Concerned Citizens leaders consider commission seats

By Christopher Bifani

While Belleville's five incumbwhile Believille's five incimb-eue commissioners prepare-their own re-election campaigns, their most outspoken critics - the leaders of the Concerned Citizens of Bel-leville - are considering campaigns to place themselves in commission-er chairs.

From outright denials less than a month ago, to cries of "no com-ment" last week, some of the CCB leadership appear to be leaning toward an election bid, including group president Vincent Fran-tantoni and vice president Gabriel Nazziola

Vincent Frantantoni?

Frantantoni told the Times "No comment" when asked outright if he was considering a commission candidacy. However, one of his would-be backers, Sammy Papa, has already declared his intent to Papa told the Times, "I'm trying to coax Vinnie to run. I know alot of people who would vote for him. I would throw my support his way. Papa added that as a former president of the Bridgebrook Garden Apartments Tenants Associa-tion he still controls "a few votes in this town.

Gabriel Nazziola?

Nazziola said he would "love to give the commissioners a run for their money" but added that money itself is the obstacle.

"It takes at least $10,000 to mount a successful campaign in this town," Nazziola said. The former school board member was defeated in a school board reelection bid last year. In addition to serving as CCB vice president, Nazziola is a trustee of the Belleville Redevelop-ment Agency, a group which is currently trying to entice develop-ers to build projects in the township.

Joseph Desaro?

Also on the Belleville Redevelop ment Agency, although not so heavily involved with the Concerned Citizens, is Joseph Dasaro, owner of Belleville Travel Agency. Dasaro mounted a bid of his own during the last commission election, but was soundly defeated, Dasaro agreed with Nazziola's assessment that $10,000 is the rough amount needed to embark on a serious campaign. So is he running or not?

Five challengers already

"I have no idea yet," he replied, "but I'll tell you this: Dasaro never says never." He did, however, say he would not run as recently as two months ago.

months ago. Opinions of various "insiders" differ as to the vulnerability of the incumbents. Many say that the commission form of government (which is rapidly disappearing from the political horizon, but still going strong in Belleville) allows incumb-ents to huld observe and surgest accurate ents to build strong support groups "It's like five little dictatorships," one Bellevillite remarked.

Most campaign watchers agree on one thing - Mayor Michael Marotti is not in any danger. Said one long-time Belleville voter: "He has the biggest civic association, he controls the most votes."

Others see the two youngest members of the commission as being vulnerable, Commissioner of Public Safety Ralph DiRuggiero and Commissioner of Health and Welfare Michael Pizzi.

Pizzi and DiRuggiero are first term commissioners.

That assessment, however, is not unauanamous. Other campaign watchers insist that it's the veteran commissioners, Joseph Grande and Joesph McGreevey who are the most inheraphe the most vulnerable. Still others believe the incumbsint others believe the incumo-ents make for a formidable voting bloc that's all but insumountable. Said Jackie Rega, a longtime township political strategist, "Give me somebody to run against them. There's nobody out there that can mount a campaign." mount a campaign.

But as of February I, there were five challengers who had taken out petitions of election. See this week's Golden Comments (page 4) for the names

The last day for candidates to file petitions of nomination is March 19. Potential candidates must be residents of the township for at least one year and be registered to Road warriors...

After last month's heavy back to back snowfalls, the Belleville Department of Public Works roadpatching crew was out in force doing their best to mend township roads

In addition, to years of wear and tear, our roads also take a beating from the salt, ice and melting snow that comes with winter, D.P.W. officials say.

The road patch process begins with clearing the pothole of debris and wetness. Next, workers apply hot tar for adhesion and then the blacktop (pictured center).

Before the asphalt is pounded in it is raked smooth to match the grain of the road.

Whether or not the Belleville D.P.W. is winning the road war is open to debate. Several township roads were patched or repaved last year and more are scheduled to be repaved this year. However, many more roads are in serious disrepair

Identity crisis: Name this town

With a population of nearly 40,000, Belleville is one of the largest and most densely populated townships in New Jersey. It is located near the Turnpike, the Parkway, the Skyway, and Routes 3, 17, and 280. Route 21 runs right through town.

We're home to the Essex County Geriatrics Center, Clara Maass Medical Center, and a popular public golf course. We're adjacent to the largest city in the state. So how come so many people have never heard of us?

have never heard of us? Last week I visited the newsroom of the Gothic Times, student news-paper of Jersey City State College. This is where I got my start in journalism, working my way up to editor-in-chief in the fall of 1983. One of the kids on the paper, himself hoping to break into com-mercial journalism, said he was impressed that a former Gothic Times editor had become a commercial newspaper editor in such a short period. He looked over the Belleville Times copy I had brought with great interest. "But where's Belleville?" he asked. Now, if we were in South Jersey somewhere I could understand this kid's lack of geographic savvy. But only one little town - Kearny seperates Jersey City from Bellevil-

Funny thing is, that college kid isn't the only one. Lots of people, nearby people, don't know there's such a thing as a Belleville. My girlfriend, for example. Until began working as a report-er for the Belleville Times 11 months ago she'd never been through or heard of - our township. Like me she's originally from the Like me, she's originally from the Hackensack area of Bergen, the next county over, and only about 12 miles away.

The since educated her about our location. Now that I've made my home here she visits often enough and Lord knows I've dragged her to enough dinners and functions.

enough dinners and functions. Friends of mine from Bergen County were equally oblivious of Belleville. When I told them last year that I landed a job with the Belleville Times, they thought I was writing for a hospital newsletter. "Not Bellevue - BelleVILLE!" I Dearded pleaded.

But that's a conversation I'm sure all Bellevillites have had to endure at one time or another.

Thankfully, however, there is some municipal recognition at the end of the tunnel. Belleville has successfully resisted the blight and deterioration that has plagued oth-er Newark neighbors during the sixties and seventies and that has translated into a good reputation for the township.

Belleville is a sports town, from Little League to bowling leagues, nothing gets us going like good sportsmanship and a solid team to cheer.

In 1986 Belleville had plenty of good teams to cheer. Our high school baseball, softball, football and volleyball squads were all league champs. But 1987, it seems, belongs to the BHS wrestlers. Undefeated in 10 straight meets this year, the squad has so far met with only one hard-fought loss, a 27-19 upset against Cedar Ridge this past Friday night. That loss, however came hot on the heels of a 48-13 romp over Hack-ensack last Wednesday night and was followed by a 55-9 drubbing delivered to Nutley on Saturday.

So even in a week which included the varsity squad's only loss yet three opponents combined could only manage 49 points. The wrestling Buccanneers, on the other hand, dished out 130 points that same week.

What this leads up to, of course, is the Essex Wrestling Tournament, being held tomorrow night and Saturday in neighboring New-ark, at Rutgers' Golden Dome

With several more weeks left before the filing deadline for potential commission candidates, there is already a field of five challengers and all five incumb-

More would-be commissioners are expected to announce their campaigns this month as Belleville's most exciting election in years begins to heat up. Voter apathy is not likely to be a factor in this election, as more and more townspeople become aware of the critical juncture Belleville is at.

As most Times readers know, the township is at a crossroads between decline and renewal and it will take far more than campaign rhetoric to ensure that we choose the right path.

In the fifteen weeks which remain before we cast our ballots, we call on our incumbents and candidates to deal us an issue oriented campaign. Instead of stale promises, give us fresh ideas.

The commissioners we elect in May are the ones who will lead us into the 1990's, the decade when Route 21 is scheduled to be completed and a new era for Belleville begins.

It's not a time for the same old status-quo, or business as usual at Town Hall. It's a time for aggresive marketing of our township's good points (location, location, and location - as realtors like to say) and equally agressive elimination of our township's bad points.

And that's where the issues are. Belleville's crime rate is rising not as fast or as bad as other gymnasium. And what a tourney it will be!

Belleville, with three top-seeded wrestlers, has a good chance of winning its fourth Essex tournament in 11 meets. But there will be many other Essex teams with similar hopes and powerful squads.

Head Wrestling Coach Joseph Nissivoccia is leading the BHS squad into what promises to be one of the most exciting wrestling events this season, one that should bring Belleville's sports fans to Rutgers in droves.

For a thorough look at BHS wrestling action, see the Times sports section this week, where sportswriter Joe Piegaro provides a detailed preview to the big meet. If you haven't been following the fortunes of the Belleville Buccanneers wrestling squads (jayvees are solid winners, too) why not take look this week?

The Belleville Times wishes the wrestling Bucs the best of luck in tomorrow night's Essex Wrestling Tournament, and we encourage the townspeople to turn out in force to root for our championship-bound team.

Townspeople must remember that the Commissioner of Public Works is the roads commissioner. Every pothole, crack, and broken sidewalk is piled up on his desk.

Voters must, and surely will, look carefully at the records of our police and roads commissioners over the last four years and will listen carefully to their plans for improving both of these areas during the next four years. Challengers, meanwhile, hoping to assume one of these two key commission posts after winning a seat in the election, will no doubt have plans of their own for fighting crime and fixing roads.

And the same goes for other commission posts and other issues. Bellevillites must, and surely will, want to know what's to be done with our parks, our finances, our trees, our litter, our housing stock, our water, our classic Town

What we as a community must gain from the upcoming town election are five commissioners who have the vision to plan, prepare and lead the township of Belleville into the 1990's. We must elect five men of integrity, wisdom and diplomacy who can position this town for the prominence it deserves

Because that's the real issue.

No minute of silence... To the editor:

To the editor. The State of New Jersey does not need a "minute of silence" in the schools. I am a religious person and go several times a week to my house of worship. However, I feel that school is for getting an education and that religious instruction and/or observations of any kind should not be held in exhect held in school.

Students are in school for less than 7 hours a day. They can pray or meditate before school, after school, or on weekbefore school, arer school, or on week ends. They may even say an unnoticed, short, and silent "prayer" whenever they get the urge — such as just before a major math test. School is for an education. A Religion should be "taught" elsewhere.

With the advent of the New Year, there is some old business that I feel should be considered and resolved. I am referring to the naming of the stadium to "Doc Ellis Stadium."

It should be an interesting in-duction of our Belleville Times editor Mr. Bifani into the machination and intrigue of Belleville's election intensity with a high volumn of campaign state-ments and ads of the various can-didates to keep him busy.

didates to keep him busy. Belleville politicians tenaciously cleave to Commission government — what we regard as ourmoded, devoid of centralized responsibility and lacking regionalized direct representation, because it places power in entrenched select groups that create dynasties which collec-tively control the outcome of most local elections.

We conclude that a better form would have Mayoral candidates running head to head with a runoff, if necessary. That there be four Council persons elected at-large, that the Township be divid-ed into five regional Wards ed into five regional Wards.

This, of course, is but a thought for the future, but it does seem to be a modern improvement over an antiquated system of government that goes back to the turn of the that goes back to the turn of the century and lacks strong executive power and leadership. . a trium-virate of three commissioners, by banding together, can run the en-fire township legally as a majority bloc, which is not conducive of good representative democratic covernment. government.

We have begged you to write' your Senators and Congress per-sons expressing your opposition to the darn telephone access charge now 52 a month) they add on your phone bill so you can make-cals outside your area, whether, you use it or not, so that long distance calls by business and cor-porations can be kept low. Why should the little users of the phone pay to make cheap calls for business?

Now they're planning to raise the access charge to $3 a month, whether used or not, you'll be pay-ing $36 a year for something you may never use. It's rotten and only Congress can stop it because the FCC has the sole power to set these charges at this time and only Congress can end that authority. It is most serious and will happen, if the people don't band together to demand that our Congress-representatives don't permit it. y it's a rip-off that has already cost a 40 percent increase in phone rates and will go higher if Congress doesn't put their foot down. If you don't want to get "robbed" $364 as year for nothing spend 22 cents for a stamp to tell the people in Congress, who beg you every time at election to vote for them, that you demand their vote' now to eliminate this damn "access charge" by only charging it when actual out of area phone calls are made — NOT when we don't use

Grand Union suggests that you start with a pot large enough to hold water three times the volume of the pasta to be cooked. Add the pasta to the boiling water gradually so that the water will continue to boil the water will continue to boil briskly. you in 1982? Let's do a little reminiscing. Back in 1982, as sophomore named Jennifer Apicella had broken the 1,000 point mark for the Belleville girls' basketball team, en route to a record setting career. In 1982, the Belleville girls' crew team won the first of three national championships with a boat comprised of six freshman, a sophomore and a junior. The football team beat Passaic, 3-2, in that memorable game at Municipal Stadium. On the antional scores scores the Milanukae Resumes mark

The Brewers eventually lost the World Series to St. Louis. The Mets were a last place ball club back then, so were the Giants in the NFL. In 1982, the Belleville baseball team finished the season with a 12-11 record. Pazzini, Joe Murphy and Eugene Cancelliere, were an injury plagued group that kept its spirit and posted a winning record. 1962 was also the last season for one George Zanfini, who announced his retirement as Belleville baseball coach. Zanfini, who coached the team for eight seasons, had posted a phenominal record, but felt it was time to step down. Now, five years later, George Zanfini is back as head baseball coach at Belleville High School, replacing the man who replaced him in 1983, Ralph La Conte. The Belleville Board of Education elected Zanfini over La Conte for the post.

post. Zanfini's second tour of duty ends a four year reign for La Conte, who posted an impressive 62-45-5 record during his tenure. La Conte's mark over the past three years was 54-28-4 and last season, he guided the Bucs to a 20-11 mark, highlighted by an appearance in the Greater Newark Tourney finals. "I hope to have a meeting with all involved in the program this week, so everything will be worked out by the team the season starts (in early March)."

Zanfini first assumed the role as head coach in the spring of 1975, guiding that club to a 14-10 record. The highlight of the 75 campaign was a 4-1 loss to Irvington, in a game played at Belleville High School in May. Irvington came into the game undefeated and ranked number one in the state. The two clubs

Ir-vington tied the game in the sixth inning and the clubs went toe to toe for the next eight innings, before Irvington talled three runs in the 14th inning to win the game. Zanfini would later say that the Irvington contest was the most memorable of his coaching career, even though his team had lost. However, in 1981, a game with Bloomfield in the semi finals of the GNT changed his thinking. In this game, Belleville and Bloomfield played a 12 inning affair on a hot afternoon in Verona, with the winner going to the finals the afternoon in Verona, with the winner going to the finals the

"The final game of the '82 season is one that I'll always remember," Zanfini said last week. "We beat Nutley, 6-3, and the win gave us a winning season. Those kids went through a lot that year, what with the injuries and some pitching problems. Everyone stuck together."
While Zanfini enjoyed reminiscing about the good times of another era, he is equally, happy about the prospects for the 1987 baseball season at Bélleville High.
"We have a lot to do before the first practice," he said.
"There's scheduling and physicals. I want to meet with all the kids and discuss what I want to do this year."
The Bucs open the season on April 1, at Hackensack. The NNAIL schedule is something that is new to Zanfini and the coach admits he feels like a rookie.
"When I left, we were still an independent," the coach said.
"T've never gone up against the Hackensack's, Ridgewood's and Paramus's. I remember the great rivalries with Nutley, Bloomfield and Montclair, but there are a lot of new teams on the section." the schedule

Zanfini is busy scheduling the remaining teams on the '87 slate, but has already locked up games with Caldwell and West Essex. He would like to get Kearny back on the schedule

But Schaughneesy led the way with 21 points. Last Friday night, the Bucs won a hard fought battle with Bloomfield, 69-60. This was a game loaded with fouls, as witnessed by Belleville's 40 foul shots attempted.

The game was also one of changing momentum as Bloomfield gathered an early lead, then lost it to a furious Belleville rally in the second and third periods

The Bucs came out cold in the first frame and Bloomfield, with some good outside shooting, forged a 17-8 lead after one quarter

In the second quarter however, the Bucs came back. Down 19-10, Belleville came back on a Sochaski jumper and two free throws by Chris Goldrick. On the play in which Goldrick was fouled, a Bloomfield player was assessed a technical foul and Belleville got another foul shot attempt which

Hutchison converted. The technical was particulary big because it gave Belleville the ball back after Hutchison's shot and Sochaski quickly hit a bank shot to cut the lead to 19-17. With the momentum back in Belleville's favor, the Bucs tied the game at 19 on a Sochaski jumper. After Bloomfield scored a go ahead basket, the last time the Benerals would lead in the the Bengals would lead in the game, Hutchison converted a game, rutchison converted a fall away bucket, Sochaski notched a layup and Hutchison added two patented jump shots to give Belleville a 27-21 advan-tage. For This Week

When the Mets made that miracle rally in Game 6 of the '86 World Series, they did it with a barrage of singles. Who got the hits in that tenth inning comeback that propelled the Mets to victory and an eventual championship in Game 7.

the game which chick did hold start very well for Beileville. The teams tied after one quarter at 18 and Clifton used a good defensive second frame to take a 30-26 lead into halftime. However, Belleville used a strong third quarter to its advantage, outscoring the host Mustangs, 19-7 and taking a 45-37 lead into the final eight minutes. The Bucs continued the pres-sure in the final frame and came away with a 16 point win, Bel-leville's second over Clifton this

Now at 11-1 for the year, the Bues must concentrate on tomor-row's renewal of the Essex County Westling Fournament. After ten years of existence, the County Dournament altmost became ex-tinct as politics and site location caused it's cancellation last year. However, Newark Rutgers came to the rescue and made available its beautiful and very spacious Großlein Dome gym-masium. The first two rounds will be held on Friday evening, with the remainder of the tourney on Suurde. ek as Cedar Ridge of Old Brid

In the field of entrants is a list of powerhouses, including Caldwell, Millburn, St. Benedict's, Setun Hull and of course the Seton Hall and, of course, the

As has been the case all year As has been the case all year, our Bucs are going to have to win with a strong showing from the lower weight classes. The Cedar Ridge dual meet showed a glaring. weakness in the Buc lineup in the upper weight divisions and dramatic improvement must be made in a hurry if Belleville is going to win this year's tournament. The Bucs' leadoff man, Joe Per-na, will in all likelihood be seeded first or second in the 101 pound division. His challengers include aivision. His challengers include Andrew D'Arcy of St. Benedict and Chris Lombardi of Millburn. Any one of the three could win, but Perna has the edge for two reasons: First, he owns a Technical Fall win over D'Arcy as a rere wrestler second he has a rec wrestler; second, he has wrestled a more difficult schedule than Lombardi.

than Lombardi. At 108 pounds, the same old story keeps popping up in all the important tournaments. Mike Ioliano and West Essex Frank DeMary have made these events, their personal battleground. This fournament should be no dif-ferent. Steve Fox of St. Benedicts is a solid chollanger, but he personal olid challenger, but he pro bably can't defeat tuliano o DeMary except in a major upset The 115 pound division is nor so clear cut. John Stampone has a sparkling 12-3 record, but the field of challengers is formidable. St Benedict's Bill Bustamente has on ly two losses on the year and Cald well's Steve DiTullio is aching for revenge. Remember, Stampone pinned DiTullio in the semifinals of the Bloomfield Christmas Tour nameni The two diamonds in a field of gems in the 122 pound class are Larry Pallente of Caldwell and our gems in the 122 pound class are Larry Pallente of Caldwell and our own Joe Cerreto. A major catastrophe would have to occur, to prevent this rematch in the championship round. Their over time match in the Bloomfield Tournament finals is a classic. The pick here is for Cereto to avenge his carly season loss, by three points or more. At 129 pounds, Armando Nar-done is literally unchallenged, With at 16-0 record on the year, he will be seeded first in his weight division. There are no true challengers in this tournament. The only thing to prevent Mondo from winning a gold medal would be faigue or loss of concentration. Don't expect either. The 135 pound division is clut-tered with solid matmen. In addi-hon to the Buc's own Eric Naz-ziola, there are strong candidates from Bloomfield (Art Cuffari), St. Benedict's (Pat Napoli), Nutley (John Alessio) and Caldwell (Art Coffey), Nazziola has already lost to all of the above mentioned, ex-cept Napoli, Figure this class to cept Napoli. Figure this class to come down to a showdown bet-ween Cuffari and Napoli.

Phil Zamloot appears to have a strong challenge from Anthony Minervino of Bloomfield in the 141 pound division. Zamloot's record of 14.1.1 should earn him top seed and a breeze into the finals. Unless someone surprises the seeding committee, this divi sion should be the easiest to predict Zamloot in a landslide. Junior Nick Keykurun is com-peting in the 148 pound divisions.

peting in the 148 pound divisions, one of the more talented in the tournament. Entrants include Regional Champ Steve Fano of West Essex, Justin Scarpone of St. Benedict's, Mike Volpe of Bloom field. With a 7-7 record, there is ht tle chance of Keykurun drawing one of the top four seeds. Figure this final to be a brawi between Fano and Scarpone.

this final to be a brawl between Fano and Scarpone. Belleville's 158 pound entree is Lou Lucante. His opposition should come from Glen Ridge's Bill Templeton and Caldwell's Brett Lockward. With a record of 12.3, Lou could earn one of the top two tasks Templeton and the top two sees. Templeton has the edge in this division, but a win by Lucante would be only a mild

The 170 pound entrant for Belleville will be either Frank Pacheco or Mike Martinez, whoever comes out on top in an expected wrestl-off. Both are 1-2 or the way expected wresti-off. Both are 1-2 on the year. This is the only weight class in the tournament without a from runner, so it is anyone's class to win or lose. Despite their records, Pacheco and Martinez have as good a chance as anyone to earn a medal in this division. At 188 pounds, Bloomfield's John Stobie appears to have a lock on the cold medal. Coach Joe Nisivoccia has been protecting his young pair of Jason Siletti and John Cerza in tournaments and should do the same here. If either were entered in the tournament, the result and when the tournament.

were entered in the tournament, the would undoubtedly be match ed against Stobie. Their time will come, but not this year. Marc Criscione should be seed-ed first in the heavyweight divi-sion, with Bloomfield's Nick Messina second. The two have met four times in the past two years with Criscione the victor in each match. Messina seems to be a each match. Messina seems to be a each match. Messina seems to be a year away from reaching his peak, so expect another showdown with the same result. Criscione by a big

Belleville has been in the finals finals last year by East Orange. Belleville has been in the finals once, in 1984, when it lost a three point game to Shabazz. Clifford Scott won the tourney in 1981 and East Orange took the honors in '80. Columbia High School won in 1979 and '78, and Nutley won the title in '77 and '76. Question: Two agents recently was more accurate than the other aver the a 'market analysis' to since the range of value reached by any two analyses should not be

Answer: The first tem of impor-tance to point out is that most market analyses' are performed by your local agent hee of charge. The service is rendered happily as a way for the ägent to meet pro-spective sellers, the lifeblood of the real estate business. However, although the agent will usually strive to provide a figure which is in step with the current marketplace, don't forget to listen to your conscience; you get what you pay for you pay for Performed correctly, the market analysis is designed to be an in-dicator of what the buying seg-ment of the marketplee has been willing to pay for similar housing in the recent past. The agent takes information deemed pertinent to the valuation and searches recent sales records for three things 1. Recently sold comparable (similar) properties. 2 comparable proper-ties presently for sale, 3. Com-parable properties which had been for sale but didn't sell.

After this information is analyz ed, the agent can make a personal determination as to what the most determination as to what the most likely selling price tor range) will be. All of this assumes that the agent has been competent and diligent in the effort to form this opinion. After all, everyone has an opinion, it's just that some opi-nions are better than others. The agent with a well prepared analysis can accurately substan-trate whatever opinion was rendered with relevant data. In the circumstance that you've described, it may be that one agent

This is an unfortuante byproduct of the high competition between agents in today's market. Over-priced listings are inevitable a source of frustration and embarrassment to the home seller, and serve only as a temporary boost to the owner's ego. To help you decide when an opinion is valid, remember this: A, Anyone who renders an opi-nion of value off the cuff, should hon of value of the cur, should be automatically dismissed. An ac-curate opinion can not be derived without taking the proper steps to substantiate the opinion. B; Beware of agents who will list
