Township employees get salary hike

The board of commissioners approved a salary or-dinance last week granting a 19 percent salary increase over three years to township employees. The salary increase, agreed upon by the board and the Belleville Municipal Employees Association, will give employees a 7 percent increase this year and a 6 percent in-crease in 1986 and 1987, said Mayor Michael Marotti. All clerical and blue-collar workers are included in the salary ordinance as well as township officials.

Home energy program continues

Applications for the Home Energy Assistance program (HEA) for the 1984-85 heating season will be accepted until April 30, Commissioner Michael Pizzi said. Anyone wishing to apply can call the welfare department at 450-330 for an appointment. The Essex County Depart-ment of Citizen Services provides a representative every Monday between 9 a.m.-3 p.m. at the township office, 383 Washington Ave. Income eligibility limits are as follows: household of one. $519; household of four, $1,062; household of fure, $1,843; household of six, $1,424; household of fure, $1,786; household of nine, $1,967; and household of 10, $2,148. For each additional member add $181.

Depczek sworn in as fire captain

Andrew Depczek became the township's 10th fire captain last week when he was sworn in by township elerk Mary Lou Hood at a board of commis-sioners' meeting. Depczek, a 10-year member of the department, is in charge of the Fire Prevention Bureau. The 35-year-old captain lives in Bloom-field with his wife. Kathy and his two sons, Andrew Jr. and Christopher.

Police apprehend two burglars

Police arrested two men connected with the burglary of a Little Street home last week. Detectives Joseph Tortorello and Joseph Rotonda ar-rested two 18-year-old township residents after a two-day investigation. One of the suspects admitted to breaking into six other homes in the township, three in Bloomfield, and others in Nutley and Point Pleasant. Items stolen from these homese included jewelry, cash and antiques. Police have recovered an antique clock and a camera. They were being held on bail in the municipal jail.

Residents turn out to express their views about the future of Washington Avenue

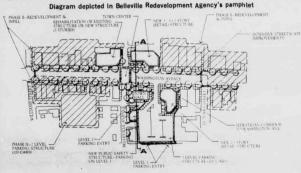

By Michelle Jeannotte More than 200 residents merchants came to a public meeting Tuesday night to hear mixed views on redevelopment proposals for Washington Avenue. Many of those who did show up were against the blight proposal, a plan that would relocate those residents and merchants in the areas declared blighted. Few members, however, did say they were in favor of the proposal, only to receive boos from others in the audience while the board of commissioners sat back and listened. The of the arguments against the blight proposal concerned the relocation," said a Quinton Street resident. "If I sell my property, I want the money now, not two or I has laiville Redevelopment Aga

Redevelopment...Our Economic Necessity

Valley Street compared the future of Belleville to that of present day Newark. "Newark has taught us a bitter lesson," he said. "They declared parts of Newark blighted years ago and still there is no redevelopment." James Golden of Tappan Avenue reinforced this issue stating that people were forced out of their homes, buildings leveled, and still no signs of revitilization. "If that's the way it's going to be, I don't want it (blight) in Bel-leville," he said, receiving ap-plause from the audience. Golden also added that there is no definite backing to the three major factors concerned in the declaration of blight: availability of funds, monies to relocate those displaced, and a marketability survey.

John Walsh of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children talked to township parents last week about his 6-year-old son's murder and his fight for children's rights. The two-week search for Adam, who was taken from a

Library's writers' workshop encourages residents to develop skills, confidence for personal writing

By Michelle Jeannotte

By Michelle Jeannotte The best way to improve writing skills is to have an ex-perienced writer as a teacher. The doses are usual-ly given at two, four, and six months of age, with one hooster at 12 to 18 menths and another between four and six years of age. However, a nationwide shor-tage of the vaccine prompted a recommendation in January from the U.S. Center for Disease Control that the two boosters he deferred until supplies improve. Testing problems According to Robert Schwadron, Lederle public affairs manager, Wyeth and Squibb laboratories ceased distribution of the vaccine because they could not get liability insurance on their DPT operations. Lederle subse-quently purchased 'doses from wyeth and invested 55 million in new production and quality-control equipment and staff to make up the difference, he said. "There will be a limited supply of the vaccine for the first three quarters of 1985, but we're confi-dent an adequate amount will be

Commenting on such problems, Belleville school physi-cian Prentice Ward said that over the years, inadequate research has

The College Board Italian Achievement Test was recently administered to senior Italian classes at the high school through the efforts of the Italian Club and its adviser Jules Palmier. When one of the club's members expressed the wish to take the test in her senior year, it was found that there was no Italian Achievement Test men-tioned in the college board

With the support of Palmieri and Italian teacher Valentino Frattaroli, club members wrote a letter to the College Board Ad-missions for information about the test. A reply was sent from the associate director of the program stating that upon the request of a guidance counselor, the board would send copies of the test.

Guidance counselor Philip Esposito made the request and it was decided that all students in the Italian classes would have the chance to take the test. The test, administered in two different sessions, consisted of a 20-minute listening section and a 40-minute reading section. Scor-ing high on the test were Tina Priore, Mario Cordaro, Carmen Ferraro and Donna Musmanno.

"Blight"

The Belleville Planning Board and the Belleville Township Commission are faced with a very serious decision. The Bel-leville Redevelopment Agency has recommended that a southerly section of Washington Avenue be labeled a blight ace in order to guality Washington Avenue be labeled a blight area in order to qualify it for redevelopment purposes. Identifying any part of Bellevil-le as blighted is hard to swallow — and yet the law provides no other course for a redevelop-ment agency. In order to meet the most stringent demands of ment agency. In order to meet the most stringent demands of the law covering redevelop-ment, a prerequisite is for township officials to label a redevelopment area as a blighted section of town. Labeling any part of Bellevil le blighted will send forth the word beyond our bundaries le blighted will send forth the word beyond our boundaries, advising the world outside that all is not well inside Belleville. Unfortunately, this will be a fact of life Belleville will be obliged to live with forever after. The word "blight" means different things to different people. In any event, there isn't a person among us who has a nice feel-ing about the word blight. Un-fortunately, the stigma that the fortunately, the stigma that the word "bpght" will place upon the good name of Belleville will never fade from public view

And now we are left wondering whether or not the word "blight" should not be assigned to the ash heap of history and let us begin anew, conceiving new ideas and new approaches to upgrade Washington Avenue

We frankly fear that once the word "blight" is associated with Belleville, we will never be able to shed the reputation of being to shed the reputation of being a "blighted town." The purpose and objective of the Belleville Redevelopment Agency are laudible. We are troubled with the word "blight." And let us not forget the concerns of Belleville resi-dents who live in the fine residential sections to be found throughout the town. Would throughout the town. Would they want their out-of-town they want their out-of-town friends to believe they live c a blighted town?" It isno comfort to the Belleville resident to have personal knowledge of how good our town is and yet be faced at an out-of-town' social gathering with people commenting "I see in the papers you live in a blighted town." There is no escape from this consequence once township officials vote to label township officials vote to label Belleville — or any part thereof — a blighted community.

Reader opposes seatbelts

To the editor: The March 14 edition of The Belle-ville Times carried an editorial endorsing the recent enacted seatbelt law. I disagree with this law as currently written

New Jersey's state troopers and other law enforcement officers are asking for an exemption from the seatbelt law. They argue that the wearing of the seat-belts may impede with the use of their sidearm

Well, I am also asking for relief, since I find it impossible to turn my head 180 degrees and therefore have to also turn the upper portion of my body to look backwards, essential to efficiently park my car in a space at the curb. And believe me, these harnesses impede my movement. In addition, I find it preposterous having to wear a shoulder harness in a moving vehicle at any speed, any place, as currently written, under penalty of breaking the law. On televicing nears the other night us.

breaking the law. On television news the other night we were treated to the spectacle of a pair of New York City's finest, laughingly ex-plaining to the reporter, that they were engaged in "enforcing" the seatbelt law near the tunnel entrances to "fight pros-titution." My God, what are they doing to us, when the law enforcement can operate in such a climate of deceit. If the guardians of our well-being were truly concerned with that aspect only, they would have stipulated seat-belts to be used during highway travel, at highway speeds, not at five miles an hour tabest) in New York City, or at 10 miles an hour or less in our own sub-urban shopping areas.

miles an hour or less in our own sub-urban shopping areas. This latest piece of legislation as designed and enforced, is one more ex-ample of how we are systematically deprived of our individual freedoms and of our alleged inalienable right of self-determination, the pursuit of happiness, and all that jazz. At this point, we are already looking over our shoulders to see if we are being watched, to make sure there isn't a cop around to slap a $20 fine on us, after finding some excuse to pull us over, especially in Belleville, where, according to The Times, 'law enforcement already isued eight sum-monses, as compared to none in Bloom-field. Auxiliary police lauded

Golden Comments

To the editor: It has been brought to my attention that in our town we have an auxiliary police unit that has been in operation for many years. Just finding out about this squad myself, leads me to feel that a lot of people in town do not even know they exist and that they are ready and trained to assist the regular police department. This barely known group should be used more to help keep our town more cost efficient since their services are free.

And as a concerned citizen and resi-dent of Belleville, I would like to hear more about the squad's functions to keep myself and others like me more in-formed.

I would also like to thank these trained volunteers who don their un-iforms and perform whatever duties they are assigned for the sole purpose of help-ing keep our town a safe place to live. A concerned citizen own opportunity to make a new life for herself in order to be able to do what is presumed to be best for the child. But is it really? What happens so often when the mother cuts herself off from sources of personal gratification and growthis that she becomes disgrantled and depressed and develops various emotional and psychosomatic ailments. This is not only bad for her but for the child as well. An emotionally ail-ing mother cannot be a giving, oving, kind and concerned worker. She is so consumed by her own problems that she has lit-tle left over to give to the child. Were she, on the other hand, a fulfilled and happy person, dooing those things which gave her con-temported by the set interest of the once capable of devoting herself properly to the child's upbringing and needs. Obviously, what is presumed to be "in the best interest of the child" — a self-sacrificing parent — can actually turn out to be in the worst interests of the child. With that in mind, I would strongly recommend (and have for be own in testifying in custody cases that consideration be given to the need of the mother to par-sue her own life in a healthy way, even while devoting herself to the needs of the child. It does not have to be one or the other; it can be a combination of the two. This would apply abs, of course, where the father rather than the mother the latter rather than the mother gets custody. In other words, what is truly in the best interests of the parent should work out to be in the best interests of the child.

Poisonous products should be out of child's reach

It only takes a second for danger to be within a child's reach. Each year, approximately 100,000 children swallow dangerous household products. These statistics can be reduced through participation in National Poison Prevention Week. Clean out cabinets and closets where potentially pisionous sub-stances such as medicines, cleaners, solvents, and pesticides are stored. All of these products should be scaled and, if possible, locked up. Other products com-monly swallowed by children are furniture polish, drain clearner and bug killer. "No" - the most useful word

"No" — the most useful word By Re, Robert Paul The editor of a magazine asked a few writers to answer a number of questions, including the following two: first, in your judgment what word is the most misused?; second, what word in the English language seems to be most useful to you? Nearly all agreed that the most misused word is "yes," and the most useful word in the English language is "no." Observation has taught us that no one ever amounts to very much or maintains much stature language is "no." Observation has taught us that no one ever amounts to very much or maintains much stature without saying no. Consider the following. "No" is one of the least but biggest words we speak, (little) but so big that only big people can utter it. No man's character is biggest than his ability to say no. The biggest man the world has ever known could clearly and unmistakeably speak it. His name was the Lord Jesus Christ. He said no to Statn's temptations in the wilderness, as noted in St. Matthew 4. "No" is a fortress of personal strength. This strength remained with him. It was only after his strength remained with him. It was only after his strength remained with him. It was only after his strength and the secret of his strength. Today we have many Samsons or giants in character who stand head and shoulders above the mest, and the only thing that can shear them of their strength is their saying yes to things that cor-methed mean and a none of the stat cor-

rest, and the only thing that can shear them of their strength is their saying yes to things that cor-rectly demand a no. "No" is the latch that bolts the gate to self-respect. Only those who open the gate by con-senting to weakness lose respect for themselves. This is seen in the history of man (Genesis 3:1-10) Adam and Eve said yes to wrong. Then they were ashamed and hid because their self-respect was gone. This has been the pattern of behavior for untold numbers in each succeeding generation, and all because they didn't say no to temptation. Today, say yes, I will recognize I am a sinner and I will accept the Lord Jesus Christ as my own personal Saviour. (St. John 1:12.)

Baseball team looks upward

er of years, the Belleville baseball program was one of the most feared in the area. In the decade of the 70's and the ear ly 80's, baseball at Belleville was synonomous with success. There was a Big 10 title in 1976, a Greater Newark Tournament crown in 1981 and a knack of producing winning records year in nd year out. In 1983, Ralph La Conte took retired coach George Zanfini and found a major rebuilding job fac-ing him. The 83 campaign produced an 8-17-1 record, the first losing season at BHS in more than a decade. La Conte felt his team needed to re-dedicate itself to the art of winning baseball and in 1984, with an experienced but not very confi-dent team. La Conte set forth to turn it around. At first, it started slowly. The team was 2-3 after five games and struggling. Then, uddenly, the talent that La Conte felt was evident all along started to come out. Members of the axiliary unit are appointed the same as members of the police force. Cap-tain Hoey said. To qualify, appli-cants must be 21 years old and live in Belleville. Auxiliary members attend a 10-week training school where and reserve first aid, search and seizere, firearms, and law. At the members may now carry litearns, Captain Hoey said. However, members must undergo a psy-chiatric exam first as well as train with police officers at the shooting with police officers at the shooting range. Only five auxiliary members are qualified to carry firearms at this time, he added. Captain Hoey said that the auxiliary unit will be having a recruitment drive some time in the future. Those who are interested can look for auxiliary unit booths at local shopping centers or call unit coordinator Irene Decker at 450-3344.

Actions are Awarded — Auxiliary police officers Martin DeAngelis and George Simon receive B awards from Chief Lister for assisting in the apprehension of two suspects involved in a fraudulent credit card scheme.
