Joy of Giving — The students of School 10 demonstrated the true meaning of Christmas when they joined together in a holiday food drive for the township's needy. By Friday, December 19, the kids rounded up five big food baskets for five less fortunate Belleville families. The food was distributed through the Belleville Welfare Office under director Carol Russo. Pictured above are the School 10 student government representatives who helped organize the drive. ## What the Holidays mean to Bellevillites...

By Howard Klausner

A time of rejoicing and a time of self-examination — the holiday season comes to its climax. The question put to people was: "What does the holiday season mean to you?"

One man, bound to a wheelchair since an accident two years ago, who declined to be photographed, remarked, "It means that I can move my hands a little more, and I can wheel this wheelchair. It means hanging in there."

A man from Minnesota, an over-the-road trucker, said, "It means trying to get home in time to get everybody together and enjoy a couple of days of togetherness." Some local answers follow.

Michele Kiernan, Washington Avenue. The holiday is great. Except for the working part.

Thelma Hollahan, Bremond Avenue. To me, it means giving. The geriatric center, the church. I gave money to a man today. He was so ragged you couldn't believe it, and he couldn't believe it when I gave him the money. He blessed me. I told him, the world is my family.

Vito Caprio, Bremond Street. It's about time for people to think spiritually. It's Christ's birthday. That's the most important thing.

Patti Sibilia, Chase Street. It means being with my family. It's especially nice that we'll have our daughter, Michele, for her first Christmas.

Annette Sitek, Berkeley Avenue. It means family, happiness, health. What else is there?

Clara Lupo, Greylock Parkway. It means sharing with someone special. It's showing how much you really care, and it's shopping.

Marotti looks back on an eventful year

By Christopher Bifani

1986 was a tough year for Michael Marotti, the Mayor of Belleville. The continuing debate over municipal construction proved to be one of the biggest challenges of his political career. He suffered a great loss in his personal life, and the township mourned with him. Soon after, his home was robbed.

Rumor pervaded throughout the year that perhaps His Honor would step down at the end of his term.

But Marotti ended the rumor with a firm announcement at his civic association's annual Christmas Party.

"As of now I'm still a candidate," the Mayor said.

Belleville Times: What accomplishments were you proudest of in 1986?

Mayor Marotti: Stepping forward with new police headquarters and more planned parking for that part of town.

The Board of Commissioners gave the Township of Belleville good service during the year.

BT: What were some other events or trends which highlighted 1986?

MM: A lot of new businesses opened up in Belleville. This shows they have pride in the township. Most of those businesses own lives in town, and they say they're doing well. They could have gone elsewhere, but they chose to remain in Belleville.

Also, road repair. We've been fortunate to get Community Development Block Grants and we've made roads a priority for that funding. It may seem like a piecemeal job, but one by one of the roads are being taken care of.

It's good for the town because it shows we're giving people something back for their taxes. People are hit with town, county, and school taxes.

New roads show them something for their money.

BT: It seems like every other week you're celebrating Belleville.

grand openings with ribbon cutting ceremonies. Did 1986 boast the most grand openings in recent years?

MM: I think it was the most grand openings I've ever done in one year.

BT: What would you like to accomplish in 1987?

MM: Well, I'd like to continue getting our roads updated. Joe J. Commissioner of Public Works Joseph Grandel will give us a priority list of roads to be repaved. We did a batch in 1986 and we'll do another batch in 1987.

BT: What about the roads that aren't scheduled to be repaved right away? Will they be patched?

MM: Joe will get to all of them.

The new budget will allocate money for the roads.

BT: In addition to grants, the town will be spending some of its own money on roads?

MM: Right. And besides working on the roads, we're also relining the water and sewer lines.

BT: Belleville saw a lot of condominium development in 1986. Will this pay off in more revenue for 1987?

MM: Some condos should be paying taxes in 1987. I'd have to check the figures.

BT: Are you looking forward to breaking ground on the new police station next year?

MM: I'm looking forward to the groundbreaking. It's supposed to be in March. I don't know if I'll be doing the first shovelfull. Maybe one of the other commissioners. I don't know.

BT: What's your assessment of Belleville today?

MM: I'm proud to be Mayor of Belleville. Of course we have our pros and cons but in all the people of Belleville are good people. It's a good town.

Before our interview concluded, the Mayor of Belleville revealed his secret for beating the Christmas rush:

"I do all my shopping in Belleville," he said.

Belleville state reps in the news

Spill fund act may also fund toxic waste research

A portion of the money collected from the state's Spill Fund Tax could be used to finance additional types of research under a bill that has won Assembly approval.

The bill, sponsored by Assemblywoman Marion Crecco and cosponsored by Assemblyman John V. Kelly (R-Eves) would authorize the use of monies in the N.J. Spill Fund Compensation Fund for research in methods of source reduction, recycling and detoxification of hazardous substances.

"As it is written now, the Spill Fund Act only allows money to be taken from the fund to finance research on the prevention of spills of hazardous substances in the marine environment and on improved cleanup and removal operations," Crecco said.

"Allowing Spill Fund monies to be used for additional types of research may enable the state to develop a way to reduce the amount of hazardous waste that is generated and reduce or remove the toxicity of the waste that is produced," Kelly said.

The bill, A2536, would not change the existing requirement of the act, which specifies that the money used for research can not exceed the amount of interest earned by the fund in any given year.

The bill was approved 69-1. It now heads to the Senate for consideration.

Reflection

"O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together."

Psalms 14:3

There is something sublime about the beginning of New Year. Perhaps, the past year has been one of misgivings, sorrows, fears and general disappointments. But the fresh beginning of a new year is a promise of unexpected possibilities, hopes and unexplored fields, which should gladden the heart and lift up the soul.

As the new year is toasted, sung and rung into our lives we often pass up on the simple, authentic, precious and quiet dawning — for the mad rush of parties, popping champagne bottles, for high spirits and fireworks. We are left over with some excitement, hangovers, mistakes, accidents and may be disappointments.

There also comes to mind the Midnight Watch Services of yester years, the church bells peeling to ring out the old year and ring in the new. Organ music and the familiar words of "O God Our Help In Ages Past," blessed hugs and whispered prayers.

Another picture is of a quiet family setting, a tray full of fresh baked goodies and spiced tea with loved ones holding hands and the Bible turned to a page and the warm, enveloped feeling of not feeling alone, of being alone, but in the presence of the Lord. This is precious! Anytime the Lord is in our hearts and our midst, it is significant.

This helps us to look forward to the dawn of new beginnings. Start of noble and fine purposes, renewing confidence to face the inevitable circumstances often in our lives. To resolutely approach the work, the responsibilities facing each day, by deciding to do something about it at once — taking one thing at a time and one day at a time!

"We thank you Lord, for your loving presence in our yesterdays, and we pray that you will always abide with us in our tomorrows."

— Anne Marthai

ESTROGEN AND OSTEOPOROSIS

Calcium and exercise build strong bones. But, these alone will not prevent osteoporosis (bone density loss). Research has shown that estrogen, the female hormone, controls the absorption of calcium into the bones. It also stimulates production of calcitonin, a hormone that protects bones. When the body no longer makes much estrogen, the bones cannot absorb and retain calcium. They start losing more bone than they gain, no matter how much calcium is consumed. Bone loss is especially rapid in the first few years after menopause. Women who are at high risk for osteoporosis should consult with their physician about considering estrogen replacement therapy. This therapy will prevent further bone loss.

All prescription needs can be handled at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1968, 759-1956. "Your Doctor Knows Us! Your Doctor Trusts Us!" Last minute gifts are no problem if you see us. Many scientific studies show no link between estrogen replacement therapy and cancer.

More direction to municipalities

Affordable housing council approves proposed rules

The New Jersey Council on Affordable Housing has approved six proposed new rules in addition to its substantive guidelines adopted August 4, 1986. The new proposals offer more direction to municipalities in meeting their constitutional obligation to provide an opportunity for low and moderate income housing.

These proposed new rules deal with rental housing, affordability ranges, bedroom distribution, age restricted units, affirmative marketing and building schedules. The proposals were published in the October 20 New Jersey Register.

While basically the municipalities are allowed to do their own planning, the Council decided to offer some specific guidelines for the towns to meet their affordable housing obligations," said Arthur Kondrap, chairman of the Council of Affordable Housing.

One of the main concerns expressed during the public hearings on the substantive guidelines was the lack of affordable rental housing. To address this issue, the Council proposed a supplemental rule requiring that if a municipality's fair share number, after credits and adjustments and less indigenous need, is 125 or more, the municipality must provide for a rental housing component equal to 20 percent of its fair share obligation in its housing element. The proposal grants municipalities a one and a third credit for each rental unit constructed and occupied in their municipality, however, rental units transferred through a Regional Contribution Agreement continue to be credited on a one-to-one basis. With the builder entitled to get a density bonus (7.8 units per acre with a 15 percent set aside) the rental inclusions developments, rental housing becomes feasible.

On affordability, the proposed new rule says that in their housing elements municipalities shall provide that the average price of low and moderate income units within an inclusionary development is to be affordable to persons at 57.5 percent of the median income for their county; a distribution of prices for every 20 low and moderate income units is given as follows:

Low: 1 at 40, 42.5%; 3 at 42.6-47.5%; 6 at 47.6-50%.

Moderate: 1 at 50.1-57.5%; 1 at 57.6-64.5%; 1 at 64.6-68.5%; 1 at 68.6-72.5%; 2 at 72.6-77.5%; 4 at 77.6-80%.

For bedroom distribution, the proposed new rule provides that of all low and moderate income units, 35 percent, at a minimum, shall be two bedroom units, 15 percent, at a minimum, shall be three bedroom units, and no more than 20 percent shall be efficiency units.

In regards to age restriction, the proposed new rule would read "municipalities may provide that certain units within an inclusionary development be restricted for occupancy to residents who have attained a specified age. Municipalities shall age restrict no more than 20 percent of their fair share obligation as calculated after credits and adjustments have been granted, less any units transferred under a Regional Contribution Agreement." In other words, a municipality cannot restrict its total fair share obligation to senior citizens or any specified age group; only 20 percent can be reserved for a specific age group.

The proposed new rule on affirmative marketing is concerned with occupancy preference, maintenance of an affirmative marketing program, screening applicants, progress reports and exemption.

For example, for all low and moderate income housing units provided in inclusionary developments, municipalities shall establish occupancy such that, initially, not more than 50 percent of these units are to be made available to income eligible households that reside in the municipality or work in the municipality and live elsewhere. Municipalities which do not have a reallocated present and prospective need — primarily the urban areas — shall be exempt from the occupancy preferences and related affirmative marketing program requirements.

The proposed new rule regarding building schedules would allow developers to build 25 percent of the market value units before initiating the low and moderate income units. At 25 percent plus one unit of the market value units, the developer must complete percent of the low and moderate income units. The sliding scale continues until all the affordable housing units are constructed.

1986

1986 was a year The Belleville Historical Society may take special note of. It was the year Belleville really began to turn around.

It was the year when one could motor down Washington Avenue without seeing rows of empty storefronts. The openings that did exist were quickly snapped up, and the township welcomed new businesses to the Avenue — like food, liquor and music shops, to name but a few.

A tremendous influx of new housing and young professionals highlighted 1986. And although traffic congestion (especially in the SoHo district) was an unwelcome side effect, the corresponding influx of ratiabes has brightened Belleville's revenue outlook considerably.

1986 saw some of the township's bleakest roads resurfaced. Even old School 10 received a new coat of blacktop. Announcements of further roadsurfacing projects were made. Infrastructure decay was addressed and made a greater priority in 1986.

Rising crime was Belleville's black cloud of the year. But even that had silver linings: Participation in the crime watch program soared. Support for a new police station grew. Five new Chrysler sedan cars were ordered. It was a year of fighting back. But mostly, it was a resurgence of "Belleville Pride" that made 1986 a banner year for the local history books. At parades, sporting events and even formal social occasions Belleville Pride was always there — a sense that despite political disagreement, there is a consensus.

This town is coming back. The community of Belleville had another source of pride in 1986 — our young people.

An honor student, a classical dancer, an art photographer, a professional actress and a high fashion model were just some of the Belleville-raised young achievers portrayed on the front page of the Belleville Times.

Inside the Times, articles spotlighted the business, school, service, sport and extra-curricular achievements of our youth were too numerous to count — but always a pleasure to print and read.

All of these young achievers (and older achievers too) served as good examples for Belleville's future young achievers. They're the proof: stay in school, get the most out of it, and the sky's the limit!

Perhaps the greatest source of Belleville Pride was found in the wedding stories of 1986. Dozens of times young couples paid our township the highest possible compliment.

They plan to make their home in Belleville.

Impeach Reagan

Some national columnists are suggesting one of the options available to the Congress of the United States to resolve the question of the illegal sale of arms is to impeach President Reagan. The action would give rise to a trial at which time "all the truth would hang out."

Those voices seeking impeachment of President Reagan should be tarred and feathered. History will record that President Reagan ranks with the greatest presidents of the past — Washington, Lincoln, Franklin D. Roosevelt. Reagan came on the national scene at the right time. The spirit of the nation needed to be uplifted. The international scene required America to have as its leader a strong, tough man, respected in the nation, also by our allies — and our enemies. We have such a person in Ronald Reagan.

There is not a single iota of evidence to indicate President Reagan was involved in the arms sale. Until there is evidence to the contrary, we should believe our President. Reagan was the recipient of our trust and confidence for six years — suddenly, we are expected to make a flip-flop, and question the honesty and integrity of the man in the White House. How shameful it is to even suggest such course of action.

And, then, there is our C.I.A. Director, Bill Casey. Hopefully, he will soon recover from the illness which has confined him to a hospital this past couple of weeks. Casey is a man of brilliance and integrity. Suddenly, we are flooded with left-wing columnists suggesting otherwise. We know Bill Casey as an individual who possesses the best character and one of the brightest minds available for public service. It is also a shame that Casey's reputation should be disparaged when there is no proof or evidence to suggest he has failed to keep his oath of office.

The time has come for left-wing columnists, partisan Democrats and misled independents, to determine whether or not, their loyalty to the country doesn't require them to set aside their prejudice and petty thoughts and support people like Reagan and Casey until there is evidence available that would impeach their reputation and conduct — and that will never happen.

In honor of Bill...

To the editor:

I read your editorial of November 26 "Doc Ellis Stadium" and share the same sentiments, just like many others do. The approaching yuletide season would be an ideal time to name the municipal stadium in honor of Bill "Doc" Ellis. Bill gave so much of himself, unselfish ly, for the youth and others of Belleville, always ready to help, guide and advise them. Let's not forget so soon and too soon, all that he did.

I hope and pray that the Town fathers can be instrumental in bringing this about.

Spirit of Scrooge...

To the editor:

Rumor has it, that our leading clergymen have petitioned Ronald Reagan to confer up with some "Christmas aid" for the nation's poor and homeless. "Bah! Humbug!" It will take much more than the exhortations of America's religious community to exorcise that "Spirit of Scrooge," which has far as the poor and homeless are concerned, seems to have permeated every nook and cranny of the Reagan administration.

Free cheese too late...

To the editor:

I was happy to read in the Belleville Times, that the town would be distributing free cheese and butter for the needy.

Since many of the needy people who can benefit from this program are senior citizens, I was equally disappointed when I read that the time for this distribution would take place between 5 and 7 p.m.

Apparently, Commissioner Pizzi never set his clock back, because if he had, he would have noticed that it is pretty dark outside at that time. An elderly person who may be in need of these items will not be able to take part in this program, because they are afraid to be out in the dark, especially with the crime rate what it is today. When it is summer, it is still light out at that time and even then the schedule was never 5 to 7 p.m.

For the convenience of our seniors, why can't these items be distributed at the Senior Citizen Center during the morning or afternoon? Senior Citizens who do not belong to the club would still be able to pick up their commodities there. It is sad that because of poor planning many deserving people will miss out on something they are entitled to.

The midwestern farmers suffering hard times and foreclosures are being rivaled by a new type of more profitable farming burgeoning forth in the Florida Everglades, there alligator farming ranks as one of the state's fastest growing businesses.

One gator grower says, "Look, beef and poultry farmers are in trouble," feeding a pitchock of rotten chicken to a seven foot alligator. "But the gator meat industry is the coming thing."

Golden Comments

James R. Golden

The lizard "look" is in vogue. Masters of fashion flash gator skin purses, shoes and belts. Style doesn't come cheap: cowboy boots of gator skin sell for $1,800 in New York, attache cases retail at $4,000.

Trendy restaurants along the East Coast serve gator meat. Dominique's in Washington, D.C. sells out its sautéed at $12 a plate. Even the Red Lobster seafood chain sees a future for this reptile food. One of their spokesmen points out that "Today's two-income households are looking for more variety. And tourists think it's neat to eat an animal that can eat them."

Katarda has 26 licensed alligator farms double the number four years ago, when they operated as tourist attractions. Last year 37,000 gators were raised. This year that figure will increase by 50 percent. Revenues have soared. One owner nets an estimated $270,000 from the 1,000 animals he harvests annually. Improved technology may increase profits higher. Some farms raise their gators in darkened hothouses that speed their growth.

This business is not for every body, the gator is extremely dangerous and breeding them in captivity requires great skills. Farmers use many experimental methods, including artificial insemination, they rope prize females and tape their jaws shut before insemination, then with sperm from gators trapped in somebody's yard.

Even natural mating offers problems, the larger males often chew up the females. A second mating produces few offspring, only around 15 percent of gator eggs hatch in captivity. Some gator farmers try to snatch the eggs for incubation, using a pole to keep the angry female at bay.

Not yet a major cash crop: Most gator farms still earn considerable revenues from tourists.

Now Congress will take the time, Democrats will take the initiative in 1987 with Reagan's popularity down and the White House preoccupied by the Iran crisis. The last six years Reagan led and Democrats in Congress followed — or lost. Now, the roles have changed. In January Senate and House are expected to approve $18 billion for public water systems. Reagan vetoed similar legislation last October, but he'll lose if he tries again. He is also likely to swallow his qualms about a $135 billion highway bill, next on the docket. Treasury Secretary Baker says he is ready to work with Congress on trade reform. By spring, the House will pass major bill slapping on new import duties and quotas. Senate Democrats will get Republican support for their version directing Reagan to impose milder duties and quotas on certain imports — and tell the President he can take it or leave it.

Conservatives are urging Reagan to show he's in charge by vetoing Democratic initiatives, one by one. Others argue confrontation would weaken political capital he may need to weather the "Irancon" scandal. They want Reagan to show he can make things happen by leading a charge for catastrophic health insurance for the elderly and other bipartisan causes. One matter unlikely to get early attention: Cutting the budget deficit, unpleasant business for both Congress and Reagan.

Reagan will be on a short leash with Congress watching his every move in foreign affairs and the House will attempt to make him reverse his stand breaching SALT II missile limits. Congress won't give more aid to the Contras. The Reagan lame-duck Presidency will no longer set the pace in progress.

Nazziola's rebuttal . . .

To the editor,

About 21 years ago I had the good fortune to have attended a business oriented estate planning seminar at Purdue University. One of the seminar courses was a psychology lecture given by a lady professor who held her doctorate in the subject.

The professor gave the class a premise that was to have a most profound and lasting impact on my life. In essence, what she said was that a person with a positive mental attitude, can take the most negative of situations and make it into an opportunity.

Like the last time someone decided to try to attack me in a letter to the editor, my immediate reaction was not to respond for fear of giving some credibility to the remarks of persons who have no credibility! That last person, who asked that his name be withheld from his letter (I later discovered his identity) also happened to have fit the most of a "would be town critic" whose voice was made silent at the price of a job. The CB has compiled a rather long list of these types.

Someone ought to tell Mr. Montagna that whenever you attempt to discredit another in print, especially at the direction of others, he should first check out their facts! First of all, Frank, the Budget Committee Chairman is not the author of the budget. The authors of the budget are the Sup. of Schools and the Board Secretary/Business Administrator. They prepare all the figures of the budget based on input from all the school principals, the department directors and the maintenance supervisor.

It is the job of the Budget Committee Chairman and his committee to review and ask questions about these figures before the budget is presented to the full Board of Education for approval. In the two years that I served as Budget Committee Chairman I took the budget figures from its two authors and I knocked down a 14 point tax increase to a 7 point increase and reduced a 54 point tax increase to a 26 point increase. Thanks for providing me the opportunity to once again explain one of the reasons for those two years of education budget increases: the fact that a "political deal" was made between the then Board of Commissioners and their political pawns on the Board of Education to go with no increases in both the municipal budget and the school budget because 1983 was a re-election year for the commissioners, and they wanted to brag about no tax increase.

What the then Board of Education did in late 1982 (before I got there in April 1983) was to make the unwise financial move of taking more than $935,000 out of surplus to accomplish a no tax increase budget. This action had an adverse penalty effect on the educational budget cap formula and hence contributed to budget increases in subsequent years.

That $935,000 would have gone a long, long way toward making long overdue repairs at the Middle School or to alleviate the asbestos hazards that exist in most of our school buildings.

I don't know what they did to the town budget or where they got the money from to accomplish the no tax increase budget in 1983, but I can say that we must be paying part of the 39 point municipal tax increase this year because of it!

Now, Frank, so far as the three year teachers contract salary increase percentiles, again, you ought to ask them to give you more accurate data. First of all, you should know that any salary increase in the Belleville Schools is the result of negotiations. Negotiations by the Board of Education's chief negotiator, the Board Attorney. I never served on the negotiating team that negotiated the teachers contracts. As one of seven Board members, we unanimously approved the increases in teachers salaries as negotiated by the Board Attorney, and I would do so again in light of the fact that the teachers deserved it. I believed they deserved it because education happens in the classroom, not in the Board room, and because when inflation was running 11% and 12% for several years the teachers got no double digit salary increases.

And, since you tried to infer a personal motivation for my actions as one of seven Board members, it becomes necessary to make you aware that my son in law was a teacher in the Belleville School System before I even came to Belleville to live. You should be made aware of the fact that my daughter was not a contracted teacher in the Belleville School System while I was a Board member (she was only a substitute because she hadn't decided to take a permanent contracted position yet, and I would not pull strings like some of my fellow Board members had done and are still doing. She became contracted after I left the Board of Education and she got the job on her own merits, not by politics. My son is not a contracted teacher, he is a substitute and therefore not affected by percentile salary negotiations.)

I don't know what partner Mr. Montagna refers to, but neither Vinmar or Orechio or I have been

"screaming" about using School No. 1 as a police station. Perhaps your hearing needs attention or else you would have heard repeatedly at town meetings that we unanimously support proper and full utilization of School No. 1 for municipal offices, and leaving our old town hall for total police use as an alternative to spending $10 million or $5 million of tax payers money.

I must however, commend you, Frank. You used the most suitable three words when you ventured your opinion as to why I was soundly defeated when I ran for re-election: attitude, ego, and downright arrogance. Once again you provide me with an opportunity.

Allow me to explain. Yes, I have the attitude that promotions within an educational system should go to qualified people from within the system and not that we should pay by politics or run to Pennsylvania at the direction of some past superintendent who came from there. I have the attitude that quality teachers are the life blood of a successful education system, not political patronage for political pawns.

Yes, I have the ego to believe that if I worked hard enough and did my homework as a Board member that by sheer preponderance of facts and good common sense, I could turn 6 to 1 votes in 10 to 4 to 3 votes on certain issues, and I did. For example, when Barbara Escobedo proposed a Middle School "dope room" and the want to create an unnecessary administrative position for a certain politically active principal. Which they were just now able to pull off now that I wasn't there to help stop it.

Yes, I also had the downright arrogance to show my private and disgust by voting in private and public sessions to take no part in giving jobs to political pawns without regard for qualifications, or the lack thereof. Especially when I had one Board member call me to tell me that "something was going down" on a particular job appointment because he knew that I had the arrogance to challenge it, and I quickly found out that he too had "something going down" with a planned job appointment for a friend of his political boss and job postings were opened, then closed, then opened again. Unfortunately, both got the jobs, so you'll have to ask the other six Board members how and why it happened.

I guess what was most disturbing to Frank was the fact that I thought you were my friend. You supported me in 1982 when I ran unsuccessfully, and again in 1983 when I was elected. Whenever you had electrical problems in your house, each time you called I came to help you as a friend and neighbor, and your wife always showed her appreciation with coffee and cake.

You didn't support me in 1986 because the candidate you chose to support promised to use his political connections to get you a job on the Parkway. Remember, that was just about the time that you were indicted with those criminal charges? As a friend, I still believed you to be innocent until proven guilty by a jury of your peers. As a friend, I was happy to see that with the right lawyer, in the right county, justice did prevail! I even empathized with you when you engaged in fistfuffs with a town "politico" because he made a comment about you being indicted and then you tried to get back at him by taking it out on his poor little dog—why then to see the Finance Commissioner of the town, who hasn't given an answer of factual substance on any town financial question in years, have at the ready at a public meeting the dog license number and the date of issue of that man's dog!

I really don't understand why you as a taxpayer should be defending the likes of them, that unless they have promised you some kind of town job too.

Frank, when you say the kinds of things that you do, it gives one cause to wonder if, when you made the mistake of antagonizing your ex-neighbor while he had an axe in his hand, that perhaps the axe did more damage than anyone was aware.

Oh, by the way, please extend my appreciation to Mr. Golden for the most complimentary article he wrote about me in the December 4 issue of the Belleville Times. Just to put Mr. Golden's curiosity at ease, I might suggest that he pay the $2 membership and join the CCH and he will be entitled to a copy of our By-Laws and allay some of his concerns.

Transcam. Contragate. whatever you call it, it's got the township talking. Through our "Street talk" inquiring photographer, feature and through numerous letters to the editor, this newspaper has seen and printed a variety of feelings on the issue — one which is likely to become the scandal of the decade.

The controversy first made the pages of The Belleville Times on December 4, with an editorial entitled "Bring on Rodino."

January, 1986

Bifani on...

Belleville

Congressman Peter Rodino (R-N.J.) is one of the most respected statesmen in Congress. Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee. It is in this capacity that he presided over the 1974 Watergate impeachment proceedings which ultimately led to President Richard Nixon's resignation.

Our editorial called for Congressman Rodino who today represents a portion of Belleville thanks to the wonders of redistricting, to move to the forefront of the Transcam investigation.

And now, we're pleased to report, Rodino has moved to the forefront. Back from a trip to the mother country and the 22-year-old, 30-term representative has accepted a position on the House Investigative Panel.

That panel is the umbrella which will consolidate all of the investigative work which has been undertaken by a myriad of congressional committees, including the House Intelligence Committee which Belleville's other congressman, Robert Roe (D-10th) presides on.

In addition to encouraging Peter Rodino to take a more prominent role in the probe, our "Bring on Rodino" editorial further suggested that the probe explore the Meese situation.

Attorney General Edwin Meese III is simultaneously a member of the National Security Council — the agency where the Transcam Contragate mess was first hatched. We found it unusual — to say the least — that Meese should initially investigate an agency he serves on.

Said the editorial: "That in itself presents a potential conflict of interest that should be the subject of a study." Thus, as announced, Mr. Rodino is in for an independent investigation.

According to an article in Essex County's daily newspaper, Rodino is wasting no time delving into the Meese affair.

The Star Ledger's editorial Sunday, December 21, that Rodino is "concerned about the conflicting roles played by Attorney General Edwin Meese III as a top advisor to the president, a member of the National Security Council and an investigator of the affair."

To use a phrase that has become quite popular in Belleville lately — how much did Meese know, and when did he know it? Right now, most of the finger pointing has been in Chief of Staff Donald Regan's direction. But Regan is not a member of the National Security Council. Meese is.

Could Meese have known anything about the Iran Contra operation before it happened, while it happened, or right after it happened? That's what Peter Rodino wants to know. And we're confident that's what Peter Rodino is going to find out.

For six years Edwin Meese has been portrayed as one of President Reagan's closest advisors. If there's one crumb of information he kept from either Reagan or Congress, it'll be one of the heads that roll.

Happy hunting, Peter.

As is the case with every controversial topic in Belleville, the opinion of the citizenry has been divided over Peter Rodino's bloodhound status in the Transcam probe.

While Cher Dobkowski is "sure" of Peter Rodino would give the American people "honest outstanding performance" in the investigations, Michael Giordano feels Rodino is "going for the insight" and that he should be disqualified from the investigation because he has displayed antagonism toward the President.

Regardless of the outcome of Transcam, the bright side is that Belleville has an intriguing opportunity to see both of our federal representatives in action on one of the most critical issues of our time.

It is a drama we are not likely to forget come election time.

Speaking of elections, Belleville's municipal sweepstakes are not far off — about 19 weeks away. 19 editions of the Times. Those 19 editions are sure to be filled with plenty of articles concerning who's running, who's not running, and what the candidates (and non-candidates) are saying.

One prediction: This election will not be a popularity contest. Belleville is at a crossroads, as we've stated so many times before, and anyone seeking a commissioner's post must surely recognize that if he or she wants to win, they've got to have some concrete plans for Belleville's future.

Concrete. A fitting adjective for a township that is literally cracking all over the place.

Not just the roads, either. The sidewalks, the curbs, the school yards, the railroad crossings. Much of Belleville looks like an earthquake hit it, but in reality the blame goes to many years — and many administrations — of neglect.

Take Malone Avenue. Please. The road became an issue when some homeowners complained to the town fathers about "moon surface" conditions prevail there.

I live on Malone Avenue and it's true.

Had I known I was going to find my first Belleville apartment on Malone I would have bought a Jeep instead of a sports car. My suspension is jelly now. I take Division Avenue freshly paved up, and cut over to Malone whenever possible. I'm sure other Malone Avenue residents do the same.

It's a bunch of "Malones" (you know, a cross between malaise and balcony in my opinion). And lots of Belleville streets look like Malones. Many more votes will go to the candidates or incumbents who address the road conditions issue.

Here's a hint for potential commissioners: Don't think the voters are going to be fooled by a repaving program, no matter how ambitious. Voters want quality asphalt work, too. Specifically, voters are going to want urban engineers who pledge to patch up all the roads that are not scheduled to be repaved anytime soon.

Which brings us to other concrete matters, namely curbing and sidewalks. Anyone who knows like I do, that the overriding theme of the next Belleville election is stemming the decline for perceived decline of the township — is going to want to talk curbing and sidewalks.

As one citizen puts it: "We're turning into another Newark. Now anyone who's familiar with Newark knows that the roads, sidewalks and curbing are downright lousy there."

Conversely, Nutley — which some Bellevillites look to as a model community — has better roads, sidewalks and curbing.

One way our commissioners (both present and future) can "curb" our township's decay is to mix some concrete and pour it on.

If a cracked sidewalk is fixed, at least for a while. If it's ignored it will crack more. Prompt attention to infrastructure saves money in the long run. And saves shoe heels in the short run.

Anyone running should take this into consideration. Especially incumbents. Future one broken high heel as one lost vote? Figure one fall and a spilled bag of groceries as a family of lost votes.

And finally, last week I had the pleasure of discussing the Belleville political arena (some would say circus, not me) with a prominent Washington Avenue businessman. What is the major concern he asks commissioner candidates to address?

You guessed it: "Parking."

During our chat I pointed out that the new police station design is a bit spruced up. A more space-saving design (read: rectangular with an oval floor would have yielded more parking space by simply taking up less room. How many more? My own rough sketches reveal at least fifteen.

That's fifteen spots for customers, so

Peace on Earth

Our holiday message to everyone is: May people and nations work together like the teeth in our mouths. God designed each tooth to coexist with others and to achieve more and stronger together.

We know that if we don't feed our teeth properly there will be sickness and eventual loss to a vital member. The strength of togetherness will be weakened. However if we nourish our teeth they'll coexist forever.

May this holiday season bring this nourishment to our fellowman and provide unity and strength for all of us.

For holiday entertaining, try these Grand Union recipes

As the New Year approaches, 'tis the season for holiday parties. Whether you're hosting your own get-together or attending a gathering given by a friend, relative or employer, you can make holiday entertaining a very merry occasion with home-baked desserts made from ingredients available at Grand Union.

Your local Grand Union supermarket offers everything you need to make holiday baking truly a piece of cake. You can select the type of flour that's best for making cakes, crepes, puddings or souffles. You'll also be able to choose from an assortment of dried fruit, nuts, seeds and spices which can make your home-baked creations a real taste sensation.

Grand Union suggests that you purchase the type of flour that's best suited to your recipe's requirements. Since each type of flour responds differently to the addition of liquid and leavening, some varieties of flour are more appropriate for pancakes or bread than for cakes.

To select flours for baking or combining with other flours or grains in recipes, Grand Union recommends that you consider the amount of "gluten" in the flour. Gluten—formed from the protein present in some flours—can create an elastic network in the dough.

For baking cakes and batters, Grand Union suggests that you purchase all-purpose wheat flour, unbleached white wheat flour, cornmeal flour or rice flour. Try to handle the batter or dough as little as possible so as not to activate the gluten. Blended bread, cornmeal, gluten and graham wheat flours, as well as semolina, buckwheat and potato flours, are more suitable for yeast breads than for cakes.

Grand Union advises storing all varieties of flour in tightly closed containers away from heat. Since most whole grain flours contain some or all of the oily germ of the grain, they are perishable. They can be stored at room temperature but are less likely to become rancid if stored in the refrigerator.

The following recipes for Kipfel (Filled Crescents) and Mincemeat Tartlets were both developed in Grand Union's own test kitchens to help you spice up your holiday celebration with some home-baked creations.

Kipfel (Filled Crescents)
 1/2 cup sour cream
 1 tablespoon boiling water
 1 package active dry yeast
 1/2 cup margarine (1 stick)
 2 1/4 cups flour
 2 egg yolks
 1 cup finely chopped walnuts (about 4 ounces)
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten confectioners' sugar
 2 tablespoons margarine (melted)

In small mixer bowl, combine sour cream and boiling water; mix well and stir in yeast. Let stand 3 minutes, then stir until yeast is completely dissolved.

2. Add margarine and 1/2 cup flour and beat on low speed one minute. Add yolks and 1/2 cup flour and beat on medium speed one minute. Scrape beaters.

3. Stir in enough flour (about 1 cup) to make a soft dough, then turn onto lightly floured board and knead 10 minutes, adding remainder of flour as needed. Do not use more than a total of 2 1/4 cups flour. (Dough will not be smooth.) Divide dough into 6 equal pieces, wrap and chill at least 2 hours, or up to 4 days.

4. When ready to shape and bake, make filling by combining walnuts, sugar and vanilla. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and set aside.

5. Dust board with confectioners' sugar and roll each piece of chilled dough into a 9-inch circle. Cut each circle into 12 pie-shaped wedges and top the wide end of each wedge with about 1/2 teaspoon filling. Loosely roll as you would a crescent roll (from wide end to point) and place on greased baking sheet with points underneath.

6. Brush with melted margarine and bake at 375 degrees about 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove from baking sheet onto wire rack to cool and immediately sprinkle with confectioners' sugar while still warm. Makes 6 dozen cookies. Note: These cookies can be frozen.

Mincemeat Tartlets

2 cups flour
 2 tablespoons sugar
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
 2 1/2 cup margarine
 4 1/2 tablespoons cold water
 3/4 cup mincemeat

1. Combine flour, sugar, salt and lemon rind. Cut margarine into flour mixture until dough is texture of cornmeal. Sprinkle water over mixture and blend quickly with fork.

2. Roll out pastry as thin as possible (about 1/8 inch) and cut tartlets with a 3-inch cookie cutter. Place a generous teaspoon of mincemeat on half the cutouts, top with the other cutouts and pinch edges together.

3. Arrange tartlets on cookie sheet and prick tops with a fork so steam can escape. Bake at 375 degrees until delicately brown, 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 18 3-inch tartlets.

Color

is beautiful but black and white prints much better. You'll be happier with the results. Your photograph can easily take a black and white print for newspaper purposes, but tell him you need one BEFORE he comes to the church.

Religious Viewpoints

Webster, in his dictionary, defines the word counterfeit as "that which is made in imitation of something, with a view to deceive."

A counterfeit is something which poses as and appears to be the real thing, but when scrutinized is worthless.

There are counterfeit substitutes in many different areas. There is the fool's gold which looks like the real thing, there is counterfeit money, there are man-made diamonds made of cut glass, but when examined by a gem specialist they would be scoffed at compared to a true diamond, there are counterfeit art productions, and on and on.

One who peddles counterfeit wares is always seeking to pawn his merchandise off on someone else for his own benefit. Sad to say, the greatest area of counterfeit is in the issues of life and eternity where Satan, the eternal enemy of man's soul, is ever seeking to pass a counterfeit substitute for the true work of God and Jesus Christ.

In St. John's chapter two, we have a most unusual and frightening experience. A group of people had seen and been attracted to the miracle working power of Jesus Christ. Impressed with this miracle worker, the Bible says they believed on His name, gave intelligent assent to Jesus' claim that He was without sin, and they saw the necessity of a heart commitment when they saw the miracle that Christ did. However, notice the staggering statement which follows: "But Jesus did not commit himself to them for He knew what was in man." What a tragedy is herein declared in this case. They were believers intellectually, but Christ apparently was not their Lord and Saviour. Why was this the case?

These people were anxious to identify with a movement of amazement which was gaining public momentum. They were anxious to be with someone who always was amazing them with supernatural feats but unconscious of the pressing need of receiving the Lord Jesus Christ as Lord to be a vessel to honor, glorify, and magnify Christ's name. There apparently was not a serious, genuine life commitment and recognition of their need of a spiritual deliverer to cleanse their sins and change their lives. (Romans 1:16) They wanted someone who would turn life into a world of fantasy away from all the realities and burdens of life.

There are those who believe the biblical facts of Christ's sacrificial death, burial and resurrection, and yet fail to make a definite personal decision to invite the Lord Jesus Christ to come into the life. See St. John 1:12. There is a distinction between a mental assent and an act of the will.

A counterfeit salvation means you have substituted the replica for the reality and will bear the eternal loss of a worthless experience. If there is any question in your mind whether your conversion is valid or genuine, you must settle it before you reap the eternal loss of a counterfeit conversion. (2nd Timothy 1:12) (2nd Corin. 5:17).

Buc Shots

It's time for the annual Christmas wishes to our friends in town. Before I begin, may I wish everyone a very happy and prosperous holiday season.

To Don Roll, may this season be the start of good things to come for you and your basketball team. It's been a long time since we've had a winning record and this year's team could break that streak.

To Rich Buffalo, may you continue your marvelous athletic accomplishments and teach those more fortunate than you that life should be enjoyed to the limit.

To Karen Fuccello, may that 6.3 freshman center arrive at Belleville High in time for the NNJIL schedule.

To my wife, Carol, may our second Christmas together be followed by 50 more.

To Joe Papasidero, may you never lose your enthusiasm for the youth in Belleville.

To George Zanfina, ditto.

To John Senekes, may everyone appreciate what a fine coach and gentleman you are. Certainly your record speaks for itself.

To Grace Worley, another season like 1986, except this time a trip to the state finals.

To Sam Giuffrida, continued good health and prosperity to you and your family.

To Rocco Colucci, the hope that you are enjoying your new venture and that you and your family are well.

To Chris Lawlor, may your talents finally get to the Super Bowl.

And once again, may this holiday season be everything you've wanted it to be and more.

Boys and Girls Hoops

Both teams were beaten in its season openers by Ridgewood in both cases, but the feeling of optimism remains high on both squads. The boys gave a good offensive performance, but were matched against a very good team and made critical mistakes at inopportune times. Missed layups and crossed up assignments certainly did the team in, but there is a long season ahead.

For the girls, it was a 53-34 loss at Ridgewood, but considering the obstacles presented the team, it could have been a lot worse. The teams top scorer of a year ago, Judy Nehila, missed the game with a bad case of the flu. Another top performer, Simone Edwards, played but was not her usual self due to a recent battle with the flu. The girls also missed 14 foul shots, 19 when you consider that five of the misses came on the front end of one in one situations. Last season, the foul shooting was a definite obstacle in the teams' success. If the girls can improve on that category, you should see a marked improvement.

Free Agency Lunacy

Did you hear the absolutely ridiculous comment made by Detroit Tigers pitcher Jack Morris in regard to the "snub" he received from the major league teams that he is interested in signing with Morris met with George Steinbrenner, the famous Yankee owner, last week to discuss a contract with the pitching poor Yanks. Morris has claimed collusion by the owners in not signing free agents to new teams or matching offers made by the players 1986 team.

Anyway, Morris, after it appeared that the Yanks could not, or would not, match the figure said to reporters that he now understood what Jackie Robinson must have gone through 40 years ago. Are you kidding, Jack? How can you possibly compare your situation with that of Robinson. Morris is a pitcher who has been offered in excess of a million dollars a season by the Detroit Tigers to throw a baseball for them, but he feels that's not enough and thus wants the chance for free agency.

Because the owners choose not to sign him and he has to remain with his current team, he makes a ridiculous comment about his situation in comparison with Robinson. I doubt seriously back in 1947 that Robinson was concerned about making a million dollars a year or who his agent was. More importantly, Robinson probably feared for his safety and well being in becoming the first black player in the major leagues. This man, Robinson, made a stand and exhibited courage beyond belief in playing for the Brooklyn Dodgers. For Morris to even indicate that his situation resembles Robinson's in any way is a disgrace.

One more word on this free agency game and high priced contracts. When a player decides that a million dollars a season, and I'm not referring just to Jack Morris, is not enough, or isn't "market" value, he has to make you cringe. These guys are making unbelievable salaries to play a sport, albeit a tough sport, but nonetheless, something that those less talented play for fun and enjoyment. Someone is losing touch with reality when a professional athlete can complain about his salary and claim he is just trying to earn his keep. Tell that to a family of four, average gross salary, $50,000.00, with a mortgage and two cars, trying to provide for his or her family. That's what life is about.

Athlete of the Week

Give it to Chris Goldrick of the boys' basketball team. He scored 10 points in the opener and shot 4 for 4 from the foul line.

Last Weeks Quiz

The last NFC team to win the title game on the road was the Los Angeles Rams in the 1979 season. The Rams defeated upstart Tampa Bay, 9-0 and went on to the Super Bowl, where it lost to Pittsburgh, 31-19. The coach of the 79 Rams was Ray Malavasi.

For This Week

Name the last team in the NFL to win 14 regular season games, but not win the Super Bowl.

Wrap Up

Next week, a look at the Belleville wrestling team, who opened up its regular season last Tuesday against Tappan. Also, the annual New Years story, with a look at what could happen over the next 12 months. Good luck to the boys and girls' basketball teams in the holiday tournaments.

B-ball Bucs drop opener to Ridgewood, 78-59

By Mike Lamberti

Despite losing its opening contest to Ridgewood, there is still room for optimism as the Belleville boys' basketball team begins the 1986-87 campaign.

The Bucs battled Clifton last Monday and will take part in the Tri County Holiday Tournament this weekend. The Bucs will battle the Queen of Peace, starting at 6:30 p.m. on Friday night at Kearny High. The other game in the tourney features Kearny and North Arlington in an 8 p.m. tip off. The winners and losers meet in the championship and consolation games respectively on Saturday night. The consolation game starts at 6:30 and the title game commences at 8. The Bucs will then take a short break, continuing play on Tuesday January 6 against NNJIL rival Bloomfield on the road. Game time there is 7:30 p.m.

Belleville lost its opener to Ridgewood 78-59 before a good sized crowd at Belleville High. The loss spoiled the debut of the coach Don Roll, but the new mentor remained quite optimistic about the season.

We made some mistakes out there," the coach said, "but we can correct them. They (Ridgewood) were a very good team. That club will be one of the better teams in the NNJIL (Bergen Division). We made some good runs, but mental mistakes hurt us."

You knew the team was in trouble during the pre-game warm ups. The Bucs in their enthusiasm and adrenalin, were cited for a technical foul by the official for attempting a dunk during the layup drill. Ridgewood converted the free throw before a tick of the clock expired and took the ball out of bounds to start play.

The Bergen County school converted a jumper to "start" the game and Ridgewood led, 3-0. Belleville came back on a Leon Puentes' jumper to make it 3-2. But Ridgewood tallied the next 10 points to pull ahead. Belleville did get as close as five points at the end of the first quarter, when Chris Goldrick converted two free throws to end the period.

With a 17-12 lead, Ridgewood entered the second quarter with exuberance. After the teams traded baskets to start the second frame, Ridgewood tallied five straight points and later, outscored Belleville, 10-5 in a two minute drive. The big second frame, in which Ridgewood outscored Belleville, 24-12, put the visitors in a commanding position 41-24 at intermission.

Ridgewood boosted its lead to 51-30 in the third quarter, but Belleville began a spirited comeback which saw the team tally eight straight points before a Ridgewood timeout. In the spree, Ted Suchaski hit a jumper. Puentes tallied two layups and Goldrick converted a layup to cut the deficit to 13 points, 51-38.

"That was as close as the Bucs would get, however, and when a Ridgewood player converted a 35 foot shot at the third period buzzer to boost the count to 57-40, it appeared the momentum was back in Ridgewood's corner."

The final frame saw Ridgewood outscore the Bucs, 21-19 and win the game by 19 points. Belleville did receive a good offensive performance from Suchaski, who finished with 22 points, hitting nine field goals and going 4 for 4 from the foul line. Suchaski was stymied in the first half, scoring just six points at intermission. However, the junior forward picked up steam in the final half and finished as the Bucs high scorer. Puentes closed with 11 points on the night and Goldrick finished with 10. Both Puentes and Goldrick were perfect from the foul line, with Goldrick hitting 4 for 4.

The rest of the scoring saw Bob Hutchison finish with seven points, Steve Schwed, four, Frank Morrell and Dominick Straface, two and Chris Chiarmonte, one.

All told, Belleville was 11 for 14 at the foul line, a good percentage. The Bucs received good performances from Schwed, a junior, who used his athletic ability to create offensive opportunities and Chiarmonte, who was tough underneath the boards. Hutchison's jump shot was on target in the first half and he should continue to regain his touch as the year progresses.

The Bucs will look to regroup against Clifton and make a strong run at the Tri County Holiday Tourney. As for Ridgewood, it was just one game. Time will tell if it had a lasting impression.

B-bal Buccanettes lose to Ridgewood 53-34 in disappointing season opener

You could point to a few reasons as to why the Belleville girls' basketball team lost its opener at Ridgewood last Friday night. However, the most glaring figure is something that haunted the team last year and has to be corrected as this season progresses.

The girls battled Clifton last Monday on the road. On Friday night, the team travels to Queen of Peace High School for a first round contest in the Tri County Holiday Tourney. The girls will battle the host school in a 6:30 p.m. start. Kearny and North Arlington will battle in the second game. The consolation and championship games of the tourney are set for Saturday night, at 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. respectively. Next Monday, or possibly Tuesday, the girls are slated to play Harrington, on the road. Game time is set for 1:30 p.m. As of press time, the day of the game was not set, so check one of the daily newspapers for further information. Next Saturday, January 3, the girls will battle Columbia, away, at 1:30 p.m.

Last season, poor foul shooting was a key reason why Belleville lost some close games. In last Friday's opener, that stat came back to haunt the team again. For the record, Ridgewood won, 53-34, and it doesn't take a mathematician to figure out that Belleville lost by 19 points.

Now consider the fact that Belleville missed 14 foul shots and five of those, misses were from the front end of one in one situations. That's 19 points. "Free bees," according to coach Karen Fuccello and you're not going to win games against good teams without hitting those shots.

"Did we miss that many?" said Fuccello in reviewing the stats last weekend. "That's just a loss of concentration. Those shots have got to fall. Their free shots, no one is covering you, it's just you and the basket."

The girls entered the game at a slight disadvantage. The flu bug has made its presence felt at Belleville High, and consequently, Judy Nehila, the teams top scorer of a year ago, missed the game. Simone Edwards, a sophomore with excellent ability, played, but was at three quarters speed, just starting to get over the flu.

"Judy has been out all week," Fuccello said of Nehila. "Simone was sick earlier and is starting to get better. But she was not at her regular pace."

Ridgewood jumped out early, taking a 12-4 lead after one frame and boosting the margin to 28-10 at intermission. Belleville played a much better second half, battling to a near draw.

On the night, Laurie Donarski, a sophomore guard, led the Belleville effort with 11 points. Edwards picked up steam in the second half and finished with seven. Junior Raequel Nelson, coming off knee surgery last summer, played well and scored six points. Freshman Stacy Johansen scored six points in her varsity debut. Maria Longobardi and Laura Caruso finished with a field goal each.

Belleville was 4 for 18 from the foul line, with Johansen hitting two of the four foul shots. Defensively, Belleville played pretty well against a good team, but Fuccello noted there is more work to do.

"Defense is not just playing," the coach said, "it's stopping the other team and making things happen. We played pretty well on defense, but we've got to stop making mistakes when we have a chance to make a run."

Fuccello and Company can only hope that the next few games will get the team back on stride, before the tough NNJIL schedule that awaits in January.

Byers and Bundy are in the limelight

Seniors Matt Byers (Westerville, North) and Bryan Bundy (Cincinnati, Finneytown) received most of the limelight at Ohio Wesleyan University recognized men's soccer players with national regional, state or team honors at the squad's annual awards banquet recently.

Byers, a midfielder, was honored as a second-team All-America pick as well as earning first-team All-Mideast (Division III schools), All-Ohio (all divisions) and All-North Coast Athletic Conference honors. Byers was also an Adidas Academic All-America and All-Mideast choice as well as an All-Ohio Academic selection. In addition, he will represent Ohio Wesleyan at the Senior Bowl on Dec. 20 in Orlando, Fla., the first time a Bishop player has been chosen for the select game.

Bundy, a forward, earned first-team All-America honors as well as first-team All-Mideast, All-Ohio and All-NCAC laurels. He also won the Carl Dale Awards as the outstanding offensive player in Ohio, marking the first time that a player has repeated as the award's recipient. Bundy was also the NCAC's Offensive Player of the Year, shared team Most Valuable Player honors, and set Bishop season and career records for goals and points scored.

Senior midfielder Thomas McNamara (Garnerville, N.Y., Albertus Magnus) was Ohio Wesleyan's third All-America selection, earning second-team honors. McNamara was also a first-team All-Mideast, All-Ohio and All-NCAC choice, and shared team MVP honors with Bundy.

Other All-Ohio honorees were senior midfielder Jeff Graham (Cincinnati, Indian Hill), a second-team pick as well as a second-team All-NCAC choice, and senior forward Ken Hyland, a former Raider standout and junior forward Charlie Blanchard, who were honorable mention selections. Both were also honorable mention All-NCAC picks.

Ohio Wesleyan finished the season at 20-3. The Bishops won the NCAC title and the Great Lakes Regional and were ranked No. 1 in Division III when they were upset in the quarterfinals of the NCAA tournament by Messiah (Pa.).

Tracksters begin competition

The Belleville indoor track team began competition last Monday night at the East Stroudsburg Invitational. John Tusato's team will compete in various invitational throughout the winter in preparation for the outdoor campaign.

The Bucs next race will be on December 31 at the Elizabeth Relays, starting at 9:30 p.m.

"We have a good group of sprinters," said Tosato. "We have new people coming out of the team, which is good. This is the time for them to learn the sport and get in shape."

There are six shot putters on the squad this winter. Returning are Jon Paul Lenczuk and Anthony La Vista. Gerard Corbo and Mike Dornier are new to the indoor program. Dawn Cotter and Stacy Mc Carthy will be throwing for the girls program.

The sprinters are Mario Lemongello, Charlie Gerris, Jerry Padula, Mike Di Biasi and Jay Marchese. Sprinting for the girls will be Erica Townes, Samantha Cotter and Michele Compitiano.

The middle and long distance runners will be Craig Burden, Greg Moriello, Dave Rosamilia and John Zurlo. Burden, an outstanding cross country and track performer, is new to the indoor program after competing for basketball—the last three winters.

Joyce Luongo and Diane Di Vincenzo will handle middle to long distance duties for the girls team. Donna Lee Daudelin is nursing an injury and will probably not be available until later in the season.

Bob Scheible will compete in the hurdles, as he prepares for the outdoor campaign.

Tosato is assisted by Barbara Gundry, a former Belleville runner and basketball player. Gundry, in her second year as assistant coach, will work with the runners and sprinters.
