthony D'Agostino as the new vice president.

April was also the beginning of the blight controversy in regards to Washington Avenue. A public hearing was scheduled for May 3. More than 200 people turned out for the hearing to protest proposals for redeveloping the Avenue.

In May School 18 teachers were out picketing as part of their job action against the Board of Education. Teachers throughout the township were upset with the board's stalled contract talks and had been taking part in the job action all that week. By the end of the next week, the job action had been suspended and the contract talks resumed.

June was the beginning of the Presidential Primary Elections and Mondale ran off with the nomination.

The Belleville High School girls' crew team won a bronze medal at the Canadian National Championships held in Ontario. The third place finish concluded a season for the girls in which they captured a national championship at Delaware and were practically unbeatable during the 1984 season.

June 14 brought an end to months of negotiations between the leaders of the Belleville Education Association and members of the Board of Education as a tentative three-year contract was agreed upon.

Belleville officials joined a fight against plans to eliminate severe North Jersey flooding by building a tunnel to convey excess waters to the lower Passaic River.

Bethany Lutheran Church named Nancy Moore as their new woman pastor that same month.

Complaints concerning the quality of township water once again surfaced as the summer began to set in. Public Works Commissioner Joseph Grande said, "This problem really is out of our control, but we're trying to help as much as possible."

Grande explained that Belleville obtained its water from the Newark Water Company and until construction of a new filtration plant and relining and cleaning out of the water main that feeds Belleville was completed, nothing could be done for the problem.

A new condominium project was soon to rise on Mill Street, a site formerly occupied by a yeast company.

AARP Meets Today at 1

The Belleville Chapter 201 American Association of Retired Persons will meet today, Jan. 3 at 1 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, 444 Union Ave.

Mr. Eddie B. Prestridge, an Exxon Research Engineer, will speak on "The Energy Situation."

Members are reminded that dues for 1985 may be paid at the meeting. Dues are $3 per member.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Doris Cypolinski and Lillian Metcalfe.

The next official board meeting will be Friday, Jan. 11.

Theater Group Begins Classes In February

Puschart Players Repertory Theater for Children, Verona, has announced an advanced class for professional actors and acting students will be added to Puschart's ongoing theatre education program, beginning in February, 1985.

Admission to the class will be by audition and interviews which are currently being scheduled. Classes will be held in the Puschart studio, located at 197 Bloomfield Ave., Verona, and will be instructed by Nutley resident Albert Insinnia, director of Puschart's Department of Theatre Education.

Insinnia has performed extensively on Broadway, film and television. He is known to New York audiences for his roles in "Two Gentlemen of Verona," "Grease," "Jacques Brel," and most recently as Mordred with Richard Harris in "Camelot." He is also a favorite with children throughout the Mid-Atlantic region for whom he has performed in hundreds of Puschart presentations over the past year.

Combining his teaching and acting career over the years, Insinnia has developed programs at the Dallas Theatre Center, Houston and California. He began the Theatre Lab and programs for kids at Puschart last season which have met with huge success. Programs now include Creative Drama, Theatre-By-Kids, Theatre-By-Teens, and The Acting Lab for adults on Monday evenings.

demonstrated noticeable increases in the state's Basic Skills Test over the past five years, as announced in the July 12 issue of The Times.

August 16 brought the Belleville Braves to the playoffs, sporting a 20-17-2 record.

Belleville took its first step toward establishing a recycling program when commissioners agreed to apply to the New Jersey Office of Recycling for a program planning and education grant the week of Aug. 23.

The decision came after a summer of indecision over getting a new scavenger contract for the township.

After rejecting several bids, Belleville awarded a five-year $3.4 million scavenger contract to Haul-Away Inc., a Hoboken firm Aug. 30.

The contract, which became effective Sept. 10, was awarded at a special meeting Aug. 22, three weeks after commissioners voted to reject the bid first made Aug. 6 by the firm.

That same week, the Belleville Little League Squad won its third Annual Rick Cerone Tournament.

The month of September started the investigations concerning the murder at the Belleville Motor Lodge.

September also showed noticeable decreases in student enrollment in Belleville.

In October, Michelle Jeannotte, a lifelong resident of Belleville, was appointed assistant to the publisher of The Belleville Times.

Haul-Away Inc. of Hoboken began work on the five-year $3.4 million contract the firm won by a unanimous vote the week of Oct. 25.

November started the fight against dirty water in the township. Local officials, Commissioner Grande and Bloomfield Councilman Ralph Colasanti, with Assemblyman Buddy Fortunato, aided in the battle.

Marianne Pratter was released of her jail sentence for hazardous conditions at her Main Street chemical plant, Organics-Inorganic, this month.

Ronald Reagan won a landslide victory over Walter Mondale in the Presidential Election Nov. 6.

The Buccaneers football team advanced to the Section 11 playoffs after a victory over Paterson Kennedy, 19-7.

A morning blaze Nov. 12 destroyed the Public Works Building. Most of the building's equipment, including two new dump trucks, sweepers and salting equipment were destroyed. The department's records were also destroyed, including diagrams of the water mains and sewer systems.

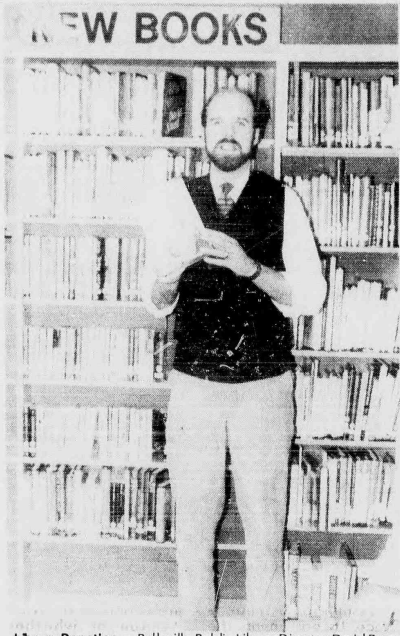

During that same week Govd Agency and Bridgebrook Development Group, Ltd., converters of Bridgebrook Condominiums, were granted permission to convert the apartments to condominiums.

The Buc football squad was defeated by the Nutley Raiders during Thanksgiving Day action. This was the first time since 1977 that the Bucs were defeated by Nutley. The Buccaneers closed out the season with a 6-4 record.

The month of December brought a graffiti ordinance to curb vandalism in the township. The measure was approved unanimously by all five officials.

Although 1984 might not have been perfect, it did bring surprises, joys and triumphs. Best wishes for a prosperous 1985.

Library Donation — Belleville Public Library Director David Bryant holds one of the two copies of Connie Francis's autobiography, "Who's Sorry Now?" Francis, who grew up in the area, donated the books to the library. They are two of the five copies available at the library.

DECISION TIME

Open an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) at Nutley Savings & Loan on or before April 15, 1985 and give yourself a break.

Plan for your future financial needs while saving money now with a substantial deduction on your 1984 Federal Tax Return. The money you deposit in your IRA account, is tax deductible up to $2,000 a year and even more if you're married—$2,250 if your spouse doesn't work and $4,000 for working couples.

And remember, you pay no taxes on your deposits or on the interest you earn until you withdraw the funds at retirement, when you're likely to be in a lower tax bracket.

We have a variety of Individual Retirement Accounts paying high market interest rates. So don't delay. Interest is paid from the day of deposit.

Getting a break on your taxes. It's as easy as IRA.

Monies withdrawn before age 59½ are subject to bank penalties, 10% federal tax penalty and must be declared on income for the year in which the withdrawal is made.

Mrs. Cora E. Smith Feted on Birthday

Mrs. Cora E. Peterson Smith was honored at a family reunion this fall at the Coronet in Irvington to celebrate her 100th birthday. Over 200 relatives and friends attended the affair including Mayor Michael Marotti who presented Mrs. Smith with a proclamation declaring Nov. 26 Cora E. Peterson Smith Day.

As a youth, Mrs. Smith worked for Tiffany's in Newark and catered for the Belleville Elks. In December, 1962, she was presented with a plaque from American Legion Post 105 for 45 years of devoted service to youngsters.

Mrs. Smith, who has been foster parent to 65 children, appeared on Channel 7's Eyewitness News where she discussed her many years of service.

Belleville Shipmates Organizing Reunion

During World War II, two young men from Belleville served together on the USS Card CVE 11, one of the "baby flat tops" with a 50 by 400 foot flight deck. The carrier and its escort, destroyers made up Task Unit 21.14. Their assignment was to hunt down and destroy the "wolf packs", Nazi U-boats which played havoc with Allied convoys carrying supplies and replacement troops to the forces in Northern Africa and Southern Europe.

So well did the unit perform its duty that it was awarded a Presidential Unit citation and a place in the Hall of Fame of American war vessels. It is credited with sinking more U-boats than any team in naval history.

The boys from Belleville, Joe Macchia and Michael DelRusso, lost touch with each other after the war. Both had attended James Shawyer School in the Silver Lake section of town and later, Belleville High School. Mike married Theresa Veneziano of Bloomfield and fathered three daughters, Amelia Matton and Michele McIntosh of Belleville and Barbara Ann Scarrillo of Verona. Grandfather to three, he is general epoxy supervisor at Hardman, located on Cortlandt Street in Belleville. Joe and his wife, Beverly, headed south and settled in Melrose, Fla.

Last year, the two friends met again at the first reunion of Card shipmates held Sept. 29 in Jacksonville, Fla. Over 40 members of the crew attended. Now, Macchia and DelRusso are actively engaged in promoting a second ship reunion Sept. 18 to 21 in Seattle, Wash. They are seeking the names and addresses of former crew members, officers and pilots who served with the task unit. Macchia may be reached at Route 3, Box 3315, Melrose, Fla., 32666. DelRusso lives at 517 Delavan Ave., Newark, N.J., 07107. He may also be reached by calling 483-7757.

The Way We Were — Joe Macchia (left) and Michael DelRusso were shipmates on the USS Card when this picture was taken more than 40 years ago. Today, the two friends are seeking shipmates for a second ship reunion this fall in Seattle, Wash.

Go ahead. Convince me I should open a Metropolitan IRA before January 15th

It's easy. Just take a look at the chart we've put together that shows the difference in earnings 40 years from now, based on the three months you'd lose by starting your IRA in April. $45,711 is pretty substantial, using a 10.75% CD. Unlike the amount you need to open a Metropolitan IRA — which is a very insubstantial $100.

The amounts shown on the chart are based on our one-year certificate of deposit (10.25% rate yielding 10.95% annually) and three-year certificate of deposit (10.75% rate yielding 11.51% annually).

Young or old, male or female, single or married, there are only two things you need to have an IRA: earned income and to be under 70½. And one very good reason for Metroplanning your future now, instead of later: interest compounded from January 1st, no matter when you open your IRA between now and January 15th.

Still not convinced? Stop by any Metropolitan Federal office for more information. And find out just how easy it is to Metroplan your retirement.

Record Drops to 0-3

Girls' Basketball Team Loses, 51-29, To Moore Catholic in Tourney Game

Al is not roses for the Belleville girls' basketball team in the early stages of the 1984-85 campaign. After dropping its first two games of the season last week, the Lady Bucs were stopped in the first round of their own holiday tournament by Moore Catholic of Staten Island, 51-29 and fell to 0-3 in the process. The slow start is the teams' worst since the 1977 season.

Belleville hosted Becton last Friday in the consolation game of the holiday tournament. This afternoon, the girls will stay home to play Montclair, starting at 4 p.m. Next Tuesday, the team will host Immaculate Heart, also at 4 p.m. Next Thursday, the competition is Clifton, at home, starting at 4 p.m.

"We are having trouble scoring points," said head coach Karen Fucello. "We shouldn't have had all that much trouble with them (Moore Catholic). They had a big girl in the middle and that seemed to hurt us. If we hit some of our shots, we would have been in it."

It is true that Belleville had its chances, especially in the first half. Moore Catholic has a center named Sue Harnett, a 6'4" junior, who is one of the best big girls in the metropolitan area. She is mobile, quick and an excellent shot blocker. On the game, Harnett talked 22 points and probably saved another 14 for her team by blocking what seemed to be easy Buccaer points.

The first half was especially close. Moore Catholic led, 14-5 after one frame and 21-14 at the half. The Lady Bucs played a strong defensive game and had

Big Hands — Belleville's Cheryl Marion looks to the basket and sees the big hands of Moore Catholic center Sue Harnett. Marion scored six points in the game, but Belleville lost by 22.

Weather Postpones Indoor Track Season

The Belleville indoor track team was hampered by the late December blizzard last week and had its meet at Plainfield postponed. The Bucs will compete at Paramus Catholic High School this weekend and then will take part in the county relays at Seton Hall University on the 13th of January.

"We have some runners and throwers that are coming around," said the always optimistic head coach, John Tosato. "We have enough athletes so that we can find a jayvee and varsity team. Until Christmas, we were running just about every day. We're just looking to compete in a few relays to see how we're doing."

In the distance events, seniors Bob Hutchinson and William Huamani are leading the way. Both men are experienced runners and are coming off a solid cross country season. Huamani was especially impressive in the closing stages of cross country and he is continuing to look good in the winter months.

Sophomores Tom Ruzzano and John Zurlo have also been working with the distance team and should help in the upcoming races.

A freshman, Bob Schiele, has caught the eye of Tosato with his strong performance and once again, should be a big help in the upcoming relays.

Senior Mike Silletti has been looking good in the sprinting and middle distance events. In the Bucs' first competition of the season, at East Stroudsburg, Silletti ran a 9.59 in the 60 yard hurdles. "That was after a slow start, too," said Tosato. "He should improve even more during the season."

Other sprinters that should be an asset to the team are senior Dave Schenck, junior Joseph Speer and junior Joe Di Vincenzo. In the weight division, Tosato is working with a varsity team of seniors Frank Trupia and Larry Boiscano and a junior varsity team of Paul Lenczuk and Don Santangelo. Tosato has big hopes for Santangelo and Lenczuk, feeling that both youngsters will improve with experience.

The girls' team is led by freshman Joyce Luongo and sophomore Donna Lee Dudelein. Both girls were strong during cross country and have continued to show improvement indoors. A freshman, Karleen Falierno, should see some running time in the middle distance events.

"We have a lot of kids gaining experience," Tosato said in closing. "We're working hard and looking to improvement which hopefully will carry to the outdoor season."

Boys' Basketball Team Defeated in Tournament

Rocco Colucci was told there would be days like this, but the head coach was hoping that the evenings would be a little more pleasant. Last week, his team was romped by Morris Knolls, 70-37 in the first round of the Morris Knolls Holiday tournament. On the season, Belleville is 0-5 and faces a difficult schedule.

Belleville faced Morris Hills last Friday evening in the second round of the holiday tournament. This afternoon, the Bucs will beat Montclair, starting at 4 p.m. Next Tuesday, the team will be in Don Bosco and looking ahead to next Thursday, the Bucs will face Clifton, starting at 4 p.m. from Clifton Hills.

"We played terrible," was all Colucci could say following the one sided loss to Morris Knolls. "I don't mind if we play to our potential and we lose to a better team, but when we do not put forth our best effort, then it gets frustrating. We were never in the game, we were totally out played."

From the opening tap, it appeared that Belleville was in trouble. Morris Knolls established the tempo quickly, taking a 14-2 lead after one quarter.

Belleville staged a mild comeback in the second frame, outscoring MK, 17-15 and trailing, 29-19 at intermission.

"At that point," Colucci remembered, "I thought we might be back in the game. Then, the third quarter came around and forget about it."

Belleville was on the short end of a 22-8 score in the third frame, a quarter in which Morris Knolls put a virtual lock on the contest. The final frame, one in which MK outscored the Bucs, 19-10, was just a gentle reminder of the one sided affair.

"They were a good team," Colucci said of the host school.

(Please see 'Boys' on page 10)

Trapped — Desiree Johansen takes a jump shot despite strong coverage from two Moore Catholic players during last week's game at Belleville High School. The girls lost, 51-29 and fell to 0-3 on the season.

Buccaneer Wrestling Squads Continue Legacy

One of the most popular and successful sports at Belleville High School throughout the years has been wrestling. The last losing season at the high school came over 12 years ago and the year's team certainly looks like a good bet to continue that winning trend.

When you look back over the past decade, wrestling has been very good to Belleville. Such notables as Carl Arlt (1976), Robert Vilano (1976), Chris Tremel (1976), Mark D'Amico (1977), Mark De Giacomo (1977), Mike Stelarella (1979), Chris Musmanno (1980) and Vinnie Mustachio (1976) have given the fans of Belleville wrestling a lot of thrills with their outstanding performances. Certainly the list can go on and on, but unfortunately, this is only a weekly newspaper.

When Jim Silvestri gave up the reins of coaching back in 1976, he turned the program over to a man whose life has been wrestling and whose reputation is one of excellence. Gene D'Alessandro took over at the beginning of the 1976-77 season and promptly led that team to a 15-1 season. He hasn't looked back since.

This year's team is paced by two seniors, both of whom could finish at the top of the all-time Belleville individual victory list. Those two men are Michael Gibbons and Dominick Cerreto and for their efforts during their career and the fine start for both men this year, Gibbons and Cerreto are the Belleville High School athletes of the month for December.

"I don't think I've had two wrestlers with this kind of potential on one team," raved D'Alessandro. I've had some great wrestlers throughout the years, but to have two men that could finish one-two on the all-time Belleville win list, that's something special." Last year, Cerreto and Gibbons posted identical 26-2 records in leading the Buccaneers to a 15-0-1 record. This year, both men are 4-0 in the early going, having won their respective Essex County championships for a second straight year and then winning by way of fall in the dual match against Bergen Catholic.

At 115 or 122 pounds, Cerreto can do the job, and then some. The senior entered this season with a career mark of 57-16, which is now 61-16 with the four early victories. He is in excellent position to break the victory record set by Chris Musmanno back in 1980, which is 68.

Cerreto is in his fourth year of varsity wrestling and Gibbons, also a senior, is in his third year. Entering this season, the 188-pound star boasted a marvelous career record of 43-6 and could move up to the number two position on the all-time list before the season is over.

"With Dominick," said D'Alessandro, "he relies on moves and experience. He has the strength, but usually his moves will catch an opponent. We're not sure as of yet where we will use Dominick this season. He looks good at 115 or 122 pounds. We'll make that decision before the Bloomfield Holiday Tournament" (held last Saturday).

Gibbons has gained a reputation of burying his opponent with the quick fall. He is a tremendously strong athlete, as witnessed by his marvelous versatility during football. On the offense, he played fullback and then on defense, Gibbons was at nose guard. His head coach, John Senesky, always raved about Gibbons' versatility and his ability to come back after so much hitting.

"This season," said D'Alessandro, "Michael has added finesse to his arsenal. He is an explosive athlete to begin with, but now he uses finesse, along with strength, and the result is a wrestler who will be contending for the states."

As a junior last year, Gibbons advanced to the first round of the state tournament, losing to the eventual state champion from South Jersey.

Both men have also caught the eye of the college scouts. "They both have colleges interested," D'Alessandro said. "They are potential college wrestlers, they have a love of the sport and I'm hoping they continue to the collegiate level and find a school where their talents can be best used."

Right now, however, D'Alessandro is just glad to have these two young men right here at Belleville. Both have developed into fantastic wrestlers with a fine senior campaign just underway. Needless to say, you should hear some very good things about Michael Gibbons and Dominick Cerreto before the 1984-85 wrestling season is history. And, chances are, you should hear some more about them when the 1985-86 wrestling season starts next fall.

When you think of Belleville wrestling, the name Chris Musmanno just seems to pop into mind. From the period 1977 through 1980, this young man lit the scoreboard with "WS" like firemen used water to douse a blaze. In his junior and senior years, Musmanno lost one match combined, that coming in the state finals of his junior year at 158 pounds.

In his senior year, Musmanno moved up to 170 pounds, and promptly went undefeated, winning the state championship at Princeton to close out an illustrious career. His hard work ethic and constant strive for perfection earned Musmanno a great deal of high praise from his peers. That hard work ethic also carried into the classroom where the personable young man graduated in the top 10 of his class. Needless to say, colleges jumped at the opportunity to have this man walk their campus for the next four years.

The University of Virginia was where Musmanno chose to hang his hat for the period 1980-1984, and although the focus of attention was centered at a 74" grant named Ralph Simpson, Musmanno quietly put together some more impressive credentials.

"He was named captain of his team in his senior year," said D'Alessandro. "He had a tremendous record at Virginia, graduated with honors and is now looking to attend law school. He was great on the mats and is also a great person."

Indeed, this was a very special athlete which many fans will remember for years to come. Certainly, his decentifying performances were a thing of amazement and praise. Congratulations to Chris on another job well done and continued success in the future.

Hope that everyone enjoyed their holidays and once again, may 1985 be a banner year in your life.

A word to the boys' and girls' basketball teams, which have found the early going extremely difficult. Keep the faith and continue the hard work. Everything should fall into place soon. Rome wasn't built in a day and a successful varsity program cannot be built on the basis of five games. There is still plenty of action ahead for you.

Here is the answer to last week's quiz. The question was, name the participants in the 1979 NFC and AFC wildcard games and the Final scores. Also, name the head coaches. The answer: Denver and Houston played in the AFC, with Houston winning, 13-7. Rod Miller coached the Broncos and Tom Phillips was the head man at Houston. In the NFC, Philadelphia stopped Chicago, 27-17. Dick Vermel led the Eagles and Neil Armstrong coached the Bears.

For this week, name the participants in the initial wildcard game of 1978 for both the NFC and AFC. Name the score, the head coaches and starting quarterbacks.

Recreation Leagues Continue Action; Fiorenti Society and Pete's Sake Win

In incredible fashion, the Italian Fiorenti Society, on a last second jump shot by Butch Servidio, upset the defending champion Vito Sylvestro's Meat Market, 48-47 in week three of the Belleville Recreation Department's Men's Over 30 Basketball League. The winners received 10 points from Tony Sorrentino and Curino in raising their record to 2-1. Bob Byer scored 12 points and Alex Hererra added 10 in the loss.

Newark Beverage, sparked by Ernie Edward's 17 points, stopped Megaro Memorial Home, 44-37. In the loss, Megaro received eight points from Ed Lynskey and seven apiece from Ken Atkinson and Al Iervolino.

Mike Pedalino popped in 17 points and teammate Eric Vogler added 12 to lift Sally's Auto Parts over Radio Shack, 41-33. The losers were guided by Jim Mackey with 12 points.

The Belleville Knights raised their record to 2-1 as they accepted a forfeit from Tobler.

In the fourth week of action in the Belleville Recreation Department's Men's Basketball League held Thursday, Dec. 10, For Pete's Sake, sparked by Theo May's 19 points and Doug Whaley's 17, shocked previously unbeaten Club 36, 41-40. The losers were guided by Kim Fisher (22 points) and Charles Carr (10 points).

Nu Plus dropped its first contest of the season, 74-66, to Nutley Pub. The winners were fueled by Todd McDonough's 32 points and Joe Dunn's 16. In the loss, Nu Plus received 21 points apiece from Cecil Stetson and Bykowski.

Exploding for 56 points in the second half, the Martucci Brothers ripped De Lorenzo Construction, 103-78. John Latka pumped in 29 points and teammate Gary Bell added 24 for the victors. Danny Word scored 24 and Wayne Buhel hit for 15 in the loss.

In Division B, Fran O'Keefe and Paul Simpkins combined for 33 points to lead the undefeated Rocky's Raiders to a 68-66 win over Corbo Marbachs Caterers. The losers were paced by Lester Johnson (19), Ruffus Johnson (14) and Ron Pometti (13).

Allan's Place, fired by Jerry Digon's 17 points and Dave Wilk's 16 points, shot past Rosebud's Pub, 57-50. In the loss, Rosebud's received 16 points apiece from Doug Jackson and Steve Dondarski.

RIM Graphics grabbed its first victory of the year as it accepted a forfeit from Ten-Ten.

Sparked by Frank Genarelli's 20 points and Steve Grasso's 14, Vinnie's Deli edged the Jitters, 45-42 in the second week of action in the Belleville Recreation Department's Senior Boys' Basketball League. Game high scoring honors went to Jeters' Ray Ruggiero who pumped in 25 points.

The A.A. Club, led by Mario Puente's 10 points, turned back "Bosh," 21-14. Bobby Mozeika paced the losers with eight points. Ozzie Stefanoni, Rick Wells, and Chris Preister each scored eight points as Walker Transport defeated the Scrub Club, 40-18. The losers received six points from Anthony Pravata.

John Auriemma popped six points and Jack Calandra hit for five as the Knights slipped by Village Video, 30-20. Chris Fetch had eight points in the loss.

In the fourth week of action in the Belleville Recreation Department's Men's Volleyball League held Tuesday, Dec. 11, Subs 'N' Stuff (3-1) lost its first contest of the year as Mystery (3-1) won, 15-13, 16-14.

Remaining in a four-way tie for first place, the Belleville Political and Social Club edged De Lorenzo Construction (Heat) (2-2), 15-12, 12-15, 15-13.

Vito Sylvestro's Meat Market is also 3-1 as it turned back The Slams, 15-3, 15-9. Losing for the fourth week, M.D.A. and Co. fd) to Perfection Knife (2-2), 15-10, 12-15, 15-13.

they hit a few jumpers in the first half, could have been even at the intermission.

After closing the gap to five points early in the third quarter, Belleville fell victim to a strong Moore Catholic fast break and by quarters end, were on the very short end of a 43-19 score.

The final frame saw Belleville keep the score respectable, but the Lady Bucs could not make a dent in the spread. On the night, Desiree Johansen led Belleville with 11 points. Senior Donna Brooks, hampered by Harnett throughout the night, had seven points. Sherrn Sorrentino finished with five. Cheryl Marion closed with three and freshman Judy Nehlia finished with a field goal for two points.

The championship game of the tournament featured Moore Catholic against Hanover Park, runaway winners over Becton, 84-15 in the first round. Hanover

BHS Graduate Appointed Coach at BHS

Dan Borgo of Belleville has been appointed coach of the Belleville freshman basketball team.

A graduate of Belleville High School and Monmouth College, Borgo is currently employed as an accountant in the Essex County Clerk's Office in Newark.

Recently, Borgo was inducted to the Belleville Hall of Fame for his outstanding achievements as a member of the high school varsity baseball team.

Girls' Basketball Team Loses First Three Games

Park features a solid run and gun offense that will be difficult for a lot of teams to handle this year. They could be a favorite to challenge for a sectional crown later in the season.

As for Belleville, there is some good potential on the court and it certainly appears as if this team can turn it around. The defense is good and if Belleville can get its offense in gear, the prognosis might be optimism for the big games in January. Desiree Johansen is showing signs of helping offensively and Donna Brooks should be rounding into form soon. Shen Phelps, a junior and Judy Nehlia can also help with the offense while Sherrn Sorrentino is a big plus with her key points.

"We just need someone who can stick it for us," said Fuccello. "I'll find one that can give us 15 to 20 points a game, we'll be in good shape. The defense isn't bad, but if you don't score, you won't win."

Dan Borgo

Boys' Team Suffers Loss In Tournament

"However, we played a bad ball game and we have to turn it around quickly. We have to go back to playing the type of contest we had against Paterson Eastside. Our intensity and fundamentals must be strong."

For Belleville, Ted Soshacki, a freshman, led the way with eight points, while another freshman, Leon Puentes finished with six. Donald Washington, a junior, finished with six points, as did senior Steve Kimble.

To make matters worse, Puentes was lost to the team late in the game with a sprained ankle, but he should be ready for this afternoon's contest with Montclair. All in all, it was a disappointing evening of basketball for the Buccaneers. Hopefully better things are on the horizon.

Rebound — Belleville's Mike Soshacki looks for a rebound in the Eastside game as teammate Donald Washington comes in to help. Belleville will be in Montclair this afternoon, starting at 4.

OBC-TV: The Best Spot For Local News Events

Are you aware that you can watch local cable TV and find out what's happening in Belleville, Bloomfield and Nutley? You can on OBC (Channel 36-W), Oradio Broadcasting Corporation. What the people at OBC want to do is feature local news, organization happenings and community events.

Essex County news is aired live Monday through Friday, 5-5:30 p.m., followed by Passaic County news, 5:30-6 p.m. The show is then repeated at 6, 7, and 8 p.m.

People like Steve Rothstein will report on local sports activities, and people in YOUR community are being interviewed to tell what's going on around our area.

OBC recently has reopened after adding new equipment and new staffing. The station offers an opportunity for interns who wish to learn more about the communications field. You'll meet some of the interns in another "Channel Chatter" column.

Let's meet the staff. Bill Gruver, news director, does a fine job at presenting the daily events. Lisa Grimaldi, fairly new to OBC, is the producer of many shows. Phil White (he has been with Oradio Communications for many years) lends his expertise as executive producer. And, we cannot overlook the work done by Tom Pfister, director.

We want you to watch OBC. We also want you to submit your ideas for news or ask for social coverage of your event. (Call 661-2345 or write Channel Chatter, 800 Bloomfield Ave. Nutley.)

Middle School Teacher Details Travels to Peking, China

By Mollie Kabbak

If you fly from John F. Kennedy Airport half way around the world you will land somewhere in China. My destination was Beijing, (Peking) China. After 19 hours of air travel with a five-hour layover in Tokyo, I finally arrived in Beijing.

Since my return, I have thought about how to describe my mountains, is one of the most picturesque scenes that one will ever behold. Many a typical sight is seen while visiting the Great Wall which attracts many people from different backgrounds. Some tourists included soldiers, foreigners and Chinese citizens. Sailors on leave were taking pictures while sitting atop camels. A tourist's athletic ability is tested showing off of the kitchen for several families. However, in the home a television, tape deck and portable radio and cassette player were quite visible. The grandparents of each family babysit the children while the parents work in the fields.

Some people are fortunate to be living in one of the many new high rise apartment houses. For seven Yuan or $3.50 a month a family of five has four rooms and may have to share either a kitchen or bathroom with neighbors. There is no hot water in the apartment but at least indoor plumbing

Unlike Beijing where both men and women wear Mao suits, with the exception of the very colorfully dressed Mongols, Shanghai is a more Westernized and thriving city. The people are friendlier and more willing to talk to you about government, capitalism, and their cultural revolution. People's clothing is more colorful and a bit more stylish than the drab blue Mao suits. It still is not wise for Chinese to talk in the street with a Westerner, but some of the high middle school students, sailors and Chinese from other cities will stop and practice their English a.m. to 3.30 p.m.

At the middle level, classes taught are physics, chemistry, math, Chinese and foreign language. Each class is 40-50 minutes long. There are 47 to 50 students in each class. The students change rooms and the students remain stationary. Between classes however, the students are given free reign of the city after passing rigorous tests. Examinations are also given to see if the student is promoted from primary to low middle and from low middle to high middle. Vacation time is in July and August with a break in January.

In Shanghai, I spoke with an 11th grade student who walked up and joined me while I was walking along the river. We spoke for first impressions of China. All sorts of disassociated images come to mind: from men sleeping in back of horse-drawn carriages to the two large motorcycles decorated with bright red feathers.

Morning rush hour is beyond description since it continues all day. Approximately four million people live in Beijing and it seems as if all of them are walking around at the same time. The streets are crowded constantly, making walking one block a tiring task. Since there are few motorized vehicles, most people by the steep climb up the steps leading to the top of the wall.

On all the sightseeing trips one thing a visitor quickly learns is that sanitary conditions throughout China are somewhat different from those in the U.S. It is common practice for the Chinese in Beijing to spit, so one steps very carefully. Bathroom facilities in the hotels are always used before a tourist ventures out onto Chinese streets. If the hotel facilities are not used prior to an excursion, the restroom accommodations along the way may be quite a surprise.

is available. It is inconceivable to me that any program will accomplish the goals of the Chinese government to provide adequate housing for all. This will be difficult to accomplish even with zero population growth.

Purchasing items in China is a unique experience. Foreigners are given "funny money" and may shop anywhere. The Chinese are restricted to shopping at stores that only accept "real money." The best thing that a visitor might do for a Chinese citizen is to have an interpreter, or guide, purchase items with Chinese money.

The tourists pass the interpreter back with "funny money." In that way the Chinese gets "funny money" and the enable him to shop at the Friendship Stores. The Friendship Stores have more selections, better quality, and with visitors. Shanghai has more motorized vehicles and therefore less bikes than in Beijing.

Communicating with the Chinese is difficult not because of their lack of English or our inability to speak Chinese, but as a result of cultural differences. One thing, however, remains the same in China as in other parts of the world — the children. They are without a doubt, China's greatest asset. From the nursery school at the People's Commune to the primary, low middle, high middle complex school in Beijing that I visited, the children were warm, polite, welcoming, shy, noisy, loud, soft-spoken, show offs, just like children everywhere else.

Schooling is paid for by the government for one child in each family. At the Jen Shan School I was met at the gate by the direcschool. One may play, eat, read or dance. No restriction is put on noise levels and children may eat anywhere. When the bell rings signifying the start of class, the children return and sit quietly throughout the lesson.

Since Chinese characters are difficult to learn, most children can read a newspaper by fifth or sixth grade but may have trouble with a novel or non-fiction book. From third grade on, the use of the dictionary is taught and all students are to look up unknown characters. There is talk of about a half-an-hour. She was as interested in what American schools were like as I was in what Chinese schools were like. Her English was flawless and she seemed quite bright. She planned to attend the university and pursue a career. When our talk concluded, she thanked me for my time and was off.

In Hong Kong, a British protectorate, not part of the mainland China, the schools are typically British. The students wear uniforms and have subjects switching to the Roman alphabet. I heard that some schools were already in the process of changing. Calligraphy is taught but students take notes with a ball point pen neatly in their notebooks. Notebooks are purchased by students themselves.

Upon finishing lower middle school, most students go to a technical school where they learn a trade. At the school that I visited a high percentage of students were accepted to the university in British Public Schools. The Island also houses a German private school and several public schools.

What will happen when the students from mainland China and Hong Kong become one in 1997 is something that I would like to see. For now, I am more than thankful that I had the opportunity to visit mainland China and will always have my memories of this unique experience.

use bicycles as their main form of transportation which adds considerably to the congestion of the streets. Picture a sea of bikes, a million of them, going in every direction! Fortunately Beijing is flat land. Interestingly, I didn't see one 10-speed bike.

The sea of people is found all over China. While waiting in line to enter Mao's Tomb, I stood quietly with 100,000 others. The massive line of people stood eight abreast with caps doffed respectfully. It took only but a few minutes to pass by Mao's Tomb and return to TeAnAmen Square where another 100,000 people were waiting to pay their respects.

The greatest sightseeing attraction in China is, of course, the Great Wall. One of the entrances to the Great Wall is approximately one hour traveling time from Beijing. The sight is overwhelming and I didn't know where to look first.

The Wall, nestled into the

Although I did not see any beggars or people in need of clothing or anyone suffering from malnutrition, most Chinese live in or close to what Americans would consider a poverty level. Homes for the most part are square cinderblock structures with no heating or indoor plumbing. In the People's Commune that I visited, one typical home consisted of only three rooms. The center room is the main part or gathering place for the entire family.

Families consist of grandparents, parents and children. On one side of the room is a raised bed/sofa. The bed/sofa has a flat, hard top covered with a blanket. There is an opening in the floor which can be compared to a large hole. Coats are placed in this opening and kindled for warmth.

On each side of this room are two smaller rooms which are used as bedrooms. In the compound, there is a central kitchen and many western articles not available in Chinese stores. I found this practice uncomfortable since it made me feel like the "Ugly American."

Foreigners are housed in separate quarters from the Chinese. One graduate student said that she was not allowed in so as to protect the foreigners from diseases that might be carried by the Chinese. There were guards at all the gates of our compound and only authorized personnel were admitted.

tor, teacher and principal. Amid polite and gracious introductions, we stopped to have the inevitable tea.

The Chinese school system is set up somewhat differently from the American school system. At six years of age a child enters school and spends kindergarten through sixth on the primary level. The child then spends three years in the lower middle school and three years at the upper middle school. School is open five-and-a-half days a week from 8

Cosmetic Surgery Offers A Variety of Techniques

By Reuben K. Snyderman, M.D.

For women over 40 (and some men too), their resolution for the New Year may turn to erasing facial wrinkles through plastic surgery.

I'm often asked such questions as how the face ages — what goes first or last, in effect. I can only say that various people show aging of the face differently.

Some get forehead wrinkles first, others get deep wrinkles around the area between the eyes and across the nose. Many will have bags around the eyes. This is simply a combination of loose skin and fat herniating through the muscles around the eye.

In addition, there may be loose skin under the neck, the so-called double chin or turkey-gobbler defect, or there may be deep grooves running from the nose to the corner of the mouth, the nasolabial area.

Each patient under consideration for cosmetic surgery of the face must have the areas corrected where aging shows the worst effect.

Most people will need and eyelidplasty. This procedure involves removing some of the excess skin in the normal folds of the upper lid as well as along the margin of the lower lid and removing the fatty pockets in both the upper and lower lid. The skin of the lower lid is then "redraped." This can be done either with the patient asleep or under local anesthesia with sedation. Following this surgery, cold compresses are applied. About the fifth or sixth day, sutures around the eyes are removed.

Facialplasty, which can also be done under local anesthesia, consists of an excision starting in the hairline, coming in front of the ear, going up behind the ear and back into the hair growth area. What surgeons call "undermining," scissoring under the top layer of skin, is carried out toward the outer area of the eye, toward the corner of the mouth and underneath the neck. The skin can then be sutured up and back, extra skin removed and the wounds closed.

Many patients prefer to be put to sleep under general anesthesia for this surgery, which requires several hours to complete. However, with the sedation given to accompany local anesthesia, those taking the other option are often not aware of the length of

Seven Municipalities To Receive Funding

Senate President Carmen A. Orechio said seven Essex County municipalities in the 30th Legislative District would receive $601,092 in additional aid under a bill passed Thursday by the Senate, including $208,286.73 for Belleville.

The bill would provide a total $29.4 million in municipal tax assistance to 333 communities throughout the state. The aid is designed to help hold down local property taxes. The measure now goes to the Assembly for consideration.

"The funds provided by this bill are essential if municipalities are to be able to prevent tax hikes time in surgery.

Wrinkles of the forehead are corrected in a separate operation through an incision behind the hairline. Wrinkles between the eyebrows on the nose may have to be approached directly and this may leave the patient with a scar.

Anyone considering plastic surgery should realize that all wrinkles and creases cannot be removed. The best compliment of a good job by the surgeon is for friends to say to the patient, "My you must have had a great vacation!"

Editor's Note: Dr. Snyderman is professor and chief of plastic and reconstructive surgery at Rutgers Medical School of the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. He lives in Princeton.

or cutbacks of various community services," Orechio said.

The Senate also approved a bill to provide $9.6 million in state aid for police and fire protection to 49 communities, including $65,000 for Belleville.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Frank Pallone, D-Monmouth, would allow the municipalities to use the funds to avert layoffs of police officers and firefighters or increase police and fire protection services. The measure now goes to the Assembly.

"These measure represent an effort by the Legislature to help ease the burden of high taxes on property owners," he said.

Ordinances Approved By Board

transfer of spray paint and indelible markers to minors.

Under this measure, a merchant would be required to "proof" customers who may be underage before selling them articles most often used to deface property.

According to the proposal, if a minor is convicted of defacement, the merchant who sold the juvenile the tools used in the act may face a penalty of up to $50 in fines, a prison sentence of no more than 90 days or both.

Mayor Marotti expressed concern over how effectively such a measure could be enforced and requested time for further study.

In other business, commissioners voted to revive Belleville's ailing emergency vehicle supply.

The board agreed to an ordinance appropriating $90,000 and issuing $85,000 in bonds to acquire two new ambulances. According to Public Safety Commissioner Ralph DiRuggiero, Belleville's two ambulances both require major and costly repair and last month breakdowns forced the township to seek outside assistance in order to handle all emergency calls.

DiRuggiero said Belleville's two ambulances and a police emergency vehicle used as a regular backup are ordinarily service 24 hours a day and 7 days a week.

However, major breakdowns forced the township to turn to the volunteer squads of neighboring Nutley and Bloomfield to handle responses this month.

In addition, Belleville has been renting an ambulance from a South Jersey company at the rate of $25 a day.

The commissioner said the repairs for the ambulances come to be estimated at $15,000 for one and $5,000 for the other.

The commissioner said he hopes this ordinance is the first step in a long range plan to maintain an efficiently operating squad of vehicles by purchasing two new ambulances and then replacing one of those with a new one every two years.
