One plan involves volunteers

Options are considered for recycling program

By Christopher Bilani

Following a meeting with Nutley officials on the subject of recycling and a recent board meeting where citizens criticized commissioners for Belleville's lack of a recycling program, Commissioner of Public Works Joseph Grande said "he is stepping up plans to put a recycling program together."

Grande is considering several possible recycling plans.

The first plan, likely to be the most cost-effective and easiest to implement, would involve recycling by volunteer groups.

"The Boy Scouts have expressed an interest in volunteering their services in a recycling program," community activist Vincent Frantantonio said. He indicated that the scouts were awaiting the go-ahead from the township.

However, Grande told The Times that volunteer programs have proven unreliable in other towns. He said that activity is high in the beginning but the level of interest often drops off, leaving towns with programs that are understaffed and inefficient.

Nevertheless, the public works commissioner conceded that Belleville's recycling program would "probably be on a volunteer basis in the beginning," and added that he has, in fact, been "talking to the boy scouts and they're interested."

Last month Grande attended a meeting with Nutley Director of Public Works Peter Scarpelli, where he was briefed on the efforts of Nutley's recycling program.

Grande said that starting up a program similar to Nutley's would cost a considerable amount of money since two vehicles and a crew of workers would be required to run the program. Grande indicated that a program of this kind would not be very profitable for the township.

Grande is also investigating recycling pools which join communities together in programs. According to the Essex County Department of Planning and Economic Development, three Essex municipalities — West Caldwell, Maplewood and Cedar Grove — have begun such a pool. Essex County Executive Peter Shapiro said the pools, called "Interlocal Services" Agreements, were "wonderful for all parties concerned" and added that "we look forward to increasing our program so that more Essex com-

Polls will be open for Primary June 3

Polls will be open Tuesday, June 3, from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. for the primary elections for Essex County executive and surrogate and representative of the Eighth Congressional District.

Running for county executive are: Republicans Carl A. Orechio of Nutley and Frank Marmo of Livingston; and Democrats Peter Shapiro, incumbent, of South Orange, Ralph T. Grant Jr. of Newark and Robert Ruane of Bloomfield.

Listed on the ballot for county surrogate are: Republican Nicholas Amato, incumbent, of Verona; and Democrats Sharon Wade of Newark and Kenneth H. Williams of East Orange.

Running for the Eighth Congressional District are: Republicans Robert Roe, incumbent, of Wayne, Robert Ruise of Passaic and Thomas Zampino of Belleville; and Democrat Arthur Fairchild of Verona.

Government grant finances Mt. Pleasant home repairs

By Daniel Shure

Financed with a government grant, repairs are under way on a Mt. Pleasant Avenue home owned by a man who was assessed with a $16,000 fine for not keeping his house and yard in good repair.

Hollister Sugo, owner of a small two-family bungalow, is meeting this week with the municipal court judge who levied the heavy fine. Judge Carl Stier indicated earlier that he might reduce the $200-a-day fine that he imposed for 80 days, if Sugo accepted the grant and repairs began.

At first Sugo had been hesitant to accept an approximate $4,900 federal grant administered through the Essex County Department of Home Development. Despite the poor condition of his house, Sugo said that such grants should be reserved for needy citizens.

Sugo accepted the grant only after municipal officials threatened to put a lien on his house if he did not pay the sub-

Yerg Incorporated receives community revitalization loan

Yerg Incorporated, a Belleville-based printing firm established in 1909, has received a $14,750 Community Economic Revitalization (CER) loan toward the purchase of a two-color offset printing press.

The CER offers grants of up to $500 to Belleville business persons wishing to make exterior improvements to commercial properties and low-interest loans for interior renovations and the purchase of machinery and equipment. Under the loan program, businesses receive 25 percent of the total project cost, up to a maximum of $17,500 at one-fourth of the market rate.

Business grants and loans are made available through Belleville's Community Development Block Grant Program. The CER is administered for Belleville by the Economic Development Corporation (EDC) of Essex County.

Yerg Incorporated serves the needs of the financial community by specializing in the printing of accounting paper. The press the firm has purchased with loan proceeds will, according to Frank Marmo, Director of Operations, allow Yerg to modernize its operation by using advanced technology to imprint accounting paper.

"I met a representative of the EDC," said Yerg, "and he informed me of the below market interest loan." Marmo said, "This coincided with our need to purchase a new press and allowed us substantial savings on the press which cost $75,000."

Mayor Michael Marotti and Freeholder Arthur Clay were on hand to present John and Edward Yerg, principals of the company, with loan approval. According to Mayor Marotti, this is the first loan to be approved.

"While we have approved small" grants under the program, this is the first loan to go into effect," the mayor said.

"I am pleased that such a well-established Belleville business took advantage of the low interest rate offered by this program. We have another loan in the final stages of processing to be announced shortly."

Everett Shaw, executive director of the EDC and the Essex County Improvement Authority, noted that in addition to the CER, the EDC and ECIA offer other low interest loan programs for projects of greater magnitude.

"The CER is intended as an incentive to promote small scale projects," he said. As commercial/industrial development becomes more costly, there are loan programs designed to meet those needs as well."

Anyone interested in the EDC and ECIA programs can contact Mr. Shaw at 731-2772.

First DeWitt Savings & Loan supports bank corporation's recapitalization plan

First DeWitt Savings and Loan Association of Belleville has announced its support of a $25 billion recapitalization plan for the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. (FSLIC).

The plan, which insures the deposit accounts of savers up to $100,000 each, was unveiled at the annual conference of the National Council of Savings Institutions by Edward J. Gray, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Delegates from New Jersey Savings and Loan Associations were supportive of the plan which requires $3 billion in seed money to be contributed by the 12 federal home loan banks in the Federal Home Loan Bank Board system.

The plan, which obtained quick approval of the bank board and the U.S. Treasury Department, is slated to be presented shortly to Congress and has the backing of the Reagan administration.

The recapitalization would deal with savings and loan associations throughout the nation which suffered heavy losses from the pinch between low yields from old mortgages and the high interest costs on savings.

It was estimated that the resources of the insurance fund could be brought up to the desired $25 billion over a proposed five year period.

"It's a plan that will lend support to the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. and reinforce public confidence in thrift organizations throughout the nation," Michael J. Quigley III, chairman of First DeWitt, said. "If approved by Congress, the plan should be completely successful and as far as First DeWitt and other savings and loan associations are concerned, it will mean that a substantial amount of money will be saved each year in extra assessments.

"While First DeWitt continues to be one of the strongest, thrift associations in the state with assets approaching $310 million, reserves of more than $16 million and liquidity of more than 30 million, it is our concern that confidence in the entire thrift industry be reinforced," Robert K. Hickock, president of First DeWitt, added.

First DeWitt maintains nine offices in Belleville, Bloomfield, Cedar Grove, Hopatcong, Hightstown and Parsippany.

Business Award Winner - Irene Marmaras, a junior at Belleville High School, recently placed second in the Business English category at the Future Business Leaders of America State Leadership Conference at The Great Gorge Americana. Marmaras and six other students, LisaMarie Avino, Anna Marie Gencarelli, Lorajean Hesse, Geri Pagan, Rita Ritacco and Carmela Sperduto, took part in the conference. They were accompanied by Mrs. Linda Montanino, right, and Mrs. Lorraine Strolla, co-advisers of the Belleville Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America.

Leadership Award - Lorajean Hesse, a junior at Belleville High School, recently received the Katharine Gibbs 1986 Leadership Award for Future Secretaries. Ms. Clare Scanlon, left, admissions representative at Katharine Gibbs in Montclair, presented the award to Hesse at Belleville High School. With them is Mrs. Linda Montanino, Hesse and other award recipients were honored by Katharine Gibbs at a reception and dinner this month at The Manor in West Orange.

Henrik Tvedt Jr. named assistant vice president

Henrik Tvedt Jr.

Henrik Tvedt Jr. has been appointed assistant vice president of First DeWitt Savings and Loan Association.

Tvedt, who has been with First DeWitt for six years, will continue to manage the Mortgage Servicing Department. He moved up through the ranks starting as a teller at the Watessing Office and then as a student loan officer at the Bloomfield Center branch.

He received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Seton Hall University.

Tvedt, who will serve in his capacity at the association's new Corporate Office in Cedar Grove, resides in Little Falls with his wife, Jane.

DIURETICS

Diuretics are commonly referred to as "water pills." They act on the kidneys, forcing them to eliminate excess water and salt from the body through urine. For almost 20 years, oral diuretics have been a mainstay in the treatment of high blood pressure. They help control high blood pressure while keeping pressor medication and the number of undesired effects to a minimum. Diuretics can help control high blood pressure but cannot cure it. They also are used to treat the retention of fluid in the body caused by illnesses such as heart, liver or kidney disease, or by taking steroids.

Computer scholarship awarded to BHS student Darren Zenatti

By Michelle Jeannotte

Darren Zenatti, a Belleville High School senior, recently accepted a $3,400 scholarship to the Computer Programming Institute (CPI) in Paramus.

Zenatti, who will study electronic repair, won the scholarship by achieving high test scores on the standardized Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Test Battery and by successfully completing a personal interview. The aptitude test battery, administered by the Department of Defense, pinpoints a student's strengths and weaknesses which helps with his or her career planning, according to Nick Grande, Cooperative Industrial Education (CIE) coordinator at Belleville High School.

Zenatti, who was among 63 students from 20 different schools competing for various vocational industrial scholarships, is the first Belleville High School student to accept the scholarship, Grande said, adding that he is the fourth winner in the past three years.

Twenty-seven scholarships totaling $21,500 were awarded to high school students by the Northern Region of the New Jersey Cooperative Industrial Education Coordinators of which Grande is president. More than $340,000 in scholarships were awarded statewide, Grande said.

The scholarship program, which is in its 13th year, is offered to students enrolled in Cooperative Industrial Education programs that offer students an opportunity to join the work force while still in school.

It is a means of helping them (the students) get into a technical area, Grande said.

Checking the Equipment: Darren Zenatti, a Belleville High School senior and recipient of a $3,400 scholarship, checks one of the school's computers as Nick Grande, Cooperative Industrial Education coordinator, looks on.

There are many scholarships for the academic students but none for the vocational industrial students. They too, have talents that must be recognized.

Students eligible for the scholarships must have letters of recommendation from a teacher, employer and a vice principal and complete a personal interview with members of the business and education community, the armed forces and labor unions, Grande said.

The majority of the schools, which offer scholarships are in New Jersey, he said, with some coming from schools in New York and Pennsylvania.

Zenatti, whose classes will include electronic repair and computer programming and repair, will begin his studies at the Computer Programming Institute this fall.

Thousands of Essex residents join hands in charity event

By Christopher Bifani

Although there were gaps nationwide in the May 25 Hands Across America human charity chain, in Essex the line was complete, as thousands of participants jammed the county seat in a six mile show of clasped hands.

While many Essex residents joined the line in Newark, the only county municipality included in the Hands Across America route, many others linked up in the Bergen and Hudson County communities across the Passaic River.

Grace Episcopal Church in Nutley sent a contingent of parishioners to neighboring Lyndhurst, according to Terry Gleason, director of the church's teen club.

Approximately 26 teenagers and 4 adults joined the line, contributing about $300 to the cause, Gleason said.

Hands Across America coincided with Newark's Black Heritage Day parade and while Hands Across America volunteers lined up along Broad Street in preparation for the link, hundreds of marchers paraded past, saluting dignitaries on a reviewing stand in front of City Hall.

Then, at 3 p.m. everything came together. Black and white, young and old, rich and poor joined together in a dramatic display of solidarity against the ravages of poverty.

Few could deny the emotion of the moment when, during the opening strains of "We Are The World," the long line of paraders joined the Hands Across America line—policemen, girls, scouts, high school bands, firefighters.

Hon. Nicholas J. S. Suchomel joined the line on Broad Street near Hahnes Department Store.

"It was a joyful experience," Suchomel said. "The whole atmosphere had such meaning. Everybody was happy, singing along."

The Belleville resident added, "The city looked very nice. Broad Street is a great place for a happening like this."

Although the actual Hands Across America event is over, chief organizer Ken Kragen said "the real work is just beginning." The Los Angeles resident who joined the line in New York City explained that the nationwide event was meant to spotlight the plight of the hungry and homeless in America and added that it will take much more than a symbolic human chain to alleviate poverty in the United States.

Jim Kerr, who anchored a cross country satellite broadcast for Hands Across America said the HAA toll-free pledge hotline will be taking donations for "several more months," and expected the $50 million goal to be reached soon.

The number to call to pledge donations is 1-800-USA-9000.

munities become involved.

Despite Belleville's lack of a municipal recycling program, the private recycling endeavor of township businesses like Pathmark have put thousands of dollars into the township's coffers.

Under an ambitious state bill called the Municipal Tonnage Grant Act, towns get rebates based on the amount of solid waste recycled by businesses and groups within the towns.

Last year Belleville received $8,000, Grande said.

Because of the size of this fine, I was forced to acquiesce and accept this public grant which I feel should be reserved for needy folks," Sugo said shortly after accepting the grant.

A contractor, hired through the grant, has begun painting the house, repairing the porch and has completed roof repairs. The grant was applied for by Joseph Fornarotto, the Belleville building inspector that cited Sugo's house.

Sugo is described by his neighbors and Fornarotto as a former college professor who has lived in the cited Mt. Pleasant Avenue house for at least 30 years. His mother also lived in the house until her death about 10 years ago, neighbors said.

Neighbors had complained that Sugo's overgrown yard and house with peeling paint and sagging roof did not add to the appearance of the street. Though it is a two-family, Sugo lives in the house alone. Mt. Pleasant Avenue is a quiet street off Belleville Avenue.

Fornarotto points out that Sugo is only one of many Belleville property owners that violate municipal building codes. "We are after these guys with deplorable buildings," Fornarotto said.

His department recently cited several property owners for painting or maintaining illegal signs on their properties.

Thousands of Essex residents join hands in charity event

By Christopher Bilani
Although there were gaps nationwide in the May 25 Hands Across America human charity chain, in Essex the line was complete, as thousands of participants jammed the county seat in a six mile show of clasped hands.

While many Essex residents joined the line in Newark, the only county municipality included in the Hands Across America route, many others joined up in the Bergen and Hudson County communities across the Passaic River.

Grace Episcopal Church in Nutley sent a contingent of parishioners to neighboring Lyndhurst, according to Terry Gleason, director of the church's teen club.

Approximately 26 teenagers and 4 adults joined the line, contributing about $300 to the cause, Gleason said.

Hands Across America coincided with Newark's Black Heritage Day parade and while Hands Across America volunteers lined up along Broad Street in preparation for the link, hundreds of marchers paraded past, saluting dignitaries on a reviewing stand in front of City Hall.

Then, at 3 p.m., everything came together. Black and white, young and old, rich and poor joined together in a dramatic display of solidarity against the ravages of poverty.

Few could deny the emotion of the moment when, during the opening strains of "We Are The World," the long line of paraders joined the Hands Across America line - policemen, girl scouts, high school bands, firefighters.

Heide Suchomel of Belleville joined the line on Broad Street near Haines Department Store. "It was joyful experience," Suchomel said. "The whole atmosphere had such meaning. Everybody was happy, singing along."

The Belleville resident added, "The city looked very nice. Broad Street is a great place for a happening like this."

Although the actual Hands Across America event is over, chief organizer Ken Kragein said "the real work is just beginning." The Los Angeles resident who joined the line in New York City explained that the nationwide effort was meant to spotlight the plight of the hungry and homeless in America and added that it will take much more than a symbolic human chain to alleviate poverty in the United States.

Jim Kerr, who anchored a cross country satellite broadcast for Hands Across America said the HAA toll-free pledge hotline will be taking donations for several more months, and expected the $50 million goal to be reached soon.

The number to call to pledge donations is 1-800-USA-9000.

families become involved."

Despite Belleville's lack of a municipal recycling program, the private recycling enthusiast, of township businesses like Pathmark have put thousands of dollars into the township's coffers.

Under an ambitious state bill called the Municipal Tonnage Grant Act, towns get rebates based on the amount of verified waste recycled by businesses and groups within the towns.

Last year, Belleville received $8,000, Grande said.

Thought for Today

God's design

Philosophers may reason why
But I won't take the time,
I only know I'm here on earth
Because of God's design.
So I will just continue on
And do the best I can,
And know that God will do the rest
Because He made the plan.

Hard work pays off

Hard work does pay off. After almost three years of self-evaluations and curriculum revisions, Belleville High School has been awarded a 10-year accreditation from the Commission on Secondary Schools of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools.

The accreditation came as a result of a three-day evaluation made by a Middle States Evaluation Committee this past November. The committee, comprised of teachers in specialized fields of study and a chairperson, observed every area of study offered to students at the high school.

Areas of study included student activities and services; the philosophy and objectives of the school's educational program (from art to special education); learnign media services; school facilities and school staff and administrators.

The report submitted by the Middle States Evaluation Committee was indeed a positive one. The school was commended for its organization, administration and staff, educational program and student-teacher relationships.

Recommendations made by the committee included monitoring class size; examination of scheduling practices to assess their impact on staffing, class size and room utilization and taking action to remedy the serious limitations of the facility, including a crowded cafeteria, classrooms, storage area and gymnasium.

These recommendations made by the Middle States Evaluation Committee in regards to the physical plant of the high school are areas of concern that must be addressed by the Belleville Board of Education sometime in the future. They may not appear to be as important as the educational program provided by the high school, but they are just as important to a student's learning process.

Students must be comfortable in an educational environment to be able to get the best out of their learning experience. Crowded classrooms, cafeteria and gymnasium do not provide the best environment for students or teachers for that matter. Both must feel better to work better.

And aren't better teachers and students what we want for the educational system of Belleville? We think so.

We commend the staff, administration and student body of Belleville High School for the time and effort put forth in achieving Middle States accreditation.

Congratulations teachers!

Eight of our township teachers were among 1,200 educators from around the state recently selected to participate in the Governor's Teachers Recognition Program.

We are proud of their selection to this program - a program established by Gov. Thomas Kean this year to honor state educators for their service to the educational community in New Jersey. It is a program long overdue.

Teachers have one of the most important jobs in this world today - they are responsible for the education of tomorrow's movers and shakers. No one has a greater responsibility for the educational learning of a child than his or her own parents and teachers.

We congratulate each of the eight teachers for their selection to the Governor's Teachers Recognition Program: Ann Schneider, a history teacher at the high school since 1961;

Robert Kierney who has taught social studies at the middle school since 1975; Karen Kirk, a Belleville native, who has taught at School 3 for 15 years; Hjelen Bowman, also a Belleville native, who has taught kindergarten at School 5 for 26 years; Carol Mateyka, music teacher at School 7 for 14 years; John Iradi, a teacher at School 8 for 21 years; Pauline Orsulak, a teacher at School 9 for 30 years and Genevieve Petrillo who has taught at School 10 since 1973.

These eight teachers symbolize the achievements to all the teachers within the Belleville school system. They have demonstrated their dedication to the students of Belleville and are deserving of this recognition.

We hope the Governor's Teachers Recognition Program will continue to honor the many great educators we have in the Township of Belleville and the State of New Jersey.

Budget restricts library from opening on Sundays

To the editor:

Bernard E. O'Connor of Belleville Avenue writes in the May 22 issue of the Belleville Times that the Belleville Public Library should be open on Sundays. There is merit in Mr. O'Connor's suggestion, but fiscal realities preclude this schedule expansion.

In public libraries where Sunday hours have been added, two methods of staffing have emerged. The first makes use of a new, separate staff of part-time people who only work Sunday and are paid at a higher rate than regular staff. The second method, more common, is to juggle existing staff and pay those working on Sunday at a rate of one and one-half or twice the regular rate.

In the first case, our budget would be sharply reduced by spreading staff so thin.

A recent study by Tom Ballard of the Plainfield Public Library found that Sunday library hours brought in the same library users who would have come in during the Monday through Saturday schedule but who now used the library on Sunday. Thus, the intention of increasing public use was actually a failure; the same use pattern emerged, just spread over seven rather than six days.

One point about our Belleville Public Library: We are by per capita support, the second most poorly funded library in Essex County; only Irvington receives less per capita municipal support. But on the bright side, we are open 60 hours per week, exceeding state requirements in scheduling. We also have expanded our schedule in the award-winning James J. Cozzarelli Jr. Children's room by 10 percent. We have seen steady growth in public traffic and borrowing in 1985 and 1986. Our video collection (which pays for itself via a small borrower's fee) has shown incredible growth since 1983.

Overall, our Belleville Library continues to offer more service at lower taxpayer cost than any library in Essex County.

Belleville Public Library

Remember, observe, honor those who gave their lives

To the editor:

There are many, many special interest groups and causes and most of us can really only be active in just a few favorites, and perhaps that's how it should be so that each group reaps the benefits of the labors and endeavors of those who are dedicated to the respective causes. However, there is one group to whom each and every one of us, by virtue of our very birth and existence, is so indebted.

Twice a year, Memorial Day and Veteran's Day, we pay homage to the men and women who have gallantly served our country in the armed forces. It is apparent that media exposure of any observance prompts remembrance and participation by the citizenry of all levels - community, state and nationwide. One case in point: the six million people of the Jewish faith and the additional eight million people of various heritage who perished in the Nazi holocaust.

Needless to say, there were those in the military who gave the supreme sacrifice of their lives, those who carry the mental scars and physical wounds of battle, those who are still serving in pain and agony in veterans hospitals throughout the nation, as well as those who have survived and are mainstreamed in productive lives. It's all been said before - We all know this. But my appeal is that we remember, observe and honor.

There is probably just a limited number of groups which have given so much and so completely and which have affected the standard of life of a whole nation. And our veterans are certainly counted in the very top of that elite number.

So, in addition to whatever may be a favorite cause or charity, please remember our veterans with contributions and observance in these special occasions. More than an obligation, it is our honor to offer this tribute in celebrating those champions of champions.

Brownie troop leader thanks merchants for their support

To the editor:

I am a Brownie leader in this great Township of Belleville. I would like to thank publicly the merchants of Belleville who have helped my Brownie Troop 1 with their generous contributions throughout the year and for our Court of Awards Ceremony and our year-end pizza party.

They are as follows: Jim Fleming of Fleming's Restaurant Supply; Bottle King; Sunshine Produce; Thrice Guys Pizzeria; Carvel Ice Cream; Michele Giordano, Red Cross first aid; and Rossmore Pharmacy.

Our thanks to all of you from the bottom of our little hearts. And thank you girls from Brownie Troop 1 for making it all worthwhile. Your smiles are worth their weight in gold.

Requirements for spiritual health

Let us look at that which we call "the spiritual part" of man. That should be the starting point to good health. A person who knows the Lord and who is living in fellowship with Him, has a special advantage. As a spiritually healthy Christian, he enjoys certain benefits that have an impact for good on the mental, emotional, and even the physical elements of his being.

Spiritual health, like almost everything else that is worthwhile in life, is not obtained in a hit-or-miss fashion. To experience it, a person must follow definite guidelines. In order for a Christian to be spiritually healthy, he must: read God's Word; talk to the Lord; identify with a church; and be active in service.

As we consider these four guidelines, my prayer is that you will enjoy better spiritual, mental, emotional and physical health.

Golden Comments

By James R. Golden

Several years ago Maureen Ogden, now an Assemblywoman (R Union), was the mayor of Millburn who had been the victim of three political intimidation lawsuits which she felt were instigated by individuals who couldn't beat her at the polls, so they chose the courts and filed frivolous suits against her.

Two of the suits were dismissed by summary judgment, but the third went to trial. After a few days, the judge dismissed it for lack of credibility. She stated, "I was found not guilty, but I wasn't made whole."

"There were hundreds of hours of interrogatories," she said. "There was a lot of hassle and time and cost just to prove that I did not wrong."

"It bothered me that they could sue me, yet despite the fact that the court found I was not guilty of what they charged and that there was no legal basis for the suit, I could never recover the many thousands of dollars in cost and time that was spent in my behalf to prepare my defense," Ogden added.

At this time, as a member of the Legislature, the Assemblywoman jointly supported by Assemblyman Walter M.D. Kern, Jr. (R Bergen) a lawyer, has submitted Assembly Bill 1086 to establish a concept almost similar to the system used in England whereby the losing party would be responsible for all costs and fees incurred by the suit if the judge finds the action "was not substantially justified."

It would create a system that comes close to one used for decades in England and in other British Commonwealth countries. In some western states and for limited kinds of lawsuits are the federal courts, as defined by congressional acts, elements of the English system are already in use.

Bills are now being prepared in the Senate and Assembly for hearings in the judiciary committees of both houses whose sponsors say the purpose of their bills are aimed at reducing the many frivolous cases filed with the courts, such as actions that in the opinion of judges lack merit; are capricious or petty.

A Senate bill (S-1255), jointly sponsored by Majority Leader John A. Lynch, Jr. (D Middlesex) and William I. Gormley (R Atlantic), would provide for a mandatory penalty of up to $1,000 against lawyers who bring actions that are determined by the courts to be frivolous.

Lynn and Gormley are attorneys and are members of the Senate Judiciary Committee. Both have said they expect committee hearings on the measure in the near future and believe the bill could be brought for a vote later this year.

Kern has said the bill be and Ogden sponsor "will probably be the subject of hearings later this spring or early summer." Kern is chairman of the Assembly Judiciary Committee, to which the bill has been forwarded.

While the American Bar Association, New Jersey State Bar Association and other organizations of lawyers' favor upon measures that would penalize or impose the English system for filing suits filed by the courts to be without merit, Senator Lynch commented, "As I see it, this bill would deter bad lawsuits. It's like the issue of a fraud bureau in the Insurance Department, to serve as a deterrent to bad claims. Quite frankly, I think legislation of this kind is timely and worthy of discussion. It should certainly be the subject of an open forum."

Senator Gormley commented, "I sincerely believe a bill of this nature, if properly enforced by the courts, would be a blessing for litigants and for quality members of the bar." He called the filings of frivolous lawsuits, combined with the present controversy over joint and several liability, "the two issues of greatest impact" involving inequities - under joint and several liability, any defendant in a multi-defendant lawsuit can be held liable for payment of the entire award if it is found that the other defendants have limited financial means.

Assemblywoman Ogden hopefully will get her just reward with the passage of this measure - she said an aggressive drive will be pursued in the months ahead to enact this much required legislation - there is much merit in her cause.

High school student travels to Australia to see Halley's Comet

By Daniel Shure

For 17-year-old Tom Spirock watching Halley's Comet from his backyard through a telescope wasn't good enough. The Belleville High School senior recently traveled to Ayers Rock, Australia, to view the comet.

Spirock and other members of Amateur Astronomers Inc., a Cranford Club, chose Ayers Rock because the mammoth formation blocks the little man-made light that is shed in that part of the sparsely-settled Australian desert.

The thing that impressed me the most was how dark it was at night," Spirock said. He returned from his three-week trip April 20.

Ayers Rock was described by Spirock as being 1,000 feet high, 2 miles long and 1 mile wide. He and his group stayed in a hotel about 15 miles from the rock. They slept by day and rode a tour bus to the far side of Ayers Rock at night to watch the comet. Ayers Rock blocked lights of the hotel, post office and a few stores that are the only buildings for miles and miles.

Before going to Australia Spirock watched Halley's Comet from the backyard of his family's Van Houten Place home. He found Belleville, a less than perfect comet viewing site. The surrounding area has too many lights, creating a glow that interferes with a clear look at the comet.

In Australia, Spirock watched Halley's Comet through binoculars and with his eyes alone.

It looked like a little elongated fuzzy path with the naked eye," he said. "That is about what we expected."

Halley's Comet, named after English astronomer Edmund Halley, was last seen in 1910. Halley accurately predicted the comet would appear once every 75 years.

The comet-watching adventure was Spirock's first trip out of the United States. Of Australia he said, "I expected it to be different. But it wasn't as different as I expected it to be. The Australians speak the same language but sometimes they speak a little fast."

After gathering in San Francisco and stopping over briefly in Hawaii, where Spirock took his first dip in the Pacific Ocean, the group flew to Australia. In addition to three days and nights at Ayers Rock, the group toured several Australian cities and the countryside.

One thing he found similar to his home country was the wide array of fast-food restaurants in Australia. A part-time worker at McDonald's on Washington Avenue, Spirock inspected an Australian McDonald's.

"They have big pieces of chicken. They don't have Chicken McNuggets," he said.

Australia is known for its kangaroos and koala bears. Spirock came within a few feet of a kangaroo in a national park. He brought back a koala bear doll to his sister, Suzanne, 10. His family is rounded out by parents, Bernard and Barbara, and brother Peter, 14. He brought back a slouch hat for his father.

Asked if he spotted any aborigines while he was riding on buses through Australia, Spirock said, "We only saw the ones we were supposed to see." He saw a small aborigine camp where native Australians were turning out paintings to sell to tourists.

Spirock's interest in the stars goes back to his early childhood. He said he has "always been reading" about the skies and bought his own telescope with savings several years ago.

Since joining the Amateur Astronomers three years ago, Spirock has learned to use the club's computer to predict what the skies will look like on a given night. The computer prints a chart after being fed informa-

Now that Spirock has returned from his first trip abroad, he is looking forward to future trips but hasn't made any specific plans.

"My uncle and grandfather want to go to Alaska, so maybe I'll hitch a ride with them," he said.

Home economics courses cover wide range of fields

By Michelle Jeannotte
The idea that female students enrolled in home economics courses will only become housewives no longer holds true. Today, students, both male and female, can learn to become master chefs, tailors, food service operators or child care personnel.

Curricula of the Home Economics Department at Belleville High School includes Home Economics I, II and III, Vocational Foods I and II, Food Lab, Sewing Lab, Family Relations and Home Management, according to Victor DePauw, supervisor.

The home economics courses stress basic food preparation, DePauw said. Home Economics I, offered to students in grades 9-12, is designed as an introduction to the clothing and foods area of home economics. During the first half of a semester, students are instructed to construct two garments. The second half of the semester is dedicated to foods and basic nutrition.

The areas of concentration in Home Economics I are the importance of eating a well-balanced breakfast, the development of good work habits and the importance of cooperation and teamwork.

Home Economics II continues to teach the theory of Home Economics I with the areas of concentration on selection, preparation and storage of food for optimal nutrition and the selection, construction and care of clothing.

The course, which is offered to students in grades 10-12, is aimed at increasing awareness of the relationship of diet to physical health and well being and developing awareness of the safe, sanitary and economical selection, preparation, storage and service of vegetables, salads, desserts, meat, fish and poultry, DePauw said.

The final course in this area, Home Economics III, is the confirmation of the Home Economics II program, according to DePauw. Areas of concentration in the course include planning, service and the preparation of foods for special occasions, refinement of clothing construction skills and selection of clothing.

Students enrolled in the Home Economics III course will be taught how to relate to consumer practices and management principles to foods and nutrition; how to adapt theoretical knowledge of the food groups to practical uses for him/herself and others; that experiences with food can extend beyond meal preparation activities to the areas of recreation, creativity and career opportunities; and that experiences with sewing can extend to career opportunities in the clothing and textile areas.

The vocational foods courses offered at Belleville High School are designed for the student who is interested in a concentrated study of the foods area with the possibility of pursuing a career in the foods industry, DePauw said. A thorough study of the different types of foods and their preparation, background information into the foods industry and food service are covered.

Vocational Foods I prepares a student for entry-level jobs in food service, DePauw added. Students enrolled in the vocational foods courses test their skills by hosting luncheons for faculty during the year. A recent faculty luncheon, hosted by students in Margaret Moscatello's Vocational Foods I, featured cream chicken, string bean almondine and chocolate pudding.

Students in the Vocational Foods I class learn the basic concepts of foods as well as the management of time, effort, equipment and resources, become better food consumers in terms of purchasing foods according to their nutritional value, use and available resources; and recognize that the food industry is an important career cluster in the United States with a wide range of employment opportunities, DePauw said.

Vocational Foods I students work with foods such as meats and seafood, quick breads, salads, vegetables, cakes and pastries.

Vocational Foods II, designed as a continuation of the introductory course, concentrates on food service operations, meal planning and management and the world of work. In this course, seniors learn how to exhibit their ability to serve foods attractively and efficiently; produce acceptable food products for public consumption; handle equipment safely and efficiently in all operations from preparation to clean-up; and know the range of employment opportunities available with individual preparation and abilities in food service.

According to DePauw, a Food Lab course is being offered to students for a half-semester. The course, which is designed to introduce a student to the Basic Food Guide, meal planning, food safety and sanitation and simple food preparation techniques, teaches a student how to prepare foods for breakfast, lunch, dinner and snacks.

The course, Sewing Lab, offered to students in grades 10-12, concentrates on such skills as crocheting, knitting, embroidery and crewel, needlepoint and applique, as well as clothing construction techniques.

Each student enrolled in a Sewing Lab is required to create two projects utilizing at least two of the sewing techniques. Students, who are encouraged to become responsible and involved through individual projects, learn how to use sewing tools and sewing machines correctly and develop and awareness of consumerism in relation to the value of needlecrafts.

Family Relations, a half-year course, is designed to help a student understand him/herself as an individual and in relation to others. Areas of concentration in this course, which is offered to students in grades 10-12, include a study of the family, needs, personality development, getting along with friends and family, dating, preparation for marriage, marital adjustment and the family in crisis.

According to DePauw, curriculum in parenting and child development and child care will be incorporated to the class sometime in the future.

Home Management, also a half-year course, is designed to incorporate two areas of home economics - management and housing, DePauw said. Areas of concentration include house styles, house planning, interior design, time schedules, insurance, mortgages and money management.

Students will learn to understand how values, goals, needs and wants affect the way one obtains, protects and uses financial resources, what can be done with financial resources, be aware that creation and maintenance of a living environment involves consideration of individual and family needs, interests, resources, skills and concepts of attractiveness; and understand the responsibilities of a home and the resources needed to manage it.

Students interested in the home-economics field as a career can join the Cooperative Home Economics (CHE) program at Belleville High School. The program, established six years ago, allows students to attend class and work in their related fields after school, according to DePauw.

Students who complete the Cooperative Home Economics program or any of the advanced home economics courses at the high school have a greater opportunity to continue to work or attend secondary schools in the area of their respective fields, DePauw said.

Service With a Smile - Donald Guarino, a Belleville High School student, serves his teacher, Margaret Moscatello a cup of tea during a recent faculty luncheon. Seated with Moscatello are Victor DePauw, Related Arts supervisor, and Pat Marzella, school secretary.

Father Blake recovers from recent heart attack

Monsignor Francis Blake, pastor of Holy Family Church in Nutley, is recovering at home from a heart attack he suffered last week.

Father Blake was scheduled to have been honored in a ceremonies at Sacred Heart Cathedral in Newark and at Holy Family for his elevation to monsignor May 21. He suffered a heart attack while saying the 5:30 p.m. Mass May 19 and was rushed to Clara Maass Hospital, Belleville.

A service and reception in honor of Father Blake's promotion will be held sometime this fall, according to church officials. No date has yet been set.

Veterans' groups participate in Memorial Day services

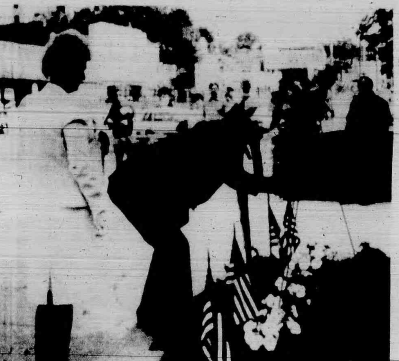

An Orechio Publication Thursday, May 29, 1986 Belleville Times 7

Saluting Those Who Sacrificed - Barbara Tuck, chairperson of the Veteran's Council of Belleville, and James Leary, past chairperson, salute those who sacrificed their lives for their country.

Solemn Speech - Col. Harold Lawson, chaplain of Belleville was the guest speaker during Memorial Day services at the Union Avenue veterans' monument.

Placing of the Wreath - Barbara Tuck watches as Pat Wynn, co-chairperson of the Veteran's Council of Belleville, places the wreath on the Town Hall monument.

Veterans' groups throughout the Township of Belleville observed Memorial Day this past Monday with joint services sponsored by the Veteran's Council of Belleville.

Services began 8:30 Monday morning with the placing of the wreath at the Belleville Reformed Cemetery by Ed O'Neill, President of the Belleville Historical Society.

Those who joined in the observance then participated in the Massing of Colors and dropping of the "anchor wreath" at the Rutgers Street bridge.

The veterans' groups then traveled to Town Hall for a service where they honored all deceased members of the Belleville Police and Fire departments, Township police and firemen, as well as residents, joined in the observance.

A wreath was placed in front of the Town Hall's statue, Victory, by Barbara Tuck, chairperson, and Pat Wynn, co-chairperson of the Veterans Council of Belleville. Wreaths were also placed near the township's bell which is dedicated to deceased members of the police and fire departments.

Services then proceeded to the Union Avenue veterans' monument where veterans' groups marched to the tunes performed by the Belleville High School Marching Band.

Guest speaker for the service was Col. Harold Lawson, chaplain of Belleville.

Participating organizations included the American Legion Post 299, American Legion Post 105, Belleville Amvets Post 26, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 275, Post 7 of Italian-American War Veterans, the Belleville-Nutley Chapter of Disabled Veterans, Catholic War Veterans, Belleville Police and Fire departments and the Gold Star Mothers.

Ring the Bell - A Belleville policeman rings the bell in recognition of the deceased members of the Belleville Police and Fire departments during Memorial Day services in front of Town Hall.

Bowing in Prayer - Members of the township veterans' groups bow their heads in prayer during Memorial Day services in front of Town Hall Monday morning. - Photos by Michelle Jeannotte.

Disciplining demands united front from parents

By Martin Weinapple, M.D.
The Carrier Foundation

When it comes to disciplining a child or setting limits and rules, or deciding whether a child should or should not have something he or she asks for, parents often find themselves in disagreement. Should they state their conflict openly and let the child know they disagree? Or should they stand together and present a "united front" to the child, speaking with a single voice, even though they may still disagree?

I would say that the issue to be considered first is that of fairness. This applies whether just one parent is involved or both are. A parent is unfair when he or she says to the child, "This is what I think and this is what I want and this is the way it is going to be. You will have to do this or that because I say so. You have no say in this at all." A child handled in this arbitrary and tyrannical way feels crushed, powerless, helpless. He feels that his interests and needs don't amount to anything and that his parents don't really care. It makes him feel bad about himself and resentful and angry toward his parent or parents.

A parent is fair when he or she says to the child, "I hear what you are saying and I understand why you feel this way. But I have considered the matter and I think it best that you be home at 11 o'clock or that you get only $5 allowance or that you are grounded for a week because you broke your agreement three times this month." With this kind of approach, the child feels that his needs and interests are being considered, that he is not being treated as a feelingless, worthless object and that his parent or parents really care what happens to him. He may not like the decision and he may stomp and scream and fume. But he will see that his parents are trying to be fair and that will mean more to him than the thing or privilege of which he is being deprived.

Now what should the approach be when parents disagree? I think that parents should not stand apart and express their disagreement to the child. I believe that they should get together, discuss their differences, try to work out a compromise if possible, or if they can't work out a compromise, accept the fact that one or the other is going to have to give in on this point, so they can come together and talk to the child as one. They can tell the child that they have disagreed, but that they have talked it over and decided that this time it would be best if the child should or should not have the video game or whatever and the reasons why they think so. Again, the decision may not be what the child wanted and he may put up a protest. But he will go away feeling that his case has been considered, that his parents have tried to be fair.

There are several reasons why, in my opinion, the "united front" rather than the "divided front" approach is best, provided it is fair and provided it isn't a case of both parents standing together to "gang up" on the child.

If the child sees the parents are divided and that they are angry with each other, it will make him anxious and shake his sense of stability and security. Also, he will be led to believe that when there is a difference of opinion there is no way to reach a compromise; that things are either "right" or "wrong" and that one has to take a firm, hard, unrelenting stand one way or the other. This will not serve him well when he grows up and has to resolve differences in his own mind on a particular issue or resolve a difference between himself and a business associate or between himself and a spouse.

Or if he sees his parents disagreeing, he will take sides, make one "the good guy" and the other "the bad guy," and play one against the other, to get what he wants. This is likely to become his style in dealing with people when he grows up, creating difficulties for him in relationships with others.

is beautiful but black and white photos reproduce much more clearly. You'll be happier with the results. Brides: ask your photographer to provide you with a black and white picture for newspaper purposes but tell him you need one BEFORE he comes to the church.

'80s Bucs take third trip to tourney finals

On Sunday afternoon, the Belleville baseball team will travel to Verona to face Columbia High School in the championship game of the Greater Newark Tourney. Game time is 2 p.m. and a big crowd should lend its support to both schools.

For Belleville, it's their third trip to the finals in the decade of the 80's, with the Bucs losing to Livingston in 1980 and beating Glen Ridge the following year. This will be Columbia's first appearance in the finals during the 80's. The team won back to back titles in 1978 and 79.

The Greater Newark Tourney has a lot of memories for those players who took part in it. At Belleville High, the year 1981 has special interest because that was the year the team took it all. Getting to the finals in '81 was no picnic. As a matter of fact, barring the first round, the championship game was the teams easiest game in the tourney.

It's hard to believe that five years have passed since that season. Back in 1981, George Zanfini coached the Buccaneers to the finals with a mix of juniors and seniors on the roster. The '81 team had the magic needed to win. It had good pitching, hitting and used key breaks to win it all.

Anthony Coco, who pitched the Bucs into the finals that year, remembers the prestige of winning the G.N.T.

When I was growing up, I had always heard what a great tourney it was. "Coco said last week of the G.N.T. 'It's one of the best county tournaments in the state. I had my choice that year of pitching in either the state tourney or the county tourney. I chose the G.N.T. because of what it meant to the team and me. Besides, we had lost the 1980 title game (to Livingston) and wanted to get the title in '81.'"

The Bucs won the initial round, 12-3 over Cedar Grove, as Coco pitched a complete game. He had a shutout until the final inning, when Cedar Grove scored three unearned runs.

The second round wasn't as easy. Ironically, the competition was Columbia and it looked as if the Bucs would make an early exit from the tourney.

The Cougars tallied eight times in the first inning off Coco, who lasted just 1.3 of an inning. Eugene Cancelliere came in to put out the fire in the first and the junior would go on to hurl a tremendous game in relief.

Despite trailing 8-0, the Bucs had the offense to mount a comeback. After all, this was a team that featured Frank Fazzini, Joe Corbais, Phil Cerna, Paul Scheuplein, Dave Starr, Jerry Ross, Cancelliere, Ken Constantino and Rich Valente, with Bobby Brave the designated hitter.

Belleville did come back, chipping away at the defense and eventually winning, 15-9. The stage had been set. Belleville was not going to fail easy.

In the third round, the semi, the Bucs faced Bloomfield. It was a game that Zanfini later said was his most memorable. Coco pitched the entire game, which lasted 12 innings, against Bloomfield's ace, Anthony Sarno. The Bucs won the game, 5-4, setting up a big weekend the following week.

The Bucs had two games in two days that would decide the season. On Saturday, May 30, the team faced Livingston for the championship of Group IV, Section II. The following day, the team would battle Glen Ridge for the G.N.T. title.

The game with Livingston wasn't too promising. As Coco remembered, it was the day after the senior prom and the Bucs never got into the contest. Livingston tallied three times in the first, with George Alpert hitting a mammoth homer to get it started. The Lancers went on to a 7-1 victory, setting the scene for Verona and the G.N.T. the following day.

For all intents and purposes, all the eggs were in one basket. The Bucs had had an excellent season, however back in '81, there wasn't a conference race to speak of, so the G.N.T. was the teams one last chance to bring home a title.

The Bucs went one, two, three in the first inning, however, all three outs were hard hit balls and the feeling was that Belleville could get to Rich Gillespie, the ace of the Glen Ridge staff. When it was over, the Bucs had scored a 10-4 victory and a wild celebration ensued following the final out.

This year, there are new names on the diamond for Belleville High, but the goal is just as important. Best of luck to the team of '86 as they head into the big game this weekend.

Columbia Provides Tough Test

Columbia and Belleville have not met that much since the disbanding of the Big 10 Conference in 1977. However, when they have met, there have been some key games. Of course, the 1981 contest ranks in there, however there was a game in '83 that has special meaning. Back in April of '83 the Bucs and Cougars met on opening day. It was Ralph La Conte's first game as Buc head coach after a long tenure as assistant coach. His first game didn't go very well. The Bucs lost 11-3 and the team went on to an 8-17-1 mark in that rebuilding season. Now, three years later, the Bucs will face Columbia for the G.N.T. title. It's a tribute to the program, which has been quite successful and to La Conte, who has stuck to his guns and now has his team battling for county supremacy.

Corino's 25 Wins

For many years now, Carl Corino has done a tremendous job in coaching girls' softball. The period 1982-86 has special meaning, because the team has put together some impressive records: 24-2, 24-4, 24-5 and 24-6 last season. The team entered this week's action with a 24-4 record and has an excellent chance of winning that elusive 25th game, which could set a Belleville High School record for most wins by a varsity team in a single season. George Zanfini's baseball team won 24 games in '76, but I've yet to find a varsity team in any sport at BHS that's won 25 games in a single season.

Last Weeks Quiz

Houston and Boston played in the '81 NBA finals, with Boston winning in six games. Houston beat the K.C. Kings in the Western finals.

Name the last time a Stanley Cup Final went the full seven games and the teams involved. A hint: it happened well over 10 years ago.

Game set for Sunday in Verona

Bucs battle Columbia in finals of Greater Newark Tournament

By Michael Lamberti

During the course of the 1986 season, the Belleville baseball team has proven a number of things. First off, the Bucs have the ability to win games in streaks. Secondly, the team can score runs in bunches and can hit for power. Last week, the Bucs added a third dimension. The team has the ability to win a big game in the midst of a small slump.

The Bucs, 18-9-1, face another important week. The team battled Montclair and Kennedy in earlier conference games. This afternoon the Bucs are in Bloomfield for a quarter final, Group IV, Section II contest with the Bengals. It will be the fourth game between the two teams this season. On Sunday, all eyes will be focused in Verona, where Belleville and Columbia battle it out for the Greater Newark Tournament championship. Game time is 2 p.m.

Last week, Belleville played three games, winning just once. At first glance, you might think the Bucs were in a slump, compared to the tremendous pace the team had been setting for a good portion of May. However, the lone Buc victory more than made up for the two losses.

Belleville lost to Paramus, 4-2, in a make up of a game that finished in a tie in April. Last Friday, the Bucs were beaten by Clifton, 14-6, at Belleville in a game that hurt the teams' chances for the conference crown. Belleville saw its conference mark lowered to 2-3-1 with the setback and now can only tie Bloomfield for the NNJIL crown. In order for that to happen, the Bucs have to beat Montclair and Kennedy and hope the Bengals lose at Passaic.

The lone victory came against Bloomfield, in the semi finals of the G.N.T. at Verona last Saturday. Belleville broke a close game open in the sixth inning and went on to a 10-3 victory.

"I was happy to get those games in with Paramus and Clifton, even though we lost," said head coach Ralph La Conte.

"We were rained out of a few games earlier in the week and I

Luzzi pitches 20th win in tourney's first round

Sophomore pitcher Jeanine Luzzi won her 20th game of the season last week when she defeated Phillipsburg, 6-2, in the first round of the Group IV, Section II tourney last Friday at Belleville. Luzzi is the first pitcher in Belleville softball history to win 20 games in a season.

The victory over P-Burg was the only game the girls played last week. Rain curtailed the schedule and Carl Corino's troops will try and win the conference title this week. The girls brought a 24-4 record into a game with Morristown last Tuesday. That game was the semi final round of the sectionals, with the winner playing the Westfield-Union victor for the sectional title tomorrow afternoon. Belleville has played, for the sectional title, the last three seasons, losing to Westfield last year and Union in '83 and '84. Yesterday, the girls battled Kennedy on the road. If Belleville won that game, then the NNJIL championship is clinched, marking the first time since 1983 that Belleville has won the conference title. The team still has another game with Clifton remaining, however the date of the game has not been set because of state scheduling problems.

Belleville is also gunning for its 25th victory of the season, which would be a team record for wins in a season. The '82, '84 and '85 teams won 24 games.

Luzzi's 20th victory came against a good Phillipsburg team. Both P-Burg runs were unearned as the sophomore continued her marvelous campaign.

"She's been super," Corino said of Luzzi, now 20-3. "Her composure is excellent and she's improved so much during the season. I can't say enough about her."

Luzzi saw limited action in 1985. Last season saw another freshman, Michele Calderone, carry the team during the later stages of the season. This season, Calderone has not seen as much action, although she has an impressive 4-1 record.

"She's accepted her role on this year's team," Corino said of Calderone. "Michele couldn't be any more supportive of Jeanine. She is an important part of our team in a number of ways. Michele lends her support and is

Three boats advance to National finals

The Belleville crew team concluded its 1986 season by competing in the Nationals last weekend.

Next week, the Times will wrap up the season for Sam Giuffrida and Co.

The Bucs had three boats advance to the finals this season. Although there were no winners in the finals, coach Giuffrida was happy with his teams' effort.

"There were some real tough races," the coach said. "I don't think I've ever seen the competition so tough. Ten years ago, I would have been happy with one boat in the finals. Now, we have three in the finals every year. I certainly can't be disappointed with that."

The senior four boys made it to the finals, taking second in a very difficult qualifying heat. Most heats allow the first three boats to advance, however this particular heat allowed only two. Belleville battled hard and defeated Harrington High School by 7 of a second for second place.

In the finals, the Bucs placed sixth in a tight race.

The senior four girls moved up to a junior four category when senior Kathy Zamora couldn't race because of illness. Lisa Loungo replaced her and the team was eligible to race in the junior four competition. Unfortunately, the junior four race featured a team from Winter Park, Florida, which was awesome.

"They were unbelievable."

didn't want to go into the Bloomfield game cold. The kids got a chance to play and get the offense back in gear."

Versus Paramus, Bob Hutchison pitched a fine game for Belleville, but he didn't receive much help from his teammates at the plate.

"Any time a pitcher can hold us to three hits, I have to tip my hat to him," La Conte said. "Bobby pitched a nice game for us, but we couldn't get the big hit for him."

Paramus scored twice off Hutchison in the first inning, but Belleville scored twice in the top of the second to tie matters.

John Auremma walked and Dean Mauro doubled him home. Jaime Gallo hit a single, moving Mauro to third and Joe Perna grounded out, scoring Mauro.

Paramus pulled ahead, 3-2 in the second and scored once more in the third for its final runs.

Hutchison allowed just five hits over six innings, three of which came in the third inning.

Against Clifton, the Bucs faced a fired-up team that seems to fare well against Belleville pitching.

"I don't understand it," La Conte said, "but Clifton does very well against us. They're an under 500 team, but they get up for us. We lost to them earlier in the season and they scored a lot of runs in that game, too."

Belleville lost at Clifton, 14-8, two weeks ago. In this game, the teams were scoreless through three innings, with Ernie Brodie pitching well for Belleville.

In the fourth, Clifton used the long ball to grab a 4-0 lead. Two Mustang homers, coming back to back, accounted for most of the damage.

Clifton added four more runs in the sixth off Lou Lucante for an 8-0 lead. Belleville answered with two of its own in the sixth when Dave Long cracked a two run homer, scoring Al Best who had walked.

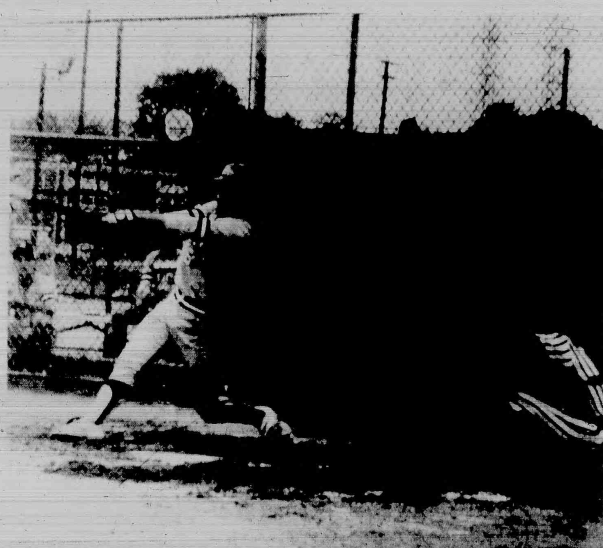

In the seventh, the Mustangs broke it wide open by scoring six runs and taking a commanding 14-2 lead. Belleville did cut the deficit by tallying four times in the last half of the seventh.

Mauro started with a walk and Tim Coffey lined a pinch single. Dave Mc Neill doubled home Mauro and Alan Ruopp hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Coffey. Best walked and Long singled home Mc Neill and Best for the final two runs.

On the afternoon, Long had three hits and three runs batted in. Mauro was two for three. Mc Neill had two hits and Jim Dunphy, two hits.

The big game with Bloomfield last Saturday certainly helped the team forget the two previous setbacks.

"We had a little meeting very enthusiastic. She hasn't gotten as many innings as last year, but she has helped the team.

Against P-Burg, Belleville scored twice in the first. Cindy Ruggiero reached on an error and Desiree Johansen tripled her home. Sherri Sorrentino walked and Johansen scored on a double steal.

P-Burg tallied once in the second and Belleville answered with a run in the fourth. Maryanne Mc Arthur walked and later scored the third run.

In the fifth, the Bucs broke the game open. Laura Caruso, Luzzi, and Danielle Walker singled to load the bases. Laurie Dondarski walked home a run and Mc Arthur came through with a big single, scoring two runs and giving Belleville a 6-1 lead.

They were tough, Corino said of P-Burg. "I had scouted them and knew they would be a tough ball club. They don't play many New Jersey teams, but they gave us a battle."

Thus, the victory set up the semi-final battle with Morristown last Tuesday, with the winner advancing to the sectional finals.

With the season winding down, the team has a chance to win a conference and sectional crown, along with setting a new record for team wins in a season. Not bad for a club supposedly rebuilding this year.

Three boats advance to National finals

Guiffreda said of the Florida boat. "That team won the title by over 20 seconds."

The Belleville girls placed third in its heat and did not qualify for the finals despite a good effort.

The junior four boys, a combination of the midweight and junior four shells took second in the qualifying race and sixth in the finals. The lightweight four won its heat and finished third in the semi finals.

The third place finish eliminated the Bucs from the finals, but the team raced in the petite finals and took the title by 8 seconds.

"They were angry that they didn't make the finals," Guiffreda said of the lightweight shell. "They went out and raced a strong race in the consolation race."

"We had a good season overall," the coach continued. "We set high goals for ourselves this year and the team raced well. We always stuck together and we always were competitive. It was a good year."

We are chosen to serve

God put me upon the earth
To accomplish a mission since my birth.
My life has a meaning I've yet to find out.
I was put here for a reason without a doubt.
I'm here to serve God my father you see,
And I'm very special no matter what becomes of me.

We are chosen to serve

We live our lives from day to day,
Never knowing what may come our way.
Our purpose here comes from God above,
Ten tablets of stone guiding us to love.
Some are weak and some are strong,
We must help each other to get along.
In trouble times which never seem to cease,
We pray to the Lord, "Let there be peace."

Pastor of Silver Lake Baptist

Rev. Gerald Fortunato celebrates anniversary

Rev. Gerald Fortunato recently celebrated his first year as pastor of Silver Lake Baptist Church in Belleville.

The anniversary was celebrated with parishioners who attended a special morning worship service and gathered afterwards for an anniversary banquet at the Amvets Hall on Newark Avenue.

Rev. Fortunato was presented with many tributes and gifts, including a gift from the congregation which enhanced the clerical robe by way of two stoles, one red and the other purple.

In his first year as pastor, Rev. Fortunato has become involved in a variety of community activities. He serves as chairman to Clara Maass Medical Center, Columbus Hospital and the Veterans Council of Belleville. He was recently inducted to the Federation of Italian-American Societies of New Jersey and is a columnist for the Belleville Times.

First Anniversary—Rev. Gerald Fortunato recently celebrated his first year at Silver Lake Baptist Church in Belleville. With him are James Delusso, church trustee, and Mayor Michael Marotti.

Clara Maass receives blood bank accreditation

Clara Maass Medical Center's Blood Bank has been granted renewal of accreditation by the American Association of Blood Banks (AABB), according to Robert S. Curtis, president.

Accreditation follows an intensive on-site inspection by specially trained representatives of the association and establishes that the level of medical, technical and administrative performance within the facility meets or exceeds the rigorous standards set by the American Association of Blood Banks. By successfully meeting those requirements, Clara Maass Medical Center can join more than 2,200 similar facilities across the United States and abroad that have earned the accreditation rating and recognition.

"The association's inspection and accreditation procedures are voluntary," Curtis said. "It is not legally necessary for a blood bank or transfusion service to be accredited, but like many others, our facility has sought accreditation because it represents a level of professional and medical expertise that meets and exceeds government regulations."

"The primary goal of the program is to assist facilities like ours to achieve excellence and thus provide higher quality blood components and quality health care to our patients," he added.

The Standards for Blood Banks and Transfusion Services are written into the field, composing the American Association of Blood Banks Committee of Standards. Not only do these standards set the level of professional proficiency for blood banks and transfusion services in the United States, but they provide the basis of practice for similar facilities around the world.

Advisers and Friends - The advisers to the cheerleading squad, Carol Russo and James Russomanno, were presented with a poem (printed below) by the Belleville High School cheerleaders at the group's annual Mother and Daughter Dinner. Pictured are: (l-r, standing) Mrs. Russomanno, James Russomanno (adviser), Mrs. Silletti, Mrs. Carol Russo (adviser), Mrs. Marilyn McGrath (BHS vice principal) and Mrs. Pignatello; and (l-r, seated) Mrs. Rinaldi, Mrs. Frunzi and Mrs. Masi.

Our Advisors

Expressing our feelings is really so tough
 Somehow saying thank you doesn't seem enough.
 It's hard to tell them, what can you say
 You bring them a problem, they make it okay.
 The hours they give us, the energy they spend
 It helps us so much to know they're our friend.
 They listen when you talk, they honestly care
 Even when we differ we know they're being fair.
 They always support us and hope we excel
 But never give up on us if we don't do well.
 Their patience, concern, dedication and zest
 Have really encouraged us to always do our best.
 They demand that we study and maintain good grades.

'Cause education is forever but cheering soon fades.
 Mrs. Russo, Mr. Russomanno we wanted you to share
 Our feelings for you and how very much we care.
 You taught us to have pride, dignity, self-respect too.
 I feel I'm growing up and it has a lot to do with you.
 We'll always be grateful and remain in your debt.
 You're two special people we'll never forget.
 Thanks for the memories, the excitement, the fun.
 As advisers and people with us you're number one...

The Cheerleaders

Table of Ten - The 10 lovely ladies enjoying themselves at the Belleville High School cheerleaders' annual Mother and Daughter Dinner are: (l-r) Michele Esposito, Mrs. Nardone, Patti Nardone, Rosa Conway, Mrs. Conway, Mrs. Greco, Angele Greco, Mrs. DeBenedetto, Denise DeBenedetto and Mrs. Esposito.

Holy Family parishioners honor Father Genovese

The Reverend Gabriel Genovese, Associate Pastor at Holy Family Church in Nutley will be honored for the silver anniversary of his ordination to the Priesthood at a Mass Sunday June 1 at 12:30 p.m.

Reverend Richard J. Carrington, Associate Pastor of St. John's Church in Jersey City and long-time friend of Father Genovese will celebrate the Mass with the priests of Holy Family. A reception in the school auditorium will follow.

Father Genovese has been at Holy Family since 1961. Born in 1914 in Gambi, Italy, he emigrated to the United States in October of 1967. He is fluent in Italian and Spanish as well as English and has led the immigrant communities in St. Rocco's and St. Rose's parishes in Newark and St. Joseph's in Union City.

Educated in St. Anthony's of Assisi Seminary in Perugia and at the Gregorian University in Rome, Father Genovese holds a bachelor's degree in philosophy and a master's degree in theology.

At Holy Family, Father Genovese has been leader and director of the Italian Language which prepares parents for the christening of their children. He has taught in Holy Family School and conducts a Thursday evening Bible class in Italian for adults. He regularly offers the 5:30 Sunday evening Mass in Italian for a goodly number of Italian-born parishioners.
